Steamer Jesse Spaulding, With Ore, Is Badly Damaged or Is Sunk in a Collision With the Coal-Carrier Snyder, Jr., Five Miles Off Keweenaw Point.

Search of Hours by the Upbound Vessel Fails to Reveal Trace of the Disabled Ship or of Wreckage, According to Meagre Advices—The Worse Is Feared.

Houghton, Mich., June 15.—[Special.]—The steamer Jesse Spaulding of Chicago, owned by Charles F. Spaulding of that city, eastbound from the head of the lakes with iron ore, was struck about 3 o'clock this morning in a dense fog five miles off Keweenaw point, Lake Superior, by the coal-carrier Snyder, Jr., westbound with coal.

The Snyder, Jr., did not put in to copper country port and all that can be learned of the case tonight is from that one message from the Snyder's wireless operator.

NO ACTION ON THE CURRENCY THIS SESSION

That the Apparent Indication at Washington, Notwithstanding the President's Desire for Immediate Legislation—Congress Prone to Tackle the Subject.

To Enact Only the Tariff Bill and Postpone Monetary Reform Till December Appears to Be the Growing Determination of the Party Leaders in Both Houses.

Washington, June 15.—Developments of the last week at both ends of the Capitol have indicated a growing determination on the part of the Democratic leaders of congress to draft a tariff bill and wind up the work of the extra session without action on currency reform or any other important subjects.

At a session of the senate currency committee last week the open antagonism voiced by Representative Henry of Texas against present action on the currency served to emphasize the opposition that has developed within the party ranks against the president's program of immediate legislation.

The tariff is to come into the senate for the second stage of revision within ten days. The senate finance committee will complete work upon it finally this week, and immediate calls will be issued for a Democratic caucus.

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING FOR CHICAGO BLACKS

First Negro Institution of Its Kind in the Metropolis Is Dedicated.

Chicago, June 15.—The new $200,000 Chicago negro Y. M. C. A., the first of its kind here, was dedicated today with addresses by Booker T. Washington and Julius Rosenwald. The building is in the heart of Chicago's black belt and nearly three thousand negroes jammed in to hear the speaking.

Dr. Washington repeatedly addressed his audience as "black men" and "negroes." That is what they call us down here, where we give money to African-American people. I would give it here, where we have millions of negro citizens, instead of to foreign missions.

COAL STRIKE IN WEST VIRGINIA TO BE RESUMED

With the Feeling Against the Operators Running High, the Diggers at Paint and Cabin Creeks Vote Not to Report for Work This Morning.

Agreement Framed by Gov. Hatfield and Under Which Mining Recently Has Been Conducted Has Been Violated, the Men Say—Discrimination Is Charged.

Meetings of discontent have been heard among the miners for several days.

POLO CUP REMAINS IN UNITED STATES

British Team Defeated in the Crucial Match by a Quarter of One Point.

Meadowbrook Club, Westbury, L. I., June 15.—By the narrow margin of one-quarter of one goal the American polo team won the second and deciding game of the international cup series at the Meadowbrook club Saturday afternoon, and thereby retains the trophy for at least another year.

The slight advantage of the United States four over the English challengers at the end of one hour of the most decisive kind of play is fully indicated by the trifling difference in the scores of the two teams.

The spectacle thrilled the crowd of thirty-five thousand persons until the dignified assemblage was fairly carried away and "rooted" like a typical baseball crowd during the final period of play.

A MATTER OF PRINTING.

The Escanaba Journal censures the council for not giving the public printing to the lowest bidder, which happens to be the publisher of the Journal, and it shows that the daily newspapers have the work at prices that enable them to pull down much more substantial sums from the city than would have to be paid if the council had placed this business solely with the interests of the taxpayers in mind.

In a case somewhat similar to this the Grand Rapids News recently brought suit to prevent the carrying out of a contract the council had entered into with the Grand Rapids Herald for printing the council proceedings and publishing various official notices. It was asserted on behalf of the News that it had underbid the Herald and that the council had acted improperly in not giving the contract to the lowest bidder. But the circuit judge before whom the case was brought decided that the council was fully within its rights in giving the business to the Herald at a higher figure than the News' bid, and the Herald still has the city printing.

The publishing business is peculiar. The same service is often worth more in one newspaper than another for the reason that one newspaper may have a much larger and better class circulation than another. Thus there may be good reason for accepting a higher bid for newspaper publicity. The wise advertiser doesn't go to the newspaper with low rates. He seeks the columns of the newspaper that exacts higher rates, for he realizes that this is the newspaper that, after all, will give him the cheapest service, because it will give him more for his money.

As a rule the disposal that governing bodies make of public printing is unbusinesslike. As often as not it is regarded as a means of rewarding newspapers that have been tractable and punishing those that have not. While there has been an improvement over the "good old days," too much public printing is still paid, and the public would be distinctly the gainer if some system could be devised for disposing of all of it on a business basis.

WHERE POWER IS ABUSED.

The states of New Jersey, Massachusetts and West Virginia have furnished, within the past few months, some notable examples of abuses both of civic and military power growing out of labor disturbances. No unwise have been the excesses that have been committed, largely on behalf of the employing interests, that it would seem that public opinion in the communities concerned must be atrophied, or else it would have protected the employing interests from their own folly.

The excesses, ostensibly on the side of law and order, of the Lawrenceville strike are still fresh in memory. They have been, however, far exceeded at Patterson, N. J., where the silk workers have been on strike for the past several weeks, and the most startling condition of all has been the employment of unbridled military power in the strike regions of West Virginia.

At Patterson the strike has been conducted by the I. W. W., an organization particularly hated by employing interests everywhere. The appearance of its officers greatly increased the bitterness of the strike, and perhaps gave rise to repressive measures that would not otherwise have been adopted. However this may be, there is no end of disinterested testimony tending to establish that justice and law have been made a screaming travesty in Patterson. With the fatuous purpose of crushing out the strike, fundamental safeguards of the rights of the person have been ignored, and liberty of the press and speech have been invaded. These excessive measures have, however, as might have been expected, utterly failed of their purpose. In fact it appears that they have had the effect rather of strengthening than of weakening the strike.

In West Virginia it has been the militia, rather than the civil officers, who have disregarded all the ordinary provisions for the protection of the individual and have carried things with a high hand. Pretending to be in favor of law and order, public officers have been lawless and disorderly. Men have been denied the primary rights of freedom of speech, freedom of assemblage, and freedom of movement. They have been thrown into jail arbitrarily and have been denied fair jury trials. New and preposterous legal doctrines have been exploited in the endeavor to justify these illegalities. Mexico owes its troubles to the fact that men in power, under the plea of necessity, disregarded parts of the Mexican constitution as temporarily inapplicable.

Mexican theory and practice have been introduced into this country and the fruit thereof will be trouble and social disorganization.

The definition of a new crime should be written and placed on the statute books. There should be indictment and exemplary punishment of all public officers count of indifference or neglect. Many of these men are emphatic in their arguments against the manner in which civic affairs are run, not in the Sault, but all over the country. They are fond of stating that cities are not run in a business-like manner. How much attention does the man who keeps away from the polls pay to municipal business? Our system of municipal government is not business-like. If people want business administration they must change the system. The present charter needs changing as much today as it did last year, and the sooner the work can be started the better."

Thirteen nations, among them Germany, have signified their approval of the suggestions for a world-wide peace program emanating from Washington. It is significant of the fact that on essentials, there is really but little difference between the great parties in this country that the last administration, headed by a Republican president, sought to prevent the prevention of international wars as assiduously as the present administration, which is Democratic in all its branches, is doing. Wouldn't it be fine if the political organizations could devise some way of settling their differences by arbitration, instead of fighting over them fiercely at every election and thereby disturbing the country's business, about as they would have the nations of the world compose their disputes?

The old veterans are to enjoy that Gettysburg excursion after all. Auditor General Fuller has agreed to accept orders for tickets in excess of the appropriation, which is $20,000, and it will be put up to the legislature at the next session to make good the deficiency, whatever it may prove to be. This was consented to by the auditor general on the offer of Representative Weldenfelder to become personally responsible for the shortage, estimated not to exceed $5,000, if the legislature should fail to provide for meeting it. His district should see to it that Mr. Weldenfelder is returned as its representative in the next legislature without opposition. For he's a jolly Goodfeller and a credit to his district and the state.

It was a pleasant surprise the Illinois legislature gave the women of that state when it granted them the right to vote. Furthermore, it was the most creditable thing the Illinois legislature has done since it has been in session. Speculation now turns on the effect giving women the ballot will have on Lomax's chance of regaining a seat in the United States senate. It is safe to assume that it will not improve his prospect of getting back.

A Milwaukee judge gives out that "automobilists have no more rights than pedestrians on highways." Sure enough, but the humble pedestrian may well bear in mind that the contraption the automobilist is driving has a weight and momentum when tearing along the highway which render it a dangerous combination for him to go against.

With such an efficient state militia in charge of officers with such a marked penchant for ordering the lives of their fellow men, it is rather difficult to see why West Virginia is at the trouble of maintaining a civil government, particularly as it appears to have no power to exercise its natural prerogatives when the militia drop in.

The automobile continues to get in its deadly work in Detroit, which enjoys the unavoidable distinction of having more auto accidents in proportion to population than any other city in the country. It is also the greatest producer of automobiles, but that is no reason for permitting such reckless driving of cars on its streets.

President Wilson appears to be well fortified with equanimity, when he can regard the charge that he is the biggest lobbyist at Washington as not of sufficient consequence to merit attention. But, then, it was voiced by Senator Townsend of Michigan.

An exchange notes that "a wave of crime is sweeping over the city of Chicago." The trouble is that it is settling there. If it would only sweep over there would be more ground for a hope for better things in the future for that unhappy municipality.

No longer are the Negaunee socialists getting top of column reading notices free of cost. And it will be considerable time to come, no doubt, before they get any more of it with the compliments of the Negaunee police department.

Secretary of State Bryan is so strong minded on the subject of liquors, malt and spirits, that he has placed the department at veto on the ambitions of a Chicagoan who happens to be the president of a brewing company.

Under the terms of the Illinois woman's suffrage bill the women will be able to vote on all candidates for mayor. That will make an interesting situation in Chicago when Carter H. is up for re-election again.

Governor Dunne will sign the woman's suffrage bill unless there are constitutional objections that make it impossible for him to do so. And he won't find any constitutional objections unless he has to.

Cleveland is said to be afflicted with a "plague of thieves." She is not the only city plagued in that way. Must be that since Marquette underwent the marvelous "cleaning up" to which it was recently subjected the undesirables previously located here have been distributed among the big cities of the country. From the pother raised about the "vice conditions" here at the time it might be reasonably assumed that there were enough of them to go round.

The war in Mexico continues, but the world regards the desultory slaughter going on there with complacency. They are merely ridding the country of undesirable citizens on both sides.

The attorneys, it appears, are the only parties that can obtain any satisfaction from the outcome of the case of Wanless & King vs. the board of fire and water commissioners.

EDITORIAL OPINION

Montana Demands the Tariff. The Montana Republicans, as a body, and a good many Democrats are convinced that President Wilson's free-trade policy violates assurances given in several of his own campaign speeches; that it violates platform declarations and campaign utterances given out in the name of Montana's Democracy; and that it puts in peril several Montana interests—those relating to lead, for instance, and zinc and sugar and wool and grain and many other products.

Last year, when the Democrats found themselves in control of one branch of congress, they started a tariff-reform policy. Woodrow Wilson was not then in evidence. Mr. Underwood, Champ Clark and others outlined a course of prudent revision. The country liked it and passed the National Administration over to the Democracy. President Wilson is resolutely pushing tariff legislation that is radically unlike the plan and scope of the measures proposed last year by the House Democrats just referred to. By bringing to bear the crucial weight of the administrative machinery he may prevail—the anticipation is that he will. But the personal triumph he thus will score won't of itself justify a policy which Mr. Walsh believes to be unjust toward Montana. Of course, the National Administration is not the Democracy. These are not the items of principal account to the people of Montana. Their sentiment amounts, in fact, to a hope that the president's policy will not be as harmful to the state's interests as it threatens to be.—Butte Post.

Property in Children. In the ancient patriarchal household, children were the property of their parents—especially of their father. The product of their labor was his. They might be sold into slavery, mutilated or even put to death at his pleasure.

These last-named "rights of parents" have disappeared from civilized lands. But the idea that children are the property of their parents has not disappeared. It is one cause of child labor in factories, and one great barrier to found an immigrant family in good circumstances. The father had steady work, and owned a three-story apartment house. But the fifteen-year-old daughter of that family had been taken from school in the seventh grade and put to work in a factory at $2 per week, to add to the family income.

Southern mountaineers who go to mill villages usually think it quite proper that mother and children should work in the mill, while the husband and father becomes a gentleman of leisure. Mill owners are strongly opposed to the child labor is cheap labor.

So long as this feeling is common, it will make difficult any comprehensive plan of education. Worse yet, when children revolt from such arbitrary ownership they are apt to go too far and lose all sense of responsibility to their parents.

Child labor can be stopped by law, but the feeling of property in children dies hard.—Chicago Journal.

Senator Lewis and His Whiskers. Senator Lewis of Illinois grows contentions. Really a man of ability, and a number of fine personal qualities, he persists in wearing whiskers which are not a la mode. As a matter of fact, no sort of whisker is nowadays a la mode. The mustache is the limit of concession modern convention will allow in hirsute facial adornment. It is the line of compromise between fashion and independence of character. Yet the Illinois senator has persisted, and still persists, and announces that he will continue to wear whiskers which approach perilously near the old substratum style of Populistic days.

And because, in almost every newspaper, when reference is made to the senator, and his public work, the whiskers are among those mentioned, he has cried out that he hopes there is some merit in his "outside of his whiskers."

That is just the trouble with the senator. He will not get outside of his whiskers. He persists in remaining inside of them. Not outside of Lewis' whiskers, but inside of them, do his merits lie. And his whiskers are so luxuriant, so spreading and pervasive, so much like the clinging ivy which so often obscures the much greater beauty of a beautiful old wall, that, staying inside of his whiskers, his star, too brilliant for eclipse, shines only with the dimmed light of a planet veiled with floating clouds. As the planet must shine in a dimmed glory because of the nebulous vapors of the sky, so is the glory of Lewis dimmed by the fleecy clouds of his whiskers. He is a man of merit, his heavenly face. But as the planet shines on, so does Lewis. There can be no higher testimonial of his worth than that he has prevailed inside of his whiskers, where all his merit is. Now he says: "I hope there is something in my outside of my whiskers." Yaw! hope, while he remains inside of them. There is merit in the man and the man is inside of the whiskers. How can there be merit in him outside of the whiskers while he remains inside of them? He is inside of them, and he will remain. He has already compelled the world to see his merit through his whiskers. He may yet compel a higher recognition. We would be loath to put a limitation upon his possibilities. But we are not going to advise the senator to look for other sources for their honey crop and if the experiment of the Indiana man proves successful the milk-wed may become of real commercial value.

GRAND RAPIDS—With poultry food going up in price, with men folk digging up all the water in the lake in order to catch their own fish in an effort to avoid doing business with the meat men, and with other high cost of living complications Mother Nature is apparently making chickens along a 1913 model to add them to the list of food for life. No less than three correspondents from as many different towns send in reports of births of four-legged chickens. It's easy to see that a hen can scratch to twice as good advantage with four legs as with two. The dispatches follow: Heiland Arthur Rossant, the best owner of a chicken which has four legs. The chick from all appearances is in perfectly good health. Newaygo—a four-legged chicken has been hatched in a incubator at the Courtwright farm a few miles outside of this city. The individual chick, which is a Brown Leghorn, walks naturally. North Muskegon—the four-footed ancestor of the horse that scrambled over Tertiar rocks, as a poet expressed it, has not been found yet, but an atavistic chick that reminds one of the mystic geologic ages is now in this city. The chick is a White Leghorn owned by Mrs. John Marquette. It scampers around on its four legs as spry as its two-legged brothers and sisters. The extra two legs are a little shorter than the others, but are used by the chick as a means of locomotion.

All trimmed hats one-half off for the remainder of the season. Mrs. M. Adams, 219 Baker street. 6-14-13.

SEWER ASSESSMENT NOTICE. To the Property Owners and Other Persons Interested in the following Proposed Improvement: Notice is hereby given that the profile, plans and specifications for the construction of a ten-inch and twelve-inch sewer in the city of Marquette, Michigan, under the direction of the Board of Public Works, are now in the office of the city controller for public examination.

MONROE—The recently elected charter commission of this city, composed of B. Bragdon, president and Charles Hoyt, vice president. The commission voted to adopt some plan of commission form of government and instructed the clerk, Fred M. Kressbach, to secure copies of charters from cities that recently adopted this form of government.

LANING—The industrial accident board is holding Dan Cupid. The board awarded Felix Wassnick, injured while in the employ of the Bull Stamping company of Detroit, $186 so that he might be married. Wassnick told the board that unless he received indemnity in a lump sum it would be impossible for him to claim his bride.

HOLLAND—Mrs. James Balgooyen, a pioneer, died suddenly from heart failure while visiting at the home of Nick Vazaten. She had visited the homes of several friends when she reached the Vazaten home evidently in the best of health. Seeing a paper upon the floor Mrs. Balgooyen looked for her glasses, but before she found them she collapsed in a chair and expired before medical help could be summoned. She was nearly sixty years old.

TRAVERSE CITY—The executive committee of the Western Michigan Development bureau, in session here, voted to make special efforts to create outlets for the fruit grown in this section by promoting cold storage plants, canning factories and cider mills and similar establishments that will use orchard products. The committee also voted to buy 50,000 more copies of the advertising booklet, "Western Michigan." Apple inspectors are to be hired for packing and the district crop under the bureau's guarantee plan.

TRAVERSE CITY—Much enthusiasm is being manifested among farmers of this county over the alfalfa tour which will start Tuesday morning and cover Grand Traverse and parts of Leelanau and Antrim counties. The speakers on the trip, which will cover three days, will be Dr. Eben Mumford and Professor A. R. Potts of the M. A. C.; J. F. Zivagner, district supervisor of agriculture; Secretary John I. Gibson of the development bureau and Congressman J. C. Mc-

Laughlin of the Ninth district. In several places the grandstands are planned to furnish the touring party with picnic dinners and help advertise the tour by urging the attendance of farmers at these points. The expense of the campaign is being borne by the farmers and businessmen who are interested in the movement.

SAGINAW—Clean and better films and the display of educational motion pictures were strongly recommended by the Michigan Moving Picture Exhibitors, who brought their third annual convention to a close here. A committee composed of Fred J. Durkee, Saginaw; August Kleist, Pontiac, and J. B. Caldwell, Battle Creek, will meet in Detroit Tuesday to consider improvement of the film situation. Battle Creek was selected for next year's convention.

LANING—In an opinion just rendered, Attorney General Fellows holds that it would not be a violation of the Warner-Crampton liquor law for the city council of Hancock to permit the location of a school within 300 feet of the Finnish college and theological seminary. The question was raised that the Finnish college was technically a public school and the Warner-Crampton law specifically prohibits the location of a saloon within 300 feet of a public school. However, Attorney General Fellows is inclined to the belief that the Finnish college is a privately maintained institution and therefore could not be classed as a public school.

LANING—As a result of the decision of the United States supreme court upholding the law passed at the session of the Michigan legislature in 1912, which provided that telephone companies of this state should be taxed on an ad valorem basis, the primary school fund will be enriched to the extent of $102,000. When the law went into effect the Citizens' Telephone company of Grand Rapids and the Citizens' Telephone company of Jackson refused to abide by the provisions of the act and carried the case to the supreme court of the United States. Since that time their taxes have accumulated, with one per cent. added monthly for each month they failed to pay. Exclusive of the 1912 tax the two companies owe the state $114,000, of which the Grand Rapids company must remit $7,400. With the 1912 tax added 115 companies will be forced to pay $163,000, of which goes into the primary school fund.

TRAVERSE CITY—W. S. Frazier, who is engaged in the apertary business of Indiana, will try a new venture this summer, the outcome of which is being watched with interest by local bee men. On June 25 he will bring 115 colonies of bees to the farm of John Holmes on the peninsula and harvest a crop of honey from the well-ventilated colonies in that locality. The bees have already finished their honey harvest in Indiana and their owner figures that by bringing them north he will be able to get double service from them every year. It is estimated by experts that the colonies will milked over the remainder of the season to keep 1,000 colonies of bees busy during the blossoming season. The passing of the wild raspberry bushes in this section on account of the rapid settlement of the country and the prevalence of fires in the wilderness causing the bee men to look for other sources for their honey crop and if the experiment of the Indiana man proves successful the milk-wed may become of real commercial value.

Was Largely Attended—The annual junior class party, given in honor of the seniors and the faculty Friday evening in the Normal school gymnasium, was attended by about one hundred couples. Trombly's orchestra furnished a program of delightful dance music. The gymnasium was tastefully decorated in purple and gold, the junior class colors, set off with touches of olive and gold. The ceiling was hid by a canopy of crepe paper streamers, caught at the center and festooned on the walls. School pennants tacked on the walls added to the attractiveness of the room. Evergreens crowded the embellishment of the lower part of the walls and settees were found in cozy nooks and corners. Punch was served in the lower corridor of the Peter White Science hall and before the evening's program was concluded refreshments of cake and ice cream were served. The junior class officers, President and Mrs. J. H. Kaye and members of the faculty, were on the reception committee.

South Shore Team Loses—It was easily demonstrated on Longyear field Saturday at 2 p. m., that in the great national game the railroad men are not "in it" with the United Commercial Travelers, for in a game of baseball the Upper Peninsula council nine defeated the South Shore team 7 to 4. The travelers still concede, however, that the railroad men can trim them at the rate of three cents per mile, but only at their own game. Saturday's game was a final workout preparatory to a series of contests between the iron country traveling salesman and the copper country knights of the grip the first of which is to be played in this city Saturday June 21. The game was also the fourth consecutive victory for the traveling men who organized for baseball about a month ago and who have been playing every Saturday afternoon since. Next Saturday's contest will begin at 3:30 o'clock at the fairgrounds. The copper country team will arrive on the 2:30 o'clock train and a large delegation of rooters from neighboring cities is expected. There is much interest in the coming contest and grandstand seats will be at a premium, it is thought.

INSURE WITH PETER WHITE & CO. VAUDEVILLE-MOTION PICTURES.

Booking Independent Acts.

Vaudeville will be resumed at the Marquette Opera House, commencing this evening. The attraction for the first three nights will be Siegel & Matthews, instrumentalists. The attractions will be changed twice a week, as formerly. Manager Jopling has not as yet gone back to the Sullivan & Considine agency, which gave satisfactory service for several months prior to the introduction of kinematograph pictures, but will probably do so at the expiration of his contract with the Urban company, producers of the kinematograph film. The kinematograph pictures, while good, proved to be less popular than vaudeville. Until the contract expires, which will be in about two months, independent vaudeville will be booked. In addition to the musical act, the program the next three nights will consist of five reels of motion pictures.

You think you have put it away in a safe place. A servant steals it—a sneak thief watches you and gets it—a fire comes and burns it up. These are only a few of the ways you can lose it. In the Bank it is safe. You can get it any time and until you need it it earns you 3 per cent interest.

MEXICAN REBELS HOLD THEIR OWN

President Huerta's Efforts to Subdue the Malcontents a Failure to Date.

Mexico City, June 15.—In the three months General Huerta has been president of Mexico he has made no substantial headway against the rebels, according to the opinions of close and impartial observers of the situation in this republic. Unless there is made a radical change in the conduct of the government's campaign against its enemies, or unless the rebels become much weaker than they are today, foreign observers believe that Huerta will have great difficulty in restoring peace to Mexico. As for the rebels, they have grown steadily stronger since General Huerta became president, and now there is scarcely a state in which their mobile columns have not been operating in defiance of the government's superior armament and organization.

Three Major Campaigns.
The military operations of the government have been divided into three general campaigns, one in the south against the followers of Zapata, conducted by General Juvencio Robles; another whose center is Guaymas, in Sonora, and the third, directed from Monterrey against the rebels operating in the states of Coahuila, Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas. In addition to these defined campaigns the government troops are raiding here and there over a dozen states, forcing their way from one point to another, only often to find, when they arrive at their destination, that the rebels have cut in behind them, or have torn the country to pieces on either side of their line of march.

In the south Robles promised to exterminate in a few weeks the "bandits" led by Emiliano Zapata. He was instructed by the war department to use the methods of Weyler in Cuba; to concentrate in a few points all non-combatants, and then devastate with fire and cannon the remaining villages and towns, killing his prisoners, except those whose physical strength appealed to him as material for the regular army, but before Robles could get his plan into effect, Zapata was attacking him in his headquarters, and since then it has been an open question which side would be the victim of the Weyler method. The region to the south already is practically devastated. Haciendas on which enormous sugar crops formerly were grown are today fast returning to jungle growth, and the warlike in which the followers of Zapata have engaged now for almost three years appears to be causing them to revert to some wild and savage type.

The Guaymas campaign began well. General Medina Barron marched forth, but only to return after defeat, and it was almost two weeks after the battle at Santa Rosa before the government admitted the reverse, meanwhile characterizing as untrue the press dispatches from the border.

The campaign directed from Monterrey has resulted in the recall of General Tracy Aubert, who, apparently, was unable to suppress the rebels under command of Venustiano Carranza or even to retake and reopen the railroad between Monterrey and Laredo, Texas. His successor has done no better. The rebels have extended their field of operations until small towns from the Gulf coast to Chihuahua are entered, seemingly, almost at will.

Condition in the Central states are little if any better. It is desirable to clear up the "border situation" and open the railroads in order that the United States may have a higher opinion of the general situation, the government has confined most of its energies to the two northern campaigns.

Anti-American Hostility Waning.
The press of the capital, which bristled with anti-Americanism in the early days of May following recognition by several nations and the failure of the Washington government to fall in line, has suddenly changed front. Wiser counsel seems to have prevailed, and now a conciliatory tone is distinctly noticeable. A campaign to bring about a boycott of American products has fallen flat, and a proposed popular demonstration of approval of Washington's non-recognition of the Huerta government has been called off. Today there are no evidences of any anti-American agitation in Mexico City.

ISHPEMING LOST
YESTERDAY'S GAME

Negaunee Took the Big End of a 5 to 4 Score in a Fairly Well Played Contest.

Negaunee defeated Ishpeming yesterday, 5 to 4, in a game that was interesting from start to finish. There were several good plays, including three doubles by Ishpeming and one by Negaunee.

Ishpeming was in the lead until the sixth inning, when Negaunee tied the score. After that Ishpeming scored one run and Negaunee annexed two in the eighth.

Ford pitched the first three innings and started the fourth for Negaunee, but his arm gave out and he retired in favor of Andrews, who had been playing in right field. The former Ishpeming boy had the locals baffled, as he allowed but one hit, a single by Mack, in the six innings he pitched. Goulette, on the mound for Ishpeming, was entitled to a victory, as all of Negaunee's runs were made on errors, the more costly ones by Tuomala, who made a most wretched attempt to play at second. He had five misplays out of six easy chances.

Negaunee scored in the first inning. Heimonen, the first batter, drew a pass, and Flynn reached first, when Tuomala booted his grounder; Dyer was hit by a pitched ball, this filling the sacks. Faull hit a grounder to Goulette, who fielded it to Nichols, the catcher retiring Heimonen, then throwing to first in time to put out Faull. Ford was called out when a ball that he struck at hit him.

Ishpeming also scored one in the first. Mack fanned. Embloom walked. Simpson singled; Geelan struck out and Mandley hit for an extra sack. Embloom scoring; Simpson was retired at the plate, Flynn to Holman to Peel, when he attempted to come home on Mandley's drive into left field.

Negaunee was blanked in the next four innings, while Ishpeming brought two men across the pan in the third. In that session Mack opened with a single, and Embloom sacrificed him to second, going out. Ford to McNabb. Simpson hit for two bases, scoring Mack. Simpson scored on Geelan's single. Adamson and Tuomala fanned.

Negaunee's sixth, when two men were scored, was opened by Faull with a Texas leaguer back of short. Peel flied out to Adamson; Ford walked; McNabb fanned; Holman singled, scoring Faull and Ford; Andrews went out on a fly to Simpson.

Ishpeming's score in the seventh was a gift. Geelan missed the third strike, the ball going past Peel and the batter reaching second before it was returned to the diamond. Nichols drove a long one into left that Flynn dropped. Goulette flied out to Holman and Mack hit safely; Embloom hit into left and was retired by Flynn, flied out on the sacrifice. Simpson popped up to Faull.

Negaunee's last two scores, in the eighth, were easy. Peel hit a grounder that Tuomala booted. Ford popped to Nichols; McNabb, when he hit a grounder first and second that Tuomala left pass through his legs. Simpson fielded the ball home and Nichols let it go to the grand stand, McNabb making a circuit of the bases and scoring on the two misplays. Holman singled, but Andrews batted into a double, when he hit a liner to Mack, the latter getting it over to first in time to catch Holman, who had started for second.

Aside from the pitching of Andrews and Goulette, the playing of Faull at short and Dyer in the field for Negaunee, were the features.

The attendance was the largest of the season, though small, compared with the crowds that turned out to Ishpeming-Negaunee games last year.

PLAYING GREAT BALL.

Member of Last Year's Escanaba Nine Is Sensation of International League.

Clarence Lehr, the Escanaba ball player, who was captain and manager of the team in that city last season, is proving the sensation of the International league. Lehr joined the Buffalo team June 4, after completing his studies at the University of Michigan, and his work at once attracted the attention of league writers.

In the first game in which he appeared with Buffalo, he was sent in as a pinch hitter at a critical stage of the game and made good, responding with a two bagger. In the following game he was sent to left field, which position he has held since that time. Up to the game of Thursday last, Lehr played the outer garden job in errorless form and his batting and base running were the sensation of the league. In his first full game he connected for two singles and stole one base. In his second game he drove out a three bagger and a single and pilfered two sacks. In his third game he drove out a home run and two singles and stole one base. His work has continued as sensational as in his entrance to the league, and that he will be recalled to the Philadelphia Nationals to which aggregation he belongs, is the belief of baseball writers in the International league cities.

PATTERSON COMPANY CANCELS ENGAGEMENT

Street Carnival Company Booked for Next Week at Union Park Will Not Be Here.

The Patterson Carnival company, which was booked for next week at the Union park grounds, has cancelled the engagement. The Mining Journal representative on Saturday received a letter from H. S. Noyes, the company's general manager, advising that the railroad rates into Ishpeming were unsatisfactory and that the date was cancelled on that account. The company will be in the copper country for three or four weeks, opening two weeks from today at Laurium. It will be in Hancock the week that the Sons of St. George society's convention is to be held there, and in Calumet the following week, when the upper peninsula women will hold their convention and reunion at that village.

The fact that the Patterson company has cancelled its engagement in Ishpeming will not be regretted by the business men of the city, whose trade suffers during a week that a carnival holds forth at the park. It takes many people out of town. Mr. Noyes stated in his letter that the company will not play Ishpeming this season.

Last week Mayor Barnet was appealed by some of the business men to refuse the carnival company a license, but the city's officers, when they learned that he could take such a step, inasmuch as there is nothing in the charter that would prevent the carnival shows from exhibiting provided they are not immoral.

Another carnival company last week week here, asking for the privilege of bringing its attractions to the city for homecoming week, which opens two weeks from today, but the request was denied. The local committee on sports for homecoming and Fourth of July celebration will provide ample amusement without the assistance of a carnival company.

The members of the different committees of the city are working hard, and the indications give assurance that the various features to be introduced during the week will be well worth coming miles to see. Many special features are being worked up for the parade on the fourth. An effort will be made to put on the best street pageant that has ever been seen in the upper peninsula. All of the mines will have floats, some of them from four to a half dozen, and the leading merchants are also working out plans for their street displays.

A mine rescue contest, with teams from different companies competing for the prizes, will be a feature some evening, perhaps Tuesday. There are many excellent teams in the employ of the different companies. It is intended that the most expert men shall be picked to compete. Very few outside men working at the mines have seen the rescue teams in action, so that this feature will be very interesting.

The men working in the North Lake district are preparing a big display for the parade on the fourth, and the North Lake band, organized some months ago, will make its first appearance in the city that day.

Several committee meetings will be held this week to complete the details of the celebration. The solicitors will finish their work this week, and next week the money subscribed will be collected and placed in the hands of J. S. Olin, the treasurer.

Many special features are being worked up for the parade on the fourth. An effort will be made to put on the best street pageant that has ever been seen in the upper peninsula.

All of the mines will have floats, some of them from four to a half dozen, and the leading merchants are also working out plans for their street displays.

A mine rescue contest, with teams from different companies competing for the prizes, will be a feature some evening, perhaps Tuesday. There are many excellent teams in the employ of the different companies.

It is intended that the most expert men shall be picked to compete. Very few outside men working at the mines have seen the rescue teams in action, so that this feature will be very interesting.

The men working in the North Lake district are preparing a big display for the parade on the fourth, and the North Lake band, organized some months ago, will make its first appearance in the city that day.

Several committee meetings will be held this week to complete the details of the celebration. The solicitors will finish their work this week, and next week the money subscribed will be collected and placed in the hands of J. S. Olin, the treasurer.

LARGE DELEGATION TO SONS' REUNION

Ishpeming Members of Society Showing Interest in Meeting to Be Held in Hancock.

The Sons of St. George lodges of Ishpeming will send an exceptionally large delegation to the annual convention and reunion to be held in Hancock July 17, 18 and 19. The members here are manifesting keen interest in the reunion, largely because several of the members are candidates for delegates to the supreme lodge meeting, which will be held in one of the Eastern cities in October, also because Trelawney lodge of this city is a contender for both state and national honors.

Three years ago the supreme lodge offered a prize for the subordinate lodge having the largest percentage of gain in membership in three years, the contest ending on the first of this month. While the gain that has been made by other lodges in the United States has not been published, it is thought that Trelawney lodge will carry off the honor, as this organization has had a remarkable gain during that period, and its total membership is now 460. The lodge is the largest in Michigan and it is thought that it will also have the distinction of being the largest in the United States. During the past year Trelawney lodge has adopted ninety-five new members.

Candidates for Supreme Delegates. There are eight candidates for delegate to the supreme convention, while the grand lodge is entitled to only four representatives, or one for each 1,000 members or major fraction thereof. Last year Michigan had but three representatives. The growth in Michigan has been larger, proportionately, in the past year than ever before in the history of the society.

The candidates who are seeking this honor were voted on by the past grand presidents at the last meeting of the subordinate lodges in May, but it will be the duty of the grand lodge to decide who shall be chosen. Only past presidents of the grand lodge are eligible to the supreme lodge convention. Secretaries who have served the grand lodge for three consecutive years and treasurers who have served the grand lodge for four years are entitled to past president honors. Three of the candidates, Steve Terrill of this city, who is a member of Trelawney lodge; Henry Carlew of the National, a member of Sir James Watts lodge, and Jabez Trebilcock of Negaunee, a member of Sir Humphrey Davy lodge of this city, have had past president honors conferred on them, and all are candidates for delegate. All of the other candidates are past grand presidents of the Michigan grand lodge. They include George Tucker of Marquette, a member of Sir Humphrey Davy lodge, Ishpeming; Senator Frank James, member of Mistletoe lodge of Hancock; John Nekravis, a member of One and All lodge of Red Jacket; Captain James H. Rough, member of English Oak lodge, Negaunee; and John T. Miners, member of William Pitt lodge of Norway.

Trelawney lodge has appointed a committee to report on bands and uniforms for the grand lodge reunion. It is likely that the committee will recommend that a band be taken to Hancock and it is expected that the lodge will have a turnout of from 250 to 300 members, all of whom will have uniforms. The Hancock lodge is offering a prize for the largest representation in the parade and a prize will also be given for the lodge making the best general appearance. Trelawney lodge has carried off the latter prize a

CLEO MEILLEUR SUFFERS INJURIES

Was Crushed Between Auto and Work Bench in Garage Saturday Afternoon.

Cleo Meilleur, vice president of the Negaunee National bank, was seriously injured, as the result of an accident in his automobile garage at about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. While he was engaged in cranking his car in the garage the machine started forward as soon as the engine was started. He did not have time to get out of the way of the car and was caught between one of the lamps and a work bench in the garage, sustaining injuries to his left hip and abdomen of such a serious nature that he will be confined to his home for a week or ten days.

Mr. Meilleur returned in the car from Champion Friday evening and prepared the car for a run to Marquette the following afternoon. On Saturday morning three children of the neighborhood gained entrance to the garage by a door that had been left unlocked and played in the car. They disturbed the arrangement of the levers, with the result that, when the car was cranked by Mr. Meilleur, it started forward.

As soon as he noticed that the car was moving forward he leaped to one side but was unable to get out of its way. The right lamp of the car struck him on his left hip and pinioned him against the work bench. Mr. Meilleur's escape from more serious injury is considered marvelous, as one of the large springs of the engine, which protrude from beneath the engine, passed between his legs. If it had struck him, it would have meant almost sure death. Using all his strength, Mr. Meilleur was able to force the car back a few inches and relieve the pressure from his hip, but was unable to hold it in this position until help arrived a minute later. His cries for aid being heard by neighbors, who rushed to his assistance, he was removed to his home at the corner of Case street and Brown avenue. Dr. Bergeron, who has charge of the case, does not believe that he has suffered internal injury and does not consider his condition serious.

DIED FROM HIS INJURIES.

Injuries Received at Crystal Falls Prove Fatal to Negaunee Man.

Joseph F. Winter, whose home is in this city, died late Saturday night at the Crystal Falls hospital as the result of injuries received Thursday afternoon. Mr. Winter was a diamond drill runner and was working in the Mastodon district in the vicinity of Crystal Falls. The first report of the accident, received by relatives in this city Thursday night, stated that he fell from the diamond drill tripod, upon which he was working, and struck his head, fracturing his skull. It was later learned that the men at the drill were enjoying a little recreation and were doing stunts on a turning pole. Mr. Winter fell, striking his head. No hope was held out for his recovery. His skull was fractured in two places. An operation was performed Friday in hopes of saving his life. He was forty-nine years of age. The body was brought to his home in Negaunee yesterday morning. He is survived by four children, the oldest being a boy sixteen years of age. Mrs. Winter died less than a year ago. The death of the father leaves the children orphans. The children have been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Schatz, on Lincoln street. Mrs. Schatz is a relative of Mr. Winter. Mrs. Peter Trudell, Jr., Mrs. H. W. Trembath and Mrs. Al Ether are sisters of the deceased. He has two brothers living. They are George, located in Bisbee, Arizona, and Frank, of Humboldt. Tag Day for Guild Hall Building Fund Was Very Successful.

Approximately three hundred dollars was realized Saturday by the Sunday school classes of Misses Rena Maitland and Ruth Wells, together with others interested in their tag day campaign for the benefit of the Guild Hall building of St. John's Episcopal church. The success of the day far exceeded the expectations of those who were foremost in pushing the campaign and the proceeds will be a big help toward the erection of the Guild Hall, which the parish hopes to build this summer. The young ladies and the parish appreciate the generosity of the public in their giving liberally to the fund.

The idea of a tag day to add to the fund was first conceived by Miss Maitland's class, Miss Wells' class willingly assisting in the work. Eleven others, members of St. John's parish, joined with the Sunday school classes and sold tags throughout the day. They were Misses McKenzie, Florence Wells, Grace Dunlap, Catherine Crane, Edna Frame, Mildred Yates, Mildred Andrus, Marjorie Barney, Margaret Boney, Mrs. Al Maitland and Mrs. W. A. Garner. There are fifteen young ladies in the two Sunday school classes, all of whom worked untiringly during the day. They wish to thank A. C. Harrington, general manager of the Marquette city Gas & Electric company, who extended to them the privilege of using the street cars free of charge.

All the young ladies were dressed in white and made their appearance on the streets early in the day. They were to be seen in all parts of the city and few escaped them. They met all incoming and going trains and all passengers were requested to purchase tags, which they did willingly. The young ladies deserve praise for so successfully carrying out their plan.

ENGINEER DIES AS RESULT OF BURNS

Samuel Corry, Wellknown Here, Was Fatally Injured in Wreck at Oconto Saturday.

Through a misunderstanding of signals at Oconto Saturday morning, which resulted in the toppling over of an engine on the way freight between Green Bay and Escanaba on the North-western line, Samuel Corry, a Green Bay engineer, who was wellknown both in Negaunee and Ishpeming, was fatally scalded, and died from his burns several hours later at the hospital at Oconto. Mr. Corry was employed for many years on this end of the division of the North-western line and has many friends in this city. The accident occurred about nine o'clock Saturday morning, his death resulting shortly after noon. The wreck delayed the afternoon passenger train on the line about two hours and a half. It arrived in Negaunee about 6:30 o'clock.

According to the report of the accident received here Sunday, the way freight, of which Mr. Corry was the engineer, was standing on the main line near the crossing at Oconto. A switching crew was working in the yard and the switch engine and several freight cars were on a track that crossed the main line near the place that the way freight was standing.

A signal was given to the crew of the switch engine to back up. Mr. Corry taking this as a signal for himself, he backed up the freight train. Just as the train reached the crossing the switch engine with its string of cars backed into the engine of the freight, turning it over. Mr. Corry was pinned beneath the engine and was fatally scalded by escaping steam. He was removed from beneath the engine and was hurriedly taken to the Oconto hospital. It was thought for some time that he would survive, but his injuries proved to be more serious than was at first supposed. His body was taken to his home in Green Bay Saturday night.

TAKE PLENTY OF TIME TO EAT.

There is a saying that "rapid eating is slow suicide." If you have formed the habit of eating too rapidly you are most likely suffering from indigestion or constipation, which will result eventually in serious illness unless corrected. Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should be thoroughly masticated and incalculably. Then when you have a fullness of the stomach or feel dull and stupid after eating, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets. Many severe cases of stomach trouble and constipation have been cured by the use of these tablets. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect. Sold by All Dealers.

BACCALAUREATE IS DELIVERED

Rev. Platt T. Amstutz Gave a Sermon of Admonition and Advice Last Evening to the Members of the 1913 Graduating Class of the Marquette High School.

"Climactic Knowledge" Was the Topic and It Received Scholarly Treatment from the Presbyterian Minister—Assembly Room Was Crowded With People.

Fifty one members of the class of 1913 and a number of friends and relatives that filled entirely the seating capacity of the auditorium and balcony listened to the baccalaureate address delivered last evening at the Marquette High School by Rev. Platt T. Amstutz, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Mr. Amstutz had for his subject, "Climactic Knowledge." He chose his text from Job 42:5-6: "I had of thee with the hearing of the ear; but now mine eye seeth thee. Wherefore I abhor myself and repent in dust and ashes. The clergyman spoke, in part, as follows:

"Knowledge becomes climactic when it is not an end in itself but a means—how be it the best means available—to an end, or rather ends, for the climax of knowledge is variously conceived, one person's climax of knowledge is the ability to benefit humanity. To another it is self help and prosperity. To another it is to another that 'knowledge is power' and the scientist proves it. He robs the north wind of its sting, the summer heat of its languor, and he drives the gloom from darkened homes by the application of universal laws. Even he heals diseases by the knowledge of therapeutics and prevents sickness by the knowledge of prophylactics.

"Second hand knowledge is inadequate for inevitable demands. Second hand religion is inadequate for inevitable demands. A vision of God becomes at once the climax of knowledge and the beginning of religion. For the inevitable result of a vision of God is a corresponding vision and knowledge of self and the inevitable result of a knowledge of self is penitence and a readiness to do works worthy of repentance. That knowledge as such is inadequate is fully demonstrable. If knowledge is power it is not necessary that that power have a directing authority? How often do we see that power is misapplied. The rule of the strong over the weak, the enslaving of the poor by the rich, the application of the principle that might makes right, the wisdom that leads to ignorance, the might that triumphs over right, the power that inflicts hardship upon the innocent, these need the climax of knowledge which is religion. All the world knows the 'sharper' and has suffered through his wisdom. But even when knowledge is beneficent it is inadequate. Benevolent genius is not character. How many geniuses have been devoid of character. Indeed, it is often given as the excuse of waywardness that the person is a genius and therefore unordinarily eccentric and not quite responsible for his deeds.

Opportunity in Church Work. "The world languishes for a spirit led worship and work. Going to church may be the highest mockery. Working in the name of the church may be the grossest hypocrisy. Both may be sincere and most of each is sincere. But the church is handicapped by the presence of those who are insincere to the extent that many wise and many wise united in saying that the church has lost her pristine power and her early exuberance. The denomination of which I am a member sends out bulletins repeatedly calling for volunteers for the most glorious tasks. Equal opportunities in the business sphere would be applied for by a whole multitude of ambitious youth. The church goes begging. And strange to say, if a business organization should advertise for so many helpers it would be taken as an evidence of great prosperity. When the church advertises for help it is taken as an evidence of failure. Am I right in asserting that when we are possessors of the knowledge that has reached the climax—that has ascended into religion we shall know better and that there will be no need for the church of Jesus Christ to beg for men or means to promote its work.

"May I counsel you my young friends, to consider the claims of the life we call ministerial. I do not mean the priestly or pastoral life. I mean the life that is ministerial—servant life. The life that demands the making of self subservient to another—the humble life, the self-sacrificed life. The life that is without ostentation which never wins a diadem of fame except from those silent worshippers who were helped in secret. You are at your commencement? What are you about to commence? An ascent in a profession in which your place at the top will be gained at the expense of the one you crowd out? Or will you choose the place to spend your life that is unoccupied because others have feared to undertake the task. Will you prepare yourself for the place reserved for the one man in all the world who is brave enough to forget his own safety when he sees others in distress. Will you choose to undertake the task that others have shirked because it was to lay the foundation upon which others should build and get the credit for the whole while you were forgotten.

Climax Is to Know God. "Have you determined to be a hero? Let me say to you that your first task is to make personal and vital your educational and religious experience. You must be able to say 'My knowledge of God, 'My experience of faith, 'My loyalty to Christ, 'My love to my fellowman.' It is not too much to say that you must repent in dust and ashes for past failures and past unworthiness. Go back to the place of your failure and right your wrong, restore your unearned possession. Get right with God and man and then you will be ready to honor God and help man. 'To thine own self be true and it doth follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man or to God. But you can't be true to yourself as long as you make yourself believe that which is not true; as long as you rest content with second hand knowledge or second hand religion. To live in others' belief in Christ is to offend your own sense of justice and ignore his sacrifice in your stead. Let the climax of your knowledge be to know Him whom you know right in life and peace. Then shall the light of noonday reveal nothing unwise in your lives and the darkness of midnight shall not make you afraid. Then shall rightness and peace as heralds go before you and the glory of God shall be your reward."

TURNING IN MONEY. State Trespass Agent Has Been Transacting Much Business.

During the last three months, W. Foard, of this city, trespass agent under the state land commissioner, has turned over $17,050 to the coffers of the commonwealth on accounts he has collected for timber taken from public lands. Considering the small extent of timber thefts these days, this sum is unusual. Mr. Foard has been trespass agent the last fourteen years. For a decade or so, there had been a let-up in the operations of the timber thieves, but it is only recently that they have made the collection of such large sums possible.

Mr. Foard works alone at his occupation and keeps track of all state timber lands himself. He gives warning that he has no disposition to overlook offenders and that all settlements in the future will be made on a basis of three times the value of the timber. He has heard various interesting excuses from offenders during his experiences, but one of the most unreasonable came recently. This man explained that he believed the timber he was cutting was on a government forty.

From one forty one operator took practically all the merchantable timber there was to be had. His cut included 740 five-inch and 431 seven-inch posts, 152 cedar ties and one cord of spruce ties, the lot having a total cash value to the state of $387.20, which was more than the jobber could possibly have received for it on the open market.

Will Survey an Island. Mr. Foard has received notification that he is to survey in Manistique lake an island created by the receding waters and other natural causes. The discovery of the island is credited to Frank W. Greenfield, of Hilmer, Mich., who notified the state land department last week that he had made application to the government land office for the property. The statute requires that thirty days after the application is filed with the federal land commissioner the state must ascertain if it has a claim on the land and, if not, the tract goes to the government. The island will be surveyed at once. It is in Section 3, Town 41 north, Range 12 west.

BOARD APPOINTS HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

G. H. Roller Will Succeed J. H. McNeel in Important Position—Overtures to McNeel.

The board of education Friday afternoon appointed G. H. Roller, for the last two years instructor in science, principal of the Marquette High school, to succeed J. H. McNeel, who has resigned to take a similar position in the high school at Beloit, Wis. Mr. Roller is still considering the appointment and has not yet declared his acceptance of the position, although he believes he will do so. The board also appointed Mr. Robinson, who for the last year has been on the faculty of the Munising High school and who has been highly successful as a teacher of English, to a similar position here.

The board has still several positions to fill. C. W. Alexander has resigned as instructor in the commercial department and will go to Decatur, Ills. Robert M. Ladd, a general instructor, has accepted a position in Kansas city. Miss Luthera Egbert, who has been instructor in English the last two years, has resigned to become a member of the faculty of Hartwick college, Mexico, Mo. Miss Gen Sherman has been granted a year's leave of absence and the board has appointed Miss Catherine Williams, another Marquette young woman, who this spring was graduated from Smith college, to temporarily fill Miss Sherman's position as instructor in Latin.

Many Applications for McNeel's Post. The board met Friday upon the so-called resignation of Superintendent Gehrand, who was desirous of having the matter of appointments, especially that of principal, taken care of as soon as possible. The meeting was tactically an executive session. Pressure had been brought to bear upon the members to seek to retain Mr. Neel as principal, many persons believing him to be the most successful and efficient man who has ever held the position. The pupils of the high school had petitioned the board to make him an offer that would result in his reconsideration of his resignation. Thirty applications for the principals' ship were on file when the board met. All but five of these were rejected. The board came to the conclusion early that if a new man was to be appointed he could be drawn to better advantage from among the men of the faculty.

Prior to Friday's meeting Mr. McNeel had agreed to reconsider his acceptance of the Beloit contract if his reappointment should meet with the unanimous approval of the board. A secret caucus was held. With the exception of James O'Reilly, all five members voted in favor of retaining Mr. McNeel if possible. The four members constituting the majority at once got into telephonic communication with the principal and asked him if, under the condition, he would accept his position for another year. Mr. McNeel reiterated the statement that he would not remain unless the board was harmoniously in favor of his intention and refused to reconsider his Beloit contract, despite the advances that were made to him. Without further hesitation Mr. Roller was appointed to fill the position.

New Principal Well Qualified. Mr. Roller is a graduate from the Northwestern college and has taken post-graduate work at the University of Chicago. He had two years of teaching experience in Iowa before coming to Marquette. Here he has taught physics, chemistry and botany during two years and has taken an active part in the school life, having been the high school athletic coach since coming to this city.

Mr. Roller received his early education in New York state. The board and Superintendent Gehrand believe him to be a thoroughly efficient man and look to his success in directing the high school work, wide and general acquaintance in this city has made him popular and those who are personally acquainted with him look with approval upon his appointment. His acceptance of the contract is generally wished. Mr. Roller said last evening that he probably would remain here as principal, although he had another offer under consideration when he received word of his appointment here.

INCIDENTAL MUSIC A DELIGHTFUL FEATURE

"In College Days" Will Have Four Rehearsals Before Presentation Next Week.

Four rehearsals, one of these a dress rehearsal to be given Saturday, will complete the preparation for the production of the Normal senior class play, "In College Days," to be presented Monday evening, June 23, at the Marquette Opera House. There are fifty students in the cast. The music numbers are incidental to the play. The songs, for the most part, are taken from "The Idle Idol," a musical comedy produced in 1910 by the Red Domino club of the University of Kansas. The opening chorus is, however, one of the Normal school songs, "We Sing, We Sing, We Sing," at the close of which the chorus leaves the stage "cleared for action," with only the principals in the opening scene in their places. The second song is the "Bellini Dream" from the opera "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini. The third musical number introduces Miss Louise Harwood, of Ishpeming, in "Why Don't You Whistle It?" Miss Harwood figures in the play in a minor part as "Brownie."

Shortly after the opening of the second act the chorus sings "Just Say You Care of All." It is introduced. Miss Magda Grotte, a member of the chorus, carries the solo part. The only song in the third act is the class song of 1913, set to the music of the University of Michigan—"The Blue and the Gold." In the fourth act is the "Dance of the Vestal Virgins." This is a classic terpsichorean number. The movements are set to the air of "A Dream of Heaven," a waltz of great popularity adapted to the words of the class song of 1911. The closing number is a song taken from an operatic chorus in another play produced by Miss Gertrude Mossler, head of the department of expression, who is directing the production. It is entitled "Goodby, N. S. X." In singing this number the chorus carries suit cases.

Musical Comedy Work a Feature. The latest steps and movements in musical comedy dancing are introduced in the chorus work. Miss Mossler has had training in musical comedy and has had special courses of study in this line of work, as well as having had actual experience. She has studied classic and aesthetic dancing under a Russian dancer of note who came to this country three years ago.

One of the prettiest drills is worked into the song, "Just Say You Care of All." The chorus girls are attired in long-train evening gowns and carry pink roses. The roses are offered to the soloist, who gathers them in her arms as a huge bouquet. The girls, who are in a kneeling posture, rise slowly and circle around, kneel again and receive each her rose and then from each Miss Grotte takes a pink ribbon which unrolls as the girls leave her in the center of the stage.

In the fourth act the aesthetic dancing is along the lines of that in "Madame Sherry." The curtain rises, disclosing members of the chorus as vestal virgins in Grecian costume, kneeling before a panel of shimmering veils. The song of the class of 1911 is sung, after which each takes a veil and falls into the steps of the aesthetic dance.

A Rocking College Play. The drama itself is a typical college play, rich with humor, bubbling with mirth and rollicking with college spirit. It rocks with the atmosphere of the campus and introduces all college types.

The situation out of which the plot is spun involves the inevitable intercollegiate football game, with the hero as the star halfback. The leading role is carried by J. Eskil Johnson. Miss Jessica Bond plays opposite him in the leading feminine role. Austin Catlin, as the football coach, and Bartlett King, Harvey Ross, Miss Bertha Connor, Miss Angelina Theriault, Tracey Kaye and Morris Stevenson are the other principals.

Miss Mossler chose the songs which are incidentally introduced from among copyrighted numbers published by the Red Domino club of the University of Kansas following the production of "The Idle Idol" in 1910. She personally directed the original production of this play in connection with her work on the faculty. The music is now being widely circulated and some of it is being used in vaudeville. "The Idle Idol" was written by Moe Friedlander, who prepared the books, and Mat Graham and George Bowles, who composed the music and lyrics. Mr. Bowles has since associated himself with Francis Demery in the production of popular music. Miss Mossler is really repeating her past successful efforts in staging the music of "The Idle Idol" in her work with the Normal seniors. She was given exclusive rights to use it for amateur performances in consideration of her work as the original producer.

CIRCUS DAY. John H. Sparks' Tent Shows to Be Here Tuesday, June 24.

Tuesday, June 24, the tent shows of John H. Sparks will come to Marquette to present two complete performances, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. "Circus day" always draws with a sizzle that sets the small boy's heart beating faster and awakens pleasant memories in the minds of the graybeards. Marquette people, it is said, will awake to many surprises on the day of the Sparks performance, as it is reported to be tripled in size. The circus retains the features that have made it different from other tent shows, and it free from fakery and gamblers, affording a high-class moral entertainment. The menagerie has been increased, including the exhibits and in the number of trained animals. All is new in the
