

PREMIER WITH PRESIDENT ON CURRENCY BILL

Unreservedly Indorsing Administration's Measure, Mr. Bryan Gives Out a Statement Advocating Enactment Now—Says It Insures Control by the People.

For Second Time Since Inauguration, Mr. Wilson Will Today Deliver a Message to Congress in Person—Will Urge Monetary Legislation at Present Session.

Washington, June 22.—The president of the United States will go to congress again tomorrow to deliver the second message of his administration.

As when President Wilson submitted his ideas on tariff reform, congress will meet in joint session in the chamber of the house to hear his message on currency legislation.

For the second time in more than one hundred years, upon such an occasion, the senate will march in a body to the house chamber at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The front rows will be reserved for the senators, the members of the house crowding into the rear seats.

Bryan in Full Accord.

On the eve of this extraordinary occasion, Secretary Bryan tonight issued a statement on the currency bill prepared by Chairman Glass Owen of the congressional banking and currency committee, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and the president.

"I am pleased to indorse most heartily and unreservedly the currency bill which has been prepared by the chairman of the two congressional committees, in conjunction with the president and Secretary McAdoo," Mr. Bryan said.

"It is a much better bill than I had supposed it possible to procure at this time. Conflictingly entertained and strongly adhered to, have been reconciled with a success hardly to be expected."

"I have doubted until recently the wisdom of attempting currency legislation at this session, but my doubts were largely due to the fact that I feared the difficulties in the way would prevent an agreement upon a plan.

Public's Interest Conserved. "The plan which the president now urges confers great advantages upon the banks, while it preserves to the public, acting through the government, all that is essential for the protection of the note."

Thus, the people, acting through the government, are in entire control. This is in harmony with the Democratic policy. There is no surrender of the government's rights to issue money. The board of control is appointed by the president.

Secretary Wilson Takes Responsibility.

Secretary Wilson, of the department of labor, tonight took full responsibility for the postponement of the trial in the Diggs-Cammetti case. In a signed statement, Secretary Wilson said:

"The attorney general postponed the trial solely upon my request. Anthony Cammetti has but recently assumed the duties of commissioner general of immigration. McNab, a Republican holding over from the last administration, charged that 'rich and powerful' influences were working to defeat the prosecution."

Attorney General McReynolds was willing to say this much for publication: "There is every intention of prosecuting all those cases. They will be taken care of in due time by capable officials. No interests will suffer by the postponement."

President Proposes a Permanent International Commission to Arbitrate Disputes.

Washington, June 22.—With the acceptance in principle of the president's peace plan by eighteen nations, Secretary of State Bryan has felt encouraged to develop some of the details of the plan, which so far has been only generally outlined. Today he made a statement touching the composition of the proposed commission to investigate controversies, designed to meet objections that it would be impossible to provide unbiased bodies of investigators whose findings would command respect of the principles.

The plan contemplates a permanent international commission, and the president suggests that the commission be composed of five members, one member from each of the contracting countries to be chosen by the government, one member to be chosen by each of the contracting countries from other countries and the fifth member of the commission to be agreed upon by the two governments, the commission to be appointed as soon as convenient after the making of the treaties, vacancies to be filled according to the original appointment.

EMIGRATION IS COSTLY TO THE UNITED STATES

Speaker Champ Clark Shows in a Statement That Migration to Western Canada Alone Is Depleting the Assets of the Country Tons of Millions Annually.

Those Who Go Among Nation's Best Citizens, Too—High Time, the Solon Thinks, That Congress Should Make Homesteading Conditions as Easy as Possible.

Washington, June 22.—Emigration, Speaker Champ Clark said in a statement issued tonight, is costing the United States millions of dollars a year in actual money, besides the loss involved in giving up real American to be replaced by a foreign immigrant.

"It is time," he said, "that more attention be paid to the influence of emigration upon our future. These Americans who are leaving us understand our institutions, our ways and our aspirations, while most of the immigrants into this country have to be taught these things."

"In one week not long since 1,945 American farmers, with $388,500 in cash and $145,000 in personal property, crossed into western Canada to settle in British North America. That is an average of $288 per capita, and that week was below the weekly average into that region alone. How many go to other countries I do not know."

Legislation Demanded.

"These emigrants are among our best citizens. I am personally acquainted with two hundred or three hundred of them. There is not a bad or shiftless man in the lot. They are seeking to better their conditions. They almost invariably take their families with them. The principle reason they expatriate themselves is the lure of cheaper lands and less stringent land laws as to homesteading and the like."

"Congress should make our homesteading conditions as easy as possible, compatible with safety, and should increase the area for home building by judicious encouragement of irrigation and drainage."

Annual Loss Tremendous.

"A statistician has figured that the average adult citizen is of the money value of $1,000, considered solely as an asset to the country. If that is true, these 1,945 who crossed the Canadian border depleted the assets of this republic, counting the property they took with them, by $2,378,500, which, multiplied by fifty-two, would make the grand annual total loss to the republic $123,682,000 gone to Canada alone."

ARMY AND THE NAVY TO PLAY WAR GAME

Extensive Sea Coast Exercises Arranged for the Week Beginning Aug. 4th.

Washington, June 22.—Plans are under way for joint army and navy coast exercises to be held on Long Island sound and Narragansett bay during the week beginning Aug. 4. This is the first time such a program has been arranged since 1905, and it is expected that the maneuvers and tests will prove particularly valuable in showing the improved methods developed in the last eight years.

Troops from all the Atlantic coast stations probably will be sent to participate in the exercises, and it is expected that a majority of the vessels of the fleet will have a part in the program at some time during the week.

General Weaver said tonight that the idea to see whether the coast defenses of the navy would come out victorious, but that the naval craft would cooperate with the coast artillery to enable the latter organization to test out certain schemes and plans.

BOY PLAYMATES GO TO DOOM AT NIAGARA FALLS

While Hundreds of Men, Helpless, Watch from Shore, Two Small Youngsters, One Aged Ten, the Other Nine, Meet Their Death in the Whirlpool Rapids.

Making Merry in a Flat-Bottomed Scow, the Lads Drift Into the River When the Rope Breaks and When They See They Are Beyond Hope of Rescue.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 22.—Donald Roscoe, ten years old, and Hubert Moore, nine years old, both of Buffalo, went to their death in a small boat late this afternoon in the whirlpool rapids, while hundreds of men, helpless, watched from the shore.

The boys were playing in a flat-bottomed scow half a mile above the rapids, when the rope holding the boat broke and they were carried out into the stream and down the river.

Up to the time the boat reached midstream it made little progress. After it passed the bridges, however, the current carried it rapidly towards the rapids.

Shake Hands When About to Die.

The brigades did not see the boat until it was close at hand. Then they called the fire headquarters and two companies of firemen were sent to save the lads if possible.

Hundreds of persons rushed to the river banks in a futile effort at rescue. The boys, realizing their fate, stood up as the boat neared the roaring whirlpool and shook hands in farewell. A moment later they were engulfed by a great wave in the rapids.

The boat shot out of sight. One of the boys was seen for a moment, struggling in the rushing water, and then disappeared.

Neither body has been recovered.

WANTED AT ONCE—A LEADER.

Under the above heading the Washington Herald comments on the paucity of authoritative leadership in the Republican party.

The opportunity presents itself for some aggressive Republican leader, but no one seems inclined to take advantage of it.

It was probably with some such thought in mind as the Herald outlines that Senator Townsend boldly challenged President Wilson as the most powerful lobbyist operating in Washington.

As the Herald comments, the Republican party needs authoritative leadership more than it ever did at any previous time in its history.

Given a Republican leader of the calibre the Herald suggests, and the present problems of the party might easily be carried far to solution.

GREAT EXPORT GAINS.

The foreign trade of the United States continues to be extremely significant. It is one of the most hopeful features of the business situation.

for merchandise in some parts of the United States. It also shows how strong the current is in foreign trade which tends to widen distant markets for American products, especially manufactures.

When the condition of business in the United States impels many prudent persons to economize it quickly stimulates the export trade of many manufacturers who are ordinarily careless of the possibilities of other than domestic markets.

EDITORIAL OPINION

The Mexican Divisions. The continued disorders in Mexico, and the utter inability of the federal government to exercise even a semblance of authority over the distant states, have given rise to conjecture as to the permanent division of the republic.

THE WHY OF NEWSPAPER REGULATION.

The divulgement through senatorial investigation of the confidential correspondence of the United States Beet Sugar Industry association must impress the public with both the necessity and the virtue of such a regulation as the newspaper publicity law, recently sustained by a decision of the United States supreme court.

When Thomas Carlyle had finished the first volume of his "French Revolution," he had written it in the most laborious of incessant toil and the verification of thousands of facts and references, he lent the manuscript to John Stuart Mill.

Similar catastrophe, but the "friend" responsible was not human, but canine, his favorite little dog. He left him in his study alone, and when he came back found that he had "chewed" the mathematical calculations of many strenuous months.

One of the great losses to literature was the burning of six books of Spenser's "Faery Queen," which the poet is said to have left in his house in County Tyrone, Ireland. A rebellion broke out, and the place was burned, and not only did the poet's youngest child perish in the flames, but it is said, also as much of the great poem as we possess at present.

All lovers of Byron are aware that this erratic genius found time in his short, adventurous life to write his memoirs, and that on his death these passed into the hands of a friend, Thomas Moore, who, exercising a discretion commensurate to his prompt consigning of the manuscript to him, promptly committed the same to the flames.

Since the death of Auguste Strindberg, the famous Swedish novelist and dramatist—who, by the way, had much in common with Byron—many of his works have been translated into the English language, and are already the center of heated controversies in literary circles.

Several autos will convey the children to the grounds.

Traveling Men Defeated—A baseball team composed of employees of the South Shore auditing department defeated the United Commercial Travelers nine Saturday on the Longyear field by a score of 13 to 0. The railway men credit their victory to the excellent work of a new pitcher, whose name is Dory and who appeared on the field in a Crystal Falls uniform. The traveling men changed batteries often in an effort to change the tendency of the game, but to no avail.

Catholic Children Picnic—The children of the parishes of St. Peter and St. John's enjoyed a picnic Saturday as the guests of the Knights of Columbus. The children attended special mass in their respective churches at 8:15 a. m., after which they formed a procession and marched to the beach at the foot of Crescent street, where at noon a lunch was spread for them. The city band headed the procession to the picnic grounds, the day was spent in sports and games, and the ideal weather increased the pleasure of the event.

Trombly's orchestra will furnish music. A committee of young women will receive the guests. The arrangements have been left to a committee of sixteen.

Prison Wins Again—The Marquette prison baseball team yesterday morning added another victory to its already long list of victories. It defeated the Bivats, of Ishpeming, by a score of 4 to 3. The game was one of the best played at the prison this season, the Bivats being ranked with the best independent amateur organizations in the county. The prison team now challenges all comers. The work of Mursu and Leveick, the prison battery, was especially noteworthy, Mursu striking out seventeen men.

Orders Asphalt—The park, cemetery and street commission at an informal session Saturday with a representative of the Barbour Asphalt company, made an estimate of the amount of binder that would probably be used in this year's street work and placed an order for two carloads of Trinidad asphalt in barrels. The Trinidad asphalt is the pure article, the best obtainable for all street purposes, differing in this respect from that purchased in previous years.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH IN NEW HOME

Dwelling at Corner of Blaker and Ridge Streets Proves Adaptable to New Use.

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, is now housed in a new home at the corner of Ridge and Blaker streets, the structure having formerly been the residence of Charles Schaffer. It has been transformed into comfortable and well laid-out quarters. Most of the lower floor is occupied by the members of the church. The upper floor is as yet vacant, but the members have tentative plans for utilizing it. The auditorium takes in a large part of the main floor, petitions having been removed to throw the room together. Opening off on the north is a cozy reading room, which is well adapted to its present purpose, having an abundance of light. It is furnished with a handsome sectional bookcase, a large oak library table, and numerous comfortable arm chairs. The walls are heavily carpeted in dark green, as are the other rooms. The walls of the reading room and auditorium are tinted a light buff, and the ceilings and woodwork a cream color. Chairs seating more than one hundred persons are arranged in the auditorium so as to leave an aisle running down the middle of the room to the readers' desk—a beautiful piece of furniture of selected birdseye maple, made from upper peninsula wood by special order and the gift of one of the members. In the back of the room is an open space, for the reception of members. A bay window above, having south exposure, directly off this open space contains a sword fern in jardiniere, one of the largest of its kind in the city, a magnificent plant. At the right of the readers' desk stands an upright piano, at the left a circle of small chairs in a large alcove, the meeting place of the Sunday school.

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Marquette, was established in 1897, three years after the founding of the mother church in Boston. The Marquette Christian Scientists had organized a society of sixteen members in 1893. The original meeting place was the home of a family named Green, on Arch street, where services were held through a few months. Then the society moved to the Everett house, one of the dwellings that formerly occupied the property on which the Peter White Public library now stands. After a little more than a year there, the society moved its headquarters to the home of the late Sams Cole, on Arch street, where services were held for one year. Fraternity Hall was the next abode of the church, but was occupied only a few months. The next move was to the building on West Spring street, standing directly behind the First National bank, and which is now occupied by the Cray Printing company.

About this time the society reorganized into a church, with a congregation of twenty-two members. Mrs. Katherine Malone was the earliest first reader of the Marquette organization, and was a resident of this city until a few years ago.

After the society moved to the Spring street building it prospered and increased in membership, and in 1905 it moved its headquarters to Falls Hall, on the second floor of the Marquette Opera House block. Several years later the church moved to the first floor, occupying the room on the west end of the building until it moved a few days ago to its present home. The church now has thirty supporting members, but the congregation which assembles Sundays and on Wednesday evenings regularly comprises many who are not members.

MARK TWAIN HAD A HOODOO.

It was a Hard Thing to Get Rid Of, and Its Subsequent Owners Have Experienced the Same Difficulty.

What is said to be the only weapon that the late Mark Twain ever carried is now the property of Harry McCandless of Tuolumne county, Cal., who holds it as worth more than its weight in gold, which is something over seven pounds.

It is a muzzle loading revolver of Colt manufacture, it is fifteen inches in length and it has brought down many a deer at a distance of seventy-five yards. Its intimate history is contained in a letter written to McCandless by Steve Gillis, a pioneer resident of Jackass Hill, Tuolumne county, who is now in his nine-tieth year, and who is a brother of James Gillis, the "Truthful James" who figures in Bret Harte's story of the celebrated free for all fight on Table Mountain.

"Now let us go into history of that celebrated piece of artillery." Mark Twain brought it with him when he traveled from Missouri to Nevada by overland stage. The stage company charged extra baggage on it. Mark defiantly wore it in Carson City by day and slept with it at night. "That was in the territorial days of Nevada, when it was considered disgraceful not to pack a big gun. Mark followed the fashion until the 'cannon' made him lopsided and threatened to lame him for life.

"Then, when he left Carson City to go prospecting in Esmeralda county, he took the cannon with him. He had to buy an extra mule to pack it. When he started out as a miner in Esmeralda and came to Virginia City to work on the Territorial Enterprise as a reporter, he brought that tiresome gun with him. He laboriously packed it around for awhile until he found out that the chivalric gun sports of Virginia scorned to shoot up a newspaper reporter, and then he buried it in the bottom of his trunk, after trying in vain to give it away.

"When he left Virginia City for San Francisco he took that old hoodoo with him. In all the lodging houses he inhabited in the latter city he would hang that old relic on the wall of his room and leave the door open, hoping that some poor thief would steal it. But even the room thieves seemed to take it. Perhaps they had a hunch that it was a hoodoo.

"After many attempts to lose the pisto a bright idea struck Mark. He shipped it to an old enemy in Missouri, hypocritically as a peace offering. His old enemy sent it back by express in a big box marked C. O. D. filled with 150 pounds of old horseshoes. You can't fool a Missourian.

"Utterly discouraged by this last attempt to rid himself of his incubus, Mark shipped it to a friend in California, who hid it on Jackass Hill in the pocket mining business. His ostensible object in visiting Jim was pocket mining; his real design was to get rid of that old hoodoo. After cabining for four or five months on Jackass Hill with Jim Gillis and Dick Stoker, he persuaded the latter to accept the old pistol, and then for fear Dick would make him take it, he backed, he fled to San Francisco, where, having shaken off his nightmare, he rapidly rose to fame and fortune.

"Now let us calmly review the fearful history of this notorious pistol. While Mark Twain owned it it kept him in poverty. It passed to innocent Dick Stoker, and it landed him in less than forty years. Ignorant people contend that poor Dick died of old age. Old age nothing! It was the malign influence of that old gun that did the business. Dick was only eighty-four years old when he died.

"After Dick died the hoodoo came into my possession. And what did it do to me? Oh, nothing to speak of. It only threw me into a hospital for thirteen months and made me an invalid for life. When I got out of the hospital I gave it to you.

"Now what did it do to you? Let's see. When you gladly and eagerly accepted that fatal gift you were one of the richest and most prosperous men in Tuolumne county, with so many different paying businesses scattered over the county that you had to run an automobile to make connections. What happened when that hoodoo commenced getting in its work? Well, you know. It finally drove you from heaven to hell, or to Stockton, which is about the same, and you never suspected.

"Now, Mac, if any envious person again doubts the genuineness of this old Mark Twain relic let him read this letter. Then if he still doubts but him over the head with it and kick him out of doors; or better still, loan it to him and put him under heavy bonds to keep it for a month, and he will come back a repentant convert, that is if it doesn't kill him. The old hoodoo works mighty fast sometimes.

"As the possessor of the strongest and most malignant hoodoo in the United States allow me to assure you of my profound and distinguished consideration.

ISHPEMING WON GAME FROM GWINN

Most Interesting Exhibition of the Season Staged at Union Park Yesterday.

Ishpeming took a snappy baseball game from Gwinn yesterday by a score of 7 to 6. Victory hung in the balance until the final inning. Both teams were hitting the ball, and the pitchers were not working any too well.

Mahoney twirled for four innings for Ishpeming, but allowed nine hits, including a double by Messier. Goulette pitched the last five, and was touched for three hits, one of them a three-bagger by Swanson. Goulette, who went into the box without warming up, was wild the first two innings, having walked two men and hit another. Swanson, on the mound for Gwinn, was also wild at times, but he held Ishpeming to nine hits.

When Gwinn was first at bat Mahoney pitched six balls in retiring the side, but Gwinn came back in the second and garnered three hits, scoring one run. Gwinn scored again in the third, and four runs in the fourth, when eight men faced Mahoney. Robare and Dabbs hit safely, the latter beating out a bunt. Berryman hit an infield grounder and an attempt to retire Robare at the plate failed. Lanerville was struck out, but Messier hit for an extra sack, Dabbs and Berryman scoring. Hoaglund went out, Mahoney to Geelan, and Kuder singled, scoring Messier. Johns went out, Mack to Geelan.

Gwinn had men on bases in all of the remaining innings, except the seventh, and Goulette pitched himself out of some tight holes.

In the eighth Johns went to first on a fielder's choice, and would have scored on Swanson's three batters, but he missed second in making the circuit and was called out.

Ishpeming scored in the second, when Geelan opened with a single and Manley went out on a fly to Messier. Johnson fanned and Toman singled. Nicholls and Mahoney drew passes, Geelan being forced home. Mack struck out. In the third Embion hit an infield fly that Messier dropped, but he was forced out at second on Simpson's bunt to Swanson. Geelan went out on a fly to Robare, but Manley singled, scoring Simpson.

Gwinn went to pieces in the fourth. Nicholls opened with a ground hit into right field. While Lanerville was waiting for the ball to drop into his hands, it struck a stone and bounded over his head, the runner taking two extra sacks. Mahoney singled, scoring Nicholls; Mack singled and Mahoney romped home. Mack then stole second; Embion was retired on a foul fly to Johns and Mack came home, when Berryman dropped Simpson's drive into left garden. Geelan got to first on a fielder's choice and Manley reached third when Kuder, after making a clean pickup of his ground hit, threw the ball to second, with no chance of retiring a runner. Simpson scoring. Swanson then fanned Johnson and Toman.

Ishpeming scored the winning run in the sixth. Simpson singled and Geelan sacrificed him to second. Manley hit to Hoaglund and was thrown out at first. Simpson reaching third. Johnson was at the bat, and struck at the ball, it sounding as though he had fanned. The ball went by Johns, who made no attempt to recover it. The umpire, however, refused to call a foul, so that the run counted.

Both teams presented a change of line-up yesterday. Brandt, Gwinn's Metropolitan, is probably the happiest boy in Dickinson county just now. Besides passing the eighth grade examination with the highest standing in the county, an average of 94 per cent, he has been notified that his paper on agriculture entitles him to first place in the state fair contest. This means a trip to Detroit and entertainment for a week while there during the state fair, September 1 to 29. The Michigan State Agricultural society sends one boy from each county to the fair at Detroit, pays all his expenses, and gives him instruction in stock judging, soil testing, dairying, etc., while there. The boy selected to represent each county must have the highest average standing in the eighth grade.

W. THURTELL, THE OPTOMETRIST, is again in Ishpeming at Nelson House. Eyes thoroughly and scientifically tested and glasses fitted, all work guaranteed. Telephone for private calls, 6-17-1f.

PLAY IS CANCELED.

The Eddie Boy company, producing "Over the River," which was booked for the upper peninsula theaters early in July, has cancelled the dates, the management having decided to close the show for the summer months. This announcement will be a disappointment to theatergoers, as Mr. Foy is regarded as one of the leading comedians of the American stage.

BIDS WANTED.

Bids are wanted for a steam heating plant for the Ishpeming Miners' Union Hall. Send bids to Ed Harper, secretary. (6-18-4t.)

STREET WORK NOW MOVING RAPIDLY

With Good Weather Macadamizing of Cleveland Avenue Will Be Finished by Fourth.

Superintendent Devine, of the board of public works, is sparing no effort to finish the macadamizing of Cleveland avenue, from Main to Third streets, before the Fourth, and the efforts now being put forth indicate that this will be accomplished, if the weather remains favorable.

Additional men were put at work Friday, removing the gravel from the surface of the street, and the last of this work at the intersection of Cleveland avenue and Third street will probably be finished today. Nearly six inches of gravel is being removed from the block between Second and Third streets.

Over sixty men are now working on the several streets being improved, and a crew is employed on the West Ishpeming road, where the small steam roller is being used. It will be brought in to Cleveland avenue today or tomorrow, to roll the crushed stone foundation for the asphalt.

The poles for Cleveland avenue, North Main and Canada streets have not yet been received, but are expected daily. If they get here this week it is possible that they will be in use on Cleveland avenue by the Fourth.

Good progress is being made with the improvements at the grounds about the new fire hall on Lake street. Swanson Bros have finished the concrete walks in the block from Division street to the railroad crossing, and the walk leading to the front entrance to the building. The plans for beautifying the grounds, which were prepared by Landscape Artist Taylor, of Cleveland, include climbing vines for the front of the building and the hose tower. Drooping vines will also be planted in concrete vases on the top of the building.

A considerable quantity of ground is being dumped around the building, to bring the surface up to the required grade. All the old buildings have been removed from the site.

The Eddie Boy company, producing "Over the River," which was booked for the upper peninsula theaters early in July, has cancelled the dates, the management having decided to close the show for the summer months. This announcement will be a disappointment to theatergoers, as Mr. Foy is regarded as one of the leading comedians of the American stage.

Upper Peninsula

Anti-Saloon League Head Coming.

J. F. Burke of Detroit, superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon league, will make a tour of the upper peninsula the coming month. He is scheduled for a visit in Escanaba on Sunday, July 20, and will give an address in the Swedish Lutheran church the evening of that day. Mr. Burke is an attorney by profession and is said to have given up a $10,000 practice to engage in the Anti-Saloon league work.

Will Enforce Cow Ordinance.

The council got down to business Monday night and before the session was ended the aldermen decided that hereafter the ordinance relative to cows running at large on the streets would be rigidly enforced, says the St. Ignace Enterprise. This will be good news to everyone in the city but the cow owners, who have been in the habit of letting their animals pasture at large. St. Ignace is too big a town and caters too much for the summer tourist trade to allow cows the use of the streets during the summer months.

'Phone System to Be Rebuilt.

The telephone system in the city of Menominee will be rebuilt, according to Manager D. L. Dixon. The estimates made some time ago by the engineering department of the Michigan State Telephone company has been approved by the board of directors and it is expected the work of rebuilding will commence early in the fall. The company intends expending the sum of $27,000 to install a system whereby the present system will be replaced by a two-party selective system, now in use in the large cities.

Aged Woman Completely Recovered.

What is considered one of the most remarkable cases of its nature ever recorded at Escanaba is that of Mrs. Mary Tolan, ninety-one years, and who six months ago fell down stairs, breaking her hip bone, and who is today walking as well as ever. At the time of the accident, owing to the extreme age of the woman, the attending physicians entertained little hope for her recovery. Generally in such cases it means that the patient will remain in bed the remainder of his days, but such is not the case with Mrs. Tolan, who, although she walks with a slight limp, is practically as well as before the bone was broken.

Wins Free Trip to State Fair.

Rudolph Anderson fourteen-year-old son of Postmaster Alfred Anderson, of Metropolitan, is probably the happiest boy in Dickinson county just now. Besides passing the eighth grade examination with the highest standing in the county, an average of 94 per cent, he has been notified that his paper on agriculture entitles him to first place in the state fair contest. This means a trip to Detroit and entertainment for a week while there during the state fair, September 1 to 29. Escanaba Wants Pythian Convention.

Escanaba lodge, Knights of Pythias, will make every possible effort to have Escanaba selected as the meeting place for the 1914 grand lodge convention. The committee appointed some time ago for that purpose has mailed a circular letter to each representative and alternate representative from the 275 lodges in the state, setting forth the claims of Escanaba. The 1913 convention will be held at Kalamazoo, commencing Sept. 3.

Farm Bureau Is Organized.

The Ontonagon County Farm Bureau was organized at a meeting held at the four house, Ontonagon, last Tuesday. Thornton A. Green was elected chairman and John Garvin clerk of the meeting. There was a good representation of the farmers of the county, every township being represented. All those present took membership in the bureau and many subscribed liberally aside from the regular membership fee, which is $1 per year. The following officers were elected: President, Thornton A. Green, Ontonagon; vice president, George Harries, Trout Creek; secretary, David A. Kooker, Mat-lewood; treasurer, Benjamin F. Barze, Ontonagon; executive committee, John Hawley, Ontonagon; Alex Turner, Bruce's Crossing; Edward Rousseau, Rubicon; Edw. Stoldt, Topaz; August Wallen, Evend.

Soo Man Appointed to Office.

Charles C. Williams, broker, of the Soo has been tendered the appointment of assistant insurance examiner by John T. Winslow of Saginaw, who becomes insurance commissioner July 1, succeeding C. A. Palmer. Mr. Williams has accepted the appointment and will assume his duties Aug. 15, with headquarters at Lansing. He will move his family to that city, where he will make his home during his term in office, which is two years. The office to which Mr. Williams has been appointed was created by the legislature during the recent session. The legislature provided for a chief examiner and two assistants, who will inspect all insurance companies originating in this state and those of Canada which operate here. The duties will take Mr. Williams to different parts of the state. For the past twenty-six years Mr. Williams has been a resident of the Soo and has always been active in business developments. Politically he is a Democrat and a staunch one. For a number of years he was active in insurance circles and is thoroughly acquainted with the duties which he is to assume.

Stole March on Friends.

Stealing a march on their friends, Miss Anastasia Murray and William Edmund Dolan, both of St. Ignace, took passage by motor car for Moran, where they were quietly married in the Catholic church. Accompanying the young couple were Rev. Father Mueckler, who performed the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Del Parish, their attendants at the service. On their return to St. Ignace breakfast was served at the home of the bridegroom's mother, those present being the immediate families of the couple, Father Mueckler and the attendants. The Dolan home was prettily decorated in honor of the occasion. The wedding was a complete surprise to the many friends of the couple, they being enabled to keep the secret by special dispensation from Bishop Egan which made the usual announcement of the nuptials unnecessary. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Thomas Dolan and is employed in the St. Ignace offices of the South Shore. The bride, a daughter of John Murray, is a graduate from the Ursuline academy and during the past year taught the district school at Donald. Mr. and Mrs. Dolan left on the evening train for Duluth to spend a two weeks' honeymoon.

NO SECRET ABOUT WOMAN'S BEAUTY.

The flashing eye, the elastic step and the brilliant complexion are never companions of organic troubles; but it is the distressed expression, aches and pains, faintness, dizziness, that bearing down feeling, and the blues that are the tell-tale symptoms. If such women would remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes such distressing symptoms, womanly beauty would be no longer a secret.

The pleasant repose one enjoys on hot, sultry days and evenings while sitting under a great spreading elm tree in a shaded garden, is possible on your own porch or veranda, owing to the advent of the Aerolux Porch Shade.

Of all shades, of all kinds and descriptions, the Aerolux is positively the only one possessing the wonderful No-Whip attachment; and the holding of a shade with this self contained adjustable attachment, is the invention and patent of the Aerolux and therefore will not be found on any other porch shade.

This attachment holds the shade at the proper rigidity in any wind and thereby prevents the disagreeable flapping so common with other shades and does this without straining the shade.

This shade will last almost indefinitely; and while bamboo porch screens and the majority of other shades will fade and quickly wear out upon being exposed to the elements, the Aerolux maintains the same beautiful and new appearance that it possessed the day it was put up.

F. BRAASTAD & CO.

Besides building the Aerolux shade from specially prepared woods, its manufacturers offer it in a great variety of colors, which are so thoroughly weather proofed that whether they are of a soft olive hue or a deep, rich brown, exposure to sun, rain or snow does not effect them.

This enables one to employ them not only as a means of making a summer sleeping porch, but it also enables those who desire the more rigorous pleasure of sleeping in the fresh air in the winter time to do so in perfect security.

Aerolux Shades admit, by reason of their excellent construction, just the proper amount of light and fresh air and although those on the porch may observe passers-by perfectly, yet the occupants of the porch themselves remain in absolute privacy, unseen.

There is one pattern of Aerolux Shades called the Combination Shade, which may be raised from the bottom and lowered from the top, or the shade may be manipulated by strong cords, so as to assume any desired size between the floor and the ceiling, with an opening above and below simultaneously.

RELICS FROM OLD DEER LAKE STORE

Business Letters Written Nearly a Half Century Ago Are Found in Cellar.

Interesting relics in the form of letters, ledgers and day books have been uncovered from the basement of the Ski clubhouse at Deer Lake, the structure having recently been moved into the city. It was originally occupied by the Deer Lake Iron company's store and office, and many of the old books, in use more than forty years ago, were found in the cellar.

Harold Sundblad, of High street, recently picked up two or three interesting letters that were written in the early days. One of them was from W. B. Lindsley, former superintendent of the Peninsula division of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, and was addressed to the agent of the Lake Superior Iron company. The letter was written in 1872, and ran to the effect that Mr. Lindsley expected to be able to furnish the Lake Superior company with sufficient cars to handle fifty tons of ore a day.

Mr. Sundblad has given the letter to W. H. Johnston, general manager of the Oliver company's Marquette range mines, who will have it framed and will hang it in his office.

Another letter was written by a Mr. Taylor, of James Pickands & Co., of Marquette, Dec. 10, 1869, to J. B. Ward, who was then in charge of the books at the Deer Lake office. The letter was an acknowledgement of a check for $185.99.

In those days the government was still collecting revenue to pay the Civil war debt, and each person mailing a letter had to affix to it a revenue stamp. The stamps cost three cents.

Upper Peninsula

Serious Fire Was Threatened. A serious fire was threatened in the yards of the L. Stephenson company at Wells, late at night, when lightning set fire to a pile of dry lumber. A considerable blaze had developed before the fire was discovered and it required the determined effort of the company's department before the flames were brought under control.

Steeple on Fire. The steeple of St. Joseph's church at Iron Mountain was struck by lightning last week. The timbers were set on fire. A alarm was turned in and both fire departments were promptly at the scene. The fire was extinguished before spreading beyond the frame work of the steeple. The damage has not been estimated, but it is possible the steeple will have to be rebuilt.

Held Guilty of Slander. In Justice Meeker's court at Munising John Kreager recently made complaint against William Humphrey for slander. Kreager alleged that Humphrey wrongfully accused him of stealing potatoes. The case was tried by the following jury: James Tracy, J. G. King, Nick Hajjar, Henry Gollinger, Frank Fouchard and G. A. Baldwin. The jury convicted Humphrey. The court thereupon fined him $10 and costs, amounting in all to $36.75, the alternative being fifteen days in the county jail. Humphrey has settled.

Logs Are Burned. Word is received that thirty thousand feet of logs in East Limestone, Alger county, worth on skids $3 per thousand or more, were destroyed by a brush fire, origin unknown. The logs were the property of the Northwestern Coopers & Lumber company. At Camp Alger, not far from where the logs burned, a crew of fifty or sixty men fought the fire so successfully that out of several hundred cords of wood in that slashing only eighty-eight cords were destroyed. The fire was apparently under complete control, when a strong south wind arose and in spite of all efforts to subdue it consumed the wood as set forth above. The wood was owned by the furnace department of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company. Had the fire not been well handled several thousand cords of wood owned by the same company in the immediate vicinity would undoubtedly have burned.

Will Attend Gettysburg Reunion. Colonel James A. Trout and Homer Hodge, members of E. H. Liscum post, G. A. R. of the Soo, will attend the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg to be held on the battlefield in southern Pennsylvania July 2, 3 and 4. Colonel Trout has been appointed a member of the staff of General Biers of Bridgeport, Conn., commander-in-chief. Both men enlisted in the army from the state of Connecticut. Mr. Trout was in his twenty-first year when he donned the uniform. Fighting in many of the important battles of the war, which included Fredericksburg, Jonesboro and Gettysburg, Mr. Trout is one of the best informed members of the G. A. R.

concerning the war. While in these battles he was wounded, and he once had a shell struck him. He still bears the mark of the wound. Out of the regiment of twelve hundred of which Mr. Trout was a member, only three hundred remained after the decisive battle of Gettysburg.

An Iron Mountain Wedding. The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Robinson of Iron Mountain was the scene of a pretty wedding when their daughter, Miss Loretta, was united in marriage to John E. Sampson, of St. Paul, Minn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. L. Hewson. The bride was attended by Miss May Bradford and the bridegroom by his brother, Albert E. Sampson. Little Evelyn Thelander, of Oshkosh, carried the wedding ring in a basket of flowers. As the bridal party ascended the broad stairway under an arch of smiles, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Mae Strom of Ironwood. Following the ceremony, a sumptuous wedding supper was served. The bride is a talented young lady, educated in the Iron Mountain schools. The bridegroom is a former Iron Mountain boy, now a prominent young man in business circles in St. Paul. The bride received many beautiful presents of silver, cut glass, china and fine linen. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mrs. C. H. Abramson and daughter, Miss Elsie, of Laurium; Mrs. Oscar Thelander and daughter, Miss Evelyn, of Oshkosh; Miss Mae Strom, of Ironwood; Albert E. Sampson and sisters, Emma, Hilbur and Mabel, of St. Paul. The couple left on the evening train for Chicago to visit for a week before going to St. Paul, where they will be at home after Aug. 1.

DYNAMITE IN FARMING. The Utilization of Heavy Explosions in Modern Agriculture for Removing Stumps and Loosening the Soil.

When the wires flash the news of the sudden unleashing of all the demon powers of dynamite and half a state rocks to the explosion, it is taken almost as a matter of course. Dynamite, death and destruction go hand in hand in the popular conception. For the next few years it is the most surprising to think of this powerful explosive as tamed to the docility of the ox harnessed to help the farmer. Yet that is exactly what has been done. Dynamite has been called on to expend its force in first aid to the tillers of the soil. The next step was it is doing is to help make the waste places of the earth more profitable for man. It is doing the work so well that the "dynamite farmer" is no longer a laughing-stock. He is looked up to as a progressive.

Almost from the discovery of the rending power of a mixture of nitric acid, glycerine and prepared earth, dynamite has been used in the rougher work to which man turns his hand. The tearing down of Titanic cliffs, the pushing of tunnels through granite-lined hills, called for its aid. To such activities the gigantic force was limited for a time. Then a new channel was opened.

On the far end of Long Island there are acres of land that in 1903 were practically useless. Once a great forest had waved there, but fire swept it until all that remained was an army of ragged topped stumps. Firmly anchored by their network of roots, they rose like islands above the sea of green underbrush and second growth. The land was needed badly, but the battlement of stumps disputed man's way. If this could be overcome there would be more opportunities, to remove the obstructions by the archaic method of digging and hauling out the stumps with ox teams meant too much time and expense.

"Dynamite," suggested one of the most interested. Ten acres were set aside for the experiment. Saplings and brambles were cleared away and burned in great pyres. This shaving of the land exposed an army of stumps greater by half than the attacking force had expected. The battle began, man and dynamite on one hand, arrayed against deep-set stumps and a limit of time and cost. Cartridges were laid in little burrows under the roots, a snark work which along the electric wires, there would be a muffled crack, and a stump would rise in fragments, easily gathered for burning. It took just two months for the completion of the whole job of blasting and the finishing touches to make the land ready for cultivation.

That was the vindication of dynamite as the farmer's "hired help." Since then nearly all of the 270,000 acres of scrub-oak waste and pine barrens have been cleared of stumps and made ready for the production of crops.

One of the greatest arguments for the use of dynamite is its efficiency. In clearing land it is a mighty conservator of time and energy, for the debris it leaves can almost be swept together. There are two ways in which the dynamite farmer prepares his charge: one for fuse ignition and the other for electric spark. If large charges are used the spark method is preferable, as it insures the stump-thrower's safety, but as a usual thing the fuse is cheaper, and a man who is a good sprinter need not fear for himself after applying the match. The dynamite comes in half-pound sticks about the size of an ordinary candle and wrapped in heavy water-proof paper. These cartridges the farmer carries out to his stump lot in a basket, for he has lost his old-time fear that the slightest jar will bring an explosion.

If he plans to use fuses the wrapping of one end of the cartridge is loosened, a hole prodded in the dynamite gently with a wooden skewer, and the fuse inserted. The wrapping is made fast about it and the charge is lowered in a hole which has been made under the stump by a crowbar. Then earth is stuffed about the fuse so that none of the force of the charge will be wasted and the blast is ready.

This is a sure enough method in the case of stumps with as great a diameter as four feet. For larger ones sometimes three pounds of dynamite are needed, the best effect being gained by distributing the half-pound cartridges about the foot of the stump. This is where the electric firing system is needed, for all the charges must be exploded simultaneously. A copper cap containing a tiny pinch of fulminate of mercury and sealed to a wire leading to a magnetic battery is placed in the top of each cartridge. At the word "fire" the circuit in the battery is closed and the spark does the rest.

It's a simple and efficacious method if the worker observes two rules. The first—for his own sake—is to handle the dynamite tenderly and above all keep it away from the touch of fire. The second, if he wants the work done well, is to be careful in the making of the

CLASS OF 1913 GETS ADVICE

Rev. W. H. Smith, Delivering Baccalaureate Address at Northern State Normal School, Yesterday Made Plea for Uniting Class Work With Knowledge of God.

Each Lesson Needs to Be Related to the Larger Body of Truth and of the Life of Which It Forms a Part, Says the Clergyman, on His Sermon Theme.

Rev. Walter H. Smith, pastor of the Methodist church, delivered a scholarly and powerful baccalaureate sermon yesterday afternoon at the Northern State Normal school, addressing the senior class and an assemblage of townspeople that filled the assembly hall to the doors.

The pastor dwelt upon the necessity of the teacher linking the facts, figures and phenomena he teaches the child with the higher interests of life and with God. This, he urged, took the task out of study, made school work appealing and benefited the child mentally, physically and morally.

Enthusiasm is an incentive for better, quicker development. By arousing enthusiasm the teacher may unfold to his children some of the grander, nobler facts of existence, those which are most usually at this day and age left to languish in the background. By uniting the simpler lessons of detailed knowledge with the larger lessons of God, as related to the manifestations of His being, his mind of the pupil is elevated beyond the sordid depth of material stress and strain, the struggle to acquire something without incentive or enthusiasm.

Rev. Mr. Smith's address showed extended research. He quoted freely from many and varied authorities and drew largely from history, literature and science in making his points. At all times he was followed closely.

The Presbyterian choir sang two numbers, one preceding the other following, the address, Miss Sophia Linton sang a solo by Sullivan, "Love not the World."

Rev. Mr. Smith spoke, in part, as follows: "The art of teaching is one of the fine arts and I count myself fortunate in being privileged to address these ninety-three graduates upon this baccalaureate occasion. If I can help to round out the symmetry of their normal course by adding one more lesson to the many they already have acquired in these halls of learning, I shall be satisfied."

"How dull and wearisome are facts, figures, and mere phenomena when taught in the abstract, when imparted by the teacher as so many unrelated and dead formulas to harass the student and cumber his mind. But how interesting and stimulating and inspiring these same things become when related to the Personality of God, when shown to be the manifestations of an Infinite Being.

"Ordinary folk sometimes wonder how Louis Agassiz could possess so much real enthusiasm in the study of clouds and rocks and dirty minerals. The old scientist reveals the secret of his deep and abiding interest in natural phenomena when he says, 'The geologist wanders along paths worn deeply by the Divine footprints.' Again, some people manifest great surprise that old Johann Kepler could maintain unabated his interest in the pursuit of the dry and dead formulas of mathematics. But the secret of the old German's enthusiasm is a secret no longer when one day he discovers his Law of the Third Dimension and from a full heart exclaims, 'I am thinking my thoughts after Thee O God.' Newton was fired by the same spirit in the prosecution of his tasks. One day as he verifies one of his mathematical conclusions he exclaims, 'My calculations have encountered the march of the stars.'

"My plea is that you graduates as you go out to instruct our youth shall complete every lesson from the first day of kindergarten to the last day of senior recitation with the higher and more enduring interests of life. If properly taught the multiplication table is seen to be but a part of the eternal verities and is akin to the laws which govern the stars in their courses.

"I know a teacher in the schools of Chatham Ontario, who employs exactly this method of instruction. I need not tell you that her pupils do not yawn during the recitation hour, neither do they manifest any lack of interest in the lesson under discussion, nor do they need to be driven to the presentation of the task in hand. As a matter of fact the pupils under this teacher look forward with a kind of eager joy to the recitation hours. The time is all too short for them and they put away their books and leave the class with reluctance.

"In further support of our contention that each lesson needs to be related to the larger body of truth and of life of which it forms a part I take pleasure in quoting at length from other men. Dr. Frederick E. Bolton, writing in the School Review for February, 1904, says: 'The mind grows by what it feeds on as well as through exercise.' Colonel Parker says, 'The old method is founded upon a rigid faith in the book and traditional processes; the new upon the divinity of the child and upon the influence of God's creations upon his growing mind.' Spencer, over fifty years ago, in his treatise on 'Education,' said, 'That which our school courses leave almost entirely out, this we find to be that which most nearly concerns the business of life. The vital knowledge has got itself taught in nooks and corners while the ordained agencies for teaching have been numbing little else than dead formulas.' Mandell Creighton, bishop of London, says that the ethical element is not so much instruction or information which can be added on, but it is in the inspiration of all education.' Mr. Jones, ex-superintendent of the Cleveland schools and ex-president of Ypsilanti State Normal, in his book entitled 'Education as a Growth,' page 191, points out that this method of teaching should be used even in the primary room. He says, 'It is when the primary teacher has no such clear conception of the ultimate aims, and no such abiding faith in the highest destiny of her pupils, that she resorts to the preliminary ideals and descends to unworthy methods in teaching the details of her daily program. It is when the primary teacher has no such vision that she finds her work a drudgery and loses learning a weariness of the flesh for her pupils.'

"So much for 'incentive.' I must touch upon the matter of 'deterrents' more briefly. Doubtless the argument already has taken shape in your minds. A child possesses so powerful an incentive needs very little as a deterrent. The wandering thought, the moral lapse, the open rebellion against authority will find very little place in the personality of the student who is in possession of such incentive.

"That brilliant French critic and educator, M. Foulle, says, 'Every professor should have thorough education in philosophy and morals which alone can make them in their turn true educators.' Geo. Herbert Palmer, professor of philosophy in Harvard, in his book entitled 'Ethical Instruction in the Schools,' page 67, says, 'We must acknowledge that our success in the mental field is largely staked on our success in the moral.'

"We cannot touch our pupils in a single section of their natures and hope for results. Instruction must go all through the life. Why have we no school books on human character, the highest of all themes? Once direct the attention of our pupils to this great topic, and may we not ultimately bring about that moral enlargement for which the time waits?"

"The wandering thought, the moral lapse, the open rebellion against discipline and authority will be reduced to a minimum by the teacher who links up each lesson with life and with God and thereby invests each recitation hour with the spirit as well as the letter. Clothe each lesson with all the significance and fullness of the Divine and the disagreeable features of school life will largely disappear. All the incentive and all the deterrent necessary for the school room may be found within the lesson itself if that lesson is properly interpreted. The letter killeth but the spirit giveth life.' Let all of our teachers and all of our parents in educating the child impart the spirit as well as the letter of the lesson.

"Yesterday a little mite of a boy came into the parsonage lot. He plucked a dandelion and tore it in pieces. I called his attention to a similar flower in my own hand. He thought it very common, so common that it was ugly. Together we penetrated to the calyx and then to the corolla. We counted the seeds—175 in all. We noted the little parachute so carefully fitted to each seed germ. Not a seed without a parachute. And there before our eyes one of the little seeds lifted and wafted away. The boy began to see more in the dandelion that he had ever seen before. After that he was not so common and so ugly as he had thought. I asked him what mind planned the calyx and the corolla; whose eye watched over the pigment that lent color to the flower; whose hand began in the seed life; whose hand chiseled the delicate parachutes; I asked him to consider how many parachutes that same hand had chiseled in the last twelve months; inquiry was made of the boy as to whose breath volplaned the seed germ to its grave and the place of its future resurrection; also how many resurrections that same speak of life had experienced under the watchful eye of God—and I declare to you that as we talked the lad's eyes began to open wide, his indifference melted like snow before the summer's sun, his questions came thick and fast; and before he had left the boy had experienced a lesson in botany wherein he had escaped from 'The letter which killeth into the spirit which giveth life.'

"God is no more the unseen equation in the tree than he is the unseen equation in music, painting, biology, geology, or mathematics, or any other department of life. The greatest men the race has produced have found their incentives and their deterrents in this unseen equation which we call God. Some have even declared that there cannot be a true student of astronomy and mired in the same person at one and the same time. That which has proved to be incentive and deterrent for the grown-up men and women of the race will not be less effective in the minds and hearts of the susceptible child.

"My secret is out—I want you parents and you teachers to impart the consciousness of God as you teach the letter of each lesson. If you do, you teach the letter of the lesson, will bring the student direct into the presence of God you will find the one and only incentive and deterrent sufficient for the work in hand.

"Once you impart to the consciousness of the child the fact that he is engaged, not in a semester of memorizing, but in engaged in the exploration of immortality, and of eternity, and of God—once you fix that consciousness firmly in the child's mind, he will do the rest. Henceforth you cannot keep him down or hold him back as his spirit leaps out to claim its rightful place in the great universe of God.

"Graduates of the class of 1913 of the Northern State Normal, I salute you! You are the arbiters of the fortunes of immortal men; you are charged with the high duty of populating heaven; you are the men and the women to whom is committed in a peculiar sense the task of raising up individuals worthy to companionship with God throughout eternity. I congratulate you. I pray for you. May you so accept yourselves that in the memory of your youth will be made glad with those words of the King's encomium, 'Well done, good and faithful servant, you have been faithful over a few things, I will make you a ruler over many things, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord!'

NEGAUNEE DEFEATED IN INTERESTING GAME

Marquette the Victor in Exciting Swatfest Staged at Fairgrounds Yesterday.

The Marquette baseball team defeated the Negaunee nine yesterday in a close and interesting game at the fairgrounds. The score was 9 to 8. Although the contest took on the aspect of a swatfest, clever field work on both sides keeping down the count, notwithstanding a total of nine errors. Marquette made ten hits, and Negaunee fourteen.

In the first inning Negaunee scored four runs, Marquette none. Dyer, for Negaunee, reached first on a single, scoring Heinonen and Flynn. Heinonen was safe on first on an error by Bastien. Ford struck out. Peel also reached first on an error by Bastien. McNabb singled, scoring Dyer and Peel. Collins struck out, as did the next man up.

Marquette scored in the second inning. Boyer hit for three bases; Bastien was out, second to first; Gilbert sacrificed, scoring Boyer; Ekstrom struck out.

In the third inning Richardson got to first on an error by the first baseman and then to second on a second error by the same player. He reached third on a passed ball and home on another passed ball. Jeanson struck out. Larson fled to center field.

Negaunee scored one run in the fourth. Heinonen singled and Flynn struck out. Dyer hit for two bases, scoring Heinonen. Faulk struck out. Peel was retired by Scholtus, unassisted.

Marquette scored in the fifth. Ekstrom singled, Richardson was hit by a pitched ball, Scholtus struck out, Jeanson singled, scoring Ekstrom and Richardson. Larson fled to left field and Johnson was put out, second to first.

Negaunee scored three runs in the sixth inning. Collins opened with a single. Heinonen sacrificed, sending Collins to second. Flynn singled and stole second and Dyer singled, scoring Collins and Flynn. Faulk hit to second base. Peel drove a fly to left field which was dropped by Jeanson. Dyer scoring. Halman was put out. Boyer to Larson.

Marquette scored two in the seventh. Scholtus beat a punt to first base and together we penetrated to the calyx and then to the corolla. We counted the seeds—175 in all. We noted the little parachute so carefully fitted to each seed germ. Not a seed without a parachute. And there before our eyes one of the little seeds lifted and wafted away. The boy began to see more in the dandelion that he had ever seen before. After that he was not so common and so ugly as he had thought. Marquette scored three in the eighth. Ekstrom singled; Richardson also singled, but went to second on a Belder's choice by Scholtus. Jeanson singled, scoring Ekstrom and Scholtus. Larson was hit by a pitched ball and stole second. Johnson went out, Collins to McNabb. Boyer reached first on an error by Faulk and Larson was retired at third for cutting that base.

Press Men and President Confer Each Week

Washington Correspondents Present An Imposing Array of Newspaper Workers.

Visitors to Washington—and Washington these days means the White House for that is one point of interest that no tourist ever overlooks during the early days of a new administration—have noted that a number of spruce-looking men, slightly worried in appearance but withal very jaunty and full of that which is known as "pep," collect in the anteroom of the executive offices every Monday morning and Thursday afternoon. At 10 o'clock on the former day and at 3 o'clock on the latter the men disappear within the inner sanctum of the White House, to reappear about fifteen or twenty minutes later and hurry off, apparently having completed their business.

Did they but know it these men are the members of President Wilson's "newspaper cabinet" with whom he is wont to confer twice a week for mutual benefit.

The newspapermen are anxious, most anxious to obtain news of what is going on in the White House and particularly what the president intends to do and to get some line on the state of mind of the chief executive. Also the president is anxious to discover, through the representatives of the press, what the attitude of the country is on certain subjects and to determine, through the words dropped by the correspondents, what he ought to do with respect to many of the thousand-and-one rules of etiquette in Washington with which he is still ignorant.

The Washington correspondent is an institution peculiar to himself. Well dressed, almost to a man, clean cut, gingery, alert they form what is without doubt the most capable assortment of correspondents in the United States. Even New York, with its score of big metropolitan dailies and hundreds of magazines, cannot boast of the number of newspaper writers that Washington can. The capital of the country draws from the entire nation for her correspondents. San Francisco and the Pacific coast, the north, the east and the great metropolis of the world each send their quota of picked men to "cover" the news of the home of the president, and the seat of congress, the starting place for practically one-half of the really big news which "breaks" every day.

The London Times, the great "thunderer" whose voice has overthrown ministries and premierships in Great Britain has two men to do its Washington work. Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy and Mexico have star men who visit the White House every week and the president's "newspaper cabinet" is, indeed, a cosmopolitan, heterogeneous collection of star men from all parts of the world.

The hours of the semi-weekly conferences were chosen with direct reference to the desires of the "cabinet." This morning paper men desired that their sheets should not be left uncovered on the big events of the day, while the afternoon papers insisted that they also be given a time when their representatives could confer with the chief executive about the big policies of the administration. Therefore the Monday conference has been set for 10 o'clock in the morning while the correspondents obtain entrance into the executive sanctum at 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon.

Usually about fifty men are present at these meetings. They form a wide semi-circle about the president's desk with the chief executive himself as the center and two of the omnipresent secret service men posted near the door to see that no strangers enter. The one female member of the press galleries, Mrs. George Richards, who is the correspondent for a number of New Hampshire papers, never misses one of the sessions of the cabinet and always occupies a position at the left of the semi-circle.

After greeting each man as he enters and shaking hands with any newcomers whom he may not previously have met, the president waits for someone to open the rapid fire of questions about any and all topics. The opening gun is usually not long in being fired. Lately the California-Japanese situation and the tariff have been the two questions which were uppermost in the minds of the correspondents and the first question usually related to one of these problems.

President Wilson's answers come sharp and crisp. There is no hesitancy. His mind works with the accuracy and precision of clockwork. He has formulated his reply almost before his questioner has concluded his query. If he does not care to answer the question—for reasons of state or policy it is frequently inexpedient to give a direct answer—the chief executive usually turns the query off with some half-joking reply which plainly shows the correspondent that the president does not intend to outline his policy at this time. It is seldom that a question is repeated, and should it be put a second time, the chief executive is apt to say, with some asperity: "I do not care to discuss that at this time."

But there is no evasion or quibbling on the part of the present occupant of the White House. He either answers your question or he does not—and some of his replies are so distinct that they are disconcerting.

Consider, for example, his reply to a New York correspondent's query, "Is Mr. James to be recalled from Ecuador?" "He is probably safe to say that none is so popular with the newspapermen of Washington as these semi-weekly "newspaper cabinet meetings."

Upper Peninsula

House Struck by Lightning.

During an electrical storm at Menominee, the home of John Cookley, 518 Spies avenue, was struck by lightning the bolt passing down the chimney, melting the chimney stoppers and tearing the paper from the wall. The roof caught fire, but the blaze was quickly extinguished by the heavy downpour of rain. Mr. Cookley, who has been chief engineer for the M. & M. Light & Traction company the last twenty-two years, said the storm was the worst one he has ever seen. In Marinette the convent occupied by the school sisters of St. Anthony's congregation caught fire, the nuns being obliged to escape from the building in their night clothing. The blaze was confined to the garret.

Church Asks Pastor to Remain.

Much to the surprise of the congregation of the First Baptist church of Escanaba, the pastor, Rev. F. W. Ainslie, Sunday morning read his resignation, the same to take effect as soon as another pastor can be engaged. A meeting of the congregation was held and by unanimous vote the church asked Mr. Ainslie to withdraw the resignation and to continue his pastorate. The expression of confidence has come as a pleasing experience to Mr. Ainslie, and while he thinks that a four years' pastorate is about long enough it is possible he may consent to remain. The Escanaba Journal says of him: "It would, indeed, be unfortunate for the First Baptist church to lose Mr. Ainslie. He is one of the strong, vigorous, forceful type of young preachers that the world needs today. His pastorate has been a blessing to his church and to the community as a whole. He is fearless in his defense of civic decency and in denunciation of the moral infidelities of the city—exactly the kind of a man the Escanaba people, the Baptist people should consider themselves most fortunate in having a pastor of his ability and force of character, and, surely, it would be hard to fill his place. And they prove their appreciation by unanimously requesting him to continue his pastorate."

GIROUX CONSOLIDATED.

Ever since the terms of the proposed merger of Giroux with Butte & Ely, Coppermines and Chairman into the Consolidated Coppermines company were announced, dissatisfaction on the part of some of the large Giroux stockholders has been apparent. They organized a committee to go over the situation with the management, with the result that it has been decided to enter the consideration as a means of realizing on their investment. These minority interests represented 137,000 shares, which will now be deposited in exchange for the Consolidated company stock. On the committee were two of the former Giroux management—Loren M. Hart, counsel before the acquisition by the Cole interests, and Eugene L. Giroux, formerly vice president. The committee now states: "The consummation of the proposed plan will solve many of the difficulties which now confront the Giroux company and will eventually result in placing the properties on a broad productive basis." Of the $3,000,000 bonus which has been offered stockholders of the consolidated Coppermines company or subscription at par, $1,000,000 have been practically underwritten through agreement on the part of the largest interests involved to supply the new company with that much cash. It is understood that a certain amount of the new cash capital will be set aside monthly for development and for increasing output in an effort to increase ore tonnage. While the Giroux management at the end of 1911 gave the property about 17,000,000 tons of ore, which amount was unchanged at the close of last year, Henry Krumb, who examined the property for the merger, gave it but 7,000,000 tons. Such a tonnage would not warrant mill construction. The 500-ton concentrator now on the Giroux property will probably be utilized in the near future in a demonstration test of the ore tonnage.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this is inflamed, it causes the hearing sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation is taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; it is almost certain that it is caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

CONVENTION CAME TO CLOSE SATURDAY

Parade in Morning and Picnic in Afternoon Were the Events of the Day.

The fifth annual convention of the upper peninsula Federation of Italian societies, which was in session here for three days, came to a successful close Saturday with a parade in which all the delegates participated, and a picnic at the Cleveland grove. The parade on Saturday morning formed at the Labor temple, where all the meetings of the convention were held, and marched through the principal business streets of the city, headed by the Iron Mountain Italian band, one of the foremost musical organizations in the upper peninsula. The Negaunee Italian band was also in line.

Immediately following the parade, which started at 10 o'clock, the crowds gathered at the city square to listen to the addresses, John B. Rastello, of Calumet, president of the upper peninsula federation; Bernard P. Barasa, of Chicago, formerly of this city, who was chosen honorary president and legal advisor of the federation; Mayor Heggaton and Felix Chabotto, who had charge of the arrangements for the convention, were the speakers. The work that the federation has accomplished since it was organized in Negaunee five years ago was commented on, as was also the growth in the membership. Mr. Barasa discussed good citizenship, the encouragement of which is one of the principal objects of the federation. He urged those who are now members to encourage other Italians to join.

Many of the delegates returned to their homes Saturday evening, following the close of the picnic at Cleveland grove. Dancing was enjoyed at the grove until 11 o'clock Saturday evening.

THRIFTY GERMANS NOW FAVOR THE MULE.

The raising of the dog tax in Berlin from $4.50 to $8 has given rise to considerable complaints in that capital of a dog loving country, and has also caused a great falling off in the number of dogs kept. Foxes, however, are not included in the taxation regulations, hence the advertisement appearing recently in one of the newspapers offering young foxes as substitutes for dogs. At present the price is only $2.50.

While the fox is to take the place of the dachshund, the omnibus horse which pulls the Berlin bus along at such a gentle pace that the vehicle is certainly the pleasantest of all such vehicles to travel in, is going to be displaced by the mule. The Berlin Omnibus company recently imported three teams of mules from South Africa. They have found that they thereby save as much as 25 per cent. in fodder, while obtaining

WALTHY, BUT EARNS $12 A WEEK.

Parisians who follow the doctrines of the late Count Tolstoi are interested in the example set by a Russian of great wealth, Alexis Savaroff, who spends one-half of his day as a man of fashion and the other half as a paperhanger, earning $12 a week.

M. Savaroff does not carry his master's precepts so far that he denies himself the pleasures afforded by his wealth, but he believes, and tries to affirm by his life, that each man ought to do his share in the world's unpleasant work. He arrives at his job each morning in his automobile, gets into his overalls and begins work. He is employed by a St. Petersburg firm of contracting interior decorators, and lately was promoted to the position of foreman.

When the whistle blows at the end of the day Savaroff returns home and there begins his life of social prominence. He has been doing this for six years, and declares he enjoys it.

FINISH PLANS FOR BIG MEET

Marquette Masons Complete Their Preparations for Entertainment of Nobles of Ahmed Temple, Order of the Mystic Shrine and a Big Consistory Class.

First Meeting of Higher Scottish Rite Bodies in Marquette Will Be an Historical Event in the Masonic History of the Upper Peninsula—Program Arranged.

One of the features of the preparations for the entertainment of the visiting Scottish Rite Masons and Shriners who will gather in this city, beginning tomorrow morning, to remain until Friday night, at the largest Masonic gathering ever held in the upper peninsula, is the appointment of a special committee to act as a bureau of information. The members are F. J. Schulteis, chairman, S. A. Williams, R. A. Manhard, A. E. Boswell and E. O. Stafford. Mr. Stafford has offered the use of his drug store as headquarters for the bureau, and it will be designated as such by a large banner suspended over the street in front of the entrance.

The first meeting of the Francis M. Moore consistory will attract Masons from all over the upper peninsula, as well as the members of the Grand Rapids consistory, who will come here to exemplify the work. As it is expected that the available hotel accommodations will be taken early, the committee urges that all persons who have rooms to rent in private houses or beds to spare will leave their names and addresses at the Stafford drug store, either by calling in person or by telephone.

The first incoming delegation will be the Scottish Rite choir of Grand Rapids. The members of this organization will arrive tomorrow morning on the Northwestern train. The Grand Rapids degree team will arrive Tuesday evening on the St. Paul train. This body will leave Grand Rapids today and will cross Lake Michigan by boat, arriving at Milwaukee in time to catch the day train north. Every incoming train after Tuesday morning will bring Scottish Rite Masons and Shriners to the city.

Among the visitors will be men of prominence in the state. The Masons urge, therefore, that the citizens of Marquette make special efforts to give the distinguished guests a welcome worthy of the city's best traditions for hospitality, that the week may be a memorable one in Michigan Masonry.

First Class to Be Large.

The first class to be admitted to the Francis M. Moore consistory will, it is said, in every way sustain the strong representations made to the supreme council. More than one hundred names were favorably acted upon Friday evening at a meeting of the Rite and every mail continues to bring in new applicants. It is likely, according to officers of the Rite, that by Friday night the class will have reached the 150 mark. The demand from all over the upper peninsula for the privilege of completing the Scottish Rite work to the thirty-second degree has been great, and the dispensation granting a charter for the Francis M. Moore consistory has been in answer to this demand, and it is believed that the necessity of going to lower Michigan for the purpose of taking up the work.

It was decided at the meeting Friday evening to continue to receive petitions as long as there is chance to give the work to those who make the application. In special cases privileges will be extended, so those who have business which makes it impossible for them to attend the opening work of the class Tuesday afternoon or to be present at the conferring of each degree scheduled in the program will be able to take the work.

Masons point to the fact that it is easier to procure membership in the consistory while the charter is open than is the case once it has been closed. Those who start their work tomorrow will all be graded as charter members and their names will be written into the charter, when it is issued, for permanent preservation.

Below is a program of the ceremonial work:
Tuesday, June 24, 1:30 p. m. Secret

Master, fourth degree, Charles L. Brainerd presiding; 2:30 p. m., Intimate Secretary, sixth degree, Herman Holden presiding; 4 p. m., Provost and Judge, seventh degree, Herman Holden presiding; 7:30 p. m., Grand Elect Mason, fourth degree, Charles L. Brainerd presiding.

Wednesday, June 25, 9:30 a. m., Knight of the East or Sword, eighteenth degree, Orie E. Brown presiding; 1:30 p. m., Prince of Jerusalem, sixteenth degree, Orie E. Brown presiding; 3 p. m., Knight of the East and West, seventeenth degree, James H. McNeel presiding; 3:45 p. m., Knights of the Rose Croix, James H. McNeel presiding.

This ends the work in the co-ordinate bodies and it will be followed immediately by the consistory work proper, which begins the same evening at 8 p. m. with the Master Ad Vitam, nineteenth degree, Louis Theodore Herman, of Grand Rapids, presiding.

Thursday, June 26, 10 a. m., Grand Pontiff, nineteenth degree, John Rowson, of Grand Rapids, presiding; 1:30 p. m., Patriarch Noschitz, twenty-first degree, Clarence William Sessions, of Grand Rapids, presiding; 3 p. m., Knight of St. Andrew, twenty-ninth degree, Mark Norris presiding; 4:30 p. m., Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret, thirty-second degree, Clarence William Sessions and George Tucker presiding.

The official banquet at Fraternity Hall will follow the closing exercises at 6:30 p. m. The Calumet & Hecla orchestra has been engaged to furnish music at this event and several brilliant after-dinner speakers will respond to toasts.

Shrine Meeting Friday. Friday will be Shrine day and this will, it is expected, eclipse anything previously held under the auspices of Ahmed temple. At the beginning of the present year the members set out to procure candidates that would swell the roster to 1,000. This was for a time looked upon as an impossibility, but it is not now unlikely that the roll will include that number of names before the close of the approaching session. Seventy applicants are already registered and more are coming in daily. The class, it is said, may reach one hundred members. Ernest Pearce is the new potentate, and although he has had some especially active officers as his predecessors none has made so energetic a campaign for members as he. Marquette folks are asked to watch the procession of novices as it winds its way from the Hotel Marquette to the Masonic Hall Friday evening. A pertinent and frequently asked question is, "Will they all hang on?"

EXPECT TO ACT TONIGHT.

Charter Commissioners Will Take Resolution from the Table.

The charter commissioners, at their special meeting, this evening will take from the table the resolution recommending a commission form of government, introduced at Friday evening's session by J. E. Lautner, and unless an adjournment is asked, will act upon it whether or not every member is present. The majority of the commissioners believe it is high time to "start something" in the line of building up a charter for Marquette, since it has developed that within three months from the date of the first meeting their work must be completed. It is believed, however, that an adjournment will be asked before the resolution is taken up, in which case the next assemblage will either be the regular session Friday evening or a special meeting Wednesday.

Some fault has been found with the form of the resolution as presented Friday evening. Several of the commissioners believe it should merely state the intention of the commission to adopt the commission form of government and not specify any particular form of commission. An effort will be made to have the question of the size of the council, the manner of electing the commissioners and the term of office discussed fully and at length before action is taken. Six of the commissioners, it is believed, will vote in favor of commission government under any conditions, although within this majority there is a difference of opinion regarding some of the details of election and terms of office.

Two other members of the commission are understood to be undecided just what recommendation they will support, but they lean, it is said, toward the commission system.

According to the latest statistics, 245 cities of the United States have adopted the commission form of government and are enthusiastic over its success. The report in which the figure quoted above is given, and which was issued a month ago, stated that such a great number of cities were considering the adoption of the plan or were already in the stages of transition that it was impossible to keep an accurate account of the actual number. It is expected that the number will be more than doubled before the end of the year.

MIDSUMMER DAY TO BE BIG OCCASION HERE

Tuesday Will Find Marquette the Center of Attraction for the Entire County.

Plans for the annual celebration of St. John's Day, which will be observed by the Societe Ste. Jean Baptiste tomorrow, have been completed. One of the largest crowds of outsiders that has ever attended a similar event is expected, not alone because of the society's observance, but because of the numerous attractions the city has to offer the Midsummer Day celebrants. In addition to the celebration, which marks the day as a holiday, the Normal school commencement exercises will be held and this will doubtless attract many persons to the city who would not otherwise come. Then the Sparks' circus and various baseball engagements will furnish entertainment for those whose interest is not otherwise occupied.

At the fair grounds tomorrow there will be sports of various kinds both before and after the dinner which will be served at noon in the administration building by the families of the society members. The program of sports, as announced by A. E. Archambeau, chairman of the sports committee, will include pre-racing contests, a tug of war between ten men and fifteen women, a race for fat men, a relay race, horse racing and dancing. Lady Arkwood has been entered against all comers in the horse racing. This horse has performed in years past on the fair grounds track, making some excellent records. Other horses have been entered against her.

The Societe Ste. Jean Baptiste of Republique, L'Union Canadienne Francaise of Shipening and the Societe Chevaliers de Lafayette of Negaunee will attend in bodies. Three out-of-town brass bands will accompany them, and Klamert's band of this city has been chartered to furnish music in addition to these. A special train from Republie will arrive at the South Shore passenger station at about 9 o'clock in the morning. It will be met by the Marquette society and the visitors will form into procession and march to St. John's church, where Rev. Father Jodecy, assisted by other members of the clergy, will celebrate a solemn high mass. As soon as these services are over the procession will form again outside the church and proceed to the passenger station, where trains will be awaiting to transport the crowds to the fair grounds. During the afternoon two trains will make the trip to the city and return to accommodate those who do not wish to spend the entire day at the grounds. Supper will be served at the grounds shortly before 6 o'clock. The last train in the evening will leave the grounds at 6:30 o'clock.

On its trip to Marquette tomorrow, the special train from Republie will leave that town at 7:30 o'clock a. m. At Shipening and Negaunee it will be met by the delegations from these cities. The special will leave Marquette on the return trip at 7:30 in the evening.

The day's festivities will be concluded in the evening by the annual Midsummer Night ball given by the Marquette society in Fraternity Hall. A large number of the visiting lodge members will remain in the city over night to attend this event.

Friday will be one of the biggest Midsummer Days Marquette has seen in many years. Many of the merchants have agreed to close their stores at least part of the day. Business in general will be at a standstill.
