

HUERTA CALM; HE WHITTENES A BULL FIGHT

Convinced Washington Has Already Gone the Limit, He Appears Serene—Financial Situation the Most Serious He Faces—Treasury Is Practically Empty

Congress Will Meet Today and Will, It Is Said, Nullify Recent Election and Make No Provision for Balloting Anew—Dictator Thus Will Continue in Power.

Mexico City, Nov. 23.—Apparently resigned to conditions which make it necessary to carry on a dilatory campaign against his enemies, President Huerta and his official dependents appeared serene today, convinced that the United States will not take more drastic measures toward the Mexican government than those already taken.

It has been rumored that the congress would not continue to meet; that it would be automatically dissolved, and that General Huerta was about to quit office. All these have been disproved by congress launching itself into what promises to be a prolonged session. It is expected that tomorrow congress will take up the ratification or nullification of the presidential election.

No Funds in the Treasury.

The fact that the national treasury is practically empty is not hidden even from the most ignorant peons in the city, and the measures recently adopted to obtain funds have been such as are calculated to remove any doubt remaining.

Special taxes have been imposed and the taxing of articles imported by parcel post is being discussed. Silver is scarce and it is feared that the launching of one peso and two-peso paper bills throughout the republic will not serve to restore general confidence in the banks.

Army Levy Terrorizes.

The number of General Huerta's soldiers is not known, but the last official report gave eighty thousand. The campaign of drafting has added, according to unofficial statements at the palace, thirty thousand.

But it is certain that no such number is under arms, as the government has had difficulty for some time in obtaining arms. Men are more plentiful than arms, and General Huerta is looking forward anxiously to the receipt of rifles purchased abroad.

Foreigners Arming for Defense.

From the Austrian legation there was sent out today to all Austrians a circular urging them to co-operate with the Germans and other European colonies in organizing for defense.

President Attends Bull Fight.

General Huerta attended the bull fight today, accompanied by only two members of his staff, but guarded by a score of detectives, the president entered the bull ring, where twenty thousand persons had gathered to see Goena, Mexico's great matador, open the season.

The wound in Dr. Knabe's throat could have been inflicted only by a person familiar with the human anatomy as it was a wound known to butchers as the "sheep nick" and described medically as being "an incision in the throat which insures death by bleeding without the spurting of blood," according to Webster.

WHAT IT THINKS.

"What does The Mining Journal think of the MacDonald resolution?" A Marquette county mining man asked Saturday.

It was a big question, one difficult to answer within the limits of a short article, but perhaps The Mining Journal can indicate briefly the nature of its reply.

"What does The Mining Journal think of the MacDonald resolution?" For one thing, it believes that if it is a good thing now it would have been a much better thing four months ago.

"The Mining Journal has all along been of the opinion that the legislators, both in the state and the nation, who have been giving form to demands for inquiries have been getting the cart before the horse.

"The Mining Journal believes, with Representative MacDonald, that workmen have a right to have some voice in determining the conditions under which they shall labor and the wages that they shall be paid.

"The Mining Journal believes that sweeping changes are to be made in our social and economic structure within a few years. It believes that the principles suggested by the general term 'social justice' are to receive more and more attention, and that a method of composing industrial disputes that will work out with reasonable satisfaction to the employing interests and to labor alike will be hit upon.

"The Mining Journal believes that the effective adjustment of labor difficulties with justice to both parties involved, inquiries by government agencies must at this time, in most cases, be abortive and productive of more mischief than good.

paign. The time is ripe for a new deal, and some able man who is known simply as a real Republican should have a chance to sweep the party into a glorious victory. There are several persons mentioned for the governorship whose nomination would invite the defeat of the party. These should be shelved early in the game."

Mr. McCombs expresses a belief that the Democrats will have the Republicans to reckon with in 1916. Here, it appears, is another man who believes that the Republicans will so arrange their family affairs that it will be possible for Colonel Roosevelt to consider their endorsement.

When Mr. Taft and President Wilson and his advisers differ on the Philippine problem the country will be sure to notice that the Philippines were one specialty in which Mr. Taft was always conceded an all round expert knowledge.

There remain but five more days for debate of the proposals of the new charter. So tune up your pipes, gentlemen.

Very Easy. The late Charles H. Cramp, the Philadelphia ship builder, had little sympathy with socialism, and to illustrate the socialists' pigheadedness he used to tell a story.

Another example has been afforded in Chicago. Lectures on sex hygiene are a part of the high school curriculum there. The National League for Medical Freedom, desirous of spreading the propaganda, conceived the idea of sending printed copies of some of these lectures to the parents of the pupils.

Here we have the situation of a lecture being entirely proper when delivered before high school boys and girls, but forbiddingly bad when offered for transportation through the mails. And all this goes to show that the average federal official, high or low, fails to realize that laws are meant to suppress evil and not to harass those who commit no wrong.

It all the world loves a lover it adds thereto a tincture of admiration when the lovers are of royal status. King Alfonso and his British spouse are an engaging couple. Their marriage was a romance, as royal marriages go, and their wedded life has been, in the view of the world, an exemplification of what a royal marriage can be when the contractors are personally fit for the responsibilities and the joys of domesticity.

Chicago woman wants a divorce because her husband dreamed of his first wife, who is dead. Really, this seems to be running jealousy into the ground.

Philadelphians are getting enterprising. It urges the shippers of Christmas packages to get them in the parcel post ahead of the "do your Christmas shopping early" development.

Mr. Taft at it Again. Mr. Taft was at his worst in his address last night in Brooklyn. He was in the mood when he fears lest an axe be laid at the root of the tree of liberty.

A CANADIAN DYNASTY. Some Canadian and British newspapers, notably the Montreal Telegraph and the London Times, are seropiously discussing the establishing of a permanent dynasty in Canada.

Best in the House. James E. Martine, the effervescent United States senator from New Jersey, likes a joke, and he doesn't mind the least bit if it is on himself.

Obedied the Instructions. A German took out his first naturalization papers. As he was about to leave the courtroom he was observed to scan very closely the official envelope in which had been inclosed the document that was to assist in his naturalization.

He Made Good. He was a bright young office boy, and in the dim future saw himself sitting in the manager's chair.

hereditary would lessen rather than increase its dignity. But the idea of loyalty is still very strong in Canada, and a scheme of this kind might further strengthen it by appealing to Canadian vanity.

There is no doubt that at least some of the people of this country would be more comfortable for the exercise of a little intelligent discretion in the enforcement of the federal laws.

THREE SMALL BOYS ACCUSED DEPUTIES GO ON TRIAL TODAY

Shocking Fatality Occurs When a Landslide Buries Youths at Painesdale.

Three small boys at Painesdale were buried under a landslide and instantly killed in a fall on the Copper Range railroad at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The unfortunate youngsters were: PAUL DAUME, ten years old; JAMES RENALDI, ten years; JOHN ISKRA, six years.

Their only companion was Harold Daume, twelve years of age, brother of Paul. He was not injured and was the only witness of the accident.

Paul and Harold Daume, sons of Peeter Daume; James Renaldi, son of Peter Renaldi; and John Iskra, son of Starik Iskra, all of Painesdale, were playing in a ravine on the line of the Copper Range railroad's new extension between Painesdale and Toivola.

When the frightened child got out of the culvert and had climbed the bank he could not see his playmates. He could see the other end of the culvert had disappeared under a drift of sand. He ran home to Painesdale and gave the alarm.

As soon as the news was known a big crowd of Painesdale men grasped their miners' shovels and hurried to the fill. They had to work nearly an hour before the bodies were uncovered.

This is one of the most regrettable accidents of the year in the copper country. It was a pure accident. The best engineering practice had been followed in filling the ravine and the only possible way of having prevented it was to have kept the boys away from the culvert, a precaution naturally remote in the circumstances.

MURDER CASE ARISING FROM THE SEEBERVILLE TRAGEDY HAS SIX DEFENDANTS.

Thomas Raleigh, James Cooper, William Groff, Arthur Davis, Harry James and Edwin Polkinghorne will be placed on trial in the Houghton county circuit this morning on a charge of murder in the second degree.

The other case will be that against George Briski and Luka Plese, charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff James Pollack on Oct. 8.

Whether Raleigh and his companions will elect to be tried jointly or separately has not been announced yesterday. At the time the indictments were returned it was stated that they would demand separate trials. It is not now believed they will follow this course.

The six defendants are "deputy sheriffs," a term promiscuously applied to Sheriff Cross's deputies, various mine guards and the employees of the Waddell & Mahon corporation.

Many sensational occurrences grew out of the strike, but none was more startling than the battle in which Tjian and Putrich were killed at Seeberville. These were the first deaths in the strike.

John Kollan and Joseph Pashquan, striking miners from the Champion mine, living at Seeberville, had been at South Range during the day, Aug. 14, collecting their strike benefits.

Up to noon, the close of business in the Houghton county clerk's office, on Saturday, County Clerk Kaiser had sold thus far this season 1,425 deer licenses. The number exceeds the total sale for the season of 1912 by four and the excess probably will be greater by the close of the season, next Sunday.

It was believed, in advance of the season's opening, that the number of deer licenses sold this fall would be low in comparison with that of 1912. The strike was offered as an explanation.

Markets. Coppers continued Saturday to sag with only small selling. Stop orders were caught in Copper Range and resulted in a point decline. Granby was strong but dull.

SCHOOL SURVEY PROPOSED.

Research Committee of U. P. Educators Has Revolutionary Plan.

Superintendent John A. Doelle of the Houghton public schools, president of the Upper Peninsula Educational association, returned Saturday from Ishpeming, where he attended on Friday a meeting of the research committee of the association.

The committee has decided to undertake a survey of the upper peninsula schools from a layman's standpoint.

It is believed this is the first survey of the kind ever attempted in the United States.

Discovery of Knife Dated 1257 a Nebraska Archaeologist Thinks Proves It.

Stanton, Neb., Nov. 23.—A rusty, roughly made old knife blade, bearing the date "1257," and dug from an Indian mound near Sulphur Springs, Ark., by Charles H. Hebler a druggist of that city, has given Thomas W. Barton, an archaeologist of Stanton, the last link in a chain of proof showing that a shipment of Welshmen visited the southwest 200 years before the discovery of America by Columbus and were assimilated by the Indian tribes of New Mexico and Arizona.

Barton, who has the old Welsh knife at his home in Stanton, has spent more than a dozen years among the Zuni, Moqui and other Indians of the south-west, studying their traditions, habits, language, etc. The old knife blade, which came into his possession some time ago, was so heavily encrusted with sulphur that it was almost an inch thick. When this was removed, the iron blade remained and the date "1257" is easily discernible.

NEW FAD AT SOCIETY WEDDINGS.

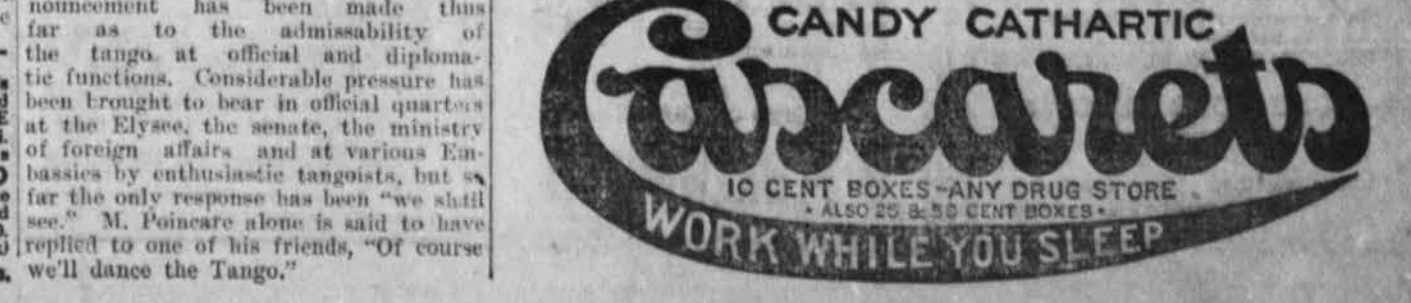

An interesting custom has been introduced at some of the more recent Parisian society weddings. Gifts of 500 bulky a nature to be displayed on the tables at the reception, are represented among the presents by reproductions in miniature of the bride's wedding.

ENORMOUS SUMS GIVEN IN TIPS.

A painstaking statistician has estimated that tips of one kind and another paid daily in Paris to waiters, janitors, cabmen and the thousand and one others whose income is largely derived from this source, amount to $41,000, or nearly two cents per head of population. In the provinces, however, it is calculated that this expenditure amounts to only about half a cent per person per day.

Rheumatism
A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It

In the spring of 1895 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried every remedy, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-sought-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

City Brevities

Today's weather. Fair, somewhat colder.
Yesterday's temperatures: Seven a. m., 34 degrees; noon, 42; 7 p. m., 40. Highest, 46 degrees; lowest, 34.

Howard Lally, of Ishpeming, spent yesterday visiting friends here.
Charles Soderman, of Ishpeming, spent yesterday visiting Marquette friends.
Miss Kate Garmy, of Munising, was in the city visiting friends over the weekend.

George P. Shiras went to the White camp at Deerton, over the weekend, to hunt deer.

The Naval Reserves will meet this evening at the boathouse, to secure the boats for the winter.

Frank Chamberlain left last evening for Fiborne, near the Soo, where he has accepted a position with the South Shore railroad.

Peter Donovan and Dolph Paris arrived home yesterday from a hunt in the Big Bay district. They each brought in two deer.

A moving picture entertainment was given at the Marquette prison yesterday afternoon by Manager Woodruff, of the Grand.

The highest velocity attained by the wind here yesterday was twenty-seven miles an hour, from the southwest, at 6:20 o'clock p. m.

A special meeting of the Superior live, L. O. T. M. M., will be held tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Dan Kough, 121 North Fifth street.

Miss Jennie Young, who formerly conducted a millinery store here, left last evening for Fostoria, O., to spend the winter with her parents.

M. K. Reynolds arrived home yesterday morning from Cleveland, where he attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, the late J. M. Pickands, last Thursday.

Mrs. Nels Flodin left last evening for Minneapolis and St. Paul to visit friends and relatives for two weeks. At Minneapolis Mrs. Flodin will visit Mr. and Mrs. Fredlund, formerly of this city.

Lawrence Jacobs, formerly bookkeeper here with Paine, Webber & Co., left last evening for Eveleth, Minn., where he has accepted a position with the Oliver Mining company, and where he now expects to make his home.

The fine weather yesterday brought out more automobiles than had been seen about the city since the early part of the month. The traffic between Marquette and Ishpeming was heavy. With the exception of the roads within the Negaunee city limits, which are muddy, the highway is in fine condition.

At The Opera House—The Hendrix Belle Isle company, consisting of seven persons, presenting a comedy sketch, "The schoolmaster," will be the vaudeville attraction at the opera house the first half of the week.

Funeral to Be Held Today—The funeral of Jack Sherwood, son of M. H. Sherwood, whose death occurred in Mesa, Ariz., early last week, will be held this afternoon from the home, on East Arch street. The services will be private. Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood arrived home yesterday morning.

Has New Herdsman—F. H. Vandenberg, proprietor of the Marquette City Dairy, has procured the services of Martin Christenson, as head herdsman. Mr. Christenson is a native of Denmark. He graduated from one of the leading agricultural colleges of that country, and he has been employed at dairies in Iowa for the last two years.

Mother Thecla Improved—Yesterday the condition of Mother Thecla, the superior of the sisters at St. Mary's hospital, was reported greatly improved, and it is now believed that she will recover. She was very low Saturday morning, as a result of a badly congested condition of her lungs, and it was feared for a time that she would not survive.

Charter Workers Active—Yesterday was a day for conferences among men who are interested in the pending fight over the proposed commission charter. A session of the "ants" was held at the city hall, and a meeting of supporters of the charter convened at Bureau's hall. It is expected that the growing interest in the issue will result in the polling of a considerable vote the coming Saturday.

Veteran Nimrod Is Successful—There may be a few hunters in the class of Alex McKinnon, the janitor of the Hargrave flats, but there are not many of them. Mr. McKinnon's years are four score and one over, but this didn't prevent him from having a successful hunt last week in the vicinity of Au Train. He arrived home Saturday, and he brought with him two deer to show that a man of eighty-one years can take his place even with the most successful of the young hunters.

Contract Awarded—The park, cemetery and street commission has let a contract for the construction of an eight-inch tile sewer in Second street, from Fair avenue to the north line of Hena-tite street, to Eric J. Johnson at eighty-three cents a foot. The job is a small one, as the proposed sewer will be but 230 feet in length. The commission will advertise for bids on the material for the proposed Carp river bridge, and expects to construct it with its own workmen, having tabled the bids on the completed job that were recently received.

Thanksgiving Aid Planned—The Visiting Nurse association will this year distribute Thanksgiving dinners to needy families, in accordance with the usual custom. The officers are now planning the work. They will appreciate gifts of food for the baskets, and request that they be sent to the L. S. & I. offices tomorrow morning, they having procured a room there that will be used in the work of packing the baskets. The officers have a large list of worthy families to whom they desire to send generous dinners, and they will appreciate an immediate response to this call.

Decorations Completed—The decorations for the annual ball to be given by the Marquette fire department Thanksgiving eve in Fraternity Hall were completed yesterday afternoon. The ideal orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music. At 11 o'clock the entire party will go to the Clifton Hotel dining room, for dinner. Mrs. Sullivan, proprietor of the hotel, has not yet announced the menu and the firemen are depending on her judgment, because for the last decade or more Mrs. Sullivan has served the firemen's suppers and they know that the supper this year will be high class in all respects.

Deitz Family Pictures—Motion pictures showing the siege of the Deitz farm at Cameron Dam, Wis., with Leslie Deitz here in person to explain them, will be the feature attraction at the Grand theater this afternoon and evening. The matinee will commence at 2:45 o'clock and the evening performance at 7:15. Members of the Deitz family take part in the pictures, which were taken at the scene of the tragedy. No slides will be shown in connection with the affair.

HAVE ARRIVED AT TEXAS.

Mrs. Ellis and Son Earl Unable to Finish Long Trip by Canoe.

Mrs. J. H. Ellis, wife of Rev. Mr. Ellis, formerly assistant pastor of the Episcopal church, and son, Earl, who left Gwin Sept. 17, intending to make the trip to New Orleans in a seventeen-foot canoe, were forced to give up the attempt at Rock Island, Ills., because of the heavy weather and the fact that navigation on that part of the Mississippi river had closed for the winter. They finished the trip to Greenville, Tex., their destination, by rail, arriving there last Sunday.

During the heavy gale Nov. 8, 9 and 10, Mrs. Ellis and Earl were in camp on the shore of the Mississippi, but they did not suffer any ill effects. All through the trip, from the time they left Gwin, they were hampered by unfavorable winds, which made travel difficult at all times, and often impossible. When they reached Rock Island they found that the last ship had left for the South and that the range lights had been taken up and the channel boys were being gathered in.

Mother and son traveled more than two thousand miles by canoe, and had there been any chance whatever that they could have finished the trip to New Orleans they would have done so. But even with the range lights and channel buoys still in the river, the trip would have been hazardous, and, without them, too dangerous.

At no time during the canoe ride did either Mrs. Ellis or her son suffer any illness—not even a cold.

Mr. Ellis has taken up missionary work at Greenville.

SEVERE STORM IN TEXAS.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 23.—Heavy rains over north Texas on Saturday have caused damage to property at several points and aroused apprehension of floods. At Abilene, a large water company dam went out, and at Ballinger, where the precipitation was four inches, the power station was put out of commission and the pumping station flooded, cutting off the city's light and water supply. Four inches of rain fell at San Angelo. At Denton, the Trinity river was reported flooding much low-lying territory.

AMERICAN WARSHIPS PRAISED.

PANAMA WATERWAY A BOON TO GERMANY

More Than Any Other Foreign Nation, It Expects to Profit—Shipowners Preparing.

Berlin, Nov. 23.—Germany, above all other foreign nations, expects to profit by the opening of the Panama canal. Maritime experts here point out that while the United States naturally will receive the greatest advantage, owing to its lack of ships it will not be in a position to profit by the great increase in the carrying trade which the German shipowners have foreseen and prepared for.

Orders placed by three of the leading German companies for new vessels designed particularly for service by way of Panama, large increases of capital stock by the same companies, and the announcement that the four big lines now running to the Orient, Australasia and the Pacific coasts of north and South America will be diverted to pass through the canal as soon as it is open to commerce, speak plainly of the importance attributed in this country to the new waterway.

German authorities say that the effect of the opening of the canal will manifest itself chiefly in a great commercial boom in western Canada and the Pacific coast states, from which shipping interests generally will profit; in increased freights as a result of the opening of hitherto undeveloped or slightly developed states on the western coast of South America; in the diversion and expansion of the streams of European emigration to regions on the Pacific coast well suited to settlement but of which the European emigrant, hitherto has had slight knowledge; and, finally, in the opportunity offered to the industries of the United States to compete under highly favorable conditions in the markets of the Orient, western South America, Australia and New Zealand.

Count zu Reventlow's Views.

Though reluctant to venture definite prophecies, in view of the divergence of expert opinion, Count Ernst zu Reventlow, the well-known German naval writer and student of American conditions, reviewed the subject recently, as follows: "There is no doubt but that the United States will derive the greatest benefit from the canal. Furthermore, there will follow great changes in existing American trade conditions. The most important result, from the German standpoint, is that the American East and the American West will be brought much nearer to each other. The distance between San Francisco and New York will be shortened more than 8,000 miles.

"The west of the United States will experience a strong business and commercial development. The immigration from Europe will probably turn itself far more than before to the Pacific coast, now that the immigrants are not deterred by the expense of the railroad journey from New York. That separation of the East from the West of the United States existing up to the present in the business field will gradually disappear, making the United States a commercial and business whole and in this way much stronger. San Francisco will lose its present importance for the East-Asiatic trade but in return score a great gain through its new position in the trade with the western United States and with the western states of South America. Here, on the greatest importance of the canal for the United States, and this importance will manifest itself not only economically but probably in the political field as well.

"The canal will make the United States a very dangerous competitor of all nations that engage in commerce with the South American and Central American states, for its position will become, through the canal, even more favorable than it was. The same is true as to the East and Australia. The canal will also prove the strongest competitor of the American railroads.

"The canal will bring an interesting political importance to the West Indies and the Tonga islands, which are owned by Great Britain, France and Denmark. In so far as these islands already possess harbors, their importance will be augmented, either as maritime bases or as ports of call, and their economic positions and their commerce will be greatly increased. It is possible, too, that this development may create new political constellations and thereby give occasion for international friction.

Yellow Tide to Flow in New Direction.

"One cannot yet say what the plans of the great shipping companies will be. Naturally these companies will keep their plans secret as long as possible. A very important factor for the United States, and, indeed, for all America, is, in my opinion, the immigration from China and Japan. One cannot deny that the Panama canal will divert this immigration to the eastern part of the American continent, whereas it has heretofore been chiefly confined to the west. Here, too, the purely economic significance of the canal is complicated with an earnest political factor, and the issue which has heretofore been known only as the 'California question' will make itself known in the East. Possibly the yellow population of the Hawaiian islands will increase still more rapidly for these islands will undoubtedly enjoy an immense benefit from the Panama canal.

"So far as Germany is concerned, the main significance of the canal for our shipping interests lies in the fact that it will make it possible to reach the West in a far shorter period of time. Commerce between the German harbors and San Francisco will increase as soon as the necessary vessels are available. German industry will, in all likelihood, gain a new and very fruitful market in the West. In like manner, importation of the products of the American West into Germany will increase. Trade between the German harbors and the western harbors of South America, already of ever growing proportions, cannot fail to be greatly increased. German East Asian services will probably be run as extensions of the lines to the Pacific coast. In other respects, however, the Suez canal will continue to be the shortest and most advantageous route for German ships plying to East Asia and India, and only where the German East Asian and German West American lines can be linked up to advantage will the Panama canal come into consideration as a route between German and East Asian harbors. Which route would be the more advantageous can be determined in each case only by experience.

Germany a Big Beneficiary.

"All in all, it can be said that the Panama canal will be highly advantageous to German commerce, but it signifies by no means a reversal of conditions or a new epoch for the German maritime industry. On the other hand, the canal will have none of the economic or other drawbacks for Germany, which it will have for other nations, for example, Great Britain and Japan.

"The full economic significance of the Panama canal will make itself apparent only gradually. At first we may expect a hot competition between a number of steamship lines. The survivors will have the commerce in their hands. Only the fittest will survive. Apparently all the great steamship companies of the world are preparing for this battle.

"Facing as it does both oceans," concludes Count Reventlow, "the United States will profit doubly from the opening of the canal connecting them, but it needs above all, to take advantage of this, ships and lots of them. The Pacific, however, will never become the rival of the Atlantic, an ocean of equal importance. The world and its commerce will continue to center around the Atlantic, the commercial center of gravity will never be moved to the Pacific, though a second center may be created there. In my opinion the most important results of the canal will be manifested in the political consequences which will ensue when the business worlds, the industrial life of the East and West, the North and South of the American continent are drawn nearer, perhaps even joined firmly into an economic whole."

RUSSIANS EXPECT RULE BY EMPRESS

St. Petersburg, Nov. 23.—With the tsar's only son, a hopeless cripple and believed slowly dying with tuberculosis of the bones, and with the ruler of Russia hopelessly at odds with grand duke Michael Alexandrovich, his brother, it is becoming known throughout the country that an empress may be the next ruler. She will be "Empress Olga," now eighteen years old.

Czar Nicholas has long since given up hope that his son will ever be able to do anything toward taking his place upon the Russian throne, and has turned to his daughter.

The breach between the czar and the grand duke, who would be the next successor, was caused by the marriage of the grand duke to a woman not of noble blood.

The only thing that is said, that will change the czar's determination to make Olga his successor instead of letting the throne of Russia go to any one of the grand dukes, is the birth of a son. The czarina is now living in the royal summer home in Livadia.

Nobility's Opposition.

There is but a single legal obstacle in the way. Czar Paul, who hated his mother, Catherine the Great, made a law against any woman occupying the throne. But the law which Czar Paul has proclaimed can easily be repealed by Czar Nicholas. The graver problem is the intense opposition which the naming of Olga as heir will arouse among the grand dukes.

Interest in the next occupant of the Russian throne likewise is keen in government circles of nearly all European countries. It is especially keen in England. Grand Duchess Olga, the czar's oldest daughter, whom he is now planning to make heir to the throne, is much more English than she is Russian.

The question asked by those interested in Russian affairs is this: Should Grand Duchess Olga become empress of Russia, will she cut loose from the grand dukes that have been keeping Russia back, and rule independently?

The last empress Russia had, Catherine the Great, was among the strongest rulers that country has seen. There was much cruelty under Catherine. Her personal and family relations supplied plenty of gossip. But as a ruler she stands perhaps next to Peter the Great. It was the pride of Peter the Great that he had introduced Europe to Russia. Prior to his reign Russia was extremely oriental in its civilization. Peter the Great let in considerable European light and civilization into the confines of the Russian empire.

Of Catherine the Great it is said that she completed the work of Peter the Great by introducing Russia to Europe. She forced the western world to reckon with the Slav empire as one of its great neighbors.

Olga Another Catherine.

Will Grand Duchess Olga, if she becomes queen, become another Catherine? Will she wake Russia out of its restless slumber and finally usher in those reforms, economic as well as political, which are by this time established institutions in England, France and Germany? That is what is agitating statesmen and journalists in the empire of the czar.

The interest in possible succession of a woman to the throne of Russia was quickened recently by a series of sharp clashes between the czar and his nearest blood relatives. The severest of these clashes took place between Emperor Nicholas and the Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovich, his only brother. It is Michael who is the legal successor to the throne. Only the other day, Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovich took up his residence in England.

Judging by the atmosphere in the czar's household, Olga is no stranger to sadness and tragedy. Her mother, the czarina, who was Princess Alix of Hesse is said to be the most unhappy woman that ever wore a crown. Since her marriage to Nicholas the Second, on Nov. 26, 1894, she has not had a happy day. She has never felt safe for a moment. There was not a day but that the secret police unearthed plots on the part of revolutionists to exterminate the royal family, or as many members of the royal family as they could possibly lay hands on. Grand Duke Sergius, one of the czar's favorite brothers, and for whom the czarina had a deep attachment, was assassinated before her eyes. Ministers of state fell before the revolutionists. The czar himself had narrow escapes from death on a number of occasions, one of these being when he attended a state function, and when a hail of bullets aimed at him passed only a few inches above his head.

The Czarovitch Alexis was born on July 30, 1904. The joy which the birth of an heir to the Russian throne brought was soon darkened, however, for the czarina by a series of national and international events which made Russia the storm center of the world. The war with Japan, which was declared Feb. 12, 1904, only a few months prior to the birth of the heir, took a disastrous turn. Then came the revolution, when for weeks and weeks it looked as if the czar might have to abdicate or flee from Russia. Before the czarvitch was one year old an attempt was made to assassinate him.

Since then the attempts on the czarvitch have been numerous. Little that is authentic comes out from the royal palace with regard to these attempts. It is known, however, that the czarvitch had far more enemies among the czar's own family than among revolutionists. A little over a year ago the czarvitch finally was caught off guard and was seriously injured. The extent of his injuries has been withheld from the world.

WOMAN'S DANGER PERIOD

It is said to be from 45 to 50. What should be a most natural change in a woman's life, is, on account of modern methods of living, fraught with most annoying and painful symptoms. Women when passing through this critical period should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has proved wonderfully successful in carrying women safely through the change of life.

Schools Close, Pending Vaccinations.

Owing to an epidemic of smallpox in a mild form in the city, it was deemed advisable at Manhattan last week to adjourn school for a few days and, accordingly, the scholars were dismissed until today and were also advised that vaccination was absolutely necessary. While the epidemic is by no means beyond control, this precaution on the part of the directors and the management of the school was considered timely.

Son an Invalid, Czar Is Said to Mean to Make Daughter His Successor.

TURIN BOY IS FATAALLY SHOT

Eight-Year-Old Son of Albert Pomeroy Victim of "Playing Hunter" With His Father's Forty-Four Rifle, Which Was Accidentally Discharged Saturday.

Bullet Penetrated His Heart, Causing Instant Death—Gun Had Been Used for Hunting and Was Left Standing in the House With Cartridges in Magazine.

Marquette county officials were Saturday informed of a tragic accident, in which an eight-year-old son of Albert Pomeroy, was killed by a shot from a forty-four calibre rifle owned by his father. It occurred about 7 o'clock in the morning, and the little chap's death was instant.

The shooting followed an attempt of the little victim to play hunter. The family had just arisen and Mrs. Pomeroy was preparing breakfast. The rifle stood in a corner, where Mr. Pomeroy had placed it the previous evening, on his return from a hunt. There was no cartridge in the barrel, but several were carried in the magazine.

Playing about the room, Clayton aimed the gun, ran up to it and grasped it with the announcement that he was going to "play hunter." He had often seen his father manipulate the gun and on threw the lever that operates the mechanism of the magazine, brought it up again and forced a cartridge into the barrel.

Here a somewhat older boy took the rifle from Clayton, placed it over his knee and sought to allow the hammer to fall lightly so that the cartridge would not be exploded. Clayton was directly in front of the muzzle of the gun, watching the operation with interest. When the hammer slipped, there was the crash of the report, and a death sigh from the little chap, who sank lifeless to the floor.

The bullet inflicted an ugly wound, it having entered the left side, directly under the arm, passed through the heart and out of the body, finding lodgment in the door frame. The mother, a few steps away, rushed to her boy's side only to find him quite dead, while the older brother was terror stricken at the sight. Mr. Pomeroy feared when he heard the report that some accident had happened and he rushed to the room to find the mother and brother wailing over the dead boy.

Little Clayton was known and well-liked throughout the settlement and his death caused general grief. Social functions that had been arranged for Saturday night were postponed as a mark of respect, and everything that could be done to aid the frantic parents was done. The funeral will be held this afternoon. Coroner Prin visited the Pomeroy home, but after an inquiry decided that an inquest would not be necessary.

Hunting Accidents Many.

While the death of the Pomeroy boy is the first one in Marquette county this year that can be even indirectly ascribed to the dangers incident to the deer hunting season, other parts of the district have not been so fortunate and it is expected that some accident involving fatalities and serious accidents will exceed that of any other year, despite all the efforts that have been made to teach the necessity of great caution in the woods and in handling fire arms about the camps. Several "thought-it-was-a-leer" accidents have been reported and in one that resulted fatally the man who fired the shot said he thought that the snow on the victim's foot was the tail of a deer. The hunter shot over a red coat and red cap.

DEATH OF MISS MERAULT.

Marquette Girl Passed Away Yesterday—Brother Died Four Months Ago.

The Old Charter Has Been Condemned. Shall the New Be Adopted?

The opponents of the commission system of city government agree that the system would be good if the right men could always be chosen as commissioners, but they argue that by the concentration of all power in five men, who are elected for long terms of office, commissioners may be elected who might be either (a) arrogant and disdainful of the demands of the people, or (b) corrupt. This might be true if the new charter did not in advance provide for a remedy for both of such conditions by its provisions for (a) the initiative and referendum and (b) the recall.

(a) Under the initiative and referendum the power of legislation is always in the hands of the people if their demands shall be ignored by the commission. If the commission shall fail or refuse to pass a needed ordinance, 5 per cent of the voters can compel them to submit such ordinance to the vote of the people at the next regular election, and if 20 per cent of the voters shall petition for the submission of such ordinance, a special election can be called for such purpose. If, on the other hand, the commission shall pass an ordinance which is considered as dangerous to the interests of the city, a petition of 20 per cent of the voters can cause such ordinance to be suspended until the next election, when the people shall then have the right to vote upon it and to declare whether it shall go into effect or not. We thus have a definite and certain remedy to take care of a commission which is arrogant and disdainful of the rights of the people.

(b) If, also, one or more of the commissioners are suspected to be corrupt, we have another effective remedy, i. e., the recall. Upon petition of 20 per cent of the voters, the question of the recall of such commissioner must be submitted and the vote of the people shall decide whether such official shall serve out his term or a better man shall take his place. It is argued that this provision would give every disappointed office seeker a chance to vent his spite and subject an honest commissioner to the injustice of an extra election. This injustice is guarded against by the large percentage of names which is required to be signed to the petition. We all know that 20 per cent of the voters of Marquette will not move to recall an official unless there appears to be good ground for their action.

FOUND LIFE BUOY FROM STR. WALDO

Boys at the Sosawagaming Club Will Save It as Relic of the Big Storm.

A life buoy marked "Str. Waldo" was found in the marsh at the Sosawagaming club near Big Bay by three of the boys at camp there Thursday. The buoy had been covered with snow and ice and was not revealed until after the thaw. Whether it is filled with seaweed instead of cork, as were, it is claimed, some of the other Waldo buoys picked up, is not known. It will not be cut open, but will be put in a glass case and hung in the dormitory building of the camp. The boys who found it are Robert M. Allan and Jules DeLestalle, of Davenport, Ia., and Philip Lascher, of Elgin, Ills. They are under the supervision of R. G. Franklin, who came to Marquette yesterday and reported the find.

Club Soon to Close.

The Sosawagaming club, popularly known as "The So So club," soon will close for the winter, and the campers will go to Fort Meyers, Fla., where a similar club is maintained. They will remain there until May 15, when they will probably return to Sosawagaming.

BLAMES DEATHS TO "TIN PAN" LIFEBOATS

Mate Says That These Craft on Lake Freighters Are Wholly Unseaworthy.

Following is a statement by Gordon Rattray, of Cleveland, first mate of the steamer H. P. Boppe, owned by Pickands, Mather & Company. Rattray carries a master's license, and has been a lake vessel mate for years. "Great Lakes freight vessels carry two lifeboats as a rule, sometimes three, and a life raft. Each boat is supposed to carry twenty men. That is the usual size boat. They swing on davits high above the water.

"Not one of these Great Lakes lifeboats is made with ribs. They are made of some sort of plate about one-sixteenth of an inch thick, that bends easily—like a galvanized iron pail. They are uncovered boats—not decked over in any way. Even if they didn't roll over or fill in a sea, men in them would be exposed to the freezing weather that accompanies a storm like the one which just cost so many lives.

"These boats are meant to carry twenty men, are inspected by United States government inspectors, and are supposed to be a means by which men may save their lives in a storm. "And I defy anyone to take fifteen men in one of these boats in a forty-mile breeze—that's moderate weather; the weather bureau would call it a brisk wind—and get anywhere in it. It would roll over and swamp.

"It would be impossible to lower one of these boats from the davits in a storm. One roll of the ship would smash the lifeboat like a tin pan and it would be lowered. The chances are one in 100 against ever getting one of them into the water in a heavy gale. "The loss of lives in the recent disastrous storm is an example of how much these boats amount to. As an experienced sailor, I declare that 75 per cent of the lives lost might have been saved if the destroyed ships had been equipped with lifeboats which could be lowered or which could be kept afloat and right side up after being lowered.
