

ITALY'S CHANGE NOW OR NEVER VIEW OF PAPERS

Articles in Petrograd Publications Declare Austria Is Doomed, and Would Rather Cede Galicia to Russia Than Give Trent and Istria to Government at Rome.

When Vienna Begins to Negotiate for Peace, It Is Pointed Out, Neutrals Will Find It Most Difficult to Intervene—Italian Army Ready for Mobilization.

Rome, via Paris, March 25, 7:48 p. m.—Certain warnings appearing in Russian newspapers, after the announcement of the fall of the Austrian position at Przemyśl, have attracted the close attention of Italians.

The Birgevia Viedomosti, of Petrograd, says the capture of Przemyśl is as important as would be the fall of Constantinople. Austria is doomed, this paper declares, and she will be obliged to sue for peace.

The Petrograd Courier says the fall of Przemyśl means that neutrals must act now or never.

The Messenger has published an article regarded as inspired, which intimates that Italy cannot gain her desires by an adherence to neutrality.

Italy Army Ready. London, March 25, 9:45 p. m.—A Rome dispatch dated March 24, received by the Central News agency by indirect route, says:

Everything is in readiness for a general mobilization of the Italian army. Seven complete classes are already under the colors.

The departure of Austrian and German families is reported from all parts of Italy. It is estimated that about three thousand persons of these nationalities have left Rome.

Rome, via Paris, March 25, 10:45 p. m.—The statement in the Russian newspaper Messagero, regarded as inspired, that "neutrality or friendly negotiations can accomplish nothing" in the present European situation, taken in conjunction with the increased military preparations, is accepted generally as presumptive evidence that Italy is approaching a moment when she is determined to pass from negotiation to action.

Germany is using her utmost endeavors to bring about an accord between Vienna and Rome, but that Austria would cede her Italian province to Italy and Transylvania to Rumania is held to be inconceivable.

Officially nothing has been made known of the policy of the government beyond the reiterated announcement that Italy must be prepared for eventualities. But the military preparations have been on a most extensive scale and if a blow is to be struck both army and navy are in a position to strike quickly.

Italy Buying Much Coal. Berne, Switzerland, via Paris, March 25, 9:47 p. m.—The Swiss railways are handling large quantities of German coal for Italy.

SIGNS IN FOES' TONGUES OVER SHOPS IN BERLIN ORDERED TAKEN DOWN. Berlin, via London, March 25, 10:30 p. m.—The chief of police has issued a notice to all the Berlin premises calling attention to the fact that trade marks, signs and inscriptions in English, Russian and French still remain on shop doors in Berlin, and ordering that all such signs be taken down by April 20.

SUBMARINE U-29, GERMANS' PRIDE, REPORTED SUNK

British Admiralty Announces Underwater Craft Has Gone Down With All Hands in the Bristol Channel—Vessel Was Horror of Shippers from All Nations.

Commander of Raider Directed Torpedoing of Three Cruisers, and Was Looked Upon as Kaiser's Most Daring Navigator—Dutch Steamer Sent to Bottom.

London, March 25, 10 p. m.—"The admiralty has good reason to believe that the German submarine U-29 has been sunk with all hands."

The admiralty, making this announcement tonight, gave no details of how or where the U-29 was sunk but reported that she was disposed of with a view to relieving shipping circles with a sigh of relief.

It was this vessel which, just a fortnight ago, torpedoed six steamers in Bristol channel and the Scilly islands within two days. Her commander, who spoke English perfectly, and treated the crews of the torpedoed vessels with great consideration, told one of the merchant captains who was taken aboard the submarine that he was the commander of the submarine which torpedoed the British cruisers Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue.

Dutch Steamer Sunk. Dover, March 25, 11:25 p. m.—The Dutch steamer Medea was sunk off Beachy Head this morning by the German submarine U-28. She carried a cargo of oranges and was bound for Saloniki for London.

The Medea was stopped by the submarine and crew were given fifteen minutes in which to leave the vessel. They did so and the submarine then fired several shots at the steamer, which remained afloat for an hour.

Ship Was Flying Her Own Flag. London, March 25.—Midnight. The admiralty, in reporting the sinking of the Medea by the U-28, says:

The ship was flying the Dutch flag and had a Dutch crew aboard. Her name, "Medea, Amsterdam," was painted in large letters on her sides. The ship's papers were taken by the Germans, who refused to return them.

Another Karlsruhe Story. New York, March 25.—German naval officers at Bremerhaven are quoted as authority for the statement that the cruiser Karlsruhe lies at the bottom of the sea in the West Indies, by Jesse Boyd, second officer of the American steamship Carib that was sunk by a mine in the North sea, which reached New York today from Rotterdam.

LADY PAGET A VICTIM OF TYPHUS IN SERBIA; NOT SURE OF IDENTITY. Berlin, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., March 25.—Lady Paget, chief of the British Red Cross mission in Serbia, is reported by a Serbian daily newspaper to have died from spotted typhus fever, according to a news item issued today by the Over-Sea News agency.

The only Lady Paget who has been mentioned in connection with relief work during the present war is an American-born woman, the wife of General Sir Arthur Paget, commander of the forces in Ireland. This Lady Paget was the daughter of the late Pagan Stevens, of New York.

Thought to Be Her Daughter. Lowell, Mass., March 25.—The Berlin dispatch telling of the reported death of Lady Paget, in Serbia, is believed here to refer to Lady Ralph Paget, a daughter of General Sir H. Paget, commander of the forces in Ireland.

MRS. SEARS MUST PAY $313,615 INHERITANCE TAX. Chicago, March 25.—An inheritance tax of $313,615.76 must be paid by Mrs. Anna L. Sears, widow of Richard W. Sears, according to an order entered today by Judge Perry Persons of the county court of Lake county.

$24,000 FINE IS IMPOSED ON MICHIGAN CENTRAL. Detroit, Mich., March 25.—The Michigan Central railroad was fined $24,000 in federal court today for failing to collect demurrage charges from the National Fireproofing company.

FEAR U. S. SUBMARINE IS LOST WITH CREW

Craft Submerged Early in Morning Located Late at Night in 120 Fathoms of Water.

BULLETIN. Honolulu, March 25.—Late tonight it was reported that the submarine F-4, which was submerged this morning, had been located, lying at a depth of 120 fathoms.

Honolulu, March 25.—The American submarine F-4, which was submerged at 9:15 a. m. today, two miles off Honolulu harbor, had not reappeared at nightfall, and grave fears were expressed for its safety.

Three other submarines of the "F" group, stationed here, the naval tug Navajo and launches were scouring the ocean for miles about the harbor entrance tonight in search of the missing vessel.

WITNESS REVEALS ONE OF THE TRICKS IN ELECTION FRAUD. Indianapolis, March 25.—Exploits of Joe Jeffers, so-called gunman, and his especially selected election board in the Taylorville precinct, were described this afternoon at the trial of the Terre Haute election fraud case.

ONLY ONE ATTACK BY GERMANS MENTIONED, AND THAT REPULSED. London, March 25, 10 p. m.—Russian victories are announced tonight in private telegrams received from Bucharest, by way of Rome.

Russians Resume Offensive. The Russians also have resumed the offensive in the region of the Pilica river, southern Poland and have, according to reports, captured several villages.

NICHOLAS LONGWORTH DENIES SIGNING CHECK FOR $1,000 FOR BELGIANS. Cincinnati, O., March 25.—A check for $1,000 bearing the name of Congressman Nicholas Longworth, received by the Cincinnati branch of the commission for the relief of destitute Belgians, brought considerable joy to the local members of the commission yesterday.

GIRL WHO ASKS $50,000 TO SOOTH HER HEART, HELD TO GRAND JURY. New York, March 25.—Miss Rae Tanzer, who filed a $50,000 federal suit against James W. Osborne, former assistant district attorney of New York, for alleged breach of promise to marry, was held today for the action of the grand jury on the charge of using the mails to defraud.

BECKER'S FATE IN HANDS OF COURT OF APPEALS. Albany, N. Y., March 25.—The fate of former Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, who twice has been sentenced to the electric chair for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, now rests with the court of appeals.

Big Bomb Found Near Paris. Paris, March 25, 12:30 a. m.—A large unexploded bomb, which had been dropped by a Zeppelin airship last Sunday, was found yesterday at Courbevoie, a mile and a half from Paris.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

The Russians have lost no time since the fall of Przemyśl in attempting their drive in the Carpathians to reach Hungary. They are striking their hardest blow on the eighty-mile front between Bartfeld and Uzok.

The British admiralty announces the end of the famous German submarine U-29, which had to its credit the sinking of several British steamers and the torpedoing of others.

Paris, March 25.—Colonel Francois Desclaux, former paymaster general in the French army, charged with stealing military stores, was convicted today and sentenced to seven years' solitary confinement and military degradation.

Mexico City, March 25.—The national convention has resumed its sessions in the national palace with Roque Gonzalez Garza presiding.

Washington, March 25.—How the American flag, which was flying over the home of John B. McManus, a citizen of the United States, in Mexico, was torn and dragged half way down the pole by Zapata soldiers when they murdered McManus and looted his house two weeks ago is told in dispatches from the Brazilian minister, made public today by Secretary Bryan.

Secretary Bryan said reparation for the insult to the flag had been asked for from the Zapata authorities, but that so far no reply had come.

National Convention Reconvenes. Mexico City, March 25.—The national convention has resumed its sessions in the national palace with Roque Gonzalez Garza presiding.

When the court-martial assembled last Monday to try the accused one corner of the court room resembled an armory storehouse. There were packages of coffee, tents, trophies of war, bird shells and helmets, making perhaps a ton of material.

Brussels, via London, March 25.—The Belgian town of Malines, Termonde, Louvain and Liege never will be rebuilt on their present sites if the undercurrent of discussion among prominent Belgians results in action when peace is made.

Brussels, via London, March 25.—Having received orders from the German governor general of Belgium to keep a close watch on carrier pigeons a zealous German commandant in a commune near Brussels, ordered the civil authorities to provide a census of all the pigeons in his district.

Washington, March 25.—Major George T. Langhorne, the army officer recently withdrawn from his post as military attaché of the American embassy at Berlin, has denied authorship of certain dispatches sent from Berlin to the war department signed with his name.

Published reports that false dispatches were connected with the transfer home of Major Langhorne were not commented upon by officials.

Washington, March 25.—Full confidence in the great body of calm people of the nation who serve as "stabilizers" when the excitable ones try to "rock the boat" in these perilous days was voiced tonight by President Wilson in an address before the Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in annual session here.

The president appealed to the nation for support in administering his office, saying: "If I can speak for you I am powerful; if I cannot, I am weak." He said it was possible for a people to be impartial "when a quarrel is one of parties." Referring to the danger to missionaries in some foreign lands, of which he said he had thought much of late, he added: "Wars will never have any ending, until men cease to hate one another, cease to be jealous of one another, get the feeling of reality in the brotherhood of mankind, which is the only bond that can make us think justly of one another and act righteously before God himself."

Tokio, March 26, 1:30 a. m.—An evidence of the unanimity of the nation on the Chinese question is the fact that the people have virtually ignored the election discussion.

Nish, Serbia, March 25, via London, March 26, 3:08 a. m.—The Oajik reports the discovery in Sofia, Bulgaria, of a conspiracy against the government. The newspaper says it is headed by a Bulgarian functionary named Papatansoff, who is regarded as the instigator of a recent outrage at a masquerade ball in Sofia, when a bomb was exploded, killing several persons and wounding others.

London, March 25, 7:45 p. m.—Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the American commission for relief in Belgium, who returned to London from Paris today, announced that negotiations for feeding 2,500,000 French civilians, who are behind the German lines, have been completed.

London, March 25, 10:35 p. m.—The Duchess of Brunswick, formerly Princess Victoria Louise, daughter of Emperor William, gave birth to a son this afternoon, according to a dispatch from Brunswick received by Reuters' Telegram company.

The marriage of Prince Ernest August, of Cumberland, and Princess Victoria Louise took place at Berlin on May 24, 1913. Their first son was born March 18, of last year.

DISPATCH TO LONDON SAYS MOSLEMS WANTED TO GIVE UP CAPITAL.

SHIPS PENETRATE STRAIT

LIGHT SQUADRON, IN SPITE OF STORM, LEARNS FORTS HAVE BEEN REPAIRED.

London, March 26, 2:50 a. m.—The Turks greatly fear a landing of the allied troops, says a dispatch to the Times from Tenedos, and have concentrated 48,000 men on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, and 10,000 men on the European side near Gallipoli.

Light Ships Enter Strait. London, March 26, 3:06 a. m.—Telegraphing Tuesday from Saloniki, the Daily Mail's correspondent says: "Notwithstanding the continuance of the gale, a light squadron today penetrated the Dardanelles as far as the mine zone and completed its reconnaissance without incident. The mine sweepers continue their work."

Travelers say that the Turks are forcing all Greeks to leave Prinkipo island, in the sea of Marmara, south of the Bosphorus, to prevent them from watching the operations in the sea of Marmara.

Say Turks Wanted to Give Up. London, March 25.—News from the Dardanelles is still meagre, mine sweepers, according to reports, making the only military activity.

The Evening Chronicle today published a dispatch from Bucharest to the effect that the Turkish government recently decided to surrender Constantinople and the Dardanelles to the attacking fleet. The American ambassador, Henry Morgenthau, was one of those named by the cabinet to go to the Dardanelles, to negotiate the surrender, according to this report.

Just as everything seemed settled the German general, Liman von Sanders, heard of the plan and nipped it with the threat of court-martial for all concerned," says the dispatch.

Dispatches based on stories of refugees from the Dardanelles say that the Turks suffered great losses during the bombardment of March 18, the last general attack of the allied fleet. The fortresses under attack are said to have been reduced in greater part. In Berlin it is reported that the allies lost 230 men and 134 officers.

Washington Heard Nothing. Washington, March 25.—If American Ambassador Morgenthau was selected as a peace emissary by the Turkish government to negotiate the surrender of Constantinople, as reported today, the state department has not been advised of the fact.

Missionaries Menaced; U. S. Inquires. Washington, March 25.—Continued reports of menace to lives of American missionaries and refugees at Erzurum, Persia, have aroused the activity of the state department here. Although but one official communication on the subject has been received, Secretary Bryan stated today that diplomatic and consular officers in Persia, Turkey and Russia have been apprised of the reported circumstances and requested for information.

Nothing was heard by the state department on the subject today from Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople. Telegrams and letters reaching Tiflis from Urmiyah, in northwestern Persia, describe the situation of the American missionary station there as desperate. Turkish regular troops and Kurds are persecuting and massacring Assyrian Christians. As a result of the war 20,000 Assyrians are dead or missing.

ANOTHER SON BORN TO KAISER'S DAUGHTER. London, March 25, 10:35 p. m.—The Duchess of Brunswick, formerly Princess Victoria Louise, daughter of Emperor William, gave birth to a son this afternoon, according to a dispatch from Brunswick received by Reuters' Telegram company.

The marriage of Prince Ernest August, of Cumberland, and Princess Victoria Louise took place at Berlin on May 24, 1913. Their first son was born March 18, of last year.

CENTRAL DELIVERY.

A delegation of merchants has returned to the copper country from Escanaba greatly impressed with the workings of the central delivery system there. They found that it has largely reduced the cost of delivery for the merchants and, as well, increased the efficiency of the service given the public. As every reduction in cost of doing business places the merchants in a position to increase their profits and at the same time enables them to make better prices, the ultimate effect on the cost of living—as well as on the ability of the local business men to meet outside competition—must be favorable. The copper country merchants are, therefore, certain it would be greatly to the advantage of both business and public in the copper country to take up a plan which has been so thoroughly proved to be good in Escanaba.

All this has a familiar flavor for Marquette readers. Some months ago a number of Marquette merchants visited Escanaba and brought back an identical report of the workings of the central delivery plan. Under a former regime in the Marquette Commercial club the matter was put up to the Marquette business men and we were informed through the newspapers that the proposal to organize a central delivery system here was well received. We were even told that certain signatures had been affixed to an agreement to go ahead with the plan. And then, kerpunk, the whole thing dropped out of sight.

The Mining Journal respectfully recommends to the directors of the Commercial club, which just now—owing to business stress and strain and certain other considerations of public knowledge—is making little progress toward vindication of its existence, renewed attention to this plan for conferring substantial benefit on Marquette business men and the Marquette public.

The plan is good. Escanaba has proved it and Marquette and copper country merchants have testified to it. No serious objection can be raised that cannot be contradicted by the experience of Escanaba. The possible savings are so great that the financial details of organization can have no real difficulty.

These things being true, wouldn't it be well for the officers of the C. C. to stop chasing rainbows for a time and turn their attention to this plan? Its successful introduction here would be the most valuable achievement yet to the credit of the Commercial club. And it would be worth the club's while to have such an achievement to point to.

WORTH WHILE.

According to the superintendent of schools a sufficient number of applications for work in the proposed summer school in manual training have been received to warrant the employment of an instructor. The board will, therefore, doubtless go ahead with the plan. It is well worth while, and it is to be hoped that the interest of the applicants will hold up, so that it will be a permanent fixture in connection with the Marquette schools. It has been introduced with success in other cities, and at Ishpeming the experiment of conducting school garden plots, worked by the boys during the summer under the direction of teachers, has met with no small measure of success.

The discipline of working, to some extent, while others are loafing should be good for boys. Too many youngsters are run through the school with little training for work, and little disposition for it, either. The old-fashioned boy or girl, who used to be found on the verge of a nervous breakdown because of over-devotion to books, is becoming a rare bird. More are cultivating the art of putting up a front with a minimum of effort. Education has been made so easy that no small amount of the old appreciation accorded it is lost. Perhaps it will help, some to continue the school discipline for a certain number of the boys through the summer months. There's no danger that they will be overtaxed by their continuity of effort.

THE REASON.

A subscriber writes The Mining Journal, apropos of the case of the disorderly character given sixty days in the county jail, with the proviso that at the end of the sixty he shall be banished from the county, that the kindly justice has provided for sixty days' board and lodging at the county's expense so that at the time of the banishment the offender will find the highways dry and the sun warm and reassuring, and thus will be able to undertake his pilgrimage to other fields under conditions that will make for his comfort. We hadn't thought of that, as the justice in question evidently did. His consideration, however, would be more impressive if he had to foot part of the bills.

"On to Cracow" is the newest rallying cry of the Germans. Hindenburg will have to spread himself out some more.

KILLED.

The bill proposing to allow breweries located in dry counties to be operated has been laid low by the house. It was a bill for which much could be said, for now the success of a local option fight in a county where a brewery is located simply ruins the brewing company in question so that other brewing companies in adjoining counties may profit. Experience has shown that the local demand for beer is well looked after from outside. Beer is shipped in by freight and express in quantities only limited by the market, and it costs no more delivered in the consumer's home than it did when the county was wet.

No wonder the man who has dropped money he invested in the local brewery rails at the inequity of the law, and little wonder that he goes to the legislature seeking relief. If these questions related to the major liquor issue were disposed of on the basis of hard common sense he would get it, but, unfortunately, commonsense is the exception, rather than the rule, with both the wets and the dries. The former allow their hugginess for the maximum advantage frequently to blind them to the ways of wisdom, and the latter are so devoted to the central principle of their fight that too often they appear impossible because of their fanaticism, and thus forfeit the support of more reasonable men who agree, in the main, with their contentions, but ask a broad constructive basis for the proposed work.

These latter are inclined to the view that if a certain amount of beer is to be sold in a dry county anyway, the local brewery might as well have its share of the business. But to the extreme dry advocates such a position appears a betrayal of the cause. They prefer to minimize the amount of beer that will be sold anyway, and to point the results of local prohibition as much more effective than they really are.

PAYING AMERICAN DEBTS.

The surplus of exports of merchandise over imports continues to be enormous. In one week of the present month it was at least $47,000,000. Final figures may raise it above that great sum. No offsets in the "invisible" trade balance can approach such a margin on the side of the United States. It wipes out the interest on American bonds and the dividends on American stocks owned in Europe. It completely dwarfs the expenditures of American tourists in the old world, especially since war conditions have ruled. By comparison, the freight paid to foreign steamship owners becomes a small item. The money sent to relatives and friends of foreign-born residents of the United States is as nothing when weighed against this huge export surplus.

If such trade with Europe continues there can be only one result. It must bring back to the United States great wealth in stocks and bonds and other securities held by foreigners. Warring nations cannot give up their gold and settle the immense American trade balance with the one international money metal of the world. They must sell American securities to Americans, and in vast amounts. This country is on the high road to the comfortable position of a creditor nation. Its tremendous exports are paying its foreign debts at an unprecedented rate.

"Billy" Sunday, in connection with the effort being made to get him to visit Chicago, asserts that in the cities he has been in he has had the co-operation of many Catholic laymen, and, on occasions, the endorsement of Catholic clergy. The reason for this, as he points out, is the fact that he is not laboring in the religious field for the benefit of any particular denomination. His effort, as he describes it, is to lead persons whose Christianity has become cold to active Christianity, and he makes no effort to direct them along this or that Christian path. And in this may not there lie part of the explanation of the tremendous effect of Sunday's appeal? May there not be a powerful and growing disgust with denominational brawling that in its most characteristic forms gives complete contradiction to Christianity?

The administration has no purpose of recognizing Villa, it is said. Villa has not yet sufficiently proved his ability to deliver. The dictator the administration will finally recognize must at least be able to maintain himself in Mexico City.

Menominee is going about its aldermanic election with all the vigor one would expect if there wasn't fair promise that it would secure a modern character.

EDITORIAL OPINION

The International Lawsuit.

The Hapsburg family estate, otherwise known as the empire of Austria-Hungary, is in litigation. Some of the claimants are already arguing their case with howitzers and layonets. Others profess themselves willing to settle—for a consideration.

"Give me Itria, the rock garden of Trent and that string of islands along your front doorway," says Italy, "and I'll be perfectly reasonable. Otherwise, I'd have you know that I'm the man who struck Billy Patterson, and if I ever take a punch at you, your friends won't even say you look natural."
 "If you let that big cousin of mine have anything, you've got to give me the Transylvanian farm," declares Roumania.
 "If you don't, I'll bite your ear off—and I've just borrowed $25,000,000 in London to sharpen my teeth with. You'd better hurry up and fork over before I get impatient."
 "Ya-a-a-a!" cries Serbia. "That's what you get for starting something when you don't know the finish. Now watch me put a fence around this Bosnian pasture that you stole a few years ago!"
 "See here," say the tenants in Bohemia, Moravia and elsewhere, "if you're going to quarrel with your neighbors all the time, and raise our rents to make up the expense, we'll just set up in business for ourselves. This is fair warning."

The moral seems to be that kinking it over fifteen or twenty unassorted countries "in the midst of covetous neighbors is a thankless and unprofitable job.—Chicago Journal.

Is Carranza Planning Flight?

There is a strong suspicion that General Carranza, who still clings to the title of provisional president of Mexico, is preparing for flight from that country. Dispatches from Vera Cruz, the present headquarters of the so-called Carranzistas, state that Carranza has lately been selling for gold large quantities of food and other supplies gathered by his troops at Mexico City and other places, and while it may be possible that Carranza is trying in this manner to raise the money necessary to continue his military operations, there also is a suggestion that Carranza has another and entirely different plan in view. When a Mexican "patriot" decides that it is time for him to take French leave it always has been customary to take along enough ready money to keep the wolf from the door and also afford a few luxuries. And if Carranza is planning to follow the example of Diaz, Huerta and some others, he naturally would arrange for it by doing the very things he now is said to be doing.

No far as this government is concerned it probably makes little difference whether Carranza goes or stays, or how much of a fund he gathers to serve as an old age pension for himself. Of course it might serve somewhat to simplify the Mexican tangle if Carranza pulls out, for it would leave one less factional leader to deal with, and perhaps even aid the Mexicans themselves to restore peace and order. Of course this is the real hope of this government, which has no interest or object beyond seeing an orderly government again restored in Mexico and the people of that country permitted again to take up the task of promoting national development and welfare. And Carranza can contribute to this desired end by effecting himself from Mexican politics, the sooner he takes this step the better it will be for all concerned, including, of course, this nation.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

There Also Are Others.

Sir Edward Grey cites as one of the dangers against which the Allies are contending the belief of the Germans that they are a superior people to whom all things are lawful and against whom resistance is unlawful and must be put down.

It is likely that a good many Germans would freely admit the correctness of Grey's diagnosis of the national feeling and from the British standpoint it does constitute a menace. But it is not a unique danger, as Grey seems to imply and as others have held more directly.

Every nation, that is or has been worth its salt, has possessed this conviction of superiority and Godgiven leadership in some degree or other. Indeed, the British nation can scarcely be accused of freedom from it, and there have been times in the history of the English have seemed to their opponents quite as great a world-menace as the pretensions of the Germans now appear to the Allies. The Jews possessed this belief in essential superiority to a high degree. And which among the races of mankind put on more "side" than the ancient Athenians? Where was arrogance more completely incarnate than among the Romans? The cultured Greek of the Byzantine empire thoroughly despised the remainder of the world. The Spaniard at the height of his glory was proud to oppressiveness and believed himself specially chosen to possess the new world and all he could get of the old. France, modern and medieval, and emphatically during such periods as the times of Richelieu, Louis XIV and Napoleon Bonaparte, imposed herself to the best of her ability on the remainder of civilization.

Napoleon narrowly missed a world empire; and even today the French language is much more the language of culture than German is the language of "kultur." And what indeed, is the spreadeagledness of the American people, what the oft-repeated assertion in the pulp and on platform that the United States is a chosen nation, but a manifestation of this same conviction of essential superiority and peculiar right to rule as much of the world as it is possible to gather in?

It is to be argued whether Sir Edward Grey is correct in his belief that the German arrogance must be curbed; the German quite as firmly believes the British menace needs to be destroyed. The only point we wish to make is that Germany has no monopoly of the feeling which causes a nation to class all outside its borders as inferior, and only to be tolerated until the peculiar star of its destiny has time to rise and shine over all else.—Detroit Free Press.

A LAUGH OR TWO

Putting It Plainly.

"Then you don't think I practice what I preach?" queried the minister, in talking with one of the deacons at a meeting.
 "No, sir; I don't," replied the deacon.
 "You've been preachin' on the subject of resignation for two years, an' ye haven't resigned yet."

One Meaning.

"He-I wonder what the meaning of that picture is? The youth and the maiden are in a tender titude."
 "She-O, don't you see? He has just asked her to marry him. Now see? What does the artist call the picture?"
 He (looking about)—Oh, I see—it's written on the card at the bottom—
 "Sold."

She Didn't See the Hen.

Mrs. X, relates that, while in London, she inquired in a shop if they had any fresh eggs.
 "Them with hen, plenty," said the clerk, to class all under "one" are fresh."
 "I don't see any with a hen on 'em," said Mrs. X, looking around for a nest.

Pleasant Surprise.

Lucille was a carefully-brought-up little girl of five, and she returned in high glee from her first party. "I was a good girl," she announced, "an' I talked nice all the time."
 "Did you remember to say something nice to Mrs. Applegate just before leaving?" asked her mother.
 "Oh, yes, I did," responded Lucille, "I smiled at her and said: 'I enjoyed myself very much, Mrs. Applegate. I had lots more to eat than I spected to have.'"—Christian Register.

The Attraction.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., since his appearance before the industrial relations commission, has been one of the most popular men in America.
 Mr. Rockefeller's life, indeed, has been made almost a burden to him of late by petitioners—petitioners with a vengeance, of course, but burdensome, for all that.

They are chucking at "28 Broadway" over a young man who visited Mr. Rockefeller last week. This young man, a graduate of a western university, said:
 "Mr. Rockefeller, it is plain that you have been greatly misunderstood. Now that your philanthropic ideas are better known, I venture to ask you—" And the young man explained, in high-low language, that he would like a Standard Oil job wherein, he could grow rich quick so that he, too, might aid in applying the downtrodden.

 Mr. Rockefeller, regarding the young man in his shrewd, quiet, calm manner, said:
 "You want some way of growing rich rapidly. It's not a bad idea. And you don't want riches for your own sake, but for the sake of what you can accomplish with them, eh? In other words it's the spending that attracts you?"

A Misleading Sign.

Mrs. Johanes was in search of a maid. She had been on the job for so long that she had ceased to be too particular in her requirements.

But even she got a shock at the sight of the latest applicant. The woman was shabby in dress, uncouth in manner and had distinct remains of a black eye.
 "Ahem!" coughed Mrs. Johanes, thoughtfully, wondering how much she dare ask from this belligerent-looking female. "Er—ahem—are you married?"
 The applicant drew herself up laughingly.
 "No, madam," she retorted, "I bumped into a door!"

Meant No Harm.

In a certain suburban home is a large green parrot with a reputation for loquacity; also a small-sized lad named Willie. One day mother heard a commotion that sounded like the parrot, and on cautiously investigating found Willie standing before the cage.
 "Willie," exclaimed mother as she entered the room, "what are you doing?"
 "Nothin'," was the ready rejoinder of Willie. "Jes' lookin' at the parrot."
 "Don't tell me a story, Willie!" said mother severely. "You were trying to teach that bird to swear?"
 "No, I wasn't mamma," stoutly averred the youngster. "I was only talkin' him what he musn't say."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

LOWER STATE NOTES

MUSKEGON—Officials of the Pyle Patent company announce the completion of a new plant, two stories in height, 50x100 feet, this summer. Campbell, Wynant & Cannon, foundry workers, have purchased the Muskegon Height plant of the Pyle people.

PORTLAND—Eighteen hundred maps on the Gibbs farm in this county have been tapped and the run of syrup has been found to be very light. The same condition has been found on the Tyler farm, where there are 900 maples.

OWOSSO—This city this week joined the ranks of the Michigan municipalities that can boast a "tinny bus" service. Leo Adams has put a seven passenger touring car into operation and says that if the business warrants it he will put another one into commission shortly.

OWOSSO—Friends of Mrs. Wayne Taylor, Owosso's feminine taxi-cab driver, claim that she was the first woman in America to operate a taxi-cab as her means of living. Mrs. Taylor has been at it since April 14, 1914, whereas a Detroit woman, for whom this distinction was claimed, did not begin driving until about a month ago.

GAYLORD—Osgo county is very rapidly coming into her own as a stock-raising and dairying community. Live-stock of excellent quality is steadily being added to the herds. Dorr D. Buch, prominent Elmira farmer and banker, has recently added ten head of registered young Holstein cows and four bull calves to his stock.

DETROIT—The will of the late Richard Hudson, former dean of the literary department of the University of Michigan, revealed that the bulk of the educator's estate was left to the university and to Harper hospital of this city. A fund of $75,000 was left to the University of Michigan's regents for the endowment of a professorship in history.

MANISTEE—A gun that "wouldn't work" nearly cost the life of Emil Cronquist when his brother, Ferdinand, picked it up and pulled the trigger. The shot penetrated Emil's skull, reaching the flesh in the back of the boy's neck. Physicians succeeded in removing the bullet and if blood poisoning does not set in, the lad has a good chance to recover.

CADILLAC—Farmers living in this vicinity are breathing easier as a result of the two days' investigation into the causes of the death of several cows in this region. Rumor carried the disheartening report that the hoof and mouth disease had returned, but Dr. Hallman, state veterinarian, at the conclusion of his post-mortem said local trouble in each instance was responsible for the deaths.

KALAMAZOO—Unexpected speed was made in securing a jury to try Frank B. Lay, Jr., former vice president of the Michigan Buggy company, on an embezzlement charge. The first witness called was Frank B. Lay, Sr., father of the defendant and president of the Michigan Buggy company at the time of its failure. He is also under indictment. Mr. Lay refused to answer any of the questions asked under his constitutional right not to give testimony against his son.

MIDDLEVILLE—It is said that the new Michigan seed law is almost a dead letter from lack of enforcement. It is alleged that many farmers and dealers are selling seeds that are not labeled in accordance with the provisions of the act. The maximum penalty for this offense is $100. All who are selling seed of any kind should post themselves on this new law. The law was enacted for the benefit of the farmers and they should be the last people to violate its provisions.

DETROIT—Sitting upright in the motor car of Joseph Michm, as it stood in Michm's garage, the body of William Scofield, thirty-nine years old, and unmarried, was found. Scofield had been dead several hours. Coroner Rothacher ordered an investigation and the county physician will perform an autopsy. Scofield was one of a party of friends who started to Windsor. At the Detroit dock he told Michm he would not go across the river but would remain in the automobile until the party returned. When they returned, Michm and his friends found Scofield apparently asleep in the rear seat. Without attempting to awaken him, they drove to the garage. There Scofield was still apparently slumbering. Michm threw a blanket over him and left.

GRAND RAPIDS—One of the most unusual methods of taking testimony in the history of the local courts was resorted to when Dr. George H. Brown, a victim of smallpox, and a patient at the contagious disease hospital, testified over the telephone in a damage suit in the circuit court. The attorney for each side and a court stenographer heard the testimony over separate receivers.

ANN ARBOR—Mrs. Louise Maier, wife of Adam Maier, well known merchant of Whitmore Lake, filed a suit for divorce. She alleges that her husband told her six weeks after their marriage that she was free at any time to return to her home. But she waited twenty years to do so. Her husband, she alleges, grew rich in a business started with her dowry. She now claims to be broken down physically as the result of her home life.

ELINT—What the officials say may be a serious loophole in the Michigan local option law has been discovered here through the seizure of five barrels of bonded whiskey from the Bertrigg drug store. The whiskey was shipped from Detroit to Saginaw and brought here on a truck. The police say this is done to avoid making reports of liquor received here. The prosecutor's office advised the police to hold the liquor until an opinion from the attorney-general could be received.

CARPATHIAN RANGE HUNGARY'S DEFENSE

The Carpathians are among the best friends which Hungary has. They stretch in a wide lung arc around the northern plain of Magyar, from Pressburg, on the Danube, across from Roumania. Thus, they form nearly the entire boundary of Hungary east and north of the Danube, a line of about eight hundred miles in length. The hollow of this arc, as well as its most favorable approach, lies toward Hungary. Troops pressing forward along the whole entire mountain sweep are facing the best favorable passes and are operating with the least shelter from the biting winter.

Besides having served the people who have lived in the Hungarian plain long and faithfully as a first line of defense against the wrath of their neighbors to the north and east, the Carpathians have been just as partisan for the southern plain in times of peace. They shut out the stinging, bleak winds which snap across the steep wastes direct from the frostiest ice fields of the north. While the Carpathian range is of low average height and has no great peaks, its walls, nevertheless, are lofty enough to catch the Russian ice winds and blizzards and to deflect them away from Hungary.

Again, in summer, the warm southern breezes are caught and broken on the Hungarian hillsides, which thus prevent them from reaching Galicia.

The Carpathians are the eastern wing of the great central mountain system of Europe, and likely, one of its parts of most historic importance. They are steep and craggy in their northern exposures, while toward the south they fall away in lesser mountain groups and broken, sloping plateaus. With the exception of parts of the eastern modifications, which belong to Roumania, this range lies wholly within Austro-Hungarian territory. Its total area is 72,600 square miles.

The Carpathians attain the greatest height just east and south of Cracow. The system also has its greatest width here. Throughout the chain the passes over the mountains vary from seven to 220 miles. Gerdolier peak, the highest one in the entire system, reaches 7,737 feet above the sea level. Thus, the Carpathians range has no mountain formations to compare with the more majestic Alpine groups or with those of our own Rockies. There are innumerable peaks throughout this Hungarian line of defense, however, which vary from 5,000 to 7,000 feet in height, and these walls, together with the involved character of most of the passes have made the Carpathians an effective barrier against northern invaders.—National Geographical Magazine.

MAN AND HIS WINGS

Man's body was not made for flying but man has flown and man always will. With the story of recent aviation fatalities before us, crowned with the death sweep of Lincoln Beachey, the eagle of them all, we are confronted by the realization that man's mind was not made for flying and that the conquest of aerial madness is a deeper problem than the mechanical conquest of the air.

For the fatalities of flying are no longer due to the crudeness or unprofitability of machines. Nor are they due to the caprice of the elements. Science has eliminated all of these factors of peril. Fool-proof devices have been perfected which have made the airplane as reliable in the hands of a conservative driver as the automobile.

destroys, the intoxication which has come with man's new-fledged wings. Lincoln Beachey, notwithstanding his successes, was only a little better than a flyer among men. He was so sure that he once abandoned the sport, thinking to defeat the fate which had followed others and which played no favorites. But he fell from the dull ways of abstinence. With impunity he defied the law, and he did his worst. And again and again. He found satisfaction in flying bottom side up. For additional stimulant he indulged in the somersault and the perpendicular drop. But it may be said to the credit of his splendid skill that his death was caused through no error in manipulation. It was simply that his performance had surpassed the strength of his machine.

MARKS REVOLUTION IN SILO CONSTRUCTION

Charles Pierce, Houghton, Designs a Forage Depository Declared to Be Perfect.

There is to be erected in Houghton county within a short time by Charles Pierce, foreman for the Smith-Byers-Sparks company, a new form of silo. County Agriculturalist Geismar declares it is the most perfect form of silo ever devised and that the one now projected will be the first of the kind ever constructed.

A silo, it should be remembered, is a building intended for the storage of green forage for stock. It is nothing more nor less than a big preserve jar and the one that most nearly approaches the conditions existing in a perfect preserve jar, with the additional quality of insulation against cold, is the most nearly perfect.

Mr. Pierce's Plan. The plan of silo announced by Mr. Pierce involves the use of hy-rib, a form of perforated metal lath that has a rib as a part of its structure, making possible the laying of a definite thickness of plaster, which will be held firmly in place by the ribs.

In the Pierce silo the construction will include two cylinders of this hy-rib material, one with the ribs outward, the other with the ribs inward. The double cylinder will then be plastered with cement inside and out, and the result will be a reinforced concrete tower, including a dead air space between the inner and outer shells.

This form of silo offers protection against cold, moisture and air, the latter being the biggest enemy of the preservation of the green food. Mr. Geismar believes that Mr. Pierce can erect one of these silos at a cost less by 40 per cent than any other form of construction.

The man who can build cheap and efficient silos for the farmers of Houghton county has a fortune in his grasp. County Agriculturalist Geismar says that the number of silos is increasing rapidly in the county, and that this is an indication of the growth of the dairying business.

"Farmers are not selling their stock for beef," said Mr. Geismar. "They are hanging onto their heifer calves and doing all that they can to build up their herds."

Another indication of the growth of the dairy industry in Houghton county can be seen in the sale of cream separators. Bell & Porikka, the Houghton farm implement agents, have sold this spring eleven separators, ranging in price from $10 to $125. Many farmers who have been using separators are trading in their first purchases for machines of greater capacity. The firm expects to sell forty machines this year.

ANOTHER COMMITTEE COMING.

Finance and Appropriations Committee of Senate to Visit M. C. M.

President F. W. McNair of the Michigan College of Mines has been advised that the finance and appropriations committee of the senate will arrive in Houghton tomorrow night and will visit the college on Sunday.

Dr. McNair finds a ray of hope in this. The house recently reported out a shrunken appropriation bill for the college, and the hope of the institution now lies with the senate. If the latter body, through this committee, can be convinced that the cut from the bill will cripple the college it may restore it and thus induce the house to acquiesce. Dr. McNair makes no forecast of the result of the visit of the committee but he does express a hope.

Our instructions to the famous editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine were: "Get up a book of recipes of the things people like best. Find the best way to make and bake each one. Then write it out so plainly that even an inexperienced housewife can't have a failure."

"The Cook's Book" was the result. Some of the 90 recipes were originated, many of them were improved upon, and all were personally tested by this best known authority on cooking in America, and she tells so clearly how she made everything that one cannot go astray.

While some of the cakes and pastry are elaborate enough for any occasion, the recipes are all thoroughly practical and call for no expensive and unusual ingredients. In addition to telling how to make them, the book is beautifully illustrated in colors showing how to arrange and serve the dishes appetizingly.

More than half a million of "The Cook's Book" are now in use in American households. Yet the demand is constantly increasing. Many send for two or three at a time to give to friends or young housekeepers. Don't depend on borrowing one from a neighbor—have one of your own.

How to Get "The Cook's Book" In every 25c can of K C Baking Powder is packed a colored certificate. Send us one of these certificates (paste it on a postal card if you like) with your name and address plainly written, and "The Cook's Book" will be mailed free of charge. Only one book for each certificate.

MEASURE BENEFITS CALUMET TOWNSHIP

Newly-Passed Bill Authorizes Raising of $5,000 Yearly for General Purposes.

Clerk George Martin of Calumet township, which was thirteenth precincts, to raise $5,000 annually for the general fund. The present law permits townships only to raise $2,000 for this purpose, but Calumet township in the past has not raised even that amount. It has been compelled, however, to divert money from the other funds to pay the big election expenses of thirteen precincts, and relief from the condition was necessary.

The bill is particularly for the relief of Calumet township, but it will apply to about three other townships in the township. Mr. Martin says that the law will be taken advantage of at Calumet this year, but that there will be no increase in the taxes, because the township board has decided not to raise a highway improvement fund. The general fund over the highway fund a considerable amount, and this can be paid back from the increased general fund.

DONATION TO THE LIBRARY.

O. J. Larson Presents Copies of "Kalavala" and "Sampo."

O. J. Larson of Duluth, who is here to defend Cooper, Groff, Davis and Polk-Inhorne in the Seeberville case, was in the Houghton public library yesterday doing a little research work. Mr. Larson, it is necessary to explain in this connection, is of Finnish descent, one of the biggest men in the race in the United States. Another user of the library asked him for a translation of a Finnish word and he gave it, at the same time saying the word was used in the "Kalavala," the great Finnish epic. The seeker for information sought now the Kalavala and found it was not in the library. With that Mr. Larson went to the library phone and called up the Finnish Lutheran Book concern in Hancock.

"Send copies of your finest editions of the English versions of the 'Kalavala' and 'Sampo' to the Houghton public library," was the attorney ordered. "Sampo" is a collection of tales from the Kalavala done into English prose for young people.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BASEBALL.

Painesdale Entry in the League to Give Concert for Funds.

The Physical-Moral club of the Painesdale M. E. church will give a concert in the church tomorrow night. The following is the program: Overture—Sunday school orchestra. Selection—Atlantic Ladies' quartet. Mrs. Roller and the Misses Gladys Cole, Maria Tamblyn and Florence Little. Solo—Miss Fern Juffe. Violin solo—Mr. McDonald. Atlantic. Duet—Florence Little and Gladys Cole. Comic recitation—Charles Roy. Selection—Painesdale Male quartet. Overture—Sunday school orchestra. Duet—Pearl Martin and Gladys Smith. Violin solo—Mr. McDonald. Selection—Painesdale Male quartet. Following the concert there will be a social in the basement of the church. The boys will sell ice cream and pop to aid to the baseball fund, for the benefit of which the concert also is given.

CANTATA FOR PALM SUNDAY.

Trinity Choir Will Sing Dubois' "The Seven Last Words."

An unusually ambitious choral service will be heard at Trinity church Houghton, next Sunday, Palm Sunday, in connection with the afternoon service at that church. It is a production of Th. Dubois' sublime cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ." It will be sung by an augmented choir under the direction of Paul Albre Beynon, organist and choirmaster of the church. The "seven last words" are the seven utterances of Jesus Christ during his agony on the cross. These utterances were: "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do." "Verily thou shalt be in Paradise to-day with me." "See, woman, behold thy son beloved." "God, My Father, why hast Thou forsaken me?" "Father, into thy hands I commend my soul." "It is finished."

DETAILS OF THE SERVICE.

The service will open at 4 p. m. with a solemn procession up the middle aisle and this same solemnity and devotion will characterize the entire service. The cantata occupies about one and one-half hours. For an offertory number, Mr. Beynon will play the celebrated "Fugue in March and Chant of the Seraphs," composed by Guilmant for his dedication of the grand organ at Notre Dame cathedral, Paris.

The choir will consist of twenty boy sopranos, fifteen women for the alto voices, and fifteen men for tenors and basses. One interesting feature of the music is the representation of the storm, following the seventh word, which is started by the tenor and finished by the organ, diminishing, with the beautiful prayer that closes the work.

The soloists will be the best in the copper country, including Lyman Whitney, tenor; Herbert Rodda, bass; Masters Vernon Donnellack and Arthur Fernelius, sopranos.

COMPILING SAFETY RULE CODE.

Government Asks That Copy of City Ordinance Be Furnished.

A copy of Hancock's city ordinance relative to electric wiring and line construction is desired by the government, and S. W. Stratton, director of the United States bureau of standards, has written City Clerk Hoffenbacher, requesting this courtesy be extended. Preparatory to compiling a national code of safety rules for electrical practice, a similar letter has been sent to each municipality in the country. Director Stratton makes plain that the ordinance desired covers wiring other than the requirements of the "underwriters' code." The letter asks whether the city has its employ an official who gives attention to inside and outside wiring, and if inspection is required. Included in the questions asked by the director is one pertaining to the grounding of low vol-

TAKE TIME BY THE FORELOCK.

Baltic Fire Department Announces Fourth of July Celebration.

Good Friday is still in the future, there still is the Spanish war veterans' departure day to come, also Memorial day and commencement day at the schools to say nothing of St. John's day, with its Finnish French celebrations, but the Baltic fire department considers that it is not necessary to await the passing of these fetes and celebrations to begin preparations for the greatest day of all Independence day, the Fourth of July, the birth of the well-known screaming eagle and bird of peace and the home of the brave.

The department announces that it will take charge of a celebration of the Fourth of July for Baltic and South Range this year and that active preparations will be begun within a short time. All of the old features and many new ones will be provided and the firemen hope that the public will not permit itself to be deceived by imitations offered by other celebrating towns but will go to Baltic to see the only real patriotic jamboree and jubilee.

SCHOOL SAVINGS BANK REPORT.

Large Percentage of Houghton School Children Are Savers.

The operation of a savings bank department in the Houghton and Portage township public schools seems to have encouraged thrift in the pupils, according to an annual statement issued yesterday by Superintendent Doelle. The report shows that 92.3 per cent of the pupils of the Houghton schools and such of the township schools as are in easy distance of the banking department have developed saving habits, either by making use of the savings bank or by other methods.

A large number of the grades offer a perfect score, meaning that every pupil has savings of some sort. The high school makes the poorest showing of all the departments. Only 69.5 per cent of the older boys and girls of the system have savings.

The report concerns itself with the individual grades in the grade school buildings. In the Central school there are three grades with perfect scores in West Houghton two, in East Houghton five, at Hurontown three.

The Superior school, drawing its pupils from the Superior mine location and its vicinity, has a perfect score. This is classed as a rural school and Superintendent Doelle offers it as an encouraging example to the other rural schools of the township.

In his comment on the report Superintendent Doelle says that there are 5 per cent less school bank depositors than a year ago but that the total of pupils with savings in other ways is greater than ever before so that the condition is encouraging. In all the schools there are a total of 378 public bank depositors and he considers this a result of the school training.

The total of pupils who have no savings habits is only 104, and all of the teachers have been requested to make the effort to induce these pupils to begin saving in some way.

TITANIC SUIT UP MAY 15.

Hancock People Aboard Ill-Fated Ship Have Filed Claims.

Dispatches from the East state that the trial of suit brought by the Oceanic Steam Navigation company, owner of the steamer Titanic, which sank with the loss of several hundred lives in April, 1912, to determine the extent of the company's liability, will take place next month. Damages aggregating millions of dollars for loss of life and property have been filed. Included in this sum are claims presented by Mrs. Davies of Hancock, who was a passenger in the ship. Mrs. Davies' eighteen-year-old son was drowned, and she lost all her personal belongings. Monday, Sunday, Cook of Hancock is another person rescued from the boat when it went down.

POLITICS AT WINONA WARM.

Numerous Candidates Out for Elm River Township Offices.

Elm River township has more politics to the square inch this spring than in several years. There are opposition candidates for every office but supervisor and justice of the peace.

The township caucus is to be held at Winona Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, and the reason for this is interesting. The Winona mine, now being operated by Captain John Brown, works only one shift. It uses an electric hoist. Captain Brown kills two birds with one stone. He sends his men to work at 3:30 o'clock and they work till midnight so that while the hoist is working the location may have lights from the same source.

The following are the candidates: Clerk—John McCarthy, E. A. Lang, Treasurer—Ralph Hocking, Ben Hocking, Highway commissioner—Barney Kratt, Victor Hill.

Highway overseer—John Nieminen, James Collins.

PORT HURON—The St. Clair county road commissioners have served notice on officials of the Detroit United Railway company to move the company's tracks from a portion of the roadway in Port Huron township.

The county officers say the railroad officials have no franchise for the ground which they are using. It is understood the road commissioners have instructed Prosecuting Attorney Stewart to begin legal action to enforce the notice. This track in question constitutes part of the main line of the Rapid railway. Some time ago a request was made of the Rapid Railway officials that they reduce the fare of the employees of the Morton Salt company who live in Port Huron. The plant is just outside the city limits and a ten-cent fare is charged. The railway officials have paid no attention to the request.

GOOD FOR SPRING HOCKEY.

Copper Country Experiences an Unheralded Cold Wave.

That was a cold wave that struck the copper country Wednesday night. A cold wave is not merely a drop in the temperature. It is a drop of at least twenty degrees to a point at least sixteen degrees above zero. These conditions were met Wednesday night. There was a drop of thirty-one degrees and the thermometer was ten degrees above zero when it fit.

Weather Observer Cowdrick says that it is rare to have a typical cold wave without its being forecast, but it happened this time.

GLADSTONE HOCKEY NEWS.

Just about the time that the thermometer began to drop Manager McNamara of the Amphidrome had his practical weather eye out. "All hands on deck to flood the ship," he sang out.

"Aye, aye, sir," roared Bill Becker, the boss, and all the sweepers chorused "Aye, aye."

Because that drop in temperature made it a cinch that the Mohawk and Portage Lake Junior hockey teams would have ice on which to play the final—the championship—game of intermediate hockey. As a matter of fact, the Portage Lake-Mohawk game Tuesday night was played to a great extent on concrete. But the ice was so good and will stay good for another week, so the start.

There was some hope that the championship game might be played last night, but Manager McNamara vetoed the suggestion, as he wanted not to interfere with "A Pair of Sixes" at the Korredge theater, there having been no good shows in the territory for some time. It cannot be played tonight on account of the caucus. Saturday night is a bad night; it is almost a cinch it will be played Monday night.

ANNUAL CONVENTION HELD.

Keweenaw Peninsula Sunday School Association at Hancock.

The annual convention of the Keweenaw Peninsula Sunday School association took place in Hancock yesterday. There were delegates from all Protestant churches in Houghton and Keweenaw counties. The principal speaker was E. K. Mohr of Detroit, a state Sunday school worker of prominence. The theme was "The Other Fellow." The following program was carried out:

—Morning— Devotional—Rev. F. P. Knowles. Convention Theme—Rev. U. G. Rich. How to Measure a Sunday School—W. J. Reynolds.

The Winning Sunday School—E. K. Mohr. Discussion, followed by secretary's report and miscellaneous business.

DUFFY'S HELPS HIM BEAR HIS AGE.

CHRISTIAN THORSTEN This kindly old gentleman who does not look his 86 years, wrote us over a year ago as follows: "Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done wonders for me. I became so well that I no longer believe it was I. I am better after using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey so I will continue same."

Only recently he wrote us this: "I was born Oct. 19th, 1829, and now while we are having the world's last war, I want to thank Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey which enabled me to bear my age so well."—Christian Thorsten, Norway Lake, Minn.

loss of several hundred lives in April, 1912, to determine the extent of the company's liability, will take place next month. Damages aggregating millions of dollars for loss of life and property have been filed. Included in this sum are claims presented by Mrs. Davies of Hancock, who was a passenger in the ship. Mrs. Davies' eighteen-year-old son was drowned, and she lost all her personal belongings. Monday, Sunday, Cook of Hancock is another person rescued from the boat when it went down.

MIGRATION OF THE HOBOES.

Quintet of Wanderers Report There is a Gang at Nestora.

Five homeless men, true hoboes in that they had good clothes on which was superimposed in each case an old suit to withstand the hardship of the side door in Houghton Wednesday night and they spent the night in the county jail. They were ordered out of the county yesterday morning.

These men said they came here looking for work and that they did so because they had heard the copper country was unusually prosperous. They also gave out the interesting information that there is a big gang of hoboes now at Nestora, awaiting an opportunity to beat their way into the district.

WINONA GAME LAW VIOLATOR.

Frank Nisa Will Serve One Term in Jail, Only to Be Re-Arrested.

Frank Nisa of Winona was arrested this week by Game Warden Wilson, charged with killing partridge out of season. He was taken before Justice McCarthy and sentenced to thirty days in the county jail. The game warden charges also that Nisa had venison in his possession and had set ten snares for deer. The man will be re-arrested on the conclusion of his thirty-day sentence.

DONALD GRANT'S VIEWS.

The following is an interesting communication to The Mining Journal from Donald Grant of Silver, Laird township, former supervisor from that township. It discusses a phase of the deer protection law that probably always will be discussed:

"I would like, although not equal to the task, to express in words my feelings in regard to the operation of certain phases of our game laws. I, with other homesteaders, feel sore over the matter.

"During the past year was there an arrest made or a conviction secured of any one for killing deer? Not in the great need of the venison for the immediate needs of himself and family? Should not the food game roaming the unsettled portions of the counties of our peninsula be allowed first to serve that part of our population that is in actual need of the food, especially the homesteaders during the preliminary stage of producing a farm—the only stage in which a farmer will or can afford to hunt for deer? Then, if there is a surplus of deer, allow them to be killed for the sport?"

"The arresting, fining and putting in jail industries, honest parents who are struggling with adverse circumstances, as it has been done in this township, and once recently, places the game laws, the officers who execute them and the sportsmen in a bad light. We are acquainted with both our game wardens, Wm. McDonald and Wm. Wilson. Both men we respect and like to meet and may find no fault with their energetic enforcement of the law as they find it.

"I have met sportsmen, and my estimate of a sportsman is that he is the pick of us all—he is never found arguing the enactment of laws that prove a hardship to the honest poor. If an honest poor man in need of venison was about to shoot a deer a sportsman would not even if he had the chance, try to get the deer ahead of him. He would say, 'Old man, take it, and I am not going to let you take it if he had a license.

"Shooting deer out of season is not included in the catalog of real crimes—there is no open season for real crime. Shooting deer out of season is wrong, because it is a violation of law at present. It is a violation of law, but it is not sportsmanlike to urge a pat game wardens on the back every time they arrest a poor man for killing a deer, having in view the saving of the deer for a time when they can be killed by men who have no need whatever for them."

FIGURES THAT DO NOT LIE.

Advocates of government invasion of the field of private enterprise are watching the development of the Panama canal, and the reports of the senate are disheartening only. Let us demonstrate that the government can operate a profitable enterprise. The general public, however, not engaged in any work of propaganda, should keep in mind the fundamental fact that the canal is properly a governmental undertaking, state enterprise, not a business enterprise, and that the military necessity for the short-water route from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast justifies the expenditures of every dollar that has been invested.

It is important, therefore, in order to prevent any misstatement of the reports of the receipts, that whenever those reports are published they should be set over against the amount which must be earned before the canal can meet its fixed charges. The latest figures of gross earnings show that from the time the first ship passed through the big ditch until the last day of January, $2,000,000 have been collected in tolls. This is at the rate of about $4,000,000 a year, and seems a big sum of money.

But it is only a small part of what must be taken in, to cover the annual cost of the canal if it is to be conducted as a business enterprise, according to the best estimates obtainable. The interest charge is $11,000,000, it will cost $2,500,000 a year for operating charges, upkeep and contingencies, and $7,500,000 must be set aside annually for a sinking fund if the bonds are to be paid in fifty years. Here is a total annual charge of $22,000,000. Just keep these figures in mind—$22,000,000—and then when the canal is taking in $1,000,000 a month, instead of $2,000,000 in six months, no one can fool you with tales about the profit which the government is making.—Philadelphia Evening Ledger.

For Everybody's Car

The Standard Oil Company's recommendation is one oil—Polarine—for every make and type of car. We could make a special oil for every type of motor. We have the facilities, the experts and the means.

But the study of every motor car on the market showed that the lubricating needs of all standard makes were identical.

Polarine

Polarine—the result—maintains the correct lubricating body at every motor speed and temperature.

Polarine is the best we can produce today. And no other organization commands more experts or has solved more lubricating problems.

Use Polarine. It has proved the cure for the motor troubles of thousands of good cars whose motors bore the blame.

SECURITIES AT NEW YORK SCORE NEW HIGH RECORDS

New York, March 25.—Dealings in stocks contracted considerably today, but prices continued to forge ahead numerous new high records for the year being scored. The advance included many representative shares in the railroad class, such as Atchafson, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Louisville & Nashville showing gains of one to two points at their best. Union Pacific retained its leadership with a substantial advance over its high price of the previous session, and Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and a few stocks in the international list also went to higher levels.

Closing prices of stocks in the markets yesterday are reported by J. A. Minner and Co. of Laurium, as follows:

Table with columns for stock names and prices. Includes entries like Atchafson, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, etc.

ONE DETECTIVE KILLED, ANOTHER FATALLY HURT IN GUN FIGHT WITH THIEF

Philadelphia, March 25.—James Manley, a central office detective, was shot and killed and Harry Tucker, another detective, was mortally wounded tonight in a running revolver battle with Jacob B. Miller, whom they had attempted to arrest on a fugitive warrant. Miller, who is wanted at Princeton, N. J., for robbery, escaped and has not yet been apprehended.

M'FARLAND SIGNS UP FOR A GO WITH GIBBONS; NOW A WELTERWEIGHT

Chicago, March 25.—Articles were signed here today for a ten-round bout to be staged within sixty days between Mike Gibbons and Paddy McFarland. The fighters agree to weigh not more than 145 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The agreement signed today was the first admission ever made by McFarland that he had grown into the welterweight division. Heretofore he had insisted he was a lightweight, although frequently he fought at catchweights. Gibbons is a contender for the middleweight championship. The fight probably will be staged in Milwaukee.

White Beats Leach Cross.

New York, March 25.—Charlie White, of Chicago, lightweight, outpointed Leach Cross, of New York, in a ten round bout here tonight. White getting the honors in five rounds and Cross in two, while three were even. The weights were announced as Cross 121½; Cross, 129. Both men fought deliberately, trying hard for a knockout and sacrificing science for fighting.

"Batling" Nelson Wins Bout.

Havana, March 25.—"Batling" Nelson won the decision tonight over Jimmy Freyer in a twenty-five round fight.

JACK WELSH TO REFEREE JOHNSON-WILLARD FIGHT

Havana, March 25.—Jack Welsh, of San Francisco, has been named as referee for the Johnson-Willard match. He was selected at a meeting of the principals and promoters tonight, and the promoters sent a cablegram to him asking his acceptance.

A physical examination by an American physician of Jack Johnson today disclosed the fact that the heavyweight champion is in fine condition; that he is enjoying perfect health and that all his organs are normal. The physician declared that his condition was remarkable for a man of thirty-eight years of age. The usual routine marked the afternoon work of Johnson and Willard.

The betting on the fight has not been very extensive, but the small bets so far laid make Johnson the favorite and at from two to two and one-half to one.

COLORADO BOWLER MAKES A NEW RECORD

Peoria, Ill., March 25.—W. H. Pierce, of Pueblo, Colo., tonight broke the American Bowling Congress record in the singles when he rolled 711 into first place. He rolled 276, 226 and 209 in his three games. Only once before in the history of the A. B. C. has the 700 mark been reached. In 1910 T. Haley, of Detroit, rolled 705 and up to tonight this had stood as the record for the singles. There were no changes in the leadership in the other events.

of $240,000 and is expected to bring in a larger surplus this year, so that the added cost is more than taken care of out of current business. In the aggregate, there will now on the reorganization basis be 334 men, the actual total increase in the number of men employed being fifteen. Altogether it is believed that if the improvements expected can be secured by this relatively small increase in staff, the outlay will be well worth while. The changes made are not salary increases as such, the salaries of the different grades being the same as those carried by appropriation bills for some years past, while the bill creates no new offices but does its work on a rearrangement basis only.

There has been a large increase in patent office work of late years, the number of applications now running very heavy, while trade mark applications have advanced 20 per cent in a year, and the number of design applications has more than doubled in four years. Notwithstanding a general speeding up of the work of the office, the duties are so heavy for the present organization that in a number of the divisions of the office applicants now have to wait six months or more before their patents are passed on. A feature of the situation that is quite generally neglected is the fact that owing to the growing complexity of industrial processes and the increase in the volume of the literature of the mechanic arts the labor of examining new applications for patents and of deciding whether or not they infringe those already issued is much more severe and painstaking than ever before. The business public has a right to demand to be protected from the granting of patents which infringe old ones. This calls for the labor of skilled examiners. It also requires promptness in acting on patent applications, and this in turn requires a sufficient number of examiners to do the work. The reorganization is intended to meet both needs.—New York Journal of Commerce.

ZUDORA

A Great Story by HAROLD MacGRATH

In the TWENTY MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY

The remarkable adventures of the charming Zudora will be portrayed by Harold MacGrath in the succeeding chapters. This photo serial is being shown in the leading moving picture theaters by the Thanhouser Film Corporation. Among those participating are Marguerite Snow, Mary Elizabeth Forbes, James Cruze, in the new role of reporter hero, Sidney Bracey and Frank Farrington.

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora, heiress to $20,000,000, is placed in the guardianship of her uncle, Hassam Ali, a mystic, Hassam Ali is determined to secure the girl's fortune for himself and when she becomes of age he makes every effort to bring about her death. Zudora is in love with a young lawyer, John Storm, and she seeks permission of her miserly uncle to marry him. Hassam Ali promises to grant her wish provided she shall solve twenty of his cases. Zudora solves nine of the cases when her uncle dies, and she is released of her pledge.

No longer obliged to solve Hassam Ali's cases Zudora now confronts the greatest mystery of all, which is the mystery of her own life and the ambition to secure the vast fortune of $20,000,000 left her. On looking through her uncle's papers she also finds that her father left her an interest in a diamond mine and Storm and Baird both lend assistance in trying to regain for her possession of this estate which is being appropriated by rogues.

CHAPTER XVI.

THE BATTLE AT THE BRIDGE.

One bright, clear winter day Zudora and Mrs. Ramsay sat in the former's room discussing the malignancy of the star that hovered over Zudora's destiny. If only she might find one bit of complete evidence against her enemies, or some document to fully uphold her claims! She could do nothing at court with these fragments, these half sheets. Possession was nine points in law; and it did not require John Storm's legal advice to convince her of this fact.

If Hassam Ali had not been a thorough miser all valuable papers would have been deposited in the deposit box at the bank. More and more she became convinced that her uncle had had sinister designs upon her life, that he had been maneuvering to get her out of the way so that he might control the entire fortune. All she wanted was to be mind free. Well, sooner or later something would turn up some workable plan; three such men as Storm, Baird, and Hunt would find a chink in the enemy's armor.

"I'm going to look through that old trunk again," Zudora declared, rising. "Come and help me." So the two of them dragged out the trunk and went through everything religiously, so thoroughly that a moth could not have escaped. Protruding from a torn place in the lining Zudora came upon a sheet of paper. She studied the postmarks from all angles, but could make nothing of it. However, she laid it aside for Storm's appraisal.

What puzzled her as much as anything was the fact that the spurious claimants had the law on their side. Where had they secured their backing? How had they learned that there existed documents, that there were gold and diamond mines? Hassam Ali certainly had not confided these facts to them.

"There is nothing but this sheet with the postmarks," she declared finally. "I can't make anything out of it."

"You poor child! Why don't you marry your sweetheart and have done with all this? He has plenty for both."

"That isn't it, Mrs. Ramsay. I come from a fighting stock, and I will never give up this fight until I am beaten." She glanced at the clock. "It is time John was here. Why not come along with me? The singing will be fine."

"I haven't had staves on in an age," protested Mrs. Ramsay.

"That won't matter; all the more fun for you," insisted Zudora.

"You're a strange girl."

"Why, you can throw off your burdens so easily without apparent effort. I merely refuse to let them dampen what pleasure I can get out of life." Zudora ran to a window. "There he is now! He's just as patient and kindly as he can be. And there's a box under his arm. I'll wager it's his sweetheart and her trunks."

She did not notice the two men loitering on the opposite side of the street, Radcliffe and Gyp the gunman.

Storm came in, his eyes clear and his cheeks full of color. He was bubbling with cheer.

"All aboard! The ice will be just splendid. Here's a bunch of violets for you, sweetheart."

"Thank you, John." Zudora pinned the flowers against her waist. "You are very thoughtful, after all the trouble I have caused you."

day he had not the least idea where they had hidden the stones. He was certain that the gems were not in the house at present. Doubtless they had been disposed of secretly.

The first thing that welcomed his gaze was the battered old trunk. The scotch leather at once convinced him that this had come from the house of Hassam Ali. He knelt beside it and threw back the lid. He eyed curiously the spangles and muffs of the old circus days. But the folded sheet of paper interested him far more. And when he spread it out and discovered that it was practically a complete survey of the mine in Africa he was delighted. He already knew the details of the African property; so far as he was concerned it was of no intrinsic value; but it would eventually be valuable to Zudora. So he stuffed it into his pocket and went on with his search. Then he came upon the false bottom to the trunk; and here he found the documents which completed the case! He laughed. With these in his possession Zudora would lose her case in any court in America.

"What a find! Neither the girl nor her advisers had ever thought to thoroughly investigate the battered old leather trunk!"

He was in high feather when he stole out of the Ramsay house. He had made a great find. He was legally master of millions. It would be his to keep. He was manufacturing a will of prior date to Zudora's, upon old legal cap, with the notary's seal, some old clap who had died in Montana. It would be very easy now that he had all the documents in the case. Madam Du Val would be pleased, so pleased that she might have a more willing car to his pleas. They had had this trunk all these weeks and had not thought to sound it for a false bottom! That was supreme luck. He felt more and more assured of his star as he rejoined Gyp. Millions, luxury, all his cravings to be satisfied, these were his! And Zudora, flying across the smooth, glistening surface of the pond, began to have hopes that her star had reached its zenith. Well, perhaps it was.

The sunshine, the exhilaration of the sport, the nearness of one beloved, these had been sent cheer into many a heart darker than Zudora's.

When the three of them returned to Mrs. Ramsay's the latter served tea, and for an hour it was a happy family. Then Storm remembered the survey map.

"You'd better let me have that and lock it up in my safe," he suggested.

"You never can tell what will happen these days."

But Zudora searched the leather trunk from top to bottom in vain.

"That's funny," she saw me put it on the top tray."

"I did," said Storm gravely. He went about the room examining the windows. He left the two women and went downstairs. On the linoleum in the kitchen he saw muddy tracks. That was enough. "Some one has been here during our absence," he declared on returning to Zudora's room. "Whoever it was has got that paper. Evidently I was watched, and when we went to the pond

YOUR FRECKLES

Need Attention in February and March or Face May Stay Covered.

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish it to look well the rest of the year. The February and March winds have a strong tendency to bring out freckles that may stay all Summer unless removed. Now is the time to use othine—double strength.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of othine—double strength, and even a few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.

the watcher came into the kitchen window. Well, perhaps I'm to blame. I should have put it into my pocket."

Meantime in Detective Hunt's office things were being arranged for the ascendency of Zudora's star, which was in truth very low.

"Baird, I'm going to enter the Du Val villa by the front door this trip."

"What do you mean by that?" asked the late Hassam Ali's double.

"I mean that I'm going to enter in a capacity which will excite madam's vanity. There's no woman alive that does not like the idea of having her hair perpetuated in oil if done by a celebrated artist."

"That's true enough," said Baird. "Go on, I'm interested."

"Well, I'm going to be that celebrated artist. Great, Lord, man, can you paint?"

"Well enough to serve my purpose." "You're a man of many surprises."

"That's high praise; you used to be that yourself."

"Give me all the points of the game." "You've heard of Jacques La Fontaine?"

"Yes. Just at present he's in the trenches in Alsace."

"So I learned. But Madam Du Val will not dig deep so long as I can keep her vanity stirred. Now, then, watch your Uncle Dudley; in ten minutes I'll be the exact counterpart of the painter as he was during his last visit, six months ago. He came with splendid introduction, one of which I have. And I've produced a neat little forgery on it. Here's La Fontaine's photograph. Keep your eye on me and take a lesson on how to get into the skin of another man. I want to get into his skin, the worst kind of way. It keeps going through my head that there is some connection between it and that old junk lot or garage we've skylarked in once or twice."

"I recollect the place," observed Baird dryly. "They nearly had me there one day."

Hunt went to work rapidly and skillfully, and within the stipulated time presented an appearance that was near enough to that of the real artist to fool the ordinary eye.

"Great," cried Baird. "I tell you what, you enter the villa and get established, and I on my part will see where that garage trap door leads to."

At that afternoon Hunt, armed with his forged introduction, presented himself at the front door of the Du Val villa. He was answered by the pompous footman. The pseudo-artist was requested to be seated. Then the footman took the letter upstairs to his mistress, who was more delighted by the letter than the thought of being painted. She had met the distinguished French nobleman out in the street and had been vainly to believe that she had been remembered. And, more than this, the famous artist had once noted her singular beauty and never would be happy until he had put it upon canvas.

This Hunt's initial reception was most excellent. Madam Du Val would be delighted to give him as many sittings as he desired.

old boy. It's only logical that if some one brings him a stone to cut he cuts it without asking questions. But I'm hanged if I don't stop some of the men who go there. I can't bother with him now. I want Madam Du Val's portrait started."

Four days later at half after 4—at the same moment Zudora and Storm set out upon a short automobile trip—you could hear the odor of paint making him headachy. Madam Du Val sat so that from the corner of her eye she could watch the fountain. By and by Hunt laid aside his palette.

"That will be all for today. I am quite sure you are tired."

"Join me with a cup of chocolate," she said amiably.

While they were sipping the chocolate the fountain jet reversed. Hunt pretended not to notice this peculiarity, but he could see that madam began to stir restively. Suddenly she sat down her palette, complaining of a violent headache.

Hunt gathered up his materials and politely excused himself. The footman, however, in letting him out failed to note that the ferrule of Hunt's cane had caught between the door and the jamb.

Cautiously the detective reentered and tiptoed into the conservatory. He waited for a moment or two, then stole out into the salon. A spot on one of the columns attracted his attention. Upon close inspection he found it to be a sliding panel. He was fingering about for a method to open it when he heard footsteps. He slipped behind the portiere.

It was Madam Du Val, coming down to greet Captain Radcliffe who had just come in. She at once showed him the portrait. He shrugged. He was not at all interested in this style of art.

"There goes the fountain," he warned. "Merciful heaven, I had forgotten all about those fools! They struck the signal while La Fontaine was here; but luckily he did not notice it. Let them in."

Hunt was very much surprised to see three old antagonists enter the scene one of the columns. He was still more surprised when he saw madam open the secret drawer in the onyx table. His eyes snapped. That table would be worth while. Just as soon as these precious rogues left the salon he determined to investigate. He was an ingenious man, but his ingenuity failed utterly to learn the secret of the onyx table. He was certain, however, that it held all he wanted so badly. He left the villa unobserved.

In the meantime Baird had discovered the tunnel from the garage led directly to the Du Val villa; but he had chosen a bad day for the investigation. The three crooks, returning from their visit, caught sight of him and gave chase. He reached the trap door in the garage first, but before he could make the door they were upon him. He succeeded in laying out two of them, but the largest man proved to be a tough customer. This was not the first time Baird had felt the bear-like grip of the man.

They battled through the doorway, along the sidewalk, until they reached the bridge. That Baird lived to tell the tale was due solely to the unexpected arrival of Zudora and Storm. They recognized Baird as he and his antagonist toppled over the parapet into the icy stream below, where the fight still raged.

At length the reporter succeeded in getting free of the clutch of his antagonist, who paid the penalty for his loyalty to a bad cause.

Storm got a rope from his foot box. This he tied to the extra tire, flinging it out toward Baird as one would throw a life preserver at sea. Baird was all in. He had just strength enough to grasp the rope, and Storm hauled away with a will.

SUNKIST ORANGE RECIPES.

Butterfly Salad.

Remove all skin from two grapefruit and three Sunkist Oranges and cut into uniform slices across the fruit and then into halves. Drain juice from a small can of pineapple and add slices also in halves. Make individual nests of shredded lettuce on serving plates, place two sections of grapefruit in center, with the curved edge toward the center. Place two of the pineapple and above that two of orange. Place a strip of pimento down the center and a nut meat at one end, and cover all with French dressing, or serve mayonnaise separately.

Sunkist Orange Pie.

Make pastry of one cup of flour, one-third teaspoon each of baking powder and salt and thick cream to moisten (about one-third of a cupful if soft flour is used). Roll out quite thin, spread with two tablespoons of creamed butter, fold over, roll out again and place in either a perforated or wire pie pan. Prick the edges, prick in the filling and bake in a moderately hot oven.

For the filling cream three tablespoons of butter with a scant cup of sugar and add two egg yolks and one white, well beaten together. Stir in the juice and grated rind of one Sunkist Orange and the juice of half a Sunkist Lemon, and a bit of salt.

When the pie is done and partly cooled cover it with a meringue of two egg whites beaten stiff and five tablespoons of fine sugar added gradually. Sift sugar over the top after spreading and bake in a slow oven about 15 minutes.

Ye Old Time Orange Layer Cake

Cream one-third cup of butter with a cup of sugar until very light, then beat in three eggs singly, making mixture quite smooth each time. Sift a cup of flour with half a cup of corn starch, two and a half teaspoons of baking powder and a little salt. Add this gradually to first mixture alternately with two-thirds of a cup of water, beating thoroughly until batter is light and smooth. Bake in two deep layer pans about twenty-five minutes. When ready to serve cover each layer with thinly sliced Sunkist Oranges well sugared and dust the finished cake with powdered sugar; or with grated coconut if liked. The fruit juice will soak into the cake and ruin its delicacy if it be put together long before serving time; but it is delicious when fresh.

MICHIGAN NATIONAL GUARD IS EFFICIENT

Only Handicap for Actual Service Is the Lack of Full Companies.

Lansing, March 25.—That the Michigan National Guard would be an efficient effective fighting force in time of actual war and that the only handicap would be in lack of numbers—a condition which confronts the United States regular army also—is the opinion of Adjutant General Roy C. Vandercok.

In the following statement Adjutant General Vandercok outlines his idea of the condition of the Michigan National Guard and its preparedness for service in time of war:

"The Michigan National Guard as at present constituted is actually ready to take the field at the call of the federal government, except as to horses and mules for transportation. The guard can mobilize in twenty-four hours for any service. What is true of the National Guard is true in most other states. A few states, however, have failed to give their citizen-soldiers any particular support, and their guard is suffering accordingly. The only deficiency of the Michigan National Guard is in its numbers. There are only about 50 per cent. of the necessary number of men in the National Guard to complete war strength organizations efficient and effective for field service. The regular army suffers general indifference to this matter. When organized for war a company of infantry consists of one hundred fifty men, Michigan National Guard companies average about sixty men, which means that ninety more men would have to be added to form effective units. A percentage of this additional levy would undoubtedly be experienced men coming back into the National Guard service from the reserve corps which we have in Michigan, but the great majority would be utterly untrained and unfit for service.

Regular Army Small, Too.

"The regular army, however, would suffer from the same difficulty, as the regular companies are only up to approximately sixty-five men each. If the trained organizations were thus forced onto the firing line with small companies in an effort to hold the enemy while new organizations were recruited and trained, it is probable that their efficiency would be short lived because of lack of men. The guard, of course, would lack the benefit of an opportunity for a hardening process and the country would lose the benefit of trained soldiers to prepare recruits."

"The National Guard demonstrated in the copper strike that it could mobilize and move and take command of a situation as promptly as could be asked. The guard also proved that it was a disciplined force capable of carrying out orders effectively and justly. Every part of the equipment required for the present strength of the guard, including the wagons for transportation, is on hand now, ready for field service. Careful attention has been given to rifle practice; in all the camps there has been thorough instruction in sanitation, personal hygiene and cooking."

"The great and only difficulty with the National Guard today is the lack of public sentiment in favor of its maintenance. There has been such general indifference to this matter that the guard has gone as far as it can go in efficiency until such time as the people by their moral support show an appreciation of the necessity of preparation for service for their country."

"Lord Kitchener in England's hour of need has had to wait eight months before sending a real army to the aid of the allies, although he has had the benefit of a large number of trained men to assist in preparing the army for the field. This country has absolutely no definite plans and supplies for any force beyond the present regular army and the National Guard, which means that not over 200,000 at the outside could be placed in the field within three months. The country desires to sacrifice men without giving them any show to prepare themselves for the strain of the contest."

GRANBY CONSOLIDATED.

The Granby company will soon have in operation at the Hidden Creek smelter a device making possible the recovery of copper from fine dust. This dust carries about 4 per cent copper values, so that about eighty pounds of copper is expected to be recovered from each ton. For some time past the management has been accumulating this dust in anticipation of recovering the copper values. The Hidden Creek ores have been running better than had been expected and with the recoveries from the dust there will be extracted about forty pounds of copper from each ton of ore. Precious metals values have also been averaging higher, as against specifications of fifteen cents in gold and silver actual recoveries have been between twenty-five and thirty cents a ton. An important saving in costs will be effected through lower freight rates to be obtained from shipping blister copper to the refinery at Laurel Hill, New York, through the Panama canal rather than overland by rail. It has been costing the company about $12.50 a ton for the transcontinental haul, but a figure has been procured from steamship companies which will ensure a saving of more than 50 per cent in this item. The Grand Forks plants have about reached their highest stage of efficiency, but with copper at or above fifteen cents per pound, net profits come from this department. Costs have been maintained at about ten and one-half cents a pound with six out of eight furnaces in operation. The new smelter produces at about eight and one-half cents a pound, but a cost of between seven and seven and one-half cents is eventually looked for.

WAS FIRST FATALITY IN ST. MARY'S RAPIDS

Clipping from Old Newspaper Tells of Drowning of Three Men at Soo 68 Years Ago.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 25.—Captain Charles H. Spalding, assistant superintendent of the St. Marys Falls canal, has a "scrap book," which has been in his family for more than three-quarters of a century. One of the clippings chronicles a thrilling account of the first fatal accident known to have happened in the rapids, of U'e St. Marys River. The clipping is from the Lake Superior News, dated "Sault Ste. Marie," June 12, 1847, and it is given as follows:

"One of the most distressing accidents that ever occurred at the Sault Ste. Marie, and which it becomes our duty to record, took place Thursday afternoon, carrying down the rapids, to every heart. A party of citizens and persons from abroad had agreed to descend the falls of the Ste. Marie river, situated immediately above this village, and with that view proceeded to the head of the Portage, where they procured a yawl boat in which to make the descent—a feat at times considered hazardous, and yet, strange to say, in its frequent performance hitherto no accident ever occurred, ending in the loss of life. The party on this occasion was nine in number, consisting of Capt. John Stannard, Captain Robert Brown, and Messrs. E. G. Seymour, Thomas Riches, John Parker and William Flynn of this place; Dr. Hugh T. Prouty of Monroeville, Ohio; A Spafford of Perryburgh, Ohio, and Mr. Wales, clerk of the steamboat St. Clair. With this company, the boat started on its perilous voyage. When about half-way down the rapids it shipped a breaker that filled her nearly half full of water, and bailing was commenced. But a moment more, the boat having reached what is called the "big leap," (being some eight or ten feet in descent) it was by some reaction thrown on end after descending and all were precipitated into the foaming rapids.

"This catastrophe was witnessed by many of our citizens who were watching the voyage from the shore. Boats were immediately procured and put out to render assistance to those who showed signs of surviving the struggle of the dashing waters and reach the foot of the rapids. Messrs. Stannard, Brown, Wales, Spafford and Parker succeeded in sustaining themselves until picked up by the boats which went out, or by the Indians who were fishing from their canoes. By the Chief of the latter, Mr. Seymour was discovered floating at the bottom of the river, and rescued by means of a spear with which the Chief succeeded in entangling his coat, thus raising him to the surface. So completely was Mr. Seymour exhausted when taken out that for some time resuscitation was considered doubtful. By proper application and incessant rubbing for hours, animation was finally restored, although, at the writing of this (Saturday morning) he is still considered to be in a critical condition."

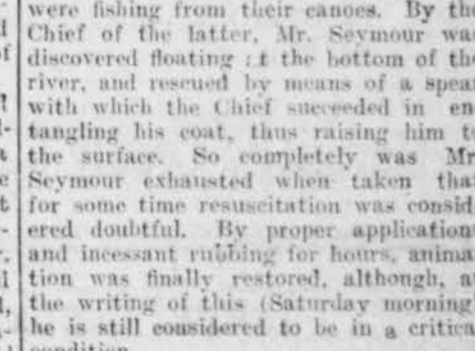

"The other three men, Dr. Prouty, and Messrs. Riches and Flynn, were again pained to say, were drowned, and their bodies have not been discovered. Dr. Prouty was one of a pleasure party, who, with his wife, were on an excursion to this place. An Huron county, Ohio, where he was a resident, he had been a practicing physician for twenty years—possessing, we are told by those who knew him best, all the traits of character that adorn a noble heart; and that for public usefulness, private worth and warm esteem, no man stood higher in that section of the state. Besides his bereaved wife he leaves four children to mourn his unfortunate death."

"Mr. Riches was formerly of Detroit, but for the last two years has been engaged as engineer of the propeller 'Independence,' in which situation he had won the warm regard of his leader officers and by his urbanity and kindness, the confidence and respect of the entire community. Mr. Flynn was an exemplary young man, about nineteen years of age, residing in this village, and in the employment of Stevens & Cornwall."

"The Ste. Times learns that the object of this ill-fated cruise was to take soundings of the rapids for the passage of the schooner, Uncle Sam; a sailing boat which was then on Lake Superior and drawing six feet of water, light. The schooner afterwards passed safely over the rapids that ever accomplished the feat."

CHILD LABOR IN THE PAST.

The protest in England against the suggestion that young children should provide cheap labor for farmers reminds us that one of the crying scandals of the past was child labor in the fields. This was largely in the form of "agricultural gangs" which frequently consisted of unfortunate infirm paupers let out to task masters by the parish. The practice continued until the passing of the Education Acts, and it is one of the most striking proofs of the tender age of the children employed that the Agricultural Gangs Act, 1867, passed for their protection, enacted that no child under the age of eight years should be employed in an agricultural gang.—London Chronicle.

J. SIMON WAHLMAN TO RUN FOR MAYOR

Wellknown Contractor Has Consented to Accept the Republican Nomination.

J. S. Wahlman, who was waited upon yesterday by a committee representing the party, has consented to accept the nomination of mayor on the Republican ticket. During the past few days he received many other requests to become a candidate.

Mr. Wahlman is regarded as a strong candidate. He has never sought office, but has always been a Republican and has given his time and money freely in support of the party candidates on county, state and national tickets.

Mr. Wahlman has been engaged in contracting business for many years and was born and brought up in Ishpeming. His parents were among the first Scandinavian settlers here and upon the retirement of his father from the contracting business he took it over. He has been one of the most successful contractors in the upper peninsula and during the busy seasons of the past fifteen to twenty years he has employed from fifty to 100 mechanics. Among his present workmen are several who have never worked for anyone else in Ishpeming. Some of his oldest hands first entered the employ of his father some thirty-five years ago. Mr. Wahlman has always paid the highest scale of wages and is held in high esteem by his workmen.

Mr. Wahlman will be nominated by acclamation.

Full People's Ticket Likely.

The leaders of the People's party have not yet made any announcement as to who will be their candidate for mayor, or, in fact, for any of the other offices. However, it is expected that the party will nominate a complete ticket at a mass convention to be held in Andrews' hall next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

DIED IN SEATTLE.

Joseph Duschaine Wednesday evening received a telegram informing him of the death of his sister, Mrs. Charles Marceau, in Seattle, Wash. She had been sick but a short time and early Wednesday Mr. Duschaine received a message to the effect that she was critically ill. Mrs. Marceau spent the greater part of her life at L'Anse, where her parents still reside. A short time after she moved to Seattle, about a year ago her husband was injured, and he has been confined to a hospital the greater part of the time since then. Mrs. Marceau was thirty-six years of age and is survived by her husband and four children. The body will be brought to L'Anse for burial.

CAN YOU DO BETTER?

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a medicine with an established reputation and that is widely esteemed for its excellence. Can you do better than to keep it in your home? Mrs. L. B. Miller, Vandergriff, Pa., says of it, "I always keep Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and I consider it unequalled for children or adults. I gave it to my son Boyd for croup and whooping cough and have used it myself for bronchitis. The results have always been highly pleasing." For sale by All Dealers.

MRS. TILLSON INJURED.

Ishpeming Woman Was Hurt in Automobile Accident in Miami.

Mrs. F. P. Tillson, who left here three or four weeks ago for points in the southwest, was injured a few days ago in an automobile accident, though her friends will be pleased to learn that she was not seriously hurt. She is visiting F. P. Mills and family and Mrs. Mills and other friends were in the car with her.

The Miami Silver Belt had the following account of the accident: "While an iron tank, located part way down the hill near where the ground has caved in along the road between the Miami and the Inspiration mining properties, may have been responsible in one way for some of the injuries received by the members of an automobile party, in another way the iron tank may also be said to have saved the lives of all of the members of the party by suddenly stopping the car."

"The story is that Mr. Charles Arnold, who is connected with the general offices of the Inspiration Consolidated Copper company, his wife and his wife's mother, Mrs. Mills, all went to the depot last night for the purpose of meeting the incoming Arizona Eastern train, which brought from Ishpeming, Mich., Mrs. F. P. Tillson, who was planning a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Mills. For the purpose of conveying the members of the party to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Mills, the services of Mr. N. B. Howerton, a chauffeur who operates a service car between Globe and Miami, were secured.

"Under ordinary circumstances the trip would have been made in safety, but just at the critical moment while the auto was passing one of the danger points where one of the 'cave-ins' has occurred the car 'went dead.' The result was that the members of the party found that they were being carried down the hill by the car backing over the bank. The one thing which stopped the automobile in its plunge down the hill in the darkness was the iron water tank."

"It was about 10:30 p. m. when the members of the automobile party were removed to the Miami-Inspration hospital. An examination revealed that Mr. Howerton, the chauffeur, was probably the most seriously injured of the group, having received a severe blow on the abdomen and sustaining internal injuries. However, it is believed he will recover unless complications set in. Mr. Arnold received severe injuries about the head. Mrs. Tillson was badly shaken up and received a number of bad bruises. Mrs. Arnold sustained a dislocation of the bones of one of her feet. Mrs. Mills was not injured."

CORPORAL O'LEARY'S EXPLOIT.

An Ishpeming man, who has been following the war closely, has received from a friend in England a copy of the Illustrated London News telling of the exploit by which O'Leary, whose heroic conduct has caused wide spread comment, won the Victoria Cross. The magazine says, in part: "Lance-Corporal (now sergeant) Michael O'Leary, of the First Battalion Irish Guards, won his V. C. in the words of the official record, for conspicuous bravery at Quinchy on Feb. 1, 1915. When forming one of the attacking parties which advanced against the enemy's barricades he rushed to the front and himself killed five Germans who were holding the first barricade, after which he attacked a second barricade, about sixty yards further on, which he captured, after killing three of the enemy and making prisoners of two more. Lance-Corporal O'Leary thus practically captured the enemy's position by himself, and prevented the rest of the attacking party from being fired on."

"Further details of O'Leary's remarkable exploit were given by Company Quartermaster-Sergeant J. G. Lowry, of the Irish Guards, who was present at the action. 'Our First Battalion,' he said, 'had been holding trenches near the LaBasse brickfield, and our losses were heavy. The Germans had excellent cover, both in trenches and behind stacks of bricks. We were all delighted when the order came that the brickfield had to be taken by assault the next day. "Lance-Corporal O'Leary never looked to see if his mates were coming, and he must have done pretty near even time over that patch of ground. When he got near the end of one of the German trenches he dropped, and so did many others a long way behind him. The enemy had discovered what was up. A machine-gun was O'Leary's mark. Before the Germans could manage to slew it round and meet the charging men, O'Leary picked off the whole of the five of the machine-gun crew, and leaving some of his mates to come up and capture the gun he dashed forward to the second barricade, which the Germans were quitting in a hurry, and shot three more."

"O'Leary came back from his killing as cool as if he had been for a walk in the park, and accompanied by two prisoners he had taken. He promptly saved the lives of a whole company. Had that machine-gun got slewed around, No. 1 company might have been nearly wiped out."

"A PAIR OF SIXES" TONIGHT.

The Ishpeming theater offers tonight H. H. Frazee's famous international hit, "A Pair of Sixes," which comes here direct from a run of a year at the Longacre theater, New York City, where it was hailed as the funniest farce in twenty-five years. It deals with the troubles of two partners who call in their lawyer to dissolve their partnership. His efforts to accomplish this task to the satisfaction of both the belligerents furnish no end of side-splitting complications.

W. G. Mather and other officials of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company are expected here Monday, to remain a few days.

About two inches of snow fell here Wednesday night and yesterday. The wind shifted to the north and there was a pronounced drop in temperature.

Otto Fransen, an old and wellknown resident of the Sixth ward, is a candidate for the nomination of alderman on the Republican ticket.

Beeman's Mannikins, a novelty act, will be the vaudeville attraction at Ishpeming theater the first half of next week.

Miss Merle Trembath, who is a student at Lawrence university, Appleton, Wis., is home to spend her Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trembath.

There will be a lively contest in Ishpeming township for the nomination of supervisor. There are three candidates, Solomon Milymaki, the incumbent, Matt Hocking and Henry Routhier, Jr.

John Mandley, an employe of the Ishpeming postoffice, and Miss Esther Olson, of this city, were married recently in Marquette by Rev. K. M. Wilkins, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church.

Miss Rachel Schryer, who taught school in Ishpeming for several years, going from here to the copper country, where she is still teaching, passed through here this week on her way to her home near Flint, where she was called because of the critical illness of her sister.

John Hennessy of this city, who for the past two years has been holding a clerical position in the office of the Milwaukee Sentinel, left there this week to take a more lucrative place in the office of the Firestone Tire company, which has branches in many of the larger cities.

Mrs. C. E. Sloan will leave tomorrow morning for Appleton and Oshkosh, Wis., where she will spend several weeks with relatives. Her husband, who has been in Texas for the past few weeks, is feeling considerably improved in health as a result of the change in climate.

F. J. Heindel, manager of the N. E. Skud Estate stores, who has been in Chicago and other cities the past week, will be home today. He wired Miss Stella Skud Thursday that he had picked up a fine line of the latest suits and coats and also a large assortment of the new things in dry goods.

The Orpheus City Four, who opened an engagement last evening at Ishpeming theater, is one of the best comedy acts that has appeared here in some weeks, and it kept last night's audience in continuous laughter. The quartet will lay off tonight, as "The Pair of Sixes" company will appear at both the matinee and evening performances tomorrow. An excellent comedy picture in tomorrow's program is "Bunny's Little Brother," a two-reel Vitagraph drama, featuring John Bunny, Flora Finch and Jay Wiggins. The eighth episode of "The Exploits of Elaine" will also be shown.

NOTHING WANTING.

Some time when you have a bad cold give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a trial and you will find nothing wanting in that preparation. It loosens a cold, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration and enables the system to throw off the cold in much less time than the usual treatment. Mrs. L. R. Allison, Logansport, Ind., says, "I have never found anything that gave me relief like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy does." For sale by All dealers.

WAR-TIME PHILANTHROPY.

A few days later an officer who handed another a letter in a West End restaurant in London, appealed through the "Agony" column to have returned to him the £50 note the letter contained. "For said officer must resign his commission, having no further private means," which may or may not be the second chapter in the history of the "newly gazzeted officer."

The philanthropic persons whose hearts are touched by the thought of the soldiers in the trenches can spend most of their time sending money to the countless funds being collected by well known people, by the half known who desire the publicity to place them in the first category, and by the totally unknown whose motives can hardly be any but the most despicably mercenary. Lady Jellicoe, the wife of the commanding admiral of the fleet, has inserted advertisements in all the important newspapers to say that no naval man need be without warm blankets, that all he has to do is to have his commanding officer send word to her, as her supply from charitable contributions is almost inexhaustible. From other sources it is learned that poor Lady Jellicoe is almost buried in blankets, that every available inch of space in her house is taken up with blankets, and that a friend's house is in the same condition. Yet, in the personal columns of the newspapers the appeals for money to buy blankets for soldiers and sailors are repeated with agonizing reference to the unhappy condition of the man so far from the comforts of home.

Possibly the most heart-stirring call is this: "Will you help the sorely tried workmen of the brave men at the front? A most urgent appeal is made for funds to carry on the unique and immensely important work of the Royal Savoy Needlework Guild, which is helping to protect the lonely womenkind of our brave soldiers against the many temptations of drink and its terrible evils. We are saving many homes from ruin and many lives from demoralization. We ask each member to take a war-time abstinence pledge, and supply them with, and pay for, the work of making garments for the soldiers. Will you help to extend this double benefit to a wider degree? Send us today if possible a donation, large or small, or an order for garments. Our need is very pressing and every contribution will be most gratefully accepted and acknowledged. Please address Mrs. _____, Hon. Sec., Choir School, Savoy place, W. C.—London Letter.

"ALL'S WELL" ON FRONT IN FRANCE

So Says German Newspaper Man, Home from Complete Tour of the Trenches.

Berlin, March 14.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—"I have come back from the front as a convinced optimist, even if there are some things which I cannot explain," writes a correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung who has recently been making a round of the German trenches in Belgium and Northern France.

"The pause has been used to the utmost advantage. The north of France and Belgium have been transformed into a German border province, whose granaries, ammunition depots and bases for the provision of war supplies are everywhere and ready at a sign, to send thousands of tons to the front, while the hospitals and transports for the wounded are marvelously organized. All the warlike preparations in the west have been placed on a new and extraordinarily strong footing.

"In many respects these preparations surpass even German mobilization. Here in the depots you feel how this preparation for war has been thought out in the most concentrated way. An unprecedented energy is devoted to it. While greater and greater masses of men are being hurled against our wall outside—with only a wave now and then breaking over the dam, while our trenches are sending the storming parties home again with bloody cost, all the time our inner fortresses are being more heavily armed until the signal for a new offensive can be given. Kitcheners' millions and the new French army have never alarmed us, although we must not underestimate them. But it is one of our characteristics to look only to the front and to believe only in the existence of what we can clearly perceive.

"Before I went to the front, all accounts and stories of the war left me unconvinced. Even when I passed through the trenches in front of Rheims, where the front of the towers of the Cathedral still stand out almost uninjured; when I walked over the heights which dominate Arras, that junction of important railways and roads; when I heard the thunder of the cannon by Ypres, where the trenches are driven right up to the town, I had a lively desire to criticize. Why had we not held on to those towns? We were once in them! Why had we not closed the gap between our right wing and the North sea in the days when Antwerp was being taken, so that Calais and Dunkirk might now be in our possession. What has happened in the woods of the Argonne and on the Marne?

"When I began to talk about my doubts and to complain, and began to question this person and that, in order to gain information to convince the Philistines at home, they simply put a map in my hands, which was marked with a blue pencil round the broad plain by Rheims.

"I was then invited to regard with my own eyes our excellent disposition on the plateau which overlooks the Aisne. I was shown the crest of the hill in front of Arras on which our front lines, the Kemmelberg, the center of our own position in Flanders, the high road to the west in front of Ypres, behind the protection of which the besieged city is hidden. The whole position was carefully explained, and I was invited to say whether I could devise any better dispositions which could render our front more secure and more favorable, in view of the whole line of battle in the west and the east.

"Even though much knowledge was worth a visit to the front. But some will say: What does this dreadfully long pause mean? It would not be surprising if someone in the trenches or in the villages at the base or in the depots, were to complain of the dragging of the war. Millions of men accustomed to work with their brains and hands, who had their roots in their busy lives and devoted all their strength to their work, have become all at once diverted to other tasks. The thunder of the cannon and the flash of the rifles are all that they have to think about. A mound of earth or the face of a companion is their solitary company, week after week, and a great desire burns within them. If only they say, 'we could come out of our holes we should have done with these fellows opposite.' They envy their comrades in the East, where there is movement, marching and storming. They do not notice that the deeds of Hindenburg's army are also, perhaps, done to them. But they are all of one mind: It is our duty to wait and be patient, and therefore we do it." Should not those at home, safe and dry and well-fed, who declare the waiting to be too long, feel ashamed?

"I have seen the trenches, the endless labyrinth of underground passages and refuges, the guns and the obstacles in front of them, the men at their work and the work with incomparable calm and self-possession they complete and protect their labor with every possible plan and provision. And I have come to the unalterable conviction that our fortress in the west can never be taken."

Sprague, Warner & Co.'s Vacuum Improved Coffees are recommended to persons who fear coffee will cause nervousness, sleeplessness, palpitation, headache, indigestion, dyspepsia, or other disturbing effects.

MISSING CRUISER IS WAR MYSTERY

Strassburg, a Ship of Kaiser's Navy, Unheard from Since War Began.

New York, March 25.—Deepest of all the mysterious occurrences which have marked the progress of the war, the case of the German cruiser Strassburg, which has never been heard from since the start of hostilities, stands without a parallel.

It was more than a year ago that the Strassburg, a light, fast cruiser of the Karlsruhe type and a year older than that vessel, went to South Atlantic waters in command of Rear Admiral Reuter Paschwitz.

The admiral and his officers were entertained at Buenos Ayres on March 6, 1914. Later the vessel went to Montevideo, then steamed to Valparaiso, where she was during part of the Mexican trouble. Just previous to the declaration of war the Strassburg entered the port of St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, and began to coal. On Aug. 2 she was known to be still in that port. But from that time to this not a word has been heard of her. Her consents at that time were the Karlsruhe and the Dresden, the latter of which has just been accounted for.

It is believed now that the case of the Strassburg is one of those mysteries of the sea that may never be solved until the day when "the sea gives up its dead." If the cruiser had been sunk by British vessels the fact surely would have been made known. Caught in a West Indian hurricane, without coal supply, the plight of a vessel of the type of the Strassburg would indeed be serious. Perhaps, battered by wind and sea, and driven, helpless, through unfrequented paths, the little cruiser has gone to join the company of dead ships in the Sargasso sea, whose clinging, gripping tentacles of marine growths may already be entwining themselves over her steel sides and covering the muzzles of her long four-inch guns with slimy vegetation.

According to insistent reports of the last few days the Karlsruhe, which had been raiding British and French shipping in South American and West Indian waters, was wrecked off the Grenadines of the Windward Islands, either by a gale or an explosion.

How vast is the work of supplying an army in the field may be conceived from the fact that in one month there were issued to the British forces on the

FOUGHT FOR LIVES IN BLINDING STORM. Officers of Torpedoed Steamer, Carib, Reach New York on Nieuw Amsterdam.

New York, March 25.—(The destruction of the American steamship Carib, which struck a mine off the German coast Feb. 22 while on route with a cargo of cotton from Savannah to Bremen, was described by officers of the vessel who arrived here as passengers on the Holland-American line steamship Nieuw Amsterdam from Rotterdam.)

TURKISH WOMEN ARE NOT SUFFRAGETTES

Have More Pressing Interests Than Getting the Vote, American Is Told.

Constantinople, March 10.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Interviewing three young Turkish women in Constantinople college, The Associated Press correspondent was frankly told by them that the educated Turkish woman of today knows more of America than Americans generally know of Turkey.

The interview was remarkable for the fact that the three Turkish girls were allowed to appear without the traditional veils. Louise Wallace, one of the American women in charge at the institution, who had arranged the interview, had advised the young women to put on the veils, without which they never venture into the presence of men, but the three representatives of feminine young Turkey thought they could meet Americans without hiding their faces.

Accordingly Ezzah Hanim, Semha Hanim, and Hatije Hanim were ushered into Miss Wallace's office to meet the American newspaper man. The girls were not sisters, the name Hanim not being the family name, but the Turkish equivalent for "lady." The young ladies declined to have their family names mentioned, but were eager to embrace the opportunity of talking to a representative of the American papers, who they thought might find some "news" in the present position of women in Turkey.

"Ladies" Ezzah was the most alert of the three and did most of the talking. She punctuated her remarks with pleasant smiles. She explained that while life had many serious aspects, she was inclined to look on the bright side of things. At school she had some-thing of a reputation of being a "regular tomboy." But like her companions, she was a young woman of charming manners. All three spoke English with ease, while Miss Ezzah used Americanisms with a delightful grace. They also spoke French and German, beside their native language.

Hatije Hanim was taking an advanced history and sociology course; Ezzah Hanim was absorbed in science extensively, and Semha Hanim studied history and science.

Eager for Education. The young Turkish woman is very eager to get a "higher education," said Miss Ezzah with eagerness. She thought that the women of Turkey were the superiors of their brothers in that respect. "Many of our men are still somewhat indifferent to education, but conditions are improving. The new regime is doing everything possible to catch up. So far, however, the schools for the girls have been slighted a little. The boys' schools are much better and I believe really good. But we hope that within a few years the girls will have the same chance as the boys."

"Some time ago one of our universities started a course of lectures for women," remarked Miss Semha. "The rush for admission was so great that many failed to get the opportunity they sought. The lectures are given by the professors who teach the men, which I take to be one of the many signs that the seclusion of the Turkish woman is nearing its end. Most of us still wear the veil, of course, but the condition which once existed in Turkey may be considered as of the past. You will still find more veiled women in Constantinople than you will in the provinces, where very few women are in school today. Of course, the harem is still in existence. But I believe that its days are counted. I wish to correct a very popular error concerning the harem. It is generally believed that the harem is a Mohammedan institution. It is not. As we know the harem is entirely Ottoman and was first a Greek institution. When the Ottomans

AMERICAN HOSPITAL MODEL INSTITUTION Has Its Home in College of Juilly, Where D'Artagnan Slept in 1660.

LIBERTY FOR HENPECK! LAW SAYS HE IS BOSS

Cleveland Judge Rules That the Husband May Stop Wife from Going to Her Club.

Cleveland, O., March 25.—The husband is the "boss" of his own household. Most married men will accept this statement with doubt, but a wise and able judge has so declared, and it is now up to Mr. Henpeck to throw out his chest and assert himself, knowing that he is backed by something more tangible than moral support.

Since faraway days when poor old Father Adam bowed to petticoat rule and bit into that apple, man has been the under dog in the great scheme of things. Any married man will support this contention.

As the world matured conditions grew steadily worse, until at the present time the family man has about as much individuality as a cigar store Indian. From the early morning hours, when he creeps from his couch to begin his daily exercise with the furnace, to the twilight hour, when he crawls wearily homeward to a cold dinner and a dish washing festival, life to him is one long grind.

The only time when he is relieved with anything like warmth is on Saturday night, when he is met at the hat-rack by his spouse who relieves him of his pay envelopes and counts the coin to see if he has left anything out. If the total is correct he will get his usual handout for carting and laundry, and perhaps, be permitted to escort the children to a moving picture show.

But now things are going to change—that is, if man will take up the cudgels in his own behalf—for a 1915 Solomon has handed down a decision in favor of the male hiped and one that should give him courage to go out and declare himself.

The wise jurist is Judge Vickery, of the court of common pleas at Cleveland, who, in dismissing a divorce petition recently, declared that "no woman has a right to associate with other women over the objection of her husband; that no woman has a right to go out night after night without her husband, and that women's clubs must not be permitted to interfere with a husband's happiness."

Of course, it will take a man with a superabundance of nerve to lay down the newest interpretation of the law to his wife, but for those who fear that they lack the necessary bravery there will be plenty of entertainment in sitting tight and watching their holder brothers make the fight for domestic freedom.

And if the affairs of the average household should be reconstructed in accordance with the suggestions made by Judge Vickery if not only will mean that the time-honored jukes about undarned stockings, missing buttons and wireless nights at home must be abandoned, but that the afternoon tango and tea parlors are going to get a severe setback.

The rainbow is shining for "father."

WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

May Find Help in This Letter.

Swan Creek, Mich.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When through neglect or overwork I get run down and my appetite is poor and I have that weak, languid, always tired feeling, I get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it builds me up, gives me strength, and restores me to perfect health again. It is truly a great blessing to women, and I cannot speak too highly of it. I take pleasure in recommending it to others."—Mrs. ANNIE CAMERON, R.F.D., No. 1, Swan Creek, Michigan.

Another Sufferer Relieved. Hebron, Me.—"Before taking your remedies I was all run down, discouraged and had female weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sensitive Wash, and find today that I am an entirely new woman, ready and willing to do my household work, where before taking your medicine it was a dread. I try to impress upon the minds of all suffering women I meet the benefits they can derive from your medicines."—Mrs. CHARLES ROWE, Kennebago, Maine.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

THE GARDEN.

Radishes, lettuce, beans, beets, and tomatoes are all comparatively easy-grown vegetables which give satisfactory returns in the spring garden.

The State Department of Agriculture's specialist recommends these particularly for use in school gardens which are run for the benefit of the children. Not only teachers, but others desiring to raise these truck crops in their own home gardens may benefit from these suggestions.

Radishes are hardy plants and thrive best during the cool weather of early spring and late autumn. In the South they can best be grown during the winter and early spring months. The seeds should be sown in drills, in rich, well-prepared soil, placed about half an inch apart and buried not deeper than one inch nor less than one-half inch. When the plants are showing the second set of true leaves they should be thinned to stand from two to three inches apart in the row.

Lettuce is a hardy plant and thrives best during early spring and late autumn. The seeds should be sown in drills in the open or in boxes in the window. If in the open, the seeds should be scattered about one-half inch apart along the row, and covered not more than one-half inch with earth. Firm the earth well over the seeds, so as to bring the moist soil in contact with them. When the plants are well up, thin to six inches apart in the row. If the seeds were sown in a window box, hotbed, frame, or greenhouse, transplant the young plants to stand two by two inches apart as soon as the seed leaves are well expanded, and when they begin to crowd transfer them to their permanent places in the open, if the weather will permit. In the field, they should stand at least six inches apart each way.

Beans are tender plants. They cannot endure frost and will not stand transplanting well. It is best to wait until the seeds of this plant in the open where the plants are to grow, delaying the work until severe frosts are past. Plant in rows one foot apart, placing the seeds about two inches deep at intervals of six inches. Keep the soil loose and free from weeds.

Beets, while they are hardy and can be planted at the same time as radishes and lettuce, require a longer season for maturing. The seeds should be planted in rows one foot apart, placed an inch apart in the row and covered one inch deep. When the plants are well up (two inches high), thin to four inches apart in the row. Keep the soil well tilled at all times.

The tomato is the most exacting of the plants included in the collection. From Washington southward the seeds may be planted in the open at the same time as beans, but to the north of this point the seeds should be sown in boxes, hotbeds, or greenhouses from the first to the middle of March, the young plants being transplanted to stand two by two inches apart as soon as the first true leaves appear. When they begin to crowd in their new positions, shift them to 4-inch pots or to cans such as are used by growers of tomatoes, and keep them growing slowly until about May 15 to June 1, when it will be safe to place them in their permanent locations in the garden. Set the plants in rows eighteen inches apart and place the plants about twenty inches apart in the rows. Each plant as it grows should have all side branches removed and the main stem tied to a stout stake, about five feet tall and at least an inch square, driven firmly in the ground.

Anderson Blamed for Tragedy.

"We, the jury, find that Oscar Johnson came to his death by being struck on the head with a blunt instrument in the hands of Victor Anderson." This was the verdict rendered by the coroner's jury in the inquest over the death of the late Oscar Johnson at Iron Mountain. Johnson is alleged to have been killed during an altercation in the saloon of Emil Carlson. Johnson is said to have been under the influence of liquor, when a controversy arose between the bartender, Victor Anderson, and Johnson; the latter was struck on the head, the blow being fatal. An autopsy disclosed that Johnson's death resulted from a fractured skull, the physicians testifying that death could not have been averted had Johnson received immediate attention after the brawl.

Violated Liquor Law; Fined $100.

As the result of a "round up" at the Soo, two men faced Police Judge Rock D. Frederick, pleaded guilty to violation of the liquor laws and paid fines of $100 each, rather than serve ninety days in the county jail. The men are William Brown, a driver employed by the Kling agency, who was charged with selling liquor on Sunday and Koster Pavlovich, charged with keeping a "blind pig."

Woman Dies from Effects of Assault.

WATER MAIN ISSUE TO BE VOTED ON

Bonds to Amount of $25,000 for Necessary Improvement Up on April 5.

At the election April 5 the taxpayers will vote on the question of loaning the city the sum of $25,000 for the purpose of defraying the cost of laying water mains in certain streets.

At a recent meeting the council adopted a resolution citing that many of the present mains are inadequate for proper fire protection and asserting that "it is the sense of the common council that it is a public necessity and the welfare and safety of the people and property of the city demand that new cast iron mains be laid in the following streets of the city, to-wit:

"A 10-inch cast iron water main on Teal Lake avenue from the station to Main street.

"A 12-inch cast iron water main on Main and Jackson streets from Teal Lake avenue to Cyr street.

"A 10-inch cast iron water main on Cyr street from Jackson street to Iron street.

"An 8-inch cast iron water main on Peak street from Teal Lake avenue to Grand avenue."

The resolution provides that the money raised on the bonds shall be repaid as follows: Sept. 1, 1919, $5000; Sept. 1, 1920, $4000; Sept. 1, 1921, $4000; Sept. 1, 1922, $4000; Sept. 1, 1923, $4000; Sept. 1, 1924, $4000. The bonds will bear interest not to exceed 5 per cent per annum from their date.

Echo of Copper Country Strike.

George Barrek, arrested at Calumet on the charge of intimidation and on a warrant issued during the time of the strike, has been sentenced to serve thirty days in the county jail by Justice Fisher. The complaint was made by Joseph Jasper, who alleged that during the period of the strike he was pulled from a Wolverine street car and severely beaten. The officers were unable to locate Barrek at the time and for more than a year and one-half he escaped punishment. Last week Jasper recognized his alleged assailant on the street and called the attention of an officer to the fact there was a warrant for his arrest. After investigation of the circumstances, the intimidation charge was dropped and Barrek was re-arrested on the charge of assault and battery. Barrek appeared before Justice Fisher and entered a plea of guilty.

ROBERTS-STANAWAY.

Wellknown Couple United in Marriage Here Last Evening.

Miss Mary E. Roberts, daughter of Thomas Roberts, of the Cornishtown location, and Thomas Stanaway, of Ironwood, were married last evening at 7 o'clock at the Roberts home by Rev. R. L. Hewson, pastor of the Mitchell Methodist church. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Grace Pascoe, and Norman Stanaway, brother of the groom, was best man. Only immediate relatives of the couple witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Stanaway departed last evening for Duluth, where they will visit for a few days, after which they will go to Ironwood, where they will make their home. Mr. Stanaway is employed as foreman in the Ironwood Greenhouses.

The cloak and millinery departments of E. M. Klein's store will have their opening on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday. The millinery department is in charge of Mrs. Thomson, of Chicago.

Finds Human Bone in Trout's Stomach.

Dave Cadotte, a Keweenaw Bay fisherman, recently caught a Mackinaw trout which contained one of the bones of the forearm of a human being. Judging from the size of the bone it was that of a grown man. The trout is believed to have feasted on the body of some sailor drowned in Lake Superior, as no wrecks have occurred in this bay. It is declared by fisherman that Mackinaw trout are the scavengers of the lakes and will devour anything in the way of food.

Another Theater for Escanaba.

A contract has been awarded to John S. Lindsay by James P. Cleary of Escanaba for the construction of a modern theater building at 809-811 Ladington street in that city. The building will be leased to John J. Hines, now of the Bijou theater, and will be ready for opening by July 1. The structure will be 50 by 110 feet in dimensions and will be of fireproof material. Reinforced concrete, stone and brick will be the materials used. Actual work will be started as soon as the frost is out of the ground. An artistic facade will set off the structure. A commodious foyer, opening into the auditorium, will occupy the immediate front. The seat-

Soo Threatens to Cancel Contract.

Unless the Soo's garbage ordinance is complied with during the next fifteen days the city will cancel its contract with Martin F. Lunde, who was recently awarded a contract covering a period of ten years, he to be paid $2,000 for each of the first two years and $1,800 for each of the remaining eight years. Action was taken by the common council when a report was made by the special committee appointed recently by Mayor Handy to investigate the situation. The committee consisted of Aldermen McEvoy, Lapsch and Purvis. The report stated that it was found that Lunde was not fulfilling his contract and that garbage had not been collected as required. It was the recommendation that the contractor be given fifteen days in which to make good.

WHERE WAS JACKSON BORN?

North and South Carolina are again at war over the question of Jackson's birthplace. Tar Heels admit that Jackson himself believed that he had been born in South Carolina, according to his statement in a letter written in 1824: "I was born in South Carolina, as I have been told, at the plantation whereon James Crawford lived." But this statement is not the most certain conceivable and in 1903 North Carolinians were electrified by the discovery that the land records of the ground upon which Jackson was born, and which later became part of the Crawford plantation, were recorded at Charlotte, N. C. Ever since that discovery, South Carolina has been on the defensive, but it has been an offensive defensive, at times developing into a counter offensive. To confirm her claim, North Carolina has erected a monument upon the sacred spot, which, as time goes on, will itself come to constitute part of the evidence in the case. Historic maps and letters are hazy things, which the ordinary person seldom sees and more seldom understands, but there is no getting away from a monument.—New York Evening Post.

THE ELGIN MARBLES.

The adventures of the Elgin marbles, now safe from Zeppelins in the nearest approach to a crypt the British museum can furnish, began in 1803, when they were wrecked at Cerigo on their way from Greece to England. It took the divers three years, and a vast sum of money, to fish up the Parthenon relics. It is believed that Lord Elgin spent over $370,000 in procuring these priceless fragments left by Turkish vandals, who would probably have made an end of even these had the earl not rescued them in time. The house of commons voted $180,000 for their purchase, so that the enterprising peer lost heavily in cash, and suffered from a public agitation against his alleged "vandalism, rapacity and dishonesty," as well as from Byron's "Curse of Minerva."—London Chronicle. Extensive graphite deposits have been discovered in British Honduras.

FARM EXPERT RECOMMENDED

Committee of Supervisors Yesterday, Meeting With W. F. Raven, of the Michigan Agricultural College, Decided to Submit Proposal to County Board.

R. J. Baldwin, of Lansing, Advises Against Uniting With Alger County in Engaging a Trained Man to Assist the Farmers in Improving Their Crops.

When the county board meets next Wednesday there will be presented a definite proposal for the employment of a farm specialist. The special committee of the supervisors having the matter in charge voted unanimously yesterday to submit the proposition.

Engaging an expert for farm work depends upon the passage of a bill, now pending in the legislature, which will permit counties to expend money for purposes of this nature.

If the plan of the special committee is carried out, the first step will be the organization of the farmers. A farmers' club will doubtless be formed, similar to clubs in the lower part of the state.

The committee has decided that it would not be advisable for Marquette and Alger counties to unite in the employment of a specialist.

Supervisor Vandenberg, secretary of the committee, was requested yesterday to write Senator A. T. Roberts and Representative Ewing, asking that they support the farm agent bill.

Mr. Raven is going to handle this proposition for us during the present year in the upper peninsula.

The cold wave of the last two days, which, it is expected, will continue throughout today, has brought to a summary end the cleaning up of the downtown streets.

The carp river bridge was completed last week, and is now in use for all traffic to the south of the city.

AUTOS WILL SAVE MONEY FOR CITY

Efficiency in Three Municipal Departments Is Also Greatly Increased Thereby.

The purchase by the city of three automobiles will, the officials believe, effect a considerable saving as well as insure increased efficiency.

The third car is for the use of Health Officer Main, who has a large territory to cover almost daily.

Applications for 1915 liquor licenses have now been filed with the city clerk and will be read at an early meeting of the city commission.

THANKS AMERICANS FOR THEIR DONATIONS

Letter of Appreciation for Gifts Is Received by Miss Margaret Conklin.

Appreciation of the donations of food, clothing and hospital supplies from American givers to Belgium and French war sufferers is conveyed in a letter received by Miss Margaret Conklin from a sister of Mrs. N. L. Duryea.

"In a recent letter, Mrs. Duryea writes me, in part, as follows: 'The splendid cases, come pouring in, and are divided among the refugees and soldiers. I could just hug all those dear Americans, who have made possible such happiness.'

"I am profoundly moved, madame, by your sympathetic generosity, after all the good you have rendered our wounded by your kind letters, the necessary instruments for the operating room of Hospital No. 54 (Hotel Crystal).

"I would, madame, that I had the talent of a great writer, to express to you my unchangeable gratitude. Unfortunately, soldiers, being men of action, are rarely writers, and, for my part, I have never so regretted it as today.

"And, that our wounded of tomorrow, like those of yesterday and today, may never forget your names, I desire that it should be placed in Hospital 54, to baptize the largest ward, where lies the greatest number of our wounded soldiers. It shall be so inscribed today, by my command.

"I beg you, madame, to truly believe in the endless gratitude of the French army and the armies of the allies, as well as in mine, and I lay at your feet, madame, the profound homage and respectful admiration of my entire devotedness. (Signed) Commandant Viry."

CARD OF THANKS. We wish sincerely to thank our friends for the sympathy and kindnesses they extended to us during the illness and after the death of our beloved husband and father.

That is the Opinion of Bishop Williams, in Milwaukee Case. It seems that goat meat is lamb after all and E. L. McIntyre, assistant city attorney of Milwaukee, will have to abide by the decision of the Bible since he first quoted the good book to prove that it wasn't, says the Evening Wisconsin. According to Bishop G. Mott Williams, of Marquette, the assistant city attorney cited the wrong statute, so to speak, in making his ruling relative to the lamb likeness of goat meat. Here's the bishop's ruling on the same question and as in the matter of the Bible, the bishop must be considered the supreme court, the assistant city attorney is as good as overruled and his decision reversed. "Mr. McIntyre quotes Matthew xxv, 32, to prove that goat meat is not mutton and states that it is the law of Moses. "Of course Matthew xxv, 32, is not the law of Moses, and has nothing whatever to do with goat meat considered as food. "The real law of Moses is that goat meat is mutton. Let the assistant city attorney read the twelfth chapter of Exodus at the fifth verse and he will see that the passer lamb might be chosen from among the goats. That is a real food decision.
