The Liberal government has little to complain of with regard to the attitude of the Conservatives in parliament. They have given loyal support to the ministers and have refrained from making the houses arenas for partisan debate. The government's original proposals for dealing with the drink evil broke as much on the Liberals as on the Conservatives. A rather different condition has existed, however, in the press. The great Conservative organs have discussed the government with a frankness that has suggested rather serious division about the conduct of the war. Particularly has it directed its shafts against the lord of the admiralty.

Differences between Fisher and Churchill appear to have precipitated a question that was, it seems, bound to come to the front in time anyway. That there would be a change in the admiralty sooner or later has long been foreseen, and the prospective readjustment has been discussed through the several past weeks. Fisher and Churchill have incompatible temperaments. Fisher is an old sea dog, who remade the British navy and remodelled British naval addispositions for the army. It has been generally regarded as only a and Fisher would come to the parting of the ways, and it has been generally predicted that when they could no longer agree it would be Churchill who would have to go, for the British public has exhibited a marked predilection for professional direction of the army and at London.

DR. DUMBA TO THE FORE.

Much less has been heard of this gentleman, Dr. Dumba, than of the German ambassador, the Germans, apparently, insisting on overshadowing their ally in diplomacy as in military councils, but now he appears perhaps more available for certain phases of the pending negotiations than his colleague, who has not been able to escape some of the prejudice that has attached to Dr. Dernburg in American eyes. Particularly his warning to Americans against proprieties.

But Dr. Dumba has laid himself open to no suspicion of overzealousness, borand in particular it is asserted that the sion, the case seems hopeless. wisdom of the series of reprisals culminating in the sinking of the Lusitania marks shows that while he holds the has been held by the Austrians to be navy to be good enough, what there is open to question. WAR BREEDS WAR.

War breeds war is a saying the truth of which is suggested by the prospective Italian adventure. In Italy the national spirit is now fully aflame. HIGHLAND MARY.

Small as is the number of statues of women in Britain there are two of one woman, concerning whom very little is actually known save that she was of humble origin and was associated with the life of Scotland's greatest poet. Passengers on the Clyde steamboats are familiar with the statue of Mary Camp bell, whom Burns immortalized as "Highland Mary," which overlooks the pier a Dunoon. There was a good deal of con troversy about the memorial at the time of its erection, and the late Mr. Henley referred to it in his famous "Essay or Burns" as a "fantasy in bronze." Liv erpool, with whom Mary Campbell had no association whatsoever, has also chos en to commemorate her, and a marble statue stands in the Palm house at Sefton park, eneircled with choicest bloom all the year round.

HOW TO CURE A CHRONIC COUGH

Told in the Following Letter by a Jackson Man Who Knows from Experience. His Word Is Good.

Jackson, Miss.-"I am a carpenter, and the grippe left me not only with a chronic cough, but I was run-down, worn out and weak. I took all kinds of cough syrups but they did me no good. I finally got so weak I was not able to do a day's work, and coughed so much I this week. was alarmed about my condition. One evening I read about Vinol and decided Ashland division for permission to cruise to try it. Before I had taken a quarter two bottles my cough is entirely cured, all the bad symptoms have disappeared Hancock division last year. As yet nothand I have gained new vim and energy. -JOHN L. DENNIS, 711 Lynch Street, Jackson, Miss.

The reason Vinol is so succeesful in such cases is because the active redicinal principles of cod liver oil contained in Vinol rebuilds wasting tissues and supplies strength and vigor to the nerves and muscles while the tonic iron and wine assist the red corpuscles of the blood to absorb oxygen and distribute it through the system, thus restoring health and strength to the weakened, diseased organs of the body.

HUMAN SACRIFICES OLD FRIENDS BID

Mrs. Stevenson Says Babies and Wallack's, at New York, Falls Girls Are Fed to Snakes-U. S. to End It.

Washington, May 19 .- "In spite of sacrificed as part of the religious ceremonies of the Tewa Indians, the tribe this handful of descendants of a once s a most solemn and sacred event, marked by ceremonies of rejoicing in which the great sun chief takes part; and the sacrifice, the cutting up of the odies of their unmarried women and babes to feed to rattlesnakes, is their supreme appeal and most solemn religous rite to appease one of their aninal gods."

Thus does Mrs. Matilda Coxe Stevnson of the bureau of American ethology speak, and she speaks with auhority, for she it was who gave to the world recently the astonishing discovery that human sacrifices were taking place in two Indian villages where white men daily come and go, and one of them within ten miles of Santa Fe. Only the unimpeachable standing of Mrs. Stevenson, one of the two women anthropologists in this country and for thirty years an expert of Indian affairs with the bureau of ethnology, made credible the statement. The Indian office is ready to investigate and stamp out the hitherto unsuspected practice.

Religion Mainspring of Action.

"No one," she says can understand any of the Pueblos, of whom the Tewas who now number about 600, are a branch unless they bear in mind that their religion is the mainspring of all their actions. A curious mixture of superstition, mythology and poetry, empodving ancestor worship and a strong belief in the malignant powers of some of the animals they regard as deitiestheir faith is deep rooted. They live after the Baker performances had end-

At the rising of the sun on the twelfth day the child was carried out into the light and the Sun Father offered the following prayer:

"May the child grow to womanhood; may she speak with one tongue, I gentle and kind to all, and may all b gentle and kind to her. Secrets of Zunic. Each of these two great divisions is ub-divided into fraternity groups which bear a close analogy to lodge or fraternal orders; so close, that when Mrs. Stevenson published her book on the Zuni Indians, to whose religious organization the Tewas is closely akin, five prominent Masons wrote to her asking where she had learned the ritual of the Masonic order. "Of course," said Mrs. Stevenson, " know nothing of Masonry. I but set down what I had learned of the rites and ceremonials of the Zunas, which are, however, almost as closely guarded as Masonic secrets."

The performance marked the ending of the honorable career of Wallack's, which has extended over thirty-three years.

When the lights were lowered after midnight this remaining monument to the fame of Lester Wallack passed away forever, a victim to the encroach. ment of commercial business on a district of whose night life it was once the center.

Dedicated Jan. 4, 1882.

A few who were present on the night of January 4, 1882, when Lester Wallack dedicated the theater with a bribliant performance of "The School for Scandal,' dropped during the evening to e present at the obsequies which were neld after the regular performance. They roamed around the roomy lobbies, taking a last look at the faded prints on the walls, telling each other how the good old theater had maintained its lignity to the last gasp. "Lester Walack would have turned in his grave," they said, "if the movies or cheap burlesque had captured the theater in which he took so much pride, but which in his later years became such a burden to him

Charles Burnham, the last lessee of the property, who has so successfully preserved the theater's high standard of entertainment since it was left behind by the northward progress of night life, took charge of the simple ceremonies ed. War Comparable With the Panama Excavation.

Paris, May 5 .- (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)-"How much dirt," said a wag the other night, 'do you think has been excavated in Europe since August 1?" He meant the query as a joke, thinking it as hard a nut for a statistician as the question, "How many grasshoppers are there in Kan-sas?" But I remembered that mathematical sharps have figured out how many gallons of water there are in the ocean and did not despair. As a result of my researches, as a European journalist would put it, I am in a position to state that

If the embattled hosts of Europe continue digging trenches at the rate they have kept up since the war began they will have excavated June I more earth than was taken out of the Panama canal ditch. It took the United States thirteen years and cost more than $350,-000,000 to finish the job. But, remem ber, we did not do it by hand. Colonel Goethals had big dredges that gobbled up from two to six tons at each bite and gently deposited the mouthfuls in waiting flat cars. If we had to dig that canal by hand-well, these figures, unlike the others in this story, are not guaranteed-but by the pick and shovel method of the soldiers, it might have taken 196,000 workmen 473 years to link the Atlantic and Pacific.

Goethals Job Minor League Affair. The total amount of rock and dirt excavated at Panama was about 45,000, 000 tons. In eight months the fighting armies over here have shoveled out approximately 34,905,600 tons, working most of the time under fire. It is not likely that the Panama figures, at present the world's record, will be passed by June 1, because entrenching is not now being carried on to the same extent as earlier in the war, but Panama will be made to look like a minor

And here is where we get those figures. The battle line on the west front is about 450 miles long, and on the east front we will say that 450 miles are en trenched, although fighting is proceed ing along a crooked line of more than 700 miles. There are at least three lines of trenches on each side at most places, the two rear lines holding sup-In many places there are more than three lines, in some on the east front probably less. Then, in England, at least, 300 miles have been dug along the east coast as a precaution against a possible German landing, and also as an exercise in trench digging, a dress rehearsal for the territorials before sailing for the real Inspect Figures on German Ditches.

There remain the precautionary trenches, dug in Belgium in the Metz and Strassburg regions, and all along the Rhine by the Germans, against a possible retreat. Obviously, these figures are most inexact of all, but from what is known of German methods and foresight, and from reports received from those who have seen the formidable works which await the allied advance it seems safe to say that there are 600 miles of trenches in Belgium and 1,100 around Metz and the Rhive for

All these figures added together give a total of 10,0000 miles of trenches dug during the war. The average trench is six feet deep and five feef wide at the top. Including traverses and dug-outs which every well-regulated trench boasts in profusion, two cubic yards of earth are removed for every yard of trench dug. A cubic yard of earth weighs

The rest is easy. Figure the number of yards in 10,100 miles, multiply the number of yards by two, and you have the number of cubic yards and tons of earth excavated, 34,905,000. About 20,000,000 men are now under arms in Europe, according to Hiallaire Belloc, England's foremost military expert. Many of these men have been digging trenches at more or less frequent intervals. If we say that half of them have not yet reached the trench digging stage, even in the rear of the battle lines, we find that each of the 10,000,000 remaining warriors has dug up nearly three and a half tons of Mother Earth.

Loss of Triest and Fiume Would Spell Disaster to the Great Empire.

Washington, May 19 .- As the price of eace, Italy is reported to be expecting from Austria-Hungary the surrender o the Dual Monarchy's entire seacoast. These expectations are said to amount to demands as regarding Trent, Triest, Istria and Fiume. In connection with showing the true significance of such demands, how great is the payment de manded by Italy for her continued neutrality, the National Geographic society issued a statement dealing with Fiume the sole scaport of the kingdom of Hungary. The statement reads:

"Austria Hungary carries on its busi ness with the outside world through its great ports. Triest and Fiume. The fu ture of its over-seas commerced is largel bound up with the development of thes cities; for Triest and Fiume are the New York and Boston of Austria-Hungary or, better, they are the Dual Monarchy' Hamburg and Bremen. Fiume is th only outlet of the Hungarian kingdom to free water, and the Hungarians have spent millions of dollars in their eneavor to make it a model port. The great Austrian port and the Hungarian ort are keen rivals, and, during the las few years, Fiume has grown sonfewhat at the cost of its northern neighbor. "Owing to the deep interest which the Hungarians take in their coast city, the usiness of Fiume has grown rapidly There are several harbors; one for coasting vessels, one for timber, and a general harbor, begun in 1872, and capable of accommodating about 200 large vessels. It is protected by a breakwater nore than half a mile in length and i lanked by a great, modern quay more han two miles long. The wharves and levators are equipped in the most up-to late fashion for the handling of a huge nflow and outflow of trade. The waterront, as the rest of the city, is lighted y electricity. Its trade is thus about onealf that of the port of San Francisco. Its exports consist chiefly of the agricultural products of Hungary grain, flour, ugar, timber; horses and some manufactured wares. The principal imports are coal wine, rice, various minerals, fruit, jute, chemicals, oils and tobacco. There are several industrial establishments in the city, among them Whitehead's torpedo factory, a large paper mill, a royal tobacco factory, flour mills tanneries and rope factories. REED SUPPLY CUT OFF BY WAR.

American Manufacturers in Some Cases Unable To Continue Operations.

Washington, May 8 .- One of the disvantages which American industry as suffered through the European wa has been the cutting off of supplies of reed used in the manufacture of furni ture, baby carriages, etc. This formerly came in large part from Hamburg, Ger many, but the German government at the beginning of the war placed an embargo on its export and American mann facturers have been in many cases unable to continue operations because of a lack of raw material. The rattan from which reed is made grows in the East ladies and was formerly imported largely into Hamburg and there cut into cane and reed.

After the war broke out greater attention was directed toward a supply said to exist in the Philippines. An investigation was instituted by the United States department of commerce and plies of a good grade of rattan were growing in the Philippine forests, buy that no organization for export existed and there were many difficulties in the way of gathering and preparing the rattan and sending it to this country. The whole subject is comprehensively bandled in a reports from the Manila correspondent of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce, Mr. John R. Arnold, which there are several grades of rattan which are of no value for manufacturing purposes, there are considerable supplies of the better grades in most of the provinces of the islands. The matter of getting it to Manila and exporting i egularly is the principal problem in the situation to be solved and this probem is viewed from several angles in the report. Mr. Arnold says that possible plans of establishing an export industry are (1) an arrangement for gathering rattan by the existing firms handling lumber or other forest products; (2) purchase of supplies from the present concessionaires who are now en gaged in buying comparatively small quantities from the natives for local uses; and (3) the establishment of an organization devoted exclusively to the handling of rattan. The last-named project seems to be the only one that is feasible, but this will take considerable capital and a careful and intelligent Get One of the Free Bill Folds Given

ANGLICAN CHURCH DISPUTE SETTLED

Decision in Famous Kikuyu Controversy Is Favorable to Low Church Men.

London, May 1 .- [Correspondence of he Associated Press.]—The Kikuyu Controversy, which threatened a year ago to disrupt the Church of England, has been settled here with hardly a rip ple, so petty has the fight between high und low church appeared to the oppos ing factions in view of the war. It was settled by the archbishop of Canter sury, the Anglican primate, on the side of toleration and marks a decisive de feat of the high church party. Kikuyu is a village in tropical Africa

In June, 1913, a religious conference was held there in a Scotch Presbyterian church, attended by Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and Congregational mist England at the hands of an unepiscopally pishops of the Church of England (Epis copal). On Sept. 30, the Anglican bishop of Zanzibar, Dr. Weston, issued his fanous attack on his brother bishops, ac using them of heresy and schism be cause of participating in a service with and administering communion to nononformists. The question then resolved itself into he historic high and low church quarret. High churchmen claimed that the Anglican church is a part of the universal or Catholic church and as such has nothing to do with the Protestant church strictly speaking. They further held that Anglican clergymen cannot join is ommunion with non-conformist clergy sen, who, in the Anglican view, are not ordained ministers of the universa church since the principle of apostolic necession is denied by the nonconform ists. Therefore, non-conformist ministers ociation with them would only stand i the way of the Anglican ideal of consolidating the English, the Roman Catholic and Greek Catholic churches into one authoritative church.

The low churchmen rallied to the support of the African bishop and accused the bishop of Zanzibar of trying to disrupt the church in order to enforce medieval views of authority, which had nothing to do with Christianity.

A conference was held in Lambeth Palace last July, where evidence was taken and submitted to the archbiship of Canterbury. In his findings, only now made public, the Primate says there is no objection to Bishop Peel of Mombasa and Bishop Willis of Uganda attending a joint Protestant missionary meeting He declares that although no sanction would be given to the acceptance of ommunion by members of the Church of ordained minister, the Anglican bishops at Kikuyu gave communion to devout Christians under unusual circumstances. The Primate finds their act justified, providing it is not regarded as setting a precedent.

Speaking of the Kikuvu Controversy settlement, the Daily News says editorially: "It is a decisive defeat for the bishop

CAVALRY GIVES WAY TO THE PLANES

Its Important Function Was Scouting and Airmen Are Better at That.

New York May 19.-The more modern warfare resolves itself into the beleaguering of endless lines of trenches, the less use will there be for cavalry. Siege tactics offer very little or no trenches, discarding lance and sabre for spade and rifle.

It is the airmen who are now acting as the eyes and ears of the opposing forces, and the measure of their superiority over cavalry is the measure of pursuer over hostile territory, where, the superiority of the aeroplane over the horse as a means of rapid progres- tured.

Airmen Ideal Scouts.

How great the superiority of the aeroplane for scouting purposes really is can best be judged by the fact, which is a matter of record, that less eight machines are employed, although vast territory, they immediately found than 1 per cent of the reports sent in twice at Cuxhaven and at Ostend, at themselves running counter to the wishby cavalry scouts during the German tacks on a much greater scale have been es and purposes of other nations, and advance into France in August of 1870, successfully made. Under modern conditions the gavalry scout who gets near enough a hostile position to learn anything of real value has very little chance of returning alive with his information, whereas it is beginning to be recognized that the aeroplane makes the safest and best observation post there is. Washington, May 19.-One of the inernational complications that is rearded in many quarters as having contributed something to the general feelng of bitterness which culminated in cerning the geography of the European war an interesting picture of the international difficulties growing out of the building of the German Bagdad railroad

"Some years ago there was developed in Berlin a plan looking to the construction of a railroad from the capital f the Teuton empire to the Persian culf. This road was planned to pass through Asia Minor, thence across the Euphrates to the Tigris, pass Ninuveh and Bagdad to the Persian gulf at Bassorah. The relation between bird music in the music of people has been demonstrated, but the exact nature of the re lation has not been made clear, say the Indianapolis News, Much, it would eem, depends upon whether we ge our music from the birds or they get theirs from us. The weight of opinion seems to be that they get theirs fron s, a natural conclusion for us t nake, but one which might involve th birds in all sorts of difficulties.

There is no reason at all why a bird bould not pick up, now and then, a catchy little popular air and transpor it to suit his voice, and if he has th patience to learn a part of an opera of f he prefers, an aria in Italian to on of his own make, it makes things al the more enjoyable for him and for u and for everybody concerned. The question is, however, how is the bird oing to know what kind of music to hoose and, more important still, who kind is he going to choose? The diffi ulty will begin this summer when th loors and windows are open and when from every house, or at least every fall into fields or into the sea. But even other house, in the block there wil come strains and strains, any number of strains, of music, There will b music of every sort, the melodious vio in will waver against the band and there will be the noise of many voice inging, or trying to sing everything from "Teenie, Eenie, Weenie" to the polonaise from "Mignon." And above and beyond and through and behind and in front of all will be the insist-nt jingle of the piano. What is a poor bird going to do? It e is a bird without a mind of his own just like some silly people who only want to do what everybody else does, he will lose the mind he does not have and his voice, too, trying to sing every-beneficial to Wolverine."

Relative to rumors that are current about an exchange of property between Centennial and Wolverine, local officials of the latter company deny knowledge of any negotiations. The rumors were that Wolverine would exchange its most northwestern corner for an equal amount of ground from Cenntenial. A sub-shaft will be required to work this Wolverine angle and it will probably mean the installation of an electric hoist and the rehandling of the rock, so if a deal such as the street has been talking about in consummated it will be

New Cornelia-Calumet & Arizona. According to an Arizona paper, the preliminary work for the railroad to the New Cornelia property is progressing rapidly. Incorporation papers were filed this month for the Tucson, Cornelia & Gila Bend Railway company, with a capitalization of $3,200,000. The directors named for the railway company in the incorporation papers are men associated with both the Calumet & Arizona and the El Paso & Southwestern organizations. President Briggs of the Calumet & Arizona heads the directorate. Dr. L. D. Ricketts, Captain John C. Greenway, G. R. Campbell, Cleon T. Knapp and J. E. Curry, all of the Calumet & Arizona official family, and T. M. Schumacher, Walter Douglas and H. J. Simmons, all of the E. P. & S. W. and Rock Island organizations, complete the directorate The railroad means a great deal not only to Cornelia and Calumet & Arizona, but to all of Arizona. Among other things, it practically assures in its title that there will be later extension to Tucson. The first construction, however, is stipulated

You see it illustrated evey day—users of the Real Tobacco Chew telling friends the glad tidings about the small chew that satisfies.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco-seasoned and sweetened, just enough-cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much. 66 Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste. ??

Called It Betrothal Ring. This ring was referred to by H. Noel Humphreys, an authority, in an article in the Observer in February, 1862, in which an illustration of it appeared. He described it as the betrothal ring, but the Pinkerts have always understood that it was used at Luther's marriage. He says "The betrothal ring of Luther which belonged to a family at Leipsie as late as 1817, and is doubtless still preserved with greatest care as a national relic of great interest, is composed of an intricate device of gold word, set with a ruby, the emblem of exalted love. The gold device represents all the symbols of the Passion. In the center is the crucified Saviour, on one side the spear with which the side was pierced and the rod of reeds of the flagellation. On the other is a leaf of hyssop."

In the work of William Jones, "Finger-ring Lore," published in London in 1877, he describes the ring as follows: "Beneath are the dies with which the soldiers cast lots for the garment without seam, and below are the three nails; at the back may be distinguished the inside of the Atonement; the whole so grouped as to make a large cross, surmounted by the ruby, the most salient feature of the device. On the inside of the ring the inscriptions are still perfect. They contain the names of the betrothed pair and the date of the wedding day in German-13 Juni 1525. HORSE GIVEN A MEDAL.

A Russian artillery horse won a pronze medal at Plevna. Orders were given for some ammunition wagons to e hurried to a spot that meant crossing the enemy's zone of fire. All the time, says a London newspaper, shells were crashing among the horses, bringng them down in heaps and frightening such as escaped. Times without number did the Russian drivers, sparing neither whip nor spur, attempt to urge the horses forward, but they stood cowed and shivering with fright. Some were blindfolded; but the effect was the same, and only one horse showed any willingness to go.

Thereupon the driver jumped down and, cutting the traces of the other horses, drove the willing one at full gallop through the fire. The wagon passed through without exploding, and after the war the horse was decorated in the manner described and the driver

A "better babies" contest, which it is proposed to conduct in connection with the prize babies contest at the Marquette county fair in September, was a matter considered by the Women's Welas to the advisability of holding the contest will be made by a special committee. Mrs. H. T. Carriel, Mrs. John McPherson and Mrs. Mabel McIntosh constitute the committee. The question of the contest was broached by Mrs. A. T. An Unsightly Place.

Steps will be taken by the club to prevent the dumping of refuse along the banks of Whetstone creek, south of Fisher street. The objectionable spots are especially those on the north embankment, which is in full view of steamers coming into the harbor and clocks an hour ahead during the sumclub to determine the best method of bringing about the removal of the unsightly waste material and prevent the dumping of further refuse. As there is little or no garbage among the material deposited along the creek. Vivian Martin Today.

Miss Vivian Martin plays the leading role in the World Film corporation photoplay, "The Arrival of Perpetua," which will be shown at the Marquette Opera House today. Miss Martin's success in "The Wishing Ring" was followed by her appearance with Lew Fields in "Old Dutch," in which she took the part of Violet Streusand, the daugh ter of the old inventor.

In "The Arrival of Perpetua" Miss Martin plays the part of Perpetua, a little school girl whose father died, leaving her a lot of money and a guardian, Thaddeus Curzon, an eccentric oung man. Thaddeus is difficult to locate. So Perpetua makes her way to her father's half sister, an antique maid. The girl tires of these surroundings and runs away. She finds "Guardy" at home, but is grudgingly and coldly received, Eventually Perpetua returns to her hunters. She feigns poverty, and thi is "Guardy's" opportunity. The little romance comes to a happy end.

Delft Theater.

"The Millionaire's Hundred Dollar Bill," a two-part Vitagraph feature, will be the feature of the program at the Delft today. The play is an argument against those who are cynical of human nature and believe only evil of it. Two clubmen make a wager. One claims human nature is dishonest and selfish, the other that it is not. They drop an envelope with a $100 bill in it in a public park and Helen Wynford picks it up. The two men see her go straight to a modiste's and order a beautiful gown and the cynic laughs, but she is seen later to apparently give the nill to a poor shopgirl, and his friend claims the bet. Both are wrong, but Helen later does use the bill for a truly charkable purpose, and gives up the gown. The cynic meets her, with the result that a marriage takes place. Other pictures to day will be "The Eagle and the Sparrow," a f'elig drama, and "Slippery Slim's Wedding Day," an Essanay West

Shop Men Opposed. If the Lake Shore Engine works furnishes a fair index of the views of the workingmen of the city they will be opposed to any change. A straw vote there yesterday showed fifty-six against the plan, thirty-six favorable to it and nine who were indifferent. It is proposed to take similar votes in other shops and the mayor will endeavor to learn in other ways what local sentiment is on the subject.

Mayor Begole is personally inclined to believe that it would be inadvisable for Marquette to make the change, but he is willing to be convinced, and takes the position that if there is any gen eral demand for the "more daylight plan it should be given a trial. The in dications are, however, that the "antis" will prove to be in a majority.
