

ADMITS CONSPIRACY TO BLOW UP MUNITION SHIPS

AUSTRIAN PLANES RAID VENICE; ONLY THREE PERSONS INJURED; GREATEST DAMAGE TO CHURCHES

Rome Is Indignant at Bombardment of Famous Scalzi, News of the Attack Stirring People to Extraordinary Extent—Newspaper Sarcastically Refers to "Pious Emperor" Who Permits Weight of Wrath to Fall on Places of Worship—French, Having Joined Hands with Serbians, Inflict Severe Defeat on Bulgarians in Near Eastern Theater—Russian Front Is Yet See-Saw

Rome, via Paris, Oct. 25, 11 p. m.—Another air raid on Venice occurred at 8.40 o'clock this morning. Three Austrian aeroplanes dropped several bombs on the city. Three persons were slightly injured.

SERBIANS ARE NOT BAD OFF.

The first desire of the Germans, however, is to open a route through north-eastern Serbia and Bulgaria to Turkey and this is on the eve of being accomplished. On the other hand military writers here do not believe that the position of Serbia is so desperate as has been painted. It is serious, of course, but they point out that the Serbians have many natural defensive positions in the mountains in which they can hold out for weeks; that with the British, French and other members of the quadruple powers carrying out their determination to help Serbia by rushing reinforcements to Saloniki and other points the Bulgars will have an extremely warm reception and that the Germans and Turks, being fully occupied elsewhere, will not be able to send them much help.

GERMANS IN WEST HIT HARD.

British correspondents in France have just disclosed the fact, made known to them by the British staff, that even after the Anglo-French offensive in September the Germans had the greatest difficulty in securing new reinforcements to meet that adventure and had to call upon men just returned from Russia for rest to fill the gaps in the western lines. From this, it is argued that the Germans cannot spare a great many men for the Balkans, especially as the Russians are keeping them fairly busy from the Baltic to the Romanian border.

PORTER CHARLTON FREE IN TWENTY-NINE DAYS

American in Italy Who Murdered Wife, Found Guilty, But Circumstances Aided Him.

Como, Italy, Oct. 25.—Porter Charlton, the American, who has been on trial here charged with murdering his wife in 1910, was today condemned to six years and eight months imprisonment. The jury found Charlton only partially responsible and that there were extenuating circumstances. Owing to amnesty Charlton will serve only twenty-nine days in prison.

Charlton, under the verdict, benefits by the time he has been under restraint, and, in addition, a year is taken off the sentence under the amnesty for all offenses committed before Italy entered the war.

Even though he was greatly pleased over the verdict of the court and viewed with pleasure his approaching liberation from custody, Charlton maintained his usual restrained and almost passive attitude. He thanked all those about him for their congratulations.

Charlton said that after his release he would return to the United States and join his family. Before departing, however, he said, he would visit and personally thank friends in Como, who had, by their kindness, lightened the hours of his imprisonment, and especially Ambassador Thomas Nelson Page, who, as the representative of the American government, had seen that his legal rights were observed.

BRUSSELS IS WARNED BY GERMAN GENERAL

Amsterdam, via London, Oct. 25, 5:21 p. m.—General von Bissing, the German general of Belgium, has issued a proclamation, according to a Brussels dispatch to the Telegram, accusing the inhabitants of that city of notifying the enemy forces of the location of buildings in which German troops are housed, thus causing many air raids. If the raids continue, says the proclamation, the troops will be quartered in the homes of the civilians, contrary to the agreement, heretofore made. Similar steps will be taken, if, hereafter, arms and ammunition are found in the possession of residents of Brussels.

DEFENSE PLANS SEEM ASSURED OF ACCEPTANCE

Representative Hay, of Virginia, Head of House Military Committee, After Conference With President, Announces He Favors Army Increase Program.

Senator Chamberlain, Leader in Upper Branch of Congress on This Phase of Legislation, Already Has Approved Suggestions for Stronger War Force.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Mobilization of the full strength of administration forces in support of the national defense program apparently was assured today when Representative Hay, of Virginia, chairman of the house military affairs committee, after a conference with President Wilson, announced himself in favor of the army increase plans.

Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the senate military committee, already has approved the proposal to build up a regular and continental army of more than a million men in six years.

Formal publication of the plans in detail will follow Senator Chamberlain's conference with the president next week.

The navy $500,000,000 five-year building program already has been approved by both house and senate leaders.

GARRISON PREDICTS SUCCESS.

The importance attached to Representative Hay's announcement was indicated by the fact that soon after it was made Secretary Garrison broke the silence he had maintained as to army plans ever since he received President Wilson's letter directing him to have prepared a comprehensive view of the nation's military needs and recommendations for strengthening the national defense. Mr. Garrison tonight issued this statement: "I am, of course, delighted. This will insure the best possible results. With the aid of Mr. Hay's experience and skill in formulating the measures and his powerful advocacy in support thereof success in the house is assured."

"I understand that Senator Chamberlain of the senate military committee takes a precisely similar attitude so that there will be hearty co-operation and united effort all along the line. This situation should hearten and embolden all those who are interested in seeing this vital subject properly considered and properly settled."

CONDITIONS IN MEXICO REPORTED MUCH BETTER

Improved Train Service and Telegraph Noted—Friendly Feeling Toward Foreigners.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Conditions throughout Mexico are showing marked improvement, according to an announcement by Secretary Lansing today. The secretary was able to give an optimistic report of the situation to George Baklanoff, the Russian ambassador, who made inquiries today, preparatory, it is believed, to advising his government concerning recognition. The British and French ambassadors recently made similar inquiries and it is now believed recognition of the Carranza government by many of the European powers will follow in the near future.

The state department issued tonight what was generally regarded as the most hopeful summary of conditions yet received from consuls and special agents throughout Mexico. It said:

Conditions Greatly Improved. "Advices dated Oct. 23 from Monterey state that through Pullman service has been established from Laredo to Mexico City for the first time in a year and a half. It is stated that there is also improved train service to Tampico and Matamoros and that telegraph lines are operating between most cities and towns. A more peaceful feeling is said to prevail and the friendly feeling toward Americans is more manifest than for a long time.

"The consul general at Monterey informs the department that he is receiving no complaints and that both foreigners and natives are commenting on the improved treatment of the people in general. Good rains and favorable weather are reported to make the outlook for pasture and garden stuff brighter in the Monterey district. The purchasing power of money of the de facto government is reported to be increasing."

In several sections of England coal miners are threatening to quit work, evidently emboldened by the success of the Wales miners in their recent strike. They complain of interference with their right to act.

FAY INVOLVES FOUR MEN IN PLOT TO SINK CRAFT WITH GOODS FOR ALLIES

Max Breitung, Whose Identity Is Kept Secret, and Who, As Yet, Has Not Been Apprehended, Is Accused in Confession of German Secret Service Agent of Having Furnished Money for Some of Explosives—Paul Daeche and Dr. Herbert Kienzle Have Been Arrested on Evidence Provided in Statement Given New York Police By Prisoner.

New York, Oct. 25.—Details of a plot to hamper the shipment of munitions of war to the allies by placing clock-worked bombs on the rudders or propellers of ships so timed that the ships would be disabled on their way across the Atlantic were disclosed today in the confession of one of five men charged, in a complaint filed with a United States commissioner, with conspiracy to violate a federal statute.

Following upon the confession of Robert Fay, a lieutenant of the Sixteenth Saxony infantry, who admitted that he came to this country last April, through an agreement with the German secret service, to blow up or delay steamers laden with war supplies for the allies, William J. Flynn, chief of the secret service, tonight filed before United States Commissioner Houghton a complaint in which not only Fay, but four other men are charged with promoting the conspiracy. The hearing on the federal charge was set for Nov. 4.

GERMANY FURNISHED MONEY.

Fay confessed that while on the battlefield he talked with his superior officers about a device to blow up ships, that later his idea of coming to America and carrying his scheme through was well received by the German secret service, that he came well enough supplied with money to act on his own responsibility and that he talked with Captain von Pappen, military attache, and Captain K. Boy-Ed, naval attache of the German embassy, about the plan, but they had refused to have anything to do with him.

FAY'S CONFESSION COMPLETE.

The confession of Fay, who said he had been decorated with the Iron cross for fighting in the Champagne district in France, covers his arrival in the United States on April 23, last, his making of clock-worked bombs since then and his activities in experimenting with explosives along the Hudson river. Quantities of acid in the room occupied by Fay and Walter L. Scholz, in Weehawken, N. J., and boxes, each containing 120 pounds of chlorate of potash, used in making so-called sugar-bombs in a boat-house on the Hudson, had been found after the arrest of these men on Sunday. Scholz, a brother-in-law of Fay, is a mechanic.

TWO MORE ARE ARRESTED.

Two other men were arrested today and another, making the fifth, was named in the complaint, but he had not been apprehended. The new arrests were:

Paul Daeche, Jersey City, N. J., who said he was a graduate of Cologne university and came to the United States in 1912.

Dr. Herbert Kienzle, twenty-eight years old, manager of a clock company, charged in the complaint with having aided in procuring explosives materials used by Fay, committed to the Tombs for examination on Nov. 4.

MAX BREITUNG ACCUSED.

Max Breitung, about whose identity no details were disclosed, also was named in the complaint as one of the conspirators. It was stated that Breitung had not been apprehended.

Other information, which, he said, would be against public policy to reveal at this time, Chief Flynn declared would be disclosed later. In his complaint to Commissioner Houghton, Chief Flynn stated that Paul Siebs, formerly of the German army, had become a government witness. It was set forth that Siebs had received money from Fay and Breitung for chlorate of potash—on Aug. 15, $112 from Breitung and later $23 from Fay. The chlorate of potash was said to be part of the material found by detectives in the boat-house.

The men are charged with conspiring to violate a section of the United States criminal code, which says:

"Whoever upon the high seas or in any other waters within the admiralty and maritime jurisdiction of the United States, by surprise or by open force, maliciously attacks or sets upon any vessels belonging to another with an intent unlawfully to plunder the same or to despoil any owner thereof of any monies, goods or merchandise laden on board thereof shall be fined

SCHOLZ BLAMES LIEUT. FAY.

Scholz late tonight gave out a statement explaining his actions since coming to this country and his relations with Fay. To Fay he gave all the credit of the idea of the exploding devices to be attached to ships, but said that only an empty mine was ever actually used. Scholz said he came here four years ago from Cologne, where he studied architecture, and civil engineering. It was while working on a farm at Waterford last April that he received, he said, a request from Fay to come to this city.

TRIED EMPTY MINE ON SHIP.

"Fay wanted me to work for him and said he would give me $25 a week," Scholz said in his statement. "Fay told me of his secret to make mines. We made tests of explosives and experiments with the exploding devices. We never attached a loaded mine to any ship. We did attach an empty mine to an English vessel that was loading at this port. It took us ten minutes to do it. All the explosives we had would not explode in their present condition. The three bags of T. N. T. (tri-nitrate toluol) had to be melted and dried and further prepared before it would go off. "It was all Fay's idea. He was allowed to come by the German government. I believe he got $1,000 from that government."

12 GIRLS PERISH IN FLAMES WHEN FACTORY BURNS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 25.—Thirteen persons were killed and eight injured by a fire in a four-story building, the two upper floors of which were occupied by the Union Paper Box company, on the North Side here this afternoon. Of the dead all were young women employed by the company, except one. Many of the bodies were so badly burned as to make identification difficult.

Mayor Joseph G. Armstrong at once ordered that the police, city council and the coroner make thorough investigation of the fire.

The flames started in a pile of straw in the rear of the seed store of James B. Brown & Co., on the first floor of the building. William C. Kimbel, general manager of the box factory, at once went to the third and fourth floors and warned the girls employed there to leave quietly. The flames gained headway so rapidly, however, that escape by means of stairways and fire escapes was soon cut off. Some of the girls attempted to go to the dressing room for their hats and there, huddled on the floor, firemen found a majority of the bodies.

CHAS. NILES AVIATOR. HURT AT EXPOSITION

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—Charles Niles, an aviator at the Panama-Pacific exposition, had his nose broken today when he made a bad landing in the presence of many thousand school children, who were given a half holiday from the city schools to see Thomas A. Edison. Niles' aeroplane rolled over and Niles fell out when he unstrapped himself.

Charles Niles flew at Marquette July 21, in connection with the auto races at the new fair grounds.

LETTERS REVEAL HOW NEW HAVEN HIT COMPETITOR

New York, Oct. 25.—Letters to and from Charles S. Mellen, which he identified for the jury today in the trial of the eleven New York, New Haven & Hartford directors on the charge of monopolizing New England's transportation traffic, furnished written evidence of the steps taken by the New Haven road to crush its principal competitor, the New York & New England railroad company.

The letters, dating back to 1895 and 1894, set forth the action taken by the New Haven to require the prepayment of freight charges by the New England on freight interchanged by the two roads at connecting points and the steps taken to induce the trunk line railroads outside of New England to route their traffic over the New Haven instead of over the New England road which had connected with them by way of the Poughkeepsie bridge over the Hudson river.

"Our bitterest antagonist" was the appellant given to the New England in one letter which Mr. Mellen wrote to Charles P. Clark, president of the New Haven, in discussing the question of the business the New England was getting from the Jersey Central, the Reading, the Lehigh Valley and the Baltimore & Ohio. Mr. Mellen was then second vice president in charge of traffic.

MEXICAN HELD ADMITS RAIDS ACROSS BORDER

Brownsville, Tex., Oct. 25.—An alleged border bandit confession, claimed to have been received by the sheriff's department from Chano Flores, a Mexican prisoner, not only admits participation in last Monday's train wreck and murders near here, but involves several other Mexicans and leads officers to believe they are on the trail of the chief offenders in the Texas border terrors of the past three months. Luciano Chapa, another Mexican arrested with Flores, denies the story. The sheriff's department is making arrests every day and has eight men suspected of complicity in recent depredations.

CAPTAIN DIES WHILE BOAT RACES FOR PORT

Buffalo, Oct. 25.—Captain Edward Ballantine, of Detroit, master of the steamer Calumet, died today. The captain was stricken on Sunday evening when the Calumet was in mid-lake. The steamer was sent ahead at full speed in an effort to dock in time to save his life, but he died within ten miles of port.

TURKS MURDER ALL ARMENIANS FROM ONE TOWN

London, Oct. 25, 3:04 a. m.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Odessa says:

"The Turks have massacred the entire Armenian population of Kerassund, on the Black sea."

London, Oct. 25.—Viscount Bryce, the former British ambassador at Washington, speaking at Manchester today in condemnation of the Armenian massacres, said:

"The Turkish government made up its mind immediately after the war started to destroy the whole Armenian population. It was avowed by some members of the Turkish government that their motive was to insure that there should not be any element throughout the country which was not Mohammedan. Fanaticism had nothing to do with it.

"The Turkish government feared to begin its sanguinary work until April when the course of the war convinced them that they could embark upon their bloody work secure from interference."

Akron, O., Oct. 25.—All machinists employed by Akron rubber companies and allied industries, about 1,500 in all, today were notified that their wages would be increased 15 per cent. The wage increase is made voluntarily by the employers. The increase adds about $1,000 per day to the salaries of the machinists.

CHARLES SMITH PASSES.
 The death of Charles Smith, formerly member of the state senate from the copper country district, removes a man who in his day had an important part in legislative and political affairs. His term of service in the legislature, where he finally gave way to W. Frank James, of Hancock, who now moves on to Washington as representative of the Twelfth, was a long one.

FIVE YEARS OF WAR.
 The war between the North and South lasted four years. A few weeks more were required to stamp out the last embers of the vast conflagration. The greatest of all wars has been going on less than fifteen months. Most modern wars have lasted less than one year. The Russo-Japanese conflict was an exception but it ended in a year and a half.

But Mexico, poor, ill-developed and half-civilized, has had to endure almost five years of civil war, and peace is not yet in sight. Villa still holds parts of two states—Chihuahua and Sonora—and both are well adapted to desultory, long-drawn-out fighting of the kind the high-wind man who has hoped to be the tyrant of Mexico well knows how to carry on. Carranza is in control of nearly the whole country, except the two states mentioned, but Zapata, a robber chief, is supreme in the greater part of Mexico, a state not far from the City of Mexico.

At best it will take months to establish the authority of the central government and the laws it represents over all Mexico. The task may require a year or more. Another revolt may break before Carranza can end the double-headed civil war still in progress. Is it to be wondered at that men and women have starved to death in Mexico by hundreds and thousands? Is it surprising that the country is sorely in need of outside help to reconstruct its industries and widen its commercial opportunities? The marvel is that after five years of civil war the state of so backward a land is not even worse than it is today.

LOOKING AHEAD IN MEXICO.
 Don Venustiano Carranza, recognized head of the government of Mexico, will not call an election until peace is entirely restored. Having fought for four years to reach his present elevation he wishes to enjoy his prerogatives for a while before risking them in an election. In his opinion reconstruction will cover a year; in the opinion of Americans qualified to judge it will take three or four years under the most favorable circumstances. By refusing to call an election, therefore, the new custodian of Mexico's government insures that no one else will be recognized as governing Mexico in the meantime.

Not that an election counts in Mexico. Carranza may be as constitutional as he likes, he is also human and not averse to power. Consequently if an election were held now his soldiers would go to the polls and the opposition, being ordinarily intelligent, would stay away. Voting is not a popular pastime where a ballot means a beating or perhaps sudden death. Having the military power Carranza would be counted in regardless. The process will be repeated until he loses his military power. Mexican presidents neither resign nor are defeated at the polls; they are chased out or killed when they lose their grip. History records no free and fair election in Mexico; each change of presidents means a coup de force.

There is no way of judging the future but by the past, as our own Patrick Henry remarked impressively. What warrant have we for believing that Carranza will be able to make manhood suffrage and the Australian ballot stick, even if he is so disposed. That every man should have a vote is guaranteed in the constitution of the country, a scrap of paper. But this democratic tenet has never been put into practice and the chances are against its becoming fact in our time. Until Mexican peons understand political co-operation they will never be allowed to vote because until that time they will lack the cohesion to enforce their constitutional rights. That delays true democratic government in Mexico, even with the best luck, for at least one generation and probably two. Educationally Mexico is in far worse condition today than in Diaz's day just as it is in worse shape industrially, agriculturally, financially and socially.

Schools have suffered along with railways, mines, banks and all other institutions which depend upon law and order. Eventually Mexico will be pacified. Even if Carranza is overthrown that work will go on because the United States never will repeat the blunder of leaving Mexico without a recognized government that can monopolize the side of M. O. in the course of other subsequent developments. The position of the Herald-Leader in the matter is worthy of the highest commendation. It makes clear that it has no intention of torturing facts to make them fit its theories, but is willing to have its positions, and its theories as well, directed by facts. This is the attitude that makes a newspaper of the most use to the community it is desirous of serving.

The M. H. S. football team was decisively at the Soo where there was reason to expect that it would have a close game and would win, if at all, by a narrow margin. In this particular team Marquette appears to have achieved something a little out of the ordinary in high school eleven. It seems likely that it will go through the season undefeated, and will be able to establish claim to being the best team in the district. What is better, its members appear to be showing a spirit of real sportsmanship.

The fact that all discussion about military measures to be undertaken by the allies in the Balkans appears to concern moves to be made some weeks in the future need not of necessity mean that their plans of campaign are not already far forward. Unless they are, the German-Bulgarian forces are practically certain to meet with a large measure of success. Concentration of the allies in the near east has likely progressed much further than is indicated by anything that had been given the public.

Sales of ore are now contingent on the securing of tonnage, and many sales, it is said, are likely to fail because the tonnage will not be forthcoming. It's a condition in marked contrast to that prevailing in the opening weeks of the season when only part of the lake fleet was in commission and the owners frankly expressed doubt about getting the other ships out.

Judging from the relative activity of the submarine in British and German waters just now, the submarine boat appears to be on the other foot.

STATE PRESS
 We suppose, however, that Carranza is less interested in the form than in the fact of recognition.—Saginaw Courier-Herald.

THEY HAVE DONE IT.
 The Aggies have gone and done it. Their football team has been pointed the past three years not to defeating the U. of M. by a close margin, but to wiping the earth with the eleven, to even up, somewhat the long records of defeats sustained by the farmers when they were early season chopping blocks for the Huskies from Ann Arbor. This fall they have achieved their ambition. The score, 24 to 0, tells of a game in which the losing team was decisively outplayed and outclassed at all points of contact. Great is the jubilation of the Aggies. Oct. 23, 1915, will be recalled as one of the red-letter days in the athletic annals of the institution.

If football wasn't a thing of surprising reversals of form, it could be predicted with considerable confidence that Michigan was entering on the most disastrous season that it has experienced in recent years. If the Aggies' victory is a fair criterion, its eleven is far, indeed, from being a smooth working machine, either on offense or defense, and the decided nature of the score indicates that its shortcomings are such that it will not be easy to make them good. On the other hand, Michigan's principal opponents this season are unusually strong. The game with Syracuse occurs Saturday, and Syracuse, always a formidable opponent, has a particularly strong eleven this year. Cornell, which Michigan has to meet two weeks hence, Saturday defeated Harvard in the first game that the Crimson has lost in three years. Pennsylvania looms up less formidably, but by the time it is reached this game, too, may afford a severe test.

Thus on the face of things the outlook for Michigan does not appear to be reassuring, but football is the most deceiving of games, and early season form is not something that can be absolutely depended on to indicate the course of events later. The game with the Aggies may have found the Michigan players in a midway stage of their football education, partly initiated into many things, master of none, but on the eve of rounding into a highly effective machine. If that is the case the Michigan men may upset all the gloomy forecasts. But if the players have, in the aggregate, a congenital incapacity for reaching the heights in football they have a most disastrous experience immediately ahead of them.

The Menominee Herald-Leader is now fairly out for municipal ownership of the water system. Its editor, with commendable frankness, says that his first idea of what the Menominee people wanted was erroneous, and was dispelled by the enthusiasm with which the arguments of Mayor Lloyd and Mayor Bejole were received last week, while of the wisdom of M. O. he was largely persuaded by inspection of the showing of the Marquette plant. Therefore he now urges ratification by the voters of the proposal to offer the present water company $200,000 for its plant and it is clear that his influence will be thrown

EDITORIAL OPINION

Reasonable Compulsion.
 If we understand Colonel Roosevelt he is not talking about compulsory military service in the European sense. He is advocating, in the Metropolitan Magazine, a half year of compulsory drill for every young American. On the continent military service means service in the regular standing army of the nation and liability to first call to the front in case of war. It means also that those who have passed through their active identification with the army are subject to immediate call to the colors at the order of the government. This is the true militarism.

But a simple obligation laid on every young man in the United States to join a citizens' army for six months, in order that he may prepare himself to answer competently the call of his nation in time of danger, is quite another matter. He does not become a part of the regular standing army of the nation, and so far it does not appear that there is any scheme to put him under special obligation to go to the front. He merely is required to prepare himself for emergency, it being assumed that he will be patriotic enough to volunteer to defend his country in case of need.

If this is, as we believe, the idea in Colonel Roosevelt's mind, then we would advise that he should be prudent for them to ponder carefully.—Detroit Free Press.

He Got Them Mixed.
 A Missouri farmer had ordered a fancy pig from a breeder. The pig was a mere mite of a pig, and the farmer sent it back.
 "Dear sir," he wrote, "From the comparative size of the pig and the bill, I have been led to believe that you had sent me a pig, and not a piglet. You had better send me a pig by mail and the bill by express."
 Youtis's Companion.

Somebody's Money.
 Here is the other side of the picture! Yesterday's New York papers disclosed the fact that a well-known Pittsburgh man had sold $1,000,000 in a few days on Bethlehem Steel. When this sky-rocketing "war stock" reached a spectacular climax in market values and sold for $500 (stock which was selling as low as $30 a year ago), the Pittsburgh man decided that it was a recession. So he sold "short"—as an expression goes. He sold stock which he did not own, expecting to buy the stock at a lower figure when called upon to make delivery. But $500 per share did not prove to be a "climax." It was only an "anticipation." The stock soared in value and in twenty-four hours leaped to $800. And—irony of fate—one of the things which helped to send it to $800 is said to have been the insistent laying orders of the Pittsburgh "bear" who was desperately trying to cover his loss. When the gentleman from Pittsburgh balanced his week's books, he had lost $1,000,000.

Today's Bellringer.
 Ex-Senator Lodge was talking in Boston and told the following story to explain a point in his argument:
 "A country lout in Massachusetts got a job one shooting muskrats for the owner of a mill. He sat for several hours a day in the sun on the dam, watching for the rats, which were rapidly undermining the mill owner's property."
 "One morning a villager passed."
 "What are you doing, Si?" asked the passerby.
 "I'm paid to shoot muskrats," came the reply, "they're undermining 'the dam.'"
 "There goes one now!" said his friend, "why don't you shoot him?"
 "Si sat motionless."
 "Do you think," he asked, finally, "that I want to lose my job?"

What She Expected.
 Young Mrs. Scott was attending her first ball game, says Everybody's Magazine. The home team was doing well that day and for a time she patiently endured her husband's transports and his brief exclamations. But when, amid the cheering, howling crowd he sprang upon the seat, waved his new straw hat three times around his head and almost shattered it on a fat man in front, Mrs. Scott exclaimed:
 "What on earth's the matter, John?"
 "Why, dearie," he answered, as soon as he could get his breath, "didn't you see the feller catch the ball?"
 "Of course," said young Mrs. Scott, disgustedly. "I thought that was what he was out there for!"

The Arrangement Vital.
 A man was brought before a police court charged with abusing his team and using loud and profane language on the street, says the Evening Digest. One of the witnesses was a pious old dandy, who was submitted to a short cross-examination.
 "Did the defendant use improper language while he was beating his horses?" asked the lawyer.
 "Well, he talk mighty loud, sah."
 "Did he indulge in profanity?"
 The witness seemed puzzled. The lawyer put the question in another form:
 "What I mean, Uncle Aus, is—did he use words that would be proper for your minister to use in a sermon?"
 "Well, yes, sah, yes, sah," the old man replied with a grin that revealed the full width of his immense mouth; "but dey'd have to be 'ranged diffrunt.'"

TWO CHILDREN HAD CHROUP.
 The two children of J. W. Nix, Cleveland, Ga., had chroup. He writes: "They got so choked up they could hardly breathe. I gave them Foley's Honey and Tar and nothing else, and it completely cured them." Contains no opiates. Cuts the phlegm; opens air passages. Sold everywhere.

LOWER STATE NOTES

PONTIAC—Without dissenting vote the board of supervisors decided to submit the $1,000,000 bond issue for good roads to the people at the April election. According to the computation of the equalization committee the county's valuation is $68,000,000, an increase over 1914 of $1,250,000.

ANN ARBOR—A secret marriage which was performed in Detroit Jan. 9, this year, came to light here, when it was announced that Miss Olive Prescott, of Mt. Clemens, daughter of Dr. Josephine Baird, had married Earl Ward, of Charleston, W. Va. Mr. Ward is a student in the literary college. His wife is a student in the University School of Music.

FLINT—Acting Health Officer C. D. Chapel closed the Homedale school and issued an order preventing all children from attending theaters or other places of amusement for a week. These steps are taken to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis in this city. Records at the health office show that there are nine cases of infantile paralysis in Flint. There have been eighteen cases in all, one resulting in death.

PORT HURON—Preparations will be a carnival issue in both senate and house this coming winter, said Senator Charles E. Townsend here. "There is no doubt that the people of this country want to be prepared. It is our best insurance against trouble with foreign powers. We shall undoubtedly lay out a big program during the coming session of congress and that is the notice on the world that although we wish for peace we shall be ready for trouble if it comes."

ANN ARBOR—That Michigan is a "poor man's college," and that her alumni have never been financial powers has been preached so long that it was somewhat of a shock to the University of Michigan itself to discover that it has more than 200 millionaires among former students and graduates. One of the older members of the faculty who has kept in close touch with Michigan alumni was asked how many Michigan alumni had succeeded in accumulating a million dollars or more. His guess was a dozen, perhaps fifteen, surely no more. "It was dumounded when told that there were 200 who were rated all the way from one million to seven. Before the opening of the Michigan Union campaign, it was the duty of one committee to look up the financial ratings of all Michigan men to protect the alumni from requests for larger gifts than they could afford.

GRAND RAPIDS—Police Judge Frank Hess issued a warrant charging William H. Olmstead, former deputy city treasurer, with embezzlement. The complaint was made by Richard Wilson, special investigator for Prosecuting Attorney Barnard, who is now conducting an investigation of rumors of dishonesty among members of the so-called "city hall ring." Eight counts are cited in the charges against Olmstead, all centering around the disappearance from the city treasurer's office of $2,075. During the investigation of rumors of dishonesty among members of the so-called "city hall ring," eight counts are cited in the charges against Olmstead, all centering around the disappearance from the city treasurer's office of $2,075. LANSING—Because his wife "insulted" him by being late to her first husband, Frank Corwin, aged sixty-two years, a bridegroom of three months, tried to kill his wife, aged fifty-eight, and himself. He succeeded in his suicide but the wife will recover. Corwin intended to beat his wife into insensibility with the butt of a revolver; then cut her throat with a razor he had sharpened. The fact that his first blow failed to stun her, saved her life. Tearing herself loose from him she jumped from the second story window. Apparently thinking she had fatally injured herself, Corwin put the revolver to his temple. He died three hours later. The wife is suffering from a bruised head and a broken leg. A letter found later in Corwin's room tells the whole story. He had planned to kill his wife and then commit suicide. His confession was made to some nature. He says he might have been able to stand that had it not been for the fact that she met her first husband, George Clark, on the street Saturday night and introduced her new husband, Corwin, to him at the cigar bar.

LANSING—A complete change in paying the expense of bringing criminals to Michigan from other states on requisitions will be adopted before long, if Auditor General Fuller can fix matters with Governor Ferris to change the regular state blanks. A forgotten statute passed twenty years ago has been found by which it is incumbent upon the state to pay the expenses of county officers when they go on extradition cases. No body can find a single case in which the state has paid any money. A new blank will be drawn up in which the counties will be charged with the expenses. There a clause in the law which states that the state shall pay the expenses, "unless otherwise arranged for by the governor." William J. Galbraith, prosecuting attorney of Houghton county, caused the new deal. He recently went with his sheriff to a Western state for four men, then wrote asking what percentage of the combined expense the state would pay. The total bill was $600, and Mr. Galbraith was politely informed that the state would pay nothing. His second letter contained a reference to the law. What Auditor General Fuller is afraid of is a claim against the state. Other states are never overhauled, some counties would have a pretty fair bill to present if they cared to do so.

CHAS. SMITH'S DEATH SHOCK TO DISTRICT

Passing of Former Senator Is Generally Mourned—Was Admired and Beloved.

The death of Hon. Charles Smith, of Hubbell, chairman of the Houghton county board of supervisors, and former state senator, on Sunday, shocked the entire copper country. Senator Smith was one of the most engaging old men of the district. Though past the traditional allotted age of man he was vigorous and up to within a few days of his death apparently was in most excellent health.

He was of the type of Republican that is represented by such veterans of politics as Joe Cannon and he was of the type of man represented by such men as James Whitcomb Riley, as far as the attitude of his neighbors toward him were concerned.

To the younger legislators and to the "press gang" at Lansing, when he was the power in Michigan legislation he was "Uncle Charlie" when off duty. He was a staunch friend, a good citizen, a conscientious public official and a patriotic American.

Charles Smith was clerk of the Gunmet & Hecla smelters at Lake Linden for the span of the lives of most of the employees of the plant. He represented his township in the Houghton county board since 1889 and was the oldest supervisor in Michigan in point of service.

Mr. Smith served through the Civil war as a member of Company H, First Michigan infantry, and he was an active member of E. R. Stiles post, G. A. R. of Hancock.

He was one of the most prominent Masons of Michigan, having attained his thirty-third degree in Boston four years ago. He was a member of the following Masonic organizations:

Charter member and past master of Quincy lodge, F. & A. M., Hancock; honorary member of John Duncan lodge, Lake Linden; Hancock chapter, R. A. M.; David S. Kendall council, Houghton; Montrose commandery, Calumet; Marquette consistory, Marquette temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Mr. Smith also was a member of the Calumet lodge of Elks.

The funeral will probably will take place tomorrow afternoon from the home, Linwood, Hubbell. Interment will be made at Forest Hill cemetery, Houghton. The escort will be provided by Montrose commandery of Calumet.

INSANE MAN BREAKS FOR HOME

Michael Swetish Leaves Ionia Hospital—Will Be Taken Back.

Dr. Robert H. Haskell, medical superintendent of the Ionia hospital for the criminal insane, arrived in Houghton last night to take charge of Michael Swetish, who had escaped from the hospital last week.

Swetish was committed to the hospital as a criminally insane man in 1906. He had killed his wife and when arrested he was so patently insane that he was never tried for the murder but was at once sent to Ionia. He has given evidence of restored reason for several years and has been a trusty, so that he had the freedom of the grounds and of the town of Ionia. All this while he acted as a guide for visitors and received many tips. He boarded these gratuities till he had saved railroad fare and then he left the hospital and headed for Laurium.

He was apprehended in Laurium Sunday and placed in the county jail. Dr. Haskell left Ionia at once to bring him back and he will return with the man tomorrow.

It appears that Swetish may have recovered his reason entirely. In that event he may be discharged from the hospital and tried on the murder charge, though the latter will be a mere formality as insanity is a perfect defense.

COFFEE CLAIMS ITS VICTIMS BY HUNDREDS

Prominent Nerve Specialist Says Coffee Drinking Has Procured a New Disease—Chronic Caffeinism.

"There is a distinct type of cases," says Dr. Wm. M. Leszynsky, consultant neurologist to the Manhattan Eye and Ear hospital, "frequent among the poorer class of people, but by no means confined to them, of functional nervous disorder (caused by coffee drinking), to which the elastic term 'neurasthenia' or 'chronic caffeinism' in its broadest significance may be aptly applied."

"In cases of neurasthenia, inquire into coffee drinking," adds Dr. Otto Junstner.

"I have seen hundreds of victims of this disease," continues Dr. Leszynsky, "among commercial travelers, brokers, merchants, actors, writers, and men connected with news departments of the daily papers."

AVOIDED ENCAMPMENT; MEN COURT-MARTIALED

Three Members of Houghton Light Infantry Dishonorably Discharged and Fined.

Captain Thomas S. Smith, commanding the Houghton Light infantry, imposed a drastic punishment on three members of his company who failed to attend the annual encampment of the National Guard last August. He held a summary court martial on them last week and yesterday he reported the result.

Each of the three is dishonorably discharged from the service and each is fined $10. In the case of the fines collection will be made by civil process if the men fail to pay.

This is the first instance of such a punishment for National Guardsmen in the copper country and probably the first in the state. The proceeding was conducted under the military law of the state. Charges were preferred against two other members of the company but they appeared to offer explanations and they were let off with small fines.

Riflemen Receive Medals. Captain Smith yesterday received from the National Rifle association two medals won in the recent competitions of the Houghton Rifle club and the Houghton Light infantry. The club medal was won by E. L. Batchelder, president of the club, and the company medal by Sergeant Caspary.

Captain Smith believes that Mr. Batchelder's score by which he won his medal will be one of the highest in the records of the National Rifle association in 1915. The contest was at 300 yards, 300 yds. and 200 yds. rapid fire. Mr. Batchelder made 47, 48 and 49 in the respective events out of a possible 50 for each.

In his shoot Sergeant Caspary won with a poorer score, a total of 125 out of 150.

The medals are of bronze, a circle with rays suspended from a bar. Mr. Batchelder's will be delivered at once but Sergeant Caspary is to receive his at a company meeting later to be called, when several medals won by various members during the past summer will be conferred at once.

The End of the Blue Uniform. Should the United States ever have another war the significance of Root's old ballad "The Faded Coat of Blue" will be lost, though the ballad may be revived as it was during the Spanish war. There will no longer be any coat of blue to sing about as far as the army is concerned.

The war department has ordered the discontinuance of the old blue uniform in favor of the khaki and the olive drab and has recalled all supplies from the National Guards of the state.

Captain Smith yesterday sent his company's supply of blue uniforms back to Lansing. The members of the company do not like the idea at all. In the past they have used their "blues" for possession of the uniform or other property of the state, return all such property to the armory. The uniforms actually are the property of the federal government and are only lent to the members of Michigan by the war department. The retention of any such property by any individual is a serious offense. There are a number of uniforms missing and the captain is going to institute a search for them if they are not returned at once.

WESTERN MICHIGAN GOVERNOR

Hon. Sybrant Wesselius, Grand Rapids, Reputed Political Power, in Houghton.

Houghton had the pleasure and honor on Sunday of entertaining the governor of Western Michigan, the biggest man in the state. The reference is to Hon. Sybrant Wesselius of Grand Rapids, former railroad commissioner and at one time a senator in the Michigan legislature. Mr. Wesselius has been known for many years among politicians as the governor of Western Michigan because of the real or fancied control he had of the Republican vote in that part of the state that has Grand Rapids for a metropolis.

Latterly, the Grand Rapids man has devoted his time to the practice of the law and has achieved politics as much as a man of his temperament and inclinations can.

The reference to his greatness involves more the physical aspect than the figurative, though his physical figure is something to marvel at. Mr. Wesselius is six inches above six feet in height and his weight can only be a matter of conjecture. He is a veritable behemoth of a man and his physique is in exact proportion to his good humor. In his presence pessimism, gronches, discontent and worry fade as the mists before the radiant orb of day.

Mr. Wesselius has been appearing in the Houghton county circuit court for the past week as counsel for some of the defendants in cases brought against saloonkeepers. He is general counsel for the Liquor Dealers' Indemnity association. In these cases he is assisting Archie Bunting of Detroit, general counsel for the Michigan Bonding & Surety company.

Bonding Company Wins. The associated attorneys won their first case at L'Anse, getting a verdict in the suit of Mrs. Lisa Kuisisto against the bonding company. A number of saloonkeepers were joint defendants at the commencement of the case but they were later dropped from the case.

Mrs. Kuisisto's husband died in L'Anse last March as the result of burns received when a bottle of carbolic acid broke and the contents spilled over him. The widow contended he was intoxicated when the accident happened. The jury

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this taste hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and heats the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pinex on the membranes is known by almost every one. It is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

brought in a verdict of no cause for action. The same attorneys were defending yesterday the suit of a Mrs. Burns, who alleges Baraga saloonkeepers have been selling liquor to her husband against her express order and that as a result she has lost his support.

The Baraga county term will adjourn tomorrow as Judge O'Brien opens court in Keweenaw county on Thursday.

OPEN NIGHT SCHOOL NOV. 8.

Instruction for Aliens to be Arranged—Posters to be Distributed.

The board of education has arranged that the night school for alien residents of Portage township, decided upon some time ago, will be opened November 8 in the Isle Royale school. The first meeting will take place at 8 o'clock that night and at that time, depending on the number of applicants for the instruction, the schedule and course of study will be arranged. The school primarily is for the purpose of teaching the English language to aliens with the intention of aiding them in attaining citizenship, but other subjects will be taught if a demand appears.

Superintendent Doelle has received from the national commissioner of education colored posters bearing the announcement of the school in various languages. The posters contain Finnish and Croatian explanations and as these are the languages spoken by the great number of aliens in Portage township he will have a supplementary poster printed in these languages, as well as a detailed statement in English.

COMMENDERY LYCEUM COURSE.

Fisher-Shipp Concert Company Thursday Night the Premier.

The fall and winter social activities of the Masonic lodges of Houghton will open Thursday night with the initial number of Palestine commandery's lyceum course. This number will be given by the Fisher-Shipp concert company. The company is composed of Miss Shipp, soprano and reader; Miss Cronin, violinist; Miss Bloomquist, pianist and contralto; and Lloyd Loar, mandolin.

The four artists offer a varied program, including readings and ensemble musical numbers in national costumes. Accompaniments for the songs will be provided on a variety of instruments.

SCHOOLS WILL BE EXHIBITORS.

Portage Township Pupils to Show Potatoes at Marquette.

Three of the schools of Portage township, Otter Lake Agricultural, Isle Royale and Pilgrim schools, will show potatoes at the L'Anse Potato Congress at Marquette this week. The congress opens tomorrow and the schools shipped their exhibit yesterday.

The potatoes will all be of the Sir Walter Raleigh variety and will be the products of gardening by the pupils. They will be entered in a club branch of the exhibit.

The Houghton County Potato Growers' association also is sending a small exhibit to the congress.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During those years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, you will know them by their olive color.

A LETTER FROM THE WAR ZONE.

County Clerk Receives Communication From a Grateful Traveler.

County Clerk Kaiser yesterday received a letter direct from the war zone, the writer being a Michigan College of Mines student who is en route to Africa on a mission of peace. He is Clinton Ball, who with two other college men, is going to Africa to work with a development company.

At the time of the departure of the young men they wanted to leave without waiting for passports, which must be secured through the county clerk, and Mr. Kaiser gave them certificates of application for passports and promised to get the actual documents to them as soon as possible. The plan worked all right and Mr. Ball writes to thank the county clerk for his interest. His letter was written on board a steamer of the Union-Castle line and mailed September 3. It follows:

"Dear Mr. Kaiser—This is just to thank you for the manner in which our passports came through. 'Everything on the trip was fine. We cleared the German U boats, but came through the wreckage of the Arabic. London is all war. Soldiers everywhere and an amount of destroyers and battleships on the coast."

"We saw the famous net that stretches across the channel from Dover to Calais, with only two openings. This net has the habit of catching German submarines and holding them down for a fortnight at a time."

"We have just left Madeira and our next stop is historic St. Helena. It is a bit warmer than Houghton, but we do not forget the old town."

The postmark on the letter was St. Helena, so the Houghton students had an opportunity to visit the island made historic by the imprisonment of Napoleon.

NICK KAISER'S MAGNUM OPUS.

Forthcoming Volume from the County Clerk's Pen to be a Monster.

Several of the new laws in effect this year have served to increase the work of the county clerks of Michigan but none of them have so added to the burden of those particular officers as has that which compels them to print in the calendar every case that has not been disposed of. This means that the Houghton county clerk, Mr. Kaiser, will be the first in which the law operates, will be the magnum opus of Nicholas F. Kaiser, an author who has compiled many interesting volumes during his incumbency of the office.

It actually is impossible to tell at this time how large this January calendar will be. It will contain every case that has been opened in Houghton county since 1863 and has not been disposed of finally. To get at the cases Mr. Kaiser must go through ten volumes, each containing 1,000 cases. He says the number of cases on the calendar may be some hundreds in excess of a thousand.

The parties in a great number of the cases are dead, the lawyers engaged in them are dead, the facts are forgotten but they must be printed in the calendar till they can reach some disposition. Mr. Kaiser has been working on this calendar for some weeks and has only gotten to the third of the ten books he must work over.

It may be that nearly all of such cases can be wiped from the calendar in one term of court but if they are not they must be carried till they are disposed of, which means that successive circuit court calendars probably will be massive tomes.

LIBRARY AS AID TO TEACHERS.

Houghton Public Schools Issue Catalog of Books on Pedagogy.

The Houghton public schools have issued for the benefit of teachers a list of books on pedagogy and allied subjects that may be found in the Houghton public library. The list totals more than three hundred books, pamphlets and periodicals.

The purpose of the board of education and of Superintendent Doelle is to make the library a valuable adjunct to the schools and in the effort particularly to make it helpful to teachers the result appears to have been accomplished, confining to the extent to which the teachers make use of it.

YEAR'S BUSINESS $1,000,000.

The Detroit & Northern Michigan Building & Loan association will in a few days send circular letters to its stockholders setting forth the fact that in the last five years the association's assets have increased in round numbers $1,000,000, and calling attention to a special meeting of stockholders set for Nov. 4.

DEATH OF MRS. KINSMAN.

Mrs. August Kinsman, of Hancock, thirty-one years old, died Sunday morning at St. Joseph's hospital where she had submitted a few days previous to an operation. Mrs. Kinsman is survived by her husband and one daughter the latter seven years old.

LOWELL AN ELIOT OPPOSE DRILLING

Boston, Oct. 25.—A Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard university, and Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus, today took issue with those who would carry military preparedness into the grammar schools.

Military drills in these schools, President Lowell said at a hearing before a legislative committee, were of no importance whatever in the development of soldiers.

Dr. Eliot said his objection to military drill in the public schools was based principally on the fact that it was a bad form of physical exercise.

Peerless—It's a Brick

Lay in a Lot of it

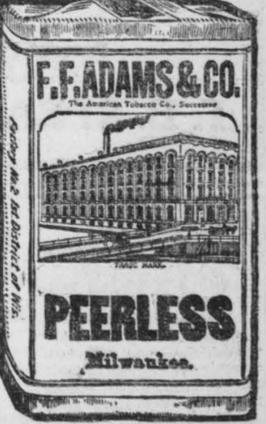

You could smoke or chew PEERLESS by the hodful and you'd never get enough—it's so mellow and rich and pleasing. Lay in a supply of it today. Keep some at home and some on the job, and it will hold you steady as a spirit-level trues a wall.

PEERLESS Long Cut Tobacco

is the one perfect tobacco for the sturdy man who likes his tobacco rich, full-bodied and satisfying. Made of pure Southern Kentucky leaf, aged carefully for three to five years so as to bring out all its natural flavor and sweetness. This is what makes PEERLESS always the same: It doesn't depend upon one season's crop, like many tobaccos. We have several seasons' crops always stored away.

And that's why a PEERLESS user never bothers experimenting with other brands. He knows the old reliable PEERLESS never varies—it's the one tobacco that always satisfies him. Take PEERLESS on the job for a week's try-out—after that you'll always carry PEERLESS in your jeans. Sold everywhere in 5c packages.

Other sizes, 10c, 20c and 40c Packages, and 45c Tin Pails.

HOLLAND TACKLES INEBRIATE PROBLEM

Government Seeks to Redeem Victims of Alcohol—Success With Younger Men.

The Hague, Netherlands, Oct. 25.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—If you are a victim of alcohol, come and talk it over with us at the Consultation Bureau at The Hague."

In this helpful spirit a strong effort is being made by the Dutch authorities to combat the evil of over-indulgence in intoxicants.

The bureau has been installed in spacious premises in the center of the Netherlands residence city and every Wednesday an eminent medical man and other helpers are in attendance to give friendly advice and to find work for men and women addicted to intemperance who find themselves virtually outcasts owing to their unfortunate habits. It has been found that "talking" at those people who have fallen victims to the drink habit has proved in most cases ineffective and now the more sensible method of appealing to reason and human feelings is being tried with apparently good results.

Many men and women attend these weekly consultations, coming from all parts of the country—generally, it must be said, at the instance of well-wishing employers, relatives and friends to confer with the expert specialist in charge of the bureau. No sermon is read to the victims of the weakness. The applicant is asked in a kindly way about his or her occupation and mode of life in general and as to the cause of his or her lack of occupation. Usually the reply indicates the person's lack of will-power when invited to drink. The doctor inquires why the victim does not refuse the liquor and the answer generally comes, "I cannot," for then I am in general and I don't know what to say." "Why?" says the doctor, "now you can tell them that the doctor orders you not to take intoxicants. Try that for a week and then come back and see me."

In most instances work is provided for the drink victim and the employer is requested and consents to exercise a kind of friendly supervision over his new employe and to report results.

Reports of the bureau show that the system is working well in hundreds of cases, especially when the man or woman is comparatively young. Others apparently are too far gone to be amenable to moral suasion, but even some of these listen to the kindly advice and try again and again to overcome their own weakness, but many of them inevitably drift once more and eventually find their way into the prisons and municipal and state institutions for the mentally deficient.

Meanwhile a campaign is also being carried on by the numerous abstinence societies throughout the country to combat the drink evil. Congressmen were held in the third week of Sep-

$2,000,000 AMASSED BY WOMAN DRUGGIST

Cincinnati, Oct. 25.—An amount estimated at $2,000,000 has been bequeathed to the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, by the will of Miss Cora Dow, prominent retail druggist. Miss Dow also remembered every one of her hundreds of employes in her will.

Miss Dow amassed a fortune in the retail drug business here in the last 26 years. She began as a drug clerk in her father's small pharmacy at the age of 21 and took over the business at his death.

One by one she bought up drug stores in this city until she had established a chain of stores numbering 11, all located on principal corners. She considered one of Cincinnati's first successful business women. Shortly before her death she disposed of her drug store properties for a price reported to be $1,600,000.

Attorneys who probated the will to date estimated that the estate was worth double this amount.

Miss Dow had been seriously ill for six months previous to her death. She was known in the business world as M. C. Dow.

Good Health Due to Duffy's

Frequently we encounter people with whom age does not appear to be a matter of years, for they have been able to conserve their energy and to maintain a youthful vitality which seems to make them exempt from the petty ailments that follow advancing years. In many instances, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has been temperately used as directed, and here's a point of a man 74 years young who credits his years of perfect health to the fact:

"I was troubled for years with gastric disturbances, which I attributed to overeating. I was so nervous and debilitated generally that I could scarcely work. I went to Dr. John Bowen's drug store, and after talking to the doctor concluded to try Duffy's Malt Whiskey. I have taken it ever since, and now at the age of 74, I can do good work. I am not nervous, but as strong as a bear, and there is nothing whatever the matter with me. I can thank Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for my good health."—G. R. Nunally, Utica, Mo.

MICHIGAN FAVORS WATER FOWL LAW

Officials and Sportsmen of State Interested in Effort to Uphold Measure.

Washington, Oct. 25.—A large number of organizations and individuals in Michigan are directly interested in the effort which is now being made by various game protective and conservation societies to uphold the constitutionality of the so-called migratory bird law, of which Senators John W. Weeks, of Massachusetts, and George P. McLean, of Connecticut, are the joint authors. A test case coming from Arkansas has recently reached the supreme court of the United States and among the names signed to the brief defending the law are the following: William R. Oates, commissioner, state game, fish and forest fire department, Lansing; Michigan Wild Life Association, Grand Rapids; West Michigan Fish and Game Protective Association, Grand Rapids.

Meets General Approval.

It is seldom that a law designed to bring about uniform regulation of a natural resource in all parts of the country has met with such general approval and support as the Weeks-McLean law. Reports recently issued by the department of agriculture show that forty states have enacted laws bringing about a greater conformity between state and federal game laws, and as a result of this co-operation the increase in the waterfowl of the country has been gratifying to those interested in its restoration.

Among the indorsements of the law received by the American Game Protective Association is one from George M. Brown, treasurer of the Michigan Wild Life Association, who says: "Heartily approve the migratory bird law." Similar reports have been received from all parts of the country, and now that the supreme court is about to pass upon the law's constitutionality, a decision is awaited with keen interest by farmers, stock breeders, sportsmen and conservationists in all sections.

Senator Weeks believes that the court has been presented with convincing argument as to the measure's constitutionality. He agrees entirely with the position taken by William S. Haskell, counsel of the American Game Protective says, "Eugenics is a necessary factor in the future of the race. The average American girl is unfit for motherhood. This may be true, but if weak and ailing girls passing from girlhood to womanhood would only rely, as thousands do, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—that simple remedy made from roots and herbs—to restore the system to a normal healthy condition, it would cause many ills from which they suffer to disappear, so that motherhood might become the joy of their lives.

association, that the birds are the property of the nation, and that the federal government has the right to extend to them such protection as is necessary to prevent their extermination because of lack of uniform game laws.

"The migratory birds are of the greatest assistance in destroying the foci of the crops," said Senator Weeks, "and they render a great national service. The migratory insectivorous birds destroy annually thousands of tons of obnoxious weeds and bushes of harmful insects. They are the deadliest foe yet found of the boll weevil, the spruce budworm and other pests. The states are lacking in power to enforce uniform protection for the birds, and it is plain to me that it is the duty of the federal government to do so. They are the property of the entire country—not of the individual states, through which they happen to pass on their migrations—and for this reason it seems to me that the migratory bird law cannot be successfully attacked."

PHONE GIRL AT MAXIM'S IS VICTIM OF BROADWAY

New York, Oct. 25.—When a mother received the broken crushed body of her daughter in her home at Elmhurst, L. I., the closing chapter of another story of Broadway was written. Anna Leamy, pretty telephone operator at Maxim's, came to New York from the Little Long Island town to make her way in the world. From behind her switchboard she became familiar with figures in Broadway's night life.

The finding of her crushed body in the courtyard of a Riverside drive apartment, diamonds glistening on her fingers, and the open window of a $100 month suite, ten stories above, told the police the end.

GOLD FLOODS NEW YORK.

New York, Oct. 25.—So great has been the tide of gold poured into New York to pay the war bills of the belligerent nations that the lack of melting it up is turned into United States coin has almost overwhelmed the employees of the United States assay office here.

No sooner is one consignment of the gold melted and sent to the Philadelphia mint than another shipment of millions is received. For two Sundays the whole force of the assay office has worked to keep abreast of the incoming gold.

Ordinarily about $100,000,000 in gold passes through the assay office in a year. Since July 1 the office has received and melted more than $82,000,000 worth, and nearly $28,000,000 of this was received within the last ten days.

The gold arrives generally in the form of bullion, English sovereigns, French napoleons and Japanese yen.

GASKILL IS SCORED AS "SENSUAL LIBERTINE"

Atlantic City, Oct. 25.—Robert Gaskill, sixty, wealthy retired lawyer, and alleged author of the "Your Lips Open Heaven's Gates" letters to Miss Kitty Abrams, seventeen, was termed a "sensual libertine" in the breach of promise trial by the girl's attorney, Morris Goldenberg.

The girl is suing for $75,000. Goldenberg made an impassioned plea for conviction before a jury of Jersey business men and farmers.

This aged defendant's relations with this girl, he said, "were a mixture of holy and spiritual love and rotten sensuality of a libertine."

HEIR OF THRONE HELD PRISONER

Shih Toa, Head of Tsing Dynasty, Is Discussed as Possible Ruler.

Peking, Oct. 15.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Shih Toa, the guardian of the throneless imperial house of China, recently held a conference with Princes Chen and Chang, the near relatives of Hsuan Tung, the boy emperor, after which announcement was made that under no conditions will the deposed royal family take advantage of the present anarchical movement in the hope of restoring the deposed family to power.

Wholly apart from the monarchial movement promoted by the Society for the Preservation of Peace, there is a movement in China to put the Tsing dynasty back into power. It has few adherents and has made little headway for many years. However, the imperial movement inaugurated in the interest of President Yuan Shi-kai immediately prompted enemies of the present administration to suggest that if the empire be restored the Tsings should have their old throne.

This agitation created some uneasiness among the members of the society for the Preservation of Peace. As the little emperor is a prisoner in the Forbidden City, pensioned by the Republic, there was no chance that his family could conduct a plot and get him away. Still talk of putting the old dynasty on the throne was disconcerting, and the enemies of the government charge that the boy emperor's relatives were practically covered into making the statement that the imperial family would not avail itself of any crisis which might grow out of the monarchial agitation.

The boy emperor is now only nine years old. He was less than five when Empress Lung Yu abdicated the throne in his name and placed it at the disposal of President Yuan Shi-kai. On behalf of the child, the Empress, who is now dead, made a pledge that no effort would be made to restore him to the throne. This statement of the deceased Empress has been reproduced several times recently in newspapers which are supporting the society for the Preservation of Peace.

Until the present monarchial movement was instituted, the boy prisoner in the Forbidden City was practically forgotten, even in China. Under the Republic the imperial family has been lost sight of as completely as the Korean emperor has disappeared in his palace at Seoul, where he is held a prisoner by the Japanese.

The Empress Lung Yu stipulated, upon abdicating the throne on behalf of the baby ruler, that he was always to retain the title of emperor. The title has been his according to the pledge and his life has been wholly within the walls of the Forbidden City. A palace surrounded by a moat made beautiful with lotus blossoms has been his home.

Five Liquor Cases Dismissed.

Tim Mottes, George Mascotti, Gust Angeli, Arthur Callari and Peter DeMuri, all of Palatka, Iron county, charged with selling liquor in violation of the local option law, were discharged by Justice Curley. The only evidence against them was given by Michael J. Monahan, a special deputy sheriff appointed by Sheriff Scoville last June to look after violations of the local option law on the west side of the county. Monahan subpoenaed a total of thirty-five witnesses to substantiate his testimony that the men under arrest had violated the law. Not one among the thirty-five testified that they bought intoxicating liquor. The substance of all their testimony was that they had bought drinks in the places named, but none were intoxicating. One witness said he had drunk beer and liquor for twenty years, was familiar with the taste, color and action of both and declared that the drinks he bought were neither liquor nor beer, and were not intoxicating. In the case of DeMuri, who conducts a candy store, Monahan remained outside of the place while his witness entered. Their testimony was that a woman sold them drinks, and not DeMuri, and that the drinks he bought were neither liquor nor beer, and were not intoxicating. In the other cases there was no corroborative evidence to support the charges of the deputy sheriff. In dismissing the cases Justice Curley expressed his disgust with the way the matter had been handled. He did not give his opinion of the evidence submitted by either side, but said he failed to see what had been accomplished, the way the cases went, other than to increase the tax burden upon the public. Prosecuting Attorney Wallen left the decision up to the judge without recommendation, but strongly hinted that there was nothing in the testimony to warrant binding the defendants over to the circuit court, although he said if such action were taken, he would endeavor to obtain convictions in the higher court on the same as he had done in the justice court.

LIVELY WINTER ON MENOMINEE RANGE

Most of the Mines There Are Now Working With Good-Sized Forces.

Mining and business men on the Menominee range look forward to a winter of prosperity, as most of the mines there are now working. Industrial conditions in that district will be different from what they were last winter, when fully 75 per cent of the properties were idle. Stockpiles are being cleared away at a more rapid rate than at any previous time in the history of the district, and at all the mines preparations are under way for stocking during the winter. Most of the mines have recently increased their forces and it is reported that there is a slight scarcity of labor, a condition that has not existed in the district in some time.

The Baltic mine has sixty men at work, preparing for full resumption of operations, and by the first of the month 150 men will likely be employed. A steam shovel was started at the Fogarty last week and it is said the stockpile will be cleaned up. However, no announcement has been made as yet to reopening the mine. The other Vermont properties, the Caspian and Bengal, are working full forces.

The Munro Mining company has full crews at work in Hiawatha, Rogers and Chicagoan mines, and is shipping from stock and the pocket. The Wickwire company has cleaned up the big stockpile at the Homer and is now shipping from the pocket. As many men as can be employed are at work in the Homer and clean stock yard insures work all winter.

The Tully and Baker are shipping and working full forces. The McGillis property, the newest on the list, is hammering away and stocking ore. A switch has just been laid preparatory to making that property a shipper.

The Erickson is working a full force and the James shows no signs of anything but continuous work all winter. The Jones-Laughlin company is shipping when charters are at dock or on their way to receive cargoes, and continues hoisting ore with a full complement of men.

The Bates is cleaning up its stock and preparing for work all winter. The old Barber is shipping from the pocket. The Zimmerman is enlarging its stock yard, preparatory to a long season of activity. The Chatham has stopped its steam shovel, but continues stocking with a full force of men underground. A shipment of stock was made from the Berkshire last week, but it is not known if the pile will be cleaned up before navigation closes and the mine reopened this winter.

Only three mines in the district that have been producers now remain idle—the Fogarty, the Berkshire and the Virgil. The McGillis replaces one of these.

GYMNASIUM READY.

Schedule of Classes Arranged for Winter Season at the Y. M. C. A.

The improvements to the gymnasium at the Y. M. C. A. have been completed and the regular "gym" class period will be started this week. Stephen Terrill will have charge of the evening classes and will be assisted by senior members, who are class leaders. Richard Carlyon, the assistant secretary, will have charge of the boys' classes.

As many of the high school alumni are members of the "Y" it is expected that a fast basketball team can be organized this year. The former high school players want to play this year and practice will be started as soon as the gymnasium classes are organized.

The businessmen's classes will meet afternoons and after the work is under way a volley ball league will be organized. Clubs and other organizations which hold membership in the "Y" will have the use of the gymnasium on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7:30 until 9. Some of the churches already have organized clubs among Sunday school classes.

The evening schedule will be as follows: Monday and Thursday, Boy Scouts from 6 to 7; Tuesday and Thursday, Comets from 8 until 9. Club work on Monday and Wednesday. Friday evenings will be held open for games and senior gymnasts. Saturday mornings the gymnasium will be used by the boy members of the association.

HAVING FINE GROWTH.

Membership of Ishpeming Branch of Owl Society Is Growing Rapidly.

The officers and members of the Ishpeming nest of Owls are building up a very fine organization. The membership has been greatly increased in the past few months and the members are making plans to continue their bustling campaign during the winter. They expect to have one of the strongest branches in this part of the state.

In order to help out the members of the subordinate lodges in their campaigns for new members the supreme organization has gotten out a very interesting moving picture film, comprising 1,200 feet, which is being shown in theaters throughout the country. The members of the society here have made arrangements to have the picture shown at the Ishpeming theater on Thursday evening, Nov. 18, in connection with the regular program. The members will sell tickets to their friends at the regular theater price, the hope of getting all in any way interested in the society or its work to attend the theater that evening.

The play contains a very interesting story. It begins by showing the organizer when he comes to town, meeting some friends on the street and taking an application; then the foot of a stairway is shown with a night effect, where the Owls are going into the hall and the man who signed the application is seen among them. By appropriate titles it is shown that he is to be initiated. He is then shown at home, greeting his family and telling what he has done; then going to work, where, through the carelessness of a workman, he is injured. He is identified by his button. The Owl committee take charge of him and he is taken home; later his death is made apparent, and his widow and children shown. Then the children are shown being taken to the depot by the Owl committee, where they are to embark for South Bend; then the orphans' home is shown in South Bend, with children playing all about and coming down the sliding fire escape. Then the Owl's hospital property is shown, and then the work of the degree team at Fitchburg, Mass.

He spent yesterday here visiting relatives. When Erickson left Calumet he intended to ride only as far as Houghton, but finding the roads in poor condition he kept on until he reached L'Anse. It then was too late to make the return trip and he decided to come to Ishpeming by train. Mr. Erickson found the road as far as L'Anse in fine condition. Sandy spots in the road were encountered only a few times.

A. Consineu left yesterday for Ana Arbor, where he will spend a few weeks visiting relatives and friends.

Louis Lafarias, Sr., and William Laxstrom, of Republic, were business visitors in the city yesterday.

Dennis Sullivan, a former resident, who has lived in Houghton for the past several years, spent Sunday in the city.

William Murray, who has been ill at Ishpeming hospital for the last few weeks with pneumonia, is improving.

C. E. Lawrence, of Iron River, returned to his home yesterday spending Sunday in the city. He made the trip in his automobile.

Dr. R. E. Burke's two dwellings on Barnum street, which have been under course of construction for the last several months have been completed.

Mrs. Matt Koivisto and children left yesterday for Detroit, where they will make their home. Mr. Koivisto sold his confectionery business here a few weeks ago. He has obtained a position at Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Trebilcock, who were married two weeks ago at Marquette, have returned from a wedding trip to Milwaukee and Chicago. They have started housekeeping on West Division street.

In the membership contest of the Ishpeming and Calumet associations of the Y. M. C. A., Ishpeming yesterday gained 8 1/2 miles, which brings the total to 5 1/2 miles. Calumet was not heard from last night.

The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's Hard Ore, Lake and Cliffs shafts workmen were paid yesterday for the first half of October. The workmen at the Salisbury, North Lake and Republic mines will be paid today.

The Salisbury Epworth league will give a concert this evening at the National Mine Methodist church. An excellent program has been arranged and a large attendance is expected. There will be no admission charge, but an offering will be taken.

Charles Chaplin, the comedian, will be seen tonight at the Ishpeming theater in "The Bank," which is one of his funniest comedies. In addition to "The Bank," which is in two reels, there will be a Hearst-Selig News and "The Quest of the Widow," a Vitagraph comedy.

The employees of the Oliver Iron company received their wages yesterday for the first half of October. The company's workmen at the Steamroller mine on the Swanzeny range, will be paid today, and the pay roll at the Queen mine, Negaunee, will be squared tomorrow.

The funeral of the late Maurice Engstrom, who was killed Friday in the Mass mine in Ontonagon county, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with services at his parents' home on York street. Rev. O. F. Edwards, pastor of the Swedish Methodist church, will conduct the services.

WARDENS MAKE SURVEY OF GAME

Partridge Are Few in Every Direction—Rough Favors Closed Season.

Deputy Game Wardens John Rough, of this city, and Herman Leisner, of Escanaba, have completed a ten days' trip through Mackinaw, Schoolcraft and the southern part of Delta county. They made a particular study of the game resources in the counties they visited, especially of the partridge coveys and breeding places of the birds.

They found that in localities where the birds had always been plentiful only a few could be found. Wherever they ran on to more than one partridge it was found that, with few exceptions, the birds were all old ones. If three were seen together, only one of them was usually a young bird.

Old time woodmen say that they found places during the early part of the summer where the young birds had been drowned shortly after being hatched out. Deputy Warden Rough is of the opinion that it would be a good thing if an indefinite closed season were provided for partridge as they are rapidly being thinned out.

"It will only be a few years before the deer in Mackinaw county will be exterminated entirely," said Mr. Rough yesterday. "More deer have been seen in the city limits of Escanaba during the past two weeks than the entire number in Mackinaw county. We traveled over many miles of country in Mackinaw county and did not find one track."

Marquette county, without a doubt, has more game than any other county in the upper peninsula. Delta county comes next. The deer did exceptionally well during the past summer and since the close of last season the number that have been killed illegally has been very small, in comparison with other years.

Wolves, which are the deer's worst enemies did not kill as many in Marquette and Delta counties this year as in former years.

Mr. Rough says that the woods are full of hunters in search of partridge and rabbits. Many rabbits are being shot, but still they seem to be plentiful.

MACLYN ARBUCKLE TONIGHT.

"The County Chairman," George Ade's comedy drama triumph, will be shown tonight at the Star theater in motion pictures. The feature is in five reels and Maelyn Arbuckle plays the leading part, that of the Honorable Jim Haeckler, the county chairman. Mr. Arbuckle starred in the play for several years and is a great stage favorite. Tomorrow Annette Kellermann, "The Perfect Woman," will be shown in the pictorial matter piece "Neptune's Daughter."

MUCH IMPROVEMENT WORK.

Contractors Have Hands Full Taking Care of Small Jobs.

Negaunee contractors, who have not been rushed with work during the last summer, now have all the jobs that they can take care of. Much improvement work is being done by Negaunee property owners. Building in Negaunee has been slack since the beginning of the year and many of the city's best carpenters and mechanics have left the city. However, the tradesmen who remained in the city now have about as much work as they can take care of.

John Rudness is making good headway with the Guild Hall which he is constructing for St. John's Episcopal church, and he expects to have it completed by Dec. 1. The work has been hindered considerably because of the wet weather, but the contractor has succeeded in getting the place enclosed and the work will proceed rapidly from now on. Mr. Rudness has a crew of men at work making a number of extensive repairs on G. L. Kohlman's block on West Iron street. The contractor recently completed remodeling the residence of Mrs. M. Beney on Case street.

Sam McCall is making good headway with the erection of a residence for Thomas Watters, on Bluff street, and it will be completed in a few days. The framework on the house which Thomas Johns is building for Fred Staple, on Mill street, is all up and the building will be enclosed in a few days.

a good drawing card and would be witnessed by persons from all over the upper peninsula.

The Stambaugh and Escanaba city football teams played a 0 to 0 tie Sunday at Escanaba. The former team has not been defeated in several years. Ishpeming will meet Stambaugh at the Ishpeming grounds Sunday.

TRAPPED WOLF.

John Mattson, who owns a large farm about two miles north of Negaunee, caught a timber wolf in a trap at his place on Saturday. The animal was caught in two traps, the fore feet being in one and the hind feet in the other. The animal was dead when Mr. Mattson found it, although it had only been in the trap one day. Mattson, besides being a successful farmer, has been able to make a living trapping for a number of years. His latest experiment in trapping wolves was to use a dead horse. The animal was hauled to the farm from the city and ten traps were set around it.

LOCAL LACONICS.

August Allen, manager of the Star theater, spent yesterday at Marquette. "Brown" Amonio spent yesterday at Gwin.

A. W. Havela, of Duluth, is in the city, spending a few days calling on friends.

There will be a special meeting of Jackson Rebecca lodge this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Edward Goodman, of Gwin, spent yesterday in the city, visiting with relatives and friends.

Sam Rosenfield, of Louisville, Ky., arrived in the city yesterday to spend a few days on business.

The employees of the Oliver Iron Mining company's Queen group of mines will be paid tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Peterson have returned from a few days' visit with relatives and friends at Skandia.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Allison have departed on an automobile trip to Indiana. They will be gone several days.

John Dwyer, of Escanaba, yardmaster for the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, was in the city yesterday.

Robert W. Jackson, who conducts a buffet at Detroit, arrived here yesterday to spend a few days visiting with his folks.

John J. Hauserman, Charles and Hilmer Leaf were successful in bagging ten rabbits on a hunting trip back of Palmer Sunday.

Oral Lacombe, Jr., has returned to Marquette, where he is employed, after spending the week-end here visiting with his folks.

Frank Willman, who has been visiting with his brother, Walter, and cousin, John Coffey, at Lansing, will return home tomorrow.

J. A. Wasmuth & Sons have started work installing a sewer system and a bath room in the residence of Mrs. A. McDonald, Cherry street.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Donnett, who spent a few days visiting with Negaunee and Ishpeming relatives, returned yesterday to their home at Munising.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Connell arrived home yesterday morning from Chicago, where they were called to attend the funeral of Mr. Connell's mother, the late Mrs. Ellen Connell.

The degree team of English Oak lodge, Sons of St. George, initiated four candidates at the meeting held last evening. At the conclusion of the work refreshments were served.

Ben Weber left Sunday evening for Chicago, where he will be a patient at Augustana hospital. Mr. Weber has been suffering from an injury to his arm and shoulder for the past several weeks.

Births recorded in the city yesterday were: Lorenzo Bollero and wife, Boyer avenue, a daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gramlund, East Case street, a daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kent, Bluff street, a daughter.

John D. Moffatt arrived home yesterday morning from a two days' trip to Lansing, Battle Creek, Detroit, Ann Arbor and Chicago. He attended the Michigan-M. A. C. football game Saturday at Ann Arbor. Mr. Moffatt was accompanied home by his sister, Mrs. Clair Crawford, and the latter's son, Clyde, of Battle Creek. Mrs. Crawford will spend a month in the city visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moffatt, Lincoln street.

VETERAN FIRE CHIEF KILLED BY SMOKE.

Saginaw, Mich., Oct. 25.—Fire Chief George W. Wallis, the oldest fire chief in the state in point of service and recently elected president of the State Firemen's association, was overcome by smoke while engaged in fighting a $75,000 fire in the downtown district, failed to recover consciousness and died after physicians had worked over him with a pulmonary for two hours.

The fire started in the Model bakery about midnight from fried cake grease and quickly spread throughout the building. The adjoining shoe store, owned by Edward Goschel, was quickly attacked by the flames. Both will be nearly a total loss.

Charles Simpson, a fireman, tripped while handling a ladder and fell, striking his head on the sidewalk and being knocked unconscious. He was taken to a hospital, where it is said he will recover.

George Frabbe, captain of a hose company, was badly cut by glass. Dr. A. S. Rogers, a physician, escaped down a ladder from the third floor of an adjoining building and was exhausted.

Mrs. Margaret Brookway, who roomed over the shoe store, narrowly escaped.

DRUG PRICES ARE SOARING

Glycerin Advancing Five Cents Per Pound Each Day—Many Important Drugs Out of Market Entirely—Growing in Scarcity and Higher Prices Every Day.

Carbolic Acid Holds Record for Price Advance—Now Eighth Times Its Original Price—Unable to Predict How High Prices of Many Drugs May Go.

Marquette druggists report abnormal prices on many drugs, due to the conditions caused by the war and the excessive demand for certain products in the manufacture of munitions. While the druggists keep in close touch with the market through trade journals and constantly revised price lists of the manufacturers, additional information on the subject was obtained yesterday through the visit here of a representative of the Colgate company, the controlling factor in the output of glycerin, as well as of certain popular antiseptics.

According to the Colgate company's representative, the price of glycerin is now advancing at the rate of five cents per pound per day. The price at the start of the war was twenty-one cents a pound to the trade, whereas last Saturday it was sixty cents per pound, with sensational increases anticipated from now on. Even at this price, it is extremely difficult for druggists to obtain glycerin in any satisfactory quantities, as the importation has been greatly curtailed because of the war. Furthermore, the Du Pont Powder interests are buying glycerin wherever it is available, and at the highest market prices, to be used in the making of nitro-glycerin. Glycerin, together with quinine and opium, led in the abnormal price advances in the drug market last week. Because of the prevailing high market price, druggists of this city were recently compelled to advance the retail price, but even the new prices do not give them a fair margin of profit, and, to make matters worse, leading factors in the trade say that it is impossible to tell how high prices may go.

Carbolic Acid Leads.

Carbolic acid undoubtedly holds the record for sensational price advance since the outbreak of hostilities. Druggists are now compelled to pay approximately eighteen times as much for it as at the beginning of the war. Even at the present list price of $2, however, it is impossible for druggists to obtain carbolic acid in any quantity. The importation has been stopped entirely, to supply the tremendous demand for it in the war zone, where it is being used as a disinfectant for wounds.

Aspirin and aspirin tablets have also made startling leaps in price, and are now out of the market entirely. Some druggists have a limited supply of this drug in stock, but as soon as this is exhausted it will be impossible for them to replenish the supply under existing conditions.

All herbs, roots and barks have also been tremendously advanced in price. Most of these come from Germany, and since the outbreak of the war, the importation has practically ceased.

Outlook Not Bright.

Druggists express themselves as being pessimistic as regards the outlook. They are willing to cope with the advanced market prices by making necessary readjustments in the scale of retail prices, but they are chiefly concerned over the growing scarcity of many important drugs in every day demand for compounding prescriptions.

As for the price advances, it is generally conceded that so long as the war demand continues there is no hope for a return to anything like normal prices. Conditions governing the trade are decidedly unfavorable and normal is hampered because of the previously mentioned scarcity and high prices, both of which are becoming more serious each week. Predictions as to how high the prices will eventually soar appear practically worthless under present conditions, but in the opinion of the druggists "the worst is yet to come."

CITIES MARQUETTE PLANT.

St. Louis Men Refer to It as an Argument for Municipal Ownership.

The Marquette lighting plant is being referred to in St. Louis as affording evidence that St. Louis ought to go in for municipal lighting for the benefit of its residents. Not only are its annual reports cited by the St. Louis Star, but Messrs. Steoch and Freilburg, well-known business men of the city, speak from personal observation of the experience with municipal ownership here. After citing extensive figures from the report, the Star says:

"Stoehr and F. C. Freilburg of the lighting committee of the Tenth Ward Improvement association, who made the trip to Marquette, believe that electricity can be generated more cheaply in St. Louis than in Marquette not only because of the larger size of the city, but also because of the cheap coal here. Coal costs from $1 to $1.50 a ton delivered to manufacturers in St. Louis, depending on the grade. In speaking of the Marquette water plant Stoehr said: 'The plant is operated entirely by water power. Superintendent Retaille says if coal is used at $1.50 to $1.75 per ton, the cost of production should not be as high as a water power plant on account of expensive power reservoirs to be maintained. It is understood that the larger the consumption, the lower the cost of production per k. w. h.'

"The city of Marquette is on Lake Superior. The lighting plant with all modern improvements, real estate, buildings, and equipment has cost the city $436,641.52, with light and power bonds still outstanding, amounting to $29,000. 'The electric light plant furnishes power to all public institutions, manufacturers, street railway company and private individuals.'"

HALLOWE'EN PARTY TO START DANCE PROGRAM

Masonic Dance Committee Arranges Schedule of Eight Parties in Next Few Months.

A Halloween party on Friday evening, Oct. 29, will inaugurate a series of eight dancing parties, arranged by the Masonic dance committee, to be held in Colonial Hall. The Halloween party will be preceded by a supper in the hall at 6:30 p. m. An appropriate holiday menu will be served, under the direction of James L. Deagon, and the hall will be adorned with special Halloween decorations. A large delegation of Masons from Negaunee and Ishpeming is expected to be in attendance.

The rest of the series of dances will be carried out on practically the same plan as next Friday night's affair, and will cover a period of several months. The dance committee, consisting of E. L. Peavey, J. L. Deagon, E. P. Rydholm, W. R. Peters, and John V. Denny, have complete charge of all arrangements, and have selected the following dates as the dance schedule: Oct. 29, Nov. 12, Nov. 25, Dec. 31, Jan. 14, Jan. 28, Feb. 11, and Mar. 10.

VICTIM OF RUNAWAY.

Mrs. Joseph Pultan at St. Luke's Hospital Recovering from Shaking-Up.

Mrs. Joseph Pultan is at St. Luke's hospital recovering from the effects of a bad shaking-up which she received as the result of a runaway accident on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pultan were enjoying a carriage ride along the Chesapeake road about 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, when the horse became frightened by a passing locomotive, at the railroad crossing below the gas house. In the mad dash of the horse over the railroad tracks, Mrs. Pultan was thrown into the air and her carriage was partially wrecked. Mr. Pultan and the child were uninjured, and the injuries of Mrs. Pultan were last night reported as not being of a serious nature.

GUESTS AT BANQUET.

Choir of Methodist Episcopal Church Entertained by Music Committee.

The Church Chorus choir, of the Methodist Episcopal church, were guests at a banquet given in their honor by the music committee of the church. The hosts and hostesses were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brainerd, Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Hornbogen, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ulrich, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hatch, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Johnson.

H. B. Hatch presided as toastmaster. The evening's enjoyment was greatly enhanced by Miss Ethel Hanby, who favored with a piano solo, and Miss Marion Hathway, who rendered several humorous readings. The Rev. Charles J. Johnson responded to the toast, "The Emotional and Ethical Value of Music."

If you can raise $27.50 you had better buy five tons of coke from the Marquette Gas Light Co. at once and save money. 10-20-15

TO PUNISH VIOLATORS OF HEALTH ORDINANCE

City Will Proceed Criminally Against Those Maintaining Out-houses on Premises.

Stringent measures to effect the complete elimination of the numerous out-houses throughout the city were recommended by Mayor Begele at a regular meeting of the city commission last night. The subject was discussed at great length by the commissioners, and it was decided to institute criminal proceedings against those who had not notified the full sixty days allowed by the city charter, but who have as yet failed to comply with the notice.

Several months ago a thorough investigation by the health department disclosed the fact that 380 out-houses were being used in this city, in locations where sewer or drainage connection with the public sewer was possible. The health department, in accordance with a city ordinance, immediately sent out notices warning the owners or tenants that after sixty days the use of these out-houses would be unlawful. It has been since learned that some of the owners misconstrued the wording of the notice, and have made connections from the kitchens of the premises with the public sewer, but are still maintaining objectionable out-houses. However, the section of the city ordinance regarding this subject is quoted at the bottom of each notice, so that those who received warning sixty days ago or more, and are still maintaining the out-houses, are considered to have been fully warned and are now open to criminal prosecution.

In some few cases where the serving of the notices has been at fault, new notices will be served. In other cases, where there have been flagrant violations of this city ordinance despite the warnings issued, Attorney George P. Brown has been instructed to draw up papers to institute proceedings at once.

Sewer Improvement Bids.

Bids for the Summit street and Fitch avenue sewer improvement were also opened at last night's meeting. The bid of Erik J. Johnson was the lowest of the five bids. He was awarded the contract at the following rates: Lineal foot of sewer, 45 cents; lamp pole, 75 cents; manhole, $37.00. The department of public works was authorized by the city commission to close the road between the Carp River bridge and the long Lake street bridge, as soon as necessary, should the Lake street bridge be declared unsafe for traffic.

ORGAN RECITAL.

Miss Winifred Hull Will Render Program at St. Paul's Church Nov. 12.

Miss Winifred Hull, organist and choir director of the Second Presbyterian church, Evanston, Ill., and a concert performer of note, will give a recital in St. Paul's church Friday evening, Nov. 12. She will be assisted in her program by the Rev. Platte T. Amstutz, baritone. The recital will be free to the public.

Miss Hull is a graduate of the School of Music of Northwestern university, and was for some time a pupil of Professor Wm. E. Zenck, of Chicago.

RUNAWAY FURNISHES EXCITEMENT GALORE

Team of Frightened Horses Sends Wagon Into Ditch, Then Runs Into Rig Ahead.

An exciting runaway of a team, owned by Frank H. Vandenberg, of the Marquette City Dairy, occurred at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, on the county road, about a quarter mile above the brewery.

Preceded by a single covered rig, the team let the dairy on its usual morning route, when a bolt in the pole gave way. One side of the pole became loosened, and the horses, unable to turn the wagon except to one side, became frightened and started on a wild run from one side of the road to the other, finally dragging the wagon to the edge of a twenty-foot declivity. Here the other side of the pole became detached, and the terrified horses, now free of the wagon, continued on their dash with the pole and neck-yolks. The wagon slid down the declivity, and crashed against two small trees, which kept the wagon right side up.

In the meantime the horses ran into the single rig ahead and the pole between went through the back panel of the rig. Mario Vandenberg, the twelve-year-old daughter of Frank H. Vandenberg, who was sitting alongside the driver of the single team, was struck on the back of the head by the pole, but escaped with nothing more serious than a painful bump. She was able to attend school yesterday afternoon.

William Gray, the driver of the wagon, remained in his seat until it went down the embankment, but was uninjured. Both wagon and rig, however, were badly smashed, and the horses were cut and bruised. One horse, in fact, had to have five stitches sewed in his nose by Dr. A. W. Deadman yesterday afternoon. About twenty bottles of milk were spilled over the road, but nearly every other bottle remained intact in its case.

REV. W. R. NEWELL WILL CONDUCT CLASS HERE

To Give Bible Course in Presbyterian Church This Week, Beginning Wednesday Eve.

The visit of the Rev. W. R. Newell to Marquette this week will undoubtedly prove of unusual interest to all Bible students of every denomination. Mr. Newell has been conducting Bible classes in Toronto, Memphis, St. Louis, Chicago and other cities for a number of years, and is recognized as one of the foremost Bible students in the nation. He is being brought here by people interested in his work and for the express purpose of affording Marquette Bible students an opportunity to hear him. His course will be given in the Presbyterian church, beginning Wednesday evening and will continue throughout the week and on Sunday. A most cordial invitation is extended to young and old to attend, and it is expected that large numbers will hear Mr. Newell each night and on Sunday.

The Rev. Walter Russel of Chicago has been engaged to come to Marquette next month and conduct a series of evangelistic meetings in the Presbyterian church. Mr. Russel is a remarkable Bible student, and his speaking is particularly most illuminating and interesting. He is not a popular evangelist. He has no distasteful methods. He is a most lovable man and soon endears himself to the audience. Following so closely upon the Bible school of Mr. Newell it is expected that from the first Mr. Russel will draw large crowds.

Plans are being laid to take a large number of people to the upper peninsula convention for state prohibition to be held in Escanaba on Thursday of next week. It is expected that fully fifty will make the trip. The program presents many of the foremost platform orators of the country, including Dr. T. Alexander Cairns, of New Jersey, Dr. A. C. Bane of California and Congressman Richmond P. Hobson. This will be the opening gun of the great campaign to make the state "dry" in 1916. Information concerning the convention may be had by calling the Rev. P. T. Amstutz.

COLDER WEATHER.

Weather Bureau Predicts Snow or Rain Today—Storm Signals Displayed.

The ideal weather of the last few days has come to an abrupt end, according to the forecast of the weather bureau. A cold front was received from Washington yesterday to display southwest storm warnings for twenty-four hours, until 11 o'clock this morning. The southwest disturbances yesterday grew stronger towards evening, and it was predicted that the winds would shift to northwest this morning.

However, for those interested more in the temperature than in the direction of the wind, the weather bureau cheerfully and gratuitously dispenses the information that this neighborhood is now listed for a siege of colder weather, with snow or rain today.

Yesterday morning Manitowish was the center of the storm area, which is of wide extent. Southwest storm signals were ordered up on Lake Erie, Lake Huron, Lake Michigan, and Lake Superior, from Sault Ste. Marie to Eagle Harbor. Northwest storm signals were ordered on Lake Superior, from Houghton to Duluth.

Theatrical

At the Opera House.

This evenings program will include "Ashes of Inspiration," a two-part Biograph drama, also, "Mr. Jarr and Circumstantial Evidence, a Vitagraph comedy, with Harry Davenport, Rose Tandy and Charles Eldridge included in the cast. Eiler's Circus is the title of the vaudeville act, which differs from others in the fact that two separate animal acts are performed at the same time.

Delft Theater.

"Stolen Goods," a Paramount production, featuring Blanche Sweet, House Peters, and an all-star cast, will be shown today at the Delft theater.

Margery Huntley, a poor girl working in a dress-making establishment, is sent to match some samples at a store. While she is standing at a counter Helen North, a rich girl kleptomaniac, steals a piece of lace, and noticing that it is missed, saves herself by thrusting it into Margery's open bag. Thus Margery goes to prison for a crime which she did not commit. When Margery leaves prison she becomes a trained nurse, but her "prison record" is discovered and she feels that her best field for work is in the Belgian hospitals everywhere.

SERBIANS ARE FORCED BACKWARD LITTLE BY LITTLE AS THE WEIGHT OF CENTRAL POWERS INCREASES

Troops Which So Gallantly Have Defended Northeastern Corner of Their Country Cannot Withstand Much Longer the Attacks of Austro-German and Bulgarian Armies--Great Britain and France Reported Preparing to Send Reinforcements to Theater in Balkans--Minister At Athens Trying to Arrange with Greece to Permit the Allies to Use Saloniki as a Base.

Athens, via Paris, Oct. 26, 11 p. m.—An official dispatch announces that the Serbians have recaptured the town of Veleo (Krupulu) on the railroad south-east of Uskup, after desperate fighting.

London, Oct. 26, 10:30 p. m.—The Serbians troops which have been so gallantly holding the little northeastern corner of their country, where the Austro-German and Bulgarian armies are about to join, are being slowly forced back as the pressure on them becomes greater. The Marquis of Lansdowne, minister without portfolio in the British cabinet, regretfully announced to the house of lords this evening that he feared the Serbians could not much longer withstand the attacks.

In fact, all along the northern and eastern frontiers of Serbia, the invaders are making steady progress, although at great cost, as the Serbians, now that they have reached the hills are making them pay heavily for every mile covered. It is only in the south, where the French have joined hands with the Serbians, that the Bulgarians are being held. Here the French and Serbians are intrenching themselves and awaiting reinforcements, which they hope will enable them to drive the Bulgarians out of Macedonia.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR SERBIA.

Great Britain and France, according to the statement of the Marquis of Lansdowne in the house of lords, are dispatching a strong force to the Near East and are only awaiting the report of General Sir Charles Carmichael Monro, the new British commander on the Gallipoli peninsula, and other military and naval advisers, to decide at which point they will be used.

Great Britain and France, the Marquis of Lansdowne said, had taken up the challenge of the central powers in the Near East as elsewhere and were preparing to strike blow for blow and hoped eventually to receive the support of Greece and Rumania, although they were not depending upon them.

BRITAIN AND GREECE TALKING.

Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, today told the house of commons that Great Britain's offer to cede Cyprus to Greece had lapsed, as Greece had not fulfilled her treaty obligations to Serbia. The British minister at Athens is reported to be making representations to Greece with respect to the use of Saloniki as a base for the allies and also with regard to Greece's future action.

On the eastern and western battlefronts, as in Serbia, heavy fighting continues. In the Riga and Dvinsk regions of Russia the German field marshal, von Hindenburg, undaunted by repeated failures during the last forty days to reach the Russian fortresses on the Dvina river, is making another furious determined effort to achieve his aim.

THE OTHER THREE FRONTS.

Reports today were that he had made further progress, particularly near Ilioukist. Along the rest of the line, through the province of Vilna, Grodno and Volhynia, and in Galicia, there have been battles at many points with the advantage first on one side and then on the other.

The Italians are still carrying on their offensive against the Austrians, while the struggle in the Champagne region in France, begun when the French captured a portion of La Courtine works from the Germans, some of which the Germans have recaptured, is still in progress. The French claim they have extended their gains by taking an adjoining trench north of Massiges.

ADMITS SERIOUS SITUATION.

London, Oct. 26, 7 p. m.—Replying to a question by Earl Loxburn in the house of lords this afternoon as to the progress of the campaign in the Balkans, the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Unionist leader, who holds a seat in the cabinet without portfolio, said:

"I must say with great regret I am afraid we must admit that the progress of the campaign in northern Serbia has been such as to render it highly improbable that the Serbian army will be able to withstand for any great length of time the attacks to which it is exposed from the Austro-German forces on the north, aided by the stab in the back which Serbia is receiving at the hands of Bulgaria."

GREEKS DRAWN IN BATTLE?

London, Oct. 27, 2:55 a. m.—Greek troops have been drawn into the fighting near the junction of the Greek, Serbian and Bulgarian boundaries, according to a brief message received from the Daily Mail's Athens correspondent. The message says:

"Greek frontier guards have been attacked near Doiran, but repulsed their attackers with losses."

FORD TELLS MEN IN SAN QUENTIN 'BE GOOD FELLOWS'

San Rafael, Calif., Oct. 26.—Henry Ford, of Detroit, philanthropist, visited San Quentin penitentiary today, where are 1,800 convicts.

"Be good fellows while you are in here, and be better ones afterward," was his speech to the men as they sat at the noon meal.

BOX CO. HEADS HELD PENDING PROBE OF FIRE

Three Officials of Union Paper Box Company of Pittsburg, at Whose Factory 13 Persons Perished in Flames Monday, Are Arrested at Coroner's Request.

Executor of Estate Which Owned Building Is Released on $10,000 Bail--Warrants State Men Are Wanted on 'Charges That May Result' from Investigations

Pittsburg, Oct. 26.—Three officials of the Union Paper Box company and the executor of the James Brown estate, owner of the building in which the company's factory was located, were arrested here late today in connection with the fire yesterday which resulted in the deaths of thirteen persons and injuries to twenty others, one of whom may die.

H. H. Woods, executor of the Brown estate, was released on $10,000 bail and Henry E. Weiskopf, president; William C. Kimbel, secretary and treasurer; and Henry C. Schaefer, foreman of the factory of the box company, were released on $5,000 bail to appear at the coroner's inquest, which will probably be held next Tuesday.

NO DEFINITE CHARGE YET.

The warrants, which were issued by Coroner Samuel C. Jamison, state that the men are wanted for "charges that may result regarding the deaths of Colletta Sellman and others." Miss Sellman was one of the girls who lost her life in the fire. Officials of the company refused to discuss their arrest.

Gertrude Nisit, who jumped from the third story to the sidewalk, fracturing many bones in her body, was in a serious condition tonight, and there was little hope for her recovery. Physicians said the other injured persons were rapidly improving and would probably be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

CARRANZAIST TRENCHES FACE AMERICAN SIDE

Explanation Is That Villa Men May Slip Across Border and Attack in That Direction.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 26.—Trenches facing Douglas and only about five hundred feet south of the boundary, were being dug today by soldiers of the Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta. The explanation was that the trenches were designed as a defense against Villa troops who might slip around to the east and west of Agua Prieta and attack from the American side.

General Benjamin Hill, who, with his staff and troops were accorded permission to pass over American territory from Laredo to Douglas, will arrive Thursday, about twenty-four hours ahead of his soldiers. When these reinforcements arrive General P. E. Calles, Carranza commander in Sonora, expects to take the field against the Villa army.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 26.—United States military officers here have recommended to Major General Funston that an additional regiment of artillery be sent to Douglas to preserve American neutrality in the event of an attack upon Agua Prieta by Villa forces, it became known tonight. At present two batteries of field artillery are stationed here.

HOPED TO HAVE COPPER INTENDED FOR ALLIES REACH TEUTONIC PORT

German Secret Agent, Held on His Own Confession of Plotting to Blow Up Munitions Vessels, States He Also Intended to Arrange with Russian Masters to Run a Cargo Into German Docks--Government Officials Scout Truth of This--Four of Men Involved by Fay Are Locked Up--Fifth, Max Breitung, a Cousin of E. N. Breitung, of Marquette, Is Reported on His Way to Answer to Charges.

New York, Oct. 26.—What part, if any, the delaying of vessels laden with copper for the allies was to have taken in the alleged conspiracy of German agents to prevent war munitions from reaching Europe from this country was under investigation by federal authorities today, following an additional confession made to secret service officials by Robert Fay, said to be a former lieutenant in the German army.

Fay, who is one of the five men charged with conspiracy to delay or prevent the sailing of war munitions ships from this country, is said to have made a detailed confession to William J. Flynn, chief of the secret service. In it, according to the federal authorities, he repeated his former confession made to the police at Weehawken, N. J., but stated in addition that his mission, besides placing bombs on propellers or rudders of ships, was to endeavor to bribe the commanders of Russian vessels. He said the plan, he was to endeavor to carry through was to induce a Russian commander to run a cargo of copper into a German port, at which place a large sum of money was to be paid to the Russian. Government officials said they were inclined to give little credence to this phase of Fay's story, but it was made a part of the evidence on which the men were held over for further hearing.

FOUR OF MEN LOCKED UP.

Four of the men charged with the conspiracy were locked up under federal custody tonight. These included Fay and Walter L. Scholz, his brother-in-law, who, after being released in a police court at Weehawken, were rearrested on federal warrants and brought to New York. They were taken before United States Commissioner Houghton. Both Fay and Scholz said they had no funds with which to employ counsel. Commissioner Houghton postponed their hearing until Nov. 4, held them each under $25,000 bond and said that in the meantime he would provide them with counsel.

Paul Dacche, another of the alleged conspirators, when arrested on a federal warrant in the Weehawken police court, elected to be taken before the nearest United States commissioner at Jersey City, N. J. He, too, was held in $25,000 bond but his hearing was set for Nov. 3. Dr. Herbert Kienle, who was arrested yesterday in New York, up to tonight had been unable to furnish bond for his release from the Tombs prison.

MAX BREITUNG TO NEW YORK.

Chief Flynn said that so far he had been unable to locate Max Breitung, the fifth man charged with complicity in the conspiracy. Breitung is a cousin of E. N. Breitung, of New York and Marquette, Mich., a wealthy mining man. In a dispatch from Marquette E. N. Breitung was quoted as saying his cousin would provide legal defense, which was taken as indicating that the man named in the complaint here would appear later. It was said he left Chicago today for New York.

ONE MAN KILLED IN STRIKE RIOT; SECOND MAY DIE

Chicago, Oct. 26.—One man was shot and killed and two others were wounded, one perhaps fatally, in a riot striking out of the garment workers' strike here tonight. A score of shots were fired, participants in the affray taking refuge behind telephone poles and boxes. Police reserves were summoned and had some difficulty in dispersing a large crowd attracted by the shooting.

Samuel Kapper, thirty-five years old, said to have been a striking tailor, was shot in the back of the head and killed. Samuel Siegel, twenty-three years old, also a striking tailor, was shot behind the right ear and seriously wounded, and Tony Piniwie, thirty-nine years old, said to be a non-union tailor, was shot in the back of the head and is believed to have been fatally wounded.

Four persons who are said to have taken part in the shooting escaped. The police reported that Piniwie and his wife were on their way home from their place of employment when they were accosted by several men and women workers affected by the walkout, who demanded they join them. When they refused, the police say, someone fired a shot and Kapper fell dead. Several arrests have been made and the police have begun a search for participants in the affray.

SERB PREMIER APPEALS TO BRITAIN FOR HELP

London, Oct. 27, 2:55 a. m.—The London newspapers this morning publish an appeal from M. Pachitch, the Serbian premier, for speedy aid from England in Serbia's superhuman efforts to defend her existence against the Austro-Germans, and Bulgarians, who have, he says, condemned her to death.

"For twenty days," the premier says, "our common enemies have tried to annihilate us, and despite the heroism of our soldiers our resistance cannot be expected to be maintained indefinitely."

STEPS TAKEN TO REDUCE POSTOFFICE BURGLARIES

Orders Go Forth to Cut Down Amount of Stamps and Commercial Paper on Hand.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Postoffice burglaries have been so numerous of late that an order went forth today to all postmasters except of the first class, to keep on hand a smaller number of stamps and other papers of a commercial value and to guard them more carefully than heretofore.

Reports to the postoffice department accounting for last year's business show that 3,498 claims aggregating a loss of $190,000 resulted from larceny of post-offices. They were received from nearly every section of the country.

Inspectors were unable in most cases to find any trace of the stolen goods, because of the lack of identification marks. Their investigations, however, have led department officials to believe that stamp breakers in a number of larger cities make it their business to dispose of stolen goods. The department is pursuing its investigations along these lines and also is endeavoring to develop some means for identifying stamps and other papers.

BRITISH TRANSPORT SUNK IN AEGEAN SEA

London, Oct. 26, 10:50 p. m.—An official announcement made public tonight says:

"The British transport Marquette has been torpedoed in the Aegean sea. It is understood that only ninety-nine of the personnel of the vessel are unaccounted for. No further details have been received."

The steamer Marquette, before she was taken into the British government service was owned by the Atlantic transport company and plied between Philadelphia and Baltimore and London. She was a vessel of 7,050 tons and was built in Glasgow in 1897.

TODAY'S WEATHER.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The following is the weather bureau's forecast for Upper Michigan: Fair Wednesday; Thursday fair and warmer.

ASK CONGRESS NOT TO ENFORCE SEAMEN'S ACT

New York, Oct. 26.—Suspension by President Wilson, under authority to be granted by congress, of the seamen's act, in whole or in part, until a government shipping board of five members can be organized and recommend measures, necessary to maintain American shipping on a competitive basis with other nations, is advocated by the National Foreign Trade council in a report adopted recently and made public today.

Problems relating to American shipping under the seamen's act were given long study on behalf of the council, which represents mammoth American interests identified with almost every phase of foreign trade, by a committee composed of James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation; P. A. S. Franklin, vice president of the International Mercantile Marine company, and Captain Robert Dollar, of San Francisco.

The requirement that 75 per cent of the crews of vessels calling at American ports must be able to understand any order given by the officers is said by the report to place American ships at enormous disadvantage as compared with Japanese vessels, whose crews are the only low-priced labor understanding the language of their officers.

34 MORE SENTENCED TO DEATH PENALTY

Amsterdam, via London, Oct. 26, 11:17 p. m.—According to the Tyd, thirty-four additional death sentences against persons who were charged with espionage and treason have been pronounced by court-martial at Liege. The newspaper adds that Pope Benedict, the king of Spain and President Wilson have been appealed to by telegraph to intervene in behalf of the condemned persons.

Newfoundland was purchased by Great Britain for 10 pounds sterling.

HOUSE LEADER DOESN'T FAVOR DEFENSE PLANS

Washington, Oct. 26.—Representative Claude Kitchin, majority leader of the house of representatives, has not yet been converted to the support of the administration's national defense program.

Mr. Kitchin was in Washington for a few hours today. To those who talked with him the majority leader frankly said he did not see how he could support the president's defense appropriation program if it came to congress substantially as outlined in unofficial reports. He said, however, that he would keep his mind open on the subject until he had talked with the president and seen the proposals for himself.

Officials stated that the reason for sending additional troops was it was feared hungry strikers might attempt to loot stores.

BOMB-DROPPING TESTS AT U. S. NAVY STATION REPORTED SUCCESSFUL

Washington, Oct. 26.—Four new hydro-aeroplanes have been received at the navy aeronautic station at Pensacola, Fla., and the first navy dirigible will be delivered at the station within the next three weeks.

Reports from the station to the navy department, made public today, said extensive bomb-dropping experiments had been made recently during the training work and that a launching device on the cruiser North Carolina had been successfully tested.

$10,000,000 FRENCH CREDIT IS REPORTED ARRANGED

New York, Oct. 26.—Wall street heard today on seemingly good authority that preparations had been almost completed for the establishment of a French credit in this city of from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

According to reports current in the financial section the sum was to be used solely for the payment of munitions shipped from this country for the account of France. What form the credit would take was not divulged.

U. S. STEEL CORPORATION EARNS $10,000,000 MORE

Sweeping Gain Over Preceding Quarter Shown--1 1/4 Per Cent Dividend on Preferred.

New York, Oct. 26.—Earnings of the United States Steel corporation for the quarter ending Sept. 30 last, which had been looked forward to with great interest in financial and other business circles, were announced today. They amounted to $38,710,644, an increase of $10,769,889 over the preceding quarter, the most favorable exhibit since the second quarter of 1913, when earnings aggregated $41,219,813. The net income of $30,945,791 shows a gain of $9,734,267 over the preceding quarter, while the surplus of $18,937,241, indicates a gain of $9,769,596.

The regular quarterly dividend of 1 1/4 per cent was declared on the preferred stock, but no action was taken toward the resumption of common dividends, as expected in some quarters, although the surplus for the quarter was almost three times in excess of such requirements.

WILLIAMS QUILTS EPISCOPALIAN CHURCH BOARD

New York, Oct. 26.—Five members of the board of missions of the Episcopal church tendered their resignations today when the quarterly meeting of the board refused by a vote of 26 to 13 to rescind the resolution adopted last May, to participate in the Panama Interdenominational Missionary conference to be held in February.

The Roman Catholic church, through its missions, several months ago declined the invitation to participate in the Panama conference, because it believed the plans of the conference were hostile to the Roman Catholic church.

The Episcopal board of missions was able to reach a vote today only after five hours of controversy, much of it heated and marking the most turbulent meeting the board ever held, according to several of the older members.

The five members who offered their resignations were: Bishop Reginald B. Weller, Fond du Lac, Wis.; Bishop G. Motz Williams, Marquette, Mich.; Bishop Alfred Harding, Washington, D. C.; Rev. Dr. Selden P. Delany, Milwaukee, and Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, of Trinity church, New York city.

GOVERNMENT SITE, COSTING $170,000, IS DEEP UNDER WATER

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 26.—Eight feet of salt water washed over the site bought some years ago for Seattle's new postoffice when Secretary William G. McAdoo tried to look at it today. It was explained to him that the tide was in.

The site, for which the government paid $170,000, has been rejected by the treasury department as unavailable and will be sold for what it will bring. A drive one will be sought. Secretary McAdoo left tonight for the east.

$10,000,000 FRENCH CREDIT IS REPORTED ARRANGED

New York, Oct. 26.—Wall street heard today on seemingly good authority that preparations had been almost completed for the establishment of a French credit in this city of from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

According to reports current in the financial section the sum was to be used solely for the payment of munitions shipped from this country for the account of France. What form the credit would take was not divulged.

THE LATEST PLOT.

Keen interest is taken here in the latest alleged plot of German sympathizers operating in New York because Max Breitung, a young man who has many friends in the city, where he lived for over a year, is accused of complicity in it.

However this may be, the developments in the latest alleged plot indicate the utility of much of the pro-German operations on this side of the water.

The case of Ambassador Dumba furnishes the most notable example of this. It was particularly discreditable for the ambassador because his designs were so easily uncovered.

In whatever light they are viewed the pro-German activities in this country have been a colossal mistake from the beginning to the present day.

INTERNATIONAL RESULTS.

Only about 200,000 foreign immigrants arrived in this country last year, against 1,000,000 during the preceding twelve months. This country is not involved in war, but in this age of the world no important nation lives to itself.

The schedule for them not having been officially announced, it is, of course, impossible to say definitely whether the Teuton operations in Serbia are proceeding on time.

Representative Hay, who has in the past been one of the leading obstructionists when projects for military expansion were urged, is now reported to see at one with the President.

The Soo explains its gridiron reserve at the hands of the Marquette Highs by saying that it had no defense for the forward pass.

Mr. Bryan was in Detroit the other day, without attracting much attention. His present line of poohs has now been pretty thoroughly exploited.

THE NEW YORK CONSTITUTION.

The most important issue that will be passed on anywhere in the East this fall is the New York constitution. It is the work of perhaps the most notable constitutional convention that has assembled in this country since the days of the fathers.

It is generally agreed that it is an excellent constitution in that it proposes a notable advance over the present body of organic law. It has provisions that would make for greatly increased efficiency in administration, and that's one thing that New York badly needs.

This being the case, it would appear that the chances should favor its adoption. But on this score there appears to be a good deal of doubt.

The fate of the constitution may possibly influence Republican presidential politics next year. Root has been so long identified with it that its acceptance or rejection will likely be thought of largely in terms of Root.

At Menominee Sunday Mayor Lloyd addressed an open air meeting on the desirability of municipal ownership of the water system.

EDITORIAL OPINION

Good News from the Pork Belt.

The government estimates that there are 7 per cent. more stock hogs on the farms than at this time last year. This should be joyful news for the country, already happy over the crop prospect.

It seems to be generally believed that England is now, through Lord Derby, making a final test of the system of compulsory enlistment.

SKELETON OF BODY IS FOUND AT ONTONAGON

Authorities Investigating Rumor It Is That of William Saari, Oskar Farmer.

A partly skeletonized body was found by a farmer in the woods near Ontonagon last Sunday. Yesterday Sheriff Briscoe of Ontonagon county came to Houghton to investigate a rumor that the body is that of William Saari of Oskar, who has been missing since last June.

The Ontonagon sheriff, accompanied by Under Sheriff Heikkinen, went to Oskar yesterday to find Saari's wife and nine children. Mrs. Saari heard the description of the clothing found on the body, the only means of identification, and she is convinced the dead man is her husband.

It appears that Saari left Oskar in June to work the woods near Ontonagon, that in Ontonagon village he devoted some time to heavy drinking and that while in this condition he must have wandered into the woods and died.

FOR THE WELFARE OF THE BOYS.

Grace M. E. Church Men Will Organize Social Brotherhood.

Rev. Grant Perkins of Grace M. E. church Sunday night talked on the boy problem in Houghton. He had observed that the boys of Houghton have no organization interested in them, that there is no particular effort made to assist them in the pleasant and profitable expenditure of their leisure time and he called for volunteers to assist in bringing about a different condition.

A MEMBERSHIP CONTEST.

Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls Will Compete for a Banquet.

The Boy Scouts and the Camp Fire Girls, recently organized in Houghton, have begun a membership contest. They both started with a membership of sixty and desire to increase this largely, the contest being decided upon to give both an incentive for working the hardest. The winning side will be given a banquet by the loser and the contest will close Thanksgiving day.

NO STOMACH PAIN, GAS, INDIGESTION IN FIVE MINUTES

"Pape's Diapiesin" Is the Only Real Stomach Regulator Known.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that just that—makes Pape's Diapiesin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you heave gas and create sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapiesin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

BELIEVE MAN HELD IS GUILTY OF BURGLARIES

Police Think Emil Frederickson Committed Series of Thefts from Lawrence Warehouse.

As a result of the arrest in Laurium Monday night of Emil Frederickson it is expected by Marshal Wills of Laurium that a series of burglaries of 'Sam Lawrence's warehouse during a number of years past will be cleared up. Frederickson is charged with the theft of a number of automobile tires.

In recent years the Lawrence warehouse has been broken into with considerable regularity. On one occasion a safe was taken bodily from the building. The biggest haul made by the burglars was $400 worth of goods about a year ago. There have been a number of smaller hauls made from the same building but it was not until the tire robbery that suspicion pointed to Frederickson.

The arrested man was taken before Justice Jakola yesterday and the officers say he has partially admitted knowledge of the tire affair but that he insists he knows nothing of any other burglary.

Action in his case will be deferred pending investigation. The police believe Frederickson knows more about the matter than he admits.

SHE THOUGHT HIM FAITHLESS.

Mrs. Miller Has a Good Provider Arrested Because of Jealousy.

Mrs. Nick Miller of Calumet showed her love for her husband yesterday by having him arrested on a charge of non-support.

When the case came up before Justice Fisher the husband showed by his wife's own admission that he was a good provider and that there was no basis for the charge. The wife broke down and said she did it because she loved him. In other words she is jealous of Nick and thought to have him arrested just to show what might happen to him if he ever proved faithless. They left the court room together while the veteran justice of the peace pondered on the workings of the feminine mind, which ought to keep him busy for the rest of his term.

TAKEN BACK TO IONIA.

Dr. Haskell Leaves With Mike Swetish, Escaped Lunatic, in Charge.

Dr. R. H. Haskell, medical superintendent of the Ionia hospital for the criminal insane, arrived in Houghton Monday night and yesterday morning he left for Ionia in charge of Mike Swetish, an escaped inmate.

It is understood that Swetish's condition is such that he may be eligible for discharge from the hospital, in which event he will be brought back to Houghton county and tried on a charge of murdering his wife. The act was committed while he was insane and the trial will be a mere formality in all probability.

KEEPING UP THE FISH SUPPLY.

Federal Hatchery at Duluth Plants Millions of Fry in Superior.

The United States government, through the bureau of fisheries, annually plants in Lake Superior 870 cans of propagated fish, whitefish and lake trout, principally the latter, the cans containing 1,000 to 5,000 fish, depending on the size. These figures are given by S. T. Wires, superintendent of the federal fish hatchery at Duluth, who has charge of the propagation and planting of the fish. Mr. Wires was in Houghton yesterday on a tour of inspection of the various parties collecting spawn for his hatchery.

The bulk of the fish now caught in the great lakes are propagated fish, meaning that they are fish hatched artificially in state or government hatcheries. The federal law compels the hatcheries to return to any waters from which spawn are taken an equal quantity of fry. Mr. Wires says that Lake Superior has rather the advantage of the law as while most of the whitefish propagated at the Duluth hatchery are from Lake Erie spawn it is not advisable to send the fry back to Lake Erie. They are planted in Lake Superior instead and on the south shore of Lake Superior because the water on the north shore is too cold and deep for young whitefish. A large proportion of the lake trout and whitefish taken in Lake Superior are from Ontonagon, Ishpeming, Marquette, Marquette and Munising fishing grounds and the total of the collection last year was 150 bushels of eggs, or about 23,000,000 by measured count.

The planting of federal fish in Michigan waters did not begin till three years ago when the closed season law for commercial fish was passed by the state legislature. This gave the government an opportunity to collect eggs during the spawning season. It was thought at first that the fishermen did not take kindly to the law but they have proved to be very friendly and very helpful to the bureau. The law that the closed season makes it possible to insure a far greater number of propagated fish in future years than was possible under the old system.

The fish culturists are now so expert that they save fully 80 per cent of the eggs taken; that is they return to the waters fish fry in that proportion to the eggs. The loss of 20 per cent is considered small.

The law, under the direction of the state game warden, permits fishermen to catch fish in the spawning season. They must strip the eggs and deliver them to the county game warden and the latter turns them over to the experts from the federal hatchery, who pack them and ship them to Duluth. Similarly, the fishermen are on hand in the spring to deliver the fry to the planting grounds. Mr. Wires says that there are no less than seven fishing launches engaged in the planting out of Baraga in the season. The fishermen do this free of charge and gladly.

In addition to lake trout and whitefish the Duluth hatchery propagates brook trout and if the fishermen of Houghton have never secured any of these fry Mr. Wires says it is their own fault. To secure federal brook trout fry for a particular stream the fisherman must write first to the commissioner of fisheries at Washington, who will authorize him to order the fry from Duluth. This correspondence had been carried on through the congressman of the district.

ADDITION TO SANITARIUM.

County Purchasing Agent Will Open Bids for Supplies November 9.

County Purchasing Agent Ross has advised dealers throughout Houghton county that bids for equipping the addition to the Houghton county tuberculosis sanitarium will be opened at his office Nov. 9. The equipment will include twenty-five beds and their accessories.

This indicates that the addition will accommodate thirty-five patients, making the total capacity of the sanitarium, under pressure, about fifty. Originally the sanitarium was fitted to accommodate sixteen patients. That was the number planned for but the demand for the services of the institution was so much in excess of this that it had held as high as thirty, including those housed in shacks or tents.

The addition should be ready for use not later than a month from now, with the continuance of favorable conditions for the builders. The work has progressed so far that the plastering has been done and the floors and interior finish will be begun shortly.

It is understood that there are a considerable number of patients awaiting admission to the sanitarium and it may be filled to capacity during the winter, excepting the use of the shack and tents. The number of patients in the sanitarium fluctuates constantly. Patients suffering with this malady are commonly fretful and discontented and they come and go from the sanitarium according to their own fancy. This is one of the difficulties with which a tuberculosis sanitarium has to contend. It is unwise to hold out to patients, excepting in the earliest stages, hope of a cure and unless they can attain the favorable mental attitude themselves they often fail to realize the benefits that the institution undoubtedly can give them.

PALM DAYS OF THE THEATER.

Houghton Men Recall Some of the Troubles of the Property Boy.

The present generation of boys in Houghton is missing a lot of fun through the absence of a theater, judging from the stories told at a recent gathering of Houghton men who were property boys or "grips" in the old Army opera house many years ago. Houghton of course has two moving picture theaters but they do not require stage hands and scene shifters and property boys.

The old Army went the way of all flesh and other things in the winter of 1904, a heavy snowfall proving too much for its decrepit architectural skeleton. It had lost its identity as a theater some years before that, because of the advent of the Kerredge in the world of art.

The Army in those days had a different manager every season, and probably twice a season. Any member of the Houghton Light infantry that had ambitions to become a David Belasco was privileged to undertake the management and his friends constituted the force of attaches. There are scores of Houghton men who at one time or another came in close contact with the mysteries of stagflation in this way. A group of these veterans of the palmy days of the drama discussed the matter the other night at a Dutch supper and most of their talk had to do with their experiences in getting props, the material accessories of the drama.

Hal Reid's old melodrama, "Human Hearts," was wont to play an annual engagement in Houghton. The property boy was instructed on the occasion referred to get an anvil. He went to a hardware store and borrowed a 500-

MOMENTO OF SENATOR SMITH.

There is no place in Houghton county, unless it be his home, where greater sorrow is felt over the death of the late senator Charles Smith, chairman of the Houghton county board of supervisors, than in the county building. Senator Smith was a close personal friend of every county officer and every citizen's clerk. He never entered the building, but he paid a personal call on every officer and left behind him a genial atmosphere.

Deputy County Treasurer Foley yesterday showed a falcon stub pen that he intended to preserve. It was used by Senator Smith last week in his last official act as county chairman, the signing of the monthly checks. Mr. Foley treasures it highly as a memento of a man who was his friend for many years.

There is considerable speculation in the county building and elsewhere over Senator Smith's probable successor as chairman. His chairman predecessor has been Supervisor A. G. Johnson, of Dunham township and it may be that he will be the choice of the board. He has had experience, having been chairman of the Marquette county board some years ago, and as there is now a division on the board as far as regards one of its functions Mr. Johnson is looked upon as a man who could be chosen as a true neutral from this particular point of view.

TAX COMMISSION COMING.

The interests involved have been advised by Secretary Bartless of the state tax commission that the commission will come to Houghton Nov. 3 to review the mineral assessments of Adams township, in response to the request sent last week as a result of a division over the annual equalization.

BIG STORM, NO DAMAGE.

The storm forecast for yesterday appeared as scheduled but it did no damage. Capt. McCormick at the coast guard station reported a wind velocity of forty miles per hour but it did no damage to shipping. There were a few vessels in shelter in Lily pond during the day.

FOR CONSTIPATION.

TO JOIN THE PROFESSIONALS.

Leo "Ole" Haas, center for several seasons on the Portage Lake hockey team, is going to turn professional. He announced yesterday that he will leave Nov. 3 for Seattle to join a professional league team in that city. Haas' departure will be regretted by the Portage Lake fans as he is one of the most aggressive players in the game and always has contributed to this public's love for spectacular hockey.

HAVE A HOBBY.

The woman who is not interested in things in general or something in particular is an uninteresting companion. The victim of omni or indifference victimizes everybody about her. Her friends may look upon her and admire her beauty, but she is decided uninteresting, and even a little bit of her society is generally an overdose. To be bliss is not to be interested. If you are weary of everything in life you need the attention of a physician; there is something wrong with you, mentally and physically.

Something new and interesting in this world is cropping out every minute. The most interesting people are those who see things and get all possible pleasure out of them. An exhibition of indifference to things about you is not an evidence of intelligence. Intelligent people are the ones whose eyes are open. Such people are the most interesting. Sometimes they are so interesting that even if they happen to lack beauty that fact is forgotten in admiration for their intellect.

MEDICAL TRAINING IN AMERICA.

Of medical education in America, it is difficult to speak in general terms, for it lacks the homogeneity characteristic of other countries. Whatever the respective merits or defects, medical education in Germany, France or England is at any rate always the same sort of thing. This is not true of the United States, where medical education includes something of what is best and all of what is worst to be found among civilized nations. In respect to the really essential and characteristic excellencies of foreign schools, the American medical school is on the whole inferior to both German and English types; it has in general not yet attained the homogeneous university constitution characteristic of the German medical school; it too frequently lacks the clinical opportunity characteristic of the

THE SUN AND THE HAT.

The soft hat dwells in a kingdom of its own, the gay and untrammelled realm of fancy free. It has shapes of variety, colors of diversity. The eyes discouraged with dull pots and tops can seek it with delight. It may be blue, it may be green, it may be brown, it may be gray, yea, even purple. And in each of these it may wander through every possible shade, every conceivable nuance, scattering cephalic splendors along its gladsome journeys through life, tone colors, as it were, more glorified than those of Paderewski at the piano.

And of materials out of which this inspiring gem of headgear may be constructed there seems to be no end. One sees soft hats of felt, of velvet, of corduroy, or plain cloth. It is impossible to discover or to invent any reason why they should not be made also of duck or leather, of brown paper or tpestry, of Chinese silk or Japanese rugs, so long as they continue to reduce the solemn procession of black tops and derbies to the position of a mere colorless background for this uplifting and hopeful display of human freedom. Long may the soft hat hold its own in the forefront of progress!—New York Sun.

IT SAVED HIS BABY'S LIFE.

Some years ago, in a letter to the manufacturers, H. G. Vines, Arispe, Iowa, stated that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had saved his baby from dying with the croup. This is a favorite remedy for croup with many mothers, and is pleasant and safe to take. Obtainable everywhere.

THE SUBMARINE IS NOT SUPREME.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Says The Undersea Boat Has Not Replaced the Battleship.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, sees the value of the submarine; but it has its limitations, and, writing in the North American Review, he says "without hesitation that it has not replaced the battleship as the principal factor in war at sea. Taking it in its existing stage of development a submarine vessel is useful for certain purposes only. It cannot yet be called sea-going or sea-keeping; it is not fast; and it is extremely vulnerable. Already devices for its destruction are multiplying: the aeroplane or dirigible can see it well below the surface; the net, the mine field, the destroyer are all being used to oppose it, and a new type of armed patrol-boat is being built for the purpose of watching the sea's surface for signs of the mechanical whale that must come up. Submarine signals, also, although now in the infancy of development will doubtless soon be able to detect the presence of moving submarines and give accurately their direction and distance. "It would be, of course, not unreasonable to suppose that, while the weapons for the destruction of underwater craft are being perfected, the improvement of the submarine itself will continue. Without doubt its size will increase, its engines, both surface and sub-surface, gain in horsepower and resulting speed, its radius of action grow and its seaworthiness improve. I have said nothing of the discomfort of the officers and the men on the present-day vessels, not of the well known fact that the propelling and operating mechanism is in such an experimental stage that frequent accidents occur; these are the evils of any new apparatus—witness the automobile of fifteen years ago. But the time is not far distant when the "habitability" and safety from mishaps will make submarines as dependable as any other high-powered, complicated vessel of war. Two deterring factors will probably always be present in its development: The inability to see under water, and the necessity of coming to the surface at short intervals. "The submarine has come to stay. It has taken its place, not as the sole weapon in naval offense and defense, but as an adjunct to other weapons. That it is useful for coast defense, for commerce destroying, for scouting purposes, and as a part of the protection to and attacking power of a battleship fleet is established."

ENGLISH "CARPET BAGGERS."

There has been some discussion lately in the American press as to the origin of the word "carpet bagger," a term which has a very different significance in America than in English politics. Its English use would, indeed, be impossible in the United States, where the candidates at a congressional election are always chosen from among the residents in the constituency. In America "carpet bager" denotes one of the northern politicians who, bringing with them only the ordinary traveler's equipment—descended upon the southern states in search of office during the "reconstruction" period after the civil war. The nickname seems to have been the invention of a certain Capt. Parr, who at one of the political conventions, warned his hearers against "the fellow that sneaked down there with nothing but a black carpet bag." For, he said, "There was a snake in that bag." The carpet bag itself is nowadays so little known an article of luggage that it has been necessary in the recent discussion to explain, for the benefit of the present generation, what it actually was.—Manchester Guardian.

WEIRD OLD-TIME DISHES.

A reversion to the tastes of our forefathers would cause some strange dishes to figure on the dining table. In the thirteenth century the heron, the crane, the crow, the porcupent and the bittern were considered excellent food; but for some undiscovered reason the heron and the partridge were despised, and in the houses of the well-to-do classes neither was ever seen. The pike is a fish for which there is now little demand. Yet Edward I, who regulated the prices of different fish, that his subjects might not be at the mercy of the vendors, fixed the value of the pike higher than that of fresh salmon, and at more than ten times that of the best turbot.—London Chronicle.

BASEBALL 70 YEARS AGO.

It may interest the baseball fans to know that their favorite game has passed its seventieth birthday. It was on Sept. 23, 1845, that the earliest baseball club was formed. In the start it was called the Baseball club, but a little later on took the name of Knickerbocker club. The rules of the game have not been preserved, but fundamentally they were like the present ones. The round catch was sanctioned, and the pitching was really pitching, not throwing. Because of the heavy batting one to the early rules declared that the club making the first twenty-one runs should be given the game. The Knickerbockers played on a vacant lot in what is now lower New York, but presently went over to Hoboken and marked out a diamond on the Ellysian fields. For a time the nine was the whole thing in the new sport. It was the model, the pattern, to which the other nines, as they were called, looked up. Then something happened. The New York nine, in the summer of 1846, went over to Hoboken and beat the Knickerbockers at their own game and on their own grounds, 21 to 1.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Road Contract Let.

The bid of A. T. Bound, of Brimley, who offered to build seven and six-tenths miles of state trunk line highway for $47,000, was accepted by the Chippewa county board of supervisors. Mr. Bound's specifications at this figure called for limestone body and trap rock top. He submitted other figures, covering different types of construction, as did W. H. Hutchinson, who was outbid by Bound on all his estimates. The estimates made for this section of highway by K. L. Sawyers, state highway engineer, was between $70,000 and $72,000. The figure submitted by Bound is considered low and it is declared that the county is the gainer through the acceptance of his bid. The action taken appropriating only $26,000 for the maintenance of the county roads for the coming year was rescinded, and the appropriation raised to $34,000. County Road Commissioner Osborn believes that to spend $26,000 on the roads, in the condition that they are at present would only be wasting money, as justice could not be done to any section. At present there remains about $15,000 in the treasury from the amount appropriated last year for the maintenance of the roads. It was contended that this amount, together with that at first ap-

Friends for Fifty Years.

Fifty years ago a young fellow stepped off the deck of a steamer which had just a moment previous tied up to the old Stephenson dock at the foot of Ludington street, Escanaba. He walked slowly towards the road at the land end of the dock. Midway between the boat and the shore, and oblivious to the stranger's presence for a time, were a group of youngsters playing "mibs." One of those youngsters was "Sandy" Oliver, now one of the city's substantial businessmen. As the stranger hove close to the group "Sandy" looked up, then got up and made acquaintance with the young man, who asked some directions, and whose name was O. C. Royce, also a prominent resident of Escanaba. The friendship started that day has continued without a single break for half a century and the anniversary of the friendship has just been "celebrated" by a renewal of the old time views of eternal friendliness. Not a single time in the interval have words in anger passed between the two or a break occurred, said Mr. Oliver. The occasion that brought C. C. Royce to this city was a visit to Eli P. Royce, an uncle, and one of the original platters of Escanaba. "Sandy" as he was known in those days, was just ten years old—How old is he now? Figure it for yourself.—Escanaba Mirror.

Near Accident at Escanaba.

A bicycle rider and a Ford automobile came together at the corner of Sarah street and Wells avenue, Escanaba, in what might have been a disastrous collision, if the automobile had not been traveling slowly. The rider of the bicycle was proceeding south on Sarah street and evidently failed to hear or see the approaching automobile. The car had almost crossed the street when the cycle crashed into it, striking just between the front and rear wheels. The rider was hurled to the pavement. Almost the instant the bicycle struck the car the latter was stopped, otherwise the prostrate man would have been run over. He arose from the dust and assured the occupants of the car that he was unhurt and proceeded on his way.

Drowned at the Soo.

Frank A. Miller, able-bodied seaman on the steamer D. M. Phillips, was drowned at the Soo as the boat was tying up at the lower center pier. Miller was being lowered over the side of the boat with a line. He lost his hold on it and fell into the water. Another line was immediately thrown to him, but the current caused by the wheel revolving prevented him from grasping it. Before assistance could be given him from the look well he sank. Miller shipped on the Phillips on Aug. 31 of this year from Milwaukee. His home was in Milwaukee at 1009 American avenue. It is believed that the accident was caused through carelessness. There is no need to send a man onto the pier to receive the line, there being lockmen on each of the piers whose duty it is to take care of the lines.

Automobile Overturned.

Mrs. George Dutton, of Ogdan avenue sustained a fractured wrist and other members of an automobile party are suffering from minor bruises as the result of an accident on the Gladstone road. A car driven by W. J. Hatton, of Escanaba, and carrying several friends of the family skidded at the corner of Wisconsin avenue and the pike to this city, overturning in the center of the road and hurling the occupants out. Mr. Hatton had turned out to let another car pass. According to the account of the accident vouchsafed by Mr. Hatton, the car was traveling slowly along the road towards Gladstone and was about to turn off the pike onto Wisconsin avenue in the Upper Bay city. Because of some condition in the road, it was said, the rear wheels skidded and in an effort to prevent the car going into the ditch which lines the thoroughfare Mr. Hatton, who was driving, swung his machine sharply to the center of the street. The turn was too sudden, however, and the car turned over on its side. The occupants were thrown out. Mrs. Dutton falling on one hand and fracturing her wrist. The others escaped with bruises. None of the injuries are regarded as serious. The car was righted and driven back to Escanaba under its own power.

RATES FOR LIGHTING TO BE REDUCED

A. C. Harrington Makes Announcement of Proposed New Schedule of Charges.

A. C. Harrington, manager of the Marquette County Gas & Electric company, yesterday informed The Mining Journal that it has been decided to reduce the cost of electric lighting here and at Negaunee, beginning the first of the year. The proposed new schedule has been approved by the company's officials. The reductions will become effective in four periods during the coming year, the first being granted on Jan. 1; second, April 1; third, July 1, and fourth, Oct. 1.

Mr. Harrington yesterday issued the following statement:
 "The Marquette County Gas & Electric company, announces that owing to some economies they have effected in the operation of their lighting plant, they propose to divide it with their customers.
 "Beginning the first of January, 1916, the cost of electric lighting will be one cent per K. W. H. less, and the reduction will be made as follows:
 "Two and one-half or one-quarter of this will take effect Jan. 1, 1916.
 "Two and one-half or one-quarter in April, 1916.
 "Two and one-half or one-quarter in October, 1916.
 "This will make the cost of lighting after October, 1916, 11, 10, 9, and 8 cents, instead of 12, 11, 10 and 9 cents per K. W. H., as at present. A discount of one cent per K. W. H. will be allowed to all who pay their bills before the 15th of each month. This will bring the cost of lighting to 10, 9, 8, and 7 cents per K. W. H. after October, 1916.
 "The company at present does a strictly lighting business, and necessity compels their operating the station for twenty-four hours, although only four hours bring in revenue to pay expenses. It cannot be expected that the cost of lighting will be as low as in some cities, where the lighting companies get power loads that are often larger than their lighting loads. This keeps the machinery and employes profitably employed for the twenty-four hours, while our machinery and employes are not profitably employed except for about four hours of the twenty-four. Also, a larger number of customers will reduce the cost of lighting, for the same number of employes can care for them.
 "This company has now perfected an organization that is based on the best service possible to give, and is always anxious to improve it. It gladly welcomes any suggestions that will help the service."

A. C. HARRINGTON.
 "POTASH & PERLMUTTER."

The story of "Potash & Perlmutter," the play over which Ishpeming theatergoers became so enthusiastic last season, and which is booked for a return engagement Friday evening, deals with the fortunes of Abe and Mavrus who risk their all in order to save from a Russian prison a young man who has fled that country to avoid persecution. The play teems with laughs, but there are also many sweet love passages and touches of pathos that appeal to the heart and give to the comedy a lasting hold on the audience.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR INCINERATOR PLANT

McGuire-Hunter Incinerator Co. Will Build Plant for $8,885.—Start Next Week.

At a special meeting of the city council held last night, bids for the incinerator plant were opened. Three bids were presented, the contents of which were as follows:
 The McGuire-Hunter Incinerator company, of Chicago, represented by Horace Dalarhde, offered a bid of $8,885 to include building, furnace, and all equipment. The bid of Henry W. Wagoner, of Huntington, Ind., was for $8,880. Sparks Construction company, of Memphis, Tenn., bid $6,500.
 The bid of the McGuire-Hunter Incinerator company was accepted, as it was far more complete than the others in plans and specifications. Besides, this type of plant was inspected by Alderman Con Murphy, at Shobergan, Wis., and at Benton Harbor, Mich. The McGuire-Hunter Incinerator Co.'s bid was recommended by the entire committee, comprising the mayor, the members of the board of public works, and the committee on buildings, grounds, and insurance. On the recommendation of this committee, the council voted unanimously to award the bid.
 The plant will be located at the Barnum mine, on a site leased from the C. C. L. Co. The building enclosing it will be of solid brick, with a concrete foundation. The ground dimensions will be twenty by forty feet. Work will start as soon as the material arrives, in about a week, and it is expected to have the plant completed in seventy-five days.

HAD SHOULDER DISLOCATED.
 William Williams, son of John H. Williams, local ticket agent of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, is suffering from a dislocated shoulder, caused by a fall from his motorcycle, when he collided with a rig on the country road near the Negaunee cemetery, Saturday night. Williams will not be able to work for four or five weeks. He is confined at home, and will work for the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company.

DUMA'S PROGRESS WAS MUCH TOO AMBITIOUS

This Was Condition That Led to Its Being Dissolved by Czar Nicholas.

London, Oct. 19.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The prorogation of the Russian duma, according to accounts that have reached London from members of the Octobrist and Progressive parties, was one of the severest tests which representative government in Russia has met since it came into being. Only the sheer patriotism of the men who guided the majority in that body prevented the prorogation from becoming a disaster of the most far-reaching nature. At one time it threatened to precipitate a general strike in all the factories supplying the army, a strike which would have left the army practically helpless.
 The following account of the crisis comes from a member of the Progressive group:
 "First of all, it is necessary to realize exactly what this duma meant to the Russian people. That people was enduring the heavy mental strain of a long period of retreat, a retreat on a scale so gigantic that its effect were obvious even to those many hundred miles from the front. Wounded soldiers returning to the heart of the country brought to town and village stories that made the lack of ammunition more than an intellectual problem. The result was that the common people were clamorous for criticism and some sort of control of the bureaucracy which it felt was responsible, and the duma seemed to all classes the only hope of such criticism and control. For a time it was refused to them. Then, under the stress of the fall of Warsaw, the government decided to yield and summon the duma.
 Parties Form Bloc.
 "The duma, conscious that the nation for once was united behind it, astonished everyone by the thoroughness and frankness with which it attacked in a hundred speeches the problems that had been in the minds of all. It soon became evident that this was to be a different sort of a duma from those which had preceded it. It was to be a parliament in fact as well as name, for the membership, all ways heretofore broken up into tiny political groups which made anything like concerted action well nigh impossible, began to weld itself into two or three parties, and a real majority party began to appear for the first time in history.
 "There are fourteen so-called parties represented in the Russian duma, as follows: Extreme Right, Nationalists, Progressive Nationalists, Right Octobrists, Zemstvo Octobrists, Left Octobrists, Poles, Mohammedans, Peasants, Progressives, Cadets, Labor Members, Social Democrats, Social Democratic 'Minority' Party.
 "While thus disunited, the duma was weak. But things began to assume a very different aspect when Milnikoff, leader of the Cadets, and Guchkov, leader of the Octobrists, working together, succeeded in forming what was called the Progressive bloc. They combined all the parties in the preceding list except the first three and the last two. It was to be a parliament in fact as well as name, for the membership, all ways heretofore broken up into tiny political groups which made anything like concerted action well nigh impossible, began to weld itself into two or three parties, and a real majority party began to appear for the first time in history.
 "The next stage in the story was the result of the peculiar character of the Russian politician. No sooner do any two Russians agree on anything than they sit down to draw up a platform or program, dealing not only with the matter in hand, but extending far afield to all the subjects upon which they are able to agree. So with this Progressive bloc. No sooner had the constituent parties agreed to unite for their work in the duma than, in spite of the fact that every man was solely concentrated on doing what should be done for the winning of the war, they met to elaborate a serious program which should touch all the subjects on which they were agreed. They produced a program embodying about a dozen points, including such untimely matters as the reform of the Zemstvos or municipal councils, a broadening of the electoral franchise, recognition of trade unions, and the establishment of a ministry not recruited from the ranks of officialdom.

 Conservatives Were Shocked.
 "It is obvious that the few points noted are enough to constitute the widest possible reformation in the Russian system of government. Leaders of the bloc have since declared that they did not mean this program as anything but a statement of 'ultimate hopes,' and that for the moment they were content to concentrate their attention on matters of war legislation. But the publication of the program gave the conservative governing classes a tremendous shock, and officialdom took the opportunity to say 'look what these people are determined to do under cover of the national emergency.'

 "Premier Goremykin, who was one of those greatly aroused by the program, rushed off to the czar and obtained a decree of prorogation as a reply to what he believed to be a threat against his official existence. It is said that when he laid the decree before his colleagues of the cabinet they all, with the exception of one man, sided against him, but there lay the czar's order on the table, and the thing was done, the enraged duma being politely told that it had successfully accomplished its destiny.
 "But for the patriotism of the members the result might have been chaos. For a time Milnikoff threatened that all members of his party would resign from their positions on the committees formed for dealing with questions of munitions and other war matters. This would have been an incitement from above to a general and disastrous strike. Milnikoff was fortunately made to see the danger of it, and the leaders of every party set themselves to preventing any disturbance.
 "The story is not yet finished. The duma has learned its power. It has, also, perhaps, learned the virtue of tact."

DAY OF THE OYSTER.
 October is the second month in the oyster calendar. Many persons suffer the first B month to pass without recognition, holding that the bivalve does not come, like the periwinkle and the snapper, to its full flavor until after a sharp frost. The average of oyster beds is larger in this United States than in any other country, the most important being those in the Chesapeake bay and its tributaries, which cover more than 3,300 acres. Saddle Rock oysters came originally from a reef of that name in Long Island sound but now almost any large oyster is called Saddle Rock.
 The Greeks and Romans were fond of oysters, but they were food for the wealthier classes only. The Romans in water from six to eighteen feet in depth and never at a great distance from the shore. The bird known as the American oyster catcher has been counted as among the enemies of our bivalve mollusk. This bird is common from New Jersey southward on the Atlantic coast to the end of the French peninsula. Its bill is long, hard and straight. These birds frequent sandy beaches looking for fiddler crabs mussels and other small shell fish, but the story of their ability to open oysters with their bills is doubted.—Indianapolis News.

COMMON FATS DIGESTIBLE.
 Recent studies conducted by the department of agriculture indicate that the more common fats in our diet are well assimilated. In experiments, the results of which have just been published in a professional paper, Bulletin 910, the digestibility of lard, beef fat, mutton fat, and butter was tested and the coefficients of digestibility of these substances found to range in the order of 97 per cent for butter and lard to 88 per cent, for mutton fat. Although the mutton is thus considerably lower than any of the other animal fats studied, it appears that even this is sufficiently well assimilated to make satisfactory as food material.
 Because of its pronounced flavor, however, and its tendency to cling to the skin as it cools in the mouth, mutton fat is not extensively used in cooking in this country. Lard, on the other hand, which is very widely used, is as digestible as butter, or at least it was found to be so in these experiments, in which it was consumed in the form of blancmange. It is possible that when fried or otherwise subjected to higher temperatures than were necessary in the making of this dish the lard may undergo changes which make the fat somewhat less digestible.
 Experiments were also made with a view to determining the relation between the melting point of fats and their digestibility. From these studies it appears that of the fats tested those with low melting points, such as butter and lard, are capable of more complete assimilation in the body than those with high melting points—beef fat and mutton fat. Butter fat, for example, melts at 32 degrees Centigrade, and its coefficient of digestibility was found to be 97 per cent. Mutton fat melted at 50 degrees Centigrade, and its coefficient was 88 per cent.
 The bulletin which contains the results of these experiments is, as has already been said, a professional paper intended only for scientists and experienced investigators in the problems of nutrition. Future experiments are planned in the field which it is hoped will result in the attaining of information of practical value to the housekeeper in regard to the effects of various fats in the ordinary diet.

BRITAIN HAS LOST 18,210 OFFICERS.

London, Oct. 15.—(By Mail to New York.)—The severity of the fighting on the western front during the recent offensive is indicated by the official casualty lists for the fortnight ending Oct. 11, which show that the British army lost 383 killed, 646 wounded, 107 missing—a total of 1,136—during that period.

The proportion of killed to wounded is rather higher than of late, and losses among officers of high rank have been severe. Major Generals Thesiger and Capper, two colonels and ten lieutenant colonels have been killed or have died of wounds, while two brigadier generals are reported wounded and one missing.

YOUR BRONCHIAL TUBES

When a cold settles in the bronchial tubes, with that weakening, tickling cough, immediate treatment is very important. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present, your head jars with every cough and your chest may ache. This is no time for experimenting or delay—you must get Scott's Emulsion at once to drive out the cold which started the trouble, and it will check the cough by aiding the healing process of the enfeebled membranes.

If you have any symptoms of bronchitis, or even a stubborn cold, always remember that Scott's Emulsion has been relieving this trouble for forty years. It is free from alcohol or drugs. Refuse substitutes.

IRON AND STEEL MARKETS RUSHED

More Men Employed in Industry Than at Any Previous Time in Ten Years.

Reports from the East are that more men now are employed in the iron and steel industry than at any time in the last ten years. It also is announced that capacity operations are assured for a majority of the plants in this country, for an indefinite time. As attesting the prevailing activity it is pointed out that the British government last week paid five cents a pound more for a certain grade of steel bars, for the reason that all plants were so rushed that delivery could not be guaranteed otherwise.

Within the last few days Pittsburgh manufacturers have refused a number of large orders from the warring European nations. They already had contracted for business months ahead. The recent announcement of J. P. Morgan & Co. that $31,000,000 for war orders had been placed with the American Steel foundries and Westinghouse Electric companies, stirred steel manufacturers. These orders bring the Westinghouse war contracts up to $90,000,000. The newly organized Midvale Steel & Ordnance company is understood to have obtained the largest single war contract any company has yet signed with the European belligerents.

Railroads Buying Heavily.

The railroads are in the market heavier than at any time in some years. They are not only buying rails for 1916 delivery, but a number of companies are in the market for thousands of steel freight cars. The Great Northern is reported to have ordered 20,000 tons of rails; the Illinois Central, 55,000 and the Santa Fe, 15,000 tons. Russia has placed an order for 85,000 tons of steel from the Lackawanna Steel company and is said to be ready to order 60,000 tons.

Of the general condition of the iron and steel industry The Iron Age says: "Reports from every branch of the finished steel trade are of the most inspiring character. The advances in price now being made are partly for the purpose of checking the heavy influx of orders for delivery in the first quarter and half of 1916. The wire manufacturers state that their trade is the largest in its history. In other branches of the steel business, manufacturers are so swamped with work that they are back in deliveries four weeks or more, some products not being available for shipment on new orders under less than ten weeks.

"Much new business is of course coming from manufacturers having contracts for munitions of war for which they must purchase rounds and other finished forms, but in addition to this inquiries of the same class of material for use in foreign munition plants. The reports come by cable that the British government may place an embargo on exports of steel for the purpose of safeguarding its own requirements. This would result in turning additional orders from neutral countries in our direction.

The heavy demand for steel products continues, but this is now getting to be an old story. Among the price advances are 82 per cent on wire products, 81 on steel bars, shapes and plates, 83 on chain, 814 on ferrosilicon, 50 cents on southern pig iron, 75 cents on Chicago foundry iron and $1.50 on Chicago bar, with indications that pig iron prices at other points will fall in line. Prompt coke is up 25 cents per ton.

UNUSUAL PICTURE TODAY.

"Kreutzer Sonata," at the Ishpeming Theatre, is a Powerful Production.

Theda Bara, the famous Parisian emotional actress from the Theatre Antoine, Paris, the Boulevard's playhouse of thrills, who created a veritable earthquake of comment throughout the country for her marvellously telling performance of The Vampire, in "A Fool There Was," a William Fox production, repeats her gripping characterization of that role in her rendition of Celia in the William Fox picture "The Kreutzer Sonata." This picture version of the Russian dramatist's most vital work is directed by Herbert Brenon, and released by the Fox Film Corporation, successor to the Box Office Attraction company.

Celia Friedlander, the beautiful and ruthlessly passionate girl, who, without scruple, breaks the heart of the faithful Miriam, so that she may possess herself of Miriam's husband Gregor, the brilliant violinist, is one of the strongest screen parts ever written and in many ways the most startling and remarkable.

Miss Bara's powers, developed in the companies of Bonhardt, Jane Madine, and other famous French actresses as well as during her seasons as leading woman of the world-renowned Antoine and Gymnase theaters, Paris, were never displayed, even in the memorable "A Fool There Was," to more transcendent advantage than in Tolstoy's great work as it is seen upon the screen. With cruel, serpent-like cunning, Celia weaves her coils about the infatuated Gregor. She casts her unshakeable spell of beauty and fascination over him till Gregor forgets everything in order that he may be in her arms. From the farm in Russia, where, as a wealthy landowner's adopted daughter, she first meets Gregor and charms him by playing "Kreutzer Sonata," to the last throbbing scene of the play where she and Gregor are consumed by Miriam and, in a scene as thrilling as to be almost painful in its intensity, meet their deaths, Miss Bara's superb art never falters, nor steps aside. Her rendition of the part is bound to make "Kreutzer Sonata" one of the most discussed pictureizations yet produced.

The matinee this afternoon will be at 4 o'clock. The prices will be ten and five cents. The prices in the evening will be fifteen and ten cents for the first two floors, and ten and five for the gallery.

LEAGUE BOWLING CONTEST.

In the business men's bowling league Monday evening at the Empire alleys, team No. 9 again won three straight games from team No. 4. The latter put up a good game, but Johnson was off color and Thompson rolled his first game in the league series. He gave a good account of himself, as his total in the three games was 574. He also took from Elzey Hayden the honor of having the highest score in a league game, when he knocked down 234 pins. The scores were as follows:

No. 9—

ISHPEMING IN BRIEF.

George Bell, the tailor, who has been ill the last several weeks, has recovered. Contractor King, who is to erect the Knights of Pythias building on Division street, started bricklayers to work yesterday.

Sinclair Bros. have put in a stock of men's furnishings. Up to this time they have been conducting a tailoring and cleaning business.

Miss Ida Martin, a former resident, came up from Escanaba last evening to attend the telephone operators' dance, given last night in the Anderson hall.

Joseph Nault, who was the last of the police officers to have a vacation, has returned. John Prin was the substitute officer during the several weeks that the other officers were having their vacations.

The members of the Young Ladies' Sewing circle of the Swedish Lutheran church will conduct a "country store" in the Young People's hall this evening, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. A good program will be rendered and refreshments will be served. The girls request their friends to bring market baskets.

The members of the Ski club of Virginia, Minn., are preparing for the coming winter's activities. The membership of the club is composed of leading business and professional men. Last season two successful tournaments were held on the ski slide, which is located between Virginia and Eveleth, and is one of the best in the country. There are more than one hundred active members in the organization.

A. E. Deckerman, representative of the American Seating company, of Chicago, left the city last evening, after spending a couple of days here. He was given a contract for the opera chairs for the Butler theater. The chairs will be delivered about Dec. 15. The American Seating company is the largest concern in the world making a specialty of opera chairs. The capacity of its factory is seven hundred chairs a day.

SCHEDULE K MAY BE CHANGED AGAIN

President's Revenue Program Would Also Continue War Tax.

Washington, Oct. 26.—President Wilson practically has completed the revenue program which he will lay before the majority members of the ways and means committee when they meet here next month for a preliminary conference.

What Program Includes. The president is hopeful that the program as it now stands will meet with the hearty approval of the house leaders. The program embodies: Re-enactment of the deficiency tax law.

Repeal of that provision of the sugar schedule which would place sugar on the free list May 1.

Issuance of bonds to meet the increases in the army and navy appropriations.

Enactment of the anti-lumping clause of the Underwood act, which was reported favorably by the ways and means committee at the last session of congress, but was stricken from the measure by a viva voce vote of the house.

Schedule K Again.

The president still has under consideration the levy of a small duty on wool for revenue purposes.

The most interesting phase of the president's program, as it now stands, is the provision for the enactment of anti-dumping legislation. The provision of the Underwood bill which probably will be given approval follows:

"That whenever articles are exported to the United States of a class or kind the duties on which are fixed by law, if the export or actual selling price to an importer of the United States or the price at which such goods are consigned is less than the fair market value of the same article when sold for home consumption in the usual and ordinary course in the country whence exported to the United States at the time of its exportation to the United States, there shall, in addition to the duties otherwise established, be levied, collected and paid on such article on its importation into the United States a special duty (or lumping duty) equal to the difference between the export or actual selling price of the article for export, or the price at which such goods are consigned, and the 80 per cent market value thereof for home consumption, provided that this said special duty shall not exceed 15 per cent ad valorem in any case and that goods exported to the United States at the time of its exportation to the United States shall be exempt from such special duty.

"Export price" or "selling price" or "price at which such goods are consigned" in this section shall be held to mean and include the exporter's price for the goods exclusive of all charges thereon, after their shipment from the place whence exported directly to the United States."

GREAT PREHISTORIC LAKE.

Lake Agassiz was a body of fresh water that existed during a late stage of the glacial epoch in the valley of Red River and extended northward from the present head of the stream for nearly 200 miles. The area of the lake at the time of its greatest expansion was about 110,000 square miles, exceeding the present aggregate of the five great lakes tributary to the St. Lawrence. The shore of this ancient lake is marked by well-defined beaches, and it is from these that the extent and the extent of the lake are known. The lake was named by the geologist, Warren Upham, in honor of Louis Agassiz, who was first to make a systematic study of glacial and glacial phenomena.

BACTERIZED PEAT HASTENS GROWTH

Notable Agricultural Experiments Conducted by Eminent British Scientist.

London, Oct. 26.—In a wooden box filled with moss, on the roof King's College, in the Strand, potatoes are in full growth beneath these October skies. Some weeks ago a similar box, 16 inches long, 6 inches wide and 4 inches deep, was filled with moss and planted with four potatoes. Once every week the moss was watered with an extract from bacterized peat, the discovery of which Prof. W. R. Bottomley described the other day to the British association. The box, after eight weeks' growth, was as full as it could be of fine new potatoes. Given a little sun, there is no reason, he says, why these vegetables should not be grown in a similar way, not only on the roof, but in one's room, if necessary, almost all the year round.

The results of experiments with bacterized peat have been, indeed, remarkable. Prof. Bottomley showed to a representative of the Observer an onion grown in the ordinary way and another grown in soil mixed with the peat extract. Both were weighed; the one was found to be 3 1/2 ounces, the other just a fraction under twelve ounces.

Size Doubled and Tripled.

A pelargonium was grown in loam, leaf mold and sand, and another, more than double its size, grown in loam, to which was added, in the proportion of one part in ten, a mixture of the peat.

In many cases the size of plants has been doubled and tripled by this treatment. Radishes and tomatoes have ever been grown in pure sand watered with the peat extract. Seventy-two cucumbers, weighing a pound each, have been cut from eighteen treated plants after a twenty days' growth; and sold at Covent Garden before those grown in the ordinary way were ready to cut. Sixteen pounds of tomatoes have been taken from one tomato plant. Similar examples of extraordinary growth could be multiplied by the score.

Some time ago Prof. Bottomley began these experiments in promoting plant growth by inoculating the soil with the culture of bacteria obtained from the root nodules of leguminous plants. It was found that in soil so treated more nodules were produced on the roots, and that the nitrogenous material in the earth was greatly increased. If the cultures contained humus—that is to say, the black, decaying matter that is found in the soil, they did better still.

"What we then wanted," Prof. Bottomley said, in an interview, "was a source of soluble humus, and we discovered it in peat. We found that by treating peat with special bacteria it was rendered soluble and formed an excellent medium for the growth of nitrogen-fixing organisms."

Enormous Possibilities.

An important question is whether the discovery can be used for greatly increasing our home-grown food supply. We have seen what it does for vegetables. Will it do as much for wheat? "There is no reason why it should not," was Prof. Bottomley's reply to this question. "If the discovery is taken up and organized on a sufficiently large and authoritative basis, with a definite agricultural policy on the part of the government, for example, home-grown crops would reap an enormous benefit. The whole point is this," he explained. "There are thousands of acres of poor land which would produce plentifully if provided with plant food, and there are, in Yorkshire, in Somersetshire, in Devonshire, and in Ireland, thousands of acres of peat now practically useless, which by proper treatment could be converted into a rich manure, capable, as experiments have shown, at least of doubling the productivity of the soil."

"Incidentally, it would give Ireland an inexhaustible supplies of peat that country could provide all that would be required for the whole of the rest of the United Kingdom. I am told of one bog alone of 800 acres, where the annual charge is only £20, from which as much peat as one wanted could be obtained.

"Besides the value of peat that has been shown by these experiments there has been trebled in price in the last two years, and that it is difficult to obtain."

The government, it is interesting to add, is apparently alive to the importance of the discovery, for it has made a grant to King's College for the purpose of further investigation. Time, however, will be lost if the years are allowed to pass in experiment. The present is the moment for definite action.

SAND BREAD.

Every inhabited house in Belgrade has the cellar door always left ajar so that the people living there can quickly descend should the Austrians start an air raid. The police record every new arrival and passports are carefully examined.

School children, there are, but one sees only a few of them, and these are on their way to the elementary schools. At the cafes one pays five cents (25 paras) for a slice of bread, and mighty thin, too, at that. This is for white bread, which is extremely scarce and considered a delicacy. Most of the people are happy to obtain black bread made out of bran, salt and sand, forming a large part of this mixture and giving them reason to believe they possess plenty of grit. This black bread sells for twelve cents a loaf, where formerly it sold for four.—Correspondence of The Christian Herald.

gaged in the most devastating of all conflicts. Public subscriptions in this country for the relief of the destitute and helpless are quite as likely as any real cause for terror at the activities of an industrialism which it is probable is going to be shot to pieces.

We do know, however, that laws and high taxes resorted to in fear and panic for the purpose of preventing an imaginary overstock of cheap goods may easily inflict more hardship upon the American people than all the dumping and under-selling processes that they may expect very soon. There are plenty of laws even now well calculated to prevent unfair methods in trade.—New York World.

AN AUTO OF 1711.

Something over a couple of centuries ago the principle of the taxicab was known. An advertisement in the London Daily Courant of Jan. 3, 1711, announces that at the Sign of the Seven Stars, under the piazza of Covent Garden, a chariot was on view that would travel without horses and measure the mile as it goes. It was capable of turning and reversing and could go uphill as easily as on level ground.

TOUBLES THAT NEVER HAPPEN.

To the excited Americans who are worrying over the terrible things that European manufacturers are going to do in these markets after the close of the war, we feel like commending this excellent advice: "Don't shake hands with the devil until you meet him."

The end of the war is a long way off, and nobody can tell what or where it may be or in what condition it will find the countries that have been en-

RUSSIA'S ULTIMATE VICTORY ASSURED

So Argues Russian Minister to Greece, Who Says Germany Fails in East.

Athens, Oct. 1.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—That Russia is warring quite as much against militarism in Russia itself as in Germany is the declaration of Prince Demidoff, the Duke of San Donato, who is imperial Russian minister to Greece. In a frank summary of the present situation in Russia, Prince Demidoff told the Associated Press correspondent that he could not see upon what the German claims to victory over Russia were based, and he developed a view of his own of the situation which left the central empires in a perilous rather than a satisfactory position, following their successful drive on the imperial forces of Russia.

Prince Demidoff's family is popularly supposed to be the richest in Russia, its foundations having been laid in the time of Peter the Great by Nikita Demidoff, who opened up some immensely productive mines at Nizhny, in the Ekaterinburg district of the empire, in 1699. The first of the Demidoffs became the Krupp of this day, having been entrusted by Peter the Great with the manufacture of cannon for the imperial armies.

German Drive a Failure.

"From every standpoint," said Prince Demidoff, "the German drive on Russia seems to have been as much of a failure as the German drive on Paris a year ago. It had two definite objects—to crush the Russian army in a great pincer, and to force Russia to sue for a separate peace."

"The first has patently failed. The Germans have given it up. They are digging themselves in, as they did in France, and are preparing to transfer part of their troops elsewhere. It was a mad thing to attempt, anyhow—you might as well call it a drive on the sky as anything else, for all the definite object it may be said to have had. Pounding at an immense Russian force, withdrawing with admirable order across the Russian steppe, is like chasing a will of the wisp through a swamp—the farther you go, the worse it gets, and the less chance you have to get out safe and sound. Russia is like a pillow—you can make a hollow in it by punching it with your fist, but when you take your fist away, slowly, inevitably, it comes back."

"But suppose the list is kept there?"

"How long do you suppose the Germans can do that? It's simply a problem in mathematics. Remember one thing: the farther an army extends its line, the more men are required to hold the line; and the farther the line is from its base, the more men are required to feed and clothe and supply it with munitions. And the increase is in geometric, not arithmetic, progression; while at the same time the process of extending the line in the face of a series of daily rearward actions itself reduces the effectiveness with which the movement is made. For there is no advance without its price in men—dead, permanently disabled and those taken prisoners—as well as in the freshness of the troops engaged."

Teutons Numbers Limited.

"Now with the Austrians and Germans there is a definite, known, maximum number of men available. It may be as great as you please, but it is fixed. Every German killed, permanently disabled or taken prisoner is an available German man less. That is the key to the whole situation; it is a problem in subtraction. So long as the Austrians and Germans have not succeeded in crushing Russia, the process of subtraction goes on indefinitely. Extending their line only hastens the inevitable, because it increases the number of men essential merely to hold the line."

"So, on the German side, you have two cardinal elements of the situation neither of which is an element of victory; a price paid in men and strength without definite result; and an ever increasing price to pay in the necessity for supplying and victualing an immensely extended line. On the Russian side you have two predominant elements, neither of which is an element of defeat; an unbroken, undisciplined, determined force; and an as yet scarcely seriously touched reservoir of fresh troops."

"The same analogy holds true of the financial situation of the central empires in relation to the allied powers, and especially to Russia. Our resources, our borrowing capacity, if you please, is virtually unlimited. The security we have to offer is unlimited. The resources of the central empires are very limited, indeed, and do not become less so with time."

"It is in the knowledge of this that we are serene in our conviction of final and complete victory."

No Separate Peace.

"The second purpose of the German drive on Russia was to force Russia to conclude a separate peace. It only shows how the Germans have wholly misunderstood the Russian character, as they wholly misunderstood both the French and the English. They thought the French were a degenerate people, who had no fight left in them. Since the battle of the Marne they have abandoned that theory. They thought that Great Britain was sadly divided, on the verge of civil war. Instead, the entire British empire is in the struggle heart and soul. And instead of forcing Russia to a separate peace, the Germans, by their very drive on Russia, have united the Russian people as they have never been united before. You have today a spectacle in Russia which is truly grandiose: one hundred and seventy-five millions of people absolutely united, with but one thought, their emperor in person at their head, determined to purge Russia of the invader forever if it take a generation. There is, as a matter of fact, more unity of understanding and confidence among the allies at this moment than there is among the Germans themselves."

"The central empires have failed in both their attempts. Where then is their victory over the Russians? Though lacking sufficient numbers to undertake an offensive all along the line, we are still hating the Germans, at the very least. Every day we contribute our part to the process of subtraction, which is the secret of the final victory. And this method is really more effective towards the final destruction of the war than a mere technical triumph. For the purpose of the war is to finish with militarism for good and all. To do that, the victory of the allies must be absolute; we cannot parley with the military crowd in Germany; they have got to be got rid of. And the war is being fought, victory may be a long way off yet, but every day some of the military crowd in Germany and Austria are being got rid of. The longer the process goes on, the more surely is militarism done with. And that's what we want."

Russia Needs Peace.

"Even in Russia?"

"Most of all in Russia. Russia needs peace for a colossal internal industrial development which is scarcely computable with an immense military establishment forced upon us by the treachery of our neighbors. We need our men to dig in our mines, to plough our fields, to run our trams, to work in our factories. The living hell of militarism is that one single military power in a group of peaceful nations can force all the rest to become military powers, whether they will or not. Well, we have all been chased by that German military machine too long; we are going to stop it."

"You remember what happened in mathematics when you subtracted from a given subtrahend the sum of geometric progression? Well, that is what is happening in Europe now. As for Russia—she may say that Russia is absolutely united and absolutely sure."

DINNER, DANCE, AND BALL GOWNS

With Timely Suggestions for All Saints' Eve—Panniers Favored Details.

New York, Oct. 26.—Afternoon frocks for more dressy occasions are quaint and becoming to a degree; many of them look as if they might have been worn by grand dames of the period just following the French Revolution, with perhaps a little added dignity. The taffetas, failles, and velvets favored for these gowns lend themselves particularly well to the draperies now in vogue, panniers, pouts, and the loose panels of Watteau's figures.

The tang of winter in the air recalls us all to the dignity of formal dinners, dances, teas, and like occasions, with their respective demands for more formal frocks than those we have enjoyed all summer, our simple wash and taffeta models, so becoming and youthful-looking.

MAORI WAR CRY TERRORIZES TURKS

Savages, Fighters to Backbone. Win Bayonet Battle at the Dardanelles.

Wellington, New Zealand, Oct. 26.—The Maoris entered into the charge with great dash, making the darkness hideous with wild war cries which struck terror into the hearts of the Turks. With the awful vigor of their bayonets and rifle butts the Maoris forged another link in the chain of the empire.

So called the English war correspondent, Ashmead Bartlett, the last of August in a graphic description of the night attack by the Australasian troops which marked the operations centering about Suvla Bay, Gallipoli, and a thrill ran throughout all the native districts in New Zealand. The savage courage of the Maori warriors, and the fact that the British so valorously about 40 years ago was again exemplified—but this time in the British cause.

The Maoris have been treated considerably by the British for nearly half a century, as befitting an intelligent and gallant race, and now that England is again united with the Maori, even from the remotest parts of King George's realm, they are responding to the call to arms quite as patriotically as their pakeha (white) neighbors. The animosities which were engendered by the Maori war (though these were disappearing) and partly to the internal rivalry between Maori and whites and partly to the paternal attitude of successive cabinets toward the Maori tribes, are now in a fair way to being wiped out by the opportunity which is being given a handful of the brown men to ply bayonets and rifle butts in far-off Turkey.

Fighters to Backbone.

Like all other South sea races, the Maoris have their strong susceptibilities, one of which is toward firewater, but again, like other Antipodean races, they are fighters to the backbone. The first contingent consisted of 500 men, and "made good," so much so that a second Maori contingent is about to be dispatched to the front; and what is quite as interesting, with these Maoris are to go natives from the Cook Archipelago and Niue, or Savage Island.

The similarity with the brown men and white men from New Zealand are storming Turco-German trenches is illustrated by the fact that among the wounded in the Maori contingent, as a result of the Suvla Bay operations, were two descendants of Chief Wahanui. This chief was the ancestor of the Maori contingent of the district of the Upper Waikato 40 years ago, and he opposed white government up to as late as 1890. He was wounded by a British bullet, but now these young King Country (as the district from which they enlisted is called) warriors who bear his name will carry back to their homes scars of wounds received in Great Britain's cause.

has a skirt made entirely of ribbon, with net bodice, veiling a band of the ribbon at the bustline. Net, and the daintily colored bordered chiffons are much used for these gowns; also, the quaintly patterned taffetas and brocades, so reminiscent of days gone by. The nets and chiffons are usually hung over slips of satin or taffeta, or looped up, pannier fashion, over a silver or gold brocaded satin underskirt.

The Fancy Dress Costume

There are times when it is pleasant to dispense with the frock especially designed for certain purposes, and to let fancy take her own way, and garb us as she will, in some particularly fantastic creation all her own. All Saints' Eve, or Halloween, is one of those times. The maid who looks for her fate in the candle's flame, and the man who frolics in fantastic garb, are at perfect liberty to enjoy this weird evening in whatever costume pleases them most. There are no more dearest, pleasing costume for the maid than this quaint Empire frock with its frilled

Empire Pantalette Costume

ing. This winter, however, the added formality consists merely of the addition of a few quaint ruffles, and draperies that will appeal to most of us very pleasantly.

Overshirts Growing in Popularity

Many of the imported gowns show the apron overshirt, usually made of chiffon, embroidered, or heavily beaded, combined with straight full skirts, paneled with velvet, on cloth and silk frocks. Some of these models show a profusion of trimming; others are simplicity and dignity itself, relying entirely on the cut and color combination for effect.

Chiffon as a Trimming

Many bolero effects are noticed in winter frocks and costume blouses, as corsage trimmings. Chiffon, heavily touched, and chiffon veilings play important parts in the scheme of trimmings. Many of the new blouses are made of lace or net, trimmed by several rows of moire ribbon, at the line of the bust, veiled by the chiffon.

Dinner, Dance, and Ball Gowns.

Dinner and ball frocks are extremely dainty any winter. The Empire pantalette, with its graceful draperies over the hips, is often accompanied by a loose hanging panel, and hung over contrasting underskirts of figured or embroidered taffeta, or one of the charming flowered brocades of the moment, in silver or gold. Now and then one sees a ball or dinner gown of black satin, heavily trimmed with sparkling jet, there are many veiled models, too; taffetas, failles, and satins, veiled with beaded nets or chiffons. Gray is nearly as popular a shade for this type of frock as for daytime wear; often it is combined with black, lace over white most effectively. Much velvet is used, combined with satin, taffeta, or faille, or as bandings for the cloth frocks which are quite popular.

AMERICAN WOMAN HAS WAR BLIND HOSPITAL.

Paris, Oct. 10.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Miss Winifred Holt, of New York, has been promised the use of a large house in the Etouffe quarter for her small war-blind hospital now temporarily installed in the Hotel de Crillon on the Place de la Concorde.

The Crillon institution has only a few blinded inmates, but sends out teachers on their errand of instruction and consolation to seventeen Paris hospitals. When the new premises have been properly fitted they will receive a group of twenty-seven blinded officers and men as a beginning. This number, however, is certain to increase greatly, and it is hoped that a second building will be furnished.

According to Miss Holt and her assistants, who are all American long residents in Paris, the blinded men at first are inclined to give way to despair. This is especially the case with blinded officers, the blinded young peasant soldiers taking things more resignedly, as a rule. One of the latter has got so well over his misfortune that his laugh is constantly heard in the ward, and a few days ago he said to one of Miss Holt's helpers that "this is the only place in Paris where one is amused." The course of teaching is always preceded by a visit or two with gifts of flowers and consolatory words. Some of the patients, too, are not yet in a state to receive instruction. One of these cases is a soldier with 107 shrapnel wounds, more than a score of them in the head.

THE DAY OF THE DANCE NOT PASSED

Dancing is still much in favor. Some of the prettiest frocks have been designed this winter especially for the maid or matron who dances. Many of these are delightfully youthful and frivolous; one especially dainty creation

Constipation results from a lack of moisture in the residual matter of the food. To effect a permanent cure more water must be taken each day with a soft breakfast and about the third of a glass an hour and a half after each meal, also eat an apple or banana before breakfast and before going to bed. Make sure that our bowels move just after breakfast whether there is an inclination or not. When a medicine is needed take Chamberlain's Tablets as they are mild and gentle in effect, but no medicine should be taken when operations can be induced naturally each day. To effect a permanent cure time and patience are required as bad habits are more easily formed than broken up. Obtainable everywhere.

THE PRICE HE PAID.

I said I would have my fling, And do what a young man may; And I didn't believe a thing, That the parsons have to say. I didn't believe in a God, Then things us into hell became, We answer the call of desire.

And I said, "Religion is rot, And the laws of the world are nil; For the bad man is he who is caught, And can not foot his bill. And there is no place called hell; And heaven is only a truth, When a man has his way with a maid, In the fresh keen hour of his youth."

"And money can buy us grace, If it rings on the plate of the church; And money can neatly erase Each sign of a sinful smirch." For I saw men everywhere, Hotting the road of vice; And women and preachers smiled on them, As long as they paid the price.

So I had my joy of life; I went the pace of the town; And then I took me a wife, And started to settle down. I had gold enough and to spare For all of the simple joys That belonged with a house and a home, And a brood of girls and boys.

I married a girl with health, And virtue and spotless fame, I gave in exchange my wealth, And a proud old family name. And I gave her the love of a heart, Grown sated and sick of sin; My deal with the devil was all cleaned up, And the last bill handed in.

She was going to bring me a child, And when in labor she cried, With love and fear I was wild— But now I wish she had died, For the son she bore me was blind, And crippled and weak and sore, And his mother was left a wreck. It was so she settled my score.

LIFE'S SONG.

I think of thee— When kindly night is falling, When star to star is calling, When moon and sky in quiet hours descend, Or'er my head the azure heavens bend.

In dusk or dawn, in travail or in strife, In all the golden interludes of life— I think of thee.

I think of thee— When day's long tasks are o'er, In summer silence by the vine-clad door; In busy throngs and haunts of teeming care, In gentle moments where no shadows fare;

In light and dark, in dusk and dawn for eyes, When morning breaks, when twilight, When morning breaks, when twilight, I think of thee.

I think of thee— When round me thunders rattle, When I stand forth to face and fight the battle; In hours of rest, in journey or in playing, In moments filled with fancies gently straying;

In hope, in trust, in courage, dread and doubt, In deeps, in dreams when star by star goes out— I think of thee.

— Baltimore Sun.

LOOK UP!

Look up, not down! The skies are overhead, Where still are shining sun and stars and moon; What if to-day the clouds make dark the moon? The sweet light will return when clouds have fled.

Look up in hope! Above the watery way, God's spirit broods, and some day the new earth Will find out of the throes of this rebirth, Its Paradise; but God is not in haste.

Look up and trust! Above the wrath of man, Above the swirl of jealousies and hate, Unmoved, the throne of God abides; just wait; Tomorrow you will see His perfect plan.

Look up! The Right must have the right of way; Might is but weakness when allied with Wrong; The powers of righteousness, when few, are strong, And in the conflict ever win the day.

Look up, O soul, and fear not for the ark! The frightened dove her olive-leaf will bring; The waters will subside, and a new world will tell of bright days growing from the dark.

— Dr. Henry Burton, in the Christian Endeavor World.

THE MODEL COLLEGE PRESIDENT.

(Apropos of David Starr Jordan's declaration to the National Educational Association, in which he seems to find that a model college president must be everything but a sport, here is a suggestion of the real thing.)

Though I started as a tutor in a very modest way, I have climbed the ladder swiftly and you see me here today. A famous college president, who's known from shore to shore, Whose praises students resident have sounded o'er and o'er, Unbounded is my learning and my dignity as well, and flapped the sail.

I date upon my calling, and I'd have you all to know I'm a model college president as college practices go. In the present broad curriculum I'm full 'n' up to date, I know the rules of football quite as well as of debate. At baseball I can umpire, or at short can play the game. At hurdles I can jump higher than most teachers of my fame, I'm counted rather handy on the tennis court you'll find— In short, I'm very rarely found in any sport behind.

I date upon athletics and I'd have you all to know I'm a model college president as college practices go. — E. W. O., in the New York World.

Zemo for Dandruff

You do not want a slow treatment when hair is falling and the dandruff germ is killing the hair roots. Delay means—no hair.

Get, at any drug store, a bottle of Zemo for $5 or $1.00 for extra large size. Use as directed, for it does the work quickly. It kills the dandruff germ, nourishes the hair roots and immediately stops itching scalp. It is sure and safe, is not greasy, is easy to use and will not stain. Soap and shampoos are harmful, as they contain alkali. The best thing to use is Zemo, for it is pure and also inexpensive.

Zemo, Cleveland.

GENIUS.

Far out at sea—the sun was high, While veered the wind and flapped the sail.

We saw a snow white butterfly Dancing to the rhythm of the fitful gale Far out at sea.

The little wanderer, who had lost His way, of danger nothing knew; Settled awhile upon the mast, Then fluttered o'er the waters blue, Far out at sea.

Above there gleamed the boundless sky; Beneath, the boundless ocean-shen; Between them danced the butterfly, The spirit-life of this vast scene, Far out at sea.

The tiny soul then soared away, Seeking the clouds on fragile wings, Lured by the brighter, purer ray, Which hope's ecstatic morning brings, Far out at sea.

Away he sped with shimmering glee! Scarce seen—now lost—yet onward borne!

Night comes—with wind and rain—and he No more will dance before the morn, Far out at sea.

He dies unlike his mates, I ween; Perhaps not sooner, or worse crossed; And he hath felt, thought, known and seen A larger life and hope—though lost, Far out at sea.

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

If Feverish, Bilious, Constipated, Give Fruit Laxative at Once.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver, and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again.

Children love this harmless "fruit laxative" and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups, plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Markets

MARKET MUCH BROADER, AND PRICES GO HIGHER; CLOSE IS FEVERISH.

New York, Oct. 26.—Greater breadth and a generally higher price level attended today's very active market, although some of the more volatile specialties were vulnerable to pressure and yielded, in large part or whole, before the close. Dealings in the morning averaged 300,000 shares per hour, but slackened perceptibly later, only to become feverishly active again toward the close at the expense of values.

Eries once more led the railway division, the common stock being the most active feature of the morning session, with a further gain of over a point, while the first and second preferred shares were higher in sympathy.

Bethlehem Steel was heaviest of the high-priced specialties, at one time showing a loss of 20 points at 500, but making full recovery at the close. Baldwin Locomotive, Frigidaire Steel, General Electric and New York Air Brake were under the previous day's final.

United States Steel resumed its leadership in the afternoon, rising almost two points to 87 1/2, but losing all but half a point on heavy offerings. Total sales of stocks amounted to 1,165,000 shares.

Foreign exchange made some recovery from the weakness of the previous day, mainly as a result of light sales of bills.

BOSTON COPPERS.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 26.—Sudden buying move in coppers originated in New York on authorized reports of large copper sales for England and France. The rise in China and Anacosta was checked by offerings. Calumet & Hecla sold at top figures for the week. The persistent demand and a scarcity of offerings makes one believe that the boom for coppers is at hand—Fitzgerald, Hubbard & Co.

Ishpeming, Mich., Oct. 26.—Copper shares were boiling today, under the leadership of American, China, Mohawk, Isle Royale and Copper Range. The New York agencies report that the spurt in copper shares was due to a feeling that large contracts for copper now pending will soon be placed. Copper share earnings continue large and increased dividend are looked for in the near future. China sold up to 52, Mohawk to 81, Anacosta 76 1/2, and Copper range 57 1/2. There were gains of one to two points all through the list and a much better feeling prevails, for so many were getting disgusted with the copper offerings. Closing, netted earnings for the past quarter were announced, and were a little disappointing, being only $37,710,000. No action was taken on the common dividend.

Our Duluth friends tell us that the Greene Gannett officials there state they have not been advised of the closing down of mines and smelters. In the action of the market today should indicate conclusively that these coppers should be bought, at least on any small reaction.—J. A. Minnear & Co.

NOTABLE RUSSIAN TAKEN BY DEATH

Petrograd, Oct. 10.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—A marked figure in the ranks of Russian officialdom has disappeared in the death of P. N. Durnovo, the minister of the interior in the cabinet of the late Count Witte. He had occupied leading, but still subordinate, places, in that ministry for a generation and after he and Count Witte resigned together he was a member of the imperial council. He attained the leadership of the conservative wings of both the council and the duma and held this influential place until a few weeks before his death.

A speech he delivered about the time the progressive majorities of these bodies were formed caused the leadership to pass into more conciliatory hands and contributed to the split of the conservative forces and the strengthening of the liberal.

Durnovo entered the public service as a naval officer in 1862. Ten years later he was transferred to the ministry of justice, having made special studies in law. In 1881 he went over to the ministry of the interior. Three years later he was entrusted with the important post of director of the department of police which he held until 1893, a period of deepening reaction. During the next seven years he was senator and one of those composing the highest court of Russia. From 1900 to 1905 he was assistant minister of the interior. In the latter year Count Witte selected him as a fit instrument for suppressing revolutionary disorders and to bear the odium of repression. In Count Witte's cabinet he played a highly independent role. Disclosures in the police department led to a demand from Count Witte for Durnovo's dismissal. As a result both left the office together. Durnovo was a man of strong will, much capacity for work, and firm faith in the old order of things.

FREMONT'S INDIAN GUIDE, 104 YEARS OLD, IS DEAD.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 26.—The oldest and one of the most noted Indians in the United States, John Enos, aged 104, died recently while guiding a party of hunters in the Wind River mountains, according to word just received here. His body was packed out of the mountains on horseback and his funeral was held at Fort Washakie. One thousand Indians attended the rites.

Enos served as a guide in the West for four-score years. He was famous for his linguistic ability and was honored by all red men for his many attainments. He guided Bonneville in 1832 and led the Mormon pilgrims through the plains and mountains in 1846-7. He was also General Fremont's guide through Wyoming.

In spite of his age, Enos plunged into the stream every morning up to the day of his death. In winter he cut the ice before his dip. Until his death he was the physical equal of a man in the early fifties.

King Ferdinand of Bulgaria is noted as the handsomest man now upon a European throne. He is profuse in decorating his person with all the insignia of the many orders that have been conferred upon him. His facial type is Jewish, and he is a Saxe-Coburg prince strong in his German proclivities. It is said that the fact that all his estates and practically all his investments are in Austria has had no little to do with deciding his attitude in the war.

YOUNG MAN DIES HIS INJURIES

Hurts of Thomas Kelly When His Cycle Hit Farm Wagon Prove Fatal.

Thomas Kelly died yesterday morning at the Negaunee hospital from injuries received Monday evening when his motorcycle crashed into a farm wagon on the Ishpeming-Negaunee highway. Kelly's machine struck the wagon with such force as to hurl it from the road. Gust Danielson, who was riding on the tandem of the motorcycle, was thrown a distance of about thirty feet into a ditch, but escaped with only minor injuries.

Kelly and Danielson were coming from Ishpeming when the accident occurred. The motorcycle was traveling at a rapid rate of speed. Neither Kelly nor Danielson saw the horse and wagon. Kelly had rounded a sharp curve in the road a few seconds before. There were no lights on the wagon.

A man named Isaacson, who had been in Negaunee selling potatoes, was returning to his home near Ishpeming, was driving the wagon. Both Isaacson and another man who was with him, escaped injury, although they were thrown out when the wagon was struck. The motorcycle struck the wagon between the left front wheel and the shafts.

When Danielson crawled from the ditch where he had been thrown Kelly was still seated on the motorcycle, the engine of which was still running.

Danielson Tells His Story.

Danielson was interviewed yesterday afternoon by a Mining Journal reporter. His story of the accident follows: "Kelly and I have been working partners at the Rolling Mill mine for some time and we became very good friends. I had ridden with him three times previous to Monday night. I do not understand much about the machine and have not ridden often enough to judge our speed.

"We had been to Ishpeming and were returning home. After we turned the curve near the Lake Superior & Ishpeming company's yards on the outskirts of Ishpeming, Kelly bent over the machine to adjust something, I thought. Maybe he was trying to blow the horn. I was wearing a large soft hat and the wind blew the front of the rim across my eyes. I did not know what had happened until I picked myself up out of the ditch about thirty feet away from where we struck. Kelly was sitting on the machine when I found him and the first thing he said was—'my leg is broken.'"

"The men in the wagon were thrown across the road but were unharmed and they helped me take Tom off of the machine. About two minutes after I got up from the ditch Dr. B. G. Robbins, of Ishpeming, came by in his car and drove Tom and me to the Negaunee hospital."

Kelly purchased the motorcycle last spring and for the first few weeks that he drove it he had some narrow escapes. Recently he had become a capable driver.

Kelly was conscious for several hours after the accident and for a few hours it was thought he might recover. He had suffered a compound fracture of his left leg, the broken bone protruding through the skin at the thigh. He also was injured internally.

Kelly was twenty-one years old and had resided in Negaunee for the last four years, coming here from his home in England. He is survived by two sisters and a brother, who live in England. He was a nephew of Captain Edwin Corey, superintendent of the Rolling Mill mine. The young man lived with his uncle and was well known, and well liked. He was a member of English Oak lodge Sons of St. George. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon.

A prominent Negaunee auto owner yesterday said:

"As long as drivers of vehicles are permitted to travel after dark without lights both in the front and rear of the wagons we can expect more accidents similar to the one Monday evening. The driver of any motor driven machine that has a vehicle that has not the proper lights at night, should not be blamed."

Coroner William Prin has not decided if he will conduct an inquest.

MUST REMOVE BODIES.

Bodies buried in the old cemetery must be removed to the new one within sixty days, under orders recently issued by the city council. Marshal Newsom is now serving owners of lots with notices informing them of the council's action. There are thirteen bodies still in the old cemetery.

Captain F. D. Klinglund, of this city, was a member of the crack Stambaugh city football team a few years ago, when the eleven defeated the Company I team of Ishpeming. Captain Klinglund is much interested in Sunday's game between his former teammates and the Ishpeming city eleven. The Stambaugh team was coached for several years by Ed McKenna, former captain of the Michigan Agricultural college team and who for the last few years has been coach of the University of Utah team. He is now at Duluth and is coaching the Duluth city team, with which the Ishpeming players are endeavoring to arrange a game for Thanksgiving.

NATIONAL WEALTH AFTER WAR.

Contemplation of the amazing expenses of the passing war has naturally led to discussion of the wealth of nations previous to the initial declaration of belligerency. The estimate at that time in billions of dollars and without mention of the cataclysm so near at hand was that values in the United States amounted to $150,000,000,000; the United Kingdom, $85,000,000,000; Germany, $80,000,000,000; France, $50,000,000,000; Austria-Hungary, $25,000,000,000; Italy, $20,000,000,000; Belgium, $9,000,000,000.

What prescience can estimate the wealth of these nations after the war, leaving the dominant United States aside, the one country of the occident which is gaining immensely while the others are losing billions in money, loss of life and industry? Finance is always something of a mystery, even to financiers, but assuredly the wealth of warring nations at the ending of the great war is now "in the lap of the gods."

Those European values will almost inevitably be as chaotic as at the time of the creation of things, when "the earth was without form and void."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

BREITUNG CASE MAKES COMMENT

E. N., of Marquette, Expresses Confidence That Max Will Be Shown to Be Entirely Innocent of Any Improper Conduct in Alleged German Conspiracy.

Regards Whole Story as Fishy in the Extreme—Young Man Donated to Various Funds, But They Were All for the Proper Purposes—The Dacia Deal.

E. N. Breitung yesterday expressed the fullest confidence that Max Breitung, his cousin, well-known in Marquette, was in no manner implicated in the alleged pro-German plot to interfere with the shipment of munitions to the allies, in which Robert Fay, lieutenant of the Sixteenth Saxony infantry, is said to have been the principal.

The first intimation Mr. Breitung had that his cousin was suspected was the news story in The Mining Journal yesterday morning in which his name was given as one of the men accused of complicity. Mr. Breitung at once got in touch with his New York office, and instructed his agents there to take whatever steps were necessary to protect the young man's interests.

The news that young Breitung was charged with plotting with the German agents was read with great interest here, where he has many friends. On his arrival in this country from Germany where he was born and spent most of his life, some three years ago, Max Breitung was employed in the Breitung offices here. He worked in Marquette for a year or more, and made a large circle of acquaintances. He showed excellent ability, and as a result Mr. Breitung transferred him to the New York office, where he has lately been acting as a manager.

Contributed to Funds.

"Max's sympathies naturally have gone to the Germans in the great war," Mr. Breitung said yesterday. "and my knowledge he has contributed to certain funds raised for the Germans in this country, but the purpose of all of them was apparently above suspicion. If there is any foundation at all for the present charges it is perhaps found in the fact of these contributions, and that he gave in good faith may have been used for some improper purpose. But I am confident that Max did nothing improper. He has regarded himself as a future American citizen, and has, I believe, taken out his first papers."

Mr. Breitung was reminded that at the time he purchased the Dacia, lately condemned as a prize of war by the French government, it was suggested that he might have been interested in the venture through Max Breitung, who might have been used as an intermediary to get Mr. Breitung to attempt to deliver cotton to the Germans.

"There's nothing to that," Mr. Breitung said. "Max didn't know anything about the Dacia deal until I was well embarked on it. And then he was inclined to question its advisability from a business viewpoint. He appeared in the later negotiations for the purchase of the Dacia because I had to leave New York at the time, and I turned the matter over to him. The Dacia deal is as clear as a whistle, anyway. I went into it, as has frequently been explained, because it offered an excellent opportunity to make a turn. My relations to this deal were laid before the federal officials long ago, before the Dacia sailed, in fact, and I had, and have, the support of the government in my contentions with regard to her."

Story Looks Fishy.

In Mr. Breitung's opinion the entire story of the plot has a fishy look. "I say that Lieutenant Fay confessed," he commented. "Do you imagine that a German agent entrusted with such a mission as that would confess as soon as he got into a little deep water? That is not what we have been given to understand was the course of German agents. They generally sit tight and take their medicine. And you will note that it is a matter of statement that Fay was denied recognition by both Captain K. Bay-Bely, next attaché of the German embassy, and Captain von Papen, military attaché. These officials refused to have anything to do with him.

If he were a properly accredited agent do you think that such a condition would have existed? New York is spy crazy, anyway, and the strangest speculation is started by some circumstance that is innocent enough. I had an experience with this in the Dacia deal.

"I see no reason for the air of mystery thrown about Max in the press reports. His employment should have been well enough known to the secret service men who worked up the case, and his whereabouts could have been ascertained without difficulty. Why yesterday morning at Chicago, as soon as he saw the newspapers, he took the earliest train he could get for New York, to put himself at the service of the authorities. I have not the remotest doubt that he can give a clear account of himself in this, as well as all other matters."

Mr. Breitung was in no manner perturbed by the news, and last evening had no plans for leaving the city. He is deluged with inquiries about the case from New York and Chicago and by friends of Max Breitung.

NEW FORMATIONS FOR GAME WITH CALUMET

Marquette Squad in Hard Practice for Biggest Match of Season Next Saturday.

Yesterday the football squad of the Marquette high school buckled down to hard practice on Longyear field, in anticipation of the season's biggest game with Calumet next Saturday afternoon.

Yesterday Coach Cushman put the pie-skin warriors through signal practice exclusively, and beginning with today's practice, a set of new formations will be developed especially for the Calumet fray. The players will also work on the forward pass, at which they proved themselves particularly skillful in the Soo game last week. Ed St. John, the star halfback, whose injured back kept him out of the Soo game, has fully recovered, and is now practicing with the team.

In the clash with Calumet next Saturday, the Marquette team will have the hardest battle of the season. The Calumet eleven has proved itself the speediest team in the copper country, and its overwhelming victory over Houghton last Saturday, clearly proved that the team is stronger than last year, when it gave the Marquette eleven the hardest fight of its career. The Calumet team has an unusually fast backfield this year, which will equalize Marquette's advantage of superior weight. This game will necessitate the use of different formations by the Marquette team from those used against the Soo, when line-plugging was the principal method of attack.

The Calumet game is the last scheduled thus far, as the Menominee game has not yet been arranged. Inasmuch as the Marquette team has the best record in the upper peninsula, regardless of the fact that no championship is claimed, Coach Cushman feels that the Red and White is in a position to dictate terms, and will insist upon the game being played in this city. Under other circumstances, said Coach Cushman, would Marquette consider a game with Menominee.

OCT. 29 BIRTHDAY OF ELIZABETH STANTON

Will Be Observed Throughout Michigan—Suffrage Picture at Delft.

Friday, Oct. 29, when the suffrage picture "Your Girl and Mine" will be presented at the Delft under auspices of the Women's Welfare club, is the one hundredth birthday anniversary of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, pioneer suffragist, and it will be celebrated throughout Michigan as a "Reciprocity Day." Suffrage meetings will be held in many counties, the speakers from one county going into a neighboring county, and vice versa.

Mrs. Stanton, a suffragist since 1840, was one of the four women who signed the call to the Woman's Rights convention held at Seneca Falls, New York, in 1848, the first convention of women called in America. At this meeting spirited resolutions were passed, declaring the intention of women to win all rights accorded to men.

From 1853 on Mrs. Stanton was actively engaged in securing the franchise for women. In 1866 she ran for congress, receiving twenty-four votes. Two years later, in conjunction with Miss Susan B. Anthony, she founded the "Revolution," the newspaper through which their views were expressed.

The idea of an international organization which should represent the worldwide needs and activities of women's organizations were presented and organized by Mrs. Stanton. Such an organization was formed in 1888 and the first convention of the international council of women was held at the national capitol, when delegates from nine countries representing fifty-three women's organizations were present.

GRADE SCHOOLS WILL HAVE LONGER HOURS

Beginning Next Monday, Fifty-Five Minutes Per Day Will Be Added to Time.

Beginning next Monday morning, Nov. 1, a decided change in the hours of the Marquette grade schools will become effective. The new schedule embraces several radical features. School will commence fifteen minutes earlier than heretofore, the school session will be lengthened by fifty-five minutes each day, and there will be two daily simultaneous recess periods for all classes, which will also be dismissed at the same hour.

Under the present plan, the morning hours are from 9 o'clock until 11:10 or 11:45, depending upon the grade, and in the afternoon session commences at 1:15, lasting until 3:15 or 3:35. With the adoption of the new schedule, next Monday, the morning session will commence at 8:45 a. m. and dismiss at 11:45, the afternoon session lasting from 1:15 to 4. The morning recess period will begin at 10:15, and the afternoon period at 2:45.

Fifty-five minutes will be added to the length of the school day for all grades, excepting the first and second, which will fare somewhat better. They will be dismissed at 3:40 p. m., instead of 4 p. m. The kindergarten session will be held in the morning, from 8:45 to 11:10.

School Day Too Short.

"The school day at present is not sufficiently long to permit the pupils to do full justice to all their subjects," said superintendent A. K. Watson yesterday. "In order to incorporate certain things in the school course, it has been found necessary to make the day longer. The additional time will afford the children more opportunity for study besides permitting more attention to several subjects, such as writing, spelling, physiology and hygiene, which are now being taken up only superficially, because of the lack of time."

"By this change we are merely bringing back the school day to its original length. Some time ago, the day was shortened to its present hours because the recess period was eliminated. Later the recess was resumed, but the school day was not altered, and as a result, it has been found that the time lost is a serious hindrance to the pupils."

School Time Elsewhere.

After thoroughly looking into the amount of time put in by other upper peninsula schools, Superintendent Watson found that there was scarcely one that did not exceed the time of the Marquette grade schools. The school day here now consists of 290 minutes, while the average for the other upper peninsula schools is 315 minutes. The additional fifty-five minutes per day, beginning next Monday, will put the Marquette schools on the same basis as the others.

Following is the length of time spent each day in other schools of the upper peninsula:

- Ironwood—405 minutes.
- Ishpeming—290 minutes.
- Escanaba—285 minutes.
- Houghton—390 minutes.
- Newberry—315 minutes.
- Calumet—290 minutes.
- Hancock—290 minutes.
- Iron Mountain—320 minutes.
- L'Anse—340 minutes.
- Marquette—290 minutes.

Severe With Truants.

Truants are now being dealt with more severely than ever before. In a few obstinate cases, the truant officer E. C. Quarters, has served notice upon the parents that unless the children return to school the law will be invoked. The city officials will co-operate with the school board in this matter, and also in bringing to task certain proprietors of pool rooms where high school boys are permitted to loiter.

Opera House.

Eler's Circus, an animal act in two entirely different parts, will delight the grown-ups as well as the children today at the opera house. The matinee today at 4 o'clock will be of interest to the children, by whom this act is especially enjoyed. The matinee performance at the opera house will be continued for the rest of this week.

"The Song of Hate," a Wm. Fox production, featuring Betty Nansen, the celebrated emotional star, will be the photoplay presentation today. This powerful production is based on Sardou's most celebrated work, "La Tosca," and reveals a story singularly well adapted to the dramatic talents of the royal actress, Betty Nansen.

Delft Theater.

"Don Caesar De Bazar," with the noted English star, W. Lawson Butt, as the romantic Don, will be presented today at the Delft theater. Maritana, a singer and dancer, saves the life of the ragged, devil-may-care Don Caesar, who is embroiled in a street brawl. The king has seen her, and the crafty Don Jose, who loves the queen, plots to entangle the king, so that he may be able to persuade the queen to give him her favor. "Don Caesar De Bazar" is a Broadway Favorites feature, in four reels, replete with the most absorbing incidents. The production is marked by strong acting, by lavish staging and gorgeous costumes, and a story of unusual romantic charm.

On Friday, "Your Girl and Mine," the famous woman's suffrage film, in seven reels, will be the attraction.

CHEERLESS RELIGION.

The deed to the lot of a church to be erected in New Albany, Kan., provides that no musical instrument be used in the church, and no fair, festival, "Or other practices unauthorized in the New Testament," be conducted there so long as one member opposes it. If any attempt is made to break these provisions the property is to revert to the members who oppose such an attempt.

Rose's Shoe Shop

"A Shoe Store Representing Shoe Service as Distinguished From Mere Shoe Selling."

THE actual selling of shoes to customers—the transfer of footwear from our possession to theirs for a consideration—is, in a very definite sense, only an incident in the relationship which we seek to establish with those who come here. The full purpose of this store is to provide the women and men—and children—of the Upper Peninsula with superior shoe service, which shall permanently solve all their problems of foot dress.

The men in charge of our Shoe Department, have a thorough understanding of what people need. By coming here you will escape the danger of life-long foot troubles resulting from improper fitting. The better grades of Men's, Women's and Children's shoes cost no more here than elsewhere.
