Free Press story shocks Manistique Papers

by Robert Kirkbride

Manistique residents are wondering what Manistique Papers wants to do with the river after reading Eric Sharp's article titled "Company tries to clean up Manistique" which appeared in the June 18 issue of the Detroit Free Press.

Manistique Papers is studying the possibilities of a $2 million-plus expansion of the existing mill in Manistique.

According to Eric Bourdo of Manistique Papers, the project would create 100 new jobs at the mill along with residual employment.

Here's the catch. To cost effectively build the addition, the mill would need to have the half-mile area of the Manistique river from around the U.S. 2 bridge to the harbor re-designated as a warm water fishery by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The last two miles of the Manistique river is currently a cold-water trout and salmon stream.

Leif Christensen, president and general manager of Manistique Papers said the Manistique river is a warm water fishery from the Manistique lake to the dam. According to Christensen, the water would not change as it went through the mill.

In his article, Eric Sharp said, "Changing the stream designation would degrade water quality and eliminate an existing fishery, violating the state Department of Natural Resources Act, the Environmental Protection Act and the Michigan Constitution, which says 'the conservation and development of the natural resources of the state are hereby declared to be of paramount public concern."

DNR spokesperson Guy Gordon said he would like Sharp to cite the law that says a river cannot be re-designated. "If the river is redesignated from a cold-water trout and salmon stream to a warm water fishery it may be a precedent," he said, "but no, I don't think it's true that it is against the law or the Michigan Constitution."

Christensen said, "It is our understanding that they (DNR) redesignate a stream or two every year. "We emphasized to the DNR that we were committed to put in the best technology to keep the river at the same level. We are not trying to shortcut."

Sharp said, "What's most bothersome is the way this case is being handled. Normally, the plan would be reviewed by DNR field staff, who would then make recommendations to their bosses. But Manistique Paper officials met with DNR director Rollie Harnes and members of the governor's staff before field personnel had time to review the plans."

Gordon said the director Harnes meets with different organizations every day and it is not unusual for him to meet with leaders of industry. "Manistique Papers started the process with field personnel," he said. "They went through the chain of command."

"All Manistique Papers wanted to know in what permits they needed to fill out to get the project off the ground."

"The director said he would get them the appropriate application

First draft shows $500,000 deficit Board tackles budget

Manistique area schools superintendent Herb Harroun's adding machine will be working overtime this week to try to cut a $500,000 deficit from the first draft of the 1993-94 school year budget.

The first draft of the budget was presented by Harroun at a special meeting of the Manistique board of education Tuesday.

"Obviously, the budget is not in good shape," Harroun said. "The good news is we don't foresee any teacher layoffs, but that will be up to the board."

According to Harroun, the teacher salary budget amounts were taken from last year's levels and do not reflect changes, if any, associated with upcoming teacher and auxiliary contract negotiations.

Harroun also stressed the importance of the Aug. 6 Headlee override election. If the Headlee amendment is overturned, it will add an additional $180,000 to the budget.

"The board directed me to reduce the ($504,383) projected deficit without layoffs," he said. "The board is uncomfortable with the large deficit. It will be worked on and a final budget will be presented next week."

The deficit will be covered by the projected fund equity from the 1992-93 school year.

Susan King, school board president said, "We are operating on what we know we have. We really won't know until after the Headlee override election in August."

The first draft of the budget shows a $418,598 decrease in state aid and local tax.

This reduction has occurred because of the state aid formula, which is based on the number of students enrolled during the previous school year.

Harroun said the district will also be losing $50,000 from the federal government Chapter 1 program. Chapter 1 is a federal remedial and math instruction program. Funding is based on the number of children in the district who receive Aid for Families of Dependent Children (AFDC) as reported in the census. The decrease is because there are less AFDC families in the 1990 census, which was used to calculate this year's amount, as compared to the 1980 census, which was used to calculate the amount for last year.

According to Harroun, the $50,000 decrease will result in a teacher being removed from the program.

A layoff will not occur because the teacher will be reassigned to an elementary school. "We had teachers in each of the elementary schools," he said. "We may have to go back to traveling teachers for the previous school year."

Is post office accessible?

"We deliver for you" is the motto of the U.S. postal service, but in Manistique, those who are physically handicapped have a hard time making it in the post office door.

Like many other small post offices buildings across the country, the Manistique post office is not equipped to accommodate handicapped customers.

Manistique Postmaster Richard Giancola hopes to change that as soon as possible.

"We've requested to the postal service that the building be made accessible to everyone," he said. "We are on a priority list and hopefully in a year or two we'll get it done."

For most people, getting up and down the stairs at the Manistique post office is not a problem, but without barrier free access, customers with physical limitations have a hard time.

Smoking ban in effect

The U.S. Postal Service is following other governmental agencies by stopping smoking in post offices across the country.

Manistique Postmaster Richard Giancola said he did not think the ban was an inconvenience to the average postal customer.

"I guess it may be a problem if you're a chain smoker," he said, "but I don't see why you can't put it out before you come in."

Giancola said because of safety purposes, postal employees have not been allowed to smoke in postal buildings for the last several years.

"We don't have a problem with our employees smoking. I believe only one does and he is a carrier," he said.

M. Rohde of Manistique said she feels the ban is overdue. "You can't smoke in any federal or state building," he said.

"It's been this way for a long time. Why is the post office the only one to lag behind?"

"The government should have made the bans across the board to begin with."

A man from Manistique who wanted to remain anonymous said, "I think the post office and federal government have more important things to worry about than smoking. I would think they have better things to do with their time."

CCDPW accepts bid

The city-county department of public works voted to accept the low bid from Layne Environmental Services for remedial investigation drilling at the M-94 landfill at Tuesday's meeting.

The board voted to accept the bid from Layne Environmental Services, the environmental consultants on the project, said none of the local contractors were OSHA certified to do the work.

Wilczynski said Layne Environmental Services had the low bid from a list of contractors used frequently by McNamee Industrial Services. "We've worked with them before," he said. "They are very competent."

According to Wilczynski, nine borings will be made at the landfill. Five will be drilled about 40 feet deep, into the water table and four will go deeper to measure the thickness of the base of the saturated soil.

The drilling is to find out the source and severity of ground water contamination around the M-94 landfill. Drilling began Wednesday and will continue for the next week. Data will be collected for the next several months to determine the extent of the contamination.

In other action, CCDPW agreed to send a letter to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) expressing the board's wishes to get written authority to rent out the green box truck without specification of who will be able to lease.

"I will look further into possible violations of the injunction banning disposal of other companies than Manistique Rentals from picking up class 11 (non-hazard) refuse. MRI holds and exclusive contract with the city of Manistique and surrounding communities."

EDC to organize river pollution info meeting

The Economic Development Corporation (EDC) is attempting to organize a public informational meeting with representatives of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and Manistique Papers to discuss the condition of the Manistique river.

EDC voted 3 to 2 to coordinate the informational session at Monday's board meeting. Dixie Klages, Mike Hickey and Bob Males voted yes. Fred Unger and Lisa Hinkson voted no. Eric Bourdo of Manistique Papers and John Stewart abstained from voting.

"Too much information we are given about the harbor doesn't match up there," said Hickey. "They don't seem to be comparing apples to apples."

Chairperson Klages said it is important that the meeting remain strictly informational. "Something with a host and a moderator. I don't want to appear slanted."

Hinkson felt it was not the EDC's job to hold informational meetings. "Where are the elected officials in this process," she said.

In other EDC action: ...EDC director Armoek met with engineers June 17 to finalize plans on Brewery Dam. Plans are in the process of being sent to the DNR in Lansing.

"Armoek said the EDC was willing to hear if grant money is approved for the industrial park."

"A staffing recommendation was made to increase the director's salary by 5 percent ($1,000), add 12 sick days and set up a retirement account totaling $800. June VanNess was promoted from a secretary to an administrative assistant. Along with more responsibilities, she will receive a 5 percent increase in pay and 12 half-day sick days.

"A forestry task force was set up. Hinkson and Hickey volunteered for the committee.

"An audit on the EDC was completed at a cost of $3,000. Armoek will send a letter to the city requesting $1,500 that was held for audit costs after the EDC administered a city grant. The request for the $1,500 is being made because, with the audit done, the city can take the numbers directly from the EDC audit.

Drilling began Monday in Manistique harbor paid for by Manistique Papers and Edison Sault. The testing is being The sampling will end around the 4th of July.

PRPs conduct harbor tests

A geoscience firm hired by Manistique Papers and Edison Sault began PCB testing in the Manistique harbor Monday.

Blaisdell & Bouck will sample 60 points from the dam to just outside the break wall and compare their findings to tests conducted by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Crews of the river bed will be taken, down to the bedrock.

Under the Superfund Accelerate Clean Up Mode (SACUM), the EPA has labeled the channel clean-up as "time critical," and plans to dredge the harbor to remove PCB pollutants by the end of the summer.

Eric Bourdo of Manistique Papers said sampling will be complete around the 4th of July. The data from the study will be completed by July 27 and the findings will be submitted to the EPA with report around Aug. 1.

Bourdo said this will be the first systematic sampling of the harbor.

"Our scientists say it is extremely unlikely an emergency exists (in the harbor)," he said.

Bourdo said most of the testing will be concentrated at the end of the river, where the channel is narrowest. "The narrow part of the channel is one of the 'hot spots' according to the EPA," he said.

According to Bourdo, there has always been problems with the way the channel has been tested.

"The testing has been sporadic, we just want to find out where the emergency is," he said.

Environmental maps will be made of the entire channel, according to Bourdo.

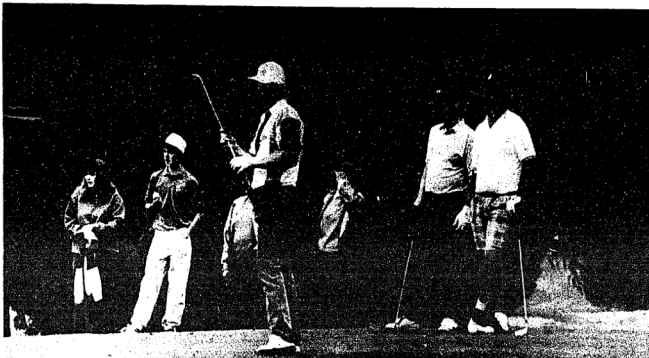

"Maps have been made before," he said, "but they have been general. They were more of a guess."

Bourdo pointed out five areas that have not been sufficiently examined by the EPA, which he

Local golfers win scramble

by Robert Krikbride
Golfers from across the Upper Peninsula and northern Wisconsin converged on Manistique Saturday and Sunday for Indian Lakes Golf & Country Club's 11th annual four-man scramble.
Although rain dampened the greens and fairways, spirits were high for the 176 golfers who competed in this year's event.
The golfers were split into four flights, each consisting of 11 four-man teams.
The first five places in each flight won prizes. First place received a 15 pound loin of beef, second won a 10 pound loin of beef, third won a golf shirt, fourth a golf towel, golf cap and a sleeve of golf balls, and fifth place golfers took home six golf balls each.
Any golfer shooting a hole-in-one on the par three 159 yard hole won a power golf cart.

The team of David Jahn, Zip Boyd, Wayne Patz and Bill Calhoun, all Manistique area residents, shot a 122 (62-60) to win the championship flight by two strokes.
The winning team, which features former club champions Jahn and Boyd, and current club champion Patz, trailed by one shot heading into Sunday's play. They started strong on Sunday, firing a 7-under 29 on the front nine to take the lead they would never relinquish.
Other teams placing in the championship flight were:
2nd John Kelly, Gary Greis, Paul Cole and Don Miller of Escanaba who shot (63-61=124).
3rd Rick Ebbesen, Erik Spindler, Gene Harris and Ray Kawauf of Gladstone who shot (62-63=125).
In the first flight, the team of Fred Flink, Mick Zaron, Larry Kuchinski and Larry Roscioli shot a 66-63 (129) and won in a playoff over Dave Howe, Bill Howe Sr., Matt Smith Jr., and Kelly Shea, who shot 67-62 (129).
Third place in the first flight went to Dan Malloy, Pat Malloy, Denny Boyd and Bill Malloy who shot 67-63 (130).
In the second flight, results were:
1st Richard Wagner, Ken Pressel, Ray Lemire and Ken Englund who shot (69-67=136).
2nd Jerry Messenger, Larry Lambert, Mary Curran and Jim Wood who shot (69-68=137).
3rd Al Schuster, Tony Dufour, Bob Males and Harry Tonnessen who shot (70-69=139).
Third flight results were:
1st Jim Depew, Ben Aiken, Harold Depew and Fred Watson who shot (71-71=142).
2nd Dave Stasler, Ray Jacobsen, Al Olson and Eric Recque who shot (73-69=142).
3rd Matt LaVigne, Don Pomeroy, Russ Guerin and Jim Lalonde who shot (71-71=142).
In the skins competition, where one team must make a lower score than anyone else on that particular hole, the former championship team of Rob Ryan, Scott Bellville, Guy Arnold and Dan Haven prevailed. An eagle two was recorded on the par-4 third hole when Ryan knocked in a sand wedge from 80 yards. The skin won the team $880.

Bill Calhoun sends a shot toward the green on the par-4 second hole at Indian Lakes Golf & Country Club.

Fish Report

by Sgt. John Walker (Ret.)

Well, I guess I guessed wrong when last week I thought summer might get here a week early. I think someone forgot to tell my furnace when it kicked in a couple of nights later.

They are doing pretty good on bass in some of the lakes and rivers around the area. They are also getting some nice pike out of some of the lakes. A party should not have any trouble picking night crawlers to use for fishing this year with all the rain.

Well, when you read this fish report I will have passed the half century mark. Boy, could I spend some time telling you about all the changes that have passed since I have been around. Just think...

A boy back when I got started fishing cut his pole along the bank of a creek. A good Tag Alder pole with a line tied to the end would catch almost any fish a boy could see in an old fishing pole with an old type reel on it. You youngsters have no idea what a backlash is unless you had one on one of these old reels.

Boats were almost always made out of wood and very few of them kept all the water on the outside. You could bet you would get your feet wet when fishing. Your motor was two oars that a boy could never get to run in a straight line. This also served as a trolling motor if you wanted to troll around the lake for a while.

If you did have bug dope, which was seldom, it was old 6-12 that you still wonder whose side it was on. Did it keep the bugs off or attract them? You could fish all day and never see another person. Your secret spot was truly a secret spot for you walked into everything. If a party did not like to walk you did not have to worry about them getting back where you were.

Grandpa's '53 Chevy wagon went back to some fishing spots where a modern day fisherman would not take his 4x4 today. Grandmas always figured there should be berries to be picked back where the secret fishing holes were, but isn't it amazing you and grandpa could never find any. Except for those you ate.

A loaf of store bought bread and some bologna (dog) made for a special treat when out, fishing. Store bought lunch meat was mighty rare back in those days and a boy only got it on fishing trips with grandpa. And if you got a chunk of cheese it came with hair on it that you trimmed off before you ate the cheese.

It sure seems, thinking back through the years, that those old native Brooktrout caught up behind Mass City were a lot prettier than those plant hatchery ones you catch now days.

A boy could never figure out how the fish knew who was trying to catch them. You would fish this hole for an hour and catch nothing. Then grandpa or Uncle Norm would come up, tell you you were not holding your mouth right to catch fish, then ask you if you had spit on the worm before you cast it in? They would then throw their line into the same hole you had been fishing for an hour and that quick pull out a fish. How could this be. I still spit on the worm when fishing with no luck.

I guess thinking back through the years makes one really remember how well off you were back then. Grandpa and Uncle Norm putting up with 10 million questions just so a boy could go out and try to catch a few fish. Those were the days and they sure built some great memories.

At home with Sarah

by Sarah Bignall

I always like getting recipes from readers who don't live in Manistique anymore. I cannot use them all but I do try most of them and try to get them in the column. I must say that I am remiss at acknowledging them all, so if you have written to me may I take this means of thanking you and letting you know that I really do appreciate hearing from you. I feel that when someone sends me a recipe it is one of her favorites and is usually a very special recipe.

This recipe for Corn Chowder came from Susan Atwater Thornton from Littleton, Colorado. She is the daughter of Charlie and Thora Atwater. This Chowder is very good, and this recipe makes lots!

CORN CHOWDER

- 1 Bay Leaf
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 teas. basil
- 1/2 cup minced onion
- 3/4 cup diced celery
- 3 cups cubed potatoes

Simmer until potatoes are soft.

- 1 can cream corn
- 1 can whole kernel corn
- 1 can (16 oz) tomato sauce
- 1 salt and pepper

1/2 hour before serving carefully add:

- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 2 tbl. butter
- 1/2 cup grated cheese
- onion salt and garlic to taste

Sarah says . . . . Old chenille, plush or velvet toilet seat covers make excellent buffers for waxing the floor. Place over a dust mop and secure with safety pins. This works well with no-wax floors also. After normal cleaning, buff when dry.

Food for thought . . . . "A better friend can never be, than one who shares a recipe." author unknown

Habla Espanol?

Lakeside second graders spent the last month of school learning Spanish. They concentrated on Spanish words and learning about Mexico, and other South American countries.

Foreign Exchange student, Azul Bilbao, talked to the students about her country, Argentina. Toni Brownhill of Manistique shared her knowledge of Mexico. Both Azul and Brownhill worked with the children to help them learn Spanish.

At the end of the Spanish unit, the students had a tasting party, trying different Mexican foods prepared by Brownhill and second grade teacher Mrs. Arnold. They also broke their pinata full of candy they had made.

Equal access

Often, people with special needs are forgotten by the general public.

Such is the case of barrier free access at the Manistique post office.

Although Manistique is a small community with a small number of people who could make it up the steps to get inside the post office, it still important the needs of even the smallest group of citizens are addressed.

Construction has begun on a barrier free access ramp at the Manistique post office, a community about the size of our own. The postmaster in Manistique said he never made the request for the ramp. It was decided and initiated by the building services department of the post office in Milwaukee.

Manistique Postmaster Richard Giancola has done all he can to convince officials in Washington, D.C. to make the necessary changes.

It is time for the community to insist that something be done.

Write a letter to the Postmaster General in Washington, or call him at (202) 268-2500

Imagine the frustration you would feel if you could not get inside the post office to mail a package or buy stamps.

Sometimes we take for granted the little things in life. Let's help make it possible for everyone to use the post office.

State police say 'just hang up' on fraudulent solicitors

If someone calls and asks for a donation to be used for a police-supported program, beware.

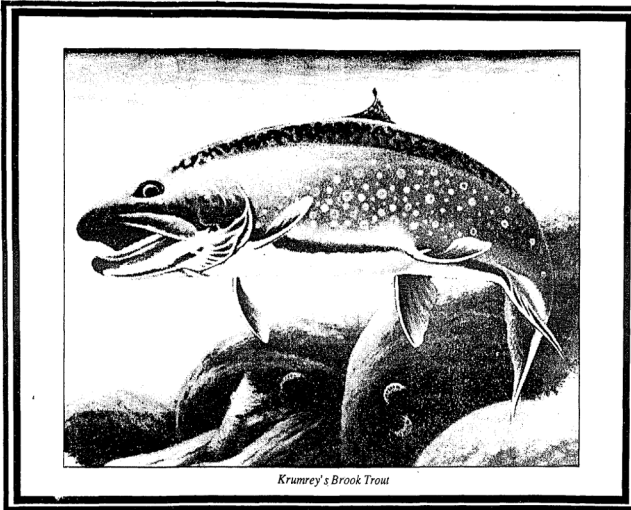

The Michigan State Police Troopers Association (MSPTA) announced a citizen awareness program entitled, "Project Hang Up."

The project is designed to educate the public on how to react to phone solicitors who claim to represent a police organization.

Sergeant Richard Darling, president of the MSPTA said neither the troopers association nor the department of state police utilize telephone solicitation.

"We encourage citizens to immediately hang up if someone calls claiming to represent the Michigan Department of State Police or Michigan State Police Troopers Association," he said.

MSPTA officials said some phone solicitors rely on intimidation, implied special treatment, or threats of withholding police services to get prospective donors to contribute. "These tactics defile the image of all police organizations that the solicitor fraudulently claims to represent," said State Police Director Colonel Michael Robinson. "Only in rare instances do members of the state police appeal to civic or business groups to make a financial contribution to a service program endorsed by the department. Further, such solicitation would only be made in person, and would never suggest an increase or decrease in law enforcement or service as a result of a contribution."

Krumrey's Brook Trout

Krumrey wins statewide contest

While most fishermen are protective of their trophy fish, Dietmar Krumrey of Manistique will let every fisherman in the state carry his trophy brook trout, in their wallet.

Krumrey won the statewide contest to design the trout/salmon stamp that will appear on the 1994 Michigan fishing license.

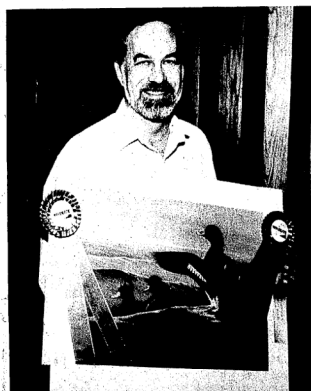

His painting of a brook trout was chosen over 23 other entries.

"I got involved in wildlife painting because of my love of the outdoors," he said. "I do landscapes and some seascapes."

Krumrey's list of awards for his artwork is impressive. He was named the 1994 Michigan Ducks Unlimited Artist of the Year, took second place in the 1994 Michigan Duck Stamp Competition, and took second place in the MUCC Wildlife Artist of the Year competition.

Krumrey is not new to winning the trout/salmon stamp competition. He first won in 1991.

Born in Germany, Krumrey immigrated to America with his family at the age of three. After living in Chicago, his family moved to the Upper Peninsula, where his affection and respect of wildlife developed.

Census Bureau to survey this area

Local representatives of the U.S. Census Bureau will visit selected area households beginning July 1 to conduct its Survey of Income and Program Participation (SIPP). Dwight P. Dean, director of the bureau's Detroit regional office, announced recently.

SIPP is a continuing national survey introduced in the fall of 1983. It is one of the nation's largest, with about 60,000 households participating.

The Census Bureau publishes periodic reports with information from the survey. Subjects covered include the following:

- Jobs and earnings.
- The economic effects of unemployment, disability, and retirement.
- How taxes affect personal spending.
- Participation in programs such as Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, food stamps, and pension plans.

Information from SIPP helps policy-makers and administrators determine how well government programs are serving the public and how changes in programs and policies will affect the public.

Here are some facts about persons and their health insurance between 1987 and 1990, based on findings from the survey. (The sample size limits accurate reporting to national figures only):

- Twenty-one percent of all U.S. residents, approximately 50 million, lacked health insurance for at least a month during 1987.
- The average monthly total of uninsured persons in the final quarter of 1990 was 13 percent of the population or about 32 million.
- Twenty-eight percent of men lacked continuous health insurance between 1987 and 1989 compared with 25 percent of women because of higher levels of Medicaid and Medicare coverage among women.
- Forty-six percent of Hispanics lacked insurance for at least a month between 1987 and 1989. Among racial groups, the percentages lacking insurance for at least a month were 40 percent for Blacks and 24 percent for Whites.
- Private health insurance covered 91 percent of Whites and about 75 percent of Blacks and Hispanics and at least one month between 1987 and 1989.
- One-half of persons aged 18 to 21 had no insurance for month or more. For those aged 25 to 44, 73 percent had continuous coverage between 1987 and 1990, based on those aged 45 to 64, and 99 percent of those aged 65 and over.

This program. We want the least possible disruption of the process."

Along with the Chapter 1 teacher reassignment, there will be other staff changes. A drop in enrollment because of the opening of St. Francis Kindergarten and general drops in enrollment are reasons Harroun said kindergarten sections will be scaled back from three sections to two. Lakeside will continue to hold two sections, while Lincoln will go from two sections to one. The kindergarten teacher will be reassigned to an elementary school.

An elementary school teacher who is certified to teach science will move to the middle school which is adding a fourth section of sixth grade because of high enrollment.

A middle school teacher will be reassigned to teach high school following a retirement last spring.

Another issue discussed at Wednesday's meeting was the curriculum for the business department. The first draft of the budget has an increase of $73,386 for computers and software equipment. Dixie Klagstad, secretary of the school board said the business vocational program is an area that needs to be improved. "If we don't purchase computers, we will have to purchase 14 or 15 typewriters which is ridiculous," she said. "We want to prepare students for the real world, where most of them will be working on computers."

Hot days of summer may miss Michigan

The hot, steamy dog days of summer may again skip Michigan this year. A University of Michigan atmospheric scientist predicts that this summer's weather may be much different from last summer's cool, wet weather.

Empirical evidence collected by Peter J. Sousounis, U-M assistant professor of atmospheric, oceanic and space sciences, suggests a 55 percent to 60 percent chance of last summer's weather repeating itself. Sousounis' prediction is based on his study of the conditions necessary for a drought to occur in the Great Lakes region.

Sousounis has identified five weather factors that he says to point to another cool summer:

- A greater-than-normal intensity trough over the West Coast.
- A trough in a region in the atmosphere where the wind changes direction somewhat abruptly in a counterclockwise direction in the Northern Hemisphere.
- The trough region tends to be associated with cloudiness, precipitation and enhanced humidity.
- "Many people have come in as they have had time," he said. "Grandparents have come in with their grandkids. Husbands and wives have come in as teams. We've had lots of cooperation and support from the friends of the library and the community."

Management is key in Hiawatha

Clear cutting in the Hiawatha National Forest is being used less and less by the US Forest Service as a result of innovative new ideas in forest management.

U.S. Forest Service ranger Deb LeBlanc said clear cutting as a form of forest management is being used less and less.

According to Deb LeBlanc, a ranger for the US Forest Service, the forest service is responding to public concern and environmental needs by trying alternate means of forest management.

She said people are confused with the role of the forest service in the 1800's, she said, "we can tell the certain percentages of trees that were around at the time."

"We would like to see the Hiawatha National Forest back to 1800's condition."

LeBlanc said after the logging era of the 1800s, almost the entire Upper Peninsula had been clear cut.

"Early in the 1900s," she said, "the Civilian Conservation Corps planted huge jack pine plantations. "Jack pine only live about 60 or 70 years and something has to be done with the area."

Public library invests in book anti-theft system

Book thieves beware. The Manistique public library has installed two new book tracking systems.

One of the new systems will alert library employees if a book that has not been checked out leaves the library.

The other will keep a computer inventory of books in the library and books that are checked out.

"The two units are separate," said assistant librarian Carol Hough, "but they both work on the same problem. The two combined make our system twice as good."

Hough said the books are individually identified by a bar code, similar to the bar code system used by supermarket checkout registers.

The reader brings the book they choose to the counter, she said, and the librarian matches the bar code on the book with the library card of the reader.

"The system automatically lists books that are overdue and

State Police conduct Operation HEMP '93

During "Operation HEMP" (Help Eliminate Marijuana Planting) the Michigan State Police are requesting information on possible illegal drug activity from anyone with knowledge or tips of marijuana cultivation.

State Police representatives point out several clues that may indicate an indoor marijuana growing operation, such as the presence of barns, sheds, or other buildings that are always securely locked and are apparently not used for storage and fertilizers, pots, soil, garden hoses, or other gardening materials where no garden is present.

Lighting equipment and heaters in the suspected buildings (buildings may have lights on all night long), people with little known income possessing expensive equipment, vehicles, or other items (ORV's, boats, etc.), and unusual amounts of traffic to suspected houses, especially at night, may also indicate an indoor marijuana growing operation.

Outdoor marijuana growing operations could be characterized by small fenced in areas with plants growing in the enclosed area (chicken wire fence is the most common), unusual foot or ORV traffic to very remote areas, and small (30 by 30 foot) clear cut areas in woods, according to the State Police.

Plants grow best in moist, sunny areas, often beside rivers and streams or in swampy areas, according to State Police representatives, who ask citizens to watch for illegal marijuana growing operations while hunting and fishing.

Citizens with information regarding possible local marijuana growing operations can call the Michigan State Police Manistique Post at 341-2101. Those offering information may remain anonymous.

Surveyor to map borders

How big is Schoolcraft County? Schoolcraft County's Economic Development Corporation (EDC) will be examining that question as they undertake a two decade remeasurement project.

According to Linda Armoek, EDC director, a contract was signed with Tom O'Brian to undertake the project.

O'Brian will make $65 per hour or $500 daily for a three-person crew, or $400 daily or $50 per hour for a two-person crew.

O'Brian will have an office in the county courthouse. Rent has not been specified.

The project comes to finance the money needed from a $32,000 grant along with a percentage of funds collected to record deeds in Schoolcraft county.

EDC chairperson Dixie Klagstad said administrative costs were part of the grant.

Design award given for MGH building

The North Building of Marquette General Hospital, dedicated in May 1992, has been recognized by the American Institute of Architects for outstanding design of a health care facility.

The building is one of only 10 facilities to receive the international "Citation of Excellence," and will be featured in the AIA Health Facilities: 1993 Review, a bi-annual publication due out in the fall.

Barry Bruce, formerly of Bruce Partnerships, is the architect responsible for the building design.

"In an area suffering from harsh climates, long winters and high rates of suicide and substance abuse, the North Building was conceived and designed to be an inherently inviting and attractive and joyful place, both on the inside as well as the outside, that would aid in the healing process," said Bruce, who has since merged with Watkins, Carter and Hamilton, a Houston-based architectural firm specializing in health facility design.

"Inside, the high ceilings and extensive glass walls make the public spaces very pleasant. The nursing units are well designed and have an excellent relationship to therapy and activity areas. Because the interior courtyards start at different levels, many nursing floors have access to the exterior."

The $34 million, 210,000 square-foot addition of the North Building and parking deck doubled the size of MGH's campus.

Cooks was on the rail route from Minneapolis to the Soo

Taken from the Cooks Centennial Book 1889-1989

THE SOO LINE RAILROAD (by Bernard Roy Landis) (Retired After 40 Years)

In 1883 it was decided to build a railroad from Minneapolis to Sault Ste. Marie to connect with the expanding Canadian Pacific. It was to gain a shorter route to Boston and the East. The Soo Line was also expanding to the West to the grain growing region of the Dakotas.

The Company was financed largely by private capital, there was no large sale of stock. All right of way was purchased except for small amounts of land donated by towns and villages as inducement for a railroad to build through their communities. The old Soo Line was not a land grant railroad.

Surveying crews worked the winner of 1883-1889 plotting the right of way through Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. Construction began in Spring of 1884 and continued for the next four years.

The first through train left Minneapolis on January 5, 1888. The shipments bound for New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and foreign ports consisted of 102 carloads of flour, moving in five sections. The trip was hampered by heavy snows in Wisconsin and Michigan, but when completed initiated the new line and opened the new eastward route.

Early in the 1890s, passenger train service began moving passengers, express and mail. The Soo Line was well known for its delicious meals served in its dining car. Almost every city, town and village along the route had a depot for passengers and freight.

Cooks, like the other towns along the route, also had its depot. A wood structure 30 x 60 feet, was built in 1897 to house the office, waiting room, freight room and living quarters in the rear for the depot agent. It was a full time job for the agent as most freight was shipped by rail; carloads of logs, pulpwood, potatoes, hay, livestock, machinery, fish and blueberries left the area.

Standard Oil of Cooks received all their products by rail until later years. The depot was also a Western Union Telegraph Station until 1980. It was a busy place until the 1960s, when business declined and a traveling agent from Manistique took care of things. The depot was closed for business about 1968. The last full time agent was Dennis Boyd, of Manistique. From 1965 to 1982 the depot served as storage and shelter for section crews.

The building was torn down in 1983, as it was badly in need of repair. It was replaced by a metal building moved in from Rapid for 122 millions dollars to private investors in 1987. The railroad that passes through Cooks today is called Wisconsin Central LTD.

In other railroad activity around the Cooks area, a railroad spur was built from Garden in 1907. It connected to the Soo Line at Cooks, almost 14 miles in length. It was called the Vans Harbor and Northern Railroad, later changed to Garden Bay Railroad. It operated until about 1919 when it became unprofitable, it was then sold and dismantled. Evidence of the grade can be seen yet today. About eight miles of it has been improved for logging operations and truck traffic. Also of interest in the area 1 1/2 miles east of Cooks, there is evidence of an old spur about 1/2 mile in length on the north side of the main line, opposite the lake.

It leads to a limestone ridge across from the Cooks cemetery. Below the ridge are the imprint of two or three large circles on the ground. Although no information is available, possibly it is the site of lime kilns. Three and one-half miles east of Cooks was the site of a side track called Springer which was dismantled about 1955.

Further east, about 6 1/2 miles from Cooks, is a place called Delta Junction. There is evidence of many other old railroad grades out in the plains east of Cooks as a reminder of fine days where the Thompson Railroad crossed the Soo Line.

Two and one half (2 1/2) miles west of Cooks at Spring Creek Curve, was the beginning of a spur called Spur 373. It was a logging railroad operated by Connors and McCaffery Lumber Company. The line went East from the Soo Line then branched out and went North to Camp 47.

The railroad played an important part in the development of the County as did the Soo Line in Inwood Township.

The railroad employed many local people down through the years and for some it was a lifetime career. To name a few: J.J. Griffin, agent, 50 years service; Russell Minor, section foreman, 50 years service; and Bernard Roy Landis, maintenance of way, 40 years service. Others were: Ray Lausten, Berthel Lund, Oscar Lund, Hans Lund, Harry Bockorney, Phillip Hamilton, Danny Lausten, Leonard Gould, Sonny

Minor, Allen Landis, Art Gary, Ed Gray, and Lloyd Fregale, F. Black, A. Pelow, E. Perry, Sam Cox, R. Mercier, V. Houghton, F. Doepke, R. Maki, W. Creeden, W. Rouhan.

Railroad Tid-Bits
1954 - Two persons killed, two injured in crossing accident at Cooks.

1955 - Last of the steam locomotives phase out.
1958 - The well at Cooks depot was drilled.

Soo Line built and maintained their own pole line, had their own communication system.
In early days of railroad it took about one man per mile to maintain track. They used a handcar. Today two men take care of about 70 miles. They use a "Hi-Rail" pickup truck.

1960, March 5 - Last passenger train through Cooks.

Freight trains are operating without cabooses since 1987 through Cooks area.

The "Soo Line" passenger train was to be discontinued in March 1960. Two fathers, living on the "Forty" in Manistique decided the kids should have a chance to ride a train. A round up began, 15 kids under age 10. Total passengers 17. Cost of tickets to Cooks $1.78, for all 17. The two wives kissed all good-bye at the Manistique Station then proceeded to drive like mad to Cooks and across the tracks before the train arrived to greet them arrival.

The railroad made no money, the kids emptied the water fountain, paper cups, and spent most of the time driving the porter nuts, opening the "closer" door. All had a good time, a train ride to remember. Lunch at the "Old Cooks Hotel" and home - Rose LaChapelle, Escanaba Press.

Can anyone identify these railroad workers? (Photo from the Cooks Centennial Book which is still available)

The best memories for a child are those of sitting under a real tent and watching the circus. The Chamber of Commerce brought the circus and its tent to Manistique last Tuesday.

Fox Real Estate, Inc. opens office at Garden Corners

by Debbie Lang

Fox Real Estate Inc. opened for business on March 22 in Garden and Sue Fox's home located at Garden Corners.

"By putting my office in my home people can contact us at night in the morning or eight at night. Someone is usually always here, if not, we have an answering machine and people know that eventually, wherever we are, we've got to come home," Gordon Fox said with a smile.

Gordon knows that sometimes a client has problems with regular 9 to 5 hours a business office real estate has set up.

Gordon has 14 years of experience in the real estate business. "I started with Steffens Real Estate located in Manistique. Then Century 21 purchased Steffens and I continued to work for them till 1984. In 1984 I went to work for Hiawatha Real Estate in Thompson. When Hiawatha Real Estate changed hands it seemed like an appropriate time to go out on my own," Gordon said.

Gordon has been thinking about being his own boss for years. "The thought of owning my own business and being my own boss had a certain appeal and charm to it. I've also always wanted to be centrally located to the area that I service. My associates and I specialize in serving the south central Upper Peninsula."

Gordon is not alone in selling real estate. His wife Sue had considerable experience in sales associated business before taking time out to have their three children, Brandon 11, Brett 9, and Brittany 6.

In May of 1993 Sue received her sales associate real-estate license. Sue says she decided to become a real estate agent because "If Gordon's not home I can help. I wanted to work with Gordon and I've always enjoyed sales. Also with having our office in our home I can still be with the kids. They help us and get involved in the real estate part by cleaning the office and helping us measure up buildings. They're more a part of our lives now.

Gordon and Sue enjoy working together.

"Rod laughs, and says to Sue, 'We're having fun aren't we honey?'"

Sue laughs at the comment and Gordon smiles and says, "We compliment each other, that's why we can work together like we do. This is really nice because before when I went to work I felt as if my work was a separate part of my life. Now it's kind of nice having it this way. Our lives are melded together."

Part of the smooth chemistry at Fox Real Estate Inc. is their mild mannered secretary Joyce Glenn.

"She's such a great help. I don't know what we'd do without her," Sue said about Joyce.

Fox Real Estate Inc. relies greatly on word of mouth, and referrals from people Gordon has dealt with in the past.

Sue said, "With our dealings with people in the area, from the school and church we know a lot of good people. I give a lot of credit to the Lord though. He has guided us through our lives and pointed us in this direction."

Gordon said, "We believe in the customer and we never abandon them after we have their money. People trust us. They know as a real-estate company we'll be fair, reliable and there for them."
