WE-ALL

The Japanese attack on the United States instantly changed our trend of thought in this country.

Before that attack some of us thought in terms of "I", others in terms of "we". Neither of those terms expresses our feelings today.

"I" represents only one person.

"We" may mean only two or a few persons.

Our slogan now is WE-ALL, which means every loyal individual in the United States.

We are facing a long, hard job, but when the United States decides to fight for a cause, it is in terms of WE-ALL, and nothing can or will stop us.

President Roosevelt, our Commander-in-Chief, can be certain that WE-ALL are back of him, determined to protect our country, our form of government, and the freedoms which we cherish.

His Christmas Carol

THE STORY: The terms of Andrew Dearborn's will specifying that his secretary, Carol, and five other employes, shall judge whether or not his playboy son Andy is running the business according to his father's policy of "service to the people," put Carol, who has loved Andy since girlhood, in a difficult spot. Her heart sinks when Andy, currently involved with sleek Linda Julian, turns management over to unscrupulous Mr. Herrick, whose only idea is to make money. She knows that unless Andy mends his ways and takes over he will lose the store to charity by a vote of the strange "jury" the lost will provides for. Buck-passing Herrick blames employe Bill Reece for the toyland elevator accident that injures newsboy Nicky, although Nicky discovers that Bill had reported the elevator's condition and was not to blame. Herrick also takes credit for cash adjustments made to customers by Carol without his knowledge, in an effort to save me. And I was right."

the store's reputation. At the annual store party Andy kisses Carol, indicates he is through with Linda. Next day Carol finds the will's envelop in the vault, but the will is gone. Herrick then fires her for writing a retirement check for an employe he has dismissed, although again she was only following the Dearborn knows the truth about the elevator accident and the adjustments Carol has made. Herrick then says he knows the whereabouts of the will, tries to blackmail Andy into letting him run the store and forgetting its terms. That night she returns to the store to search for the will. A

The View From Top Of Hill Is Thrilling

But all in all, the important thing is to have the intestinal fortitude to keep on struggling and climbing even if we take a wrong turning and do some back-sliding and slipping in the attempt.

You likely recall reading amusing bit of story in one of the January magazines. A Negro maid says: "You know, Miss Bessie, trouble is so high you can't climb over it, so wide you can't walk around it, so deep you can't dig under it, so I be doggoned iffn de only way to beat it isn't to duck yo haid an' wade right through." And that slogging along, regardless of seemingly insurmountable difficulties, is the kind of ability that sees us through, not only the critically difficult situations, but all along the way in life . . . especially if it is not all dumb brute slogging along, but is accompanied by the ability to look backward and gain a hint to be filed for future reference.

Make It Pay Returns There is an old saying that anyone can be forgiven for making a mistake, but not for making the same mistake twice. So, too, we can be forgiven or excused for making a temporary failure but not for neglecting to learn something from the failures.

As a matter of fact, one doubts if any one ever lives 30 or 40 years without having done some foolish thing, made some mistakes, been guilty of some impulsiveness, or some act that brings disturbing recollections, even though to the people who know the person casually (and sometimes even to his family) everything looks as if life had been smooth and serene sailing. I'm not even sure that any one can live fully, richly and constructively, unless he has had the salutary experience of having to look in the face of some mistakes he has made, some failures he had to face and overcome, Of course it takes a considerable number of years of living before one arrives at the place where he can recognize that most of the bitter things encountered (if they have been faced realistically and intelligently) are found to be a kind of testing ground or training for the development of a capacity for facing whatever life may send good or bad.

And when one has failed time and again and yet continues to go on, to do his work the more effectively because he has learned by his failures, then he gets something of thet excitement and thrill that comes to the person who has clambered to the top of the high hills. So if the year brings its problems, its worries, its heartaches, as this year may well do, folk who have mastered the lesson of living, of making victory out of failures, of refusing to be halted more than momentarily, no matter what destiny has in store, can face the year confidently. Knowing that after a climb, the sun shines more brightly on top the hills.

Montreal Goalie Busy Man As the Red Wings crammed their scores into a little more than 40 minutes of playing time, the busiest persons on the premises were Paul Bibeault, Montreal's rookie goalie and the goal judges who kept punching the red lights. Only two Detroiters, aside from Goalle Johnny Mowers, who was recording his second shutout in three games, failed to take part in the scoring.

The Red Wings started off with long shots from just inside the blue Before the halfway mark in the first period Jones drilled one from 50 feet and Howe connected on a 40-foot backhand shot.

Nearly every known way of bagging a goal was employed before the finish, but all three third-period scores came with one side shorthanded. The game wasn't strictly a scoring affair, but Gerry Heffernan, of the Canadiens, and Brown, of Detroit, traded blows in the third period to set off a free-for-all that

Tire Thefts Will Mount, Chief Warns

ISHPEMING, Jan. 4—Anticipating a wave of automobile tire thefts as a result of the rationing of supplies, Chief Nestor Eckloff today warned Ishpeming motorists to use their property.

"A lot of drivers," he said, "leave cars parked overnight in driveways. Stealing spare tires out of locked rear compartments is not easy, but it doesn't require much effort on the part of thieves to jack a car up and take tires off the wheels."

"We suggest that car owners record the serial numbers of their tires," Eckloff said.

Good Friend Of U.S. Dies In Argentina

By FRED S. FERGUSON President of NEA Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 4-The United States has lost its most ardent friend in all South America in the death of Dr. Rumulo S. Naon, whose passing is reported in dispatches from Buenos Aires.

His life was largely devoted to the cause of Pan-Americanism. Representing Argentina in Washington as he did from 1910 to 1919, as minister and then as ambassador, Dr. Naon developed a keen appreciation of the United States from a political and economic standpoint, and in his later years displayed a deep sentimental attachment for all that was North American.

And up to the very last he was exerting every possible influence in Argentine political circles to see that his country kept in line and in step with the democracies in the present war, in spite of the Axis pressure that asserted itself from
