

U. S. Wants AEF To Battle Axis Soon: Churchill Given Vote Of Confidence By Commons

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Winston Churchill declared today that America wants the second A. E. F. to come to grips with the German enemy "as close and as soon as possible," and emerged from the house of commons with a heartening 464-to-1 vote of confidence.

In a sweeping forecast of the world-wide advantage which the United Nations will gain by having U. S. armies on the western front, the prime minister disclosed that their movements to these islands will permit Britain to send her own seasoned troops in greater numbers to the Pacific and Africa, rather than reinforce these active fronts "with troops of another nation."

The lone member of parliament who registered his dissent to the confidence vote was James Maxton, of the irreconcilable three-man Independent Labor party. Maxton's two colleagues in the extreme left-wing group, Jack McGovern and Campbell Stephen, were assigned as tellers and thus could not vote.

The authoritative British Press association and London papers predicted that over the weekend Churchill would announce appointment of Lord Beaverbrook to a new post as minister of production.

Accompanying forecasts said Sir Stafford Cripps, ambassador to Moscow, would be offered Beaverbrook's present job as minister of supply.

Most of Churchill's speech, during the arrival in Northern Ireland of the first United States troops to reach the United Kingdom.

But he declared "a steady flow of reinforcements of both aircraft and troops" had gone to Singapore for several weeks — although he refused to predict how the battle for the island would go.

Yields On Major Point To the critics of his cabinet Churchill yielded one major point — he said at the outset that Britain must now have someone with powers similar in scope to America's Donald M. Nelson, to supervise the whole field of British production.

Sharply, the prime minister declared "as mischievous as it is untrue" a common charge that the admiralty had wanted to send an aircraft carrier to Malaya and that he had overruled the plan. Instead, Churchill disclosed that every British aircraft carrier save the one with the home fleet was under repair at the time.

Churchill went to some length to reiterate that Britain, because of her commitments in Russia and Africa, had to gamble against the Japanese attack, even though it seemed "imminent and probable" during the Atlantic charter meeting with President Roosevelt, which the prime minister disclosed was off Newfoundland in the event of a Japanese attack.

Drastic Action Was Required The Pacific war "might well have been staved off indefinitely" by President Roosevelt's measures of conciliation, he added sadly.

As for the loss of the capital ships Prince of Wales and Repulse, Churchill said Admiral Sir Tom Phillips went into action with them because "drastic and urgent naval action was required" to stem the seaborne invasion of Malaya, and "only after he left the harbor was he informed that fighter protection could not be provided."

Furthermore, Churchill disclosed the ships were attacked not by torpedo or bomber aircraft flown from a carrier, "but by every long range, shore-based, two-engine bomber from the main Japanese airdrome 400 miles away."

Congressional Probe Of Pearl Harbor Unlikely WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The possibility of Congressional investigation into the Pearl Harbor disaster apparently faded today when the House naval committee voted, 14 to 6, against undertaking one.

Sentiment at the Capitol for an inquiry had appeared to be centered chiefly in this group although members of the House military committee, as well as some Senators, also have talked of an investigation.

Japs Within 30 Miles Of Singapore

By C. Yates McDaniel

SINGAPORE, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The British imperial line held firm today in the western Malaya sector, but still was being beaten back elsewhere by the Japanese who had thrust to within 30 miles of Singapore on the central front tonight despite the strong and gallant bayonet counter-attacks of the outnumbered Australians.

This, the most menacing advance reported by imperial headquarters, was accomplished by the Japanese fifth division of veteran shock troops over the central front tonight who had inflicted heavy casualties, but had been able only to interrupt and not to arrest the invader's slow and bloody push.

Fighting in this area, the afternoon British communique conceded, had extended down to the area of Layang-Layang, a town on the main Singapore railroad.

Action Heavy on East Coast On the British right, along the east coast of the peninsula, action was heavy about Ulu Sedil, on the Sedil river 40 miles north of the Strait of Johore and some 15 miles below the scene of earlier fighting in that sector.

On the left, however, where earlier enemy pressure had been concentrated along the Malayan west coast, British GHQ announced succinctly:

"There is no change to report in the situation in the western sector." Thus, the invader was being held about Rengit, 40-odd miles above Singapore, which he had reached yesterday.

Along the Strait of Johore, the last barrier before Singapore and a barrier-but a mile wide, the British authorities continued their preparations to remove all civilians from a mile-deep strip—its preparations for a battle for this very island.

Today, the city's ground and fighter defenses went into widespread action against several formations of Japanese bombers escorted by fighters. At least one enemy plane was destroyed, and probably another.

In London the British admiralty announced that on Monday night off the east Malayan coast two British destroyers engaged a Japanese cruiser and three destroyers, sinking one enemy destroyer and damaging a second. The little British destroyer Thonet, a 906-tonner, was lost.

Inmates Pay Fiddler For Refusal To Eat JACKSON, Mich., Jan. 29.—(AP)—For refusing to eat corned beef and cabbage—getting steaks instead—some 400 southern Michigan prison inmates must pay the fiddler.

Warden Harry Jackson said the ringleaders had been placed in detention cells to await transfer to Marquette prison and that the others would lose three months good time allowance and radio, motion picture and band concert privileges for a similar period.

The inmates, comprising the night shift of the stamping and textile plants, refused to eat the fare Tuesday night after learning that the day shift had enjoyed steaks.

Warden Jackson said there had been no disorder.

Stalemate In Libyan Desert War Probable BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON Wide World Staff Analyst

The "mother of parliaments" by a rousing vote of confidence, have re-commissioned tough-fibered Winston Churchill to lead the British commonwealth to victory despite gathering gloom about the fate of Singapore and a further British setback in Libya.

Rome-Berlin claims of recapture of Bengasi, prime port and air base site on the Libyan hump, closely commanding the Mediterranean waistline, lacked British confirmation as this was written. However, even London spokesmen admitted another British evacuation was probable.

Part of Major Strategy That is the most serious aspect as yet of the Nazi-Fascist counter-offensive in North Africa. By Churchill's own accounting, Ben-

Three Ferry Command Pilots Killed in Crash BALTIMORE, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Three Army ferry command pilots were killed late today when their bomber plane crashed in a swamp with a terrific impact and burned completely.

The ferry command officer here said the men, all civilians and all married, were Paul F. Diehl, 32, Baltimore; George L. Coward, age unknown, Baltimore, and Alden C. Bentley, 37, New Hope, Pa.

Ferry command officers said the plane, believed to have been piloted by Diehl, crashed in a clump of trees within five miles of the Glenn A. Martin plant airport from which it had taken off shortly before the crash. They said the cause of the crash had not been determined.

Martin police and soldiers guarded the charred remains of the plane and the victims.

Larry Allen In Hospital

Larry Allen, Associated Press war correspondent who was rescued from the Mediterranean after the British cruiser Galatea was sunk, is shown in bed in Alexandria, Egypt, as he typed out history of his experience—which capped his 17-witness account of every major battle fought by the British fleet in the Mediterranean.

Correspondent Reaches U. S. Ahead of Delayed Story

Larry Allen, the AP's veteran seagoing war correspondent attached to the British Mediterranean fleet, got back to New York on furlough a jump ahead of the story he wrote weeks ago describing the sinking of H. M. battleship Barham last Nov. 25 by torpedoes aimed at the battleship Queen Elizabeth from which he witnessed the attack.

Allen wrote his story aboard the Queen Elizabeth for transmission to the United States when the censor would permit. The British admiralty then withheld their announcement of the Barham's loss until last Tuesday to keep the information from the enemy for strategic reasons.

By that time Allen was hitch-hiking homeward by air—part way with William C. Bullitt in an Army bomber—and he arrived only yesterday to recuperate from injuries and near-drowning suffered when the British cruiser Galatea was sunk under him after the Barham was sunk.

The story of the Barham, finally having cleared the British interval of strategy and then the censor in Egypt, arrived by cable a few hours after Allen got in. Here is Allen's descriptive story, which, although long-delayed, is exclusive, since he was the only correspondent who witnessed the attack.

ABOARD THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLAGSHIP QUEEN ELIZABETH, Nov. 25, 1941.—(Delayed by Censor)—P—The British battleship Barham, struck by four torpedoes from an enemy submarine, exploded and sank within five minutes today off the Libyan coast.

I saw the Barham go down in a huge cloud of flame and smoke in one of the most spectacular scenes of the war.

The blast was so great that it was believed the attacking submarine must well have been destroyed by concussion.

The fleet was making a wide westward sweep in search of Axis convoys when a single submarine made a daring daylight penetration of the line of destroyers screening the battleships.

38 or More Ships Lost In Sea Battle

By Witt Hancock

BATAVIA, N. E. I., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Despite a full week of blasting counter-attack from air and sea in which 38 to 46 Japanese warships and transports have been sunk or damaged, a still powerful Japanese invasion armada maneuvered tonight in a reckless gamble for a foothold on Java.

The Japanese were reported by one source still to have 65 ships carrying 150,000 men in Macassar strait for the thrust at Java, heart of the Dutch Indies and site of the United Nations' supreme command.

The all-out invasion attempt has been met by an American-Dutch determination to defend the Macassar strait approach to Java at all costs. But on the southward stepping-stone approach toward Java the invaders today made a new landing, at Perannangit, on the western coast of Borneo, 525 miles from Java.

Foothold On West Shore This was seen as a clearing of the Japanese right flank for the main thrust through Macassar strait on the other side of Borneo.

In the strait itself the deepest foothold held by the invaders is Balikpapan, nearly half way down the west shore.

Dutch-American forces for the seventh day apparently were smashing at the Japanese fleet off Balikpapan, but officials gave no details of the fighting which already has cost the invaders 23 or more ships sunk or badly crippled.

The troops landed at Perannangit, from Japanese-occupied Sarawak to the north, immediately menaced the big western center of Pontianak, 85 miles south along the coast. The Dutch garrison there promptly destroyed all equipment, a communique said, when the enemy gained some "local successes."

Also Striking Overland Heavy land fighting also was reported in the area, indicating the Japanese also were striking overland. Formidable mountain ranges and dense jungles threaded by a few trails stand between Kuching, the Sarawak capital, and Pontianak, but there are some navigable streams.

Informal sources said the size of the Japanese convoy in Macassar strait demonstrated that it was intended not only as an expedition against Balikpapan, but against Java itself.

At Balikpapan, where the Japanese fleet apparently was mustering for a new running of the Macassar-American gauntlet, the Dutch said their land troops still were putting up a stubborn resistance.

Navy Pilot 'Sighted Sub Sank Same' WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—"Sighted sub sank same." Thus did a U. S. Navy petty officer, plotting the war plane somewhere on the vast ocean spaces, report to his superiors, and those superiors were so impressed by the classic brevity of the message, that they gleefully relaxed their rule of secrecy of anti-submarine warfare and gave it to the world tonight.

Civil War Vet Spends 102nd Birthday at Home ALBION, Jan. 29.—(AP)—After a birthday anniversary, his 102nd, spent quietly at home listening to radio war news, Jacob H. Perrine, Civil war veteran, today looked forward eagerly to a semi-public observance Saturday.

Saturday's affair will be a dinner of the Three-Quarters Century club, composed of men at least 75 years old, of which he is the honored dean. The Albion group will honor the city's oldest resident, and one of the oldest (if not the oldest) Grand Army veterans in Michigan.

Perrine was born in New York City in 1840, and came to Tekonsha, near Albion, with his parents, in 1845. He was wounded at Gettysburg.

FEAR ALLIED INVASION STOCKHOLM, Jan. 30.—(Friday)—(AP)—Several sectors of the Norwegian coast have been closed to shipping by German authorities, presumably in connection with fears of an Allied invasion, Oslo dispatches said today.

Safe In Philippines

Arthur MacArthur (above), 4-year-old son of General Douglas MacArthur, is safe in the Philippines with his mother, relatives in Louisville, Ky., were advised.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The big guns of General Douglas MacArthur's indomitable band were credited by the Army today with repelling and dispersing headlong attacks by Japanese infantrymen upon both flanks of the Batan battle line.

At the same time, the Army said American fliers had sunk still another enemy transport in the Macassar straits area. A second was set on fire. Two enemy planes were shot down and a third was damaged.

The action raised the total of enemy ship losses in the Macassar battle to at least 38, with some recapitulations placing the total even higher.

FDR Speaks About Feb. 22 From the White House, meanwhile, came word that President Roosevelt plans a radio address for about February 22 in which he expects to give the nation a report on the war effort. It was quite possible, a secretary said in making the announcement, "to disseminate" to "say by that time."

The White House has been receiving, it was said, numerous requests that the Chief Executive deliver another speech "to dissipate poisonous and troublesome rumors and insofar as possible to give the country a clearer and better understanding of the war and all that it involves."

Enemy losses were "heavy," the Army said, in flanking attacks which MacArthur's artillery repulsed. The superiority of American artillery, in fact, has been repeatedly demonstrated in the fighting on Luzon.

Warships Shell Troops On one occasion, the big guns of both forces spent two days banging away at each other, with disastrous results to the invaders. Less than a week ago, apparently to compensate for their artillery deficiency, the Japs began shelling the American forces on Batan peninsula with the big guns of warships drawn up offshore.

The successful attack of American bombers on the Japanese transports was apparently the same engagements reported yesterday from United Nations headquarters in the East Indies. Five American planes attacked a transport in Balikpapan harbor, on the Borneo coast, sank it and left another blazing. Beating off enemy planes, with two downed and one damaged, all 14 American aircraft returned safely to their bases.

Filipino Confident of Victory WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—President Manuel Quezon, of the Philippine commonwealth government, said in a message made public today by the War department the Filipinos were confident of final victory over Japan and "we shall continue to resist the enemy with all our might."

The message was sent to the War department by General Douglas MacArthur, and published in a late day communique which failed to mention progress of general MacArthur's defense of the Batan peninsula.

The Philippine president noted that the invaders thus far had occupied only about a third of the island's total area and added that in the remainder of the island constitutional government was still in operation under his authority.

10 Per Cent Increase In Bus Fares Authorized WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The nation's highway bus lines received permission today to increase their fares by 10 per cent. In authorizing the increase, the Interstate Commerce Commission stipulated that the carriers could put the higher fares into effect 10 days after filing schedules. While no date for the filing was indicated, the bus lines were reported to be anxious to apply the increased fares as soon as possible.

Exempted from the higher fares are members of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard and personnel of the British military forces traveling in uniform.

The railroads have been authorized to increase passenger fares 10 per cent, and will put the new rates into effect Feb. 10. This increase was estimated at $45,000,000 yearly, based on 1941 business. There was no estimate on the aggregate amount of the bus increase.

Volunteer Workers To Be Trained

Another step toward final organization of the county defense "machine" was taken at a meeting of the defense council in the Marquette city hall Wednesday night with the appointment of a committee to train volunteer workers and the election of an advisory board chairman and defense corps commander.

Members of the committee in charge of training civilian defense volunteers—the hundreds of willing workers who registered for home defense duty in Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee and in the townships—are Robert A. Gilmour, Negaunee high school principal; C. C. Watson, Ishpeming high school athletic director; Dr. Joseph C. Dewey, Marquette, of the Northern Michigan College of Education; and Stanley R. Williams, county school commissioner.

Biegler Advisory Chairman

Louis W. Biegler was elected chairman of the county defense advisory board, and William Johnston was named commander of the county volunteer defense corps.

The outer office of the mayor's headquarters in the Marquette city hall hereafter will be the headquarters of the county defense advisory board, John S. Courtney, chairman of the defense council, said yesterday.

Meeting with the defense council Wednesday night were members of the advisory committee and the instructors' training committee.

Representative Group

"This committee is by no means complete," the defense council said. "It is intended to be representative of all the different projects being undertaken in the entire defense program in Marquette county."

"At present it is a truly representative group, but as time goes on it is highly probable that the need will arise for additional members. When this time comes, other members of the committee will be appointed to it."

The advisory group will work in close cooperation with the defense council, it was stressed.

Progress in the training of civilian volunteers in each community depends upon the availability of instructors, equipment and number of registrants, the state council informed the county group.

Training Bulletins

Administrative orders and training bulletins will cover in detail most of the defense courses and can be supplied in adequate number for class work.

There is no legislation providing financial protection for volunteer defense workers who may be injured in training, it was reported, although it is being considered for auxiliary policemen and firemen.

The state council is attempting to obtain motion pictures for use by instructors.

Enemy Aliens

When the U. S. went to war there were thousands of German, Italian and Japanese nationals in this country—enemy aliens. Some were arrested, some just placed under scrutiny, while all were subject to some sort of restriction.

2. What four major anti-defense articles were enemy aliens ordered to turn over to the U. S. Government shortly after war was declared?

3. Is travel of enemy aliens in the U. S. and possessions restricted?

Your Federal Income Tax

INCOME CONSTRUCTIVELY RECEIVED

Income which becomes the property of a person during the taxable year should be included in his gross income even though he does not have physical possession of it. This occurs where income is unconditionally credited to his account or set apart subject to his order at any time, and such income is said to have been constructively received.

If, under an agreement, a taxpayer's debt is paid for his benefit by another, the effect is the same as if the money had been paid to the taxpayer and he had transmitted it to his creditor. It often happens that a taxpayer who owns property agrees that the income from such property shall be paid to a third party, or he may contract to perform services for a second party, and it is agreed that the compensation shall be paid to a third party. In each case the amount paid to the third party at the taxpayer's order is taxable to the taxpayer as constructively received income.

Coast Guard Making Movies at Sand Hill

HOUGHTON, Jan. 29—Motion pictures of the several Coast Guard units in the Copper Country and particularly the group now training at Sand Hills light are being taken this week by Aldrich G. Bailey, official photographer for the Coast Guard, who is here to spend a week making a photographic record for the U. S. Navy. Mr. Bailey is accompanied by John Folk, photographer, first class.

The pictures will feature the use of skis and snowshoes and Coast Guard boats equipped with runners with the rugged Lake Superior coast as the background and the scenes will be laid so as to dramatize a story of Coast Guard life in a remote station. As winter equipment is used only at the Lake Superior stations, the reels will demonstrate the practical use of skis and snowshoes and it is not unlikely that Coast Guardsmen now training here will

Large Part Of County Tax Levies Paid

Of the $375,864.03 levy of Marquette county and county road taxes, $336,601.81 had been collected up to January 10, the deadline for payment without collection fees, John L. Moroney, treasurer, reported yesterday.

The balance of $39,262.22 is one of the smallest in recent years. County taxes will not become delinquent until March 1 when all unpaid items will be returned to the county treasurer's office for collection. A 4 per cent collection fee, however, is now being charged and interest is increasing each month.

Ishpeming, Negaunee Lead

Ishpeming and Negaunee taxpayers already have paid most of their assessments. Collections in Ishpeming on January 10 amounted to $74,000, compared with the levy of $79,232.79, and in Negaunee collections were $107,772.19, a levy of $107,772.19. Marquette taxpayers had paid approximately $55,000 on a levy of $66,215.20.

Among the townships Ely topped the list with collections of $27,401.68 on a levy of $27,401.68. Tilden, Ishpeming townships and Richmond also reported high percentage collections.

Miss Weymouth An Ardent Young Sportswoman

(This is the last of a series of six articles introducing the Marquette winter queen candidates.)

She is five feet, five inches tall, has brown eyes, brown hair, and she "loves all sports."

But a word picture of Miss Elizabeth Weymouth, candidate in the Marquette winter queen contest, would not be complete without saying that she is an ardent young sportswoman in every respect.

In addition to liking the conventional pursuits, such as skating and swimming, she confessed yesterday that she "just loves the woods—hiking and fishing—and just being in the woods."

She has lived in Marquette all her life and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Weymouth, 603 Washington street. She is 18 years old and was graduated last spring from Baraga Parochial high school.

Contrary to most girls named Elizabeth, she prefers the nickname "Liz" to "Betty."

"At least, that's what most of my friends call me," she said.

Not Whole Story

ALTHOUGH the annual financial summary of the city's light and power department makes excellent reading, with 1941 profits at an all-time high, it does not reveal important details of the department's operations, necessary for a clear understanding of its position.

In considering larger profits, one is apt to forget some of the broader implications of the city's expanding power business. Sales of current increased $24,240.67. To meet this growing demand the city has been forced to step up its production capacity, particularly to meet peak loads.

Last year, partly because of water shortage and partly because of high peak loads, the cost of operating the Diesel plant increased $10,291.23. This would have cut profits had it not been for a reduction of general operating and distributing costs by $15,472.18.

Every increase in sales places a heavier strain on plant capacity and distribution facilities. In 1939 and 1940 more than $290,000 was spent on plant improvements. Last year $33,090.95 was spent on construction and improvement of distribution facilities.

It appears that the department now is reaching the point of diminishing returns. This certainly will be true if plant capacity is expanded to provide current on which there is no reasonable margin of profit, and there is no reasonable margin of profit on much of the current being sold to areas outside the city.

Taxpayers of the city have good reason to oppose expansion of plant and distribution facilities if it is made necessary by consumption of current on which there is little profit. If they fail to do so, they invite higher taxes.

As of yesterday, the balance in the light and power fund was $28,272.21. Last year's profits were $127,023.21. Where did this money go? It went for tax reduction. It was transferred from the light and power fund to the general fund and used for general city expenses. In fact, more than the net profit was so transferred. The total was $156,119, which included part of the department's depreciation monies which are not reserved.

In addition, $28,089 was transferred from the water fund in 1941 for reduction of taxes. These amounts are equivalent to returns of a general city tax of $20.56 on $1,000 valuation. The tax levied last year was $4.47 on $1,000 valuation, which provided approximately $40,000. Thus, without the transfers from utility funds, the tax rate would have been $25.03 on $1,000 valuation.

Opinion differs as to whether such a large amount of utility revenues should be used for tax reduction. The practice, however, serves to magnify the importance of the light and power department's operations. If, for instance, it should become necessary to build an $80,000 plant, the city's taxpayers, directly or indirectly, would contribute an amount equivalent to approximately $10 on $1,000 valuation. Taxpayers in the townships, although they might benefit from such a project through improved or extended service, would not share in this expense. If $50,000 or $100,000 were needed to meet some emergency, and emergencies are not unusual in light and power operations, property owners within the city would have to stand the whole cost.

The only way customers outside the city can assume a fair and proportionate share of such costs is to pay rates somewhat higher than those paid by city users. Under the pending rate revision, they are to be asked to pay rates comparable to, and in many instances lower than, those charged elsewhere in the country. If the present schedule in the townships is continued, the city will realize little or nothing on its expanding sales, certainly not enough to justify enlarged production capacity and improvement of its distribution system. If necessary adjustments are made, city users can be certain that there will not be an upward revision of their rates and that, as taxpayers, they will not be called upon to foot bills for somebody else.

Australia Recognized

One result of the Japanese threat against Australia has been granting of request by their governments that Australia and New Zealand be represented on the British war council. They will have, henceforth, a voice in determining how the war is to be waged in keeping with their contribution to the British effort to win it.

Mr. Churchill, in his address to Commons, showed that he did not believe the Japanese are now capable of serious effort to establish themselves on the Australian mainland. His belief is based on their present commitments, as well as on the condition that the forces opposing them are being built up to a point that will call for more and more of their effort in the areas in which they are now heavily engaged.

Until the battle for Singapore and the effort to overcome the Dutch in the East Indies have been carried to a successful conclusion, if that is possible, the naval, air and shipping facilities required for a full scale descent on Australia would not seem to be available. The situation as regards Singapore is ominous. The siege of the fortress is forecast by the trend of the news. But what has been happening in the Malacca straits suggests that the Japanese will have to deal in the East Indies with a formidable array of Allied strength.

If they cannot crack the East Indies they would have failed to gain by diversion of forces for full scale attack on Australia.

U-Boats Active Again

After a lull of a few days there is another series of reports of losses of Allied ships off the American coast, or in waters not far removed from it. The most serious is the destruction of a passenger ship sailing between Bermuda and an unnamed American port, with loss of some 400 lives. While nothing is told of losses on the convoy routes to the British Isles, it is not unlikely that the losses in American waters since the Nazi submarines were sent into them are comparable.

The Navy Department, without being explicit, reports that more Nazi submarines are crossing the ocean than return. But, now that this may be, they are inflicting damage that goes far to offset, if it does not far more than compensate, what they have suffered. The range of their operations shows the difficulty of combating them. The Navy's measures include air and ship patrol, but the forces that can be allotted to it are able to keep surveillance over but a small part of the waters in which ships are moving. If it is a matter of chance if a submarine comes upon a ship on which to launch torpedoes, it is equally a matter of chance if a naval airplane or ship comes upon an undersea marauder.

Convoy, which has served so well to reduce losses in trans-Atlantic traffic, would serve equally well in American waters. But it could be undertaken only at the cost of decreasing its effectiveness on the trans-Atlantic routes, and of decreasing the ability of merchant vessels in American waters, slowed up by convoy, to meet the cargo demands of the war.

If the protection of the trans-Atlantic routes were lessened to make the American waters safer the Nazis would immediately counter by heavier weight of attack on the ships moving on those routes. To secure opportunity to do this may be the principal aim of their present forays, which present the American naval forces with a problem most difficult to solve.

Power For Rationing

Coincident with the passage of the price control bill, Mr. Nelson conferred on Mr. Henderson, who will administer it, authority to extend, within his discretion, rationing of consumer goods. Its limits are, for the time, automobiles in the hands of dealers and that are still to come into their hands, tires and tubes and sugar. But there can be no doubt that it will be carried much further. How far and just where it will strike even Mr. Henderson at this time cannot know. But where they are necessary the wholesaler, as well as the retailer, will be subject to sharp penalties for failure to cooperate in making it fully effective.

It will certainly be carried much further than the public now anticipates. It is by now fully realized that we are deep in the war, but it is by no means fully realized what being deep in the war means. As far as major industry is concerned, it is some months since its business has been carried on as usual. But, with the exception of automobiles, tires and tubes, there has been for the consumer public no appreciable departure from the normal in trading. It has been able to get anything it has wanted to buy, in any reasonable quantity. Even where, as in the household facilities industries, priorities have caused curtailment of production, there is still a considerable quantity of goods in the hands of the retailers.

While there is no possibility in a country so abundantly provided with natural resources that rationing will be carried at all as far as in other warring countries, it will be extended as the months pass to more and more fields of consumer goods. Before the close of the year it will have taken in a wide range of articles of household and personal necessity. Surpluses in many fields of trading are being steadily reduced and increasing demands for war are steadily cutting down the supply of raw materials reaching the manufacturers who supply them.

Effort to anticipate wants by purchases in excess of current needs may be helpful to those who make it. But its larger effect can be only to bring closer the day when rationing will be widely extended.

Contemporary Opinion

It Won't Work Mackinac Island's dream of a great and modern summer playground, built wholly with tourist funds, was just a figment of the island's imagination.

A Federal court has enjoined the Government of the city of Mackinac Island and its harbor and park commissions from collecting a fee of 25 cents for each passenger landed on the island and thus goes aglimmering hopes that a proposed $225,000 bond issue, authorized to finance proposed improvements, can be financed by contributions from tourists who visit Michigan's most historical as well as one of the most beautiful spots at the head of the lakes.

An effort to impose the proposed landing fee was quickly balked last year, through temporary court injunctions, granted to boat companies making scheduled stops at the island, and a final decision was handed down this week by Judge Fred Raymond, of the United States district court, who held that the proposal would constitute a violation of both state and Federal constitutions.

The plan proposed by Mackinac Island for making extensive civic improvements, without cost to the island or its inhabitants, was a most ingenious one, but it now appears that if the improvements included in the program are needed and wanted, the property owners and the various boards and commissions, that rule

At the head of the lakes there is talk of a campaign being started to get uniform and more stringent laws for the preservation of Lake Superior fish. It is planned to have Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin legislatures act together.

Marquette people are inclined to take with a grain of salt the report coming from Duluth that it is thought by some people in that city that Lake Superior will freeze over this winter.

That many persons are leaving their water taps running to prevent the pipes from freezing is evident from the fact that the pumps have been operated as steadily as in midsummer in order to keep up with consumption. Water bills for the next quarter are likely to surprise a number of people.

Bonds Out Of Income

In this state and others, savings bankers have reported that depositors have withdrawn savings to buy defense bonds and these bankers have said that if such withdrawals are continued banks may be forced to sell some of the Government bonds now held by them.

What the Federal Government desires is for millions of Americans to buy defense bonds and stamps from current income at regular intervals. Such purchases, according to the argument of various economists, will accomplish a number of things: they will provide the Government with the steady flow of money needed for the war; they will curtail the amount of private income available for spending and thus diminish competition for the reduced supply of civilian goods; the reduced income available for spending will help to keep prices down and prevent inflation.

Thus runs the argument of the economists. It seems that the Treasury Department might consult a psychologist or two. The constant stream of scare stories from various officials, predicting a shortage of this material or that, may have been merely the natural product of the great American tendency to talk too much. They may have been intended to steel the American public to sacrifices yet to come, but they have had no such effect. They have sent Tom, Dick and Mrs. Harry out to buy and buy, and buy. Some of the buying has been hoarding. More of it has been merely advance buying of what would have been bought next April or July or November but for the alarms and excursions of a host of Government officials.

The ordinary American who is expected to buy bonds out of his income has been affected by other influences from Washington, which have never been denied with sufficient emphasis, that a withholding tax might be imposed this year and that two years' taxes might be collected in a single year. The ordinary American is paying more for nearly everything he buys and if he is scared into buying not only what he currently needs but what he will need next summer or next fall there may not be much income left for bonds or stamps.—New York Sun.

Quotations

The people of the United States must understand that while the Government of my country, under Acting President Castillo, is conservative and even reactionary, it is not Nazi and it is not Fascist.—Angelica Mendoza de Montero, Argentinian writer.

Whatever hardship may be in store, we shall face it together; it shall be distributed fairly and borne by all in their fair proportion. In accordance with their ability to carry it.—Treasury Secretary Morgenthau.

For the first time in the history of hemisphere relations joint action of the highest importance has been taken with unanimity.—Undersecretary of States Welles.

America is not for Americans. America is for humanity.—Unidentified Cuban delegate to Rio conference.

My faith is unchanged that the people of the Philippines and the United States, fighting side by side, with God's help will presently write that happy ending to which we have long aspired.—Associate Justice Frank Murphy, U. S. Supreme Court.

No Time for Press Agents State officials, worried over possible shortage of revenues, have been sorting extraganzas to find those that can be plucked out with least political heartache. They have turned up the fact that press agents employed by officials cost more than $250,000 annually. This nuisance is an imitation of the Government in Washington, where all ranking officials have press agents. If in Washington and in Lansing official news hand-outs were posted on lobby bulletin boards, all worthwhile news would be made immediately available through regular press agencies, worth more than $250,000 would be saved taxpayers and a lot of wastebasket space in newspaper offices would be conserved.—Detroit News.

That great summer playground, will have to pay for them.

To A Great General

There was tragically little that the American people could do on the sixty-second birthday of General MacArthur to demonstrate their gratitude for the splendid battle which he and the gallant troops under his command have been waging. If good wishes alone could have sped them, birthday gifts of planes and ships, men and munitions would now be aiding the hard-pressed defenders of the Philippines. Instead it was the general and his men who made the gift—a brilliantly successful counter-attack which extricated the Americans and Filipinos from a dangerous situation and gained more precious time in the Pacific.

Few armies in history have faced a more discouraging prospect than that which was confronted by the men under the American flag in the Philippines since the outbreak of hostilities. Their mission was to hold, to delay—with lines of retreat cut off and all hope of relief depending on the slow sweep of grand strategy in a world-wide war. The odds—in air power, sea power, numbers and combat experience—were against them. Yet they have held and are still holding, taking heavy toll from the enemy and pinning down much of his strength in the process. There is more than a hint of the value of his service in the Japanese menace even now creeping down the Malacca Straits—a menace that might be far greater if the Mikado's generals were those of MacArthur; if days had not been gained to prepare the Allied forces that

New York Chats

By Charles B. Driscoll NEW YORK—Thinking out loud: I don't like that sailor who killed the ship's dog when the ship was torpedoed off New York. "I hit his head on the deck," he told reporters. . . . Surely, there might have been a little chance that the dog, uninjured, might survive. And if he had to be killed, an officer could shoot him, which would have been so much more merciful. . . . but the sea is hard, and seamen sometimes become hard. . . . So, I think of all my friends who are at sea in this perilous time. One wonders how they face each gray morning, with the wide rim of ocean the only present prospect. Friend Dan Coughlin, of Lowell, Mass., went away on a freighter, months before Pearl Harbor, and I've no word from him, though he promised certain communications. . . . I'm not giving away any secrets when I say that the waters he was going to are dangerous. What waters?

Mr. Sour was a song writer before he was an editor, and he still turns out a song now and again. One of his war songs, popularized by Kate Smith, is "They Started Something, But We're Gonna End It." He doesn't seem to be particularly proud of it as a work of art, but it is making money.

"Body and Soul" was one of Mr. Sour's earlier successes. "We Could Make Such Beautiful Music" and "Practice Makes Perfect" were his other hits.

Sour is a tall, thin, dark man, who looks as though he has been putting in some full days' work during the years he has been alive. Mrs. Sour is a small, dark woman, who whittles. They live in an apartment, away up on Madison avenue.

We talked about amateurs and professionals in the song-writing business, while the cocker spaniel, Whiskey Sour, played around the room and welcomed the visitor.

Like all professional song writers, Mr. Sour has little enthusiasm for the amateur. And, indeed, you can't blame him. He has looked at millions of bad lyrics by amateurs. Still, I'm on the amateur's side because I think all the songs published are on the other side, and the amateurs need a friend here and there.

I pointed out that all the great national war hymns were written by amateurs. "The Star Spangled Banner," "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean" are only a few of the more dignified national songs that have come out of Tin Pan Alley. The last war produced no great hymn, and its one persisting air was "Over There," a rouser done by a professional entertainer, George M. Cohan.

We still need a serious, inspiring war hymn, and if Tin Pan Alley will just listen carefully, one of its amateurs is going to write it one of these days.

Hint to Taxpayers

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Herbert E. Gaston recently told the New York Conference on War that the Treasury "begs for" an organization of small taxpayers to be represented in Washington.

Mr. Gaston's appeal will sound strange to a public accustomed to regard the Treasury as the natural enemy of the taxpayer, coldly indifferent to complaints and criticisms. But Mr. Gaston, like every intelligent official, knows that organized special-interest groups can perform very valuable services by directing attention to the defects of existing laws and making suggestions for remedial legislation.

Inequities in the tax laws that affect large-income groups are widely publicized, because such groups already have effective representation in Washington. But it is difficult to organize millions of small taxpayers and gain a hearing for their views.

There has been no incentive, moreover, for low income groups to organize in the past, because they have paid only negligible amounts of taxes. Now the situation is entirely different. War-time taxes will make substantial inroads upon the incomes of people of small means. Unexpected hardships are likely to develop, calling for modifications of the tax laws, especially when tax rates rise still higher, as they doubtless will. By organizing, not to obstruct tax levies, but to make helpful suggestions for the removal of inequities, small taxpayers could be of great assistance to our lawmakers, to the Treasury and to themselves.—Washington Post.

are striking with such effect at the ships that bear it. Value of Good Leadership But time and strategic advantage are not the only gains of the Battle of Bataan. General MacArthur has demonstrated what American troops and American-trained Filipinos can do when they have good leaders, and he has proved that the American Army can produce such leaders. Meeting the initiative and resourcefulness of the Japanese command with greater initiative and resourcefulness, General MacArthur has exploited his few advantages—in position, heavy artillery and hard-fighting, courageous man power—with a consummate skill that is a matter for pride and emulation to the armed forces of this country. He has restored confidence in the quality of the American military command—shaken by Pearl Harbor—and has given a shining promise for the future.

The American position in the Philippines is still desperate. The obstacles in the way of furnishing direct aid to MacArthur's men still appear almost insuperable and the developing Japanese attack is so strong, so many-headed, as to put a serious strain on all the present forces of the United Nations in the Far East. But while the Army in the Philippines continues to fight, no one can say that its case is hopeless. January 26 was a great day; in the most heartfelt earnestness, all Americans join in wishing General MacArthur and his embattled troops "many happy returns."—New York Herald-Tribune.

Today In Washington

By David Lawrence WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—Although the Roberts report carefully refrained from commenting on what might be called our Naval policy in the Pacific, the official records of hearings in Congress and articles written by Naval officers familiar with the Far East show that advice given repeatedly has been ignored by the highest officials of our Government.

Thus, for example, Admiral Joseph K. Taussig was reprimanded and denounced for his outspoken views before the Senate Naval Affairs committee in April, 1940. He has now been retired and is one of the few men of virile physique who have not been called to active service. He bids fair to become another Billy Mitchell in the military annals of America for his point of view has been vindicated by the story of inefficiency and lack of preparedness revealed in the Roberts report.

Admiral Taussig advocated that if our battleships were based in Hawaii, a strong scouting fleet should always be maintained in the Philippines. Had this been done the Japanese Navy, it is now argued, would never have dared to venture so far from the Japanese mainland with its aircraft carriers and fleet units as was the case on December 7 and the days immediately preceding.

Caused Sensation A re-reading of Admiral Taussig's testimony before the Senate Naval Affairs committee showed that he begged for a sound Naval policy and fleet protection for the Philippines. He has for many years been a member of the staff at the Naval War College and served not only as chief of staff to the commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet but as assistant chief of Naval operations in Washington. His blunt statement to the Senate committee on April 20, 1940, which caused a sensation, was as follows:

"We need be under no delusions as to the aims and policies of Japan. The pronouncements of her statesmen in answer to protests against violation of rights of other nations are of course worthless. The real policies of Japan are embodied in the declarations of her militarists during past years and it is these policies that are being carried out. . . .

"The first step in their plan is the domination of the Far East. It is under way at present with the subjugation of China. The Philippines, Netherlands Indies, French Indo-China and Malaya will be taken over in due course of time. Russia is to be driven westward of Lake Baikal.

"The above is a very grandiose plan and much may happen to interfere with its accomplishment. The fact remains, however, that it is a plan which is under way in the hands of a determined war-like people, armed with modern weapons, with little or no effective opposition. Past treaties, rights of neutrality, rules of civilized warfare as we understand them, are brushed aside and ignored in the furtherance of the plan."

Urged Stronger Bases Admiral Taussig urged not only the immediate enlargement of the fleet but the building of "an impregnable base in the Philippines and the fortification of Guam so as to make its capture impossible." He advocated an immediate agreement with Britain, France and the Netherlands for the use of their bases in the Far East. At that time France had not yet been subjected to the blitzkrieg.

The admiral did not think a two-ocean Navy would be built right away but argued instead for an alertness and proper preparedness on the part of the fleet units that we did have. His theory was that prompt cooperation with France, Britain and the Dutch would have furnished a sufficiently large force to take care of any immediate situation in and around the Philippines.

It is Admiral Taussig's views on the proper distribution of the Navy, however, and what he terms the organization of the fleet that will stand out as lessons which if accepted might have averted the tragedy at Pearl Harbor.

Incidentally the son of Admiral Taussig was seriously wounded in the attack on Hawaii.

Terror Film

Wolfe Kaufman, the Sun's motion picture critic, apparently does not think very highly of the picture "Invasion" now showing at the Rialto theater. According to the publicity, the film was used by the Nazis to terrorize small nations and was confiscated by this or an Allied government, either in the form of cargo or off an enemy ship. Mr. Kaufman wonders how the picture got into the hands of independent distributors and why, if the government had any say on the matter, it starts off, for Chicago, in a burlesque theater.

We take the word of our critic that "Invasion" is a bad picture—and bad propaganda is worse than bad propaganda. If this is the same film that the Nazis used for scaring purposes—and, according to the news, used very successfully—then why does not the United States government handle it, supervise it and see that it gets into first-run theaters? If it is what it is said to be, then we should be fighting to see it; but if it is not what it purports to be, then any faking should be stopped here and now and the picture taken out of circulation.—Chicago Sun.

The Daras is a peninsula of Germany, connected with the mainland by two narrow strips of land only. It is the remnant of the old Baltic coast that was eaten away by the onslaught of storm tides thousands of years ago.

What the West Indies were to the buccaners and filibusters, the Daras was to the pirates of the Baltic. According to legend, Klas Stoerbeck (Nick Tossop), the great sea marauder, buried his treasure in the Daras, and people today are still looking for it, just as they do for the treasure of Captain Kidd. When the winter storms roar through the old oaks of the Daras you can still hear the thundering commands of Stoerbeck: "The man who broke horseshoes, snapped ship's cables with his hands, and 'tossed the pot' as did no other man of his time, the age of the great drinkers.

When Stoerbeck was beheaded at Hamburg with many of his companions, he made a bargain with his executioners: "Will you pardon those of my fellows that I run past after I am beheaded?" The judges agreed with a smile because the thing was impossible. But Stoerbeck tensed his muscles with the last tremendous concentration of his mighty will. His head flew from the headsman's ax into the bag. But the headless trunk ran past 21 of his companions before it sank to the ground.—From "Time Was." By Heinrich Haase.

Mr. Hahne, whose home is in Manistique, and who was appointed receiver by Judge Herbert W. Runnels, was in Minneapolis. Meanwhile the brewery is in operation and its product has been placed on sale, it was learned here. Neither Judge Runnels, who is holding court at Munising, nor Mr. Hahne could be immediately reached for a statement on the financial arrangement which permitted operation of the brewery. It is understood that temporary financing was made possible through a mortgage arrangement with one of the larger stockholders.

Nurse In War Zone

ESCANABA, Jan. 29—Concern is being expressed by relatives and friends here for the safety of Miss Leone Bichler, registered nurse of Escanaba, who is employed in a Navy hospital at Pago Pago, Tutuila island, Samoa, in the South Pacific war zone. Miss Bichler, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Bichler, of this city, was graduated from St. Joseph's high school and St. Mary's hospital nurses school in Minneapolis. Following her graduation, she and another young nurse assumed the management of a small hospital in Minnesota. Later, she took a civil service examination, and secured a position as nurse at the Mare Island naval hospital in California. On Jan. 10, 1941, she signed up for 18 months service in Samoa.

Recruiters Send Ten To U. S. Navy

United States Navy recruiters in Marquette announced yesterday that 10 more residents of the Upper Peninsula have been sent to Chicago where they will take a final physical examination prior to starting the period of preliminary training at Great Lakes, Ill., Naval Training station.

The group consists of Raymond Arthur Vial, of Ishpeming; Walter Thomas Codd, Watersmeet; Joseph Michael Kniska, Harold William Schwartz, Richard Dellwin Osborne, Louis Vincent Belany and Kenneth Bernard Tjernlund, all of Ironwood; Melvin Howard Tweedale, Traunik; Norman Patrick Jarvey, L'Anse, and John Anthony Pettit, of Calumet.

Wait Until Assigned
Navy officers advised men yesterday not to quit their jobs until they have been assigned definitely to active duty. In some cases, it was explained, there is some delay in sending men to active duty stations because of the large number enlisting in the service.

Word was received here yesterday from the Naval recruiting station in Chicago, district headquarter.

U. S. Department of Agriculture statistics indicate.

Testing was supervised by the Holstein-Friesian association, with the cooperation of Michigan State college.

ters, that students in school or college between 17 and 20 years of age may enlist in the Naval Reserve and be placed on inactive duty until completion of their school year.

Further information about the new ruling may be obtained at the recruiting office in the basement of the Marquette postoffice.

Pour yourself a teaspoonful, let it lie on your tongue a moment then swallow slowly. Feel its instant, powerful effective action spread through throat, head and bronchial tubes. Start at once to loosen thick choking phlegm making breathing easier. No claim is made that Buckley's is a cure for Chronic Bronchitis or Asthma but sufferers often find Buckley's CANADIAN Mixture (the largest selling cough medicine in all Canada) starts right in to quiet coughing spasms and loosen up that choking phlegm which seems to clog the tubes and makes breathing difficult. It helps many to get a better night's rest.

Prison Cow Sets Record For Michigan

Marquette Marathon Burke, a registered Holstein cow of the Marquette prison herd, has established a production record for Michigan four-year-old Holsteins, according to an announcement of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Milked three times daily during a year's test, the cow produced 839.5 pounds of butterfat from 24,274 pounds of milk. The average dairy cow in the county produces only 21 per cent as much butterfat.

Remember To Wear Winter Sports Togs

The much-harassed weatherman is due a few days of peace, winter sports devotees have decided, after supplying the city with a blanket of snowfall for tomorrow, which has been designated as Winter Sports Clothes Day.

It will mark the start of eight days of winter sports festivities which will be climaxed by the ice revue and United States Navy flight squadron inducted at the Palestra Saturday night, February 7.

"We hope everyone will get into the spirit of the occasion as they have in the past and wear their most colorful winter sports attire in the downtown district Saturday," Phil Spear, Jr., president of the Winter Sports club, said yesterday.

Sliding Tests Sunday

Queen candidates will spend the day in the business district to see that the "law" is "enforced" and to sell memberships in the Winter Sports club. Sunday the candidates will be given skiing and snowshoeing tests at Superior hills.

Neighborhood rink carnivals will be the order next week, and other highlights of carnival week are a dance at Olle's Barn Thursday night, at which time the winner of the queen contest will be announced; ski events at Superior hills February 7, followed by the gala ice carnival and Navy induction at the Palestra, and ski events at Superior and Kirilin hills Sunday, February 8.

"U. P. Wildcats"

The "U. P. Wildcats"—first naval aviation squadron to be selected from the Upper Peninsula—will be formally inducted into the United States Naval Reserve at the Marquette ice carnival. Plans to induct the young men as a part of the ice show in the Palestra have been completed by Lieut. Carl G. Olson, senior member of the Chicago Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board, and Mr. Spear.

Under present plans three naval officers will fly to Marquette for the induction—one of the most impressive of the Navy's traditional ceremonies. They are Lieut. Comdr. Richard K. Gaines, commanding officer of the Glenview, Ill., Naval Reserve aviation base; Lieut. Olson, and Ensign R. L. Childs. Lieut. Comdr. Gaines will administer the oath to the Wildcat squadron. Families of the squadron members will be guests at the ceremony.

Several Other Events

Other events scheduled for the evening include a parade, an ice ballet, comedy acts, a demonstration by Sea Scouts, a dog team race and skating.

Members of the Wildcat squadron, who will receive distinctive insignia pins at the induction ceremony, are Patrick Brennan, of L'Anse; Toivo J. Lauri, of Rock; Orlando J. Spigarelli, of Iron Mountain; Ralph L. Gunville, of Munising; John K. Pellow and Albert Jokela, of Negaunee; Robert P. Hupy, of Gladstone; Clinton L. Godreau and Howard Mott, of Manistigue; Walter I. Bieltla and Ralph E. How to make Pillsbury's Southern Butter-Pecan Pie

Complete recipe:

1. Sift and measure 1 c. Enriched Pillsbury's Best Flour; add 1/2 tsp. baking powder (optional) and 1/4 tsp. salt; sift together. (Two B-vitamins and iron are added to Pillsbury's Best, with no change in flavor, color, or baking quality.) 2. Cut in 1/4 c. shortening until size of small peas. 3. Add 2 to 3 Tbsp. cold water gradually until dough is moist enough to hold together. Chill. 4. Roll out to about 1/4-in. thickness. Fold pastry over, place loosely in 9-in. pie pan; flute edge. 5. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 min. (The tender flakiness of Pillsbury's pie crust is a credit to your judgment in choosing Pillsbury's Best, the BAKE-PROVED flour. Every single hour during milling, samples are tested for crumby, uniform color, and made to 4 to 6 times a day actual baking tests are made. That's why Pillsbury's Best gives you baking quality that never fails!) . . . Fill the Pillsbury pie crust with the following FILLING: 6. Combine 7 Tbsp. Pillsbury's Best Flour and 1/4 tsp. salt in top of double boiler. Add 2 c. scalded milk gradually; stir constantly. 7. Combine 1 c. firmly packed brown sugar and 4 Tbsp. butter; cook over low heat until thick and bubbly. 8. Add to hot milk; place over boiling water; cook until thick and smooth (15 min.). Stir occasionally. 9. Add a little hot filling to 3 egg yolks, slightly beaten; mix well. Return to hot mixture; cook about 2 min. longer. Cool. Add 1 tsp. vanilla and 1/2 c. toasted chopped pecans. 10. Turn into baked shell. Chill thoroughly. Top with sweetened whipped cream and pecans. State Police Inaugurate Two-Way Radio System

EAST LANSING, Jan. 29—(AP)—Capt. C. J. Scavarda, of the state police traffic division, announced two-way frequency modulation radio communication has been placed in operation in the East Lansing state police district, embracing Ingham, Clinton, Eaton, Ionia, Livingston and parts of Shiawassee and Barry counties.

He said a similar communication system would be started in the Detroit district "within a few days." While the state police headquarters here will be the only control point in the East Lansing district, Scavarda said, the Detroit district will have transmission points at Ypsilanti, Flat Rock and Detroit. A $360,000 appropriation voted by the legislature in last week's special session will eventually put

Price, Rent Surveys To Be Conducted Here

LANSING, Jan. 29—(AP)—Field agents who have been hired to concentrate on pricing retail articles in typical Michigan cities have been hired and will be given a week's training starting February 3 before a new consumer price system gets under way, the state department of labor an industry reported today.

Food, clothing, household furniture, utilities and miscellaneous articles will be priced in Lansing, Marquette, Saginaw-Bay City, Flint and Grand Rapids, it was said. Rent figures also will be taken in Marquette, while in the other cities surveys rents will be taken by the U. S. Department of Labor.

Agents will be paid $5 a day for the time they spend, the department said, explaining they probably will need two weeks a quarter to gather the information.

The two-way system on a state-wide basis, Scavarda said, adding that equipment already has been purchased for state police posts at Jackson, Bay City and Battle Creek.

Red Cross Helps Find Relatives

Residents of the United States who are concerned over the fate of relatives held in Nazi or allied prison camps, or residing in German-occupied countries, may communicate with members of their families abroad through the county Red Cross chapter, E. L. Pearce, county chairman, said yesterday.

Although some persons, familiar with the communication service, have sought the aid of Red Cross facilities, the chapter invites anyone seeking word of relatives in Europe to use its facilities.

Establishment of communications between belligerent nations is a complex affair involving the national Red Cross office at Washington, the international Red Cross committee, with headquarters in neutral Switzerland, and authorities of occupied nations.

At the chapter office here, the applicant is given an international committee form made out in English, French and German, with spaces for the name, birthplace, names of the parents and the last known address of the person sought. There also is space for a 25-word message, which must be restricted to family news of a personal character.

Arriving in Switzerland, the message is turned over to the German Red Cross, which conducts the search. If it is successful, communication is made with the addressee, and correspondence—always carefully censored—may be carried on without further recourse to the Red Cross.

Can Send Packages

Packages containing food, clothing, games, musical instruments or pipes and smoking tobacco may be sent to German prison camps, but they must bear a package label obtained by the prisoner from the camp officials and sent to the relative here. Food and articles of clothing sent without the label are distributed among prisoners.

No arrangement has yet been made with Japanese authorities permitting communication between their Allied prisoners and the latter's relatives.

MOM TRIES DOUBLETALK CHAPTER XXII

Sure enough, a little before 11 Doc's rooster pulled up at the Federia and he helped out Lolita. She was an eye for an eye.

"Hello, Ma," she said.

"Mom," I said.

"Nuts!" she said. "Try and disown me."

"Okay, Carnie," I said. She came over and kissed me.

"How's trade, Ma?" she said.

"No complaint," I told her. "Pipe down on the Ma stuff. No need to spread the Baumer genealogy."

She gave me the wide eye. "I'm not ashamed of it, she said. 'Loren knows, I've told him.' 'Loren, huh,' I said. 'Sure,' she said. 'We're pals. He's been telling me all about his Wandos.'"

"You shouldn't have got me started," Doc said.

"It was you I came over to see, Mom," she said. "But the Wandos are right up my alley."

"How's that?" I asked her.

"I'm cast for Pocahontas in 'The Great John Smith.' Maybe Pocahontas was a Wando."

"Maybe I'm Queen of the May," I said.

"Well, she could be couldn't she, Loren? Pocahontas, I mean." He smiled at her like she was a nice, amusing kid out of the nursery.

"I'm afraid not," he said.

"What do I care?" she said. "If I play her for a Wando, who in Hollywood's going to know the difference?"

"Who, indeed!" Doc said. You could see he was getting a lot of fun out of Carnie.

"I like Loren's Wandos," she said. "He's going to lend me some of their gadgets to wear in my hair."

"Gorget's" Doc said.

"Okay, Professor," she said. "Mom, if I had time to work on him, I'll bet I could make him forget he's a professor."

"Help!" Doc said.

"You lay off him, Carnie," I said. "He's doing all right where he is."

"Sez you?" she said. "Loren, could an Indian princess have red hair? I'm tired of wigs. They make my head itch."

A candid camera fiend popped out of cabin No. 6 and asked if she could take Miss Marquessa's picture with us two.

By me. Doc wanted to duck, but Carnie wouldn't let him. She hooked an arm through his and told the amateur to shoot. While that was going on, I'd been figuring that it was up to me to be firm. So I said:

"Listen, Carnie. I'm glad to see you and all that. But after this, you crawl back onto your silver screen and stay there."

"What's the idea, Mom?" she wanted to know.

"Just that we're on different roads."

Doc said, "I don't think that's quite kind or fair, Mom."

"Get this, you two," I said. "I'm Mom Baumer. Carnie's Lolita Marquessa. She can't do me any good and I'd sure be poison for her business. From the time that sick press agent of hers digs up her flossy name and ancestry, I'm out of it. She's the daughter of a thousand Spanish grandees and what does that make me? A cake of Castile soap? No, thank you."

"You're not sore, are you, Ma?" she said.

"Why would I be sore?" I said. "I think you're a swell kid and you're doing a grand job. I'll always be there in the background if you need me."

"I know you will, Ma," she said. "You always were." That pretty near weakened me.

"If you'll excuse me," Doc said, "I'll step over and look up the gorges."

Before he was fairly out of hearing, Carnie started in. "Where did you ever get him, Ma? I think he's divine."

"You would," I said. "This season."

She shook her head. "I don't get that," she said.

"You always were one for being in the current," I said. "This is Hollywood's year to go brainy. Doc probably treated you like you were intelligent, because he hasn't got any other approach. So what happens? Right away you begin to figure that you're a submerged intellectual. Look out, gal! That way ruin lies."

Carnie laughed. "The same old Ma! But you've got to admit he's awfully good-looking."

I took a gander over toward the staid where Doc was coming out of the doorway, and by this-sent that, she was right! Why I hadn't caught it before I don't know. Maybe because I'd first seen him as the bearded wonder. As he came toward us, with that straight figure and easy swing, his serious face and steady eyes, he was a pretty swell-looking guy of his kind. Inside I was hoping that Carnie would lay off him. I knew he'd been with Juddy and I didn't want him surt again. And my Carnie was sure something to put a couple of skips in any he-man's heartbeat.

Several days later I was fumigating Cabin Three. Maybe the crawler that I'd seen on the departing tenant's suitcase was only a tick, but it didn't look good to me. You can't afford to take chances in this business. Juddy came over with the morning's mail.

"Open it up for me," I told her. "I've got no secrets in my young life."

When I came out she was studying over some photos. The candid camera girl had kept her word and mailed back the prints.

It was a nice job for an amateur. Of course, Carnie had made it easy for her. Doc turned out to be naturally photogenic, and I showed something in the pose of Honest Old Mom. Juddy picked the best shot and said she was going to frame it.

"Is she really Spanish, do you think, Mom?" she asked me.

"What else would she be with that hair and eyes?"

"Sure, she is. That's her line of business."

"So she really came over with Loren Oliver," she said. "He must have been a scream, explaining Wandos to a movie star."

"Maybe it wasn't all Wandos," "What else would it be?"

"He's a man and she's a gal..." She gave me the laugh. "Mom, you're lipped on your star boarder."

"Ask him yourself," I said. He's coming over for his lunch now."

"Yes," he said, "that's a good likeness of Miss Marquessa. How charming she is!"

"You gave her a whirl, Doc," I said. "I hope your intentions are honorable."

Doc doesn't always keep up with me. He gawped. Then he stifled up.

"I'm afraid I don't quite follow you," he said.

"This hot, Spanish blood," I said. "I wouldn't want to have any guest of Tambay get herself into trouble through you."

Juddy giggled. Doc's polite vocabulary slumped. "You're crazy," he said.

"She certainly fell for you," I said. "Didn't I see a letter in the mail yesterday with an L. M. monogram?"

"For Loren?" Juddy said, staring at him.

"A note," Doc said. "Thanking me for the Wando material. Why not?"

"No reason by me," I said. "But why did she ask me when your birthday comes?"

She hadn't, but what of it? Did I say she had? I was out to produce an effect on Juddy. From the way she eyed Doc like he was somebody she'd never seen up to then, I judged that I'd succeeded.

"It isn't until spring," he said. "You're liable to get a solid gold suitcase or something," I told him. "You've certainly got something on the ball when it comes to the girls, Doc."

"Don't talk rot, Mom," he said. He was getting annoyed.

I pushed it. "I'm giving you the real McCoy," I said. "You've made a dent like the Grand Canyon. How, I don't know. Maybe you talked to her like she has brains."

"So she has," he said. Juddy almost jumped.

I said, "That's what you made her believe. Naturally she was flattered. You've taken advantage of her youth and innocence—mental, I mean. You've seduced the poor girl's mind, Doc. One of these days, I wouldn't wonder, she'll be giving birth to an idea and you'll be the father of it."

Juddy snorted, though I couldn't tell whether it was disdain or amusement. There was no doubt about Doc's look. That was 100 per cent pained. He said something about work and left.

City Salvage Committee Urges Every One To Collect Materials

Home Becomes Bit Necessary Now For Dates

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

Wonder if a good many parents aren't finding one consolation in the rationing the war has brought about. Time was when not a few mothers and fathers rather hated to have evening come knowing there was going to be a heated debate about whether Junior would have the car to entertain his date or Big Sister would get it to go to some meeting; with dad fuming because he wanted the car to go down town, and mother saying nothing about what she would like because the argument was already hot enough.

Answer Is "No"

Now there is no room for debate about the use of the car evenings except on special occasions. With the need of conserving the tires and with the time a new car can be purchased quite problematical, it is unnecessary for dad to say anything about taking the bus out of the garage.

It simply isn't being done unless it is an absolute necessity. As a consequence a good many parents are going to be more comfortable evenings than they have been for some years past.

Of course, the young folk are going to continue to date and they should, but Junior will find that he will have to spend more time in the home of the girl, and all parents will have to make up their minds to turn their homes into something of clubrooms, as was the case some 30 or 40 years ago.

Rugs will be rolled up more frequently than they have been in past years and the young folk will gather to dance to the tunes provided by the radio or a phonograph, if the house does not have a piano.

Everyone Can Help

It will mean more work of cleaning up afterwards, but the youngsters can turn in and help. Since they are having the fun they should be willing to pay the piper in a bit of extra effort.

Parlor games will come into their own once more and some of the young folk will learn that a card game of entertainment, that themselves have to arrange for, won't be such a drip of an evening as they would have thought two years ago.

Likely there will be more of music at home and more of talking. Young folk and adults may even find the value of a new mastering of the art of conversation. Believe it or not, an evening of talk can be fun.

Doubtless, too, the wise mothers will manage to have sandwich spread and bread on hand for these gatherings.

Is Pleasant Memory

Only the other day a young woman, talking about the fun she had when a youngster, recalled a home where there was always food on hand so the young visitors could make their own refreshments. The woman who planned for that wholesome feeding of the hungry youngsters had one daughter. She preferred that the girl bring her friends to her home rather than have her gallivanting all over town, so she stocked her cellar with all kinds of canned foods and the youngsters had the privilege of going down there and looking over the supply and deciding what they should have.

Today there are few women who have homes with such large cellars and even fewer whose budget will permit the purchase of supplies in such quantities, and rationing rulings would frown upon that, too.

However, it is not a great expense to provide a few sandwiches, hot chocolate or tea, or cookies, pop corn, or waffles for the small groups which the youngsters would invite to their homes.

Is Kind of Defense

It would be money well spent, and something in the nature of a real defense activity on the home front.

The youngsters will be the better, too, for having to get out and stretch their legs a bit in walking instead of always hopping into a car. It may even be possible that with no car in which to go speeding to Republic, Escanaba, or Munising of an evening the young folk may live at a bit less hurried tempo.

Wouldn't be surprised if, now that the shortage of tires makes it less easy to motor out to Presque Isle and park, we'll see a return of porch swings and hammocks swung between the trees out in the yard. Goodness gracious, we may even see a return of the mandolin, guitar and ukele with the young folk plunking away and singing as they did on languorous summer evenings when they had to find some entertainment for themselves and there were no cars to take them to the modern hot spots for dancing and a few drinks.

Work Is Good Medicine

And most people during the ensuing two or three years will have more duties than previously, much more that has to be done and less time for wondering what to do to fill the leisure hours.

Possibly we shall find here, as it was found in war-time England, that a good many folk who thought they had a great many things the matter with them, which no doctor seemed to be able to localize or cure, will discover that for a long stretch of time they have forgotten all those previous elusive aches and pains.

Rationing of sugar may improve the health of a considerable number of persons, to say nothing of the help it will be in achieving something of a stream-lined silhouette.

War is a beastly business, one in which human beings have to be shoved about and regimented, separated from their families, forced to change their way of living completely. However, we are in the beastly war and in it to a finish, and it is a bit comforting to know that there are a few good things gained by the circumstances of

INSURANCE MAN DIES

Get Rubber, Metals, Paper, Rags To Dealers And On Way To Industries As Quickly As Possible

America is just awakening to the fact that we have been a deplorably lax nation when it comes to thrift.

The National Government is working to establish salvage committees in all counties which will call upon all people to put into circulation, for defense purposes, materials which are badly needed. There are hundreds of thousands of tons of such material, the difficulty is in getting it into the channels where it will be utilized.

The following is the salvage committee for the city: O. Lindgren, Scout executive, chairman; W. M. Whitman, superintendent of schools and school defense program chairman; Miss Elba L. Morse, of the Northern Michigan Children's clinic, affiliated with Red Cross nursing services and other defense activities; J. H. Green, one of the dealers in waste materials; W. F. Armstrong and Mrs. C. C. Meyland, W. J. Weber is chairman of the county salvage committee.

Is Not A Drive

There seems to be some misunderstanding about the function of this committee. It is not designed to start a temporary drive or to combat any drives or campaigns for the collection of waste materials by other groups or organizations. Its task is one that will continue for the duration. It is delegated to see that now, and when the sporadic drives of various organizations are completed, that the committee will still go on reminding folk over and over that there is a need for tooth paste tubes, rubber, paper, rags, iron, tin, tin foil, tin cans.

Sleep 'Under The Stars' In 1942 Room

(From McCreery's, New York)

Stars and stripes and the smooth simplicity of light, hardware-free furniture stamp this 1942 bedroom, and any patriotic girl can turn her own hand to achieve one like it. Plain window cabinets like those shown are available in most department stores, and can be painted any color. Likewise, the small chest of drawers which is used effectively here as night-table. The American-designed, American-woven spread and drapes are sunfast and tubfast. White stars are scattered on shadowed backgrounds of light blue or rose or green or peach or wine.

Folk Cooperate Willingly On Milk Deliveries

People have a way of coming through in creditable fashion when the need arises.

One administrator said on the rationing of tires: "Civilian needs must give way to those of the military. * * * We've just started to conserve supplies."
Milk delivery of the city are seeking ways of conserving tires, trucks, gas and oil. They felt that cutting down on deliveries would go far toward making present equipment last, but the Northern Dairy company wondered how the customers would feel, would they be willing to cooperate?

Received Questionnaire
So the other morning housewives, who went out to bring in the milk, found a questionnaire which had spaces to check answers "yes" or "no" to the following questions:

"Have you ample refrigeration for a two days' supply of milk? If every other day delivery is started, would you purchase your milk from a store? Would you prefer daily delivery with no choice of dealer? If every other day delivery is started, milk trucks would probably leave plant at a later hour, possibly 8 a. m., would you prefer morning or afternoon delivery? Afternoon delivery would insure today's bottling be delivered today, at present today's bottling is delivered the day following, would you prefer the fresher milk? What are your comments on this delivery problem?"

All Willing To Cooperate
Out of some 700 replies to questionnaires received yesterday, there were a few who had inadequate facilities of refrigeration for a two days' supply.
Questionnaire after questionnaire was initiated O. K. Comments were on the theme:
"All any of us can say is do the

Dukes Makes Contribution To Red Cross

A baked ham dinner with all the trimmings was served from 11 in the morning until 2 Sunday afternoon in the Dukes community hall. Some 200 persons were served at tables which had a grouping of small American flags at the ends and as a centerpiece a bowl of daffodils, narcissus blooms, marigolds, and sprays of snowdrops, and with a large American flag displayed at the front of the hall.

There was some food left over from the dinner, and so on Wednesday night a dance was held in the hall and a nominal admission charged, which included the lunch of food left from dinner. (They are practicing the fine art of thrift in Dukes, using everything.)

Women Did The Work

The dinner was prepared and served by the women of Dukes assisted by some from Skandia township. But here comes the different and interesting angle to this story. Yes-

Recently organized Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church on Friday night, February 6, not tonight.

Baptist Women's Guild at 2:30 this afternoon in social rooms. Bring sheets or other white material for White Cross work. Potluck refreshments.

Dessert meeting of Elizabeth Bonar Missionary society of First Presbyterian church at 7 tonight in church parlors. Hostesses, Mrs. Victor Nelson, Mrs. A. J. Adrians, and Mrs. Fred Saunders.

Meetings

terday two women on the dinner committee came to Marquette and turned over to E. L. Pearce, chairman of the Marquette county Red Cross chapter, the money made at the dinner and the dance, $90.20.
The women, who arranged the dinner, are most grateful for the generous cooperation which they received from wholesalers of Marquette and Ishpeming. One can be sure, too, that Red Cross is appreciative of that sizable contribution.

Instructors Ready To Give First Aid Work

About 100 persons, who qualify as Red Cross first aid instructors, attended the dinner meeting held at the Northern Michigan Children's clinic Wednesday night. The Marquette women of the first aid class sponsored the dinner and the Ishpeming first aid class attended.

Dr. C. P. Drury presided at the meeting. Among those attending were E. L. Pearce who gave a short talk on Red Cross work; Mrs. W. P. Chamberlain, C. B. Hedgecock, who spoke briefly, Mayor Vining Bjork, of Ishpeming, who brought greetings from his town, and Dr. N. J. McCann, chairman of emergency units of the medical reserve, who discussed the various phases of the program and the important part assigned to first aid.

At the conclusion of the meeting 92 signed up for day and evening hours when they can give first aid instruction, and the instructors are ready to give the course as soon as interested folk register for the classes.

Get Spry now an' try this grand receipt today."

1 cake cup-pressed yeast

3 eggs, well beaten
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Crumble yeast into water and dissolve. Combine Spry, salt and 1/4 cup sugar in large bowl and add boiling water. Stir until Spry is dissolved, then cool until lukewarm. Add yeast mixture and blend. Add 2 1/2 cups flour and mix well.

Cover and let rise in a warm place until light and spongy (about 3 hours). Add raisins and dates and blend. Add beaten eggs and beat well. Stir in cinnamon, nutmeg, baking powder and remaining 1 1/2 cups sugar with remaining 2 cups flour. Add to yeast mixture and mix well.

Pour into two 8x5x3-inch Spry-coated loaf pans. Cover and let stand 1 1/2 hours. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 60 to 70 minutes. Make 2 loaves. Citron may be used instead of dates if desired.

Olive, Gold Host To Eau Claire Tonight, Stevens Point Saturday

Wildcats Have Respect For Both Quintets

The Northern Michigan Wildcats will meet the Eau Claire, Wis., State Teachers quintet in the college gymnasium at 8:15 tonight. A preliminary tilt between John D. Pierce and Alpha high school cagers will start at 7.

Coach C. B. Hedcock is expecting plenty of battle from the Eau Claire aggregation, which held his high-powered quintet to a 49-42 margin at Eau Claire on December 20.

That was about the time Northern was clipping off its victories by wide margins with such scores as 82-37 over Ferris Institute and 71-26 over Fort Brady. A 49-42 victory at that time almost seemed like a moral victory for the opposition.

Strenuous Weekend

For that reason, Hedcock and the Wildcats have plenty of respect for Eau Claire. Harold Anderson, Eddy Olds, Henry Lindeman, Norman Slough and Chauncey St. Germain will start the fray.

Northern, incidentally, is in for a strenuous weekend, far after battling Eau Claire here tonight it must tangle with an equally potent team, Stevens Point, here tomorrow night.

Coach Bill Zorn, of Eau Claire, reports he will start the following team tonight: Olson and McManamy at forwards; Leaman at center and Zueg and Lund at guards.

Olson, Lund and Leaman are the cagers who have been doing most of Eau Claire's scoring. Lund rapped in 14 against Northern in the first encounter, and Leaman came through with 13. As a whole, Eau Claire's team is fast, tall and rugged.

To date, Northern has won 10 games and lost only one.

Pierce Meets Alpha Five Here Tonight

The John D. Pierce cagers will attempt to get back into the win column tonight when they battle an invading Alpha five on the Northern Michigan College floor in a preliminary to the Northern-Eau Claire game. It is scheduled to start at 7.

Coach Vic Hurst has been drilling his boys hard and they are determined to avenge the 57-27 drubbing handed to them by Newberry last Friday. It will be the first time an Alpha team has played at Pierce in several seasons. Alpha has won four and lost five to date.

A Marquette man, Roy Brigrman, coached at Alpha until early this year. Brigrman was a basketball star at Pierce in his high school days. Dan Vennard is now coaching Alpha.

Coach Hurst will start Kieth Butler and Ted Olson at forwards, Tuominen at center, Ray Ahlsten and Lloyd Rose at guards. Ahlsten was elected captain for the night.

Alien Enemies Ordered To Leave Coast Area

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Exclusion of "alien enemies" from two areas deemed vital to the war effort was ordered tonight by Attorney General Biddle in the first of a series of steps which may soon clear German, Japanese and Italian nationals out of large sectors of California and neighboring states.

Biddle announced that, acting on the first recommendations of many to be made by the War Department, he was ordering citizens of the three countries with whom the United States is at war to leave and remain out of certain portions of San Francisco and Los Angeles. The effective date is Feb. 24.

At the same time, he disclosed that 27 additional areas, all less densely populated with enemy aliens, would be designated tomorrow, with numerous additional sectors to be added when the Navy department's recommendations come through.

Munising Man Captain In Marine Corps Reserve

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The promotion of 165 first lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve to the temporary grade of captain was announced today by the Navy.

Among those promoted, with their usual home addresses (present stations not given), were: Conrad S. Grove, III (retired), John P. McInnes, Russell W. Schmidt, Jr., and Frank W. Poland, Jr., all of Detroit, and John H. McMillan, Munising, Mich.

He's One Reason For MSC Success

Coach Ben Van Alstyne, of Michigan State college, has a resourceful basketball team this winter, and jumping Joe Gerard (above), senior forward from North Webster, Ind., contributes handsomely to its success. Gerard is a slim six-footer who is exceedingly slippery under the basket. (Associated Press Teletax)

Down Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(Wide World)—Spinning the sports dial: The Iowa PGA prexy is recommending that golf courses eliminate water hazards and rough for the duration. Why just the duration? If he puts a period after rough it would suit us fine. From our experience the water hazards and rough already have eliminated the golf courses. We can play a full round without finding a fairway. The tire shortage is going to make it tough on boxers in training. How are they going to do their road work? Your anti-time fighters and managers will tell you that the difference between present-day fighters and old-timers is that the old-timers really hit the road. Too many of the boys today don't mind going their 10 miles, as long as they can do it on a galleon. They're growing top-sided from keeping one foot on the gas.

Magnet for Accidents
Note that Buddy Baer is asking $150,000 for injuries suffered in an auto accident. Well, that's probably what they think they were in when Joe Louis gets through with them, at that. Fighters seem to be a magnet for auto or motorcycle accidents. Gus Lesnevich has been in a couple. Pat Comiskey and Lew Jenkins have been sent to drydock on their two-wheeled nags buckled on them, and Young Stribling was injured fatally while piloting a motorcycle.

Salute Players in Service
The new Boston Red Sox spring roster, just out, carries pictures of four players now in the service, along with a written salute from the club officials. The four are Mickey Harris, Al Blair, Earl Johnson and Larry Powell. Don Guttridge has been sold to the Browns after a year in the Pacific Coast League. We had a hunch the little Pepper Martin No. 2 wouldn't stay in the minors. His speed and spirit are assets to any club. The Newark club announces it has sold a player to Kansas City, which means the Yankees are just shifting their loose change from one pocket to another.

Play With Mamma's Clubs
Gene Sarazen suggests that two-ball foursomes might be a means of offsetting the prospective golf ball shortage. And that husbands and wives use one golf bag between them in view of the caddy shortage. It's a safe bet that mamma's clubs would be the ones in the bag. Sarazen, along with Chick Bowen, New Haven high school coach, were the recipients of gold keys awarded annually by the Connecticut Sports Writers Alliance to sports figures who have a major place in the state's sports history. The Alliance, a splendid organization whose annual presentation banquet jures hundreds of fans, in its three-year history has honored Connie Mack, Bobby Jones, George Weiss and Louis "Kid" Kaplan, among others.

Maybe It's a Good Idea
Not being a professional rule rouser, we'll leave the methods of raising funds to those who know the business. However, we'll pass along the suggestion of Dr. James M. Wood, president of Stephen college, Columbia, Mo., who proposes that a 10-cent defense stamp be added to the admission price of every sporting event. Dr. Wood figures that a man who can afford a ball game or a fight of any other athletic entertainment can afford the extra dime for his country.

Detroit Seeks To Enlist To Avenge Death of Son

DETROIT, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Walter J. Willis, 46, of Detroit, today sought to enlist in the United States Navy to avenge the death of his son, Ensign Walter M. Willis, of the Naval Air Corps, killed in action at Pearl Harbor Dec. 7.

He told recruiting officers he had served in the United States merchant marine in 1934, spending several years in the Far East, including some construction work at Pearl Harbor.

Marine officers said Willis passed his preliminary physical tests and was likely to be accepted.

Pontiac City Employees Given Pay Increase

PONTIAC, Mich., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Pontiac's city commission will meet tomorrow night to approve the 1942 budget containing a $35,000 salary increase for city employees, an item which today postponed, for the time being at least, a threatened strike of municipal workers.

The strike, originally scheduled for last Sunday, was called off by Lawrence Blythe, field representative for the State, County and Municipal Workers of America (CIO), pending a meeting next Monday at which union officials will study how the increase is to be spread.

Approximately 300 city employees are members of the union.

ALMA DROPS BASEBALL
ALMA, Mich., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Because of the war emergency Alma college plans to drop baseball, Athletic Director Gordon Macdonald announced today, although customary programs will be maintained next spring in track, tennis and golf. The baseball program will be replaced by all-campus softball participation.

National Mine Host To Republic Tonight

REPUBLIC, Jan. 29.—The Republic high school basketball team will journey to National Mine Friday night to take on Coach Pat Gleason's Miners in a return game. The locals defeated the Miners, 28-14, in their first game of the season.

Coach Gustafson's cagers dropped a thriller to Michigamme here Wednesday evening, 28-26, and are in tip-top shape. Probable starters are Keskitalo and LaForias, guards; Gjeers, center, and E. Peterson and Isaacson, forwards.

Eliot, Former Football Star, Illini Coach

By Earl Hilligan

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Ray Eliot, who had $8 in his pockets and the ambition to play under Bob Zuppke when he came to Illinois as a freshman 13 years ago, today was named head Illini football coach.

Head line coach last season, Eliot's promotion ended a long and controversial chapter in Illinois' football history — one marked by ouster moves against Zuppke and highlighted by the old Dutchman's sudden resignation last November after 29 seasons as Illini mentor.

Eliot, who overcame the handicap of poor eyesight to star for Zuppke as a lineman and also as a baseball catcher, was chosen Tuesday night by the choice was conveyed to President A. C. Willard and the university trustees are scheduled to formally approve Eliot next month.

A native of Brighton, Mass., Eliot worked his way through Illinois, being graduated in 1932. He spent five years at Illinois college in Jacksonville and during the last four he served as head football coach, his teams winning 23 games, losing only five and tying one. In 1937 he joined the Illini coaching staff. He is married and has one daughter.

Selection of Eliot, whose salary will be $6,000, ended a search begun last November after Zuppke's resignation. During recent weeks the field reportedly narrowed down to Eliot, Burt Ingwersen, head line coach at Northwestern, and James Phelan, former Washington mentor.

Sport at Low Ebb There
Eliot takes over the Illinois post as the lowest ebb in Illinois football history. During 1940 and 1941 Illinois lost 10 straight Western conference games. Since 1938 the football situation had been marked by controversy, with the trustees meeting last July and dismissing Wendell S. Wilson as athletic director and giving the 63-year-old Zuppke a contract only for 1941.

Then, four days before Illinois' final game last fall, Zuppke resigned. The same day, the trustees named Doug Mills athletic director. Zuppke was retired on a pension of $4,000 annually. He termed the selection of Eliot a "wise choice."

Eliot said "this is a dream come true."

Later Mills announced the appointment of Ralph E. Fletcher, head freshman coach, as varsity head football mentor, a position held for several years by Mills.

Fletcher played halfback on Illinois championship elevens of 1918 and 1919 and won a basketball letter in 1919.

He has been on the Illinois coaching staff the last three years.

Bay City Youth Honored; Died in Rescue Attempt

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Robert C. Covino, 19-year-old Bay City, Mich., youth who died August 14, 1939, in a vain attempt to save a 20-year-old girl from drowning in Saginaw river, was cited for heroism Thursday by the Carnegie Hero Fund commission. A bronze medal is to be presented his father, Joseph A. Covino, Bay City.

According to the Carnegie rescuee the young man plunged from a bridge at night into water 24 feet deep on being told Eleanor E. Gatzka, his companion a few moments earlier, had disappeared from the bridge at that point. His body was found 15 minutes later, about 15 feet from that of Miss Gatzka. Neither could be revived.

Eighteen acts of heroism, in which three of the heroes lost their lives to save others, were recognized by the commission.

Awards were made for rescues from drowning, fire, a train and electric shock and occurred in 13 states.

In addition to medals, pensions totaling $1,140 a year were granted to dependents in two cases; disablement benefits amounting to $3,300 were given two injured heroes and awards of $4,500 for educational and other worthy purposes were made in 12 cases.

Mather Cage Five on Home Floor Tonight

MUNISING, Jan. 29.—Coach Bob Villeneuve's Mather high school basketball team will run up against another Class B foe Friday night when Manistique comes here for a game in the Mather gymnasium.

With a record of two wins out of seven games, during the first half of the season, the Orange and Black mentor expects his boys to "snap into action." His squad, which includes four full-fledged veterans and a few who saw less varsity play before the current campaign opened, has shown real promise several times, but good playing has not been consistent enough. Gravaert and Gwinn were the opponents who felt the Mather lash.

Against Sault Ste. Marie last Friday night the Algiers gave a weak demonstration of shooting and ball handling and free-throw scoring. Whether a week of hard drill has improved them will be told tomorrow night.

The varsity game will start at 8:15 and a preliminary will begin at 7:15.

Gas Supply Situation In East Serious

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Although he side-stepped discussion of any gasoline rationing, Interior Secretary Ickes said today the petroleum supply situation in the east was becoming serious because of the sinking of tanker ships and requisitioning of such vessels for war service.

The secretary told his press conference he might revive a proposal to build the world's largest pipeline system, an $80,000,000 conduit from Texas to Bayonne, N. J., to meet the emergency.

Priorities on steel for this line were denied last fall by the supply and priorities board, despite pleas by the coordinator.

Check Tire Rationing
Meanwhile hundreds of Federal agents today began checking up on alleged violations of automobile tire rationing regulations.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson said inspections of tire dealers' stocks and records had been undertaken by OPA field representatives and about 500 inspectors borrowed from the Labor department's wage hour division.

The inquiry may mean bad news for dealers who have sold new tires or tubes to persons ineligible to obtain them under the rationing plan. Henderson has authority to deny replacement stocks to such dealers and, if the investigators find that a dealer has made false inventory or other statements to OPA, the dealer can be held liable to fine or imprisonment.

Inspection Of All Dealers
Although the Federal agents will give first attention to dealers against whom complaints have been filed, a routine inspection will be made of all dealers, large and small.

Henderson said dealers would be required to explain any authorized transfers of new tires or tubes and that cases of deliberate violation would be referred to the OPA enforcement division.

Detroit Hockey Star Honored

Sydney Harris Howe (above), veteran player with the Detroit, Mich., Red Wings, was honored last night at a "Syd Howe Night" before the game with the Chicago Blackhawks at Detroit. This year he has scored 12 goals and made 11 assists. He plays center now after several years at left wing.

Shipments of Coal To Superior Ports Higher

CLEVELAND, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Shipments of American bituminous coal increased in 1941 to Canada and American ports on Lake Superior, but less was delivered to Lake Michigan American ports.

Of 49,709,416 net tons of American bituminous handled on the Great Lakes last year, Canada received 10,886,081 tons, or 21.9 per cent of the total, according to the annual report of the Ore and Coal Exchange. That figure compared with 8,778,335 tons, or 18.84 per cent in 1940.

Shipments to all American lake ports were 38,823,335 tons compared with 37,804,089 the previous year.

Lake Superior ports received 9,832,915 tons, or 19.78 per cent, compared with 8,273,605 in 1940. Shipments delivered to Lake Michigan ports totaled 13,055,460 tons, or 26.26 per cent, compared with 14,505,332 tons, or 31.15 per cent in 1940.

Howe Repays Detroit Fans; Beats Hawks

DETROIT, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The veteran Syd Howe bagged goals in the second and third periods tonight to give the Detroit Red Wings a 2-0 National Hockey league victory over the Chicago Blackhawks before 7,164 spectators. It was the third shutout of the season for goalie Johnny Mowers.

The 30-year-old Howe, who received tribute from Detroit fans with a night in his honor, made mockery of the tradition that his performance for the occasion would be a poor one. If Sam Lo Presti hadn't had such a spectacular night in the Chicago nets, Howe possibly would have had at least one more score.

In the second period Howe got his stick on a shot from the blue line by Jack Stewart and deflected it into the nets. That would have been enough, but midway of the final period Syd connected again, this time on a pass from the boards by Joe Carveth.

The victory enabled Detroit to maintain fifth place by half a game margin over the Brooklyn Americans, who defeated the Boston Bruins. It also gave Detroit a 3-2 edge over the Hawks this season.

Before the game Detroit fans presented Howe with a piano and assorted gifts for seven years in a Red Wing uniform. He tickled the ivories at center ice to the delight of the fans and then tickled them even more with his game-winning goals.

In their defeat the Hawks lost ground in the fight for third place with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Leafs Rout Canadiens

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs strengthened their hold on third place in the National Hockey league tonight by beating Montreal's last-place Canadiens, 7-3, in a wild, rough game featured by a free-for-all fight in the third period.

Bruins Lose To Americans

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A depleted Boston hockey team tonight lost a close 5-4 National Hockey league game to the Brooklyn Americans after fighting from being in a three-goal deficit to tie the score early in the third period.

Western Michigan Five Easily Whips Washab

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Setting a fast pace at the start, Western Michigan's Broncos never let up and registered an easy 51 to 38 basketball victory tonight over Washab, Ind., college.

The Broncos had a 19 to 6 lead at the end of 10 minutes and stretched it to 24 to 16 at halftime. They maintained their point-making pace in the second half and had a 40 to 18 advantage when the reserves were called upon to finish.

Harold Gensichen, Western's sophomore forward, topped the scorers with 17 points. Bill Dodd, guard, and Forward Jim Greve led the visitors with nine points apiece.

Undefeated Palmer Five Plays Champion

Bake Sale On Saturday For Sports Club

ISHPEMING, Jan. 29.—"Bake and buy" will be the slogan for IshpeMING's housewives Saturday, February 14, as the fourth annual community bake sale is sponsored for the benefit of the Winter Sports Club.

Mrs. Edgar Wahlman is general chairman, with Mrs. Ed Fisk as co-chairman. Sundblad Brothers again have generously cooperated by making their salesroom on Cleveland Avenue and Second streets available for the event.

Although Mrs. Wahlman has not had the opportunity to consider details of the work, she plans an organization similar to that of the past, with a house to house canvass for contributions for this event, regarded as the most unique of its kind in the state.

Expenses Continue

There may be some who wonder why the winter sports club needs the money when its program has been so sharply curtailed because of weather conditions throughout January.

"Expenses continue" said Clifford Sundblad, president, today, "whether there are people on the area or not. We had to anticipate winter activity and had a great deal of work done."

"Then, too, we have kept the clubhouse open, and a building light that cannot be heated and lighted for nothing. We have also purchased sound equipment for the benefit of skaters at the municipal rink."

Aids Defense Work

The winter sports club also has the distinction of organizing the first Red Cross first aid training class, which was later brought into the civilian defense program, the clubhouse has been available, free of charge, to civilian defense groups.

"We also have made the area available for the various groups that find it convenient and comfortable. We assumed part of the duties of entertaining those who were here in connection with the inauguration of the "Peninsula 400," the North Western streamliner.

'Smeltania' Reports Many Excellent Catches

BOYNE CITY, Jan. 29.—P— "Smeltania," the annual fishing boom town on the ice here, reports many excellent catches of smelt, with some veteran fishermen averaging a catch of 200 a night.

The town is composed of shanties and the fish are caught through holes in the ice.

The American public pays over two billion dollars annually for electric energy.

Negaunee Mine Duplicates Test of Thirty Years Ago

ISHPEMING, Jan. 29.—In the "Thirty Years Ago" column of the Mining Journal today appeared an item that could well have been a spot news story of today. The item read:

"The skip hoist at the Negaunee mine was tested yesterday and worked perfectly, although there was no load on it. In a day or so the cage hoist will be tested and the electrical machinery will be put in working order."

Exactly 30 years to the day that this test was made, they turned on the motor-generator of the hoisting equipment at the Mather Mine, of the Negaunee Mine company, the same organization which installed electrification of the Negaunee mine.

Wifred Sykes, president of Inland Steel, then consulting engineer for Westinghouse, supervised installation of the electrical equipment at the Negaunee mine. It was the first electrification of a mine in this country, a momentous achievement.

Now—30 years later, electrification of mines is common practice, and many other methods not in use at that time, are now general. But the Negaunee Mine company, with the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company as the operating partner, continues to pioneer, to take the leadership. Its great new mine, the Mather, northeast of the city, still in process of development, will be the largest underground property in the iron ore industry.

Shaft sinking is down below the 1,100 mark, buildings, except for minor interior refinements, are completed, hoisting equipment is being put in place and tested.

Everything is being put in readiness so that the changeover from temporary to permanent equipment can be made without loss of time or work.

L'Anse

Red Cross Funds—All townships in Baraga county have raised the quotas allocated to them in the Red Cross drive. The report has been filed with the board of supervisors and with Mrs. Kate Kelsey, treasurer of the Baraga county Red Cross chapter.

Plant Force Reduced—With approximately 40 men laid off last week the Ford sawmill has gone on a four-day week with the prospect of further layoffs because of the shortage of logs from contractors. Timber Workers Union officials and the logging contractors have been unable to come to an agreement regarding wages. All cutting in the woods has stopped and the last loads are expected to reach the plant this week because contractors declare they cannot meet the demands of the union.

Draftees To Leave—Milton Lydman, Harold J. Bordeleau and Philip Borger, of L'Anse; Arvid Rasmussen, of Baraga, and Ilmar Kovala, of Watton, will leave here February 10 for an Army induction center. Foucault Buys Station—The business and building formerly known as Buster's Sales and Service on Railroad street have been purchased by Philip Foucault, proprietor of the L'Anse Motor Co., Chevrolet dealers. The transaction includes the agencies for electric refrigerators, electric stoves, gas ranges, washers, mangles and sewing machines. Mr. Foucault will move his Chevrolet agency to the new location by February 2. He opened the Chevrolet sales agency on Broad street in 1928 in partnership with Thomas Loftquist under the name of the L'Anse Motor Co. In 1938, he purchased the interest of Mr. Loftquist. Mr. Cote, proprietor of Buster's Sales and Service, has been in business since 1924, opening a repair shop and later taking the agency for Chrysler and Plymouth cars and electrical appliances. He discontinued the Chrysler agency several months ago. Mr. and Mrs. Cote plan to move to Detroit.

Brown Orders Survey Of Department Grants

LANSING, Jan. 29.—P—Auditor General Vernon J. Brown ordered a survey today to support recommendations which may be made to the legislature at its special session February 9 for increased departmental appropriations.

He said he would recall to the legislature that a 1941 law forbids departments to exceed their appropriations, and that some did not have sufficient money to finish the fiscal year.

If the law-makers do not repeal the prohibition on deficits or provide more money, Brown asserted, his office will not allow any agency to "run in the red."

However, Brown threw cold water on reports a state fiscal emergency was probable or that payless paydays awaited state employees. Departmental budgets are sufficiently elastic to allow transfers to meet payrolls, he pointed out.

Ice Fishing Made Safe By Cold Weather

LANSING, Jan. 29.—P—Lowered temperatures should restore ice conditions to the point where winter fishing is safe in most sections of Michigan, the state conservation department's weekly fishing forecast reported today. Fishing, itself, has been improved generally by recent mild weather, it said.

Excellent lake trout bobbing off Munising was reported, while Lake Charlevoix was producing perch and smelt and the Atlanta district was boasting limit catches of pike.

Report by districts included: Gogebic - Ontonagon — Warm weather has spoiled fishing in some portions. The best prospects are Lake Gogebic, Lac Vieux Desert, Imp Lake, Bond Falls basin and the Cisco Chain, where walleyes and pike are being taken. The Bond Falls is yielding some perch.

Prospects Good in County

Baraga-Keweenaw—Inland fishing at a standstill, while Lake Superior ice is reported unsafe. Cold weather should remedy conditions quickly.

Marquette-Alger—Northern pike prospects good on Lake Independence near Big Bay. Fair catches reported on Sand, Johnson, Silver, Harlow and Kawbawgam.

Chippewa—Spearing for pike and muskies fair on Munuskung bay, herring spearing good at Round lake near Brimley, pike spearing fair on East and Big Trout lakes and perch fishing good at the Snows.

Schoolcraft-Luce — Light whitefish catches reported on South Manistique lake. Perch fishing fair on North Manistique lake and good on Indian lake.

Rationing of Auto Sales Starts February 9

LANSING, Jan. 29.—P—Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, said today he has been authorized by Ernest Kanzler, chief of the automotive branch of the war production board, to announce that the rationing of automobile sales will start February 9.

At that time, Kelly said, purchasers may obtain possession of cars which had been purchased from dealers but not delivered before the Federal order of January 1 forbade either sale or delivery.

100,000 Gallons of Oil Destroyed in Fire

LIMA, Ohio, Jan. 29.—P—A spectacular fire destroyed the loading rack and an estimated 100,000 gallons of motor oil, gasoline and kerosene at the bulk plant of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio here today.

Lee Inskeep, truck driver, said he was loading his truck at the plant when a minor explosion started a blaze which spread to the stored products.

C. A. Doyle, the company's Lima district sales manager, estimated loss would reach $100,000.

Dress Plant Awarded U. S. Defense Job

NEGAUNEE, Jan. 29 — Negau- nee's part in national defense pro- duction swung today from raw material, iron ore, to finished prod- ucts. Officials of the Martha-Lillian corporation, manufacturers of cot- ton dresses, announced that the corporation has been given a con- tract for manufacture of a "non- clothing" article of nature of which could not be disclosed. Result of Long Effort Officials of the company heralded the contract as a "bright spot" in its history. The assignment came after William Morrison of Chicago, spent considerable time conferring with Governmental agencies. Mayor Leslie W. Rich- ards, through Senator Vandenberg and Congressman Frank Hook, worked several weeks on the con- tract and a short time ago a Fed- eral inspector made a survey of the plant and facilities. "It is our belief that we will turn entirely to defense work," Morri- son said, when he informed Mayor Richards that the contract had been granted. There is strong possibility that the firm "has its foot inside the Governmental contract door" and that additional and larger orders for war materials will come in the way, it was stated. Specifications for several articles are being studied by company officials and bids are being prepared on those which can be made in the Negaunee factory. Plant Closed Since December Dress production at the plant stopped before Christmas for the usual holiday and inventory period and it was planned to open the plant soon after the first of Janu- ary. The company had sufficient material available and orders to last for several weeks, but it was deemed advisable to delay opening of the factory until completion of negotiations for the Government contract. Realignment of plant facilities preparatory to starting production on the defense order is underway.

Upper Peninsula Arson Suspected

IRON MOUNTAIN, Jan. 29 — Fire believed to be of incendiary origin, the sixth in Iron Mountain since last August, at 8:45 Wednes- day morning, caused damage esti- mated at from $200 to $300 at a residence at 711 East D street, owned by Waldemar Tauscheck. An odor of kerosene about the house and discovery of an empty contain- er indicated that the fire may have been set, according to Mike Scoultz, fire chief. The residence has been occupied since the Christ- mas holidays, according to relat- ives of Tauscheck, who is now liv- ing in Menominee. Pioneer Educator Dies IRON MOUNTAIN, Jan. 29 — Mrs. Sol S. Scott, 66, pioneer Iron Mountain educator, one of a group of three which organized the first high school course and a resident of the city for 50 years, died Wednes- day at her home. A graduate of Vassar college and holding a masters' degree from Columbia university, Mrs. Scott was brought to Iron Mountain in 1892 by the late J. R. McLean, secretary of the school board, to assist E. F. Abernethy, then superintendent of schools. She was named principal of the Ludington school and set up its curriculum. A year later she was appointed principal of the Ludington school and formed its schedule. In 1894 she was appointed principal of the Hulst school, and with Clarence Green and Miss La- verne Smith, drafted the first cur- riculum for the Hulst. Mrs. Scott was active in development of ora- torical and declamatory contests and taught pre-medical and ad- vanced physiology courses. It was through her efforts that the high school was placed on the list of ac- credited university high schools.

Commission Holds Hearings

ESCANABA, Jan. 29 — An applica- tion for permission to operate between Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie was made here yesterday by the Superior Bus company before the Michigan public service com- mission. In the second of a two-day session of hearings here at the courthouse. On Tuesday, when the hearings opened, the Grey- hound Bus company had made applica- tion to operate on a similar route. The Flanagan Brothers, Marquette truckers, asked permis- sion to transport the goods of a Marquette chain department store within a 50-mile radius of that city. The Lock City Transportation company, of Sault Ste. Marie, sought extension of its present li- censed route. Permission to haul freight between Lake Linden and Houghton was asked by the Ameri- can Railway Express company. Everett Randstrom, Menominee trucker, asked for the right to haul gravel and road building material. Commission Chairman John J. O'Hara said that decisions on the applications would be made in Lan- sington within a few days.

Immunization of 750,000 In Michigan Considered

LANSING, Jan. 29 — P — Immu- nation of 750,000 more Michigan children against diphtheria and smallpox to prevent epidemics aris- ing from shifts in population during the war effort or from the evacua- tion of cities was considered today by Dr. H. Allen Moyer, state health commissioner. Dr. Moyer said he had asked Dr. Frank van Schoick, Jackson, chair- man of the child welfare commit- tee of the Michigan State Medical society, to discuss the proposal with him next Wednesday. The plan will be taken before the commit- tee that night, he said. Immediate expenditure of unex- pended balances available to im- munize all children under nine months of age has been recom- mended by the children's bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor, Dr. Moyer said.

News Behind The News

By Ray Tucker WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 — The Roberts report pilloried Admiral Kimmel and General Short as the worst disaster inflicted on a major power since Trafalgar. But the document carried undertones which assess basic blame on the executive, legislative, naval and military highrungs, on the Ameri- can people—and even on the Su- preme Court.

Every neophyte realizes that the elderly Secretaries Knox and Stimson, who won no honors as alert and masterly tacticians, were named for political reasons. They were adopted by the Democrats in 1940 in order to damage the GOP's presidential prospects. A silently resentful personnel has grouched a year because Admiral Kimmel was elevated over 46 senior offi- cers as a long-time White House favorite. He was FDR's aide in World war days.

Cordell Hull was exonerated from any direct connection with the calamity. Nevertheless he in- sisted on a Marquis of Queensberry respect for the rules, although he knew he was dealing with wasters. The Army and Navy were warned against any action permitting history books to indict the U. S. as the aggressor. The armed forces were instructed to turn the other cheek until after the bell rang and punching began. The gentle attitudes of the Secre- tary of State also hamstrung agencies charged with combating sub- versive activities in Hawaii. When the Supreme Court's 7-1 vote de- nied our Intelligence and FBI agents the right to tap wires, it blocked effective interception of enemy phone, cable or radio mes- sages. (Even Mr. Roberts voted for that decision.) So we obtained our data on Tokyo's warlike prepa- rations from the British, Chinese and Koreans, who were at their listening posts.

Huge appropriations for fortify- ing Pacific outposts were not asked in time. When Congress fi- nally decided to Gibraltarize Guam, Mr. Hull nipped the move in the bud. He refused to let the Imperial High- ness. Even had vast funds been requested long ago, Capitol Hill would not have granted them for fear of popular sentiment against war, high taxes and other sacrifices. Read between the lines the conclusions hint that December was a tragic alarm clock for all of us.

DOCKS — How Treasury agents swung into action to prevent ship- ments of strategic materials to Far Eastern areas endangered by the Japanese attack provides one of the most dramatic stories of the con- veyance of State estimated that they may have prevented millions of dollars' worth of valuable goods from falling into hostile hands. Secretary Morgenthau's men in the fund-freezing and export con- trol divisions got news of the war's outbreak while on a golf course, at church, in the movie houses or at home, as did many Americans. They sensed the need for im- mediate counter-measures and rushed to their desks on Sunday afternoon. First they checked "customs cards" to learn what cargoes to Hong Kong, the Philippines, Thailand and the Malay states had been ap- proved or were scheduled for early departure. Then they requested 30 banks to report on transactions which they were handling through cash deposits, letters of credit, sight drafts, etc. Next they asked all Federal Reserve institutions to canvass local concerns. They sent a fourth warning to corporations which deal directly with foreign firms and whose business relation- ships are not reflected in bank ac- counts. Meanwhile the Navy and Maritime commission recalled 14 vessels already enroute to the dan- ger zone.

Within a few days Washington had a complete inventory of ar- ticles destined for countries in the sweep of the enemy's southward advance. All warlike materials, whether on the docks, in process of manufacture or simply on order, were frozen. The SPAB was notified where the metals, machinery and clothing could be picked up and the Wallace organization passed the information along to the naval or military agency which wanted it.

BEATS — The smarter Republicans at Washington have fashioned a plausible explanation for their party's election triumphs in in- dustrial areas where factories are operating around the clock and workers' envelopes are fatter than at any period since 1929. They see nothing phenomenal in this po- litical paradox. The Democrats swept from victory to victory when millions of voters were dependent on relief money dished out by the WPA, PWA, NYA, CCC, etc. According to GOP reasoning, people were afraid to vote against the check writers fearing they might be per- ceived as their ingratitude became known to the ward bosses. But now the folks back home are earn- ing their own living by doing a real day's work. They cannot be fired by a foreman so long as they do their stuff. They have won back their spirit of self-reliance, independence and confidence. They know that the Government needs the things their hands and minds can create more than they need Federal largess. It has always been axiomatic that when bad times descend upon the country, the people turn out the Administration in power and these men usually were the con- servative politicians. The voters switch to the Democrats for deliv- erance. But when prosperity re- turns, they invariably entrust it to the keeping of the McKinleys, Hoovers and Coolidges. National Chairman "Joe" Martin is making no bets but he has a suspicion that history is getting ready to stage an encore.

HELP — The Japs' overnight adaptation of the only technique that promised success in their sweep against our warships at Pearl Harbor demonstrates that Uncle Sam is not fighting a nation of amateurs. It convinces our naval experts of their cunning and resourcefulness.

Our vessels were berthed or an- chored in water of about 50-foot depth. Had the enemy dropped ordinary torpedo bombs, the mis- siles would have plunged so per- pendicularly that they would have dived harmlessly into the mud of the bottom. The Tokyo admiralty, however, redesigned the weapons to fit the need. It equipped them with fanlike arrangements so that, once they had fallen a few feet below the surface, they flattened out horizontally and struck our craft in vulnerable spots.

The first use of this device oc- curred less than a year ago. The British, planning a raid in shallow Italian ports, invented the two-direction explosive. The initiative Nipponese mastered it promptly, for the process required months to change over. And it is a winning bet that there was no help from John Bull.

New York

By Albert N. Leman ZONE — New York commercial interests, which have intimate con- tacts with South Americans and whose members read all the im- portant publications from below the Rio Grande, reveal this inter- esting sidelight: Our Latin neigh- bors have a distinct "Dakar psy- chosis." Nearly all of them can re- peat from memory exactly how long a modern plane takes to fly from the French port to the bulge of Brazil. If another AEF like the one which has just reached Ire- land should debar in Africa scarcely a dissenting voice would be heard in Buenos Aires, Valparaiso, or Rio de Janeiro.

Hence to them the new climax to the Battle of Libya assumes great importance and the fate of the west coast of the Dark contin- ent is of supreme concern. This consciousness of their proximity de- veoped in the days before the war when they watched the ease with which Italian, Spanish and French aircraft plied the short route across the narrowest part of the Atlantic. It has increased as statesmen em- phasized how close the Luftwaffe really is.

To Russians and British, Europe is the vital zone; to Australians, Dutch and Chinese, only the Far East matters; but to those at the southern end of our hemisphere, Africa is the critical theater. Self- interest still is one of the great facts of national life but it causes many problems for those whose duty is to work out the grand strategy of this world war.

THREW — The impact of the Roberts report compels realization that armed forces are not a rowdy baseball team in which diamond prima donnas can wrangle all the way from center field to the show- ers—or worse, can coolly assume that any phase of action not explic- itly one's own is "none of my busi- ness." Influential members of the New York community are aghast. They knew we lacked men and ma- terial; they never suspected that also we lacked teamwork between both branches of the service — and Washington.

Want of wholehearted contact between Downing street and Halg's armies in the field raised havoc in the last war. The British Cabinet had almost no liaison with the Czarist staff. Lord Kitchener was drowned at sea when he tried to meet his fighting partners. Unified command under Foch came only when the icy breath of defeat was on the necks of the democracies. Failure of the admiral concerned to get the proper cooperation from the air force doomed the Repulse and the Prince of Wales, whose ir- remediable loss is the prime cause of the present Singapore peril.

The recently opened secret re- ports of Lord Gort show that the disastrous absence of unity between the BEF and the French threw away the war on the continent in 1940. Only once did the British command receive written orders from General Billeto. When the actual evacuation of Dunkirk be- gan, the English leader "had no idea what plans either General Blanchard or Abrial had in mind."

There seems to be no such abysmal incoherence in Tokyo.

BED — "Going—going—" Soon silk will be "gone," a fact realisti- cally forecast by the latest official trade figures that shipments of hosiery dropped 78 per cent in No- vember. Ere long one must look through museum rather than at pretty limbs to see the finely spun fabric. Scarcity of other essentials has stimulated attempts at domestic production.

But experts of the U. S. Depart- ment of Agriculture hold no such hope for the gossamer substance. The cost of hand labor to tend the worms and the expense of the reel- ing process, whereby cocoons are unraveled, will prohibit this meth- od. Substitutes are not entirely satisfactory for parachutes and powder bags. China could send us small shipments of the genuine stuff by transport airplanes if these could be found. Five thousand pounds would help greatly in air- craft accessory factories.

Mrs. Winston Churchill patrioti- cally appears in public wearing laddered stockings. But these too are nearly out. Then salvage man- ufacturers will transform worn leg coverings into processed silk blankets, a new discovery. Natural products like this material and wool are cold-resistant, a charac- teristic not found in synthetic fi- bers as the Germans in winter fighting learned to their sorrow. The new bedspreads are light and convey the atmosphere of French boudoir luxury.

SNORTED — The President's de- termination not to permit John L. Lewis to hog the glory of achiev- ing cooperation among working- men has a unique reaction in New York labor gatherings. Insiders say FDR's reluctance plays into the hands of the radicals and they cite the case of the CIO victory board as an example.

One of the three top men is Jul- ius Emspak, secretary and Com- munist party whp of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union. He is a veteran Red who came up from Unity league days. The Dies committee has frequently exposed his activi- ties yet Philip Murray is forced to place him at the important policy table, together with Joseph Curran, one of the four alternates. The latter is the president of the Interna- tionale - singing Maritime union which, until the night Germany jumped the Bolsheviks, had picketed the White House in protest against lend-lease.

While Philip had the support of John L., he could afford an inde- pendent stand against this bloc and the one under the control of Sid- ney Hillman. But now he is likely to become their prisoner, accord- ing to Manhattanites who know the wheels within the wheels. Genuine labor peace is a scant pos- sibility under this setup because the old-timers in the AFL will not countenance Hillman and the left wing elements have even less use for Mr. Green's stalwarts. For in- stance, President Thompson of the United Automobile Workers, one of Murray's three- man board, snorted, "I am willing to cooperate with the Federal or jurisdictional disputes but I am still unwilling to sit down with a bunch of racketeers."

Skaters Give Exhibitions At Coronation

NEGAUNEE, Jan. 29 — Miss Mary Garceau was crowned Negaunee winter queen last night in coronation ceremonies at the Arena rink, Mayor Leslie W. Richards presenting her with royal robes and crown before a large crowd.

On a platform constructed of wood the dais and throne were placed, Miss Carol Johnson, Negaunee winter queen of 1940-41, was seated on the throne. Miss Mary Garceau was attended by two maids of honor, Miss Dorothy Dun- ston and Miss Bernice Thompson.

The program opened with re- marks by E. H. Moehrke, president of the Negaunee Skating club, and was followed by the lighting of the throne. The throne was banked at the front with evergreens and the background at each side was con- structed of evergreens with a large "V" at each side. One "V" was illuminated with red lights and the other with blue lights with a large white panel directly in back of the dais and throne. A color wheel reflected on it.

Skating Exhibitions

The Skating club ensemble, next on the program, gave an exhibition of precision skating, following which Miss Garceau and her at- tendants were escorted to the plat- form by a color guard of the Ameri- can Legion. Preceding Miss Gar- ceau were skiers, skaters, tobog- ganists and archers. Following the crowning of Queen Mary, the official proclamation by Mayor Richards was read and club members gave solo exhibitions on skates. Among them was Miss Elaine Hill who last year won the Upper Peninsula title in her class.

Scrap Ancient Autos, Junk Dealers Advised

LANSING, Jan. 29 — P — The state salvage committee today re- commended that ancient automob- iles in hands of junk dealers be scrapped immediately, to stimulate citizens generally to greater effort in salvaging metals needed for the war.

Kenneth M. Burns, committee chairman, filed a report with the state defense council that many dealers already have adopted the plan he proposed—the scrapping of cars manufactured in 1934 or prior years. He asserted, however, that the public would consider wreckers were uncooperative until "auto graveyards" along the highway have vanished.

The report said that while scrap collection by organizations such as Boy Scouts, 4-H clubs and Junior Chambers of Commerce should be encouraged, emphasis should rest on the usual scrap facilities—the dealers in waste materials and chari- table organizations which have had long experience in handling scrap collections, to make sure nothing is wasted.

Woman Gives Orders At N. Y. Airport

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(Wide World)—One day last month Capt. R. O. D. Sullivan, bringing back the Dixie Clipper from a trip to Europe, called the radio office at La Guardia field in routine fashion to receive landing instructions.

"North Beach from Dixie Clip- per, go ahead," Sullivan said into his cockpit microphone.

"Dixie Clipper from North Beach, go ahead," came the answer in a female voice.

Sullivan turned in his seat to stare at his first officer, C. Y. Dyer. "It's a woman!" he remarked incredulously.

At the field's seaplane base, Vera May Dawes Covell, a good-looking brunette who has just become a member of the "flight watch" of Pan American Airways, heard the aside on the radio and grinned.

Five minutes later as the Clipper neared the airport she said crisply, "Dixie Clipper. You are cleared from the New York boundary to La Guardia tower to cruise at your present altitude across the corridor and then descend 300 to La Guardia. Wind is west-north- west 15. Suggesting area B-2. Kollman reading one zero two six points three, four."

By this time Sullivan, a hell-for- leather pilot of the old school, had overcome his surprise. Clipper cap- tains usually acknowledge their manding instructions with a curt "okay." Now he said, "thank you, ma'am."

The first time she broadcast over the radiophone the Civil Aeronautics Authority's automatic tele- graph printer tapped out the query, "who was that on the radio?"

The company replied, with its tongue in its cheek, "why?" "What we want to know is—is it it a boy or a girl?"

"Oh!" "The Government lapsed into silence. "You're being checked on," Miss Covell was advised gravely.

"No," she said, worried. "Got Angry Only Once" Furthermore, when the Clippers turn in on you, they think they've got the wrong frequency."

She is 23 years old and holds a solo pilot's license, having had 13 1-2 hours of instruction. Her radio operator's license hangs on the wall of the flight watch office, with those of her men co-workers. She doesn't mind the ribbing, but it stops she can't determine where it often and the serious conversation starts.

Since she took the job she has been angry but once. That was when an unidentified radio opera- tor closed a conversation with her with, "okay snookie."

Jewel Setters' Factory On Park Avenue

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—P — A factory worker whose hands are in- sured for $20,000 deserves a Park avenue setup—and gets it at 407 Park Ave.

This man, Charles Geller, picks up diamonds and rubies and emeralds with tweezers and sticks them into gold and platinum settings. It looks very easy, but it must be quite a trick because they pay him and a half dozen of his fellow jewel- setters salaries that featured movie players would be proud to get.

The firm he works for, Trabert and Hoefler-Mauboussin, reports that its business has tripled within the last seven years, and that its steady increasing sales were hal- ted only for a week or so after Pearl Harbor.

The apartment houses on either side of 407 Park avenue might be shocked to hear that their little neighbor is a factory. Certainly 407 doesn't look factory-ish. The build- ing is small, only two stories high, but elegant. You go in through a grilled door center between dis- creet display windows—that is, you go in if somebody likes your face, for a suave salesman takes a good look at you before he unlocks it.

Yes, It's Real Jewelry is scattered around as casually as at a junk jewelry coun- ter. "Like to try on the Golconda?" asks the salesman.

The Golconda is an outside sparkler and you ask, "is it real?" "If it isn't, madam, we were stuck for a lot of money."

The Golconda, named after the Indian diamond mines it came from, weighed 55 carats when Hoefler bought it. Diamond experts gazed at it for three solid days, and con- cluded it needed trimming to make it the ultimate in perfection.

They trimmed and trimmed, and for 47 hours they polished it, and now it weighs only 30 carats—but each carat is upped in value to more than $8,000.

Life Has Its Limitations "In fact," says the salesman, "$300,000 would be chicken feed for this, and we aren't over anxious to sell anyway. We like having it around."

Factory workrooms are at the rear of the ground floor, designing rooms and setting rooms on the second. Blue-clothed men and women proceed at what looks like a leisurely pace to design and make pretties of tremendous value.

A gem-setter's life has its limita- tions. "I don't play cards, nor go to movies, nor read very much," said Geller, "I have to watch out for my eyes. And the upkeep for the insurance on my hands is nothing to laugh off either."

To keep his wrists strong for the pressure he exerts in setting jewels he plays golf.

Nothing's Wasted Tiny filings of platinum fell from a diamond tiara in the making as he worked.

"It's not wasted," one of the men said, "it falls into that metal lined tray. The metal that sticks to our hands isn't wasted either. As we leave, we wash at this wooden trough. The water drains through into two barrels and the bits of metal settle to the bottom. The sediment, taken out once or twice a year, yields metal worth $2,000 or $3,000."

Release of Two Victims In Craft Case Ordered

LANSING, Jan. 29—P — The parole board today ordered release from prison of two minor victims of Judge Homer Ferguson's one- man grand jury investigation of graft and corruption in Detroit and Wayne county.

They are James De Falco and Sam Gross, both 26 years of age, who were sentenced to terms of one to five years for conspiracy to ob- struct justice.

Both were convicted before Judge Earl C. Pugsley in the Wayne county circuit court of having paid "protection money" to various Wayne county officials who subse- quently were indicted for accepting graft. They were sentenced May 14, 1941, and ordered released with expiration of their minimum sentences.

Their release was set for February 13.

Stock Leaders Resume Drift; Few Shares Higher

Transactions Smallest In Four Months

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Soft drink, sugar and a handful of other stocks developed quiet strength in today's market, but many leaders were unable to shake off drifting trends.

The direction was irregularly lower at the start and, while recoveries crept in here and there after mid-day, final prices in numerous instances were off fractions to a point or more.

Little Liquidation

Slackness of dealings throughout was a negatively encouraging feature, indicating to analysts that there was no real urge to liquidate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1/4 of a point at 37.9. Transfers of 424,015 shares compared with 458,700 yesterday and were the smallest since Oct. 3 last.

Bethlehem Steel finished down 1-2 point at 63-3/8 and directors, after the close, duplicated the previous common dividend of $1.50 a share and disclosed net earnings for 1941 of $9.25 a share against $14.04 in 1940. Net of $2.96 a share in the final 1941 quarter compared with $4.32 in the December period last year. Sharply higher taxes and other sizable charge-offs, as in the case of U. S. Steel, were said to have accounted for the year's profits drop.

Sugars Edge Forward

Coca-Cola was up 2-3/8 and Pepsi-Cola 1-1/8 as Federal authorities revised the sugar allocation base for industrial use which would give the soft drink makers about 80 per cent of their 1941 requirements. Some sugars also edged forward in further response to the idea producers in the Atlantic area would benefit from better quotations on larger output inspired by the cessation of imports from the Philippines. Among these were Fajardo, which touched a new 1941-42 top, and South Porto Rico.

Shares on the losing end included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Santa Fe, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Du Pont, Westinghouse, Anaconda, J. C. Penney, Western Union and Owens-Illinois.

On the upside were Lima Locomotive, American Telephone, Eastman Kodak, J. I. Case, General Motors, Youngstown Sheet and International Harvester.

Bond Changes Narrow; List On Even Keel

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—With few exceptions, changes in today's bond market were narrower than in the two preceding sessions, but a sufficient number of active issues swung over to the advancing side to keep the main list on an even keel most of the day.

Volume contracted still further to $7,231,500, par value, from $8,279,300 on Wednesday and $9,287,600 on Tuesday. Three of the five major groups in the Associated Press average ended unchanged after swinging narrowly either way at various times during the session.

Pulling away from the all but motionless main division of the market in lively dealings were International Telephone 4-1/2s at 45 1/4 and the 5s at 47, Otis Steel 4-1/2s at 87 1/4, Denver, Rio Grande & Western First 4s at 48 and the collateral 4s at 49 1/2. Warren Brothers 6s at 87, Wisconsin Central 4s at 46 1/2, Pennsylvania General 4-1/2s at 104 1/2.

Swinging up and down minor fractions most of the day and ending close to Wednesday's final prices were, among others, Missouri Pacific 5s, Nickel Plate 4-1/2s, Southern Pacific 4-1/2s, Lehigh Valley 4s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, City of New York 3s, Baltimore & Ohio stamped convertibles of '60 and Rock Island 4s.

All of these gains could not be maintained to the final bell, but, except for rye which closed lower, cereals generally were on the recovery trend. Traders said this was due largely to the fact that buyers were attracted by the lower level of prices after yesterday's tumble and to indications that the market reaction had resulted in a step-up of Government and producer sales of both wheat and corn.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1-2 higher compared with yesterday, May $1.30 7-8 to $1.31, July $1.32 3-8 to 1-2; corn, 1 1/2 to 1-1/2 higher, May 87 7-8 to 88, July 89 5-8 to 3-4; oats, 3-2 to 3-4 higher; rye, 1-8 to 3-4 lower; soybeans, 2-1/2 to 3 higher, and hard, unchanged to three higher.

Scarcity of producer sales of soybeans and indications that a large percentage of supplies will be needed for seed were bullish factors in the soybean trade. Oats were strengthened by invitations for bids to meet Army requirements. Rye was depressed by continued profit-taking.

OUT OUR WAY—By Williams

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

Hail to the Chief! A United Nation Today Salutes Its War-Time President at 60

These pictures mark Mr. Roosevelt's six decades, showing him as he looked near the ages of 1, 10, 20, 30, 40, and 50, and as he appears on his 60th birthday.

M'Arthur's Creed: Take The Offensive

Congratulations to General Douglas MacArthur on his recent sixty-second birthday poured in to Washington from all over the nation. The great soldier was far away in the Philippines, bringing new glory to America's fighting record and making military history that will chapter many a text-book on tactical brilliance and daring in the field. That you may know our army's No. 1 fighting man, NEA Service brings you the story of his life and spectacular exploits. It is in three parts, of which today's is the second.

By TOM WOLF
NEA Staff Correspondent

Late in 1937, a hard-boiled sergeant was joyously pounding some military fundamentals into an unfortunate rookie when word reached him that General Douglas MacArthur was going to retire. The sergeant let up on his prey, shook his head slowly. He turned to the recruit: "There goes a soldier, son."

It was a sentiment shared by many in the ranks of the U. S. Army. As a soldier, MacArthur's flair for the theatrical combined with his fighting brilliance to inspire all who knew him. Their number was legion. One episode suffices:

It was the summer of 1918 and some officers were looking for MacArthur, who, typically, was roaming the front lines somewhere. "Have you seen General MacArthur?" they asked some doughboys.

"No, sir."

"Do you know him when you see him?"

"Hell, sir, every one knows General MacArthur," the soldiers replied.

MacArthur went to France, a colonel, as chief of staff of the 42nd Division, the famed Rainbow—a MacArthur-inspired name. Always on the offensive, he wanted the Rainbow to be the first to France. He was beaten to the field because he would not sail without complete equipment. And it was no small tribute to his wisdom that the outfit that beat him to France had to call on him for supplies during the winter.

Saw Plenty of Real Action

Once in the field, there was no holding him. As one private in the AEF put it: "He's a hell-to-breakfast baby, long and lean, who can spit nickels and chase Germans as well as any doughboy in the Rainbow."

Twice wounded, once gassed, MacArthur came out of the war with most of the eight rows of ribbons that now, with his four stars of full generalship, decorate his uniform. He personally took part in an attack on a machine gun nest, adding an oak leaf cluster of the DSC he won because, "On a field where courage was the rule, his courage was the dominant feature."

Disdaining helmet, gas-mask and side arms, he once went into No Man's Land armed only with a riding crop, brought back eight German prisoners, including a captain.

Smoky Harper, athletic trainer at Vanderbilt university, who served under MacArthur in the 42nd, Rainbow, Division, says if MacArthur were a football coach he'd always take the offensive.

"He liked to keep the ball moving," Harper says. "You could find him right up there in the front line trenches with his men. He didn't like to be put on the defensive, and would force the fighting if he could. If I remember him right, he'll make mincemeat of these Japs."

The very unorthodoxy that made him a brilliant fighter—his offensive spirit, his sense of the dramatic—dealt him an unkind blow in the "race for Sedan" at the war's end. MacArthur, leading the 48th Brigade of the 42nd Division, was pushing forward with an advance

RELEASE FLOW OF LIVER BILE

And You May Enjoy Life More—Sleep Sounder—Awake Refreshed—Ready for a Good Day's Work.

Normally your liver should discharge about a quart of precious digestion-aiding juices every 24 hours. A scanty flow—a slowing up may mean Sick Headaches, so-called Biliousness, Poor Digestion with that "half sick" depressed feeling.

Strive yourself! Probably all you need is a gentle laxative; take half a teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts (a famous blend of six salts) in three-quarters of a glass of hot or cold water every morning, half an hour before breakfast. Don't miss a morning. This simple sensible prescription has worked wonders for thousands should do the same for you. Try Kruschen—a famous English formula—for 30 days to shake off that "saw down" feeling and get a real "lift." Keep it up for 30 days. You must feel 100% better, or your money back.

patrol, racing with the 1st Division for the honor of capturing the strategic city.

He had taken the stiffening out of his officer's cap. It was more comfortable that way. Besides, it looked snappy. Unfortunately, to a patrol of the 1st Division it also looked German. MacArthur was the only American general "captured" during the war.

After the Armistice, MacArthur stayed in France with the Army of Occupation for a short time before being brought back as commandant-in-chief in his history—of the West Point from which he had been graduated but 16 years before.

Instills Own Spirit In Cadets

MacArthur was immensely popular with the cadets. Every inch a soldier, equally flamboyant, he has always been able to instill Army spirit into younger men. His job at the Academy was to humanize its program and streamline it to the techniques of modern war. His avocation was to plead for its enlargement, "lest" as he warned in best MacArthurian style, "a condition may ultimately result which will be paid for in the bitterness of American blood."

In 1922 MacArthur was transferred from the Academy to the Philippines. In the same year he married Louise Cromwell, stepdaughter of rich, Republican Edward Stotesbury and sister of James H. R. Cromwell. The marriage was not a happy one and was dissolved in an amicable divorce in Reno in 1929.

After three years in the islands, the latter ones as commander of the Philippines Department, MacArthur returned to the U. S. a major general, spent the next five years commanding various corps areas. Then, in November, 1930, President Hoover called him to Washington as Chief of Staff. He was 51, youngest in American military annals.

Gen. Lytle Brown, retired, now head of the Tennessee State Tire Rationing Board, was chief Army engineer in Washington, then, and saw a lot of MacArthur.

Praising MacArthur's energy and "uncanny judgment," recently Gen. Brown added: "It makes me feel bad to see him exposed in such a helpless position. If MacArthur were ordered to leave his post to save himself, he probably wouldn't do it. He's just the kind of man to disobey that kind of order. His troops will stay with him to the last man. If they die, then he'll die with them."

MacArthur inherited an American Army at its 20th Century low. The combination of world peace and depression had riddled Army appropriations.

Foreseeing with uncanny accuracy blitzkrieg warfare ("mobile, trained, very powerful, though somewhat smaller, formations"), he worked indefatigably to "lift the Army above the danger line."

Pacing endlessly (as is his habit) before the long, blue-black drapes that are standard equipment in the Chief of Staff's office, smoking continuously through the 10-inch-long carved cigarette holders he imported from the Orient, MacArthur pleaded, warned, threatened.

His purple oratory painted dark pictures of America's future if the Army were not expanded.

"I have humiliated myself . . . I have almost licked the boots of some gentlemen to get funds for the motorization and mechanization of the Army. Unless we move quickly, we will be a beaten nation, paying huge indemnities after the next war," he warned. "The Army is below the danger line." "Pass this bill and give the American Army a chance in the next fight it wages for the life of the country."

While he pleaded, he was also working. He instituted the Four-Army system, established a unified CHQ, Air Force, increased the size of the Army and of West Point. Most important of all, he laid the groundwork for the motorization and mechanization of the Army. He plugged for the Garand rifle, calling it the "world's best."

So vast was the scope of this reorganization that even MacArthur could not complete it in four years. As Secretary of War Dern's assistance, President Roosevelt held him on for a year. When his job was completed, he was awarded an Oak Leaf cluster, a signal peacetime honor.

As Chief of Staff it fell to MacArthur to evict the Bonus Army from Washington. The "Victory of Anacostia Flats" heaped abuse on the General's head. He has never bothered to answer the criticism—criticism that he foresaw and could easily have escaped. He was given orders to clear the Bonus Army out. He could easily have delegated the job to a subordinate. But MacArthur doesn't work that way.

Fully aware of the scorn that would be heaped on him, MacArthur, mounted on a white horse, ordered out not a handful of men, but a force so overwhelming that resistance would obviously be futile. His troops did not need to fire a single shot.

Eager To Aid Philippines

In the fall of 1935, President Quezon of the Philippines approached MacArthur with the idea of coming to the islands as military advisor. Characteristically, it took the General only five minutes to make up his mind. His Philippine heritage, his love of the Filipino people, and his high opinion of the importance of the islands' defense to the U. S., made him anxious to go. President Roosevelt relieved him of his job as Chief of Staff.

Later, when MacArthur resigned from the American Army to become Field Marshal of the Philippine army, his enemies seized upon his rent-free penthouse apartment and above all upon the glittering title he inherited. "He knows a good thing when he sees one," they said. MacArthur shamed them in a single sentence: "I would not sell my sword."

British Shock Troops Need Tough Hides

By Stephen J. McDonough

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(Wide World)—If you have a hide as tough as sole leather, the strength of a young bull and "don't give a damn" spirit you might qualify for the commands of the "recco" corps, England's new shock troops.

Only five or ten per cent of the men who volunteer can pass the rigid tests for membership in these crack assault corps which have raided the coasts of Norway and other potential invasion ports on the European continent, according to information reaching the British embassy.

The men are described as the toughest soldiers since Hannibal's Alpines crossed the mountains to Italy on elephants, the ancient counterpart of tanks.

They Don't Grow Old

To keep from starving they live on fish out of the sea or wild animals snared on land. For recreation they put in a few hours on the target range instead of in a nearby pub.

Every man picked as a member of the commando or recco (reconnaissance corps) units is a picked volunteer who knows when he joins that his chances of growing old are about one in 100. Yet the recruiting offices are jammed.

Those accepted go through months of rigorous and secret training before they are considered fit to fight.

These shock troops may be called out at any hour of the day or night to march 40 miles or more in quick time carrying a 75-pound pack, swim a mile-wide river holding a rifle or sub-machine gun over their heads and keep it dry, and then engage in a pitched battle with the enemy on the other side of the stream.

Must Know Many Things

They must be masters of jiu jitsu to overcome enemy sentries without making a sound, and must know how to operate every kind of weapon from a bolo knife to a 16-inch coast artillery gun, including enemy weapons they may capture; to operate small boats in any weather; to read maps and to find their way through strange country by sighting on the stars. They must have a knowledge of foreign languages and dialects and be able to sabotage a railroad, aircraft hangar or munition dump quickly and efficiently.

The recco (pronounced wreck) units are entirely mechanized and are known as the roughriders of the British army of 1942, having already proved their ability in Libya. Their job is to sweep ahead on the main fighting force without supporting troops or advance artillery preparation, contact the enemy, penetrate behind his lines, get all the information and as many prisoners as possible and report back to headquarters.

Meanwhile, if they have time and the opportunity they can start as many bonfires as they wish with their pocket incendiary bombs and start one-man attacks from the rear to demoralize the enemy.

Every unit is self-contained, carrying its own gasoline supplies, repair units, anti-aircraft as well as other weapons, automatic field kitchens, and radio sending and receiving sets. But each man is put on his own to accomplish his mission without direction from his commanding officer or headquarters.

They're Tough Soldiers

Only the toughest of the tough are picked for the most hazardous job of all—riding powerful motorcycles, fully equipped, across any sort of terrain to do battle.

"The army expects these men to rough-ride through the night wearing goggles down slippery slopes on which the average man could not stand, and plunge cheerfully across any kind of country," an American observer of recent British army maneuvers declared.

These soldiers have developed a special psychology of toughness, he added. Even after there to six days of fighting without sleep they have been known to take on the enemy with bare fists after they have been captured and disarmed.
