Leonard, president of the International Association of Police Chiefs and commander of the Detroit state police district, flew to the Upper Peninsula yesterday from Washington to deliver his address. He returned to Lower Michigan last night for defense conferences in the Detroit area. Michigan has many vital areas which must be given maximum protection, Leonard said, pointing out that the locks at Sault Ste. Marie and industrial areas in the Lower Peninsula are, from the standpoint of distance, as close targets for enemy bombers as the eastern seaboard.

"Michigan," he emphasized, "must not be caught napping. This is serious business that calls for complete cooperation of all persons and all agencies of Government." The worst situation in which any public official could find himself, the speaker said, is to fail to take civilian defense seriously and then have something happen.

"It is far better that we be prepared and have nothing happen, than not to prepare and then have something happen," he warned. Went To England

Captain Leonard, who served as a member of a six-man commission sent to Enigland to study civilian defense, depicted the terrific devastation in London, Birmingham and Bristol wrought by the Nazi bombing and described the effective civilian measures that enabled the

Benzie And Hook

THERE has been off and on report that Senator Benzie, of Norway, was about ready to announce that he would seek the Congressional nomination in the Twelfth, But he has so far shied off from commitment. Now, according to Guy Jenkins, writing in the Grand Rapids Press, he has not defeated in the Democratic primary he will be defeated in the November election. If that happened the Democrats would lose a seat in a House in which, on the present outlook, their members will be much fewer in number than they are at present.

It's the consensus among the party politicos that Hook has done far too much cheering for Congressional pensions for his own or the party's good, and that because he has stuck his neck out on the issue farther than the extension of many of his colleagues' necks he has considerably weakened himself. He is now sending into his district copies of the civil service commission's comment on the pension issue, which the Congressmen under fire find consolatory. Granted everything it seeks to establish, it fails to deal with the point that it is not the proposal per se, but the timing, that has caused the outery.

There is nothing inherently wrong about a proposal for old age pensions for Congressmen, if they pay enough to get them and can get them without setting up vicious provisions affecting the whole pension system, such as are found in the law under which they are now setting them up. The thing that galls is the solicitude, at a time when everyone is being called on to make the utmost sacrifice, the members of Congress show for their self-interest.

 How deep the indignation goes is a question that cannot be accurately answered, but is likely that in some close contests the record members have made on the issue will cost them their seats.

Without regard to its possible effects, if Senator Benzie enters the primary contest or five terms in the House a member, in the natural course of politics, accumulates a choice assortment of enemies in his own party, and gains the disapproval of many other voters of his party by his stand on controversial issues.

Mr. Hook's record is open to attack at many points, and he suffers, also, from the variety in which he regards himself as no her position. tyro. A contest between them would pro-

An Unexpected Line

Mr. Churchill was given another resounding reception in the House of Commons on the occasion of his address in which he took up the successful dash of the Nazi warships from Brest to Heligoland bight, and he was roundly cheered on his conclusion.

Making the best possible case for the government and the country, he contended that there is no loss, but gain, because the warships have effected a juncture with the main Nazi fleet. In the first place, he contended, though they got through the Chanabout reached a conclusion that if Hook is nel intact they were sufficiently damaged so that they will be out of action for some time. But he did not stop with this. Even if they had got through unscathed, he held, they would be less a menace in association with the other ships of the Nazi fleet than they were on the British flank at Brest, whence, if they were seaworthy, they could have dashed out at any time in forays against United Nations commerce. Effort to contain them at Brest being no longer required, there can be appreciable strengthening of air and naval forces in the North Sea designed to deal with the main Nazi fleet, if it undertakes a sortie.

This runs counter to the prevailing view of what the consolidation of the Nazi fleet means. Mr. Churchill appears to interpret the situation much too favorably. It may be believed that he is not as satisfied as he seemed to be, and that he was moved to speak as he did largely by desire to take the weekend with his parents in Negaunee. the opposition off its feet by an unexpected line of discourse, thus gaining time in which the House and the country could steady themselves after their keen disappointments over the Nazi sortle and the loss

For the same reason he declined to set a time for a general debate on the conduct of the war. By so doing, he gained an interval in which he will be able to weigh public opinion, and chart his course for the early future. He refused to consider sug-War, and gave no indication that he proposes to make any change in his cabinet, or to set up a compact committee for the conduct of the war.

But he closed no doors. If it seems to be Mr. Hook will have to throw the throttle necessary before the debate over recent wide open, if he is to beat him. After four developments begins he will be free to take steps that will effectually disarm his critics. Once again he has proved his stature titles. It never borrowed from the Massachuas a great parlimentarian leader.

A Vote for Taft

Senator Taft, of Ohio, recommends abolition of all publicity bureaus in Washington except those of the Army and Navy "as a means of hecking artificial stimulation of morale." Every newspaper in the country will vote for that proposal.

Governmental publicity bureaus apparently do not realize that if they have a genuine news story the press associations will be very happy to distribute it to every daily paper in America. Many of the weekly papers have access to press association news through "pony" reports, which are a condensation of the news on any particular day of publication.

The amount of paper, time and energy wasted by these "space pirates" must be tremendous. It might not be politically expedient to eliminate some of the hired hands in Washington, but we do have a war on our hands. If Senator Taft wants our vote on eliminating publicity bureaus except the Army and Navy, he'll get it and we think the newspaper delegation will make it unanimous. - Duluth of waiting to get ready to hit back. Basis of Strategy The doctrine, if I understand it correctly, provided for a preponderant battle fleet which, moving slowly majestically and irresistibly westward from the impregnable fortress of Hawaii, would crush the Japanese Navy and then recover, after they had been lost, the weakly held outposts from Wake to the Philippines. Reliance upon this doctrine made it seem not too desperately urgent to fortify the distant outposts. It accounts for the massing of the battleships where they provided such a target. It accounts for what may be, considering the results which Germany and Japan have accomplished with inferior forces, an excessive preoccupation with battleships and an excessive reliance upon fortresses like Pearl Harbor and Singapore. It accounts, I suspect, for the current doctrine that until the battle fleet is repaired and restored so it can carry out the original plan of a grand counter-offensive, we are condemned to the policy of reinforcing weakly for passive defense in-

Farm Garden Best Bet For War Needs

The "Food for Freedom" campaign among rural residents of the Upper Peninsula is described by J. G. Wells, Jr., assistant county agent leader for Michigan State college, as similar to those carried on during the depression years, beginning in 1931. In those years, farmers received such a small cash return from products sold that it was necessary to make the farm produce as much as possible of the family

The object now is to release all the food possible for the armed forces and for lend-lease purposes Better health is another object.

More Farm Gardens Needed

One of the important parts of the "Food for Freedom" campaign is the growing of a vegetable garden, Wells said. It is hoped to increase farm gardens in size and variety. Informed persons say there will be an insufficient amount of seeds, fertilizer and spray maan emergency that warrants promotion of city back yard vegetable gardening under the unfavorable and unproductive conditions that generally prevail in cities.

From the standpoint of efficiency and conservation of seed supplies, fertilizer and spray materials, vegetable production is usually better handled by farmers and small town suburban gardeners wo have suitable facilities, opportunities and experience.

Community garden plots where suitable soil and adequate transportation facilities prevail, or individual gardens on some of the larger suburban home grounds may also be successful. It is recognized that city gardening has certain health and recreational values, but it should also be recognized that the money, time and energy expended on city vegetable gardening usually are far in excess of the value of the vegetables produced, Mr. Wells asserts. Poor soil and gardening conditions coupled with neglect when the gardens need the most attention, insects, drought, diseases ,lack of supervision, all may result in disappointing yields and vegetables of indifferent or poor quality .

"It would seem far more desirable to apply the enthusiasm and interest for gardening to continued landscape improvement of city yards and not to destroy lawns and ornamental plantings for the sake mustn't. I'll try to send for Renee of growing a few vegetables," Wells if you'll be very quiet and not

Your Federal Income Tax

DEPRECIATION ALLOWANCES The amount to be recovered by depreciation is the cost of the property, if acquired by nurchase after February 13, 1913. If acquired by purchase prior to March 1, 1913, the basis is the cost of the property, less depreciation sustained prior to March 1, 1913, or the fair market value on March 1, 1913, whichever is greater.

The proper allowance for depreciation is that amount which should be set aside for the taxable year in accordance with a reasonably consistent plan (not necessarily a uniform rate) whereby the aggregate amount so set aside, plus the salvage value, will at the end of the useful life of the property equal the cost or other basis of the property.

The depreciation rate of a building is not based upon the number of years it will stand before being condemned and razed but on the number of years it will remain habitable or serviceable, for the purpose for which constructed. If the taxpayer builds a new building, the period over which depreciation may be claimed begins at the time the building is completed and capable of being used. Buildings under construction are not subject to a depreciation allowance.

If it is clearly shown that, because of economic or other conditions, property must be abandoned at a date prior to the end of its normal useful life, so that depreciation deductions alone are insufficient to return the cost or other basis, a reasonable deduction for obsolescence may be allowed in addition to depreciation. No deduction for obsolescence is permitted because, in the opinion of the taxpayer, the property may become obsolete at some future date.

The War department plans to commission all graduates of Senior ROTC units who, in 1942, will have completed all requirements for a ission, including one summer camp. Men who have not attended at least one summer camp, however, will be required to attend the appropriate special service school before being commissioned.

It also has been decided, Gen. Cummins said, to waive the requirement of a college degree for appointment as an officer in special cases. This will be done when a student has met all other requirements and has been recommended for appointment by his professor of military science and tactics, and when the chief of the branch in which the commission is to be is sued recommends waiver.

Ill-Considered Conversations In Public Are Taboo During Wartime

Button Mouths, If Tempted To Talk About Army

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

This is the time for all women (and men, mayhap to a lesser de-gree) to curb their talkativeness when military affairs, in any way, is the theme of conversation. If they don't they may give news of help to the enemy.

A recent issue of a Duluth newspaper told how a reporter sat five seats distance from two women and heard every word of their conversation. The women were telling how their boys were home for a short leave and announced to the bus at large when the lads and their buddies would leave and where they thought they were go-

By Charles Dunkley CHICAGO, Feb. 18- P -The vanguard of the largest squad of Chicago Cubs in recent years departed tonight for spring training at their camp on Santa Catalina island, located in the Pacific ocean, 26 miles off San Pedro, Calif. Despite operations of Japanese submarines which attacked shipping off the Pacific coast in recent weeks, Manager Jimmy Wilson said his players looked forward, without alarm, to safe passage to the snug and beautiful anchorage at Avalon. Twenty-two players were in the departing squad. When the party arrives at Los Angeles Friday, 18 others will join, making 40 in all.

Heading the getaway contingent were Manager Wilson, James T. Gallagher, general manager, and Coaches Dick Spalding and Kiki Cuyler, Wilson informed his charges that two workouts daily would be in order for the first four days. These will begin Saturday.

The Cubs will spend 19 days on the island before returning to Los Angeles to open exhibition series with their home town rivals, the White Sox, March 13. Brooklyn Dodgers Fly To Havana Training Camp

HAVANA, Feb. 18- # -The Brooklyn Dodgers, National league baseball champions, took to the air today to get to Havana for a 20-day training period. The Dodgers arrived here in two planes, making a brief air jaunt from Miami, Fla., where many of them had concentrated to discuss salaries with Larry MacPhail, the club president.

Hot, sunny weather and a crowd of Cuban sports fans greeted the Dodgers at the airport here. Many Cubans, in cables to Brooklyn last fall, insisted that it was the Havana training that brought the Dodgers their pennant. Real training will get under way tomorrow. The first spring training game of the season will find the Dodgers meeting the New York

Pierce Downs Baragans By

As always, last night's renewal of intra-city rivalry between John D. Pierce and Baraga Parochial provided basketball fans with one of the year's most torrid battles, with the North Enders winning as expected.

Baraga, going into the fray with the worst record in its history, fought all the way, but wilted in the final quarter to drop a 23-21

The Parochials' defense seemed improved as they held the Piercemen in check for three periods. The first chapter ended with Pierce ahead, 5-4, but scoring in the second stanza was evenly divided. Then, in the third, the Catholics found the range for nine points to take a two-point lead, but Pierce went ahead in the fourth as Baraga netted only three points. Olson, LaCosse Lead

Five members of each team participated in the scoring, Olsen leading Pierce with eight and LaCosse topping Baraga with seven.

Last night's triumph was Pierce's second of the season over its arch rivals, an exact reverse of last year when the Parochials chalked up two victories over the training

In preliminary games the Pierce B squad defeated the Baraga Bees, 37-11, and the Pierce Junior Highs lost to the Baraga Juniors, 11-5, Summary of main game:

Training In First Aid To Begin Tonight

ISHPEMING, Feb. 18—The first of the series of first aid training classes for enrollees in the civilian defense program will be held at 7:30 Thursday evening in the high school, it was announced today following the preparatory meeting

About 250 persons attended the session and were addressed by Dr. N. J. McCann, in charge of the county medical emergency program for the OCD.

Dr. McCann described the back- et Racine, 108. ground of the program, asked for faithful attendance at class meetings during the training course and gave a lecture on basic points of the first aid work. Following his talk, classes were organized.

Those attending Thursday evetriangle bandages which can be made by cutting 40-inch squares 73rd Birthday diagonally, giving each person two triangles to work with. The material may be on bleached or unbleached cotton, or other suitable material, such as a flour bag.

"The main thing," said Dr. Mc-Cann, "is to come prepared to take an active and effective part in the first aid course so that we may complete this work on time and get well started on our preparedness program."

Dr. McCann, explaining the OCD first aid requirements, stressed the fact that all men classified or enrolled as auxiliary fire wardens or policemen must take the first aid training course. It is essential that they attend the first meeting and be assigned to classes headed by qualified instructors.

Late Profit Sales Check Grain Upturn

CHICAGO, Feb. 18- AP -Grain prices tried to continue their recent creeping advance today, but, after early fractional gains had established new peaks since last month, the market reacted as a result of late profit-taking.

Wheat finished 1-8 to 1-2 cent lower than yesterday, May $1.30 5-8 to 3-4, July $1.32 1-4; corn 1-8 to 3-8 down, May 88, July 89 7-8; oats 1-4 to 1 cent lower; rye 3-8 to 5-8 down; soybeans unchanged to 5-8 off and lard unchanged to 5 lower. Closing prices were at or near the day's lows in all pits. With trade comparatively light and speculative and investment interest on a small scale, only scattered profit - taking and hedging late reaction.

Pair of Timber Wolves

MUNISING, Feb. 18-A pair of widow, Mrs. John Wiltanen, five pleted his survey and will return timber wolves whose trail was observed recently by conservation department men in the Cusino area are believed to be the same pair George, of the U. S. Army, and complete his course at Dartmouth that in recent winter months work-William, of Escanaba, and two in June and tentatively plans to ed the region northeast of Cusino. Adolph Stebler, wildlife experiment station superintendent who has been investigating wolf trails about Cusino for several winters, once found a wolf "beat" that ran from Cusino almost to Grand Marais, roughly a round trip of 40 miles.

Recent reports of lone Canadian trappers who encountered large packs of timber wolves northeast of Winnipeg and escaped unhurt were noted with interest here, as supporting the contention of Michigan game men, that these animals will not attack humans in the woods. One of the Canadian trappers encountered a wolf pack of 15 animals while crossing a frozen lake to his cabin and shot nine of them. Later, a fellow-trapper of the same district encountered the remainder of the pack, brandished a club at them and got away into the brush. There are no authentic records of imber wolves aggressively attack-turned tail and fled.

MUNISING, Feb. 18-Munising lake trout are among the national prize winners again this year. Lewis J. Merwin, secretary of the Munising Development club, called attention this week to prize lists announced by two sporting magazines which included fish taken in waters adjacent to Munising.

Third prize in Hunting and Fishing magazine's annual lake trout contest went to Sam Cremer, Bay View addition, Munising, who caught a 43-pound, 13-ounce trout near Au Train island September 23. That fish also took fourth place in a contest conducted by Field and Stream magazine.

Men Work As Walls of Plane Plant Go Up

(EDITOR'S NOTE: If you could get into the world's biggest airplane plant-which you can't-what would you see? Today Wide World Writer Gladwin Hill, continuing his reports on the transformation of the auto industry to war production, takes you on a quick sight-seeing tour of this unprecedented project.)

By Gladwin Hill

DETROIT, Feb. 18 - (Wide World)-Boy, would the Japs be fazed if they could see this That's the thought that keeps coming to you as you look around the vast barn that is rapidly taking shape at the Ford Willow Run bomber plant.

It will be the biggest airplane plant in the world, turning out the four - engined Consolidated B24D's at the rate of dozens a day -faster than any enemy can shoot them down.

You see this plant and you are convinced that if they can just get to producing the planes, and we can provide the men to fly them, the war is won. The only obstacle is time. And the men out here are staging a doughty battle against that.

8,000 Work There Now

The first dirt was turned less than a year ago. The plant will be running in a few months. Yet there's no hectic, breathless running around, no confusion. The place is so big, you can only see a few people from any one spot. Yet actually there are 8,000 out here, working quietly and efficiently.

Everywhere there are unspectacular but impressive evidences of the race against time. At the far end of the building, the brick work is not complete and the cold is kept out by a temporary wooden bulkhead. Yet at the near end, men are already working at machines, turning out parts. The plant not finished yet-but out in the yard, grading machines are levelling the workers' parking spacefor 20,000 cars. The planes are not coming off the line yet-but outside they're finishing a huge airport with a mile-long runway, for By RAY TUCKER test flights, and training test pilots. Even the workmen's lunching is streamlined, with rolling canteens,

There will be 80,000 workers, and the assembly lines down which the planes will roll, in contrast to the 20-root auto assembly lines, will be 50 yards wide, to accommodate the 110-foot wingspread.

LAND FOR DUNBAR STATION SAULT STE. MARIE, Feb. 18-

More than 4,000 acres of non-agricultural land on northern Neebish island and the mainland southeast of Sault Ste. Marie have been transferred by the department of conversation to Michigan State college, through the state board of agriculture, for development of the Dunbar forest experiment station. The station, which adjoins the new holdings, now serves as a summer training school for MSC forestry students, operates a forest tree nursery which furnishes stock to northern Michigan land owners, maintains a recreational camp site and demonstration forest, and carries on forest research projects.
