96,000 Nazis In Red Trap In Northwest

By Eddy Gilmore

MOSCOW, Feb. 26.—P—Soviet forces in the Staraya Russa area 150 miles south of Leningrad have closed a giant trap on 96,000 men of the second German army corps under General Brockdorf, triumphantly worded dispatches from the bitter cold front said tonight.

The trapped forces are being hunted relentlessly in a furious battle, now two weeks old, for control of a vital area at the heart of a triangle formed by Moscow, Leningrad and the Latvian border.

The regular midnight communique reported merely that the Red army "advanced against heavy enemy resistance and occupied several populated places" during the day, but a supplement said that three enemy infantry battalions had been "annihilated in a night battle" on the western front where an important locality was recaptured.

Down 21 German Planes

The Soviets said they had a 21-to-5 plane score over the Germans during yesterday's aerial combats.

On the Staraya Russa front Red artillerymen were reported pouncing on the encircled Nazis with a heavy curtain of fire, sometimes in ranges of only a quarter of a mile. The German forces were declared to be disintegrating under the onslaught, the 290th division losing especially heavily. And their position was described as hopeless. Soviet airmen dropped leaflets to the surrounded forces promising them good treatment if they would surrender.

Admits Position Hopeless

Gen. Brockdorf, himself, was said to have admitted in an order of the day that the 96,000 men were surrounded, and also that their position was "hopeless."

In the final hours before closing the trap, the Russians inflicted a resounding defeat on reserves thrown into the German lines, dispatches said, and elsewhere in this region further apart other surviving units of the smashed 16th German army.

In recent fighting the Russians said they had reconquered 147 settlements in the Staraya Russa area. A war correspondent for the Communist party newspaper, Pravda, reported that Russian forces surrounding a large German-occupied town in an indesignated sector had offered the Germans an opportunity to surrender. The Germans refused, the writer said, and added that "now our troops are annihilating the enemy."

Smash Rumanian Division
It was not made clear whether this concerned the Staraya Russa front. It might have been on the southwestern front, where the Russians reported smashing the first Rumanian division, killing more than 2,250 and taking 200 prisoners. The Rumanian accounts said that the Rumanians were placed at the head of a counter-attack, with German troops on the flanks and at the rear. This attack was declared to have failed upon running into a heavy Soviet artillery fire.

A Russian unit commanded by one Gordov on the southwestern front was reported to have killed 10 days of fighting, and to have destroyed 10 German tanks, 79 guns of various sizes, and much other material.

72 Miles From Leningrad
LONDON, Feb. 27.—(Friday)—P—Russian cavalrymen, pushing on from the Staraya Russa area below Lake Imlen where their comrades have trapped a huge German army, have reached the vicinity of Sustje, 72 miles short of the Latvian frontier, dispatches from Stockholm said today.

Fierce fighting also was reported in the Novgorod region, a key junction point north of Lake Imlen. The dispatches quoted the Leningrad radio as saying that Staraya Russa still was in German hands, but that the Russians were closing in swiftly on all Nazi strongholds, many of which were blasted at short range by massed Red army artillery.

Guard Against Sabotage, Ship Officials Warned

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—P—Officers of Great Lakes ships were urged by an FBI agent to maintain vigilance against sabotage and espionage in the coming shipping season.

Jesse C. Parks, of the Cleveland FBI office, told an open meeting of the Shipmasters' association that ship officers should be suspicious of all untoward acts and accidents. He urged officers and company executives to have "good knowledge of their personnel," maintain adequate lighting on docks, abate by identification systems, stagger patrols, scrutinize visitors and watch delivery of supplies.

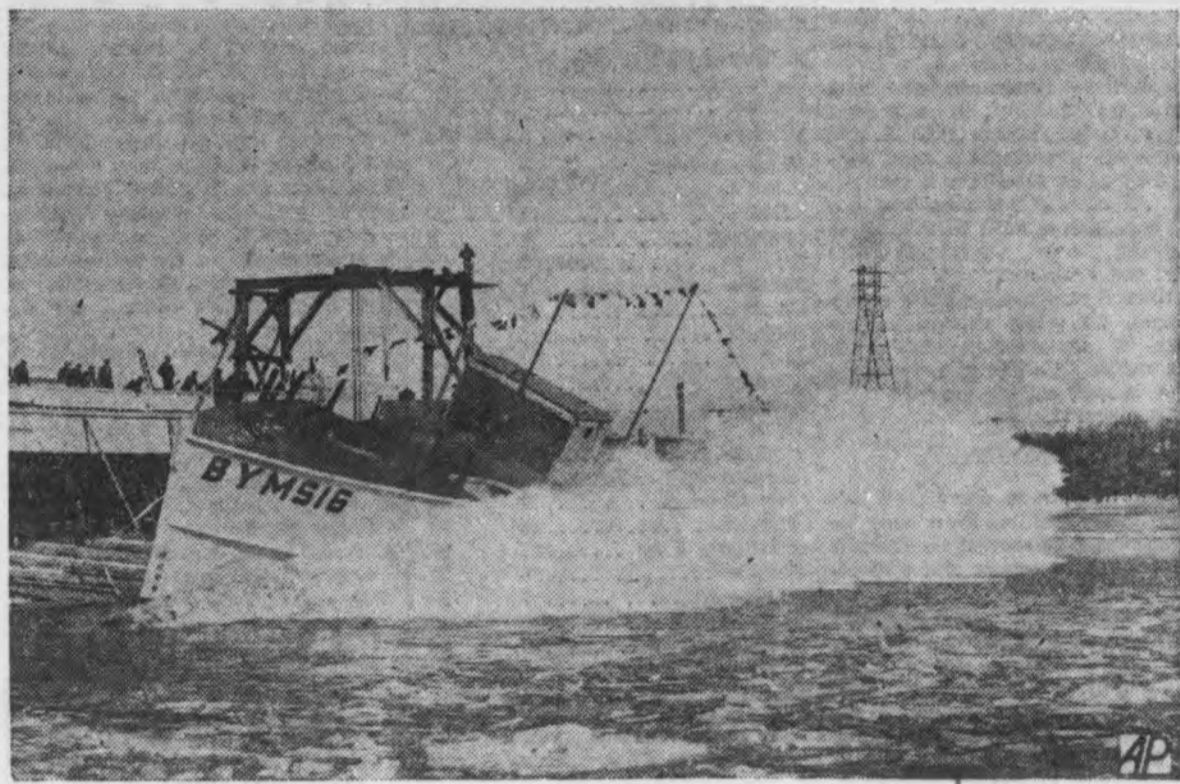

C. G. Andrews, of the United States Weather Bureau, said weather information would be restricted severely and that the only open broadcasts would be of approaching high winds.

Survivors of Torpedoed Landed in British Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Feb. 26.—(P Cable)—A number of survivors from a torpedoed ship were landed here today and more were expected to arrive later.

The identity of this ship was not disclosed, nor was it made known where she had been torpedoed.

Launch Michigan Minesweeper

The first sizeable ship built in Benton Harbor, Mich., since the World war, the BYMS-16, a minesweeper, hits the ice-caked waters of Lake Michigan during launching ceremonies at the Dachel-Carter ship-building yards there. Gov. Murray D. Van Wagener, officiating at the ceremonies, urged the opening up of Great Lakes shipyards.

House Debates Plan To Scrap 40-Hour Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—P—After a bitter debate, the House today postponed until tomorrow a show-down vote on a proposal to suspend for the duration of the war Federal laws calling for a 40-hour week and extra pay for overtime.

The author of the plan, Rep. Smith (D-Va.), raked "arbitrary labor leaders" who, he said, were calling strikes "for silly reasons." In turn Rep. McCormack, of Massachusetts, the Democratic leader, accused Smith of fostering "anti-labor" legislation which would undo the gains of many years.

Leaders To Rally Forces

The Smith proposal was offered as an amendment to a measure expanding the Government's war powers. The decision to quit for the day, after an earlier announcement of intention to finish the broad bill today, was reached when it became obvious that debate on the labor clause alone would extend far into the night. A score or more speakers remained to be heard at adjournment.

Administration leaders were reported to believe that if they had more time to rally their forces they would have a better chance to defeat the amendment.

Canadians Can Be Sent To Aid Alaska Defenders

OTTAWA, Feb. 26.—(P)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the house of commons tonight that Canadians trained under compulsory service could be sent to Alaska or the United States to help repel any invasion attempt.

While Japan was planning her conquest of the Pacific and Hitler was marching triumphantly toward Moscow, he added, "there were individuals in America, and even in high committee places of the United States Senate, who were guileless enough to proclaim that the motion picture industry was luring us to war."

Wavell Broke Rib in Air Accident at Singapore

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—P—General Sir Archibald Wavell, supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific, broke a rib in an airplane accident at Singapore the day before that city fell to the Japanese, Secretary of War Stimson disclosed today.

He had been on a visit to the city and suffered the injury when his plane crashed as he was taking off. Stimson also revealed that Wavell had been under heavy artillery fire in Singapore while the fierce battle for that city raged.

Wavell also wanted to visit General Douglas MacArthur in beleaguered Bataan, Stimson said, but MacArthur sent him a message discouraging such a visit on the ground that the commander-in-chief's life was too valuable to risk.

700,000 State Motorists Without New Licenses

LANSING, Feb. 26.—P—Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, estimated today some 700,000 Michigan motorists still must obtain new automobile license plates before the Saturday night deadline.

He pointed out the law forbids extension of the deadline and allows no period of grace for tardy licensees. To meet the eleventh hour rush, branch offices of the department of state will remain open to 8 Friday night, and "as late as necessary" Saturday night, Kelly said.

Up to Tuesday, he said, 759,659 motor vehicle licenses of all types were issued. He estimated 300,000 more were issued since then, leaving 700,000 still to go. The department licensed 1,887,225 vehicles last year.

We Can't Win On Defensive, Wilkie Says

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—P—The United Nations will not win the war on the defensive, Wendell Wilkie told the annual award dinner of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences tonight.

"We want our Navy seeking out the enemy, not hugging our shores for fear the enemy will seek us out—as some of our distinguished Senators have suggested," Wilkie said.

"We want our armies penetrating every active front. We want our fighting planes leading our bombers to their goal. It sickens me to think of America in terms of defense."

"I am tired of hearing of defense efforts and defense rallies, and even defense bonds. We should begin to talk of conquering efforts and victory rallies and bombardments."

Those Who Win Strike First
"But more than that, we should begin to think in terms of attack, not of retreat. We should begin to act in terms of striking, not blocking, for if the victories of totalitarianism have taught us anything, it is that those who win strike first."

"Let's begin to strike! Let's begin to win!"
Wilkie recalled that "scarcely six months ago—and it now seems incredible—I was defending the motion picture industry from the extraordinary charge that it was engaged in propaganda against those same totalitarian forces."

While Japan was planning her conquest of the Pacific and Hitler was marching triumphantly toward Moscow, he added, "there were individuals in America, and even in high committee places of the United States Senate, who were guileless enough to proclaim that the motion picture industry was luring us to war."

Tribute To Film Industry
While the American people, "ahead of many of their representatives, came to recognize the menace of totalitarianism," Wilkie declared, "there were some who closed their eyes to this realistic American attitude."

"It is a tribute to the motion picture industry that it has done this."

Wavell Broke Rib in Air Accident at Singapore
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—P—General Sir Archibald Wavell, supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific, broke a rib in an airplane accident at Singapore the day before that city fell to the Japanese, Secretary of War Stimson disclosed today.

He had been on a visit to the city and suffered the injury when his plane crashed as he was taking off. Stimson also revealed that Wavell had been under heavy artillery fire in Singapore while the fierce battle for that city raged.

Committee Okehs Pension Law Repealer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—P—A Senate-House conference committee today approved with alacrity the repeal of the politically painful pensions-for-Congress law, and endorsed the inclusion of the following matters in the repeal bill:

1. A pay increase of 20 per cent for enlisted men and 10 per cent for officers of the armed forces serving in foreign lands or in the Philippines, Hawaii or Midway Island.
2. A provision temporarily excusing from the income tax law General Douglas MacArthur's men or any others "beleaguered or besieged by armed forces," captured, interned, missing or on distant duty with armed forces. However, they will have to file returns and pay as soon as they can.
3. A clause providing that the pay of soldiers, sailors and other Government employees captured, interned, missing or on distant duty with armed forces. However, they will have to file returns and pay as soon as they can.
4. A provision authorizing immediate construction of an $3,000,000 (Turn to Page 13, Column 7)

'Fight Like Hell,' Indies Commander Tells Allies

BANDOEANG, Java, Feb. 27.—(Friday)—P—American, British and Australian troops now in Java prepared to defend this Allied outpost against the expected Japanese direct onslaught now number "many thousands," Lieut.-Gen. Hein ter Poorten, commander-in-chief of the Netherlands East Indies army, declared in a broadcast last night.

The Dutch commander, welcoming the Allied forces, urged them—"in English—to fight like wildcats and fight like hell."

Retreat Strategy in Pacific Takes Toll of Jap Sea Power

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst
London is setting the stage for revamping its policy toward India under duress of the gravest threat to British rule there since the first imperial standard was raised on Indian soil more than three centuries ago.

Japanese invaders swarming in Burma are knocking at the gates of Rangoon, already ablaze as the British apply the scorched earth policy. Burmese oil wells, like those in parts of the Dutch Indies, has also been put to the torch to signal another British disaster.

The smoke of that next retreat of the Allies further clouds the war scene in the Far Pacific-Indian ocean theater as an ominously rising toll of shipping losses in the Atlantic also is admitted by London. Yet there are elements in both theaters of action to relieve Allied gloom.

Whatever the duration of the debate on Indian policy in London, it seems certain the grim advance of Japanese forces in Burma must lead to more effective mustering of India's manpower against the Axis. Nor can it be overlooked that Japan is being increasingly committed to major operations on two far-separated fronts simultaneously.

Distance and the time required for ships to reach danger points still is the greatest factor forcing the Allies to a continuing retreat strategy. Prime Minister Churchill has emphasized that repeatedly to explain recurrent reverses in Africa, in Malaya and now in Burma.

Distance Important Factor
He has set four months as the round-trip period for transports and supply ships from England feeding the Near and Middle East via the

MacArthur's Forces Push Enemy Back

By Richard L. Turner

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—P—General Douglas MacArthur's men on Bataan peninsula have suddenly taken the offensive, capturing numerous Japanese advance positions, and in one sector forcing the invaders to retreat several kilometers, the War Department reported today.

Far from beaten, the defenders of the Philippines "attacked" sharply all along the line. The surprise thrust was apparently successful generally, but particularly so on the right where the deepest enemy withdrawal took place. Main enemy positions were not penetrated, the communique said, but at last reports the fighting was still in progress and local successes continued.

Bolomen Pledge Fight To Death
At a press conference, Secretary of War Stimson disclosed that the leader of 20,000 bolo-swinging Moro tribesmen on the island of Mindanao had pledged a "fight to the last" against the Japanese and declared their readiness to die "for America and their country," if need be.

Stimson also took occasion to praise the defenders of the Netherlands East Indies. They were making a "magnificent stand," he said, and had inflicted losses upon the enemy which Tokyo has not disclosed.

Presumably the tribesmen of Mindanao mean to harass the Japanese forces there with guerrilla warfare, a type of fighting at which they are adept. Stimson noted that they offered strong resistance to American occupation 40 and more years ago.

Sends Message To Stimson
The assurances that they would battle the Japs to the end were contained in messages to Stimson and to General MacArthur signed by Captain Datu Gumbay Plang, their leader. The latter identified himself as the son of Datu Pijang, a friend of Stimson's when he was governor general of the Philippines some 15 years ago. The message said:

"Am son of your friend the late Datu Pijang of Mindanao and as war leader of the Moros I wish to reiterate to the great American President, through you, my people's pledge of loyalty to the Government of the United States. The 20,000 Moros enlisted as bolomen of the United States Army whom I command will fight to the last and die for America and their country."

Japs Intern Michigan Woman in Manila

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 26.—P—Miss Hannah Lennon, 31, former Michigan Children's Institute social worker, is a prisoner of the Japanese in the Philippines.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lennon, were notified of their daughter's fate by the British embassy in Washington.

Interned with Miss Lennon at St. Thomas university near Manila are three British children she was escorting to India. They had left San Francisco Nov. 9 and were due in Singapore Dec. 7.

Miss Lennon was enroute to Delhi to visit a brother-in-law and a sister, Major and Mrs. Michael Saunders. The three children, the oldest 14, had been refugees in China, and were to have joined their parents in India.

U. S. Submarines Sink Four More Jap Vessels In Counter-Offensive

Nazi Cruiser Crippled By British Sub

LONDON, Feb. 26.—P—The British submarine Trident, nosing deep into enemy waters, has hunted down and crippled a Nazi cruiser believed to be the fugitive Prinz Eugen while that warship's larger comrades in a February channel escape lie in German docks, knocked out of the war for some time to come, the British government announced today.

These official reports were made to the house of commons and the nation by First Lord of Admiralty A. V. Alexander, and by the admiralty itself. They documented Prime Minister Churchill's recent announcement that the German naval fleet consisting of the 10,000-ton Prinz Eugen and the 26,500-ton battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau had gained no immediate advantage in their sensational dash from Brest to German North sea bases on Feb. 13, through the Straits of Dover.

Unable To Stem Criticism
Although Alexander, in presenting the naval estimates, made the most comprehensive defense of the royal navy and of himself since the Nazi channel dash shocked seafaring Britons, he did not manage to stem criticism.

Led by the old naval hero, Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes, critics charged the navy lacked heavily-armed torpedo aircraft, trained pilots and dynamic direction.

Keyes, in uniform as on the day he delivered his devastating attack on the Chamberlain government for the navy's failure to force Trondheim harbor in the Norwegian campaign, charged that "war by committees" was stifling Churchill.

Another Conservative, Patrick W. Donner, said it was "difficult to see how Alexander could be absolved from responsibility for sending the Prince of Wales and Repulse to the Far East without adequate air support."

Allied Ship Losses Severe

A veteran of Jutland and the Falklands, Rear Admiral T. P. M. Beames, charged that crews of torpedo planes which attacked the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau in the channel battle were novices which never had made an operational fight before and had been told they were to attack a convoy, not warships.

U. S. Consulate Left Singapore Before Fall

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—P—All members of the American consulate general at Singapore were safely evacuated from that city before its occupation by the Japanese, the State department said today.

The former American consul at Shanghai, Owen L. Dawson, native of Harrison, Mich. (formerly Frost), who was recently on a business trip to the Netherlands East Indies, was left Soerabaja for New Zealand.

Government May Buy Up Tire Supply

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—P—The Office of Price Administration announced tonight a plan whereby the Government expects to buy up virtually the entire supply of new passenger car tires and tubes and thus enable dealers to get their capital out of stocks tied up by rationing.

Dealers who wish to be relieved of carrying passenger tires through the period of rationing may sell all or part of them back to the original manufacturer or distributor at the cost price, plus 10 per cent to cover carrying expenses.

Manufacturers and mass distributors were ordered to sell the Government-owned Defense Supplies Corporation, and to turn over to that agency also their own stocks of passenger car tires and tubes. Defense Supplies corporation is prepared to receive up to $75,000,000 worth.

This is expected to minimize the bootlegging of tires," Price Administrator Leon Henderson said in a statement. He added that it would relieve retail and wholesale dealers of the necessity of keeping capital tied up in stock from which few sales are permitted under the rationing program.

A "small upward revision" of the ceiling prices now in effect on retail and wholesale tire sales will be required, Henderson said.

Sault Radio Station Denied License Renewal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—P—The Federal Communications Commission today denied a license renewal to the Hiawatha Land Broadcasting company for Station WSOO at Sault Ste. Marie.

Officials said the action would put the station off the air as soon as it has been notified officially.

The commission said the station had failed to file a written appearance to a notice designating an application for a hearing. The application was set for hearing, it was said, when the station failed to file data required by commission rules.

Japs Prepare For Assault On Rangoon

LONDON, Feb. 26.—P—The Japanese troops massed along the Sittoung river spread upstream today for the final stages of an enveloping smash at Rangoon while Japanese aircraft fighting in vain for control of the sky "over the heart of Burma lost 21 planes to the American and British air defenders."

The new disposition of enemy troops along the last natural barrier to Rangoon, 60 to 70 miles above the city, was considered most threatening. Military experts here said it would compel the British and Indian defenders to disperse their already out-numbered and battle-cut battalions now defending the west bank of the Sittoung near the river's mouth.

Japs Sending Reinforcements
When their reinforcements arrive from Singapore, the Japanese are expected to launch simultaneous attacks upstream and at the river's mouth in an attempt to encircle and smother the smouldering capital and its defenders.

The present lull in ground fighting is regarded as evidence that the Japanese suffered heavy losses in throwing the British across the Sittoung and that they now are awaiting fresh troops.

Most of today's action was in the air. The Japanese planes knocked out of the sky over the Rangoon delta brought the defenders' two-day total to at least 51 and this was increased by a daring raid by American volunteer group pilots on a Thai air base. The A. V. G. reported two Japanese bombers destroyed in the air and two fighters on the field.

Chinese Say 31 Planes Bagged
(Chungking reports said the A. V. G. destroyed 34 planes over Thailand Wednesday and Thursday and 12 on Tuesday.)

Of Britain's chances of holding Rangoon, London took a gloomy view. They said "a lot depends on the Chinese," but there was no official evidence that Chiang Kai-shek's troops were yet in position or strength to divert the Japanese drive on the seaport, now evacuated by virtually all civilians, aglow with the fire of British "scorched earth" demolitions and its sea approaches mined.

The Chinese were in brief action in Burma a fortnight ago and their present pre-occupation with maneuvers in the Upper Burma theater led experts here to suggest that a new United Nations defense (Turn to Page 13, Column 2)

Hitler Can Be Destroyed By Summer: Litvinoff

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(P)—Maxim Litvinoff, Russian ambassador to the United States, declared tonight that he believed Hitler could "be destroyed by the summer."

In his first public address since taking over his post in Washington, delivered before the Overseas Press club and broadcast by the Mutual Broadcasting System, the Soviet ambassador warned that the opportunity for a summer victory over Hitler might be missed and said:

"Only by simultaneous offensive operations on two or more fronts separated by long distances could Hitler's armed forces be disposed of and that is why Hitler would dislike such operations."

Litvinoff declared that the coming spring offensive of the German armies in Russia would be a make or break effort for the Axis.

Japanese Put American War Captives to Work

TOKYO, (From Japanese Broadcasts), Feb. 26.—(P)—Hundreds of United States prisoners of war taken in the Japanese capture of Guam and Wake Islands will be put to work Friday reclaiming wastelands, it was announced today.

In groups of 80 the men will work seven hours daily with commissioned and non-commissioned officers exempted.

Warship Also Possibly Hit Off Indies

By Witt Hancock

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Feb. 26.—P—Two more enemy troop ships, a naval auxiliary and a freighter have been torpedoed by United States submarines in the great Allied counter-offensive against Japanese invasion trains massing in these waters, the Dutch command announced tonight.

It added that aside from these successes American submarines had closed also with a Japanese squadron of cruisers and destroyers and, though forced to dive before the result could be observed, were believed to have hit one of the enemy.

While the invader's already tremendous sea losses were thus being extended—and U. S. Secretary of War Stimson was declaring in Washington that the Allied defense had been "magnificent"—the Dutch command reported that for the seventh successive day Japanese bombers had been generally ineffective in their intense efforts to knock out this island's airbases as a probable prelude to an attempt at mass invasion.

Continue Delaying Actions
Afield, in the outlying islands of the archipelago, Dutch troops were continuing their persistent delaying actions—fighting on Celebes with unabated fierceness; falling back in west Borneo but struggling on and ignoring a Japanese ultimatum to surrender or die, and quite possibly maintaining a rear-guard action, even on Amboina, which long since had been claimed by the enemy.

"At any rate" the Dutch command said proudly of the little garrison of Amboina in illustrating the unbroken tenacity with which the defenders are buying time, "the battle on this island has lasted at least three weeks."

The probable fall to the enemy of the island of Banka off southeastern Sumatra and of part of Benkoelen residency in western Sumatra was acknowledged, however.

It was disclosed, too, by an announcement that enemy storage yards had been bombed near Telokbetong, in extreme southern Sumatra, that the Japanese had thus pushed their Sumatra advance to a point just across the Strait of Sundra—only 15 miles at its narrowest point.

Allies Bomb Seized Bases

Air action proceeded in an ordered violence from both directions—the enemy being doggedly at Javanese airbases and Allied planes ranging out north against the bases seized by the invader.

Telling of two successive days of raids against Palembang, the great and now ruined Dutch oil center in southern Sumatra, the Dutch reported that Allied bombs had added great fires to those still raging there since the defenders first put the torch to $500,000,000 worth of property.

Even the initial blazes, it was declared, were observed to be still out of control nine days after they had been set.

Jap Sea-Air Losses Heavy

BATAVIA, Feb. 27.—(Friday)—P—The Japanese already have lost one-third of their cruisers, along with other drastic naval and air losses, the newspaper Soerabaja Handelsblad said today.

(Jane's Fighting Ships lists 35 Japanese cruisers of all types, and there are others of unknown number presumed to have been completed secretly. An Associated Press tabulation Thursday showed 8 Japanese cruisers sunk by Dutch and American forces, 4 probably sunk and 20 damaged.)

"Let there be no talk to the effect that the enemy's losses are of no concern to him," the paper said. "In the air his losses are equally heavy. He still has many aircraft, but our air force makes itself felt not only at Bali Island. In the region of Soerabaja—the big Netherlands East Indies naval base—the enemy every day shows high respect for our air defenses."

"The enemy must in the circumstances attack, and as he attacks he incurs losses which must give him something to think about. This is no time for being despondent."

Youth Dies in Chair For Strangling Housewife

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 26.—P—Smiling, George Joseph Cvek entered the execution chamber at Sing Sing prison at 11:01 (EWT) tonight and three minutes later he had paid with his life for the murder of a Bronx housewife who had befriended him.

The 24-year-old vagabond, who was convicted of strangling Mrs. Catherine Papas, 34, and who admitted robbing or raping at least 14 women in eastern cities, whispered responses to the prayers of the prison's Catholic chaplain when he was strapped in the electric chair. He made no outcry.

War Causes Bureau To Cut Expenses

Taking into consideration the anticipated effect of the war on the tourist and resort business next season, the Upper Peninsula Development bureau's executive committee, meeting in Iron Mountain Wednesday, ordered radical curtailment of the organization's operations for the balance of the fiscal year, which ends September 30, 1942.

Estimated expenses for the period were pared by $5,700 and the bureau's publicity department discontinued until further notice, effective April 1. Salary cuts also were ordered and office personnel will be reduced.

Stanley D. Newton, of Sault Ste. Marie, publicity director and associate editor, will serve only in the latter capacity when needed, it was decided, but all news releases, feature stories and the print and mat service planned for outside newspapers, magazines, radio stations and information bureaus will be cancelled.

"Crisis In Life of Bureau"

Gerald O. Dagenais, of Marquette, secretary to George E. Bishop, bureau secretary-manager, was given an indefinite leave, effective April 1, and the salary of Mr. Bishop was reduced. Traveling expenses and other items also will be curtailed.

"We have arrived at a crisis in the life of the bureau which calls for action," President Abbott M. Fox, Iron Mountain, said. "We appreciate the attitude of the state of Michigan toward the tourist business and will make every effort to carry on. In order to save the bureau during these trying times, it may be necessary to make further curtailments."

Current debts of the bureau, it was said, will be reduced to about $5,300 by September 30. The executive committee approved an income budget of $54,275 for the fiscal year ending September 30.

Present at the Iron Mountain meeting were W. L. Burns, Ironwood; Robert Heidemann, Ironwood; Harry Mertins, Iron River; U. F. Asselin, Norway; Frank Russell, Jr., Marquette; John Kelly, Houghton; George E. Bishop, Marquette; Phil DeGraff, Trout Lake; J. R. Merrifield, Sault Ste. Marie; Stanley D. Newton, Sault Ste. Marie; Ed Dreier, Grand Rapids, and President Fox.

To accommodate last-minute purchasers of 1942 plates, the auto license bureau in the Union National bank building will be open from 7 to 8:30 this evening in addition to regular business hours today and tomorrow, from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Qualifies For Sea School—George Hawke, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hawke, 220 West Arch street, is on duty aboard ship after completing six weeks of preliminary training at the U. S. Marine base in San Diego, Calif. Hawke qualified for the special sea school service by fulfilling necessary physical requirements and by pistol and rifle marksmanship honors. He will attend the sea school for nine weeks.

Three Enlist In Army—Edward

Paraskiers Hit The Silk Over Snowy Utah

U. S. paraskiers—the troops that jump before they ski—step out into the chill air over Alta, Utah, to float to the snowy earth, then put on skis for the "attack." These members of the 503rd parachute battalion use parachute on backs for the drop, carry emergency "chute on chests."

Fred Hedmark, of Skandia, Roy Eino Silk, of Negaunee, and John Joseph Husbeck, of Menominee, enlisted in the U. S. Army at the Marquette recruiting station and left last night for Wausau Wis., where they will be assigned to permanent stations. Hedmark enlisted for the quartermaster corps, and Silk, who holds an amateur radio operator's license, has enlisted in the signal corps. Husbeck is unassigned.

Hearings Here Today—Hearings in cases involving claims for industrial accident compensation will be held in the county building today, beginning at 9 a. m., by Deputy Commissioner Nadelney, of the state department of labor and industry. Cases to be heard are: Ida Raulio, of Ishpeming, vs. Huron Mountain club; Tony Siskall, Negaunee, vs. Bay de Noque Lumber Co.; Nester Ahlstrom, Gwinn, vs. Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co.; William D. Cyr vs. Gorder and Allen.

Invited To Drill—Marquette county selective service registrants desiring preliminary training preparatory to being called into service are invited to attend the regular drill period of the 503rd company, Michigan state troops, at the Paletta armory this evening, beginning at 7:30. If sufficient interest is shown, classes of registrants will be formed for special drill on other nights. The company has been authorized by state selective service headquarters to organize classes of registrants for basic military training.

Don't Discriminate Against Aliens, USES Asks Employers

The United States employment service staff in Marquette urges employers in this area not to refuse employment to aliens "merely because they are aliens."

"In order to win the war with the Axis powers, we must out-produce them and to accomplish this we must make use of every labor resource we possibly can," Russell R. Olds, manager, said.

"The only restriction to alien employment," he added, "is in the case of secret, confidential or restricted Government contracts and of contracts for aircraft parts or accessories. Even in these instances, aliens may be employed if consent is obtained from the Federal department concerned. The War and Navy departments have established regular procedures for handling such applications and have approved thousands of them."

"Companies working with confidential plans and specifications can provide the protection which national safety demands without invoking an absolute ban against hiring aliens in departments not having access to confidential information."

Army Cadet Board Here March 14-16

Young men in the central section of the Upper Peninsula and others will have an opportunity to be interviewed and examined for acceptance as aviation cadets in the U. S. Army air corps when the aviation cadet examining board visits Marquette Saturday, Sunday and Monday, March 14-16.

Physical requirements have been relaxed considerably; the age limit has been reduced from 20 to 18, and the mental examination now consists only of an intelligence quotient test. All of which means that the field has been opened to thousands of young men who otherwise might not have qualified.

Although requirements are easier to meet, no other change in the status of an aviation cadet has been made. Cadets will be paid $75 a month during a 30-week training period.

Commission, Higher Pay

When they have completed this course successfully, they will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Army air corps and will receive $245 a month.

The flying experience a young man receives as a cadet later as an Army flight officer will qualify him for a pilot's position with a commercial airline upon his return to civilian life, board officials point out.

Young men interested in obtaining further information about the Army air corps are asked to visit Corporal Carlton L. Oyer, recruiting officer, in his office in the basement of the Marquette postoffice.

Louis H. Egan Held Guilty In Federal Case

Louis H. Egan, a former resident of Marquette, whose father built the Marquette & Southeastern railway for the Cleveland-Cliffs interests and who served as its general manager for a few years after its completion, was Monday of this week, found guilty in U. S. district court in St. Louis of conspiracy to violate the corrupt practices section of the holding company act.

He was a co-defendant with the Union Electric company, of which for several years he was the $50,000-a-year president, on an indictment of eight counts. He was held guilty on but one count, the company on all eight. He may be sentenced to pay a fine of $10,000 and to serve up to two years in prison, or to both fine and imprisonment. The company may be fined $10,000 on each count, or up to $50,000. Sentences are to be pronounced today. Egan and the company will file motion for a new trial, and, if they are denied, will appeal from their convictions.

Evidence Not Disputed

Government evidence, which was not disputed, showed that a $501,000 slush fund was accumulated from money paid out by the company and returned, through irregular channels, to Frank J. Boehm, executive vice-president and Egan's principal aide, and others. It was shown that large payments were made from this fund to candidates for public office, office holders and politicians.

In his testimony in his defense Egan said he knew nothing about the irregular practices of Boehm and other officers of the company, and the company sought to place the blame on Boehm and his associates. Boehm is under a five years' sentence for perjury in testimony bearing on the same transactions before SEC examiners, and is at liberty on an appeal bond. He was the principal Government witness against Egan and the company.

Members of the jury said that while there was little difference of opinion about the guilt of the company it was necessary to take seven ballots before a verdict of guilty could be found against Egan. "Jurors," a newspaper report says, "felt that no actual participation by Egan had been shown, but that indications of knowledge on his part were too many to justify an acquittal."

Well Known Railroad Man

The elder Egan was well known and had filled important positions in the railroad world before he came to Marquette to build the Marquette & Southeastern. After a residence here of several years, the family went to Savannah, Ga., where the senior Egan took an important executive position with one of the southern railroads.

His son, Louis, early entered the public utility field in Missouri, and at the age of 28 became president of the Kansas City Power & Light company, his father at that time having been president of the Kansas City Railway & Light company, which owned Kansas City Power & Light. Louis Egan's progress in the utility field in Missouri was rapid, culminating in his election as president of the Union Electric company, in which office, with a salary of $80,000, he was one of the highest paid executives in the middle west. Union Electric is a subsidiary of North America.

Cash Loans Available For Farmers

Money loans are now available to eligible farmers for crop production purposes, including purchase of seed, gas, oil, feed and for necessary repairs to farm machinery. E. E. Budin, of Escanaba, field supervisor for the emergency crop and feed loan office of the Farm Credit association, reports.

Application blanks are available at the office of L. R. Walker, county agricultural agent, in the court house. Budin will be in Walker's office Friday morning, March 6, and in the Chatham post-office that afternoon to assist farmers in making out the applications.

He urges all farmers in this district to check their machinery and make sure it is in good condition for the coming season.

Arrangements for crop and feed loans are being made by farmers in all counties of Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin. They will bear interest at the rate of four per cent a year.

Isle Royale Park Bill Sent to White House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—P—The Senate passed and sent to the White House today legislation (HR3014) permitting the Government to accept from Michigan exclusive jurisdiction over lands in Isle Royale national park. Secretary Ickes described the bill in a letter to a Senate committee as constituting a final step in the establishment of the Isle Royale park.

AROUSE FLOW OF LIVER BILE

To Help Correct That "Half-Sick," "Tired," "All-Gone" Feeling

Normally the liver should discharge about a quart of precious digestion-aiding juices a day. If it doesn't—a scanty flow—a slowing up may mean Sick Headaches, so-called Biliousness, Poor Digestion, with that half-sick, tired, all-gone feeling and most probably Constipation.

Probably all you need is a gentle excitant: just take a little daily dose of that world-famous Kruschen Salts—half a level teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water about half an hour before breakfast. This helps to release the flow of bile with its gentle bowel action. Try Kruschen—a famous English formula—for 30 days to shake off that "run-down" feeling and get a real "lift." If you do not feel 100% better get your money back.

Further than this, it indicates that if it is passed he will veto it. The reasons he gives for opposing it are so sound that there is little likelihood that if it were passed and he vetoed it the votes to override his veto could be obtained.

The President points out that when the surpluses were acquired with the purposes of sustaining prices for the benefit of the farmer it was understood that they would be available in times of emergency, and would then be used in the manner most likely to serve the public interest.

The conditions under which it was then proposed that the surpluses should be sold have now arisen. They are conditions under which the interest of the whole should be held, and doubtless will, paramount to the interest of any part of the whole.

Fair Words

Mr. Thomas, the new chairman of the liquor commission, who declares that henceforth politics is to be out of conduct of the commission's affairs, should not be surprised when he observes that the state takes a "wait and see" attitude. It has heard the same statement numerous times since the end of prohibition, only to find that politics was rampant in the organization from top to bottom.

If politics is now to be out of one of the things the public will expect to note is reduction of the personnel of the liquor stores to the number of workers with which the civil service director says the business they are doing can be adequately carried on. He declares that some 130 could be dispensed with.

If politics is out, it will be expected that the commission will cast about for ways and means of increasing the business done by the state stores by decreasing the business done by special distributors, thereby adding large sums, available to meet the expenses of the state, to the profits of the state stores. It will be tough with the special distributors, holding them to the letter of more stringent restrictions and seeing that they observe their letter.

If there is to be an end to politics it follows that there will be no longer any ground for suspecting favoritism in the purchasing department and the interest of the members of the commission in the fortunes of one major party as against the other. There will be, in all respects, a strictly non-partisan administration of the business in its hands.

This is as it should be. But if this desirable condition is established it will mean an all but clean break with the commission's past.

Pensions Are Out

When the House came to a vote on the repeal of the provision of the law under which its members could qualify for pensions it did, relatively, as good a job as the Senate. There were but seven adverse votes.

This likely means the end of the proposal for a long time to come. As there is nothing inherently bad about it, providing contribution is in keeping with pension received, the members who forced the issue at a time when it was certain to arouse public indignation acted most unwisely. They have probably prevented it from being put forward at some time in the future when the public might be in a receptive frame of mind.

The passage of the repealer and the overhauling the civilian defense effort is receiving, following the retirement of Mayor LaGuardia and Mrs. Roosevelt, are the most striking evidence of the power of public opinion the country has seen in a long time. When it has opportunity to bring its weight to bear on officials who have shortly to appeal for votes it is irresistible. But, unfortunately, it is irresistible in bad or dubious causes, as well as in those that are good.

Public opinion cannot, however, have its way with the Executive. In this is found the greatest difference between Government in this country and in Great Britain. It has been public opinion, expressed in meetings and through the press, that has required Mr. Churchill to go far in overhauling his cabinet. But public opinion has little weight with the President.

How little is its weight is shown by the long tenure in the Labor department of Madame Perkins. It has been the consensus, nowhere more definite than in the ranks of labor, that she has been sadly wanting in the qualities that should be found in the incumbent of the office she fills. But she went in with Roosevelt, and there is no reason to doubt that she will finally go out with him. In that the British plan makes the Government more susceptible to public opinion than our plan it has distinctive advantages, and tends, on the whole, to yield better Government.

Contemporary Opinion

Must Be Carried Home In the lavish days before Pearl Harbor, it never seemed more than slightly ridiculous that because one housewife should buy one morning six small articles from each of six different stores, six men should have to drive six trucks each to the same small house, so that the lady should have her purchases and so that no store would be outdone by a rival in the quality of its service.

Now the procedure seems not only ridiculous but fantastic, and the stores, which devoted themselves to such "services" with a true American fanaticism during the years of peace and fire-plenty, must now tell this hypothetical housewife with apologetic firmness, that from now on, if she wants the little package, she may carry it.

No doubt many a good merchant has smothered a sigh at the need for so drastic a reversal of the policy of customer-pampering, and no doubt a few chronic objectors will moan at being burdened with so much as a handkerchief. But the change is just another of those healthy signs of the times. Most women will immediately agree that the average package now delivered as a matter of course could put little strain on the physique or patience of the average shopper. Indeed, with some purchases the change will be a distinct gain. No woman who has just bought the new hat this is to be all

Thirty Years Ago

Marquette (February 27, 1912) Judge R. C. Flannigan has denied the application of City Attorney A. H. Ryall, of Escanaba, presented to him in Marquette recently and argued in the court here, for an injunction permanently restraining proprietors of eight disreputable resorts in Escanaba from continuing to conduct their unlawful business. In an exhaustive opinion the judge flayed in merciless terms the vicious conditions which the people of Escanaba have tolerated and holds up officials who have tolerated them to scorn.

Both games played at Lake Linden were defeats for the Northern State Normal. The girls lost to the Lake Linden high school team, 22 to 2, while the boys lost to the Lake Linden Independents, 28 to 19. It is said the boys' game was rather rough.

At a meeting of the police commissioners August Anderson was appointed night policeman to succeed Charles Carlson. Ishpeming There is much sentiment among officials of the ski club affiliated with the national association to confine the tournaments to amateurs. It has been demonstrated this winter that there are nearly as many good amateurs as there are professionals. The Duluth club was the first to take action against professional skiers. The amateur tournament there last Sunday was as satisfactory as any recent professional meet. Several jumps of over 130 feet were made.

Close to 4,000 persons saw America's greatest ski experts perform at Curry hill in the third annual tournament of the Ironwood Ski club, says the Ironwood News-Record. And they saw longer jumps than were ever made on any other side in this country. James Presthus, the little amateur from Ishpeming, in the competition for the longest standing jump, made a leap of 156 feet, alighting in perfect form. He got into trouble about 30 feet down the runoff and fell. The fall was regretted by everyone, as the flight was one of the prettiest of the meet and had the most perfect finish his performance would have constituted a world's record, being two feet longer than Harold Smith's reported sensational jump in northern Italy four years ago.

'Sein' Things

In the name of consistency, it would seem reasonable to insist that business people without further delay again have the benefit of prompt and adequate export and import statistics.

Several months ago the Department of Commerce announced it would discontinue publication of export and import statistics on the ground that such information would prove of value to the enemy. The Axis powers should not know how many tractors are being sent to England or to Egypt or to the Persian Gulf or to China. To make such information available to the enemy, said the young men of the Department of Commerce, would be a grievous mistake. Likewise, the enemy should not be informed through official disclosure of other exports or of imports; and so basic foreign trade information vital even in these disturbed days to the conduct of business has been suppressed.

The young men of the Department of Commerce who inflicted this unnecessary handicap on American business people must certainly be seeing things under the bed. Other Government departments, moreover, are not seeing the same spoils. Some of the very basic information that the Department of Commerce withholds is being disclosed elsewhere in the Government.

In wartime food is just as much a weapon as ammunition or rifles. It would therefore seem a glaring inconsistency to find the Surplus Marketing Administration of the Department of Agriculture putting out as a publicity release as recently as Feb. 12 an announcement that in the eight months ending Dec. 31, last, long-lease shipments of food items to the British government totaled more than 3,311,000 pounds. Not only did the Department of Agriculture make this vital information easily available to the enemy, but even in its press releases supplied the details right down to the last pound of all of the products, meat products, fruits and vegetables, fats and other items that were shipped under lend-lease to England.

If it is appropriate for the Department of Agriculture to supply this information for publication, it would seem most inappropriate for the Department of Commerce to withhold export figures on the same commodities in connection with shipments made to other parts of the world.

For example, if the Surplus Marketing Administration can authorize publication of the fact that in the eight months ending Dec. 31, last, 243,139,398 pounds of lard were shipped to England, there would seem to be no reason why the lard shipments to Cuba, Puerto Rico and other markets should not be disclosed. Although Canada has not been at war since 1939, the Dominion Government freely publishes without delay all of its usual export and import statistics. Shipments from Canada to England and to other parts of the world are exposed to the same problems of war transportation as are shipments from the United States; and if Canada sees no harm in providing export and import statistical data for publication to the Department of Commerce, why should the United States withhold such information from the public? It illuminates like a flash of lightning the abyssal depths of the customary Nazi ethics in such circumstances, which the tanker's master evidently expected to be exhibited in his own case.

Dunn County's OCD Tells Em'

If paddle ball, badminton, archery and roller skating go on in Dunn county during the war, it will not be because the county council of defense has "sponsored" these activities. It will be because residents like to do these things well enough to do them without subsidized encouragement. Dunn's OCD has other ideas of what should be stressed at this time. In a letter to the regional WPA recreational supervisor, the civilian defense council secretary expresses those ideas briefly but forcefully.

Some time back the WPA man wrote the Dunn county OCD, suggesting the appointment of three additional chairmen to head recreational committees. He said he had been instructed to do this, presumably by Washington boondogglers. The county defense council turned down the suggestion. Its secretary, explaining the reasons in a letter, said:

"It is our opinion that the civilian defense in this all-out war effort will not be decidedly benefited or promoted by the appointment of chairmen for recreation, sports and things of like nature. The sooner our citizens as a whole, including WPA officials who now benefit by their present occupation, realize that this is an all-out war and render their honest and conscientious efforts to war activities and not to the continuation of their positions, the sooner will we actually begin to win this war. This applies not only to those mentioned above but to all other government functions of like nature."

To the Point That is succinct and to the point, and it needs to be said the country over. Recreational machinery already exists in most places in Wisconsin. It will presumably continue to function. The new machinery, set up for defense, can go about its special business without worrying about things which were handled by local people long before the Federal Government began supervising everything from community singing by adults to mud pie making by children. If more recreation is needed, the old machinery can expand. There is no reason why OCD or WPA or NYA or any other of the federal agencies should force itself into the picture.

Today there is crying need for vast quantities of airplanes and guns and tanks and food and clothing for our armed forces and for those of our allies in this war against totalitarianism. We need today above all things to knuckle down to producing these things. When we have organized our industries and our farms to make the things needed by our brothers and our sons in the fighting service, when we have organized our communities to defend themselves against air attack, it may be time enough to consider what we shall do with our leisure on a community, state and national basis.

When these other things have been taken care of, we shall probably find that recreation has also been taken care of and taken care of spontaneously by those who need its relaxing influence. This year, if we are to win it, cannot be a series of playful "projects"—dancing projects, art projects, recreation projects and the rest. The sooner we realize the grimness of our undertaking the sooner—as the Dunn county OCD secretary says—"we will actually begin to win this war."

New York Chats

By Charles B. Driscoll is a little man who affects a cross demeanor most of the time—except with customers.

The Hill section of Brooklyn, once the center of stylish and showy homes of millionaires, has almost been cleared of the most pretentious mansions. Wreckers are pounding away, night and day, at the great piles that once showed forth the wealth and power of their owners.

Presently, one of the biggest apartment house projects for war workers will rise on the site.

The largest of the palaces falling under the wreckers' crowbars is the Pratt mansion, which looks like a cross between a public library and a fort. It was built in 1906 for Herbert L. Pratt, oil man and member of the family that founded and has supported Pratt Institute and other educational and philanthropic institutions.

The Pratts occupied the great house only 10 years, then sold it to a realty company that hoped to do something with it. Like so many others of those extravagant mansions, there was nothing to do but tear it down. Nobody wants to live in that kind of a house any more, no matter how much money he may have.

Thieves have made a regular supply depot of the Pratt mansion. For years they have looted it, carrying off truckloads of fittings, furniture, plumbing, doors and flooring. There was only a shell left when the wreckers began hammering down the brick walls.

Nazi Ethics

We've known some broad-minded and easy-going people, but the world's record certainly belongs to the captain of an American tanker sunk the other day by a Nazi submarine who lauded the undersea raider's commander as a "pretty decent skipper" because he refrained from firing on the tanker's lifeboats as they pulled away from the sinking hull.

The submarine captain had pumped two torpedoes into the vessel at close range and without warning. The fact that the crew escaped injury and were able to scramble into their lifeboats was no doing of his, nor the fact that they were able to reach shore safely after being unceremoniously dumped into the ocean in small boats that could not live in a heavy sea.

The significant point is the fact that such a negative virtue as failing to turn machine guns loose on helpless men cast adrift in the heaving Atlantic could elicit praise from the victims. It illuminates like a flash of lightning the abyssal depths of the customary Nazi ethics in such circumstances, which the tanker's master evidently expected to be exhibited in his own case.

Side Glances

"I'll take this one for Dad's birthday present—it'll look swell on me!"

Today In Washington

By David Lawrence WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—Judging by comments of the man on the street, Roosevelt's optimistic assurances concerning the future and his emphatic repudiation of the pessimism that grew up as a result of the attack on Pearl Harbor are apparently what the American people like to hear.

Morale building is important but if the tactics of artificially created impressions are to be successfully maintained and critics are to be deprived of the basis for many of their comments, it will become necessary for the American Government politely to ask Prime Minister Churchill to refrain from making speeches to the House of Commons discussing the condition of the American battle fleet in the Pacific.

It will be recalled that when the Prime Minister returned from his American visit of December he spoke of the American battle fleet in the Pacific as "crippled" fleet temporarily. Into the gap thus opened rushed the invading armies of Japan . . . the overthrow for awhile of British and United States sea power was like the breaking of some mighty dam . . .

After hearing the above on Feb. 15 the American people were given in a fireside chat of Feb. 23 this version by President Roosevelt: "Of all the combatant ships based on Pearl Harbor—battleships, heavy cruisers, light cruisers, destroyers and submarines, only three were permanently put out of commission. "Very many of the ships of the Pacific fleet were not even in Pearl Harbor. Some of those that were, were hit very slightly and others that were damaged have either rejoined the fleet by now or are still undergoing repairs. When those repairs are completed the ships will be more efficient fighting machines than they were before.

This certainly doesn't sound like a "crippled" fleet or a fleet that has been put out of commission for very long and it is reassuring news because it evidently means the Japanese have a surprise in store for them in the speed with which our fleet is going to be restored to the fighting strength it had prior to Pearl Harbor with the exception, of course, of the three ships "permanently" put out of commission.

Just how long the damaged ships will be undergoing repairs is important military information and that's why the President did not disclose any specific dates. But the tenor of his address was to the effect that the damaged ships would soon be back on the fighting line. If they are not, and his prophecy proves wrong, the whole war will be by that time have taken a turn in so many other directions that it will only be of academic importance to debate whether the President's fireside chat of Feb. 23, 1942, was not over-optimistic.

The President incidentally did a superb job in hammering away at the Axis propaganda and also in pointing out the importance of big distances and shipping to the future trend of this war. His discussion of our naval strategy will, of course, stir up plenty of debate among the naval experts. He gave the impression that for 40 years our basic strategy had been not to defend the Philippines and that Japanese encirclement had prevented us recently from doing anything different than we have done. Some naval experts have insisted that the battle fleet should never have been based at Pearl Harbor, that scouting fleet should have been scouting in the Far East to protect Hawaii against the very thing that happened, and that the American Government should never have looked passively on the fortification of the Japanese mandated islands or on the deal between the belligerent government and Japan whereby Indo-China was occupied by the Japanese.

The Roberts report says about our basic naval strategy: "At our hearings reference was made to what has long been a matter of common knowledge—that there are, and have been, diverse views of national policy respecting the United States Pacific fleet at Pearl Harbor. We feel that the national policy in this matter is one that has been settled by those responsible for such decisions and that it is not in our province . . . to discuss any such topic."

Mr. Roosevelt gives the impression that the basic naval strategy has been settled for many years, but in the last nine years that Hitler has been in power there have been many prominent naval men who have tried in vain to get our Government to revise its strategy. Some day what the Roberts report failed to discuss will be discussed, but this is not the time for such debate as the important job is to win the war with the tools available and with the strategists who have command of our destinies. Big Chief Stalin The Confederation of Indian Tribes of America has voted Joseph Stalin most notable warrior and is preparing to send him a headdress appropriate to the honor. We dare say that Stalin, astride a horse and decked out with war bonnet, and bristling mustache, should strike fire into any German soldier familiar with the history of the American Indian and with the recent history of the Russian soldier. The honors which will be transmitted to Stalin are, of course, a token of the esteem in which the Russian soldiers are held, not only by the Indians of North America but by every one. But something should be said for the fighting spirit of the Indians themselves. Did I? . . . Presently we three were at a table in a quiet hotel. I was overawed—a ring fighter sitting there with the world's greatest living masters of literature and music. What ensued provided Shaw with one of his modicum stories to tell later. Nearby was an American photographer. He put in a complaint to the inn keeper. "Say," he protested with huge annoyance, "chase those two old guys out of there. I want to get a picture of the Champ.—Gene Tunney, Arms for Living.

Armory To Be 'Guarded' By New Troops

As training for emergency duty, members of the 503rd company, Michigan state troops, will receive preliminary instruction at the Palstra armory tonight in regulation U. S. Army interior guard duty.

Tonight and at all other times when the company is drilling at the armory the building will be guarded by sentries as a means of giving the troops actual practice in guarding.

Walno Hakke has been appointed sergeant of the guard for tonight's tour. Under his command will be two corporals of the guard—one patrol and one relief—and five privates have been assigned to each unit. Other members will be put on patrol duty on successive Friday nights.

Supplies Delayed
While the patrols are "guarding" the armory, the remainder of the company will drill on the ballroom floor. The supply room at the west end of the Palstra lobby will be the "guardhouse."

In addition to these duties, qualified members of the organization will be assigned to the job of teaching selective service registrants the rudiments of the school of the soldier and manual of arms.

The Marquette county company has received its uniforms, but a lack of wool, steel and plumbing supplies in the state is causing a delay in the receipt of other equipment here and at other armories in Michigan.

Word was received yesterday from Lansing that state troops officials are planning to appeal to Washington against the delay in supplies.

Plan 18 Armories
William H. Burke, manager of the prison industries, said 4,500 heavy overcoats, trousers and blouses and 14,000 blankets are being delayed by Federal priorities on wool, while State Building Director A. N. Langius said some National Guard armory units may not be completed because of material shortages.

Langius said lack of pipe, plumbing supplies and steel for strong room doors is causing most of the delay on armories at Jackson, South Haven, Muskegon and Lansing.

Armory units, Langius asserted, at Charlotte, Grayling and one at Lansing are completed; one at Coldwater is almost finished; others at Ypsilanti, Owosso and Adrian are ready to start; and one at Kalamazoo is in initial stages of preparation. Architects are working on plans for 18 other armories, Langius said.

Winners in Carnival At East Ohio Rink
Winners of competitive events at the neighborhood carnival at the East Ohio street rink Wednesday night were:

About Bars
Iron bars do not a prison make so you should easily escape the embarrassment of failing to answer these questions:

1. Is an oyster bar a place where oysters are taken from the sea, sold to be consumed on the premises or where they are opened for their pearls?

2. Who said, "Let there be no moaning at the bar when I put out to sea?"

3. How did Sloppy Joe's Bar of Havana, Cuba, recently figure in the news?

4. Is it still a prison if there are no bars on the windows?

5. What kinds of literature can postal officials bar from the mails?

Soo Lock Bill Approved In Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—P—An authorization for an $8,000,000 lock at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to expand shipping facilities on the Great Lakes neared the end of a rocky legislative road today.

The authorization was included in a naval pay bill approved by a conference committee today. The same bill repealed retirement provisions for elective officers.

The House was expected to act on the conference report tomorrow, the Senate Monday.

Final approval by both Houses would send the measure to the White House, climaxing unusual parliamentary maneuvering for the "Soo" lock connecting Lake Superior and Lake Huron over which much of the nation's iron ore is shipped.

Agitation for a new lock to supplement others began more than a year ago. First, the authorization was included in a general rivers and harbors bill.

Brown Wins Long Fight
Fearing that this bill would be delayed Senator Brown (D-Mich.) obtained Senate passage of a separate authorization for the lock. This was shelved by the House rivers and harbors committee which objected, contending that the separate bill would set a precedent that could be used for many other works of a defense character.

Asserting that a new lock was necessary for uninterrupted transportation of iron ore, Brown disregarded opposition in the House and asked the Senate to include the lock authorization as a "rider" to the naval pay bill. He won and finally the rivers and harbors committee withdrew its opposition, although Chairman Mansfield (D-Tex.) insisted that the plan was irregular.

Brown, saying that the Army, Navy and defense agencies wanted a new lock as quickly as possible, reported that funds for construction already were available.

Powers Physician Named For Menominee Board
LANSING, Feb. 26—P—The executive office today announced appointment of Stanley Biernacki, Hamtramck, as a member of the Wayne county draft board No. 51, succeeding Michael J. Grajewski, resigned.

Appointment of the following dental and medical examining physicians for draft boards also was announced:

Menominee county board No. 1, John W. Tovey, Powers; Washenaw county board No. 2, Richard Baugh, Milan, and from Wayne county, William F. Hill, Detroit, board No. 8; W. C. Brunk, Edward K. Carmichael, George E. Chittenden, John B. Hartzell, Alpheus F. Jennings, Donald F. McDonald, Carlisle F. Schroeder, Silas W. Wallace and Leslie F. Wilcox, Detroit, board No. 10; John L. Langohr, Detroit, board No. 11; Harold H. Harris, Detroit, board No. 44; Edmund Bogarski, Wyandotte, board No. 58.

Winter Fails To Halt U. P. Bridge Jobs

Despite winter weather conditions and uncertainty in obtaining critical materials progress is being made on several bridge and dock jobs in the Upper Peninsula, the state highway department reports.

Construction plans have been altered in many instances to permit a wider use of wood timbers in bridge and dock structures reducing steel requirements to a minimum. Work on some inactive projects will be resumed in the spring.

On relocated M-28 in Chippewa county construction of a wood bridge over the Waikita river is being continued by the contractor. The bridge will have an asphalt surfacing over a laminated wood floor on the roadway.

Causeway Stone Produced
The production of cover stone for the causeway job at St. Ignace is underway near Manistique by the Inland Lime & Stone company, although the contractor has temporarily suspended work at the site. Operations will be resumed in the spring with the shipment of the stone to St. Ignace by rail, and from there to the causeway on barges.

Plans for a ferry dock to be built at the end of the Straits causeway have been changed to meet war-time conditions. Original plans called for the use of steel sheet piling in the dock. Now a wood crib and wood piling dock is proposed. The state administrative board recently authorized the highway department to purchase nearly one and one-half million board feet of white pine timbers salvaged in the razing of an ore dock at Escanaba. Some of this timber will be used in construction of the causeway dock.

Work continues on the Cut River bridge on US-2 in Mackinac county, although it may be halted if there is a change in priorities on structural steel. Contract for the bridge superstructure was awarded last November and considerable progress has been made on the project.

The construction of two bridges on Federal forest highway 13 from Nahma junction north in Delta county has been halted for the winter, but will be continued in the spring.

Bids have been taken by the highway department on two other bridge jobs in the Upper Peninsula—at Fortune Lake on US-2 west of Crystal Falls in Iron county, and on relocated M-95 north of Republic in Marquette county.

Merchants Meet Monday At Clifton

All merchants in the city are invited to attend a dinner-meeting of the Retail Merchants bureau in the Clifton hotel Monday evening, beginning at 6:30.

Many important matters of interest to bureau members and others will be discussed. Holiday closing dates will be set. The delivery problem will be discussed and the merchants also will consider installation of parking meters as a possible solution to traffic and parking congestion in the business district.

Persons planning to attend are asked to telephone the Chamber of Commerce, 411, and make reservations not later than Saturday.

L. C. Aschom, bureau chairman, will preside.

Hamari Seeks Damages In Civil Suit

The only jury trial in the February term of Marquette county circuit court, that of the civil suit brought by Pasillus Hamari, of Ishpeming, against Leonard Miller, as the result of an automobile accident, will be continued in the court house here today.

Hamari is seeking $10,000 damages for medical bills and "loss of services" ordinarily performed by his wife, who was injured in an auto accident in front of the Ishpeming postoffice on August 24, 1940, involving the defendant.

An award of $1,058 was made to Mrs. Hamari in the September, 1941, term of court for personal injuries suffered in the accident. Mr. Hamari claims that because of her injuries, his wife is unable to perform work about the house and that he is forced to hire someone else to do the housework.

The plaintiff's testimony is in and several defenses witnesses were on the stand yesterday. Court was adjourned for the day just before the defendant was scheduled to take the stand.

Ray Derham, Iron Mountain attorney, is representing the plaintiff and George C. Quinnell is counsel for the defense.

The case of Alice Murphy vs. John C. Shea and Seaboard Surety corporation, also scheduled for jury trial this week, has been continued to the next term. All jurors except those in the Hamari-Miller case have been dismissed until April 1 when the case of Dorothy Jean Anderson vs. Edwin Albert Goebel, Jr. and General Finance corporation is scheduled for trial.

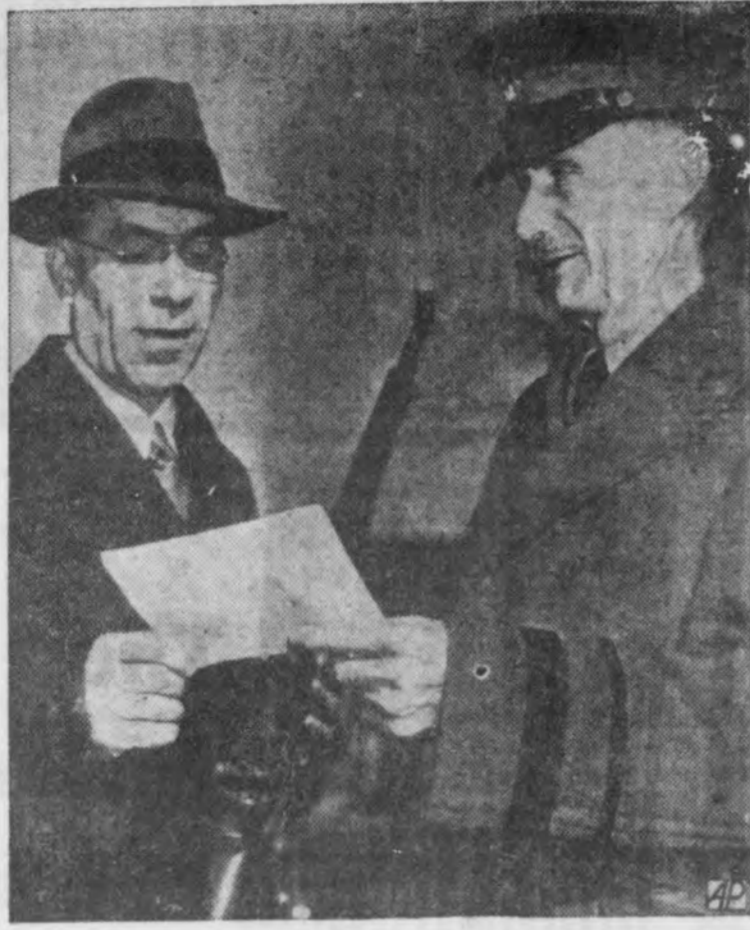

School To Organize Junior Defense Groups

LANSING, Feb. 26—P—Organization of junior defense councils in high schools throughout Michigan will start Friday, initiated at an historical pageant at the Mackenzie school in Detroit, the state defense council said today.

Junior councils, composed of five to 15 members, will aid their elders in many branches of the civilian war endeavor, Lieut. Col. Harold A. Furlong, state defense administrator, said.

He added he expected the junior councils would give valuable assistance in morale undertakings, organizing victory gardens, collecting reading material for soldiers and a long list of other things.

Tire Thief Wounded Fleeing From Officer

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 26—P—A patrolman's bullet struck and wounded Charles H. Weaver, 36, as he sought to flee following his arrest for the theft of tires from an automobile service station today.

The policeman, Harley Wilcox, said he halted Weaver as Weaver appeared from behind the service station carrying three stolen tires. The officer said he fired two shots at Weaver as the captive sought to escape before the arrival of a patrol wagon. One bullet struck Weaver in the thigh.

Full Report On Army's Drive Today

A full report from all teams and individual solicitors will be made at the Salvation Army building campaign luncheon in the Northland hotel today, beginning at 12:15.

W. E. Miller, chairman of the men's division, will be in charge of the meeting. A "special message" will be given at the luncheon by Young Kaufman, general chairman of the drive.

School officials are conducting the campaign in each school in the community.

The Lake Shore Engineering company was the first industrial unit to report. Burt L. Watt, superintendent, yesterday reported results of the campaign at the Lake Shore plant.

AAA Committeemen Start 'Food for Freedom' Drive

LANSING, Feb. 26—P—Michigan farmers are going to be wooed. Asserting "our main job is to get production," Clarence W. Swanebeck, acting chairman of the Michigan agricultural adjustment administration, said today that 4,000 AAA committeemen will start a drive next week to gear farmers for the "food for freedom" campaign.

"If farmers get their crops in the ground," said Swanebeck, "we'll find a way to get them harvested."

The AAA drive includes intensification of the farm machinery repair program, collection and disposition of farm scrap metal, surveys of rural auto graveyards and junk yards, and shortages of farm labor, repair parts, feed and seed and grain storage facilities.

Army Adopts New System Of Induction

A new system of inducting selective service units the same day they receive their U. S. Army physical examinations will be effective as soon as instructions, now in the mail, reach local draft boards, it was learned yesterday.

Previously, men classified by their local boards as acceptable for service have been given their Army physical examinations about 10 days before they received orders to report for induction.

Although the Marquette county board has not yet received instructions on the new plan, it is interpreted as meaning that selectees from all parts of the U. P. who pass the medical examining board tests at St. Luke's hospital here will be sent directly to a reception center and will not return to their home towns before being inducted.

To Expedite Work
The new system apparently will prevent appeals for stays of induction or deferment to the local board after the Army examination. The board has heard many such appeals in the past, when selectees neglected to arrange their affairs before examination.

The War Department has assured selective service officials that in cases where immediate induction will cause undue hardship, the draftee will be given a furlough to wind up his affairs.

Selective service officials said registrants who have passed examinations under the old procedure, but who have not yet been inducted probably will receive induction orders before their local boards change over to the new plan. The mechanics of the shift, and the time necessary to accomplish it, are matters for the boards to determine in the light of local conditions, they said.

Your Federal Income Tax

CHECKING DELINQUENTS
The Bureau of Internal Revenue has at its command many sources for checking up delinquent taxpayers. One of these is the "information at source" provision of the Internal Revenue Code, under which persons, "in whatever capacity acting," are required to report on Form 1099, to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, D. C., payments of fixed or determinable income to another in the calendar year of 1941 of $750 or more. If the recipient is married, and is a citizen or resident of the United States, reports need not be made of salary or other compensation for personal services unless the payments aggregate $1,500 or more. If the marital status of the payee is unknown to the payor, the payee is considered a single person for the purpose of filing an information return of salary or other compensation for personal services. Fixed or determinable income includes wages, salaries, royalties, premiums, rent, interest, etc. A separate return of information for each employe is required of employers. The requirements are not limited to periodical payments, but a single payment must be reported. Domestic and resident foreign corporations are required to make a separate report, Form 1099, of div-

dends or distributions for each individual, citizen, or resident of the United States, resident fiduciary, or a resident partnership any member of which is a citizen or resident, who was paid $100 or more during the calendar year 1941.

All persons or organizations acting at any time during the year 1941 as broker or other agent in stock, bond, or commodity transactions (including banks which handle clearing orders for depositors or custodian accounts) are required to file annual returns of information on Form 1100 with respect to all customers, depositors, or accounts for whom of which the total amount of the sales of securities or commodities, or the total market value of the securities exchanged, is $25,000 or more during the calendar year 1941 and each subsequent calendar year, with certain exceptions. A separate Form 1100 must be prepared for each customer, depositor, or account for whom or which business was transacted during the year, and must show the name and address and other information provided for in the form.

Information returns are carefully checked with individual returns of taxpayers. Thousands of delinquent returns and additional revenue amounting to millions of dollars have been secured as the result of the examination of information returns.

The number of service stations in the United States has increased 146 per cent in the last 10 years.

The delicious flavor of Hills Bros Coffee never varies

"Now that's what I call good coffee!"

Variation in roasting coffee causes variation in flavor. Hills Bros. prevent variation in the flavor of their coffee by "Controlled Roasting"—a process originated and used exclusively by them. This process roasts this fine blend of coffee a little at a time . . . continuously . . . and evenly. As a result every pound of Hills Bros. Coffee is exactly the same. And that means a delicious, uniform flavor not found in coffees that are roasted by ordinary methods.

Hills Bros. Coffee is one coffee you can use in any kind of coffee-maker. The Correct Grind is guaranteed to produce best results in Drip, Glass Maker, Percolator, or Pot, if the directions on the side of the Hills Bros. Coffee can are followed.

MIXED EMOTIONS
CHAPTER XIV

Dr. Tower smiled again. "What are your plans for—later, Parris? After Vienna?"

"I want to be a doctor out at the asylum."

"Here—in Kings Row?"

"Yes, sir."

"What put that idea into your head?"

"Tom Carr."

"Who is he?"

"A man who works on our place."

"Indeed, you seem to have a number of influences."

Parris flushed again. He felt his cheeks grow hotter as Dr. Tower's sarcastic tone took full effect. He spoke up with an almost defiant loyalty. "Tom Carr is a very unusual man."

"I have no doubt. Suppose you tell me about him."

Parris related the story of Lucy Carr and her death, and explained the way he had felt, even at the outset of his acquaintance with her, that there should be some way to—save her fitting mind and hold it still. Dr. Tower listened without a word of comment.

"And there's another thing, too—somebody else."

Parris told Dr. Tower of Benny Singer and of old Tom Carr's theories about curing him, or at least helping him. He finished, a little disconcerted by Dr. Tower's silence. The doctor pushed the papers aside.

"I owe you some kind of an apology."

"What for?"

"Well, if you don't know, all right. I apologize just the same. You ought to be a fine doctor. There's just one thing I feel a little dubious about."

Parris waited.

"It's your idea of coming back here to King's Row."

"Well, Tom Carr was the first one to suggest it, and then I kind of mentioned it to my grandmother, and she spoke right away to Colonel Sheffington, and he spoke to Dr. Nolan out at the asylum."

Dr. Tower laughed once more. "I dare say. I dare say. Well, you seem to have friends paying the way for you. It's just—"

"Just what sir?"

"Young eagles should nest far from home. Ever hear that?"

"No, sir."

"It's a good saying. There's a curious rivalry between the old and the young. It's everywhere, but it's keener, and it's more ruthless and more cruel in the home nest, so to speak."

"I—I guess I don't understand that very well."

He had seen Cassandra several times this year—whenever she could slip away," as she said. He had never felt any unease of conscience about it. Those meetings with Cassandra were in a world apart. Once Dr. Tower had used the phrase, "We live in multiple worlds many of which are solitary and strange to all others," and he had found himself making immediate application of the figure to himself and Cassandra. As Drake would have said, and did, in fact, say several times, it was their own business.

Just now he was less certain about that.

Cassandra! He could not precisely say to himself how he felt about her. He had always been quite clear about his feelings for other people. His likes and dislikes, his attractions and gravitations, fell into easily recognizable categories. He knew exactly how he felt about Renee—still. He knew how he felt about Drake, and almost anyone he knew well. But, Cassie. That was a different relationship. She made him uncomfortable sometimes, and sometimes she almost terrified him. She was so wild, so violent, so—so furious. He understood now what she had said that first night in this very study. She had been right. He was not in love with her—not exactly. He didn't know what to call it. It was a fascination of some kind that came back again and again with unflagging force.

Just now he was once more aware of the disastrous consequences that might follow if Dr. Tower so much as suspected anything. There was a quality of threat about the man that was not comfortable to contemplate.

Parris hurried toward home. He was nearly at the end of Federal street when Drake overtook him. Drake had gotten rid of old Molly, and the new chestnut horse was smart-looking and high-spirited.

"Hop in. I'll drive you home. I got something for you."

"Oh." Parris' exclamation was wanted to nap. I guess you better not wake her up."

He felt mightily relieved. "All right. I guess I just got a little worried when Dr. Tower said he thought she didn't look so well."

"She's had a little cold, you know. That pulls a body down, too. Look Parris. The cookies are done."

Parris grinned. "And a glass of milk?"

"Good. I get it right away."

"I've got to telephone, too. I'll be right back."

Parris was invaded by the strangest discomfort he had ever known. He was unable to analyze it, but he knew it was more acute and arose from deeper sources than the normal unrest of spring. He roamed the place from end to end. As soon as he sat down to work he thought of some corner of a field, some stretch of windy slope, some tree, even, that he felt he must see at once.

Madame von Ein observed his restlessness. So did Anna.

"Anna, what is the matter with Parris? He seems unlike himself these days."

"Yes, Madame, I have been watching him. He no sooner comes in than he goes out again."

"Where is he now?"

"Up there at the beginning of the orchard. He's standing there looking at a tree."

"A tree? Looking at a tree, did you say?"

"Yes, Madame."

"Anna, are you suggesting that my grandson is maybe a little peculiar in the head?"

Anna laughed. "No, Madame, no. But he looks at stones, too."

Madame resumed her seat, and Anna spread the brilliant peacock Afghan over her feet. Madame put on her thick-lensed glasses and looked at Anna with lively amusement.

"Anna, I understand you less and less each minute. Of course he looks at things. How could he avoid looking at things? Come now, what are you talking about?"

Anna took a deeper breath and wrapped her hands stubbornly in her checked gingham apron.

"It is just as I say, Madame. All the time he goes out. Then he looks at things."

Madame began to laugh. Her thin shoulders shook. "Anna, you are a true Alsatian. Tell me in your own way. Go on."

"It is peculiar. He walks all over the place; he looks at the sky and at the ground and at the trees. He picks up a stone and stares at it as if it were strange, then drops it and picks up another. He feels of twigs and fingers the evergreens, and—and—looks at things."

"Heaven help us, maybe he's turning poet."

"No, Madame."

"Anna, maybe there is a girl!"

"I don't think so."

"What is the matter with this young gentleman, then?"

"I think he is in love—"

"But you said—"

"Oh, not with a gal, Madame, but here—with this place."

"I have no idea what you are talking about."

"It is this. I think Parris feels something. I think he does not know what it is. I think he feels change. I think he is afraid something is to happen and he does not understand. Oh, Madame, you know I have watched him grow every day of his life. I feel, in here, sometimes just what he feels. I think he cannot help but see that Madame was silent for several minutes. Anna kept her hands tightly twisted in her apron.

"You were saying, Anna, that he is in love with this place."

"Yes, of course. It is home. Madame, I remember it well, when I knew I was to leave my home forever. I could not see it enough. I looked at every bush, every little leaf. It is like that, Madame, with Parris."

"Perhaps you are right, Anna. I suppose there is nothing we can do."

Local Draft Boards To Take Blood Tests

LANSING, Feb. 26—AP—Blood tests of draft registrants again will be taken by local boards before draftees are sent to Army examining boards at induction centers, Col. E. M. Rosecrans, state selective service director and adjutant general of Michigan, said.

Resumption of the procedure, previously abandoned when some draftees passed by local boards were rejected later by Army physicians, is designed to reduce the time required to obtain a report on the tests, officials said.

Local examining boards, which will make the change as soon as possible, will not be required to make a physical examination of draftees.

VFW State Convention May Be Cancelled

DETROIT, Feb. 26—AP—The Veterans of Foreign Wars may cancel plans for the state convention here because of the war.

Opposition to holding the convention has developed, leaders said here, because war work would prevent staging it in its full gayety.

The VFW Wayne county council at its last meeting proposed to recall the invitation to hold the convention in Detroit.

CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE

ST. CLAIR, Mich., Feb. 26—AP—Fire that swept the small Daniel Wood home here yesterday morning killed two children and critically injured two others. The blaze spread from the kitchen to a bedroom where the children were sleeping. Larry Daniel Wood, 4, and Richard, 2, died in the blaze.

Pressure For Steel Output Increases

(From Iron Age)

War requirements for steel are now estimated at more than 43 million tons of ingots for the current year—a figure showing the extraordinary effort U. S. industry is putting forth in the war against the Axis nations.

This great volume of steel will be earmarked for such direct war needs as the shipbuilding and railroads industries, the shell steel and tank manufacturers and for lend-lease. Indirect war needs will take additional large tonnages but it is the big tonnage required for the foregoing five major groups that will brush aside much other demand for this metal.

Regardless of how successfully government control of steel distribution is applied through the priority system, it appears likely that certain "indirect" war requirements must suffer along with some "essential" civilian requirements to provide the steel needed for the maximum war effort. Already many steel mills are scheduled months ahead on steel orders carrying ratings of A-1 or better with some units unable to promise delivery on anything less than A-1-a for weeks to come.

Nothing Overlooked
With such great pressure for steel, no step can be overlooked which will add to supplies. Automobile and automobile body manufacturers have been advised by telegram by the War Production Board not to make shipments from their steel stocks except on orders bearing specified high preference ratings.

In a similar order, accompanying a general tightening up of the entire priority system as applied to metals, steel manufacturers supplying the petroleum industry have been told by the WPB not to ship casing, tubing or drill pipe on or after March 14, or to ship line pipe on or after March 7 except on orders bearing a rating of A-9 or higher. The purpose of the order is to prevent shipments of steel on unrated orders, and insure that the limitations applying to the petroleum industry are observed.

Steel production continues at the record level of a week ago with the rate at 95.5 per cent of capacity. The Pittsburgh rate is unchanged this week at 97 per cent, while Chicago declined to 101 per cent. Youngstown rose a point to 96 per cent. Philadelphia remained unchanged at 91 per cent and Buffalo at 90 per cent. Wheeling is down three points to 91 per cent, while Birmingham is unchanged at 99 per cent. Detroit dropped seven points to 94 per cent while Southern Ohio river is up a point to 99 per cent.

Strike Bugaboo Remains
Whether these high rates of ingot production can be maintained indefinitely without losses due to strikes is a question that is bound to recur, according to industrial observers, despite President Roosevelt's emphasized warning in his February 23 address to the nation that no "interruptions" must stop the flow of industrial production for defense. Again the National War Labor Board is face to face with the demand for the closed shop and dues checkoff. Should the War Labor Board grant the demand of the SWOC for a steel wage increase and for the closed shop it would set a precedent to cover not only the steel industry, but industry generally. For the time being interest in what the board's decision will be on the closed shop is great enough to overshadow the important question of higher steel wages and their effect on inflation.

While the production drive must necessarily be concentrated on existing plants, since the U. S. is faced with a definite shortage of time, important new plants still are being considered. Plans are being studied, for example, for a large new bomber plant in Ohio to have some 2,000,000 square feet of floor space and employ more than 20,000 persons. A toluene plant producing as much as the entire U. S. output in the First World War is to be built in Indiana. It will be completed well within the period in which the nation still "has time" to defend itself.

CALUMET NATIVE DIES
DICKINSON, N. D., Feb. 26—P—The body of James E. Fisher, 60, assistant secretary and treasurer of Phelps-Dodge Mining Co. until retirement Jan. 1, who died here Wednesday, will be taken to Calumet, Mich., Saturday for funeral services and burial there. A native of Calumet and son of the late Judge William Fisher, he was secretary of the Calumet & Arizona Mining Co. until it was merged eight years ago with Phelps-Dodge. Survivors are the widow,

Old Age Aid Payments To Be Increased

LANSING, Feb. 26—P—The state social welfare commission today approved a cautious program for the expenditure of $1,600,000 appropriated by the special session of the legislature to increase grants to needy mothers and the aged.

The program was described by F. F. Fauri, state social security supervisor, as "feeling our way along for a couple of months."

Starting from an old age assistance payment averaging $18.29 this month, the program will pay an average of $18.60 in March, reach $20.10 in September and $20.60 the following spring. At the same time, payments to aid dependent children cases will be increased about $1 a month on the average and case grant "ceilings" will be raised $1.

Fauri, recommending the program, told the commission that increased living costs, mostly rents, caused old age assistance costs to jump 15 cents a month since July. To Affect 116,000 Cases
Such a factor, he said, prevented the payments from being boosted at once to $20 a month, as Governor Van Wagoner has suggested when he asked the legislature for the special fund.

"If we raised the payments to $20 in two months," Fauri said, "you couldn't keep it there. It would be $24 by the end of the year."

Pointing out increases voted for both categories of public assistance would affect a total of 116,000 cases, Fauri said three months would be needed to effect the increases.

The commission will act tomorrow on a recommendation it allocated $606,000 to the counties for March direct relief costs, compared with $682,000 in March last year and $544,375 this month.

Veneral Disease Law Protects Servicemen

LANSING, Feb. 26—P—Protection of health of men in Army camps and workers in war industries is provided in the new law controlling veneral disease, said Dr. F. J. Weber, acting director of the state health department's veneral disease bureau.

The law, signed yesterday by Governor Van Wagoner, requires every person arrested and charged with prostitution, must submit to a physical examination and permit hospitalization of "recalcitrants" who refuse or fail to obtain medical treatment for veneral disease.

Upon application of a county or city health officer, Weber said, a probate court must issue a hospitalization order in such cases and expense of hospitalization is to be borne by the county where the patient resides or is found.

Previous authority to hospitalize veneral disease cases was inadventently repealed several years ago when the pre-marital blood testing law was passed, said Dr. Allen Moyer, state health commissioner.

Smelt Fishing Increasing In Popularity

LANSING, Feb. 26—P—Smelt fishing, the popular late winter and early spring sport of anglers, is increasing in popularity this week, the state conservation department said today in its weekly ice fishing conditions report.

Smelt are biting particularly well on Lake Charlevoix near Boyne City and on Little Bay de Noc.

The department reported declining interest in fishing although prospects are good, and reminded anglers the bluegill fishing and spearing on inland lakes stops Saturday. Fishing on all lake lakes closes March 15.

The report by districts:
Gogebic-Ontonagon—Fishing is fair for perch, walleyes and northern pike although fishermen are becoming fewer. Roads and ice conditions are excellent.

Marquette-Alger—Pike fishing continues fair to good on pike lakes, but little fishing is being done.

Iron-Dickinson—Fishermen are scarce in spite of favorable conditions and prospects.

Delta-Menominee—Perch and smelt are biting well in Little Bay de Noc out of Escanaba and smelt are moving into the bay in great numbers.

MEDIATE DISPUTE
LANSING, Feb. 26—P—Governor Van Wagoner created a special commission today to mediate a labor dispute at the Jennings hospital, Detroit. The dispute is between management and hospital employees affiliated with the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Alliance, Local 705 AFL, the Governor said.

He named as chairman of the special commission Frank Kolodziejki, state cancellor to serve with the Rev. Rollin J. Fairbanks, of St. James Episcopal church, Grosse Ile, and Andrew J. Belanger, Detroit.

It's Amazing How We Tend To 'Kid' Ourselves

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

The past weeks several women have confessed that the war news gives them the jitters, that they simply can't bear to hear over the radio or read in the newspapers any more about the war.

Phooie! If that's the way you feel the best thing to do is to go for a good brisk walk, breathe deep, and then return and sit down and read about the war, or turn on your radio and listen to the communiques.

I assure you, it is most impractical to have the jitters now because you are going to have to harden yourself to hear more, and not only to hear about it, but to do something about it.

It's perfectly astounding how much one can endure when he has to and has stubbornly made up his mind to do so.

Every intelligent and thinking person must needs be somewhat, yet considerably, disturbed when he contemplates the mistakes we have made in the past and the price we are paying now for those mistakes.

We should ponder and have ideas about what we think should be done in the future when this gigantic struggle finally ends. But there is no use in squealing hysterically as a small child may do when he sees a vicious looking rat.

It is a much more sane and adult attitude to go about the business of getting rid of the rat. Sometimes the youngest screams because it makes the situation dramatic and then the women will fly at my throat for this I think some of the women who acquire voluble war jitters are indulging in a bit of self-dramatization.

You will note that most of the women, who have men in the fighting forces, are settling down, each to do in her small way what she can to help support and keep up the morale of those men.

She's Acting Sensitive
She is buying conscientiously so as not to upset the current market by any wild purchases of articles in which there may be shortages. She is planning her meals so she will not have to use as much of food products in which there is a threatened shortage.

Those women are not wondering if we are going to starve. They have faith in their country and their government (muddled headed as it acts at times) and those women, who have the greatest reason to feel worried, for they have their own flesh and blood in the conflict, are grimly going about making up their minds to read everything they can get their hands on and to read it carefully and intelligently.

Sometimes, when they see folk taking advantage of the present situation, they are getting fighting mad, and more power to them for a good outburst of temper directed against persons in office, who are not doing their job, is a salutary thing for all concerned.

The women who say they are terrified at the war news are getting ahead of themselves, becoming terrified before there is a real occasion. Save that terror until we are caught in a bombing raid, and then—like the boys in the battles, we'll be too busy attending to things and saving ourselves to have time to be terrified.

Is Vicious Circle
When any woman permits herself to say "I am terrified," she is erecting a special mental hazard for herself; for fear has a way of accumulating and building up on itself.

If we get down to business, every one from the highest to the most humble, there will be no need of getting so frightened and nervous we raise our blood-pressure. As far as I am concerned I'd rather risk sending that blood-pressure shooting sky high by getting blame good and mad and indignant, than by being frightened.

You know your ability to endure depends on an amazing degree upon our faith in ourselves. That is not true for all persons, for the really ill and delicate and pathologically hyper-sensitive, but it applies to most of us.

Society-Club

Attended Meeting—Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Saari have returned from Chicago where the former attended the meeting of the Chicago Dental Society.

Meeting Sunday—The Wesleyan Guild of the First Methodist church will hold its meeting from 5 to 7 p. m. Sunday in the social rooms. Mrs. Sidney Smith will give a talk on "Christian Imperative." Supper will be served at the conclusion of the program.

Meeting Postponed—The annual meeting of the First Presbyterian church has been postponed by the session from Tuesday, March 3, to Tuesday night, March 10, to enable the board to complete the annual canvass for funds. All members are asked to return their signed pledge cards as soon as possible so as to facilitate the work of the board.

Rummage Sale — The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church will conduct a rummage sale at 7:15 next Tuesday night. Contributions for the sale may be brought to the church Monday afternoon and evening and all day Tuesday. Those having articles for the sale which they are unable to bring are asked to telephone Mrs. Caroline Anderson, 152-J, or Mrs. Helen Carlson, 225-J, and arrangements will be made to call for them.

W. C. T. U. Cooperates — The Rev. R. Corly was guest speaker at the meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union held Wednesday afternoon, in the Federated Women's club. The speaker told about the national organization working in the interests of decent literature. He told of what has been done in Marquette to ban harmful literature, and answered the many questions which the women asked concerning the work.

Can You Answer This Test on Manners?

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

- When riding in another person's automobile, should you suggest going farther than had been planned originally—or let the driver suggest any change of plans?
- If you go somewhere in a friend's car and stop for refreshments, should you offer to pay for them?
- If you are responsible for seeing that your club news gets in the local newspaper each week, should you find out when is the best time to telephone the news to the paper?
- Is it up to you to find out how long in advance notices should be in?
- Would it be a good idea to ask the society editor, or whoever handles the club news, to tell you just what facts you should give her?
- What would you do if—
You are reporting a club meeting to the society editor of the local paper, and you have a list of names you would like included in the story—
(a) Type the name, being sure to spell every name correctly—and take or send it to the society editor?
(b) Call up and give the story over the telephone?

- Answers
- Let the driver make such suggestions.
 - It would be the gracious thing to do. Unless, of course, you are a woman and the friend is a man.
 - Yes. For there are especially busy times in a newspaper office.
 - Yes.
 - Better "What Would You Do" solution—(a).

and dug out of the boxes eight old copper plates. One was the plate of her mother's wedding invitation issued in 1840! The others were plates of calling cards used in the family since that date.

The country needed copper and her eight plates, though a drop in the bucket, made a contribution. That's the attitude that will keep one from getting the war jitters. Indubitably the war has brought problems and will bring more, but we can determine to face those problems. We don't have to be afraid!

Ellis Roberts Was One Of Earliest Troop Leaders; Has Been Interested, Too, In Cubs

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Roberts, former residents of Oshkosh, Wis., have recently become residents of Marquette to the huge delight of all members of the Boy Scouts Council, for Mr. Roberts has, almost since the beginning of the Scouts program in the United States, been closely identified with the work.

Something of the esteem in which he is held may be gleaned from the fact that on Sunday, February 15, citizens of Oshkosh, Scouts and leaders, assembled in the recreational room of the Oshkosh high school for a farewell reception for Mr. and Mrs. Roberts.

Scouts of the district council comprising Winnebago, Waushara, Waupaca and Green Lake counties, as well as Oshkosh friends, met to do him honor.

Editorial Lauds Work
The Oshkosh Daily Northwestern, in its editorial, "Pa Roberts," noted that the all-community event held in his honor was an "event of deep and happy significance to Ellis Roberts, aged 71, veteran retired postal employe and one of the faithful and dynamic leaders in the Boy Scout movement." * * * They call him "Pa" and term of affection and esteem amounts to reverence, for Ellis Roberts has been a father to the Boy Scouts from the very inception of the movement in this area, something like 30 years ago. * * *

It is no exaggeration to say that probably no leader in the nation has devoted more of his time and energy and thought to Scouting and to youthful America than Ellis Roberts.

"He has given week days, Sundays, holidays, and practically every moment he could spare to the Scouts and their progress. He has lived Scouting, dreamed Scouting and personified Scouting." * * *

There are great numbers of business men now in the 40 years of age brackets who can look back to the powerful and helpful influence of "Pa" Roberts. Thousands of boys have come under his personal influence and assistance at some point. He is widely and intimately acquainted all over the state, among both young and older men interested in Boy Scout work. And he will leave Oshkosh with the satisfaction of knowing he has the best wishes of his devoted friends.

These are but meager excerpts from the laudatory editorial written with a sincere admiration for the man who has through so many years contributed his time and efforts in the interest of helping boys.

Mr. Roberts was born at Fair Haven, Vt., May 8, 1870. His parents had come to Vermont from Wales and during Mr. Roberts' boyhood they returned to Wales, taking their son with them. Later they again came to the United States and settled in Ishpeming.

Mr. Roberts went to Oshkosh in 1885. He left school at the completion of the eighth grade and worked in job printing offices from 1888 to 1899. He began his service as a letter carrier for the Oshkosh post office in 1899 and retired in 1935 after 36 years of service.

He was interested in the YMCA, but the Boy Scout work has been his principal interest. The Scout movement was founded in the United States, February 8, 1910, and soon afterward was taken up in Wisconsin. Mr. Roberts became an assistant Scoutmaster, August 12, 1912, in a troop at the Plymouth Congregational church.

A short time later he took over the troop at the First Congregational church. In 1914, he became a deputy commissioner of the Scout Council, and in 1922 became commissioner, serving in that capacity for 10 years.

Instituted Ranger Program
Before the Boy Scouts of America adopted the Cub program for younger boys, Mr. Roberts introduced the Ranger program in Oshkosh for boys under 12 years of age. Then on December 1, 1930, he founded Cub Pack No. 1 at the First Congregational church and has been its leader since that time.

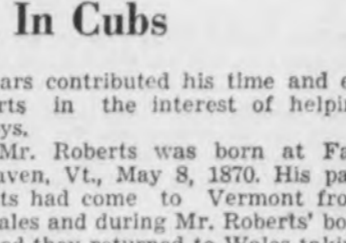

He became Cub commissioner in 1932 and served continuously in that position to the present time.

He has been awarded the Scoutmaster's Key and has been given the Silver Beaver award in recognition of "service to boyhood."

Mr. Roberts has long been an advocate of the camping program of the Boy Scout movement and has pioneered in conducting Scout camps. He is no stranger to Boy Scouts of the Halloway area for he has been on the staff of the Minnetonka camp at Ishpeming for the past three summers.

Mr. Roberts has come to make his home in Marquette because he differs from his wife and finds relief here. Needless to say, the Scouts and members of the Boy Scout Council are glad that he is relieved of his residence here will enable him to make such a vital contribution to the Scouting program in this area.

Wears Odd Set

Time, the Future, Charlotte designed this real-barley necklace, bracelet and earring set which typifies the costume jewelry to come. The grain is dyed in luscious colors.

Here is a time-saving menu based on yesterday's market order and cooked meat, says Mrs. Gaynor Maddox. By doing the major ordering and cooking for two days' dinners at once, the American housewife gains extra time to devote to her defense activities.

Hot ham salad, made from the leftovers of yesterday's smoked pork butt, is the main item on this dinner menu with the remainder quickly prepared from the items purchased yesterday.

Hot Ham Salad With Mustard Dressing
(Makes six servings.)
One and one-half cups diced cold ham, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle or sweet pickle relish, 1-2 cup diced orange, 1-2 cup pineapple cubes, 1-4 cup chopped nut meats, 3-4 cup mustard dressing, 1-2 cup finely diced cracker crumbs.

Combine diced ham, pickle, orange, pineapple and nut meats. Heat mustard dressing over hot water in top part of double boiler (make dressing by adding 2 tablespoons mustard to each cup of mayonnaise). Add ham mixture to dressing and cook for five minutes. Place in individual custard cups or casserole, top with cracker crumbs, and place in broiling unit 4 to 6 inches below flame; broil until crumbs are browned. Serve hot.

Here is a quickly prepared recipe for a good dessert:

Raspberry Red Hearts
One package raspberry fruit-flavored gelatin, 1 pint hot water. Stir until completely dissolved. Pour into 8 by 8 by 2 cake pan and chill until firm. Unmold on tray and cut into heart shapes with cookie cutter. Serve two hearts on each plate. Serve with whipped cream and diced fresh fruit.

MENU
Breakfast: Grapefruit and orange juice, coffee cakes, brown bread, coffee, milk.
Luncheon: Clear tomato soup, baked bean salad, enriched toast, stewed fruit, cookies, tea, milk.
Dinner: (See column).

TAFFY TIPS
An old-fashioned taffy pull will be lots of fun if you want to entertain a group of young people one of these cold winter evenings. But here's a tip: Be sure that the pan in which you cook the mixture is plenty large, else when the candy "boils up," it overflows the kettle. Also, when pulling taffy, use thumb and fingers rather than the whole hand.

ELECTRIC ROASTER CARE
To keep an electric roaster in good condition, be sure that it is not plugged into a circuit that is already being used for some other appliance with a heating element. Likewise, never plug cord for body of the roaster and broiler on the same circuit and do not connect it to a drop cord from the ceiling. Never immerse the outer shell, broiling or grid unit in water; wipe clean with a damp, never a wet, cloth. Always use inset pan unless otherwise directed.

FURNITURE SHINES
If your fine mahogany furniture becomes clouded and soiled, a thorough cleaning is in order. Use only a very mild soap thoroughly dissolved in water, wring out the washing cloth dry as possible, cover only a small area at a time, and dry quickly with a soft clean cloth. Rewax with a reliable commercial wax, applied sparingly and rubbed lightly with the grain to a fine lustre.

The Way of All Metal
Women who have happened to go shopping the past few days may have noted that there has been a definite change in costume jewelry. It is said that after March, it may be, no metals will be allowed for such non-essential gew-gaws as jewelry.

But plastic stones, sterling silver, and all kinds of novelties make some of the new jewelry most attractive. It is amazing how the designer's ingenuity has succeeded in turning out chic jewelry. Necklaces, bracelets, and pins are offered in a variety of smart designs, and wood, variously carved and colored, goes into the making of those ornaments which are so appealing when worn with sweater sets, suits, or even somewhat more fancy dresses.

There are all kinds of ornaments made of shells, some of them more interesting by reason of novelty than beauty, but others that are graceful and charming.

Plastic sets of bracelet, necklace and earrings are bound to prove popular for they are offered in some delightful colors. Among the interesting and unusual are three-piece sets made of real-barley, or of various kinds of seeds and nuts.

The women are willing to wear substitutes and a glance about the shops shows that war substitutes can be most attractive.

State Federation Of Women's Clubs Holds Annual Meeting In Book-Cadillac, Detroit

The forty-eighth annual convention of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs will be held, March 18-21, in Detroit. The Book-Cadillac hotel, will be the convention headquarters, and all business and general sessions will be held in the grand ballroom.

Salvation Army Notes 'Prison Sunday'

Sunday, March 1, is known as "Prison Sunday" in the Salvation Army. Religious services will be conducted in every prison, jail, or penal institution in America by the Salvation Army.

The speaker at the service at the Marquette Branch Prison, Sunday morning, will be Brigadier C. A. McClellan, officer in charge of the Salvation Army at Racine, Wis.

Brigadier McClellan will speak at two services at the Salvation Army hall, Third and Bluff streets, on Sunday, at 11 a. m. and at 8 p. m. All are invited to attend these special services.

'Home Ec' Group To Meet at Trenary

Streamlined suppers are to be planned at the next home economics extension meetings. Since so many women find supper the most puzzling meal to vary, leaders of local groups will meet on March 10 at 10 a. m. at the Trenary high school to help with this all too common problem.

Ways of serving Michigan farm products in nourishing, easily prepared suppers will be demonstrated at a "supper" prepared and served at noon by group members.

Various suggestions for ways of camouflaging left-overs in the supper menu will be featured and favorite recipes for supper dishes will be exchanged by the members. Recipe leaflets for milk and cheese dishes will be supplied and suggestions given for the care of milk in the home.

FRESH CUBES

Even if you don't use all the ice cubes manufactured in your electric refrigerator, remove them fairly frequently and freeze fresh ones. Ice cubes that remain too long in the pans acquire a stale taste.

ELIMINATE DUST

Keeping the floor of clothes closets clean will prevent dust rising and settling on clothing stored therein. Wipe up the floor occasionally with a clean cloth wrung out of warm soapy water.

Stakel Made Assistant To S. R. Elliott

ISHPEMING, Feb. 26—Effective March 1, Charles J. Stakel will become assistant manager of iron mines in the Lake Superior district for the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company.

An announcement from the office of E. B. Greene, of Cleveland, president of the company, explained that this is a new executive position, created to provide assistance to S. R. Elliott, manager, and necessitated by expanded activities in the iron ore field.

Mr. Stakel was graduated from the Michigan College of Mining and Technology in 1905 and that same year began his career with the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company as assistant engineer of the Ashland mine. Since then he has held various responsible positions in the mining department, among them, assistant chief engineer, and also as superintendent of the Republic mine, North Lake district and Cliffs Shaft mine.

During the past several years, Mr. Stakel has been active in Marquette county affairs and has given valuable service to the county as chairman of the finance committee of the board of supervisors.

Stanley W. Sundeen, who for seven years has been in the geology department of the company, and particularly engaged at the Cliffs Shaft the past few years, has been appointed, effective March 1, assistant superintendent of the Cliffs Shaft.

60 Men Get Training As Fire Wardens

ISHPEMING, Feb. 26—Sixty Ishpeming men already have begun training as auxiliary fire wardens in the civilian defense program and 30 more are needed, Fire Chief Arthur Brown stated this afternoon.

Men already registered are divided into three groups of 20 each, the first having their preliminary lesson Sunday. The second will meet Friday and the third next Wednesday. After that each group will meet weekly with a two-hour session at each meeting for six weeks. Teachers are Chief Brown, Clifford Ayotte, Sam Gaborgy, Sam Harper and William West. In addition, the drivers will demonstrate use of chemicals.

"It is necessary for a city the size of Ishpeming to have 90 auxiliary fire wardens," Chief Brown said, "and the program for complete civilian defense emphasizes that need. If men who have not been classified in some other group would like to join, we would welcome them."

"All of this is in preparation for what may come months ahead in the war. If we are to be properly prepared, we shall have need of all men who can take the work."

Ishpeming Briefs

Mrs. George Hawk has returned to Chicago after visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Lawer and other relatives.

Jack Beatty, of Kokomo, Ind., who has been visiting Lloyd Swanson and John Trembath, has returned home.

The Women's Guild of the Presbyterian church will meet at 2:30 today in the church parlors. Hostesses will be the Fred Nelson, Mrs. Gust Nelson and Mrs. Arthur Bennett.

The Priscilla society of the Evangelical Mission church will meet this evening in the church parlors. Miss Selma Brynteson and Miss Edith Haglund will be hostesses.

Donald Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin, 510 Vine street, has gone to Chicago. He is en route to Wichita, Kansas, to enroll in the United Aircraft training school.

Watchman Convicted In Rail Crossing Death

DETROIT, Feb. 26—Tommy Ross, 23-year-old grade crossing watchman, was convicted today by Recorder's Judge John V. Brennan of involuntary manslaughter in the death last Oct. 10 of Robert Miller, 37, of Detroit.

Judge Brennan, who heard the case without a jury, will sentence Ross March 5.

A witness testified that Ross, a Pere Marquette railroad signal tower watchman, failed to lower the gates as a train approached and James Ursulan, 17, drove his automobile onto the tracks. Miller, a passenger, was killed.

Ross admitted drinking before going on duty.

Medical Corps on Iceland Praised for Speedy Work

By Leo Branham
HEADQUARTERS, Iceland Base Command, Feb. 24—(Delayed)—A highly trained U. S. Army medical corps detachment and a doughy staff sergeant of aviation engineers have made the entire Iceland base command proud of them.

Their speedy, efficient work in helping care for survivors of the U. S. S. Alexander Hamilton, Coast Guard cutter torpedoed somewhere off the southern coast of Iceland, is credited by Army and Navy authorities with saving the lives of several badly wounded sailors.

It was the first real test of actual war conditions for the medical detachment, trained as specialists in evacuating the wounded from combat areas.

The Hamilton's SOS, flashed immediately after the torpedo exploded amidships, was picked up by an alert Army radio station ashore. The word was instantly relayed to headquarters. When an Icelandic resident telephoned that the first boatloads of survivors were approaching shore, the Army swung swiftly into action.

It radioed Staff Sergeant Ralph B. Stewart, of Knoxville, Tenn., and his men working near the remote fishing village from where Icelandic fishing trawlers and lifeboats bearing the Hamilton's survivors were sighted, to assist in landing operations.

Then the medical corps detachment, commanded by Captains Arthur T. Jones, of Battle Creek, Mich., and L. A. Smith, of Noonan, N. D., formed a convoy of modern combat ambulances and began a hazardous journey. That it could function so quickly and efficiently was due largely to its organization and instruction since arrival here by Major Charles Beasley, base surgeon.

Army big-wigs vow the ambulance drivers would put to shame many racers who compete each year on the Indianapolis speedway. Skilled, Daring Drivers
For many, miles these daring drivers raced skillfully along a narrow, icy rural road which traverses ancient lava beds. Deep crags border the route at many points. Making the trip more difficult—were—numerous Icelandic trucks bearing fish to market coming from the other direction. A shrieking, 40-mile wind didn't help matters, either.

In almost unbelievably short time, the ambulance convoy negotiated the treacherous route, arriving at the fishing village just as the last of the injured sailors were being carried ashore on litters improvised from rifles and blankets.

A wintry gale buffeted the fishing trawlers and lifeboats against the improvised dock of other fishing vessels. Spray from an angry sea splashed nearly 50 feet into the air.

It was under such difficult conditions that Sergeant Stewart and his men carried 44 survivors to shore. Those who were not injured were wet and shivering and suffering from exposure. The sailors were hustled to homes of fishermen. The women there, Sergeant Stewart said, reminded him of Red Cross workers in his home town in their zeal to care for the wounded and make the unimjured comfortable with dry clothing and hot drinks.

Rush Wounded to Hospital
The medical corps detachment administered first aid and rushed the wounded to a hospital.

Colonel George J. Forster, of Kansas City, assistant chief of staff in charge of the supply and evacuation section of the headquarters staff, has seen the corps in training through all the major Army maneuvers in the United States the past two years, including those in Texas and Louisiana last summer. He termed the corps' Icelandic operation a "remarkable performance" in reporting it to his chief, Major General Charles H. Bonesteel, commanding general of the Icelandic base command.

Of the 44 sailors in the group, most of whom were uninjured, not one has died.

It takes only about four seconds for a baseball batter to reach first base.

High School Boys To Make Model Planes

ISHPEMING, Feb. 26—Through the office of education in the Federal Government, school boys of Ishpeming will have an opportunity to make a direct contribution to the war effort.

Plans and specifications for co-operation in a national program to build 500,000 solid scale model airplanes for the Navy have been received here.

Junior and senior high school youths will make scale model plans for the Navy. The local quota is two sets, each consisting of 50 different scale models, the ratio being one to 72, Leonard Fla, of the high school manual arts department, announced.

"The 20 plane specifications," he said, "which have just been received are being traced and blueprinted in the manual arts department as a preliminary step."

"Certificates of award will be given by the U. S. Navy, bureau of aeronautics, through the school authorities, to all those who make models which pass final inspection."

"A local inspection committee is to be appointed and all models accepted by this group will be placed on display."

"The school quota of 100 planes is to be sent to the Naval Reserve aviation base at Chicago or Detroit. Only models which have passed official inspection can be shipped and none will be received after June 30."

Arthur Olson Promoted To Range Post

NEGAUNEE, Feb. 26—Arthur Olson, electrician for the Negaunee district of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, has been promoted to chief electrician for the Marquette range, effective March 1. His advancement was announced today in Cleveland by E. B. Greene, president of the company.

Mr. Olson is another of the many men who have worked up from the ranks to executive positions in the iron ore industry.

In 1907, when he was only 16 years old, Mr. Olson went to work at the Negaunee mine as machinist's helper. Keenly interested in electricity, he took special correspondence courses and seized every opportunity to amplify his education with practical training, with the result that six years later he was made electrician at the Mans mine. In 1915 and 1916 he held a similar position at the Negaunee mine.

His next promotion was to the important position of district electrician, for the Negaunee district. In his new capacity he will have similar responsibilities for the entire range.

He will be responsible for maintenance, inspection and repairs of all electrical equipment used in Cleveland-Cliffs mining operations and will supervise all mine electricians.

School Music Festival To Begin at 8:15

NEGAUNEE, Feb. 26—Negaunee high school music organizations, including the band, boys' glee club and girls' glee club, will present their annual music festival at 8:15 Friday night in the high school auditorium.

The program will have a patriotic theme in keeping with a program sponsored by the National Music Educators. R. W. Nordling, music director in the high school, referring to the national program, said: "Music education faces a great challenge, perhaps its greatest opportunity to demonstrate the soundness of its philosophy and to justify the recognition it has received. Without question it is the desire of every person in the field of music education to meet the challenge and make the most of the opportunity. Negaunee high school music organizations are joining similar groups throughout the United States in sponsoring patriotic programs."

The program will include an "air raid" produced by means of sound and lighting effects. Mr. Nordling and Miss Helen Raatikainen are directing the music program and E. H. Moehrke will have charge of lighting.

The program:
I. March, "Hall to America" . . . Huffer

VI. Dr. Peter Timpono, who delivered the twins today, indicated that he planned to move very carefully in preparing for any possible attempt at an operation that might successfully separate them.

He said extensive X-ray examinations would be made this week to determine whether they have the same bloodstream. The babies are joined from a point just below the chest to about an inch below the navel—a distance of about three inches.

Disclosing that many physicians had called him to offer their assistance if needed, he sighed and added:

"I have an idea of how Dr. Dafoe felt, after he'd delivered the Dionne quintuplets."

Dr. Timpono delivered the only other child born to the Picciotto couple, a baby which died shortly after its birth about 18 months ago. He said delivery of the twins was not difficult. They were baptized by the hospital chaplain and christened Joan and Vincenza.

Siamese Twins Born To N. Y. Couple

By Amy Porter
NEW YORK, Feb. 26—P—Face to face and joined together, two baby girls rested tonight in a single crib at St. Vincent's hospital, Staten Island, while in another room their mother kept asking:

"Where are my babies? Are my babies all right? They won't let me see them."

Finally, hospital attendants advised Carmine Picciotto, the 29-year-old father, to tell his wife that she had given birth to Siamese twins. When he informed her, nurses said, she expressed astonishment, but quickly became reconciled.

The little girls, who weighed together nine pounds, four ounces, were being fed another mother's milk through a medicine dropper and given oxygen as a precautionary measure.

Dr. Peter Timpono, who delivered the twins today, indicated that he planned to move very carefully in preparing for any possible attempt at an operation that might successfully separate them.

He said extensive X-ray examinations would be made this week to determine whether they have the same bloodstream. The babies are joined from a point just below the chest to about an inch below the navel—a distance of about three inches.

Koski, on Probation, Gets Drunk; Jailed

NEGAUNEE, Feb. 26—Eino "Bum" Koski, 37, was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail yesterday when he pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of being drunk and disorderly Tuesday night in an Iron street cafe.

Koski, police said, is on two years' probation from circuit court. Almondo Buchs, 55, pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and was sent to the county jail for 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Gries are spending a few days in Lansing.

Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Bessolo have returned from Chicago where the former attended a dental convention.

The Negaunee branch of the secretary of state's office will remain open until 5 Saturday afternoon to accommodate motorists who must purchase license plates for 1942. The National Agency and license bureau ordinarily close at 1 on Saturdays.

Club officials have received numerous inquiries from citizens as to the possibility of repeating the revue held last Saturday night and will work out plans for the event today. It will be impossible, however, to bring back such stars as Patsy Shields, John Flannigan and the Misses Bette Sitterson and Eunice Karvola, who took part in the Queen of the North carnival.

Members of the Negaunee Skating club have developed several routines and acts they were not able to use Saturday night. These acts, in conjunction with exhibitions by Miss Ruth Tompkins, Elaine Hill, Genevieve King, William Parkonen, Lyle Anderson and the Junior, intermediate and senior choruses, will round out the program.

The United Kingdom will purchase 160,000 tons of cheese from New Zealand this year.

Sentinels Back In Stride With 7-5 Triumph Over Calumet Olympics

RESULTS LAST NIGHT

Marquette 7, Calumet 5.

GAMES SUNDAY

Marquette at Sault.
Calumet at Painesdale.

By Jimmie Ward

The Marquette Sentinels returned to form with a vengeance here last night to rack up a sparkling 7-5 victory over Calumet-Laurium's speedy Olympics in a Northern Michigan Hockey league game played before 1,009 fans, one of the smallest crowds of the season.

The loyal 1,000 may not have known it but they were looking at the two sextets which will be a four-game total-go-to-count affair. The Sentinels already have clinched the schedule championship and now are setting their guns for the playoff title. That's the way things go nowadays—you have to win more than once to be convincing. Ask General MacArthur.

Calumet Is Third

Calumet's loss last night clinched second place for the idle Soo Indians. Had the Olympics defeated Marquette they would still have been in the running for the runner-up spot, and this might have changed the playoff picture considerably. Local yokels—er fans—would much rather have Marquette and Soo meet in the finals than in the semifinals.

Marquette snapped out of its lethargy in a very convincing manner. The Sents wasted no time hopping into a commanding 3-1 lead in the first period. They were held scoreless in the second session when the visitors pulled up to 3-2, but the way they went to town in the finale, despite momentary defensive lapses, caused even the skeptics to nod their heads affirmatively.

In fact, Goalie Chet Berriman is wondering why all this talk about a rubber shortage? He never heard of it, particularly in the third period when the Sentinels poured rubber on him constantly.

Game Tied for 8 Seconds

That the home sextet was right back in stride is evidenced by the way it grabbed the lead after Calumet had deadlocked the game for the first and only time early in the third session.

George Kolvinemi, who would be a thorn in anybody's side in a hockey game, picked up a pass from Joe Dragman and beat Goalie George Wolff on a close-in shot that made it 3-3. This was at the 2:07 mark. Just eight seconds later, Les Kangas took a pass from Frank Deagle and fired one home through a maze of players from 20 feet out.

But the battle was not ended by any means. Joe Kueler scored his second goal of the evening to give Marquette a 5-3 lead, but Johnny Whittaker came through with his second goal a minute later to close the margin to 5-4.

Whittaker scored on a three-man break at 11:43 when the Sentinels' defense was caught napping momentarily. Marquette soon stretched the margin to 6-4 with a goal by Curly Brink while Frank Gresnick was resting in the penalty box.

Gresnick Keeps Punching

One thing you have to give old man Gresnick credit for, however. He usually bounces back when the fans are booing him and grabs a laurel or two. He did it last night. Soon after excusing himself from the penalty box, he got his stick on the puck in a hot scrimmage session in front of Goalie Wolff and poked it in.

With the score standing at 6-5, Eddy Olson and Kangas teamed up on one of the prettiest plays of the night. Kangas was free on a break but not quite all alone. He pulled Gresnick to the right with him and then back-passed to Olson who came roaring in for a goal. The time was 19:28.

Another sparkling bit of combination work was Ike Prokaski's goal at 9:45 in the first period after Kueler had opened the scoring. Hojze Johnson, as smooth a skater and stick-handler as the league has seen in some time, worked the puck past the blueline, drew the Calumet defense to the left just enough to leave his mate, Prokaski, in the clear at the right.

A pass to Ike then turned the trick and Marquette's high scorer was fully equal to the occasion. He feinted Berriman out of position and then slipped one past him on the right side.

Coupe Gets Tally

Marquette's other tally in the first period was made by Henry Coupe, bespectacled ace from the University of Illinois, who took a pass from Curly Brink behind the net and slapped in the goal that gave the Sentinels their 3-1 margin.

Marquette fans are reminded that the next and last home game on the schedule will be played Wednesday, March 4, against Painesdale. The game has been moved up from Tuesday, March 3, to accommodate Painesdale's Chiefs, who are slated

Chicago Cubs Hold Initial Batting Drill

AVALON, Calif., Feb. 26—P—The Chicago Cubs held their first batting practice today, taking cuts against the offerings of 21 pitchers who worked in five-minute shifts.

In lining up squads for hitting, Manager Jimmy Wilson declared there was no significance in the groupings, but it was noted that the No. 1 list included most of the candidates for starting positions.

On this squad were Stan Hack, Charley Gilbert, Phil Cavarretta, Bill Nicholson, Dom Dellessandro, Babe Dahlgren, Lou Stanger, Clyde McCullough, Bob Scheffing and Bobby Sturgeon.

Leonard Rejects Terms

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 26—P—The Washington Senators had a new worry in their pitching department today.

President Clark Griffith, in contract negotiations with the veteran Dutch Leonard, received a three-word communication from Dutch: "Terms not satisfactory."

O'Dea Reports to Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26—P—Catcher Ken O'Dea, obtained by the St. Louis Cardinals in the Johnny Mize deal, reported to Manager Billy Southworth today and took part in his first spring workout, leaving Harry Gumbert as the only unsigned batterman.

Johnny Hopp, utility man extraordinary, signed his contract at St. Louis and left tonight for camp.

Higbe in Stiff Workout

HAVANA, Feb. 26—P—Manager Leo Durocher hustled his Brooklyn Dodgers through a three-hour workout today in an effort to get them in shape for exhibition games with the New York Giants here Saturday and Sunday.

Pitcher Kirby Higbe, reporting for his first drill, was given the works by Durocher, who had him running all over the field and capped the day by administering a stiff medicine ball workout to the hurler himself.

Yanks Pound Pill

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26—P—A batting drill which lasted an hour and a half featured the workout of the New York Yankees today, their stiffest of the young training season.

The Yanks signed Pitcher Johnny Murphy and announced the signing of Lefty Marius Russo in New York, leaving Pitcher Red Ruffing and Catcher Bill Dickey the only batterymen still unsigned.

Heath Leaves Seattle

SEATTLE, Feb. 26—P—Jeff Heath, Cleveland Indians outfielder, telephoned friends good-bye today and said he was leaving for the south. In answer to a question, he said he had not signed a contract.

Phil Fielder Joins Marines

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26—P—The Phils lost another player today when Outfielder Joe Marty informed President Gerry Nugent he had decided to enlist in the Marine Corps.

Marty, telephoning from his home in Sacramento, Calif., said he was in Class 1-A under selective service, but had decided on the Marine Corps rather than wait for an Army call.

Tokle, Engen, Zoberiski, Devlin Head All-Star Field In Iron Mountain Ski Meet

IRON MOUNTAIN, Feb. 26—With mighty Torger Tokle, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Alf Engen, of Sun Valley, Idaho, heading a list of 17 death-defying class A daredevils, supported by an all-star B, C and senior class cast, the entry list for the ski-jumping classic here at Pine Mountain Sunday is nearly complete.

One of the greatest aggregations of jumpers ever assembled in the United States will soar down the chute of the world's highest artificial ski scaffold in a mass assault on the American distance record which may result in the first 300-foot flight in North America.

Stars Galore

Here are the class A stars already entered:

Torger Tokle, Alf Engen, Ted Zoberiski, Land O' Lakes, Wis.; Walter Bietila, Navy Air Corps; Roy Laramie, Iron Mountain; Jim Hendrickson, Whitehall, Wis.; Art Devlin, Lake Placid, N. Y.; Vern Powers, Eau Claire, Wis.; Fritz Pohlman, Jim Running, Raymond Nelson, of Beloit; George Kotlarak, of Duluth; George Hallner, of Madison, Wis.; Roy Bietila, Ellsworth Mitchell, Jimmy Lawson and Bruno Saari, of Ishpeming.

A greater selection of riders could not be assembled anywhere in the nation.

In their own right, the B, C and senior division entry lists will be just as brilliant. Ingvar Arneson, of New London; Walt Bratthund, of Iron Mountain; Ernie Jacobson, of Chicago; Leonard Bietila, of Ishpeming; will be among the contestants for the senior crown.

More Than 100 Entered

Heading the class C entry list are Ralph Bietila, of Ishpeming, and Gale Eymor, of Iron Mountain. The largest field will be class B. Top-notchers in that division are Walter Nelson, of Beloit; Franklin Carlson, of New London; Gordon Robare, of Munising; Jack Paquette, of Iron Mountain, and Ralph Thorsen, of Chicago.

In all, over 100 knights of the wooden wings will be taking roles in this stupendous exhibition.

Engen, Tokle, Zoberiski, Devlin and Laramie are here already for practice rides.

Due to war conditions it will be the last big ski tournament in the United States for some time. Officials are making preparations to handle a crowd upwards of 25,000.

MSC BOXERS ON ROAD

EAST LANSING, Feb. 26—P—Overcoming both opposition boxers and loss of veteran performers before the season started, Coach Al Kawa's undefeated Michigan State college mitt-swingers enter the second phase of their campaign this weekend when they take to the road against Penn State and Bucknell and wind up later at Wisconsin.

Munising Cagers Play In Lock City Tonight

MUNISING, Feb. 26—With six wins and five losses on their slate for the season, Mather high school cagers go to Sault Ste. Marie Friday night for a return game with the Blue Devils. The Lockers won the first game in the home-and-home series, 29 to 24.

The Soo players improved their betting stock last weekend when they handled the Newberry Indians their second defeat of the current campaign. Munising was the only other team to turn the trick.

Redmen Trek To Newberry And The Soo

The Graveraet high school Redmen will wind up their basketball season with a two-game road trip this weekend. They will play in Newberry tonight and in Sault Ste. Marie tomorrow night.

Hard luck in close games has been Graveraet's fate this season, which has been far from its usual showings. Typical of the Redmen's fortunes this winter was the 38-33 loss to Munising last Friday night after the home five had built up a neat 23-16 lead at halftime.

The veteran Dick Keskey covered himself with glory by scoring 18 points in that encounter but the better-balanced power of the Mathers provided the margin in a close interesting battle.

During the first World War the United States lent Great Britain $4,277,000,000 in cash.

Tennis Better Conditioner Than Golf, Galehouse Says

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 26—P—Down to a solid 186 pounds for the start of the spring training season, Pitcher Denny Galehouse said today tennis has golf beat a mile as a conditioner for baseball players.

By starting without his usual surplus avoirdupois, Galehouse said he expected to make a fast getaway when the St. Louis Browns open their spring session at Deland March 2 and to show considerable improvement over his 1941 record of nine wins and 10 losses.

"In other years I depended on golf to keep myself in condition and started the training season off at 195 to 200 pounds," explained the 6-foot, 1-inch righthander.

"Although I shot a game of golf every now and then this winter and played in the annual baseball players' golf tourney in Miami, I really went in for tennis. Now my weight is the lowest it has been at this time in five or six years.

"I think tennis is a better conditioning game than golf, especially for a man who tends to be heavy like myself—I play almost daily and some days I run through 10 to 11 sets—which is a lot of tennis."

"You might think that tennis would put a strain on a pitcher's arm," he added, "but I haven't found any ill effects at all. I just play an even game for the all-around exercise."

"I think maybe I'll win 15 to 18 games this season, and I expect to better my earned-run average. It was pretty good last year, up among the leaders."

Galehouse had an earned-run

Watson Five Journeys To Wakefield

ISHPEMING, Feb. 26—Riding the crest of a three-game winning streak and right back in the running for a seeded position in the district playoffs, Ishpeming's high school cagers will go to the western end of the Peninsula Friday to meet the always tough Wakefield Open Pitters.

While Wakefield has been having its troubles, it is ranked as a formidable entry and, if it gets one of its good nights, could upset almost any team in the U. P.

Ishpeming showed a lot of promise in its game with Negaunee here last week, throwing up a good defense and sacrificing none of its offense.

If the improvement continues, Ishpeming can be counted as the team to beat for district honors when Class B entries tangle a few weeks hence.

Marra probably will not be able to play, because of the injury sustained in the Negaunee game, but Silas has been a capable reserve and should fill the niche nicely.

Detroit Defeats Ypsi In Overtime Session

YPSILANTI, Mich., Feb. 26—P—A field goal by Bill Hawweel and a basket and free throw by Art Stolkey gave the University of Detroit basketball team a 49-44 overtime victory over Michigan Normal here tonight.

The Titans had things their own way the first half and were on top at intermission, 21-13, but the second half was a different story.

The Hurons rallied to knot the score at 26-all with seven minutes of the second half gone and it was a dog-fight the remainder of the way with the score tied six times, including a 44-all deadlock at the end of regulation playing time.

Joe Mader, Detroit forward, and Ed Gilday, Normal forward, shared scoring honors with 14 points.

Trucks Signs Detroit Tiger Contract; Sullivan May Quit Baseball

Full Squad To Join Camp On Sunday

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 26.—P—The Detroit Tigers reduced their large contingent of holdouts today by signing Virgil (Fire) Trucks, their most promising rookie pitcher, but there appeared to be a complete accumulation of salary arguments for General Manager Jack Zeller when he arrives in camp Sunday.

Trucks, minor league strikeout sensation who won 12 and lost 12 with Buffalo, of the International league, last season, entered the fold reportedly because he was running out of pocket money. The Detroit club permits unsigned players to work under Manager Del Baker, but the player pays his own freight until his name is on the dotted line.

Of those in camp Schooboy Rowe and Paul (Dizzy) Trout haven't agreed to Detroit terms in a drastic reduction of the club payroll, and principal dissenters among the absentees are Pitchers Bobo Newsom and John Gorsica, First Baseman Rudy York and Catcher Billy Sullivan.

Sullivan May Quit Baseball

From his winter home at Sarasota Sullivan disclosed he had been cut $5,000 from a $15,000 salary and hinted strongly that he would leave the game to devote full attention to his construction business.

The mysterious absence of Pitcher Earl Cook was solved in Detroit by Zeller, who said the athlete had been detained at the border before entering this country from his home at Stouffville, Ont. He is expected to accompany Zeller to camp.

Murray Franklin, former teammate of Cleveland's Lou Boudreau at Illinois, dominated the three-hour batting drill today, again parking several pitches over the left field wall 350 feet distant from the plate. On the mound Rowe showed the best form in the work-out.

Gehring Looks Good

Observers had to look twice today at a particularly impressive infielder who proved to be 38-year-old Charley Gehring, now a coach. In addition to his new job Gehring finds time to engage actively in the workouts, and his restoration to the active playing list before the summer is over wouldn't be utterly astonishing to many insiders.

The full Tiger squad is to be on hand Sunday along with candidates for the Beaumont farm club, of the Texas league. Bob Henny, Detroit shortstop, and three former Muskogee players—Roy Clark, John Lipon and John Michalek—leave Detroit Saturday. Frank (Stub) Overmire, former Western Michigan College star from Grand Rapids, will be delayed by a draft physical examination, but is expected to join the club later.

We Can't Win On Defensive, Wilkie Says

picture industry that it was among the first to appreciate fully true American sentiment and to offer pictures reflecting that sentiment and disclosing the vicious character of Nazi plotting and violence.

"We badly needed warning. It is only to be regretted that the call to the alert sounded a bit too feebly for us to be fully prepared when the low bell."

Declaring one of the essential differences between America and the totalitarian nations is that "here we have freedom of the arts," Wilkie continued:

Resents Attack On Douglas

"One of the things I resented in the recent civilian defense controversy, though I was in sympathy with the criticism of its confused administration, was the attack on Melvyn Douglas merely because he is an actor, and so presumably knew nothing about what we are fighting to preserve or how to rally the people to defend it."

"As a matter of fact, I have a notion that those who understand the instincts of the people are peculiarly well equipped to understand the nature of the people's fight for freedom. For you will recall that the people were demanding more and more motion pictures showing the working of the Nazi system and its threats to liberty when many of our so-called statesmen were blind."

Slayer of Girl Wishes 'They Would Give Me Chair'

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—P—The Cook county grand jury was reported today to have voted a true bill charging 37-year-old Clarence McDonald with murdering pretty Dorothy Broz in a Loop motion picture theater.

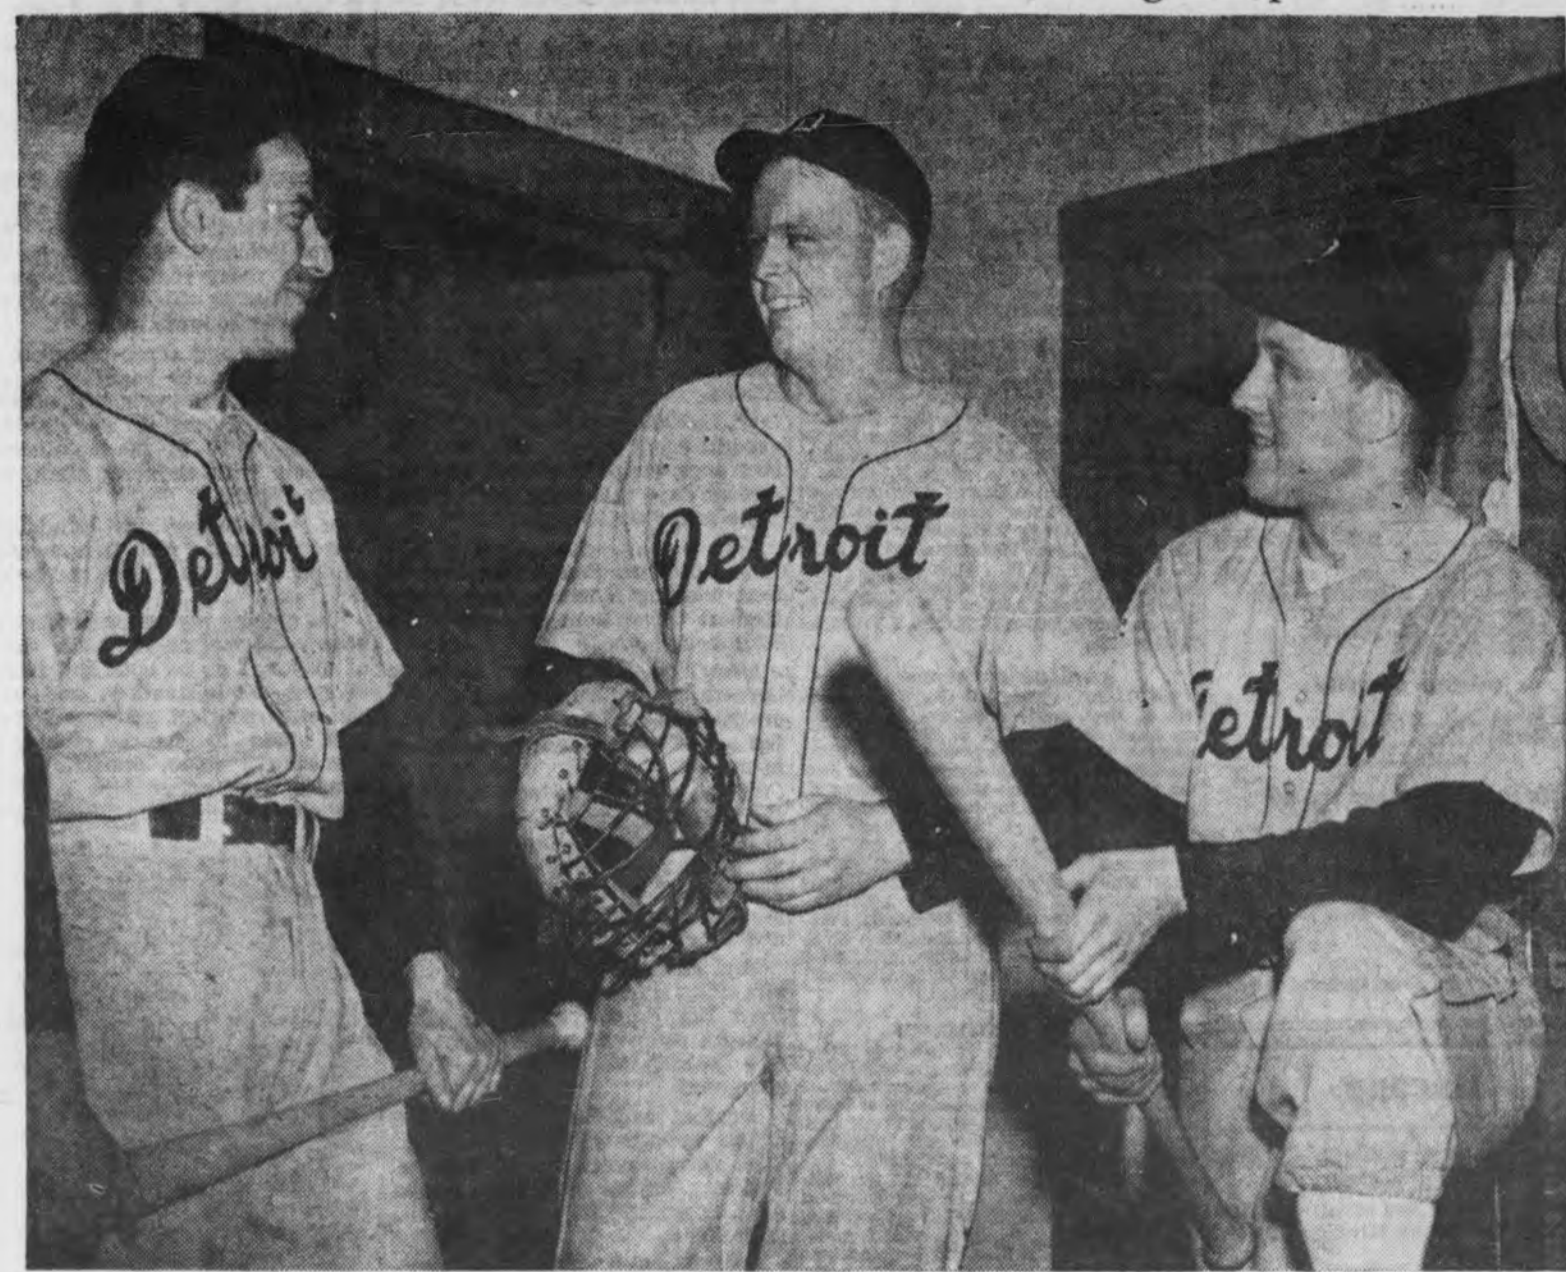

The jurors considered his case several hours after the youth lost his aplomb, wept a bit, and said: "I wish they would give me the electric chair. I have nothing to live for now."

McDonald, who confessed that he shot Miss Broz, 17, and an honor student in high school, was placed in a jail cell. His tie, belt and shoe strings were removed. A special guard was posted as a precaution against any attempt at suicide.

"If I had my life to live over again, this wouldn't have happened," he told Warden Frank Sain. "I'm sorry, I feel terrible, I'm sick."

McDonald said he was "terribly fealous" of Dorothy and was "afraid she'd never marry me" when he was questioned about a motive.

Clubhouse Conference At Lakeland Training Camp

Three Tigers hold a clubhouse pot-wow at Lakeland before taking to the field for spring training. They are, left to right, Murray Franklin, third baseman up from Little Rock where he hit .291; Edward D. Parsons, catcher up from Buffalo where he hit .224; and Roy Henshaw, pitcher from Jersey City where he won 13 and lost 3.

Gopher Sextet Hands Michigan 4-0 Setback

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 26.—P—Minnesota walloped Michigan, 4-0, in an uninspiring Big Ten hockey game here tonight. It was the Wolverines' third straight conference loss.

Al Eggleton and Joe Page scored unassisted for the Gophers in the first period, Bob Arnold unassisted in the second, and Bob Graziopler unassisted in the third.

line may be in the making for defense of greater India.

Jap Troops Entering Thailand

A likely line would be from Chittagong, east of Calcutta on the Bay of Bengal, inland to Mandalay, with an anchor on the Thai border.

A Chungking spokesman declared that Japanese reinforcements still were flowing into northern Thailand for a strong land and air offensive against the Chinese forces in the Shan states of northeastern Burma.

Japs Slowed On Shan Frontier

MANDALAY, Burma, Feb. 26.—P—The Japanese offensive against the hilly, bush-covered Shan frontier in eastern Burma appeared virtually stalled today, but in the more important country southward the situation was not so clear.

Slow-Moving Japanese Offensive Against Shan Frontier

The slow-moving Japanese offensive against the Shan frontier apparently had not made any substantial advance. British and Chinese troops in this sector have heavily mined the few roads, and bridges over frontier streams have long since been demolished.

British Commando Troops Are Itching For a Chance to Fight the Japanese

Some unofficial observers doubted whether the Japanese Shan drive was meant to be more than a holding movement to occupy the Allied forces there and thus prevent a further diversion southward, where the enemy hopes to find riches. The oil fields on the Irrawaddy river about 150 miles southwest of Mandalay may be presumed to be the current upper limit of Japanese ambitions.

Rail Junction Not Captured

Should the enemy then continue due westward to the Bay of Bengal at Port Akayab he would have Burma sewed up with only tough trails left to the British and Chinese for supply routes to India.

There has been no confirmation that the enemy had landed on the Irrawaddy delta from the sea, although it seems a logical maneuver with the Japanese in control of the Malacca straits between Sumatra and the Malay peninsula.

Military quarters insisted that the rail junction of Pegu, 54 miles by road north of Rangoon, had not been captured. Pegu is on the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad at the point where it is joined by the rail line southeastward to Martaban.

There was no assurance, however, that the Rangoon-Mandalay line had not been cut at one point about five miles west of the Sittang river. Near this point the Japanese were reported operating as early as last Sunday, attempting to cross the river on improvised barge bridges. It is taken for granted that the enemy is employing superior forces wherever he chooses to point his attack. Bitter fighting entailed heavy losses on both sides.

Sporting Club Beats Delta Five, 40-20

NEGAUNEE, Feb. 26.—The Neegaunee Sporting club quintet, led by Goldsworthy, defeated the Delta Hardware five, of Escanaba, here last night, 40 to 20. Goldsworthy topped the scorers with 12 points.

One of the best teams in northern Michigan and Wisconsin will be seen in action in Neegaunee next week when the Stambaugh Big Joes come here to meet the Sporting Clubbers. Stambaugh won the independent tournament played at Rhinelander, Wis., last season.

Eight Entered in MSC Relay Carnival Tonight

EAST LANSING, Feb. 26.—P—Michigan State college is expected to romp off with most of the laurels in the 22nd annual Spartan relay carnival which will attract eight other Michigan schools here tomorrow night.

Michigan Normal, traditional track rival of the Spartans, will be competing without its ace hurdler, Charles (Whitey) Hlad, who is entered in the national AAU meet at New York Saturday. Other entries are Western Michigan, Wayne, Central Michigan, Alma, Hillsdale, Kalamazoo and Albion.

Although no team championship will be determined, the meet will include a full list of special events and is expected by Spartan Coach and is expected by Spartan Coach, Karl Schlademan to produce a half dozen record-breaking performances.

Louis To Train at Army Post For Simon Bout

FORT DIX, N. J., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, now private Joe Louis Barrow, will train at Fort Dix for his title defense against Abe Simon at New York March 27.

Arrangements were made today when Louis, Promoter Mike Jacobs and Trainer Manny Seamon came here to inspect the camp's facilities for training. Louis, now stationed at Camp Upton, N. Y., will be assigned to Fort Dix for the training period.

The champion will come here next Sunday, bringing his usual training camp retinue of a housekeeper, trainers and sparring partners, and plans to start light

Champion Five Invades Republic Court Tonight

REPUBLIC, Feb. 26.—The Republic high school basketball team will play its final home game here Friday evening when it meets champion, Champion defeated Republic, 43-22, six weeks ago.

Coch Gustafson will start Gjeers at center, LaForas and Keskitalo, guards, and Isaacson and Kangas, forwards.

J. D. Pierce Host Tonight To Gwinn Five

The John D. Pierce training school cagers, with a record that compares favorably with the ramramping Wildcats of Northern Michigan, will be host at the College gym tonight to the Gwinn five, which last week toppled Baraga Parochial by a one-sided score. The game will start at approximately 8 p. m.

Pierce has been going great guns this season, and reports emanating from the training school camp have it that Coach Vic Hurst's squad will take Gwinn right in stride tonight to fatten its bating average for the season.

To date, Pierce has won eight and lost three. Among those eight triumphs are two close victories over the city rivals, the Baraga Parochials.

Last week Pierce defeated Eben, 39-34, for the second time this season.

Enemy Agents Flew Planes Over Coast?

By winning, the Rangers stretched their first-place margin over the Toronto Maple Leafs to three full games, 55 points to 49, and brought their total of games in which they have not been shut out to 95.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—P—The Chicago Blackhawks scored all of their goals in a wild second period tonight as they defeated the Montreal Canadiens, 5-4, in a National Hockey league game. Three of the Chicago goals were tallied within a minute and 18 seconds.

The victory in the final game of the season between the two teams left Chicago only a game back of third-place Boston and cost Montreal an opportunity to overtake the sixth-place Brooklyn Americans.

Elements of the 37th coast artillery brigade, composed of anti-aircraft forces, fired 1,430 rounds of ammunition between 3:12 and 4:15 a. m., Pacific war time, during yesterday's alarm, Stimson said.

The Secretary said the only comment he wanted to add to the report was that "perhaps it is better to be too alert than not alert enough. At any rate, they were alert there."

In Los Angeles Wendell Wilkie, arriving for an address tonight, told interviewers: "Unfired Command Needed"

"Conflicting statements from the heads of our armed forces tend to discount what they may say in the future. It was this same lack of coordination and confusion that brought the disaster at Pearl Harbor."

Wilkie applauded the Army's quick response to duty, asserting "that they were enemy planes or not, it is always wise to err on the side of safety."

He criticized "armchair strategists," but added, "you cannot expect people to keep silent when the Navy says one thing and the Army another."

He called the confusion "a perfect illustration of the need for unified command of our forces."

Palmer Seeks No. 27; Ends Home Season

PALMER, Feb. 26.—With a splendid opportunity of being one of the few teams in the Upper Peninsula to go through the current season with an unbeaten record, Palmer high school's basketball quintet appears before the hometown fans for the final time Friday night when it will meet the Ishpeming "B" team.

The game will start at 8:15, preceded by a preliminary at 7 between the Palmer Athletic Club and the North Lake Independents.

Only one other contest is left on Palmer's schedule. That is a return game March 6 with the Ishpeming Bees.

Under the tutelage of Elvin Niemi, during his first season as Palmer coach, this Marquette county village has produced one of the region's stellar teams—a quintet that took up where it left off last season when it won the opening game, dropped the next to Champion by two points, and since has not suffered defeat.

Seek 27th Straight Win

During the interim, it captured district and Peninsula Class E honors—the second time in the school's history that it has taken an Upper Michigan title. Back in 1932 Palmer won the Class D championship.

Friday night Palmer will be seeking its 27th straight victory. During the 26 consecutive contests it has won, it has racked up 1,106 points—an average of 42—against opponents' 721. In each of the last seven games it has scored 40 or more points and has topped 51 in each of the last three tilts. Last Friday it ran up a 70 to 45 count over Republic, the third highest team total registered in northern Michigan this season.

Coach Niemi Friday plans to give valuable experience to his reserves. He'll start Stephen Trewhella at center, Herbert LeMire and Robert Koskinen at forwards and Lloyd Lundwall and Eldred Oliv at guards.

In case the substitutes do all right against the Ishpeming second-stringers, they'll play most of the game; if not, the first team will be on hand to help keep opponents in check.

Charles Koski, who counted 21 points for Palmer against Republic, has been on the sick list all this week. A regular forward, he probably won't see action tomorrow night.

In the first period, just after he blazed in a 60-foot shot to give the Rangers a 2-0 lead, Heller fell behind his own goal in trying to avoid a collision with the pro. Carl Liscombe. Heller dropped with the leg doubled up and cut the lower part of his back with the rear tip of his own skate. He was taken to the Polyclinic hospital, in considerable pain, for examination.

Nazi Cruiser Crippled By British Sub

pered by warnings that Allied recent shipping losses are severe, that Germany's U-boat fleet is expanding month-by-month on an unprecedented scale, and that raider attacks may again test the royal navy in the "most dangerous period of the shipping crisis."

Of the daring thrust of the Trident, medium-sized submarine displacing 1,090 tons at the surface, it was disclosed that a warship of the Prinz Eugen class, and probably the Prinz Eugen, was torpedoed off the coast of Norway Feb. 23. An accompanying destroyer was believed hit at the same time.

Following this up, British reconnaissance planes spotted a Prinz Eugen class cruiser in losses of tugs in the port of Trondheim, Norway. It was damaged aft.

"It seems probable," said Alexander, "that the ship was the Prinz Eugen, in which case all the ships which escaped from Brest have been damaged."

It was the second notable victory in three months of the patrolling Trident, skippered by Commander G. M. Sladen. On Nov. 29, the submarine sank or severely damaged seven German transport and supply ships.

Committee Okehs Pension Law Repealer

000 lock on the Great Lakes canal over which most of the iron ore, vital to the war program, must move.

The legislative catch-all resulted from the anxiety of both Senators and Representatives to kill off bitter public criticism of the nation's lawmakers for voting themselves a pension while the country was in a state of war.

House Acts Today

Senator Walsh (D-Mass), chairman of the Senate conferees, said that the conference report would be acted upon finally in the House Friday and probably would be agreed to in the Senate Monday.

Some time ago the House approved the repealer provision, 389 to 7, after the Senate chalked up a 73 to 5 vote and the conference today ironed out all differences between the two bodies over other provisions of the bill.

The canal lock provision was tacked onto the bill as a rider at the request of Senator Brown (D-Mich), who protested that the House was delaying action on a separate measure previously approved by the Senate. Brown said the project was necessary to the war effort.

Minimum charge for motors applies to this rate the same as under the "Standard Lighting Rate" above.

Minimum and K. W. H. charges for camps will be made during May, July, August, September, and October, only, same as under the "Standard Lighting Rate" above.

No credits will be allowed for any K. W. H.'s due to using less than the minimum amount in any month.

Section 3. All customers will be required to make a deposit of $5.00 (without interest) as a guarantee for payment of bills. Provided that the Auditor may, in special cases in his discretion, consider that a deposit of $3.00 would be insufficient to guarantee the payment of the amount of electricity bills to be used by any customer, require such additional deposit as will, in his judgment, insure such payment.

Section 4. The construction of any extension is entirely optional with City. Total minimum charges per month to be 1 1/2% of the net construction cost to the City. The minimum charges to be divided among all customers served by the extension. Minimum charge to be reduced or increased as customers are added or removed.

Customers may reduce construction costs by paying for or furnishing suitable poles or other material used in City.

St. Paul Host Tonight To Michigamme

NEGAUNEE, Feb. 26.—With a record of 11 victories and four defeats the St. Paul Emeralds, two games remaining on their schedule, will meet Michigamme here Friday night at 8:15.

Michigamme has been playing top class ball and has an exceptionally tight zone defense which has kept opponents' scores to small figures.

The first encounter between the teams this season, ended with the Saints victors, 24-19. Both teams have improved greatly since that match and the Friday night contest should be a good show for spectators.

Bidding For Selected Stocks Keeps Market Steady

Price Changes Narrow; Rails Up at Close

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—P—Selected stocks attracted enough bidding to keep today's stock market fairly well balanced.

Rails were soft most of the time, but steadied at the last. Santa Fe touched a new high of 42 1/2, Union Pacific gained 1 3/4 and Union Pacific tacked on a point on a few sales. Aircrafts and specialties did moderately well while steels, motors, rubbers, coppers and mail orders held to an exceptionally slim groove.

Recently weak oils and soft drink company issues revived on the thought these may have been over sold notwithstanding tanker sinkings, dwindling of private gasoline consumption and the sugar shortage. Modest comebacks here were staged by Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Co. and Coca-Cola.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks managed to post a net advance of 1 1/2 of a point at 367. Of 644 issues traded, 263 were up, 189 down and 192 unchanged. Dealings were sluggish throughout, but picked up a bit in the final hour. Transfers totaled 353,200 shares compared with 339,130 Wednesday.

Douglas Aircraft Up

Douglas Aircraft was up 1 1/4 in further reflection of its record earnings figures. Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum were ahead and 192 unchanged. Dealings were sluggish throughout, but picked up a bit in the final hour. Transfers totaled 353,200 shares compared with 339,130 Wednesday.

On the offside were Consolidated Edison, International Harvester, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, Dow Chemical and American Smelting. Among forward tilters in the curb were Bell Aircraft, American Gas, Chesborough and Todd Shipyards. Slightly lower were Gulf Oil, Humble Oil and American Cyanamid. Turnover here approximated 61,000 shares versus 53,000 the day before.

Bonds Steady; Carriers Only Active Group

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—P—The bond market had only minor changes to show for its labors at the end of the session today.

Every one of the five major groups in the Associated Press averages ended unchanged from Wednesday, a situation which occurs rarely. Trading was moderately active, however, amounting to $7,415,600, par value, against $7,856,750 the day before.

About a half dozen low-priced rails accounted for a considerable portion of the day's volume. The group, most of which ended fractionally improved, included Baltimore & Ohio stamped convertibles of '60 at 40 1/2-1/2, St. Paul 5s at 12 3/4, Rock Island general 5s at 22, Southern Pacific 4 1/2s at 52 1/2 and Washakie 4 1/2s at 38 1/2-1/2.

Moving sideways most of the time were other others, New York Central 5s, Western Union 5s, American Telephone 5s and Lehigh Valley 4s.

Small-Scale Buying Lifts Grain Values

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—P—Because of a threatened vote, Senate passage of legislation which would check the movement of Government owned wheat and corn from the ever-normal granary into commercial trade had only moderate price supporting effect on the grain market today.

Prices of various cereals were up almost a cent, with corn and rye showing the most strength, but buying was on a small scale, coming mostly from dealers who had sold short yesterday after the President came out flatly against the legislation.

Wheat closed 3-8 to 5-8 cent higher than yesterday, May 5-29 1-8 to 1-4, July 5-20 7-8; corn, 5-29 7-8 up, May 37 1-8 to 1-4, July 80 1-8 to 1-4; oats, 1-8 to 3-8; rye, 1-2 to 3-4 up; soybeans, 1-2 to 1-8 up, and lard, unchanged to eight higher.

1941 Air Express Business Sets Record

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Air Express shipments passed the 1,300,000 mark in 1941, the largest annual total in the 14-year history of the service, the air express division of Railway Express Agency reports. There were 1,306,629 shipments in 1941, an increase of 21.2 per cent over 1940. Weight was up 46 per cent to 5,529,000 lbs. The average weight per shipment to be a pound and a half to 8.6 pounds. Gross revenue gained 40.5 per cent or an average of more than 46 cents for each air express shipment. Domestic air express revenue for the year exceeded $4,275,000.

Shipments to and from off-airline points moving in coordinated air-rail service increased 33.4 per cent in 1941. Gross revenue on these air-rail shipments advanced 56 per cent last year.

During 1941 the domestic air express service was closely tied into similar service in Canada, and express service also was inaugurated on a non-stop non-passenger pickup system.

Work was begun this week on the addition to the high school at the rear of the building to contain a machine shop and needed classrooms and which later will serve as the foundation floors for a school auditorium. A storage shed for the structural steel to be used was erected. Contractor Louis Arnold stated that as much work would be done now as could be before the setting up of a PWA project by architect Parmelee, of Iron Mountain, who originally designed the high school building. Plans in the future for an auditorium call for a stage and sloping floor with seating capacity of 600 on the main floor and 300 in the balcony. The auditorium will be an addition to the high school plant fitting into the original plans of the building with entrances from the main corridor on the second floor to the auditorium proper and with an entrance to the balcony from the third floor. The first or ground floor will hold the machine shops and classrooms.

UNITED STATES DEFENSE BONDS

are a MUST in every investment portfolio today

The planned investment program under today's conditions should include a greater percentage of U. S. Government bonds than ever. They should be bought regularly, out of current income, as well as with accumulated capital. We shall be glad to suggest the proper series Defense Bond to suit your requirements and fit in with your program.

We are pleased to announce that under Treasury Department regulations we have qualified as an issuing agent for the direct sale to the public of Series E bonds, and have the actual bonds in our office for immediate delivery.

Conversion Of Auto Industry Takes Time

By Gladwin Hill
DETROIT, Feb. 26 — (Wide World)—How is conversion of the auto industry, the biggest single piece of America's armament production program, getting along? Here are answers to the most frequent questions about the conversion campaign, based on observations in the last two weeks.

Conversion is proceeding as rapidly as can be expected—but don't expect too much. It will be months before a big stream of planes, tanks and guns starts pouring out of the erstwhile auto plants.

Why will it take so long? Because production of just a slightly different model car normally takes a year of preparation. Changing over to products as different as airplanes, tanks and guns is a huge job. And mass preparations did not get under way until after Pearl Harbor.

None Saw All-Out Effort
Why didn't the industry start planning sooner? Because it was no more prescient than the general public or Government officials about the need for an all-out war effort. In the main, most observers agree, the industry hopped into war production as soon as it was told what was needed.

Are the auto people converting as quickly as possible now? In general, yes. This is dictated by both patriotism and common sense. Producing armament is the only thing they can do—they might as well do it full force.

Some observers say there still is considerable jockeying for competitive advantages, now or in anticipation of the eventual return to peacetime production. There are many unavoidable delays due to the fact that conversion was gone into, because of our peacetime economic setup, on a piecemeal basis instead of with an integrated program correlating needs and facilities for making them.

Many Kinks In Program
Have all the other kinks been straightened out? No. There are still instances, avoidable or otherwise, of an order being shifted from one plant to another and back again several times in a few hours. There is also, for instance, still disagreement on certain fundamental principles like whether an order which several plants can fill should be divided among them or concentrated in one plant, so it can work on a 24-hour schedule and leave the others free for other orders.

Is this sort of thing holding up production much? Not nearly as much as other basic obstacles—the time necessary to install new machinery, the shortage of highly skilled labor to make the machinery (tool-and-die men are working 70-hour weeks), and shortages of critical materials, like aluminum.

How is the plan of pooling machine facilities getting along? To date there is no evidence of much interchange of machines. Pool officials say there hasn't been time for it to work out yet, that the survey of facilities is not complete. It may be that the same objective is being approached with assigning work where the machines are.

Production Kept Secret
What tangible production is there? Any specific information would be a military secret. Production officials around Detroit are giving out figures comparing armament production with auto production a year ago, in dollar value. This is like comparing peanuts with phonograph records in dollar values—it doesn't give you much idea of quantities.

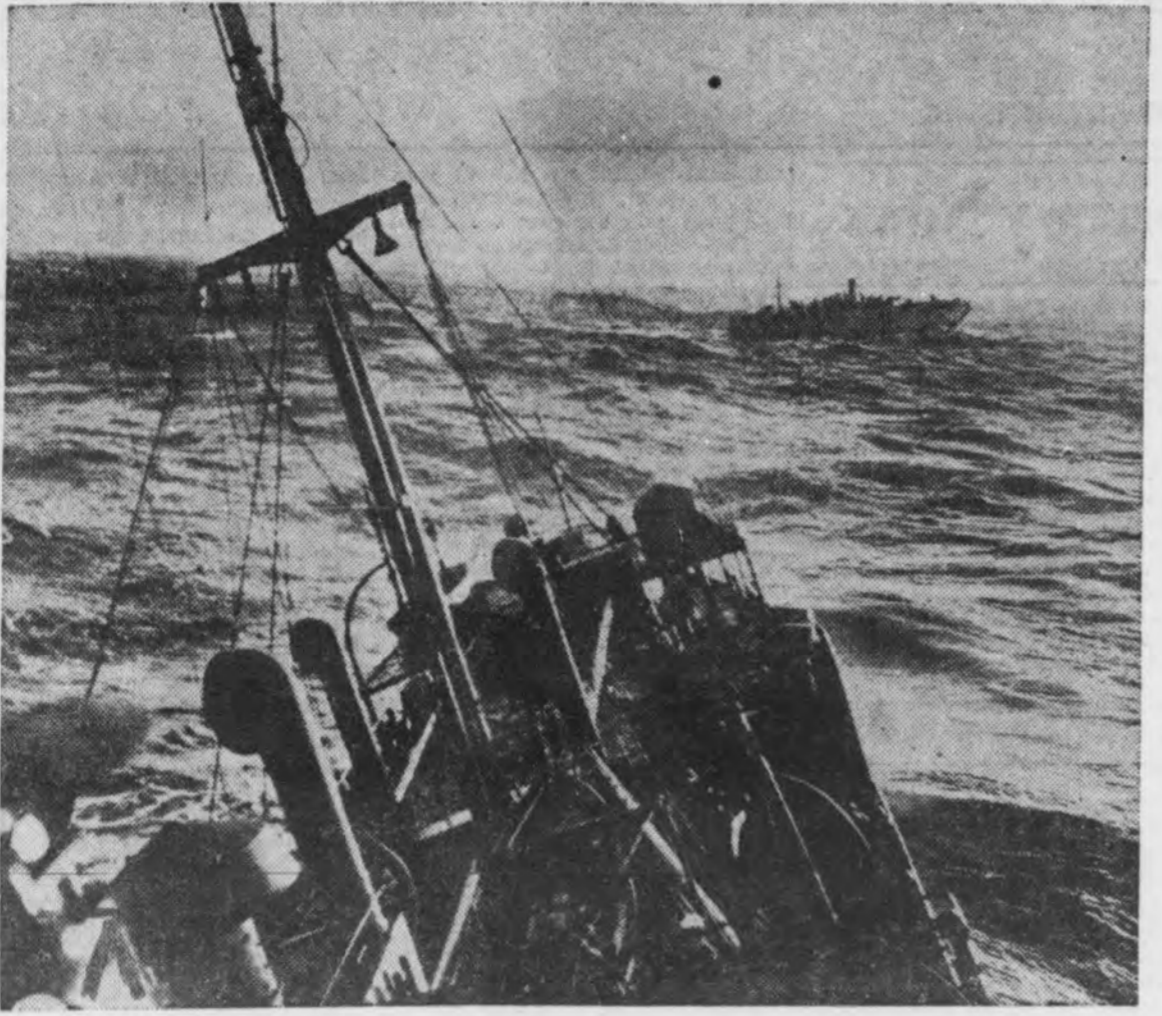

Actual production is impressive if you look at it alone. There are factories here turning out a steady stream of tanks, machine guns, anti-aircraft guns, airplane motors and airplane sections. But in comparison with the whole program of what is needed, the production is very small. It will be big, but it will take time—at least six months.

Upper Peninsula
Severely Burned
ESCANABA, Feb. 26 — Arnold Vanderberg is in St. Francis hospital at Escanaba suffering from serious burns to the lower abdomen and thighs received early Wednesday morning when he fell asleep while smoking in bed at the family home, 1013 Superior avenue. Bed clothing caught afire or smoldered and the young man was severely burned before his plight became known.

Cattle Dealer Fined
ESCANABA, Feb. 26 — Harry Yudin, Marinette, Wis., cattle dealer pleaded guilty here yesterday to a charge of transporting livestock in a truck which was kept in a dirty and unsanitary condition and was fined $25 and costs by Justice of the Peace Henry Ranguette. The charge against Yudin was made by F. K. Hansen, assistant state veterinarian, of Marquette, who arrested the Marinette cattle man at an auction sale near Bark River Wednesday. Justice Ranguette said it was the first case of its kind he had ever heard.

CITY BUS ACT SIGNED
LANSING, Feb. 26 — Governor Van Wagoner today signed into law the recently adopted act allowing municipally-owned bus lines to extend service 25 miles beyond their city limits while retaining exemption from public service commission supervision. The measure was enacted to allow the Detroit Street Railways to serve the New U. S. Army bomber plant at Willow Run.

News Behind The News

By Roy Tucker
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — Armchair strategists crying for immediate retaliation against Japan betray a criminal neglect of military realities. With a few notable exceptions, higherups are striving to check the hysterical clamor that our Army and Navy shoot before they can see the whites of their eyes. Here is the official exposition of the United Nations' plight and planning:

Should the enemy climax his southwestern Pacific campaign with the conquest of Java, Australia and New Zealand, the war then will enter a second and vital phase. Tokyo may simply establish a strong defense system from Nippon to the Antipodes and dare us to break her grip. Or in a move to weaken us utterly, she may assault with more powerful forces than recent U-boats our inner life line in the Pacific which reaches from Aalska to Hawaii and thence back to the Panama canal. Those points will become desperately critical in repelling the attackers or in serving as eventual bases for a future offensive. To expose or endanger them now by poorly prepared smashes against the island empire would be suicidal.

Similar considerations govern the fighting across the Atlantic. In order to weaken and overwhelm Hitler, the Allies must maintain Britain with food and supplies, keep Russia in the war as their hardest pitcher to date and retain possession of the Middle East and Suez territory. As President Roosevelt hinted in his latest address, the loss of any of these bastions might be fatal. We must prevent a "break through" these regions by the Axis.

GOALS — Rival economists at Washington are highly skeptical of Leon Henderson's ability to deal more than a slight check to the rising level of prices. In braving such adverse currents as tremendous Government expenditures (estimated at two billions plus a month), forthcoming wage boosts and material shortages, he is like a swimmer battling upstream.

The dollar will now buy only 89 cents worth of goods as against 100 pennies in value 12 months ago. It is entirely likely that living costs will mount another 10 or 15 per cent during the next year, reducing the standard money unit's purchasing power to 79 or 74 cents. Behind that comparatively slow response to economic forces unleashed by the war is a pressure which eventually will be felt more sharply at retail counters. Wholesale prices have risen 19 per cent since February, 1941. The largest increases have been reflected in foodstuffs, clothing and house furnishings.

Rationing of everyday, domestically grown edibles may not be imposed in 1942, but the action is almost inevitable for 1943. Experts doubt that our farmers can produce the huge quotas assigned to them and which are still being upped. Within a few months the estimated needs have been expanded three times. They must, for instance, raise 54 per cent more soybeans for oil, 155 per cent more peanuts, 34 per cent more flaxseed. Facing a scarcity of labor, a smaller supply of machinery and reduced transportation facilities, they will have to be supermen to attain new production goals.

CRUSH — Our Army-Navy experts will not hazard a public, professional guess on the prospective length of the universal conflict. Too many events and factors wholly unpredictable overshadow such a forecast. But they scoff at reports that Wall street pessimists envisage a decade of syndicated violence—a sort of medieval performance.

If all goes well with the United Nations—Japan held to her present gains and Der Fuehrer chained on the continent in spring and summer fighting—they figure that a cease-firing order may ring across the world late in 1943. Experts foresee a hard war lasting into 1945 or 1946. Here is the line of their admittedly tentative prophecy: The next year will be devoted to preparation and desperate resistance by the democracies—a period during which this country will be obliged to make and transport the

Rock Shelters Help Maltese Endure Blitz

By William McGaffin

ALEXANDRIA, Feb. 26 — (Wide World)—Rock shelters—the best in the world—are helping the Maltese stand up under the Axis' non-stop blitz. I stopped off at Malta enroute to Alexandria. I came away with a favorable impression of the shelters and of the guts of the people living there, plus the formidable British defenses of the little island's 120 square miles.

I speak from experience when I say the shelters are the best in the world. I have frequented the shelters of London and Paris, but never felt as safe as in Malta's—hewn out of natural rock. Thanks to the fact that construction started seven years ago, at the time of the Ethiopian crisis, there now are shelters for the bulk of the 273,000 population.

Some Dug 200 Years Ago
Some of the shelters now in use were begun long before that, however. One I visited was dug by Turkish slaves 200 years ago and used by the Knights of Malta as an ammunition storehouse. The shelters are provided with triple-tier bunks and sanitary facilities. Babies have been born there. At night you see people with blankets waiting for the warning siren before going in—but others have become permanent residents.

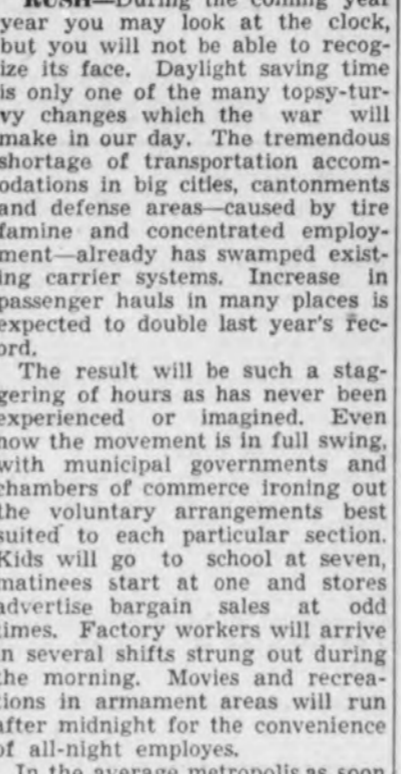

Another advantage in Malta is that the buildings, too, are made out of rock. There is almost no wooden construction. Hence the buildings aren't vulnerable to fire bomb raids such as those which burned a great hole in the city of London.

Morale Very Good
The enemy, therefore, must drop high explosive bombs—and the thick, tough rock walls will stand a lot of pounding. Of course, they collapse eventually, but nowhere in Malta did I see damage comparable to the devastated areas of London.

Malta's main defense against air attack is a concentration of anti-aircraft guns which throw up a terrific barrage whenever the enemy wings over vital objectives. The people often stand in the streets to watch the raids. Morale appears to be very good. The best proof, it seemed to me, is the fact that Maltese dockyard workers, who know the harbor area is the hottest spot on the island, go back to work day after day.

INCA—The recent squelching of an anti-United States move in Uruguay focuses attention on other little known underground Axis schemes below the Rio Grande. Reports on secret investigations of Japanese infiltration plots now are revealed. Tokyo long has controlled its nationals in Brazil, where over 200,000 were instructed to live in the state of Sao Paulo along strategic railroad lines. To court favor when the first boatload of immigrants arrived, child passengers sang the Brazilian national anthem, the only Portuguese they knew. The Mikado's ministers asked for permission of Columbia to settle farmers in the Cauca river valley. Their request was refused but as a compromise they were granted fishing rights. A similar attempt to place agricultural workers in Costa Rica also ended in the same solution. The curious factor is that these two countries are close to our Panama canal. The humble fishermen actually were retired Nipponese naval officers, more interested in photographing shore lines and sounding water depths than in nets and hooks. Hirohito's propaganda agents have published a book in Spanish, circulated gratis below the Isthmus, which claims that the earliest South Americans really were Japanese. Manco Capac and his nobles, according to the volume, sailed from Nippon, were blown off their course and finally reached Peru where they founded the great Inca civilization. In Lima today is a huge statue of Capac, a gift from the Peruvians' "Japanese cousins."

L'Anse

G. F. Biekkola, county agricultural agent announced this week that E. E. Budin will be at the court house at L'Anse March 5 to receive applications for emergency crop and feed loans through the Farm Credit administration. L. C. Streeter, regional manager at St. Paul, has indicated that funds are now available for all eligible farmers for crop production purposes including the purchase of seed, gas and oil, feed for workstock and all necessary repairs for farm machinery.

At the last meeting of the local CIO unit the following officers were elected for the year: Joseph A. Anderson, president; Fred Dault, vice-president; Alfred Johnson, recording secretary; Leo Harrington, financial secretary and treasurer; Edwin Millu, guide; Julius Mattson, sergeant-at-arms; trustee for one year, Mack Kaufman, for two years, Hartley Mann, three years, Ora Charlston, stewards, Roy Ross, L'Anse; Joseph Kopanski, Pequamung; Charles Auger, Alberta; Ray Ross, chief steward.

Miss Jean Auger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Auger, of Alberta, and Harold Blom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Blom, of L'Anse, were married February 17 at the parsonage of the Methodist church, Hancock, by the Rev. Milton Banks. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kelnhofer, of L'Anse. The bride wore a brown suit with matching accessories and hat. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Mrs. Kelnhofer also was dressed in brown with brown accessories and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at Gino's Cafe. The couple will make their home in Duluth, Minn., as Mr. Blom will sail on the Great Lakes this season.

State Employees Report Shortage of Tires

LANSING, Feb. 26 —P—Governor Van Wagoner said today a shortage of tires threatens to cripple the state banking department's examiner staff and "may be a forerunner of what is coming in state government" as a result of the war.

Marice Eveland, banking commissioner reported one of his examiners is using borrowed tires, three quarters of his staff of 40 examiners will be in similar circumstances by August, and that efforts to induce Federal authorities to allow his employees to buy new or reconditioned tires have been futile.

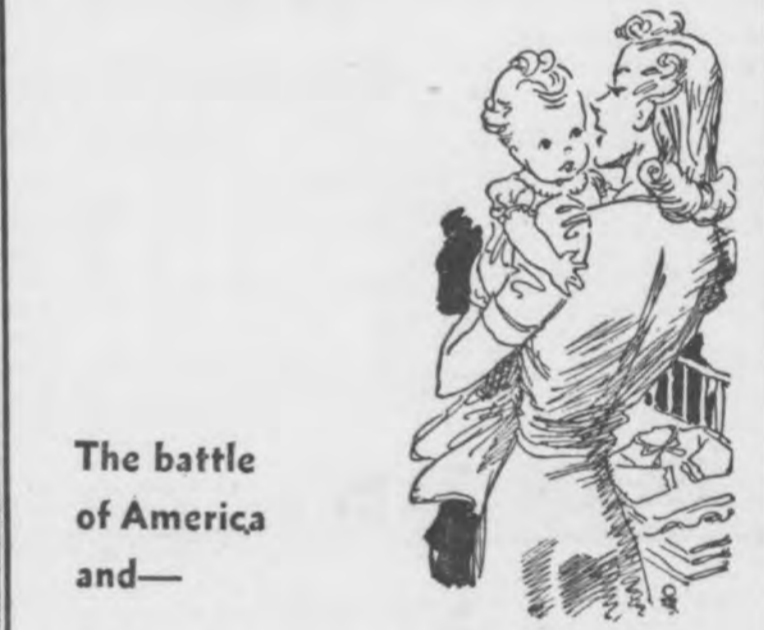

Auditor General Vernon J. Brown, who with Budget Director Leo J. Nowicki has control of the fleet of state-owned cars, said he still saw little prospect that state officials would cooperate in a suggested "pool" of vehicular resources to conserve machines and tires.

Lansing Man Secretary Of State Liquor Board
LANSING, Feb. 26 —P—Berten M. Davey, of Lansing, was chosen secretary of the Michigan liquor control commission today in another step in a reorganization touched off this week by Governor Van Wagoner.

Davey has been director of the commission's alcohol and brewery division and once headed both that and the enforcement division. An employe with civil service status, Davey has been with the commission on several occasions, and for a time was planning director for the state highway department.

Ralph Thomas, new commission chairman, said the commission would not "abdicate" its administrative authority to Davey as recommended by the state civil service department. Thomas declared such a step was not possible until the state liquor control law is amended. Davey, he said, will carry out normal duties of commission secretary. His salary has not been fixed.

Davey succeeds Philip J. Neudeck, Detroit, who resigned earlier this week.

YOUR FAMILY'S DEFENSE

The Battle of America is economic, and the first line of family defense is not masonry but money—saved money. . . . The specifications for its keeping are plain. Your money must be safe. It must be available at all times. It must be earning interest. It must be in a convenient place. . . . All of these things are true of a savings account at the First National. Make it your first line of defense against adversity. Don't wait to start.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR
She's as lively as a Youngster—Now her backache is better.
Many ailments relieve using Backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the body. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sensations show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
