

Bataan Defense Falls; 36,853 Feared Lost; Two British Cruisers Sunk In Indian Ocean

Loss Virtually Opens Way For Enemy Invasion

By Drew Middleton

LONDON, April 9.—(By A. P.)—Japanese planes have blasted the British heavy cruisers Dorsetshire and Cornwall to the bottom of the Indian ocean, thus virtually opening the way for an invasion of India.

The Ganges basin now is left undefended at sea save for light forces, well-informed observers declared as the admiral-ty announced the loss of the two heavier warships.

Other British communi-ques reported that the Japanese bombed the Ceylon naval base of Trincomalee this morning and that several Allied merchant ships had been destroyed by combined naval and air attacks in the Indian ocean, thus making ominously apparent the scope and strength of the Japanese thrust across the Bay of Bengal.

Were Hunting Jap Ships

The 9,975-ton Dorsetshire—whose torpedoes supplied the coup de grace to the German battleship Bismarck in the Atlantic last May—and the 10,000-ton Cornwall apparently were seeking the Japanese naval squadron whose carriers launched planes against Colombo on Sunday.

"Aircraft from those very carriers found them and destroyed them before they were able to close to gunnery range," declared one London source.

The date and place of the sinkings were not given, but a Japanese radio announcement said the cruisers were destroyed in operations up to April 7.

The broadcast Japanese communique also claimed destruction of 21 Allied merchantmen and severe damage to 23 others in the Bay of Bengal. An announcement from New Delhi said only that several ships had been sunk and that 400 to 500 survivors had been landed on the coast of Orissa, Indian province.

Strong Force on Prowl

Aircraft alone were mentioned in destruction of the cruisers, but it was apparent that a strong Japanese naval force including aircraft carriers was on the prowl in the Bay of Bengal. It was assumed to be operating from the Japanese-occupied Andaman islands, about 800 miles east of Madras.

Some hope was expressed in London that a British squadron described March 28 by the Italians as two battleships, two aircraft carriers, a cruiser and light forces might in fact be heading for the Bay of Bengal to halt any Japanese invasion of India.

There was no confirmation by official sources of any such squadron. It is believed here that Japan's immediate objective is occupation of India's eastern coastal provinces plus stoppage of Allied supply routes through the Indian ocean and the Persian gulf.

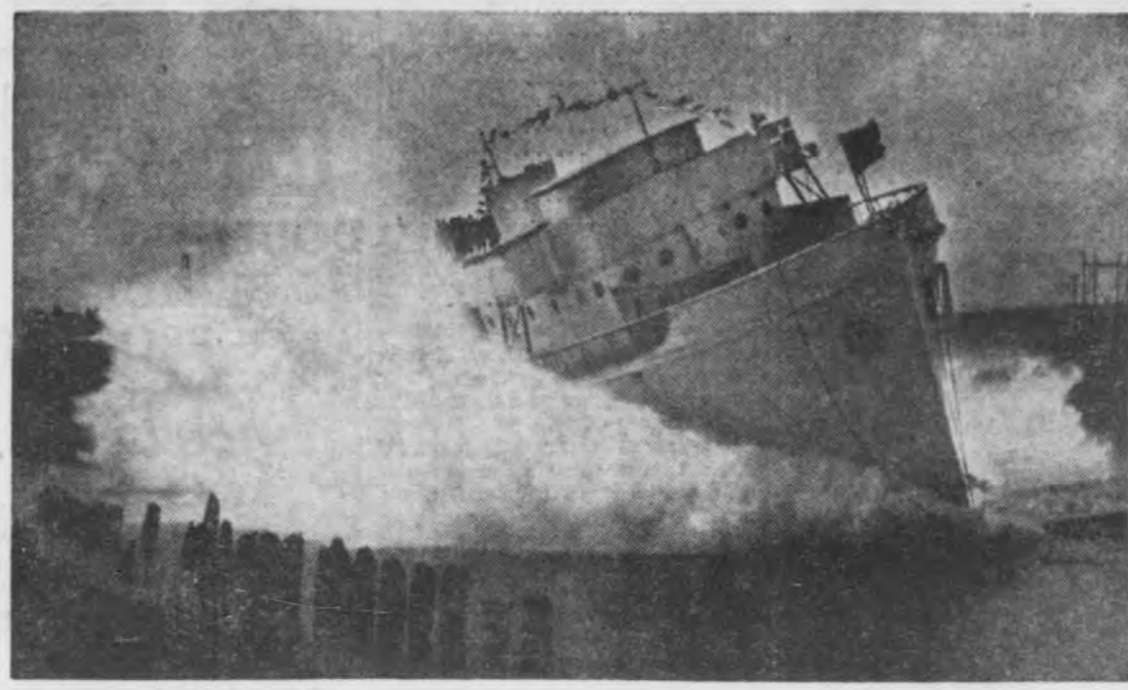

British Defenders Ready To Blow Up Oil Wells

LONDON, April 9.—P—With the Japanese only 30 miles from the Yenama oil fields on the Burma front, the hard-pressed and outnumbered British defenders of the Irrawaddy river valley were prepared tonight to burn and blow up the wells.

Although bad atmospheric conditions interfered with radio communications, a well-informed source here said the British were ready to "scorch" the oil properties if the Japanese and rebellious Burmese continued their flanking progress. The British were described as outnumbered three to one on the ground and 10 to one in the air.

Delayed dispatches direct from the front referred to the complete absence of Allied air support for ground troops. From the eastern end of the Burma lines, held by Chinese forces, the Chinese reported that they were in contact with the Japanese, but that there had been little activity in the past 24 hours. The Chinese continued fighting on the east-west road between Toungoo and Mawchi and said there were other minor patrol engagements along the Siamese border.

British Ship Launched

The first of four rescue tugs being built for the British royal navy by the Defoe Shipbuilding company in Bay City was launched Wednesday afternoon. Above the 143-foot vessel—known in the shipyards as the B. A. T.—hits the water after a side launching from the ways. The tug will be used for salvaging wrecks and towing operations. Representing the British navy at the launching was Lieutenant-Commander Lionel Greenstreet, of the royal navy reserve, while Lieutenant-Commander C. Sherman Hoyt represented the United States Navy.—(Associated Press Photo from Bay City Times.)

U. S. Making 3,300 Planes Every Month

By Dave Cheavens

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex., April 9.—P—Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn said today the United States now is making more than 3,300 planes a month and that it already has on worldwide fighting fronts six times as many soldiers as General Pershing had with the AEF after 10 months of the first World War.

"We and our allies can and will build two and one-half times as many planes as all our enemies put together," he said, speaking at a Texas unity rally.

"Without divulging military secrets I can say that one factory alone is turning out each day an entire trainload of tanks."

Every element of the nation's war production effort "right now is either up to or ahead of the program that has been outlined."

Rayburn characterized the building of the nation's munitions industry as "the most remarkable accomplishment in all history."

Other figures he said he could not give because of their military nature, but said "it is true that our men are training with broomsticks."

There must be an uninterrupted flow of war production, Rayburn said in discussing labor.

"There must be no strikes, no lockouts, no stoppages. I believe we should have a 48-hour week in war production, without overtime or double time, and that will come."

"This is no time for capital to be greedy and labor to be unreasonable. Production must be uninterrupted in every quarter."

Present production rates "indicate 125,000 planes in 1943, 100,000 of which will be combat planes," Rayburn said.

"Your son is not being sent to battle until he is the best trained and equipped soldier that ever went to war. We will not let them down—we will not let you down."

"Trust your leadership. Whether you love or hate President Roosevelt, he is the leader and the commander-in-chief, and he will be until January 20, 1945. The country can not win this war and the President lose it. Do not allow us to be divided."

Six Planes Lost In British Bombing Raids

LONDON, April 9.—P—A large number of British bombers defied bad weather last night to attack the important north German port of Hamburg and other objectives both in northwest Germany and in German-occupied France.

Docks at Le Havre were one objective in France. Six bombers were lost in the raids.

The air ministry disclosed also that torpedo bombers of the coastal command attacked a convoy of enemy supply ships off the coast of Jutland yesterday afternoon. The results were not observed. Two British planes were lost.

Japs Clearing Way For Stab at U. S. Supply Lines

MELBOURNE, April 9.—(P)—A Japanese air raid on the Florida island capital of Tulagi, administrative center of the Solomon chain across the coral sea from north-eastern Australia, stirred fears anew tonight that the Japanese might be clearing the way for a stab closer to the vital supply lane from the United States.

Reports from Port Moresby said Allied bombers countered quickly with an attack of their own this afternoon on Rabaul, Japanese-held base on New Britain which serves the invaders as a stepping stone from their foothold on New Guinea to the Solomons.

Many Japanese aircraft, caught on the ground in the surprise blow at the Rabaul base, were said to have been destroyed.

Italian Cruiser Hit, Sunk By British Sub

CAIRO, April 9.—P—A British column of all types of arms including tanks was testing strength tonight with Axis armored forces at Sidi Bregesch, 60 miles south of Tobruk, in a fight for control of the wide Libyan desert no-man's-land.

As both sides jockeyed for position in the North African sands, the admiralty announced the sinking of a 10,000-ton Italian cruiser by a British submarine in the central Mediterranean on the Axis' vital supply lane to the battlefield.

Italy Has Two Cruisers Left

Naval observers said in London that loss of the ship, which sank eight minutes after the torpedo explosions, left Italy with only two of the seven 10,000-ton cruisers she had at the outset of the war.

Despite the flare-up of fighting in the desert, with the Germans and Italians throwing in "quite strong forces," informed sources saw no tangible evidence that a large scale offensive was taking form.

British military observers said the Axis units might be trying to set up strong forward points to guard their badly battered airport at Marsa Matruh, or simply were feeling out the lineup of British troops opposite their positions.

A communique announced that "the enemy did not attempt to advance further" during the day after having struck forward suddenly last Tuesday.

The war bulletin reported the capture of a number of Axis troops "trying to establish a strong point between Tmimi and El Gazala," some 20 miles apart.

Malta Withstand Another Raid

This was taken as an indication that Axis detachments were trying to dig in at several points ahead of their Tmimi-El Mechili line but still far short of the main British defenses stretching south from El Gazala.

After claiming initial advances in their communications yesterday, the German and Italian high commands said today only that British attacks on their new-west forward positions were repulsed.

Malta withstood another day of almost endless air attacks yesterday.

An RAF communique said "there was some damage to service property," but reported that eight German planes were shot down and many others were either destroyed or damaged.

Reds Fighting To Keep Nazis On Defensive

LONDON, April 9.—P—Red army troops were reported tonight to have broken two German divisions on one sector of the northwestern Kalinin front after the Nazis had attempted a surprise counter-attack.

The Moscow radio said the Germans suffered heavily, and then retreated.

A supplementary Russian communique also said that 900 Nazis were slain on this front, but it was not clear whether this referred to the same engagement. In the western sector toward Smolensk, the Russians said their troops had occupied 40 more Nazi dugouts.

The regular midnight Soviet communique said no substantial changes occurred on the front today, but that the Soviet scored a 25-to-6 aerial victory Wednesday over the Germans.

New Model Planes Downed

Junkers bombers fresh from the factories of Germany are being rushed to the eastern front and put into immediate operation, it was disclosed today in official Russian dispatches which told of bitter fighting for every inch of the thawing Russian battleground.

A Tass dispatch from Moscow said anti-aircraft gunners on the Kalinin front, in the region south of Lake Ilnen, shot down a Junkers-88 plane numbered 6,719, "recovered from the factory Feb. 26, 1942."

"A few days later," the dispatch continued, "anti-aircraft gunners of the same battalion shot down three more planes released from the factory in March, 1942."

The appearance of these brand new Nazi planes seemed to be another indication that Hitler is con-

War Profits' Curb Would Slow Arms Output, Claim

By Donald A. Young

WASHINGTON, April 9.—P—House ways and means committee members contended today that the Senate-approved profit limitation bill would "slow down" the war effort because of contract difficulties.

They argued that excessive war profits should be recaptured through existing tax formulae rather than through the scheme approved by the Senate Tuesday giving the War and Navy departments and the Maritime Commission broad authority to renegotiate questionable contracts and to require certain repayments.

Voicing the sentiments of some of the committee members, who are now studying stiffer excess profits taxes for war-contract industries as part of a new $7,000,000,000 tax bill, Rep. Disney (D-Okla.) said:

"The Senate formula is so complicated that contractors could not safely make a contract with the Government because of the very nature of it and the risk that they might lose virtually all of their profits."

"Then, after that, the Internal revenue bureau might come along and claim that the War department's arbitrary computations of excess profits were not in accord with the tax laws. Then the Treas-

Most Serious Reversal In U. S. History

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—P—Radio messages still were being relayed by radio tonight to Corregidor, strong evidence that that island entrance to Manila bay was holding out in defiance of the Japanese who today crushed the American defenses on Bataan peninsula.

Radio companies continued to accept messages to Corregidor after the fall of Bataan peninsula was announced. It was confirmed tonight that radio communication with the fortress was being maintained.

There was a possibility that some of the defenders of Bataan may have escaped to the island.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—P—The final battle of Bataan appeared likely today to be recorded as numerically the heaviest reversal ever suffered by an American force in a single engagement with a foreign foe.

Qualified military historians said no American force as large as the 36,853 effectives last reported to be still fighting the Japanese had been destroyed in a single battle of any of the nation's foreign wars beginning with the American Revolution.

Losses of General John J. Pershing's victorious American expeditionary force were heavier in killed and wounded in the final 1918 Meuse-Argonne offensive, but this was a campaign extended over some four months. Heavier losses also were suffered in the Civil war, but not against a foreign foe.

The Philippine area overrun by the Japanese also represents virtually the only major territory wrested from the United States in war.

Military historians noted that American land forces sustained numerous defeats in the Revolution—Long Island, Brandywine and elsewhere—but the number of troops involved was relatively small.

The same was true for the War of 1812 which was largely a series of disasters for ill-trained and ill-equipped American soldiers until General Andrew Jackson's victory at New Orleans. The wars with Mexico and Spain were won without serious American reverses.

Limit to Human Endurance

CARMEL, Calif., April 9.—P—"There is a limit to human endurance!"

That was the way the wife of Lieut.-General Jonathan M. Wainwright reacted today to the sad news from the Philippines—the apparent collapse of the heroic defense of Bataan. General Wainwright is in command there.

The words came through her mother, Mrs. Dwight Holley, whose home is here. Mrs. Wainwright, recently widowed under heavy strain, was exhausted, her mother said.

Mrs. Holley told solicitous friends Mrs. Wainwright had said: "What can one say at a time like this? I am naturally very distressed at the news. There is a limit to human endurance!"

Mrs. Wainwright and her mother plan to leave next week for the

Heroic Stand Of Americans And Filipinos Ended

By Richard L. Turner

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(By A. P.)—The heroic epic of Bataan peninsula ended today, with the Japanese victorious through the sheer overwhelming weight of hordes of fresh troops—and with most of the 36,853 American and Filipino soldiers slain or facing captivity.

Cut off from reinforcement, outnumbered by five, six, seven or even eight to one, tragically deficient in air power, and exhausted by short rations, disease and constant battle, a courageous band of fighting men was forced to a bitter but inevitable defeat.

For days, the Japs had been attacking in waves, sending rank upon rank of fresh troops against sleepless and fatigue-ridden men.

Today, Lieutent General Jonathan Wainwright, who took command when General Douglas MacArthur was transferred to Australia, reported that the enemy had enveloped his eastern flank manned by his second corps.

Counter-Attack Fails; Troops Too Exhausted

To relieve the situation he ordered the first corp to counter-attack. It did, but the "complete physical exhaustion" of the troops made it unsuccessful. In view of these developments the War department concluded and announced that "this situation indicates the probability that the defenses on Bataan have been overcome."

And to this, Secretary of War Stimson added at a press conference:

"Our troops, outnumbered and worn down by successive attacks by fresh troops, exhausted by insufficient rations and disease prevalent on that peninsula, finally had their lines broken and enveloped by the enemy."

"A long but gallant defense has been worn down and overthrown."

"We have nothing but praise and admiration for the commanders and the men who have conducted this epic chapter in American history."

And he spoke the views of a visibly distressed capital, when he continued:

"This is only a temporary loss. We shall not stop until we drive the invaders from the islands."

Had Tried To Send Reinforcements

With the battle ended, he was able to announce, for the first time, that urgent efforts had been made to get reinforcements to MacArthur and Wainwright, despite Japanese control of sea and air.

Brig. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, now minister to New Zealand, had been given the special mission of sending in supplies. Several shipments arrived, but for every supply ship that reached Corregidor, an average of nearly two was lost. Because of those which ran the gauntlet successfully, however, the Army of Bataan never lacked ammunition, although it had been on short rations for weeks.

The end was foreseen yesterday, apparently, for Stimson said that President Roosevelt then sent a message to Wainwright, praising him and his men without limit, and authorizing him to make any decision necessary to meet the developing situation.

Filipino soldiers made up the bulk of the 36,853 fighting men on Bataan, Stimson explained. The American contingent comprised the 31st infantry regiment, the crews of two tank battalions, units of self-propelled artillery, air force ground crews and sailors and marines from the abandoned Cavite naval base. Air force personnel numbered 5,000 men at the start, but there was a heavy loss of aircraft at the opening of the campaign, and in its later stages some 2,000 air corps men fought as infantrymen.

Corregidor Still In American Hands

Corregidor, and the other rocky island fortresses at the entrance to Manila bay, were still in American hands, Stimson disclosed, but how long they could hold out was questionable. He foresaw resistance by isolated bands of fighters in northern Luzon.

This, aside from the fact that more than half of the islands in the archipelago were still held by Americans or Filipinos was all that the United States could salvage from the situation. And it was pointed out, the still unconquered islands are not capable of effective resistance and have not been rearmed and reorganized. The air force is to be expanded, four new armored regiments organized, and the present bicycle regiments reorganized.

Mock Air Raid Will Strike City Tonight

Some time this evening, adjacent to the business district, a mock enemy will strike. There will be casualties and the St. Mary's branch of the city's civilian defense medical division will swing into action in the first test of its forces.

Dr. R. Grant Jones, head of the St. Mary's group, said yesterday that the "dress rehearsal" will involve all units under the standard medical defense plan—doctors, nurses, first aid workers, stretcher bearers and a specially organized group within the hospital.

When the mythical enemy strikes, someone will turn in the alarm and the hospital will be notified. Immediately telephone operators will call doctors, ambulance drivers, nurses and all other volunteer workers, who will rush to the hospital for a quick check on personnel available and to obtain medical supplies, stretchers and other equipment.

First Aid Station

At the scene of the "bombing," a first aid station will be quickly established in a nearby building, where persons suffering from minor cuts and burns will be treated. Simultaneously those "critically injured" will be taken to the hospital by ambulance. At the same time workers will establish a casualty station a few blocks from the scene of the accident, where persons suffering from shock and other doubtful injuries will be taken for treatment and observation.

The casualty station, Dr. Jones pointed out, is designed to prevent overloading hospitals with cases that are not serious enough for hospitalization, but too serious for release following first aid treatment. Later a permanent casualty station will be provided here, with all necessary equipment.

Although the actual time and scene of the bombing is being withheld to prevent the gathering of a crowd in anticipation of the "incident," many will be attracted by the ambulance which will be on duty. In subsequent tests none of the volunteers will know of the time or place of the event, Dr. Jones said, pointing out that some advance planning for tonight's rehearsal was necessary.

Doctors in Charge

Two squads will be in charge of the first aid station. Dr. W. L. Cassler will head Squad I, assisted by Mrs. Ickes, Mrs. Hackinson, Miss Marie Carlson and Thomas Kelly, and Dr. Jones will head Squad II, assisted by Mrs. Blalock, Mrs. Deasy, Mrs. Parrin and A. McQuade.

Stretcher bearers assisting the first aid crews will be Ernest Anderson, Harvard Jean, Richard Beyers, Arthur LaRue and Hugh Wallace.

Dr. Warren C. Lambert will head Squad I at the casualty station, assisted by Mrs. Hurley and Mrs. Tipping, as nurses, and two first aid workers. Dr. H. A. Hanelin will head Squad II, assisted by Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Eggers, nurses, and two first aid workers.

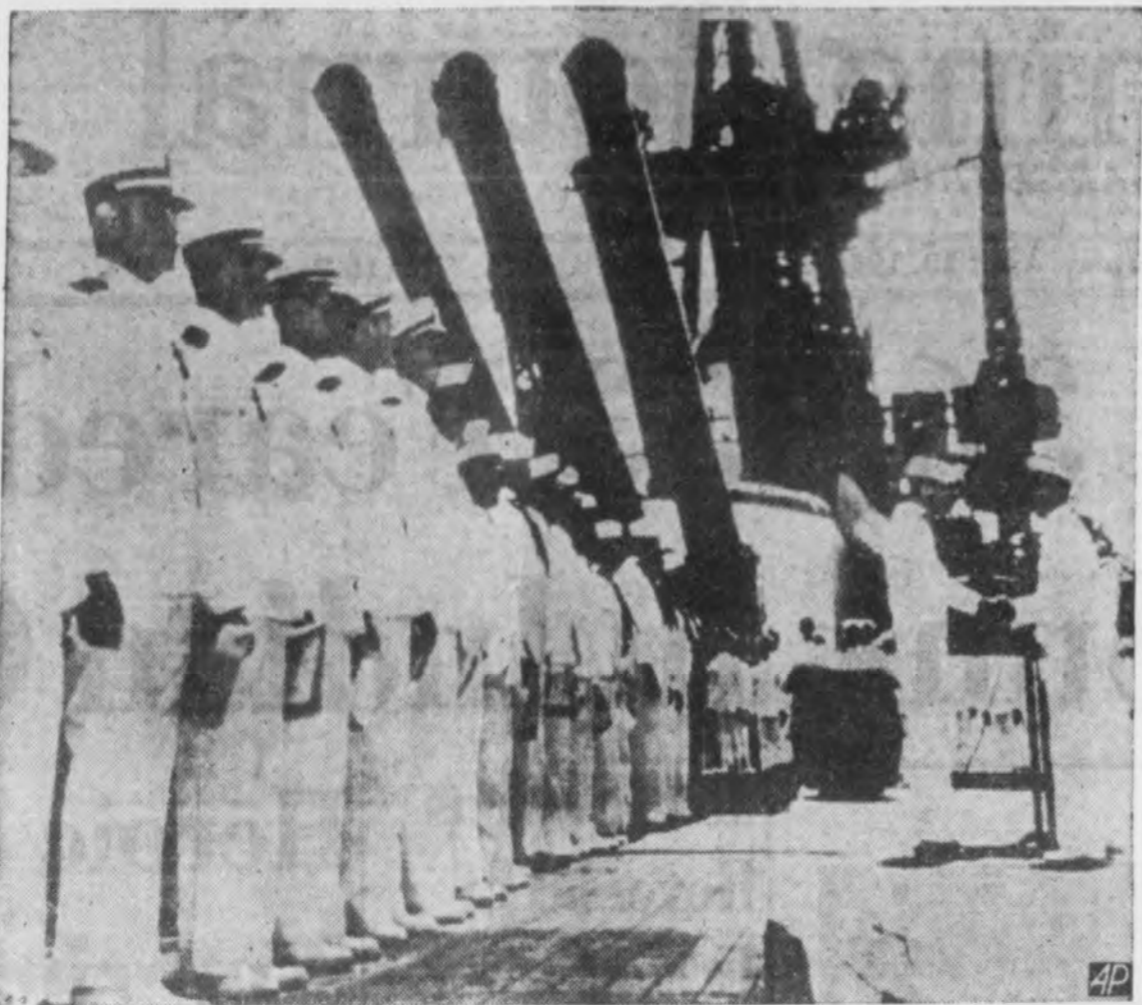

In charge of emergency service at the hospital will be Drs. A. L. Swinton, C. LeGovan, G. I. Keskey and C. N. Bottom and Sisters Henrietta, M. Augusta, M. Gerald, M. Gregory, Mrs. Westberg, Mrs. Larson, Clifton Jandron, Lowell Rloppelle, Jean Derris and Marion Joyce.

Eight To Be "Injured"

The "injured" will be Joseph Trombley, Howard Larson, Mike Bouth, Joseph Kueber, Milo Underhill, Warner Blekkola, Roscoe Baldwin and Emmett Dwyer.

A similar organization has been established for St. Luke's hospital, under the direction of Dr. A. K. Bennett, and for the Ishpeming hospital and the Twin City hospital in Negaunee, all "key" units in the county's medical defense division. Dr. N. J. McCann, of Ishpeming, heads the medical division of the county defense council and recently completed establishment of emergency medical supply depots in strategic parts of the county. Purchase of supplies and equipment was made possible through an ap-

Few Clues Uncovered In Stamp Theft

LANSING, April 9—P—Auditor General Vernon J. Brown declared today evidence in the disappearance of $13,000 worth of postage stamps from the state social security bureau here was becoming "vague" all the time.

Loss of the stamps was disclosed yesterday when Governor Van Wagener called in a public statement for apprehension of the persons responsible.

The stamps have disappeared, apparently blocks of them at a time, since 1939, Brown told newsmen today. "No one knows how many people had access to them. Bundles of old requisitions on which stamps were issued to county social security boards have been sold as waste paper, and we have to check against local records."

Brown disclosed what he said was further confusing evidence in the case—the story of how, when state police were called in to investigate the theft of $900 worth of stamps from a filing cabinet last February 16, an envelope containing $820 worth of stamps of a different denomination was found tucked under the office door.

He said "laxity and carelessness" permitted the disappearance of the stamps over a long period without detection. He said the stamps should have been perforated mechanically to identify them as state property and destroy their value to other persons, and that Federal auditors from 1939 to 1942 had propriation by the county board of supervisors.

Auxiliary Locks Opened To Speed Ore Vessels

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., April 9—P—Two auxiliary channels were opened today to clear the jam of lake freighters, held up at the St. Marys river by ice conditions during the past several days.

The Canadian Sault canal and the Poe lock in the St. Marys falls canal on the American side of the river were both pressed into service to speed the clearance of ore vessels downbound from Lake Superior ports to the smelters of war plants.

The Coast Guard reported that three tugs and a lighter were still standing by the grounded freighters W. A. McGonagle and John Dunn, Jr., which ran aground in Whitefish bay during a recent blow.

Work on Escanaba Dock To Be Resumed April 22

ESCANABA, April 9—P—Work on Escanaba's new municipal dock, which is almost completed, will be resumed April 22, City Engineer A. V. Aronson said today.

Uncompleted work on the dock includes the removal of about 32,000 yards of sand from the bay for fill. A cement curb around the dock will be laid before the inside is covered with clay and sodded.

Aronson said that if good weather prevails the work probably will be finished by July 1.

State Fair Probably Will Be Cancelled

LANSING, April 9—P—Abandonment of the 1942 state fair seems "practically certain," State Agricultural Commissioner Leo V. Card said today, because the War department wants to take over a large portion of the state fairgrounds in Detroit, presumably for storage purposes.

Card said a telegram from the quartermaster division announced its intention to lease virtually all that portion of the fairgrounds not needed for the race track and storage of state fair property, although contracts have not yet been signed.

Tentative plans, he said, call for the War department to expend $80,000 for repairs and improvements to buildings, pay $32,000 a year rental, and return the grounds at the end of the war in as good or better condition than when it took them over.

"If the transaction is consummated, and there is every reason to think it will be," Card said, "there

War Risk Insurance Case Heard

Testimony was heard by Judge Fred M. Raymond in Federal court here yesterday in a suit to recover war risk insurance, brought against the United States Government by Harry LaFleur, of Hiawatha, Schoolcraft county, who served in the United States Army for 78 days, from October 24, 1918, to January 9, 1919.

It is cited in the bill of complaint that LaFleur was found by the U. S. Veterans' Administration to be totally disabled on April 15, 1920, and that he was paid $56.92 a month, the rate to which he was entitled under the terms of his $10,000 war risk insurance policy, from that time until November 14, 1937.

On the latter date, the Veterans Administration stopped payments, whereupon the plaintiff appealed, and at a hearing on March 30, 1938, before the Board of Veterans Appeals, his claim for additional payments was denied.

Tubercular Condition
Found to be disabled because of active tuberculosis, the plaintiff claims he is still "totally and permanently disabled" and is seeking to recover compensation from November 14, 1937, to the present and to have compensation continued at the same rate. LaFleur is represented by Victor M. Anderson, Lansing attorney.

It is the contention of the Government, represented by William M. Lytle, Department of Justice, that LaFleur has regained his health and is able to work.

The plaintiff is suing to recover insurance allegedly due him under provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act of October 6, 1917, and the World War Veterans' Act of 1924.

Detroit Man Confesses Slaying of Wife, Child

DETROIT, April 9.—Police said today Sanford Rosenberg, 36, attributed the slaying of his 24-year-old wife, Viva, and their son, Frederick, 4, to a domestic quarrel in a confession that followed his voluntary appearance at headquarters.

"I have killed my wife and family," Inspector Jack Harvill quoted Rosenberg as saying when he walked into the police station.

Detectives went to his home and found his wife's body sprawled upon the floor of a bedroom, a broken hammer beside it. The child had been strangled in his crib, a toy bear clutched in his arms.

The inspector said Rosenberg confessed beating his wife, who was an expectant mother, to death with the hammer to still her "nagging." The child was strangled with a blanket later to stop his crying, the officer said Rosenberg admitted.

Embarrassing Situation In Tire Repair Shop

DENISON, Tex., April 9.—An embarrassed individual appeared at the J. W. Tipton Tire company, carrying a small package.

"My wife's — er — girdle," he stammered, "could you — ah — fix it?"

He waited while a vulcanizer made the necessary repairs.

Mere Laxatives Often Not Enough

In these days of worry, nervous strain and faulty habits, it's no wonder the stomach sometimes gets overworked and clogged bowels often "cry out" for help! More than just a laxative is often needed. When you feel low, nervous, sickly and played-out, what you need is to wake up both the stomach and bowels in their digestive and eliminative functions. You can do it without drastic drugs. Just get Dr. Peter's genuine stomachic tonic prescription called KURIKO... today.

KURIKO is a great deal more than just another laxative. It is a real internal medicine. It helps the stomach to digest food. It regulates the bowels, increases circulation by way of the kidneys. It helps ease away that exaggerated feeling of bowel gas and flatulency. So don't wait. Ask for KURIKO today.

Mining Journal Editor:
I read in the Detroit Times where K. I. Sawyer, of Marquette county, was to be drafted to build the Alaska road. To my idea good judgment was used. Any one doubting this should take a trip, (or try to) over the roads of Wells township of Marquette county.

If K. I. Sawyer builds a road to Alaska such as he built for us then we will surely be safe from an invasion of the Japs from that source, as only "Jeeps" can get over them. Respectfully,

City May Get June Term Of U. S. Court

The June term of Federal court for this district may be held in Marquette instead of Sault Ste. Marie, Judge Fred M. Raymond, said here yesterday.

The statute provides that January and June terms be conducted in Sault Ste. Marie and April and October sessions in Marquette, but it is within the authority of the presiding judge to call a special session at a suitable location if he deems it advisable.

In making the announcement of the probable change, Judge Raymond said yesterday that housing conditions in Sault Ste. Marie, because of increased military activity and heavy concentration of troops there, might make it advisable to hold the June term in Marquette.

District court officials, witnesses and others would have difficulty obtaining accommodations, the judge said. So hotels have been crowded for some time and probably will be taxed to capacity in June.

Another factor being considered is the prospect of a long term. Ten cases are pending, including one the trial of which may last as long as 30 days.

Fishing for sharks, livers of which furnish valuable vitamin oils, have developed into a sizable industry on the west Mexican coast.

Ruling Asked On Legality Of Car 'Pool'

LANSING, April 9.—The authority of Auditor General Vernon J. Brown and Budget Director Leo J. Nowicki to order state agencies to pool 111 passenger automobiles to save tires and metal was challenged today by Milton P. Adams, secretary of the state stream control commission.

Adams asked Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton for an opinion as to whether the pooling order conflicted with statutes limiting the right of agencies to transfer property and requiring funds be spent for the purpose for which they were appropriated.

He also questioned his right to turn two cars over to the pool without the consent of his commission. He was instructed to turn in two cars Friday, while his commission does not meet until April 23.

Adams said Brown and Nowicki could take the cars on their own responsibility if they wished to, but that he declined to transfer without an attorney general's opinion.

Autos Needed, Card Says
Leo V. Card, state commissioner of agriculture, planned to comply with the order to turn in his six departmental cars, but he said he would ask for the immediate return of five of them.

"We are mostly a police agency," Card said, "charged with enforcement of food, grading and sanitation laws which are important to the welfare of the state. I don't see how we can answer complaints promptly and investigate such matters without cars at our disposal." The corrections department said it was requesting the return of some of its six cars ordered pooled on the grounds they were needed in the supervision of parolees and probationers.

It was disclosed that the order for the state prison of southern Michigan to give up 8 of its 10 cars, Ionia reformatory to give up three of its five and the Marquette branch prison one of its two cars has not yet been issued, although it was announced yesterday.

143 Good Tires Found—For 1914 Model Cars

DENVER, April 9.—One hundred and forty-three unused tires have been found in the basement of a Trinidad, Colo., warehouse. But, says Wilbut Newton, state rationing administrator, the only cars they'll fit are a 1914 Winton six or an air-cooled Franklin of pre-World war I vintage.

Tests are being made to determine if the rubber can be salvaged. Ninety-five per cent of the stenographers in the country are women.

FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1942

U. P. Danger Zone

ANNOUNCEMENT that northern Michigan has been rated as the fourth zone in the country where gas masks will be distributed and similar precautions taken should serve to dramatize civilian defense efforts now under way in the region, which, it is asserted, will be at the top of the list as soon as the requirements of the East, West and Gulf coasts have been fulfilled.

Much progress has been and is being made in the principal communities, notwithstanding now too well founded charges of apathy. Although realization of the possibilities of attack on strategic areas may have been slow, this was to be expected. It may be presumed that the majority are rapidly awakening to the danger and are prepared to do whatever they may be asked to do in civilian defense.

To some observers it has appeared that too much emphasis has been placed upon numbers registered. Where registrations still are under estimated requirements, it is probable that the deficiencies will be made up as soon as instruction programs get under way. The strength of defense organizations must, in the final analysis, be measured by the number who have been organized into specialty groups and who have received specific training. There will be something to worry about if, when qualified instructors are available to teach air raid wardens, demolition crews and the like, there are not enough volunteers to fill the classes.

Gross Negligence

It has been disclosed that some $12,000 worth of postage stamps has disappeared from the office of the state bureau of social security. From what has been said concerning the handling of stamps and postal records in this office, it is surprising that some of the furniture and fixtures are not missing. Theft of $1,000 worth of stamps from the desk of a clerk led to the investigation. Whoever heard of keeping such an amount of stamps, which might just as well have been currency, in a desk? Worse than this, the auditor general's department found that the stamps were stored in a letter file to which several persons had access.

In this case Federal employees must accept responsibility for what approaches criminal negligence, as the financial operations of the bureau of social security, a Federal-state agency, are handled by Federal officials. Assurance by the auditor general's department that state agencies are handling their funds on a more business-like basis would be comforting.

Worthwhile Survey

Plans have been completed for a household survey in Upper Peninsula communities to determine the labor supply available for work in business, in factories and on farms. It will be conducted by auxiliaries of veterans' organizations in cooperation with the U. S. Employment Service. Although it is inevitable that it will, to some extent, duplicate and overlap previous activity in this field, it will, in many respects, provide information now lacking. Because of the expected shortage in farm labor, particularly during the harvest season, registration of men and women who will be available for part-time work in the fields is of special importance. Many women, not now registered by the employment service, have had training in professions and skills. All must be registered and classified to enable the Employment Service to be of maximum value to employers, who more and more are becoming dependent upon women to fill positions left vacant by men who have gone into service.

Registration does not involve obligation, but it does mean that those who register will have first call on jobs as they become available. The veterans' auxiliaries are to be commended for undertaking such a worthwhile project.

A Drastic Order

Under the drastic War Production Board order prohibiting new construction of non-essential residences, roads and commercial buildings, so that more materials will be available for war work, the building trades will be forced into far-reaching reorganization. Building and supply dealers are given some leeway under the order, which permits expenditures up to $500 annually for repairs and maintenance. Contractors, however, will be hard hit and, for the most part, will have to seek war contracts or go out of business. Those engaged in the building trades, carpenters, masons and the like, it seems apparent, will, in considerable numbers, be forced to seek work in cities where there are Government-approved housing projects. This, in fact, may be one of the main purposes of the WPB order, for in cities where establishment or expansion of war industries has made the housing problem particularly acute, the need for skilled labor is as pressing as the need for materials.

Medals for Sailors

The bill authorizing the decoration of merchant marine sailors whose conduct or service has been outstanding in keeping the sea lanes open has been passed by the Senate and now awaits the signature of the President.

There can be no doubt that the President's approval will be forthcoming. The enemy submarine campaign off the coast has brought home to the public the tremendous risks merchant sailors take every time they put to sea, and the news recently has been full of incidents of their suffering and courage.

The heroism of the personnel of the merchant fleet, however, is not confined to the home coasts. Wherever war supplies must go, there is the merchant marine; whether in the icy waters of Greenland, Iceland and Russia, the shark-infested seas of the Caribbean or along the far-flung line of communications to New Zealand and Australia. The merchant marine fights on all fronts. Without the merchant marine we could neither render aid to our allies nor prepare for offensive action. The service of its men is as essential as if they were in uniform. Where there is heroic conduct there should be official recognition. That is the purpose of the present bill. There could not be a measure on which public opinion in its favor is more united.

End of Leniency

The Department of Justice's arrest of William Dudley Pelley, the Silver Shirt leader, on the charge of sedition, is in its broader sense an attempt to redefine or to make clear beyond reasonable doubt what may be published or said publicly in wartime.

Mr. Pelley is accused, under the Espionage Act of 1917, of making and distributing false statements intended to harm the United States and to promote the success of its enemies. Presumably he will be held for trial either in regular session or before a special grand jury. In either case it is to be hoped that the court proceedings will give the very wide publicity they deserve. For Pelley is a symbol—and has long been a symbol—of a pseudo-American fascism that is inherently as alien as its foreign prototype.

Not only Pelley but others, before and since Pearl Harbor, have promoted ideas which, if observed, could not help but foster distrust of the Government and of national policy. They have perverted the privileges of a free press and of free speech. And so far they have been able to do this because we have been inexorably hesitant to establish arbitrary limits of legitimate domestic comment that would apply to such individuals.

It will be the Government's job to prove malicious intent in Pelley's case. But regardless of the outcome, his trial will serve a decidedly useful purpose, if it highlights the tragic disservice to the country of Pelley and of others who share his un-American views. In wartime, above all, such views cannot be circulated without disrupting unity on the home front. This is well understood here. But since it isn't, the sooner the Department of Justice acts, the sooner the public will be in a position to recognize—and to reject—subversion when they see or hear it.

Contemporary Opinion

Landmark in Protection

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Michigan state police passed unobtrusively as the state troopers went about their more important than usual duties without time to spare for demonstrations or rallies. From a nucleus of 12 mounted men a quarter-century ago to the present motor equipped personnel numbering 660, the state police has grown in size and degree of organization.

If anyone doubts the importance of the duties of the state police in wartime he has but to recall that a war brought it into existence. Then, as now, it was called upon to guard the state's industries, bridges and other vulnerable points against enemy sabotage. But since that time science has armed it with many important weapons for combatting that danger. Radioblast the state with warnings in a matter of minutes. The cars themselves have been improved to the point where a great number of state troopers can be concentrated in a given area within two or three hours in most instances.

The laboratory maintained by the state police at East Lansing contains all the up-to-date equipment essential to scientific crime detection. The mere existence of the laboratory is of great importance, for by making available the efficiency and effectiveness of the latter has been markedly increased.

In refusing to take time out for the observance of its anniversary the state police acted in keeping with its character; when it has a job to do it does it, and right now it has one of the most important jobs of its history on its hands.—Grand Rapids Press.

Need for Vegetables

Should city residents put themselves out to grow vegetables this spring? We've heard two sides of the question. One is that everybody should pitch in to help boost food production, even if it is no more than an Amos 'n' Andy victory garden box. Another is that the average city resident usually makes a mess of a garden, so should leave the seeds to the farmer who knows what to do with them. Forget it, the city folks were told by one authority.

The farmers, we heard, were going to expand production, and no doubt they are doing it in many products. But a survey by Iowa and Nebraska canneries discloses that farmers are growing even less than the normal acreage of vegetables while expanding in staples like soybeans. Forty-three firms have contracted only 20 to 25 per cent of the normal sweet corn needed for the canning season. In peas, tomatoes and beans also, production is off.

On that showing, it seems the urban residents ought to grow as much and as many vegetables as they can. We don't put ourselves up as an authority on the subject, being mindful of the fact, as we have been reminded a number of times, that farming should be left to farmers. We think it is safe to say, however, that when nothing is planned, something was planned last year, isn't nothing gonna come up.—Rock Island Argus.

Thirty Years Ago

(April 10, 1912)

Marquette The Kauffman Oratorical contest will be held this evening at the Northern State Normal school. There are four contestants. They are the Misses Maysie Stratton, Marion Rasmussen and Hazel Price, and Tracy Kaye. A new freight station will be erected on Third street, near the railroad crossing by the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company, this contract for the work having been let to the Herman Construction company, of Antigo, Wis.

According to present indications there will be many residences erected in Marquette this summer. Recorder Daniel S. Donovan has issued two permits for two-story frame structures in North Marquette. The first was to Gust E. Hill, who will build on Presque Isle avenue, in Ayer's addition. The second was to Gerrit Scholtz for a two-story frame structure and basement, 77 by 31-feet on North Third street, Adams addition.

Ishepeming There are more poultry fanciers at the Winthrop location than at any other place in Marquette county, population considered, and they are getting rid of the common barn yard fowls and replacing them with thoroughbred stock. Among the leading breeders at the location is Henry Cardew, who has been breeding the Rhode Island Reds for several years and who has succeeded in building up a wonderful laying strain, as his egg records show. Luke Harrington is breeding the S. C. White Leghorns; William Brown has the L. C. Brown Leghorns and the S. C. White Leghorns; William Brown has the L. C. Brown Leghorns; Jabez Treblock, Jr., has a pen of Cornish-Indian turkeys and peafowls.

The Rev. M. M. Allen, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and the Rev. J. M. Rogers, who is engaged in missionary work for the church in this region, are attending the annual meeting of the Lake Superior Presbytery in Escanaba. Ed Belhumeur, manager of the Belhumeur store in Champion, was in Ishepeming to purchase a delivery wagon from George Voelker.

New York Chats

By Charles B. Driscoll

NEW YORK — Thinking out loud: The birds have come back, and it seems to me that they never before have sung so beautifully, so ecstatically. . . . They perch on shrubs that mask the tiny windows of my study, and sing their hearts out, as if to say, "Don't fret about the Japs and the paper-chase. We were here last year and for centuries before that, and there'll be song sparrows over the lawns of white clover long after those monkeys have gone back to their little islands. . . . It's somehow encouraging. . . . We had one of our heaviest snowfalls in suburban New York on the last Sunday in March, Palm Sunday. My wife fed the birds in the backyard, and they rewarded her by singing their choicest songs all day, through the snow. . . . A New York newspaper has printed a picture of the Normandie in her present condition, so it probably is not improper to report that she lies just as she settled when she heeled over her three great stacks have been cut off. The side that is toward the sky is covered with scaffolding. A wide street runs along that side, almost as level as the street we drive on alongside. It is lit by electric lights on temporary lamp posts, and is used by the salvage crews, coming and going about their gigantic task. Will she ever float again? I think so.

We all wonder whether Quentin Reynolds, war correspondent and author, is planning to settle down in this country, after marriage. It's difficult to pin one of these far-roaming correspondents down to middle-aged contentment in a suburban cottage. I've heard Spike Hunt and Linton Wells solemnly declare, again and again, that they were through with far traveling, that they were going to set up their household goods and never go farther away from them than Times Square.

Utopia Of South Seas

Natives of the Torres Strait islands, lying between Australia and the Japanese invaders of New Guinea, pay income tax, enforce prohibition, enjoy social security and woman suffrage. Fifty years ago these islands harbored cannibals, their untidy grass tufts decorated with human skulls. Today the natives are devout Christians, living in modern bungalows. Top of the world is being worked on the Mineral Range railroad in Calumet since January, has returned to Neganue and will be employed switching in the yards. (From The Mining Journal Files)

Chine Chantey

The 54 Chinese sailors rescued from torpedoed ships and brought to Canada declared that when they were blown into the sea by enemy explosives, they were practically dead. They were reborn when the rescue ship landed them in Canada. They were, therefore, Canadian-born and entitled to stay there. The immigration authorities, somewhat baffled by this Chinese philosophical view of rescue as reincarnation, have finally and sadly declared the sailors must either go to sea or be deported. In either case, they must face the terrors of salt water or over gain. It's a hard world to be born or reborn into. Chinese poem: Navigation. Detonation. Wet flotation. Salty ration. Salutational! Preservation. Immigration? Sad negation. Incarnation! Canada nation! Deportation? Oh, damnation! Determination. Navigation. Battle station. War elation. Jap definition. Jubilation. Termination of narration.—Kenosha News.

Biggest Employer

American employers are enabling too many able-bodied men to avoid military service by listing them as essential defense workers, says Col. Arthur V. McDermott, director of selective service for New York. He demands that "industry tighten its belt, face the facts and do some house cleaning on its own account." So far, so good. But who is the biggest employer in this country? It is the United States Government by a huge margin. The biggest employer is not taking his own advice. Working for the Government, even in a useful capacity, is no more of an excuse for exemption from military service than working for Horn and Hardart, unless it is demonstrable that such work

Quotations

Measured by ordinary standards this nation has done extremely well, but we aren't measuring by ordinary standards anymore. —War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson.

The United States after a victorious war will have to remain a strong military power for a long time to come. This means our military budget will hardly drop below eight to 10 billion dollars annually.—Dr. Gustave Stolper, American economist.

I don't think there is any one man big enough to be a despot over the United States.—William Dudley Pelley, Silver Shirt chief, indicted on sedition charge.

We don't run wars to make millionaires.—Sen. Charles W. McNary, of Oregon, Senate Republican leader.

I am encouraging nobody to believe the tide has turned, because there is a long way to go.—Francis M. Forde, Australian minister of war.

It Is Possible To Save

Non-defense spending can be cut. It should and must be cut.

The billions of dollars Americans are necessarily spending to win the war make it more imperative than ever that the United States Government should save on its expenditures not directly connected with the war.

For a considerable time the Administration gave the impression that this was impossible. But the Administration itself now is proving that it can be done. Congress is demanding that it be done to still greater extent. And behind Congress is a demand of the people that non-defense expenditures really be cut to the irreducible minimum in order to devote the Nation's utmost resources to defense.

This is far from being done, though both Congress and the Administration have made a beginning. Treasury figures at the end of February showed that the "general" expenditures of the Government—that is, for the various non-military departments and agencies—had run 7 per cent lower in the aggregate for the first eight months of the current fiscal year than during the same period of the preceding year.

That is something, but it is not enough. For next year the House appropriations committee has recommended a reduction of 31 per cent, or $75,000,000 in the funds of the Department of the Interior. Of this amount $58,000,000 was suggested by the Budget bureau and the department, and the remainder of the cut was made by the committee. Less than a month ago

Side Glances

He's been extra ornery lately! I guess he knows the Army will get him one of these days anyway!

WASHINGTON, April 9—Something far more important than the question of whether seamen may engage in a sitdown strike when their ship is in harbor, but away from home port may have been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States this week.

There are many statutes, Federal and state, which undertake to punish violence whether or not it is associated with a labor dispute, and up to now the National Labor Relations Board has repeatedly insisted that failure to bargain collectively was of much more importance than any other law violations and hence workers must be reinstated no matter what law they may have violated.

The Supreme Court has tended, in case after case, to curtail the Labor Board's interpretation of its rights in that regard, and now the highest court has laid down a rule which may serve as a warning to labor unions generally that if they engage in violence they may run the risk of losing some of the advantages of the National Labor Relations Act, especially as these relate to reinstatement of strikers.

Lesson for Board The Supreme Court's latest decision is epitomized in this paragraph from the majority opinion: "It is sufficient for this case to observe that the board has not been commissioned to effectuate the policies of the Labor Relations Act so single-mindedly that it may wholly ignore other and equally important objectives. Frequently the entire scope of Congressional purpose calls for careful accommodation without excessive emphasis upon its immediate task."

Now there are Federal and state laws which make it a crime physically to impede interstate commerce, or to pull a switch in an electric power plant, or to engage in violence through mass picketing or by blocking entrances to plants. Employers up to now who have refused to reinstate workers they believed to have been guilty of violence have received scant encouragement and, on the other hand, their legal protestations that they should not be required to reinstate law-breakers have gone unheeded.

Wisconsin Law Upheld The personnel of the National Labor Relations board of course, has changed since the board was reversed by the Supreme Court after the sitdown strike in the Finsteel plant. The Board has endeavored to feel its way since the Finsteel decision to determine just what is the proper scope of its powers to order reinstatement. The fact that the Supreme Court specifically says now that other statutes enacted by Congress must be taken into consideration fits in with an opinion handed down by the Court recently in which the laws of the state of Wisconsin were upheld when they sought to punish mass picketing and methods of violence.

It is apparent that the Supreme Court is performing a valuable service to the cause of collective bargaining by removing one of the principal arguments that have been made for the modification of the Wagner law—the orders to reinstate or rehire workers irrespective of what their records of violence during a strike may have been. If the Supreme Court removes the twilight zone from some of the legal problems growing out of the enforcement of the Labor Relations act and delineates the manner in which the Labor Board can at the same time effectuate the proper purposes of the law, the Board will attain greater and greater importance as a judicial as well as administrative tribunal.

Split Vote Significant It is important to note that the latest decision of the Supreme Court was on a 5 to 4 basis. Back in 1937 when President Roosevelt made his attack on the Supreme Court decisions, he frequently assailed the practice of rendering 5 to 4 decisions. There are apparently almost as many, if not as many of this type of decision in a Supreme Court in which seven out of nine members have been appointed by President Roosevelt.

In the present instance, Justices Byrnes, Frankfurter and Jackson joined Chief Justice Stone and Justice Roberts to make the majority opinion as against Justices Reed, Black, Douglas and Murphy. (Reproduction rights reserved.)

SOS "Cup 'o' tea, weak," said a customer at a London coffee stall. When it was brought, he eyed it critically. "Well, what's wrong with it; you said weak, didn't you?" "Weak, yes," was the reply; "but not 'elpless."

Proceed With the Examination Dr. J. M. Buckley was conducting an "experience meeting" at a Negro church, when an impressive-looking, modishly attired colored woman arose and in glowing terms bore witness to the many blessings she had gained through religion. "That's wonderful, sister," said the white minister. "But what about the practical side? Does your religion make you strive to prepare good meals for your husband, does it inspire you to make your home comfortable and cheerful for him in every way?"

Just then Dr. Buckley felt a tug at his coat-tails; and, turning, met the anxious gaze of the Negro pastor, who with great urgency whispered, "Press dem questions, doctor, press dem questions. Dat am my wife!"

The Post Replies Ben Jonson was once indebted to a vintner, who agreed to cancel the poet's obligation if he would make immediate reply to the following questions: What God is best pleased with; what the devil is best pleased with; what the world is best pleased with; and what he (the vintner) was best pleased with. Jonhson at once replied: "God is best pleased when men forsake their sins; 'The devil's best pleased, when they persist therein; 'The world's best pleased, when thou dost sell good wine; 'And you're best pleased, when I do pay for mine."

Tied Up The Germans have just arranged a program of horse-racing fixtures for 1942—at Hamburg of all places!—but in other directions they, too, are facing up to further "ruthlessness" in the way of restrictions on unnecessary luxuries. Long ties for men are one of the casualties; only bow ties are to be permitted, and in support of that economy in textile fabrics it is argued that "a bow tie makes the wearer look more youthful." Perhaps if the fustier ever comes back from the eastern front and returns to civilian attire he will make a special point of sporting a bow tie—a little neat and natty one, to match the smudge on his upper lip, and preferably a made-up arrangement which clips on to the collar stud and therefore saves the material that would otherwise have to go right around the neck.

But Goering will have to be allowed something a little more flowing and floppy—any tiny attachment would be lost on his bulk and might look as though some sort of fly had settled on him, whereas the world ought to know by this time that there are no flies on Happy Herrmann. Truthful Joe is too mere and miniature to need any tie at all; a bootlace would be big enough for him. It remains to be seen whether any of them will emerge as pictures of youth and innocence as a result of these latest developments in Germanic neck-joy.—Manchester Guardian.

The Nazi Dangerous Book The New Yorker and banned books unsuited to the "Aryan ideology," but they missed the most subversive one: a personal diary. A German, thumbing back through the pages of a diary to refresh his mind on events of last month or last year could become a dangerous doubter. For instance, if he wanted to see what was taking place as spring began to burgeon a year ago, he might come upon these observations jotted down as he sat before his radio listening to the Nazi-blessed broadcast: "Scht! The German speakers on March 28, 1941: 'We know today that the war is won for Germany and her allies. At the end of this year, 1941, the whole world will know it. . . . Long before the spring of 1942, Germany will have dealt Great Britain the final blow. The day is not distant. Hitler has announced it. England will fall, and she will fall in 1941.'—Detroit Free Press.

Army Board Orders Plans For Building

Plans are being completed for construction of a two and one-half story, fireproof building for the Salvation Army which will occupy the site of the condemned frame building at the corner of Third and Bluff streets, the Army advisory board announced last night.

Although officials still are studying provisions of the new WPB order limiting private and commercial construction, the hope was expressed that a priority will be granted for a new structure.

Much of the money for the project was raised during the building fund campaign which will be completed shortly with the assistance of the Kiwanis club.

32 By 65 Feet

The building will be 32 by 65 feet, with a full basement for Sunday school classes, relief work and social activities. The auditorium and office will be on the first floor, and living quarters for officers in charge will be on the top floor. The structure will be set back 8 to 10 feet from the sidewalk, leaving space for landscaping.

Bids for razing the present building will be sought within the next few days.

Marquette's Salvation Army corps has a record of 50 years' service to the community, a member of the advisory board said, adding that "it is the desire of the board and the Army to erect a building which will be an asset to the city and which will enable the organization to render even better service than it has in the past."

It was pointed out that the property and the building will be owned and controlled by the local advisory board and that the national organization will act only in an advisory capacity.

D. E. Anderson, of Marquette, is the architect.

$200 Damage Caused By Blaze in State Capitol

LANSING, April 9—P—Fire today damaged fixtures in offices of the state highway department's finance division on the third floor of the state office building. Fire Chief Paul Lefke said he believed a careless smoker dropped a cigarette into a wastebasket.

John Gafner, assistant superintendent of the capitol, said $200 would cover the loss caused by fire, and that none of the department's records was damaged. He said it was possible damage from smoke, which filled the third, fourth and fifth floors of the capitol, would necessitate an upward adjustment of the estimate. High officials of the highway department were in Royal Oak, attending a political dinner meeting.

KINGSFORD, April 9—Five hundred and sixty-six residents of Kingsford last night called upon Congressman Hook and Michigan U. S. Senators Brown and Vandenberg to bend every effort towards war contracts for the Ford Motor company plant here, in a petition presented to the village commission.

Cattle Dealer Fined Again
ESCANABA, April 9—Harry Yudin, Marinette cattle dealer, was fined $75 and costs in Menominee justice court for hauling livestock in an unclean truck, operating without a hauling license and moving cattle interstate without the proper health certificates, it was learned here yesterday. Yudin was fined $25 and costs here in February for hauling cattle in an unclean truck.

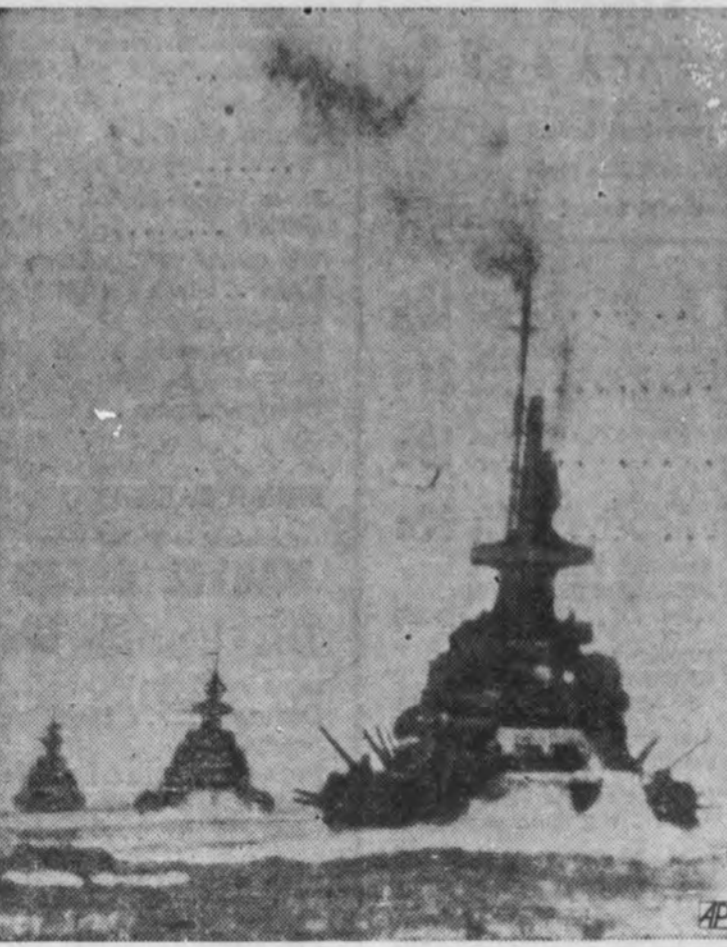

Fined For Settling Fire
ESCANABA, April 9—John Perins, Escanaba, was found guilty of setting a grass fire without a permit on property near the old city airport on highway US-2 last week and was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace Henry Ranquette yesterday. Conservation officers who arrested Perins said the fire endangered public property nearby.

Barrage Balloons Break Away
SAULT STE. MARIE, April 9—One of the two A. W. O. L. barrage balloons which snapped cables at 9 p. m. Tuesday and broke for the general direction of Canada, was located this morning by a Coast Guard plane between Gros Cap and Goulais Bay. The other was still missing. Meanwhile a retriever squad of barrage balloons was hastening for the Boulais Bay area to return the balloon which is weighted by 700 feet of cable hanging from its shroud lines.

Aged Escanaba Woman Dies
ESCANABA, April 9—Mrs. Gertrude F. Jaeger, 78, a resident of this community almost 64 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Rademacher, yesterday afternoon of a heart attack which followed a long illness. The daughter of William J. Martens, an Escanaba pioneer, Mrs. Jaeger was born in St. Anthony, North Brabant, Holland, on June 5, 1863, and came to the United States when she was four years old. She resided in De Pere, Wis., before coming to Escanaba in 1878.

Union Recognition Refused
IRON MOUNTAIN, April 9—Dickinson county road commissioners yesterday refused to recognize a local of the State, County and Municipal Workers of America, a CIO union, as collective bargaining agent for commission employees. The board's decision was based on a letter from Louis Webber, executive director of the Michigan Association of Road Commissioners and Engineers, stating that no Michigan road commission has granted union recognition, and also on opinions of Herbert J. Rushton, state attorney general, holding that recognition of labor unions by road commissions is illegal.

Church Group Asks Stricter Liquor Control

LANSING, April 9—P—Methodist churchmen today called for stricter control of alcoholic liquors in Michigan, with emphasis on greater activity by local law enforcement officials.

Their views were expressed at a conference on alcohol and modern life sponsored by the social action committee of the Detroit and Michigan Methodist conference and Dr. E. S. Prettymen, superintendent of the new Michigan Temperance Foundation, Inc., successor to the Michigan Anti-Saloon League.

The Rev. Amos Bogart, Grand Rapids, declared in an address that the church organization proposed three reforms of the liquor laws: State-wide Sunday closing of drinking establishments and elimination of beer sales in dance halls and in restaurants.

Sales To Minors Chief Violation

He said Kent county law enforcement officials told him the majority of liquor law violations in that county concerned sale of intoxicants to minors and that such sales resulted from the combination of beer sales with food sales and dancing.

The Rev. Earl Sawyer, Lapeer, discussed with the delegates ways of stimulating local option campaigns, pointing to concerted moves in Ohio, Indiana and South Carolina as indications that temperance programs are best served by local option activity.

Felix H. H. Flynn, member of the state liquor control commission, told the conference the commission hoped to convince the state civil service commission to grant it more state liquor inspectors.

He criticized the civil service department decision that the commis-

$41,324 In Back Wages Paid in March

Nine hundred and thirty workers in Michigan last month received $41,324.15 in back wages due them under requirements of the Fair Labor Standards Act, Francis M. Quigley, inspector in charge of the Marquette office, said yesterday. Investigations were made by officers of the U. S. wage and hour division.

The amount represents the difference between what the workers were paid since October, 1938, and what was found due them under the law. In all but one case, the restitution was paid voluntarily by employers without the necessity of legal action.

Total restitution for 1,698 workers in Michigan and Ohio last month was $98,782.27. It was announced by Miss Grace G. Glascott, regional director.

The commission recognizes enforcement as its most important problem," Flynn asserted. "We want to arouse public opinion to stimulate greater activity by your local officials to enforce the liquor laws. Your local governments get 85 per cent of the liquor license revenue for just that purpose."

Instead of meeting the legal requirement that two public hearings be held annually, Flynn said, the reorganized commission already has held three and plans at least 18 more in the next six weeks.

Flynn said the commission now will not grant club licenses in municipalities without the consent of the local governing body, although the law does not so specify.

Why... is IMPERIAL the biggest-selling whiskey in all Michigan history?

Why?

Is Price The Reason? No—for while IMPERIAL is NOT an expensive whiskey, it outsells ALL 347 other whiskeys... including those that cost less.

... Is It The Bottle? Hardly—although the IMPERIAL bottle did win the national packaging award. But, shucks—you can't drink a bottle.

... Or Hiram Walker's Reputation? No doubt Hiram Walker's reputation started the IMPERIAL rush. But it certainly takes more than reputation to keep 'em sold as enthusiastically as they are on IMPERIAL.

... And FLAVOR! Bingo again! IMPERIAL is "flavor-peaked" for extra richness. This superb American blend has that expensive "imported-whiskey" flavor because its foundation whiskeys are specially distilled to give them individual qualities—then blended together to a delicate "flavor peak." Try IMPERIAL today at your bar—or take home a bottle.

GREAT—for 2 big reasons!

- "Velveted" for extra smoothness.
- "Flavor-peaked" for extra richness.

U. S. Sets Up Civilian War Benefit Plan

The Social Security Board has been directed by the Federal Security Agency to provide temporary monthly benefit payments to United States civilians—other than enemy aliens—who are disabled or who are dependents of civilians killed, disabled, interned or reported missing as the result of enemy action in World War II outside the continental United States.

This announcement was made here yesterday by Wheelock P. Chamberlain, manager of the Marquette office of the Social Security Board.

"The President has allocated from his emergency fund the sum of $5,000,000 for this purpose," Chamberlain said. "At the President's request, the Federal Security Agency has assumed responsibility for providing such aid, and has directed the Social Security Board to administer the plan in accordance with principles outlined by the President."

Based on Past Earnings

The administrator of the Federal Security Agency has made a portion of the allocation available to the bureau of old age and survivors' insurance and has charged the bureau with the responsibility of administering a system of making temporary monthly benefit payments to qualified dependents, he added.

"A person may be qualified to receive these civilian war benefits and old age and survivors' insurance benefits at the same time," Chamberlain explained. "The amount of old age and survivors' insurance payments, however, is reduced to half its usual amount in cases where a person is eligible to receive both types of benefits."

"Temporary benefits will be paid on the basis of past earnings of the individual upon whom the beneficiaries were dependent."

Results of Enemy Action

"Benefits will be paid to dependents, at the minimum rates, even though the worker was not employed at all during the quarters to be considered for benefit-formula purposes," he said. "Earnings from self-employment will be considered, as will earnings from all other types of employment, regardless of definitions under the social security act."

Chamberlain also pointed out that "if a person qualifies for receipt of civilian war benefit payments while unemployed, he will continue to receive them in case he becomes employed."

Payments will be made to wives, widows, children and dependent parents of persons suffering from the following results of enemy action outside the continental United States: Death, total disability, detention by the enemy and disappearance as the result of enemy action.

Enemy Aliens Excluded

Enemy aliens and dependents of persons in the military or civil establishments of the Federal Government will not be entitled to civilian war benefits.

"The system of benefits to be provided under this allocation will be temporary in character, intended only to meet an emergent immediate need," Chamberlain said, "and therefore will be subject to modification or discontinuance at any time. It creates no vested rights on the part of the beneficiaries."

Few Additions Needed In This Model Plane

MILWAUKEE, April 9—P—The flying cadets examining board today received a model plane crudely constructed from an envelope by Paul Rose, of Kenosha, with the following note:

"Dear sir—I'm sending an airplane that I thought will be of some help to you. You will have to put the legs in yourself and also the windshield, and the controller and the landing gear."

On the back of the box containing the plane and note Paul inscribed a bold "V for victory."

Over 300 See British War Films

British war films shown in the Louis G. Kaufman auditorium last night under auspices of the Marquette chapter of the British War Relief Society brought home with dramatic force the need for thorough civilian defense planning. More than 300 persons attended.

In an introductory talk, Mayor L. W. Biegler, vice-chairman of the Marquette chapter, emphasized the importance to this country of Britain's gallant defense and the value of American aid in maintaining British morale. He cited the devastation of London, Coventry and other English cities as ample evidence of the need for adequate civilian defense in American communities and appealed to all men and women in Marquette to participate in it.

Many Stirring Scenes

Among the most stirring scenes shown were the fires in London following the Nazi blitz in the fall of 1940, the evacuation of thousands of troops from Dunkerque under an unceasing hail of German bombs, and pictures of the British people, undaunted by death and destruction, fighting on.

Woven through the pictures is the story of the humanitarian program of the B.W.R.S., mobile feeding kitchens and "Queens Messengers" bringing hot tea and food to weary fire fighters and to men, women and children worn out by long hours in air raid shelters, and ambulances rushing aid to bomb victims.

Proceeds from last night's program will be used to carry on the work of the Marquette chapter, Next Monday afternoon "Thumbs Up," the main feature, will be shown in the Nordic theater to Marquette service clubs, and later in the week the films will be seen by Neegaunee and Ishpeming audiences.

Msgr. Zryd Addresses Law Officers

The Very Rev. Msgr. Joseph Zryd, chancellor of the Catholic diocese of Marquette, was the principal speaker at the quarterly session of the Upper Peninsula Association of Law Enforcement Officers in Iron River yesterday, presided over by Sgt. Charles W. Engle, of the Marquette state police post, association president.

Among those attending from Marquette were John Siegel, Marquette justice; Donald McCormick, chief of police; Ralph Sheehan, Forrest White and Sgt. Engle, state police; Howard C. Treudo, Marquette county sheriff, and Wallace R. Kemp, probation officer and secretary of the association.

Monsignor Zryd discussed the moral aspect of crime and the reform of offenders. In an afternoon address, Dr. David Phillips, psychiatrist of the Michigan corrections department, stressed psychology in dealing with criminals.

Gervase Murphy, of Calumet, was toastmaster, and a highlight of the entertainment was an oration by William Flanagan, Iron River high school speaker. Norman MacCormick, Iron River chief of police, was in charge of arrangements.

Approximately 100 officers attended.

Third Draft Registrants May Be Called In May

LANSING, April 9—P—Some men who registered for the draft in the third national registration February 16 will be called for service in June—and possibly a few in May—the state selective service headquarters announced today.

Col. E. M. Rosecrans, state director, said local draft boards had been instructed to send questionnaires to the February 16 registrants in sufficient numbers to insure filling June quotas. If they did not have enough men in previous registrations to fill May calls, he said, they will be authorized to take men from the third registration that month.

When registrants return their questionnaires, he said, they should file all information relative to dependency claims or occupational necessity. If they are not deferred, they may be called for duty before they have received notice of their classification, Rosecrans declared, but they still have the right of appeal from their classification.

Mathews To Give VFW Radio Speech

Francis Mathews, commander of the Marquette post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will speak over WDMJ, the Mining Journal radio station, at 5:45 tomorrow afternoon in the 17th program in the "Speak Up for Democracy" series. "America's traditional loyalty to democratic ideals is the 'secret weapon' which eventually will defeat the Axis powers," Mathews commented yesterday. "This series of broadcasts is a major phase of a war program being carried on by more than 6,000 local units of the Veterans of Foreign Wars throughout the United States. It is our purpose to do everything possible to help the nation's war effort."

Monthly Program
Inspired by the conviction that more persons will be persuaded to support the war effort with increased vigor if they have a better understanding of why America is fighting the Axis powers, the VFW is promoting a campaign of education on Americanism through all available channels, he added. It was started December 11, 1940, approximately one year prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor. On the 11th day of each month local speakers deliver patriotic messages prepared under supervision of the National Department of Americanism of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S.

Draft Call Too Late For Iron Mountain Skier

FORT CUSTER, Mich., April 9.—John Vanitveit, 24, is disgusted because his draft board waited until spring to call him into Army service. Vanitveit, native of Iron Mountain, Mich., explained his predicament to a classification clerk at the recruit reception center here: "I'm a skier; been on skis all my life; jumped 196 feet once; that's what I want to do—join a ski troop." With an air of dejection Vanitveit told how he had waited all winter to be called into the Army. "And when they finally get around to me, it's warmed up."

State Relaxes Rules On Child Employment

LANSING, April 9.—A war-induced shortage of farm labor has induced the state department of labor and industry to relax its rules governing employment of women and children in food canning industries this summer, the department announced today. A rule prohibiting employment of minors under 18 years during school hours was amended to allow such work with permission of local school authorities.

Chairman John W. Gibson said consideration would be given to further relaxation of rules to meet emergencies. Gibson said no change was made in rules requiring approval of his department and school authorities for employment of children under 18 years, forbidding night work by minors save in emergencies and prohibiting employment of any child under 16 in a canning factory. Working hours are limited to 70 hours a week and 12 hours a day.

ENTER, THE COLONEL
CHAPTER XIV

"Asia!" uttered Sargent, and Allan could sense a shiver passing through the frail body. "Man, be careful of her! She's evil incarnate! She appears to have considerable authority over the Japanese, and it was she who was going to torture Kay!"

"Really!" exclaimed Allan softly. "Glad you mentioned it, Doctor! Now, listen to my yarn!" In quick, whispered phrases he gave a summary of his experiences to date. He ended with a subject of peculiar interest to himself, the story of Harry Bishop's ghastly fate. "Have you any notion what they could have done to him?"

"I know what they did! They explained the trick to me in detail because it was one they threatened to do to Kay. They inject a preparation of rattlesnake venom into the victim's spinal fluid. If you'll tell that to your doctors—in case I don't get out of here myself—they'll know what to do for your friend. He can be cured."

"Thank God!" breathed Allan fervently. "If only—"

The passage was suddenly flooded with light. Somebody had stolen up behind him unheeded and pressed the button of a powerful electric torch. A harsh, guttural voice he recognized only too well snapped an order pitched to a note of malicious satisfaction.

"Hands up!" commanded the Eurasian. "This time there'll be no nonsense, understand? Follow me as I back out. A false move will be your last!"

Allan heard a gasp of dismay from Sargent, and found no word of hope to leave with the old man. He moved forward slowly as the torch retreated. He quite believed the ugly man's statement; on this occasion there'd be no nonsense. His number was up. A short interview with the courteous, cold-blooded Watanabe—and exit Allan Steele!

Now they were outside. Beyond the circle of light from the torch, something white moved in the darkness. A voice spoke in a queer tongue utterly foreign to his knowledge of languages, but it was a woman's voice and he recognized it with a start. Asia!

There was a brief exchange between servant and mistress. He sounded sullen and rebellious; she was peremptory, and the argument ended when she stamped her foot. Grumbling the Eurasian flicked off his torch and disappeared into the night.

"Come, señor—Allen! I fear you must return as you came if you wish to get back unseen." She walked toward the shore, Allan at her elbow and silent while he tried to adapt himself to this change in his fortunes. "You were brave to come here tonight—but you'd have been a dead man at dawn if I hadn't interfered! You realize that?"

"Yes. Why did you do it, Asia?"

"Why? Just for the moment, let us agree to call it—a woman's whim." Her voice was very soft, very alluring and provocative. Her body brushed against his in the dark, and he felt—a most unromantic smile—as if an electric eel had touched him with all its juice turned on. Now they were at the water's edge. "I must hurry away," whispered the lady, "and so must you. Good night—dear Allan!"

"Good night, Asia—and thanks!" Then it happened. Her arms were about his neck, her lithe form was veiled to his, her warm lips were pressed hard against his mouth. A second she clung there—laughed tremulously—and was gone!

Allan swam back to prison rather slowly, and never once thought about sharks on the way. Kay Sargent was waiting on the dock, and he heard her quick breath of relief as he slithered onto the pier at her feet. As they strolled up to the bungalow he told her about her father, and also explained the meaning of the lights she had seen flashing on the main island. While he talked to Kay, Allan regained most of the equilibrium he had lost to Asia's potent charm. He regained the rest of it in the lighted foyer of the house when she stared at him, course, I shouldn't have believed him."

"Why, the idiot knew perfectly well—"

Allan cut short his remark lest he get the Chinese in trouble. Sun Su distrusted Escobar, he reminded himself, and naturally had lied to him. Now Escobar was looking inquisitively at Pierre, who had risen to bow smilingly. Kay hastened to perform the amenities.

"Colonel Escobar, this is M. de Fontanelle, a very good friend of ours. Like Mr. Steele, my father and myself, he is being held prisoner by these—these mysterious Japanese fish people!"

"Ah, yes." The rufale looked puzzled, but friendly. "I have not had the pleasure of meeting M. de Fontanelle before, but if he is being detained here against his will, he'll be glad, no doubt, to hear I am a rescue party of one."

No Magic In Arbitration, Priest Says

By Scott Hershey

NEW YORK, April 9—A man who has just engineered the settlement of two record long-run strikes—one of four years and eight months, another of three years and three months—contends that "there's no magic" about mediation or arbitration.

There may not be to him, but thousands of union and management spokesmen who have sat down with him will disagree. It is not easy, either, to disagree with a learned priest, learned in the ways of men, understanding of their foibles, and learned in labor law and political economy.

Not Science At All

The man is Father John P. Boland, chairman of the New York state mediation board, a quiet-spoken man with a ready chuckle, a twinkle behind his eyeglasses and a way of getting labor and management to sit down together, talk it over—and like it.

It is difficult to get Father Boland to discuss specifically his manner of operation. He does not like scientific and technical language in arbitration. He says everybody practices mediation and arbitration, perhaps without knowing it.

"It is not a science at all," he says, "although perhaps it is an art. It merely requires that the mediator or arbitrator be strictly neutral and alert."

"It sometimes requires that the neutral man interpret—in middle-of-the-road language—the things the employer and the employee are saying to and about each other. As they say it, it is sometimes appallingly contradictory."

Case Was Really Funny

He recalled a case concerning a discharged janitor who claimed he was fired because he joined a union. During the conference the furnace boiler was referred to as "Berler," "Byler" and "Bowler." Father Boland laughed out loud.

Explaining to the mystified parties to the case, he said it was a pretty grand country where people could say the same thing, mean the same thing and say it with a different accent. The parties to the action got the point. Their differences vanished and there was agreement. The janitor went back to work.

"Do you know, to this day," said Father Boland, "I don't know why that fellow was fired. We never got around to that."

New York, perfected a plan for manufacturing aluminum as a sheet metal.

ONTARIO PETROLEUM

The province of Ontario, Canada, produced 205,978 barrels of petroleum during 1939, an increase of 33,337 barrels over the 1938 production figure.

Steel mill superintendents are exchanging "tricks of the trade" to increase iron and steel tonnage for war production. Production costs are forgotten for the time being to make full use of any expedient that will result in producing even a few more tons of pig iron a day.

$3.75?

Is it worth it, that's the thought? Is "good credit standing" worth that to you. Some will say it is, others will disagree.

Your local merchant, garage dealer, hospital or doctor will render much better service if your answer is yes. Local merchants extend courtesies to those who appreciate favors most.

The value you place on your credit, of course, must be determined by you. If you need $50 to keep your credit good, it will cost you $3.75 and you will have five months in which to repay.

Steel Ingot Output Hits 99 Per Cent

(From Iron Age)

Recently approved iron and steel expansion projects are located in steel-making centers from the Atlantic Seaboard to the Pacific Coast and are intended particularly to increase the nation's capacity for making plates and pig iron. New steps in the expansion, accelerated by ever-increasing war demand, includes the building of four blast furnaces, two plate mills and installation of facilities at more strip mills to produce plates.

Steel ingot production this week squeezed out another all time tonnage record, with operations gaining a half point to 99 per cent of capacity. The week's gain was due to minor advances in several areas, with only one district, Cleveland, showing decline. Pittsburgh, Chicago and Youngstown, the nation's three largest producing centers, continue to operate at 100 per cent of capacity or better.

Pittsburgh and Chicago operations this week are unchanged at 100 and 104.5 per cent respectively, with Youngstown holding at a half point to 91 per cent, while Cleveland is down 1 1/2 points to 95.5 per cent due to repairs. Buffalo rose three points to 109.5 per cent. Wheeling and Birmingham are unchanged at 83 and 99 per cent respectively, while St. Louis gained two points to 103 per cent. Detroit is unaltered at 105 per cent, as is south Ohio River at 104 per cent.

Another Flood of Orders

Meanwhile the steel industry, which has lifted production far beyond the levels expected, reports another flood of orders. In New York, for example, the emphasis is not only upon plates and shell steel but on light steel for ammunition boxes, bomb cases and similar items. Many steel companies report March shipments included 96 to 97 per cent-priority rated business and believe that 99 to 100 per cent of April business will be rated tonnage. In some instances as much as 90 per cent of current steel shipments involve bookings with A-3 ratings or higher.

Since Army, Navy, Maritime Commission and Lend-Lease classifications will take practically all steel output for the remainder of 1942 other types of business, however essential will be pushed aside. Lend-Lease orders for Russia are increasing sharply and cover vast tonnages. One order alone involves more than 100,000 tons of oil casing and from 30,000 to 40,000 tons of line pipe.

An Ohio defense town housing project, carrying an A-4 rating, may be halted because of the inability of the steel company to supply reinforcing bars. This project, however, was going to receive the necessary structural steel. A project to supply as many as 50 million stirrup pumps, requiring a considerable tonnage of electric welded tubing, is unlikely to get a rating which would permit shipping of the material.

Reports from some machine tool centers indicate that the detailed statistics on prospective deliveries required by the WPB frequently are obsolete before they are put in the mail and are of little value at Washington. Frequently a rush of A-1-a business forces a complete redrawing of machine tool shipping schedules.

Some tin plate manufacturers who must obtain their black plate from wide strip mills already jammed with plates and sheets this week were fearful that the A-1-c rating authorized for tin plate may be too low to enable continuous production. Some steel producers with wide strip mills are likely to run into difficulties in producing the urgently needed tin plate.

During the last 10 days, steel salesmen have started on a hunt for high-rated orders for finishing lines operating at a subnormal rate. Thus, a company with its bar mills heavily taxed with A-1-c or higher orders will seek business for its finishing mills to balance out production. Other steel salesmen are becoming specialists on the operations of the priority system.

Parent Teachers Meeting—The April meeting of the Baraga Parents-Teachers association will be held in the auditorium of the high school Tuesday night at 8. Dr. Brown will speak on "The Mutual Responsibility of Parents and Teachers for the Mental Health of the Child." There has been considerable demand by the parents for Dr. Brown to return to Baraga following his address here in 1939. Musical numbers, group singing and refreshments also are on the program.

Dinner for Athletes—The Baraga township board of education, village council, township and Civic club were hosts Wednesday night at the dinner for the high school football and basketball teams. Group singing was led by Arthur Hill. Glenn Engman, high scorer in the Copper Country basketball conference and captain of the team, responded with a talk "Looking Back." N. J. Martin, superintendent of schools, spoke on "From the Bleachers." Hubert Moberg, member of the team, talked on "Prospects for 1942-1943." Burning Permits—Rural residents of the county must have permits to burn brush. The closing of many CCC camps means less labor available for fighting fires and authorities are likely to tighten up on the release of permits. When fire hazards are at a minimum permits may be procured from the department of conservation or representatives of the U. S. Forest Service.

When burning permits are issued towermen are notified of the location. In Baraga county permits may be obtained from the following sources: Baraga conservation headquarters, Baraga, telephone Baraga 62; C. E. No American Needs Finery To Build Morale

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

Have you been doing a bit of chuckling lately about the pother over women's clothes? I confess I have, though sometimes the chuckles are a bit lopsided.

A news item notes that on Tuesday the government decreed wartime styles in women's suits, coats and dresses. The order goes into effect for the fall clothes, and is formulated to stabilize for the duration the present length and fullness of skirts. That sounds like amazingly good sense, for it makes it possible for women to wear serviceable dresses or suits for two or three years and thus help conserve materials badly needed for the fighting men, and possibly to permit the conversion of some apparel machinery to war production.

Will Be Advantage

There is sense, too, in the fact that the order is not an attempt to regiment the clothing and styles for women, but merely to simplify them, doing away with frills that are not essential, flapping streamers, elaborate cuffs and so on. That may really be a fine thing for women, for it will likely educate them to the beauty to be achieved through an intelligent simplicity in clothing styles.

It is pointed out that retailers have until August 17 to clear their stocks and that after that date no dealer can sell a three-piece suit, a dress with a jacket or redingote, at a suit price. The dress and the jacket would be priced separately.

It is pointed out that there is no objection to women buying the present stock on hand, and that women buying yard goods and making garments themselves are not subject to the same restrictions, but will be if the goods is taken to a dressmaker to be made.

Eliminates Waste

The whole ruling has a practical basis since it tends to "freeze" styles so there will be no crazy upsets of certain models this fall that will be entirely out of the picture next fall. It's an effort to stabilize the wardrobe.

That is all to the good, but it amuses me a bit wryly, I have to confess, to note the concern the women evidence over the clothes.

Most of them probably will not agree with me, but—what in the name of sense does it matter who we wear? There is no reason why we cannot all look sleek, smart and sporty, strikingly well groomed, even if we have to wear the same clothes three or four years.

There is no reason to think we'll have a shortage of soap. There will be a lot of that. Water is still to be had in plentiful amounts. Electric frons, which brooms, needles and threads are still available.

Given those things we can look neat and who in her cares what we have to wear? We need to win this war and most American women, especially those with men in the fighting forces are perfectly willing to wear any old thing; it is the wearing of the outmoded duds that will help by a jot to bring victory.

Well, So What?

It is true that pretty clothes help to heighten the morale. It is true that men like to see their women well dressed. It is equally true that women love pretty clothes.

But I wouldn't give a soggy biscuit for the woman who has to do with a dress that she has to keep upon pretty new clothes to keep up her morale now. Nor would one think much of the man who could not appreciate the humor, the intelligence, the good sportsmanship of the woman who wore last year's clothes from necessity, over the fluster-wit who had to have pretty and expensive clothes or she suffered a slump in morale.

Boy, the morale that seems important to me is that determination that comes from within that makes every man and woman say: "All right. The going may be tough, but we'll see this through. I believe what we are fighting for and hell or highwater is not going to make me knuckle down."

Of course, the going will be hard sometimes, worse for some people than others, for there will be some who will receive those heart-breaking telegrams from the war department. But even those folk will not insult the memory of their men by breaking under news no matter how bad it is.

We Can Take It

Some of us will find our standard of living reduced almost to the vanishing point. All right, as long as it doesn't vanish completely.

Practically all of us will find ourselves having to do things we dislike doing, will find it imperative to do without many things which we thought were indispensable (but aren't), will discover that the pattern of family living is disrupted and as badly jiggled as a jig-saw puzzle.

I don't think that such people (if they choose) need any artificial stimulation and pumping up of morale. When the deprivations of war begin to hit, when we find a half dozen changes necessary in our way of living, I suspect that the civilians in America are going to react much as did the American soldiers inured to the Philippines and confined to the hospital.

A lot of them though quite severely wounded protested against being in the hospital, wanted to "be up and at 'em."

Some of the civilians are going to have the same reaction. Deprived of this, having to do without that, privileges narrowed more and more, a lot of Americans are going to develop a grouch against the enemy that will bite ill for his success.

Children doubtless need to have some things done, some recreations offered, some definite steps taken to build and maintain their morale, but with adults there should be less need for that.

If adults have the sense of intelligent geese, they ought to know that this is no time to coddle self,

If any one dares insult me by offering me anything to build up morale, I shall probably spit like a cat, taking the morale-lifter offer as a direct insult. How about you?

Dramatic Program — The public is reminded that two one-act plays, "Nobody Home" (Noel Walters), a comedy, and "The Valiant," a drama, will be given at 8:15 tonight in the Louis G. This is the first public performance put on by the Little Theater group, a non-profit making, self-supporting organization which has been working conscientiously all the past winter and deserves a large attendance this evening.

New Stations Are Listed By Drive Chairman

Lend your patriotic ears. Here is additional information about salvage. Mrs. Stephen Lowney, chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary tin can salvage committee, has contacted business men and the following places are designated as stations to which persons are asked to take empty tin cans:

Coppens store, in South Marquette; Chubb's, North Third street; Pine street service station, Pine and Michigan street; Cashway, Third street; Plattenberg's, Trowbridge Park; Workers' Co-op, Presque Isle avenue; Lupton's, West Baraga avenue; Piggy Wiggly, South Third street; Yates service stations, South Front and West Washington street; Sinclair service station, Hewitt and Fourth; McCarthy's stations, South Front and Washington streets.

Take the empty, flattened cans to those stations and they will be collected.

Collected Much Paper

And here is more about salvaging paper. Last week the Boy Scouts collected 6,000 pounds. Mrs. Sam Metherell, of the Scout office, reports that last Saturday's collection brings the total figure of salvaged paper up to date, to 11,000 pounds.

Collection tomorrow will be in district No. 4, which includes everything north of Fair avenue. Boy Scouts will be identified by the kerchief or arm band which will be worn by each authorized Scout participating in the collection.

All persons putting out paper for collection are requested to have it sorted and tied in bundles so it will be more easily handled. It does not require much effort to tie up a small bundle, but it makes a tremendous amount of work if 11,000 pounds have to be sorted at one time.

Tear Cancelled Checks

Also please note that you do not have to give the paper to any salvaging committee. If you care to do so, you can sell your paper to a dealer. The important thing is to make sure that all that waste paper is kept moving right along through the right channels so it will be put to use for war production.

If you have been skipped during collections in your district and have saved a sizable amount of paper, telephone the Scout office, 762, or the salvage office, 121, and a Boy Scout will be sent to call for the paper. Any one wanting information about the disposal of any salvage may call 121 and receive authentic information on the subject.

It is advised that persons giving cancelled checks, or other personal papers to the Scouts, tear such material up and place it in sacks.

Housewives are urged to save all paper, rags, metal, all waste materials, until notification is received of the beginning of other salvaging campaigns.

Red Wings Capture Third Straight Victory In Stanley Cup Series

13,354 See Maple Leafs Beaten, 5-2

By Watson Speelstra
DETROIT, April 9.—P.—The amazing Detroit Red Wings spotted the Toronto Maple Leafs two first-period goals tonight and then coasted to seize their third straight victory, 5 to 2, before 13,354 spectators in the best-of-seven Stanley cup hockey series.

The hustling Detroiters, seemingly in serious trouble when the veteran Lorne Carr, of Toronto, bagged a paid of goals 30 seconds apart, squared the count before the initial period ended on shots by Jerry Brown and Jack Carveth. Can Win Title Sunday

Then young Pat McReavy, substituting for the injured Sid Abel who suffered a possible fractured jaw, pushed the puck past Goalie Walter (Turk) Broda in the third period for the deciding goal. Syd Howe and Eddie Bush also tallied to put the verdict beyond Toronto's reach.

By crushing the favored Leafs for the third time, the Detroit club, fifth place finisher in the National league before the start of the playoffs, can close out the series here Sunday. Last year Detroit made hockey history by losing four straight in the finals to the Boston Bruins.

Detroit received assistance tonight from its secondary strength at a crucial time. Its top line of Abel, Don Grosso and Eddie Wares was broken up in the first period by injuries, although Grosso picked up two assists to draw within one point of the playoff scoring record.

Bush Figures in All Series
Principal figure in the Detroit offense was Bush, burly defenseman who joined the club in mid-season. Bush figured in all five Detroit scoring assists on the first four and then winging a 50-foot past Broda that closed the scoring.

Broda made 35 stops against the sharp-shooting Wings, while Goalie Johnny Mowers had 28 saves, 17 in the last period.

There were 21 penalties in the rough contest, and Detroit drew 14, including two misconduct assessments. But even with numerical edge in manpower, particularly late in the game, the Leafs were no match for the inspired Detroiters.

Summary:
Lineups: Toronto: Toronto: Detroit: P.—Broda, 1; Mowers, 2; Stankovic, 3; Stewart, 4; Kampanian, 5; Taylor, 6; Carveth, 7; Brown, 8; Wares, 9; Davidson, 10; Dickson, 11; Appis, 12; Metz, 13; Schreier, 14; Taylor, 15; Howe, 16; Brown, 17; Brown, 18; Carveth, 19; McReavy, 20.

Reds Fighting To Keep Nazis On Defensive

centrating all the strength he can possibly spare on the eastern front in preparation for the spring offensive.

Bits of information here and there in the Russian reports from the front indicate that the Russians are fighting bitterly in every sector, either to keep the Germans on the defensive or to prevent even the smallest Nazi offensive operation.

Find Many Dead Germans
Today's Russian communique told of fighting for one populated place on the front west of Moscow after which "the approaches to the village were littered with the bodies of the Hitlerite soldiers."

In another sector more than 300 Germans were killed, and in still another sector, on the Kalinin front, Russian stretcher bearers aided after a bitter encounter "counted 450 bodies of enemy officers and men on the battlefield."

A Red Star correspondent reported a fight on the Smolensk front, west of Moscow, in which more than 1,000 Germans were killed and several fortified positions were captured by the Soviet forces.

Stockholm dispatches, unconfirmed elsewhere, said the ice now was gone from the Caspian sea and that many shiploads of American-built planes now are steaming northward to the Caspian port of Astrakhan for shipment to the Russian front. These planes reached the Caspian southern shore during the winter by shipment through the Persian gulf and Iran.

Cards, Browns Meet In Two Games at Home
ST. LOUIS, April 9.—P.—Their combined spring record 37 victories against 14 defeats, the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns were homeward bound today to wind up training with their annual two-game series Saturday and Sunday.

Weather conditions cancelled the Cardinals' game with Detroit at Johnson City, Tenn., and the Browns' game at Montgomery, Ala., at Montgomery this afternoon.

The Cardinals won 21 games and lost nine down south, while the Browns had a record of 16 victories and five defeats.

In The Sports Parade with Jimmie Ward

AS FAR as hockey is concerned, this must be Detroit's year. The Red Wings appear well on the way to winning the Stanley Cup, emblematic of world hockey supremacy, and Detroit's farm club in the American Hockey association, Omaha, clinched the AHA championship with a 3-2 overtime victory over the Kansas City Americans, its eighth consecutive playoff triumph, a league record. If a parallel can be drawn between hockey and baseball, the play of the Detroit Red Wings in winning the two opening Stanley Cup playoff tilts in Toronto is reminiscent of the rollicking pennant-winning days of the St. Louis Cardinals when the "gashouse gang," with Pepper Martin and the Dean boys, Dizzy and Paul, in their prime, went all in every game and possessed more color than all other league teams put together.

Winding up the season in fifth place, the Red Wings went into the playoffs with all the cockiness of a bantam rooster. Somebody must have put a bug in Manager Jack Adams' ear, for the Wings checked harder than they'd checked during a lackadaisical season. They caught the Maple Leafs off stride in Toronto and kept them that way through the first two games. The Leafs were forced to play Detroit's style of game and found it not to their liking. Now that they have moved to Detroit's own stamping grounds, the Olympia stadium, it's doubtful if the favored Leafs can turn the tide and wrest the Stanley mug in the best-of-seven series. The Wings have the jump on them.

Dante "Don" Grosso, the Detroit forward who is making hockey history in the series, learned nearly all his hockey in the Canadian and American Soos. Grosso, up to last night, had eight playoff goals to his credit, which matches Cecil Dillon's record with the Rangers in 1933. Clarence Dye holds the record of nine. He made it in 1922 when the Toronto St. Patricks won the championship.

Grosso played his first professional game on March 19, 1929, when he scored a goal and an assist to help the Red Wings beat Chicago, 3-2. He got his start in the Canadian Soos in backyard rinks when the youngsters used pieces of coal for pucks, since coal from nearby railroad tracks was easier to get than rubber pucks from the downtown sport goods store.

In 1932, he played for the Holy Rosary squad, which won the juvenile league title and the following two seasons, respectively, he played with the Junior Rovers and Sudbury Wolves. Nickel belt fans also saw him in action with the Froed Mines and Falconbridge. In 1933 he saw service with the Lake Shore Blue Devils, of Kirkland Lake, and then he jumped to the Red Wings.

Remember Pete DePaolo, winner of the 1925 Indianapolis Speedway championship, who made talks here before automobile dealers and mechanics about two years ago? . . . He's doing his part for defense (and offense, too) by speaking on the importance of precision workmanship in airplane maintenance and repair at Air Corps technical training schools.

Automobile racing has long been a proving ground for automobile manufacturers, DePaolo said. . . . He is a graduate of the former aero-mechanic school in St. Paul, Minn. . . . The entry list shows 42 teams, 73 sets of doubles and 131 singles. Bowlers from Ishpeming, Marquette, Neagunee and Ishpeming are entered.

Some of the best women bowlers of the district are entered and large scores are anticipated. This is the first time the event has been held in Ishpeming.

Runyan And Smith Tied In Masters

By Romney Wheeler
AUGUSTA, Ga., April 9.—P.—A couple of golf's old timers—lanky Horton Smith and little Paul Runyan—blossomed on a diet of sun-baked and showers today to gain the first-round lead in the 1942 Augusta masters tournament with sizzling 67's.

The Hogans, Sneads, Woods and Mangrums—picked as probable men-to-beat—were lucky to finish without shouting distance after battling the long-rolling fairways and treacherous greens of the par-72 Augusta national course.

Nelson, Byrd Runners-Up
Craig Wood, national open and defending masters' champion, posted a 72, Ben Hogan 73, Lloyd Mangrum 74, and Sam Snead 78.

Smith and Runyan didn't have the course to themselves. Two former masters' champions, a former open titleholder and a reformed baseball player—Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret, Lawson Little and Samuel Dewey Byrd, respectively—came home right behind them. Nelson and Byrd posted 68's, and Demaret and Little had creditable 70's.

Ed Dudley, the home pro, Jim Ferrier and old-timer Billy Burke were the only other sub par performers, each with 71. It's tradition in Augusta that there never has been a masters' tournament without rain—and 1942 now is official. After 15 unbroken days of sunshine, a thundershower swept the course, catching most of the players on the back nine.

Bob Jones Shoots 72
As traditional as the rain is Bob Jones, the grand-slam king of golf just a dozen years ago. To his own and the gallery's surprise, he shot 35-37—72, all even with Wood, Bobby Cruickshank and Denny Shute.

Veteran observers who had watched him in previous masters' tournaments, said his play today was more confident than at any time retirement, and his putts were dropped more deftly.

Defenses of Bataan Probably Over
The next chapter came with this morning's communique: "A message from General Wainwright at Fort Mills just received at the War department states that the Japanese attack on Bataan peninsula succeeded in enveloping the east flank of our lines, in the position held by the II corps. An attack by the I corps, ordered to relieve the situation, failed due to complete physical exhaustion of the troops.

"Full details are not available, but this situation indicates the probability that the defenses on Bataan have been overcome."

Stimson's statement followed. The Battle of Bataan began over

Upper Peninsula Lions Will Bowl in Munising

MUNISING, April 9.—Upper Peninsula Lions will hold their fourth annual bowling tournament April 25 to May 3 on the Munising Bay Shore alleys. Entries must be mailed prior to midnight of April 20 to Vernon A. Florin, secretary-treasurer of the Munising tournament committee.

Singles, doubles and five-man team events will be bowled.

gobbled up by the Japs only because the Japs do not need them.

However long the end had been expected it brought gloom and an uneven feeling of depression to the capital. This attitude, however, was mixed with a reaction that this country must tighten its belt and work and fight as never before.

Just what happened in the last few days of the Battle of Bataan is not yet known in detail, but the generally worded communique of the War department had made it obvious that an unremitting Japanese offensive was bringing a crisis near.

Early in the week the defending army was forced to fall back to new positions. Last night's communique said the Japanese were continuing their drive with "great vigor" and that a heavy attack on the new positions was in progress.

"Dive-bombers and attack aircraft are bombing and machine gunning our front lines. Heavy bombers are continuing their attacks on our rear areas near the southern extremity of the Bataan peninsula."

"The present Japanese attack is the longest sustained drive of the enemy since operations began. Waves of shock troops have attacked almost continuously, without regard to casualties, which have been heavy on both sides."

60,000 Troops Beg For Halt, Tokyo Says
TOKYO (from Japanese broadcasts), April 10 (Friday)—P.—The Domei news agency said today that "60,000 Filipino and American troops resisting the Japanese on Bataan peninsula have begged for a halt in hostilities after six days of fierce Japanese assault."

"Details of the conditions of surrender are not yet disclosed," said the Domei dispatch, "nor is it known yet whether the Japanese forces have decided to accept the terms."

The dispatch was dated Thursday, "with the Japanese forces on the Bataan front."

disclosed whether U. S. airmen, based in adjacent India, participated in the raid at sea.

In the Japanese raid on Trincomalee the British said six of the invading craft were destroyed definitely, six others probably destroyed, and two damaged.

The town of Trincomalee, fighters, were shot down in the ensuing attack on the aircraft carrier.

"Some of our aircraft are missing," the British said, and gave no further details of the action.

No Casualties in Town
The town of Trincomalee, itself, was not damaged nor were there any civilian casualties there, the communique said.

"A large force of bombers and fighters" roared in from the sea to drop their bombs in the developing fight for the mastery of the Indian ocean with Ceylon is an important outpost blocking the way from the Bay of Bengal into the Arabian sea.

(Two British cruisers already have been lost to the Japanese raiding along the coasts of India, and U. S. airmen last week set a Japanese cruiser and a troopship, in an attack on the Andaman islands which recently were seized by the Japanese.)

'Hard Luck' Guys in ABC Meet Listed

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 9.—P.—American Bowling Congress statisticians came up today with a list of nine of the ABC tournament's "hard luck" guys.

Robert Thomas, who keeps the all-events records for the prize list, compiles a special list of bowlers who compete in two events and not in the third.

Many men fail to get into the five-man team-event, coming to the tournament as the "sixth man" and bowling doubles and singles only.

Of these, nine scored over 1200 and would have had a nice chance at the all-events prize money had they bowled with a team.

Sometimes those who reside close to the scene of the tournament return to compete further, but the nine unfortunate live so far away it's doubtful they can get back.

Unluckiest is Gilbert Zook, of Hinsdale, Ill., who competed in minor events only. He got 635 in the doubles and 647 in the singles. That's 1282, a swell start for all-events, but Zook is back in Hinsdale.

David Hammond, of St. Paul, this week rolled 694-581 for a 1265 and climbed aboard a train for St. Paul without a chance at an all-events title.

Glenn Granger, of Fairport, N. Y., did the same thing this week, only he had 608-637 for a 1245 and no chance to hit an 1800 or 1900. A Jesko from Milwaukee tallied 592-654 for 1246; Fred Luser, of the same town, had 593-649 for 1242; the 1228 by Earl Wagner, of Sturgis, Mich., came on 637-591; and Bill Forslund, of New York, had a tough time getting under way with 490 in the doubles, but once going he stayed there with a 731 in the singles, for 1221; and just over the par figure is Walter Bendick, of Detroit, who had 1202 from 552-650.

three months ago. In late December, Gen. MacArthur's men were deployed about Manila, opposing Japanese spearheads thrusting at the city from two directions.

Following a plan which President Roosevelt said was drawn up years before, MacArthur by a bold and skillful maneuver consolidated his forces on Bataan peninsula, yielding the Philippines capital to the enemy.

For three months, the Army of Bataan not only held its mountain and jungle camp stronghold, but worked havoc upon the enemy. Attack after attack by heavily superior troops was beaten back.

Motor torpedo boats raided Japanese shipping in nearby Subic bay, a point at which many reinforcements were landed. A few patched-up planes spectacularly raided the shipping there with heavy enemy losses.

Jap General Committed Suicide
By the end of February, the Japs had been fought to a standstill, with losses many times those of MacArthur's men. Disgraced, the Japanese commander—in-chief, Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma, committed ceremonial suicide. It was widely reported, it was succeeded by Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, fresh from his conquest of Singapore.

A lull of fully a month followed, while the Japanese landed enormous numbers of reinforcements and supplies, and prepared in every way from the crushing offensive which finally ended today in what, on a basis of the number of men slain or captured, was one of the most severe military reverses

Another Indian-Giant Tilt Cancelled by Weather

ENROUTE TO CLEVELAND, April 9.—P.—The weather finally caught up with the Cleveland Indians and knocked out four of their exhibitions with the New York Giants.

As the result the Tribesmen and their touring rivals at Springfield, Mo., late today boarded a train which brings them to Cleveland tomorrow for a pair of weekend clashes winding up their training season.

ever suffered by American arms in a foreign war.

But the Battle of Bataan cannot be measured in such terms. As an epic of gallantry, of indomitable courage in the face of tremendous odds, it will live with the greatest episodes of America's military history.

'They're Too Hot,' Toronto Goalie Says

DETROIT, April 9.—P.—"They're unbeatable." That was the tribute Walter (Turk) Broda, husky, broad-shouldered Toronto Maple Leafs goalie paid the Detroit Red Wings tonight after his team had dropped its third straight game for the battered Stanley cup.

"They're too hot," continued Broda. "They can't seem to do anything wrong."

Broda, who saw give goals whiz past him in an hour of rough-and-tumble hockey—there were 21 penalties assessed—was the only Toronto player who had much to say.

His teammates dressed silently and Coach Hay Day, whose team entered the finals by eliminating the league-leading New York Rangers, commented, "what is there to add?"

"We'll keep on fighting just as if the series was opening," said Day.

The Red Wings, on the other hand, were jubilant, but they refused to predict they would end the best-of-seven-series in the fourth game here Sunday night.

"We've got the right type of hockey to beat them," said Manager Jack Adams. "If we keep on the way we've been going—well, we ought to wind it up soon."

Golf Clubs Become War Casualties

WASHINGTON, April 9.—P.—Golf clubs became war casualties today under a War Production Board order halting their production on May 31 and curtailing output up to that date.

The order forbids the use of iron and steel and all other critical metals, as well as plastics and cork, in the manufacture of clubs after May 31.

By an earlier decree golf ball production halted on April 1.

"Since golf clubs cannot be made without metal, and golf balls cannot be made without rubber, the WPB orders means that the manufacturers of such equipment have been drafted for the duration," the WPA succinctly told links enthusiasts, estimated at over 2,000,000.

However, the order will not affect the stock of clubs available this summer, because the season's production, which is at its peak from October to February, has almost been completed.

Supply of Balls Adequate
"Likewise, the supply of golf balls is adequate," the board said. Balls could be made from reclaimed rubber up to April 1, but generally these were found unsatisfactory.

The supply of clubs at this moment apparently is the largest in the history of the industry, said M. D. Moore, of WPB's consumers' durable goods branch.

The producing season started last September and by its close will have brought forth about 3,200,000 clubs for the largest fiscal year production on record.

Supplies are now about 10 to 15 per cent higher than is usual at the start of a golfing season, Moore said. Last year sales totaled 3,191,000 clubs, also a record.

OTTAWA, April 9.—P.—Prince Bernhard, of the Netherlands, arrived here from England today. Princess Juliana, his wife, has been living here with their two daughters.

Hoosier Distance Runner Enters Naval Air Corps

CHICAGO, April 9.—P.—Campbell Kane, stellar distance runner at Indiana university, was sworn in as a seaman second class for naval aviation training today. Lieut. Jay Berwang, former University of Chicago football star, administered the oath to Kane, holder of the Big Ten half mile record of 1:51.

The Hoosier speedster, who will finish his current semester at Indiana, has been half mile champion of the Western conference indoor meets the last three years and outdoor champ the last two years. He also has won the half-mile title three times. He will defend his outdoor titles in the conference meet at Evanston, Ill., May 14 and 15.

Officials said that if Kane successfully completed flight training, he would be commissioned an ensign and designated a naval aviator.

Employees Of City Request Wage Boost

ISHPEMING, April 9—The new city administration and its salaries committee will have a major problem to consider as soon as it takes office.

Employees of the city, in a communication addressed to the board of public works and the council, requested, on April 7, 20 per cent increase in wages.

The board, which met the day before the council session, said that it had "after lengthy discussion of the matter, decided that further consideration and fuller information on all angles involved were necessary before making any recommendations."

The board believes that about a week will be sufficient time and that it will then advise the council of its views and recommendations.

The city last increased wages in May, 1941, when a 10 per cent boost was given to wage earners with corresponding increases for salaried employees.

Auxiliary Of Legion Plans Labor Survey

ISHPEMING, April 9—Under the direction of Mrs. Gust L. Nelson, president, the auxiliary of the Albert V. Braden post, American Legion, will cooperate in a county-wide labor survey between April 13 and 25.

A special meeting will be held at 8 Friday evening in the American Legion clubrooms for Legion auxiliary members, women affiliated with church organizations, those enrolled for civilian defense and all other interested women. A general outline of the survey will be presented.

Crews will make a house-to-house canvass to get the names of all persons above 14 years of age who are not employed or who are available for part-time occupation.

This is in line with a national survey to create a reservoir of labor for war production plants and farms.

Various types of skills will be listed. The information will be turned over to the U. S. employment bureau in Marquette, under the management of Russell R. Olds.

"I don't know of any better way," he said, "to bring the people together for this important war service than the plan which the committee is developing."

"It should produce a maximum amount of salvage of all kinds and with the assistance of the various agencies already listed the entire city should be covered in a relatively short time."

"I commend this program to the citizens and hope that everyone will do his utmost to contribute."

"We should all be keenly conscious of the fact that restrictions which have been placed upon commodities and regulations come only because there is a scarcity of needed materials. This being the case, it is urgent that we turn in old scrap, which has been collecting in attic and basement, so that it can be re-processed into usable goods."

Mayor Okehs Plan for City Salvage Day

ISHPEMING, April 9—Mayor-elect John J. Johnson today gave unqualified approval to the plan for an IshpeMING Salvage Day.

"I don't know of any better way," he said, "to bring the people together for this important war service than the plan which the committee is developing."

"It should produce a maximum amount of salvage of all kinds and with the assistance of the various agencies already listed the entire city should be covered in a relatively short time."

Council Notes

Lloyd Guy, milk and dairy inspector, reported seven instances of dairies not up to standard in 31 inspections made during March. He collected 36 milk and cream samples for analyses and inspected 28 vehicles on distributing routes.

Signe S. Johnson presented her application for appointment to the position of public health nurse for the ensuing year.

The street lighting committee was supported in its recommendation to reject a request to defray the cost of illuminating the display sign at the entrance of Third street and U. S. 41. "Inasmuch as this sign was planned and erected by citizens other than officials of the city, we do not think the city of IshpeMING should assume responsibility for any of the cost of illuminating it," the report said.

Petition of John La Pointe and wife for exemption from further payments of water taxes was granted upon unanimous recommendation of the water committee and the board of public works. The firm of Kiehlens and Son was awarded the contract to remodel the women's cell in the city lockup, its bid being the lowest submitted. Work will be done under supervision of the board of public works.

Inspectors will receive $12 and gatekeepers $6 for their election day labors of last Monday.

Aldermen John G. Fandrem and Michael J. Ryan "played out the string", appearing for their last meeting. In the past many defeated aldermen have not reported for the final meeting of the term. Alderman Joseph Kenney did not seek re-election because of a policy not to mix politics with civil service and cling to it to the extent he did not report for the final meeting. Others absent were Frustaglio and Ayotte, of the Tenth, and Mooney, of the Ninth.

Alderman Robert Olds wanted to know why there was no report on the request to move a light on Ely street. He was advised that an original request for moving the light had been granted, that the new location was not satisfactory and that if any further moving was desired, the matter would have to be renewed by written request, "according to the rules and regulations."

No Half-Way Measures Go In Canada

BY FRED S. FERGUSON
President of NEA Service

OTTAWA, April 9—Strong, determined leadership, patriotic cooperation from all elements—producers, manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and the buying public, as well as employers and employees, and will to win—these are some of the things that are vital for the fight against inflation through establishment of price and wage ceilings, they'll tell you in Canada.

Half-way measures and compromises will not do. They tried partial price control in Canada before they went to the all-out ceiling, and it didn't work. Now the fight is to prevent puncturing of the ceiling in any respect. A price ceiling, without a salary and wage ceiling, would not be effective any more than would a wage ceiling without price control.

Without a salary and wage ceiling, they'll point out to you here, a "black market" would be sure to develop. Shortages, accompanied by increasing spending power, would soon bring forth the commodity bootlegger and away would go the ceiling, and the inflation spin would be on again. Thus, the Canadian effort is "all out," and as time goes on subsidies on imports, as well as domestic products, may be necessary.

For instance, if the United States has no ceiling, and prices continue to advance, then it would become impossible for the Canadian importer to pass on products to the retailer at a price that will enable the retailer to stay within the ceiling. On such event, an examination would be made by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The first thing to be decided would be whether the product was an essential; if it was, essential to the war effort. If it were found to be an essential, then the importer or retailer, or both, would be paid a subsidy so that the product could be sold on the market under the ceiling. If the decision should be that the product were not an essential, or that a domestic substitute could be used, then the imported product would simply pass out of the Canadian market.

Without a ceiling the United States, of course, will become a tempting market for Canadian exporters. With the price of beef already higher below the border than in the Dominion, there is a possibility of a beef shortage in Canada unless something is done about it, despite normal duty payments. Canadians, however, will not be permitted to export at higher prices at the expense of adequate supply at home, and this would be controlled through export license.

To answer the question as to whether the Canadian system could be successfully adopted in the United States, you would have to be able to guess whether any administrative and control job carried through on one scale could be multiplied ten or twelve times over and still click.

The population of Canada is around 12,000,000 as compared with 130,000,000 in the United States. The volume of business, the number of buyers, and the number of different establishments and industries to be dealt with is thus correspondingly increased. The number of wage and salary earners is correspondingly greater, and the entire job of administration grows to sizable dimensions.

Teach Danger Of Inflation
There are about 1,100 persons employed, or serving as volunteers without pay, in the Wartime Prices and Control Board organization throughout Canada. The central office is in Ottawa under the direction of Donald Gordon, as chairman.

Gordon is a huge Scotsman in his early forties, who is built like a couple of old time fullbacks. He was deputy governor of the Bank of Canada, but was detached from his job to take on the direction of the battle against inflation. His huge frame will take a lot of punishment and Gordon is tireless in his efforts, encouraging his staff, making speeches selling the control plan, and getting cooperation. He wants everybody in Canada to understand the dangers and the results of inflation, and to this end an extensive educational campaign has been carried on through the newspapers and on the radio, selling the price and wage ceiling program.

The women of the country have been particularly urged to be their own price-ceiling auditors. They have been asked to make their own lists of ceiling prices of commodities which they may be likely to purchase, and then to see that they do not pay more. That this approach has had results was illustrated recently in Toronto when a woman shopper came to the Trade Board headquarters to report excitedly that one of the largest department stores had raised its price on a certain counter articles from 6 cents to 9 cents. She said she knew because she saw the 6 cent sign yesterday whereas today it was 9.

An investigator was sent to the store. It developed, however, that the price sign had merely been knocked to the floor during the course of the day, and whoever restored it set it upside-down, thus making the 6 a 9, and the ceiling was saved.

After Gordon, as chairman, who operates under the Minister of Finance, there come administrators of commodities, administrators of trades and services, controllers for various industries, businesses and scattered, through 13 regional offices, scattered through the country. As many problems as possible are handled on a regional basis through the 13 districts, but if they are not settled there they pass on to the headquarters. Operating as a central organization to the entire set-up, however, is the important Commodity Price Stabilization Corporation, responsible directly to the Minister of Finance. This is the organization through which examinations are made and subsidies are paid

National Whirligig

News Behind The News

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, April 9—The United Nations finally have wrestled air superiority in numbers and performance of planes from the Axis. While production figures are necessarily secret, one can disclose that the democracies' annual output today—and it will increase geometrically—is at least one-third larger than our enemy's.

Our surpassing progress is due largely to two remarkable but scarcely publicized aviation advances. The first concerns the all-round ability of the light, two-engine bomber. The second involves the growing use of big transports to ferry men and materials to the distant battle fronts in China, Australia, the Middle East and Russia. The foremen of the American "arsenal of democracy" were handicapped at first because our pursuit ships cannot fly under their own power to these remote areas. But we discovered that the bombing craft, carrying extra gasoline tanks instead of missiles, can hippity-hop to the farthest fighting zones. The Easter massacre of hostile aerial attackers revealed plans to make a deadly substitute for the smaller machines.

As reported here some time ago, we have turned to manufacture of tremendous ships to solve the difficult problem of logistics. The Douglas DC-4 will soon reach volume tonnage and an even heavier cargo vessel is in the laboratory stage. Glenn Martin will re-launch his great contribution to the skyway freight lines before the end of the month. It will not be long before Kipling's East and West won't know one from the other.

FACTION—The New Dealers are trying to capitalize on Jesse H. Jones' elastic embarrassment by stripping from him the control of the billions of dollars mobilized under him for economic strangulation of the Axis powers. They are circulating word that he is too old-fashioned and conservative to conduct a blockade blitzkrieg.

The man they have advanced against the Texan is Milo F. Perkins, extremely able executive officer of the Economic Warfare Board headed by Vice-President Wallace. Although that agency has been charged with all sorts of functions, including mapping of hostile bombing targets, its chief assignment is to mass the pressure of our greater commercial, financial and trading resources against the foe. But its White House whisperers contend that it lacks both the authority and funds to handle that task. It can regulate exports from this country to other nations, but it cannot gobble up foreign materials before Hitler lays his hands on them. The Secretary of Commerce maintains a tight grip on that field with his various "defense plants."

Still a third faction insists that the right to buy up goods abroad should be vested in W.P.B.-er William L. Batt, who now shoulders the responsibility of providing the after they have been authorized by the Trade Board.

Of the administrators, controllers, coordinators, etc., scores are volunteers, drafted as representative men in their industries, trades or businesses to aid in setting up the ceiling system. The central offices now occupy an entire six-story building in Ottawa, but the equipment is closer to that of a factory than a fancy government establishment. Plain pine desks and uncovered floors prevail throughout, and the atmosphere is that of a workshop.

War Labor Board Cooperative
Working closely with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board is the War Labor Board, headed by the Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, who is also Minister of Labor. On this board are five representatives of labor and five representatives of management or industry. At their first meeting, however, they were told by Mitchell, who is an old labor man, that the first thing for all of them to do was forget that they represented anything or anybody except the Dominion.

There was plenty of difficulty in first establishing the price and wage ceiling, particularly the price, owing to the fact that despite the "basic period" named, merchants or others were able to show that they had made commitments for the future at new price levels beyond their control, which made it impossible for them to sell under the ceiling except at heavy loss.

In such cases what is termed "the squeeze" was applied. The manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer were gotten together and cards, as to costs, were put on the table. Then a certain portion of the increased cost was squeezed back from the retailer to the wholesaler and from the wholesaler to the manufacturer, each assuming a share of the necessary reduction called for by the ceiling.

If the amount of loss involved was too great then the Commodity Price Stabilization Corporation stepped in with a subsidy payment so that the ceiling might be maintained.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste
If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging headache, rheumatic pain, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels; so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used usually by millions for over 40 years. They give speedy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

stuff from which history's greatest output of arms must be manufactured. Aside from the illustrious personalities involved, chief significance lies in the need for establishing a single unit to weaken the Japs and Nazis at home and internationally. A central command has become as vital here as in naval and military activities. F. D. R. appears to be moving slowly toward a tightening of all war-making boards.

FIRE—Without benefit of Presidential support the Army and Navy are quietly lobbying through a tax bill which will deprive 22 states of millions of dollars of federal payments. F. D. R. has scrupulously kept out of this delicate controversy involving the relationship between commonwealths and country.

The original measure exempted every firm engaged in any sort of war work—prime contractors, sub-firms, supply houses, truckers—from gasoline, sales, use and utility levies. The score or more governors affected staged another Boston Tea Party, arguing that the scheme would make a deadly substitute for the smaller machines. Only a few months ago the Supreme Court ruled against the idea in an Alabama case, though inviting Congress to enact legislation. The Treasury opposed it. Even the House rules committee revolted. Although it has no authority to pass on the wisdom of a proposed statute, this group handed it back to Ways and Means for a surgical operation.

Then the generals and admirals turned out the fire brigade. Headed by Secretaries Stimson and Knox 30 braided and epauletted heroes frightened a secret session before their warnings. The contributions to states and cities, they said, would boost the armament cost by several billion dollars, which sum so far they have placed in escrow. They told how one commonwealth and one large city had demanded that contractors submit confidential specifications for weapons, ships, planes and buildings as a check on purchases subject to taxation. The boys scowled. Whereupon they provided that only Uncle Sam himself—not secondary corporations—should escape the gas and sales imposts. Fourteen of the 22 antagonistic governments have now withdrawn their opposition and the innovation seems likely to become law.

EGGS—Independent petroleum companies suffering from wartime dislocations have received short shrift from Coordinator Harold L. Ickes. While the latest episode involves a Michigan corporation, other complainants have discovered that there is no balm in the Secretary of the Interior.

This concern notified the Cabinet member that it was refining and turning out a great deal of fuel to meet the growing wants of defense plants in that area. Unfortunately, the increased demand for the major essence resulted in an overproduction of gas. Meanwhile, with people conserving their tires, the market for the latter commodity has dwindled. So, hearing talk of scarcities in the East and a prospective ration allotment of only 10 gallons a month, the outfit asked whether any central agency had been created to buy the unsalable article and transport it to areas needing it.

Mr. Ickes replied that this problem confronted every territory where "there is a surplus of gasoline and a shortage of oil." He does not contemplate creation of a federal pool to store the extra supply. His only solution, he added, is a recommendation that firms advance the output of oil while reducing the total of the secondary commodity! The troubled correspondents are still trying to figure out that one. To them the Maryland farmer's advice—and he ought to know as a poultry fancier—is tantamount to suggesting that a man grow more chickens without adding to the store of eggs.

GEE—A thoughtful member of the House epitomized the restlessness existing in the ranks as Representatives prepare to seek reelection in this disturbed period. After recounting the political mistakes within the Seventy-seventh Congress has committed, he said in a tone so serious that it was almost comical:

"Gee, I wish I were running against myself this year!"

JITTERS—The English glance at the calendar this week with dread. They know the peculiar fascination which dates have for horoscopist Hitler. Exactly one year ago he pounced upon Yugoslavia and Greece. On April 9, 1940—today's anniversary—he leaped at Norway and Denmark. To some the idea is fantastic that the Fuehrer, with a renewed Russian battle on his hands, should whirl around and attack Britain. But not to the London government; they really expect the blow.

A new law goes immediately into force setting up the mobilization details of civilian workers. Every able-bodied man in the danger zones has a tentative job assigned him on construction of barriers, maintenance of public services and utilities. Instructions have gone out to the Home Guard that its task is to delay the enemy for long enough to give field armies time to rush up the mechanized companies.

This revival of "invasion jitters" also is based on intelligence reports that Nazi ships, planes, and gliders are being bunched in Norwegian fjords and heavy troop movements are underway. Two years ago "Punch" ran a caricature of Goering dressed in kilts instead of his usual doorman's regalia to whom his boss said, "But I told you distinctly, Hermann, that we are not going to liberate the Scots until 1942." That is not looked upon as a joke any longer for officers now fear the air assault will center on Scotland which is less well girded with anti-aircraft guns and contains Nazi war prisoner camps which might easily be sprung by parachutists.

FAULT—Another brass hat blunder against morale is the month's delay in the fairly announced by the Navy of the Langley disaster. A feeling is growing that if the Government's hush-hush squad is afraid to give the public stiff doses of bitter as well as sugar-candy news, confidence will be undermined and false rumors believed. Our Washington Pollyannas suppress nearly everything which cannot be said with a smile and merely shake a naughty-naughty finger at a department that pulls a colossal boner.

The Russians are a bit more serious in their judgment of the men to whom they have entrusted their lives. Merit is immediately rewarded and incompetence instantly punished. Moscow Labor delegates to London revealed to insiders that high Communist Party officials at Zlatoust were fired because they were late in finding billets for factory employes and hence caused workers to lose three hours waiting for lunch. Officials were jailed for tardy tape delays in payment of pensions to soldiers' widows. Others were shot for forging ration cards. At a formal dinner given to Allied naval officers a Soviet admiral got drunk and made derogatory remarks about the rest of the United Nations. Next day he was discovered aboard ship, stripes of his rank and scrubbing decks like an ordinary seaman. His guests of the evening before commiserated him but he replied cheerfully, "My own fault. That's what I deserve for talking and acting stupidly. I am allowed to work my way up to the top again in seven years."

WADING—The second reason why the Japs tried to jump Ceylon has been overlooked. Of course the main objective was to attempt another Pearl Harbor surprise and get possession of the territory which actually dominates the Bay of Bengal and thus furnishes complete flank protection for a seaborne invasion of India. But this time the British were not caught napping and gave the Nips one of the worst aerial pastings of the war. The other purpose of the blitz was to take advantage of the April weather.

Right now the road conditions are excellent and the rivers can be forded on horseback, according to New York steamship captains. By mid-May the southwest monsoon brings showers that duplicate the downpour which now has immobilized Tojo's mud-stuck soldiers in New Guinea and made them stationary targets for American bombers. If the enemy could land in the Colombo region in force they might easily hop, skip, and jump to the mainland.

Hirohito's amphibians sloshed into Singapore by wading across the sand bars which separated the doomed city from Malaya. The strait between Ceylon and the continent is quite similar. Shoals, rocks, and tiny islands form a series of flagstones leaving only two passages for ships. In fact before one of the channels was dredged within the last couple of years, larger vessels were obliged to circuit the entire island when sailing from one Indian coast to the other.

SQUEEZE—Dogs with cans tied to their tails will not be seen again until peace. Although less publicized than the rubber shortage, the tin famine is worrying New York manufacturers groups as well as shaving tube customers. Gathering old soup and fruit containers has started in many cities but results are meager. Manhattan salvage headquarters get thousands of calls daily asking that collection trucks be sent to homes yet the last drive netted merely 457 tons. Experts fear that the country's entire detinning facilities will yield only 5,000 tons—and our 1940 requirements were 100,000.

When the Malayan mines were first lost, optimists suggested that silver could be used to replace the vanishing metal. But engineers scoff at this idea because they claim no method has yet been perfected to make the precious mineral stick to thin steel without an underplate of copper, which is far more valuable for essential war work.

Tin plating by a new electrolytic process is being tried by the big producers but unless both sides of a metallic sheet are covered the seam cannot be soldered. The Germans experimented along these lines and were forced to adopt welding for connections. We may just squeeze through the crisis. According to insiders in the trade, although the exact size of our stock pile is a military secret, we probably have reserves of 127,000 tons. From detinning and the Bolivian mines we may expect 30,000 more. This must last us until our first smelters are finished late this year.

State Troops Demobilized

ESCANABA, April 9—Capt. Ted Baldwin, commanding officer of Company 304, Michigan State Troops, which has been guarding the C. & N. W. ore docks here since March 8, was ordered yesterday to demobilize the unit at once. The order came from E. M. Rosecrans, Lansing, adjutant general of the state. The company will revert at once to its normal armory status with weekly drill sessions. The demobilization was to have been completed by 11:59 o'clock last night. No information was received to replacement of the state troops by a regular Army or Coast Guard unit. Company 504 has had 71 men on active duty. They have been quartered in the armory at the U. P. State Fairgrounds.

May Sell Smelt To U. S.

MENOMINEE, April 9—Fishermen from Menominee and Delta counties in Michigan and Marinette, Oconto, Brown and Door counties in Wisconsin met last night at Hotel Marinette and heard Federal plans for the canning of smelt with the hope that this year's catch may be handled in part by a new canning process. Sixty commercial fishermen and fish dealers heard Fred Meisnest, of the fish and wildlife service, U. S. Department of Interior, outline previous Governmental purchases of fish. Meisnest said that lend-lease representatives and his own department were interested in purchasing 10,000,000 pounds of smelt, and explained the new canning process of a Cleveland concern which quick-freezes the smelt for cold storage and canning at a later date.

SAVE RUBBER! SAVE SUGAR! SAVE MONEY!

Stocks of rubber and sugar are short. War has cut off many sources of supply. Money, on the other hand, is plentiful. Employment is increasing. Incomes are higher.

But when this "War Prosperity" ends and the glad day of peace finally comes, some incomes may be stopped or cut for a time, while adjustments are being made.

Then a good bank account at the First National is going to come in mighty handy. Keep yours growing by depositing a part of your pay-check each payday!
