Fifty-Sixth Year

Nazi Drive For Caucasian Oil Off Schedule

Hitler Can Ill Afford Time Loss

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Wide World War Analyst

A striking eye witness review of weather conditions on the Russian front by an Associated Press reporter lends emphasis to Moscow's contention that Hitler's long-heralded drive for Caucasian oil is definitely off schedule.

Henry Cassidy, in a flight over the Caucasus and up the Volga to Kuibyshev, found the winter snow line retreating swiftly northward. The land is now fit for large-scale operations in the south," he said, with "the Caucasus hard and dry under a warm sun."

Hitler's last word as to when he would strike again in Russia styled it a summer, rather than a spring campaign. That caused comment. For in the light of what happened to the Nazi "crusade" in Russia last year, every hour now lost in renewing the blitzkrieg has meaning.

Waited Too Long Last Year

Berlin spokesmen wave aside the question of a Hitler change from a spring to a summer drive as inconsequential. But history shows that such changes are not to be regarded lightly.

Hitler's misjudgment by only a matter of weeks of the Russian capacity to resist and of the time it would take him to reach and enter the Rostov gateway into the Caucasus brought his armies close to disaster in the east last year.

Hitler turned his legions against Yugoslavia on April 6, 1941. It took him approximately 10 weeks to achieve his Balkan victory and on June 21, he turned on Russia.

Rostov's Recapture Turned Tide

Just five months later, on November 22, Berlin announced the capture of Rostov. Seven days later, on November 29, Moscow announced its recapture and the Nazi winter retreat was on. Hitler had at his back the time and the six-month Russian winter was upon him. His chance of a quick and conclusive victory in Russia was gone because of the delay caused by the Balkan campaign.

With the sorely needed oil of the Caucasus still Hitler's prime target, weather conditions again seem favorable for the launching of another Nazi stab at the Rostov gateway only a few score miles, not hundreds, need be taken to sweep around that corner on to the Caucasian plains. Yet there is every evidence that the lost winter months have resulted in tremendous Russian forces being massed on that dangerous south flank, and Red army flanking spearheads being driven deeply into Nazi lines almost to the great lower bend of the Dneper river.

March Hasn't Started

Those factors, plus the Russian salients which have been formed and road junctions in the Donets basin; across the Bryansk-Smolensk-Vitebsk-Nevel' trunk line, which serves the German "hedge-hog" advance bases in the center, and on northward to the Poskov gateway to Leningrad, are forcing delays on Hitler in the south. These same salients make it difficult to say where Hitler will have to strike first, even though they may not change his main objective, the oil of the Caucasus.

The Russians' winter strategy was aimed largely at harassing German lines, crucial points to keep enemy forces from being massed southward for a spring march to oil. This march has not yet started, despite the firm ground and warm sun in the Caucasus. This strongly supports the Russian thesis that the effect of their winter campaign has been far more important than the actual territory regained. It has cost Hitler a time loss he can ill afford.

Japanese Told To Be Ready For Emergency

TOKYO (from Japanese Broadcasts), April 23—(Thursday)—Foreign Minister Togo today warned the Japanese to be prepared against any emergency because "the United States will constantly seek the opportunity for staging a counter-attack."

The foreign minister addressed a meeting of the Japanese economic federation.

With Germany and Italy now fully prepared to launch powerful offensive drives against Britain and the United States, he said, the position of the United Nations would be further weakened.

Togo predicted that "Japan and her Axis allies will soon deal the knockout blow on the old order in the world to make way for the new order based upon justice and equality for all."

He said the Japanese-Russian neutrality pact would be adhered to and declared the recently renewed fishing agreement with Russia was "ample proof of the amicable relations existing between the two nations."

Finns Unable To Halt Red Drive, Report

By Eddy Gilmore

KUIBYSHEV, U. S. S. R., April 22—(AP)—The Russian Karelian armies, freshly reinforced by reserves, pushed through two breakthroughs in the Finnish lines to-night in violent fighting, and Red army dispatches said the Finns had suffered grave defeats in an exhausting attempt to stem the Russian advance at any cost.

With the vast German-Russian front a quagmire in many sections, the northern battles, while not on a major scale, appeared to be the hardest and most significant.

(Helsinki dispatches attested to the ferocity of the Russian drive against the Finnish lines, although claiming that the Finns were standing firm. The Finnish dispatches said the Russians had made 150 attacks along the Svir river in two weeks, using six divisions, four brigades, an armor'd regiment, numerous ski battalions and other combat units and lost 14,000 killed in terrible charges.)

(The main fighting is going on in the Svir river area of Karelia between Lakes Ladoga and Onega, and the primary Russian objective is to free the lower sections of the Murmansk railroad to clear the way for movement southward of U. S. and British supplies now accumulating at Murmansk.)

In one sector of a three-day-old breakthrough, the Russians were widening the gap in small but sure increments; in another, where the Finns had fortified a town, a Red army unit found a weak spot at a junction of the Finnish troops, and compelled the Finns to retreat with heavy losses in a night assault on the flank.

Ferry Service Across Detroit River To End

DETROIT, April 22—(AP)—The Walkerville-Detroit ferry service across the Detroit river, in operation since 1881, will be discontinued May 15, the company announced today.

Directors of the company gave as reasons for their decision in-adequate advertising, declining business and competition from the Windsor tunnel and the Ambassador bridge.

The company has operated two boats in recent years and claims there never has been a major accident in operation of its ships.

Government Advertising Of Bonds Urged

NEW YORK, April 22—(AP)—Suggesting the U. S. Government should use professional methods to increase the sale of war bonds, President Walter M. Dear, of the American Newspaper Publishers association, recommended today that advertising of bonds be done on the same basis as the Government is acquiring other war material.

"Advertising is professional in its skill and execution," he said, "and the equipment for newspaper advertising represents, in addition, very substantial industrial and business investment, including extensive employment of skilled labor and large consumption of commodity goods."

Speaking in a closed session of several hundred editors and publishers meeting at the first general convention of the ANPA at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, Dear said that Government advertising should be paid for "on a moral and national par with that upon which other Government services and goods are paid for."

"It is prudent to realize that for some time it has been obvious that certain Government departments and members of Congress are inclined to discourage by one means or another, the use of advertising, and thus through ill will or utter heedlessness to injure the main source of newspaper income."

Pointing to the suggestion of officers of the Treasury department that advertising expense be not allowed as deductible, Dear said that if this principle is applied to war contracts that "it will go hard with every commercial line."

Dear is general manager of the Jersey City, N. J., Journal.

Defenders Of Panay Again Forced Back

By William F. Frye

WASHINGTON, April 22—(AP)—Fighting bitterly against overwhelming numbers, American-Filipino troops on the island of Panay were forced to withdraw from their positions at Lambunao in the mountainous interior of the island, the War department announced today.

At the same time, new attacks were launched by the enemy against defense lines in Antique, the west coast province of Panay, and the spreading tentacles of Japanese conquest pointed to the neighboring island of Negros as a communique reported an enemy air reconnaissance of that island.

The attacks in Antique province were started by enemy columns from San Jose de Buenavista, the southwest coast town at which landings were made two days ago. The columns were driving against American-Filipino forces making a stand at San Regimio and Valderama, to the north and slightly inland.

Negros Next To Be Invaded

At Lambunao the defenders were forced to withdraw after days of pounding by a heavy enemy force driving inland from the southeast coasts of Panay. Lambunao lies about 25 miles north of Iloilo, where the enemy made one of the two initial landings on Panay April 16.

The department's report that the Japanese were making an aerial reconnaissance of Negros was taken as an indication that this island would be the next to suffer a full scale invasion as the enemy strives to extend his control over all of the rich Visayan group of the central Philippines.

Lying between Panay and Cebu, both now battlefields of the Philippine campaign, Negros is larger than either, with an area of 4,983 square miles, compared with Panay's 4,448 and Cebu's 1,695. Like them, it is a rich agricultural island.

30 Planes Destroyed, Damaged Over Malta

VALLETTA, Malta, April 22—(AP)—Thirty Axis planes—17 bombers and 13 fighters—were destroyed or damaged during daylight raids on this British Mediterranean island base yesterday, a preliminary report showed today.

He said the pace of the British campaign already was so intensive that on six nights between March 20 and April 20 the RAF plastered Germany with a higher total of explosives on each night than the Nazis looted on Britain in the entire month. The Germans dropped barely more than 250 tons of bombs on Britain 33 nights, while on one night alone RAF raiders dropped more than 1,000 tons, he added.

Fighting Men On Corregidor Grin, Bear It

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The following story of life on Corregidor island in Manila is an official dispatch to the War department from the headquarters of Lieutenant General Wainwright and was released by the War department.)

CORREGIDOR, P. I., April 22—Constant bombing from the skies and cross-fire of heavy artillery from Bataan and Cavite have failed to dampen the fighting spirit of the men on the island forts at the entrance to Manila bay. These men—Jungle-toughened doughboys, hard-hitting Marines and sailors, and ever alert and ever-ready coast artillery and anti-aircraft gunners from all walks of life and parts of the United States—just grin and bear it.

Their commander, Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright, himself a hard riding cavalryman, reports that there is not a "softie" in his outfit. They have suffered a lot of hardships and they know there are more ahead of them, but they pride themselves on the fact that they can take it. Life on Corregidor is not a Sunday school picnic.

Reign of Terror On Madagascar Reported

LONDON, April 23 (Thursday)—(AP)—Madagascar, the strategic French island lying athwart the Allies' vital cape route to the Indian ocean ports and the Middle East, was reported today to be undergoing a reign of terror in the enforcement of new Vichy orders to imprison Free French sympathizers.

A dispatch to the Daily Express from Tananarive reported orders from Pierre Laval, Vichy's new "chief of government," led to terroristic practices in the island.

The Express correspondent said that since the Japanese had broken into the Indian ocean hundreds of De Gaulles had been arrested by Vichy police under Gestapo orders and they were trying to round up the rest. Officials expressing antipathy to Japan or Germany are immediately dismissed, the correspondent said, declaring the governor-general's secretary was among those thrown in jail.

'More U. S. Troops' For India Pledged

By Preston Grover

NEW DELHI, India, April 22—(AP)—The Japanese are throwing in the powerful forces which overran Malaya, British quarters said to-night, but the bitter British-Chinese resistance is spilling the timetable of conquest and giving the Allies a chance to mass sea and air power for the salvation of India.

Tending strongly to support this view, Louis Johnson, head of the U. S. advisory mission to India, told a press conference today: "U. S. troops already are in India and more will come."

"The dispatch did not make clear whether he referred only to the American air forces in India under Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, which already have pounded hard at such Japanese footholds as the Andaman islands."

Rationing Of Sugar Will Start May 5

WASHINGTON, April 22—(AP)—Sugar rationing will start Tuesday, May 5, Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today, warning that the Government would "hit chiselers, and hit them hard and fast."

Final details for the registration of household consumers at grade schools May 4-7, inclusive, were made public in a formal rationing order which provides half a pound of sugar a week for each person during the first eight weeks of rationing.

Less For Commercial Users

A 50 per cent cut in sugar use by restaurants and other food services was decreed. Other commercial and institutional users—bakers, bottlers, confectioners, ice cream and dairy products manufacturers—will get a 25 per cent cut.

RAF's Bombing Offensive Will Be Stepped Up

LONDON, April 22—(AP)—The RAF's bombing offensive against Germany will be increased in the next few months as United States bombers and new British types join in the attacks, a high-ranking British air source predicted today.

He said the pace of the British campaign already was so intensive that on six nights between March 20 and April 20 the RAF plastered Germany with a higher total of explosives on each night than the Nazis looted on Britain in the entire month. The Germans dropped barely more than 250 tons of bombs on Britain 33 nights, while on one night alone RAF raiders dropped more than 1,000 tons, he added.

U. S. Raiders Captured In China, Report

By The Associated Press

Japanese army spokesmen in Tokyo and Shanghai were quoted by European radio stations yesterday as saying that several American airmen who raided Japanese cities last Saturday had been captured in the occupied zone of China after making emergency landings.

The Vichy station said they were to be taken to Shanghai to meet newspaper correspondents.

These reports on a reverberating episode were vague in content and added new conflicting data to what previously had been put out by Japanese officials. In other words, it appeared the Japanese still were trying to put together a jig-saw puzzle.

Say 13 Planes Sighted

Radio Tokyo, moreover, was not heard broadcasting the same reports offered by the Vichy, Bern and Berlin stations.

Berlin quoted Lieut.-Col. Kunio Akiyama in Tokyo as saying that only some 13 planes were sighted during the attacks last weekend on Tokyo, Kobe, Yokohama and Nagoya. On Monday Japanese imperial headquarters suggested there

Commandos Penetrate German Defenses In Vital Boulogne Area

By Taylor Henry

VICHY, France, April 22—(AP)—German occupation authorities in Paris announced tonight the execution of more than 15 French hostages in reprisal for the assassination of Nazi soldiers, and 115 more are scheduled to die within a week.

Eighty Frenchmen will be shot tomorrow at Rouen unless those responsible for the wrecking of a Nazi troop train there April 16 surrender voluntarily or are arrested by French authorities. Thirty already have been shot for that bit of sabotage in which "a large number" of German soldiers were killed.

The Germans today freed the one French hero of the Battle of France, Gen. Rene Jacques Adolphe Prieux, whose sacrificial stand at Dunkerque enabled the British to escape in 1940.

It was announced officially that 63-year-old General Prieux had been released from captivity and returned to France "for reasons of health." (But it appeared that the Germans and Pierre Laval, new chief of the Vichy government, had decided on this as a bid for popular French support for further "collaboration.")

By contrast, Lieut. Gen. Ernest von Schaubert, German military commander of Paris, disclosed in a

Price Freezing Edict Expected Next Tuesday

WASHINGTON, April 22—(AP)—A blanket freezing of virtually all prices at last month's levels probably will be proclaimed next Tuesday as part of the Administration's drastic anti-inflation program, authoritative sources said today.

The price order, affecting retail, wholesale and factory prices, is to be announced by Administrator Leon Henderson, these sources said.

This would follow immediately upon the announcement by President Roosevelt of his comprehensive curbs for rising prices, expected next Monday. The price order would be a vital part of this program and represents abandonment of the technique of controlling prices by individual items, which many consider a failure, in favor of the plan advocated by Bernard Baruch, head of the war industries board in World War I.

U. S. To Ration Gasoline In Eastern States

WASHINGTON, April 22—(AP)—A "meal-ticket" system of gasoline rationing, with average motorists allowed from 2-1/2 to 5 gallons a week, will be instituted by the Government in 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia on May 15, it was disclosed today.

The Office of Price Administration announced the plan was a temporary stop-gap pending establishment of "a more elaborate and comprehensive coupon rationing system" about July 1.

Automobile owners will be issued gasoline rationing cards during a three-day registration period beginning May 12. Operators of trucks and other motor vehicles "easily recognized as commercial vehicles" will not be required to obtain ration cards and their purchases of gasoline will not be restricted.

OPA said the ration cards would resemble meal or commutation tickets and would contain 7 squares, each representing a unit of gasoline which the ticket holder would be entitled to buy by anytime between May 15 and July 1. The number of gallons in each "unit" will be announced shortly before May 15 and may be changed later, depending upon the supply situation.

Service station attendants will tear off, mark or punch a square for each unit of gasoline delivered to a ration card holder.

Taking effect on the eve of the summer vacation season, the plan will permit only a bare margin of luxury driving and will force motorists to choose between using their automobiles for vacation trips or during transportation.

NABBED DURING ESCAPE

PETOSKEY, Mich., April 22—(AP)—Scarcely had Kenneth Isaacs, 19, of Cincinnati dropped to the ground after breaking out of the second story of the Emmet county jail today when he was recaptured by Russell Johnson, a policeman.

Isaacs, being held here for authorities at Great Lakes naval training station, dug his way through the brick wall of the jail.

Germans Free French Hero; 15 Executed

Brisk Battle At Sea Covers Surprise Raid

LONDON, April 22—(AP)—British commandos led by 30-year-old Lord Lovat caught the Nazis flat-footed about Boulogne on Dover strait early today and spent two hours cutting communications, shooting up strong-points and spying out the land before withdrawing with every man and all their weapons.

All in black-face, commandos—representing 53 British regiments—had things pretty much their own way from the moment they waded ashore and shot the lone sentry who challenged them.

At this point, which might have been expected to be the strongest-held of any along the occupied coast of the continent, the commandos penetrated the Nazi defenses along an 80-yard frontage, eyewitness accounts said.

Sea Battle Covers Advance

The Germans detected the naval craft which had put the commandos ashore, and a brisk battle ensued at sea—perfect cover for the commando advance.

When the Nazis did wake up and start a tattoo of machine-gun fire—enfilading the beach—much of it was over the raiders' heads, said some of the one-time game-keepers, woodsmen and deepstalkers who make up "Lovat's scouts."

The commandos quickly cut communications and thus prevented a general alarm.

"We were lucky," said Lord Lovat, the 15th baron of that old Scottish family, who formed his own scout corps two years ago.

It was only after the commandos had left, taking their few casualties back to the boats with them, that the Germans lit the sky with signal flares and tracer bullets—too late.

Two Trawlers Damaged

Aside from whatever casualties were inflicted on the German coastal troops, two armed trawlers were knocked out by the British sea forces covering the operation.

Long before the communique was issued, watchers in the Folkestone area heard distant cannonade thundering through the mist over Dover strait from the direction of Boulogne.

Then came this official announcement of the first commando raid since the assault which tied up the Nazi submarine port of St. Nazaire on March 28:

"In the early hours of April 22 a small reconnaissance raid was carried out on the French coast near Boulogne.

"German troops holding this part of the coast were driven back before the advance of our troops.

"A British patrol penetrated the coastal defenses and withdrew after two hours. Casualties were very slight.

"A naval force accompanying this reconnaissance engaged armed enemy trawlers. One German trawler was severely damaged and another was left on fire.

Casualties Slight

"No British ships were damaged in this engagement and naval casualties were slight."

Hours later, the German radio was saying merely that "German minesweepers encountered British speedboats in the coastal region south of Boulogne, and one enemy boat was sunk for certain. There was no mention of the land raid.

Whatever the physical result, something more important than military installations seemed to have been damaged, specifically, any German confidence that the channel position was strong enough to prevent the possible opening of a second front if the main Nazi forces are thrown against Russia later in the spring.

Britain Will Be Attacked This Spring, Berlin Says

LONDON, April 23—(Thursday)—(AP)—The Daily Herald's Stockholm correspondent reported today that in the face of the British commando raids on the continent, Berlin is circulating the story that Britain will be attacked by Germany this spring.

Berlin circles declared it must be recalled that ever since Hitler has removed dangers on the flank before striking with his main attack, he will not allow an Anglo-American threat based in Britain to develop while his main armies are heavily engaged with Russia.

It was officially reported in Berlin that Grand Admiral Erich Raeder had inspected the St. Nazaire port facilities which were attacked by commandos recently and also held "important discussions" with high French naval officers.

Price Freezing Edict Expected Next Tuesday

WASHINGTON, April 22—(AP)—A blanket freezing of virtually all prices at last month's levels probably will be proclaimed next Tuesday as part of the Administration's drastic anti-inflation program, authoritative sources said today.

The price order, affecting retail, wholesale and factory prices, is to be announced by Administrator Leon Henderson, these sources said.

This would follow immediately upon the announcement by President Roosevelt of his comprehensive curbs for rising prices, expected next Monday. The price order would be a vital part of this program and represents abandonment of the technique of controlling prices by individual items, which many consider a failure, in favor of the plan advocated by Bernard Baruch, head of the war industries board in World War I.

FDR Labors On Program

The blanket price order would cover all consumer goods with the probable exception of food, it was authoritatively learned, and would permit sellers to charge the highest price which they charged in March but no higher.

The President placed the final formulation of his program ahead of all but the most necessary war tasks and instructed his secretaries to hold his appointments to a minimum—those of a "must" nature only—so that all the time possible could be devoted to what obviously is one of the most important statements of his more than nine years in the White House.

While many of his speeches and messages to Congress have had momentous effect upon the life of the nation, the program now taking shape will affect in one way or another virtually every member of the civilian population. It will blueprint the civilian economy of the country for the duration of the war.

May Control Profits, Wages

Although significant decisions have yet to be reached, it seemed apparent today that the program would include:

Drastic limits upon war profits.

A high pressure campaign for the sale of defense bonds and stamps.

Perhaps a maximum limitation on the size of individual salaries.

Possibly a ceiling for war industry wages, with a determination of the continuing row over hours of labor.

These steps are designed to take or keep from the pockets of the civilian population an excess of purchasing power which would force prices to inflationary levels. They are intended to complement the price control program.

Congressman Seeks To Increase WPA Wages

WASHINGTON, April 22—(AP)—A 15 per cent increase in the wages of WPA workers was proposed in a resolution (Hres 306) introduced today by Representative O'Brien (D-Mich.).

To provide the increase O'Brien's resolution calls for a special appropriation of $18,300,000 to the WPA.

T. J. Nicholas Again Heads County Board

T. J. Nicholas, Sr., of Palmer, veteran Richmond township supervisor, was reelected by acclamation to the office of chairman of the Marquette county board of supervisors at its annual reorganization meeting yesterday.

James A. Jernstad, of Ishpeming, also was reelected by acclamation to the office of vice-chairman and a unanimous vote was cast for the election of Charles J. Stakel, of North Lake, as the board's first honorary chairman. They will serve for the ensuing year.

Nicholas, known by his fellow supervisors, associates and friends as "Cap," has been supervisor of Richmond township for more than 11 years. Last April 6 he was unanimously reelected to that position and is serving his second term as chairman of the board.

Pledges Full Support
"It was my dearest wish and heart's desire that you would elect a younger man to serve as chairman during these trying times," he said yesterday in his speech of acceptance. "But such is not the case, and I can only say that any success a chairman has is due to the fine work of the board's committees."

"I am gratified, naturally, that you have elected me, and I pledge that I shall do anything and everything I possibly can in the interest of this board and of the taxpayers of Marquette county. I ask your sympathetic support and help toward this end."

Chairman Nicholas then asked the board members to rise and salute the American flag, which, along with the county flag recently donated to the board, flanks the chairman's seat in the front and center of the supervisors' room.

New Supervisors Introduced
Nine new supervisors, elected April 6, were introduced to the board, rising and bowing in answer to their welcome as their names were called.

They are: William T. Rose, who succeeds Vaino Forslund as supervisor of the Fourth ward, Ishpeming; George A. Dobson, succeeding Azarius Parsons, Ishpeming Seventh ward; Eugene Gaboury, succeeding Edward Charboute, Tenth ward, Ishpeming.

William John Williams, succeeding Russell H. Toins, First ward, Negaunee; Frank H. Makinen, succeeding Gust Danielson, Fifth ward, Negaunee; Reino Kivikas, succeeding Maino Halmeoja, Ewing township; Horace E. Metzner, succeeding James Ghiardi, Forsyth township; Verner Felt, succeeding Clyde Sietman, Tilden township, and Louis Van Elacker, succeeding William Ahti, Wells township.

Three Reappointments
Chairman Nicholas was nominated by Charles Beaudry, Marquette supervisor, who paid a tribute to his fine record in the past and to his ability as leader of the county supervisors, and expressed confidence that he would continue his "good work." Supervisor Beaudry said Nicholas was a "second General MacArthur."

Dr. C. LeGolyan and Dr. C. N. Bottum were reappointed jail physician and county physician, respectively for one-year terms, and S. R. Elliott, of Ishpeming, was reelected a member of the county road commission for a three-year term.

PAROLE FOR SLAYER

LANSING, April 22—Parole of Clarence Sipperly, 35, Utica, sentenced to state prison for second degree murder in 1940, today was ordered by the state parole board. Sipperly, according to the board, shot and killed James McManus, 63, also of Utica, during a brawl. He has served the minimum term of a sentence of from three to 10 years.

The Ann Arbor service in St. Andrew's church at 2 o'clock will be conducted by Dr. Henry Lewis, rector, and Bishop Frank W. Creighton will conduct services at 4:30 in St. Paul's cathedral in Detroit. Burial will be in the cathedral crypt.

Among the Upper Peninsula rectors who will attend services in Detroit Thursday will be the Rev. John G. Carlton, of Marquette; the Rev. Malcolm Langley, of Crystal Falls; the Rev. H. Roger Sherman, Negaunee, and the Rev. Edward R. A. Green, of Sault Ste. Marie.

The idea of a Panama canal originated in the early days of the 16th century.

Dog Warden Question Goes To Committee

The resignation of Sheriff Howard C. Treado as county dog warden and the application for appointment as his successor, filed by Alfred P. Christensen, who has served as his deputy since the office was created, were referred to the county board's budget and executive committee and the prosecuting attorney yesterday afternoon.

Also referred to those groups were letters from Dr. Charles P. Drury, city health officer; Samuel Ford, Negaunee police chief; Donald McCormick, Marquette police chief, and Sheriff Treado, commanding Christensen for his work as deputy dog warden and stating that the work of controlling the dog nuisance in the county should be continued.

It was pointed out that the number of stray and untagged dogs has decreased considerably since the county acted to solve the problem by naming a warden and empowering him to collect dog licenses and impound unlicensed dogs.

Guarding Of Airport
The board yesterday authorized the county treasurer or his deputy to attend the annual convention of the State Association of County Treasurers to be held July 6, 7 and 8 on Mackinac Island.

A request from the Inland Steel company that a stretch of road leading to the Greenwood mine be hard-surfaced was referred to the highway and bridges committee and the county road commission. The road, reaches from a point in Tilden township west to the Greenwood mine, west in Ely township to the Black river and then north to US-41, a distance of five miles.

Following the reading of the bills for the preceding month, Supervisor Lincoln J. Lindstrom, of Marquette, asked whether the cost of guarding the county airport had been reduced. The approximate cost for the last four months was $1,700.

Denny To Attend Meetings
He was informed by K. I. Sawyer, superintendent of the county road commission, in charge of the job, that in addition to the custodian, two men now are guarding the airport instead of four and that the cost, therefore, would be considerably less in the future.

In order to keep the airport open since war was declared by the United States on the Axis powers, the county has been required by the Federal Government to guard it on a 24-hour basis. In this way and by contributing considerable sums of money for defense work, the county is participating in the nation's war program.

Frank L. Denny, county accountant and purchasing agent, was authorized, on the recommendation of

Hospital Unit Given Drill On First Aid

It was only practice, but the St. Luke's hospital emergency medical field unit, organized for civilian defense, acted with speed and efficiency in its first rehearsal this week.

There were several "casualties" as the result of a "catastrophe" at the Cliffs Dow Chemical plant, but two ambulances and members of the unit with full field equipment, all in charge of Dr. A. K. Bennett, were on hand to take care of the situation.

As a dress rehearsal for a possible war-time emergency, it went something like this: The accident was reported from Cliffs Dow. Two ambulances were dispatched to St. Luke's, where field equipment and first aid workers were picked up. A first aid station was established at the plant. Wounds were cared for on the spot and as soon as immediate emergency work had been completed, the "wounded" were removed to the hospital.

Casualty Station
Dr. L. W. Howe and Dr. D. P. Hornbogen were in charge of the first aid station, assisted by the Misses Betty Hills and Marie Eisner, of St. Luke's hospital, both registered nurses, and Miss Nadia Thorpe, Northern Michigan College of Education.

A casualty station in the plant was headed by Dr. M. Cooperstock and Dr. C. P. Drury, with the assistance of the Misses Elina Johnson and Signe Miners. St. Luke's registered nurses, Miss Dorothy MacDonald and Mrs. Sullivan.
Stretcher bearers were Fernley Stoneman, Jack Cayo, Walter Hurley and Norman Gronlund.

Several Types of Wounds
"We received excellent cooperation from officials and employees at the plant," Dr. Drury said. "The rehearsal helped considerably to emphasize what might be expected in case of real trouble."
Types of wounds treated were: Lacerated arm, fractured arm, face burns, fractured clavicle, fractured legs, fractured ribs, cut arm artery and punctured abdomen.

Board Votes Wage Boost For Employees

A resolution providing for a 10 per cent pay increase for clerks, deputy clerks, and deputy sheriffs in the court house and jail group, and for a new working schedule increasing the weekly period of employment from 35 and 1-2 to 40 hours, was adopted by the county board of supervisors yesterday.

Labeled as "defense compensation" after considerable discussion as to whether it should be made on a monthly basis or as a "bonus" at the end of the year, the pay increase will be effective on a monthly basis and is retroactive to January 1, 1942.

The new 40-hour week schedule will go into effect May 1. It will be as follows: Mondays through Fridays, 8:30 a. m. to noon and 1:15 to 5 p. m., and from 8:30 a. m. to noon on Saturdays.

Resolution Is Changed

The resolution, submitted by Supervisor James A. Jernstad, chairman of the budget and executive committee, calls for extra defense compensation amounting to 10 per cent of their 1942 salaries for all deputies, clerks and deputy sheriffs in the court house and jail group.

As at first submitted, the resolution called for 10 per cent bonus payments to be made on December 23, 1942. Supervisors Joseph Mongrain, Lincoln J. Lindstrom and James Nardi objected to the use of the word "bonus," pointing out that the word denoted "undivided profits," which the county does not have.

"It is all right for a corporation or company to make bonus payments," Supervisor Mongrain said "but not a county government."

Jernstad and Charles J. Stakel, members of the budget and executive committee, explained that such a payment was decided upon as the most logical way to recognize the work of county employees because the board had a resolution on record banning a regular salary increase.

Mongrain, Nardi and Lindstrom also objected to the payments being made at the end of the year.

Richard L. Youngquist, son of Mrs. L. L. Youngquist, 101 East Hewitt avenue, received orders yesterday to proceed at once to Dallas, Tex., to begin training at the Naval Aviation Base there as an aviation cadet. Dick was sworn in recently at the Naval Base in Grosse Ile, Mich. A month's preliminary training at Dallas will be the start of seven months of strenuous flight training leading to a commission as Ensign in the Navy Air Corps.

Pvt. Arthur L. Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren, 406 Bluff street, Negaunee, recently sang in a quartet in a show given at Camp Robinson, Ark., where he is receiving his basic military training in the Army. Prior to his induction last February, he lived in Hancock and was employed in a chain store as a meat cutter. He was graduated from Negaunee high school in 1936 and played in the school band and the Negaunee city band. He is keeping up with his music, playing with the medical replacement training center band at Camp Robinson.

Mrs. Russell C. Hill, of Ishpeming, has had her first letter from her son, Dewey E. Tippet, since Pearl Harbor. He is aboard ship. Tippet enlisted a year ago last June, was graduated from the Navy radio school in San Diego and was assigned to active service. The letter ended many anxious moments for relatives of Tippet. Incidentally, he's learned about censorship. His note contains no information that needs to be deleted. But mother is happy to read one line: "I'm well, feeling fine, so don't worry."

Joe Paul, who used to preside at the Ishpeming post-office windows and sort mail, is now learning how Uncle Sam wants it done down at Fort McClellan, in Alabama. Young Paul is greatly concerned for the city slickers who were never off the pavement before.

Pvt. Clarence Hill has returned to Fort Benning, Ga., after spending a few days in Champion visiting his mother, Mrs. August Pekuri.

Lincoln B. Frazier, 424 East Arch street, yesterday received a commission as lieutenant in the U. S. Naval Reserve, Engineering, Volunteer Service, and has been ordered to report in Milwaukee May 4 for active duty.

Ralph E. Bergstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bergstrom, 410 West Ohio street, a lieutenant in the U. S. Army Air Corps stationed in Panama, is spending a short leave in Costa Rica, where he says the climate now is similar to early autumn in the Upper Peninsula. In other words, he likes it. Ralph received his early flight training from Sigurd O. Wilson and made the three separate 10-week training steps from Oklahoma City, Okla., in Randolph Field, Tex., and Kelly Field, Tex. He was commissioned at Kelly Field in December, 1941.

Big Bay Men Jailed For Petty Thefts

Two Big Bay men, arrested by officers of the county sheriff's department and state troopers and charged with petty larceny, pleaded guilty in city court yesterday and were ordered to serve 90 days in the county jail with the understanding they would be released after 60 days if they make restitution.

The men—Theodore Leach and Edgar Larson—were charged with the theft of a rifle, razors, clippers and other items in addition to $37 in currency from Fred Brant, of Big Bay.

William Lambert, of Turin, arrested by conservation officers for possession of a spear on a trout stream in West Branch township on the west branch of the Chocoma river, on April 21, pleaded guilty yesterday and paid a fine of $5 and $6.85 costs in lieu of serving 10 days in jail.

Albin Lilmatainen, of Marquette, has received a message from his son, Sgt. Alvare Lilmatainen, U. S. Army Air Corps, stating that he is "safe and well" in Australia. The sergeant is a radio operator and serves on the Army's giant Flying Fortress bombers. He was last heard from two and one-half months ago when he was in Tampa, Fla. He enlisted in the Army two years ago and since that time has been in Egypt, Brazil and Africa. He has many friends here and will be remembered as a ski jumper who won second honors on Kiriln hill two years ago.

T. J. Nicholas Again Heads County Board

T. J. Nicholas, Sr., of Palmer, veteran Richmond township supervisor, was reelected by acclamation to the office of chairman of the Marquette county board of supervisors at its annual reorganization meeting yesterday.

James A. Jermstad, of Ishpeming, also was reelected by acclamation to the office of vice-chairman and a unanimous vote was cast for the election of Charles J. Stakel, of North Lake, as the board's first honorary chairman. They will serve for the ensuing year.

Nicholas, known by his fellow supervisors, associates and friends as "Cap," has been supervisor of Richmond township for more than 11 years. Last April he was unanimously reelected to that position and is serving his second term as chairman of the board.

"It was my dearest wish and heart's desire that you would elect a younger man to serve as chairman during these trying times," he said yesterday in his speech of acceptance. "But such is not the case, and I can only say that any success a chairman has is due to the fine work of the board's committees."

"I am gratified, naturally, that you have elected me, and I pledge that I shall do anything and everything I possibly can in the interest of this board and of the taxpayers of Marquette county. I ask your sympathetic support and help toward this end."

Chairman Nicholas then asked the board members to rise and salute the American flag, which, along with the county flag recently donated to the board, flanks the chairman's seat in the front and center of the supervisors' room.

New Supervisors Introduced
Nine new supervisors, elected April 6, were introduced to the board, rising and bowing in answer to their welcome as their names were called.

They are: William T. Rose, who succeeds Vaino Forslund as supervisor of the Fourth ward, Ishpeming; George A. Dobson, succeeding Azarius Parsons, Ishpeming seventh ward; Eugene Gaboury, succeeding Edward Charbonnet, Tenth ward, Ishpeming.

William John Williams, succeeding Russell H. Toms, First ward, Negaunee; Frank H. Makinen, succeeding Gust Danielson, Fifth ward, Negaunee; Reino Kivekas, succeeding Maino Halmola, Ewing township; Horace E. Metzner, succeeding James Ghiardi, Forsyth township; Verner Fell, succeeding Clyde Sleeman, Tilden township, and Louis Van Elacker, succeeding William Ahti, Wells township.

Three Reappointments
Chairman Nicholas was nominated by Charles Beaudry, Marquette supervisor, who paid a tribute to his fine record in the past and to his ability as leader of the county supervisors, and expressed confidence that he would continue his "good work." Supervisor Beaudry said Nicholas was a "second General MacArthur."

Dr. C. LeGolyan and Dr. C. N. Bottum were reappointed full physician and county physician, respectively for one-year terms, and S. R. Elliott, of Ishpeming, was reelected a member of the county road commission for a three-year term.

PAROLE FOR SLAYER
LANSING, April 22—P—Parole of Clarence Sipperly, 35, Utica, sentenced to state prison for second degree murder in 1940, today was ordered by the state parole board.

Sipperly, according to the board, shot and killed James McManus, 63, also of Utica, during a brawl. He has served the minimum term of a sentence of from three to 10 years.

Dog Warden Question Goes To Committee

The resignation of Sheriff Howard C. Treado as county dog warden and the application for appointment as his successor, filed by Alfred P. Christensen, who has served as his deputy since the office was created, were referred to the county board's budget and executive committee and the prosecuting attorney yesterday afternoon.

Also referred to those groups were letters from Dr. Charles P. Drury, city health officer; Samuel Ford, Negaunee police chief; Donald McCormick, Marquette police chief, and Sheriff Treado, commanding Christensen for his work as deputy dog warden and stating that the work of controlling the dog nuisance in the county should be continued.

It was pointed out that the number of stray and untagged dogs has decreased considerably since the county acted to solve the problem by naming a warden and empowering him to collect dog licenses and impound unlicensed dogs.

Hospital Unit Given Drill On First Aid

It was only practice, but the St. Luke's hospital emergency medical field unit, organized for civilian defense, acted with speed and efficiency in its first rehearsal this week.

There were several "casualties" as the result of a "catastrophe" at the Cliffs Dow Chemical plant, but two ambulances and members of the unit with full field equipment, all in charge of Dr. A. K. Bennett, were on hand to take care of the situation.

As a dress rehearsal for a possible war-time emergency, it went something like this: The accident was reported from Cliffs Dow. Two ambulances were dispatched to St. Luke's, where field equipment and first aid workers were picked up. A first aid station was established at the plant. Wounds were cared for on the spot and as soon as immediate emergency work had been completed, the "wounded" were removed to the hospital.

Casualty Station
Dr. L. W. Howe and Dr. D. P. Hornbogen were in charge of the first aid station, assisted by the Misses Betty Hills and Marie Eisner, of St. Luke's hospital, both registered nurses, and Miss Nadia Thorpe, Northern Michigan College of Education.

A casualty station in the plant was headed by Dr. M. Cooperstock and Dr. C. P. Drury, with the assistance of the Misses Elma Johnson and Signe Miners. St. Luke's registered nurses, Miss Dorothy MacDonald and Mrs. Sullivan.

Stretcher bearers were Fernley Stoneman, Jack Cayo, Walter Hurley and Norman Gronlund.
Several Types of Wounds
"We received excellent cooperation from officials and employees at the plant," Dr. Drury said. "The rehearsal helped considerably to emphasize what might be expected in case of real trouble."

Types of wounds treated were: Lacerated arm, fractured arm, face burns, fractured clavicle, fractured legs, fractured ribs, cut arm artery and punctured abdomen.

Board Votes Wage Boost For Employes

A resolution providing for a 10 per cent pay increase for clerks, deputy clerks, and deputy sheriffs in the court house and jail group, and for a new working schedule increasing the weekly period of employment from 35 and 1-2 to 40 hours, was adopted by the county board of supervisors yesterday.

Labeled as "defense compensation" after considerable discussion as to whether it should be made on a monthly basis or a "bonus" at the end of the year, the pay increase will be effective on a monthly basis and is retroactive to January 1, 1942.

Resolution Is Changed

The resolution, submitted by Supervisor James A. Jerstad, chairman of the budget and executive committee, calls for extra defense compensation amounting to 10 per cent of their 1942 salaries for all deputies, clerks and deputy sheriffs in the court house and jail group.

As at first submitted, the resolution called for 10 per cent bonus payments to be made on December 23, 1942. Supervisors Joseph Mongrain, Lincoln J. Lindstrom and James Nardi objected to the use of the word "bonus," pointing out that the word denoted "undivided profits," which the county does not have.

Jerstad and Charles J. Stakel, members of the budget and executive committee, explained that such a payment was decided upon as the most logical way to recognize the work of county employes because the board had a resolution on record banning a regular salary increase.

Mongrain, Nardi and Lindstrom also objected to the payments being made at the end of the year.

No information of value to the enemy will be published, but we are interested in what our relatives and friends are doing in the service.)

Richard L. Youngquist, son of Mrs. L. L. Youngquist, 101 East Hewitt avenue, received orders yesterday to proceed at once to Dallas, Tex., to begin training at the Naval Aviation Base there as an aviation cadet. Dick was sworn in recently at the Naval Base in Grosse Ile, Mich. A month's preliminary training at Dallas will be the start of seven months of strenuous flight training leading to a commission as Ensign in the Navy Air Corps.

Pvt. Arthur L. Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren, 406 Bluff street, Negaunee, recently sang in a quartet in a show given at Camp Robinson, Ark., where he is receiving his basic military training in the Army. Prior to his induction last February, he lived in Hancock and was employed in a chain store as a meat cutter. He was graduated from Negaunee high school in 1936 and played in the school band and the Negaunee city band. He's keeping up with his music, playing with the medical replacement training center band at Camp Robinson.

Mrs. Russell C. Hill, of Ishpeming, has had her first letter from her son, Dewey B. Tippet, since Pearl Harbor. He is aboard ship. Tippet enlisted a year ago last June, was graduated from the Navy radio school in San Diego and was assigned to active service. The letter ended many anxious moments for relatives of Tippet. Incidentally, he's learned about censorship. His note contains no information that needs to be deleted. But mother is happy to read one line: "I'm well, feeling fine, so don't worry."

Joe Paul, who used to preside at the Ishpeming postoffice windows and sort mail, is now learning how Uncle Sam wants it done down at Fort McChellan, in Alabama. Young Paul is greatly concerned for the city slickers who were never off the pavement before.

Pvt. Clarence Hill has returned to Fort Benning, Ga., after spending a few days in Champion visiting his mother, Mrs. August Fekuri.

Lincoln B. Frazier, 424 East Arch street, yesterday received a commission as lieutenant in the U. S. Naval Reserve, Engineering, Volunteer Service, and has been ordered to report in Milwaukee May 4 for active duty.

Ralph E. Bergstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bergstrom, 410 West Ohio street, a lieutenant in the U. S. Army Air Corps stationed in Panama, is spending a short leave in Costa Rica, where he says the climate now is similar to early autumn in the Upper Peninsula. In other words, he likes it. Ralph received his early flight training from Sigurd O. Wilson and made the three separate 10-week training steps from Oklahoma City, Okla., in Randolph Field, Tex., and Kelly Field, Tex. He was commissioned at Kelly Field in December, 1941.

Big Bay Men Jailed For Petty Thefts

Two Big Bay men, arrested by officers of the county sheriff's department and state troopers and charged with petty larceny, pleaded guilty in city court yesterday and were ordered to serve 90 days in the county jail with the understanding they would be released after 60 days if they make restitution.

The men—Theodore Leach and Edgar Larson—were charged with the theft of a rifle, razors, clippers and other items in addition to $37 in currency from Fred Brant, of Big Bay.

William Lambert, of Turin, arrested by conservation officers for possession of a spear on a trout stream in West Branch township on the west branch of the Chocolay river, on April 21, pleaded guilty yesterday and paid a fine of $5 and $6.85 costs in lieu of serving 10 days in jail.

Albin Lilmatainen, of Marquette, has received a message from his son, Sgt. Alvare Lilmatainen, U. S. Army Air Corps, stating that he is "safe and well" in Australia. The sergeant is a radio operator and serves on the Army's giant Flying Fortress bombers. He was last heard from two and one-half months ago when he was in Tampa, Fla. He enlisted in the Army two years ago and since that time has been in Egypt, Brazil and Africa. He has many friends here and will be remembered as a ski jumper who won second honors on Kiriln hill two years ago.

Ban on Fires, Smoking In U. P. Forests

Because of the unusually serious fire hazard in Upper Peninsula forests, Governor Van Wagner has proclaimed a state of emergency for a period of three weeks or longer, during which time no fires and no smoking will be permitted in the woods.

This announcement was made yesterday by officers at the regional conservation headquarters in Marquette. The ban will go into effect today.

"The ban against fires and smoking is all-inclusive," officers said. "Fishermen planning on being in the woods for the opening of the trout season Saturday are warned that they must heed the law or be subject to arrest."

Smoke Only In Cars

"Smoking will be permitted only in automobiles and even then smokers will be required to use receptacles in cars for cigars, cigarettes, ashes and matches. It will be against the law to flip a match, cigar or cigarette out the window of an automobile."

As if to emphasize the state of emergency, an airplane was dispatched from Lansing at noon yesterday carrying posters to be distributed and displayed conspicuously throughout the Upper Peninsula. The plane landed at the Marquette county airport at approximately 2:30 and a few minutes later the posters were in the hands of conservation officers here.

No permits for brush or grass fires will be issued until the emergency period has expired. The situation in the Upper Peninsula is regarded as "very serious."

"Tinder Dry"

LANSING, April 22—P—A proclamation declaring a state of emergency in more than half of Michigan's 83 counties was issued by Governor Van Wagner today to protect the state's rain-thirsty forests from forest fires.

The proclamation banning the open use of fire covered Allegan and Muskegon counties and all of the state north of town line 12, commonly called the Bay City-Muskegon line, running along the south border of Oceana, Midland, Mecosta and Isabella counties.

In that area, the following is prohibited: Building a camp fire of any sort, except at authorized camp grounds and inhabited places.

Smoking tobacco, except at inhabited places, improved camp grounds or in a vehicle.

Tossing burning ashes, matches or tobacco from any vehicle.

Burning rubbish, slashings, brush piles or stumps for any purpose without a written permit.

An "extremely high forest fire hazard" is menacing Michigan's forests and timber, vital to the war program, the proclamation said. The absence of spring rains were said to have brought the woods to a "tinder dry state."

County Given $113,334 In Weight Tax Returns

LANSING, April 22—P—First quarter apportionment of automobile weight tax collections was disbursed by the state highway department to county road commissions as follows:

Alger, $42,948; Baraga, $44,442; Chippewa, $72,473; Delta, $89,015; Dickinson, $76,473; Gogebic, $64,136; Houghton, $93,581; Iron, $85,134; Keweenaw, $30,107; Luce, $35,944; Mackinac, $40,983; Marquette, $113,334; Menominee, $79,038; Ontonagon, $45,371; Schoolcraft, $43,169.

Noted Authority on Flying Native of Upper Peninsula

Selby W. Calkins, a native of Masonville, is included in a select group of leading figures in the aviation industry in this country who are listed in the 1942 edition of the "Blue Book of American Aviation," which just has been issued. He is now on leave from his position as editor of Western Flying, aeronautical magazine published in Los Angeles, and is serving as a captain of the U. S. Air Corps at Dayton, O.

Capt. Calkins also spent some of his early years at St. Ignace, Alpha, Saul Ste. Marie and Houghton. He has not been back in the Upper Peninsula since 1927 when he and his wife spent a belated honeymoon touring this region.

Michigan Tech Graduate

Capt. Calkins is a graduate of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton. Following his graduation, he went to Mexico for a short stay and then took a job in the metallurgical laboratories of Hudson Motors at Detroit. A year later, he undertook some experimental work for a power plant equipment concern in Detroit, and 18 months afterward was transferred to Chicago.

"It was in Chicago that the depression overtook us," Calkins recalled. "I had visited California and other parts of the West several times during my school years. Therefore, when economic conditions dictated a new job hunt, I decided to do the Lunting out there. The result was a stay of just over three years at Las Vegas, Nev., during the early phases of the construction of Boulder Dam. I didn't get a job working on the dam, but I did get a job, because of my engineering background, writing about the dam's construction. How it happened I don't know, but I soon found myself a newspaperman, working on a Nevada newspaper, and corresponding for several wire services and syndicates. Then, too, was when I started writing for technical magazines."

Took Up Flying

Calkins work in Nevada brought him an offer from a Southern California newspaper to cover the Los Angeles-Long Beach waterfront in 1933. One of the stories he covered concerned a noted pilot who had pioneered in Alaskan flying. He became interested in learning to fly, which he did and not long later was awarded a pilot's license. From then on, he concentrated on aviation writing and the study of aviation developments. He became aviation editor of the Hollywood Citizen-News. Later, he wrote a syndicated aviation column which appeared in several score newspapers in the United States and Canada.

Writes for Magazines

When the Occidental Publishing company of Los Angeles, publishers of several technical publications, sought a new editor in 1938 for its veteran aviation technical magazine "Western Flying," Calkins was given the job. Concurrent with editing the magazine, he continued his syndicated newspaper column and wrote considerable aviation material on special assignment for Fortune, Time, Collier's and a number of other magazines of general circulation.

One such assignment was an aerial tour of Mexico and Central America for a Pacific Coast group of newspapers, and covering aerial travel facilities and developments in those nations. Another such assignment was a 14,000 mile tour which took him from Los Angeles to New York, then to Halifax, and back across Canada from Halifax to Vancouver. This tour was made last autumn and the result was a series of newspaper and magazine articles on Canada's Empire Air Training Plan, her mushrooming aircraft manufacturing industry, and other aviation developments in her war activities.

On Clipper Flights

Calkins also participated in previous Clipper flights to Hawaii and Alaska with other newspaper and feature writers. He served as vice-president and district governor of the Aviation Writers association, a group of less than 100 aviation authorities who write entirely on aeronautical subjects. He also was secretary of the Aviation Country club of California, an organization of private airplane owners and pilots dedicated to group flying up and down the Pacific coast for purely social enjoyment. His wife and daughter accompanied him on many of these flights. The little girl had her first flight when she was six weeks old, and before her third birthday had flown well over 25,000 miles, all of it with her father at the controls.

Shortly after the Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor, Calkins was called to active duty with the Air Corps. At present, he is stationed at the Air Corps Material Center, Wright Field, Dayton, in the Production Division. He still owns a home in Los Angeles, but his wife and daughter have joined him at Dayton for the duration.

K. C.'s Hold Convention In Jackson

Francis P. Matthews, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, will be the guest of honor at the Michigan state convention to be held at Jackson, May 16, 17 and 18, it was announced yesterday by State Deputy Gervase T. Murphy, of Calumet.

This year's convention will mark the 450th anniversary of the landing of Columbus, the 60th anniversary of the founding of the order and the 40th anniversary of the granting of the charter to Jackson Council No. 609.

It was announced by a spokesman for the state officers that this will be the largest convention ever held by the Knights in Michigan, because of the rapid growth of the order in Michigan during the past year, the location of the convention city in the heart of the district of largest membership and the extreme importance of matters to be considered.

John E. Dorfmeister, grand knight, and R. B. Jackson, chairman of the convention executive committee, stated that elaborate plans are being made for the entertainment of state officials, delegates, members and their wives.

Msgr. Zyd on Program

The program for the weekend will begin Saturday noon, May 16, with registration of guests. The Otsego hotel, of Jackson, will be convention headquarters. During the afternoon a reception will be held at the K. of C. building where a Monte Carlo party will be held in the evening. Sunday afternoon guests will have their choice of two auto tours, one through the Irish Hills with a stop at the shrine, and one to the state prison of southern Michigan and other interesting and historical spots in and near Jackson. At 6 Sunday evening the convention will be held in the Jackson county building. The Most Rev. Joseph H. Albers, bishop of Lansing, will be the celebrant of a Pontifical high mass in St. Mary's church at 9 Monday morning with the Very Rev. Msgr. Joseph L. Zyd, of Marquette, state chaplain of the K. of C., delivering the sermon. Monday at noon women guests will be entertained at luncheon with a style show and music while the business sessions of the Knights will begin at 1 p. m., ending with the election of state officers.

Martin Galvin, of Detroit, master of the Michigan district, 4th Degree, Knights of Columbus, has stated that they will hold their convention concurrently with the main body and that business sessions will be held on Sunday afternoon. The 4th Degree will take its drill team to Jackson.

Questions and Answers On Registration Next Monday

The state selective service board yesterday gave out the following questions and answers explaining the fourth registration, set for next Monday, April 27:

Q. Who is required to register?
A. All male persons residing in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii or Puerto Rico, who were born on or after April 28, 1877, and on or before February 16, 1897.

Q. Are any persons exempted from registration?
A. Yes. In general, all men already in the armed forces and diplomatic representatives of foreign countries are not required to register. Retired officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army or Navy, with few exceptions, are also not required to register. If in doubt, plan to register and the local board will determine your status later.

Q. Are aliens required to register?
A. Yes. All aliens residing in this country, whether declarant or non-declarant, are required to register.

Q. Where will I register?
A. At the officially designated registration place nearest to your place of residence. This may be the office of your local board or a school or other public building established as a registration place in your community.

Q. When will I register?
A. Between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. on Monday, April 27, 1942.

Q. May I register in advance of registration day?

A. Yes. Local boards have been authorized to provide advance registration facilities in all war production industries and similar establishments. Industries cooperating in this program will register their employees prior to Monday, April 27. Persons who will find it difficult to register on Monday may register in advance at the office of their local board on Saturday, between the hours of 8 a. m. and 7 p. m., or on Sunday, between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. Only the local board offices will be open for this advance registration. Do not plan to register in advance if you can conveniently register on Monday.

Q. If I am away from home on registration day, where may I register?
A. You may register at the nearest officially designated place of registration wherever you may be. Give your residence address, and your registration card will be forwarded to your home town local board.

Q. If I am temporarily away from my permanent residence, what address should I give in registering?
A. You are at liberty to determine your official place of residence so long as it is within the boundaries of the United States. The address which you give as your permanent residence will determine the local board which will always have jurisdiction over you. You will also be permitted to give your current mailing address in order to insure prompt receipt of notices.

Q. If I am ill and unable to reach a registration place, what should I do?
A. Call the office of your local board and arrangements will be made for the appointment of a special registrar to register you at your home.

Q. What questions must I answer at the time of registration?
A. The following nine simple questions must be answered:
Full name.
Place of residence.
Mailing address (if other than place of residence).
Telephone.
Age and date of birth.
Place of birth.
Name and address of person who will always know your address.
Employer's name and address.
Place of employment of business.

Debate Team Thumbs Way to Meet; Wins
PRICE, Utah, April 22—(P)—Carbon high school couldn't afford to send its debate team to the state forensic tournament at Logan. So Rockwell Jackson, James Crawford and Boyd Bunnell hitchhiked the 150 miles. They hitchhiked back, too, and brought with them first place awards in both debate and oratory.

Many Forest Service Men On War Duty

In the last year 176 employees of the U. S. Forest Service in the North Central Region, or more than 10 per cent of the region's personnel, have left the Forest Service to enter the Army or Navy or to take defense jobs, it announced yesterday by Regional Forester Jay H. Price, Milwaukee, who said the regional office has never requested a draft deferment or denied a request for transfer to a defense agency.

Clerks, custodians, camp superintendents, draftsmen, engineers and foresters are included among the men and women released for war service. Fifty-eight are in the Army and two in the Navy; 68 are civilian employees of the War Department, 100 civilian employees of the Navy Department and 38 are working in defense agencies or war industries.

In addition 214 employees have resigned or been separated from the Forest Service by reduction in force, Price stated, and 10 men have been transferred to the guayule rubber project in California. Key positions vacated by people called to war work have been filled for the most part by transfer of personnel, shifting of duties and elimination of work not essential to the war effort. Only 27 new appointments have been made in the region since January 1.

Manpower Inventory To Begin May 4

An inventory of manpower in the Marquette county area will be taken, beginning May 4, for war production purposes, Russell R. Olds, manager of the Marquette office of the United States Employment Service, said yesterday.

The inventory is to be conducted by the Employment Service in cooperation with draft boards. Questionnaires will be sent by the boards to all men between the ages of 20 and 44 who registered on February 16 for military service. Later, the same questionnaire will be sent to other civilians in this area who are between the ages of 18 and 64—those who have already registered for selective service and men who will register later.

"When the registration is completed all over the country and the questionnaires are in from all localities, the Government will have a record of the occupational skills of 40,000,000 men," Olds said.

May Need 17,000,000
"Today there are about 7,000,000 workers on the payrolls of war industries. The country probably will need as many as 17,000,000."

The questionnaire contains a list of 225 jobs essential to war production. Each man is asked to check those jobs in which he has had experience or training. The questionnaire must be filled out and returned to the selective service board within 10 days after receipt. They will then be sent to the Marquette office of the United States Employment Service where they will be examined to determine which men already are qualified or can be trained quickly for work in essential war industries.

"The Employment Service will keep the selective service board informed as to the manpower needed for war production and essential civilian production as a guide toward classifying men registered for military service."

Draft Board Decides
"If a man is skilled in work important to war production and is using his skill in regular employ-

No Reduction In Driving Speed Noted

LANSING, April 22—(P)—Michigan motorists as yet have allowed the war to make little change in their driving habits, L. B. Reid, deputy state highway commissioner, asserted today in an address to the annual banquet of the Michigan Road Builders association.

Despite the President's request for a 40-mile-an-hour speed limit on the open road, Reid said, a statewide check of Michigan highways showed the average speed of motorists in daylight hours now was 48 miles an hour, compared with 48.8 miles per hour during the fall of 1940 and 1941.

Reid described as encouraging indications that drivers who travel 60 and 70 miles an hour now comprise 10.5 per cent of the total number of motorists, compared with 15.2 per cent previously. The number driving between 40 and 45 miles an hour make up 20.4 per cent, compared to 17.5 per cent previously, he said, while almost three per cent more drive between 45 and 50 miles.

Americans only now are beginning to realize driving must be curtailed to win the war, Reid said.

The speaker said the department planned $26,000,000 worth of projects during 1942, of which $20,000,000 will be spent on access roads and highways around war production centers. The remainder will go into roads north of the Bay City-Muskegon line.

Simultaneously the department disclosed the determination of low bids on nine projects to cost $1,486,258, including the first unit of the first limited-access highway in the state, the Detroit expressway.

The department said a low bid of $376,498 was made by Taylor Brothers, Inc., of Birmingham, for the project 2,970 miles of grading and paving of two 24-foot lanes from Wayne road to Middle Belt.

Other bids:
Iron county—1,477 miles of concrete paving on US-2 at Fortune Lake, Herman Holmes, Crystal Falls, $36,852.
Schoolcraft county—3.55 miles of concrete paving on US-2 from M-77 east and west C. G. Bridges, Escanaba, $96,775.

AUTO CRASH FATAL

IMLAY CITY, Mich., April 22—(P)—Harry Gilman, 24, of Capac, was killed tonight when his automobile skidded and overturned on M-21 two miles east of here.

ment, his draft status will depend on the possibilities of replacing him on his war production job. In such cases, the draft board and Employment Service will cooperate closely to see that skilled men are not inducted into military service.

Olds stressed, however, that the final decision, after all facts have been studied, is up to the draft board.

"Men deferred from military service on occupational grounds will be replaced wherever possible by vocational trainees or other qualified persons not eligible for military service."

When filled out, the questionnaire will give the following information: Social security number, date of birth, race, citizenship, marital status, dependents, education, present work status, present employer, job for which the worker is best fitted and other occupations at which he has worked.

Break With Isolation

THAT MR. WILLKIE still carries considerable weight with the Republican national committee is shown by the fact that the resolutions bearing on the war and the post-war objectives more closely accord with what he proposed they should be than with the proposals of any of the other men who tried their hands at shaping policy.

Senator Taft bears witness to this when he expresses disappointment that they did not stop at declaration of all out support of the war. That they propose that the country shall become a partner in the task of world reconstruction and be obligated to secure the permanence of the peace that will follow the war he regards as "a great mistake."

Mr. Willkie has met with a large measure of success in securing a break by the party with its isolationist past by the expression of the committee that "we realize that after this war the responsibility of the nation will not be circumscribed within the territorial limits of the United States; that our nation has an obligation to assist in the bringing about of an understanding comity and cooperation among the nations of the world."

New Lock Work Started

Because the Army had in hand money that could be used for the work without waiting for an appropriation by Congress it has been possible to make a start this week on the construction of the new lock at Sault Ste. Marie. From this time on it will be pushed with all possible speed with the purpose of making it available at the earliest possible time.

Austere Era

The British have had long and hard experience in dealing with the problem of extracting revenue directly from the low-income classes after the limit of endurance seems to have been reached. Judged by our indulgent standards, they have performed prodigies. But some time ago even the British realized the necessity of relying more heavily on indirect general sales taxes.

Such rates may seem oppressive, but the British are not content with them. They are now considering taxes which surely will usher in what is called an "austere era." It is now proposed to double the existing luxury sales tax, raising it to 66 2-3 per cent. Naturally that will mean a terrific advance in the prices of many non-essential articles. The already heavy duties on whiskey, beer, and entertainment are likewise to be boosted.

In our case the arguments in favor of sales taxes are especially strong because it is altogether unlikely that Congress will ever have the political hardihood to tap incomes directly at very low levels with the vigor characteristic of the British. We believe the public is willing to shoulder the burden of substantial sales taxes, and that it would even welcome such taxes as a substitute for further immediate increases in income taxes.

Requisitioning Ships

As Government control of merchant shipping is clearly a wartime necessity, if there is anything surprising about the war shipping administration's order requisitioning "several hundred" tankers and dry cargo vessels, it is the disclosure that essential tonnage has yet to be taken over. There is, however, an explanation.

It is now held that for administrative reasons all American-owned shipping should be subject to WSA control. The new order completes the requisitioning process. The Government already has the use of or title to 75 per cent of our freighter tonnage. For the duration, anyway, there will be no more negotiating with private operators. The Government will run the merchant marine as it sees fit, laying down specifications as to cargoes, routes to be followed, and so on.

Such wartime centralization of authority would be desirable even if we were not so hard put for shipping. With demands on tonnage steadily rising, it is essential that we make the most intelligent use of what is available. Naturally, this can be done only through maximum coordination of the Allied shipping effort.

News Trend Better

While the bombing of the Japanese cities has been the most heartening news of the past several days for the United Nations it has not been the only event contributing to a feeling that has been taking form for some time that, from their viewpoint, the war is beginning to go better. The confidence to which it has given rise has been reinforced by a succession of lesser developments, in the aggregate of marked significance.

They include a slowing in the tempo of Japanese successes; evidence that the Russians are still pursuing their offensive; lack of any marked Nazi success in the tentative beginning of their spring campaign on the Russian front and disclosures that support the view that they have been so badly punished there the past winter that it is unlikely that they can again initiate the blitz warfare that carried them to the gates of Moscow and Leningrad.

The better feeling is contributed to by assurances that, while there is much in the domestic picture to occasion concern, the production of arms and machinery of war of all kinds has already mounted to a point where the available shipping is unable to keep up to the task of moving it with celerity. It is only in shipping that the United Nations are now notably weak.

Contemporary Opinion

What Every One Should Know Few persons who contemplate the list of 67 materials banned by the War Production Board for civilian use because they are essential to the prosecution of the war will fail to be struck by the complexity of the world in which we live and our ignorance of it.

How many of us, for example, can tell anything about cadmium, cobalt, rhodium, or vanadium, although all of these are among the 92 elements? Try to describe a halogenated hydrocarbon refrigerant or an antihistamine derivative. Tell us if you can, about diphenylamine or polyvinyl chloride. What is cyanamide, or kyanite, or shearling? How does noils silk differ from garnetted silk? What are the uses of mica splittings, cashew nut shell oil, or sperm oil?

If you have failed to pass this examination, you may be sure that you are not the only one. And why? The first is not only that all of these materials are among 67 vitally essential to war. In denying them to civilians, the WPB indicates that they have been an integral part of our normal life, although most of us cannot tell whether we have been eating them, doctoring ourselves with them, wearing them on our backs, scrubbing our faces with them, or running our automobiles with them. One might think that none of us could call himself educated if he could not identify each of these materials, describe its properties and its uses, and tell in what form it is found where in the world, and in what quantity. But on all of these tests most of us would have to confess ignorance.—Chicago Tribune.

Old Malady and Cure It is always a relief when science is able to pin down an old malady that has been dogging our path. You now know what was wrong with your voice that time in 1923 when you played a part in the college pageant. Only an insignificant squeak emerged instead of the resounding boom that was supposed to surround the words, "You speak well, brother!" The name of this malady is psychophonia-thenia, and Dr. James S. Green has been describing it in the Annals of Otolaryngology and Laryngology. It is actually a form of sickness which affects the shy and timid, and one of its symptoms is the choked-off voice, pinched, grating and hoarse. It is frequently found among singers, lawyers, teachers and clergymen. Their throats feel tight, their mouths may become too dry or too wet, and they may even get pains in head and neck. The cure, of course, is to get the patient to realize that his trouble is mental and that his vocal apparatus is all right.—New York Times.

Thirty Years Ago

(April 23, 1912)

Display of storm and small craft warnings on Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron, St. Clair, Erie and Ontario will be resumed for the season on April 25. The Government thus is prepared for the opening of navigation. Because of ice conditions orders were issued much later this year than last.

C. R. Everett, of Victoria, arrived to take a position as bookkeeper and cashier with F. E. Spitzer, of Sault Ste. Marie, who was born in Marquette and his mother, Mrs. Nellie C. Everett, resides at 410 Spruce street.

Edith Ozar left for Milwaukee, where she will study nursing in a hospital training school. The crusher plant of the Marquette Stone company at Harvey is now in operation with a large force of men crushing rock for the new dock at Presque Isle. Fifty men were employed at the crusher last year and it is expected the force will be increased to that number in a short time.

Ben Youren, who conducted a drayage business here for several years, soon will locate on a farm in Menominee county. He is endeavoring to dispose of his house on North Pine street.

Major Charles Hendrickson, former well-known resident and now living in Duluth, is spending a few days here. He lived in Houghton for a few years after leaving Ishpeming and was captain of the military company there.

Ole Walseth is reshingling his dwelling on East Barnum street.

Ole Wiggins has reentered the employ of William Andrews, drayman.

William Connell has returned from Mexico, where he spent the winter.

Captain Samuel Jewell, of the Oliver Iron Mining company's Hematite property, has purchased a Ford touring car.

Miss Edna Ball has returned from Marquette, where she spent a few days visiting the Misses Irene Buckett and Ethel Bergdahl, students at the Northern Normal.

The mining outlook for the coming summer is promising. Opening of the Lucky Star shaft is one indication that Negaunee will experience a busy season and the fact that the Athens Mining company is nearly ready to begin work on its property is another. In addition, the Heidelberg interests, of New York, who have been exploring their lands in Richmond township, will continue the work until late in the summer.

Alphonse Jandron has accepted a position at the Marquette Elks club.

William Pleau has sold his draying outfit to John Mattson, a farmer at Eagle Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Caesar are the proud parents of a son, born Monday at their home in the Cambria location.

Helonen Brothers, architects, are working on plans for an attractive bungalow to be erected this spring on Mrs. H. M. Mackenzie's farm between Eagle Mills and Negaunee.

C. E. Hayward, lumber jobber at Lathrop, was in Negaunee on business.

No Coercion, Says Court

Wisconsin's effort to reduce the labor-industrial relationship to a fair basis of law, with the rights of each side defined, receives further support and sustenance from the latest action of the United States Supreme Court.

The case was that of the AFL Milk and Ice Cream Drivers and Dairy Employees' union versus the Golden Guernsey Dairy Cooperative. The principle involved was that provision in the state law which requires a union, through an election, to obtain the approval of three-fourths of the workers before it can sign a closed shop agreement for a plant.

In this instance, the election was held and the union fell short of the three-fourths approval. Despite this failure, its members began to picket. They had had all their rights under the law, but these were not enough. They would not abide by the results.

The state employment relations board stepped hard on this with an order barring mass picketing or any placards saying the employer was unfair because there was no closed shop at the plant. The Milwaukee county circuit court and the Wisconsin supreme court upheld the board's order and the union asked the United States Supreme Court for a review.

And this is right, of course. What the union was doing, after it had had all the benefits of law, was to attempt coercion. It was trying to coerce the employer, who had really not been a factor in the matter at all. It was trying to coerce employees who had rejected its demands.

Unions will have to learn that when the labor-industrial relationship is reduced to law, then that law is binding. They cannot use its provisions in the early stages and then go beyond these provisions, transgressing the rights of others, if they still do not have what they want when the provisions are exhausted.

Wisconsin, after experience with a one-sided law that was steam rolled through by unscrupulous labor leadership, corrected the situation with a statute that afforded rights to both sides. It is heartening to see the courts uphold this effort to give justice to labor, the employer and the public.—Milwaukee Journal.

The First Battlefront

In other words, the first battlefronts for us Americans are not in Europe, Africa, or the Orient. The first is not only at our own door fronts, but inside of our houses, and right down to the individual, himself or herself.

You can bet that Hitler will take the French fleet whenever he decides the time is right.—Senator Scott Lucas, Illinois Democrat.

Getting At The Facts

State Budget Director Nowicki asked John D. O'Connell, welfare director, why if jobs in Michigan are remaining unfilled and employment is "everywhere," the state is still carrying 33,255 families on direct relief. Specifically he wanted to know what, if anything, was done with the $25,000 appropriated last year for the purpose of determining the employability of welfare clients.

According to the welfare director about 25 per cent of the families on direct relief include an employable member; the remainder, he explained, are barred from employment for reasons of age, physical or mental incapacity or because of the ban against aliens in war industries. He admitted that thus far nothing had been done about the proposed $25,000 reauthorization.

Side Glances

Direct relief administration perhaps has been weakest the state over in its failure to organize and carry out any well defined program of rehabilitation. O'Connell says that plans to rehabilitate those on relief have been pursued and further remarks that some 600 family heads are now receiving training through other state agencies. The number he cites seems pitifully small compared to the total number of persons receiving relief—approximately 140,000, according to Nowicki.

Neither Nowicki's statement nor O'Connell's reply is completely satisfactory because neither apparently has given relief and employment problems sufficient attention. We should be able to reduce welfare costs materially this year; whether we will depends on how rapidly industry reabsorbs the employable persons and how intensive an effort the relief organization makes to restore to employability those for whom that possibility exists.—Grand Rapids Press.

Recent Civilian Defense Registrants Requested To Take First Aid

Old Hampering Prejudices Are Still In Force

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

Last night Dr. William F. Clarke giving the third lecture of the Knights of Columbus Forum series spoke in Munising. His subject was "Intolerance," and was devoted to intolerance toward the Americans are guilty. At least that was the comment given before the lecture.

It was impossible for me to hear the talk and so I am unaware of what he said and maybe this column will be in disagreement with his views, or possibly will coincide with his opinions.

Tarred With Same Brush
It seems to me that we Americans are most inconsistent. We fustigate against Hitler for his silly ideology of Aryan supremacy, but are we any more sane in our sometimes unexpressed, but too often present, sentiments of racial intolerance?

If you hear some thoughtless American sounding forth on his special racial prejudices there isn't much to choose as far as sanity of thought is concerned between those Americans and Hitler, the psychopath.

Father Coughlin recently was ordered to appear at a hearing and disprove, if he can, that his paper is not a seditious influence. One can hardly see how he can disprove the charges for his paper has been busily engaged in spreading a philosophy of hatred of the Jews.

No one can work to develop bad feeling between Jews and Gentiles without being classed as guilty of seditious activity.

No one can willfully fan hatred and racial strife between Negroes and whites without being guilty of giving aid to the Axis.

These Are Baseless
Such stupid intolerances have no basis in social justice, in patriotism, or intelligent thinking.

A cheering story comes from Atlanta, Ga., where an aged Negro minister, Dr. Edward Randolph Carter, for 60 years has been the pastor of Friendship Baptist church. Five thousand white people met Sunday to pay honor to him for his long pulp ministry.

The old minister's wife was critically ill, but she insisted that he appear at the meeting held in the municipal auditorium in his honor.

The old preacher spoke quietly and simply of his abiding faith in God. He told something of how as a boy, with only 50 cents in his pocket, he walked the 75 miles from Athens, Georgia, to Atlanta.

During the long years since that day, he has progressed and worked and one may be sure, prayed. He has had offers of pastorates in larger and wealthier churches. Many noted persons have been his friends. But he has remained the faithful servant of the people of Friendship Baptist church.

Before he had finished his sermon, news came of the death of his wife. So his sixtieth anniversary was a day marking the peak of happiness and of sorrow for him.

That Negro pastor and other men of his kind can give a genuine and valuable contribution to make to America.

Use Their Talents
Negro soldiers are giving an excellent account of themselves in this war. Negro singers and poets are making rich gifts to our culture. Yet there are not enough Americans who have as yet quite learned to appreciate that.

There are many men and women of India (by the way, they are Aryans, though some people do not seem to know it) who are brilliant, highly educated persons, of a higher cultural standard than most persons in Marquette, yet I'd be perfectly safe in wagering a huge amount that if one of those Indians were to visit Marquette now, there would be persons here who would be intolerant if they had to eat a meal with those men and women!

Great Britain's problems of India have been complicated in this war by the fact that, though there are millions of backward tribes in England, there are millions of highly educated Indians in that country. Those highly educated men and women know that after the first World war they were almost promised their freedom, but it did not materialize. Such memories rankle. Those Indians recognize the inconsistency of fighting to preserve a democracy they never were permitted to try for themselves!

When Singapore fell, there crumbled more than a military bastion. White imperialism fell in that part of the world. If this war is to bring a lasting peace toward the yellow, brown and black peoples of the world, which has been too long held by the whites, must fall, too.

Life Service Is Absolute.
Orators have made the welkin ring with speeches about freedom; poets have sung the song of liberty; the churches have preached the brotherhood of man; and the basic principles expounded have been right, but—so much of the time we tended to make reservations about that freedom and that brotherhood of man. It is certainly an excellent thing for us, but this, that or the other race is certainly not ready for it, certainly not!

Yet if any one told us we could learn to swim effectively enough to win a world's championship if we lived inland and with nothing more than a bathtub four feet long in which to practice our stroke, we'd consider that person quite unbalanced.

Peoples granted freedom for the first time will make mistakes, will have years of disillusioning experiences, but the only way really to understand and value freedom and the functioning of democracy is through having the opportunity to learn about it through intimate and practical experience.

The vision of freedom and democracy will have to be made a

New Series Of Classes Begins Monday Night

The importance of registered civilian defense workers taking courses in Red Cross first aid has been stressed repeatedly, but most registered workers from the first registration have taken such courses. Recently, however, about 300 more volunteers have registered, and most of them have not hitherto had the first aid work.

For their convenience, classes in the standard course will begin next week. Men and women are asked to attend the first meeting of the class to be held at 7:15 Monday night in the Graveret high school. This class will meet Monday and Wednesday evening for two-hour sessions, and classes will be held on the same evenings for the ensuing five weeks.

Take Work Now
It is probable that the same physicians will speak at this course as served for the previous first aid classes for registered workers.

Since it will be more difficult to conduct large groups for first aid instruction during the summer months, it is especially urged that all the 300 who recently registered and others who did not do the work be present for the meeting Monday night.

Buy Bonds—Marquette Division, No. 49, Benefit Association of Railway Employees will hold a business meeting tonight in the Odd Fellows hall. There will be a social hour after the meeting. At a previous meeting, B. A. R. E. voted to buy war bonds, and a $500 bond has been purchased.

Mothers and Daughters—Services Sunday in St. Paul's church mark an observance of Mothers and Daughters Sunday. These services, with their appropriate sermons, are a prior emphasis on the Mother and Daughter theme which will be stressed at the meeting of the Auxiliary on Wednesday of next week.

Return Home—Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Hackney have returned home from Corpus Christi where they visited Ensign Roy W. Fletcher, Jr. and their daughter, Mrs. Fletcher, who is the former Miss Helen Hackney of this city. The Hackneys have been away from Marquette for three and a half months, and part of the time was spent in Mexico and Florida.

Baptist Women's Guild—A meeting of the Baptist Women's Guild will be held at 2:30 Friday afternoon, in the social rooms and all women of the church are invited to attend. There will be a program of musical numbers by Mrs. Helen Tretheway, James Nebel, and a Junior girls' trio. The pastor, the Rev. Robert S. Shabaz, will give a talk. Members are reminded of gift boxes and pledges. The hostesses will be Mrs. Lee McGinley, Mrs. John Harrington, and Mrs. Charles Spurr.

Begins Promptly—Members of the Marquette Business and Professional Women's club are reminded that the dinner meeting to be held tonight in the Federated Women's club will begin promptly at 6:15 so as to permit transaction of business in time to make it possible for members to attend the all-school play at the high school. Miss Jennie Foley, of Iron Mountain, will be present to discuss plans for the impending district meeting. Miss Audrey Trevarthen, a voice student at the Northern Michigan College of Education will sing.

Jeffrey Bible Class Sponsors 'Mixer' Party
The Jeffrey Bible class of the First Methodist church will hold a "mixer" party at 8 Friday night in the social rooms of the church. Women as well as men are invited to the party and it is hoped there will be a large attendance for the committee has made plans for much fun.

A small admission fee will be charged and proceeds from the evening will be used for young men of the church who have gone into some branch of the United States military service.

The sponsoring group, the Jeffrey Bible class, plans to purchase a suitable roll call plaque which will be placed in the church. On it will be inscribed the names of the men who are now in the service, and other names will be added as young men leave for war service in the future.

Refreshments will be served and all interested persons are cordially invited to attend the party. Tickets may be had, or reserved, by telephoning W. F. Susan, 547-J, or H. W. Anderson, 640-J.

Colonial Charm For Moderns

The patriotic influence of early American motifs in modern decoration is illustrated in this bedroom. The large floral bouque fabric used for draperies, dressing table skirt and bedspread, has a scroll design inspired by the scrolled interior of Thomas Jefferson's home, Monticello. This room was created for Columbia's love-in-a-cottage film, "Meet the Stewarts."

Inexpensive Meat Cut Makes Tasty Dish

Put the garden flavor of spring vegetables into meat dishes made of inexpensive cuts, says Mrs. Gaynor Maddox. Your family will feel better and eat better.

Boiled Brisket of Beef With Spring Sauce
(Serves 4 to 6)
Four pounds fresh brisket of beef, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup minced onion, 1 bunch soup greens, 1 bay leaf, 1-4 teaspoon pepper.

For sauce: 2 cups stock (from the boiled beef), 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish.

Roll and tie the brisket of beef. Wipe with cloth, place in deep kettle or stew pan, and cover with water. Add salt, bring to boiling point and skim.

Add minced onion, prepared soup greens, bay leaf, pepper. Cover and simmer for 1 1/2 hours, until meat is tender.

To prepare spring sauce, thicken stock with flour. Add salt, pepper and prepared horseradish. Cook, stirring for 5 minutes. To serve, pour sauce over slices of hot brisket.

Bread of Lamb Casserole
(Serves 6 to 8)
Three pounds of lamb cut in 2-inch pieces, flour, salt and pepper, 1-4 cup catsup, 2 cups cubed raw potatoes, 1 cup sliced raw carrots, 8 small onions, 1-2 cups lima beans.

Roll meat in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Sauté meat in hot fat until it is well-browned on all sides. Rub sides of casserole with a cut clove of garlic, and arrange meat in casserole.

Add 2 cups boiling water, cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes. Stir in catsup. Add cubed potatoes, sliced carrots, onions and lima beans. Cover casserole and continue to bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour.

MENU
BREAKFAST: Sliced oranges and bananas, cornbread, honey, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Casserole of dried lima beans and potatoes and green peppers, whole wheat watercress sandwiches, fruit bowl, tea, milk.

Second Meeting In 'Defense Information' Series Will Be Held Friday In Clubhouse

The second meeting of the Defense Information series will be held at 7:30 Friday night in the Federated Women's club. Members, their husbands and friends are urged to attend.

It will be recalled that these programs are divided into three divisions, the first devoted to answering some queries about phases or projects of defense work in the city; the second, a talk on some subject important to defense work, and the third an open forum of discussion about objectives, functioning and set-up for civilian defense.

Marquette is an induction center which entails responsibilities. As the first part of the program tomorrow night, Clarence Bullock, chairman of the county recreation committee, will tell how men and women of Marquette can be of service to the Service club for selectees, draftees and men home on furlough, a project which will be perfected in the near future.

A considerable number of persons may not realize that there is a close interlocking between the work of casualty squads and First Aid workers. Tomorrow night Dr. Grant James will give a talk on "Casualty Squads and Their Functions," and since that is of such immediate concern to all persons there will doubtless be an exceptionally large attendance.

Doubtless many of those attending will have questions and comment which they will want to bring to the open forum which concludes the program for the meeting.

Jeffrey Bible Class Sponsors 'Mixer' Party
The Jeffrey Bible class of the First Methodist church will hold a "mixer" party at 8 Friday night in the social rooms of the church. Women as well as men are invited to the party and it is hoped there will be a large attendance for the committee has made plans for much fun.

A small admission fee will be charged and proceeds from the evening will be used for young men of the church who have gone into some branch of the United States military service.

The sponsoring group, the Jeffrey Bible class, plans to purchase a suitable roll call plaque which will be placed in the church. On it will be inscribed the names of the men who are now in the service, and other names will be added as young men leave for war service in the future.

Refreshments will be served and all interested persons are cordially invited to attend the party. Tickets may be had, or reserved, by telephoning W. F. Susan, 547-J, or H. W. Anderson, 640-J.

Northern's Home Administration House Functions

Seven girls majoring in home economics at the Northern Michigan College of Education are established in the practice house where they will have the opportunity to put their theories into practical application.

The home, being used for the project this year, is the Frank Baird residence, 1029 Second street. Miss Jane Bemis, of the home economics department faculty, is the resident instructor.

In the Home Administration house the girls get actual experience in food preparation, purchasing, meal planning and serving, housekeeping, household finance, hospitality and group relationships.

To afford a girl training in the various housekeeping responsibilities, her work is changed every six days.

The first week assignments were as follows: Manager, Miss Marjorie Sayles; hostess, Miss Ellen Heinonen; assistant hostess, Miss Elaine Olson; cook, Miss Lea Flink; assistant cook, Miss Virginia Frei; housekeeper, Miss Catherine Hansen; and laundress, Miss Ellen Sikorsky.

Junior Citizen Clubs Of County Hold Programs

Grade school children of the county are responding enthusiastically to the formation of Junior American Citizens clubs, organization of which is being sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Last year in April there were three such clubs in Marquette county. Now there are 42 clubs with a membership of 12,059 boys and girls. Those clubs meet at different times, but it has been asked that all the groups meet tomorrow for an observance of Junior American Citizens day, and there will be more than 12,000 boys and girls giving the pledge of allegiance, observing the flag ritual, and singing the national anthem.

Most of the groups have selected special names for their clubs and the following is the roster of the present club, listing the place in which the club was formed, its name, and membership total:

County Well Represented
Bancroft, Victory club, 45; Big Bay, Betsy Ross, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Douglas MacArthur club, 80; Carlshend, Douglas MacArthur club, 23; Champion, four clubs, 71; Diorite, 43; Eagle Mills, 23; Harvey, George Washington and The Roosevelt clubs, 65; Heidman school (West Branch township), Lincoln club, 19; Kindlin, Captain Colin Kelly club, 35; Pioneer, Franklin D. Roosevelt club, 25; Republic, Douglas MacArthur, Uncle Sam, Colin Kelly and Betsy Ross clubs, 147; Skandia, Lincoln club, 22; Turin, Lincoln club, 24; Lawson, The Patriotic club, 25; Mangum, Colin Kelly club, 21; Michiganame, two clubs, George Rogers Clark club, 19, and the other, 18; National Mine, The Victory club, 22; Northlake, The MacArthur club, 30; John Paul Jones, 37; The Roosevelt, 30; Uncle Sam, 25; The Northland school, The MacArthur club, 25; Palmer, the Red, White and Blue, and the MacArthur club, 52; Watson, The Franklin D. Roosevelt club, 38; West Ishpeming, Florence Nightingale club, 33, and The MacArthur club, 36; third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades of Graveret school, Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, Sergeant York, Roosevelt clubs, and Old Glory club of the third and fourth grade of West Bluff street, 134.

And the more than 12,000 boys and girls have not merely learned their pledge, the American's creed, and their prayer, but they have thought about the reason for forming the club, and what responsibilities rest upon good citizens, and have made practical application by cleaning up the school yards, interesting themselves in school problems, trying to do their share.

White Sox Defeat Tigers, 3-1; Dodgers Win 12-Inning Game, 4-0

Initial Loss For Bridges This Season

CHICAGO, April 22.—P—The Chicago White Sox killed a ninth inning rally today to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 3 to 1, for a two to one edge in their series. The defeat dropped the Tigers back to the 500 mark for the first 10 games of the 1942 American league baseball season.

In dealing out the first defeat of the new season to Tommy Bridges, the Chicagoans made excellent use of their eight hits, featured by Don Kolloway's two important doubles and a single. The Tigers gathered eight hits off Bill Dietrich, but with the tying run on base in the ninth and none out Lee (Buck) Ross came in to put down the uprising. Dietrich Handoffs Bengals

Barney McCosky and Rudy York hit successive singles to open the ninth, but the lanky Ross, another Connie Mack castoff Manager James Dykes, of the Pale Hose, and Ned Harris and Eric McNair on outfield files.

After surviving a rough first inning, Dietrich pitched to only 20 batters, part for the course, starting with the second until there were two out in the eighth frame and Pinch Hitter Don Ross singled. Roger Cramer got a pair of singles over that stretch, but once went out stealing and the right time was erased in a double play.

That was curtains for the Tigers, although Cramer chased Moses for a 400-foot drive in the eighth with two aboard.

Kolloway Hits Two Doubles
Kolloway, who had collected only one hit in 18 previous times at the plate, scored the first two Chicago runs. His doubles in the first and third ultimately were followed by Joe Kubel's long flies that permitted the second sack to score from third.

Then Don singled home Hoag with the other Chicago run in the sixth.

Bridges yielded eight hits in the seven frames he worked before he was removed for a pinch hitter, and Hal Newhouse hurled a hitless eighth.

The two clubs will renew rivalry tomorrow at Detroit in the start of a two-game series. Veteran Ted Lyons, who blanked Cleveland in his first start, will oppose Hal White, of Detroit, whose major league debut likewise was a shut-out.

Yankees On Bat Rampage; A's Squelched
NEW YORK, April 22.—P—The New York Yankees went on another hitting rampage today with Joe DiMaggio collecting his second home run of the season and two triples as the world champions crushed the Philadelphia Athletics, 11 to 5.

Altogether the Yanks bombarded Bill Beckman and Dick Fowler for 13 hits for their biggest score of the young season.

With this help Spud Chandler easily acquired his second victory of the year even though touched for nine hits, including a ninth-inning home run by Pete Zuder.

It was the seventh loss in nine games for the A's.

Red Sox Keep In Step
WASHINGTON, April 22.—P—The Boston Red Sox buried Washington under a 17-hit barrage today to defeat the Senators, 13 to 4 and keep in step with the New York Yankees in the current fight for first place in the American league.

Four Washington pitchers were about equally ineffective against the Sox, who put over four runs in the first inning, and their final three in the ninth. Don DiMaggio led the attack with four blows, one a double, while Bobby Doerr homered in the third.

Oscar Judd went the route for Boston, yielding nine hits.

The Browns filled the bases with none out in the ninth on a single, a walk and a safe bunt, but were unable to tie the score as Kennedy got Vernon Stephens on an infield popper, and Pinch Hitter Glenn McQuillen and Tony Crislow on a strikeout and an outfield fly, respectively.

Down Sports Trail

BY WHITNEY MARTIN
Wide World Sports Columnist
NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—Don't kick them Phils, just they're still twitchin'.
Yes, sir, there's a lot of spring in the National league doormat, and one of these days Hans Lobert's lads are going to bounce right up and make you eat your words, so keep the mustard handy.

Who says so? Hans Lobert says so, that's who, and you can't talk to this reasonable facsimile of Honus Wagner two minutes before he has you convinced his team no longer is the philtre Phils. It's the phurious Phils now.

He snorts lustily through his well-defined bugle when it is intimated his lads might have developed an inferiority complex as a result of their years as the league's daily open date, and of the chiding by the press.

Military Drill Helped
"That doesn't worry us at all," he declares. "We go out there to win every day. The boys have plenty of spirit. I think the daily military drill we had down south has something to do with it."
"That wasn't a publicity stunt. I was at West Point and I learned a lot from General MacArthur. Drill peeps you up, keeps you from getting lazy. It made the boys get up in the morning. They had to report at 7:30. At first some of them grumbled, but after while they began to like it. It put them on their toes for the day. When a ball player sleeps all morning he goes out witted. If the boys aren't down for breakfast by 10 o'clock now, they don't get any."

"Some of the boys are worried about the draft, but I tell them not to do that; just go when they are called. I'm 60 years old, but if they want me, I'm ready."
Others Want Phil Players
"We've got something to build a club around, and we're going to do that. The way to make money is at the gate, and you've got to have a good club to do that. I know Mr. Nugent sold stars before, but he needed the money. When he offered me the manager's job he told me he wasn't going to sell any players. I told him that was fine, as I wouldn't take the job under any other circumstances."

"Other clubs want our players. They want Tom Hughes, and Rube Melton, and John Podgajny, and Bennie Warren, and Danny Littlefield, and Donald Northey, and Alban Giosso, and Dan Murtaugh. But they want to get them for cash. I'll make player trades if I see a chance to play a couple of hoons, but I'm not getting rid of good players just for money."
"I've set a goal this year—winning 50 per cent of our games. We'll get some good pitching, and we have some good hitters. And I'm trying to keep the boys on their toes. After all, winning games is just taking advantage of the other team's mistakes."

Would Rather Trim Dodgers
Lobert doesn't try to hide the fact he'd rather beat the Brooklyn Dodgers than any other club. It traces back to the Dodgers' cancelling exhibition games with the Phils because, Hans says, he refused to let Brooklyn use his practice field.

"They were down in Havana two weeks before we started training," he explains. "They figured that we were just a last place club, and good fellows, and they were the champions, so we'd do anything they wanted."
"When I heard about the cancellations, I said MacPhail had pulled a bush league trick. I didn't say he was a bush leaguer, or a chowderhead. He claimed I had insulted him. When in thunder could insult MacPhail?"

Nobody but Hans Lobert, if he really put his mind to it. But right now he's more interested in getting the Phils on their feet. After that there'll be plenty of time to get in somebody's hair.

Tech Boxers To Compete At Superior
HOUGHTON, April 22.—Eight Michigan College of Mining and Technology boxers under Coach Lloyd Chappell will compete in the North Midwest Collegiate Tournament at Superior, Wis., Saturday, April 25. This will be the second participation for the Engineer fighters in this event. Last year their six-man team topped a first in the 135-pound class, a first in the 155 and a second in the 165.

Tech's boxing captain, Bernard Timmer, will defend the 155-pound crown he won last year. His fellow North Midwest titleholder from Michigan Tech, Warren Lang, will not compete this year.
Timmer is not only a boxer, but a varsity football and hockey man. Other gridders who will fight at Superior are Dick Sampson, of Ironwood, 165 pounds, and Don Werdine, of Ironwood, 127 pounds, of Iron River, 127 pounds, and Ray Christensen, of Lakeview, 135 pounds. Calumet, Michigan Tech's 145-pound representative, has played considerable hockey.

The lighter classes will be represented by Jack Horton, of Battle Creek, 120 pounds; Frank Mattson, of Iron River, 127 pounds, and Ray Christensen, of Lakeview, 135 pounds. Some magic power must attach to the combination of Bernard as first name and Muskegon as residence, for Bernard Snyder of Captain Timmer's home city broke into the elite octet Friday, April 17, when he knocked out last year's Michigan Tech light-heavy champ, Walter Leichman, in the finals of the Michigan Tech annual Golden Gloves tournament.

and retired in the fourth in favor of Bob Teider, who received credit for the victory. Don Fleischman finished and fanned six in four innings.

Former Pin Boy Hits 682 in ABC Singles

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 22.—P—John Obar, of Detroit, who used to make money setting pins in the American Bowling Congress tournament, garnered a little cash knocking them down today.

The former pin boy pounded out the day's high in singles—682—and ran his all-events total to 1,820, which put him in the money.

U. M. Defeats Wayne, 12-6, On 14 Blows

ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 22.—P—Michigan walloped Wayne, 12 to 6, in a wild scoring circus here this afternoon that opened the Wolverine home baseball season.

Coach Ray Fisher threw four pitchers into the melee, but the performance of Irving (Pro) Boim, pudgy right-handed sophomore, was most heartening to the home town fans. Boim worked two full innings, struck out four men, and allowed no hits. More important to Fisher, the Chicago boy seemed to have gained some control that has been missing all spring.

Michigan Gets 14 Hits
Seven Tartar errors, two wild pitches, a balk and several other misplays that won't reach the scorebook punctuated the afternoon. Wayne was credited with 10 hits, while Michigan raked two pitchers, Bob White and Bob Larson, for 14 safe blows.

Paul Goldsmith started on the mound for the Wolverines, but he was blasted out in the second after Wayne had punched out five singles and pushed home five runs. He was replaced by Don Smith, a southpaw, who worked four and one-third innings and allowed five hits.

Michigan drew fire on Bob White in the first inning with the first three men getting singles. The Tartar right-hander survived the inning, but not until three runs were scored.

In the third the Wolverines found the range again, driving White to the showers, and scoring eight runs on seven hits. Bud Chamberlain's booming triple in this frame was the best hit of the game. White was touched for 10 hits before his hasty departure.

Score Last Run in 7th
Don Robinson singled Davey Nelson home from third in the seventh for the last Michigan tally.

After the five-run surge in the second, Doug Rutherford doubled for Wayne in the third, advanced on a passed ball, and teamed up with Julius Moils to score on a double steal.

Les Parr took the mound for Michigan in the ninth and pitched a hitless inning.

TROUT IN HOSPITAL
DETROIT, April 22.—P—Pitcher Paul (Dizzy) Trout, of the Detroit Tigers, today underwent treatment at Henry Ford hospital for a nasal ailment, but said that he would be able to work in regular turn. He is slated to face the Chicago White Sox here Friday.

Pirates Shell Cub Hurlers; Reds Whipped

PITTSBURGH, April 22.—P—The Pirates backed up Luke Hamlin's seven-hit pitching with an extra base bombardment on Paul Erickson today, shelling the Cubs with a 9 to 1 defeat.

Erickson yielded a home run, two triples, two doubles and two singles during his tenure and the Pirates went on a five-run scoring spree in the fourth inning, also battering Valle Evans.

Bob Elliott hit his second home run in two days into the right field stands with a man aboard in the third inning.

Catcher Clyde McCullough suffered a torn cartilage in his right thumb in the fourth inning and had to retire.

Cards Down Reds, 6-1
ST. LOUIS, April 22.—P—A double and single in succession after two were out in the ninth inning spoiled a five-hit shutout for Harry Gumbert today as the St. Louis Cardinals plastered the faltering Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 1.

The lone tally, scored on the one-two punch of Chuck Aleno and Ray Lamanno, served only as a face saver for the Reds, who were blanked yesterday, since Philadelphia's loss to the Giants was all that kept them from tumbling into the cellar.

The two Cardinal rookie stars, Ray Sanders and Stan Musial, hooked up with veterans Terry Moore and Jimmy Brown to lead the attack with two hits apiece off Elmer Riddle, Cincinnati's surprise star of last season.

Giants Shut Out Phils
PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—P—Dave Koslo, a rookie lefthander, pitched the New York Giants to their first shutout of the season today, 3 to 0, over the Philadelphia Phils.

The game was a pitching struggle between Koslo and young Tom Hughes, of the Phils, each of whom was touched for six hits. But while Koslo fanned eight batters and walked only one, never letting the tailenders get out of check, the Giants' latent batting power broke out twice for all the runs that were needed.

After being held hitless for three frames, the Giants scored twice in the fourth on successive doubles by Manager Mel Ott and Johnny Mize and a single by Willard Marshall.

Tebbetts To Visit Draft Board for Checkup

CHICAGO, April 22.—P—George (Birdie) Tebbetts, 27, veteran Detroit Tiger catcher, said tonight he planned a visit to his Nashua, N. H., draft board next week, but that it was "merely a routine checkup" which he didn't believe would affect his 3-A classification.

"It isn't that I'm being summoned to any hearing," he said. "I received a letter three or four days ago from the board asking me to drop in when I was near as they wanted to ask me some questions to see if my status had changed in the last year."

"It hasn't—and so I don't expect there'll be any change in my classification."
Tebbetts, who returned to Detroit tonight with the Tigers, pointed out he would be making no special trip and "probably wouldn't miss a game."

Wyatt Lasts Nine Innings In First Start

BOSTON, April 22.—P—The Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Braves, who seem to have a mania for staging marathon battles at Braves field, struggled scorelessly for 11 innings today until the National league champions finally exploded four runs across in the 12th to win 4 to 0.

Peewee Reese signalled the end by rapping a sharp single to left after the Dodgers had loaded the bases without a hit. This brought in two runs and Brooklyn added another pair before cooling off.

The outcome was bitter medicine for big Jim Tobin, who held the Dodgers to six singles over the route, only four in the first 11 innings, and himself collected three hits in trying to stir up a rally for the Braves at various times.

Tobin's opponent for the regulation nine-inning distance was Whitlow Wyatt, making his first start of the season. Because of his extended holdout and a later cold, Wyatt had pitched only nine innings in exhibition games and showed the lack of training today.

Michigan State Sends 12 to Drake Relays

EAST LANSING, April 22.—P—Coach Karl Schlademan today discarded plans to divide Michigan State college track forces for the Penn and Drake relays this weekend and instead named a 12-man squad to compete in the Iowa event.

The squad, scheduled to leave for Des Moines tomorrow, includes sprint and four-mile relay combinations and Capt. Bruce Drynan, weights; Jim Milne, high jump, and Ted Wench and Bob Harris, pole vault.

The sprint quartet is composed of Bob McCarthy, Dale Kaulitz, Hugh Davis and Art Dehn. Members of the four-mile team are Bill Scott, Maurice Horski, Colby Thompson and Ralph Monroe.

U. S. Raiders Captured In China, Report

were only 10 planes. Before that the Japanese had claimed shooting down nine raiders.

The Japanese also originally had suggested that the raiders, identified by them as North American B-25s, had taken off from airplane carriers on the eastern approaches to Japan, bombed their targets, and then headed for China in an effort to reach Chungking-governed territory.

Can't Explain Takeoff
No attempt was made to explain the fact that B-25s, big twin-engined bombers, were never known before to have taken off from the short runways of sea-going carriers.

Chungking has been silent on all aspects of the story, and the Russian news agency Tass in Moscow early yesterday denied an Italian newspaper assertion that the planes were based on Soviet Siberian airports.

Some time ago Japanese bombers heavily attacked Lishui in southeastern Chekiang province in the belief that bases there were being readied to receive U. S. aircraft. Lishui is approximately 250 miles southwest of Shanghai.

It has been estimated that the livestock industry suffers an annual loss of $40,000,000 from tuberculosis.

nic. The morale of the men is high in spite of pounding bombs and shells. They are carrying on in the best American tradition. They find time for a great deal of joking, entertainment and amusement, despite the fact that there are no movies, dances, baseball games, dog stores, clubs, parks or parties on Corregidor.

Get Enough To Eat

The limited stocks of food are being conserved and rationed. Nevertheless each soldier gets enough to eat, good, simple food, but nourishing. Men find plenty to do when not manning guns or on watch.
Some of them are at tending to the razor blades are running short.
Old issues of magazines and newspapers are read and re-read until they are literally all worn out.
Books at the post library are in great demand and even the duller, technical volumes are showing signs of wear.

Playing cards seem to be endov-ed with some sort of immortality and despite almost constant use are in fairly good condition, with every game from solitaire to blackjack being played. Home-made checker boards are in use throughout the island. Obviously weekend trips to Manila, Tagaytay and Baguio are out, but the men on the fortified islands enjoy cool breezes rarely found in the tropics. They have daily views of sunrise and sunset unsurpassed in the world.

Regular Church Services Held

Being face to face with eternity every hour of the day has inevitably turned the thoughts of the soldiers to religion. Church services are held regularly and almost all who are not on duty attend. Those on duty are visited by the chaplains who brave the Japanese shells in making the rounds of the batteries and the gun pits. Daily news bulletins posted at the headquarters of each organization keep the men abreast of world news. Short-wave broadcasts from the United States and other countries are heard.

"Bill session" where men exchange tall stories are frequent.
Now and then a group gets together for a bit of harmonizing.

It takes little to satisfy their wants and they are happy to be doing their part for their country in a distant Pacific outpost. They are confident of the triumph of the cause for which they are fighting and they are proud of their own achievements as first-class fighting men.

News Behind the News

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, April 22 — The Navy's reluctance to utilize several thousand small but sturdy fishing vessels in Pacific and Atlantic coastal waters has puzzled promoters of this anti-submarine project. Several forms with them by unions and associations representing the men who go down to the sea in ships have been rejected by Secretary Frank Knox on the ground that he has no cash for such an enterprise.

Most of these craft have two-way radios for communication with families and centers on land.
They range in size from 35 to 100 feet, some running larger, and they can mount machine guns or one-pounders. Their hardy crews know all the tricks of the wild ocean, they are lusty fighters, and could make it uncomfortable for anyone who dares to molest them.
Besides forwarding valuable information to naval headquarters along both water fronts, the belief here is that supplying them with arms would provide at least a mental hazard to U-boat commanders. Operation of their wireless equipment alone would furnish data on meteorological conditions lacking since many Government stations have been withdrawn from this service.

The increasing demand for sea food also seems to warrant acceptance of proposals for transforming these fleets into naval auxiliaries.
Tuna has almost disappeared from shore shelves with the enforced withdrawal of Japanese from gathering it. Similar shortages may develop in the rich catches which the men of Gloucester and near-by ports normally haul in along the Grand Banks. With the season for large-scale fishing approaching, owners and skippers have shown some interest about sending their boats offshore in a defenseless state.

TEETH — British Ambassador Halifax has urged President Roosevelt to pursue a cautious and resolute policy before breaking formally with the Laval-lined set-up in Unoccupied France. The suggestion involves some irony in that Uncle Sam long ago undertook the exclusive assignment of keeping on friendly terms with a government which fiercely resented His Majesty's attack on its ships at Oran and elsewhere.
Churchill hints at Washington to assume that task.

Several key considerations lie behind the proposal for a delaying diplomatic action. London expects that the French people themselves will exhibit indignation at the apparent surrender to Hitler, and does not want to hinder such a reaction by applying external pressure. Secondly, future disposition of the fleet will furnish the acid test of the Petain-Darlan faction's ultimate intentions. They may remain adamant in their previous refusal to hoist the swastika over their naval vessels. There exists always the possibility that the sailors may revolt against placing their ships in Germany's hands. Even if Darlan, who hates the British but entertains no affection for the Nazis, agrees to cooperate with his historical enemy, months must elapse before his wounded men-of-war can be put in fighting trim. Anything may happen in the meantime.

FDR has apparently sanctioned a tightrope program for the moment. The recall of Admiral Leahy
"for consultation" and Sumner Welles' most rude treatment of Ambassador Henry-Have have notified the world, especially important neutrals, that we have placed Vichy on probation.
There she will probably languish until the "thorax trader from Auvergne" shows his hand—and his teeth.

WILSON—When and if Japan seeks to overrun and conquer the sprawling millions of India—and word from abroad is that New Delhi expects invasion within 10 days—the world may witness history's first experiment in a "turn the other cheek" attitude executed with fanatical and Biblical intensity. The sickening slaughter which may ensue will test Gandhi's metaphysical theory that a blood bath of unimaginable proportions may precipitate a universal revulsion against war's horrors in the civilized world.

London and Washington would prefer to rely on a western policy of reaction and military opo-sition, but time and circumstances may operate against their desires. The Asiatic country's fine, fighting army of approximately 170,000 men has been expanded to about 1,500,000 through voluntary enlistment in the last six months, according to the agent general recently arrived here. But the men lack instruments for present-day blitzkrieging, and the Nipponese are gradually cutting or closing our line of supplies through their command of the Indian ocean.
Therefore, the nonresistance strategy proclaimed in Palestine 2,000 years ago may be given a spectacular trial.

Realistic U. S. Army medical and sanitation experts, however, discern the prospective emergence of a definite, anti-Japanese weapon in this ghastly picture. It is disease. In a land where hygiene and modern therapeutics are almost unknown, and where the natives will not protect themselves against communicable infections and illnesses, they believe that mass killings of humans and animals will produce an apocalyptic decimation of the infected invaders.

A sidelight to the grim situation is that deepest concern is felt in Washington over the fate of Margaret Woodrow Wilson, who with a group of associates is isolated in the danger zone. Representations have been made to the State department by her friends here to make every effort to get these stranded Americans out before the debacle. Up to the moment difficulties have blocked their safe return.

PURGED — Whenever politicians ship the Lafayette but now a better new name is the Phoenix.

SMARTER—Captains on boats arriving in New York from neutral ports say the Germans are speculating about the meaning of Hitler's sudden decision to create his Waffe S. S. into a second full-fledged army, completely independent of the military high command. This unique group of former strong-armed policemen dates back to the beginnings of the Nazis party, when it acted as the private bodyguard of the then unknown self-acclaimed Fuehrer. In recent years it was expanded tremendously and members served as shock troops in Russia.

The whippersay that Adolf is taking no chances in case the coming year turns out badly. The greatest revolutionary of our time knows too well that professional soldiers often revolt against a defeated political leader. The old Prussian Junkers and the Reichs-wehr officers always detested the upstart Brown Shirts. Their most recent grievance is that Goebbels gave Himmler's bullies all the publicity breaks in the winter campaign on the steppes.

But the Munich beer garden schemer appears to be a bit smarter than his brass hats. Very quietly he withdrew the S. S. units from the front and organized them into powerful garrisons in Hamburg, Muenster, Berlin and other centers. Over 500,000 occupy forts with their own separate air squadrons.

SCRAMBLE — Many people, dazed by the pipe dreams of the unreliable optimists, still think that long-lost shirts shortly will reappear once synthetics like buna are manufactured and quayule, the mysterious Mexican weed, is realized. Insiders in the trade in New York say the time has come to debunk false hopes concerning that shrub. We have only a small supply and four years must elapse before even this meager amount can be harvested.

In 1906 an enterprising company brought some of the plants to America to compete with expensive para. Later, more extensive crops were set out in California which still yield approximately a million pounds a year. But industrialists made no effort to improve methods of production so that the material is no better than it was 30-40 years ago. Impurities—such as resin and other substances —must be eliminated.

It is not generally known that our scientists secured real rubber seed from the Philippines in a last-minute scramble before the Jap invasion and planted them in Honduras. A second cargo of stumps was set out in Haiti. Finally 6-000 seedlings arrived here just before the Pacific sealanes were blocked and the lot was sent to Central American nations. At the same period an assortment was landed from Liberia, Africa. During the past two years over 15-000,000 rubber trees have been cultivated in Latin-American countries, chiefly at the instigation of our Department of Agriculture, but years will elapse before their sap is available.

RESCUING — The ferocious strafing which the RAF has been giving the Ruhr valley and the channel ports will not be so costly in lost aviators as former blitz assaults because of a unique organizational innovation. A slight lifting in censorship allows publication of a few facts about the unit which is called Air and Sea Rescue Service.
Its chief function is to fish out of the water half-drowned pilots whose injured bombers have dropped into the North Sea or the Strait of Dover.

When the aerial squadrons leave their fields on a raid a designed number of tiny motorboats speed out from hidden bays and scatter directly under the path of the planes. Each craft is linked by radio to the nearest central station. These in turn keep contact with the hawks and coast guard. Cabins are supplied with hot-water bottles, heavy blankets, first-aid kits and respirators. Skippers have sufficient medical skill to give morphine injections and perform minor surgery.

might wreck a flying machine natu-

Junked Cars Picked Up As Scrap Metal

ISHPEMING, April 22—Joseph Narotzky, in charge of scrap iron collection in Marquette county, is carrying out the program outlined last weekend at a district meeting of scrap dealers, held at Wausau, Wis., and reports satisfactory cooperation.

Mr. Narotzky's work is confined to automobile dealers and includes the picking up of scrapped cars.
Any dealer having five or more cars which are not merchantable is regarded as having an "auto graveyard" and must report his holdings.
Narotzky will visit every car dealer in the county in an effort to collect all available scrap metal.

"We were advised at Wausau," he said, "that the shortage of scrap iron is becoming increasingly critical and that it is necessary to get every 'jalopy' we can into the scrap iron heaps.

Dealers Cooperate
"Some of the men thought there was little salvage possible, but it was stated a canvass would unearth more metal than any of us realized. And that is exactly what is happening.

"We have been getting fine cooperation from dealers of the county and when the program is explained and the critical need for scrap presented, we have found them more than willing to do their part."

Mr. Narotzky said he is moving a carload of scrap daily from Ish-peming and that since March 1 more than 400 tons of metal have been shipped. Seven carloads of waste paper also have been shipped.

of previous announcement, will be:

In addition there will be regisregistrars may call any time during Saturday to receive their supplies.

All registrars who will be at the city hall Monday may call Saturday to be sworn in, and receive given to them Monday when they report for work at the city hall.

Senior-Junior Prom At Republic Friday Night

REPUBLIC, April 22—The Republic high school junior-senior prom will be held Friday night in the Community building, beginning at 9.

The theme of the prom is "An Old-Fashioned Garden." The gymnasium has been beautifully decorated and tables and chairs have been arranged to resemble a veranda overlooking a garden.

At 11 o'clock, during the intermission, a program will be presented and refreshments served. Favors will be distributed during the grand march.

The chairman of the prom committee is Elwood Olson, president of the Junior class. The party is invitational and guests must present their invitations at the door.
Music will be furnished by Ernest Tomassoni and his nine-piece orchestra, of Iron Mountain. The prom committees:

181 Blast Furnaces In Operation

CLEVELAND, April 22—P — Furnaces in blast, depending principally on Lake Superior iron ore, hit a new high last month at 181 of the available 189, the Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported today.

This was a gain of three furnaces during March for the highest
186 out of 262 were in blast. Sizes of blast furnaces have been increasing yearly so that the current figure undoubtedly represents a new record capacity in commission. One year ago 168 furnaces were operating.

The association reported that Canada's March consumption of ores for Lake Superior iron ore are not yet available, but listed consumption of the ore by U. S. furnaces during the past month at 6-899,667 gross tons. This compared with 6,222,583 tons in February and 6,690,303 in January, the month when combined U. S. and Canadian consumption set a record of 7,158-423 tons.

Ore on hand at U. S. furnaces April 1 amounted to 16,921,265 tons, compared with 22,986,559 tons
March 1 and on U. S. Lake Erie docks 2,629,341 tons against 3,690-628 tons. Total U. S. stocks on the first day of this month at 19,550-

Use of Lakes Prohibited By Ordinance

ISHPEMING, April 22 — The board of public works warned today that aggressive action will be taken against any person found violating the city ordinance relative to bathing, fishing or swimming in lakes from which Ishpeming receives its water supply.

Notices will be posted on all lakes concerned. They are Sully, Tilden, Ogden, Miller, Small Schoolhouse and Big Schoolhouse lakes, most of which can be seen from the Cliffs drive south of the city.

These lakes are leased by the city from private owners and are fenced in. Lake patrols have been renewed for the season and the conservation department has agreed to cooperate. Persons loitering around the lakes can be seen from the fire tower and those caught inside the fences will be subject to arrest.

Edgar Wahlman, superintendent of the board of public works, pointed out that persons violating the ordinance are subject to a fine of $100 and imprisonment.

606 tons were still ahead of combined U. S. and Canadian holdings of 17,760,742 tons one year ago.

County Accepts Offer

MANISTIQUE, April 22 — Schoolcraft county, through the board of supervisors, yesterday came nearer to final settlement of the judgment secured against former officers of the Manistique bank. The supervisors accepted an offer of $3,000 from Orr Quick and $2,250 from Charles Orr to release them from the judgment. Previously the board accepted an offer of $4,000 from the late E. W. Miller to release him from the judgment. The total judgment of approximately $27,000 was secured against Miller, Orr, Quick and Paul R. Baldwin, all former bank officers who signed sureties guaranteeing the county's funds on deposit in the Manistique bank. In releasing Miller, Orr and Quick from the judgment, the county continued its claim against Baldwin. Negotiations are now in progress in an effort to settle the county's claim against Baldwin, who is employed in Detroit. The settlements thus far bring to slightly over $9,350 the total amount collected to date on the $27,000 judgment. In addition to the funds received from the settlement terms, the county collected $100 on the sale of foreclosed property owned by Mr. Quick and also collected a small amount of money by garnishment from Mr. Baldwin.

Germans Free French Hero; 15 Executed

(Continued From Page 1) grim proclamation dated yesterday that five hostages "responsible through solidarity" for the killing of a German soldier and bombing of German army offices April 2 had been shot and that the same fate had befallen 10 others for the killing of a member of the German army on the Rue Erlanger in Paris last Monday night.

In a supplemental proclamation dated today he said French civilians since had arrested and handed over the "authors" of the latest attack, and that as a result he was rescinding an order which would have sent 20 more whom he termed "Communists and Jews" before a firing squad next week.

He also permitted immediate reopening of Paris theaters and amusement resorts which had been closed, and moved the curfew back to its normal midnight hour.

Deport 500 to East He allowed to stand, however, an order for execution of 15 "other Communists" if the perpetrators of the April 2 attack were not apprehended by April 26, and said "500 Communists and Jews" would be deported "to the east to carry out forced labor in camps."

French efforts were being made to obtain release of at least some of the 20 hostages held by the Germans since the British commando raid on St. Nazaire last month—notably Jean Blanchard, an important labor leader, Francois Blanchard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Keuler, of Shawano, Wis., was killed in action in the Philippines. The information was received Friday through the War department. Children Get Blame For Three Fires

NEGAUNEE, April 22—Responsibility for three fire alarms in an hour this afternoon was placed upon children by members of the fire department.

The first alarm summoned the department to Cornishton location to extinguish a grass blaze.

Returning to the station a second alarm was turned in for a grass fire on the east end of the County road.

The third fire called the department to property on Lombard street owned by T. L. Collins where a shed at the rear of the lot was afire.

A neighbor woman told firemen that children were seen in the shed. The fire started in a pile of rags.

Use of chartered buses in Canada has been restricted to purposes clearly identified with the war effort.

FARMER DIES OF INJURIES GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 22 —(AP)—Dustin H. Gallagher, 52-year-old Belding farmer, died today in St. Mary's hospital, as a result of injuries received while working on his farm.

General Prioux, who is being freed from a German war prisoner camp, has been held since he and his staff were captured on the River Lys May 29, 1940—after an heroic stand of four days which enabled the British expeditionary force and many French troops to escape the German trap and reach England by sea.

Stock Trend Fairly Steady During Quiet Session

Chemicals Recede; Early Losses Erased

NEW YORK, April 22—P—Stocks kept a fairly steady stance in today's market.

The close erased some of the irregularity which had prevailed during most of a quiet session in which 257,035 shares changed hands compared with 270,250 Tuesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 active issues dipped .1 of a point to 33.3.

Some of the leading chemicals gave ground readily, with Allied, Du Pont and Union Carbide each dropping more than a point. But in most other groups trends were contradictory.

Unchanged or a shade lower were General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar, Boeing, Douglas, United Aircraft, Western Union, Air Reduction, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Chesapeake & Ohio and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Managing mild improvement were Bethlehem, International Harvester, North American, Johns Manville and Northern Pacific. Coca Cola added three points and Pepsi Cola nearly a point as the price administrator allowed commercial users somewhat larger quantities of sugar than had been expected.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The differences of opinion among the Republican national committee members who met in Chicago and formulated a compromise resolution covering the present war and after-the-war problems are not surprising in view of the political history of the issues of the last war.

Many of the Republicans who have leaned toward the isolationist side have a lively recollection of how public opinion swung back to isolationism in 1920 and influenced Governmental policy for a decade. The possibility that history may repeat itself is doubtless governing those who hesitate to go along with the Wilkie faction of the party which believes in an active policy of international cooperation after the war.

During the last war the Republican party pledged itself to all-out backing of the war and the Republican isolationists feel that in doing this in the present war they need not go in now for after-the-war commitments of international policy.

Not Simple Stump Issue

From the standpoint of the international-minded group this will unquestionably open up a far-reaching debate inside the Republican party and will naturally give the New Deal groups the opportunity they yearn for in order to accuse the Republican party of going back to the isolationism of the 1920's.

This is not a simple issue to handle on the stump because while Franklin Roosevelt campaigned for the Vice-Presidency in 1920 on a League of Nations platform, he abandoned that stand in his pre-convention campaign of 1932 for the Presidency. Then when he was President he did not go along with the conclusions reached at the London economic conference of July, 1933, and this incident is often cited as an example of lack of international cooperation that helped plant the seeds for the economic unrest on the continent which led to the outbreak of the present war in 1939.

From 1933 on, the Roosevelt Administration occasionally supported a strong international policy as, for instance, in the famous "quarantine" speech made by the President in Chicago, but there can be no doubt that it was not till 1938 that the Administration began to throw aside all vestiges of isolationism.

Looking back at the 1918 and 1920 elections, the issue of international policy was not clearly presented on either occasion. Thus the 1918 battery of the Republicans was one of resentment against alleged implications of disloyalty leveled at them in Mr. Wilson's famous appeal for a vote of confidence. The 1920 campaign, moreover, saw such eminent figures as Charles Evans Hughes, Elihu Root and William Howard Taft telling their fellow-Republicans that a vote for Warren Harding was a vote for American entry into the League of Nations with reservations. After the election, however, President-elect Harding chose to construe the verdict as a repudiation of the pro-League groups in the party and he helped to soothe the wounds of the party by selecting Mr. Hughes as Secretary of State. When Mr. Coolidge succeeded Mr. Harding he also adopted the isolationist position as a definite commitment of his party. In this sentiment pervaded both Republican and Democratic parties for a decade or more thereafter.

What went on in Chicago at the Republican gathering, therefore, may make sharp divisions now, but he would be a bold political leader who attempts to predict now what the American people will do when the war is over. And yet Mr. Wilkie's chances for leadership in 1944 depend on how he fares ultimately with exactly that question.

Registrants Can Appeal Draft Ruling

EDITOR'S NOTE: The method of appealing a draft board ruling and what a selectee may expect on induction are described in this fourth of five daily articles by Clarke Beach, of Wide World, giving an up-to-the-minute picture of the selective service system. Tomorrow: Money matters.

By Clarke Beach

WASHINGTON, April 22—(Wide World)—Does the selective service system at present defer men in war industries and essential civilian activities?

Yes, if the men are so necessary to their work that the effectiveness of the war effort will be reduced if they are drawn into the Army.

Either the employes involved or their employers may ask for deferment in such cases before the registrant is classified.

The Government appeal agent, an official appointed for each board by the President, is instructed to appeal from a draft board ruling when he finds that a necessary man in war industry has been classified 1-A, making him available for military service.

How To Make Appeal

How does a registrant make an appeal? After he has been classified, he must request a hearing before the local board within 10 days if he wishes his classification to be reconsidered. He cannot be represented by an attorney.

Appeals can be taken by the registrant, his employer, the Government appeal agent or one of the registrant's dependents. The state director of selective service or the national director may appeal at any time from any determination of a local board. These two officials also may appeal to the President any decision of the board of appeal if they believe this to be the national interest or necessary to avoid injustice.

The registrant or dependent or Government appeal agent can appeal to the President from the decision of the appeal board, but only on grounds of dependency. If the request for deferment is on other grounds, the decision of the appeal board is final.

When a member of a local board, appeal board, or the examining physician disqualified from acting on a registrant's case?

When either of them is a first cousin or closer relative, or when one of them is an employer or business partner of the registrant.

Registrant Can Be Transferred

May a registrant transfer from one local board to another? Yes, if he moves into a new area or if a majority of his board have disqualified themselves from acting on his case. He may transfer either for classification or for induction, if he happens to be so far away that it will be a hardship to him to report for induction, to his original board.

How soon is a registrant inducted after notice is mailed to him to report for the Army physical examination and induction?

He must be allowed at least 10 days. After he has been examined and inducted, if the registrant wishes to go home to straighten up his affairs, the Army may grant him an immediate furlough. His commanding officer has power to grant or refuse furlough in the individual case.

Can a registrant have his induction postponed? Yes, for as long as 60 days if his immediate entry into the Army would cause unnecessary dislocation of his work, if he is ill, if there is a death in his family or in case of some other extreme emergency.

May a man be inducted into the Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard? Yes, but those forces have not yet requisitioned men from the selective service system.

Is the inductee expected to pay any expenses after he has reported to his local board on induction day? No. The Government pays for all his means and transportation from that time until he is taken into the Army.

Carry Little Baggage

What should a man take with him when he reports for induction? He is advised to take as little as possible, since heavy baggage will be a nuisance to him while going through the long process of induction.

The Army issues to him, on the day of induction or the day after, every article of clothing he needs and also a toilet kit, including tooth brush, razor, comb, etc.—but no soap or tooth paste.

If he wishes to take a handbag to use when he leaves camp on weekends, he may do so; in camp he can store it under his cot.

Bishop Will Get New Home in Grand Rapids

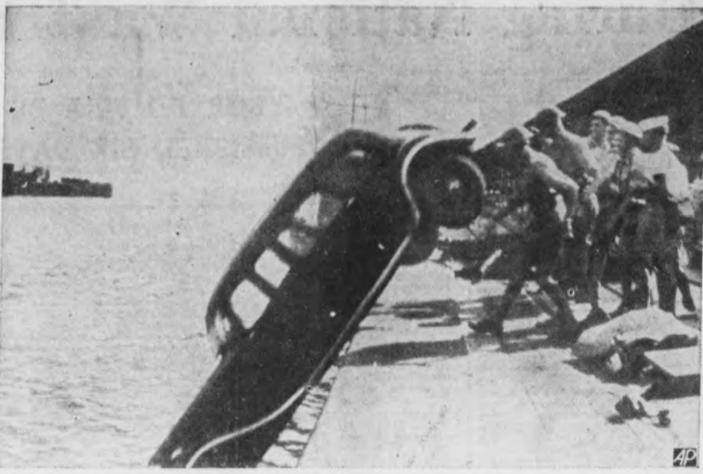

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 22—(P)—The Very Rev. Robert W. Boag, chancellor of the Catholic diocese of Grand Rapids, said today plans had been virtually completed for the purchase of a new episcopal residence here.

The 12-room house, which would be occupied by Bishop Joseph C. Flanagan and his staff, is located on a lake drive a few blocks from the present residence, which has been the home of diocesan heads since 1919.

Frantic Weekend

By Edmund Fancott

THE STORY: Peggy Mack, 17, arrives for her first weekend party with her sister, Myra, and brother, Michael, at the country place of Ferdy Lorton, near Montreal. Other guests are the beautiful Fay Ransom and her new but already devoted escort. Peggy starts an all-out glamor campaign and makes quite an impression.

A MUSICAL EVENING

CHAPTER VII

That evening, after their swim and a delicious supper, Ferdy's guests sat on the wide-screened veranda overlooking a magnificent view that formed sharper and still sharper shadows as the new moon rose over the horizon. Yvonne light streamed softly to them from the room behind, almost full open to the broad porch through a system of sliding panels of Ferdy's design.

His Aunt Belinda was knitting for the Navy and Myra for the Army. The two sat together sharing the same light from the lounge room behind them, the industrious click of their needles strikingly far out of place in the lazy night.

Both the soldiers had brought tropical shorts and shirts of khaki, and were as cool as the tall glasses by their sides. Ferdy was irrepressibly untidy, faithful to a very old and worn pair of flannel trousers, and breaking in a striped cotton jersey that for him was comparatively new, having been faded by only one summer of sun.

Peggy, with one leg flung over the arm of a low wicker chair, was playing her Bohemian part well. She wore a frock with a bright bolero shirred at the waist and a full peasant skirt not overly long, even in a short-skirted season. The dress was loosely open at the throat and striking in color—a rust-red background splashed with bold colors in a native design. Her dark hair tumbled in waves about her neck and her green eyes flickered to and fro over the company. She was enjoying herself and was being very frank about it.

Fay, by comparison, was cool and reserved. She wore a white cotton dress sparsely patterned with blue navy motifs, neatly collared and high-buttoned to the neck. In comparison, too, she was very quiet.

The men smoked and the evening promised to pass as a quiet prelude to a placid weekend until Peggy's leg swung like a storm warning over the arm of her chair.

"Let's do something," she said suddenly.

"We are doing something," said Myra.

"Knitting!" exclaimed Peggy and there was a world of contemptuous expression in her voice.

Ferdy grinned. "I've got a surprise for you."

Peggy's face broke into an anticipatory smile. "Goody!" she said.

"Fay," said Ferdy. "There is a piano in there. Why not sing to us?"

Fay nodded at him. "Must I?"

Ferdy smiled. "Hardly must, but I think we'd all like it."

Fay looked around at the others and there were signs that everyone else was about to join in the persuasion. To avoid it she rose.

"Can I tell them?" said Ferdy.

Fay looked down at him and smiled. "I thought everyone knew."

"Not in Montreal," said Ferdy. "I gathered you had kept it fairly quiet."

Fay Ransom left the veranda and went into the room with the eyes of the two soldiers following her.

"Fay Ransom," began Ferdy, "is Gay Randall."

Peggy got up as if shot. "What? Is she honestly Gay Randall?"

"Exactly," grinned Ferdy.

Myra looked at him calmly. "I knew there was something about her that didn't fit into that office."

"But... but..." exclaimed Peggy. "I've got records by her! She was singing with Johnny White's band at the Astor in New York. What's she doing here?"

At that moment the soft notes of the piano drifted out to the veranda. Then a song by Grieg began to float from the room on a voice that held those who sat outside quiet and still. It was a low, gentle quality, as though each note of the song reflected perfectly the will and feeling of the singer.

Then Peggy cried out irreverently: "Swing something!"

A laugh came from inside. "Sorry, Not here."

Peggy relapsed in disappointment and the voice began again, this time a song by Schubert.

The audience listened quietly. The two soldiers appeared to be in deep thought. In both their minds there came the same thought. Before she was Fay Ransom, a very attractive girl and accessible to any man who could hold her. Now she was a celebrity, who had sung in New York with one of the best-known dance bands, who had had radio contracts on famous programs, whose name was a legend among that vast number of girls who envied her success. In other words, she had suddenly leapt to some impossible pedestal where ordinary men could not reach her.

Then came Peggy's irrepressible whisper. "But why is she here?"

"Why shouldn't she be?" asked Ferdy, to whom it was quite immaterial whether his guests came from the pinnacles of show business or from an office desk.

"But, I mean, why isn't she in New York?"

"Shut up," said her brother abruptly.

She subsided again in ferment of curiosity. She leaned over to Ferdy. "I can sing!" she whispered.

"Can you?" said Ferdy's eyebrows.

She nodded eagerly. "I'd like anything to get into the show business!"

The song ended, a lovely song fitting perfectly into a summer evening with the air already cooling over the tree-tops.

A moment later Fay came through the door. Both Michael and Nigel sat up suddenly. "Please sing some more," they said almost in unison.

She shook her head. "Someone else's turn."

Ferdy laughed. "Peggy sings." "Who said so?" asked Myra.

"I can so," replied Peggy quickly. Then she turned to Fay. "Remember the 'No' song you recorded last year—the one Sherwin wrote especially for you? I can imitate you in that."

"Come on then," said Fay. "I'll play it for you."

The two soldiers slumped into their seats and resigned themselves to it. The piano broke into a ripple of notes. Then came a husky, slow voice swinging one of last year's most popular songs.

"They're kidding," said Myra. "That's Fay!"

"Not at all," said Ferdy looking into the room. "That is your little sister."

The two gloomy soldiers sat up with new interest. A look of amazement crossed Michael's face as he looked across to Myra.

"That's a new one on me," he said.

"Wait until you've heard it as often as I have," said Myra. "She puts that record on up in her room about 60 times a night and practices with it. We've all been looking for it for weeks to break it, but she hides it too well."

Peggy ran back to the veranda and Fay followed her.

"How was that?" asked Peggy unabashed.

"Pretty good," said Ferdy. "In spite of what your family thinks about it. Has she got a voice, Fay?"

Fay laughed. "She has," she replied. (To Be Continued)

Rubberless Tires Given Road Tests

BY DAVID J. WILKIE
Wide World Automotive Editor

DETROIT, April 22—Rubberless automobile tires? It sounds almost as fantastic as the automobile engine that was supposed to operate on air alone, but apparently one of the surest things to come out of the war emergency is an automobile tire that requires little or no rubber.

Whether it will be of quality good enough to carry on in the post-war period isn't being speculated upon by the rubber industry heads right now, but most of them are convinced a useable substitute can be produced for the tire that uses an average of around 10 pounds of crude rubber.

Researchers Busy Today

Just a little more than 100 years ago an almost discouraged researcher dropped a little crude latex and sulphur upon a hot kitchen stove and stumbled upon the secret of vulcanizing rubber. The process thus discovered by Charles Goodyear made possible the development of the great automobile industry, although a nation of automobile-minded people was not then part of his vision of the future.

Today engineers with elaborate equipment, inventors in "basement laboratories" and "just plain individuals" with virtually no experimental facilities are struggling with problems whose solution may be vital to the continued rolling of millions of motorcars during and immediately after the war. They are the researchers who are trying to make automobile tires without cutting into the nation's limited supply of rubber.

Scores of chemists and others are carrying on the experiments. They are using just about every known substance that has any of the properties of rubber in coagulation, resiliency and wear-resistance. Some are working with materials that have no direct or indirect relation to natural or synthetic rubber.

Road Tests Underway

The processes, of course, are secret. In the case of the Ford Motor company and the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company the experiments have advanced far enough so that it may be said road tests are under way. Goodyear disclosed that no rubber of any kind—crude, synthetic or reclaimed—was being used; Ford's tire uses less than one pound of rubber to a casing.

In each case the motorist has been cautioned not to expect too much too soon. Moreover, the source of the tube that must go with each casing is yet to be determined. The average tube requires about one and one-half pounds of rubber; the progress disclosures thus far have dealt entirely with casings.

Inquiries respecting experimental work in various quarters usually elicit the not very enlightening information that "we are using a 'specially treated' fabric, impregnating it with our secret formula." Even the experimental product that uses ordinary brake lining material as its basic substance also requires that "specially treated" fabric, but it does boast the virtue of presenting a really tough surface to the highway. One engineering genius who has contributed much to the progress of the automotive industry in the last quarter century told intimates recently of his own experiments with what he termed a "pliable plastic."

Need Daily Coating

Pointing out that his tires would be strictly of the emergency type, he explained that they would need a special coating of a secret substance for each day's driving. This would be applied with a painter's spray gun in the owner's garage. Driving, of course, would be limited to pavement.

This is one of the extremes of the research that is going forward. It illustrates, however, the intensity with which American engineering skill is applying itself to the automobile tire replacement problem.
