British Troops Take Naval Base On Madagascar

By Noland Norgaard

LONDON, May 7.—(By A. P.)—British troops and warships took possession today of Madagascar's great naval harbor of Diego Suarez after two days of brisk fighting and began negotiating the terms of a surrender by which they hoped to obtain the peaceful capitulation of all that Vichy French island.

This tough, quick occupation—accomplished in less than 48 hours after the establishment of the first British bridgehead at a loss of around 1,000 of the British force—was announced in commons by Prime Minister Churchill, who appealed gravely to the French people thus to consider the episode:

"... A recognizable fact in the liberation of their country, including Alsace-Lorraine, from the German yoke."

Military, Naval Commanders Surrender

He told of the surrender of the French military and naval commanders, but there was no immediate indication here as to whether the Vichy-controlled governor-general of the island, Armand Annet, had himself joined in capitulating or whether he intended to try to organize some sort of guerrilla resistance in the interior.

At all events, it was regarded most likely here that in view of the spirited though brief defense the great bulk of effective French troops had already been accounted for.

What the Vichy government would now do raised the most intense interest, but late in the day there had been no sign of action from that capital.

Tonight Vichy announced capitulation of Diego Suarez, and Berlin broadcast a Vichy report that the British naval units had entered the harbor at 3:30 p. m. Vichy, however, claimed resistance was continuing elsewhere on the island.

Press Calls For Reprisals

The German-controlled Paris press began calling for reprisals; there was some speculation here that Laval might take the excuse to hand over to the Axis some form of naval aid—perhaps French cruisers and destroyers to the German fleet.

The conquest of Diego Suarez, which in the terminology of British charts stands for the whole of the bay and not merely the French naval base of that name, was accomplished by powerful British land and naval forces—commandos, marines, regular infantry, warships, planes—in a great show of strength which, Churchill said, was deliberately intended to hold bloodshed to a minimum.

This was the sequence of events as announced in various official quarters here: While British warships held frontal positions before the bay, British land forces in converging movements seized the village of Diego, the chief town of the harbor area, Antsirana, and the Diego Suarez naval base itself.

The last is deep in the bay southwest of Antsirana, which was captured by a main attack from the south supported by the diversion action of royal marines landed in the north.

Minesweepers Clear Bay
Aside from the main ground thrusts north and east, a subsidiary land force moved northeast from Ambararata bay.

Immediately the fighting ceased, it was stated here, British minesweepers began clearing the narrow mouth of Diego Suarez bay in preparation for the entry of the entire British naval squadron.

This and other measures, said an informed source, would be part of prompt British action to assure control by the United Nations of the whole island and its 3,000-mile coastline and to convert Diego Suarez into a base for Allied naval operations in the Indian ocean.

It was said that the harbor had adequate refueling facilities for submarines and other small naval craft; whether the installations had been substantially damaged during the fighting was not known. To complete occupation of the world's fourth largest island the British have the alternatives of

Chinese Lines Menaced By Jap Artillery

By Spencer Moosa

CHUNGKING, China, May 7.—(AP)—The Japanese armies which have raced into China proper on the Burma road brought up artillery today in a savage attempt to break the Chinese defensive lines, amid ominous indications of general offensive against the Free China of Chungking and Chiang Kai-shek.

Driving so hard and so fast that the defenders were unable to conduct planned demolitions along the great supply road, the Japanese out of Burma were known to have forged ahead at least as far as Chefang, 25 miles behind the fallen border town of Wanting.

Heavily supported by their mobile artillery as well as from the air, they were attacking time after time and, although the high command said the Chinese were holding their lines for the time being and inflicting heavy casualties, it was indicated that the defenders' chief hope in this Yunnan province area lay in flanking attacks on the invaders' extended lines.

India Penetrated, Report
(To informed students of Japan's military intentions it appeared the invaders may well be planning to synchronize a drive northeastward through Yunnan province toward Chungking with a new offensive from the old Japanese-Chinese fronts in Shansi, Honan and Hupeh provinces, northeast and east of Chiang's capital.)

(A Japanese penetration of eastern India was claimed in a Berlin radio broadcast which gave as its source a Tokyo report. This said a Japanese column had crossed the Indian border west of Paletwa, Burma, and was within 62 miles of Chittangong, India.)

(Such a thrust would be a logical corollary of an all-out campaign to knock China from the war, because it could sever the supply network of rail lines which lead from Calcutta and the rest of southeast India northeastward to the Chinese-Indian border.)

(Chittangong is the southeastern terminal of these lines.)
(The Japanese already have announced the occupation of Akyab, west Burma coastal town 80 miles south of Paletwa.)

Allied Base Bombed Heavily
(Earlier the Japanese themselves hinted at the use of the Burma road and the eastern approaches to India as twin items in their long-range strategy, when they said the chief objectives of their Burma campaign had been attained with the entry into China's Yunnan province and occupation of Akyab on the west Burma coast.)

On the Burma road some 100 miles deeper into Yunnan from Chefang lies Paoshan, which has been bombed so heavily as to suggest it is an immediate objective of the invasion columns. The Japanese also may believe it to be a base for Chinese and American Volunteer Group aircraft.

Other of Yunnan's chief towns are being bombarded in strong force, perhaps to paralyze the movement of Chinese reinforcements or to soften the defenses for the invading forces.

On the west in narrow Upper Burma the Japanese army which has been pursuing retreating British forces up the Chindwin valley toward India was said to have turned east, apparently to cut off Chinese units which are still fighting in the vicinity of Mandalay, which fell to the invader last week.

Chinese authorities said Bhamo, at the head of Irrawaddy river

900 Axis Officials And Nationals Sail for Lisbon

JERSEY CITY, May 7.—(AP)—More than 900 Axis officials and nationals sailed for Lisbon today aboard the Swedish liner Drottningholm to be exchanged for American officials and nationals.

The departing group included the former German charge d'affaires, Italian ambassador, Hungarian and Bulgarian ministers to the United States, with their families and other officials and nationals, also a number of Axis diplomats and nationals from other American republics which have broken relations with Germany, Italy and Japan.

After returning from Lisbon with a group of Americans the Drottningholm is scheduled to carry a second company of Axis passengers to Europe for exchange.

For an exchange later of Japanese and Americans at Portuguese East Africa the United States has chartered the Swedish liner Gripsholm.

During their post-Pearl Harbor stay in the United States the Drottningholm's Axis passengers were concentrated at Asheville, N. C.; White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Cincinnati, Ohio.

The exchange arrangements involving today's departure were made with the cooperation of the following American republics which have broken relations with Germany, Italy and Japan: Bolivia, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru and Venezuela.

Swiss Government Guarantor
The governments of Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay, which have also broken off relations with the Axis, have cooperated among themselves and with the United States for a direct contemporaneous exchange of officials and nationals from Rio de Janeiro and Montevideo.

The Swiss government is acting as guarantor for the compliance of all governments concerned with the terms of the exchange agreement.

Japs Demand Surrender Of Filipino Units

By William F. Frye

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—An unofficial and unconfirmed report that the Japanese required surrender of the small units of American-Filipino forces still fighting on various islands of the archipelago as a condition for ending their attacks on the Manila bay forts was announced today by the War department.

In a communique worded carefully to make clear the completely unofficial nature of the report, the department said a broadcast from a Japanese-controlled radio station in Manila said that Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright had acceded reluctantly to this condition to avoid further sacrifice, and had issued appropriate orders to his field commanders.

Similar Report About Bataan
It was recalled immediately here that when resistance of the American-Filipino troops on Bataan peninsula ceased April 9, there was a similar unconfirmed report that the Japanese had demanded the surrender of Corregidor and the other Manila bay forts before they would cease their pounding of the collapsing defenders of the peninsula.

If the Japanese high command in the Philippines did attempt to impose such a condition at that time, obviously it was not met, since the fortified islands continued to hold out against the invaders for another month.

In some of the last reports received by the department from Wainwright before communications with Corregidor were interrupted early in the morning of May 6, the general said the Japanese were reported to be bringing up reinforcements at several points on the island of Mindanao in an aggressive attempt to wipe out resistance on that large southern island.

Guerrillas Inflict Severe Losses
Small units of American and Philippine army troops, operating from the hills of interior Mindanao, have inflicted severe losses on the Japanese in sudden and spectacular raids against enemy supply concentrations and troop positions on the coast.

Similar forces have been reported still operating recently, even in the hills of northern Luzon, and there has been no indication that the enemy has succeeded in ending the resistance of troops in the central

American Subs Destroy 3 More Enemy Vessels

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 8 (Friday)—(By A. P.)—Allied bombers destroyed one Japanese transport in carrying out "light attacks on enemy shipping concentrations" off the Louisiade islands near the southeastern tip of New Guinea, General MacArthur's headquarters said today.

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(By A. P.)—An American naval force, intercepting a Japanese squadron apparently striking at the flank of the life line to Australia, sank eight enemy vessels, damaged four and destroyed six planes at a total United States cost of only three planes, the Navy announced today.

The furious sea battle, authoritatively regarded here as possibly the first in which strictly American forces have engaged the Japs in a general naval encounter, occurred last Monday in the vicinity of the Solomon islands, lying northeast of Australia and northwest of the supply route bastions of New Caledonia and the New Hebrides islands.

Subs Sink Three More

The naval communique reporting the results of the battle also disclosed that U. S. submarines operating in the western Pacific had sunk three more Japanese ships. Thus, the enemy's total ship losses announced today were 11 sunk, including seven warships, and four damaged, as follows:

197 Japanese, 35 U. S. Naval Vessels Sunk

By The Associated Press

The Navy's current announcement that the U. S. forces in the Pacific had sunk seven enemy warships and a supply vessel brought Japanese warcraft losses since Pearl Harbor to a total of 197 ships, as compared to a total of 35 United States naval vessels lost in the Pacific since the war began.

The totals represent ships sunk by either planes, submarines, naval action or mines.

The tabulation:

Not since the combined Australian-American bombing of an enemy ship concentration off Lae and Salamaua, New Guinea, had such a United States success been reported by the Navy.

That action, carried out mostly by American forces, resulted, the Navy announced March 18, in the sinking or damaging of 23 Japanese ships, including 12 war vessels.

The Solomon islands action compensated for a considerable extent for the American-British-Dutch losses in the great Battle of the Java Sea in late February when the Allies lost 13 warships and the Japanese had seven sunk or damaged.

The exact nature of the battle in the Solomons was not shown by the Navy's communique, which was restricted to a relation of results obtained. A fuller account, officers said, must await later reports from the Pacific.

Battle of High Importance
But on the basis of what the communique indicated, naval experts said that the Solomons action appeared to have been a large scale sea battle between strictly American and Japanese forces and since results were so clearly known to the Americans it may have occurred in daylight. The use of the term "naval engagement," it was said, definitely meant that American surface ships as well as aircraft had participated.

The battle was regarded as having high strategic importance because of its relation to the vital necessity of keeping open the supply line to Australia. A Japanese attack on some of the Allied bastions protecting the line had been expected for several days.

Only last week there were reports that an enemy force of considerable size was gathering in the Marshall islands area, especially the Marshall islands, which lie several hundred miles east of the Solomons. Whether the force engaged May 4 was part of that fleet or a screening squadron was not clear.

From its position in the Solomons

Systematic Saving Goal Of Bond Drive

The purpose of the war bond savings campaign, which started in Marquette yesterday, is to encourage voluntary, systematic savings and to induce citizens to pledge 10 per cent of their income, or as much as possible, for the purchase of war bonds and stamps, J. C. Gerling, general chairman, said yesterday.

All persons employed in the business district of the city or in industrial plants are being questioned by volunteer workers about the amounts they can invest in systematic purchase of bonds or

WHAT YOU CAN BUY

The Series E War Savings bond is a registered bond, not transferable, in denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000. The bond, dated the first of the month in which full payment is received matures 10 years from issue date and bears 2 1/2 per cent interest per year compounded semi-annually when bond is held 10 years.

If you pay $18.75 you will receive in 10 years, $25.

If you pay $37.50 you will receive in 10 years, $50.

If you pay $75 you will receive in 10 years, $100.

If you pay $375 you will receive in 10 years, $500.

If you pay $750 you will receive in 10 years, $1,000.

A Series E bond can be registered only in the name of one individual, or of two individuals as co-owners, or of one individual and one individual as beneficiary. A purchaser is limited to $5,000 of Series E bonds (maturity value) issued in one calendar year. An owner may redeem his bond at any time after 90 days from issue date of bond. A table of redemption values appears on face of bond.

"What must be done now, if war savings are to be kept on a voluntary basis, is to save systematically. We all must do it, regardless of our position if our country is going to win the war, if we are to escape the disastrous effects of inflation and if we are going to have money available after the war to help us 'over the hump' during the period of readjustment."

Wise Investment Gerling explained that purchase of war bonds serves many purposes. One of the most important is a check on inflation. The more the purchasing power of American citizens is reduced, the less likely the country is to be endangered by inflation.

When a person buys bonds systematically, he has less money to spend. Therefore, he makes a direct contribution to efforts to check inflation. At the same time, he provides the Federal Government with money to fight the war, makes a wise investment for himself and is better prepared to cope with post-war problems.

Gerling stressed that a close check is being made on the progress of the war bond savings campaign throughout the nation. If it is satisfactory, purchase of war bonds will be maintained on a voluntary basis. If it is not satisfactory, it is probable that compulsory savings will be put into effect. Information contained on the pledge card which each person will fill out is confidential. Each resident will be asked to invest a certain sum each week or month in war bonds or stamps. The method of purchase must be stated, whether at a postoffice, bank or other sales agency, by mail from the Treasury of the United States in Washington, D. C., or under a payroll deduction plan at the place of employment.

Each person is being asked to sign the following pledge: "I will faithfully fulfill this pledge for the duration of the war or so long as

Judge Appeals For All-Out Bond Buying

"This country is engaged in the greatest and, undoubtedly, the most critical war in its history, the full effect of which we in Marquette county have not yet felt," C. C. Rushton, county probate judge, said yesterday in urging residents of the city to support the war bond sales campaign to the fullest possible extent.

"I am not an economist, but am merely giving my views as a layman who lived through the last war, through the last period of inflation and through the last depression," he stated. "By all means contribute to the war effort until it hurts. You will reap dividends far in excess of the value of the money you are now investing."

Speaking over WDMI, the Daily Mining Journal station, in one of a series of war bond sales broadcasts, Judge Rushton warned residents that there will be many more sacrifices and that everything possible should be done to aid the war program and to prepare for the post-war period.

Not A Donation "The cost of carrying on a war of this magnitude is beyond the comprehension of the ordinary individual," he said. "We speak of spending billions and billions of dollars in a matter-of-fact way, but we do not stop to think that these billions must be made up, dollar by dollar, from the pockets of citizens of this country."

"Ten per cent is a very small amount to contribute as your share. It should not be regarded as a donation. It is a cash investment drawing interest, but in a far greater sense it is an investment in our future security."

The speaker pointed out the twofold purpose of pushing voluntary war bond purchases — to provide money for the war program and to provide a check on inflation.

The "Same Snare"

"All but the very younger members of our present generation recall the inflation and subsequent depression following the last war," he continued. "Many think it will be different this time, but as long as high wages and loose spending continue we are going to fall into the same snare. Right now the majority of our people are making more money than they have ever made in their lives."

"In Marquette county our mining and lumbering industries, our shops and our factories are going at full blast, with men at full-time employment and drawing over-time pay. The natural reaction of a people when this happens is to immediately go on a buying spree."

"They feel that there are many things they have been going without all their lives which are now within the reach of their pocket books and that this is the time to buy. They can see their income perhaps steadily increasing for a considerable time in the future and there is a tendency immediately to take on obligations," he said.

"Disastrous Effects" "If this were confined to a small locality it would not have much effect on the nation, but when everyone in the country has a steady and increasing income and if these same people immediately go out and purchase everything that appeals to them, one can easily foresee disastrous effects."

"In the first place," he continued, "we will put an added burden on industry to produce these articles and secondly, where these articles are scarce it is going to place them at a premium where the unscrupulous will sell to the highest bidder and where every man, woman and child will be bidding against each other for commodities. Inflation will be the result, if that occurs."

Obituary

Mrs. Flora Reynolds

Mrs. Flora Reynolds, 52, a former resident of this city, died in Detroit Wednesday afternoon. She leaves two sons, Clarence and Carl, Jr., of Detroit; six sisters, Mrs. Albert Spalding of Detroit; Mrs. Archie Bernard, of Flint; Mrs. James Brookmeyer, of Flint; Mrs. Charles Hebert, of Suring, Wis.; Mrs. Louis Ashler, of Green Bay, and Mrs. Fred Fleury, of Marquette.

The body will be received in Marquette this afternoon, will be taken to the Tomlinson home and then removed to the residence of Mrs. Fred Fleury, 386 West Cresent street.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 8:30 in St. Peter's cathedral. Burial will be made in Holy Cross cemetery.

Charles H. Devonshire

Funeral services for Charles H. Devonshire will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in the Oates funeral home. The Rev. John Carlton, of St. Paul's Episcopal church, will officiate and burial will be made in Park cemetery. The pall bearers will be Harry Siegel, Fred Williams, Richard Jennings, William Dunleavy, Mark Sleeman and Thomas Oliver.

Mrs. Edward LaFave

Mrs. Edward LaFave, of Gwinn, died in St. Luke's hospital early Wednesday evening following a week's illness.

Mrs. LaFave was a lifelong resident of Gwinn, where she was born on December 1, 1916, and was graduated from the Gwinn high school in 1935. Previous to her marriage she was Ellen Marie Anerson. She was a member of the First Methodist church.

She leaves her husband, a daughter, Doris Ann, 4; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Anderson, and two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Maunula and Miss Florence Anderson, all of Gwinn.

The body is in the Swanson funeral home and will be taken to the family home, 314 Elm street, this afternoon.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:15 in the Methodist church in Gwinn with the Rev. Joseph A. Talbot officiating. Burial will take place in the Gwinn cemetery.

Liquor Store Workers Take Jobs in War Plants

LANSING, May 7—P—B. M. Davey, secretary of the state liquor control commission, reported today that despite recent pay raises ranging up to $20 a month, department employees were quitting in numbers for jobs in war industries.

He estimated that within the past month, 35 workers left the payroll for higher-salaried positions in defense plants. Replacements, Davey said, were becoming increasingly more difficult to obtain since many certified applicants are taking industrial jobs "almost overnight."

Thomas J. Wilson, state personnel director, suggested that women might be employed as liquor store clerks or in other positions normally held by men.

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. USES Office Seeks Jobs for Men Over 40

The Marquette employment office, in cooperation with USES offices throughout the nation, is making an effort this week to obtain jobs, preferably war industry work, for men over 40 years of age.

Russell R. Olds, local manager, announced yesterday. "We are continuing to carry on our daily work of placing on jobs all unemployed men and women and those who have asked for transfers from present jobs to jobs in war production plants," Olds said, "but this week we are endeavoring to help unemployed older men."

Men over 40 and unemployed are urged to register at the USES office in the Kaufman building.

Over 14,000 In City Get Ration Books

Although the number of persons to whom ration books were issued by teachers in the public school was much smaller yesterday than the number recorded Wednesday, it was estimated last night that more than 14,000 residents of the city had been registered.

Registration in the schools was concluded last night. Persons not registered will be unable to get ration books before May 21, after which date they will be issued by the county rationing board.

It is probable that from 1,000 to 1,500 Marquette residents have failed to register. The number recorded up to 11 p. m. Wednesday night was 10,992 and yesterday about 3,500 were added to the list. When the registration was started last Monday it was estimated that the number of persons in the city entitled to ration books was approximately 16,000.

Yesterday 160 registrars worked in the school buildings from 1 p. m. until after 9. Three registrars worked at the L. S. & I. ore dock at Presque Isle where ration books were issued to about 175 members of boat crews.

Over Million Not Registered

LANSING, May 7.—(AP)—Deadline of the four-day registration for war ration books tonight was expected to find more than a million Michigan residents ineligible for sugar purchases before May 21, the state rationing administration disclosed.

Arthur H. Sarvis, state rationing administrator, said that of Michigan's estimated population of 5,360,000, a total registration of slightly more than 4,000,000 was anticipated. Persons who failed to register at this time, he said, may not obtain ration books until after May 21 when registration will be conducted by local rationing boards.

Registration for the first three days reported by 53 counties totaled 3,162,221 with books issued to 2,971,888 eligible persons, Sarvis said.

Meanwhile, the state defense council announced that the state rationing board Friday and Saturday would move its headquarters from Lansing to Detroit, leaving only a branch office here.

U. S. Fastens Control On Lake Grain Shipments To Assure Flow of Iron Ore

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(AP)—To assure a continuing flow of iron ore from the mines to war production centers, the Office of Defense Transportation today forbade grain shipments over the Great Lakes except by special permission.

The agency took control of some 340 ships suited to one carrying and a number of others used for carrying scrap coal and grain. The order becomes effective on May 15.

Some exceptions to the grain decree may be made, for the ODT said that ships capable of carrying ore must not transport grain between any lake ports, "unless first authorized by a general or special permit."

Railroads To Carry Grain

"Diversion of grain tonnage to the railroads will be necessary in order to assure maximum carrying capacity for iron ore," said Joseph B. Eastman, the director of defense transportation. "Certain readjustments will probably have to be made in railroad operations to handle the added burden, but thus far the railroads have met every freight emergency with remarkable efficiency. I am confident that I can count on them in this instance."

The order was attributed to the fact that an unprecedented movement of ore tonnage, probably as much as 90,000,000 tons, is expected during the coming season.

Specifically, the ODT bars from grain transportation "any ship whether or not self-propelled having a gross tonnage of 1,000 tons or more, documented under the laws of the United States or owned by a citizen of the United States, which is capable of transporting cargo in bulk, but shall not include ships equipped with self-unloading devices."

Canadian Boats To Help

OTTAWA, May 7.—(AP)—A fleet of big Canadian upper lake freighters is coming to the aid of the United States fleets in order to keep the American steel mills, concentrated on war work, supplied with iron ore from Duluth.

Twelve Canadian ships ranging in length from 400 feet to more than 600 have moved in the past week into the iron ore trade between Duluth and Lake Erie ore docks to supply American steel mills. A. L. W. MacCallum, director of shipping, announced today.

"It is anticipated," he said, "that additional steamers will arrive at the American ore loading docks within the next few days."

Canadian operators provided the vessels on instructions of the Canadian shipping board.

"Owing to the very heavy demand of the American steel mills for ore to meet war industry requirements," MacCallum said, "Washing-

District Ore Shipments Up 23 Per Cent

Ore shipments from the Lake Superior district totaled 8,581,740 tons to May 1 this season, an increase of 1,626,947 or 23.39 per cent more than the 6,954,793 tons shipped during the corresponding period in 1941.

Shipments in April amounted to 7,789,182 tons, or 12 per cent more than was shipped in April last year, the Lake Superior Iron Ore association report shows.

The Lake Superior and Ishpeming railway company shipped 636,881 tons to May 1 from its Marquette dock, and the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railway company contributed 43,693 to the district's total. L. S. & I. shipments last month were 531,192 tons.

State Officials Forecast Rise in Prison Population

LANSING, May 7.—Advancing the theory "that the more money a man has the more trouble he brews," state corrections officials forecast a steady rise in prison population, which now stands at 7,744.

The current total, tabulated April 1, is the highest since March, 1941, and 272 inmates more than the 7,472 total recorded last November, start of the factory conversion period.

A. Ross Pascoe, parole board chairman, said that on April 1 Southern Michigan prisons had 5,439 prisoners. Ionia reformatory 1,396, Marquette 713 and Detroit House of Correction 236 men and women.

Allowing for seasonal fluctuations, Pascoe declared there is a definite upswing of commitments which will reach a peak next fall and level off to a steady pace, but never reach the more than 9,000 total recorded in 1932.

Leonard A. Schaar, supervisor of paroles, said the rise in prison population in good times is supported by facts and figures of previous boom periods.

"We know also," he said, "that types of crimes do not change much in a boom. They follow the same general trend, with breaking and entering and larceny violations heading the list."

Mail Fraud Retrial Adjourned Until Monday

DETROIT, May 7.—(AP)—After hearing arguments of attorneys involving motions to strike out portions of testimony already presented, Federal Judge Shackelford Miller, Jr., today adjourned the McKay mail fraud retrial until Monday.

Judge Miller was called to Cincinnati on judicial matters.

At the close of today's sessions, held in the judge's chambers, Government and defense attorneys said they would be ready to present motions for directed verdicts on Monday.

Today defense attorneys devoted their third day to presenting motions for striking out much of the testimony given by the 97 Government witnesses.

Brown Refuses To Okch Bill for 10-Callon Hats

LANSING, May 7.—Auditor General Vernon J. Brown today charged state fair officials with responsibility for payment of "10-gallon" cowboy hats which were distributed gratis to political personages at the 1941 state fairgrounds.

The hats, he said, were purchased by Bernard J. Youngblood, state fair manager, from a Denver, Colo., firm and distributed to politicians without obtaining authorization from state fiscal officials.

"I am just telling Mr. Youngblood that he or someone else can pay the bill of about $225 out of their own pockets, because I won't approve a state warrant to pay it," Brown said.

Veneer Log Producers Asked To Speed Output

Veneer mill operators, veneer log producers and representatives of the War Production Board will hold a joint conference at King's Gateway hotel at Land O'Lakes, Wis., this afternoon to consider specifications to be used in establishing veneer log grades.

This meeting is the result of demands by the War Production Board for greatly increased production of birch veneer and birch lumber for use in the construction of airplanes. The demand created through the war effort for these materials makes it essential that every available veneer log be used for no other purpose. The higher grades of birch logs not suitable for veneer production are being manufactured into lumber which is converted into airplane propellers.

A. O. Anderson, president of the Timber Producers Association of Upper Michigan and Northern Wisconsin, urges that all producers of veneer logs in the district attend this meeting so that they may assist in setting up specifications for determining grades of veneer logs and to learn of the government's need for this product.

OPEN SERVICE SCHOOL

LANSING, May 7.—(AP)—A weapon service school to train more than 300 Army and Navy ordnance officers and enlisted men in operation of cannon being manufactured by the Olds Motor Works will open here May 21. J. J. Dobbs, manager of the company's war production service, announced today. A "faculty" of 24 instructors will conduct the 27-day school, largest of its kind in the country, Dobbs said.

FHA Issues Permits For Construction

Persons desiring to obtain permission for construction work which will cost more than $500 must apply to the Federal Housing Administration, National Bank building, Detroit, George Wallner, manager of the contract distributing branch office of the War Production Board in Iron Mountain, said in a communication received here yesterday.

Application for building permits must be made on a PD-1A form. Application for agricultural construction should be made on form PD-200 and PD-200A and sent to L. R. Walker, Marquette county agricultural agent, who represents the Department of Agriculture.

For all other construction application should be made on a PD-200 or PD-200A and submitted to the War Production Board, Washington, D. C.

PD-1A forms may be obtained from local merchants. All forms are available at the War Production Board office in Iron Mountain, Wallner said.

A WFB order, L-41, limits the amount of money to be spent for construction without special permission to $500, for residential purposes; $1,000, agricultural, and $5,000 for industrial and governmental construction.

CCC Enrollees To Be Given Jobs on Farms

LANSING, May 7.—(AP)—Furloughs to permit men in Civilian Conservation Corps camps to take jobs on farms confronted by a labor shortage are being arranged by the state social welfare department.

John D. O'Connell, state social welfare director, said it was hoped at least half of the 2,400 men in 14 CCC camps will take jobs on farms. Volunteers will be sought first, he said, but if the response was slow, other steps would be taken to obtain more men from the rolls. Farmers may petition the nearest state employment office for services of CCC enrollees, he said, and furloughs will be granted.

Convicts Overpowered In Escape Attempt

SANTA FE, N. M., May 7.—(AP)—Seven young New Mexico penitentiary convicts were overpowered after attempting to use two women as hostages in an escape attempt, Warden J. B. McManus disclosed.

Identity of the two women was not announced. They were unharmed except for minor effects of tear gas used to subdue their captors.

McManus reported the women were seized late yesterday afternoon as they were being escorted by a guard on a tour through the penitentiary.

Corregidor Falls

THE fall of Corregidor has been, as was the defeat of the American troops in Bataan, only a question of time. In each instance a numerically inferior force, almost devoid of airplane support and with no equivalent to the heavy artillery concentrations that could be made against it, was isolated, with no hope of relief.

In Corregidor, as in Bataan, it was the sad destiny of the Americans to have to fight a delaying action without hope of victory. It was their duty to inflict on the foe as much injury as possible and to gain time for building up forces in Australia.

The immediate effect of the loss of Corregidor is problematical. Even while the siege was going on the Japanese were moving their shipping as freely as they will be able to move it, now that Corregidor has fallen.

Even before the fall of Corregidor, the Japanese, by their victories in Burma, had established themselves securely in all areas of warfare in the Far East, throughout the Archipelagos and even to the borders of India.

What of the Men?

The proprietors of Social Justice—the man behind the screen is Father Coughlin—have begged the question whether the order of the Department of Justice denying them the use of the mails, pending a hearing, was legal and justified by suspending publication.

While the suspension of Social Justice disposes of the question whether it was a fit publication to put in the mails, Social Justice did not publish itself. It was a creation of men. There is Father Coughlin's word that he inspired its policies and approved, in principle, everything it printed.

It may be that they have kept within the law. But even if they had violated the law, they have done so to no greater extent than the men and women associated in other publications, of which Social Justice was only the shining example. If they were proceeded against, the Government would be under the necessity, in fairness, of taking similar action against a large number of others who have been engaged in the dissemination of Nazi propaganda.

successful prosecution of the war, particularly the hundreds of thousands of those who have kin in the services, will demand appropriate measures. They have taxed the country's patience pretty close to the breaking point.

Draft Boards Commended

A report of the Gallup Institute on a nationwide survey of opinion on the subject indicates that, despite occasional fault finding, the country believes the draft boards are doing as good a job as could be expected. There was an 88 per cent affirmative response to a question whether they were doing their work fairly.

There is no predominant complaint, indicating that there is no single point at which the system is seriously at fault. Some of those questioned believe that too many married men are being taken in proportion to the single men. Another complaint is the calling to service of men who could give better service in industrial employment.

But an 85 to 88 per cent endorsement of any public activity approaches about as close to unanimity as can be expected in a country of highly individualized citizens of such widely varying opinion about so widely varying an array of questions as those with which they are now attempting to grapple.

The draft boards should be pleased to find that they stand so well with the country.

Straw in the Wind

The first election throwing light on the status of members of Congress who were slow to realize, before it became involved as a fighting participant, the bearing of the World War on this country suggests that they will not fare well in the fall.

Senator Bulow, South Dakota Democrat, charged with pre-war isolationism by his opponent, Tom Berry, an out-and-out Roosevelt supporter, was defeated. Like all the other members of Congress, irrespective of their course before we became engaged in war, Bulow, after Pearl Harbor, pledged full support of the war, and voted for all war measures. But his pre-war record, it appears, held against him by his constituents.

If his case is typical there will be a close scanning of the pre-war records of all candidates for office, Democrats and Republicans, both in primary and final election contests. Those who were blind to the bearing on this country of the Nazis' bid for world power will, it is likely, have uphill fights on their hands.

One of the most conspicuous of their number is Representative Fish, of New York. It is symptomatic of the desire of the Republicans to relieve their party of as much of the odium of its isolationist record as they can that the organization in his district has come out against him, and will support another candidate in the Republican primaries.

The resultant contest will be such that his reelection, even if he were renominated, would probably be in doubt, even though his district has been for many years strongly Republican.

Aggressive Measures

The Government has lost little time in restricting use of credit in meeting the day to day needs of the people. Under the order now published it will be free only for food, drugs and cosmetics. With these exceptions, credit is to be put on, approximately, a 30-day basis. When, and if, bills contracted are not paid within 10 days after the beginning of the second month after purchase, further credit must be denied, with the proviso that it may be granted, within the limitations of the new order, if arrangement is made for discharge of the unpaid accounts within six months.

Installment buying can be entered into only on the basis of a down payment of 30 per cent, in most instances, the payments to be completed within a year. This field of business would be, in any event, greatly restricted by the condition that most of the goods usually bought under the plan will soon be entirely off the market.

The banks do not escape the restriction of credits. The terms on which they can make loans up to $1,500 are set forth, with the same purpose as actuates the restriction of other credits, the discouraging of purchases of consumer goods that cannot be paid for in cash.

Behind the measures taken is purpose to lessen the demand of a people with a large excess money balance from bidding up the price of consumer goods, and to lead them to buy generously of Government securities to pay the costs of war, because, if for no better reason, there will be little else they can do with their money.

Contemporary Opinion

Arnold Silenced An assistant attorney-general of the United States, Thurman Arnold, went before a committee of the House on March 21 and made these allegations:

That no other group could do the things that are done by labor unions. That under the Federal law there is no right of the farmer, the consumer or the small business man that organized labor is bound to respect.

That any organized labor group can tell any independent business man to stop business. That labor itself is exploited by some unions. That some unions restrict the efficient use of men and machines.

That small organizations which get in the way of powerful unions are eliminated. Last week the House committee on the judiciary expressed a wish to hear Mr. Arnold on labor bills before it. At this point Mr. Arnold's superior, Attorney-General Bid-

NEW YORK—Thinking out loud: The most inexcusable affectation among our good writers and speakers is material instead of material.

Both words mean exactly the same. Material is English, materiel is French.

But a lot of radio men, as well as writers, think it necessary to say materiel when speaking of war goods.

Do the French say it the American way when they speak of war goods? Certainly not. Then why do we have to speak French in this one instance?

Answer, as plain as the nose: Affectation, snobbery. And we really shouldn't be snobbish about our war materiel.

I'm still asking my New York friends whether there are any American restaurants running wide open in Tokio. And, if not, why there are Japanese restaurants, lots of them, running in New York.

Bob Ripley, newspaper feature man, was the guest of honor. It was some sort of anniversary in his life, or his one millionth drawing, or something like that.

Ripley is a great fellow to observe on anniversaries. Every year, on the anniversary of the signing of his first contract, he invites George Matthew Adams to a grand feast and reminiscing, he, George was his first employer in the newspaper syndicate business. That was a long time ago.

Wears His Reddest Shirt So, on this occasion, Miss Donner invited Mr. Adams and his wife, Tecla. The two are always a sociable addition to any party. They are both brilliant talkers, and Tecla is beautiful, although one wouldn't say the same of George.

At that, he's a good-looking citizen. Ripley wore his reddest shirt. He goes in for shirts of plain but loud colors, and his reddest is indeed red. He is a sociable person, and likes no exercise better than friendly conversation.

Mr. Adams employed Miss Donner, not when she was starting in her career in New York.

To me there has always been something better than fine gold in a friendship between employer and employee which lasts through many years, even after business relations no longer exist. Up to now, I've

New Army Standards

A new classification has been adopted by the Army for men who have physical defects which can be corrected. It will include those men in the draft or volunteers who have dental, nutritional or other troubles which can be readily cured.

The American Army has set a higher physical standard for its men than is fixed for the fighting forces of any other warring nation. Many in the ranks of foreign armies are below the standard of fitness which has brought rejection in our Army. We have enjoyed this privilege of selecting only the best for our Army because the number of men needed in the past was only a small percentage of our population.

From present Army records of rejection there is no evidence to support the charge that Americans are becoming "soft" or have in the last 20 years suffered a physical decline. Many defects have been found which could be corrected if the health of the nation were more of a national concern. But the American soldier's fitness for action is more than a match for any enemy he will meet.—Philadelphia Bulletin

There is now a degree of temperance among Army personnel which is not approachable in civil communities.—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

We will not permit the war production program to be sabotaged by a few landlords who have the mistaken notion that they can somehow wiggle outside of the essential wartime program.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

America will not jeopardize its sons for the self-interest of anyone.—Chairman Paul V. McNutt, of War Manpower commission.

The plain fact is that we still are not building ships at the rate we must attain to win the war.—Gov. Charles Edison, of New Jersey.

Rests In Labor's Hands

President Roosevelt has put to the test his program for the control of wages through the voluntary or semi-voluntary action of labor in accepting the wage scales as they now, in general, exist. More than that, the President is testing his whole plan for a universal ceiling to prevent inflation. This is something for the country to watch.

The Presidential action consists of a telegram to the War Production Board's shipbuilding stabilization conference meeting at Chicago to consider adjustments in union contracts. Under existing commitments the shipyard workers, especially in the gulf and Pacific coast areas, are entitled to a sizeable per hour increase. For the Pacific coast workers, for instance, the boost would be from $1.12 an hour to $1.27.

It Won't Do, He Says But Mr. Roosevelt tells the conference that this will not do. He reminds it that the commitment to make increases in accordance with a cost of living index was made before America was in the war and is now inconsistent with the national attempt to keep the economic situation caused by the war within bounds. He says to the conference and the workers that if this effort fails, not only will labor suffer hardship but the very standards it has achieved will be undermined. Or to put it in the President's own words as directed to labor:

"The situation that now confronts you is that the full percentage wage increase for which your contracts call, and to which by the letter of the law you are entitled, is irreconcilable with the national policy to control the cost of living."

How will labor react to this? If the shipyard workers are willing to forego what their contracts call for, then the President will have a mighty weapon to use against other demanding wage increases. Right behind the shipyard case stands the case of the workers in "little steel." Philip Murray and other labor leaders are demanding a $1 a day increase. If the dice hold, now, well and good. If not, the flood will be uncontrollable.

Will Labor See It? The President stated in his message to Congress setting forth his seven-point program for inflation control that wages must remain as they are, except where inequalities or sub-standard pay can be shown. He made the same promise to the nation in his address a day later. But he asked Congressional action on only two points—taxes and farm price adjustments. The factory wage situation he kept in executive hands. The War Labor Board was to handle it, with the cooperation of labor itself.

The time for that cooperation has come. Will labor see the necessity? If it does, then the Presidential plan succeeds. If it does not, then action, and quick action, by Congress will be the only alternative. There is dynamite wrapped up in this little heralded and little publicized conference at Chicago.

New York Chats

By Charles B. Driscoll

NEW YORK—Thinking out loud: The most inexcusable affectation among our good writers and speakers is material instead of material.

Both words mean exactly the same. Material is English, materiel is French.

But a lot of radio men, as well as writers, think it necessary to say materiel when speaking of war goods.

Do the French say it the American way when they speak of war goods? Certainly not. Then why do we have to speak French in this one instance?

Answer, as plain as the nose: Affectation, snobbery. And we really shouldn't be snobbish about our war materiel.

I'm still asking my New York friends whether there are any American restaurants running wide open in Tokio. And, if not, why there are Japanese restaurants, lots of them, running in New York.

Vivyan Donner, style expert, gave a little home party for some of her friends at her magnificent apartment near 57th street and Seventh avenue.

Bob Ripley, newspaper feature man, was the guest of honor. It was some sort of anniversary in his life, or his one millionth drawing, or something like that.

Ripley is a great fellow to observe on anniversaries. Every year, on the anniversary of the signing of his first contract, he invites George Matthew Adams to a grand feast and reminiscing, he, George was his first employer in the newspaper syndicate business. That was a long time ago.

Wears His Reddest Shirt So, on this occasion, Miss Donner invited Mr. Adams and his wife, Tecla. The two are always a sociable addition to any party. They are both brilliant talkers, and Tecla is beautiful, although one wouldn't say the same of George.

At that, he's a good-looking citizen. Ripley wore his reddest shirt. He goes in for shirts of plain but loud colors, and his reddest is indeed red. He is a sociable person, and likes no exercise better than friendly conversation.

Mr. Adams employed Miss Donner, not when she was starting in her career in New York.

To me there has always been something better than fine gold in a friendship between employer and employee which lasts through many years, even after business relations no longer exist. Up to now, I've

During the first three months of this year there was considerable change in the matter of dividends declared in the various lines of trade, as compared to the first quarter of 1941. Some of them are as expected, but others may come as surprises.

Automobiles and rubber and tires are pretty close together, automobiles paying 24.7 per cent less than a year ago and rubber and tires paying 24.3 per cent less; both for the same reason, the cessation of the manufacture of autos. That was to be expected. Amusements showed an increase of 9.7 per cent, which may surprise some people, but not all, for it had been forecast that with a cutting down of motor travel in particular and increase in income tax, people would have to have some diversion and would turn to theaters and other inexpensive lines of amusement. Building lost 1 per cent and financial institutions lost 7.9 per cent. Food, oddly enough, gained only 3 per cent and retail merchandising lost 13.3 per cent. The garment business gained 45 per cent and leather concerns 11.4. Metal and machinery concerns increased 16.4, mining 3.9, and steel, iron and coke 11.8. Public utilities lost 7.4. Tobacco fell off 8.2.

The largest gain in the first quarter over a year ago was in electrical equipment, 25.3 per cent, and next to that came shipbuilding and operating, 79.8. The heaviest losers were autos, rubber and tires. Stability seems to be elusive, made-so-by-war uncertainties, but financial circles look for adjustment within a few months that will give them a pattern to go by.

Today In Washington

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON, May 7—Attorney General Biddle has undertaken to erase two impressions that grew out of recent utterances. One arose because of his refusal to let Assistant Attorney General Arnold testify before the House judiciary committee about labor racketeering and the other developed out of his speech insisting that New Deal objectives must be supported irrespective of the war and that labor had for the first time been given advantages as a consequence of its support of a "liberal" Administration.

Mr. Biddle has been criticized widely for both his statements. In his message to the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, however, he minced no words about labor racketeering, and it may be presumed that his wholehearted support will be given now toward the pending legislation which is being sought in order to cure the weaknesses in dealing with racketeering as revealed in a recent Supreme Court decision.

"During the early years of the present Administration," he said, "almost for the first time in their history, labor unions became nationally active in politics and supported an Administration in which they believed. For the first time they were able to exert their influence effectively in fighting for badly needed social legislation."

Assails Labor Racketeers "The necessary result of such gains is that where labor begins to rely upon the Government for support, the Government in turn must necessarily insist upon the added responsibility of labor."

"As long as there are leaders in the labor union whose integrity is questionable, unionism in general will be in danger. There will always be articulate enemies of labor ready to pounce upon the activities of dishonest labor leaders and exploit such evidence, however isolated it may be, in an effort to give the impression that all unions are led by racketeers, and that labor in general is selfish and unreliable."

"Unfortunately there are still racketeering labor leaders. I have a report before me covering some recent cases involving abuses."

"Labor, unified and determined, must also meet the points of just criticism—excessively high initiation dues, racketeering and lack of accountability."

"Members of labor unions should think of themselves as expressing the interests of the general public. Thus, it would have a tremendous-

Self-Esteem A freighter was unloading its cargo at New Orleans, and was short-handed. The captain of the ship called to a loafer on the dock and asked him if he wanted to work.

"Not for you, you blankety-blank scoundrel!" he said.

"Who is that guy?" some one asked.

"Darned if I know," said the captain. "But he seems to know me."

Caught Richard Brinsley Sheridan was speaking in the House of Commons one day, when he found himself being continually interrupted by one of the more boisterous members, who persisted in punctuating almost every sentence of the speaker with cries of "Hear! hear!"

Finally, when Sheridan no longer stood the disturbance no longer, he suddenly departed from his prepared address, and began to describe one of the notorious and wretched characters of the times.

"Where shall we find a more foolish knave or a more knavish fool than this?"

"Heard the automatic cry, 'Hear! hear!'"

Amid the laughter which followed Sheridan smiled and sat down.

ly potent effect on the country at large, if unions were not only willing to accept public accountability of their finances, but themselves insisted on it."

Both Sides Shortsighted There is a bill pending before Congress to require labor unions and trade associations to register and make an accounting. The legislation has thus far been fought by both groups. The opposition of some of the business elements is as shortsighted as is that of the labor leaders.

With the support of Attorney General Biddle, who also may be presumed to be speaking for the President, and with the recent expression of somewhat similar views by Secretary of Labor Perkins, it may be assumed that the Administration is beginning to take cognizance of the rather widespread uneasiness toward the labor union movement which has lately been revealed on account of the irregularities of a comparative few.

The same thing happened when business men and bankers were on the griddle back in 1933. The sins of a few were visited on all and the rather drastic and often unjust provisions of the securities and exchange act came about, not because of the 90 or more per cent who were honest in their dealings, but because of the minority who were unscrupulous in their handling of the funds of investors.

Many honest and in every respect innocent labor leaders resent the implications about racketeering and manipulation of union funds which have been cast unjustly toward them because of guilty comrades. But so long as the labor unions do not themselves clean house and as long as they resist all forms of labor legislation which may seek to protect innocent workers from exploitation, the entire labor movement will find itself condemned at the bar of public opinion very much as business and banking elements were in 1933 for their failure to take the initiative and clean up their own wrongdoers.

Highest Paid Soldiers "Thirty-seven cents a day—hardly enough for a haircut or a movie! Yet that's the amount a Japanese private earns a month."

How does this wage compare with that of army privates in other countries? Well, at the top of the heap is the Australian, who receives $62.10 a month. Next comes the American, who now gets $30 and will soon get $32. The wage in Germany is $21.60; in Britain, $12.20. As for the higher ranking soldier: In Australia, a first sergeant gets $117.50; in the United States, $114; in Japan, $2.04.

When the new wage scale is passed by Congress, the American soldier's pay will be the highest in our history. The increase will cost the government nearly $300,000,000 a year. That's one government expense taxpayers won't kick about!—Eagle Magazine

Lutherans Raising War Service Fund

Lutheran congregations of Marquette and elsewhere in the district are raising money for the Lutheran Service Commission, which serves men in the armed forces and foreign missions, the Rev. Wilbur N. Palmquist, pastor of the Messiah Lutheran church here and district campaign chairman, said yesterday.

Nearly all Lutheran churches in the nation will participate in the campaign, called the "Lutheran World Action." The national goal is $650,000, the Rev. Mr. Palmquist said. The congregation of the Messiah Lutheran church has been asked to raise $250 toward that goal.

The district under Mr. Palmquist's control includes all churches in the central and eastern sections of the Upper Peninsula.

Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars will be earmarked for the Service Commission of the national Lutheran council, organized shortly after the selective service law was adopted.

More than 25,000 men a month visit 31 service centers established by the commission, and pastors at the centers conduct an average of 5,000 personal interviews a month, Mr. Palmquist said.

Worship services and Bible classes are conducted and the centers have facilities where soldiers may play games, read, develop films and cook their own meals.

The commission has taken over a 165-room hotel in San Francisco to meet needs of concentrations of troops on the west coast.

"It should be made clear," said Mr. Palmquist, "that this program does not conflict with the USO. Leaders of the Lutheran church believe the church has a responsibility to minister to the needs of its members wherever they may be."

The commission also has initiated a service to Army and Navy chaplains and gives assistance to congregations which provide religious services for service men.

Proceeds of the drive in excess of $250,000 will be used to support Lutheran foreign missions and the Lutheran Refugee service, and a contribution will be made to the YMCA war prisoners aid, which serves men in prison camps, and to the American Bible society.

Many European foreign missions in India, Africa, China and Madagascar and other countries, were cut off from funds by the spread of war, and the responsibility of maintaining them rests with American Lutherans.

News About Marquette County Men in Uniform

(Editor's Note—A telephone call or penny post card will do the trick. The success of this column for the duration depends upon the cooperation and participation of readers. News of men in military service from the Marquette area will be of greater consequence as the war continues. If you have a son, brother, nephew or friend in the service, send an item about him to "Serving U. S., The Daily Mining Journal, Marquette, Mich., or telephone 150 and ask for the Service Editor).

Mr. and Mrs. George Duquette, 606 Bluff street, Negaunee, have received a long, interesting letter from their son, Sgt. Donald Duquette, which reveals much of an American soldier's life in Northern Ireland, where he is stationed with a large share of the Marquette county contingent in old Company D.

Don says the fellows go into Belfast quite often. "It's a swell place, the people and the customs are so quaint and the people really like the American boys," he writes. "A lot of the fellows go fishing. There are some nice trout in the streams around the camp. We go to church every Sunday and find that the services are about the same as at home."

All Irish homes are made of stone, Don remarked. The stones are different, too, and he says it's lots of fun to shop because of the sport of trying to think of tu-pence, sixpence and shillings in terms of American money. After awhile, he says, you get used to it and begin to think of a shilling as simply a shilling and not as a piece of English money worth about a quarter in American money.

"Please send me lots of mail and boxes with lots of chocolate and gum in them," he wrote his parents, "but don't bother to send me any more stamps because I can't use them." Letters from Ireland must be posted with English stamps, which explains why soldiers in foreign ports can't have free mailing privileges enjoyed by men in United States camps. Donald has a sister in Marquette—Mrs. W. J. Kent, 318 Bluff street.

Word has been received from Santa Ana, Calif., that Martin Niemöller, also got the classification in the Army Air Corps that he wanted. In a recent letter home he said: "I was classified as a pilot. Boy! I really felt good when I heard that. Every day brings us closer to an airplane. Now, at least, we are sure of riding in an Army plane. We've been waiting for that."

Pvt. Ray Raino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest V. Raino, Neidhart avenue, who enlisted in the Army several weeks ago, is in Fort Sill, Okla., where he was assigned to Battery D, 7th Regiment, Field Artillery. Ray writes that he likes Army life and that he may become a radio operator later. He is not particularly keen for the weather out Fort Sill way, describing it as a succession of dust and rain storms. Incidentally some of the boys at Fort Sill probably have discovered by this time that when the Army got Ray Raino it got an accordion player than whom there are few better anywhere you look.

Miss Viola Stavedahl, R. N., a graduate of the St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, is on nursing duty with the United States armed forces in Australia. Coast Guards Enlist Men For U. S. Maritime Service

Enlistment for the U. S. Maritime Service, an organization administered by the U. S. Maritime Commission to train men for service in the American Merchant Marine, are being accepted at the Coast Guard station in Marquette, it was announced yesterday by A. C. Gross, chief boatswain and captain of the port.

Gross said the Maritime Service is expanding its training program because of the war and offers to the eligible young men of good character a special course with pay to prepare them for duty at sea. The age limits are 18 to 30.

Enrollment is for seven months as an apprentice seaman at $21 a month, with transportation, clothing and living accommodations provided by the Government. Enrollees will not have a military status, but a high standard of discipline is maintained.

The training course will include three months at a training station and three months aboard ship. Enrollees will be assigned, according to their preferences and to their aptitudes as determined by instructors, to training for one of the three departments aboard ship—deck, engineer or steward. Upon satisfactory completion of the course enrollees will be furnished transportation to jobs on merchant vessels, and they will be eligible for regular enrollment in the Maritime Service.

This course qualifies the enrollee for employment in the merchant marine as a member of the deck or engineer's department. Members of the deck department include ordinary seamen, able seamen, boatswains and quartermasters. Wipers, firemen, oilers and water tenders are classified as members of the deck department.

Ad Safian, sometimes referred to as the Gonzaga University Glimmer Boy, breezed into our fair city yesterday from his home in Winnipeg, Canada, to report that he's scheduled for the U. S. Army draft soon. He had planned to get into the Royal Canadian Air Force, but when it was learned he had his first U. S. citizenship papers and had registered for the draft in this country, he was instructed to return to the U. S. So here he is, girls, but he's slated for Army duty next month. Safian played with the Marquette Sentinels last winter.

Mrs. Marie Helsten, of National Mine, has received word from her son, Private William Helsten, that the Army unit of which he is a member has reached Northern Ireland safely.

bers of the engineer's department. Upon recommendation by the superintendent, the enrollee becomes eligible to take the examination for a certificate as a qualified member of the engine department, or as a lifeboatman, issued by the bureau of marine inspection and navigation of the Department of Commerce. An enrollee who has been recommended by the superintendent after the required period of sea service will be eligible to take the examination for a certificate as an able seaman.

Present pay in the Merchant Marine for which this training fits the enrollee starts at $72.50 a month with food and quarters furnished, and conditions in the Merchant Marine today present excellent opportunities for rapid advancement of qualified personnel. A regular enrollee who serves annually eight months on American merchant vessels is eligible to receive from the Maritime Service a month's retainer pay and a month of training with pay each year.

Higgins Lake College Camp Opens June 13

Enrollments in the Teachers College field biology and conservation camp at Higgins Lake will be accepted up to June 1, the extension office of Central Michigan College of Education in Mt. Pleasant announced yesterday.

Central is cooperating with Northern and Western Michigan Colleges of Education, Michigan State Normal College and the state department of conservation in operating the camp June 13 to 20 at the department's training school in Higgins Lake state forest. Teachers attending may earn one semester hour of credit in botany, entomology, game bird ornithology or general conservation, which may be applied toward requirements for a degree or renewal of a teaching certificate.

The $20 fee for tuition and living expenses at camp must be paid at the college at which credit is desired.

War Garden Committee Ready To Act

It will be possible to plan and care for a victory garden in Marquette county this summer regardless of whether you have usable vacant land of your own.

Detailed plans for the victory garden program, which call for share-and-share-alike cooperation, were announced yesterday by George S. Butler, Marquette chairman.

Butler and his assistants are ready to handle the needs of all persons who wish to plant gardens this year to aid in the war effort. Certificates will be issued to all persons participating in the program.

Divide City Into Districts

The city of Marquette will be divided into districts and supervisors will be in charge in each district. Any one in need of plowing, fertilizer, lawn or equipment for a garden is asked to telephone William S. Ewing, 1166-J, chairman of the equipment and supplies committee.

Ewing's assistants are Con Wellman, John Welland, Louis Gueiff and Jacob Anderson. Other chairmen and their telephone numbers are Mrs. L. O. Gant, 1421, in charge of preparation, storing and distribution of products, and D. L. Cienahan, 65, general supervisor and consultant.

Persons who have vacant land that others might use or who want land and those who are willing to assist in spreading gardens are asked to notify Ewing.

Here Is Registration Blank

All who wish to register for victory garden participation are asked to fill out the blank form printed below. Ishpeming residents may mail or bring them to the city library. Marquette residents should send them to the mayor's office in the city hall and Negaunee residents form to the Negaunee city hall.

The registration blank:

REGISTRATION FOR VICTORY GARDEN CAMPAIGN

Name Address

City County No. in Family Phone

Did you have a garden last year? What were dimensions?

Do you have land for one this year? What are dimensions?

If you have no ground, would you make one on a donated plot?

Do you have vacant land which you will donate to this program?

Area? Location? Is water available?

If you are an experienced gardener, will you volunteer to help novices?

Crop Damage By Deer Not Easy to Avoid

Farmers troubled with crop damage by deer cannot expect a cheap or easy solution to their problem. After extensive testing, state conservation department game experts conclude that nothing will keep deer from feeding on crops but deer-proof fence, and that effective deer-proof fence is expensive.

Now available to interested farmers—by mail or at conservation department headquarters—are sketches of two types of fencing found effectively deer-proof. One is a vertical seven and a half to eight-foot woven wire fence that costs about $2 a rod. The other is a woven wire fence about 55 inches high, with an outward projecting "overhang" of three barbed wires on brackets that make a 45 degree angle with the post. It costs $1.25 to $1.75 a rod. The overhang appears to discourage deer from jumping in, though they might be able to clear it if they tried.

Electrified fence was found difficult to maintain and unreliable in semi-wild territory where deer do the greatest crop damage. Noise-makers, flashing lights, dogs, fine shot and smelly repellents discourage the deer for only a few days to three weeks, game men found. Once accustomed to the strange sights, sounds and smells, the deer would eat their alfalfa and wheat without being in the least disturbed by the popping all about them.

A two-day tin drive in New York netted 47 tons, or 42 carloads of metal.

Baraga

Elas Mutkala, of Eben Junction, visited friends here Wednesday.

Roland Archambeau, of Detroit, is visiting here this week.

Angus MacDonald, 86, has been taken to St. Joseph hospital, Hancock.

E. S. Michaelson has returned from St. Joseph hospital, Hancock, where he has been a patient.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth St. Germain and Frank McMahon are visiting relatives in Duluth, Minn.

Pvt. Theodore Shellafae, of Savannah, Georgia, is here visiting his parents.

The Ladies' Aid of the Zion Lutheran church will meet this afternoon at 2, instead of Saturday.

Mrs. Peter Collins and daughter, of Chassell, are visiting Mrs. Collins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Archambeau.

Mrs. Gust Grawn has returned from St. Luke's hospital, Marquette, where she was a surgical patient.

Joseph and Douglas Bendry have returned to Chicago after being called here because of the death of their father, Jacob Bendry.

Dr. Colberg, of Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. Soderblom, of Calumet, were visitors this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Beck.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Golbach, of Detroit, have arrived here to spend the summer. They will reside at the Golbach homestead near Prickett dam where Mr. Golbach will cut pulpwood.

Harvey Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Raymond, assigned to an engineering division of the U. S. Army, has been promoted to sergeant at McChord Field, Tacoma, Wash. Peter Raymond, another son, is a member of the Marine band at San Diego, Calif.

The Zion Lutheran church will purchase the dwelling of John Beck for use as a parsonage. Edward Chindvall, a theological student from Augustana seminary, Rock Island, Ill., will take over the work of the parish during the summer.

The Baraga women's extension club held its last meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. William Hanna. Mrs. A. Bitschenauer presented the lesson and demonstration on "Convalescent Care." Hostesses were Mrs. William Hanna, Mrs. Robert Mitchell, and Mrs. John Seratti.

Stutsman-Lehto — The marriage of Lieut. Reino H. Lehto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Valmer Lehto, of Keweenaw Bay, and Kathleen Stutzman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stutzman, of Sturgis, took place at St. Louis, Missouri, April 18. Lieutenant and Mrs. Lehto will make their home at Rolla, Missouri, near Fort Leonard Wood, where the groom is stationed. Following his graduation from Baraga high school, 1933, Lieut. Lehto attended Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton, and was graduated with the class of 1937. He was employed for two years as an engineer with Greeley and Hansen, of Chicago. Mrs. Lehto is a graduate of the Sturgis high school, class of 1933, and of Western Michigan college of Education, Kalamazoo.

Judge Permits Woman Juror To Continue Knitting During Trial

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 7—P—Municipal Judge Ben L. Pfefferle isn't one to stand in the way of defense activity.

A woman juror asked if she might continue her knitting while hearing evidence in an assault and battery case.

"If it doesn't interfere with your lending attention to the trial, you may do so," the judge replied.

Councilmen Buy Bonds

NEWARK, Ohio, May 7—P—Newark's nine councilmen decided today to put their entire salary for one year in war bonds. The salaries total $1,590.

Baby May Be Twins

NEWARK, N. J., May 7—P—Sugar rationing registration brought this problem today to Jack McLaughlin, a clerk in the school superintendent's office.

A woman telephoned, "I'm expecting a baby soon, can I have a book for it now?"

"No," would have been the easy way out, but McLaughlin said: "You know, if you had twins, you'd be out one book. Why don't you wait until the final count is in?"

The woman was agreeable.

Open Account Restricted By Credit Ruling

As a result of President Roosevelt's message to Congress and his radio address in which he stated that tightening of credit was one of the seven essential steps to avoid inflation, the board of governors of the Federal Reserve system announced new rules governing open accounts, one-payment notes and installment terms, effective May 6. The new regulations are outlined in the following statement received by The Daily Mining Journal yesterday from J. N. Peyton, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis:

Open accounts for listed articles must be paid within 40 days of the required billing date or they will be frozen, which means that the customer can no longer charge listed items to the account. This restriction does not apply to articles not listed such as food, fuel, services and drugs. The only methods of unfreezing such frozen accounts are payment of account in full or a written agreement to pay within six months in equal installments of not less than $5 per month or $1.25 per week. If the conditions for a Statement of Necessity apply, the account may be paid off over a 12-month period.

A special exception has been made for farmers and other consumers whereby their accounts may be paid within 10 days after the end of the next calendar month during which most of their annual or semi-annual income is customarily received.

Installment Loans
Consumer installment loans are limited to a maximum maturity of 12 months and installment sales of listed articles are likewise limited to one year maturity, with the exception of automobiles and motorcycles which will remain at 15 months. A down payment of one-third is required on all listed articles with the exception of furniture and pianos, which will be 20 per cent, and essential repairs and alterations on which there is no required down payment.

One payment notes by consumers in amounts of $1,500 or less, are limited to 90 days, but may be changed to installment notes, provided the installment note maturity is calculated from original date of single payment note. The single payment note can also be renewed for a series of 90 day periods if the last of such renewals matures not later than the date on which an installment loan made for a similar purpose would have matured and the borrower pays at the time of each renewal or extension enough to reduce the unpaid balance to an amount not greater than would have originally been an installment note. The Statement of Borrower must be obtained on all one payment notes of $1,500 or less unless the loan is for business or agricultural purposes.

New Items Listed
New items added to the list of commodities to which the restrictions apply are:

Automobile batteries and accessories, automobile tires and tubes, bedding, blankets, curtains, draperies, household linens and towels, binoculars, field glasses, opera glasses, hand telescopes, all household electrical appliances, jewelry, lighting fixtures, luggage, purses, handbags, toilet cases, umbrellas, portable lights, sports, athletic, putting and games' equipment, tableware, kitchenware, wearing apparel and furs, yard goods, used furniture, boats, and all musical instruments.

L'Anse

The American Legion auxiliary will meet Tuesday night in the Legion hall at 7:30. The business meeting will be followed by a social hour.

Conrad Leinweber, former butcher in the A. & P. store, died last Thursday at Camp Claybourne, La., following a heart attack. Funeral services were held Monday at his home near Oshkosh, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Morey and daughter, Susan, who have been visiting Mrs. Morey's sister, Mrs. John Salo, and her brothers, Jack and Otto Luoma, have left for their home in Sarasota, Fla. Enroute they will visit in Chicago and Detroit.

Ben Grobaski and sister, Mrs. Roy Britton, have returned from Boyne Falls where they were called because of the serious illness of their mother. Dan Grobaski, who accompanied them to Boyne Falls, will remain there indefinitely.

A Naval Relief bank has been placed in the Ben Franklin store by the Navy Relief society. It will remain there during May. The society is appealing for funds for the purpose of helping wives and children of sailors killed or disabled in the war.

Tax Board Meeting—A meeting of the Baraga county tax allocation board will be held at the court house Monday afternoon at 2. All local taxing units are requested to submit budgets and statements of expenditures and revenues for the next fiscal year. Members of the board include Miss Elna Nelson, county school commissioner, Thomas Cosgrove, county treasurer, Otto Lundin, chairman finance committee of the board of supervisors, and George J. Maki, of Pelkie, and O. O. Deschaine, of L'Anse, members appointed by the judge of probate.

Eagles Elect Officers—The Baraga county Aerie of Eagles elected officers Monday night as follows: J. P. W. P. Irving Tolleson; President, George Olsen; vice-president, Adolphe Chaudier; chaplain, Elwood Little; secretary, Wallace Foucault; treasurer, Romeo Dault; conductor, Ernest Kunnick; I. G. Ernest Meyers; O. G. Julius Mattson; trustees, Philip Foucault, Edward Foucault, William St. George. At the business meeting the Eagles voted to purchase a $100 war bond. A farewell party was given Delmar Deschaine who will leave for induction into the Army May 10. Mr. Deschaine is the first member of the lodge to enter the armed services.

Achievement Day Program—The annual Baraga county women's achievement day program will be held in the L'Anse town hall Tuesday night, beginning at 6. Following the dinner, O. I. Bandmaster Dismissed; Cheboygan Band Quits

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., May 7—P—This city had a bandmaster today but no band. The band resigned in a body when the city council dismissed Charles McCallum, who had held the post for 10 years, and signed a new bandmaster. William Jakad, supervisor of music in Cheboygan schools and a first-year teacher, was appointed to succeed McCallum. His contract is for one year.

Marshall Field To Publish New Picture Magazine

NEW YORK, May 7—P—Marshall Field, publisher of the newspaper PM in New York and the Chicago Sun, today announced publication of "Parade's Weekly," a new picture magazine. It will appear on stands May 19 and sell for five cents. The magazine, to be operated separately from the two newspapers, will have R. A. Lasley as editor.

Suomi Synod Conference To Meet Here

NEWBERRY, May 7—Marquette was selected for the 1942 meeting of the Suomi Synod Conference, of the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, at its 1942 meeting, held here last weekend and attended by 59 lay delegates and 14 pastors representing 24 Upper Peninsula parishes. L'Anse will be host to the Conference Sunday school convention next fall. English services were conducted in the Messiah Lutheran church with the Rev. Arnold Stadius, of Marquette, the Rev. Emil Tervo, of Ishpeming, and the Rev. Hattula, of Negaunee, in charge. Evening sermons were preached by the Rev. M. N. Joensuu, of Trout Creek, and P. Aho, of Calumet. Officiating pastors at communion services were the Rev. K. V.

Mykkanen, of Republic, the Rev. John Hattula, of Negaunee, the Rev. Arnold Stadius, of Marquette, and the officers of the Suomi Synod, including Dr. Alfred Haapanen, of Hancock, president, and Dr. Alvar Rautalahti, of Waukegan, Ill. vice-president. Finnish services were conducted by the Rev. D. J. Elm, of Chassel, and the Rev. M. N. Joensuu, of Trout Creek. Choirs from Ishpeming and Newberry sang selections during the services. Sunday afternoon a special program was presented in the community building with a musical program and talks by Dr. A. Haapanen and the Rev. M. Luttinen, of South Range. Conference officers for the year include the Rev. Carl Tamminen, secretary; the Rev. D. J. Elm, treasurer; the Rev. John Hattula, vice-president; the Rev. S. V. Antero, the Rev. M. N. Joensuu, and P. Aho, members of the board. The Suomi Synod president, Dr. Haapanen, urged the church members to cooperate in every possible way with the United States government in its war effort. He also asked for full support of the Lutheran church drive for funds to aid Lutheran boys in the armed

Guerrillas Raid Many Jap Cities

CHUNGKING, China, May 7—P—The biggest coordinated Chinese guerrilla sloop of the war has been going on for the past two weeks, the fighters raiding 15 Japanese-occupied cities and causing vast destruction, the Chinese Central news agency reported today. The guerrillas long had been operating on the fringe of these towns, but to no such extent as that reported by the agency which said they crept into Shanghai, Nanking, Hangchow, Nanchang, Nippo, Wuhu, Amoy and other places and set off numerous explosions. Japanese naval headquarters, the forces. A donation averaging 75 cents from every adult member of Lutheran churches will be necessary to promote the project, he said.

electric power plant and the puppet Nanking regime's federal reserve bank in Shanghai were reported bombed while land and water communications were blocked.

Huge fires were set raging in Nanking, the agency said, and stretches of the Nanking-Wuhu railway were destroyed, and highway bridges and telegraph poles blown up.

Civilians Aid Guerrillas
Loyal Chinese inside the cities cooperated with the guerrillas by starting fires and throwing bombs. On the night of April 20 when the raids began, Chinese troops preceded by plainclothesmen, entered Hangchow and so alarmed the Japanese that they locked the city gates, arrested several hundred Chinese civilians and began a house to house search after proclaiming martial law.

In spite of these precautions, the guerrillas were reported to have started many fires and to have blown up bridges outside the city. Later in a fight with 2,000 Chinese puppet troops, supported by 18 Japanese planes, the guerrillas were said to have killed half their enemy forces.

The guerrillas, who maintain an elaborate espionage system, apparently took advantage of the fact that Japanese garrisons in the raided cities have been reduced by withdrawal of some 400,000 troops from China to other battlefronts.

Little Boy Drowns In Two Feet of Water

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 7—P—Robert Henry Glein, Jr., aged 2, leaped over a boat platform to look into the water of Lake Olmstead and lost his balance.

The child's clothing caught on a nail, leaving him suspended head down. A six-year-old sister sought to rescue him, then called for help. Aid arrived soon, but the boy had drowned in two feet of water.

Two Five-Year-Olds Crushed Under Piano

HOOVERVILLE, Pa., May 7—P—Several school students moved a piano out onto a playground to rehearse their May day festival. Some younger children, who had been playing in the field, playfully started rocking the upright piano back and forth. Suddenly it fell over, fatally crushing Donna Lee Murphy and Carl Ann Koontz, both 5.

Plantings On Highways To Check Erosion

Experimental planting of trees, shrubs and grasses to cover exposed areas along trunkline highways in Marquette, Iron and Mackinac counties is being undertaken by the state highway department to control erosion and reduce maintenance costs.

Beach grass, black locust and pine trees have been planted along M-28 in Marquette county to halt wind erosion and promote soil stabilization. In Iron county the highway department has planted grapevine, woodbine and native shrubs along trunklines, and woodbine, grape and pine trees have been planted along US-2 in Mackinac county.

Highway department foresters believe this type of treatment is more effective and more in keeping with the surrounding plant growth than the sodding of all back slopes. The experimental plantings already made will aid in determining the plants and grasses best adapted to control erosion.

This program will reduce the need of ditch and culvert cleanout operations by maintenance crews, since unchecked erosion would soon wash them full and hamper drainage. Wind erosion is a special problem encountered in exposed sandy soil along shoreline roads.

Upper Peninsula

Hip Fracture Fatal

MENOMINEE, May 7.—Alfred St. Peter, 89-year-old resident of Wallace, died in St. Joseph's hospital of shock resulting from a hip fracture suffered in a fall two weeks ago. Mr. St. Peter was born in Canada January 3, 1853, and had been in the United States for 60 years. He moved to Stephenson 29 years ago and seven years ago went to Wallace to reside.

Dollar Bay Man Killed

DOLLAR BAY, May 7.—Ensign William M. Finnegan, of Dollar Bay, who is listed among the U. S. Navy casualties of the war, was in the U. S. Navy since 1918 and saw service in World War I. He was aboard the U. S. S. Oklahoma at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese waged their opening assault last December. He leaves his widow and five children, formerly of Dollar Bay, but now of San Diego, Calif.; his mother, Mrs. Vene Finnegan, and several brothers and sisters. The widow of the deceased was the former Miss Edith Hoppa, of Dollar Bay.

Out To Beat Axis

MELSTRAND, May 7.—Jerry, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Berry, of this place, is doing his bit to "whip the Axis." Jerry has two well beloved older brothers in the service, one in the Marines and one in the Air force and because he isn't old enough to go he is doing his bit by gathering scrap and selling it and buying war stamps, not only for himself but for his brothers as well. Getting up early he has scoured the old dump sites in the area following old abandoned railroad beds and gathering scrap iron, much of which he has carried home or piled together to be picked up later with the family car. He has gathered almost half a ton of such material, digging some of it from the layers of grass and leaves covering it for years. Old tires, waste paper, any metals, tin foil, odd jobs all go to swell the stamp collection to help win the war. Jerry says "My brothers are pretty good shots and they say one dime stamp will provide five cartridges, so I figure I am doing something to help. He has bought about ten dollars worth of stamps through his own efforts."

Judge Sentences Eight

MENOMINEE, May 7.—Circuit Judge Frank A. Bell, this afternoon sentenced seven men and a woman, including three from Marinette and one from Iron Mountain. They were: Southern Cooper, 24, Marinette, and Henry Dietz, 22, Menominee township, forgery, 1 to 14 years; Marquette prison, Francis Fischer, 35, of Marinette, 3 to 15 years; Marquette, theft of 32 chickens from Mrs. James Shepeck, Taylor avenue, Menominee, John Zolnierki, 32, 60 days in Menominee county jail for theft of six chickens from Edward Gilbert's farm in Menominee township; Arnold Miller, 18, Iron Mountain, 1 to 5 years at Marquette, theft of car from James Sutter, Menominee; Grant Mathison, 25, Marinette, 15 days in Menominee county jail and fined $100 on drunk driving charge; Patricia Grove and Frank Stewart, both of Harris township, probation for two years on charge of lewd and lascivious cohabitation.

Frantic Weekend

TWO CAREERS
CHAPTER XX

The simplest happenstance, the commonest occurrence, can change the course of one person's desires and delineate his dreams. That happened to Nigel. That glimpse of Peggy in the half-light of the room, her bright face alive with animation, her slowness accentuated by the bulk of the chair in which she sat, long legs dangling over the arm, was a revelation to him.

In that one moment Nigel realized that Fay's fascination for him had been an intense young man's natural reaction to flawless beauty, but that he didn't want a girl like Fay. Not really. He didn't want someone already grown up, someone who had been everywhere, had everything, whose beauty was fundamentally serene and quiet.

He wanted—yes, he was sure of it—someone like Peggy, a half-child, half-gamin creature who was wide-eyed and excited about living and who couldn't believe that it held everything for her. He wanted a stimulant, and wasn't she? In flashback he saw her again as she was that morning on the island, and remembered how completely easy he had been with her, how casually they had talked, how natural and frank she was. He looked at her dark hair framing her face, studied the expectant intensity of her green eyes, and contrasted this mood with the gay and sunny one of the morning.

"I'm in love," thought Nigel. It was with surprise and some relief that he realized that his restlessness of the afternoon and evening had been because he wanted Peggy with him, every moment, and she hadn't been. What a fool he'd been not to know his own mind until it opened for him with this glimpse of her in the moonlit room!

The noise of his footsteps wakened Peggy from her dreaming. "Nigel!" she cried, eager to tell someone how thrilling her dreams had been. Then she restrained herself, but the excitement in her voice had been mistaken by Nigel for pleasure at seeing him.

"I've got an idea," he said. "Let's slip away from the others and go down for a moonlight swim."

She jumped out of the arm of her chair. It was just what she needed to work off some of her excitement.

"Yes, let's," she laughed.

At that moment Baldy came back into the room lighting a fresh cigar, and with an indefinable air of having arranged the affairs of the world. He couldn't live without managing somebody or something, finding himself much better at arranging other people's lives than his own. He had also found it more profitable in the long run.

Baldy saw the two standing near the window and crossed to them swaggering with assurance.

"It's all O. K. honey. Benny'll give you a break. Chorus line first, and then a tryout. Twenty-five per on my say-so and start in Monday week."

Peggy pushed Nigel ahead of her lest he hear too much. "See you in the morning, Baldy," she said. "And thank you. You're wonderful."

"O. K.," said Baldy, "and don't forget Fay."

The night was warm. Nigel and Peggy lay on the wooden wharf under the moon. The water below was still and with a glass-like surface.

Peggy lay on her back looking up into Nigel's eyes. He was stretched on the opposite way, his head over Peggy's looking down at her. He was resting on his elbows, his hands were free to play with Peggy's hair.

Nigel had just told her that he was in love with her and he had not found it hard to say. He waited hopefully for an answer.

Peggy studied his face. Brown eyes, nice eyes, the nicest eyes she had seen. Everything happens at once, she thought. It was too bad for Nigel but she had made up her mind to go on the stage. She felt a satisfying sense of power. She could afford to be Lady Bountiful. A glimmer of a smile crossed her face and her hands took his head between them and drew it down to her lips.

It was a gesture that she imagined would have looked well on the screen and in her minx-like way she was playing a part.

But the first touch of her cool lips on his broke his restraint, and in a swift rush of emotion his hands crushed her lips to his. Peggy struggled, thrusting him away. She sat up quickly, her self-confidence badly shaken. The blood was racing through her pulses and there was a startled look in her eyes as she faced Nigel. Something had flowed through her like liquid fire, and her breath came short with a quick rise and fall of her bosom.

"Let's swim," Peggy said suddenly, and she plunged from the wharf into the cool water and swam furiously, as if to wash from her mind the memory of that kiss and the strange power it had over her. She didn't want to fall in love and that kiss had told her she was dangerously near it.

Nigel lifted her out as she came back to the wharf easily outdistanced by his strong stroke. She pulled her hands free of his as soon as she was out, as if to pull herself free of his influence.

"Tell me," said Nigel, trying to be casual, "what was old polisher talking about up there?"

Impulsively, as if the revelation would destroy his new influence over her, she turned to Nigel. "I've got my chance. I'm going to New York."

A committee of four met in the rockery the next morning. Nigel presided with a gloomy expression on his face. The day promised to be of the same unbroken sunshine as the previous one, but without the same harmony that had settled on the house party the day before. It had been obvious at breakfast, although no one had been quite able to understand why.

Ferry had gone his way as usual. If his guests would allow him to paint at leisure he would allow them to solve their own troubles in their own way. Which they were doing.

Nigel and Michael faced Fay and Myra and there was not a smile among them.

In the house somewhere behind them Baldy was putting Peggy through what he called a routine. Peggy was co-operating enthusiastically. Baldy was glad to have something to do to fill the vacuum between his attacks on Fay's resolution.

"I don't like it," said Nigel. "Here this squirt drops on us uninvited and makes a plague of himself. Now he caps it by persuading a young girl to go down to New York with him."

Myra shook her head. "There's only one thing wrong with that argument. I know Peggy, and if I'm not mistaken there is more to it than a gleam in her eye."

Fay spoke: "This is the first I

Girls Trained For War Jobs In NYA Shops

Marquette girls who want to help Uncle Sam by working in war industries are to be given an opportunity to obtain war production experience and training in mechanical fields that will fit them for factory jobs.

This training is made possible through the National Youth Administration, which is opening its war production and training shops for girls. The first resident center for girls was opened by the NYA in Saginaw May 1. While the shop is in Saginaw, resident units make it possible to accommodate girls from all parts of the state.

Orin W. Kaye, state NYA administrator, announces that the resident units are ready for occupancy and applications are being received from girls interested in learning mechanical work. Dormitories have facilities for housing 80 girls.

Modern Machine Shop
A new prefabricated steel shop in connection with the resident center is equipped with modern machinery capable of providing training opportunities in arc and acetylene welding, machine shopwork, forging and sheet metal work.

The 80 girls who will live in the resident center will work one shift a day in the shop, the other two shifts being given over to boys from Saginaw.

During their period of training, girls will receive $30 a month for productive work. Deductions made on a semi-cooperative basis for food, medical care and housing leave approximately $10 for personal use.

Girls 17 to 24 years of age interested in this project are asked to make application at the U. S. Employment Service office in the Kaufman building, 117 Washington street, Marquette.

News Behind The News

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, May 7—Archibald MacLeish recently delivered a combined scolding and "pep" talk to a score of key Federal press agents on their failure to popularize the United Nations war aims as set forth in the Atlantic Charter and in President Roosevelt's speeches since the Battle of Pearl Harbor. Under White House instructions he handed them elaborate mimeographed agenda describing how press, radio, theaters, movies, churches, schools, picture papers and lecture platforms must be mobilized to stimulate greater public enthusiasm.

The librarian of Congress criticized his colleagues for not exploiting FDR's declarations that we are fighting to preserve and expand "the four freedoms." Instead of translating that slogan into bread-and-butter terms applicable to our daily scheme of living in all its phases, he said, it had been treated in Government literature as nothing more than a mere academic statement. As a result, he intimated that the American people, as well as populations of neutral nations, regarded the conflict as "just another war."

The new MacLeish propaganda crusade embraces every medium of expression in the United States. George Creel's 1917 campaign was a slick man's whisper in comparison. Every national holiday will be made the occasion to contrast political, social and religious life under the Axis with that which blesses the democracies. Next election day, for instance, he wants every ballot booth decorated with placards reading: "You wouldn't be doing this voting in Germany, in the Reich," and "Over here you can heckle. In Germany you can only 'hehl'."

CRACKDOWN—A few more resignations like that of Robert R. Guthrie from the War Production Board might infuse vitamins into this agency as well as into other important units at the capital. The former textile division chief has been thoroughly denounced by WPB higherups for his expose of internal difficulties, bickering and back-passing. But the record demonstrates that the explosion was required to provoke the bureau into carrying out policies long overdue.

Mr. Guthrie quit the first week in March after telling newspapermen that his efforts to curtail peacetime operations had been blocked by dollar-a-year men in the industrial groups involved. For some inexplicable reason he hedged slightly on appearing before investigative Congressional committees, but his original charges shook the structure over which Donald M. Nelson presides. Orders drafting company after company into the manufacture of munitions and weapons have been issued in a volume never attained before he spoke up.

The post-Guthrie crackdowns have affected electrical appliances, household goods, many metallic articles, machine tools and records, home building, clothing, ornamental wearing apparel, bicycles, etc. In fact, insiders estimate that factories making almost 50 per cent of the nation's consumer goods have been shifted to more essential lines of production since March first. It is understood that the amount actually spent for war purposes exceeded $3,000,000,000 in April. That is a record figure and compares with an outlay of only $1,400,000,000 last November.

CHORUS—Our military and diplomatic leaders are deeply depressed by the growing tendency in this country to question the Soviet's admittedly puzzling behavior as a United Nations partner. Deprecatory remarks have appeared in some newspapers and magazines and even on the floor of Congress.

The anti-Russian attacks usually follow two lines: Moscow's secretiveness in the conduct of war operations arouses suspicion of her ultimate, postwar ambitions. It is true that our strategists regret the refusal to permit our observers to visit the front and factories. But they understand Stalin's attitude, and they do not complain. All they ask is that he continue to fight and kill Germans. Peace table worries are not their concern. The other indictment springs from the interment of the Tokyo raiding plane landed on USSR soil. Our people find it difficult to reconcile that action in the East with the acceptance of lend-lease aid in the West. But our tough-minded military men who realize that the Red Army can handle only one major scrap at a time, utter no recriminations. Messrs. Hull and Stimson—no radicals—wish the Scotch-and-soda trecticians would exhibit a modicum of realism.

The Kremlin dictator, however, lately took cognizance of Allied sentiment. Some weeks ago Sir Stafford Cripps, former British ambassador to Moscow, declared that the Muscovites must receive additional territory in any final settlement. His indiscreet pronouncement stirred the Poles and other minorities fighting on our side. In his most recent utterance Stalin gave reassurance that he wanted no geographical expansion. There will be other speeches—and actions—designed to shush the "we don't like Communists" chorus.

QUARRELS—Deportation of the German and Japanese diplomats interned at White Sulphur Springs to their respective homelands might be the equivalent of a United Nations victory in a major battle. In view of authenticated accounts of hair-pulling between the two factions, one doubts that the Berlin-Tokyo alliance could survive the stories they will tell Hitler and Hirohito.

The two families were never friendly when they lived at the capital. Negotiation of the Axis pact several years ago did not improve their social relations at all. They exchanged two formal dinners in recognition of the agreement, but the Aryans continued to regard the Orientals as a race apart and beneath. The Nipponese ing under fire or patrolling the seas should be useful again to Uncle Sam. But except in some individual cases, their pleas have received the brush-off. Legionnaires volunteered to take over the entire civilian defense. They had the collective personnel, local headquarters, discipline and guard practice. Nothing doing. Then they proposed to teach pre-induction instructors who in turn would give the recruits the rudiments of military tactics and deportment and thus speed up training process. Again a negative reply to this and other suggestions.

They were told that the comrades might try selling war bonds or act as airplane spotters—which they did — but the former doughboys sense that any other group can do this as well. A few lucky ones have been transferred to active duties from reserve officer lists, but nearly all new commissions today go to persons who have never smelled powder. Yesterday's heroes are informed that this struggle is different and requires qualifications which they lack. The wearers of the orange and blue bitterly retort, "You bet, it's different, buddy. We never lost a battle in OUR war."

EARS—General Smuts forced Whitehall's hand on Madagascar. While London hesitated lest an aggressive move should shatter the thinly veiled neutrality of Britain, South Africa prepared to seize the island according to inside information received in New York shipping circles from Durban. For weeks Rand newspapers and political figures warned that Tokyo and Vichy were scheming to spring another Indo-China coup.

As revealed some days ago in HULL, IGHG, Cayman Islands, Tu guru, chief of intelligence, and other Nipponese spies were discovered on the big island by Cape Town's own agents. This disclosure convinced the former Boer leader that, even if London were to hold back, he must act to protect Mozambique, Southern Rhodesia, and the Union. Also his people had annexed no territories so far in the west and they wanted a claim staked in the Malagasy jungles for peace table dickering in case France by that time had become an enemy belligerent.

Allied eyes and ears were wide awake here because despite the Anglophobe bias of the Vichy army and civil administrators, the area is filled with English nationals. Thousands of emigrants from British-ruled Mauritius, an island a few hundred miles east of the disputed zone, are residents of Diego Suarez and other cities. Under old treaty rights the see of an Anglican bishop is in the captured colony. Rich Chinese and Hindu merchants also favor the Allies.

DAMAGE—The doom or dominance of America may not be found in the streams of aircraft now flowing from mass production, but rather in India ink lines, still wet on an aeronautical engineer's drawing board. The lesson of the original Battle of Britain has become a mil-

Quaker Father's Attitude One Rarely Found

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

Saw an eye-arresting item in the newspaper yesterday. It concerns a Quaker family in which the father, 44 years old, withdrew from his church because he has enlisted for active combat duty in the military service. He has one son who has been jailed as a conscientious objector, and another son who has enlisted for over-seas non-combat service.

The thrilling thing about that is that the three men of that family each followed the dictates of his own conscience, made his own decision, and one may be fairly sure that the decisions were made after due and serious consideration.

Es Respects Their Rights

Though I personally wish the sons had made the same decision as the father, yet they did act upon their personal lines of reasoning and, evidently the father is one of those rare persons, who recognizes the rights of the individuals, even though they happen to be his sons.

There is no gainsaying that, despite the teachings of psychologists and of those who make a specialty of the study of people's difficulties, it is not always possible (and probably not always wise) in a household of youngsters where mother and father are busy, for them to stop a dozen times a day and say to the small fry, something to the effect: "Sonny, put your coat on. It is so cold today that you need protection or you will freeze the house awake tonight with your whooping and struggling with cough."

Or to daughter: "Tillie, be sure and wear your rubbers. You know you take cold if you get your feet wet. You don't want to have to stay out of school and have to make up work because you are careless, and some people when their feet get chilled and cold do get miserably sick."

Do It and Like It

Most patient parents could sell the youngsters on the idea of why they ought to wear coats or rubbers in bad weather, but there isn't usually the time, so they say sternly and impatiently sometimes: "Sonny, you come back here and get your coat. Put it on." Or, "Tillie, didn't I tell you to wear rubbers, when their feet get wet."

They make the decisions for the small fry in those and other things throughout childhood. The youngsters get it drilled into them that there are some orders to be obeyed, some things they have to do.

The unfortunate thing is that a great many parents can't recognize that the time comes when the child arrives at the age where his rights as a person must be more practically recognized, when he must cut loose from guiding strings, when he not only should have the right to, but must make his own decisions.

There are an infinite number of parents who want to go right on deciding for their children, grown to be 25 or 40 years of age, what they shall or shall not do.

Possibly sometimes the parent's decisions would be the sensible ones, but even so the young folk might better make some few wrong decisions and learn by experience than have mamma and papa put on the pressure, try to force the son or daughter to military or remain single, join the Army or seek deferment, become a ditch digger or an artist, according as mamma or papa prefers.

Followed His Belief

One can know well that a man who was a Quaker by training and association from childhood probably, from deep conviction, would have to feel kindly when he would withdraw from his church to enter combat service.

He might well have said to his son, the conscientious objector: "You can't do that. I won't have it. No son of mine will behave like that. You get in line and accept your duty when it comes to you, and so on and so forth."

But evidently that Quaker father had permitted his son the right of deciding important things for himself; much as it may have disturbed the father.

It is rather startling to think of the number of times during the year, if you have a reasonably wide circle of acquaintances, you will hear how some woman would love to bob her hair but her mother or father or husband or some other person feels so strongly about it and simply insists that the hair is not to be cut. One wonders whose hair that is and who knows how important it is, or is not, to have it bobbed.

Oh, Yes, They Would

Or some man says he'd love to take piano or violin lessons but he really hasn't the nerve because his family would think him a bit silly. "They wouldn't stand for it."

Of course I know that in some instances the person who makes such a comment is fooling himself. The family really doesn't think the whole thing as important as he does, but he likes to think they do, and to talk about it.

Yet for the instance where that is the true explanation of the situation there are a great many others where people aren't doing the things they want to do, the things that would make them happier and healthier and better citizens, because they are held back by the knowledge firmly expressed by husband or wife, parents, or dominating relatives that they must not make such decisions.

Yet why should any one undertake to tell another adult what is the one perfectly right thing for him to do?

I don't mean that it is not a good thing to discuss problems and puzzling situations with other persons, to hear their opinions and get their slant, but it seems to me, too, that every adult has the right, after having thought the thing through, to make the decision that satisfies him . . . when such decision does not materially affect the life and

Society-Club

Concert Tonight—The music department of Howard Junior high school will present its annual concert at 7:30 tonight in the Louis G. Kaufman auditorium. There will be no admission charge and the public is invited. The program will include instrumental and vocal solo and ensemble numbers.

Service at Big Bay—A service will be held at 7:30 Sunday night in the Community church in Big Bay. A Mother's Day theme will be stressed. The Rev. Herbert J. Bryce, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will preach the sermon and Miss Ruth Laux will sing two solos.

Women Workers Meet—All women who have volunteered for the war savings bond drive are asked to meet at 7 tonight in the city hall to receive instructions. It is most important that all be prompt for the meeting will end by 7:30 to permit the workers to attend other meetings and programs.

Meeting Tonight—The Young People's society of the Bethel Baptist church will meet at 8 tonight in the church. There will be a talk by Miss Ann Havings and a reading by Mrs. Dorothy Oman. Mrs. Charles Smythe and Gunnard Rudness will be the soloists on the program. Lunch will be served in the social rooms after the meeting.

Observed Birthday—Mrs. John Cooney, 436 Adams street, celebrated the July 30th birthday club at a party held in her home Wednesday night. Mrs. Simon Girard was the guest of honor. Prizes in "500" were awarded to Mrs. Jacob Corpens, Mrs. Arthur LaRue and Mrs. Simon Girard. Lunch was served at a table covered with a grouping of white candles and tulle, and set with dishes all 30 or 40 years old.

D. A. R. Chapter Lists Officers For This Year

Mrs. J. W. Adriaene was elected regent of the Marquette chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the meeting held Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. George Bishop, North Pine street.

Other officers for the year are: Vice regent, Mrs. Mary Ross Spear; recording secretary, Mrs. F. J. Kepler; corresponding secretary, Mrs. D. S. Garby; treasurer, Mrs. O. E. Brown; registrar, Mrs. A. K. Bennett; historian, Mrs. W. C. Lambert; chaplain, Mrs. W. L. Case. The chapter held seven regular (and one special) meetings last year with an average attendance of 20. The state board met here in September and was entertained at the home of Mrs. Abby Beecher Roberts, Deer Track.

Ranis Hig' in State

Mrs. Harlow Clark reported that there are 44 Junior American Citizens clubs, having a total membership of 1,281. March 1, there were 27 and this number gave Marquette chapter third place among other chapters of the state in forming clubs. The chapter agreed to buy American flags so that one may be presented to the child in each club voted by its club mates to be the best citizen. Mrs. Clark spoke highly of the assistance of Stanley Williams, county school commissioner; Miss Emma Anderson, county nurse, and teachers in the various schools in which these clubs have been started.

It was reported that the Bartlett King loan fund at the Northern Michigan College of Education now totals $2,803, of which $2,099 is loaned. The chapter has contributed 75 per cent to state budget and 10 per cent to national causes. Ten dollars was sent to the Christmas bureau and $12 to Tuomas library at Christmas as well as a large box of books, clothing, and toys to Hindman Settlement school; $5 was given to the J. A. C. committee for the purchase of supplies for the clubs, and $5 to the group making boxes for the men leaving for services.

Approved K. C. Campaign

The chapter approved the Knights of Columbus campaign for decent literature. Two books by Michigan authors were sent to the Michigan Room in Memorial Continental Hall, Washington. Mrs. F. B. Spear, radio chairman, spoke 21 weeks over station WDMJ and was complimented for her work in the D. A. R. magazine. Many cancelled stamps were collected and sent to the national chairman, the proceeds from the sale of which will go to Queens hospital, England. Members of the chapter assisted safety of those for whom he is responsible, except to make them temporarily unhappy, or irritated because they do not get their own way.

One of the thrilling things about being a free human being is that one can weigh circumstances, look over the final and then decide for himself what he (not some other person, be they ever so nice) wants to do.

That story about the Quaker father was cheering news.

Rugs And Other Articles Still Lacking, However

A few days ago townsfolk were asked to cooperate in furnishing the service center for men in military service, to be established in the vacant building on Front street, south of the First Presbyterian church.

The response was one to thrill the hearts of the members of the committee which has been working hard to get the Center available for use by the end of next week.

A woman who was buying new furniture for her living room, cheerfully and proudly, contributed her davenport and over-stuffed chair to the center. A man gave a big, comfortable leather chair.

Look at the List!
From other kindly folk came shades for the window, and, believe it or not, a pool table; drapes, bright and cheery looking, for the windows; metal garden furniture, a flat top writing table and chair; a ping pong table, a phonograph, a studio couch, end tables and a lamp, two card tables, a magazine rack, a smoking stand, leather table covers, a mandolin, two card tables, and a radio.

If you are selling your house, moving, redecorating, or just housecleaning, won't you glance over your possessions and see if there are any of the following articles which are needed and which you will contribute.

Rugs (9 by 12 or larger), card tables, more chairs, ash trays, hunting scenes or other bright pictures, phonograph records, a radio, a small upright piano, a cover for the studio couch, pen and ink set for the desk, some mirrors and some games which you received at Christmas but are no longer using, checker boards, chess sets, anything that provides entertainment for a few fellows.

Ought to Go Over Big
You see with so many Marquette folk pulling together with a will, it is going to be possible to make those rooms look cheerful and inviting to the soldier who has to be here some hours between trains and buses. The walls aren't very beautiful, but gay pictures will help and possibly you have some print that is a lovely piece of material, but which doesn't look well in your rooms. It would be a fine wall hanging for the Service Center.

The committee is saying its prayers, hoping that some one will find in the attic, one or more rugs. Those are especially needed now. Any contributions will be called for. Simply telephone Clarence Bullock or Mayor Biegler.

Save Historical Documents
L. A. Chase, of the Northern Michigan College of Education faculty, and corresponding secretary for the Marquette County Historical society, is chairman of the committee. All historical material is wanted by the county society, and any one coming upon such is asked to bring it to Miss Phyllis Rankin at the Peter White Public Library, who will give it to the Historical society.

The Salvage Committee is also appointing a person to watch for such historical material as papers are brought in on the pick-up route, but naturally, it is better for every one concerned if each person will make it his business to separate historical papers before the waste paper is placed out for collection.

In the material wanted would be letters and letter press books which describe home life, school life, farm life, politics, food costs, celebrations, parades, anything that gives a picture of the yesteryears; also diaries, day books, account books, records and minutes of school districts, churches, cemeteries, lodges and similar organizations; programs and handbills of Fourth of July and similar celebrations, church and school reunions, dedications, fairs, commencements, concerts, and such, and books, pamphlets, letters, newspapers giving Michigan news, items about Michigan authors, before 1900.

The Michigan society doesn't want valuable records junked, and moreover if we all save every scrap of waste newspaper, ordinary letters, magazines, wrapping paper and cartons, we'll roll up a record for salvaged paper that will not make it necessary to sacrifice materials of value from the historical standpoint.

But, remember, collect and sort all waste, make sure that it is picked up before Sunday so the Salvage Committee can report 20 tons sent forward for war industries.

Bay Cliff Health Camp Opens June 29
The Bay Cliff camp committee board met Wednesday and went on record as stressing the opinion that this year, even more than in previous years, it is important that the camp be operated so as many children as possible may be served.

The board announced that the first period of the camp will be from June 29 to August 8.

The 30 orthopedic cases at St. Luke's hospital and clinic will receive the benefits of camp again this year, as will diabetic patients.

This year some of the counselors at the camp, through the cooperation of the Northern Michigan College of Education, will receive credit for work done at camp.

The two candidates selected from Marquette for Good Citizenship Pilgrims were Naomi Vincent, of Graveraet high, and Cleofield Libby, of the John D. Pierce high schools. Miss Libby will receive her pin at graduation and Miss Vincent has received hers. A club has been formed of those girls still in town who have been chosen in the past and it has been meeting regularly. At Christmas this club cared for a needy family.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Bishop.

Committee Sets Goal Of 20 Tons Waste By Saturday

Have you cleared cellar, attic, and desks of all materials that can be salvaged for victory?
By yesterday noon 10 tons had been collected, but the Salvage Committee hopes to double that amount by Saturday.

Get your salvage collected and if you have another sizable heap that hasn't been hauled away, or if you want some information about materials, telephone the city hall office, 121. But whatever you do, make a clean sweep this week and get all that waste material made available for war production equipment. Don't overlook a single bit of rubber or metal; clear out waste paper.

However, note this. The committee on the Conservation of Cultural Resources in Michigan urges "Give Waste Paper" but "SAVE HISTORICAL MATERIAL."

Save Historical Documents
L. A. Chase, of the Northern Michigan College of Education faculty, and corresponding secretary for the Marquette County Historical society, is chairman of the committee. All historical material is wanted by the county society, and any one coming upon such is asked to bring it to Miss Phyllis Rankin at the Peter White Public Library, who will give it to the Historical society.

Physicians And Nurses Meet At Clinic Today
Dr. L. H. Gaston, department chief of the Michigan Emergency Medical service, and Miss Alice Rooney, chief of the Michigan Emergency Nursing service, will be present at a luncheon for doctors and nurses to be held this noon at the Northern Michigan Children's clinic.

At the session to be held after lunch, they will discuss the place and work of doctors and nurses in the emergency services, and give information to the members of the two professions concerning the program. It is anticipated that every county in the Upper Peninsula will be represented by nurses and physicians.

Dr. C. P. Drury will preside at the luncheon session and there will be demonstrations by Dr. N. J. McCann, of Ishpeming; Dr. A. K. Bennett and Dr. R. Grant Jones.

At 8 tonight, under the auspices of the Marquette District Nurses' association, a meeting will be held in the auditorium of the clinic. The guest speaker will be Dr. Matt Bennett, chief medical officer of the Wayne university unit, who is here on a recruiting trip.

Miss Thelma Scratch, representative of the students' nursing service of the Michigan State Nursing school, also will be a speaker.

Woman's Club Pays Honor To Leon Lundmark

The Marquette Woman's club held Mothers and Daughters reception after its program Wednesday afternoon in the clubhouse and also set aside a portion of the afternoon to pay tribute to the late Leon Lundmark, marine artist, whose pictures are found in so many homes in Marquette. The Lundmark picture in the clubhouse was bordered in cedar, tied with a purple ribbon.

Miss Lotta Osterberg played a piano solo, "Refrain De Berceuse" (Palmgren) and Mrs. Charles Bur, accompanied by Mrs. Alex Finlay, sang two solos, "Carissima," by Arthur Penn, and "Song of the Soul" (from "The Climax" by Carl Brel).

Mrs. Abby Beecher Roberts, who was instrumental in founding the club, was its first president and is an honorary member of the organization, was a guest of honor at the meeting. She read two poems from her collection, "Enharmonics," "Of Courage" and "The Khaki Wool." Several members requested that the poems be reprinted and they will appear on this page, one on each of two successive days.

Honored Lundmark
Mrs. L. O. Gant, the program chairman, and Mrs. G. C. Meyland, chairman of the art division, told something of Leon Lundmark's work; spoke of his generosity of which there is reminder in the oil painting of Lake Superior which he gave to the clubhouse, and read the following poem which the artist had written in 1929 and which appeared in The Altadena Press, Altadena, California, under the title, "To the Sea":

Ageless immortal sea
Bathing your shores, in friendly waters, or lashing them with fury.
Your greatness is too vast, to heed the petty flickerings of man, who Gazes awed upon your mystery.

I have watched your surface, when calm and smooth as a mirror,
You borrowed your colors from overhanging clouds, blending them into a hue of Pearls and glittering jewels.

I have been captivated by the baby smile in your tiny ripples,
I have listened to the rhythmic music of a Strauss waltz, In the even rollers, near the shore.

You have taught man to master your forces and make a servant of you,
For the benefit of mankind, Heaping many blessings upon us from your inexhaustible stores.

You have taught us to glide over your vast expanse, from continent to continent, Abiding the endless gap that separates them.

I have dreamed on your shores, of happy moments of freedom, only experienced born On the white wings of a snug craft, over your blue surface, Unhampered by evils of those I thought my friends.

Oh! How many times I've laid my weary head to rest, Sung to sleep by your sweet lullabies.
Poet's have called you "An Artist's Swearheart" and truly, You are my Swearheart, for I love you so.

I have tried to understand you in my humble way, but, although I understand you not,
In loving you, I find joy and happiness, that passes all understanding.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Stephen Lowney, Sr., and Mrs. Harvey Ripley poured at the tea table which had a spring centerpiece, a pottery bowl filled with tulips, hyacinths and daffodils which had been grown in Mrs. R. C. Heynen's garden.

Weddings
Lindquist-Gaspar
Mrs. Katherine Gaspar, of Lansing, a former resident of Marquette, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Patricia Gaspar, to Corporal Lowell Lindquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindquist, 420 Oak street. The double ring ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon in the rectory of St. Peter's cathedral, the Rev. Robert Cordy officiating.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Price.
The bride wore a navy blue and white jacket ensemble with matching hat and a corsage of red and white carnations and blue bachelor buttons, tied with a bow of red, white and blue ribbon. She carried a lace handkerchief which was the gift of an aunt of the groom.

Her attendant also chose a navy blue and white dress and matching hat and wore a corsage of briarcliff roses.
The groom's mother wore a brown dress with a quilted jacket and tan hat, with yellow tea roses forming her corsage.

The bride's mother was unable to attend the wedding.
Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the groom's parents, where the young couple received a number of congratulatory telegrams.

A wedding dinner was served to 35 relatives and intimate friends. The table was trimmed in red, white and blue flowers set in the center of a circle of small American flags. The bride cut, her three-tiered wedding cake which was trimmed with the traditional bride and groom figurines. Mrs. Anna Weeson, Mrs. Ella Fullard, Mrs. George Haupt and Mrs. Marjorie Anderson assisted in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindquist left that evening for a few days' visit in lower Michigan.
The bride is employed at the Michigan Bell Telephone office. The

Northern's Track Squad Meets Michigan Tech in Houghton Tomorrow

19 Olive, Gold Athletes To Make Trip

The Northern Michigan college track team, which dropped its initial contest of the season to the Oshkosh, Wis., Teachers last Saturday, will go to Houghton tomorrow to meet its nearest rivals, the Michigan Tech Engineers, in the first of an annual home-and-home series. Nineteen men will make the trip.

Although they copped seven firsts, the Northern Wildcats lost to Oshkosh by a 65-53 margin in last Saturday's telegraphic meet. The Badgers ran up a healthy string of seconds, besides winning a few events, to win.

Ironing out weak spots noticeable in last week's competition, Coach C. B. Hedgecock has drilled the Olive and Gold athletes hard this week.

Slough, DalSanto Point Winners
Leading the dash men are Norman Slough, a sure point winner in the 440- and 220-yard runs, and John DalSanto, who carvets over the 120- and 220-yard low hurdles—in addition to competing in the pole vault and discus throw.

Art Koski, youngest of three Marquette brothers who have been on Northern's track teams in the last decade, and Earl Lashbrook top the javelin throws and little Benny Montcalm is the No. 1 shot putter. All in all, the entire squad has been shaping up well since last week's loss and Northern is expected to make a strong bid for supremacy over the Tech thimblebats.

Most of the Wildcats competing in cinder and field events this season are expected to be in the armed services by next fall, Coach Hedgecock said yesterday.

Competitors in each event follow: Mile—Clyde Hayward.

Quarter-mile—Norman Slough, Dick Bonifas, Alfred Hakala, Robert Oas.

100-yard dash—Harold Anderson, Wassberg, Robert Gelina.

120-yard high hurdles—John DalSanto, Ikkala, Oie.

Half-mile—Paul Kotilla, Vadnas.

220-yard dash—Slough, Bonifas, Hakala.

220-yard low hurdles—Dal Santo, Ikkala, Benny Montcalm.

Relay—Slough, Bonifas, Hakala, Oas, Vadnas.

Pole vault—DalSanto, Ikkala, Howard Berryman.

High jump—Art Koski, Jack Culver, H. Hansen, Kotilla.

Broad jump—Anderson, Slough, Hansen, Culver, Kotilla, Vadnas.

Shot put—Montcalm, Earl Lashbrook.

Discus—DalSanto, Koski, Lashbrook.

Javelin—Koski, Lashbrook.

and petting parties" because their tires must be saved for possible war use.

One of the officials who has endorsed pending legislation which would authorize the Government to requisition private automobiles, Patterson said an appeal was planned for motorists to sell to the Government any tires they may possess beyond their fifth, or spare.

Emphasizing that the "millions of tons of rubber now rolling on the highways" must be conserved, Patterson said "the time might come when some workers in war plants might have to have the benefit of those tires."

Officials of the Office of Defense Transportation said rationing of passenger space on railroads and inter-city buses was in prospect within the next few months, but that no decisions had been reached on just how this would be done—by issuance of credentials to "essential" travelers or some less formal method.

ODT Manuals Sent to Cities
The ODT published a manual to be sent to every community over 10,000 outlining a system for staggering hours and promoting group use of automobiles. Joseph B. Eastman, director, said the aim of staggering hours was to prevent peak loads of factory workers from using mass transportation facilities at the same hours as school children, office workers and shoppers.

The ODT manual, saying some workers would find themselves with only three usable tires, suggested "an exchange should therefore be set up which will provide the medium for getting the tires from such automobiles into use on some other autos which have reached a similar state of tire wear."

The House committee on coinage, weights and measures decided to investigate "the various sources of rubber and rubber substitutes in the Western Hemisphere with the intent of determining whether or not curtailment of civilian uses is necessary."

Car Requisitioning Not Near
An independent rubber dealer, Elliot E. Simpson, of New York, had told the committee that South and Central America had enough rubber trees now to meet "all the requirements of our war effort and the needs of our people many times over."

Other rubber experts have asserted that Latin America could supply only a fraction of this country's needs.

Chairman Reynolds (D-NC), of the Senate committee considering the auto requisitioning bill, said there was no immediate prospect that requisitioning would be necessary. His statement was made in a telegram to Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association, who protested

Giants And Pirates Split Doubleheader

PITTSBURGH, May 7.—P.—The New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates had the major league stage entirely to themselves today and divided a doubleheader by way of keeping everything even.

The Pirates plodded to a 2-1 victory in 11 innings in the first game and then were set down, 6-2, in the nightcap which Buster Maynard enhanced with a three-run homer.

Inclement weather forced postponement of all other games in both big leagues.

Young Alford Wilkie limited the Giants to five hits over the long route of the opener, while his teammates punched Bob Carpenter for a dozen, but a short sista by Shortstop Pete Coscarart, of Pittsburgh, kept Wilkie from a shutout.

Beats Delayed Throw Home
In the fifth inning Hank Danning opened with a single and reached third on a double to left by Maynard, recent recruit from Jersey City. Nick Witke was intentionally passed to load the bases and then Carpenter lifted a lazy fly to Coscarart in short left. The former Dodger held onto the ball for a moment while he surveyed the scene. Danning raced home from third—easily beating the delayed throw.

Pittsburgh tied the score in the sixth when Johnny Barrett doubled and Jim Wassell singled and after threatening repeatedly the Pirates won in the 11th when Elbie Fletcher singled, was sacrificed to second and came home on a single by Bob Elliott.

Dave Koslo, a freshman lefthander of the Giants, pitched seven-hit ball in the second game, but the Pirates scored first and led, 2-1, coming up to the seventh inning, when the Giants plunked four runs across against the previously undefeated Heinzelman.

Homer Clears Bases
Bill Jurgens opened this rally with a single, went to second on a passed ball and Mel Ott walked. When Johnny Mize laid down a surprise bunt, Heinzelman threw late to third and the bases were filled. Danning lined to center, scoring Jurgens, and after Willard Marshall also had been retired, Maynard hit his homer.

The Giants finished their 12-hit offensive with a run off Lloyd Dietz in the ninth.

Negannee Women Go To Bowling Conference

NEGAUNEE, May 7.—Two Negannee women's bowling teams will leave for Milwaukee, Wis., Friday morning on the "Peninsula 400" to participate in the Women's National Bowling conference.

Four delegates will represent the Women's Snowbelt league at the conference. They are Agnes Conway, Hilda Carlson, Minnie Williams and Fannie Violetta.

The teams are the Vigos, composed of Margaret and Antoinette Langlois, "Toots" Bennett, Rita Scanlon and Ollie Hemmilla, and Ki's Bar, composed of Fannie Violetta, Josie Violetta, Josie Richards, Jennie Pezzotti, Mary Kemp, Mary Adamini and Lucille Guizzetti.

Harry Lytle Hits 300-Mark In Ishpeming

ISHPEMING, May 7.—Long and lean Harry Lytle southpawed his hook ball into the pocket for a perfect 300 score last night, the first time the dream game has been rolled on the Sportland lanes.

The last strike had all the drama, the thrill and suspense of a ninth-inning homer with the bases loaded and two down.

Lytle was by far the most non-chalant of the crowd in the alleys. Picking up his ball for the last time he turned to the crowd near him and lightly said, "Well, I suppose this is the one you want."

No. 7 Stubborn
Then he let it go and nine pins slid off the alleys. No. 7 pin apparently stood. But even as the disappointed moans started, they were choked off by knowledge that No. 7 was spinning like a top. Barely discernible at first, the spinning became obvious as the revolutions slowed. Slowly the pin rose on edge and finally kicked over for the strike and a perfect game.

While it took only seconds to fall, it seemed like hours to the crowd which let out a roar that shook the alleys, and Lytle was mobbed by the fans of the spring training season. He was a star miler in high school at Wilmington, Calif. Now he'd rather walk for his runs, no doubt. Charles C. Spink and Son really have gone to town on their official baseball record book and dope book this year. Both publications cover their fields like bird dogs.

Browns Keep Faith
The St. Louis Browns may not be the most financially successful of major teams, but they know how to leave them smiling when they say good-bye to a minor league franchise. The Browns withdrew from Youngstown, Ohio, and Frank B. Ward, of the Vidicator, reports . . . "The organization quit Youngstown with a splendid reputation for business integrity. . . . They did everything they promised to do and left without owing a penny. . . . They were never niggardly in their dealings with local business houses—and their word was as good as their bond." A bow to Donald L. Barnes and his hard-pressed aides for keeping the faith, ons, however, experts here said that it appeared to be thrusting out for island stepping-stones to New Caledonia, where United States troops recently joined the defending Free French force, or to the New Hebrides, farther to the east.

Navy Proud of Action
There was speculation that the American ships involved were organized as a task force of the kind that on three known occasions had struck at the enemy in the Pacific. First of these occasions was the raid on the Marshall and Gilbert islands when 16 ships and 41 planes were destroyed in a surprise raid.

Later a task force raided Japanese-held Wake and Marcus islands and carrier-based planes blasted shore installations.

On a third occasion officially reported a task force operating west of the Gilbert islands in an area of some 100 miles from the coast of the Solomon, was attacked by two nine-plane squadrons of Japanese bombers and 16 of the 18 attackers were shot down.

Naval authorities here were proud of the successful American action near the Solomons, especially since it was the first of the new news of the fall of Cororador. Even the Navy communique, ordinarily couched in most disinterested phrases, opened with the statement "very excellent news has been received."

compliance. He said finally his hand-riding of the board's intent had been clarified satisfactorily. Chairman William H. Davis expressed his hope for a retraction of the ex parte charge, asserting he had led the public to believe the board conducted a proceeding with one side represented and not the other.

Session Ends Amid Applause
"I don't know what an ex parte hearing is myself," said Wilson, pleading with the chairman not "to force me to take a position on that one."

"The trouble is," said the chairman, "that the American people do know what an ex parte hearing is, and you don't."

Wilson explained that he did not mean any unfair advantage had been taken and he meant no reflection on the board; Chairman Davis accepted the explanation, and the session ended amid applause from board members.

The contract with the CIO United Automobile Workers which expired April 28 provided for double time pay rates for Sunday and holiday work, as such, even when such work was within the four-week period. In recent weeks ALF-CIO leaders agreed with the President to forego those premium rates. A formula was worked out, and applied by the board recently in the International Harvester case providing for double time only for the seventh consecutive day of an employee's work week. Thus the days of the week lost their individual identity and there was no premium pay for Sundays or holidays as such.

Fitzsimmons To Retire?
Bob Elliott, of Pittsburgh, and Eddie Miller, of Boston, who may play side by side at third base and shortstop on the National league all-star team in July, were born on the same day, November 26, 1916. . . . The Cleveland Indians will carry 12 pitchers and only two catchers this summer. . . . Washington has only four outfielders on its squad. . . . Manager Leo Durocher and Pitcher Fred Fitzsimmons are expected to retire from the active list when the Dodgers cut their squad.

Hopp, Coscarart in Stump
Johnny Hopp, of St. Louis Cardinals' hitting sensation of last season, has an average of .083 for his 12 trips to the plate this spring. . . . And Pete Coscarart, the Pirates' regular shortstop, was batting .094 last week, but since has managed to get into the 150 neighborhood. . . . Joe DiMaggio has been taking some private morning batting practice at Yankee stadium. . . . Bobby Doerr credits a white stance for his spectacular hitting. . . . Says he experimented too much last year.

Bagby's Father Unpiring
Jim Bagby, the Cleveland pitcher, says his father, the "Old Sarge," is unpiring in one of the little leagues down south. . . . He does not know which one. . . . Taylor Spink, of Sporting News, suggests baseball fans send Mother's day greetings to Mrs. Christina Gehrig, Mount Vernon, N. Y., Lou's mother. . . . The Jersey City club, which used to be called the nine old men, now has an infield averaging 20 1-2 years of age. . . . Don Guttridge, of the Browns, has not lost any of his aggressiveness; playing second base in a recent game he took a fly that bounced off the center field fence.

Down Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, May 7.—Midweek sports hash:

There are as many volunteer cops as there are spectators at the league ball games these days. When a ball goes into the stands every eye turns in that direction. If the ball isn't returned immediately (to go into the service chest) a low rumble of boos sweeps the premises. Except when a man in uniform grabs it. Then the yell is: "Keep it." Al Diebolt, Colgate's hemistich runner, has been voted the senior "most to be admired." They can do that again. He overcame more handicaps than a blindfolded color expert.

Average Bombarder
"So you'd like to be a bombardier? Well, the average lad in that job as determined at the Midland, Tex., Army flying school is 23 years old, 5'7" inches tall, and weighs 160 pounds. Cadet John V. Hoggan of Niagara Falls, N. Y., meets all specifications. The rebuilt golf ball should be right down the alley for Craig Wood. There's a gent who rebuilt his golf swing at the age of 38 and won the open. Nanny Fernandez currently at or near the top in National league batting, was the flop of the spring training season. He was a star miler in high school at Wilmington, Calif. Now he'd rather walk for his runs, no doubt. Charles C. Spink and Son really have gone to town on their official baseball record book and dope book this year. Both publications cover their fields like bird dogs.

Canillil Real Sluggo
Dolph Canillil was chosen the N. L. most valuable player last year although he hit only .285. What made him most valuable, then? It was his slugging average, which tells much more of what a player is doing for his team than the simple batting average. The batting average is figured by dividing the hits by the at-bats to three decimal places. The slugging average is the total bases divided by the at-bats. Canillil's slugging average was .55. Our Mr. Sid Feder reported that, with the Derby day wagering totaling $1,983,011, the war bond booths did a booming business of $200. No printable comment.

PT41, with Squadron Commander Bulkeley and Ensign Cox and PT34 commanded by Lieutenant Kelly and Ensign Richardson aboard proceeded to the point and arrived at 11:30 p. m.

"We met the Jap cruiser at this point, with one destroyer close by and two additional destroyers in the nearby vicinity. PT41 attacked first and struck twice. PT34, under heavy shellfire and illumination, attacked and struck twice."

Getting Away Another Story
That was his story of the sinking of the cruiser. He told how it was engulfed in heavy smoke and began sinking by the stern, finally going under in approximately 20 minutes.

Getting away was another story. "One enemy destroyer chased PT34 to Cebu where it (PT34) was dive-bombed by four seaplanes at dawn," he said. "Lieutenant Kelly shot down one seaplane."

"PT30 was chased to north Mindanao where it lost its pursuers in a fast burst of speed."

What do men feel when they go to the attack in their tiny boats? "After the first attack," Bulkeley said, "the officers and sailors were cool and calm in action. They felt that in making the attack they were avenging Pearl Harbor and Cavite. All felt they did what was expected of them and no more. They were doing their job."

Woman Has 800 Pounds Of Sugar on Hand

BLOOMINGTON, Ill.—P.—One woman, a nearby Normal, Ill., living alone, told rationing officials she has 800 pounds of sugar on hand.

Pierce Ready For District Track Meet

Preparing for their initial competition of the season, the district high school meet held Saturday, May 16, sponsored by the Northern Michigan College of Education, the J. D. Pierce thimblebats have stepped up their daily workouts at College field.

With several lettermen back in the fold, Pierce fans are looking forward to one of the school's best track seasons. This is not being overly optimistic, for the training school has, strictly in the upper bracket last year, have an above-average chance to better last year's showing, according to optimistic reports from the North End.

Lloyd Rose is a terror in the half-mile this year, and Bob "Big Boy" Williams has been stepping out in the quarter-mile. Jimmy Smith and Darrell "Parson" Hutchens also are 440-yard standouts.

Ray Ahlsten and Jim Menace have worked hard on improving their yards in the dashes. Menace's six-foot, four-inch height is expected to help him in climbing over the hurdles, and Ahlsten, who won the century dash in the district meet last year, is working back to his old form again.

Wendell "Chief" Anderson, Don Robare and Calvin "Slug" Johnson are running the mile, with Anderson usually the first one to stagger over the finish line.

Will Timmon really sails when he goes over the bar on the high jump and pole vault and is expected to go places this year. Louis Burton is working out in the broad jump.

Cobb Visits Detroit To See Bomber Plant

DETROIT, May 7.—P.—Tyus Raymond Cobb, 55-year-old former Detroit Tiger outfielder and manager, returned today to the scene of his baseball triumphs expressing primary interest in the war and his golf game.

Cobb, stopping off from Georgia enroute to his home in California, said he hoped to get a look at Detroit war industries, particularly the Willow Run bomber plant. He found time this afternoon to have an Al Watrous, Detroit pro, check his golf game which normally is in the high seventies.

But Ty didn't overlook baseball entirely. He's planning to attend the Detroit-Cleveland game here Saturday.

Devil Diver Impressive

Devil Diver was more impressive than his Greentree stablemate, Shut Out, in comparative workouts, although the Derby winner was under more restraint. Under Eddie Arcaro, who'd ride him again Saturday, Devil Diver went a mile and one-eighths in 1:54 while Shut Out covered the same distance in 1:56 2-5. The only other Preakness candidate called upon for speed today was Mill River stable's Fair Call, which stepped five furlongs in 1:01 1-5.

Louis B. Mayer's imported Domingo, a surprise probable starter, arrived from New York this afternoon, while William DuPont, Jr.'s, Fryer Manah faded out of the picture and was ordered shipped back to the Foxcatcher farm in Maryland.

Motorcycle Recovered; Man Won't Prosecute

SALT LAKE CITY.—P.—Fonton Egidio has recovered his motorcycle, taken from his parking place near his home, but he isn't going to prosecute.

He reported the loss to police, who told him officers removed the machine to the police garage after neighbors had telephoned to report it was being stripped.

ISHPEMING, May 7—The controversy over appointment of a city health officer will be decided in circuit court.

The city council last night, after a discussion by City Attorney H. J. Potter of the litigation instituted when the aldermen elected Dr. J. P. Bertucci to replace Dr. N. J. McCann, decided to take no action until the case has been heard by Circuit Judge Bell.

Scheduled for May 16, it appeared last night that the hearing would be delayed because of the inability of all principals to be present on that date.

City Attorney Potter said there "is a meritorious question" to be determined in the case, and added that the particular application of the veterans' preference act on which Dr. McCann challenges the action of the council has never been clearly defined in a Michigan court.

Who Is Health Officer Now?

ISHPEMING, May 7—While a circuit court decision is awaited to determine who, finally, will be city health officer of Ishpeiming, there is sharp division of opinion as to who should be recognized as head of the health department until the court ruling is forthcoming.

Dr. J. P. Bertucci, elected health officer at the council's April meeting, today said he had been unable to get the keys to the city health office from Dr. N. J. McCann, who started court action in his effort to retain the office under the veterans' preference act.

It's a Puzzle
Dr. Bertucci's secretary this afternoon said that when, in behalf of the health officer-elect, she asked for the keys, Dr. McCann said: "My attorney advises me that I am health officer until a court determines otherwise."

Dr. Bertucci countered by saying he had been advised that inasmuch as he had qualified for the office and that the term of office for which Dr. McCann had been named in April, 1941, had expired, he (Bertucci) should be recognized as city health officer until a court of law ruled otherwise.

Just what the average citizen of Ishpeiming might do if circumstances demand immediate presence of or action by the city health officer, is, it would seem, something of a puzzle.

Republic Firemen Give Dancing Party Tonight

REPUBLIC, May 7—The Republic fire department will sponsor the first of a series of dancing parties Friday night in the Community building.

The department will continue to hold dances monthly and the proceeds will go into its treasury. If possible, a lung motor will be purchased this summer.

Council Puts Maloney On Police Force

ISHPEMING, May 7—William Maloney, who has served the city on numerous occasions as a special police officer, last night was appointed by the council to serve as a regular member of the force.

There were four other applicants for the position. The action followed support by the council of a committee report in which it was recommended that the extra police officer be added to the force to bring it up to the standard of one policeman for each 1,000 population.

Alderman Phare, Sixth ward, brought up the question of war veterans' preference when it was noted that two of the candidates for the job served with the armed forces in the World War. City Attorney Potter explained that the veterans' preference act, a state law, would not apply if the council decided that the war veterans who applied for appointment were not as well qualified as the man chosen. Maloney is not a war veteran.

Ilf Schiska, Jalmer Upperstrom, William Johnson, John Donaldson, William Hakala, John Sullivan and George Durfee.

Andy Peterson's six-piece orchestra, of Iron Mountain, will furnish the music and $10 worth of war stamps will be given away during the intermission.

Ishpeiming Briefs

Mrs. Sam Story has arrived here from Honolulu to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Pennala, of North Lake.

The Leaders' Association of the Girl Scouts will meet Saturday noon at the Winter Sports club house. Members are asked to 'phone 476 for reservations.

Ninety-eight Ishpeiming high school girls will attend the Girls' conference in Negaunee Saturday. Miss Jeannette Johnson will be in charge of the Ishpeiming group, assisted by Miss Hazel Elson and Miss Margaret Sullivan.

Members of Hanbet lodge may pay their dues to the secretary this afternoon, or at the meeting this evening. Dues must be paid by May 10. The lodge will hold a public card party tonight after the meeting.

The spring music festival presented by the high school music department will be held at 8:15 Friday evening, May 15, in the high school auditorium. About 200 pupils, members of the mixed chorus, girls' glee club, band and orchestra will take part. Tickets are being sold by members of the organizations. The admission price is nominal.

Phelps Appointed To Public Library Board

ISHPEMING, May 7—Superintendent C. L. Phelps last night was appointed to the board of the Carnegie Public Library, succeeding Mrs. C. C. Cowpland, who resigned because she has moved out of the city. At the same time the council concurred in appointments made by the library board, effective May 1, because of the death of Miss Ursula Ropes, first assistant librarian.

Appointees are Miss Ruby Verquist, first assistant librarian; Miss Betty Sjolander, second assistant, and Miss Phyllis Perring, third assistant.

About 1,000 comets have been noted since the beginning of recorded history.

Cold Weather Retards Whitewashing of Barns

ISHPEMING, May 7—Whitewashing of dairy barns has been retarded by cold weather. Lloyd Guy, milk and dairy inspector, reported to the city council last night. During the month Mr. Guy made 46 inspections, of which 15 were completed while he was accompanied by a state inspector.

He also made 20 inspections of delivery vehicles on milk distribution routes.

650 Girls Will Attend Conference

NEGAUNEE, May 7—A record-breaking number of girls will attend the sixth annual Older Girls' conference in Negaunee Saturday.

Reservations received up to noon today totaled 650 and it is expected that the list will be increased Friday.

Registration will begin at 8:45 a. m. in the main floor hallway of the high school and the conference will open at 9:30 in the high school auditorium with Miss Lyllis Goldsworthy, of Negaunee high school, presiding.

Luncheon will be served from 12 to 1:30 in the St. Paul and Central grade school gymnasiums. Girls receiving peach colored tickets will attend the luncheon at St. Paul's and those who have white tickets will go to the Central school.

Tea Dance Ends Program
The afternoon session will begin at 2 in the high school gymnasium with Miss Elizabeth Neumann, of Negaunee high school, presiding.

A tea dance at 4 will conclude the conference and at 4:15 the business meeting of conference advisors will be held in Miss Hedwig Carlson's office in the Central grade school.

Each school group will present a portion of program. Mrs. Horace Roberts, of Marquette, former professional dancer; Mrs. Lucille Barber, psychologist and child guidance director in Marquette schools, and Miss Gitta Sereny, Hungarian refugee who is doing road work in this country, are the principal speakers.

Opening Session
The program follows: Prelude, "My Own America"—Negaunee girls' sextet and Celia Terzaghi, Frances Trotschaud, Vera Ellis, Elaine Renfors, Shirley Roger, Betty Dahlquist, Nora Annear, Eleanor Bessolo, Ada Trembath, Beatrice Kevern, Shirley Birch, Helen Thompson and Doris Vincent, Helen Raatikainen, director, and Carol Johnson, accompanist.

"Sing, Sing, Sing for Victory"—Miss Helen Raatikainen, leader. Miss Carol Johnson, accompanist. "Triolettes"—Graveraet high school—Margaret Johnson, Susan Peterson, Elna Anderson.

"History of the Dance"—Mrs. Horace Roberts, accompanist, Mrs. Thomas Graf, introduction of Mrs. Roberts by Adeline Eassmusen. "Indian Lullaby" (Vogt), "Land of the Sky Blue Water" (Cadm)—Grace Hampton, Joyce Maddern, Ellen Norman, June Thompson and Elizabeth Rheinhardt, Ishpeiming high school.

Luncheon Meetings

Civilian War Class To See Bomb Movies

NEGAUNEE, May 7—"The Bombing of London," a motion picture film taken during an actual air raid on that city will be shown as a part of the training course for volunteer civilian war workers Friday night at 7:30 in the high school auditorium.

Every member of the protective service groups in the civilian war setup is required to have gas defense instruction and all volunteers, whether assigned to divisions or a waiting placement, are urged to attend Friday night when the course will be started.

The instruction will be given to established classes for air raid wardens, being conducted under the direction of R. A. Gilmour with the assistance of W. H. Nordling and Chief of Police Arne Pynnonting. The latter will give gas defense instruction.

Volunteers Notified
Clerks in the civilian war office have notified all volunteers who have telephones. Men employed in mines have not been assigned to protective services or called to take instruction, because the council was informed at the beginning of the program that all miners would report to the mines in the event of an air attack. Miners who will be able to attend classes and qualify for positions are requested to call the civilian war office, 666, and inform the registrar.

Volunteers who have been assigned to classes and who do not plan to take the instruction course will not be qualified and are asked to notify the registrar.

Mother's Day Program In Calvary Church
NEGAUNEE, May 7—The Young People's society of the Calvary Baptist church will present a Mother's Day program at 8 Saturday evening in the church. The Rev. N. J. Hedstrom, of Gladstone, will be the guest speaker and refreshments will be served in the church parlors.

The program follows: Song—"Mother's Bible"—Congregation. Bible reading and prayer—John Peterson. Vocal duet—Edward Anderson and Ben Bertell. Vocal solo—Mrs. Alphonse Peterson. Electric guitar solo—Mr. J. Matthews. Vocal duet—Jack and Janet Holbrook. Address—Rev. N. J. Hedstrom. Vocal duet—Betty Johnson and Ruth Bertell. Baritone solo—Mr. Grant Rowledge. Song—"Memories of Mother"—Church choir. Benediction.

Editor's Mail

Editor, Mining Journal:
I recently talked with a young woman who teaches in the Champion school. She said the teachers in that school worked until 9 p. m. assisting with the distribution of sugar rationing cards. I asked her what remuneration they received for their services and she informed me there was no benefit, that they considered it a patriotic privilege to donate their services to help in the war effort.

I have just come from interviewing Mr. Tom Collins, a member of our board of education, and I asked him from where was the appropriation coming to pay those working on the sugar rationing board in Negaunee, who are, I am told, receiving or will receive $5 a day for working on the board.

Mr. Collins told me he did not know, as Mr. Doolittle had not taken it up with the board. He did say, however, that after the meeting Mr. Doolittle phoned him or got in touch with him and said that undoubtedly he should have taken the matter up at the board meeting, but that it slipped his mind.

Let us pray that our heroic men who are defending this country, from General MacArthur down, are not as absent-minded as Mr. Doolittle appears to be.

I asked Mr. Collins if Mr. Doolittle had taken it upon himself to select a registrar and assure a payment of $5 a day to those selected to do the registering, and he said "yes."

Mr. Collins was elected to a seat on the school board because the public wanted to know more about school affairs and I told him consequently it was his duty to take this matter up with Mr. Doolittle and to insist that Mr. Doolittle make known to the public from whom he received the authority to proceed in this matter as he has done and whether or not his superiors authorized the payment of $5 a day to those working on the sugar rationing, and if he was instructed to make said payment from the funds allotted for the maintenance of our Negaunee schools and that he (Mr. Doolittle) be asked to either rescind the offer he made or pay it personally, if he cannot give the public a satisfactory explanation of his actions.

Very truly yours,
MRS. W. L. STANAWAY,

City To Send Delegates To League Meet

ISHPEMING, May 7—At the council meeting last night Ishpeiming was invited to send representatives to the Upper Peninsula conference of the Michigan Municipal league, to be held June 4 and 5 at the Breitung hotel in Negaunee.

It is expected that a large Ishpeiming delegation will attend some of the sessions.

Present plans call for a special meeting of city assessors with members of the state tax commission to review assessment problems.

An official district meeting of the state defense council is also being planned.

League Commended
In another communication, the league asked endorsement of a 10 per cent increase in membership dues. After it was read pleas for support of the league were made by veteran members of the council.

Alderman H. J. Adams spoke of the savings which the league had made possible for the city through its cooperation on street lighting rates and Alderman P. J. O'Brien, addressing new members of the council, said the investment the council had made in league dues had been returned manifold through savings effected as a result of the league's advice and counsel.

Stocks Stage Comeback; Turnover Best In Week

Top Prices Reduced In Late Trading

NEW YORK, May 7.—P.—The stock market did a quick comeback today, after yesterday's slight stumble, with selected industrials advancing fractions to more than a point.

Encouraging from a brokerage slant was that volume, while still under a paying figure, was the best in more than a week.

Forward leanings predominated at the start. Prices, highest around mid-day, retreated here and there after noon and closing trends for most favorites were under the tops.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 4.4 points at 338. Transfers of 343,250 shares were the largest since April 29 and compared with 267,890 Wednesday.

Pay Increase Denied City Employees

ISHPEMING, May 7—There will be no immediate salary or wage increase for city employees and officials, but the council promised last night that if other cities in the county increase wages and salary schedules, corresponding action will be taken here.

The matter was discussed at length by the salaries committee of the council in a recess session. While the committee meeting was not public, it was known that some members favored a pay increase. Employees petitioned for a boost of approximately 20 per cent. This was rejected by the board of public works.

This board's decision was referred to the salaries committee, which deliberated half an hour while the remainder of the council awaited its decision.

Committee Report
The report of the salaries committee follows:
"Your committee on salaries begs leave to report that we have had the questions of salaries and wages under consideration and while the majority of the committee feels that an increase in wages and salaries should be made at this time, we recognize the reasons set forth in the board of public works report and recommend that if any of the other units of the county make upward adjustments in their wage and salary schedules, that the city of Ishpeming take corresponding action."

In denying the employees' petition the board of public works submitted the following report:
"In the matter of the petition of city employees for wage increase, which your board has since considered and investigated from every angle involved, and now begs leave to submit the following report as unanimously agreed upon at its regular monthly meeting held on May 5:
Not Below County Level
"The board of public works has studied the petition of city employees under its jurisdiction for a 20 per cent increase in wages, and has made an investigation of the wages and salaries paid in neighboring cities and by the Marquette county road commission. This investigation shows that the wages and salaries paid by the city of Ishpeming are comparable with those being paid by the city of Ishpeming in other comparable cities which are being paid in neighboring cities and by the Marquette county road commission, with the exception of a few special instances where local conditions are different."
"For the following reasons this board of public works cannot see its way clear at this time to recommend any advances in its wage and salary list:
1. Wages and salaries being paid by Ishpeming are comparable with those paid by other county units.
2. The President of the United States and the price control administration are making a determined effort to freeze salaries, wages, rents and commodity prices throughout the nation. We believe it is our patriotic duty to loyally cooperate with the Administration.
Would Upset Budget
"3. The city of Ishpeming operates under a budget system and present budget allotments were based on a scale of wages and salaries as of May, 1941. Each year for many years past, this board has made a sincere effort to live within its budget. We do not believe any steps should be taken at this time to upset the same.
"The board of public works is sympathetic toward the idea of increasing the income of the city's loyal employees, but at this time of national emergency, it is necessary to conserve our reserves for unforeseen demands that we may be called upon to meet.
"Just as soon as any improvement in present uncertain and precarious conditions can be foreseen, your board will be glad to reconsider the matter of this petition."

Waste Paper Reserve

Salvage operations by the Monroe county, Mich., civilian defense council created this reserve stock pile at one of Monroe's three paper mills for conversion to paper board boxes for shells and other war material. Waste paper shown here, gathered in a thorough house-to-house canvass, is sufficient to feed one of the mills for 20 days. The plant's output is about 500 tons a day. (Associated Press photo.)

Tools Big Factor in War Implement Production Job

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Wids World Automotive Editor

DETROIT, May 7—It takes a lot of tools to put the implements of war into mass production.

The automobile industry, devoting all its capacity to fabricating and assembling equipment for the armed forces of the nation and its Allies, has learned this in a relatively few months. It isn't only new tools but replacements that are needed.

A slight change in the specifications of an aircraft engine, an Army tank, anti-aircraft cannon or in the sub-assemblies for pursuit and bomber planes means a re-tooling job of varying proportions. It takes on major proportions when an entirely new weapon is put into production.

Tank Riveter Discarded
No small re-tooling job was involved in the production of the redesigned medium weight Army tank. It is now coming off several assembly lines as a streamlined, all-welded hull model, with increased fire power and many other changes from the original riveted type. Despite the big re-tooling job the new model went into production with only a slight halt off the assembly lines rolled off the last of the riveted jobs.

One of the larger pieces of tool equipment that went into the discard when the all-welded tank came out was a gigantic cold riveting machine used, as one worker explained, to "stitch" the armor plate at the hull. Aside from the great cranes that lift body parts, turrets and caterpillar treads around in the tank assembly plants the riveter was one of the heaviest tools in use.

In appearance it looked like a gargantuan micrometer. It traveled on a crane that could tip it at almost any angle and pressed rather than hammered the rivets tight. The giant riveters were used only a little more than a year and although they were costly machines they are ready to be scrapped as the last word in welding technique displaces the slower "stitching" job.

Newer, Better Tools in Use
The riveters were discarded because they were "out of date."

How much other equipment used in the process of assembling the scores of other items of war material has been discarded probably never will be totaled up. However, all down the line from the tank arsenals to the shops where tiny ball bearings are made, newer, better and faster ways are being developed and put into use.

The results are shown in the rapidly growing volume of production and the "ahead of schedule" reports from most of the individual manufacturers.

Regional Forensic Meet at Trenary Monday
ISHPEMING, May 7—The regional forensic contest will be held in Trenary Monday, May 11. The extempore, oratorical and declamatory divisions will be held in the afternoon and the oratory and dramatic declamation in the evening.

Ishpeming will represent this district in extempore, oratory and dramatic declamation, the contestants being Elisha Greifer, George Miller and Beverly Stevens, respectively. Miss Pauline Renne and Ben Renz, of the faculty, will accompany the contestants to Trenary.

Police Found Sixteen Store Door Unlocked
ISHPEMING, May 7—Every night throughout the year, in rain, shine or storm, Ishpeming's police officers make their rounds and check doors of business houses. The work is not futile, for often they find store doors unlocked. In April, for instance, there were 16 cases of that kind.

The police also investigated 134 calls and complaints in April, gassed five dogs, investigated 16 auto accidents, reported 98 street lights out, traveled 2,237 miles in the police car, issued one parking violation ticket, gave 70 examinations for operator's and chauffeur's licenses and gave lodging to 73 transients in the city jail.

Four million gallons of water are consumed daily in the U. S. steel industry to cool machinery and produce steam.

John Koski, residing near the rock crusher, asked the city to install a culvert and repair the driveway to his home from the highway so it may be used next winter.

John Ruona asked for reimbursement of $6 for a broken eye glass lens. He claims that the stop sign on the northwest corner of Cleveland avenue and Second streets extends over the sidewalk and he hit it while walking on the sidewalk April 1. It was referred to the claims and accounts committee and the city attorney.

Ishpeming Council Notes

Wednesday night's meeting was the longest in seven years and the room was stifling hot. Steam up and all windows closed, because when they are opened they send a direct downward draft on the heads of five aldermen.

Some good came of it, because on motion of Alderman H. J. Adams, which brought a murmur, "Good idea" from Mayor Johnson, the council voted to install an oscillating fan.

Proctor Maynard's social science class and they might as well be told they're known to the council as "Maynard's kids"—was present in full force. And some of the boys particularly asked that it be mentioned that Claude Farrell's class also was there.

During recess meetings of two committees, City Recorder W. J. Brewer and City Attorney H. J. Potter came over to Mr. Maynard and answered questions posed by the students. The officials stood up well under cross-examination.

When the council came to election of an additional police officer, Alderman Phare pointed out two applicants referred to World war experience and asked if that "would apply here again." One of the school kids tittered and the laugh ran through the crowd. Even the aldermen enjoyed the incident.

Mayor Johnson had a lot of things on his mind last night and he held the council there until he checked them all off. The mayor made a few campaign promises. He said he made, the community may be well assured, are going to be fulfilled if he can manage it.

Not a campaign promise, but a matter brought to his attention since election is the desire of employees to be paid semi-monthly instead of monthly. He expressed the opinion this would be a benefit to the employees. Upon motion of Alderman P. J. O'Brien this was referred to the finance and taxation committee, the board of public works and all boards having payrolls to handle.

James Mooney, Ninth ward alderman, thanked the council for flowers sent him during his recent illness.

Cigars were handed out by City Attorney Potter and Police Chief Eckloff, as a courtesy after being re-named to their respective positions for another year.

William Trebblecock was reappointed to the cemetery board.

The Winter Sports club was asked to present a financial statement in support of its request for financial assistance.

Application of Tom Pallas for a Class C liquor license when a vacancy exists was placed on file.

Two Chickenpox Cases Reported Last Month
ISHPEMING, May 7—Two cases of chicken-pox were reported to the Ishpeming health officer in April and were the only communicable diseases reported for the month. There were 30 birth and 35 deaths. Causes of death were: Heart disease, 4; cancer three; cerebral hemorrhage and uremia, two, and chronic nephritis, lobar pneumonia, stillbirth and suicide, one each. The usual examinations were made of the city and North Lake water supplies and the high school pool.

The public health nurse report shows 815 inspections in 28 school visits, followed up by 56 home calls.

Two pupils were excluded from school because of illness in their families.

Boulder Dam, highest in the world, was completed four years, 354 days after work was begun.

Ex-Aldermen Honored By City Council

ISHPEMING, May 7—Resolutions marking the departure from the council of Aldermen Joseph Kenney, John Fandrem and Michael J. Ryan and paying tribute to the service they gave the city were adopted by unanimous vote of the council last night.

The resolutions follow:
"Whereas, Joseph M. Kenney, alderman from the first ward, is voluntarily retiring from this council, having refused to again present his name before the people as a candidate for alderman because he has a civil service position; that he has served the city of Ishpeming for many years and was particularly active on the council, having acted as president of the council and chairman of the ordinance and legislation committee and police committee, and was also active on the finance and taxation committee, claims and accounts and salaries; that his work as president of the council and as chairman of the ordinance and legislation committee and police committee was particularly outstanding and of benefit to the city; that his ready wit and humor and his ability to make quick retorts frequently saved an embarrassing situation or permitted aldermen who were in the midst of an argument to cool off; that the outstanding feature of his humor was that it never left a sore spot or hard feelings with anyone; that he was trusted and respected by every alderman and official; that it can be truthfully said that the city has lost, through his voluntary retirement, one of its most efficient public servants, and that it is to be regretted that the civil service laws of the state prevent a man of his calibre from continuing to serve the city.

On Street Light Committee
"Whereas, Michael Ryan, alderman from the Second ward, is retiring from the council after having served for some time; that he served with great ability on the following committees: Street lighting, library, playgrounds and waterworks; that his outstanding achievement, however, was as chairman of the street lighting committee in his persistent efforts against great odds, and in successfully securing for the citizens of Ishpeming a very substantial reduction in the new light contract with the Michigan Gas and Electric company, which resulted in a substantial saving to the community; that since the entrance of Vining L. Bjork into the United States naval service, he has acted as mayor pro tem with dignity and ability; that it can be well said that Michael Ryan well and ably served the city of Ishpeming while on this council.

"Whereas, John Fandrem, alderman from the Fourth ward, is retiring from the council after having served on the same for a period of two years; that as a new alderman he showed a great deal of interest in his work on the various committees on which he served, and devoted his time and efforts to the welfare of the city; that he acted as chairman of the streets and alleys committee and devoted considerable time and effort in making various investigations required of him on the northwest corner of Cleveland avenue and Second streets extending over the sidewalk and he hit it while walking on the sidewalk April 1. It was referred to the claims and accounts committee and the city attorney.

Expression of appreciation was sympathized by the council following the death of Richard H. Olds, former city recorder.

James Mooney, Ninth ward alderman, thanked the council for flowers sent him during his recent illness.

Cigars were handed out by City Attorney Potter and Police Chief Eckloff, as a courtesy after being re-named to their respective positions for another year.

William Trebblecock was reappointed to the cemetery board.

British Take Madagascar Naval Base

moving southward 980 miles over the few highways or sending fleet units to the four other generally used ports, none of which is valuable from a naval standpoint. The most important of these is Tamatave on the east coast. The others are Tulare, which also has an air field, Majunga and Port Dauphin.

Churchill's announcement of the successful conclusion of the major action—which was intended to thwart Axis designs on Diego Suarez—was brief and subdued.

"In order to prevent bloodshed as far as possible," he said, "very strong forces of all arms were employed and preparations were made over the last three months.

"Landings, as already made public, were successfully accomplished, and by Tuesday evening our troops were in contact with French forces in and before Diego Suarez and before the promontory of Antsirana and the promontory of Oranija.

Losses Exceed 1,000
"The first assault on the Antsirana position at dawn yesterday was repulsed with losses that may have exceeded 1,000 men, but Major General Sturges, of the royal marines, who commands the troops on the island, attacked during last night and captured the promontory of Antsirana.

"The French naval and military commanders surrendered. The town of Diego Suarez also was captured.

"Early this morning a further attack was made on the batteries at Oranija in the entrance to the harbor.

"These now have surrendered and a protocol has been drawn up between the commanders of either side."

To Defend Rest Of Island
VICHY, France, May 7—P—The French, acknowledging the capitulation to the British of the big Madagascar naval base of Diego Suarez, nevertheless announced tonight their intention to defend "every other point" of the island.

The governor-general of Madagascar, Armand Annet, said in a message telling of the fall of Diego Suarez after three days of fighting that the rest of the island "will be defended with the same resolution," and in reply the Vichy government sent a message of encouragement and praise.

Former Publisher Dies in Detroit
DETROIT, May 7—P—George Gilbert Bates, 80, former publisher of the Traverse City Record-Eagle, died today in Grace hospital after a short illness.

Bates sold the Record-Eagle, in 1916. It was founded in 1858 by a great-uncle, Morgan Bates, one-time lieutenant-governor of Michigan. From 1893 to 1910 he also published the American Poultry Journal in Chicago, now defunct.

Born July 23, 1861, in Sandlake, N. Y., Bates was taken to Traverse City by his parents when two years old. He remained there, where he served as city treasurer from 1925 to 1938, until a year ago.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Sidney Lee Courtney, of Detroit, and two sisters, Mrs. Carl Williams and Miss Clara Bates, both of Fort Pierce, Fla.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at Traverse City.

The War department said it had no knowledge of any other national guard units on the island forts.
