3 Warships At Martinique Immobilized

WASHINGTON, May 14.—As a concession to the United States, the government at Martinique has agreed to immobilize three French warships at anchor in French colonial Caribbean harbors.

This was reported today in responsible quarters, which added that discussions were continuing on other points involved in this government's request that effective steps be taken to keep the French possessions from becoming a menace to the United Nations.

The warships in question are the aircraft carrier Bearn and the cruiser Emile Bertin, at Martinique, and the cruiser Jeanne d'Arc at nearby Guadeloupe. French Guiana, on the South American mainland, is also involved in the discussions.

Presumably, the immobilization of the warships would involve such steps as the removal of ammunition, fuel or essential machinery parts which could not be readily replaced. Exactly how it might be done was not made clear.

Status Of Shipping In Doubt

Still to be settled, apparently, was the future status of some 140,000 tons of French merchandise and tankers. It is reported that orders have been issued by Vichy that they be scuttled rather than yielded to the Allies.

This Government, however, has repeatedly made it clear that, so far as it is concerned, Vichy's attitude has no bearing whatsoever on the current negotiations. The United States has frankly taken the attitude that under Pierre Laval, the Vichy government will do its utmost to promote the Axis cause.

Consequently, all discussions have been pursued with Admiral Georges Robert, the French high commissioner at Martinique, and any consultation with Vichy has been pointedly omitted.

French Naval Strength

(By The Associated Press)

With the Martinique government's immobilization of three French warships in French colonial Caribbean harbors, Vichy's probably naval strength now includes four battleships, 11 cruisers, two aircraft carriers, 50 destroyers and 60 submarines.

Former size of the French fleet was indicated in Free French Representative Dr. Boris Eliacheff's recent report that the Free French navy had taken over 100 army transports, a number of tankers and 40 warships—15 of which were in the south Pacific.

In addition to Eliacheff's announcement was the Russian Tass news agency's recent report that a total of 40 warships which were being built at the time of the armistice had been turned over to the Germans by the French. Although the French denied this, it was suspected that the Germans would regard incomplete ships as spoils of war, usable at will.

The future status of some 140,000 tons of French merchant ships and tankers apparently still is being negotiated in this government's effort to keep French possessions from becoming a menace to the United Nations.

You're Going To Lose Part of Shirt Tail

WASHINGTON, May 14.—P—You won't have to give the Government the shirt off your back to help win the war at least not yet—but you're going to lose some of the shirt tail.

In line with previous orders conserving textiles, the War Production Board got around to shortening shirts today. H. Stanley Marcus, chief of WPB's clothing section, announced that he had issued some trimming shirt tails an inch or so, eliminating pockets on regular shirts and cutting down on the number of buttons.

Child Bride Held In Slaying of Husband

MORRISTOWN, Tenn., May 14.—P—Mattie Pearl Manning, little, blue-eyed blond child bride of three months, today was held to Hamblen county grand jury on a charge of murdering her husband.

The 14-year-old girl told authorities her husband, 35-year-old Dayton W. Manning, threatened her, she did not elaborate.

Two War Captives Escape From Canadian Camp

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., May 14.—P—Two German air force lieutenants, Frederick Teser and Eberhard Wildermuth, escaped today from the officers' prison camp here apparently by hiding in clothing crates being sent to another camp.

It was Teser's third escape. He had been recaptured on his second flight March 12 as he was about to steal a flying suit at an air training school.

SHERIFFS TO CONVENE

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., May 14.—P—Charles L. Miller, secretary of the Michigan Sheriffs' association, said today that the 18th annual convention of the association would be held at Alpena July 27-29.

Youth Charged With Sabotage

Sheriff Carl Finegan (right), of Lorain county, Ohio, removes Donald Kintner (left), 26, from a jail cell in Elyria, Ohio, to turn him over to U. S. marshals for arraignment in Cleveland, Ohio, on sabotage charges. Kintner is accused of shooting and wounding a railroad engineer and attempting to prevent shipment of war materials. Finegan said: "He apparently fell under the spell of Hitler's 'Mein Kampf.'" (Associated Press Telemat)

Gas Rationing, Extended To Pacific Northwest, Unlikely To Affect Rest of Country

WASHINGTON, May 14.—P—As almost 10,000,000 eastern automobile owners made ready to go under card rationing of gasoline tomorrow, with non-essential automobiles allowed only three gallons a week, this rigid curtailment system was extended tonight to the Pacific northwest, to be effective June 1.

Meanwhile, assurance came from Petroleum Coordinator Ickes that there was no immediate prospect of broadening motor fuel rationing to other areas, unless the Government decided this should be done to save rubber.

Allowance May Be Cut

Car owners formed long lines at schools and other registration places today, in a last-minute rush to get their cards ahead of the rationing deadline at midnight.

An official hint was heard that the gasoline allowed for the cards in the various classifications might be cut further, with non-essential cars getting even less than three gallons a week, because so many motorists claimed high essential use of their cars. The Office of Price Administration had estimated that one-third of the motorists would get "A" cards allowing three gallons, but latest reports indicated that only about one-fourth actually were receiving the short-ration cards.

Rationing becomes effective at midnight in 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia, with the exception of certain western counties of New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia, and motor fuel will be cut

Airmen Tell Of Attack On Enemy Base

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 15.—(Friday)— P—General I. MacArthur's headquarters announced today that Allied planes had attacked Japanese shipping yesterday at Rabaul, New Britain, damaging a transport, and shooting down seven of 17 enemy fighters which tried to intercept them.

Army To Take Over Control Of Airlines

WASHINGTON, May 14.—P—Actual operation or control of all domestic air line planes will be taken over by the Army on instructions of President Roosevelt, it was announced today.

Disclosing the sweeping wartime steps, the War department said passenger and air mail service would be sharply curtailed but for the time being, about half of the more than 300 commercial transport planes would continue commercial operations on scheduled routes. Flights continuing commercial schedules will be subject to orders at any time to undertake emergency military missions.

"All routes and services not regarded as essential to the war program will be terminated," the War department said.

The announcement said the new order was "about to be put into effect," but gave no date. Negotiation with air line officials have been in progress for several weeks.

The sweeping new order, officials said, in effect substitutes for an arrangement announced a month ago for the airlines to divert one-fourth of their planes to service as carriers of soldiers and military cargo.

Japs Still Advancing On Burma Road

CHUNGKING, China, May 14.— P—Heavily engaged yet still advancing through China's east door, Japanese columns fought farther up the dizzy, twisting heights of the Burma road today, and to the west, threatened the historic caravan route city of Tengyueh.

One invading column had branched from the main route to assault Tengyueh, ancient treaty port of entry for this little-known corner of Free China; the other, despite grievous casualties, was pushing northeast from Lungling, itself 100 miles inside China, along the Burma road in the area where it climbs to 7,500 feet through the Kaoliung mountains, then plunges crazily for 5,000 feet to the Salween, or Lu, river.

Hold East Bank Of Salween

The Chinese said they had destroyed the Salween bridges and were holding the east bank in strength. Paoshan, east of the Salween and half way to the Mekong, still was in their hands.

Of the situation at Tengyueh, however, it was stated only that heavy fighting was raging. Tengyueh is on the altitudinous trail from Burma to China, 100 miles east of Japanese-occupied Bhamo in Burma and 50 miles west of Paoshan.

The Japanese still on the Burma road, itself, captured Taochi and pushed on toward Hungmushu, west of the Salween.

(Across Upper Burma to the west, the remnants of the roughly-hunted British imperial armies, after a gallant counter-attack in the midst of their tragic retreat, apparently were on the point of escape across India's Assam border.)

RAF Aids Retreating Force

(A communiqué from New Delhi said the British had not been in contact with the enemy since their counter-attack on May 10 frustrated the enemy's attempt to trap them at Shweghin in the Chindwin valley, and reports reaching London said the rearguard now was around Kaleva, 40 miles from India.)

(The RAF again was able to come to the aid of the retreating Burma army. Doolittle announced a successful bomb and machine-gun attack on Japanese paddle steamers and barges, moving up the Chindwin.)

Minimum $5 Tax Proposed By Treasury

WASHINGTON, May 14.—P— A proposal to put a minimum $5 tax on every person who must file an income tax return, including millions who otherwise would be non-taxable, came today from Secretary Morgenthau of the Treasury.

The new plan apparently started out with strong support. Morgenthau said it had the backing of Senator George (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate finance committee, which is the Senate's tax group.

While details of the proposal remained to be worked out, the Secretary said that it was desirable both to reimburse the Treasury for the cost of handling income tax returns and also might raise as much as $100,000,000 of additional revenue to finance the war program.

Actually, Treasury officials said, it costs only an average of 50 cents to handle a non-taxable income tax return and about $150 to handle the taxable returns.

Would Affect Nearly Everyone

If adopted, the plan will mean a levy of $5 or possibly more on nearly every employed person in the low income brackets. Under tentative schedules of personal exemptions adopted yesterday by the House ways and means committee, returns would be required of all single persons earning $9.60 a week and all family heads making $23 or more per week. The House committee, modifying a previous Treasury suggestion, voted to cut the exemptions from $750 to $500 for single persons and from $1,500 to $1,200 for family heads, while leaving the $400 credit for dependents unchanged.

Tankers Ordered Into Port, Downey Says

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(P)— Senator Downey (D-Calif.), asserting the nation was "approaching a desperate condition on gasoline and rubber," told the Senate today that all tankers normally plying between Gulf and Atlantic ports had been ordered into harbors.

Downey did not say what was the source of his information and there was no confirmation from the Navy that tanker movements along the east coast had been halted.

Axis submarines apparently have made tankers a primary objective of their campaign.

In peace time, tankers transported about 95 per cent of the east's oil requirements.

Russians Advance On Kharkov In Greatest Red Offensive Of War; Kerch Defenders Retreat

Timoshenko's Offensive Significant

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

Marshal Timoshenko's action in hurling powerful segments of his Ukrainian armies against Kharkov is of first significance whether it represents a diversion to relieve German pressure on his Crimean front, or a major offensive on his own hook, as Moscow contends.

It reflects strikingly the relative strategic values he sees in holding the Kerch isthmus and in achieving a breakthrough at Kharkov, the Ukrainian "Pittsburgh."

And those values rest not so much upon Kharkov, itself, as the access its recapture would give Red armies to the Soviet troops west of the Kerch isthmus.

Russian incursions which bypassed Kharkov to the south in preparation for the assault on the city already have seriously hampered German north-south direct communications. The Keren-Melitopol-Kharkov railway is the prime link supporting the Nazi jump-off positions in the Donets basin and the Crimea.

Dniepropetrovsk Threatened

The main stem of that line had already been cut by the Red army southwest of Kharkov. There have been insistent reports in the last few weeks of Russian cavalry dashes or guerrilla operations perilously close to Dniepropetrovsk.

At that point, on the northern curve of the great southern bend of the Dnieper, the east-west railroad connecting Stalino in the lower Donets area with the west makes its river crossing. It intersects the Kerch-Kharkov north-south line a short distance east of Dniepropetrovsk, forming a vitally important Nazi communication route for a wide sector of the Donets front below Kharkov.

Traced out on any map, the Timoshenko drive at the Kharkov protective bastion for Nazi communications seems grooved to reach or threaten Dniepropetrovsk in an attempt to paralyze the Nazi southern offensive before it even gets going full strength. Red recapture

This Fellow Didn't Want To Enter Army

NEWARK, N. J., May 14.—P— Perhaps this fellow didn't want to get into the U. S. Army.

The Newark draft appeal board looked into his claim of being an enemy alien and found he was a citizen by virtue of his father's naturalization.

Then the man claimed dependency for all members of the family. The board ascertained he had an employed sister, two employed brothers and a married sister whose husband is working.

He's in 1A.

Married Men May Be Used In War Work

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(P)— There is no present intention of breaking up any large number of "established families" by drafting their bread-winners into the Army, Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today, but it may become necessary to shift some such men into essential war work.

Testifying before the House military committee in support of a pay allotment bill to aid dependents of service men, Hershey said there was a "genuine social reason" for preserving established families, and added that he would dislike to see legislation "that would make the public believe there is no question of dependency any more."

Defines Established Family

By an established family, the general indicated, that he meant one not founded since the outbreak of the war and one in which there was a large degree of dependency.

He said that more single men who have been given occupational deferments, and more married men with working wives, soon may find themselves wearing Uncle Sam's khaki. As young men are moved from industry into the battle lines, he added, their places may be taken by women or by men deferred because of dependency or age. There is, he told the committee, no way of telling the industrial value of men over the fighting age limit who could be used in production work but there were great possibilities for them.

Soviet Attack In Crimea Fails: Berlin

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), May 14.—P— A German high command spokesman asserted tonight that the Russian forces embattled at Kerch had begun counter-attacking on a line 13 miles west of that important eastern Crimean town, and northward on the Donets from the Soviet troops were declared to be attacking in strength with tanks.

The Red army's counter-attacks at Kerch were launched along the "Tartar ditch," an old line of fortifications. The spokesman said that so far all these counter-thrusts had failed and that German and Rumanian troops had forced their across the old line in a continuation of their week-old offensive.

Earlier the high command in its daily communiqué said of the Kerch front that "pursuit of the beaten enemy is being relentlessly continued."

Foreign reports (originating in Axis-controlled Bucharest) that Kerch, itself, had fallen to the Germans were termed by the German radio late today as "not confirmed by German competent quarters." The radio added that "no statement is possible on this report."

Reports Of Fall Unconfirmed

In interpretation of the high command communiqué the Berlin radio said that the Kerch action was in part a pursuit of forces which escaped encirclement in a German breakthrough at Parpatich, near the neck of the Crimean peninsula about 50 miles west of Kerch strait.

German military commentators said that in the past adjacent to Kerch many large fires had been observed following strong German air attacks. They said that these attacks had resulted in the sinking of five freighters, a tugboat and a trawler and the damaging of three freighters, one transport ship and several small vessels.

The German air force was said also to have raided Sevastopol, Russian stronghold at the southern tip of the Crimea.

Troops Encircled, Claim

Tonight the high command spokesman said that fighting was proceeding in the region of Manai where, he said, a great number of enemy troops have been encircled. Earlier the Berlin radio had stated the Germans were mopping up a pocket at Akmonal.

(Neither Manai nor Akmonal appear on most maps, but the above references apparently were to the same town.)

The high command made it clear that the Russian attacks on the Donets front were strong. "At several points on the Donets front," said the daily communiqué, "our troops are resisting strong enemy attacks supported by tanks."

Further north the high command claimed "local successes."

King George Watches Troops in Shan Battle

LONDON, May 15.—(Friday)—P—Bullets came close to King George and grenades and land mines exploded a few yards away as he was watching British troops engage in a sham battle with live ammunition, it was disclosed tonight.

The king saw one nearby soldier wounded severely in the foot by a grenade and another wounded in both arms by shell fragments.

Mexican Ship, Fully Lighted, Sunk by Sub

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—P— Amid calls for a declaration of war on the Axis, the Mexican government tonight addressed a note to Germany, Italy and Japan, demanding "complete satisfaction" for the submarine sinking last night of the Mexican tanker Potrero del Llano off the Florida coast.

If Mexico does not receive a guarantee of reparations for the ship by May 21, then the government will "take a position in accordance with Mexican honor," Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla said.

First Mexican Ship Lost

The tanker, formerly the Italian Lucifero which was seized by Mexico at Tampico April 1, 1941, was the first Mexican ship to be lost in this war. Thirteen men are missing.

Padilla called the sinking an "outrage to the Mexican flag."

An official statement first said that a reply from the Axis powers was demanded by May 28, then later whittled down the time to May 21.

Germans May Be Using Huge Submarines

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.

NEW YORK, May 14.—P— Germany may be using huge submarines, three times the size of her Deutschland of World War I, to supply her U-boats nests along the Atlantic coast.

One line from the diary of a German soldier in Africa, received here tonight, contained an offhand reference which opens up a whole field of speculation.

Picked up by the British on a Libyan battlefield, the diary contained an entry referring to the work of traitors and spies in tipping the British to German activity, mine-field locations, and the like. And there was this phrase, dated September 5, 1941:

"The same thing happened in Bardia harbor. As soon as the 6,000-ton supply-carrying U-boat came in, the Tommies bombarded the harbor."

Uncovers German Secret

The diary was signed by Sergeant Mechanic Ball, of the 20th engineering battalion of the German Afrika Korps. If Sergeant Ball knew what he was talking about, and if the German figures he used actually translate into 6,000 tons, then he has given away a secret which the Germans had protected from everything except speculation.

There has been talk for years of great, cargo-carrying submarines under construction in the Reich, but no definite information.

If Germany has such vessels and is prepared to use them in any number she may introduce a new and important factor into the war.

For months last year it was not clear how Germany, even with her known aerial transport and surface ship activity, could equip and enlarge her Libyan army at the rate she was moving. Sergeant Ball's submarine, and many others like them, could be the answer.

And now, with her 1,000 and 1,500-ton undersea warcraft operating in packs outside America's harbors, such mother craft carrying oil, ammunition and supplies would give her a tremendous increase in striking power. The largest known undersea warcraft was the 2,700-ton French Surcouf, recently sunk. The smallest are Japan's two-manned boats such as were used at Pearl Harbor.

Crew Relief Greatest Worry

Instead of spending two-thirds of their time going and coming from bases in Germany and occupied France, the time of a U-boat's operation would be limited only by the necessity of rest for its crew.

This problem of crew relief is one of the greatest worries of a submarine fleet commander. Transport submarines might solve that, also, by providing constant rotation.

The World War I trans-Atlantic cruises of the 2,000-ton Deutschland, which took 16 days each way, were starting in the United States at the time. On her first voyage she brought a 700-ton cargo. Vessels three times her size, vessels half as large as battle cruisers, might keep a submarine fleet operating far from home bases almost indefinitely.

Americans Interned In Shanghai Hotel, Report

LONDON, May 14.—P— A Reuters dispatch from Chungking said today 20 persons are crowded into each room of the former New Asia hotel in Shanghai where more than 200 British and American citizens are interned.

Those held include a number of Americans brought from Guam and Wake Island, the report said.

Nazi Lines Pierced At Leningrad

MOSCOW, May 15.—(Friday)— P—Red army shock troops supported by heavy tanks and anti-tank "stormer" planes still were advancing early today on the great Nazi-held industrial city of Kharkov in the Ukraine, but the Soviet acknowledged a new "fighting retreat" of their armies on the narrow Kerch peninsula in the Crimea.

In what probably is the greatest Red army offensive of the war—the fan-like movement upon Kharkov—the Russians said they had knocked out not less than 150 Nazi tanks in two days of hard fighting. The midnight communiqué said:

"During May 14 our troops on the Kerch peninsula, under pressure of superior enemy forces, are fighting stubbornly, but retreated to new positions.

Lake Shore Builds Plant For Winches

Designed principally for the assembly of cargo winches, now being constructed by the company for the maritime commission's speed-up ship-building program, a new brick and steel structure, 160 by 40 feet, is being raised at the Marquette plant of the Lake Shore Engineering company. F. A. Flodin and W. E. Thompson, of Iron Mountain, president and vice-president of the company, announced this and other activity at the general offices in Iron Mountain.

The addition to the company's manufacturing division is slated for completion in about 30 working days—a record schedule for structures of the kind, according to Flodin. A. E. Prokosch, of Iron River, is the contractor.

The new building will house a 10-ton electric traveling crane, operating with a clearance of 25 feet. Directly in front of the new structure an area about 100 feet long, of concrete, is being prepared for outside operation.

An electrical department will also be housed in the new building; to centralize electric service for the various units now being assembled by the company. The electrical department is an innovation at the Marquette plant, made necessary by the steady increase in war production.

Meanwhile, another department has been added to the growing service of the Lake Shore Engineering company, now 100 per cent in war production. It is the sub-contracting department, under Eugene Windt, of Marquette, a veteran employee of the Lake Shore. Windt is assistant to B. L. Watt, works manager, and has charge of all outside sub-contracting work in the district.

Under him is Oscar Hassell, of Iron Mountain, who is supervising the work in the Copper Country, where units are being turned out for the Lake Shore at the Calumet and Hecla Consolidated Copper company's machine shop and foundry at Calumet, the Hecla company's shop at Hubbell, the Copper Range company's shop in Painesdale and the Portage Lake foundry at Hancock.

These organizations, Flodin said, "are working in close cooperation" with the Lake Shore in all work assigned to them and have speedily converted their shops to war needs.

King Learned, of Iron Mountain, also under Windt, is in charge of the Iron Mountain manufacturing unit, the former Anderson Machine shop, which is operated directly by the company. Learned likewise supervises sub-contracting for the Lake Shore at the machine shop of the Kimberly Clark company at Niagara, Wis., where work continues 24 hours a day. Here, too, Flodin said, the conversion was achieved in record time, and in unity with the expanding program of the Lake Shore Engineering company in this area.

Some conception of the increasing tempo of production, and the ingenuity achieved to meet the demand, is found in the smallest sub-contracting unit now being operated by the Lake Shore—a single lathe in a one-car garage, operated by two men on the north side of Iron Mountain. This indicates the utilization of small operators to augment the work of the company's main production unit at Marquette, and the sub-shops in Iron Mountain, the Copper Country and elsewhere.

Besides Iron Mountain and the Copper Country, Lake Shore sub-contracting is also being done at Duluth, Minn.; St. Ignace, Alpena and Milwaukee, and at several small shops in Marquette. All of the products, it is stressed, are for the war production, under high priority.

Emphasizing the increasing need for speed and precision-production in the war program, Flodin said: "Victory for the United States in this highly-mechanized program is dependent on manpower—manpower not only in the various branches of the armed forces, but in the teeming shops of industry now at work on war production. Victory is assured to our country if we can speedily and satisfactorily turn out the necessary materials of war at a rate sufficient to keep our armed forces fully equipped.

"That the skilled and unskilled workers of this country are meeting this critical demand is amply indicated in reports of almost unbelievable increases in production all along the line—planes, tanks, guns, ammunition, etc. And this is being achieved at a rate never even dreamed of in the days before Pearl Harbor. Manpower is the answer, and the results already shown are a distinct tribute to the skill, efficiency and endurance of the men in the mines, shops and mills everywhere throughout the land.

"Employees of the Lake Shore have shown a ready willingness to step up their effort to 12 hours a day, as their part in meeting the urgent demand for war material. We feel that their attitude, and the results they are getting, is typical of the spirit which is setting the pace for production all over the world. The Lake Shore, organized 75 years ago, principally to serve the mining industry in the Lake Superior district, is—like many other units of its kind—geared for victory.

"The company acknowledges and appreciates the excellent cooperation given by its employees and sub-contracting agencies." The central offices in Iron Mountain are being constantly expanded to meet the growing need, until today the several departments, and added workers, are taxing the capacity of the recently remodeled

Funeral For August Mellin On Sunday

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Sunday in the Messiah Lutheran church for August Mellin, the city's oldest grocer, who died at his residence Wednesday night at the age of 75. The Rev. Wilbur N. Palmquist, pastor of the church, will officiate.

Mr. Mellin was born in Sweden on August 1, 1866, and came to this country about 55 years ago. For several years he was superintendent of the Marquette City & Presque Isle Railway company. In 1904 he entered into a partnership with John A. Anderson and established the grocery firm of Anderson and Mellin.

In 1929 Mr. Mellin retired from business, but later in the same year he established Mellin's East Side Grocery. His son, Donald, has been associated with him in the business for the last seven years.

Mr. Mellin was an active member of the Messiah Lutheran church, and prior to the commission form of government, served as alderman of the Fifth ward for two terms.

He is survived by his wife, the former Rebecca Johnson, of Marquette; three daughters, Mrs. Ellen Sandell and Mrs. Harry Nydahl, of Marquette, and Mrs. Sidney Williams, of Negaunee; and his son, Donald.

News Bits About Marquette County Young Men in Armed Forces

(Editor's Note — Mothers! Don't be modest about your son's progress and activities in the military service. Let your friends and neighbors share in your pride by telephoning the Service Editor, 150, or sending him a penny post card with the latest information about your young man. We're all proud of Marquette county men in the service. Your cooperation will keep this column a popular feature for the duration. Whether it's about your son, brother, nephew, the lee man or just a pal, send the news in today. This is your column.)

On hand a jubilant note from Marty Kiva, of Marquette, who reports his rise in the world to the extent of 5,200 feet at Ogden, Utah, where he's stationed with the headquarters squadron at Hill Field, along with Dick Kelly, also of Marquette.

Kiva and Kelly shared barracks quarters with Gene LaVigne at the reception center at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and also tent quarters at the air corps replacement training center at Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Mo.

Here's an example of how Uncle Sam ships his men to points where they are most needed: When the Marquette trio had completed their seven weeks of basic training at Jefferson Barracks, LaVigne was sent to Napier Field, Dothan, Alabama, and Kiva and Kelly went to Ogden, Utah.

LaVigne is assigned to a mechanics school and getting along great. First Sgt. John Dunnebacke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dunnebacke, of Marquette, said he ran into LaVigne at Napier Field and "Gene" nearly broke both arms greeting a home-town pal.

Incidentally, First Sgt. Dunnebacke was home for a short visit—plenty short. Thinking he'd have a few days at home at least, John arrived here from Alabama only to receive an order from Uncle Sam to report to Phoenix, Ariz., by Sunday. All of which means that he had one day's visit at home, instead of several days, because he had to hustle to get to Phoenix by Sunday.

Mrs. Agnes Belmore, 321 Oak street, Marquette, has learned that she must be very careful about which branch of the military service she favors, for she has one son in the Army, one in the Navy and—so help us—one in the Marines. That's what we call really covering the front. The Belmores have the situation well in hand.

Robert Belmore is in the Army and doing right well, too. He was top man in his class at Lowry Field, Colorado, and has mastered the technique and operation of machine guns so well during the school session that he was retained there as an instructor. He enlisted in December, 1941.

Bob was scheduled to be graduated from Gravenet high school this spring, but he enlisted instead. To the everlasting credit of the Marquette public school system, Bob and others who enlisted before graduation have been awarded their high school diplomas.

Henry Belmore is with the Marines at San Diego, Calif., and Brother Benjamin is serving in the Navy, aboard ship in the Pacific ocean. Every one of them enlisted. The only family who can approach this mark are the Dorries, also of Marquette. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dorie have four sons in the service, two in the Navy and two in the Army. We'll hear more about the Dorries later.

Remember Leo J. Schwemin, of Marquette, one of the first men to go after the selective service act was passed. Well, Leo is a private, first class, and is serving with the Army at Corona, Calif. He was formerly employed at the Guelff Printing company. How about dropping Leo a line? His address is: 2nd Ordinance company, General Delivery, Corona, Calif.

Eddie Hampton, son of Mrs. William Pohl, 424 Hampton street, is getting along famously in the Navy. He was in on all the excitement at Pearl Harbor when the Japs ignited the fire under Uncle Sam and has been to Australia twice since then. He's a petty officer, third class, in the navigation division and aboard ship.

Pvt. Edward W. Cote, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cote, 2318 Presque Isle avenue, Marquette, is honor on furlough. He is stationed at Camp Sutton at Monroe, N. C.

Comes word from Keesler Field, Miss., that Pvt. Walter R. Grimes, son of Mrs. Ruth Grimes, of Turin, has started a 19-week airplane mechanics course at the Air Corps technical school there. When he winds up this training, he'll be set for line duty in an airplane fighter. Walter received his "basic" at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Harris, of Marquette, have returned from Fort Knox, Ky., where they visited their son, Lieut. Gerson Harris, and his family. They also visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Harris, and daughter, Ruth, in Detroit.

Pvt. Walter L. Brotherton, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brotherton, 300 East Case street, Negaunee, is at the reception center at Fort Sheridan, Ill., where his first impression was a particularly favorable one in that it concerned a very necessary item—food!

"I never saw such wonderful food," Walter said in a card to a friend here. He is a graduate of the Northern Michigan College of Education and taught school at Stephenson before enlisting in the Army. He passed the physical examination before the medical examining board in Marquette Monday and entrained the same evening for Fort Sheridan.

The Army certainly agrees with Sgt. "Mushy" Aho, son of Mrs. Anna Aho, Marquette. We ran into him shortly before he returned to Davis Mounthan Field, Tucson, Ariz. You oughta' see the guy. With Uncle Sam's help, he's whipped himself down from a mean 235 pounds to a trim sylph-like 185. He looks great!

Another member of Company D who sent a bouquet of roses to his mother from Ireland (well—indirectly) was Staff Sgt. Thomas G. Beard. The gift made Mrs. Jethra Collins, of 116 Cleveland street, Negaunee, very happy, you can be sure of that.

A Mother's day greeting in the form of a cablegram was received by Mrs. Emil Suomi, of Republic, from her son, Apprentice Seaman Harry Melvin Suomi, who is stationed at Pearl Harbor. Harry enlisted in the Navy last January 2 and, contrary to "Mushy" Aho's experience, Seaman Suomi picked up a little avoirdupois in the right places. "Life in the Navy is really swell," he reports.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ylinen, 324 Gold street, Negaunee, have received word from their son, Howard, who is serving in the Navy. They have a letter posted at a port which we are not permitted to disclose.

Mrs. William Lamm, 404 Center street, Marquette, has good news to report about Pvt. (first class) Toivo L. Kyto, for whom she has cared for many years since the death of his mother. Pvt. Kyto, who has just completed a three-month course at the motor mechanic school at Fort Benning, Ga., is home on a 15-day furlough. He is stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., and likes the service very much.

Six U. S. Army volunteers from Marquette at Fort Sheridan are Tony Hogan, Harold L. Lyons, Elvin F. Niemi, Carl H. Jensen, John R. Wainio and Otto G. Hultgren. They've taken their I. Q. tests and are quartered in the same barracks. The group entrained here last Monday night.

"The meals are excellent," Niemi pens on a Fort Sheridan postcard (free postage). "It looks as if we're all going to the air school for various ground duties."

LeRoy Klinger, of Marquette, has enlisted in the United States Navy. He was accompanied to Chicago, where he enlisted, by Mrs. Klinger.

"Like all Upper Peninsula recruits, he'll take his training well and enjoy every bit of it!" That's what Sgt. Robert E. King, Jr., Marquette Marine recruiter, has to say about Robert John Trehwella, 19, Palmer, private in the Marine Corps under boot training at San Diego, Calif.

"The people of the Upper Peninsula should be proud of their sons in service because they are building up a commendable reputation for themselves," Sgt. King commented.

Mrs. Hannah Potter, North Pine street, Marquette, received a cablegram on Mother's day from her nephew, Pvt. William Howard, who is with the United States armed forces in Australia. "He said he was okeh and getting along fine," Mrs. Potter said.

PFC Gordon T. Aho, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Aho, 316 West Kaye avenue, who is serving with the Army medical corps, attached to the Air Corps, has returned to Daniel Field, Augusta, Ga., after spending a 10-day furlough here with relatives and friends.

The Political Picture

A SUMMARY of the voting in recent primary contests in many parts of the country shows that the vote was unusually light, a fact that indicates that the candidates who will be before the people during the summer and fall months will find it difficult to command the attention they will believe should be given them.

It has been assumed that these trends would favor the Republicans. But the results of a nationwide survey by the Gallup Institute as to what would happen if the voters went to the polls tomorrow to elect members of Congress indicate that this assumption is not well grounded.

If this is true it appears that the Republican party would be the victim in the elections of the pre-war activities in the isolationist field of many of its leaders, in Congress and out.

But more prominently in the mind of the voters at this juncture is the condition that the Republican party, by and large, was much more of an isolationist party than the Democrats. The importance of this condition is emphasized by the fact that the members of both parties who moved along with the President can no longer be depicted as war mongers, whose efforts were responsible for getting the country into war.

The Republicans should leave nothing undone to break as completely as possible with their isolationist past. The national committee, at its recent meeting, took an important step in this direction. Henceforth, it should play up men, like Wilkie, who saw accurately the significance of unfolding events.

Voluntary Sale Plan

The latest development in the tire situation is the setting aside by RFC of 150,000,000 to be used in buying in, for disposition by the Government, of any tires, used or new, those who own them are willing to sell.

This plan has no relation to Congressional proposals for requisitioning. If it met with notable success it would probably be expanded in the hope that requisitioning would not be necessary.

But its success seems doubtful. Some tires will be offered for sale, but they will be surplus tires, and in all likelihood tires of relatively small value.

Most of the tires in private ownership that have any value are mounted on wheels on cars in use. Their owners, except under compulsion, would be loath to sell the tires unless the car went with them.

There is no question as to the value of the tires offered, and those they acquire they will hold for issuance to car owners who can qualify under the tire and tubing rationing provisions.

Our Government gave, from the beginning, development of air power its proper rating. Because of this its production is, fortunately, the furthest advanced of any of its military production.

It is the established primacy of air forces as an instrument of war that justifies confidence that the Axis, and Japan in its turn, will be overcome. It has been said—and there is support in fact for the statement—that the American and British factories are now turning out more aircraft than are being built by the enemy.

varying according to the number of men brought into the service and the length of the war.

For anything that is written to the contrary, the increased pay will be granted without any limitation on what is to be done with the increase. There is considerable opinion that this is shortsighted, and that, at the least, it should be subject to deductions that would establish equities in insurance policies that would be underwritten by the Government.

With the proposed increased pay in effect it will be within the ability of each man in the ranks to make remittances, at least of small amounts, to those who may need aid at home. But there is no proposal that this shall be required.

One thing is clear. The attitude of Congress toward pay makes likely that there will be post-war provision for the men in the service that will carry them while they are finding their places in civilian life. This being the case, the raising at this time, as the Republicans have sought to raise it in Michigan, of the question of post-war bonuses for the men and women in service is decidedly premature.

A Decisive Year?

Something of the pace that will mark the war when the 1942 fighting is opened up on full scale is indicated by the accounts of the combat on the Kerch peninsula between the Nazis and the Russians, which is as sanguinary as any that occurred last year; as the sinking of three British destroyers under air assault in the Mediterranean; destruction in a few days of more than 100 Axis planes over Malta; greater daring in the submarine attack on coastal United Nations shipping, which has been carried within the past few days into the Gulf of Mexico and the St. Lawrence river, and the sustained intensity of RAF forays against the Nazi military and industrial objectives.

A weighing of the importance of the recent news for and against the warring forces makes clear that the time has yet to come when the war is a one-way affair. It was, to large extent, that for the Nazis up to the time of their descent on Russia. But the losses they suffered in Russia even before they had to go on the defense in the winter campaigns made a big dent in their military machine. It was steadily deepened through the winter. But that the machine is still formidable the fighting in Russia will show.

The loss of the British destroyers in the Mediterranean, like the loss of the Prince of Wales and the Repulse, in the early stage of the war in the Far East, and the devastating blows the RAF is now delivering against the Nazis, shows that the balance of air power will determine the outcome of the war.

Of itself air power cannot win a war, but neither can a war be won by combatant peoples who are inferior in the air. Naval vessels cannot function without air protection sufficient to fight off hostile forces. No land operations can be conducted successfully unless the air forces pave the way, and support the men by whom enemy territory is taken and those of the enemy are destroyed.

It is the established primacy of air forces as an instrument of war that justifies confidence that the Axis, and Japan in its turn, will be overcome. It has been said—and there is support in fact for the statement—that the American and British factories are now turning out more aircraft than are being built by the enemy.

Contemporary Opinion

A Vicious Proposal
Rep. Albert Gore, of Tennessee, has introduced a bill to provide for forced savings by withholding part of the workers' pay and investing it in defense bonds.

One difference is that the amounts withdrawn and invested will eventually be repaid, with a very small interest bonus. But—

The Gore bill differs from the income tax in that it does not recognize obligations such as interest on debts, local taxes, care of dependents. The income tax is much fairer.

The Gore bill requires taxes only wages and salaries. It requires nothing from the man whose income is derived from other sources, such as interest and dividends. It takes from the producer, not from the idle.

It will, and should, thus cause a roar of protest from the worker who feels that he is a better judge than the Government of what part of his income he can invest, and who doesn't want to have to choose between supporting his family adequately, paying off the mortgage, keeping up insurance, and, on the other hand, storing away capital for the future under a compulsory plan which may meanwhile ruin him.—W. K. Kelsey, in Detroit News.

Our highest ideals seem to have been two chickens in every pot, two autos in every garage, two caddies for every golf player and two haires every week.—President George B. Cutten, of Colgate university.

It to beat Hitler a few state laws and local ordinances have to be stretched, why I say, stretch hell out of them.—Gen. Brechon B. Somervell, Army supply chief, to state officials.

Thirty Years Ago

Marquette
The biggest and finest buck on Presque Isle staggered up to Keeper Robert Hume at feeding time last evening with a bullet in his right shoulder and it is feared it will die. The incident has filled Mr. Hume with righteous wrath and indignation and if the person who fired the shot is detected it will go hard with him.

Muel Price, 524 North Third street, was struck by a stone while playing on the lawn back of her home and sustained a painful gash just beneath her eye. It was evidently another case of careless stone throwing.

The home of S. T. McReavy at Manungum was razed to the ground in a fire which destroyed everything, including the furniture, entailing a loss of about $1,500. The house was one that Bishop G. Mott Williams had built.

W. E. Fish, night ticket agent at the South Shore station, resumed work after a 10 days' vacation.

Rudolph Erickson and Will Watters, former Ishpeming residents who are in charge of mining operations at Iron River, the former for the New York State Steel company and the latter for the Jones & Laughlin company, are directors of the Miners' State Bank of Iron River, a new institution which will start doing business in a few days.

M. A. Kahn has received an order from the Ishpeming fire department for several uniforms for new members.

John Lynch, son of M. F. Lynch, West Euclid street, left for Duluth, where he will take a position in Paine, Webber & Company's office with his uncle, M. J. O'Brien, who has charge of the concern's business there.

Miss Lucy Cordine, who has had charge of the domestic science department of Ishpeming high school for several years, has resigned and will hold a similar position next year in the Stout Institute at Menomonie, Wis.

The Rubber Shortage

Editor's Note: Pointing out that the nation's reserve stockpile of about 700,000 tons is all it has left, W. Litchfield, of Akron, chairman of the board of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., wrote the following letter to the New York Herald Tribune in which he explains the rubber shortage in plain words.

I am becoming greatly concerned over the failure of a large section of the automobile owning public to take the rubber situation to heart. The basic facts are inescapable:

1. This is a war of swift movement. The mobility of our mechanized equipment depends in large measure upon rubber treads and tires.

2. Unless our striking force is as swift as that of the enemy, we are at a distinct and possibly fatal disadvantage in actual combat. Rubber therefore becomes as indispensable as powder and bullets in the winning of the war.

3. A large percentage of the workers engaged in our war industries must depend upon private transportation to get to and from their jobs.

4. The source of 95 per cent of our normal supply of crude rubber is in Malaya and the East Indies, now held by the Japanese.

Now, keeping those four points in mind, let us think for a moment of the rubber that is available to us. Our national stockpile of crude rubber, which we accumulated under the direction of the Rubber Reserve Corporation before our source of supply was shut off, consists of some 700,000 tons. That amount approximates one year's normal consumption in non-military uses. But it is all we have, and we can't get any more from our main source until the Japanese are driven out of the war. Furthermore, we must share it fairly with our allied nations.

While that 700,000 tons holds out for us most usefully with all possible speed toward the creation of facilities for the quantity production of synthetic rubber. This presents problems of great complexity. Although our chemists have the know-how and some of our plants are already in operation, there is no likelihood that any of this synthetic will be available for tires not used in our war economy during the next two or three years.

Our scrap pile can be made to yield something in excess of 350,000 tons of reclaim annually for the next three years. Tires and other rubber products made from reclaim are inferior, but even so, they will keep wheels rolling, and control of this resource, if properly handled, has been taken over by the Government along with the stockpiles of natural crude.

There are recurrent reports about increasing rubber shipments from Brazil and other countries of South and Central America. This, of course, should and will be done. But the best attainable results will be pitifully small and slow in developing.

Then we hear of developing sources through the cultivation of milkweed and desert shrubs. Here again the best possible yields will be but a drop in the bucket.

Our greatest single reserve is the million long tons of rubber now in the tires of the 30,000,000 privately owned automobiles. It has a vital function to perform. Our war production and most other phases of our internal economy depend

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON, May 14 — Although the War Labor Board is beginning to order American businesses to grant the "check-off" of union dues from the employees' pay check and is arguing that it is a mere bookkeeping matter, the record shows that the present Administration argued and won an important case in the courts by revealing the check-off to be a device that interferes with the individual freedom of the workers.

It may not generally be realized, but Congress actually has prohibited the check-off on the railroads of America ever since 1934 and that same statute—the national railway mediation act—also forbids the closed shop. This law has often been lauded by both employers and unions as a model statute in labor relations.

A case arose in 1936 between the Brotherhood of Railroad Shop Crafts and the Rock Island railroad because of a contract between the union and the railroad which antedated by many years the passage of the statute in 1934. The union claimed that Congress could not set aside the contract. The railroad, through its attorneys, said it was not concerned with the constitutionality or unconstitutionality of the act, but that it was bound by the words of the statute forbidding any further reduction of dues. The union sought an injunction and insisted that the railway mediation law as to this particular clause was unconstitutional.

There is much difference of opinion about check-offs in New York. Some sensible folk say they could do no good in case of real raids, as the city is completely outlined by water which reflects moonlight perfectly. A bomber couldn't miss. Others say the effort is worth the cost, because it may make the task of the bombers a little more difficult, and may cause some misses.

I have no strong opinion about it, but it does seem to me that a bomber who couldn't hit any part of a dark-or-light New York, with all that water to outline the map for him, wouldn't be worth his wages, say nothing about his air transportation all the way across from Europe.

The entire facade of Grand Central Terminal, facing 42d street, has been cleaned, inch by inch, with brushes, soap, water and elbow grease, during the last six weeks. The face of the clock has been painted, so that the time can be read more easily at a distance. The statuary has been cleaned. Anti-pigeon strips have been installed.

Now we'll see how long it will stay clean.

Apparently, Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner of Michigan is an unusual public official. We are not familiar with his record in Michigan, but he admits that he was in error a few weeks ago when he proposed that life insurance rates in Michigan be lowered because of improved mortality experience due to the excellent work of the Michigan public health program.

The insurance editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce questioned the soundness of the Governor's proposal, pointing out that the insurance companies' investment income has been reduced so drastically under the Government's cheap money policy that it has more than offset mortality savings and lower operating expenses.

Editor Kirkpatrick's analysis and now says: "I have read your arguments carefully. They have convinced me that I was in error in my proposal. My remarks were made informally when I inspected our Michigan public health program's splendid achievements in recent years."

Would that more public officials were as ready to admit mistakes. Governor Vna Wagoner is to be complimented upon the wisdom evinced by his courage and honesty—particularly in this age when many public officials speak with the voice of infallibility.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

New York Chats

NEW YORK — Thinking out loud: A well-informed citizen spent a whole lunch hour telling me that the Government is going to do something drastic about women's clothes.

Too much time and money are spent on alterations, it seems. Somebody got the idea, a long time ago, that a 36 bust called for a 41 hip, and on that ratio, or something similar to it, dresses have been manufactured by millions. . . . So, time and money are wasted in alterations. Government is going to correct all this, somehow, and take a lot of cloth out of flounces and pleats and flares, too. . . . Well, no matter what Government does to them, the women will still be beautiful, if you ask me. . . . Is there any violinist who doesn't claim to own a Stradivarius? I used to know a fiddle player who took his first lessons on a pawnshop fiddle that smelled heavily of varnish. Not only the child, but her middle-aged mother, told the amazed teacher that this was a genuine Strad, handed down for generations in the family. . . . Poor Mr. Strad must have run an assembly-line fiddle factory!

I was attending a party in an apartment home in 92d street when Manhattan had a blackout.

We couldn't hear the sirens, but the piercing notes of the air raid sirens sounded clearly from the street below. We put out the lights and leaned out of the windows.

In about a minute, street lights were out. In another minute the only lights visible were red warning lights atop towers and a few cracks of light from shaded windows in tall apartment houses. Most of these went out in another two or three minutes.

Buses and taxicabs pulled to the curbs and discharged passengers, who were headed into stores by wardens.

There was a good deal of activity in the darkened street. Apparently, no attempt was made to compel everybody to get off the street. Mayor La Guardia has decreed that the streets and sidewalks must be cleared of people during alarms, but the citizens do not agree. They know that no such requirement has ever been made in London, and they point out

Hardware is bought to complete jobs about the house. Experience shows that hardware bought seldom goes exactly into the job to be done. There will be a fraction left over.

The left-over fraction will be carried around in the pockets of overalls or it may turn up unexpectedly in the pocket of a dinner coat. Or it will find its way to a vase on the mantel or the card tray by the front door.

That is very disorderly. All left-over fractions of hardware should be placed in a box where they will be instantly available for the next job.

And when the next job comes along you will discover it calls for a screw and a bolt, when you have a screw but no bolt, or it will need a nail, but the nails you have are too short or so long they will stick through on the other side.

You will find yourself trying to make a tack do the work of a staple or the staple the work of a screw eye. The more hardware you collect the less likely you are to have exactly what you need.

So you who conclude it is much easier to go down to the hardware store and buy more hardware from which there will be another left-over fraction to add to your collection.

Today, of course, you can turn over your collection of left-over hardware to a junk dealer who will turn it over to the Government to make into shells and bombs.

Near Misses

The official report of the action in which the cruiser Marblehead was disabled says that she "was badly damaged under water by a near miss." Sailors of the sea tender Langley, lost off Java in February, agree that the near misses did more damage than direct bomb hits. If this seems a paradox to the civilian, it may be the fault of the phrase; yet no better one would seem to be available. It was Brigadier-General Billy Mitchell's custom to refer to the effect of near misses as the "water hammer" and if this picturesque phrase were generally understandable by itself it would be a good substitute. The inventors of Army and Navy slang, who work tirelessly, may produce a short and comprehensive phrase. In the meantime, the public should understand that when a pilot reports a near miss he is not trying to make a failure look good; he is reporting action often more devastating than a direct hit.—New York Sun.

Flacks and Slacks

Anyone who believes the press agents' current effort to convince the public that City Hall stenographers in Los Angeles are engaging in a battle for the right to wear slacks to work, simply has not been in touch with previous efforts of moviedom's press agents. Flacks, they now seem to be called on the coast. The only way a girl could make herself conspicuous in Hollywood is to appear in conventional garb of stockings, skirt, blouse, etc. If the pictures sent out by the flacks during the past 20 years are a criterion. Even Marlene Dietrich can't rate publicity any more by wearing slacks, as once she could. Have the flacks been taking lessons from Tokyo on how to be mudied propagandists?—New Orleans Item.

Draft Board 'Sandwiching' Registrants

The Marquette county draft board has been ordered by state selective service headquarters to mail questionnaire to men in the third registration.

This statement was made by the board yesterday in answer to many queries concerning the mailing of questionnaires to third group registrants before men in the first and second registrations had received theirs.

The order from state headquarters is as follows: "Your board should immediately start to mail questionnaires to registrants of the second age group (third registration) so that you will have enough men processed and classified to deliver one of the second age group to six of the first age group (first and second registrations) in the June call."

Current Classifications
Another reason cited by the board for sending questionnaires to men in the third registration is the necessity of "keeping classifications current with the filing of questionnaires."

The board has been instructed not to allow too much time to elapse between the receipt of a questionnaire and his classification, because of the great possibility that his draft status would change in the interim.

Approximately 1,000 men who registered in October, 1940, and in July, 1941, have not yet received questionnaires and 1,300 have not been classified.

Ratio—One To Six
Questionnaires will be sent to men as soon as possible, but in order to have some men in the third registration ready for the June call (about one to six), it has been necessary to mail questionnaires to 20-40 group members of which registered last February 16.

Throughout the nation, men of the third registration are being "sandwiched" in with registrants in the first two groups.

Fit Programs To War Needs, Colleges Told

WASHINGTON, May 14—P—The War department said today that colleges and universities must adapt their programs to war needs, and that extra-curricular activities which do not contribute directly to preparation for participation in the war effort, "can no longer be encouraged."

Explaining the purpose of the War and Navy department in establishing enlisted reserve corps for college students, a department statement said that "the country can no longer afford to have young men proceed with their education at a moderate tempo."

Creation of the Army enlisted reserve corps for students, similar to reserve corps previously set up by the Navy and the Army air forces, was announced last night. Quotas at the college and the universities will be filled by voluntarily enlistment, and students who meet required standards in their class work and show evidence of capacity for leadership will be encouraged to complete their undergraduate studies. In exceptional cases graduate work will be permitted also.

After graduation, members of the enlisted reserve will be ordered to active duty as privates, and after the normal basic military training of three to four months will be eligible for selection as officer candidates.

"Colleges have a definite educational function to perform in war as well as in peace, but it is somewhat different," the statement said. "In wartime, recreation in college life must be limited to that necessary for a healthy, and well-rounded existence. In other words, the college in wartime must be places of intensive effort and accomplishment."

Tramp Comedian Dies With Crowd Cheering

NEW YORK, May 14—P—Joe Jackson, who brought laughter to king and citizen alike during 40 years of pedaling a collapsible bicycle, died today in the manner every veteran showman dreams of—in the wings of a theater with the crowd cheering.

The 67-year-old tramp comedian, known to audience in this country and abroad as the performer of antics on a wheel that literally fell apart, collapsed and died after taking a final bow at an afternoon performance in the Roxy theater.

It was a grand curtain for the old-time trouper who had played for European royalty. Just before he fell, he tapped Stage Manager Buck Wheeler on the shoulder and said:

"They're still applauding."

Government Advertising Plan Rapped

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 14—(P)—Henry T. Ewald, prominent advertising executive and president of the Campbell-Ewald Co., Detroit, in an address here today decried suggestions that the Federal Government should assume the role of a large advertiser during the emergency.

Contenting that advertising was purely a function of business Ewald said:

"The United States is not—and should be—classified—as a business enterprise. Like the church and other social agencies, the Government can benefit—and should benefit—by advertising. But it should not dictate the media, order the space and pay the bills."

"I know that in advocating this I am running counter to opinion among some of my contemporaries in the advertising business, but I feel deeply about it."

Ewald said he favored Government advertising provided it was paid for by America's business and industrial concerns and retail stores—"each according to its size and ability to pay."

"I say little or nothing about the dangers of regimentation in a vast, all-comprehensive, government-paid-for advertising program. These are self-evident."

Proposes 3-Point Program
The advertising executive, who came here to receive a medal from the University of Missouri school of journalism for services in the advancement of advertising, proposed this program:

"First—the use of full page newspaper advertisements to sell war savings bonds and other Government securities—to salvage waste—to build morale—to give publicity to every effort that will help us win the victory.

"Second—this advertising is to be sponsored by retail stores, banks, manufacturing companies, large and small, the country over, in every community. This may be done by these concerns singly, cooperatively, in groups, whatever seems locally most desirable.

"Third—that such advertising for the most part be prepared through the national advertising council at Washington, although local ideas and suggestions should by no means be discouraged."

Tulip Show Postponed To Next Week

The tulip show tentatively scheduled to be held at the Upper Peninsula experiment station in Chatham this weekend has been postponed until next weekend because of the current stretch of cold weather, it was announced yesterday by James G. Wells, Jr., station superintendent.

Residents of the U. P. and visitors are invited to attend the exhibition. Growing experiments have been conducted at the station for several years.

"The colorful tulips grow satisfactorily in only two sections of the United States, the Upper Peninsula and the Puget Sound area on the West Coast, Wells said. Tulips cultivated at Chatham are sturdier than the varieties imported from Europe.

"The cold weather has prevented the flowers from opening completely," Wells said. "It was thought best to postpone the festival one week because the tulips are most beautiful when they are in full bloom."

Price Ceilings . . . and What They Mean To You!!

1. Effective May 18, 1942, Price Ceilings will be placed on the majority of non-perishable foods and on a considerable number of perishable foods to avoid inflation.
2. Price Ceilings will be set at the highest price any commodity was sold for in any individual store during the month of March.
3. A Price Ceiling is the maximum price that may be charged for a commodity . . . it may be sold for less.
4. Price Ceilings do not force all stores to sell at the same prices

. . . any store that sold commodities for high prices in March may still sell at those prices . . . stores whose prices were low in March cannot raise those prices.

5. Price Ceilings eliminate any advantages to be gained through "stocking up."
6. Butch's Cash Market prices were low in March — are low now—and, of course, will continue to be low.
7. Butch's Cash Market, whenever possible, will sell at prices below Ceiling Levels.

Jones, Jenner Will Attend ODT Meeting

Elmer W. Jones, administrator of defense transportation in Marquette, and R. W. Jenner, manager of the Cliffs Dow chemical plant, will confer in Escanaba this afternoon with A. E. Mognihan, Lansing, state official of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Mognihan will conduct a meeting in the Delta hotel there today, starting at 2 p. m., and also in the council chambers, in Iron Mountain tomorrow morning, beginning at 10.

Logging jobbers, mill operators, U. P. ODT officials and other interested persons will attend the sessions. Mognihan is the state ODT official who passes on applications from this region for purchase of trucks.

Information on defense transportation is of particular importance to iron ore mine operators in the district and the chemical plant executives here because of their reliance on trucking for transportation of timber needed for their operation.

Boarding-Out Plan For Mental Patients Begins

LANSING, May 14—P—Governor Van Wagener today asked the state hospital commission to allot to Wayne county's Eloise hospital a share of the $100,000 appropriated by the legislature for boarding home care of mental patients.

The boarding-out plan was authorized on an experimental basis by the 1941 legislature, in an effort to relieve overcrowding of hospitals. Charles F. Wagg, executive secretary of the commission, said the money would finance the boarding-out of not more than 250 patients of a total state hospital population of about 20,000. In addition, the state has about 3,300 patients at Eloise.

"We are starting the program in a small way at the Kalamazoo and Traverse City state hospitals," Wagg said. "The commission plans to do about this slowly, taking advantage of experience here and the records of other states which have done this sort of thing successfully."

The plan calls for taking patients out of state hospitals who are incurable but not difficult to control, and others who are approaching complete recovery, spokesmen said, as an in-between step prior to returning them to their homes. Social workers would be employed to inspect regularly the boarding places and other needed care for the patients would be arranged.

Radio Training War Asset, Sgt. Louis Sciez Discovers

The experience of Louis Charles Sciez, 23, of 357 South First street, technical radio training will take you.

Louis formerly was employed at the Northland hotel in Marquette and was active in the operation of his "ham" radio before the Federal Government clamped down on amateur broadcasters.

On the basis of his radio experience, the Ishpeming young man was enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps on May 7 with the rank of staff sergeant, which is some pumpkins when you compare a staff sergeant's pay with that of a buck private.

Signal Battalion He is assigned to the base signal battalion at San Diego, Calif., and will go to radio school for several weeks before being detailed to a regular "line outfit" in the capacity of radio man. Louie will get from $72 to $90 a month plus his "keep."

If there are other young men in the Upper Peninsula with radio training, Sgts. Robert B. King, Jr., and Caesar Urbanski, of the Marquette Marine recruiting station, would like to see them in the Marine office in the basement of the postoffice.

Or, for that matter, the Marines will welcome with open arms any wideawake young fellow who can pass the physical examination and meet other requirements, many of which have been lowered because of the war emergency.

Tire Thieves Subject To Double Penalty

LANSING, May 14—P—Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton held today any form of theft of an automobile tire would leave the thief subject to prosecution under a new law inflicting double penalty.

The legislature in its first special session of 1942 adopted a law declaring that theft of any article which is rationed is punishable with a penalty twice as severe as would have been inflicted had the article not been rationed.

The opinion was requested by Prosecutor James J. Dunn, of Battle Creek.

English national forests are equipped with stacks of fire brooms to help fire fighters combat blazes.

Small Boat Movements Restricted

CLEVELAND, May 14—P—District Coast Guard headquarters imposed sharp restrictions upon the movements of small boats in Michigan waters connecting the Great Lakes today, describing the regulations as a necessary precaution against enemy espionage.

Authorities announced that all boats of less than 100 feet length must have special licenses to operate on the Detroit river, Lake St. Clair, the St. Clair river, the River Rouge and its short-cut canal and the old channel, the St. Marys river, the St. Marys falls canal and connecting waterways between Big Point and DeTour.

Operators must apply to a captain of the port for the special licenses at least seven days before the date of movement of the vessels. The captain of the port at Detroit-St. Clair river section and the captain of the port at Sault Ste. Marie controls the St. Marys river section.

The new regulations are effective immediately. Other recent rules require boat operators to apply to customs officers at least three days prior to departure from the United States to Canada and

10th Soil Conservation District Created

LANSING, May 14—P—Residents of nine Lapeer county townships today received permission from the state soil conservation committee to create Michigan's 10th soil conservation district.

Named directors of the Lapeer district were Albert Sciezy, Oregon township, and Claude Fick, Mayfield township. Other leaders will be chosen by the district, which includes Oregon, Hadley, Dryden, Elba, Metamora, Attica, Mayfield, Lapeer and Arcadia townships.

The committee approved addition of Chester, Wright, Allendale and Holland townships in Ottawa county, to the West Ottawa soil conservation district. It fixed June 18 for a hearing at Shelby on proposal to create an Oceana county district.

Waters of the ocean evaporate faster in winter than in summer, prohibit radio transmission from private vessels.

For the Peninsula as a whole April debits were $2,627,000 ahead of last year, and the aggregate for the four-month period was $128,729,000, compared to $113,050,000 last year.

Up 12 Per Cent

Throughout the Ninth Federal Reserve district, banks have reported April debit totals which indicate an average business volume gain of 12 per cent over April a year ago, pushing the total for the first four months to a point 22 per cent above that reported for the comparable 1941 period.

As bank debits are the dollar totals for checks drawn by depositors against their bank accounts and since most of these checks are given in payment for goods, services, debts, etc., the debit figures for a locality are considered a good indicator of general business activity.

Fishing On Pike Lakes Opens Today

LANSING, May 14—Fishing on more than 200 Michigan pike lakes opens tomorrow under generally good auspices, the state conservation department reported today in its weekly fishing forecast.

Recent rains were said to have raised many streams and roiled their waters, making trout fishing prospects spotty.

This summer, pike fishermen may only take five fish, excluding panfish, compared with last year's limit of five northern pike and five walleyes. The bass lakes will not open until June 25.

The report by districts: Baraga-Houghton—Fishing conditions good in the south and central parts and fair in the north.

Marquette-Alger—Prospects fair to good in most trout lakes and streams. Some fly fishing reported, but worms bringing best results. Good catches expected on the pike lakes.

Iron-Dickinson—Opening day pike fishing expected to be good on Lakes Mary, Chicagoan, Bad Water and Perch. Brook trout fishing fairly good.

Menominee-Delta—Trout fishing good in the northern half with best results on the west branch of the Whitefish. The perch run is on at Nahma and Garden. Good pike fishing on the Menominee river and the Escanaba below No. 1 dam.

Schoolcraft-Luce—Prospects fair for lake fishing, while trout fishing is fair to good.

Chippewa-Mackinac—Trout fishing good in the Soo area. Perch fishing has declined and pike fishing will be good.

Reopening of U. S. Case In Mail Fraud Trial Possibility

DETROIT, May 14—P—Reopening of the Government's case in the mail fraud retrial of Republican National Committeeman Frank D. McKay and nine co-defendants appeared a possibility today.

U. S. District Judge Schackelford Miller, Jr., said this would be necessary if defense counsel persisted in its assertion that, in determining whether the investigation of the grand jury which returned the indictment was proper, the burden of proof rested with the prosecution and not the defense.

This point was raised by William H. Gallagher, McKay counsel, after a day of hearings in chambers during which defense attorneys presented motions for directed verdicts of acquittal in behalf of six defendants.

Gallagher cited a recent court decision which, he said, held that the burden of such proof—whether the investigation was begun at the proper time and was continuous—remained with the Government.

Judge Miller also said he expected to rule on defense motions for directed verdicts of innocence which have been asked for all defendants.

In asking for dismissal of charges against McKay, principal figure in the $500,000 liquor shake-down upon which the mail fraud indictment is based, Gallagher said no evidence of fraud existed.

Other defendants for whom directed motions of acquittal were presented today were William McKeighan, five times Flint mayor; Fisher Layton and James Trimble, also of Flint; Earl Williams, of Detroit, and Don Flory, of Hudson.

the Government to reopen the case." If this occurs, the jury, which has been locked up since hearings on motions began more than a week ago, would be summoned into court and grand jury subpoenas placed before it.

Judge Miller asked both Government and defense attorneys to meet at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow. At that time, the defense is expected to decide whether it will enter a motion reopening the case.

The Government rested its case, in which three of the eight original counts on the indictment have been quashed, nearly two weeks ago after almost eight weeks of testimony.

Cheboygan Officials Will Be Inducted

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., May 14—P—Two Cheboygan county officials, Prosecutor L. E. Berry, Jr., and Charles Potter, county supervisor for social aid today received orders to leave May 25 for Detroit for induction into the volunteer officers' school.

Berry announced that his father, Attorney L. E. Berry, Sr., would act as prosecutor.

To Rouse Flow of Liver Bile

Do This Every Morning For 30 Days. Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts tonight. Start right in tomorrow morning and take as much as will lie on a dime in a glass of water (hot or cold) half an hour before breakfast or in your morning cup of tea or coffee and keep this up for 30 days. Kruschen taken this way helps relieve such symptoms as sick headaches, bowel sluggishness and so-called bilious indigestion when due to insufficient flow of bile from the gall-bladder. You can get Kruschen, a famous English formula made in the U. S. A., at any drug store. You must be satisfied or money back.

CONSTIPATION SUFFERERS: Note: For an occasional cathartic or purgative, to relieve common constipation, we believe there is nothing better than quick-acting Kruschen in larger doses—try it according to directions on the bottle.

Employment Office Checks Questionnaire

Occupational questionnaires which have been returned by selective service registrants of the Marquette area now are being examined at the local office of the United States Employment Service with the view of calling in those who have needed skills but who are not working on war production. These questionnaires so far have been sent only to men who registered on February 16.

"The Employment Service is responsible for calling in all selective service registrants in the group of critical occupations who are not currently employed at their highest skills on war production," says Russell R. Olds, manager of the Marquette office of the USES. "Critical occupations include any and all occupations for which local offices have current unfilled openings with war production contractors."

No Mandatory Transfers

"Neither the Employment Service nor any other agency at present possesses the power of mandating a transfer to war production of individuals who are not now employing their full skills in war industries. However, the Employment Service is charged with the duty of making every reasonable effort to bring such workers into the war production program."

"An employer engaged in the manufacture of non-essential products should be willing to release workers so they may transfer to war production work. Armed forces must have war weapons."

"The Employment Service, of course, has no power to defer skilled workers needed in war production. That is exclusively the responsibility of the selective service boards. However, upon request the Employment Service is furnishing lists of needed skills to the selective service boards."

Battleship Building Race Told in Jane's

By Alfred E. Wall

LONDON, May 14—P—Spare outlines of the greatest battleship building race in history, that between the embattled navies of the United States and Japan, are sketched by the new 1941 edition of Jane's Fighting Ships, the authoritative naval annual made public today.

To previously known details of the Japanese capital ship program, a huge effort in relation to Japan's resources, the new edition adds the names of the last three of a group of five fighting monsters of "more than 40,000 tons."

17 Building in U. S.

Against these the new Jane's describes progress on 17 tremendous United States battleships and six battlecruisers.

"Never before has such a quantity of capital ship strength been under construction at the same time for any country," says the foreword. "A similar remark applies to aircraft carriers and cruisers for the United States Navy, numbering 11 and 40, while the number of destroyers building challenges comparison with the program of 1918 (when America was carrying out the largest destroyer program in history)."

"All six of the 35,000-ton Washington class have been launched. Two of them are in service and one, if not two, may be ready before the next issue of this annual appears."

"Six battleships of the Iowa class of 45,000 tons and five of the Montana class either are under construction or are in process of being laid down."

"The first of a class of six battlecruisers, the Alaska, was laid down in December, 1941."

Japan To Have 14
Completion of Japan's five new battleships is expected to give her a battle line of at least 14 ships, including nine pre-Washington conference vessels and excluding the Haruna, listed in United States records as sunk off the Philippines. (The United States lists two others as damaged.)

United States capital ship strength is given in latest Washington tabulations as 15, including the North Carolina and Washington—of the new 35,000-ton class—and excluding one battleship sunk and one damaged.

Concerning the British navy the new edition's most interesting contribution is pictures of new cruisers of the 8,000-ton Mauritius class and the 5,450-ton Dido class. It also includes a picture of the 33,850-ton battleship Nelson under way after being holed by an Italian torpedo.

The new book records a class of 12,000 or 15,000-ton Japanese warships apparently modeled after Germany's pocketbattleships and known as the Chichibu class. Jane's says these actually are heavy armored cruisers rather than battleships. It lists them this year in place of three similar ships identified last year as the Kadekura, Katsuo and Hachijo, to which the 1940 edition attributed six 12-inch guns each instead of the eight-inch guns carried by most cruisers and larger than the 11-inch guns of the German pocketbattleships.

New Information Collected
"Before Japan entered the war (in December, 1941,) a good deal of fresh information had been collected, some of it certainly of less definite character than could have been desired but enabling a clearer account to be given of the Japanese navy," the annual said. "The actual number of capital ships under construction still is somewhat doubtful nor are the names absolutely certain."

The Nisissin, it added, may turn out to be an airplane carrier while the Takamatu may wind up in the Chichibu class of pocket battleships. These two, however, still are listed in the group of five 40,000-tonners.

The Kil, Owari and Tosa all are named for ancient provinces of Japan in keeping with the nomenclature which assigns names of provinces or famous mountains to capital ships. They take the place of three huge ships of these names which Japan had laid down or projected in the great program which was scrapped as a result of the 1921-22 Washington conference.

Jap Sub Strength Large
The book noted a slight increase in Japanese cruiser and destroyer strength over that listed in the last edition and said it was "be-

Ship Gunner Sights Bomber Plan To Be Used In Peacetime, Foley Says

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 14—P—"It is fantastic to assume that a great, modern plant like Willow Run will remain idle in peacetime," said Raymond M. Foley, state director of the Federal Housing Administration, today, rapping fears that the Cherry Hills housing project would become a "ghost town" after the war.

Foley, speaking before the 19th annual adult education institute at the University of Michigan, said the plant probably would "turn to a giant civilian airplane production. In any case, it will employ large numbers of people and we will need a great amount of permanent housing near the plant."

Predicting a serious housing crisis "of a magnitude never before dreamed," Foley said he felt residents of defense areas soon would be required to share their homes with war workers.

Nick, The Greek, Provides Lesson In Patriotism

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

Folk, who believe only the native born can be good Americans (if there are still persons who hold such an old-disproved theory) might well decide it is high time to become realistic and realize that a real American is one who is proud of his country, who has faith in her, who is willing to fight for the freedoms that country provides shall continue.

Such Americans may be bank presidents, grocers, motion picture stars who lead defense bond drives, or naturalized citizens.

The Humble Serve Gallantly

Too often, in the past, we have tended to recognize the patriotism of the man who by reason of his position, has had his contributions to his country publicized, but, every now and then one hears the story of a humble citizen, long unnoticed, whose contribution to his country is not surpassed by any man in the more glamorous, publicized group.

Though in a democracy, one man rates as good as another when it comes to receiving the privileges of the American way of living, we still tend too much to overlook the tremendous importance of such persons as Nicholas Dimitrios Manthos, who, because he earns his living shining shoes and cooking in a hospital, is inconspicuous among the teeming thousands in Washington, D. C.

But Nicholas D. Manthos is a patriot of the first order, more appreciative of what this country's way of living means to people than many native born.

He Is Rightfully Proud

He takes a sturdy and splendid pride in blacking boots and working in the kitchen of St. Elizabeth's hospital, for his labors have made it possible for him to establish a home and rear a family in the American way, and to provide a repayment on the debt he feels he owes this land.

Forty-two years ago he came to America. Now 57 years old, gray-haired but active, he is carrying on, a happy man. He took his oath of allegiance to the United States in 1914. He reared his children to believe in, to have pride and faith in America, and to love her.

He has four sons in the military services and three other sons still at home. Of these, James, 27, is married, but expects to go in the draft. Frank, 15, is making ready for a year's service in the Navy, now in the Army, and Thomas, 11, is, of course, too young to take up arms.

Four Sons Enlisted

Manthos' four sons in the service enlisted. Mike joined the Marines and is stationed at Parris Island, S. C. John is a Marine, too, and was recently sent to the West Coast. Pete, 21, with less than a year's service in the Army, now in the second-class fire controlman aboard a destroyer and at his request was assigned to submarine duty. He attended a training school in New England, finished his course last week, and as far as his father knows, is out on the seas in an S-boat.

George, the youngest of the four in the service, is a sailor in training at Norfolk.

Nicholas D. Manthos, with his wife and younger sons, Frank and Tom, and a married daughter, lives at 423 Second street, Washington. He is doing no repining, or whimpering, because four of his boys are staking their all in the service of the country.

He declares staunchly: "My boys are fighting for a cause that is the dearest thing to me. When I first came to this country from the Island of Paros in 1901, I was able to work and make money. Nobody interfered with me and I tried to do what was right and taught my children what was right and that they are Americans and that they should love America. All my boys enlisted."

Gave of His Best

Happily Nick, the Greek, fine patriot, goes about his daily tasks, making his humble contribution of labor, but knowing full well that he has made a matchless contribution to his country when he gave his sons to its service.

You know when one has always had money and comfortable living and luxuries, the addition of a bit more money to one's income does not make much difference. But when one has been hounded by worry as to where the next meal is coming from, money that means security takes on a greater significance.

So a great many of us, who have always lived in America, who have accepted the privileges and comforts of life in a democracy, become so accustomed to it, that after awhile we do not even recognize and appreciate the proof of increasing benefits that come our way.

They Recognize Essentials

But the man and woman coming here from countries where freedoms are curtailed, where privileges for the mass of people are comparatively few, are keenly aware of each new liberal way of life, each comfort, each security provided by the country of their adoption. There is wonder in their minds as they find themselves free to move about the country unmolested, to choose the work they please for earning their living, to have to report their arrival at and departure, from town to no one. The force of the contrast between their old way of living and the new is intense.

One does not assert that all naturalized citizens are as patriotic as Nick Manthos. Some folk who come here from other lands and receive and accept America's largesse, abuse their privileges and accept no responsibilities. But some native-born Americans have the same attitude.

Patriotic Note Stressed In Spring Issue Of 'The Echo', Howard Junior High Publication

A patriotic motif is stressed in the spring edition of the Howard Junior high school publication, "The Echo" which has just been distributed. The white cover has red printing, and the picture of the Statue of Liberty in blue, above a quotation from F. Scott Key. The 58-page booklet is printed in blue.

The issue is "respectfully dedicated to the merchants of Marquette who cheerfully and generously advertise each year in the pages of our little publication and thus help to finance it."

Interprets Motto

Nancy Finlay, of the Eighth grade, who is editor, says: "This year our motto, 'Conquer we must when our cause is just' can be interpreted in more than one way. * * * We must not only as a country conquer our enemies that would destroy our American way, but first we must also conquer ourselves because our country will only be as strong as we are. God gave us every one gifts and it is our work to find what they are. Let us use these gifts to do what is right. By building our character, we strengthen our country and lead it to victory."

MacArthur is the theme of the verses by Robert Wilson, Seventh grader, and Kay Hornbogen, of the Eighth grade.

Shirley Nolden in her verses about "Our Armed Forces" says: "The Army, the Navy, the Marines are out to set a trap. And when they reach the battle scene, They'll do away with Mr. Jap. 'The Army is fighting on land. 'The Navy fights at sea. Where'er the aggressors take a stand. They are fighting for you and me."

Many Visited St. Mary's On 'Hospital Day'

Many persons availed themselves of the opportunity to attend the "Hospital Day" from 2 to 5 Tuesday afternoon in St. Mary's hospital in observance of national hospital day. Guests were greeted by the Sisters and members of the Hospital Auxiliary who took them on a tour of the institution, visiting first the library where the use of the library, Miss Agnes Hayward.

There was much interest in the display of trays showing different prescribed menus, shown in the diet kitchen.

Viewed Equipment

Miss Marion Joyce, laboratory technician, explained the use of the X-ray, the cardiograph, the fluoroscopic equipment, oxygen tent, fracture table, and the new first aid casualty station trunk, one of which has been installed in each hospital as a civilian defense measure.

Sister Carmella, in charge of the first floor, showed the guests an unoccupied patient's room, which afforded an idea of the room equipment of the whole hospital. At the end of the corridor, on each floor, is a sun parlor gay with spring flowers.

The chapel, with its beautiful new altar trimmed with flowers, attracted the attention of many visitors.

On the second floor, Sister Sebastian who is in charge, showed the small diet kitchen and utility rooms, which are duplicated on each floor.

Louise Alexander-Vivian, slyly feminine, with a motive for all she does.

Case For the Fathers

For years, Sister Eleanor has been in charge of the third floor, (the maternity floor) and doubtless thoroughly enjoyed the exclamations of the women as they gazed through the protective glass windows into the newly remodeled and redecorated nursery, and inspected the new delivery room on the same floor. The guests chuckled as they viewed the clever mechanical devices in the halls in an attempt to distract the attention of the worried "expectant" father.

After visiting the operating room, with its rows of instrument cabinets, the guests returned to the first floor where Mother M. Angela and Sister M. Henrietta greeted them.

Tea was served to more than 150. Mrs. A. J. Bishop, Mrs. R. J. McCann and Mrs. E. L. Wilmers presided at the treatable which had a red, white, and blue centerpiece of spring flowers.

War Budgets Should Include Beans, Peas

Wartime budgets should include frequent servings of dried bean and pea dishes, says Mrs. Gaynor Maddox. Among the vegetables, they come nearest to meat, eggs, milk and cheese as body builders. They are relatively inexpensive, too.

Garbanos are Latin-American beans popular in the United States.

There will also be a vocal solo, a piano duet, a violin solo, a piano solo and numbers by a vocal trio.

Thirty-six girls form the glee club and the soloists have been rehearsing conscientiously in preparation for the concert, knowing they have the high standard of former years to maintain.

Senior Class Of Graveraet Presents Play

The seniors of Graveraet high school will present a three-act comedy, "Young April," (Aurania and William Spence Rouvray) at 8:15 Thursday night, May 21, in the Louis G. Kaufman auditorium.

The play centers about the delightful McIntyre family in which the younger members are having the experience of attending college and failing in love.

Terry, the young daughter of the family, is having rather a difficult time choosing Mr. Right from her many beaux. Her older brother, George, is having a disillusioning time, too, in his love affair. Mother and the whole play goes to prove that love's young dream can be plenty fun for everybody but the victims.

War Budgets Should Include Beans, Peas

Wartime budgets should include frequent servings of dried bean and pea dishes, says Mrs. Gaynor Maddox. Among the vegetables, they come nearest to meat, eggs, milk and cheese as body builders. They are relatively inexpensive, too.

Garbanos are Latin-American beans popular in the United States.

Cocido

(Serves four to six).

Twelve ounces garbanos, 4 medium carrots, 1-2 head of cabbage, 2 cups green peas, 1 small ham bone.

Soak garbanos over night (36 hours) in water. Cook slowly until soft (about 5 hrs.) with the ham bone. Add peas and carrots, cut lengthwise. Cook 20 minutes longer. Add shredded cabbage. Cook five minutes. Season with garlic and olive oil as follows: Cut garlic fine and brown quickly in olive oil. Strain olive oil and garlic mixture, and add to ham bone mixture. Remove from heat plate and cover with ham slices, and strain. Place garbanos on plate and cover with ham slices. Spread vegetables around edge. Serve with rice.

Here's a good New England bean chowder that sticks to the ribs:

Bean Chowder

One cup dry beans, 1 1-2 quarts cold water, 1 cup diced carrots, 1 cup tomatoes, 1-2 cup shredded green pepper, 1 onion chopped fine, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons uncooked cracked wheat, or 1 tablespoon flour, 2 cups milk, few grains pepper.

Wash the beans, add the cold water and soak overnight. Cook in a covered pan until the beans begin to soften, then add the vegetables and continue to cook until tender. Add salt and cracked wheat or flour mixed with a little cold water. Stir. Cook about 30 minutes. Add milk and pepper. Heat to the boiling point and serve.

Malcolm's Band Plays at Prom

Bob Malcolm

The juniors of the Graveraet high school may be tired today after all the work put into the project the past week, but everything is ready for the prom tonight which will be held from 9:30 to 1 in the Sidney Adams gymnasium.

The hall has been completely transformed to simulate the setting of a Southern Colonial scene, graciously impressive, but colorful. Favors will be in key with the motif used for the trim.

Bob Malcolm and his orchestra, of Green Bay, Wis., will play for the program, and the class has planned innovations for this prom. For one thing, all those attending are asked to use the Hewitt avenue entrance, and there will be students there to direct them to the novel entry to the gym. It has attractive and different lighting effects.

Outdoor Promenade

The juniors are hoping fervently that this evening will be warm and balmy. If it is, the fountains in the schoolyard will be lighted and the grand march will circle the sunken garden paths. If it is cold, the promenade will be held indoors. In any event it will be picturesque.

Guests attending the prom will be greeted by a receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Henning J. Anderson, Ray Beauchamp, president of the junior class, and his guest, Miss Mary Louise Hackett; and the senior class president, Richard Keskey, and his guest, Lyvonne Lanito.

These Women Collect Blooms On 'Lilac Day'

Do remember—Monday is Lilac Day in Marquette! Please share your blossoms with the patients in St. Mary's and St. Luke's hospitals and Morgan Heights.

Members of the auxiliaries of the two hospitals will be only too happy to collect the flowers and to take them to the respective institutions. Be sure that you telephone early Monday morning, notifying them that you have a bouquet, or bouquets, for which they will call during the day.

You know the lilac bushes bear so much more luxuriantly if the blossoms are picked, so, in giving to the hospitals, you are contributing to the pleasure of the shut-ins and improving your lilac shrubs.

The following two committees have charge of collecting the flowers. (Telephone to any member of those designated, tell the person your name and address, and do it early so the collectors can route their stops and save tires.)

St. Mary's—Mrs. Joseph Flanagan, 1473-J; Mrs. George Keskey, 1640; and Mrs. E. R. Tauch, 2531.

St. Luke's—Mrs. A. K. Bennett, 30; Mrs. Gilbert Loeber, 2158; and Mrs. L. W. Howe, 2411.

Your Warner's Le Gant girdle or corselette was never worth so much to you as it is today! Its quality is such that it will last a long time, if you take care of it!

Be careful in putting it on or off. Careless finger nails can do much harm! Ease it on gently, don't tug and yank it on!

Repair it at the first sign of need. Don't fasten garters on with safety pins—bring it in to us and we will sew them on properly. We can make other repairs, too, that will give extra months of service. Our charges are moderate.

Wash it—wash it frequently and carefully! That's the most important thing to make it last. Use luke warm water and pure soap flakes—rinse thoroughly, roll it in a towel and hang in a shady place to dry.

Redmen Top Entries In B Division

Representatives of 15 schools from the central and eastern sections of Upper Michigan will compete in the annual regional track meet on the Northern Michigan field tomorrow morning and afternoon.

The event is one of four to be held in the Upper Peninsula as elimination meets for the Peninsula championships will be staged in Houghton next Saturday, May 23. The others will be held at Iron Mountain, Ironwood and Houghton.

Graveret high school, with a team of 21 or 22 thinclads, is favored to cop the Class B regional championship, in addition to sending a majority of contenders to the U. P. finals. Guns Weren't Manned In St. Lawrence

MONTREAL, May 14—(AP)—A ship's captain expressed today the hope that three vessels in all were torpedoed in the St. Lawrence river Monday night and a rescued gunner off one of the two known sunk and the 1500 attacks were not unexpected in presumably safe inland waters that the guns were not manned.

"The submarine was out to get as many ships as it could," said the captain, whose identity was withheld. "After it fired its torpedoes into our ship it was still within hunting distance of other vessels. It would seem entirely likely to me that a third ship might have been sunk."

The navy ministry in Ottawa, which announced the first sinking Tuesday with the word that no more such would be made public and then relaxed its new rule, announced the second sinking today, which occurred at about the same time, finally put up the bars, and naval authorities said there was no indication of a third sinking.

The naval gunner who told of the lack of a gun watch and indicated in his statement that the two attacked ships were outward bound was Bill Middenditch. He said:

"We had no gunners on watch the night we were sunk. We never used watches in the St. Lawrence river, and we were only due to start them the morning after we were sunk."

He and the captain were among 31 survivors of their ship, from which one man was lost through death by exposure and 11 were missing.

Of the missing the captain said "they can still be alive only through a miracle."

Six other persons were belatedly reported missing from the other ship known to have been sunk. That made a total of one dead and 17 missing.

Down Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, May 14—The news that Billy Conn had eliminated himself from a title bout by due process of in-law ordinarily would result in a bargain-counter rush by managers to Mike Jacobs' office, each pilot intent on staking the first claim to a match with the champion.

There are a couple of reasonable reasons why this Cherokee-strip scramble failed to materialize, namely and to wit: (1) The managers would just be chasing rainbows inasmuch as a Conn-Louis bout for next month had not been arranged, and there was no assurance that it could be, and (2) there are only two fighters who might be mentioned as possible opponents without generating a chorus of guffaws.

Just run down the list of those who were at one time considered as worthy of mention for a bout with the Brown Embalmers—the two big Baers, the not-so-simple

Baseball Banter

By Judson Bailey

NEW YORK, May 14—(AP)—The Giants and Dodgers expect Mayor Fiorella H. LaGuardia to give a definite "yes" or "no" for night baseball in his weekly radio address next Sunday afternoon.

The lights at both the Polo Grounds and Ebbets field were turned on for a test Tuesday night while officials watched from a Coast Guard cutter.

Both ball clubs were represented in the party and although they have had no report from the authorities, they are hopeful.

Riggs Comes Through

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who were accompanied by Singer Tony Martin on their final western swing last season, now have two Broadway comedians, Danny Kaye and Benny Baker, working out with them at Ebbets field.

Law Riggs, of the Dodgers, is the National league's outstanding pinch-hitter; in his emergency calls this season he has made nine hits, including two homers and two doubles, and batted in six runs.

Fred Fitzsimmons has taught Larry French how to throw a knuckle ball and the veteran left hander used it for the first time in beating the St. Louis Cardinals recently.

It was the acquisition of a knuckler which made a new pitcher out of Boston's Jim Tobin last year.

DiMaggio in Shump

Joe DiMaggio has been struggling with a hitting slump, but his last seven batters prior to today have been five homers, a triple and a single.

Bill Klein, chief of the National league umpires, is carrying around a little glass jar of iron powder dust which he says all ball clubs should get to spread on the base paths when the diamond is wet.

He says it dries up a field like magic and would save many games that have to be called because of wet grounds.

Johnny Vander Meer has not beaten the Dodgers since he pitched his second no-hitter at Ebbets field in 1938.

Dodgers Install Electric Organ

Ball clubs don't know what to expect in the way of transportation anymore.

When the Cincinnati Reds move from Boston to Philadelphia next Tuesday they will have to ride day coaches, leaving at 6 p. m. and arriving at 1 a. m., but when the Yankees started their present western invasion they unexpectedly came up with a bedroom Pullman.

The Dodgers, who always have something different for the customers, now have an electric organ installed in a box back of the Brooklyn dugout at Ebbets field.

Frank Frisch has found a way for the Pirates to stop Slugger Johnny Mize; the Pittsburgh second baseman plays left short field when the big left fielder is at bat.

Tigers Again Kept Idle By Weather

DETROIT, May 14—(AP)—For the second time in three days the Detroit Tigers were kept idle today by the weather, and it gave the front office the opportunity to create a Saturday doubleheader with the New York Yankees, who are here also for a single game tomorrow.

Without moving a finger, however, the Tigers strengthened their hold on third place in the American league standings to two full games over the Boston Red Sox, who bowed to the St. Louis Browns. Detroit still is a game and a half behind the league-leading Yankees and a game back of the Cleveland Indians.

Benton vs. Bonham

The two B-boys, Al Benton, of Detroit, and Ernie Bonham, of New York, are the holdover pitching selections for tomorrow. Bonham risking his string of four victories without defeat that contains three shutouts. In the twin bill Manager Del Baker will pitch Hal White and Paul (Dizzy) Trout, with Tommy Bridges facing the Red Sox here Sunday.

The Saturday bargain bill will give the Detroit club its first chance to test the gate appeal of twilight games that may be instituted here once or twice a week perhaps starting next month. Many feel that a 4 p. m. starting time on Saturday would bring larger turnouts, and in this case the second game of the twin bill will start at that hour. The first game is at the usual 1:30 p. m. starting time.

Revamped Lineup To Start

Against the Yankees Baker plans to stick with his revamped lineup that whipped Bobo Newsom, of the Washington Senators, yesterday for Detroit's ninth consecutive home victory. That means Don Ross will be at third base in place of Pinky Higgins, who is taking a rest, and Ned Harris will bat second, Roger Cramer third and Barney McCoskey fifth in the revised batting order. The others are unchanged.

Baker was particularly pleased with the three - hit pitching performance of Hal Newhouse against the Senators in his second start of the season. That feat clinched a starting job for the lean left-hand-er.

The Yankees are somewhat crippled for the series by the absence of Shortstop Phil Rizuto, who is hospitalized in Cleveland with influenza. Frank Crosetti is replacing him.

Timoshenko's Offensive Significant

of the city and an advance southward through the breach to the Dnieper could force a German retreat in the lower Donets instead of a major attack.

There is another element in the drawing from Russian stress on the Kharkov operations. The implication is that the fight for Kerch peninsula is only an outpost affair of heroic size in Russian strategy; that the main Russian defense front for the Crimean backyard to the Caucasus lies east of Kerch strait, not on Kerch peninsula.

Maps showing that the land east of the strait is broken by lakes and estuaries support that conclusion. While at its narrowest point the strait is only four to five miles wide, it is a 10-mile span at the points of the only road or rail connection east of the strait.

The western panhandle of the Caucasus is far more difficult terrain to overrun than the Kerch eastern panhandle. Only two narrow tongues of solid ground, both dominated by small heights, afford passage eastward toward the plains or as an outpost, and the Don front in the rear. It now appears certain that Timoshenko is relying on that broken terrain and its water hazards to halt the German Crimean push, not upon Kerch isthmus.

Casualties Of Naval Battle In Hospitals

SYDNEY, Australia, May 15—(Friday)—The men who fought the Battle of the Coral Sea for the Allies have landed at an Australian port, unharmed.

The first casualties of the battle, which may have been the greatest since Jutland, were taken in army ambulances to an Allied hospital many miles inland.

No one was permitted to welcome the returning heroes except the hospital staff. Some walked only with assistance. Others were borne on stretchers. Two were carried in, swathed in bandages. Others were shielded only in blankets. Some showed evidence of severe burns.

It was a slow, sad procession. These men were all heroes. They had fed the guns in battle and served below decks during the cannonade.

One man waved his left arm, his only visible limb, at a group of hospital nurses on a balcony.

The first intimation that the sailors who had fought the battle were ashore leaked out in an hotel where three sailors drank silently and then broke their glasses deliberately.

"What did you do that for," asked the hotel keeper.

The reply was:

"You'd better go away. We're toasting comrades who did not come back."

Nothing more was said.

Changes in Big Ten Practice Dates Likely

EVANSTON, Ill., May 14—(AP)—Further integration of Big Ten athletic programs with the national war effort and possible changes in the limitation of fall football practice dates will be among topics of discussion tomorrow by conference athletic directors.

The present limit on opening football practices is September 10. Because some schools have adopted accelerated academic programs they will convene earlier next fall, before the practice date.

Recommendations involving conference legislation will be studied at a joint meeting Friday night of directors and faculty men.

On Saturday, the faculty body

Chisox Run Win Streak To 3 Games

CHICAGO, May 14—(AP)—Led by outfielder Myril Hoag, who drove in four runs with three singles, the cellar Chicago White Sox went on a spree today and ended the Philadelphia Athletics' five-game victory string, 9 to 4. It was the third straight victory for the Chicagoans, who until yesterday hadn't won more than one game in a row.

The Sox pounded an old mate, Jack Knott, for seven of their nine hits to take advantage of four Philadelphia errors and eight passes. They topped it off with a perfect squeeze play when Bob Kennedy crowded the plate from third in the seventh just as Pitcher Bill Dietrich bunted.

It was Dietrich's third victory against as many defeats. He shut out the A's on two hits for six innings and then was touched for all four runs on five blows in the seventh.

Larry French, who relieved Higbee in the third, received credit for the victory, his third without a defeat this season, but he had to leave the game in the sixth because of a Charleyhorse. During his 3-1/3 innings French allowed no hits and fanned five.

Giants Score 10 in Eighth To Beat Reds

NEW YORK, May 14—(AP)—The New York Giants gave the Cincinnati Reds a dose of their own medicine today as they battered across 10 runs in the eighth inning—more than enough to give Mel Ott's men a 12-6 decision.

The Reds scored 12 runs in one inning against the Giants on the New Yorkers' recent western tour. Before the eighth the Reds were sailing along with a 6-2 lead, built up in the first three innings on the strength of home runs by Linus Fry and Ray Lamanno.

Then came the explosion. Babe Young, batting for Harry Feldman, who had checked the Reds since Fiddler McGee had left the game in the fourth for a pinch-hitter, led off with a double. With one out Billy Jurges walked and Ott packed his third homer of the year in the right field stands.

Two more hits sent Joe Beggs, who had replaced Elmer Riddle in the fifth, to the showers in favor of Bucky Walters. But Bucky couldn't get anybody out and Clyde Shoun came in to finally squelch the attack after being hammered hard himself. Young's bat also spoke loud the second time he came up as the sub first baseman connected with a triple. The other big wallop was Harry Danning's double off Walters which drove in the tying and winning runs.

Pirates Drop 7-4 Decision To Brooklyn

BROOKLYN, May 14—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates, the two leaders of the National league, collided violently today in the first installment of their important three-game series and the Dodgers hammered their way to a 7-4 triumph.

This increased the 1941 champions' first-place margin to 3 1/2 games and averted any possibility of the Pirates wresting the league leadership from Brooklyn during the series.

Eight of the game's 11 runs were packed into the first three innings as both Kirby Higbe, of the Dodgers, and lefty Aldon Wilkie, of the Buccaners, were driven to shelter by the accompanying cheers and hoots from the big week-day crowd of 17,251 paying customers.

Medwick Blasts Home Run

The Pirates raised Higbe for a run in the first inning on successive doubles by two Brooklyn "outcasts," Jim Wassell and Babe Phelps, and they finished "Higbie" with two more tallies in the third.

The Dodgers made an even more thunderous start with three runs in the first inning when Arky Vaughan doubled, John Rizzo walked and Joe Medwick sent his second homer of the season crashing into the left field stands.

In the third Phil Herman singled, Arky Vaughan doubled and Pete Reiser brought them both home with a single to rout Wilkie with none out.

French Credited with Victory

Brooklyn collected its final two runs in the eighth off Ken Jungels on a walk, a double by Reese and a single by Herman.

Larry French, who relieved Higbee in the third, received credit for the victory, his third without a defeat this season, but he had to leave the game in the sixth because of a Charleyhorse. During his 3-1/3 innings French allowed no hits and fanned five.

Arthur Koski Enters State Track Meet

Arthur Koski, of Marquette, will be the only Northern Michigan College of Education athlete to compete in the state intercollegiate track championships in East Lansing today.

Koski, who scored 13 points for Northern in last Saturday's meet at Houghton, left for East Lansing yesterday morning, accompanied by Athletic Director C. B. Hedgcock.

He probably will compete in all four events in which he won points against Michigan Tech. In that meet he won the shot put and tied for first in the high jump, in addition to taking second in the javelin and third in the discus.

Michigan State Favored

Ten state colleges are represented in the 27th renewal of the state track championships, with Michigan State college favored to take its fifth title in six seasons. Only other entry conceded a chance to trip the Spartans is Michigan Normal, which has several outstanding performers, including Whitey Hlad, one of the nation's top hurdlers.

Wayne and Western Michigan are next ranking contenders in a field which also lists Albion, Alma, Central Michigan, Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids junior in addition to Northern Michigan.

Spirited individual competition is expected with 36 out of last year's 56 place winners returning for the one-day event. Preliminaries will start at 2 p. m., with finals beginning at 7 p. m. in a "twilight" wind-up.

Northwestern Takes Lead In Big Ten Tennis Meet

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 14—(AP)—Northwestern took the top spot in the Big Ten tennis championship first-round matches today, winning seven of nine matches for seven points.

Chicago garnered 6 points, Illinois 5, Michigan 4, Purdue 2, Minnesota 2, Ohio State 1 and Wisconsin none. Iowa and Indiana did not compete.

The first day's play indicated that Michigan, with only one man missing from last year's championship squad, Northwestern and Chicago are the teams who will fight it out for the title in tomorrow's finals.

The crown goes to the team scoring the most points in all rounds of play. Possible points which contestants can score tomorrow: Northwestern 14, Chicago 18, Illinois 13, Michigan 14, Purdue 7, Minnesota 13, Ohio State 14.

Michigan, Ohio Tied For Conference Lead

CHICAGO, May 14—(AP)—Ohio State's and Iowa's positions as contenders for the Big Ten baseball flag are due for a showdown this weekend as the teams who will fight and twice-defeated Hawkeyes prepare for battle at Iowa City tomorrow and Saturday.

Meanwhile Michigan, tied with Ohio for first place with five wins and one loss, went to Champaign for a pair of tilts with Illinois, victor in half of its 10 games to date. Other games tomorrow and Saturday match eighth-place Minnesota against ninth-place Indiana at Minneapolis, Wisconsin with a 3-1 record against last-place Chicago here, and Purdue and Northwestern at Evanston. The Boilermakers and Wildcats each have 3 and 5 marks.

Iowa, Indiana and Illinois will complete their 12-game schedules with this week's games.

All Greenwood Mine Employees Buying Bonds

ISHPEMING, May 14—Employees of the Greenwood mine of the Inland Steel company are justifiably proud of the record they have attained of 100 per cent participation in defense bond buying. The announcement was made this afternoon.

As far as known this is the first industrial unit of the district to reach the 100 per cent mark.

The Greenwood is a property of the Inland Steel company, which is conducting a contest among its various workings to gain increasingly higher percentage of participation in purchase of defense bonds and stamps.

Dr. Stevenson Safe in Manila, Family Hears

ISHPEMING, May 14—Ishpeming friends of Dr. Theodore D. Stevenson, who for some time was associated with the staff of the Ishpeming hospital, will be happy to learn that the Geneva Red Cross has reported officially to his family that Dr. Stevenson is safe and well in Manila, although interned with hundreds of other Americans at Santo Tomas university.

The crew of the freighter Ruth Alexander which carried Dr. Stevenson to the Far East had a dramatic story to tell relatives when they returned to New York. The crew, all Dutch, was transferred to another boat when they reached Manila and the Ruth Alexander was put into service as a transport. She was later torpedoed by the Japs.

Entered Under Fire

The crew said the Ruth Alexander was one day out of Manila when the war started. There was nothing to do but go into Manila and they reached harbor in the midst of bombs falling, sirens shrieking and radios broadcasting emergency calls for doctors and nurses.

Dr. Stevenson, who was prepared for operative tuberculosis treatment in China, was able to get all his equipment off the boat and it can be presumed he immediately offered his services. When Manila fell he became interned with other Americans.

Coincidental with the Red Cross statement was receipt by Mrs. Stevenson of a letter mailed November 27 by the doctor from Papua.

Secrecy Over Bombings 'Psychological Blow'

CHICAGO, May 14—The cloud of secrecy which has hung over the Tokyo bombing was termed "the most brilliant psychological blow on our part in the present war" today by Col. R. Ernest Du Puy, chief of planning and liaison for the Army public relations bureau.

Addressing the National Council of Industrial Editors' Associations, Colonel Du Puy declared: "From the viewpoint of the Japanese general staff, it is a 'must' that they know whence came the bombers that hit their country, and where they were bound. Where are these mysterious bases?" "Yet, they don't know those facts. Not only the Japanese propagandists but in fact the entire Axis propaganda machinery has developed a severe hot box as evidenced in the halting, conflicting stories they have sent out, in the childish attempts to goad us into telling them these all-important facts." "Instead, through their stumbling, we have received a much better picture of the damage done, of the losses sustained, the blow to national morale in Japan resulting from this achievement."

The demand had been forwarded to the three Axis governments through the Swedish government since Mexico has broken diplomatic relations with the Axis.

Mexico's first shipping loss of the war was called "a flagrant violation of international law."

The foreign office said notes were addressed to all three Axis governments because of the difficulty of determining the identity of the attacking submarine.

"The Axis is all one, so it makes no difference to which one of the totalitarian powers the submarine belonged," the statement added.

Shortly after this development Vicente Lombardo Toledano, president of the Latin American Workers' Confederation, announced that he had sent a message to President Avila Camacho in behalf of the Federation asking for a declaration of war on the Axis.

Ship Fully Lighted

MIAMI, Fla., May 14—An Axis submarine stalked the fully lighted Mexican oil tanker Portero del Llano for half an hour off the Miami coast recently and claimed that nation's first ship victim of this war by ramming a torpedo directly into the large Mexican flag painted on her side.

The blazing ship, on which 13 men, including the captain and deck officers, were killed, floated for hours past Miami Beach and thousands of persons gathered on the seashore to watch the burning vessel.

Hundreds heard the muffled roar of the exploding torpedo and saw the first flash of flames.

Tonight in Mexico City, it was announced the Mexican government, in a note addressed to Germany, Italy and Japan, demanded "complete satisfaction and a guarantee of damage reparations" by May 28 for the sinking of the 7,500-ton vessel.

The government threatened otherwise to "take a position in accordance with Mexican honor."

22 Survivors Reach Shore

Survivors who landed a Miami beach today after the vessel quickly burst into flames after the torpedo struck. There were 22 who reached safety and these spoke in amazed voices of the attack on their neutral merchantman and described their rescue by United States naval forces.

To prevent just such an occurrence, the Mexican naval ministry recently ordered all Mexican ships to keep lights burning at night and the nation's flag flying by day.

Obeying orders, Captain Bagriel Cruz y Diaz had a light burning and spotlights on the Mexican flag painted on each side of the ship.

The attack came in the dead of night. Captain Cruz was on the bridge and with him were the deck officers. First Officer Rafael Castellon y Ortiz, Second Officer Jorge Pawling y Salazar, and Third Officer Jose Virgen y Rojas. The torpedo explosion wrecked the bridge, killing all of them.

Eduardo Sibaja y Ramirez, of Vera Cruz province, a quartermaster, swam on his way to the bridge to relieve the helmsman, Jose Manana, when disaster struck. He told his story through an interpreter.

'Big Animal Following Us'

"Jose came to my quarters a few minutes before and wakened me," said Sibaja. "He told me 'we are being followed.' I asked him what was following us and he gave a knowing look."

"A big animal," he said "it has been following us for half an hour. I knew what he meant. I dressed hurriedly and was making my way

Theaters Aid In Army-Navy Relief Drive

ISHPEMING, May 14—The Ishpeiming and Butler theaters are cooperating, Bernard McNamara, manager, said today, in a nationwide Army and Navy relief program instituted by the movie theaters of America.

Collections will be made by Boy Scouts sometime during the first performance at each of the houses from now until May 20.

A trailer appeal, starring Gary Cooper, will be shown at each house and the collection will follow.

The purpose of the fund is to carry on the work of Army and Navy relief. This includes:

When a member of the service, active or retired, is killed in action or is reported missing, or dies from any other cause, a member of the auxiliary visits the home and gives necessary immediate aid.

If grants loans without interest to meet medical, surgical or funeral expenses.

It extends educational aid to orphaned children of service men.

Families of service men are helped by their problems by visiting nurses, health care, loans and emergency relief. In the first two weeks after Pearl Harbor the Navy Relief society paid out, through its auxiliaries, in excess of $50,000 for such services.

This is the second time in recent months the theaters have been used for this universal appeal. During the campaign to raise funds for infantile paralysis research, the theaters of the country raised a million and a half dollars.

Women Convicted For Waving at War Captives

ESPAÑOLA, Ont., May 14—For repeatedly waving at German war prisoners on a hospital veranda, Mrs. J. Warnosky, of Sudbury, and Mrs. Mary Piche, of Espanola, were convicted in police court today of "interfering with the carrying out of the duties of His Majesty's forces."

They were remanded for sentencing May 21.

Regardless of the season, the orotillo, a desert plant, puts on a new crop of leaves after every rain.

to the bridge. Suddenly there was blinding flash. The bridge went to pieces before my eyes. Jose died with the officers. In two minutes it would have been I who died.

"We were a neutral ship, fully marked as neutral, but with such an enemy there is no such thing as neutrality.

"Those of us who were saved dived into the sea. We saw the periscope and conning tower of the submarine moving swiftly away. The water became a sea of flames. We found pieces of wreckage and tied them together, and in about three hours were being rescued by United States Navy craft."

Nazi Lines Pierced At Leningrad

tank which was termed "an armored colossus."

Simultaneously the Red army announced a break-through in the Nazi primary lines before Leningrad, and there were other manifestations of savage Russian assaults at many points on a 1,100-mile battle front.

Before Kharkov, said Soviet military dispatches, the powerful initial Russian assault smashed strong enemy fortifications and the advance was pouring through a widening breach while the Red command called up more troops, tanks and guns for a frontal assault on the city itself.

This action outshadows the struggle on the Kerch peninsula, across the narrow strait from the Caucasus, and scene of reverses which the Russians have acknowledged.

Fall Would Imperil Troops

The fall of Kharkov, which the Germans have held since last October 25, would imperil all the 2,000 troops which Hitler had poured into the south, including those now attacking in the Crimea and those who are poised for eastward assault along the upper shores of the Sea of Azov.

On the Kerch isthmus, the Russians were resisting stubbornly after falling back to new positions under the weight of superior German numbers. Today's communique, which did not specifically mention the greater Kharkov battle, said violent battles continued overnight on the Crimean front.

American and British tanks were engaged in the great Kharkov battle, and Soviet artillery and warplanes were in violent action.

Soviet dispatches said the Red fliers dominated the air, destroying more than 30 German aircraft and shooting down five fighters.

The suddenness of the assault spread panic in the German ranks, and many of the defenders were reported to have fled, abandoning both artillery and mortars.

German reinforcements were being rushed up from the Ukraine manpower reservoir, to replace losses already described as tremendous.

134 Women Volunteer For Bond Canvass

ISHPEMING, May 14—Despite heavy rains, 134 women gathered in the Ishpeiming high school auditorium last night to receive instructions and information on the defense bond purchase pledge campaign to be conducted in the city Monday and Tuesday, reflecting the generous cooperation extended the general committee in its efforts to get a corps of canvassers.

Each received complete material, including canvassers' insignia, handbook of instructions, informational pamphlets to be left at homes visited, receipt books and honor cards to be displayed in the homes of those who pledge to buy.

Williams Chairman

Wayne J. Williams, war savings committee chairman for the city, discussed the campaign with the workers last night. He said, in part:

"The reason for the house to house canvass to obtain pledges for the buying of war savings bonds and stamps is not a matter of trying to pry into the private affairs of the people of Ishpeiming, nor is it a note to be signed to the Government or an order for bonds and stamps in addition to those already being purchased under pay-roll deduction plans or other plans for systematic buying.

"It is merely an information census whereby the secretary of the treasury can find out how many people in the country are buying bonds and stamps and about how much can be expected from their purchases in months to come. This information is important to the successful financing of the war."

Discussing the history of defense bonds, which were inaugurated in 1940, Williams cited three fundamental reasons why the Government issued them. These reasons and his discussion of them follow:

"That we might have better understanding of and sympathy with the Government's defense policy, which has become war policy, it is highly desirable that we have as many citizens become share holders in the company as possible. In other words, the first aim was probably to make the people war conscious and to feel that they had a stake in the country to protect, thus to get the bulk of the people behind the Government for an all-out drive.

Check On Inflation

"To provide the most effective brake on inflation, which was starting then and which the economists all knew certainly would become aggravated if left unchecked under boom conditions when people had more money to spend for comforts and luxuries, and when these same comforts and luxuries were going to be manufactured in smaller quantities because the materials they required were needed for our war preparations and those of our allies.

"To provide a buffer of deferred purchasing power for the time after the war was over when we will be

Youth Groups Get $422 For Salvage Work

ISHPEMING, May 14—Ishpeiming's great Salvage Day, May 2, when the citizens engulfed workers with their offerings of scrap of all kinds, produced 96,000 pounds of salvage material in a single day, W. C. Peterson city salvage chairman, announced today.

This netted $422.91, which will be divided evenly three ways between the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the drum and bugle corps of the American Legion. Members of these groups worked hard and long at the task and Mr. Peterson this afternoon said, "Certainly these young folk are entitled to the benefits of the drive. Practically 100 per cent of the membership showed up for duty on salvage day and did all the actual collecting. In addition, they were greatly responsible for the success of the salvage parade."

When the salvage collection was first planned it was decided that returns would be divided between the three participating groups on an even basis.

This means that each organization will receive $140.97.

The Senior scout patrol of the Boy Scouts already has planned what it will do with its split of the $140.97. It has been presented with a camp by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company north of Deer Lake and the boys will have some $46 to spend on "fixing up the shack."

Council To Study Court Rule Monday

ISHPEMING, May 14—A special meeting of the common council has been called for 7:45 Monday evening when the aldermen will determine the course to pursue in the controversy over a city health officer.

Circuit Judge Frank A. Bell, after a hearing in special session Wednesday, ruled that the tenure of office for Dr. N. J. McCann is protected by the war veterans' preference act and that the council had erred in naming Dr. J. P. Bertucci to succeed McCann.

The council, it is understood, has the alternative Monday of either rescinding its action of the reorganization meeting and naming Dr. McCann as its health officer or agreeing to appeal the case to the Michigan state supreme court.

There has been nothing from city officials to indicate what action is being considered.

It is estimated that one out of every six Australian men of military age now is in uniform.

Early Stock Declines Reduced In Late Trading

War Reports From Russia Aid Buying

NEW YORK, May 14.—While selling dried up appreciably in the stock market and a number of Wednesday's depressed issues managed to come back fractionally, the price trend continued slightly lower for most departments.

Steels, coppers, aircrafts and scattered specialties dipped to new lows for the year in the forenoon. Most, however, reduced losses in the final hour and several ended with minor improvement. Dealings were relatively slack and declines running to a point or so predominated at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1/2 of a point at 33.5. Transfers of 278,857 shares compared with 336,980 the day before. Of 602 issues traded, 246 were down, 168 up and 188 unchanged.

A little late support was attracted by Russian claims of heavy counter-blasts against the latest Nazi drives, but many potential buyers inclined to step carefully pending more definite news from this sector. Tax doubts, dividend casualties and broadening governmental restrictions helped keep bullish sentiment within bounds.

Bond Price Swing Mixed; Rails Higher

NEW YORK, May 14.—The bond market's price swings were irregular today, but improved action in the late trading enabled many corporate issues to eliminate earlier declines. A fair number of rails closed moderately higher.

In the absence of developments affecting basic investment conditions, trading activities followed the highly selective pattern of recent sessions.

Closing fractions to a point or more higher were Cuba Railroad 5s at 99 1/2-1, Illinois Central 4s at 91 1/2-2, Warren Brothers 6s of '41 at 104 1/2-2, Western Maryland 4s at 101-2, Southern Pacific 4 1/2-2s at 92 1/2-2 and Atlantic Coast Line 4 1/2s at 92 1/2-2. There was considerable activity in Baltimore & Ohio stamped convertibles at fractionally higher prices.

Transactions totaled $6,322,600, face value, compared with $6,985,100 Wednesday.

Grain Losses Wiped Out In Final Hour

CHICAGO, May 14.—Early declines ranging from fractions to a cent were wiped out in all grain pits except oats today as the market rallied in the final hour on buying which some traders said may have been inspired by more favorable war reports from Russia. Better shipping business in corn, wheat and oats and buying attributed to processors as well as a general movement to cover previous short sales in all commodities contributed to the recovery.

Wheat, off about 1-2 cent at one time, closed unchanged to 3-8 higher compared with yesterday, May 13 1/4-1/4. July 1/2-2 to 5-8. Corn, which lost as much as 7-8 cent, finished unchanged to 1-8 up, May 86 1/8-1/8. Oats sagged 3-4 to 1-8 cents, being the weakest of the cereals, and closed 3-8 to 7-8 lower than yesterday. Soybeans closed 1-2 to 1-8 higher, and rye, unchanged to 1-4 higher.

The early retreat was blamed on a continuation of selling inspired by the favorable crop outlook and storage situation.

The Rubber Shortage

upon the transportation which is made possible by these privately owned tires.

Manifestly this reserve must be conserved just as carefully as our crude, synthetic or scrap. When the privately owned tires begin to wear out, privately owned cars go out of commission and essential transportation for war workers and other civilians will suffer. This in turn will directly affect our war production and many other phases of our national life.

The picture is as clear as it is unpleasant.

The amount of rubber available for all purposes is practically a fixed and known quantity. It probably is much less rather than more the real needs of a country at war. And we must share it with our Allies.

There is not an ounce of rubber to be wasted. Any one who does waste rubber through fast driving, unnecessary driving or in any other manner is definitely weakening the position of America and the United Nations.

I realize that the public wants to believe that "some way" will be found to cure the situation before

Caribbean Crisis

By Eaton K. Goldthwaite

THE STORY—After six years on a little Dutch island in the Caribbean, Bill Talcott is to be relieved of his branch manager job with an American chemical firm and join the Army. His successor, Halsey, arrives with an auditor who immediately charges Bill with a $138,000 shortage in his accounts. Bill, innocent, is furious. That evening June Paterson, cousin of Bill's college roommate, goes for a walk with Halsey, whom she has met on the boat. Bill warns her it is not safe, but stays behind with a stranger named MacDowell.

"YOU'RE A DETECTIVE"

CHAPTER III

Talcott was at the door when MacDowell moved suddenly, blocking his path. "Let 'em go," the mustached one grunted. "If I know my women, that one can take care of herself."

He stood tensed, glaring down. "You may be a very smart man where you come from, Mr. MacDowell, but you don't know Abas Island!"

MacDowell shrugged. "Why all the ruckus? She's got Halsey with her. And believe me, he's the kind that don't scare so easy. Or maybe," MacDowell sucked at his teeth, grinned knowingly, said, "Maybe you go for her yourself, huh?"

Bill ignored the thrust, stepped back and slapped his hands. In immediate response a shadow loomed from the darkness of the terrace behind MacDowell and the mustached one turned defensively. Bill said quietly, "Buckra white man and missy go out against my orders. Make Sebastian follow them."

The black boy nodded, said, "Yes, boss," and disappeared into the night.

MacDowell exhaled with relief, wiped sweat from his face, bit off the end of a cigar and remained in place before the door. "What is this?" he drawled. "Mean to tell me nobody can take a walk around here?"

"You may take all the walks you like. It so happens that there are several hundred blacks on the island, and they're bad sometimes. Miss Paterson will be the first white woman that some of them have ever seen. I wouldn't care to be responsible for what might happen."

MacDowell's face became gray and the unlighted cigar sagged. "Good Lord, man, why didn't you tell us before? If I'd known it was like that, I wouldn't've stopped you!"

Talcott smiled icily. "I presume you were afraid I might prevent Halsey from telling Miss Paterson something I wouldn't want her to hear."

"Maybe," MacDowell hedged. He found a match, popped it into flame and dragged on the cigar. "Who's this guy Sebastian that you sent after them?"

"My overseer. He's half native. Under usual conditions the men will obey him."

"Under usual conditions—" MacDowell frowned and glanced uneasily at the terrace. "Suppose we ought to follow them?"

"Talcott didn't answer. Indicating a chair he said, "Sit down."

It's time you and I had a little talk. In my correspondence with Federal Chemical, Halsey and you are accounted for. Your name was never mentioned. I want to know who you are, and your purpose on Abas Island."

The directness of the attack caught the mustached one completely off guard. His eyes rounded, his facial muscles sagged and his mouth made an O. "You mean," he said, wetting his lips, "you don't know who I am?"

Talcott leaned forward until his calloused big-knuckled hand rested on the other's knee. "You are not an employee of Federal Chemical and you're not an auditor. I might have thought you were a traveling companion, but I doubt it. Halsey and Struthers are seeking company just now. So what is your connection?"

Sweat showed above the mustached one's collar and the cigar revolved in his mouth. His face, for a moment, became even grayer. And then, unexpectedly, he laughed.

"That's pretty good!" he chuckled. "You claim you don't know why I'm here. For a minute you had me going."

Starting as it was, the change of front served only to increase Bill Talcott's cold wrath. "I doubt if it has occurred to you," he said icily, "that this frameup of the missing vouchers is as weak as water. By merely lifting a finger I could have the lot of you tossed in jail. Have you ever seen one of our tropical jails, Mr. MacDowell? They have no roofs, and the sun boils down and there are rats and scorpions—"

"Threatening, are you?" Ugly red crept through the gray of MacDowell's cheeks. "And I thought you looked like a decent kind of guy. Why, you cheap crook!"

"Be careful how you talk," Talcott said calmly. "It happens that for every one of these vouchers there are two facsimiles. One is in the possession of the steamship lines that carried the nitrates, the other with the Netherlands government official who collects a tax on every pound taken from the island. The remittances have all been made to New York and the bank in Willemstad has a complete record." Bill Talcott leaned forward and his long fingers closed in a steel-like grip on MacDowell's knee. "You and your friends haven't a leg to stand on."

Now, who are you and what is your game?"

"Leggo my knee!" MacDowell yelled.

Bill Talcott's strong fingers released with a disdainful movement and the mustached one rubbed vigorously. The words had brought to his face a mixture of doubt and surprise, and Talcott followed his opening swiftly. "If Halsey pocketed those vouchers thinking he could force me to remain here, he'd better devote some of his time to studying Federal Chemical procedure. Only he and Struthers had access to those records and one of them must be the thief. Now, where do you come in?"

MacDowell stopped rubbing his knee. Plainly, he was annoyed. Some deep-seated conviction of his was being rudely shaken. His eyes clouded and the burned-out cigar sagged. As if weighing Talcott against some mental standard he sat. Then, slowly, his hand moved to his pocket. It came away, bearing not identification papers, but a wicked, snub-nosed pistol.

"You claim Halsey and Struthers rigged a game on you?" he grunted. "That's what they all say. I had you sized up for a decent sort of guy until you started to use threats. If you're innocent and got something to prove it like you say, I don't see what you're worryin' about. As for you not knowin' why I'm here, that's a laugh. Do I hafta show you my badge?"

Talcott stared. "You're a detective?"

"You're startin' to get smart." A painful flush stole through Bill Talcott's cheeks. He might have guessed the man's identity. If indeed he was the victim of a plot, the locus of origin was now swiftly removed from Abas Island; thrust back 1,600 miles to the leather-chaired offices of Federal Chemical itself. But why? Had Old Man Winters gone crazy with war worries? Or was the "new" secretary attempting something more than merely holding her job? Was she in a conspiracy to take Federal Chemical for better than $150,000? Or was a bigger game, one in which Talcott and Halsey and Struthers and even Old Man Winters himself were tiny unwitting pieces, relentlessly under way?

"Who hired you?" Talcott demanded.

MacDowell hesitated, hefting the revolver. His eyes masked his thoughts now, the veiled, cunning eyes of the paid manhunter facing his quarry. To MacDowell it didn't matter whether Talcott was guilty or not; he was doing a job for which he was being paid. His orders were to bring Talcott back if the auditor proved a shortage. The fact that Abas was a Dutch island meant nothing to MacDowell. There hadn't been any officers at the dock. So far as he could see he was the only law on the island; there wouldn't be any embarrassing matters of extradition to worry about. MacDowell's biggest worry was the prospect of six more days of trying to keep something on his stomach.

That worry vanished from MacDowell's mind when he saw Talcott's face. Strained, white, tense, alarmed eyes glaring into the blackness beyond the terrace. And then MacDowell heard it. Above the soughing wind in the palms sounded the sudden, imperative blent of a whistle.

Extra-Inning Ball Game Saves Woman's Life

SEATTLE—A Police credit an extra-inning baseball game with halting a suicide attempt by a 30-year-old housewife.

Two patrolmen, called to the woman's residence by neighbors, reported she turned on the gas while listening to a broadcast of the Seattle-Los Angeles Coast league game.

In the 11th inning she became so interested she turned off the gas and by the time the game ended in a 5-5 tie four innings later she had changed her mind.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Price Control Will Call For Simpler Life

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Wide World Financial Editor

LIFE under rigid price controls of wartime goes on with little visible change at first, then takes on new and strange patterns.

Complete freezing of what you pay at the store, what you pay your landlord and, for most people a virtual freezing of what you get in your pay check, is leading America into a total war economy calling for drastic changes in our ways of thought, and our ways of doing things.

Beginning this month, Price Administrator Leon Henderson is putting a lid on the price of most of the things you buy, and on rents landlords may charge in two-thirds of the nation, with notice to the rest that no unjustified hikes will be tolerated.

President Roosevelt has called for a "stabilization" of wages, with "due consideration to inequities and elimination of sub-standards of living." As a general proposition, he says, "you will have to forego higher wages for your particular job for the duration of the war."

For the business man, the President says "profits must be taxed to the utmost limit consistent with continued production," and expresses the opinion no one in wartime should have an income, after payment of taxes, of over $25,000 a year.

To understand what these directives mean, they must be viewed in the light of the fact that there is going to be much less to buy. No lack of essential food and clothing. But we will learn to get along on the civilian front without a good many things the boys in service are also giving up for the duration. We will repair and mend what we have, make the old things do.

A Simpler Life
It is to be a plainer and simpler life, so far as material things are concerned. If the British experience is a good guide, it may well be a healthier life. New interest in community affairs, things closer home, is already developing. Various civilian defense activities are bringing neighbors together, making them friendlier.

But for many, the problem of handling a job, or a business, has become more complicated. Many peacetime manufacturing plants are closing. Keeping many small retail businesses going, with the variety of merchandise shrinking and less flexibility in pricing, becomes a problem. In England, where the impact of war has been much more severe, thousands have closed. There are scarcities of many kinds of workers. A general labor shortage is anticipated in coming months, requiring many more jobs for women in formerly masculine callings.

We learn day by day that there is no easy way to wage total war. As President Roosevelt has told us, "the price for civilization must be paid in hard work and sorrow and blood."

Canada's Example

How can such a stupendously complex job of control and regulation be made to work? It won't be easy. But Canada inaugurated an over-all price-wage control last Dec. 1, and Dominion leaders generally say it works. Of course, Canada has less than one-tenth our population. But it may well prove to have been a good testing ground for what we are undertaking.

News Behind The News

BY RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, May 14 — Congressional sentiment for a sales tax has dropped below zero as a result of the ways and means committee's perusal of confidential figures on the revenue it would exact. Although politically popular at first blush, the proposed indirect levy would not live up to advance promises.

Even if it were applied to all the necessities of life except rents—food, clothing, furniture, medicines, etc.—the base taxable total would amount to only 14 billion dollars a year. It might fall below that goal in view of the prospect that many more articles of consumption will be curtailed and rationed before long. A 10 per cent duty—and that is much higher than has yet been suggested anywhere—would mean an income of only one billion four hundred dollars. The impact most frequently mentioned—two per cent—would bring in only two hundred and eighty million dollars.

Total retail sellings for the next 12 months are estimated at 60 billion dollars. That sum includes luxury and amusement expenditures which already suffer from a Federal, state and municipal take. But a five or two per cent additional slice would return only three billion two hundred million to Uncle Sam. With the war scheduled to cost almost 200 billion so far, those pickings are hardly worth bothering about, especially as the tap might throw a lot of members out of office.

RELIEF—The 50 per cent cut in gasoline sales effective Saturday is only a preliminary experiment designed to ascertain how 10 million guinea pigs on wheels will react. The reduced allotment must be slashed by at least another 10 per cent in the 17 states selected for short rations, and extended to the Midwest and southwest.

The latest study of tanker sinkings and rail transportation scarcities discloses that "by the fourth quarter of 1942" possibly a million barrels a day may be brought overland into the eastern area. To handle that amount, there must be careful planning and new building. It will be necessary to renovate disused pipe lines, to reverse present east-to-west flow on others and to divert barges and petroleum cars now serving interior sections. But this total also will fall short by 200,000 barrels a day of meeting Atlantic Seaboard needs, even with the 50 per cent curtailment. And since the augmented service cannot become operative until fall, a much deeper reduction in gas station quotas must be made during the summer months.

Only a new 24-inch pipe line of living in the Dominion rose about 15 per cent. Since Dec. 1, it has held steady, averaging a trifle under November. Here, cost of living is also up about 15 per cent since August, 1939. Early, when Canada was at war and we were a neutral, it rose faster there. Lately, it has been going up about one per cent a month in America in what looked like the beginnings of a spiral that unchecked would be much more than in World War I, when prices doubled. It was time to act.

What of bootlegging and "black houses?"

Will manufacturers and distributors find profit margins so narrow they will close down? America is undertaking its mightiest job of economic integration and control in history. Grave complications will arise and have to be dealt with as we go along. But it is the highroad we have taken to victory.

100 bombers a week to England by way of Newfoundland, giving wings to MacArthur's army and building up a force in the Middle East.

WPB-ers are understood to favor more frankness, as Chairman Donald M. Nelson recently told a group of Senators. But the psychological warriors suggest caution for a while. Our contribution has not yet reached FDI's quota of 5,000 every 30 days for 1942, and probably will not until early or middle fall. The belief is that exact statistics should be withheld until the margin has been narrowed further. Moreover, the experts think that the announcement should be delayed until the moment is more opportune. That will come when and if the Japs or Nazis win a great victory, and our side needs encouraging news.

FEUDS—The Supreme Court of the United States has always had its factions. The nine young-old members are far more human than people who see them only in their black gowns realize.

In the past, however, they have separated mostly on legal grounds. Even in the days when "Justices Holmes and Brandeis dissent" was a regular Monday morning news report, social consciousness or division did not appear.

But now the feuds have become personal. So much so that some justices will not attend dinner or receptions if they learn in advance that certain associates are to be on hand. The tribunal is not so pleasant a place to work in as it used to be before reorganization on an economic and political basis.

New York

By Albert N. Leman

JEEPS — Despite dive bombers, torpedoes, and all the other frightful results of mechanized warfare, the probability is that already more United States soldiers and sailors have been killed directly or indirectly by their own weapons and materiel than by the Germans and the Japs and that this ratio will hold up to the hour of the next armistice. This was true in 1917-18 and today's Armageddon is far more a clash of steel monsters and gadgets than that conflict.

New York Army Ordnance and engineer statisticians explain that in the struggle against the Kaiser we lost over 51,000 men on the front or by death from wounds. But 63,710 died from non-battle injuries. Recruits 3,000 miles away from the French trenches were blown up by shells, grenades and mines which they were handling during training. Others figured in fatal auto crashes, scalds and burns, mishaps from falling freight, and even gas, bayonet drill and mule kicks.

Although as a nation we are wizards with wheels, many an unscientific youngster is the victim of the huge, complicated devices which he tries to master and as a result hospitals are filling up. The hazard of occupational accidents from planes, tractors, tanks, can- non, jeeps and machine guns is one of the reasons for the Army's insistence upon low age groups. This class is more familiar with machinery and has the quick reflexes and physical stamina to escape serious consequences.

STALWARTS—One would expect a union baiting politician in a silk stocking hailiwick to campaign for iron handed Government control of workmen's organizations, but the surprise is almost sensational to find an out-and-out left winger and leader of Labor electioneering on that platform. Yet that is exactly what is happening in the 17th Congressional district in Michigan, where Larry Davidow, prominent Detroit attorney, is running in the Democratic primary. Since he was formerly counsel of the United Automobile Workers, CIO, his race becomes a matter of national interest.

He proposes that a new Washington agency be created similar to the Securities Exchange Commission, with power to regulate unions. Each group must register annually and furnish a full roster of officers. Yearly financial reports, showing complete receipts and disbursements of funds, are to be submitted for examination and possible audit.

Every unit is ordered to hold periodic balloting under the auspices of the Federal setup and any interference with honest or free voting is a criminal offense subject to punishment. The loaded gun in the suggested act is that a brotherhood which fails to abide by the rulings of Uncle Sam's supervisors shall be denied the benefits of all United States labor legislation.

Many impartial liberals have long advocated some of these principles as have business associations, but never have they been injected into a political charter by one of the toolers' own stalwarts.

VIDALIA, Ga.—P—The oldest person in the United States—according to the U. S. Census Bureau—will observe his 117th birthday Friday at his home on a farm near here.

Several years ago, James Walter Wilson filed an application for an old age pension. Started Federal officials, investigating, found the aged negro was born a slave in 1825.

He says the secret of his longevity is: Obedience and minding the laws of nature.

Members of the famous Fifth Regiment of the U. S. Marine corps subscribed nearly a half a million dollars in liberty bonds in 1917.
