ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 22—(Friday)—P—Allied submarines have sunk a 7,000-ton Japanese cruiser of the Kako class and two Japanese cargo vessels, of 9,000 and 6,000 tons, it was announced officially today.

General MacArthur's headquarters also said that 14 Japanese planes had been destroyed or damaged in air raids on Japanese invasion bases in New Guinea and Timor.

There are four ships in the Japanese Kako class, each carrying a normal complement of 604 men. They are the Kako, Hurataka, Kinugasa and Aoba, all completed in 1926-27. They are armed with six 8-inch guns.

No Allied Planes Lost

The communique said: "Northwestern sector, New Guinea: Late-A surprise attack by Allied aircraft from a low altitude destroyed two enemy bombers and one fighter on the ground and extensively damaged two bombers. The enemy intercepted with eight fighters. Three were shot down. We suffered no losses.

"Naval operations: Our naval forces in underwater action destroyed the following enemy vessels—one eight-inch cruiser of the Kako class, one 9,000-ton cargo vessel, and one 6,000-ton cargo vessel. "Timor: Koepang—Further details of our recent attack reveal that three enemy aircraft were destroyed and three were damaged.

Navy Begins Task Of Raising Normandie

WASHINGTON, May 21—P—The Navy announced today that preliminary work has been started on the multi-million dollar job of raising the burned and capsized liner Normandie at its pier in New York City.

The order to go ahead was given by Secretary Knox after he received a report of a special committee recommending that the ship, renamed by the Navy the USS Lafayette, be salvaged.

The work of salvage will take about a year and after that the vessel must be refitted before it can actually be restored to service.

Commander W. A. Sullivan, chief of the Navy's salvage service and director of the Normandie operations, said that the method of salvage would be to divide the underwater portions of the ship by bulkheads and to pump out the water under controlled conditions until the vessel is righted.

Murray Given Support By Large CIO Unions

CLEVELAND, May 21—P—Praised as a man who "is not sitting in Washington in a grouch," CIO President Philip Murray tonight was assured support of CIO's two largest unions against any effort to "break up the labor movement from without or within."

After President R. J. Thomas, of CIO's United Automobile Workers made plain to the CIO United Steelworkers union he would back Murray in any impending showdown with John L. Lewis, Murray expressed appreciation and commendation.

"I recently was given a life membership in Ford Local 600 of the UAW. I deeply appreciate this because one never knows."

Murray did not elaborate, but he now holds his CIO office by membership in a local of Lewis' CIO United Mine Workers, and the Steelworkers' convention delegates have speculated that a showdown might be impending.

Merchants' Inventories To Be Limited by WPB

WASHINGTON, May 21—P—The War Production Board announced tonight it was taking steps to limit the volume of all types of merchandise which may be held in inventory by retailers and wholesalers.

Heavy buying by some firms is "preventing others from obtaining merchandise in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of the communities they serve," the WPB said.

"Forthcoming regulations will specifically curb inventories of all types of merchandise in a way designed to assure that quantities on hand are reasonable and that equitable distribution among dealers is provided for."

The action was viewed in some quarters as a preliminary to greatly increased rationing of consumer goods.

No details were divulged, but it was known that one plan tentatively proposed would prevent any merchant from building inventory beyond his 1940 level in dollar value.

Man Who Aided German Captive Gets Lonely

DETROIT, May 21—(P)—"When we hear that the Nazis are giving special privileges to persons who aid an enemy of their country to escape we'll consider reciprocity, but right now you'll have to take the same treatment that everyone else gets."

United States Marshal John J. Bare told this today to Mrs. Max Stephan when she appeared for the right to visit her husband at the county jail daily instead of the regulation two visits a week.

Jury Convicts Man Killed In Court Room

HARLAN, Ky., May 21—P—Marzo Shepherd, 24, was shot to death in the Harlan circuit court room where he was being tried for slaying a taxicab driver today and the jury convicted him and recommended the death penalty during the few minutes which elapsed between the time he was shot and the time he was pronounced dead.

Shot in Crowded Court Room

Shepherd was seated at the defense table with the huge crowd which packed the circuit court room jammed behind him. Commonwealth Attorney Daniel Boone Smith had just completed closing arguments and asked the jury of men from adjoining Bell county to sentence Shepherd to the electric chair.

As Smith walked back to the prosecution table and Judge James S. Forester started to address the jury the shot rang out.

Amid screams from women and children in the crowd court attaches rushed to Shepherd's side. They carried him from the court room and he was pronounced dead at a hospital.

After the court room had been quieted, Judge Forester told the jury that Shepherd was alive when taken from the room and ordered them to take the case under consideration.

Recommended Death Penalty

The jury returned in a few minutes with a conviction verdict and recommended the death penalty. Shepherd was the seventh person sentenced to death in the history of Harlan county. Three others have been hanged and three electrocuted.

Sheriff Ball said Heaton, whose uncle, Joe Christian, was found with his throat cut on Black Mountain May 5, walked up behind Shepherd and shot him once in the head with an "owl-head" pistol. Ball said Heaton then turned and handed the pistol to officers.

Drafting Of Skilled Men To Be Halted

WASHINGTON, May 21—(P)—The war manpower commission took steps today to make certain that men irreplaceable in war production are deferred from the draft and remain at their work benches.

Paul V. McNutt, manpower chief, announced a program to promote "the fullest utilization of the manpower of this nation." This included a directive to the selective service system that local draft boards consult with Federal employment service offices before calling to the Army individuals "skilled in a critical war occupation."

A spokesman said this meant "we will keep skilled men in industry where they belong."

The selective service system already had provided for deferment of men in critical occupations, but McNutt said there were some local draft boards "which defer too easily" and others which "seem to regard it as a branch of patriotism to defer anybody for occupational reasons."

The directive means that local draft boards will consult with employment service officials in determining whether a worker should be deferred because of his occupation.

Today's action also provided for a classification of war plants according to their urgency, and for a system of manpower priorities to assure that the most important plants get ample supplies of skilled men.

Jury Acquits Mechanic Of Sabotage Charges

DETROIT, May 21—P—Martin Halsema, 60-year-old Netherlands-born mechanic, has been found innocent by a Federal jury of charges of sabotage at the plant of the Wilson Foundry and Machine Co., at Pontiac, where he once was night superintendent.

The verdict was returned today in the court of District Judge Ernest A. O'Brien, before whom Assistant District Attorney John W. Babcock had said that the Government was convinced he was neither a spy nor in the pay of a foreign government.

"We do something to hurt America in this war?" Halsema asked from the witness stand in his own defense. "Why, I have lived here since I was a baby. If one of my girls was married to a German who had the least little sympathy for Hitler, I would make her divorce him."

"Germany has been my enemy twice over—as an American for 60 years, and as a Hollander by birth."

Halsema was accused of causing breakdowns in the conveyor system of the plant.

27 Merchant Ships Down Ways Today

WASHINGTON, May 21—P—Twenty-seven merchant ships will be launched tomorrow as the nation observes National Maritime day.

Described as America's greatest mass launching in 25 years, the ships will start sliding into the water shortly after midnight with the last launching scheduled some 24 hours later. The hour, in most cases, is determined by tide conditions.

Launchings will be held in 19 yards on all coasts and the Great Lakes. Because of the Maritime Commission's policy of not announcing launchings in advance, no schedule was made public. It was announced, however, that one yard would launch three ships, six yards two each, and 12 yards one each.

Keel layings will immediately follow the launchings in some yards.

Four Go Into Service

Four completed ships will go into service on Maritime day, the commission announced.

The original schedule called for the launching of 30 merchantmen tomorrow, but three were put into the water earlier in the week to make the ways available for new keels.

Maritime day, the commission said, will mark the inauguration of a two-shift-a-day rate of construction. Production of three a day is scheduled to be reached in the fall.

The merchant ship construction program, largest in world history, calls for completion of 2,300 vessels of approximately 23,000,000 deadweight tons by the end of 1943.

3 Launched At Bay City

BAY CITY, Mich., May 21—P—A minesweeper and submarine chaser for the United States Navy and a rescue tug for the British navy were launched today at the Great Lakes yard of the Defoe Shipbuilding company.

The minesweeper, the first of four such craft to be built here, and the rescue tug, the second of four to be constructed, were launched sideways while the sub chaser was platform-launched.

Mexico Near Declaration Of War, Report

MEXICO CITY, May 21—P—The foreign office announced tonight the Axis nations had rejected Mexico's note of protest and demand for "complete satisfaction" over the submarine sinking of a Mexican tanker.

"Therefore," the announcement added pointedly, "President Avila Camacho will decide what steps the honor and dignity of the country demand."

The president was reported engaged in drafting a manifesto asking for a declaration of war on Germany, Japan and Italy.

News of the Axis refusal even to receive and consider Mexico's protest came from the Mexican legation in Stockholm.

The protest had been forwarded to the Axis through the Swedish government because Mexico broke relations with all three countries soon after Pearl Harbor.

To Ask Declaration Of War

It was said authoritatively that the president's manifesto would be read before a special session of congress within the next day or so, calling Mexico to war.

Although some members of the cabinet were understood to oppose such a step, one informed source said that the chances were "55 out of 100" that Mexico would formally declare war on the Axis. Diplomatic relations with Germany, Italy and Japan were broken last December.

'Zero Hour About To Strike'

The press reported Avila Camacho had summoned his cabinet, his presidential predecessor, General Lazaro M. Cardenas, and high military leaders to meet at the national palace tomorrow to discuss the crisis.

The press declared in big headlines: "Zero hour about to strike in Mexican history."

Although diplomatic, legislative, labor and official quarters expected a declaration of war, business circles and some legislators said that Mexico should not and would not take such a step, and it was understood there was a difference of opinion within the cabinet on the issue.

Two More Reported Sunk

MEXICO CITY, May 21—P—A foreign office spokesman said tonight the government is investigating reports that two more Mexican ships were sunk today off the coast of Brazil and somewhere between Cuba and the United States.

Jose C. Valadez, secretary to Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla, said his office hoped to have an official bulletin on the reported sinkings within two hours.

"At present," he said, "we have no definite information, but we are investigating as thoroughly and rapidly as we can."

MISSIONARY DEAD

NEW YORK, May 21—P—James Hugh McKean, 48, for 20 years a missionary in Thailand, died May 16, it was announced today by the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. McKean, born in Thailand, was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1916.

Nation-Wide Rationing Of Gas Imperative To Prevent Transportation Breakdown

By Richard L. Turner

WASHINGTON, May 21—P—The Brookings Institution urged strict nation-wide rationing today for the primary purpose of conserving rubber and automobiles for the performance of essential services. It foresaw probable Government requisitioning of privately-owned automobiles in 1943.

A survey and report by Charles L. Dearing, of the private research institution's staff, estimated that some 27,000,000 automobiles were now in civilian operation. If this number drops below 20,000,000, it said, "the civilian economy will be threatened with serious disruption." First and hardest hit would be rural areas and the transportation of workers to and from their jobs.

Major Jap Offensive Takes Shape

By Spencer Moosa

CHUNGKING, May 21—P—The Japanese, apparently intent on knocking China out of the war now or at least seizing forward areas which some day might cradle direct attacks on Japan, have supplemented their broad offensive in Chekiang province with a landing in the near Foochow, Fukien province.

The Chinese high command announced that a dozen Japanese transports yesterday steamed up the river a short distance from Foochow, and unloaded troops which, at communique time tonight, were being heavily engaged by the defenders.

The expedition landed on the north bank, below Foochow, under cover of a barrage laid down by escorting warships, it was said.

With perhaps 25,000 men in the Foochow expedition, the Japanese were believed now to have a total of 125,000 troops in action or deployed for action in Chekiang, Fukien and Kiangsi provinces.

New Threat To Chinese

The Foochow action created a second highly active front in the Chekiang-Fukien seaboard area and constituted a new threat at the rear of Chinese forces which only a few hours earlier claimed to have curbed the enemy on the 150-mile Chekiang front, throwing him back in at least one sector.

About 1,500 miles to the west, on the third vital front in Yunnan province adjoining Burma, the Chinese reported they had recaptured Kianglanchei, key point on the Lungkiang-King-Tengyueh highway and seized large quantities of Japanese war supplies.

There was no change in positions along the Burma road west of the Salween river, the Chinese reported, and the Yunnan front, under monsoon rains, was becoming stabilized.

River Rouge Plant Produces Military Tanks

DETROIT, May 21—P—Henry Ford has converted his great River Rouge plant to the production of military tanks.

The Government, it was announced today, gave the order eight months ago and the plant is now in production.

The tanks will be of a 30-ton type and will be powered by a variation of the familiar Ford V-8 motor.

The number of tanks to be built daily in the huge plant is a closely guarded military secret, as is the number of persons to be employed.

The Rouge plant already has turned out a stream of Pratt-Whitney airplane motors for heavy bombers and also has made jeeps, trucks, fires and automobiles for Army use. These activities will be continued.

Japs Refuse To Allow Ship To Go To Hongkong

BUENOS AIRES, May 21—P—The Argentine foreign office announced tonight that Japan had agreed to permit an international Red Cross representative to visit Hongkong to inspect the treatment of British and Canadian prisoners, but had rejected a proposal for sending a Red Cross supply ship.

A communique said the Japanese had refused to allow a Red Cross ship to go to Singapore and Hongkong because of "reasons related to the security of navigation in that zone."

It added that the Argentine embassy in Tokyo had reported a success in negotiating for the establishment of postal services for the interned soldiers and civilians.

Reds Breach Kharkov Defense Line, Capture Key Nazi Stronghold

Timoshenko Still Holds Initiative

By Kirke L. Simpson
Wide World War Analyst

Whatever strategic concept Marshal Timoshenko may have had in hurling his armies against the Kharkov pivot of the Nazi southern front on May 8, the essential fact as the spreading battle enters its third week is that he still holds the initiative.

Hitler has lost another precious two weeks' time if nothing else. To emphasize that loss, the expanding battle in the Ukraine rolls into its third week just one month short of the summer solstice, June 22. That anniversary has more than astronomical meaning for Russia and the world this year. It will also be the beginning of the second year of the Russo-German war. Hitler announced his war on Russia at 5:30 a. m., Berlin time, June 22, 1941.

Whether Der Fuehrer thought it fitting to celebrate the longest day of the year by undertaking his greatest military adventure, or the timing of his attack was dictated by more practical considerations is of no consequence. What does matter is that he started too late.

Winter Halted Nazi March

Five months later, November 22, the Nazi invasion of Russia reached its highwater mark with the capture of Rostov. Just a week more and the great German retreat had begun at Rostov, a retreat that has been reversed nowhere in the last

Weapons Of War Roll Out Of GM Plants

By Roy P. Porter

DETROIT, May 21—P—A majority of the machines that made General Motors automobiles and household appliances now is turning out war supplies at such a pace that the company has more than doubled its deliveries in the six weeks following Pearl Harbor, O. E. Hunt, vice-president, said today.

Two-thirds of all the automatic machines—from huge automobile body stamping presses to delicate instruments for precision work—are now engaged in making weapons of war in 32 cities, scattered over 13 states, he told correspondents on the National Association of Manufacturers production for victory tour.

On a rapid tour of some of the General Motors plants in the Detroit area, these correspondents saw work proceeding on machine guns in a former spark plug plant, Pratt and Whitney airplane motors coming off the line instead of Buicks, tanks replacing Fisher bodies, and 20-millimeter anti-aircraft guns being turned out where Pontiacs had moved before.

"General Motors, as the largest producer of automobiles, is rapidly becoming one of the largest suppliers of material for the armed forces," Hunt said.

"We are in war production up to 99 per cent."

By August, he declared, General Motors will have approximately as many employees as all its 90 operating organizations did at the peak of civilian production in peacetime. After that, it is expected they will increase their employment by another 50 per cent, he added.

War materials the corporation is manufacturing in ever increasing quantities include:

1. Two types of airplane engines, the Allison liquid-cooled and the Pratt and Whitney air-cooled.
2. Diesel engines for submarines, two types of locomotives and naval engines and automobile size Diesel engines.

Houghton Man Drowns; Worked on Alaskan Road

HOUGHTON, Mich., May 22—P—Funeral rites for Mayor John M. Turvey, 33, Houghton, who lost his life in a drowning accident while at work with U. S. Army engineers at Chaukie lake, British Columbia, last week, were held today. Burial was in the Houghton cemetery.

Mayor Turvey, a graduate of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, was drowned when a pontoon taking 17 members of the U. S. Army across Chaukie lake, near Fort St. John in British Columbia, collapsed. Only five of the 17 men were reported saved.

Mayor Turvey went to British Columbia from California three weeks ago and was engaged on engineering work on the Alaska highway.

Check-Off For Income Tax Urged

By Irving Perlmeter

WASHINGTON, May 21—P—The Treasury asked today for a vast check-off system under which income taxes would be deducted from nearly everybody's regular pay envelope.

Randolph Paul, tax adviser of the Treasury, revealed to the press that he had made a formal request to the House ways and means committee for authority to require all employers to deduct advance income tax payments from payrolls.

He proposed that the deductions amount to 10 per cent of wages, interest or dividends received in excess of a fixed scale of personal exemptions. The deductions, in most cases, would fall far short of paying the income tax bill, but would make it easier to meet the usual March 15 deadline, and also help the Treasury finance the war between the annual income tax collection dates.

Similar To Other Deductions

Paul said the committee would study the proposal at least another day before making any decision. Congressional sources indicated that the committee favored the plan in principle, but might want to exempt some types of employers, such as farmers or housewives, from the trouble of becoming tax collectors.

For most employers, the deduction would be similar to the social security taxes that they already take out of payrolls, and Paul said it would be a relatively light chore for them.

Paul said the proposed personal exemptions were based on the regular income tax exemptions, which the committee has decided to reduce to $500 a year for single persons, and $1,200 for heads of families. Also figured in would be the $400 a year for each dependent, plus a small amount for other deductions.

While some Congressmen object.

New Deposit Of Mercury Ore Found

WASHINGTON, May 21—(P)—Discovery in the Yellow Pine area of Valley county, Idaho, of a new, high grade deposit of mercury-bearing ore, "which may prove of great importance to the nation's war production schedule," was reported today by the Bureau of Mines.

Dr. R. R. Sayers, bureau director, said that tests of the latest drill samples showed ore averaging 11 pounds of mercury per ton, with a 15-foot section averaging 22 pounds per ton. The ore lies in a body 24 feet thick.

"Additional drilling in the richer area is in progress and will determine the extent and importance of the discovery," Sayers said.

Prior to discovery of the richer ore in the Yellow Pine region, mines bureau engineers had estimated that the deposits there contained more than 400,000 tons of low grade ore rated at 3 pounds of mercury per ton. They made no estimate of the extent of the richer ore.

Engineers also are conducting explorations for mercury-bearing ores in Nevada, California and Oregon. Mercury is an essential ingredient in many vital war products.

Interior Secretary Ickes said the exploratory work of mines bureau engineers already had increased the reserves of manganese ore by several million tons, that more than 2,000,000 tons each of chromite ore and antimony had been indicated, and a substantial reserve of tungsten uncovered.

Picked Troops Make Surprise Raid in North

By Henry C. Cassidy

MOSCOW, May 21—P—The heavily fortified Nazi defense line guarding Kharkov has been breached at one point in a furious 40-minute onslaught which wiped out a key German stronghold and carried Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's tanks and troops on six miles into an open battlefield held only by German infantry and scattered pillboxes, Red Star asserted tonight.

Along with this swift new sweep toward Kharkov, prime prize of the spring campaign, the army newspaper outlined these developments on the eve of the twelfth month of the war:

Surprise Assault In North

In the far north: Picked Russian troops, wading waist-deep in icy water, skirted twelve and a half miles around an enemy flank in Karelia, killed or wounded 3,000 Finns and Germans in a surprise assault, then pushed on 12 miles more, cutting one of the enemy's main roads to the north.

In the south: Gen. Viktor von Schwedler's German counter-drive into the Barvenka-Lyzum sector 80 miles southeast of Kharkov, menacing the flank of the Russian offensive, has been checked. In the Crimea, outnumbered but determined Russian troops still cling to the eastern tip of Kerch peninsula, blocking the short cut to the Caucasus.

The midnight Soviet communique said merely that "our offensive continued on the Kharkov sector," that the Germans had been repulsed in the Izum-Barvenka area 80 miles to the south, and that "fighting continued on the eastern part of the Kerch peninsula."

Guerrillas Recapture City

Adding to this, Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said that behind the German lines strong guerrilla forces recaptured an important city of several thousand population deep in Nazi-occupied White Russia, driving the Germans from a large section and holding it against dawn-to-dusk German assault.

This may have occurred in the Smolensk area because a supplementary communique tonight said that a guerrilla detachment had killed more than 3,000 Germans in action there.

The Red air force was credited with destroying or damaging 74 Nazi tanks, 273 German trucks with troops and supplies, 55 ammunition wagons and 31 guns Wednesday in various sectors.

Parrot Will Get Her Coffee—With Sugar

ADRIAN, Mich., May 21—P—Mrs. Adam Johnson appeared before her rationing board and admitted that things about her house had been a bit on edge, and that it seemed only right that the rationing board do something about it to the tune of a pound of sugar a month for 40-year-old Polly.

Polly doesn't like cookies — so syrup was out; Polly doesn't even like candy, and abhors water.

But coffee—ah yes, coffee. Polly requires her three cups of coffee daily, and she wants sugar in it, and her need of sugar was cutting into the rations of other members of the Johnson household, and the peace of mind of the family, and Polly herself was no end upset, so if the rationing board—

Polly, 40-year-old coffee-drinking parrot, got a pound of sugar a month under the "pet provision" of the rationing order.

Former Policeman Kills Invalid Son, Himself

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., May 21—P—Oscar Erickson, 38, retired Chicago policeman, shot his invalid son to death today, Sheriff Al J. Hastings reported, then killed himself.

The shooting took place in a cottage at Lake Michigan beach, six miles north of Benton Harbor.

Erickson's son, John, 19, had been an invalid since birth. Sheriff Hastings said. The youth was shot twice with a .38 caliber revolver.

Mrs. Erickson was taken to St. Joseph sanitarium last Monday for an operation.

WPB To Seize Aluminum From Illinois Company

CHICAGO, May 21—P—The War Production Board today ordered seizure of 144,000 pounds of aluminum from the Illinois Pure Aluminum company, of Lemont, Ill.

The seizure order followed failure of negotiations between the WPB and the company over the price to be paid for the metal.

Large Crowd Expected At Navy Party

Mounting interest in the Navy relief fund benefit dance, to be held Saturday night at the Brookton was reported yesterday by committees working in Marquette, Negaunee and Ishpeming. It is expected that one of the largest crowds to attend a dance here in recent months will be on hand to do its part in contributing to the relief fund which is used for the support of families of Navy men and Marines.

The committee, headed by Mrs. Horace Roberts, of Marquette; Mrs. John Hauserman, Jr., of Negaunee, and Mrs. Otis E. Sonnanshine, of Ishpeming, are making a special effort to provide unusual features at the dance. One will be a group of attractive young women selling corsages, souvenirs and cigarettes. They will mingle with the crowd to add to the gaiety—and to the proceeds.

Music for the party which is public and informal, will be furnished by Ben Schadney and his six-piece orchestra and Stan Stanford and his boys. The grand march will be led by Captain Saxton W. Holt, Jr., of the U. S. Marine Corps, officer in charge of Marine recruiting in Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula.

Many Sponsors
Committee chairmen yesterday reported that a large number of Marquette, Ishpeming and Negaunee residents would attend the party as patrons and patronesses. Among those in Marquette are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Biegler, Mr. and Mrs. August Syverson, John Tierney, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McClintock, Mrs. F. H. Begole, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fagan, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cone, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Donckers, Mr. and Mrs. John Milnar, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Patrick, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Spear and Mrs. E. L. Nyquist.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rankinen were Marquette visitors this week. The Republic fire department will hold a special meeting this evening at 7:30. Mrs. Fred J. LaVeau spent Wednesday in Iron River visiting relatives. Miss Elaine Koski has returned home after spending a few days in Ishpeming and Marquette. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kangas and Mrs. Eino Kangas have returned home after spending a week in Detroit. Bob Robertson, Joseph Leeman, Bob Osborn and Otto Turner, of Chicago, have returned home after spending a few days here visiting Mr. and Mrs. Mike Shea.

Teachers Get Pay Increase
IRON RIVER, May 21—Salaries of all teachers, principals and janitors for the 1942-43 term were raised roughly five per cent Monday by the Iron River board of education at its regular monthly meeting in the Central school. The motion offered by Mrs. Edna MacColman, trustee, and seconded by F. E. Brown, trustee, specified that teachers' salaries be brought up to the school's approved schedule. The salaries for the past year have been less than 35 per cent of the schedule. Thus the raise for the teachers will amount to a little more than a five per cent increase.

Danger Point On Missouri River

U. S. engineers termed this section of the Missouri river, at Nebraska City, Neb., the most vulnerable to high water, which was approaching near-record stages. Although dikes minimized damage at other points, the river spilled onto thousands of Iowa lowland acres and only trees and this bridge remained to mark its normal banks. No flooding has as yet occurred on the Nebraska side of the river.

ment. Lundstrom suggested that inasmuch as no projects requiring engineering skill are contemplated by the city during the war period, the city council and the local Chamber of Commerce could both profit by combining the jobs of the Chamber of Commerce secretary and the city manager.

Peninsula State Fair Cancelled

Because of the rationing of tires, proposed gasoline rationing and other Federal and military conditions over which it has no control, the U. P. state fair board decided, at a meeting in Escanaba yesterday, to cancel the 1942 Upper Peninsula State Fair, scheduled to be held there late this summer.

The matter was discussed at length at a board meeting attended by Chairman N. J. Nils, of Munising; Secretary Harold P. Lindsay, of Escanaba, and Mrs. Helen G. Vierling, Marquette; C. G. Bridges, Escanaba; W. D. Cochran, Iron Mountain, and Patrick Kelly, of Watersmeet, directors.

A motion to cancel the fair was submitted by Mrs. Vierling, seconded by Bridges and passed unanimously.

Board Office To Be Closed

The board also voted to close the office of the state fair board, located in the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce quarters, effective June 1, 1942, and Director Bridges was authorized to act as secretary of the board without compensation.

Lindsay, present secretary of the board, was instructed to notify all booking agencies, with whom the board had contracts, that the fair had been cancelled. He also was instructed to refund money received from advertisers in the 1942 premium book.

Mrs. Vierling's motion was as follows: "Because of the act of the Federal Government in rationing tires, impending gasoline rationing and because of Federal and military conditions over which the board has no control, I move that the 1942 Upper Peninsula State Fair be cancelled."

Medical Corps Examinations August 10-13

An examination for the purpose of qualifying candidates for appointment as first lieutenants in the medical corps, regular Army, to fill vacancies during the fiscal year 1943, will be held August 10-13, inclusive, Archie B. Whitlow, recruiting officer for this district, reports.

The examination is open to all male graduates of acceptable medical schools in the United States and Canada who have completed one year's internship in an approved hospital and who will not be over 32 years of age at the time it will be possible to tender a commission.

Candidates who fail a first examination will not be permitted to take more than one subsequent examination.

The examination will be conducted by boards of medical officers and will consist of a physical examination, a written test in professional subjects and a determination of the candidate's adaptability for military service.

Full information and application blanks will be furnished upon request addressed to the Adjutant General, War Department, Washington, D. C. Applications will not be considered if received in the War Department after July 22, 1942.

County Given June Draft Quota of 129

The Marquette county draft board has been instructed by state selective service headquarters to send 129 men to St. Luke's hospital June 8 and 9 to be examined for induction into the U. S. Army.

The quota is nine more than the May quota for Marquette county.

ella funeral home where it will remain until the hour of the funeral services which will be held at 9 Saturday morning in St. Peter's cathedral, the parish of which the deceased was a member. Burial will be made in Holy Cross cemetery.

Seventy-nine registrants will be examined June 8 and 50 others from this county will be examined the following day.

Army medical examining board officials said here two weeks ago that June quotas for all counties would be larger than those in May.

Increase In Quotas Seen

LANSING, May 21.—P—A sharp increase in the number of Michigan draftees is likely in June because of a rule effective June 15 allowing newly-inducted men a two-week furlough, state selective service headquarters said today.

It will be necessary to swell the number of troops in replacement centers, because new enrollees will not be available for two weeks, and the Army cannot permit even a temporary let-down in maintaining quotas for military camps, spokesmen said.

Headquarters also announced that applications for volunteer officers training have been so heavy that current applicants probably will not be called to Fort Custer for examination until July.

taxes under the law now being given form will mean smaller divisible profits, this at a time when, to meet a national emergency, they are making demands on their reserves which will leave them much worse off at the end of the war than they were when, in 1940, they began to speed up production to meet the demands of the armament industries.

The apparent unprecedented prosperity of the mining companies is illusory. The workers are the principal beneficiaries of their war time activity.

The Tokyo Attack

There is still no information as to where the bombers that visited Tokyo and other Japanese cities with such destructive results came from, but the publicity that attended the decoration of General Doolittle and the men who manned them permits of fairly accurate surmise as to the source of the attack.

Doolittle got the Congressional Medal of Honor and the 79 other flyers the Distinguished Service Cross. The bombers were the B-25 medium type. As it is known how many men are needed to man such bombers, the number in the attacking squadron, while not published, must be a matter of knowledge among air wise Americans.

As it is a number that could have been generally assumed that they were carrier borne. The theory that they were carrier borne is supported by the condition that if they had been launched from a land base the attack would before now likely have been duplicated.

General Doolittle's account of the foray is one of the most inspiring stories that has been printed about this country's operations in the months that have elapsed since it entered the war. It was preceded by preparations that prove the air command to be the equal to any in working out plans for special tasks, and was carried out with a courage and intrepidity that will for all time be one of the brightest pages in the history of American aircraft warfare.

General Rationing Likely

Discussion in Washington indicates that the time is not far distant when gasoline rationing will be applied to the entire country. As far as supply and means of distribution are concerned, there is no need for it in the belt of states in the central part of the country from the Gulf to the Canadian border. They are supplied by pipe lines that reach centrally located points of refining, from which distribution places no serious burden on means of transportation. Nor is there any question of primary supply. There is oil in abundance in production to meet war and civilian needs at the present time.

What is in mind, it appears, is an indirect means of bringing about the conservation of rubber. How effective rationing can be to this end has been shown by experience with it in the 17 states where it has been imposed. Automobile traffic has fallen away to a small part of what it was when gasoline could be bought without restriction. Pictures of usually heavily traveled streets in the large cities in the east show but a trickle of traffic.

Another argument for comprehensive rationing is the condition that it is difficult to reconcile the people in a group of states to it when there is no restriction of supply in the other states. It is essential, it is pointed out, if morale of the civilian population is to be what it should be, that all should bear equally the burdens of war.

Contemporary Opinion

London correspondence quotes an "observer"—language, and probably uniform, unmistakably American—in a few well-chosen words about the enemy.

"It's about time someone tells the world the Germans pull their pants on one leg at a time like everyone else and the Italians aren't funny-size soldiers."

"That graphic statement we heartily accept, particularly since this observer has been doing his observing at first hand and for many months on the Libyan front."

It is foolish to underestimate an enemy. It is foolish to overestimate him.

"The Germans I saw are not better than the British in equipment or training. The Italians fought well. . . . They stuck it out as long as the Germans and fought hard all the way."

So said this officer, who wants us to stop kidding ourselves that the enemy is either a superman or a pantiwaist. What he said seems to us good for a healthful understanding of what it is going to take to win this war.

Thirty Years Ago

An epidemic of typhoid fever has struck Marquette, it being discovered that there are more than 30 cases in the city. Physicians who were asked to ascribe some reason for the spread of the disease are unable to agree on the cause and none seems to be certain.

A permit was issued in the city recorder's office to Alex Wittala to build a one-story cottage on Fair avenue between High and Front streets.

Robert Gillon, with 2,096 votes, is still the leader in the mascot contest being conducted by the Marquette Baseball association. T. Trombly, the only other entrant, has 1,276 votes.

Beginning Sunday, the South Shore railroad will resume the Sunday trains between Marquette and Michigamme.

The electrical disturbance caused by the thunderstorm which passed over the city brought consternation in the downtown portion of the city. The burning out of the fuse connecting the portion of the city south of Washington street left the business houses without electric light and the crash which came simultaneously led several believe that their stores had been struck by lightning.

Herbert Johnson, who has been employed on the engineering staff of the Oliver Iron Mining company here, has resigned to accept a similar position with the Pickands-Mather company in Iron River.

George Feigl, Ishpeming agent of the Paist Brewing company, received a fine team of bay horses from the company's stables in Milwaukee. The animals were raised by the company.

Walter Stromvall, a former Ishpeming man who now travels for an Escanaba hardware concern, was in the city.

Captain and Mrs. Joseph Hodgson were tendered an enjoyable farewell reception and dancing party by the Eastern Star society, of which they have been members for 15 years, in the Masonic society's hall. About 125 members of the Eastern Star and Masonic societies were present.

Thomas O'Brien, a former resident who now is a police officer in Clarkburg and vicinity, was in the city.

The Negaunee high school will enter contestants in four events, besides the relay races, at the Normal school athletic meet to be held in Marquette June 1. Manning, Sterling, McCall and Rough are likely entrants in the 100 yard dash. Sterling, S. Frederickson and Adolph Frederickson are the best distance runners in the school, and in all classes of jumping. Manning, S. Frederickson and Langford are leaders. In hammer and discus throwing Doyle, Manning, S. Frederickson and Houle will most likely represent the school.

Edwin Martin, of Gwinn, is in the city, having taken a position here. He probably will make Negaunee his home.

Miss Alice J. Miller arrived home from Ironwood, where she spent the early part of the week visiting her sister, Miss Ruth Miller, who is teaching school there.

From a report made by the state highway commissioner, G. Donald Kennedy, it appears that Michigan has made some really worthwhile progress toward a solution of the problem of night-driving hazards. After taking into consideration a general accident reduction due to other causes, says Mr. Kennedy, it is shown by a survey that night accidents have decreased between 20 and 25 per cent on two sections of the state highway system where roadside delineators have been installed. These roadside delineators, it is explained, are reflecting devices placed at intervals along the highway to guide motorists driving at night.

An accident reduction of the degree mentioned by Mr. Kennedy certainly is far from negligible. Any time we can reduce traffic accidents by as much as 25 per cent, or even 10 per cent, we must regard the progress as encouraging. Safety on our streets and highways probably depends chiefly upon the way people drive, and we cannot expect any amount of ingenious "traffic engineering" to eliminate the need for alertness and careful conduct at the wheel. But there are many ways of helping to promote safe driving, and the roadside delineator or reflector seems to be one of them. When his vision is temporarily impaired by darkness or by the glare of oncoming headlights a motorist may be in danger of going off the pavement on the right or of driving too close to the highway's center line. Roadside delineators, properly spaced, can reduce this danger considerably and thus aid the driver in keeping his proper position on the road.

Why Is A Battleship?

(By W. K. Kelsey, the Commentator, in Detroit News)

Every few days, somebody asks: "Why is a battleship?" It was asked last week by a party of newspapermen, visiting a shipyard where one was in process of construction; and the admiral escorting them replied: "Battleships are necessary." Which makes about as much sense as the old conundrum, "Why is a mouse that spins?" and its answer, "The higher, the fewer."

Well, why is a battleship? Has any battleship done anything worth while in this war? Yes, the Bismarck sank the British battle cruiser Hood, and was herself sunk by two battleships, aided by cruisers and torpedo-carrying planes. Our Navy lost about $100,000,000 worth of battleships when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor from the air. In the Mediterranean, a cheap German U-boat sank the battleship Barham, costing 50 times as much. Somewhere near Singapore, Jap planes of little expense sank two great British battleships.

So why is a battleship? Lord Fisher's Opinion In 1920, the late Admiral Lord "Jackie" Fisher, first sea lord of the British Admiralty from 1903 to 1919, and called again to that office in 1914, leaving in 1915 after a dispute with Winston Churchill over the Dardanelles expedition, wrote his "Memories and Records," two salty volumes which are good reading still; and this is what he wrote about battleships:

"The sole reason for the existence of the old line of battleship was that that ship was the only vessel that could not be destroyed except by a vessel of equal class. This meant that a country possessing the largest number of best equipped battleships could lay them alongside the enemy, or off the ports where the enemy were. Transports with the escort of a few battleships could then proceed to make overseas conquests. Squadrons of battleships or cruisers escorting the convoys of merchant ships and keeping the line of communication open. In each case the battleship, being able to protect everything it had under its wing from any smaller vessel, was the ultimate naval strength of the country. Then it was that, by means of the battleship only, was the command of the sea gained and held. Let us be quite clear on this matter, it was solely from the fact that the battleship was unassailable by any vessel except a battleship that made the command of the sea by battleships a possibility? "Hence battleships came to symbolize naval sea strength and supremacy. For this season battleships have been built through every change of construction and material, although by degrees other vessels not battleships have arisen which can attack and destroy them. "Here, therefore, there is good ground for inquiry whether the naval supremacy of a country can any longer be assessed by battleships. To build battleships merely to fight enemy's battleships, so long as cheaper craft can destroy them, and prevent them of themselves protecting sea operations, is merely to breed Kilkenny cats unable to catch rats or mice. For fighting purposes they would be excellent, but for gaining practical results they would be useless."

Others Have Them. But, having reached this reasoned conclusion, Lord Fisher ducked it. "At the present moment," he continued, "naval experience is not sufficiently ripe to abolish totally the building of battleships so long as other countries do not do so. But it is evidently an absolute necessity in future construction to make the speed of a battleship approach as nearly as possible that of the armored cruiser."

Two years later, Admiral Sir Percy Scott proclaimed that it was folly to lay down two new battleships merely because the United States was building three. "Why build a battleship costing $50,000,000 that can be sunk by a submarine costing one per cent of that amount?" he asked. "I said to a gunner's mate, 'Why is a battleship?' and he replied: 'Because it has such lovely decks to dance on.'"

Sir Percy said that in the first World War, 14 battleships were sunk, and not one was sunk by a battleship. He charged that when the Admiralty heard that submarines were abroad, it ordered the battleships into port and lashed merchantmen to their sides, to prevent their being torpedoed. He insisted that there were only two reasons why people who believed in battleships—those who made big profits out of building them, and senior naval officers who, if navies consisted only of destroyers, submarines and aircraft carriers, would be out of jobs. His conclusion was that the battleship was "no damned use."

New York Chats

By Charles B. Driscoll NEW YORK — Thinking out loud: One of the best books I've read lately is "The World At My Fingertips," by Karsten Ohnstad, a blind young man of 21, who, in high school, learned Braille and typing, and went through college with flying colors. He doesn't minimize the million handicaps of blindness, but gives a straightforward story. . . . I especially like his detailed account of the training at the Seeing Eye school in New Jersey, and of his own Seeing Eye dog. . . . It would be interesting to know what ever happened to the Harvard man who, in '37, started the craze for swallowing live goldfish. . . . Exactly 276 copies of a certain news picture have been sent me by readers since some time in March, when it was published. It is a picture of a faithful dog, in Flint, Mich., guarding, through a blizzard, the body of his dog friend, killed by an automobile. It is a fine picture, and I believe that millions of drivers were made more careful in their driving by it.

Many times I have written about a four-story building in West 14th street, number 107, which has been the graveyard of many hopes. It is the building in front of which, on the westside of the property, there used to stand a strangely interesting little piece of sculpture. It was a grinning pixie, sprite, or what-not with pointed lips. . . . Pedestrians used to thrust burning cigarettes between the lips, and the cigarettes would continue burning until burned out. The little figure disappeared during the winter.

I've noticed workmen engaged in rehabilitating the long-vacant building lately. Yesterday I spotted a stout, genial-looking gentleman, standing in front of the building, looking it over approvingly. You couldn't mistake him. He was, of course, the new proprietor. To Start Another Restaurant Yes, he told me, he is preparing to start another restaurant there. No, he's not afraid of the Japs. He thinks his management will be good enough to make it go. Anyway, he bought the building for a song, a mere $40,000 or so, although it is assessed at nearly $100,000.

A restaurant man who made a speakeasy of his place, during prohibition, ruined the investment of two elderly ladies who formerly owned the property. The law came in and padlocked the house for two years. Built For Theatrical Club My informant was Fred Barlow, who used to work for the old Churchill restaurant, in the day of glorious dining in Manhattan. He thinks the building was built for the Comedy Theatrical club, formed by George Fuller Golden, back in the early days of the century, before Golden organized the White House. Golden, a vaudeville man, was always interested in promoting solidarity among variety artists. He fought a great battle with the theater owners, managers and bookers, and died of overwork and tuberculosis. This Comedy Theatrical club was one of Golden's early ventures.

Afterwards, the famous Keene's Chop House moved in, flourished awhile, and went out. Kennedy's was the next and last high-class eating place to occupy the premises. It went down to defeat just as prohibition was bowing itself out. In the depth of the well-remembered depression, Bernard Macfadden, the health cultist, started what he called a one-cent restaurant here. Each dish sold for a penny—or more. A continuous line of down-and-outers blocked traffic along the walk, and ruined adjoining business properties. Macfadden went out ignominiously, but not until nearly all the buildings in the neighborhood had put up "For Rent" signs. Some of those signs are still there. The neighborhood has run down lamentably since the days of Keene's and high living.

As for the pixie, she or he is lying out in the alley, back of the building, sadly defaced as a result of the party's New Year's Eve celebration. Barlow thinks it's an image of the god Pan, and he may be right. I hope, just for tradition's sake, he revives Pan and puts him back in service. (Released by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.) Hams It's often little things that reveal the big things. There was the incident of the hams, for instance, in Milan, Italy, the other day. Two hams appeared in a store window. They were good hams, but there was nothing special about them. Nevertheless, people going by noticed them and stopped to look. They stood there with their mouths open. Other passers-by stopped likewise, and still more people joined them, staring hungrily. Nobody went away. The crowd grew until traffic was blocked and the police were called out to disperse them. The proud proprietor was ordered to hang his hams where they couldn't be seen from the street. It wouldn't do to get people stirred up that way. The same thing might have happened almost anywhere in western or southern Europe—provided, of course, somebody had managed somehow, somewhere, to find the hams. Europe is a place where the sight of food can start a riot. We Americans don't begin to realize how well off we are.—Kenosha News.

Today In Washington

By David Lawrence WASHINGTON, May 21 — The United States war effort is proceeding more favorably than is generally imagined. The succession of reverses, the necessary emphasis on lagging production and the shortages and scarcities of vital materials have come in time to give a pessimistic impression. Everything is relative, of course, and the goals set are as yet far from realization, but the facts which cannot be published in detail, but which are known to many experts, would seem to justify the statement that our progress is definitely encouraging.

American industry, its management strained by the necessity for unprecedented plant expansion, its contracts and specifications subject to change, often unavoidable, and its responsibilities of financing multiplied by unheard of figures, is doing a job of which the people may well be proud. Labor Doing Great Job American labor is doing a job that is not excelled by its performance in the first World War. It is a job so definitely inspired by patriotism and a desire to avoid friction that the number of interruptions, while in some respects serious, cannot possibly detract from the splendid record on the whole being written every day on the production front.

Enough has happened to warrant a conviction that President Roosevelt's goal of 60,000 planes this year and even 120,000 next year will be more than fulfilled. If Hans Thomsen, who has just returned to Lisbon en route to Germany from the embassy here, tells the Nazis, as he was quoted, that Mr. Roosevelt's program is still a bluff, he will soon find the wrath of his own people turned against him. The German people ought to be told by short wave broadcast what's coming. They do not know that the biggest source of explosives in the world is turning out bombs in greater quantity than that of any other nation in the world and that our aircraft production already exceeds that of all other nations in the world.

Tanks, Guns Roll Out As for tanks and guns, we are moving very rapidly toward peak production. Will we have the manpower mobilized and the ships built by early 1943 in quantities sufficient to operate the enormous quantities of weapons we shall be turning out? This is a different kind of worry from that which has existed heretofore when there was not enough manpower in Europe, but not enough planes or weapons on the Allied side for defense, much less for counter-attack. We have helped the Russians—not as much as we would have liked, but considerably—and there is an endless supply coming. The United States Navy has done an excellent job of conveying in the Atlantic. We are moving toward the European front with relatively strong units of strength which will be blended with manpower from the European continent at the proper time. In the Pacific the fight goes slowly, but surely, toward ultimate victory. Our air forces are doing a magnificent job of defense. In due time we shall have air superiority. We do not yet have air equality. Meanwhile, the Navy is clicking with an efficiency that is not spectacular, but is quietly effective. The Army air corps is beginning to operate within wider limits every day. Once air superiority is achieved there will be risks taken with surface ships that will prove a critical challenge to the Japanese navy. It takes weeks the months to transport fighting planes and materials to our outlying bases. But American effort in the Pacific, doggedly pursued against insuperable odds of distance and superior bases favoring the enemy, is beginning to take a steady toll out of the enemy's limited air strength and limited sea power. Mistakes have been made. Blunders have been registered. We have done some inexcusable things. But an over-all perspective is necessary for judgment. There is no ground for overconfidence, but there is plenty of reason for underlying confidence that Americans are pulling together everywhere with magnificent spirit and intelligent planning toward the ultimate victory. On Way to War Our liner—now an American troop transport—belongs to that select ocean sisterhood known in tourist pamphlets as the "luxury" class. Our stuffed cabin formerly bedded two. We academically profess suitable awe but literally find no greater comfort in the chief purser's hushed reminder that the cost of this room used to be $1800 for each person one way for the trip you are making free. "It was," he murmured, "the bridal suite." You would never guess it now, where all beauty and graciousness have surrendered to the utilitarianism of war, and clumsy big lugs wash out their wool socks and iron underpants with cold salt water in a bowl that once knew the daily rinsings of a bride's sheer mesh stockings. The only signs of fied glory are stenciled flowers on a pastel shade built-in dresser and a hairpin you find in a drawer. We all sit on trunk lockers and duffel bags and stare at those frail relics until someone comes in and says: "That blankety-blank purser is going around telling the guys in all the cabins that they have the bridal suite."

Not too much of a sellout, that. Certain it is that years of high heels and lightsofe feet passed and left no marks on the linoleum, the deck boards and the dance floors now scarred by field shoes. —W. B. Courtney, in Collier's.

Retail Price Ceilings Retail price ceilings which become effective on Monday pose many problems for both retailers and consumers. Leon Henderson's statement that there will be no more business as usual in the war may have intended as a hint to retailers seeking relief from some of the effects of the price control law to be patient; it was scarcely needed as a notice to the public that familiar practices and habits are bound to undergo a change. March retail maximum prices govern the price ceilings which are effective on Monday. For the "cost of living" commodities covered by the general maximum price regulation every retail must post a list of ceiling prices in a manner "plainly visible to the purchasing public." The consumer may have to give a little more attention than usual to prices, qualities, brands, varieties and so on when shopping, but the retailer will bear the real burden, not only in more work for himself, but also, until adjustments come, in absorbing actual losses.—New York Sun.

Important Oversight Soon after a fire alarm in a hotel, one guest joined the group watching the blaze, and kidded them on their excitement. "Why, there was nothing to be excited about," he remarked. "I took my time dressing in a cigarette, didn't like the knot in my necktie so tied it over again—that's how cool I was." "Swell," commented a bystander; "but why didn't you put your pants on?"

Editorial Woes Anybody who thinks editing correspondence is a soft snap has never edited any correspondence. This is from last week's issue of the Whiteville (N. C.) News-Reporter. "Most any man can be an editor. All an editor has to do is sit at a desk six days a week, four weeks to a month and 12 months a year, and edit such stuff as this: "Mrs. Jones of Cactus Creek let a canopener slip last week and cut herself in the pantry. . . . John Doe climbed on a roof of his house last week, looking for a leak, and fell, landing on his back porch. . . . While Harold Green was escorting Miss Violet Wise from the church social last Sunday night, a savage dog attacked them and bit Mr. Green on the public square. . . . Jim Frang, while harnessing a broncho last Saturday, was kicked just south of his corner."—Editor and Publisher.

Episcopalians To Build Up Service Fund

Offerings for the United States Army and Navy commission fund of the Episcopal church will be received at services next Sunday in St. Paul's Episcopal church. The late Rt. Rev. Herman Page, provincial bishop of diocese of Northern Michigan, designated Whit-sunday, May 24, as the day when fund donations would be collected throughout the diocese.

"Our presiding bishop, the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, has said that 'one of the great opportunities and responsibilities of our church in these war days is with our young men in military service,'" the Rev. John G. Carlson, rector of St. Paul's, said yesterday. "We cannot neglect them at this crucial time in their lives."

"Because the church has a responsibility for the moral and religious welfare of young Americans in the service, this fund has been established. The church contributed $500,000 to this fund in the first World War, and the Army and Navy commission is again providing servicemen with religious ministry, worship services and the comforts of pastoral care."

"Invest In Future Welfare"

The Rev. Mr. Carlton urged all Marquette parishioners to "invest in the future welfare of young America" by contributing to the fund. The sum of $385,000 is being sought in Episcopal churches throughout the nation for the immediate work of the commission.

Among the services which the commission renders are: Providing Episcopal chaplains with portable altars and Communion sets, copies of "A Prayer Book for Soldiers and Sailors," and other religious literature. The commission also pays the pension premiums of chaplains when neither the chaplain, his parish, nor bishop can meet this expense. It also provides chaplains with a monthly discretionary fund to meet emergencies among the men, particularly when they are sick or wounded.

The program of the commission does not interfere with the work of the United Service Organization or other similar groups. The services of Episcopal chaplains are given freely without denominational discrimination.

More than 200 Episcopal clergy are serving as chaplains in the armed forces at present and scores of others are enlisting. The Rev. Glen A. Blackburn, former faculty member at Northern Michigan College of Education and former rector at Sault Ste. Marie, is serving as chaplain at Camp Grant, Ill., and the Rev. Herman R. Page, of Dayton, Ohio, son of the late Bishop Page, is attending a chaplain's school at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Welfare Board To Consider Payroll Cuts

LANSING, May 21.—P.—The state social welfare commission met in executive session tonight to consider civil service proposals of payroll retrenchments in the welfare department after heads of its two branches presented conflicting theories for economy procedure.

In open session the commission skirted the economy issue, preparatory to considering tomorrow allocation of approximately $422,000 to the counties to finance direct relief in June, it announced it would re-open a fight to recover from Calhoun county $15,000 given the latter in a special grant last June.

John D. O'Connell, social welfare director, said the commission was instructed by the attorney general's office to withhold future grants to Calhoun county until the indebted amount was offset. The county was to receive a June payment of $5,925 which the commission said will be withheld.

F. F. Fauri, state supervisor of social security, announced he would propose an alternative and much less drastic retrenchment program than proposed by civil service, asserting the latter's proposal to slash more than $200,000 from annual welfare operating costs was impractical.

O'Connell, however, said he was ready "to go the limit" with the civil service recommendations, and might even offer economies which the merit department had overlooked.

The welfare commission also was to consider tomorrow a report concerning Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton's investigation of the theft of some $14,000 worth of stamps from the social security bureau during the administration of Dr. Philip A. Callahan. The latter entered prison Wednesday to serve three to ten years for embezzling.

The commission invited Ben H. Cole, assistant attorney general, to elaborate on statements that other persons besides Dr. Callahan were involved in the stamp thefts.

Staff Sgt. Joseph Beupied, Army Air Corps, who enlisted in the Army in February, 1941, has been transferred from Keesler Field, Miss., to Miami Beach, Fla., where he says living quarters are in a swanky hotel and much better than tents. He is the son of Mrs. Alex O'Kain, of Champion. Plenty of tennis courts and swimming pools in Miami Beach, Joe writes.

Lieut. Catherine Voetsch, U. S. Army nurse, a former resident of Marquette, has been assigned to duty in Australia. Her post address is N-72067, APO-1142, care of Camp Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Martin Voetsch, who lived here for several years and will be remembered by many residents.

John M. "Jack" Coffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coffey, of Greenland, has been promoted from private to corporal at Camp Croft, S. C. He was inducted in the Army here last November and has been serving as clerk in the headquarters office at Company C, 39th training battalion. Jack worked as a clerk in the Stella Cheese factory at Maas, Mich., before entering the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Young, 1026 North Front street, Marquette, have learned that their son, Pvt. Sylvester E. (he answers quicker to Sully), is with the second training battery, 33rd C. A., Brigade A. A., in San Diego, Calif., and is learning the air mechanic trade.

"We are treated swell out here," Sully writes, "but I certainly would appreciate a card or letter from some of my friends back home." Okeh, you Sully buddies, there's your cue.

Walter Brotherton, of Negaunee, who volunteered for Army service and left here two weeks ago with the Marquette county contingent, has been transferred from the reception center at Fort Sheridan, Ill., to the armored division at Fort Knox, Ky. Walter is really sold on the Army.

After a month and a half of anxious waiting, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rantala, of Palmer, have received a letter from their son, Pvt. Arne E. Rantala, from "somewhere in Iceland." He served at Fort Custer and Fort Wayne in Michigan before making the big ocean leap.

After a rough voyage across, Arne says he's finally convinced that Hollywood movie epics haven't been exaggerating all these years in their sensational sea art. "The weather in Iceland is something like that in the Upper Peninsula, but damper," he writes. "The mountains and lava formations of old volcanoes are beautiful, but apart from that the land is quite barren." Arne is hale and hearty and thinks the Army is tops.

Pvt. Herbert Helgren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Helgren, Victoria avenue, Negaunee, is with a signal unit at Fort Knox, Ky. He left here last May 11. "Army life is quite different from civilian life," he writes, "but I'm going to like it."

PFC George Haapasari will leave Monday for Fort Benning, Ga., after spending a 15-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Haapasari, in Rumely. He is a motorcycle mechanic in the armored forces.

Francis Dhondt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dhondt, of Rumely, is in Northern Ireland. He says few cars are seen there. Most people travel on bicycles. One of his requests was for a can of "good old American cigarettes."

Pvt. Oakes Cleary, son of Mrs. T. W. Cleary, 317 East Arch street, Marquette, is stationed with the U. S. armed forces in Iceland, his mother and sister, Mrs. Grace K. Pederson, 214 East Hewitt avenue, have been informed. Oakes has a rare sense of humor, which he revealed in one letter to his sister. We quote, as follows: "I didn't mind so much when the bow of the boat dipped in front or in back. It could also go from its port to starboard side, but when it jumped out of the war and shook like a dog, some of us thought that was going a bit too far."

Bodie Cleary has had several interesting letters from his brother, Oakes, telling about the sea jaunt to Iceland. He enclosed a message from the President, given to all soldiers embarking for Army service in foreign countries. Oakes said he saw a whale, a school of dolphins and never had a dull moment the entire voyage.

Mr. and Mrs. Theophile Bastien, 423 Spring street, Marquette, are happy to hear that Pvt. Wilfred "Sonney" Greenleaf is getting along swell in this man's Army. He's with the 313th Pursuit Squadron, Orlando Air Base, Orlando, Fla., and says he's as tan as an Indian. The swimming is great in Florida, he reports, but the water is slightly on the warm-ish side.

Corp. Paul E. Smith, son of Mrs. Agnes Smith, 152 West Prospect street, Marquette, is a medical technician at Fort Custer, Mich., where he has been stationed for 20 months. As luck would have it, Paul had a five-day furlough and after returning to camp he discovered he could have had it extended for several more days. He has been participating in a camp floor show with his weight lifting act. He received his preliminary training in Denver, Colo., and worked at St. Mary's hospital before joining the service.

Andrew Heiser, 603 North Fourth street, Marquette, has had word that his nephew, First Lieut. Robert E. Gay, son of Dr. and Mrs. John O. Gay, of Spokane, Wash., former resident of Negaunee, was injured in a parachute jump at New Orleans last December and is still in the base hospital there. His brother, Capt. John E. Gay, is also in the Air Corps, located at Fort Lewis, Wash. Their mother visited her brother, Andrew, in March.

PFC Jack Gleason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Gleason, 209 West Prospect street, Marquette, is working hard in the Marines. He's been a leatherneck for 10 months and hasn't been home since he "jined up." He's with the headquarters squadron in San Diego, Calif.

Pvt. Curtis "Laddie" Grieningger, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Grieningger, 125 Park avenue, Marquette, is with the headquarters company, First division, 16th infantry, Camp Blending, Fla. He expects to leave Monday for Fort Benning, Ga., where he will attend a mechanics school. "Laddie" says he likes the Army fine and thinks the equipment and food are "the best." He was called here two weeks ago because of his mother's illness. Nov. 5, 1941, was the date of his induction.

Army officers who were serving a tour of duty of at least one year between September 8, 1939, and December 7, 1941, are entitled to wear a new service ribbon. It is yellow with two clusters of narrow red, white and blue stripes and is worn in lieu of the American Defense Service Medal, created by executive order on June 23 last year. In the order, President Roosevelt established the medal for those serving during the limited emergency proclaimed September 8, 1939, or during the unlimited emergency proclaimed May 27, 1941, subject to regulations outlined by the Secretary of War. Maj. Gen. George Gruent, Sixth corps commander, says the Secretary of War had authorized the issue of medals to all officers of the regular army, volunteer forces, National Guard and Organized Reserves who had entered on a tour of duty to last at least a year after the proclamation of the limited emergency.

Word has been received that Herbert E. Curtis, son of Mrs. Mable Curtis, Teal Lake avenue, Negaunee, has been made a private, first class. He is stationed at Fort Ord, Calif.

Pryor Bennett, carpenter's mate, second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett, 205 Merry street, Negaunee, is stationed in Hawaii. In addition to having three years of Navy service behind him, he is doing his bit by buying war bonds regularly. Pryor has a certificate designating that he has been on the other side of the equator and he is working toward a deep sea diving certificate.

Mrs. Ettie G. Lawry, Wabash street, Ishpeming, has received word from her son, John Gould Lawry, who left in the last draft contingent. Pvt. Lawry is a supply clerk in Quartermaster's Corp., in Camp Shelby, Miss. There are 70,000 soldiers there, he says.

Lawry amazed his sergeant by taking an Army rifle apart and putting it back together again without any spare part left over. Guns, by the way, have been Lawry's hobby.

Pvt. Theodore "Teddy" Hupp, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hupp, Champion, has gone to Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex., after spending a short furlough with his parents. He was stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., before his transfer. "Teddy" has a mechanics' diploma and will take up welding at his new location.

Army Reopens Recruiting Office Here

The U. S. Army recruiting office here, closed since March 31, was reopened yesterday, with Pvt. William J. Oestreich in charge. Private Oestreich was sent here under orders of the Kalamazoo recruiting headquarters.

As previously, the office will be located in the basement of the postoffice building, adjacent to the Navy and Marine recruiting offices.

Private Oestreich is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where he was a member of the ROTC, and for eight months he has been engaged in recruiting activities at Wausau, Wis., and Kalamazoo. The Army induction board in this region was located at Wausau before it was transferred to Kalamazoo a few months ago.

The Kalamazoo office now has charge of recruiting and induction in the western district of Michigan, which includes the Upper Peninsula.

Reestablishment of the recruiting office, Private Oestreich said, resulted from heavy demands upon the Escanaba office, which was handling all recruiting in this region. Under the new setup the Marquette office will serve most of the western end of the Peninsula, while the Escanaba office will receive men from the eastern counties.

Men 18 to 45 are eligible for enlistment in the Army. Men holding a 1-A classification under selective service, however, will not be eligible for enlistment after they have been notified to report for induction.

U. S. Marine Recruiters To Tour U. P.

To help meet the increased May quota of enlistments in the United States Marines, Sgts. Caesar J. Urbanski and James T. Mitchell will tour the Upper Peninsula the remainder of the month in a Marine recruiting station wagon.

The tour started in Escanaba yesterday and will follow this schedule: Escanaba, May 22; Manistiquet, May 23 and 24; St. Ignace, May 25; Sault Ste. Marie, May 26, 27 and 28; Newberry, May 29; Munising, May 30, and Marquette, May 31.

Sgt. Urbanski went to Escanaba yesterday to meet Sgt. Mitchell, who drove the station wagon from the Milwaukee headquarters. Sgt. Robert B. King, Jr., will remain in charge of the Marquette station.

Marquette Platoon

"Several young men already have signed up for enlistment in the Marquette Marine platoon, which is scheduled to leave for Milwaukee and San Diego the latter part of June," Sgt. King said. "We hope to enlist 60 graduates of Baraga Parochial, Graveraet and John D. Pierce in the platoon. They will train and serve in the Marines as a unit."

The recruiter said Baraga is lead-

$18,000 Emergency Grant Approved for Branch Prison

LANSING, May 21—The "little legislature," more properly known as the state emergency appropriations commission, today distributed $287,386 to state agencies, largely to meet higher living costs in institutions, but refused to allow $345,000 to meet pay increases in the state hospitals authorized by the civil service commission.

It allowed $23,000 to provide care of Houghton county tuberculosis patients after Leo J. Nowicki, state budget director, said the county was already doing all it could: $18,000 for the Marquette branch prison; $5,000 for the state prison of southern Michigan, and ing Graveraet and J. D. Pierce in the number of men who have signed up for enlistment.

Word has been received here from the Milwaukee office that World War veterans enlisting in Class IV reserve will be appointed to the rank of private, first class, and others enlisting in that class will be buck privates.

An ex-Marine with four years or more of continuous service will be reappointed to the line rank held by him upon discharge, but not above the rank of sergeant.

sums for a variety of other institutions.

Living Costs Higher

"Living costs have shot up," Nowicki told the commission, "far beyond what the legislature anticipated. Commodities are up 25 to 40 per cent, and help is needed."

Nowicki had not recommended additional sums for state hospital payrolls. The state hospital commission said its budget is inadequate to cover the pay raises, authorized by civil service on complaints that hospital employees were quitting in large numbers to take better paid jobs in war industries.

The appropriations commission, composed of the Governor, lieutenant governor, speaker of the house of representatives, and finance committees of the house and senate, released $28,500 to the estate of the late John S. McDonald, of Grand Rapids, to complete a $50,000 fee to the late former supreme court justice for representing the state in tax litigation with the Grand Trunk railway system, $13,000 to Merlin Wiley, and $3,000 to Howard Campbell, Detroit attorneys who aided McDonald.

The Mackinac Island state park commission received $6,000 to finance clearing debris from a wind-storm which a year and a half ago knocked down thousands of trees on the island, creating a fire hazard.

Okeh Sum For Boys' School

The commission first refused, then agreed to release $15,000 for completion of the south wing of the administration building at the boys' vocational school here, an item which Van Wagoner had vetoed after the real legislature adopted it in 1941.

This time the Governor pressed for the allocation, and a group of Republican legislators opposed it in the commission. Van Wagoner waded an olive branch, telling the group he believed now he had "mistakenly" vetoed the item. Actually he had vetoed the appropriation in 1941 with a statement pointing to the fact a study commission was exploring feasibility of moving the school to Mt. Pleasant and that he saw no reason for capital expenditure for an institution which might shortly be abandoned. Ultimately the study group recommended the school remain here.

U. S. WOOL CONSUMPTION

The United States, it is estimated, consumes 265,000,000 pounds of virgin wool, 10,000,000 pounds of reprocessed wool, and 75,000,000 pounds of re-used fabric in the course of a year.

The symbol of medicine, a staff with serpent entwined, had its origin long before the time of Christ.

Nation Pays Tribute To Merchantmen

The nation is paying tribute today to the men who build and man the ships of the U. S. merchant fleet, which is playing such a vital role in the war effort. Today has been designated by President Roosevelt as National Maritime Day.

The job of training men to serve aboard ships of the Merchant Marine is being done by the United States Coast Guard, perhaps its greatest task in its 152-year history.

Part of this job is being accomplished at the Marquette Coast Guard station under the command of Chief Boatswain A. C. Gross. Fifty-five men are on the roster there and nearly 35 of them are on armed guard duty aboard ore vessels on the Great Lakes.

A recent Presidential order transferring the operation of the U. S. Maritime Service to the Coast Guard places upon the latter organization the responsibility of training more than 120,000 men and 26,000 officers for merchant ships which will slide down the ways before the end of 1944.

The great majority of these men will be drawn from the ranks of persons with no sea experience.

Civil Service Examiners Here Monday

Elmer B. Johnson, of the Seventh U. S. Civil Service district office, Chicago, will be in the U. S. Employment Service office in the Kaufman building, Marquette, next Monday to interview women applying for stenographer and typist positions in Washington, D. C.

The civil service commission is the recruiting agency for these positions. "In addition to thousands of men who have enlisted in the armed forces, America also needs the help of women of the country," Johnson said in a communication received here yesterday. "Women are needed in the Capital to handle the huge volume of details connected with the war effort."

The Government asks qualified women typists and stenographers of at least 18 years of age to enlist for service in Washington at salaries of $120 a month and up. Special examinations will be given by civil service examiners at the postoffice and, in all probability, those who pass the tests and are qualified physically will be assigned without delay for work in Washington.

"Rumors about the lack of living quarters in Washington are not based on fact," Johnson said. The Washington office of the civil service commission has made an extensive survey in which it was found that there are adequate living facilities for Government employees there.

Fishing Hit By Rain And Cool Weather

LANSING, May 21.—P—Adverse weather last week put a damper on Michigan fishing, although opening of angling on 200 designated pike lakes met with fair success, the state conservation department said today in its weekly fishing report.

Houghton lake attracted the largest opening day crowd of pike fishermen in 20 years, the department said.

The report by districts: Ontonagon-Gogebic—Rain and high water and cold weather have resulted in only fair catches of trout. Opening of the pike season brought fair catches on Lake Gogebic.

Houghton-Baraga—All fishing "very poor" throughout the district. Better fishing depends entirely on warmer weather and less rain.

Drop Noted In This District Marquette-Alger—Rain and cold weather caused a drop off in fishing during the past week in Marquette district. Pike lakes are producing fair catches.

Iron-Dickinson—Good catches of pike taken from Lakes Mary, Cable, Perch and Badwater. Trout fishing is good on east branch of the Fence and south branch of the Paint rivers.

Delta-Menominee—Pike fishing in Menominee county on North and Hayward lakes and Menominee river is fair to good. Trout fishing fair over the entire district. Pike are biting well on Delta county lakes.

Luce-Chippewa—Trout fishing has slumped considerably due to heavy rains in the eastern end of the Upper Peninsula. Little fishing on inland lakes.

Navy, Marine Corps To Recruit Negroes

WASHINGTON, May 21.—P—Secretary Knox announced here that recruiting of negroes for the Navy and Marine Corps would begin June 1.

Negroes accepted for the Navy will receive the eight weeks of recruit training at the Great Lakes station and a specialized six weeks' course at Hampton Institute, Va., where electricians, carpenters, shipfitters, machinists, cooks and other similar trades will be instructed.

The first Marine battalion of negroes, numbering approximately 900 men, will form a composite battalion including all combat arms of the ground forces. Until a training center is ready for negroes in the Marine Corps a temporary center will be in the vicinity of New River, N. C.

Negro enlistees in the Navy construction battalion will enter the Norfolk, Va., training station.

Special Consideration Sought By State in Gas Rationing

LANSING, May 21.—(P)—Governor Van Wagener today designated a committee of state officials to plead with Federal officials for special consideration for Michigan in event of gasoline rationing.

The Governor chose G. Donald Kennedy, state highway commissioner, as head of the group, which also includes Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction, and Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton.

Kennedy, at a press conference in the Governor's presence, explained the committee's mission as "not an effort to keep rationing from Michigan," but, rather, a plea that, if rationing is ordered, it be made not too harsh and take into consideration the fact that Michigan has peculiar problems which other states lack.

Kennedy, president of the American Association of State Highway Officials, will represent Michigan at a conference that organization has called for Sunday and Monday in Chicago to discuss rationing problems with Joel Dean, chief of the fuel rationing division of the Office of Price Administration.

Would Face Acute Hardship Kennedy said he would take occasion then to inform Dean, Michigan would face acute hardship if gasoline were rationed in quantities as small as Washington dispatches have described as contemplated.

This state, he said, lacks public transportation facilities such as subways and elevated street car lines which serve some other sections of the country, yet is a hot spot of the war production program with great concentrations of persons in industrial areas.

"Without Run (the U. S. Army bomber plant near Ypsilanti) is an outstanding example of industry in Michigan located far from its labor supply," Kennedy said he would report, adding that the use of private cars is vital to get men to their work because of inadequate bus facilities.

He said the last official word that had reached him told several weeks ago of a plan to allow car owners five gallons of gasoline a week, an additional five gallons if they showed need, and more if they could show they were participating in share-the-ride transportation conservation plans to which more gasoline was vital.

Regulations Confuse Many Van Wagener, in a formal statement, said "the first need in Michigan is a clarification of rationing regulations so that our people will be able to make necessary adjustments and provisions to meet these new conditions."

"There can be no question of the patriotism of our citizens," the Governor said in the statement, describing them as willing to sacrifice but concerned over confusion which has clouded the picture of what must be done.

He said he was appointing Kennedy chairman of the committee to confer with Federal officials to determine and report back on how the rationing will affect our state and what if any steps can be taken to alleviate dislocations.

Kennedy and possibly Elliott and Rushton will go to Washington for further discussions of the problem, he said.

Resort Men Ask Postponement MUSKEGON, Mich., May 21.—P—Informed by state officials that abnormally large surpluses of gasoline are now stored in Michigan, and of virtual unanimous opinion that the public should be allowed to decide the most judicious use of the irreplaceable tires they own, 200 Michigan resort operators pleaded today for postponement of proposed gasoline rationing to at least Labor day.

The resort men expressed their views at a conference called by the West Michigan Tourist and Resort association to discuss the feasibility and the possible effect of a gas rationing order that Washington officials have reported considering clamping on the nation July 1.

Closing the initial session of the conference, Hugh J. Gray, manager of the West Michigan association, told the resort operators that a resolutions committee had been instructed to present a formal request for rationing postponement at a late evening meeting the group had scheduled.

No Danger of Shortage Gray's statement followed assertions by P. J. Hoffmaster, state director of conservation and wells, that although oil from Michigan wells far from meets the state's needs, there actually was plenty of gasoline stored in the state and that there was no imminent danger of a shortage. Hoffmaster said, however, that to facilitate the war effort it might become expedient to divert Michigan supplies to other parts of the country.

"I am frank to say that it is not within my province to order postponement of rationing," Hoffmaster declared. "But if it were, I order here in Michigan until at least Labor day."

"Thousands of war workers would be benefited immeasurably by vacations in resort areas. As long as there is plenty of gasoline now available, I say let them use it. As far as tires are concerned, I prefer to take a chance and ride this summer. We can walk next winter, if it is necessary."

Hoffmaster's statements regarding present gasoline surpluses in the state were corroborated by Harold Bradshaw, who said he had been sent to the conference by Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly to present the latter's views.

65,000 Barrels Daily Output Replied to questions by the resort men, Hoffmaster said that Michigan wells were now producing about 65,000 barrels of crude oil a day, as compared with approximately 175,000 barrels consumed in the state each day. The difference, he said, was largely supplied by pipelines from the Texas oil fields.

"It should be understood," Hoffmaster pointed out, "that even though our state motor fuel is obtainable now without great difficulty, the situation could become critical long before the July 1 deadline now being discussed. If it does, all of us, I am confident, would promptly forget any thought of postponement until Labor day."

The sentiment of the resort men, as expressed by one of their number during the discussion period that followed the formal session, was that they "stood to lose out" unless rationing were postponed until after the vacation season. They said that plans to convey visitors to resorts by bus and train would help, but that such schemes did not adequately solve the problem they faced.

McQuillen, War Production Board consulting analyst, discuss priority restrictions that confront resort operators.

Occupational Draft Blank Aid Offered

Men who registered for selective service last February 16 are asked to report to the U. S. Employment Service office when they receive their occupational questionnaires if they have the "slightest doubt" about the proper way of filling them out.

"Many questionnaires sent to the draft board are incomplete or improperly filled out," Russell R. Olds, office manager, said. The employment office is located in the Kaufman building, West Washington street.

The occupational registration is being conducted jointly by the employment service and the selective service system to provide the government with an inventory of manpower. Later questionnaires will be sent to all other men between the ages of 18 and 64—those who have registered under Selective Service and those who will be required to register in the future, Olds said.

"It is extremely important that all questions be answered properly," he continued, "because the information contained in the questionnaires will be given serious consideration in determining draft status. Final decisions are made by the draft boards, of course," Olds said.

"But it is the obligation of the employment service to keep the selective service board informed as to the working forces needed for war production and essential civilian production so that these requirements may be taken into account in classifying men registered for military service."

Most Of Us Are, And Remain, Sixth Columnists

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

How about it, are you a member of the sixth column? Note the number. It's not fifth, but sixth column. Those columns are becoming almost as confusing as the alphabetical designations of agencies when the New Deal started.

President Roosevelt, in a press conference of March 24, said there was a sixth column which wittingly or unwittingly spreads the poison of fifth columnists in the press, in idle conversations and at cocktail parties and tea fights. And former President Herbert Hoover, in a recent talk, defined sixth columnists as "ones who discuss the war or speculate or even criticize in private conversations."

Are't We All?

According to that definition, it's a safe wager that about 75 per cent of the population comes under the heading of sixth columnists. Certainly I would be so classed. Most Americans come in the same category.

From the early years of America, when men sat on cracker boxes and barrels in the country store and held forth on what they thought was, or was not, the matter with the state of the country and the administration, Americans have held it as an inalienable right to speak out in meeting, say what they think. It's a salutary habit, even though it does sometimes have unfortunate kick-backs.

Indubitably President Roosevelt is right when he berates folk who go around to tea parties, or over a cheering cocktail, tell how they heard that such and such a division was going to be sent to a certain place, or peddle the news of a group being at work on a new rubber process, or gun story, or any other subject of military significance. Such items, even gossiping Americans ought to be able to realize, are taboo when a country is at war; and especially should such a talk be banned in a town like Washington where there are probably about 80 rumors a minute, spawning like mushrooms after a rain.

Can't See That

But when sixth columnists are defined as "ones who discuss the war or speculate or even criticize in private conversations" that to me is all impossible guff, even though the former President Hoover said it, and it seems to carry some of the implications of the comment of President Roosevelt.

For instance, one might strain the imagination sufficiently and split hairs to the degree that one might feel that any person or newspaper, who differed with the Congressmen who felt they should not be expedient to submit to the order of gas rationing cards, was being critical of the government of which those doughty gentlemen are a part.

But I think it is a perfectly healthy reaction for any American to remark, as many of them did, when they heard about the Congressional posturing: "Well, who in heck do those fellows think they are?"

In America there is a certain respect and dignity that should be paid the uniform of men in service, the position held by Congressmen, members of the Supreme Court, because they, temporarily, are the ones chosen for those positions that are symbols of the principles of government in which we believe, but any American, worth the name of American, will give a good robust belly-laugh when the men tend to forget that they are put in the positions they hold by the will of the people and are servants of the people and no special little 1942 models of small gods.

He Is Public Servant, Too

I think President Roosevelt has in many respects done an astounding job of steering us through the menacing shoals that arise in every national emergency, but I have no least belief that he is infallible, that he can't make a mistake, and that, even if he does make a mistake, all good Americans should accept that mistake without one small protesting eek-ek of criticism.

One thing that makes democracy effective is the fact that people may and can do speak their minds, ask questions, even most embarrassing ones; discuss at length and heatedly and often mistakenly some issues, but it is through such discussions that people in general come to clarify and sift their ideas, arrive at opinions, and stick to them.

Public opinion, as formulated by free and serious discussion, becomes a force that does serve a most important purpose in a check on attempts that might be made to feed job lot propaganda, good or bad, in mass proportions to the people.

There Is Talk and Talk

People who spread malicious rumors, who try to undermine the government, who gather tidbits that can be artfully construed to harm the country, are fifth columnists and deserve to be rounded up.

I'd be humiliated if any reader could honestly call me that, but, if being a sixth columnist means one who maintains the right to discuss and speculate and, in private conversations and in public, voice an opinion opposed to that voiced by some one in Washington, why then I'm a sixth columnist and am likely to remain such. I feel I am likely to remain such because the only eventuality that could make me change is one that my faith will not permit me to believe will ever materialize, and that would be in the event that we lost this war.

We may have to endure and sacrifice, the end may not be clearly in sight, but with even greater faith than I have of being alive tomorrow, I believe the Allies will be victorious in this war.

But, if they were defeated, there is assurance that my mouth and the mouths of all other Americans would be effectually closed as far as discussion, or criticism of the invaders' government would be concerned. We'd be expected to be seen and not heard, to step when ordered and not argue, to become mental automatons answering "yes, yes" to everything we might be told to do. Of course, most Americans might mercifully die of a stroke under those conditions!

However, I don't anticipate the day I can't speak my mind. How about you? And one hopes that every time we do speak it, it will be a painful hearing for the Axis.

VFW Will Sell 'Buddy Poppies' On Saturday

Veterans of Foreign Wars "Buddy Poppies" will be on sale tomorrow, when Post No. 2439, V. of F. W. and its Auxiliary and volunteer workers will present their twenty-first annual appeal in behalf of service and ex-service men and their dependents.

These poppies use the red flowers will be contributing to various phases of welfare work that have been assumed by Post No. 2439 and the national organization. Primarily they will be buying poppies that have been fashioned by the hands of disabled veterans, still patients in government hospitals through the nation, who are thereby afforded a source of income for necessities not included in government regulations.

In addition, for the first time this year, the Buddy Poppy fund will be used for welfare activities among men in active military service.

Through the sale of poppies, the welfare committee of the local post is enabled to give aid and relief to comrades in distress, those whose disabilities have destroyed their source of livelihood and others who have been the victims of unemployment.

Dependents of service and ex-service men are cared for by this fund, and another percentage of the poppy sale proceeds make it possible to maintain service and liaison work at the various Veterans Administration regional offices and in Washington, D. C. This service helps both active and former service men in need of advice on insurance, pensions, hospitalization or compensation.

Bishop Marston Speaks Tonight In Munising

A special service is being held at 7:30 tonight in the Free Methodist church in Munising, of which Miss Anna M. Carlson is pastor. Bishop L. B. Marston will be the speaker. The public is invited to attend.

The young people of the district will provide special musical numbers for the service.

Bishop Marston has had a wide experience that especially fits him to speak forcefully and impressively. While doing the work leading to his doctorate at the University of Iowa, he began study of child psychology which has resulted in making him a well known figure in that field.

Changes His Work

He taught for a short time at his alma mater, the State College, Greenville, Ill., and then accepted a position as national director of research in child development at Washington. It was during this period, which brought many opportunities for secular advancement, that he determined to give his time and efforts to Christian education.

In consequence he returned to Greenville as its president, and after nine years, took up his work in the bishopric. Since 1936, he has served as church administrator, chairman of the commission on education, and bishop in the church of his choice.

He is said to be a challenging and impressive speaker with a keen understanding and appreciation of human personality.

At present she is serving as state department Americanism chairman and state department officer. The following officers were installed:

Talks Planned By 6 Persons At State Request

The Civilian Defense speakers bureau of the city, of which the Rev. Herbert J. Bryce is chairman, has received a request from state headquarters asking that speakers be assigned to address various clubs and fraternal organizations on the subject of price control.

The subject is a somewhat involved one about which there is considerable misunderstanding, and the speakers' bureau is urged to make authoritative information available to the public.

At present six speakers will be available and if it becomes necessary more will be added to the list. Any organization may notify the Rev. Bryce at 316, or 1094, if a speaker is wanted for a meeting, and he will call the speaker available.

Red Cross Unit Shipped Quota This Past Week

This past week the Marquette county chapter of the American Red Cross has shipped 25,995 surgical dressings which include 2" by 2" sponges, 4" by 4" sponges, cotton pads, fluffs and gauze rolls.

The following garments were also shipped: 84 bath robes, 80 toddler packs (these are packs for the next age group after children have grown out of the layette cracker) 290 women's woolen dresses, 100 boys' shirts, 45 women's cotton dresses; 40 children's cotton dresses, and 14 layettes, making a total of 733 articles in the shipment.

Help Local Institutions

In addition to doing all which the Red Cross asks of them for war effort, the women of the Marquette unit have been replenishing the shelves at St. Mary's and St.

Salvage Committee Announces Grease And Fat Scraps Are To Be Collected And Sold Now

Many householders are conscientiously saving every scrap of paper, tin cans, and metals of all kinds that will be of value in war production efforts, but to date Marquette folk have not been asked to collect grease and fat scraps.

The salvage committee announces that there is now a market for such waste materials. All fat scraps and grease drippings that are not practicable for the ordinary culinary use in the home should be collected and taken to the A and P store, Washington street. Such collected grease will be purchased at five cents a pound, and with those pennies thrift stamps can be purchased, so the person who collects such waste material serves patriotically in two ways... he helps collect the needed fats, and with the money received, can if he pleases, buy defense stamps.

Any information about this grease collection may be obtained by telephoning 1063.

How About Washing Them?

By the way, tin cans are still being collected, but folk are reminded to PLEASE see that all food is emptied out of the can before the containers are turned in to the collectors. It's a bit hard to see why householders can't go to the additional few moments of effort of rinsing out those cans before cutting off tops and bottoms and collapsing them. It isn't much to ask, is it, when one remembers it makes the sizable job of collection so much easier.

And then, here is a reminder that there are boys who need a bit of instruction in the responsibilities of good citizen. You may not believe it, but it is true, that some boys have tipped over containers standing outside collecting stations and scattered the tin cans around. Naturally merchants and service station men who have given permission to place the containers on their premises resent, quite justifiably, the extra work they have to do, picking up those scattered tin cans daily.

Parents of the boys, members of the boys' own gang, neighbors, should make it their business to see that those boys are made to understand that such antics in war time can be considered nothing but unpatriotic rowdiness, that should be promptly and effectually squelched.

Legion Auxiliary Gives Poppy Day Radio Program

The annual Poppy day sale will be conducted Saturday under the auspices of the Richard M. Jopling Post, No. 44, and its auxiliary. All day sons and daughters of the members will be selling the memorial blossoms.

Something of the feeling of that day is found in the following lines:

"Again they bloom those poppies red
In memory of heroic dead,
In honor, too, of those who live,
Who do their best and bravely give.

"Again they bloom those poppies red
A symbol of heroic dead;
Unspoken, yet they seem to say
Wear me o'er your heart today."

Though the poppies bloom only for a day on the streets of Marquette, the boys' own gang, neighbors, should make it their business to see that those boys are made to understand that such antics in war time can be considered nothing but unpatriotic rowdiness, that should be promptly and effectually squelched.

Sea Scouts Hold Dancing Party

The Sea Scouts will hold their semi-annual formal dancing party tonight in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Steere, 409 East Ridge street.

In addition to the Sea Scouts and their respective guests, among those attending will be the new Scout executive Paul Young, and Mrs. Young; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Metherell, the latter is the Scout secretary; and other Scouts and benefactors of the organization.

Eric Warner, of Escanaba, will be present with his accordion. The decorations of the rooms will accent a semi-nautical theme. The hours of the party are from 8:30 to midnight.

Club Women Are Delighted With Impersonations

Fortunately most members of the Marquette Woman's club suspected that the program of impersonations, "Our Neighbors the Mexicans" scheduled for the Wednesday meeting would be an unusual one, and in consequence there was a large audience to greet Miss Marcia Snow and Miss Frazelle Boucher. Those who were not present evidently missed an exceptionally fine program.

Numerous members have said that it was probably the best program that had been presented at the club. Those who had traveled in Mexico, expressed their appreciation of the fact that all impersonations were so authentic, and that the impersonators captured so perfectly and in a most eloquent personality oddities, the mannerisms, and the lovable qualities of the different classes of Mexicans.

Was Mexican Scene

The setting for the program was a colorful one for the entire dining room of the club was arranged to simulate a Mexican market with a collection of some 150 articles of Mexican crafts.

The two women, who by the way, are native of Muskegon but have studied at the University of Mexico and lived in the country some years, depicted with sympathetic understanding, the lonely peon, the market man, the school teacher, a Spanish emigre, the aristocrat. Each impersonation not only gave the pictorial portrayal, but conveyed through the dialogue something of social and economic conditions, the attitudes and dreams of the different Mexicans.

"Estrellita," poignantly appealing as it was, sung, and the hat dance, "Jarabe Tapatio" brought to the audience more eloquently than prose descriptions something of the quality, the cultural atmosphere of the people.

Was Unanimous Praise

Yesterday not one dissenting voice was heard in the praises the club women lavished on those entertainers. It is hoped it will be possible to bring them back for a return engagement. Miss Snow and Miss Boucher planned to go to Houghton and elsewhere in the Peninsula, but, because of the message concerning illness in Miss Boucher's family, were forced to return to the conclusion of the Marquette program.

Miss Ada Mapes and Mrs. George Bishop presided at the table during the social hour. An antique blue glass bowl filled with white lilacs and red tulips and a grouping of glass swans formed the centerpiece for the table.

Weddings

Crowley-Savolainen
Miss Aili H. Savolainen, of Petoskey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tobias Savolainen, of Negaunee, was married to Corp. Bernard Crowley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Crowley, of Marquette, at 8 o'clock Monday morning, May 18, in St. Francis church, Petoskey, the Rev. Fr. Austin Monaghan officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stewart, of Petoskey, were the attendants.

The bride wore a sky-blue suit with matching hat and a shoulder corsage of pink carnations and sweet peas. Her attendant wore a beige suit and a corsage of white carnations and sweet peas.

The bride is a graduate of St. Luke's Training School for Nurses, and is a member of the nursing staff at Little Traverse hospital. The groom is stationed at Cochran Field, Ga.

About 50 Attend Nutrition Course At Northern

The nutrition refresher course for home economists, nurses and dietitians opened its sessions yesterday in the Northern Michigan College of Education and will continue its study here until Saturday noon.

Dr. Thelma Porter, head of the nutrition department at Michigan State college, and Miss Ruth Griswold of the same department, are in charge of the course.

It is anticipated that when registration is completed there will be more than 50 representatives from all parts of the Peninsula who will attend, and will receive information and training which will especially qualify them for putting over nutrition instruction and programs in their respective communities.

Dinner Meeting Tonight

Yesterday noon the quantity food class of Northern served lunch to those attending and will do so again this noon.

Miss Elba Morse served tea at the Northern Michigan Children's clinic yesterday afternoon to the visitors.

Tonight a dinner will be held in the Clifton hotel to which all chairmen of Upper Peninsula nutrition committees are also invited. There will be an after-dinner program of talks, and discussion of nutrition problems.

Judging from all who attended the first day's sessions, those who came here for the refresher course, are feeling amply repaid for the efforts made to be present. Much of practical information about advanced research in dietetics is being given. Material is concisely presented, and with a well-qualified and authoritative approach to the subject.

Girl Scouts Do Excellent Work As Messengers

The Girl Scouts of the city have engaged in a most valuable and practical project as one of their contributions to defense and community service. The Scouts, since February, have been operating a messenger service. Mrs. C. A. Jackson is chairman of the service.

Each month, six girls are selected from each Girl Scout troop. One of the girls is on call one evening during the week.

These Girl Scouts have been taking Red Cross materials to the older women who are volunteer workers, and have called for the finished articles and delivered them at Red Cross headquarters. The service has been of great convenience to the women, has saved them much time and effort, and it has eliminated delay in getting Red Cross work started, completed, and returned to headquarters.

Works Efficiently

The women who want the service of a messenger telephone Mrs. Jackson in the morning. At noon she relays the messages to the Girl Scouts selected for that day's work, and after school, the Scouts make the calls.

Sometimes the messenger service has handled 20 or more calls a week. The Scouts have felt a high

Redmen Favored To Cop U. P. Tennis Tourney Opening Here Today

Defending Champs Missing

Led by Captain Frank Frei, senior who is competing in his fourth Upper Peninsula tournament, the Graverat tennis team is favored to capture top honors in the annual U. P. meet to be staged here today and tomorrow.

Competition in both singles and doubles will get underway on Ohio street park, Presque Isle and Northern Michigan College courts at 3:30 this afternoon. Second-round matches will begin at 9 Saturday morning; semi-finals will be played two hours later, and championship matches will be conducted in the afternoon. All matches, tournament officials said yesterday, will begin at the exact time indicated on plats of the drawings which have been distributed to all competing schools.

Six Schools Represented

Six schools have entered teams, including Ironwood, Gladstone, Escanaba, Escanaba, Stambaugh and Marquette. Notably absent from this year's competition is the Lake Linden entry, for which Bob Lovell captured the singles championship the last two years. Lovell, who defeated Tom McKie, of Graverat, for the 1941 title, is finishing his prep schooling in the east. McKie has been graduated and now is a student at Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton.

Also missing from this year's matches will be the 1941 doubles champions from Ironwood, the Peterson-Patterson combination.

Odds in Graverat's favor include: The Redmen won the Peninsula team championship in 1940 and 1941, after entering regional competition for the first time in 1939. Al Nadeau, senior competing in his third scholastic tournament, and Leonard Brumm, playing in his second meet although only a sophomore, finished runners-up to Peterson-Patterson last year.

Frei, the No. 1 singles man, teamed with Dave Drury in 1940 to win the U. P. doubles title. This is Frei's fourth and last year of competition and he's out to add the singles crown to his collection.

Swanson, Bank Dangers
Nadeau-Brumm form the No. 2 doubles combine, while John Swanson and Dale Rank are ranked No. 1. The former is a junior playing his second year of varsity tennis, while Rank, a senior, is a three-year man.

The No. 3 doubles team is composed of Bob Lahti and Bernard Chapman. Both are seniors, the latter a newcomer and Lahti a second-year player.

The No. 2 and 3 singles entrants are Ed Kukuk and Stanley Thorne, both playing their second year.

Other members of the team, who are used in dual competition but won't be playing in the Peninsula tournament, are Bob Eddy, senior; Clyde Sandell and Bud Rose, juniors; and Billy Keskey and "Ace" Brumm, freshmen.

The following matches are scheduled for this afternoon:

3:30—LaCrosse, Gladstone, vs. Hill, Stambaugh; Harvey, Escanaba, vs. Paine, Gladstone; Cowling, Stambaugh, vs. Thorne, Marquette; Petrusa, Ironwood, vs. Kukuk, Marquette.

4:30—Baum, Escanaba, vs. Albert, Ironwood; LaFramboise, Gladstone, vs. Frei, Marquette.

Other singles entrants are Boden, of Stambaugh, and Fredrickson, of Escanaba, who drew first-round eyes.

4:30—Kallin-Glavin, Escanaba, vs. Johnson—Swanson, Ironwood; McLean-Wallon, Stambaugh, vs. Hank-Stanson, Marquette; Wells-Khivlia, Stambaugh, vs. Heik-Wood, Escanaba; Scott—McGuire, Menominee, vs. Lutey-McRae, Ironwood.

4:30—Bisku-Bennett, Ironwood, vs. Olson—D'Amour, Gladstone; Lahti—Chapman, Marquette, vs. Hank-Stanson, Marquette; Lewis-Villeneuve, Escanaba, vs. Hansen-Okerlund, Menominee; Nadeau-Brumm vs. Zini-Malanowski, Stambaugh.

Army Authorized To Take Over Fair Site
LANSING, May 21—P—The state administrative board today authorized the Army to take immediate possession of the state fair grounds in Detroit, but specified that in so doing it did not waive its right to demand a higher rental than the one dollar year the Army now proposes to pay.

G. Donald Kennedy, state highway commissioner, said he would discuss with Sixth Corps area officers in Chicago Monday the state's contention the rental should be $37,000 annually.

Twenty-three per cent of all forest fires last year in Canada were caused by lightning.

Down Sports Trail

Wide World Sports Columnist
NEW YORK, May 21—We had no idea how many people are employed at the Belmont park race track until we saw a picture taken of the parking lot there last Saturday.

There were at least 1,000 automobiles wedged in until they practically dove-tailed, and inasmuch as Uncle Sam says gasoline is to be used for business or indispensable services only, those cars must have belonged to the workers at the plant who had to use them to get to their place of business.

Maybe a good many of them belonged to the vice-presidents in charge of breakage, which is the misnomer given the odd pennies tossed on the floor, behind the mutual cages and naturally out of reach of the customers, and swept up at the end of the day.

The theory is that these shavings from the public's bankrolls are worthless to the fellows.

As what can a fellow do with them? For four cents nowadays? That it runs into thousands and thousands of dollars is just incidental, the inconvenience of toting them around in their pockets.

Maybe Betting's A Business
Anyway, there was a whopping lot of cars at Belmont and if they didn't all belong to employees it must mean that an awful lot of our citizens consider betting on horse races their business. Under such circumstances a motorist stopped enroute to the park and asked to prove he was using his car for the purpose of earning a living could reply blandly:

"I've got to get there to put $2 on the nose of Bluntnose in the fifth," and there would be nothing that could be done about it, unless Bluntnose ran out of the money.

The only trouble there would be a lack of space to incarcerate all the gents who were earning a living by betting on Bluntnose and all his relations, for if they all relied on such bets for their bread and butter there wouldn't be any racing. When the customers start taking more money away from the tracks than they bring in, the nags will be turned out to pasture or used as front bumpers on milk wagons. Which is where some of them belong, at that.

Wagering Total Sets Record
Seriously, the gasoline-hauled attendance at Belmont Saturday can't be considered a yardstick to measure such attendance in the future. It was just a day after gas rationing started in these parts, and most of the motorists probably only had their tanks pretty well filled. If they were forced to rely on the three gallons a week an "A" card entitled them to, it's a cinch the attendance would have suffered. We used up our three gallons making a U turn at the corner and cleaning a spot off our necktie.

Just to make things certain Ted Williams in the next inning whammed his ninth home run over the right center field wall, scoring Lou Rader, who had walked. The smash, made off Joe Kraskus, who relieved Harder, was Williams' third straight hit.

Harder, who has looked good in his previous starts this year, appeared to lack control and stuff against the Sox.

Another Shutout For Bonham
CHICAGO, May 21—P—Big Ernie Bonham, the pitcher of the young year in the major leagues, hurled another breath-taking shutout today as the New York Yankees whipped the Chicago White Sox, 1-0.

It was the towering right-hander's sixth victory without a defeat this season and his fourth shutout. In administering this latest white-washing he allowed only three hits, of which two were bunts, and pitched no-hit ball for the last six stanzas.

The world champions had their own troubles with the southpaw slants of chunky Edgar Smith, although they collected nine hits, and the only run of the game came in the fourth inning when Smith walked Buddy Rosar with the bases loaded.

Buddy Hassett singled to open the inning and reached third on a double by Tom Henrich. Joe DiMaggio was purposely passed and then Smith fanned Charley Keller and Gordon to take off the pressure, but Rosar waltzed out a walk and Hassett trotted across the plate with the all-important tally.

It was the sixth setback for Smith, who has not won a game this year, and it was a hard way to lose, but Bonham was unbeatable. The round-faced Californian, who stands 6 feet 2, weighs 220 and is called "Tiny" by his teammates, never was in trouble even when the Sox made their puny hits.

Hudson Defeats Browns
ST. LOUIS, May 21—P—Even with the help of six Washington errors and a run-scoring wild pitch, the St. Louis Browns were futile against Sid Hudson today and lost to the Senators, 5 to 2.

Bob Muncief, who hasn't won a game since opening day, was rapped for three singles and a double for three Washington runs in the second inning and, in the fifth frame, Roberto Estalella bit his sixth home run of the year with a man on base.

The Browns had all kinds of scoring opportunities against Hudson, but failed to deliver in the clutch.

Prep School Hurler Signs Contract With Athletics
STAUNTON, Va., May 21—P—Bob Savage, Staunton military academy's star hurler, will get a taste of the big leagues Monday.

It isn't often that a high school or prep school pitcher climbs to the majors in one jump, but Savage, who won nine games and lost one this season, signed a contract today to pitch for the Philadelphia Athletics, of the American league.

Savage, the main reason why Staunton military academy annexed the state military academy baseball championship this season, will receive an undisclosed salary depending on his draft status, plus a "substantial" bonus.

In the past two years, Savage has won 16 games and lost one. He saved five other games as a relief hurler. In 165 innings, he fanned 316 batters, walked 55 and gave 65 hits for 25 earned runs.

Red Sox Blast Indians For 8-3 Victory

CLEVELAND, May 21—P—The Boston Red Sox coasted to an easy 8-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians today as Tex Hughson won his second game in as many starts with a neat seven-hit performance.

The Tribe's defeat put them a full game behind the league-leading New York Yankees, who took a 1-0 shutout from Chicago.

Hughson allowed only two hits until the sixth inning, when, with the score 8-0, Roy Weatherly tripled and scored on Oris Hockett's fly to Dominic DiMaggio.

The Red Sox murderers' row started in the first frame on Mel Harder, and did not relent until they blasted the veteran off the mound with a five-run attack in the third.

Just to make things certain Ted Williams in the next inning whammed his ninth home run over the right center field wall, scoring Lou Rader, who had walked. The smash, made off Joe Kraskus, who relieved Harder, was Williams' third straight hit.

Nova-Savold Fight Postponed by Weather

WASHINGTON, May 21—P—Weather caused postponement of Lou Nova's heavyweight bid against Lee Savold, Des Moines, Iowa, until tomorrow night.

Promoter Mike Jacobs said the Navy relief boxing program would go on without change tomorrow night.

Nova, who holds a 13-pound weight advantage over Savold, was confident of a quick knockout, although he expressed disappointment at the postponement.

A shot at Champion Joe Louis' title probably will go to the winner.

Jacobs was confident that a turnout of 20,000 fans would contribute upwards of $50,000 to the gate, of which about $25,000 will go to the Navy relief fund.

Phils Defeat Derringer, Reds, 3-2

PHILADELPHIA, May 21—P—Nick Etten, slugging first sacker back in the lineup after a week's illness with a spike wound, and Danny Litwhiler, paced the Philadelphia Phils to a 3-2 victory today over Paul Derringer and the Cincinnati Reds.

The Phils made the most of their seven blows off big Paul while St. Johnson handcuffed the Reds with only six hits.

A single by Lloyd Waner, a triple by Litwhiler and another single by Al Glosop shot the Phils into a 2-1 lead in the sixth. Etten tripled in the eighth and came home with the winning run when Litwhiler smashed a hot single off Derringer's glove.

Danny Murtagh, Phil third sacker and leading hitter of the club, had to leave the game in the second inning when he was hit on the chin trying to field a scorching Eddie Joost.

Joost was the only Redleg to get more than one hit off Johnson. He followed up the single off Murtagh with a homer in the seventh.

Record Field Entered In Golf Tourney

NEW YORK, May 21—P—With a record entry list of 1,528, the United States Golf association today cleared the decks for competition in the largest open links event in the country by announcing entries for the 69 local qualifying rounds of the Hale America tournament.

The tournament, taking the place of the national open with the Navy Relief society and United Service Organizations as beneficiaries, will be played in three sections. From the local qualifying tourneys today come 522 qualifiers, who will be joined by 74 exempted players in the 54-hole sectional tournaments, June 5 to 9. The sectional qualifiers, plus 23 other exempted players, will compete in the finals at the Ridgemoor Country club, Chicago, June 18-21.

Originally, 81 local rounds of 36 holes each were scheduled for May 24, 25 and 26. Four failed to draw any entries while seven others attracted only one or two entries each. Players in the latter category will be passed on to the sectional competition. A local tournament also will be held in Canada with the two qualifiers going direct into the finals at the Ridgemoor club.

The 21 U. S. players exempted from all qualifying play include such well-known golfers as Bobby Jones, Chick Evans, Walter Hagen, Jack Hutchinson, Craig Wood, Corp. Victor Ghezzi, Bud Ward, Byron Nelson, Lawson Little, Gene Sarazen, Paul Runyan, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Horton Smith, Harold McSpaden and Jimmy Demaret.

Patrick's Injury Won't Be Permanent, Belief

DETROIT, May 21—P—Rookie outfielder Bob Patrick, who sustained a broken kneecap three weeks ago when the Detroit Tigers played in New York, returned here today for further examination and said he was certain the injury would not handicap him permanently. He intends to recuperate at his home at Fort Smith, Ark.

"I doubt whether the knee will be stiff," Patrick said. "The doctors tell me it won't and it doesn't feel as if it would."

Tigers Lose To Athletics, Drop to 4th

DETROIT, May 21—P—The Philadelphia Athletics climbed in to the relatively rarefied atmosphere of the American league's fifth place today by blasting three pitchers for 17 hits and an 11-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers that gave them a sweep of the two-game series.

With Phil Marchiondi hurling six-hit ball for his sixth victory, all the Mackmen joined in the hit parade on Paul (Dizzy) Trout, charged with his fourth defeat, Charley Fuchs and Hal Manders. Marchiondi contributed a two-run single in the second that put the A's in front for keeps, and Lou Blair gathered three hits including a four-run homer in the fifth. It was his third round tripper of the season.

Tigers Drop to Fourth
Barney McCosky's fourth homer with none aboard gave the Tigers a first inning lead that soon vanished. The defeat dropped the Tigers into fourth place behind the Boston Red Sox, who beat Cleveland. It was Philadelphia's fourth victory in six starts against Detroit this year.

By dropping another to the A's, the Tigers ended a disappointing home stand with three victories and five defeats. Virgil (Fire) Trucks is Manager Del Baker's pitching choice in a night game tomorrow at Chicago where Johnny Humphries will work for the White Sox.

The Mackmen spread their hits evenly in compiling the largest score of the year against the Tigers. Bob Johnson and Elmer Valo got only one hit each, but the others except for Blair with three collected, each socked a pair of satellites.

Trout gave up seven hits and four runs in three innings, and Fuchs yielded five runs and four hits in two. The Macks touched Manders for six hits and two runs in the final four frames.

After McCosky's homer in the first, the A's quickly went to work on Trout for three runs in the second on four hits. Detroit came back in the third when Trout walked, Roger Cramer singled him to second and McCosky's double scored. But at this stage Rudy Kool lined to the infield and Rip Radcliff rolled out.

Attendance Total 164,519
The Macks got two runs in the fourth hand then set the stage in the fifth by loading the bases for Blair's long homer into the upper right field seats. That put the game beyond Detroit's reach.

The 3,664 cash customers in the stands ran Briggs stadium attendance to 164,519 in 17 games this season, an average of nearly 10,000 a game. At that rate the club would near last year's attendance total of 712,257.

Baseball Banter

NEW YORK, May 21—P—Johnny Hopp, who has been sidelined by a broken thumb, will be ready to play in about a week and is slated to step in as the St. Louis Cardinals' regular first baseman.

Ray Sanders has been hitting all right, but has made a couple of costly fielding errors and lacks aggressiveness. Babe Dahlgren's salary is about $11,000, which will have the Brooklyn Dodgers paying him a grand more for utility than they do Pete Reiser, the National league batting champ.

Want To Turn On Lights
The Dodgers may ask permission to turn on the Ebbets field lights if necessary to complete the twilight game with the Phils Monday. The game starts at 6 p. m. and the sun sets at 8:16, besides the police ban against floodlights, there is a major league rule against playing a contest partly in daylight and partly at night.

Larry MacPhail claims that authorities asked the local clubs not to make any adjustment in their lights for the test last week and imposed the blackout without letting engineers see what could be done about reducing the glare.

Cochrane May Catch
Eleven home runs have been hit against the St. Louis Cardinals this season and five have been off Len Warneke, the Arkansas hummingbird. Bill Lee says Eddie Hanyewski, of the Cubs, is the most promising young pitcher he ever saw. When the Chicago Cubs were in Philadelphia Rube Melton complained the pitching to short, stocky Domini Dalfessandro was like pitching to a fire plug.

If Lieut. Mickey Cochrane, of the Great Lakes naval training station, directs the service stars against the major league all-stars at Cleveland he may catch part of the game. He worked behind the plate for a few innings in a recent contest.

Announcer Gets Excited
Red Barber, who has been broadcasting ball games for years, got so excited when Pete Reiser stole home for the Dodgers against the Cubs last Sunday that he yanked out a plug and cut himself off the air. The New York Giants pitchers have given 27 walks in three games and Mel Ott now has placed Dave Koslo alongside Bill McGee in the fourth inning by scoring four runs to lengthen its margin to 6-0. Michigan Normal produced single tallies in the seventh and eighth stanzas.

Pirates, is the latest pitcher to wear a No. 13 uniform; others who think this is good luck include Claude Passeau, of the Cubs; Kirby Higbe, of the Dodgers, and Mort Cooper, of the Cardinals. Charles Chapman, a history professor at the University of California who scouted for the Reds as a sideline, died disappointed that none of his discoveries ever reached greatness.

Now Catcher Ray Lamanno, whom he tagged for Cincinnati, seems likely to come through in the style Chapman once expected of Lee Grissom and Les Scarcella.

2,210 Pledge To Buy War Bonds, Stamps

ISHPEMING, May 21—As a result of the canvass the first two days of this week, 2,210 residents of IshpeMING pledged to buy war bonds and stamps during the year as part of their share in America's war effort.

They pledged to buy $21,805 worth of bonds a month, 1,382 of them through payroll deduction plans, the remainder by other methods.

It might appear, at first glance, that the bond pledge drive failed in its purpose, as the amount is considerably less than the poorest showing on record since they were offered. April, when $45,571.25 worth of bonds was purchased, was the smallest month.

Chairman Satisfied

"However, analysis of the situation," said Wayne J. Williams, chairman of the war savings committee, "reveals the opposite to be true. The campaign very much fulfilled all reasonable wishes.

"Chief consideration should be given to the fact that practically every person took his pledge seriously, as something to be fulfilled, so they purposely put their pledge lower than they themselves reasonably anticipated the purchases will be.

"Secondly, and very close to the first reason offered, is the fact that several hundred signed their names to pledge blanks as assuring purchases, but would not name, for a variety of reasons, the amount they would buy. When it is known that some of these have been the largest buyers the total shown above does not begin to reflect the actual support IshpeMING will give the bond campaign.

"The bond drive, moreover, accomplished this. Practically 100 per cent of the families in IshpeMING received a personal call from bond workers, and the message of the war bond campaign was brought to each house. Considering IshpeMING's total population of approximately 9,500 and the fact that we have more than 2,200 pledges, it is obvious that few, if any, families were missed.

Lauds Drive Workers

"In all sincerity, too much cannot be said for the diligence and loyalty of the workers. The women of IshpeMING responded most generously to this service call. We had 179 women enrolled in this drive, some of whom are not registered with civilian defense but who wanted to do their share. They accepted the task willingly and covered their districts conscientiously. They rang doorbells from early Monday morning to late Tuesday night, determined to make a complete canvass within the scheduled time.

"The results are heartening and, with the knowledge that the city will far exceed its pledges, the campaign can be regarded as being eminently successful."

Inland Steel To Dedicate New Sherwood Mine May 29

ISHPEMING, May 21—Dedication of the Inland Steel company's new Sherwood mine, a mile and a half north of Iron River, is scheduled for Friday, May 29, it was announced here today.

Inland's new source of raw materials for its blast furnaces at Indiana Harbor, Ind., is the fifth producing property in the Lake Superior district of which it is sole operator.

Taking part in the dedication will be representatives of each furnishing group, officials of Inland ore properties, and executives from Inland's Chicago offices. A luncheon will be served at the mine at 12:30. A brief ceremony will be held at 2 p. m., and an inspection of surface structures at 2:30 p. m.

E. W. MacPherran, of Duluth, a former resident of Marquette county who is a friend of the Sherwood family, will make the principal address.

IshpeMING Men To Attend

Among Inland officials who will attend are: R. L. Wahl, of IshpeMING, general superintendent of iron ore properties; D. Satterley, Menominee range superintendent; F. A. Olson, of IshpeMING, Morris mine superintendent; A. T. Anderson, of Crosby, Minn., Armour No. 1 superintendent, and P. D. Pearson, of IshpeMING, Greenwood mine superintendent.

Officials of the Inland Lime and Stone company who will attend are: A. J. Cayla, of Manistique, general superintendent; Gordon W. Hughes, sales manager, and Walter Moon, treasurer.

The Sherwood mine is located on an 80-acre tract at the village of Mineral Hills. Inland acquired the lease in 1939 and since then has been actively engaged in development. Ore will be shipped through Escanaba to Indiana Harbor.

It is in the center of the productive area of the Iron River district of the Menominee range. The Sherwood site was explored by diamond drilling in 1910 and in 1933 further exploration was carried on by underground drifting and diamond drilling from the adjoining Spies-Virgil.

Outstanding Equipment

It is felt that the Sherwood mine development is outstanding with respect to its building and equipment layout. There are three buildings—an office building, hoist-house, a combined shop and dry building—all connected with each other and with the shaft by means of a tunnel.

Change rooms are located below ground level for convenience of access to tunnel and shaft. No lockers are provided, street clothes and work clothes being hung on hangers which are then hoisted to the ceiling, permitting use of the entire room for assembly purposes, and eliminating accumulation of unused clothes. The change house also includes a drying room, located between the showers and clean clothes room. Clean towels are issued and collected each day.

Comfort, Health, Safety

Comfort, health and safety of employees governed the provision of the heating and ventilation system with automatic thermostatic control where possible. Exhaust fans were provided where heat, moisture, dust, smoke or fumes might be objectionable.

In the change house air is introduced at the ceiling level and removed by registers under the benches, to take advantage of any settling motion of dust, removing it from the floor down instead of up past the men's faces.

The temperature is kept at about 70-75 degrees in the clean clothes room and about 85-100 degrees in the dirty clothes room, depending upon the relative humidity of the outside air. Men coming from the mine to the dirty clothes room are quite warm and gradual return to cooler temperature before they go outside has the effect of reducing colds materially.

McCann's Status Clear Under Veterans' Act, Judge Rules

ISHPEMING, May 21—Because of the controversy over appointment of a health officer for Ishpeping and indications that the act has not been heard of the question, the decision of the circuit court in favor of Dr. N. J. McCann over the council appointee, Dr. J. P. Bertucci, has extraordinary community interest.

Judge Frank A. Bell issued a writ of mandamus ordering Dr. McCann reinstated, which action was obeyed by the council at its special meeting Monday night.

The language of the court emphasizes the liberalization of the veterans' preference act, under which legal action was brought, always in favor of the ex-service-man.

Court's Decision

The court's decision: "Since this petition was filed I have given this question much study; this in addition to the fact that I have been through this question of veterans' preferences in other counties several times. I don't want to appear discourteous to counsel, so far as considering their point of view, but in the light of the study I have made I feel that I am as well qualified to dispose of this case now as I would be after I had further considered their briefs, because I am quite familiar with practically all of the authorities cited. So I think I may as well dispose of it now, so that counsel are aggrieved by what I do they may go on to a higher court to have the matter finally tested.

"It is a matter of general legal knowledge that the general laws of the state require all municipalities to appoint health officers. These health officers generally under the statute or under the charter are the executive officers of the health department, if we may call it that. Beyond this the charter of the city of Ishpeping provides that the common council may be the board of health and that they shall appoint a health officer, and other provisions of the statute provide that all of the appointive offices, except the assessor, I believe, and officers appointed to fill vacancies, shall hold their offices for one year, and until their successors are qualified.

Law Liberalized

"Now under the charter, the common council have the right to appoint the health officer, and it was true that that health officer, aside from the fact that he was required to be a physician by the general law, could in earlier years be any physician selected by the council, but later on in its wisdom the legislature enacted this veterans' preference law. It has been enlarged from time to time by amendment, and I think it is well within the facts to say that since its inception as it has been amended from time to time it has been liberalized and always made more and more favorable to the veteran, the reason for that being stated by some of the courts as a desire to favor those who have fought our country's battles. But any way that statute has been liberalized.

"When our Supreme Court held in one case that as regards municipalities it applied only to those who were on the public works, the legislature promptly changed it to include departments and offices, and it will be noted that in the act which was enforced prior to the act of 1939 the statute provided that the veteran must have qualifications at least equal to those of other applicants. That requirement has been eliminated from the statute and as it now reads he must be possessed of other requisite qualifications, and then they have also added that 'after credit is allowed by the provisions of any special law.' So whether we think it is right, or whether we think it is wrong, the veterans' preference statute has been, from time to time, liberalized, and the veteran has a decided preference as regards public works and offices.

Mandamus Procedure

"Now in passing I may say that in judgment it is not necessary that Dr. Bertucci be a party to this proceeding, as the proceeding is against the common council, and I also feel bound to hold that the title to the office can be tested by mandamus, in view of Section 3 of the former act, which is still in force, which reads that in case the application of any such soldier, sailor or marine shall be rejected by the person having the power of appointment to the position for which he has applied, he shall be entitled to remedy hereof by mandamus to enforce the provisions of this act." So I think that mandamus is the proper remedy.

"When the legislature enacted the veterans' preference law, it grafted on to the charters of all the cities and on to the powers of the appointive officers certain limitations, and the limitation as it stands today is found in the last amendment of 1939, Act 298, which is Section 900 of the Compiled Laws of the United States as amended by that act, found in Mason's 1940 Supplement, and that provision is that 'in every public department and upon the public works of the state and of every county and municipal corporation thereof, honorably discharged Union soldiers, sailors and marines of the Civil War, and honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines of the Spanish-American War, Philippine Insurrection, China Relief Expedition, World War, and of every other war of which the United States of America has been a participant, shall be preferred for appointment and employ-

Big Turnout For Benefit Dance Urged

ISHPEMING, May 21—Mrs. Otis E. Sonnastine, Ishpeping chairman for the Navy Relief society benefit drive, today appealed to Ishpeping people to patronize the ball to be held Saturday at the Brookton.

Her committee members are Mrs. Stuart Eldred, Miss Edna Sundblad, Mrs. W. R. Atkins and Mrs. C. C. Watson.

"They will be in charge of Ishpeping's work in behalf of Navy relief. 'Our immediate concern,' said Mrs. Sonnastine, 'is to see that Ishpeping is well represented at the ball. This event is in line with decision reached by the county committee at the outset to forego any house-to-house canvass, but instead to sponsor and encourage the sponsorship of a number of benefit events, where the public will receive some entertainment or education and at the same time contribute toward this fund.

"We are working now on gaining a number of patrons and patronesses for the Saturday ball. This has been given wide publicity and there should be little question in the public mind about the details or the purpose.

"Table reservations can be made by calling the Brookton, and attire may be formal or informal."

Following the Saturday event the Ishpeping committee will make contacts to determine what kind and how many benefit events can be sponsored within the community.

"We want only one thing," said Mrs. Sonnastine, "and that is the same realization of need and generous response that has marked Ishpeping's part in other worthwhile affairs. The community is noted for always meeting its share of any obligation and this surely stands in the front rank of tasks to be completed."

"CAMELOPARD"

First giraffes taken into Europe were called camelopards because they had the "form" of a camel and the "skin" of a leopard.

On the evidence in this court it appears both these doctors are qualified, both qualified to act as health officers, both have acted as health officers for several years, and the qualifications are not in question here at all. The only difference is that Dr. McCann has the benefit of this statute. I don't think I have any right to direct this board to get together and hold a hearing. That is their business. I can merely direct them to do what it was their duty to do on the 23rd day of April.

MR. WALSH: "When the court finds it doesn't do that, it seems to me that was the thing the court should direct them to do."

MR. WALSH: "No, I am taking the record as it is."

PROCLAMATIONS

LANSING, May 21—P—Governor Van Wagoner today proclaimed Friday and Saturday poppy days in Michigan, urging citizens to contribute in the campaign to aid disabled veterans of the First World War and their families. He also proclaimed Friday as National Maritime day and Saturday, May 30, as movie war stamp and bond day.

On the evidence in this court it appears both these doctors are qualified, both qualified to act as health officers, both have acted as health officers for several years, and the qualifications are not in question here at all. The only difference is that Dr. McCann has the benefit of this statute. I don't think I have any right to direct this board to get together and hold a hearing. That is their business. I can merely direct them to do what it was their duty to do on the 23rd day of April.

Gladstone was founded the family came here and Mrs. Shandonay resided here constantly until a year ago.

School Enrollment Dies

IRONWOOD, May 21—Enrollment in Ironwood public schools again showed a decrease for the eighth month of school ending April 24 and has, since the outset of the 1941-42 term, declined from 2,600 to 2,485. Most of the decline was attributed to the departure of people from the city to defense areas and is expected to drop even more steadily as the war continues, according to Supt. A. E. Erickson.

Go To "C. O." Camp

IRON RIVER, May 21—Anthony J. Bertetto, Caspian, school bus driver, has been assigned to a conscientious objectors' camp at Stoddard, Cheshire county, N. H. He will leave May 29, according to notice posted yesterday by the Iron county draft board. His work at the "conchic camp" will be of a useful nature but of a type that will not go against his beliefs.

USO Director Dies

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 21—Mrs. Charlotte Phebe Eastburn, wife of Dr. Harold V. Eastburn, died suddenly at her home, 126 Park Place Tuesday. Although Mrs. Eastburn had not been well for several years, she had been decidedly active recently with work connected with the establishment of two units of the United Service Organizations in this city. She was president of the USO council and gave detailed personal attention to the arrangements for many functions involving entertainment of the service men of this district.

Mine Forces Expanded

IRON RIVER, May 21—Iron mines of the west side of Iron county have added 200 employees since January 1 and employment is steadily increasing as the production tempo accelerates to meet insatiable demands of war materials. Employment increases have been proportionately as great on the east side, especially at the Tobin, property of the Republic Steel company, where an expansion program is underway to tap new ore bodies at the Columbia, lying between the Tobin and the Monongahela, the latter a reserve of the M. A. Hanna company. Where west side properties employed 1,528 men on January 1, a survey of men employed conducted last week showed employment of 1,719, due largely to the addition of men by the Vercon Mining company, subsidiary of the Pickands Mather & Co., and the M. A. Hanna company. Added to this were 253 men employed at the Tobin and the Ravenna-Prickett mines in Crystal Falls, making a grand total of 1,972 in the county.

Public Urged To Attend Navy Party

NEGAUNEE, May 21—The Navy Relief fund committee in Negaunee, headed by Mrs. A. John Hauserman, today urged residents of this city to help swell the fund by attending the dance in the Brookton ballroom Saturday night.

Tickets will not be sold in advance and there will be no drive or solicitation for money it has been decided by the county committee. It will rely entirely upon the generosity of the public and the merits of the fund to raise the $2,000 quota set for Marquette county.

The dance will be "cabaret style" and persons wishing to make table reservations are requested to call 1190-F-2, Marquette. Dancing will begin at 9 p. m. and music will be furnished by orchestras directed by Stan Stanford and Ben Schadney.

Persons who wish to contribute to the fund and who cannot attend the dance may send their donations to Miss Florence Langlois, National Agency building, Negaunee.

The Negaunee committee is composed of Mrs. A. John Hauserman, Mrs. Bruce K. Nelson, Miss Florence Langlois and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson.

ed to forcing farmers and housewives to collect taxes from their servants or farmhands. Paul said that the Treasury proposed no exemptions, and would even try to get the states and other governmental agencies to make the deductions from their employees' salaries if Congress approved the plan.

Under the new tax law which has been taking form in the House committee's deliberations, the minimum tax on an individual would be 12 per cent of his earnings in excess of his exemptions, so Paul expressed the opinion that refunds would be rare. An example of cases which might require refunds, however, would be a man who was unemployed a good deal of the year, but made enough in a few weeks to have substantial tax deductions made from his wages. Paul said he favored a provision for the Treasury to make automatic refunds of all claims up to $50 without waiting for any investigation, although subsequent studies might require the Treasury to take some of the refunds back.

Matheny Mahala Louise Adeline Susan Amanda Katherine Jane Lockety Lane Charity Ausban Auda Sarah Mary Elizabeth Ann Lucinda Cynthia Laurantine Miranda Esther Evaline.

Her parents called her "Hon."

3-Year-Old Girl Wearing False Teeth

CENTERVILLE, Md., May 21—P—Little Rosemary Price, three and a half years old, is chewing solid foods for the first time in her life—but misses her bottle a bit.

She now has a complete set of false upper teeth, and is the second youngest child in American dental records to be fitted with a denture.

Due to a mineral deficiency, little Rosemary's upper teeth decayed as fast as they erupted. She was a bottle baby, even bringing her bottle in visits to Dr. Norman Chanaud, Centerville dentist. On advice of a physician, her upper teeth were extracted and the diet deficiency was corrected.

No false teeth stocked by manufacturers were small enough for Rosemary's mouth, so Dr. Chanaud took a set of smaller lower teeth, cut them down, and inverted them. The plate is made to allow for changes later. Dr. Chanaud said X-rays show some of her second, permanent teeth will be missing, but at the age of 12 Rosemary will have a full set of teeth, only a few of them false.

American Dental association records, Dr. Chanaud added, showed the youngest previous case of false teeth was a child 3 years and 5 months old in Peoria, Ill., in 1929. Rosemary is three and seven months.

Dr. Chanaud followed the Peoria case procedure in making teeth for Rosemary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Price, of nearby Kingston.

He reported Rosemary has gained weight on her improved diet, is no longer pale and subject to recurring colds.

Timoshenko Still Holds Initiative

six months except on Kerch isthmus.

What might have happened had Germany been able to strike six weeks earlier last year can only be imagined. What did happen definitely broke the spell of mythical invincibility Hitler had so artfully woven to bamboozle much of the world. It also largely timed Japan's "day of infamy" at Pearl Harbor nine days after the Nazi retreat from Rostov started, the first German rearward trek of this war.

The Balkan campaign cost Hitler that vital six-week time loss in Russia a year ago. The Timoshenko offensive in the Ukraine has already cost him a two-week time loss this year in exploiting and expanding his successes on Kerch isthmus. To what extent it has also sapped his reserves in tanks, planes and men or compelled further prolonged delay in the launching of the vast new offensive to "annihilate" Russia is yet to be disclosed.

Time Element Important

The time element is all important, vastly more important than territory lost or won on Kerch isthmus or the Kharkov front by either side in the last two weeks. And of hardly less importance is the fact that Timoshenko has retained the initiative although his westward march toward Dnieper river crossings that, in his hands, would leave the whole German southern flank in the Ukraine and Crimea up in the air has apparently halted at Krasnodar.

Whether that most dangerous Russian thrust to within three score miles of the vital bridges across the Dnieper was stopped by admittedly stiffening German resistance or held up by the Russian commander for other reasons is not clear. There has been no intimation of heavy fighting in the Krasnodar area in several days.

Instead, Russian attacks are reported to be spreading now from north of Kharkov around Byelgorod to the Tanganyika sea flank, 400 miles southward. Timoshenko appears bent on widening his front of action by holding attacks to protect his Krasnodar position, or on sucking his foes into major action along his whole front prematurely and before they recover from the shock of his break-through south of Kharkov.

Prepare To Jump Strait

London observers suggest the Nazis may be preparing a vast airborne attack across Kerch strait to gain a foothold in the Caucasus in the rear of the Rostov-Don front. It is a conceivable operation; but the Crimean gateway to the Caucasus does not offer transportation facilities to sustain a major invasion and the terrain east of Kerch strait is an even more formidable barrier than the narrow waterway itself.

It is on the mainland, from Tanganyika to Kharkov and around the Dnieper crossings, that the crux of the fight must come, and there is still no indication of Nazi ability to regain the long-lost initiative.

War Gives Impetus To Poppy Sale

NEGAUNEE, May 21—America's war effort is expected to give impetus to the nationwide Buddy Poppy distribution of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion, to be held Saturday.

The Negaunee sale will be conducted under auspices of Post 3163, VFW, and the auxiliary of the John H. Mitchell post, American Legion, it was announced by Rock J. Gervais and Mrs. Ethel Bath, commanders.

Mrs. Bath will be assisted by Mrs. Marie Scanlon, Mrs. Tyna Peel and Mrs. Maude Arscott.

"The significance of the poppy now transcends the symbolism of Flanders Field, because this year those who buy and wear this flower will be contributing not only to the welfare of those who fought in wars of the past, but also those who today are defending our nation," Commander Gervais declared.

Poppies are made by disabled veterans in hospitals and homes and proceeds of the sale are devoted to local, state and national welfare work among soldiers, sailors and Marines of the present war and veterans of past wars.

One of the principal beneficiaries of funds received by the VFW is the VFW National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., where the organization cares for more than 200 children whose fathers died as the result of war.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 21—P—Governor J. M. Broughton said today he was satisfied how to pronounce the word, "ration."

He said it is "rashun," and not "rayshun."

How does he know? At a conference in Washington yesterday with Leon Henderson, the head rationer in the United States, Broughton paid particular note to how the OPA chief called it.

Moonshiners Cash In On War Boom

By W. R. DRAPER
NEA Service Correspondent

JOPLIN, Mo., May 21—Thanks to the Federal Government, and also in spite of the ancient and lethal art of moonshine manufacture is flourishing down in the Ozarks.

The hills are teeming with uniformed revenue officers, but even that doesn't dampen the bakard distillers' gratitude to the Government for sending them. For the Government's program has also sent into the Ozarks thousands of workers with money in their jeans. And the back country's deathless nocturnal industry is flourishing as it hasn't flourished since prohibition days.

War Boom Brings Prosperity

The only law that the moonshiners ever have paid any attention to is the law of supply and demand. And today, with boys in Joplin, Neosho, Springfield and Rolla making as high as $10 a day, moonshiners have gone all-out and up to their elbows in mash to follow that economic dictum.

"White mule" is now six to eight dollars a gallon, double the price of peacetime days. In practically any Ozark cave or hollow with a spring of running water, old-timers are busy boiling and grinding and boiling again to convert corn and cane into their transparent witch's brew.

When the moonshine has cooled any aged whiskey, unfortunately for the consumer, is often a simultaneous process—it is boldly delivered to the war industry plants. There an agent (usually the moonshiner's son or grandson) takes over and does it out, in Jug or fruit jar or, to make the law infraction complete, used whiskey bottles. At $8 a gallon moonshine isn't much cheaper than an inexpensive legal whiskey, but it has one dubious virtue. It can be diluted and still retain the desired properties of a gastric incendiary and sensory demolition bomb.

Consider Themselves Loyal

Oddly enough, the moonshiner doesn't consider himself disloyal or unpatriotic. He's sending his sons to the service, and no hillbilly youngster in these parts has been known to ask for a draft deferment. Joplin is full of boys from the Ozarks clamoring for enlistment.

But the moonshiner doesn't see any reason why his country's danger or global war should interfere with his secret, ancestral occupation. Nor do they see any reason for interrupting their private conflict with the "revenuers." And it looks as if the revenue force of earnest young men is for a tough siege against a native band of canny old campaigners.

Why Is A Battleship?

of the time, Lord Lee, said that Sir Percy's arguments were sound. Seven or eight years later, the British Government said officially at the London Naval Conference: "It would like to see an agreement by which battleships will in due time disappear altogether, as it considers them a very doubtful proposition in view of their size and cost and the development and efficacy of air and submarine attack."

Yet it kept on building them, according to the dictum of Jackie Fisher that if one country had 'em, the rest must have 'em.

Cruisers and Bombers

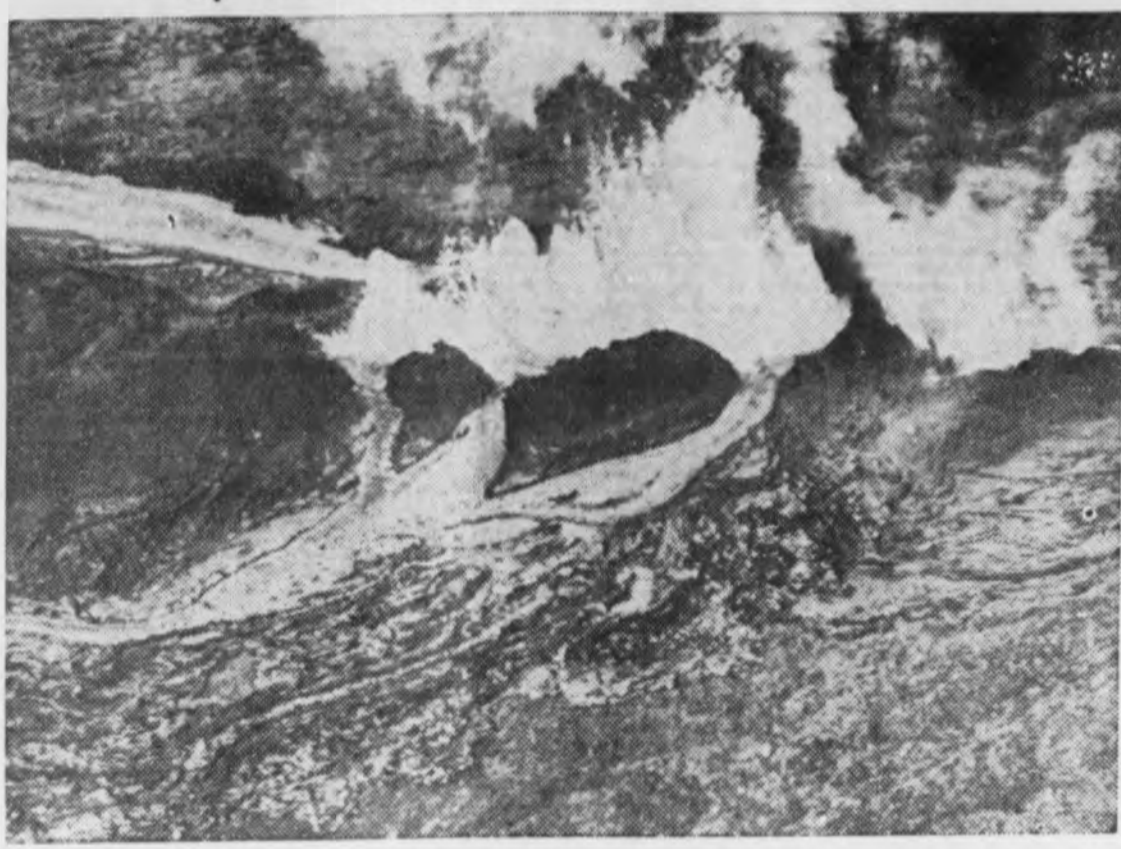

Lord Fisher's idea was to build very fast cruisers and equip them with the largest possible guns. The first sea lord in 1914 he ordered an 18-inch gun for the new battle cruiser Furious, "without any of the usual preliminary trials or any reference to any gunnery experts whatever," and he intended to put 23-inch guns in the "succeeding proposed battle cruisers of immense speed and very light draft of water and possessing the special merit of exceedingly rapid construction. Alas, those in authority went back on it. . . . Notice now that if a man is five per cent before his time he may possibly be accounted a Genius; but if this same poor devil goes 15 per cent before, then he's a Crank. Above that percentage, he is a stark staring Mad. (N. B.—I have gone through all these percentages.)"

Of course, Lord Fisher was a madman. In July, 1917, he wrote to Prime Minister Lloyd George demanding: "A multitude of bombing aircraft made like Ford cars (so therefore very expeditiously obtained thereby) . . . The Air is going to win the war owing to the aid and grievous other neglects. The Allies never got that multitude of bombing aircraft made by mass production. The United Nations will get them in this conflict and they will win the war with them."

Movable Fortresses

The Commentator, who is no naval expert, can see one good reason for battleships: They are movable fortresses. They can give you coastal efficient protection from an enemy operating from a distant base, who cannot risk his own battleships so far from home. Conversely, they should not be sent several thousand miles from home, to fight where you can gang up on them with submarines and bombers. Perhaps there are other ways by which our very long coast may be guarded from invasion, but what are they? We can't build a fort every few miles. We can't keep tens of thousands of planes idly waiting for an invasion attempt. We must strike the enemy before he arrives, and strike with overwhelming power. Hence, for our purposes, the battleship. But, as stated, the Commentator is not an expert. He merely puts the case as he sees it; and if that's not the answer, he joins those who continue to ask: "Why is a battleship?"

Army Bombs Divert Lava Flow, Save Town

Thousands of tons of red hot molten lava spew from one of Mauna Loa, Hawaii's largest volcano, during spectacular 23-day eruption. When the boiling river of lava threatened destruction of Hilo, Army bombs were dropped, blasting a new channel to divert the flow to a desert. (NEA Telephoto)

News Behind the News

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, May 21 — Uncle Sam will become the banker, the grocer, the tailor and the employer of the American people within the next few months. Which is a homely way of saying that the Federal Government will take over the management of almost every phase of the country's economy.

Washington will tell agricultural and industrial producers what they may grow and manufacture, and in what quantities. Any material not essential to winning the war will be outlawed. Consumers will be permitted only designated units of all commodities. Like sugar and gasoline, every article which enters into the cost-of-living picture will be rationed. With the amount of goods for sale dropping 13 per cent in volume after June 30, next, the key task will be to allocate purchasables fairly and finance the military costs equitably. That will require foresight, planning, hard work, sacrifice and complete cooperation of all groups.

Besides these controls official positions on wages, working hours, salaries and taxes will determine how much money people shall earn and how they shall spend it. With the 1943 fiscal year's national income now fixed at a new high of 117 billion dollars, the estimate is that 47 billion must be set aside for savings (compulsory or voluntary) and direct personal taxes. Half of that 117 billion will go to families earning less than $3,000 a year, meaning that the most serious inflation threat comes from FDR's erstwhile "forgotten men."

EVIL — The gathering economic clouds have however several silver linings. The living conditions of the average American should be better than in the dark days of the depression.

The basic things of life will suffer hardly any appreciable decline. Except for imported luxuries, the food stocks should remain at the present level. Housing shortages and difficulties in congested defense areas will arise but the hardships will be temporary and comparatively trivial. The fuel problem is one of location and transportation rather than of supply, and it will be licked eventually. Wearing apparel, especially shoes, will not suffice for a long war. But except for those who have laid aside an extensive wardrobe, patches and old-fashioned styles will be the common lot. Few will be able to sniff at their neighbors.

Behind the scenes in Washington the politicians are bucking this drastic curtailment—at least until after the elections. FDR is torn between them and the Army-Navy-WFB faction. The latter demands immediate crackdowns, while the Congressmen prefer to defer the day of awakening. But the evil hour cannot be postponed beyond midsummer.

COURAGE—Recovery of the lost Philippines constitutes an impossible task for the United States, according to a recently published book which has aroused great interest in Washington. The volume, which sets forth Nippon's "blueprint for victory," was written in 1940 by Kinokuni Matsuo, a naval intelligence officer at Tokyo, but it has been translated only within the last few months by an anti-Jap Korean named Kilsoo K. Haan.

The author scoffs at Woodrow Wilson's statement that the islands could be recaptured with comparative ease. Matsuo points out that his nation would, of course, occupy Guam, Midway, Wake and Hawaii before the end of the conflict, and fortify these strong points. "Then," he continues, "America will not be able to move her hands or feet." A naval and military force sufficiently powerful to retake Manila, he insists, would require at least 300 ships in all, which would face a 14-day voyage from Honolulu through the midst of the Pacific.

"It will never be possible," he concludes, "for the United States fleet to disappear completely under the cover of night. Therefore, there will undoubtedly occur the first great night battles on the equator. The officers of the Japanese navy will be able to demonstrate their great and unique skill in torpedoing. We are eagerly anticipating the excellent skill and unparalleled courage of our navy."

FIRE — Earl Browder's release from prison was a diplomatic rather than a judicial move. Rightly or wrongly, President Roosevelt believes that commutation of the sentence of the nation's No. 1 Communist creates good will at home and abroad.

Moscow has frequently shown irritation at Anglo-American policies were other Axis offensives — and nearly all of them succeeded because our side thought they could not be done. Once Jap ships are beyond Port Said, the oil wealth of the Near East is open to the enemy and hence a Nazi drive for the Caucasian petroleum fields is unnecessary. Since our troops are pouring into Eritrea, the outpost in this ambitious plan, we would be the first to clash with Tojo's invaders.

TANK — Everyone knows how greatly we need steel for a shipbuilding program, which barely keeps abreast of the sinkings by Axis U-boats, but the public is not aware that a similar scarcity exists in our overburdened transportation system. We are short 70,000 miles of rails. Yet enormous quantities of unused car tracks abound, which until now have been held captive by bankruptcy proceedings and other legal technicalities.

The WPB has just set up a Bureau of Industrial Conservation in New York city to tear away red tape and reclaim the precious necessity. Within a few days thousands of WPA "miners" will be digging more than 70,000 tons of "buried ore" throughout the metropolitan area. In some cases the "prospectors" are using divining rods to locate the iron hidden for years under layers of highway gravel and asphalt. Another Federal agency will release sufficient macadam to resurface the streets immediately.

From a railway that has been tied up in courts for eight years this new outfit now has the right to remove 16,000 tons of bridge and siding metal. Most of the ribbons will be re-laid elsewhere and the rest of the scrap is to be melted for tank armor. The salvagers have gleaned 500 tons from a Brooklyn incline which was abandoned in 1917. Negotiations are nearly completed to take over the Second avenue El, and secure 24,000 tons of structural steel, five thousand tons of tracks which can be utilized at once and nearly 200,000 pounds of prime copper.

GOLD — The Army has cracked down again upon Broadway to dim out its bulbs more thoroughly because the glow of the Great White Way is still noticeable at sea. But nobody in the bright lights paradise is gloomy. In the private offices where hotel, restaurant, theater and night club managers estimate coming business, the tip is that Gotham will have the greatest summer in the history of the vacation industry. The pleasure prophets expect that gasoline shortages will make New York the tourist mecca of the Atlantic seaboard.

RECKLESS—The great land battle between the United States and Japan will not be in Australia—as everyone expects—but in Africa, either in the area around the Gulf of Aden or in Egypt. This would still be the logical move, even if the Red armies drive the Reichswehr completely out of Russia, because if it can be accomplished, Nippon sweeps the Allies from the Mediterranean; gets into position to strike the USSR through the Caspian backdoor, bolsters Italy and joins forces with the Axis in Europe.

Such is the long range forecast of strategists, who reason that so long as Hirohito keeps his battleship fleet intact, we cannot invade his islands. But he has more than two million tons of available shipping capable of transporting 50 divisions to the Suez canal and giving them naval escort sufficiently powerful to ward off Allied attacks. His men have no further to go than the troops we are sending to Eritrea and points north by way of the Cape of Good Hope. This maneuver bypasses both MacArthur down under and Wavell in India.

The distance from Singapore to the tip of Arabia is only a few hundred miles more than the Atlantic expanse over which we sent the AEF in the First World war and less than that from Tokyo to Pearl Harbor. Reckless, yes. But so

Caribbean Crisis

By Eaton Goldthwaite

THE STORY: Four visitors arrive at a Dutch West Indian island to complicate the life of Bill Talcott, who is finishing six years there as branch manager for an American chemical firm. They are Halsey, Bill's successor; an auditor, who immediately accuses Bill of a large shortage in his accounts; MacDowell, a detective brought to take Bill back to the States if any irregularity were found; and June Paterson, beautiful cousin of Bill's former roommate. At dawn two more visitors arrive, deposited by a smuggling skipper after a fight in which MacDowell is wounded and Halsey routs the skipper.

EVE OF DEPARTURE

CHAPTER IX

Inexplicable as Bill Talcott's actions might have seemed to June Paterson, they were the direct and simple result of a combination of circumstances which, in the space of half a day, had changed the course of his life. For link by link about him was being woven a chain. Twist and struggle as he might, the thing only bit deeper into his flesh, throttled his spirit, threatened not alone his freedom supplying recreation for the 18,000,000 people within 100 miles, especially since more trains run from Manhattan than to any other city in America.

But a fact which they are counting heavily upon—although not for publicity purposes—is the increase in soldiers' pay. Already the metropolis is the meeting place of thousands of families who come down to entertain their boys from nearby camps. These reunions cause heavy weekend trade at every hostelry. Now with the income of the men in blue and khaki doubled, the fun spots should get a large slice of the check.

The World's Fair was no bonanza to in-town amusement centers but this military invasion already has proved a gold mine. However, even with an influx of July and August visitors the innkeepers have plenty of sleeping space open. The American Legion convention brought in more than 125,000 veterans and their folks, the biggest crowd ever to assemble at any gathering in America. But at the height of the jam the hotels had five thousand rooms which were not filled.

SCHEME—New York Frenchmen in touch with the old country, who pity Petain but mistrust Laval, say that the haunted outcast is on the spot. Ever since Berlin forced him back on Vichy, troubles like Madagascar and Martinique have beset him and now fear of a war with the United States holds him from keeping his promise of collaboration with Germany. If he does not deliver soon, the Fuehrer may purge him in favor of another stooge.

France remains Hitler's problem child. Himmler, Stulpnagel and other generals recommend making her into a second Greece or Poland. But Von Ribbentrop and Goering oppose such strong arm methods as sheer madness. The nation might revolt with a frenzy such as swept the lanes in the Reign of Terror. They warn that the Reichswehr needs every man in the test against Russia and must not waste a fresh army of occupation on what is now nonbelligerent territory. Nor can the Wilhelmstrasse bribe the ruined people by offers of more returned prisoners because these captives must be held to keep the Ruhr factories going.

The latest Nazi scheme is to toss out Laval and set up a puppet like Deat, De Brinon, or De Monzie in Paris. If the British should again bomb the restored capital, this outrage against the symbol of government might inflame the country to swing wholeheartedly into the New Order. But the RAF raided the Seine city before and the French did not uprising.

of movement but his mental balance as well.

Most maddening is the fight of a strong man against an adversary who will not reveal himself; a fight against that which, instead of fighting back, encircles and smothers with the sheer weight of uncertainty.

It is true that in questioning Halsey's orders and resenting his presence he had acted with ill grace, scarcely in the manner of one upon whom responsibility had rested for six long years. But therein, where lay his greatest strength, was also his greatest weakness. Believe as he might that he wanted to be clear of Abas Island, wanted to put behind him its small and fift and oppressive heat, one uncompromising fact remained.

For six however long and lonely years they might have been, Bill Talcott had been monarch of a tiny kingdom. His subjects were a half-thousand natives; his chancellor Sebastian. That he had ruled fairly and justly, that he had acquitted his responsibilities with honor and measurable success was no longer a matter of moment. He was being deposed, kicked out; it was not an abdication. For him there were no banquets, no poet laureate to sing his virtues. He was being forced out under suspicion. Manufactured out of whole cloth, though they might be, the circumstances were sufficient to ruin him.

Halsey was no coward and he was no fool. He had shown that clearly enough in handling the refugee smuggler. He had done so well that already black Tomas and Sebastian were looking upon him as a kind of super being; even June Paterson's eyes became starry as she inspected the rangy, lantern-jawed new manager. What were Halsey's private thoughts about the guilt or innocence of Bill Talcott? Halsey was a Federal Chemical man. His life was routine, his blood was business. To him Plant Number Six was just a job, Bill Talcott just a plant manager being relieved. In Federal Chemical the human element consisted principally in guarding the flesh with inoculations; there were always ambitious newcomers crowding along when the spirit failed.

Bill Talcott knew, as surely as he knew that there were sharks in Anegada Passage, that loss of his head would bring the end. His personal feelings must not control him; whatever cause he might have to suspect Halsey of intrigue, however much he might resent the new man's calm eficiency in supplanting him, he must fight to keep his mind clear so that his powers of observation would not be dulled. For Talcott had come to realize that only by ceaseless watchfulness could he survive.

It was the law of the jungle; kill or be killed. It was elemental, to a certain extent similar to the laws governing the two poor, frightened passengers left on Abas pier by the refugee smuggler. It was the law whose failure of observation had caused MacDowell, the detective, to be knocked unconscious twice within the same night.

Bill Talcott suddenly chuckled. No matter how badly off he might be, he was in better shape than MacDowell. "Welcome to Abas," he chuckled aloud, and June Paterson, turning at his words, stared coldly.

Over a hastily assembled breakfast, the newest arrivals relaxed somewhat. First audience by any right belonged to the woman, and after having reiterated that she was Martha Swenson, she told of her escape from Norway.

"Through Sweden, where I have friends, I went to Murmansk," Martha Swenson said in her throaty, disturbing voice with its trace of accent. "From Murmansk to Moscow and then along the route to Vladivostok. I rode the Trans-Siberian railway to Tokyo. I sold my camera in Tokyo, it was a good camera and I got a good price. With part of the money I took passage on a freighter to the Panama Canal. It was in Colon that the Captain Jackson offered to take me to Puerto Rico, where I could get a boat for New York. I wanted to go to New York because I have people there."

As her voice died silence came out of the rocky barrenness of the island and settled on the terrace. It was as if the lesser beings in their fight for existence recognized and paid silent tribute to one of their number.

June Paterson's sharply indrawn breath broke the spell. "You poor dear! You must forget all that now. If you like you may travel home with me. I'll be leaving Saint Thomas Monday on the 'Blue Petrel' and I'm sure arrangements can be made."

Martha Swenson's grateful dark eyes lifted momentarily. "Thank you," she said simply. "I have money for my passage. I will not be a burden."

Professor Constantine had surrounded himself with an imposing array of bottles, and already a strange assortment of pills of various colors and shapes had been chased down his throat with several glasses of water. "It's an outrage!" the old man in the too-large clothing muttered. "That Jackson—What he did to me—I'm not well—I was in Martinique, gathering anthropological data for my studies—You know, the Martiniquian is most interesting. Different background completely—came from a different section of Africa. These Island blacks, you know, are all descended from slaves. Still practice voodoo—Where was I?"

"You were in Martinique," Bill Talcott said drily.

The professor held the bow of his glasses, peering through the lenses at Bill Talcott as if inspecting a new and interesting specimen. "Hm—Of course," he murmured. "This man Jackson brought in some flour from Panama, and said he was going to Puerto Rico. Since it's—ahh—rather difficult at the present time to get around the islands I accepted his offer of transportation. But I certainly didn't expect to be dumped at dawn in the midst of a lot of shooting! Is this town Fajardo?"

"Scarcely. You're still a good hundred and fifty miles from Puerto Rico. This is Abas Island. We'll see that you get to Saint Thomas. Under the circumstances it will be impossible for you to remain here."

"Abas! I don't want to remain here. There's no anthropology here. Whatever natives you have are imports from the other islands. That huge man on the pier for example—probably an Amina. Interesting type but unreliable—" And the Professor lapsed to grumblings.

"Can't say as I blame you," June Paterson put in tartly. "I'm not any too fond of this place myself."

Halsey handed her a cigarette. "I understand there's a supply boat due tomorrow," he said. "We'll see that you're safely delivered. We've all been—" He broke off, turned to look at Struthers who was rapidly approaching along the path.

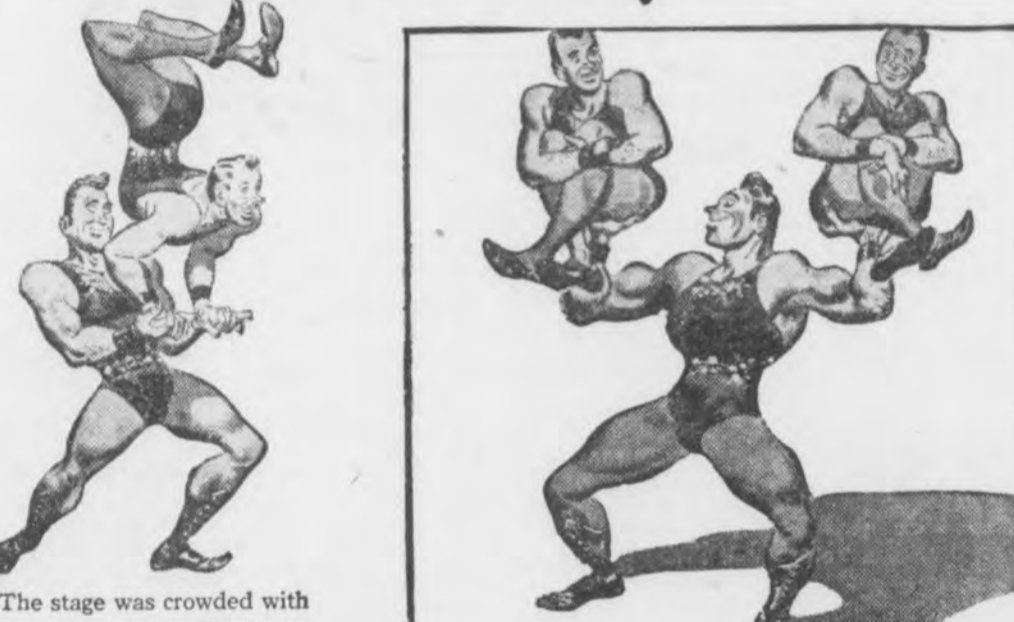

The auditor appeared not to have slept. His eyes were bloodshot and sweat poured from his puffed face. Straight on he came, avoiding Bill Talcott, to stop by Halsey's chair. "If you can beg leave of your guests I'd like to complete our business," he said, and pausing, added in a significant tone, "before you return to New York."

MODERN "KNIGHTS"

Fantastic trappings that recall knights of the Middle Ages are worn by horsemen of some of the Djermia tribes of the Niger region of Africa. The uniforms of the steeds and their riders are gaily-colored kapok mattresses, while the helmets are of sheet iron and copper.

Allez Oop!

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may cause backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sensations when urinating are signs of kidney trouble.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
