Red Troops Advance In Kharkov Area

By Henry C. Cassidy

MOSCOW, May 28.—(Thursday)—Russian troops battling on the Kharkov-Barvenkova fronts were reported today to have beaten their way forward in both areas after killing 4,500 more Germans and capturing large quantities of equipment.

The midnight Soviet communique announced that the Red army had annihilated its gains before Kharkov while defeating fierce Nazi attacks in the Izum-Barvenkova sector 80 miles to the south.

A supplementary communique said 1,400 Germans had been slain in the Izum direction, by the men of one rifle unit, and that in another sector the Germans were in retreat after having failed to break a river—an attempt that was frustrated by Soviet artillery firing at short range.

Say 82 Nazi Planes Downed

The Germans lost 1,000 dead in that river action, and Soviet cavalymen stabbing 40 miles behind the German lines in another area slew 2,100 Germans.

Eighty-two German planes were declared destroyed in Tuesday's fighting, while Soviet losses were listed as 23 craft.

Front dispatches had said earlier that the Red army, backed up against a river in the Izum-Barvenkova area, had counter-attacked in a daring stroke that considerably lessened the Nazi flanking threat there.

Intimating that these two battle-fronts now had become practically one vast field of combat, Maj. Gen. Nikolai Zhuravlev, a military reviewer, said all the fighting was "closely bound up from the operational point of view."

Nazi Luck Superficial?

He declared the German failure to break through in the Izum-Barvenkova area, despite a tremendous massing of tanks, was proof that the Nazis no longer enjoyed their former superiority in armament.

Already, in these initial operations of spring, the Germans have been forced to use 30 per cent of their tanks and armored cars they have on the Russian front, he declared.

All Soviet accounts stressed the number of tanks the Germans were employing (without mentioning an over-all estimate), and the numbers the Russians were destroying.

Free French Status In Doubt, De Gaulle Says

LONDON, May 27.—(P)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, suggesting that his Free French organization should not remain a "military movement," told a press conference today it was proposed to "widen the scope" of activities by reinforcing its representation of the French people.

He said the question of the present Free French status seemed "badly put in some cases" and that there was "no real accord" among the United Nations as to the character of what he called "the fighting French." (A barrier to diplomatic recognition of the Free French has been that it has been a military rather than governmental establishment.)

Glider Pilot Training Program Expanded

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(P)—An expansion of the glider pilot training program of the Army air forces, with large numbers of students to be instructed at 27 schools beginning June 1, was announced today by the War department.

The number of students was not disclosed, but training in light motor driven planes will be given at 18 civil aeronautics schools located in the middle west, and elementary and advanced training in gliders at nine Army schools.

The glider pilots will be authorized to wear the Army air force wings with glider insignia imposed. Army officers and enlisted men, between the ages of 18-36, will be eligible.

Thousands of Women At Recruiting Stations

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(P)—Women applied by the thousands today for the 450 places as officer candidates in the new women's army auxiliary corps and many of them arose at dawn to be first in line at the Army recruiting stations.

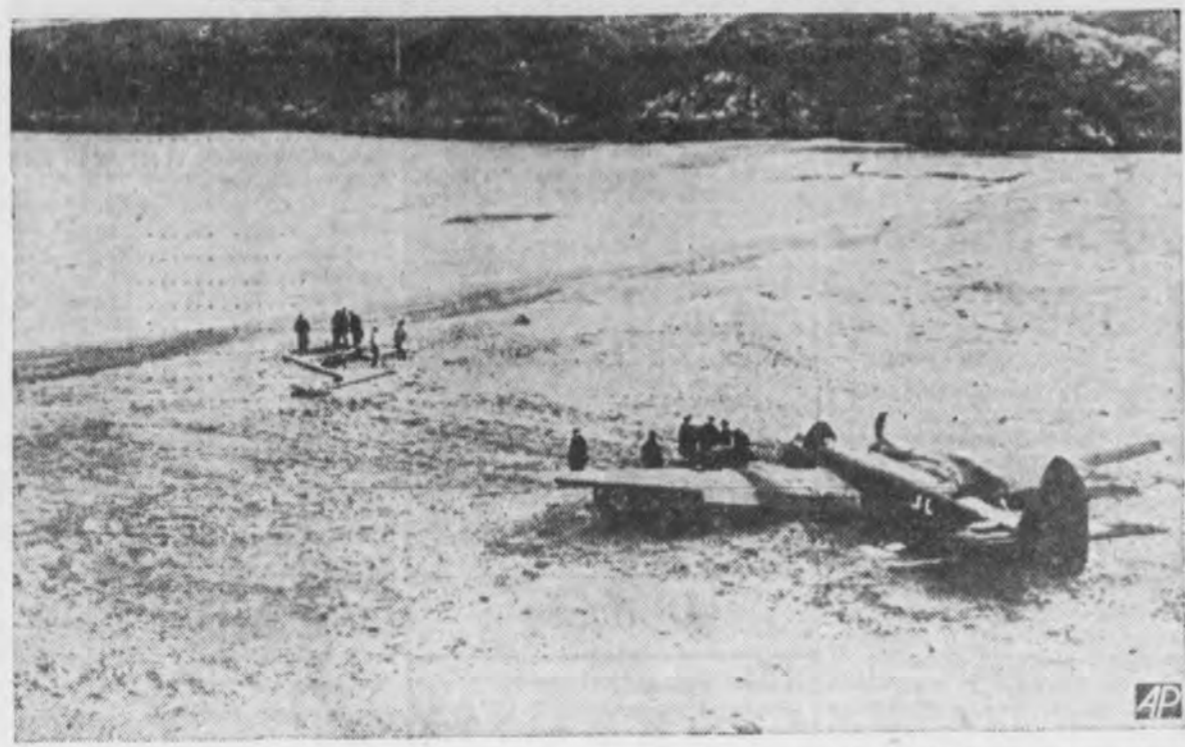

An unofficial and incomplete poll of recruiting offices throughout the country on the number of applicants—actual count in some places and estimated count in others where definite figures were unavailable—yielded a total of 13,208.

Some cities reported that the eager women snatched up all the pink application blanks that had been supplied and disappointed applicants had to be turned away thereafter. This situation prevailed at all recruitment points in Tennessee and Florida and at Richmond, Birmingham, Pittsburgh and Baltimore.

California alone reported an estimated 2,000 applicants, and the estimate for Pennsylvania was 1,800.

The women besieged the recruiting offices on the opening day regardless of the fact that applications will be received until June 4 and that priority in applying will count for nothing. The candidates selected will report at Fort Des Moines in July.

House Again Votes $50 Pay For Soldiers

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(P)—For the second time in two weeks, the House overwhelmingly voted today for a minimum pay of $50 monthly for service men. It sent back to conference a compromise proposal worked out by a Senate-House committee recommending $42.

The action virtually eliminated any chance for a service pay boost becoming effective before July 1 since the bill provides that any raises shall become effective on the first day of the calendar month following its enactment. For the increase to go into effect June 1, the conferees would have to reach an agreement, and both branches and the President approve it, by Sunday. House leaders already have announced their intention of adjourning after tomorrow.

Senate and House consideration of the bill providing allowances for service men's dependents, a companion measure, also may be delayed.

Reject Compromise Figure

Cries of "politics" and "putting a dollar sign" on patriotism highlighted the one hour of debate that preceded the 332 to 31 vote on a motion by Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) to reject the compromise and instruct the conferees to stand by the House figure. The vote was almost identical with the 332 to 28 count by which the House on May 13 turned down the Senate-approved $42 scale.

Rankin's motion took precedence over one by Chairman May (D-Ky), of the military committee, that the compromise be accepted. The committee had recommended $42, an increase of $12 over the $30 monthly now paid a private and an apprentice seaman after four months of service. Men entering the service receive $21.

The committee also had recommended that first-class privates and second-class seamen be boosted from $36 to $48, but the House insisted that its action of May 13 raising this figure to $54 be upheld by its conferees.

Malta Searches For Victims of 2349th Raid

VALETTE, Malta, May 27.—(P)—The British tonight issued this communique:

Last night Malta was raid-free. On Wednesday a few enemy fighters searched the coast in daylight. No combats took place. More bodies were recovered of victims of Tuesday's raid which was the 2,349th since the start of the war.

Big Bonuses Paid Employees Of Cleveland War Plant

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(P)—The Lincoln Electric company, of Cleveland, Ohio, handling Government contracts for welding equipment, acknowledged before the House naval investigating committee today that it paid bonuses amounting to two million dollars in 1941 to company officials and employees.

The company emphatically denied, however, that the bonuses were paid to escape excess profits taxes.

In addition to the bonuses, C. F. Taylor, vice-president in charge of sales, said that the company set up a $1,000,000 trust fund out of gross sales which Edmund Toland, committee investigator, reported at $24,449,213 for last year.

Toland, declaring that the extra compensation payments ranged up to $50,000 for some company officials and included others running from $3,000 to $5,000 for $30 and $45 a week employees, bluntly asserted that the figures demonstrated how there could be "evasion and avoidance" of the excess profits tax.

He described the company, which is headed by J. F. Lincoln, president of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, as the leading manufacturer of welders and welding equipment in the United States, and said that "practically all" of its business in 1940-41 came from the Government.

Need Ceiling On Bonuses

Opening presentation of the Lincoln case with the assertion that it would show the need for a "ceiling" on bonuses, Toland told the committee that in 1941:

1. Company employees in the $1,800 to $2,600 bracket received bonuses ranging from $3,000 to $5,000.

2. Department heads and officers, whose salaries ranged from $3,200 to $12,500, were given bonuses running from $10,000 to $50,000.

3. There was a wide difference in the factory cost and the selling price of articles produced by the company, running in many cases well above 100 per cent.

Taylor, who began his career at the plant in 1916 at $60 a month, emphatically denied that the bonuses were handed out to evade taxes. He told the committee that the employees were instructed to keep secret the amount of the bonuses they received, not in an attempt to evade taxes, but "as a matter of policy."

Japs To Do Share as Axis Partner, Tojo Declares

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), May 27.—(P)—Premier General Hideki Tojo declared in an address formally opening parliament today that Japan would "do her utmost to contribute her share as the partner of Germany and Italy" in the war, and that she was prepared and determined to remain in the conflict "until the influence of Britain and America and their dreams of world domination" were wiped out.

General Tojo said that "relations between Japan and the Soviet Union have undergone no change" since the outbreak of war in the Far East.

Bomber Crew, Lost 45 Days, Reaches Base

By Tom Yarbrough

AN ALLIED OPERATIONAL BASE, Australia, May 27.—(P)—Tattered and shaggy but grinning big, an American bomber crew has returned to this base after being forced down in the swampy wilds of New Guinea and lost from headquarters for a record span of 45 days.

It was a day of glad homecoming all around, for with them came an American fighter pilot who had been out 26 days.

Several bomber crews made their way back to base after being lost many days among the native tribes, but this outfit, headed by Pilot Louis W. Ford, 22, of Los Angeles, set the record of nearly seven weeks in the bush.

The entire crew suffered from malaria and tropical ulcers, but they found friends along the way and generally were in good shape when they pulled in.

Michigan Man In Crew

The other members of the crew are Lieut. John H. Distro, 21, DeWitt, Ohio; Lieut. Edward S. Ashley, San Antonio, Tex., and Private J. E. Ochs, Lancaster, Pa.

Today these boys were reveling in the pleasures of cleanly-cooked food, American cigarettes and conversation with people they can understand.

The hero of the second homecoming is Fighter Pilot Arthur E. Andres, 23, of Newton, Mass. Out on his first combat mission over Lae and Salamaua, New Guinea ports, he was nipped by Japanese zero fighters, but he kept scrapping so long that he ran out of gasoline some distance from Lae and a greater distance from his home base.

He crash-landed on a beach 30 feet wide, pitted his stamina and ingenuity against hardships galore for nearly a month and arrived here to find this compensation: 15 long hours of rest, and a promotion to the rank of first lieutenant.

"It's Like Heaven"

When I met him at his camp he said, "this may be where all the bombs are falling, but it's like heaven to me. I'm just waiting to get up in the air. I want to learn to fly again. They tell me I'm going up tomorrow."

The experiences of Pilot Ford's bomber crew were like something out of a movie. Here is his story:

"We got what we went after at Rabaul, but anti-aircraft fire crippled us and we cleared out on only one engine. We lost gasoline and our hydraulic system was knocked out, but by coxing wings and landing her along—sometimes less than 100 feet above water—we got her over land which we figured wasn't occupied by the Japanese."

"We came down a few miles inland on a marsh. The only clear spot we could find had a tree in the middle. The field was covered with cane grass, which is pretty good for landing."

"We hit going more than 100 miles an hour, skidded about a hundred yards and wrapped a wing around the tree."

"Before we started down I said 'here we go, boys, and good luck'."

8 Churches Destroyed In Raids on Norwich

NORWICH, England, May 27.—(P)—Eight of this old city's churches have been destroyed or extensively damaged by recent Nazi reprisal bombings. It was disclosed today.

The Norwich cathedral suffered about $3,000 damage. The 15th century Dolphin public house and the St. Benedict gate were both wrecked.

DUTCH FREIGHTER HIT

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, May 27.—(P)—The freighter Flora, of the Royal Dutch Netherlands Steamship company, has been torpedoed in the Caribbean, the Netherlands news agency Aneta stated late today.

Army Chiefs Map Invasion Plans, Belief

By J. Wes Gallagher

LONDON, May 27.—(P)—Two of the chiefs of the U. S. Army's three commands conferred with their British counter-parts tonight, and informed observers believed that plans for an invasion of the continent as well as a vast air assault on Germany were being advanced.

The arrival today of Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, commanding general of the U. S. Army service of supply, virtually completed a war council which these observers declared is the "prelude to a vast increase of American ground forces to give the Allies immediate, overwhelming local superiority in men and equipment for an invasion of the continent."

It was understood that the conferees may also be concerned with such world-wide coordinating efforts as a joint smash at the Japanese from India and blocking of an Axis offensive in Africa.

Somervell's arrival followed the appearance yesterday of Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. Army air forces. This left only Lieut. Gen. Leslie J. McNair, commander of the ground forces, out of the circle, but the presence of Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, head of the operations division, seemed to assure that land as well as air plans were afoot.

Air Effort Will Start First

Also present was Maj. Gen. Mark W. Clark, chief of staff of the Army ground forces; Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of naval aviation; and Brigadier General Leroy Lutes, Charles P. Gross and William C. Lee, who accompanied Somervell.

This congregation of detail men followed closely upon the recent visit of Chief of Staff General George C. Marshall.

One source, emphasizing indications that American and British efforts were not being concentrated on air operations alone, said: "Because the technical transport problems are more simple, the American air effort will start first, but when the time comes we are going to be ready to hit on land just as hard or harder than we do in the air."

600 Millions Sought For War Housing

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(P)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today for a quick $600,000,000 to provide living quarters for thousands of workers in overcrowded war production centers and to avoid loss of efficiency in the plants themselves.

Meanwhile the Office of Price Administration served notice that rent ceilings would become effective in 20 industrial areas June 1. It said voluntary compliance thus far had been insufficient and warned that unless landlords cooperated, the Federal action would be taken to enforce the ceilings.

The President's special message estimated that 1,600,000 workers would migrate to war-industry areas in the year beginning July 1. Existing housing facilities are insufficient, Mr. Roosevelt said, and the excess production must be provided for by new public construction "largely temporary in nature" and designed for workers in the lower income brackets.

Need for Housing Great

"Thus far," he said, "Congress has shown a full appreciation of this need and has made $1,020,000,000 in appropriations available for the construction of war housing. This figure reduces to its true perspective the problem of housing which is less than one per cent of the funds made available for war purposes."

"The allocation of war funds for the shelter of the men and women leaving their homes to serve our war industries is a wise and established national policy."

"That policy should continue. War production is now increasing in geometric ratio. Plant capacities are expanding faster and faster. Consistent reports from all over the country indicate a rising need for housing, running far ahead of the supply and threatening seriously to reduce the effective use of these plants unless remedied at once," the statement warned.

Jap Scouting Parties Test Indian Defenses

CALCUTTA, India, May 27.—(P)—Japanese scouting parties were reported today testing British Indian defenses in the northeast as Lieut.-Gen. Sir Noel Berrisford Peirse, commander of the Ganges delta forces, strengthened the border with fresh troops and reformed the veterans who survived the retreat from Burma.

"Reports indicate the enemy has stretched his line to the limit, at least temporarily, and efforts now are devoted to consolidation," the general said.

Small groups of native Burmese levies, officered by Japanese, were reported by him to be moving from the west Burma port of Akyab toward Chittagong, India, 220 miles east of Calcutta, but he said there was nothing to indicate a general Japanese thrust toward India.

Heydrich Shot And Wounded; Fear Reprisals

LONDON, May 27.—(P)—Reinhard Heydrich, acting Reich's protector of Bohemia and Moravia and Gestapo purge master for Nazi-conquered territory, has been wounded in an assassination attempt in Prague and the threat of swift and terrible reprisals executions hung heavy tonight over old Czechoslovakia.

One Berlin broadcast said Heydrich's wound was not expected to prove fatal, but gave no other indication of the seriousness of his condition. Another said the attack occurred at 1 p. m. today on the Prague-Berlin highway but within the limits of Greater Prague.

Reuters heard the Vichy radio say late tonight that Heydrich's condition was grave.

$235,000 Offered for Assassin

Whoever fired the shot, which Czech circles here feared would touch off an unprecedented wholesale slaughter of their countrymen, apparently escaped. The German radio said a reward of 10,000,000 crowns (worth $235,000 at the last quoted exchange rates a year ago) would be paid for his capture.

Martial law was clamped on immediately under which Karl Hermann Frank, Heydrich's deputy, announced: "No civilian is permitted to leave his house between 9 p. m. tonight and 6 a. m. tomorrow."

"All public bars, cinemas, theaters, and public entertainments will be closed, and all transport stopped."

"Anyone found on the streets during those hours and who does not stop when called upon to do so will be shot immediately."

Fear Mass Executions

A later announcement said: "Whoever hopes to hide the guilty persons or who gives them any kind of help or security, or secretly withhold any knowledge of the crime will be executed."

Some broadcasts said the entire family of any such persons also would be put to death.

A Czech government source here expressed grave fears that "the shooting of Heydrich will result in mass executions of innocent people."

Weygand Protests Italy's Territorial Demands

BERN, Switzerland, May 27.—(P)—Italy's new demands for territory from France have produced an upsurge of anti-collaborationist sentiment in that country in which the veteran military leader Gen. Maxime Weygand is taking an active part, it was reported authoritatively tonight.

General Weygand, it was reported, has plunged into discussions in an effort to prevent the handing over of Tunisia or other French territory to Italy, thereby disclosing that important anti-collaborationist feeling still exists in Vichy.

War Workers 'Frozen' To Present Jobs

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(P)—A "freezing" of essential workers in critical war industries to their present jobs was decided upon today by the war manpower commission to stop "labor piracy," described as a severe interference with war production.

In this far-reaching move, the United States employment service was made the "sole hiring agency for critical skills in critical areas."

There was no immediate estimate of the number of workers who would be affected, but it was expected to run into hundreds of thousands if not millions.

Change Must Be Approved

A commission spokesman said the action meant that henceforth essential workers would be "unable to change from one war plant to another without approval of the United States employment service."

The policy will become effective, he told newsmen, as soon as the proper directives can be drafted, "which means immediately."

He declined to discuss the possible effects the policy might have on the stabilization of wages in war plants.

"This simply means," he said, "that all employment in critical war plants will be handled exclusively by the United States employment service. Pirating of labor has become acute, especially in the aircraft industry. The pirating usually is done by a plant offering more money to a worker in another plant. This practice, the commission has found, causes instability and slows down production."

5 More Ships Destroyed By Axis U-Boats

By The Associated Press

Axis torpedoes destroyed five more merchant vessels in Atlantic waters, reports yesterday disclosed, while Brazilian sources declared that in addition to two submarines sunk recently another U-boat had surrendered to Allied forces in the struggle at sea.

At least 21 seamen lost their lives and 36 persons were missing in the latest ship sinkings. The vessels destroyed included a medium-sized U. S. merchant ship, a Greek freighter, a New England fishing vessel, a medium-sized British merchantman and a Dutch freighter.

Gunner Goes Down With Ship

Woodrow Wilson Harrison, of Augusta, Ga., a naval gunner, went down with the U. S. merchant vessel, which was sunk in the Gulf of Mexico with a loss of 20 seamen. Twenty-two of the crew surviving Harrison kept his guns blazing until his ship went under completely.

Nineteen other crewmen were sucked beneath the water when the sinking ship struck their lifeboat. The remainder of the crew was picked up 28 hours later by rescue craft.

The Greek cargo vessel was torpedoed in the north Atlantic, sinking three hours later. All 31 of the crew were rescued.

The Dutch freighter Flora was attacked in the Caribbean, dispatches from Willemstad, Curacao reported, although details were not disclosed.

Shell Fishing Vessel

The fishing vessel was sunk by an enemy U-boat as the trawler was proceeding to fishing banks off the Atlantic coast. Nearly an hour of continuous shelling finally sank the 200-ton craft.

Survivors were contemptuous of the submarine marksmanship, saying that almost half of the shells—some fired at point-blank range—failed to hit the ship.

Only one of the 21-man crew was lost. Survivors of the British merchantman were brought to Boston.

Their ship was one of four torpedoed in a west-bound convoy the night of May 12, the survivors said on arrival here. They reported that at dusk the next day their rescue ship attacked with shells and depth charges two submarines found on the surface recharging batteries, but would not say whether the submarines had been sunk.

Corp. Oswald Black, 36, of the Royal Marines, told of seeing rocket flares as ship after ship in the convoy was attacked. (The fate of the other three ships has not been officially disclosed.)

36 Persons Missing

Of the 72 crewmen and 10 passengers aboard the British vessel, 46 reached port. The survivors expressed confidence, however, that the 36 missing persons had been picked up.

Meanwhile the Brazilian freighter Commandante Lyra was reported still burning at the port to which it had been towed by a U. S. warship after it had been abandoned at sea. The Commandante Lyra, the seventh Brazilian ship attacked by the Axis, was torpedoed by a submarine May 18.

Major Desert Offensive Under Way?

By Edward Kennedy

CAIRO, Egypt, May 27.—(P)—Strong Axis tank columns thrown forward in an effort to flank the southernmost point of the British Libyan triangle based on Tobruk and Ain El Gazala were engaged tonight by British armored forces in action so heavy as to indicate that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel may have opened a major offensive.

The first indication that Rommel was again on the march eastward, unfavorable though the season is for broad operations because of the intense heat, was given in the regular communique of the British imperial command which noted that his forces, "including tanks in some strength," were advancing.

Details of Fighting Unavailable

Then, in a subsequent special communique, British GHQ thus disclosed that the fiercest action in some weeks had quickly developed:

"During the night a large enemy armored force advanced from the west to the south of our positions from Bir Hachem (which lies southeast of coastal Ain El Gazala and southwest of coastal Tobruk). Early this morning the enemy was being engaged by our armored forces. No details of the fighting are yet available."

From other sources, however, it was learned that a fierce battle was raging along a line running south from Ain El Gazala.

"The Nazis struck first at British positions near the Bir Hachem waterhole about 50 miles below the coast, their tanks being met by heavy fire from British armored vehicles and anti-tank guns."

Rommel's forces were so disposed that he might thrust either northward or southward, in the kind of running warfare illustrated by last winter's campaign.

RAF Pounds Airdromes

German air strength, which did not appear to have been greatly reinforced of late, seemed to be about 100 per cent concentrated on the British forward and rear positions.

The royal air force sprang quickly into the skies to sweep the battle lines, pounded the German airdromes at Triml and Maruba and attacked the German supply lines moving up to the front.

In the first phases of this action, at least three German Junkers planes were shot down.

Avila Camacho's Address On Air This Afternoon

NBC's international division also is offering the president's talk to all Latin American stations, and rebroadcasts will be made to Latin American stations by shortwave tomorrow night.

Gas Situation Inquiry Asked by Indiana Solons

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(P)—Republican members of Congress from Indiana urged today "a careful and exhaustive investigation" before gasoline rationing is put into effect in the middle west.

Senator Willis and Representatives Halleck, Grant, Gillie, Harness, Johnson, Landis, Wilson and Springer, who said they were "swamped with expressions of extreme criticism" because of reports of the extension of the fuel rationing, held a conference on the subject.

Asserting they did not dispute that there was a shortage of rubber and that tires should be conserved, they added in a statement:

"That many people doubt the sufficiency of this reason for extension of gasoline rationing cannot be denied. Many are already contending that the present use of tires in this area has been decreased to such an extent that any further rationing would be absolutely unnecessary."

"It is clear to us that any rationing of gasoline in the middle west which is undertaken just for the purpose of disciplining the people, or making our people give up such a vital necessity as gasoline just because 'miserly loves company,' would be a great mistake, possibly a fatal and tragic mistake. As a matter of fact, it may well be that before we get through, the people of the middle west will not have to be rationed in the east or far west because they are plentiful there but scarce in our section."

Although the outlook remains clouded, tourist and resort officials attending a meeting of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association last week were hopeful that rationing of gasoline may be deferred until fall.

George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, who attended the conference at which numerous high-ranking Federal and state officials were present, said yesterday that "a deferment of gas rationing for the central states would mean millions of dollars this summer for the people of Michigan."

Cancelled on Coast

"Since our coasting," he said, "rationing on the Pacific coast has been cancelled. Hence, I am personally hoping and feeling that no rationing will come to us at least before fall. Of course, if it must come in order to give the nation strength for the conflict that we are in, we are all for it."

The attitude of the state's tourist and resort business toward gas rationing was embodied in the following resolution passed at the conference:

Resolution

"In a time of national peril the first duty of every citizen is to make every sacrifice that is necessary for the preservation of the nation and the liberties we hold so dear.

"With firm faith in the justice of our cause, we cheerfully pledge our utmost loyalty and devotion to the maintenance of our form of government, and the American way of life.

"The strength of a Democracy lies in the voluntary cooperation of its citizenship. Such cooperation must essentially be based upon a sound understanding by the average citizen of the objects to be achieved by the curtailment of personal liberties, the rationing of the essentials of life, and other forms of regulation.

"We urge, therefore, that Government in the prosecution of its plan take the public into full confidence insofar as military exigencies permit.

"The tourist industry of Michigan is particularly concerned with the threat of gasoline rationing in the Midwest. The industry is the second largest in Michigan, with an estimated total annual volume in normal times exceeding 400,000,000.

"It is the main dependence for livelihood of the majority of people living in that portion of the state north of the Muskegon-Bay City Line.

"The proposed stringent regulation cited in the public press will virtually eliminate two-thirds to three-fourths of this business. It will mean ruin to many small business men in Western and Northern Michigan.

Gas Levels

Midwest stocks of gasoline are at record levels, that Michigan and neighboring states are large producers of gasoline. A substantial part of mid-continent production is refined and marketed in the Chicago-Detroit-Toledo area. It is difficult therefore for the people of this state to understand why the rigid restrictions imposed on the east-nearboard states should be extended to this region of plenty, where as high as 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline were recently burned because of lack of storage capacity.

"We firmly believe that the public has been thoroughly educated to the need for conservation of tires. Vacations this year will be carefully planned and budgeted. Residents of our major cities—many of them defense workers giving long hours and seven days a week to the production of war material—will find brief periods of relief and relaxation in Michigan woods and on Michigan lakes. I enable them to maintain normal productivity in the hop during months to come.

"Long drives of several thousand miles might properly be planned. But certainly excursions from our major cities into the abating resort territory, enabling city dwellers to get the benefit of sunshine and cooling breezes, would increase their physical endurance and promote rather than retard the war effort.

"We respectfully point out that the threatened extinction of a business of this magnitude will seriously reduce the national income and the ability of the small business man and his employees to buy bonds, pay income taxes, and otherwise contribute to the financial support of his Government.

Retail Volume Hit

"The rationing program has already made severe inroads on retail volume. A national income of $110,000,000,000, as estimated by our economists, is impossible of attainment if the velocity of the dollar is to be reduced not only by the rationing of consumer goods, but by the elimination of vacations as well.

"In fact, vacations today are the one way in which the average workman can profitably spend his surplus income with benefit to his physical self without reducing stocks of goods and commodities and raw materials essential to the war effort.

"We respectfully urge, therefore, that the entire question of gasoline rationing in the Midwest be re-evaluated by those in authority, and that a reasonable solution be found which will permit the defense worker, as well as those engaged in essential civilian activities, to enjoy the vacation that will so desperately be needed—as England's experience has shown—to maintain shop productivity and national morale.

"Resolved, therefore, that the Honorable Murray D. Van Wagoner, governor of Michigan, together with Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg and Prentiss M. Brown, and the several Congressmen of this state, be and are hereby requested to present the facts embodied in this resolution to the appropriate Federal authorities with the request that gasoline rationing in the Great Lakes region be either deferred until the close of the vacation season, or that suitable provision be made to provide defense

News Bits About Marquette County Young Men in Armed Forces

(Editor's Note—We are glad you like this column and hope you will continue to share with friends and neighbors your justifiable pride in your young man's accomplishments in the Army, Navy, Marines or Coast Guard by telephoning the Service Editor, 150, or sending him a penny post card. If you live in Ishpeming, telephone Ishpeming 3. Negaunee residents may report service items by calling Negaunee 404.)

Another Marquette young man on the way toward becoming an officer in the U. S. Army is Sgt. Philip Bahman, son of Mrs. Ruth Bahman, 322 West Michigan street, who has been admitted as an officer candidate to the Air Forces officer candidate school in Miami Beach, Fla.

After successfully completing a 12-week course, Bahman will be commissioned a second lieutenant. The course includes a study of administrative, personnel and supply duties. Upon graduation, officers will be assigned to duty in one of these departments in the air forces, thus relieving trained pilots from such duties and permitting them to devote their full time to flying.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kintgen, of Champion, have received a picture and letter from their son, Garfield, who is on duty with the U. S. Marines at a tent camp in New River, N. C. He enlisted in January and after completing his boot training at San Diego, Calif., he attended a telephone field school for six weeks and was graduated second best in the class. It was because of his splendid record that he was transferred to the North Carolina camp for special training.

Of all the country he has seen since enlisting in the Marines, Garfield says none of it compares with Michigan's Upper Peninsula. Mr. and Mrs. Kintgen also have a nephew in the Army and another nephew in the Marines, which covers the front pretty well.

Among other things Sgt. Donald Duquette, of Negaunee, likes about Northern Ireland is the fact that a haircut and a shave cost 15 and eight cents, respectively. Things about Ulster which impress him are the lack of central heating systems (fireplace in nearly every room), the way the Irish talk, beautiful flowers, and the letters and packages containing gum and candy he receives from his mother, Mrs. George Duquette, 608 Bluff street, Negaunee. He says it takes a trip "across the pond" to make one really appreciate America.

Lieut. George A. Sweder, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sweder, 1036 Pine street, Marquette, is with the U. S. Armed forces in Australia.

Leonard Koski informs the Service Editor that he has received a card from Pvt. Reino Skytta, of Michigan, reporting his safe arrival in Iceland. He says the Army's plenty okeh with him.

Two brothers who are going to fight this war together are John "Yulke" and Einar "Ans" Wainio, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Wainio, 239 Mather street, Marquette.

They were members of the last contingent to leave Marquette and are now stationed with Company C, 20th engineers training battalion, at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., where they have begun an eight-to-12-week basic training course. "The Army's good; there's lots of it, and we like the Army," the Wainios write.

Ted Bernard, 1303 North Third street, Marquette, who is stationed at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., is playing the bass fiddle in the camp band and recently appeared on the popular Camp Grant musical program over WENR.

Dick Kelly, of Marquette, now Pvt. R. J. Kelly, of Hill Field, Ogden, Utah, has a hobby that is standing him in good stead in the Army. Ever since they found out he had experience in projecting motion pictures, they've had him on the job. He's projected 12 full-length Army films to date, he says in a letter home.

Kelly and Martie Kiva, Marquette representatives at the camp, are enjoying Army life very much. They recently visited Salt Lake City and made a tour of the Mormon Tabernacle, Mormon Temple, Utah state capital and other spots of interest. Fellows are being shipped out of Hill Field practically every day to Army schools, he said. Some to Los Angeles, Dallas, Denver, Chicago and Minneapolis.

"The clippings of the Service Column are wonderful," Dick said. "I read them over and over again,

Kennedy said that as a result of conversations in Chicago with Office of Price Administration officials, "I have hopes the rationing program will be held up and that rationing when it does come will be liberalized."

The commissioner said he felt the Federal Government should place more emphasis on tire conservation and increasing staggered use of buses and street cars.

"We need teeth in that program," he asserted. "Organized labor and plant management can do it together. They can put it across if they bend their efforts to the same goal."

Harland DuRooy, seaman, first class, of Gladstone, visited at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coolman, 413 Albert street, Marquette, recently. Harland has been in the Navy two years and likes it. He's traveled considerably since joining the service and is now on the high seas.

Pvt. Earl Norman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aime Norman, 1739 Presque Isle avenue, Marquette, is at the Marine training base in San Diego. He writes his parents that he is just about through with "boot" camp. Says he has learned plenty about the handling of firearms and that he never knew a gun had so many parts. After enlisting in March, Earl went to Milwaukee and then to San Diego. He is a graduate of Gravenet high school and was outstanding in athletics. Earl says he met a few Marquette lads at the base.

Pvt. Alden Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Peterson, 505 Summit street, Marquette, entered the service last February 10. After going to Fort Sheridan he was transferred to Camp Robinson, Ark., where he spent 10 weeks. From there he went to Selfridge Field and then to his present location, Paterson Field, Ohio. He is with a chemical warfare unit. A couple of weeks ago

On and after June 1 the fee will be $4 for females and $2 for males. All dogs caught running loose without permits will be disposed of, Christensen said.

Flight Of A Nazi Spy

(May 28, 1942)

In the summer of 1941, the FBI net was drawing in on Kurt Frederick Ludwig, Gestapo agent and key man of the Nazi spy ring, whose leaders were convicted in Federal court in New York City in March. Ludwig made up his mind to go back to Germany. He would hop in his car and drive to the Pacific coast, where he hoped to catch a boat for Japan and safety.

Not quite alone, for the FBI men were behind him. All the way across the continent they never let him out of their grasp. One agent would follow him a day or two, then pass him on to another. A surprising number of them appeared at the trial. They came from as far away as Seattle and they accounted for every move Ludwig made on his epic flight.

He did his best to outdistance the men who were shadowing him. Sometimes he thought he had succeeded in throwing them off. All one day he might go without seeing again the silent, watchful face which he had caught a glimpse of yesterday in a car behind him, and which he felt sure was that of an FBI agent.

Stressing American Music

(May 28, 1942)

The National Music Camp at Interlochen has announced that the theme of its eight weeks of musical training this summer will be the steady growth of American artistry and musical achievements.

As part of that program camp authorities reveal that Ferde Grofe will conduct a program of its own works and Howard Hanson and Perry Grainger will be numbered among the summer's guests.

Everyone interested in the future of American music will hail the decision to emphasize the works of our own composers. Year in and year out major musical organizations in the United States perform programs of hackneyed foreign works of no particular merit while studiously avoiding the works of native composers.

To its everlasting credit let it be said that the Grand Rapids Symphony orchestra has for several years found it possible to include regularly the compositions of American musicians.

Other orchestras recently have exhibited commendable courage in programming American works, but in the main they have been those of a mere handful of the better known composers.

The composer occupies a position unique among artists—and unfortunately so. A painter or sculptor can always get his work shown if but to a circle of friends; a writer usually can prevail upon someone to read his latest brain child.

The composer who writes for a group of instruments or voices, however, may wait for years before he can hear what the work sounds like. Critics who chronically deplore the fact that America has yet to produce a Beethoven or Mozart are usually the ones who most violently assail contemporary American music.

For a nation which "consumes" as much music as we do it is little less than inexcusable that we have done so little to encourage our own composers.

It is fitting that Interlochen, the camp which first provided talented high school musicians with the opportunity of studying and living in an atmosphere of music, has set up as a program the encouraging of American music.

The music we have heard of many American composers is fresh and full of the spirit of America; some of it, to be sure, is inept because its composers are still groping for form and content which will express what they feel and therefore what America feels.

It is to be sincerely hoped that the new interest in their music to be noted in various musical centers today is not part of a nationalistic fervor which will lapse with the end of the war but rather the first signs of a growing awareness that American composers have something worth while to say if we will but listen.—Grand Rapids Press.

Men Still in Picture

I mentioned the one thousand women because it seems to me most newsworthy that such an important job is entrusted to such a great extent to volunteer women.

But the men on the rim of the picture are still men. The observers who first sight the planes as they approach our city are mostly members of the American Legion. Without exception, they work without pay.

They arrange for their own transportation and meals, buy their own clothes, and give their time to the gruelling work of searching the sky and reporting every plane they see.

Away out on still another rim there may be men of the military service. About that, I do not know. Listening devices that can do miracles have been paraded through the streets of New York, so I suppose it is no secret that we can find hostile aircraft by ear long before they are visible to the eye.

But that is in the realm of secrecy, and we don't talk too much about it.

Suffice it to say that our chief dependence, so far as we civilians know, still is upon the spotting and reporting system which is the Air Warning Service, intimately tied in with the Interceptor Command, and that this system is manned by American Legion men all along the coasts and by women in stations that are highly specialized.

I visited the observation station in the Empire State Tower. Your gas ration card, National Press membership, police cards from various cities, honorary membership in International Rotary, and other interesting documents,

The federal men were not to be so easily outdone. They had seen him board the bus. Now they took possession of his car and found a short wave, radio receiving set. Then they telegraphed ahead. On August 23 an agent met Ludwig's bus at CleElum, Wash., and placed him under arrest.

Today And Tomorrow

The Navy Department and the Submarines

By Walter Lippmann

CONNECTION with last week's official optimism and the official warnings against optimism the real point at issue is not the morale of the people. It is the conduct of the war.

More specifically, the objection to the official publicity is that it kissed off the most critical weakness in the conduct of the war, which is shipping.

The first White House statement in its emphasis on the production of ships gave assurances which the whole shipping situation does not justify.

The joint Army-Navy report ignored altogether the battle with the submarine. At the end of the week, in conjunction with the warning not to be over-optimistic, the nation was told optimistically that the submarine "problem, like the others confronting us, is being solved."

Whatever we have been the intent, the effect of this train of publicity would, if it is not challenged, be to deflect the attention of Congress and of the press from the shipping problem.

They cannot afford to let themselves be deflected. Public opinion has a part to play in the solution of general principles left. For the solution of that problem depends upon overcoming inertia in high places and upon reinforcing the men within the services and the Government departments who are fighting an uphill fight against place-holders, bureaucrats, vested interests and inadequacy.

The struggle for greater efficiency is troublesome and disagreeable, because it cannot be argued out on the level of general principles and impersonal data. It turns on men in key positions, and therefore, no matter how restrained the criticism, it causes pain to men who have worked hard, and loyally, and well—and whose only fault may be that they have grown old and tired, or are not equal to an unprecedented situation.

In a perfect world they would recognize their own limitations, would delegate their authority, or would retire; or their superiors would recognize their limitations and translate them quickly and honorably to other posts. In fact, this does happen fairly often. But it does not always happen, and in many, many instances it does not happen until there is a disagreeable row and enough outside pressure to force a change. It is too bad. For in the course of these rows reputations are damaged and feelings are hurt and friendships are broken up. But that is the way things are, and at times that is the only way in which necessary things are done.

It is plain that neither Congress, nor the press, nor the general public can let the Navy Department and the shipping authorities how to solve the shipping problem. All they can do is to hold the responsible officials responsible for his results and bring pressure to bear where the organization of the personnel appear, after inquiry, to be inadequate.

Pressure will, I believe, have to be brought upon the Navy Department if the campaign against the submarine is to be waged successfully.

For the conduct of this particular campaign, which we must distinguish sharply from operations of the Navy in the Pacific and in the North Atlantic and elsewhere, the Navy Department is subject to criticism on several counts.

Not Enough Escorts. There is first of all the fact that the Navy does not yet have enough escort vessels to protect shipping on the east coast and in the Caribbean. This shortage may be due in part to errors of professional judgment in regard to specifications before we entered the war, in part to delays and disappointments in some phases of production. But it is due also, there is reason to think, to the fact that the Navy does not have in charge of ship construction a man who is a master of the art of mass production.

Eighth Grade Exercises At College Friday

The twenty-sixth annual Marquette county eighth-grade commencement and 4-H club achievement day exercises will be held at the Northern Michigan College of Education tomorrow, Stanley R. Williams, county school commissioner, announced yesterday.

Eight-grade graduates, 4-H club members and their parents and friends are asked to be at the college auditorium at 9:30 a. m., at which time the program will open. The commencement address will be given by George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau.

The style show review practice will be held from 9:30 to 10 a. m. in the auditorium, and after a short program of group singing the review will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Ruby Richey. Four-H girls will be in the review.

Citizenship Ceremonial

The North Lake 4-H club will give a flag demonstration from 10:45 to 11, and this will be followed by a citizenship ceremonial, presented by the West Ishpeming 4-H organization.

Mr. Bishop will speak at 11:15, after which the diplomas and awards will be presented by Mr. Williams, and the announcement of 4-H honor girls and boys will be made by Clara A. Rood, of Marquette, assistant state 4-H club leader.

Lunch will be served in the college gymnasium under the usual plan. Pupils will bring their own lunches, and the county will provide refreshments. After lunch, graduates and 4-H members will parade through the downtown district, led by the Graveraet high school band.

The day's program will end with attendance at a motion picture matinee at the Delft theater. Graduates, 4-H members and their parents will be guests of the theater management.

Relief Load Decline May Be Halted Soon

LANSING, May 27—P—Michigan's direct relief load continues to dwindle, but the drop soon may be halted by applications from workers left idle by industrial conversion to war production who no longer are receiving unemployment compensation, John D. O'Connell, state social welfare director, said today.

Announcing the state load had decreased 394 cases to 28,449 during the past week, O'Connell said "an appreciable number" of jobless persons whose 20-week com-

State Ferries At Straits On New Schedule

LANSING, May 27—P—State ferry service across the Straits of Mackinac today was expanded to the normal hourly summer schedule by the highway department.

Boats will leave Mackinac City at 5 a. m., and once each hour until 11 p. m., with a special crossing at 2 a. m. An hourly schedule, from 5:30 a. m. until 9:30 p. m., is set for ferries leaving St. Ignace, with other crossings at 11:30 p. m., 12:30 a. m., and 3:30 a. m.

The schedule is on Eastern War time and will continue until September 9 with three boats in regular operation and two others ready for service in event of traffic congestion, the department said.

penation eligibility had ended was expected to seek direct relief within a few weeks.

Last week's case load drop was equalized throughout the state, indicating that employable relief clients are being absorbed by labor-shy farmers as well as defense industries, O'Connell said.

Verdict For Plaintiff

BESSEMER, May 27—A verdict of $3,500 was returned by a circuit court jury in favor of James Hayden, of Thellier's camp, northeast of Wakefield, in his accident case against the Black and White Taxi company, of Ironwood. Anton Sidleski is the company operator. The personal injury lawsuit resulted from a four car accident on US-2 near Grand View hospital on January 11, 1942.

150 Tons of Scrap Steel

IRON MOUNTAIN, May 27—About 150 tons of steel—the Hamilton mine head-frame and a landmark in Iron Mountain since it replaced a wooden frame in 1912—crashed to earth Tuesday afternoon. Bringing the huge shaft to the ground is the first step in converting the frame into scrap iron for war production. The steel will be cut into five-foot lengths before shipment to the Ford steel mills at River Rouge. The head-frame was purchased by the water department after work at the mine was discontinued. Water department commissioners sold the frame to the Ford Motor company for scrap metal.

High School Principal Resigns

MENOMINEE, May 27—J. Edward Pearce, Powers-Spalding high school principal for the past five years, has resigned, effective at the close of the school year, May 29. His plans for the future are indefinite. Mr. Pearce went to the Powers Spalding school system six years ago from Faithorn township, where he had held the position of township superintendent. After serving one year in the Powers-Spalding high school as social science teacher he was promoted to principalship. Mr. Pearce is a graduate of Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette, with a social science major and an A. B. degree and has done graduate work at the University of Michigan. At college he was prominent in athletics and fraternal organizations.

Draft Board Cites Ruling On Deferment

The text of a Presidential decision in which an appeal for deferment on several grounds was denied has been released by an Upper Peninsula draft board because it involves factors on which draft boards repeatedly are called upon to rule in deciding whether a registrant should be placed in 1-A or kept in 3-A, 2-A or 2-B.

The ruling affirmed the action of the draft board and the board of appeal in placing the man in 1-A and available for military service. The case involves such factors as dependency of a wife and unborn child and a request for occupational deferment.

Text Of Decision

The decision, made by authority of the President, follows:

"The registrant, who is 23 years old, stated in his questionnaire executed May 15, 1941, that he was single and employed, earning $45 a week; that he also worked on a farm for board and room . . . On Sept. 30, 1941, the local draft board placed the registrant in class 1-A.

"At a hearing Oct. 7, 1941, the registrant requested deferred classification, stating that he had bought a farm containing 80 acres, on Aug. 8, 1941. The registrant's classification file contained a certificate of marriage dated Oct. 25, 1941, and on the same date a statement was made that the registrant's wife had worked before her marriage, but had been totally dependent upon her husband since that time. On Nov. 18, 1941, (before the declaration of war) the registrant was reclassified in class 3-A . . . but on March 3, 1942, (after the declaration of war) he was again reclassified in class 1-A.

Doctor's Statement

"The registrant appealed to the board of appeal March 5, 1942. On March 7, a local doctor submitted a statement that the registrant's wife was three months pregnant. On March 13, the board of appeal continued the registrant in class 1-A by a unanimous vote, and on March 26, the registrant filed a claim for occupational deferment, listing his crops and stock and stating that because of the shortage of farm labor the farm could not operate if he were inducted. On April 2, the registrant appealed to the President, and the Government appeal agent issued a certificate of hardship.

The conclusions reached were:

"The evidence in this case is convincing that the registrant voluntarily acquired a status with respect to dependency of his wife and unborn child at a time when his selection was imminent. Under a restatement of national policy as enunciated in memorandum to all state directors dated April 22, 1942, the registrant does not qualify for deferment on grounds of dependency. The evidence is not convincing that the registrant is a necessary man."

The decision was:

"Based on the facts of the record the action of the board of appeal placing the registrant in class 1-A is affirmed."

Michigan's 349 State Banks in Good Condition

LANSING, May 27—A survey of Michigan's 349 state banks reveals they "never were in stronger position to meet governmental needs," State Banking Commissioner Maurice Eveland said today.

He said total assets of state banks are $40,000,000 in excess of those a year ago and that their liquidity is "the highest in many years."

Eveland pointed out, however, that bank deposits and total assets, following a national trend, have shown a seasonal decline of $12,000,000 each, due mainly to withdrawals to invest in war bonds and pay off bank loans.

At the close of business April 4, the 349 state banks had total assets of $97,473,636, while deposits total $89,483,343, Eveland said.

U. P. Counties Exceed War Garden Quota

LANSING, May 27—P—George W. Tomlinson, director of Michigan's victory garden program, reported today that at least 25,000 war gardens are expected to be registered in the Upper Peninsula, with every county pledging more than its quota.

Returning from an inspection tour of principal Upper Peninsula cities, Tomlinson said that section of the state was "enthusiastically backing the victory garden program" and that in several instances, gardens pledged for a single city virtually filled the county quota.

He said Newberry pledged 1,200 gardens, while Lake Linden was expected to register 800. In Dickinson county, he said, Boy Scouts are making a house-to-house canvass to create garden interest.

Tomlinson said Michigan's total number of victory gardens already has exceeded an expected registration of 100,000.

McKay Council Motions To Be Heard June 22

DETROIT, May 27—P—Hearing on defense motions to dismiss two mail fraud indictments against Republican National Committeeman Frank D. McKay today was set for June 22 in Louisville, Ky., by Federal Judge Shackelford Miller, Jr.

Judge Miller, who presided at the $500,000 liquor graft retrial ending yesterday with acquittal of McKay and seven co-defendants, also will hear arguments on the dismissal motions. His home is in Louisville.

Both Government and defense attorneys agreed on the date and place of the arguments at a preliminary hearing today.

The remaining indictments accuse McKay of a scheme to defraud Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, of $9,918 and of using the mails in an attempt to defraud the city of Grand Rapids of $2,225,000 in financing a water-works bond issue.

'Bottleneck' On Peace Rumors Really Needed

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

Well, seeing that May 23 is past doubtless a great many persons, hitherto not fully convinced that such effort was necessary, will set-to-down to the business of winning this war.

Those folk gave an interesting demonstration of the effect of certain kinds of mob psychology.

Swallowed It Whole

In a recent issue of a magazine, the writer quoted something to the effect that, according to an old prophecy, Hitler was to topple on May 23. And, by gracious, you know a considerable number of persons were so completely sold on the idea, were doing such a lot of wishful thinking, that from merely saying the author had quoted a prophecy, they were convinced that the Russian front!

Came Sunday with some few loyal souls holding to the thought that a day off in the date of Hitler's toppling could not be considered very far off the reckoning.

Undoubtedly a considerable number of folk listened for some critical announcement of Hitler's waning power to be broadcast over the radio. Nothing doing! So about now, that cheering bit of forecasting has gone the way of rumors of other days.

It Isn't First Time

Possibly you remember, or have heard about, the rumor which declared the world would end on a certain date. Folk gathered to sing and pray. There was much excitement.

One woman recently told me that when she was a child in school, the youngsters had discussed that rumor, probably scared as children are wondering if, at the end of the world, they would go to heaven or hell. And during the morning, the sky clouded over and the day became quite dark. The youngsters walked their eyes at each other and when a milk cart went rattling by making considerable noise, one girl jumped up and, standing in the aisle, screamed hysterically.

Some of us seem destined to be gullible and apprehensive. Our personalities seem to be such that we have mental antennae, invisible but active, fluttering in the breeze picking up every least whisper of a rumor.

Always given to doing much talking, the Americans have a regular field day when there is a national emergency. I'm all for talking, for discussion, for gathering up authentic news, but it would be marvelous if there were some way of releasing the "bottleneck" on transportation and establishing a bottleneck on peace rumors.

"They" Say

A man, not likely to be called in the draft, says he would enlist: "Only it doesn't seem worthwhile to disrupt my way of living and my business, because they say the war will be over before I could finish my training."

A woman decides not to take a First Aid course, or the training in Home Nursing, because: "They" say we'll never need to put such training into effect. The war will end next summer "they" say.

Young folk who feel that they should be taking part in the war effort but are not sure, comment: "Well, they say the war will end this summer."

Phoo! The ubiquitous "they" and, since one after another of those anonymously sired rumors have been proved in time to have no foundation, it seems high time that we move skeptically and slowly in even thinking, momentarily, that the war may end abruptly and in the near future.

We can concede that when it does end, it may come as something of a spectacular and wholly unexpected surprise as did the Armistice in World War I. We can con-

Five Meetings To Be Held In Graveraet High

A series of civilian defense classes, such as were recently completed at the meetings held in the Howard junior high school, will repeat the same course of basic instruction, beginning Monday.

The classes will meet at 7:15 Monday night in the Graveraet high school auditorium and on the succeeding Monday nights: June 8, 15, 22 and 29.

This series is offered for those who were unable to take the previous instruction in general subjects of basic civilian defense, and also for the purpose of affording an opportunity for those who had to miss one or two meetings of the series, to make up the work not done.

Qualify For Certificates

Those who missed previous meetings, are asked to attend, in the present series, the classes from which their cards have been properly dated and signed, the holders will be eligible to receive their certificates.

It is urged that those who did not attend the previous series make a special effort to be present at these meetings and become fully informed about the courses which all civilians should recognize as necessary protective measures.

All who signed for civilian defense protective services must take such a basic course as this one. That includes persons who signed for work as air raid wardens, emergency medical workers, auxiliary police and auxiliary fire, public works and utilities divisions.

Those who registered for such, and have not had the basic course training, are requested to report for the series beginning Monday night.

KITCHEN AWNING

An unusual effect can be achieved by simulating an awning for the kitchen window. It's easily done with a bold striped fabric cornice drawn straight across the top. Scallop the edges and, with the binder attachment to your sewing machine, finish with contrasting bias tape. If you've never used these special attachments, do ask your local sewing center to show you their shortcuts.

hall. There will be a program and at the conclusion cards will be played. Mrs. May Milner and Mrs. Emma Carey are the chairmen of the committee of arrangements.

Annual Luncheon—The Marquette Women's club will hold its annual luncheon at 1 Wednesday afternoon, June 3, in the Guild hall. Each guest has the privilege of inviting a guest. Members of the house committee are telephoning all club members it is possible to reach, but if the committee does not succeed in contacting all, such members are asked to telephone any member of the house committee promptly.

Concert Tonight—The public is invited to attend the annual concert of the John D. Pierce training school which will be given at 7:30 tonight in the auditorium of the Northern State Teachers college. The admission charge is a nominal one. Dr. Roy A. Williams is director, and Miss Margaret Rarick, instructor, in the music department. The program will include vocal and instrumental ensembles, selections by a cornet group and a clarinet trio, a cornet duet, and a violin ensemble, and a violin solo. The student directors are Miss Hinda Cunningham, Miss Ruth Laux, Miss Dorothy Lindstrom and Joseph Parker, with John DeVoe as an assistant student director.

Rev. D. A. Lord Takes Rap At 'Lost Generation' Parents Who Muddle Youth's Thinking

"Liberty never descends to a people, people rise to liberty" quoted the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, commenting on the inscription in the government house at Delhi, in the interesting and stimulating talk he gave Tuesday night in the Louis G. Kaufman auditorium as the closing number on the Christian Culture Forum series, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

In his talk devoted to the young people and the war, he stressed the thought that "democracy is the most splendid form of government because it is the hardest."

He reminded the audience that the young people of today are the children of those of the so-called "Lost Generation" after World War I; that they are to live "in probably the toughest period in history and they are a lonely brood."

Will Change Tactics

The Rev. Lord says that the youth of today will, in the future, probably be the strictest parents who ever lived for they will not let their youngsters get away with the things the present parents have allowed their children to do.

The speaker apologized for and regretted the things done by adults in complicity and belatedly the thinking of youth of today.

Reminding that he had lived to see three wars, the Spanish American War which the country took lightly and won; World War I, and this war. He says this war is unique in the history of American wars since it has resulted in no distinctive songs.

Father Lord reminded that among songs of the American Revolution was "Yankee Doodle," that the tilt with the pirates off the Barbary coast resulted in "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean"; the war of 1812, "The Star Spangled Banner"; the Civil War, "Dixie," "Tramp, Tramp," "Johnny Comes Marching Home Again"; the Spanish American War (our first one after 100 years of peace), "The Blue and the Gray," "Just Break the News to Mother," "Just as Sun Went Down" and "Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Has Brought No Song

"We have had many songs, among them, 'Over There,' 'Long, Long Trail Awaiting' and 'K-k-katie,' but that the present conflict has not brought forth a distinctive, worthy song. He disliked 'Remember Pearl Harbor' and 'There'll Always Be An England' because of the defeatist element in them.

"What is the matter?" he queried and reminding, that youth and music go hand in hand, declared that the reason we have not had a good song in America in this war is because the young people have not a lot of spirit for the war.

He blames the "Lost Generation" for that. He says literature that has come out of Europe has been of the defeatist brand, written by men in that earlier war or of that generation; and that the attitude so far in the war has been a defensive one. The lecturer recalled Napoleon's saying that "an army in entrenchments is already licked," and that France's Maginot line of defense was symbolical of the attitude of a people.

Because of the futility and danger of the stress on the defeatist note, he objected heatedly to the term "defense bond," holding it poor advertising psychology.

Father Lord says that young people are beginning to find a new spirit, and it is not being expressed as defensive or patriotic, or even of victory, but is expressed in the query: "When do we start?"

Women Urged To Attend Air Raid Warden Classes

Oddly enough a good many women do not yet know that trained women make excellent and dependable air raid wardens. At least 60 women are needed to serve as area air raid wardens in civilian defense, yet men have far outnumbered women in attendance at previous air raid classes.

It is urged that women, as well as men, attend the class to be held at 7:15 tonight in the Howard school. Five hours of instruction will be given at two meetings which form the course.

All women who signed up for emergency feeding and housing should attend the meeting tonight.

Persons who signed up for civilian defense and have completed first air and basic defense courses, plus the course such as that which begins tonight for fire wardens, will receive a civilian defense certificate, first class, and in time will also be given the distinctive arm band, helmet and gas mask.

Town Girls Show They Can Stand Hard Farm Life

LONDON, May 27 — (Wide World)—The farmer—one of many who has been told that despite staggering labor problems the land must produce as never before—looked at the new recruit with dismay.

She was made up and dolled up, fit for London's west end but not, in the farmer's eye, for the country. It didn't help matters when she said she had been working in beauty shops.

This was the earth, and only the most dogged kind of work could make it sufficiently fruitful. Yet the farmer, beset by worries, was asked to take a girl fresh from the charm-salons.

Although pardonable sarcasms died on his lips, out of what probably struck him as sheer futility, the farmer could not shake off gloomy ideas. Now he employs an ineptitude would cost him dearly.

Doubly decisive, therefore, was the girl's triumph when she proved that superficial appearances had prompted the farmer to underrate her potentialities.

She did her work well, with ready adaptability, resourcefulness, and unlooked-for stamina. Publicly, and with enthusiasm, her employer made amends. Now he frets lest he lose her services.

What the farmer did not know, at first, was that most of the more than 25,000 girls—and many of the best—in the Women's Land Army come from London and the large industrial towns of the provinces.

Adjustment Comes Swiftly
The girls usually show up at the farms inappropriately dressed and shod, wearing velvet, bright shoes with high heels and fancy things which have no place in the average farm woman's wardrobe.

The first hours are dreary. The girls pick at their food with distaste. The quietness bears down upon them. Loneliness claws at them.

Invariably, however, the morning brings salutary changes. Up at 5:30, the fledgling land girl washes in cold water, then goes out to milk the cows. She has breakfast at 8. From 8:30 until 4 p. m., with only a half hour's break for lunch, she works in the fields. After a 20-minute tea-time breather, she goes a-milking again. The cow barn and the dairy then have to be cleaned.

Small wonder that adjustment comes swiftly. For by the end of the day the girls are ravenous for whatever food is served, and fatigue routs broodiness.

"Toil, sweat and mud, but no tears"—so runs a land army catch-phrase. The beginners get the idea quickly. For the fight in the fields, the girls feel that they must be as tough as commandos, as devoted to duty as the fighting boys.

The army of the productive acres has enrolled shop girls, dress-makers, teachers, librarians, laundresses, manicurists, beauty shop operators, stenographers, teletype operators, newspaperwomen and actresses.

Unexpected kinds of superiority among them have been reported to land army headquarters. In the north country, for example, it has been found that hair-dressers made the best land girls, because experts reasoned, they were used to being on their feet a great deal of the time.

See Post-War Advantage
That most of the girls are town-bred is viewed officially with satisfaction.

"One of the hopeful signs of the times," said a representative of the ministry of agriculture, "is that these girls, after the war, will influence the public in behalf of agriculture. We need a greater awareness of the national importance of more scientific farming. The girls can help to develop it."

A considerable number of them have married farmers and are settling down to a lifetime in the country.

Doubts and prejudices plagued the land army at the beginning. It was thought in many quarters that women could not be used on a large scale in farming. Farmers argued that girls couldn't do heavy work, that they wouldn't be reliable, that they would be thinking about the urban fun they would be missing.

Such judgments were disproved. The girls have matched the men in most farm tasks, and have shown superiority in some. At the outset, it was thought that they would be employed almost exclusively in milking and dairy work.

Now they are engaged in ditching, hedging, plowing, harrowing, threshing, tree-planting, fencing, manure-hauling, gardening, handling big gasoline drums, care of livestock, thatching and stacking, forestry, millwork and all sorts of mechanical jobs.

This first group of commissioned and non-commissioned officers will be immediately detailed to the training of the first unit of auxil-

Applicants For Women's Army Auxiliary Corps Officers School Visit Recruiting Office Now

Recruiting for the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps' first officer Candidate School began yesterday. The War department announces that the officer recruiting is to be handled exclusively by the regular Army recruiting stations throughout the country. Since recruiting is on a regional basis, no application sent directly to the War department can be given consideration.

Women in this area, who plan to make application for the officer Candidate School, should note that they must apply IN PERSON at the local station in the postoffice building in Marquette and that applications must be made on or before June 4.

For Duration Plus
The term of enrollment will be for the duration of the war and not more than six months thereafter.

Officer candidates must be citizens of the United States, between the ages of 21 and 45. They may be married or single. Applicants must have had at least a high school education, or its equivalent, be in good health, and of excellent character.

Applicants will be selected on the basis of: Leadership, personality, past experience, and general adaptability.

Application blanks may be obtained only by going in person to any of the 40 Regular Army recruiting stations throughout the country. The applications must be filled out and filed by mail, or in person, at the appropriate main recruiting station of which there are 52 throughout the country. Information as to which is the appropriate main recruiting station can be obtained at any recruiting station.

Close Of Recruiting
All applications for the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps Officer Training School must be filed on or before June 4, 1942. After this date there will be no further recruiting for officer candidates as such, and admission to subsequent officer training schools will be only by selection from the ranks of auxiliaries. No auxiliaries will be enrolled until the first officer training course has been completed.

An applicant will be considered as part of the quota of the Corps Area in which she files her application even though her legal address is in a different Corps Area.

Those whose applications are in order will be notified as to when and where to report for a mental alertness test, a physical examination, and an interview. The applications of those who have passed these tests will be sent by the Recruiting Service to the Corps Area Headquarters where they will be reviewed by an Army officer representing the Corps Area Commander, and two women assistants. Of the applicants for enrollment, 120 will be selected for interview and those so selected will receive transportation, and meal tickets when necessary, to and from the Corps Area Headquarters. Each of the nine Corps Area Commanders will recommend 60 of the applicants for enrollment to the War department where the final selections will be made of the approximately 450 candidates to be sent to the first Officer Candidate School at Fort Des Moines, Iowa.

School Opens In July
The School will commence about July 15, 1942, under the direction of Colonel Don C. Faith, GSC. Candidates will receive eight weeks' intensive training in leadership, administration, and military procedure.

While in training, the candidates will receive $50 a month. They will also be furnished uniforms, living quarters, food and hospitalization at Government expense. The candidates who most successfully complete the course will be appointed officers in the Corps with rank determined by their performance at the Training Center. Others whose performance at the Training Center is satisfactory will be appointed to non-commissioned grades from Junior Leader at $24 per month to First Leader at $72 per month according to their record. Those so appointed to non-commissioned grades will be given a certificate of capacity for a commissioned grade, and will be eligible for appointment as officers in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps expatriate. Select trays that are light, large enough and have shallow borders. Arrange them with individual mats and napkins in colors that wash well.

Trays are especially useful in homes where the men work in war industries all night. When they return nearby in the morning, and the other members of the household are bustling about, serve them a nutritionally balanced meal on a tray in a quiet, pleasant part of the house.

Dash of Novelty Adds Zest to Food
The first household responsibility of today's bride is to take a nutrition course, says Mrs. Gaynor Maddox. In these times, the bride must learn to keep her young husband and herself in good health, despite food costs, priorities and taxes. That's the advice of Alta Given, noted home economist.

"When you learn what to feed your husband, next learn how to prepare and serve it attractively," she adds. Miss Given is "stage director" for Hi Williams, the American photographer whose pictures of food have won many art awards. "Remember, even the appetite of the bridegroom must be whetted by pleasant appearing food and accessories," she said.

Eat From Tray in Living Room
"Get two attractive trays, large enough for complete services. Place your hot food on them in the kitchen. Take the trays into the living room and eat in comfort and cheerful surroundings. Use area tables for the trays and on another table have sauces, sugar, coffee, etc."

"If your bridegroom works indoors all day, why don't you take

Small tables repeated the decorative motif and Latin American toys and dolls were arranged on the window sills.

Sam Snead Eliminates Byrd, 4 and 3

By Gayle Talbot

ATLANTIC CITY, May 27—P—Sammy Snead put the crusher on Sammy Byrd more or less as scheduled and Corporal Vic Ghezzi, the defending champion, found his uniform on the ground today in the Professional Golfers' association championship moved through the opening set of 36 hole matches at the Seaview club.

The day was devoid of upsets. Where 32 players teed off in the morning, only 16 remained tonight, and included in the list of survivors were all of the really top contenders. Ghezzi's defeat at the hands of Jimmy Demaree, of Detroit, was not unexpected, as Vic has been too busy in recent months learning the manual of arms to keep his golf game in tune. He went down 4 and 3.

Most of the scant first-day gallery followed the match between Snead and Byrd. Up to the noon hour, the former New York Yankee outfielder made Snead hump. But as they thrashed into the afternoon round Snead's vastly greater tournament experience began to tell and in the end he closed Byrd out decisively, 7 and 6.

Byrd Shows Sub-Par Golf

Byrd, playing in his first PGA title event, shot a 71—only under Seaview's par—in the morning and wrestled par to a draw in the afternoon, but he was no match for the siege gun Snead.

Slammin' Sam, who will be inducted into the Navy shortly after the tournament ends, shot some of the best golf of his big money career. He had a 68 in the morning and a 74 in the afternoon. Snead's score of 74 was five strokes under par for the 36 holes.

Byron Nelson, who has all the other competitors so frightened they expect him to jump out from behind doors, literally toyed with Harry Nettleblatt, of Avon, Conn. He alternately complained of an upset stomach and his drives as he disposed of Harry by a score of 5 and 3. Yet he was four strokes under par for 33 holes.

Ben Hogan, considered the man to beat after Nelson, had a similar easy trip through the first round. The Hershey, Pa., star trimmed Ben Lovin, of Long Meadow, Mass., 7 and 6, shooting an almost identical score with Nelson.

Laffoon in Fine Form

Ky Laffoon, of Miami, Okla., who retired from steady competitive golf several years ago to clip oil coupons, shot the hottest golf of the day in eliminating Vic Bass, of Keokuk, Iowa, 12 and 11. Only twice in PGA history has a player won by so one-sided a margin. Laffoon scored a six-under-par 66 in the morning and was three under par for seven holes in the afternoon.

Harry Cooper, the medalist, lost his touch and went three down to Mike Turnesa in the morning, but the Minneapolis veteran pulled himself together to shoot unbeatable golf after lunch and win out 3 and 1. Craig Wood, the national open champion, had a first-round 68 and didn't get off to a hot start in the afternoon as he subdued Rod Monday, of Toledo, 5 and 4.

Corp. Jim Turnesa proved his great form in the qualifying round was no idle rumor as he bounced E. J. "Dutch" Harrison by 6 and 5. Harold "Jug" McSpaden, disposed of Sam Parks, Jr., the former open champion from Pittsburgh, 7 and 5. Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot artist, ousted Jimmy Thomson, the long driver, 4 and 2.

Mangrum Ours Former Boss

Lloyd Mangrum, who once worked for Dick Metz at Oak Park, Ill., and was—shall we say?—discharged, went very grimly about eliminating his former employer 6 and 5. Tony Penna shot good golf, including a first round 70, to beat Jimmy Hines, of Great Neck, N. Y. Ed Dudley trimmed Denny Shute, twice PGA champion 3 and 2.

Willie Goggin, of White Plains, N. Y., found himself unexpectedly down to Ed Burke, of Hamden, Conn., at noon and came back to win eventually, 2 and 1. Leonard Gibson, of Kansas City, looked like a dangerous competitor in snatching Jimmy Gault, of Longview, Texas, 9 and 8. He was seven under par for 27 holes.

Tom Harmon, of Montclair, N. J., eliminated the host professional, Bruce Cottari, 3 and 2.

Starting at 9:30 (EDT) tomorrow, the second round matches will go off in this order:

Demaret vs. Harmon; Wood vs. Gibson; Snead vs. Goggin; Dudley vs. Penna; Cooper vs. Mangrum; Nelson vs. Kirkwood; Jim Turnesa vs. McSpaden and Hogan vs. Laffoon.

Hughes Now Phils' Tough Luck Hurler

By Ted Meier

PHILADELPHIA, May 27—P—Now that Hugh Mulcahy is in the hot-luck pitcher of the hard-luck Phils.

The right hander has won only one game this season while losing six. At least half the setbacks result from bad breaks. Last year he captured nine and lost 11.

But breaks also plagued "Big Mul," first major league player inducted into the Army.

He always hurled great ball for the Phils, but on most occasions an error or a misjudged fly that fell for a hit cheated him of victory. He lost 12 consecutive games in the latter part of the 1940 campaign, finishing with 13 won and 22 lost.

Can't Win Close Ones

Hughes gave up only two hits in nine innings against the Braves in his first start this season. Unfortunately Danny Murtha slipped while trying to steal home in the ninth and the Phils only tied the score at 1-1. In the 10th the Braves got three singles for a run and a 2 to victory.

Next time out Hughes, an Ashley, Pa., youth, twirled a seven-hitter against the Giants, but lost, 3-0. The Phillies lost their 15th straight game.

Hughes also lost to Brooklyn and Chicago before winning a 4 to 3 game against Boston on May 10. But the jinx returned when he faced the Cubs May 5 and lost a 2 to 1 game because of an error and a misjudged fly. The Reds beat him on May 20 and on May 23 the Braves knocked him out in the ninth to tie the score at 5-5, although the Phils came back to win, 6-5.

Reds Wallop Cubs in Relief Game, 10 to 1

CHICAGO, May 27—P—As the second portion of a doubleheader, played with all receipts going to Army-Navy relief, Cincinnati's Reds this afternoon walloped the Chicago Cubs, 10 to 1, before a crowd of 9,866 which paid $10,455.27.

In the first game, which was played following induction into the Navy of Franklin Barr, 19-year-old Waseka, Ill., youth, the Great Lakes naval training station team defeated Camp Grant's soldiers, 4 to 1.

In the second game, the Reds smashed over seven runs in the fourth inning to knock out Paul Erickson and win easily while Bucky Walters was scoring his fourth triumph of the season with a seven-hit performance.

The Reds made a total of 13 hits, including Gerry Walker's second homer of the season, which came in the fourth and settled the issue. Five other hits rattled off Cincinnati bats in the same inning.

New Yorkers Defeat Phils Under Lights

PHILADELPHIA, May 27—P—Bob Carpenter effectively handcuffed the Phils tonight as the New York Giants lamabated veteran St. Johnson and Tommy Hughes to take a 6-2 decision under the lights.

Although the Phils outbit the Giants, 9-8, the New Yorkers lunched their singles and held the upper hand throughout.

The Giants scored twice in the second when Johnny Mize opened with a single. Babe Barna walked, Harry Danning sacrificed and Mize came home on Bill Jurgens' fly to center. Barna followed him across the plate when Nick Witke hit safely.

In the fifth, Witke, who had forced Jurgens, counted when Al Glossop left Bill Werber's double-play grinder go through him.

They added another in the following inning after Barna walked, went to third on Danning's single and came home on Jurgens' long fly.

Hughes took over the pitching in the eighth, but was pelted by Manager Mel Ott's sharp safety net. Mize followed suit and Barna brought Ott home. Mize scored later while Bobby Bragan was starting a double play on Danning's roller.

The Phils' first tally was largely due to Danny Litwiler, who tripled in the fourth and crossed the plate on Glossop's fly. Singles by Danny Murtha and Nick Etten, plus Litwiler's fly to center, netted the other run in the eighth.

Dodgers Beat Tobin And Braves, 4-1

BOSTON, May 27—P—The Brooklyn Dodgers broke Jim Tobin's handcuffs in the ninth inning today and slapped the veteran righthander for three runs to break a tie and beat the Boston Braves, 4 to 1, before a crowd of 10,285.

This last-inning outburst, powered by singles by Ducky Medwick and Pete Reiser and a booming triple by Mickey Owen, gave Wyatt Wyatt the decision over Tobin, who tossed a seven-hitter.

Wyatt gave up only five hits and the only loss he suffered was one of prestige when Sibby Sisti convinced for his fourth homer of the year in the third inning for the Braves' only run. This marked the first time Boston managed to score on Wyatt in 47 successive innings.

The victory stretched the Dodgers' National League lead to six full games and left the Braves with only a shaky hold on second place.

Herman Clouts His First Homer

Billy Herman started the ball rolling in the first inning by clouting his first homer of the year. Sisti's round-tripper tied it up in the third, and from there through the eighth, Wyatt and Tobin had a lot of fun with the batters.

Opening the ninth, Doll Campille worked Tobin for a walk and Dixie Walker sacrificed him back to second. Medwick scratched a hit back along to four runners on first and third, and Reiser's pinch-single promptly pushed the tie-breaking tally across. Owen then drilled one into right center for three bases to send two unnecessary runs home and give Wyatt his third victory against one defeat for the campaign. For Tobin, it was six losses compared to five wins.

Red Sox Club Newsom For 10-1 Victory

WASHINGTON, May 27—P—Southpaw Oscar Judd led Washington down with six scattered hits as the Boston Red Sox walloped the Senators, 10-1, tonight. The first night game of the season in the capital attracted 17,000 fans.

The Red Sox clubbed Buck Newsom, Washington's starting hurler, for eight hits and as many runs before he was relieved by Alejandro Carrasquel in the sixth.

John Pesky clouted three of Boston's 13 blows and scored a pair of runs. Judd contributed to his own cause with two hits and three scores.

Judd was invincible until the fifth, when Jimmy Vernon smacked out Washington's first hit, a single to right. The Senators' lone run came in the ninth on Bobby Estelle's double, Al Evans' single and Joe Cronin's error.

Judd teed off on Newsom for two runs in the first, added a pair in the fifth, chalked up four in the sixth and pushed over two in the eighth. Ted Williams and Bill Conroy each contributed two hits for Boston.

BY WHITNEY MARTIN
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, May 27—Last Sept. 11, a battered, bewildered and slightly panicky bunch of Brooklyn Dodgers rolled into St. Louis for a three-game series with the tenacious Cardinals.

The Brooklyn fans had just dropped a doubleheader to the Chicago Cubs, and the defeats had sliced the Dodger lead to one slim game. And a one-game lead at that stage of a race is nothing to lean back and coast on.

The Dodgers just had to win that first one from the Cards. If they didn't the panic would be on in earnest. A Card victory would deadlock the two teams, and would give the St. Louis club a lift that might carry it along to the pennant.

Yes sir, the Dodgers just had to win that one, and Leo Durocher knew it. And he also knew the guy who could do it for them if anybody could. He knew one man who could get out there and pitch baseball even if the rest of them fell apart like aphony alibi.

He Inspires Confidence

So he called on old fat and 40. And when the hectic afternoon was over the Dodgers were leading by two games and again were their own cocky selves.

Old fat and 40 was Freddy Fitzsimmons, and we like to remember that game as one that tells more than any other just the kind of pitcher he was. The kind of pitcher who had what it took when he had to have it.

Durocher's faith in the short-armed, broad-beamed chucker is a tribute to those traits that will make old fat stuff a bang-up coach. The guy just inspired confidence and is the type the young fellows will listen to respectfully.

In fact, he was sort of a proxy dad to Pee-Wee Reese and Pete Reiser. The two very youthful stars, then single and at an age when success and hero-worship might be expected to send them off on a tangent, were piloted along on the beam by the fatherly Fitz. "Pop," they called him, and Mrs. Fitz was "Mom."

Always alert, and with more zip than most players half his age, Fat Freddy is the gent who keeps the Dodgers on their toes. He's always doing something, from starting peppy games to pitching batting practice, always with the little satchel containing the baseballs within reach. He was a sort of self-appointed ball custodian, probably because he knew they couldn't do anything without baseballs, and he didn't want any activity to go on without him being a part of it.

Mentally Alert, Too

He's always one jump ahead of the other fellow mentally. When Mickey Owen was beamed last year, someone in the crowd around him finally suggested that a stretcher be brought. A couple of players started for one, only to get fitz running from the dressing room with one under his arm. He had sized up the situation immediately and galloped away, skinning his shin on the dugout steps in his haste.

The Brooklyn scene wouldn't be quite the same without the big fellow with the moining steps and intent expression. He's the kind who leaves mental pictures of such inconsequential details as the kind of him hustling to the coaching box, digging a black baseball out of his hip pocket, and tossing it out for infield practice. We never did find out why he favored that black ball.

From the above you might gather that we think Freddy Fitzsimmons is a right guy, and you're right. He'd be a good influence on a club if he didn't know a bunt from a base on balls.

Dodgers Beat Tobin And Braves, 4-1

BOSTON, May 27—P—The Brooklyn Dodgers broke Jim Tobin's handcuffs in the ninth inning today and slapped the veteran righthander for three runs to break a tie and beat the Boston Braves, 4 to 1, before a crowd of 10,285.

This last-inning outburst, powered by singles by Ducky Medwick and Pete Reiser and a booming triple by Mickey Owen, gave Wyatt Wyatt the decision over Tobin, who tossed a seven-hitter.

Wyatt gave up only five hits and the only loss he suffered was one of prestige when Sibby Sisti convinced for his fourth homer of the year in the third inning for the Braves' only run. This marked the first time Boston managed to score on Wyatt in 47 successive innings.

The victory stretched the Dodgers' National League lead to six full games and left the Braves with only a shaky hold on second place.

Herman Clouts His First Homer

Billy Herman started the ball rolling in the first inning by clouting his first homer of the year. Sisti's round-tripper tied it up in the third, and from there through the eighth, Wyatt and Tobin had a lot of fun with the batters.

Opening the ninth, Doll Campille worked Tobin for a walk and Dixie Walker sacrificed him back to second. Medwick scratched a hit back along to four runners on first and third, and Reiser's pinch-single promptly pushed the tie-breaking tally across. Owen then drilled one into right center for three bases to send two unnecessary runs home and give Wyatt his third victory against one defeat for the campaign. For Tobin, it was six losses compared to five wins.

Score: R H E
Brooklyn .100 000 003-4 7 0
Boston .001 000 000-1 5 1

Harder Joins Spectacled Hurling Corps

CLEVELAND, May 27—P—Move over, Bill Dietrich, Dizzy Trout and Walter Masterson. Mel Harder, the Cleveland curve ball artist, is joining the brigade of the spectacled pitchers.

He missed so many of his catches, and the plate was so dim in a night game at St. Louis two years ago that Mel decided to do something about it. The time came last night against the Chicago White Sox.

The 32-year-old right hander donned the spectacles he's been using for reading and the movies. The catcher and the plate emerged from that floodlight haze, but Harder walked into the dugout in the ninth with the comment:

To Try 'Em In Daytime

"I might as well take off these cheerers. They know me. I'm still the guy who loses ball games, 1 to 0."

But it didn't happen. The Indians rallied for two runs and Mel's third win against three losses—two of them by heartbreaking 1 to 0 counts.

"I couldn't pitch at all at night without them," Harder commented today. "I know if I didn't wear them I wouldn't be able to see anything because of my astigmatism."

Now he has ordered the shatterproof kind and plans to try them in a day game. Mel isn't certain he needs glasses with the better illumination provided by sunlight, but he's in the mood to experiment.

City Tennis Club Will Meet Friday

The annual meeting of the Marquette Tennis club will be held in the city hall tomorrow evening, beginning at 8. It was announced yesterday by Glen B. Wilson, secretary.

Plans for the 1942 season will be discussed and officers elected. The organization has been active for some time and has undertaken sponsorship of several outstanding tournaments, among them being the annual Upper Peninsula meet.

For several seasons the club, with the cooperation of the city, has procured the services of a competent professional for public and private instruction. This work has increased the caliber of play in the Marquette area steadily.

Graveyard high school's tennis teams, most of whose members have been coached by visiting professionals, have won the Upper Peninsula prep championship three consecutive times. One of the outstanding players developed here is Bill Mikulich, a member of the University of Michigan frosh team.

Tigers Drop 5-2 Decision To Brownies

ST. LOUIS, May 27—P—Showing signs of revived batting power, the St. Louis Browns gave adequate hitting support to Johnny Niggeling today for a 5 to 2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Walter Judnich had a double and home run, Chet Laabs a triple and Rick Ferrell a double in the Browns' collection of 11 hits. Ferrell scored Laas with a squeeze bunt in the fourth.

The Tigers slumped Niggeling's knuckeball for 10 hits, but double plays stopped them on two occasions.

In the eighth, with the bases loaded and two away, Charley Gehringger made his first appearance for the Tigers this season, pinch-hitting for Eric McNair, and filed out. Gehringger started this year as a coach, but recently was returned to the active player list.

Play Indians at Home Today

Paul (Dizzy) Trout was the victim of most of the Browns' batting fury, yielding 10 hits in six innings before he was removed for a pinch hitter, and he was charged with his fourth straight defeat and fifth of the season against three victories. It was Niggeling's fourth triumph against three defeats.

The triumph gave the Browns a 2 to 4 edge in the series and left Detroit with an even break in six road games. The Tigers return tomorrow to Briggs stadium where Virgil (Fire) Trucks will oppose Al Smith, of the Cleveland Indians.

The Tigers seized the lead today in the second when Rip Radcliff drew a pass, went to third on Piny Higgins' single and scored while McNair was being retired in a double play.

The Browns moved in front in the fourth when Judnich singled and scored on ex-Tiger Laab's triple. Laabs came home on the well executed squeeze play with Ferrell. St. Louis bunched two hits in each of the next two frames for single runs off Trout, and Hal Manders yielded the final marker on Judnich's homer, his third of the season, in the seventh.

Load Bases in Eighth

Niggeling pitched four-hit ball until the seventh when Higgins and Dixie Parsons put together singles, but the 37-year-old righthander got pinch-hitter Ned Harris on an easy groundout.

Then came the Tigers' last big chance in the eighth, Jimmy Bloodworth, Doc Cramer and Barney McCosky singled in succession, filling the bases, and Rudy York's fly scored. Bloodworth and sent Cramer to third, Harris to second, and York to first. The bases were advanced to full on one and Higgins walked to fill the bases. This brought up Gehringger who lifted to Laabs in right field.

The white population increased fastest than the non-whites only in the southern and Pacific states, comparison of the 1930 and 1940 census records reveals. In all other sections of the country, the non-whites were gaining. The census bureau says this indicates a large-scale migration of non-whites from the southern to the northern and mid-western states.

Upper Peninsula Goes To Canadian Diocese

IRON MOUNTAIN, May 27—The Rev. Fr. Joseph Dufort, pastor of St. Joseph's church, Iron Mountain, from 1931-1939, has been reassigned by the Most Rev. Francis J. Magner, bishop of the diocese of Marquette, to accept the invitation of an old schoolmate, the Most Rev.

J. Bourget, to join the diocese of St. John, Province of Quebec, of which Bishop Bourget is spiritual head. Father Dufort, transferred from Iron Mountain to L'Anse in 1939, left Tuesday, May 19, to take up his new work. Friends in Iron Mountain were not told in what capacity Father Dufort would serve in the St. John diocese, but believe he is to be given a chaplaincy. He has long been desirous of returning to his native land. He was ordained in the United States some 30 years ago and was assigned to the diocese of Marquette, Father Dufort, before coming to Iron Mountain, served parishes in Flat Rock, Engadine and Stephenson. He was pastor of St. Joseph's church when the present Church of St. Mary and St. Joseph was built, and served until the merger of the parishes of St. Joseph and St. Mary, following the fire which destroyed the latter church. Father Dufort was succeeded here by the Rev. Fr. A. C. Pellsier, as administrator of the combined parish. The Rev. Fr. Frank Seifert, who was pastor of St. Mary's, was assigned to Spalding when the parishes were merged.

CANNOT OUST OFFICIAL

LANSING, May 27—P—An attorney general's opinion held today that no grounds existed for removal of a village president despite the fact he was a wage or salary earning employe of a lumber company which sold materials to the village. The opinion, addressed to the Monroe county prosecutor's office, said removal action could be instituted only if evidence showed the president's title influenced transactions with the company.

Bomber Crew, Lost 45 Days, Reaches Base

All set! And down we came. No body was hurt."

They got out and started sloshing around in the swamp water, but they gave up trying to make the coast until the next day.

An Allied plane tried to drop food to them, but it missed so widely they couldn't get it, and they had only the limited rations carried from their own plane.

Ford, Disbro and Long struck out the next morning, leaving orders for the other four to come on alone if they didn't return in three days. They waded waist-deep through swamp water and pushed through 12-foot cane grass to a river, soon found a native outrigger canoe and made a coastal village by dark that night.

Disbro picked up the story: "At first the natives scared us and we scared them. Each of us had a pistol and a knife, but we didn't need them.

Natives Very Friendly

"The natives were very friendly, and they stood around laughing. They gave us papaws, bananas and coconuts, and they did their best to take care of us for eight days.

"They had spears and war clubs, but they never tried to use them on us.

"A party of natives went with Ford back to the plane and after getting some instruments he blew it up and brought the rest of the crew to join us.

"On the eighth day a Church of England missionary and an Australian government man came by and picked us up. On the way to the next village a Japanese bomber spotted us and dropped 15 bombs, but failed to hit us."

The crew spent three weeks in that village waiting for help to take them another step along the road back, existing on a diet mostly of fruits and rice.

Shot 15-Foot Pythons

For diversion they wore out a deck of playing cards supplied by the missionary, and then went out and shot two 15-foot pythons, one of which had a whole cat in its stomach.

There were only four mosquito bars, so they took turns using them. The others used tents made from parachutes which kept the mosquitoes out, but didn't let in enough air.

A boat came along and they had to spend two weeks in a second village before coming here.

The crew agreed on one thing: What they hated most in all that time was not being able to brush their teeth.

Long had many an anxious moment around April 20, in addition to his other woes, because the stork was due in his home about then and he doesn't know yet whether it was a boy or a girl.

Brown Again Refuses To Honor Pay Voucher

LANSING, May 27—P—Auditor General Vernon J. Brown today rejected once more a voucher for three and one-half months' back pay for Howard R. Smithhiser, of Detroit, as a part-time employee of the Mackinac Straits Bridge Authority.

Brown said he had refused earlier to honor the request for $350, covering Smithhiser's pay from January 1 to April 15, and had asked Richard Barkell, secretary of the commission, to explain the employee's duties and how much work he had done to earn the money. He received a letter from G. Donald Kennedy, state highway commissioner, explaining Smithhiser did office management and statistical work, but Brown said the reply was too vaguely phrased and he would not release the money.

on a scale unprecedented—even in this war."

Czech circles here expressed belief that the shooting either was in protest to Heydrich's order conscripting Czech youths for war service on the Russian front or against his announcement last night that there would be a reorganization of the administrative setup in Bohemia and Moravia. This was interpreted as an indication that Adolf Hitler had decided to incorporate the protectorate within the Reich proper.

Rules With Iron Fist

Czechs already have learned from Heydrich, himself, of the stern drumhead justice and iron-fisted measures of suppression which they can expect from any revolt against their masters.

Within two weeks after Heydrich came to Bohemia and Moravia last September as protector, charged with putting down unrest, 250 Czechs had died before German firing squads.

For the blood bath he gave insurgent elements there Heydrich won,

Dionne Quintuplets Eight Years Old Today

CALLANDER, Ont., May 27—P—Tomorrow is the eighth anniversary of that momentous event which overnight turned an obscure French-Canadian woman into perhaps the world's most famous mother.

The Dionne quintuplets are having a birthday, and they will start with their ninth year without the pigtails they've worn so long.

They had their hair trimmed and dressed today as a birthday gift from their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne.

The little girls thought the new hair-dos "tres chic."

Council Meet Sought In Labor Dispute

NEGAUNEE, May 27—Walter E. Hawkes, executive secretary of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said today he had requested the assistance of the state labor mediation board in negotiations between the Negaunee council and city employees.

"An immediate meeting of the council is necessary to avert further misunderstanding between the city and its employees," Hawkes said, "which might easily lead to disruption of vital services."

"I believe the dismissal of employees because of a change in administration is fundamentally wrong," he continued, "and constructive action should be taken immediately to prevent a municipal employee's job from being in jeopardy each time the administration is changed."

Walter Patterson, executive secretary of the state labor mediation board, is in the country to confer with Mayor George H. Russel and council members about a special meeting, Hawkes said.

BILL PAYS A VISIT CHAPTER XIV

Droningsgade was bustling with mid-morning activity when Bill Talcott, with MacDowell grimly at his heels, came down the hill from Hotel 1829. Islanders thronged the narrow walk on the shady side of the street; tourists traveled in detached groups, inspecting bargains in the windowless shops, taking pictures, talking animatedly among themselves. Naval and Marine trucks rolled on the left side of the road, their drivers driving swearing at fare-seeking taxis. Blast of juke boxes, medleys of horns, loud talk and laughter, and, somewhere nearby, the braying of a donkey were Charlotte Amalie's complement of morning sounds.

"Th' tropics," MacDowell grunted, "his nostrils flaring at the pungent odor of bay rum."

They had bettered Talcott's prediction by almost two hours; had arrived in Pillsbury Sound while the Blue Petrel was still blowing for a pilot. They had luck at Fortalek. The harbor master and immigration officer were on hand, busy with a group of forlorn natives whom some smuggler, possibly Jackson, had dumped in their laps. June Paterson had called her friends and then had gone off, taking Martha Swenson with her; Halsey and the Professor found lodgings elsewhere. Sebastian followed his usual custom of sleeping in the launch.

At the door of the Radiomarine office a huge man whose great paw was filled with cables yelled an enthusiastic greeting to Bill Talcott; an equally huge though shorter man on the opposite curb yelled at both Talcott and the cable bearer. "Jack and Sparky," Talcott said in response to MacDowell's question. "Rum. One makes it, the other sells it."

MacDowell acted as though he'd like to learn more about the rum business, but Talcott gave him no opportunity. In New York, federal Chemicals would have been going full blast for an hour. Old Man Winters would be working on his second cigar of the day.

Talcott passed up a radiogram in favor of the phone, and his remarks to MacDowell that the booth had been built for one brought no withdrawal. Presently "Federal Chemical, good morning" sang in his ears.

"This is Talcott, Plant Number Six. I want to talk to Winters."

"Sorry. Mr. Winters is in Washington."

"He might have known. When'll he be back?"

"He has to be here tomorrow in time to make the Clipper. He has appointments in London."

He might have known that too. With all the need for nitrates the Old Man would be busier than a mother hen. He said, "Let me talk to his secretary."

"Just a moment. I'll connect you. A buzz, click and a new voice, "Mr. Winters' office."

"This is Bill Talcott. What's all this baloney about not getting my duplicate vouchers?"

An appreciable pause. Then, "Sorry. I'm not allowed to discuss that."

Blast your regulations! I mailed those vouchers, every last one of 'em. Struthers is trying to burn me at the stake!"

"I'm sorry. I have been given explicit orders not to discuss the matter," and click! she rang off.

So that was how it was to be. The old steamroller, Bill Talcott's eyes narrowed grimly. No sense in trying to locate Winters by phone; like as not he'd be appearing before a Congressional subcommittee, telling them how to run the war. Quitting the booth he seized a blank and composed a message. A message that was calculated to make Winters miss three Clippers if necessary. Then, more slowly, he wrote another and after a long study signed it "Bill." MacDowell, crowding over his shoulder, gaped in astonishment when he saw the name "Captain Lowell Byrd," and the designation "G-2."

The detective's attitude had changed noticeably when they again reached the street. His off-repeated suggestion that they still had to get reservations was supplemented with a haste, "After you been to the bank, o' course!"

Talcott's fear that Struthers might have attached his account proved groundless. In the cool recesses of the building off the market place a sad-eyed teller murmured about the misfortune of losing such a valued client. A tidy sum it made, the total of his savings. He withdrew it all.

In the steamship company offices they found no difficulty. There was room aplenty for the return trip.

"A moot point arises here," Bill

Talcott grinned. "Who pays for my passage?"

"You do," MacDowell grunted. He hadn't ignored the amount of Bill Talcott's bank withdrawal.

In the Square, MacDowell cast longing eyes at the Bamboo Bar's inviting entrance. "Ya know, it's awful hot," he suggested.

Talcott didn't respond. "Do I have any liberty?" he asked abruptly.

"What's on your mind?"

"There is someone I must see before I leave."

MacDowell grunted. "Oh. Has she got a friend?"

"This isn't a she."

"Yeah? In that case I'll come along anyhow. I got nothin' else to do."

Bill Talcott shrugged and started for the quay. At an arched entrance through a tiled way whose masonry walls were dark with age; climbed stone steps and entered a door.

A bright-eyed young woman sat at a typewriter, and at sight of Bill Talcott she said cheerily, "Hello! Haven't seen you in a con's age!"

"Hello yourself. Is the big boss in?"

"He is if it's important enough."

"It is," Talcott said grimly.

She vanished through a door and in a moment was back. "Please don't stay long," she admonished. "He's really terribly busy."

The room they entered was a counterpart of the first. Plainly, even sparsely furnished. A desk, a filing cabinet, a few straight chairs. A calendar and nothing more on the wall. At the desk was a man with thinning gray hair and handsome weathered face in which thoughtful gray eyes were remarkable. His eyes were remarkable; like polarized lenses, they seemed to take in everything, give out nothing. They went over MacDowell from unbrushed hair to unshined shoes, and the planes behind MacDowell's mustache became red.

The man nodded to Talcott but did not rise, nor did he speak.

Bill Talcott said, "Can you do anything on Abas?"

"The man at the desk pursued his lips. "We can watch it," he said in a slow musical voice.

"When an auditor frames a Federal Chemical company unit for bankruptcy, thereby leaving himself in sole charge of the island, it'll bear watching."

The gray eyes clouded thoughtfully; long, immaculate fingers dipped into the desk drawer, reached and brought forth a photograph. "Is this your auditor?" his slow, musical voice asked.

Railroads May Be Used To Haul War Workers

DETROIT, May 27—P—The Michigan Central railroad has agreed to "cooperate" in a plan to solve the transportation problem of moving war workers to and from the Ford Motor company's Willow Run bomber plant near Ypsilanti, Ford officials announced today.

Henry H. Bennett, Ford personnel director, outlined the plan after conferring with officials of the railroad and Thomas Nichol, of Washington, assistant director of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Chief drawback evolves around an estimate of railroad officials that 138 passengers cars would be needed to maintain a service requiring 10 trains three times daily to and from the plant.

All the railroad's passenger cars now are in use, M. C. officials reported, adding that the Government or some other agency would have to supply whatever rolling stock is required for the new service.

To put zip in the nation's cookery, the United States normally imports 75 million pounds of black and white pepper a year. The census bureau reports that most of the black pepper has been coming from Java, Sumatra, Thailand, the Philippines and the West Indies.

Ration Books Available At Marquette

NEGAUNEE, May 27—Negaunee residents who failed to get sugar rationing books must register at the rationing office in Marquette. It is located in the southwest corner of the court house on the second floor.

Requests for books here reveals that many persons were out of the city at the time of registration and others had more sugar than was allowed under the regulations.

The second stamp in the rationing book is good until Saturday, but as that is a holiday it is advised that the stamp be used before that date. The third stamp is usable from May 31 to June 13.

The ration period for each stamp ends on Saturday night and it is the suggestion of one merchant that owners of ration books mark the rationing periods on a calendar so they will not waste stamps by holding them too late.

Another dealer warned customers not to take stamps out of ration books and attempt to get sugar for them. The stamp must be detached from the book in the presence of the storekeeper, his employee or person making the delivery of sugar on his behalf. If the stamp is partly torn, but more than one-half of it remains in the book, it may be used.

Today In Washington

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON, May 27—It isn't often that one encounters a philosophical diagnosis of the shortcomings of liberalism. It is, therefore, interesting to note an article just published by the South Atlantic Quarterly, written by John and Helen Mattingly, of Hamilton college, and entitled "Climax Into Shadow: A Scenario for Liberals."

Attacking first the "liberal pacifism" which for nearly 25 years dominated the thinking and writings of liberals, the authors declare that "the liberal mind simply refuses to count the cost of its moral superiority in terms of lives lost and treasure wasted because of its stubborn refusal to make adequate military preparations for a military issue in advance of the precipitation of the conflict. Here, if anywhere, is exemplified the firm conviction of pragmatic liberalism that failure is not failure if it is motivated by pragmatic attitudes free from any servating preoccupation with traditional prejudices."

FDR's View in 1940

As a conspicuous illustration of the foregoing, the writers declare: "If not in September, 1939, or the months following, surely in May, 1940, when the Germans had overrun Holland, even a liberal living access to military intelligence might have been expected to understand the implications of German militarism for the future of Europe and Asia. Yet the New York Times for May 15 (1940) printed a report of a press conference in which President Roosevelt rejected with scorn the idea of a two-ocean Navy."

"Mr. Roosevelt brushed aside as utterly stupid suggestions that developments in the European struggle and their implications in the Pacific strengthened the arguments for a 'two-ocean American Navy.' Such a conception of the nation's floating defenses was just plain dumb, he added.

"Since, upon admitted principles of strategy, the advantages of a two-ocean Navy are self-evident, it is surely as a symbol that Mr. Roosevelt anatomized the idea of a two-ocean Navy, a symbol of the surrender of a number of darling liberal illusions, a symbol of the failure of the New Deal's foreign policy to provide the security essential to the consummation of its domestic purposes. The true liberal, upon the very eve of Pearl Harbor, remained stubbornly convinced that war is 'not really life' and left reasonably secure so long as he could hear the voice of some great symbol of democracy visiting the unspeakable tortures of moral humiliation upon international evildoers.

New Deal Dilemma

"During the years in which the President and the Secretary of State were indefatigable in denouncing the treaty-breakers and aggressors, American liberalism at home was growing disillusioned with 'soft' pragmatism and social idealism. Candor and respect for the pledged word was still held up as indispensable to the proper conduct of international relations, but in domestic policy a canny sense of expediency, always on the point of passing over into the Machiavelian, was the order of the day. Historical accident, rather than conscious plan, thus created for the New Deal a dilemma in the disreputable systems of value which underlie its foreign and domestic policies.

"The absurdity of expecting to maintain peace by adherence to principles of international justice embodied in legal formulae and implemented in written compacts, while at home, with equal insistence, the cry is raised for the rule of expediency and government by men rather than by documents, could remain unrecognized only until the denouement of Pearl Harbor confronted the American people with the reality of nationalist aggression. Domestic machiavelianism is a paradox which no political legdemain can perpetuate. The moral capacities of human nature in the national and international sphere are, after all, homogeneous, and it must remain a mystery why the letter of Constitution may be regarded as less sacred than the letter of a treaty."

War Dims "Liberal" Light

The foregoing doctrines are not accompanied by an avowal of an alternate philosophy, but with the prediction that liberalism "must lose power over even its most devoted followers if it fails to defend the civilian way of life and postpone the realization of its promises."

"Though the name liberal," concluded the article, "may live on, its magic is bound to be dimmed in the stark light of military realities. It is probable that the ruling class of the future—be it managerial or otherwise—will have only a tenuous and accidental connection with the political group which achieved power in the New Deal. . . . The liberal will haunt the pages of history, but in the fifth decade of the 20th century, he is perceptibly withdrawing from the arena of actuality into the realm of shadows." THE TELL-TALE HEART

Retailers To Cooperate On Bond Sales

NEGAUNEE, May 27—Retailers and other business men in Negaunee have pledged 100 per cent cooperation in the program to sell war stamps and bonds Wednesday, July 1, it was announced today by W. R. Davey, of the Chamber of Commerce.

Davey made a survey of Negaunee stores at the request of Benjamin H. Namm, chairman of the retail advisory committee of the U. S. Treasury department.

It is proposed that all retailers suspend sales of merchandise from 12 to 2:15 p. m. and devote that time exclusively to the sale of war saving stamps and bonds to open a nationwide campaign of "Retailers for Victory."

Posters for various types of business and uses may be obtained from national concerns and advertisers. Retailers who want such material may obtain information through jobbers or from Mr. Davey.

It is suggested that the merchants plan for the sale of stamps and bonds by securing the amount desired from the postoffice or bank.

Defense Councils To Watch Fund Drives

LANSING, May 27—P—Local defense councils today were advised by the state defense council to establish committees to "review" proposed fund raising efforts which purport to be related to war activity. If such committees have not already been created.

The state council said the sixth regional office of civilian defense at Chicago has learned of "questionable" financial campaigns and warned that appeals for money for war and civilian defense activities should be scrutinized.

Fontana To Train U. S. Glider Pilots

IRON MOUNTAIN, May 27—Selection of Rochester, Minn., for an Army air force pre-cadet glider training school, and the designation of the Fontana School of Aeronautics there for flight instruction has been announced at Washington.

Mario Fontana, former Iron Mountain man, who has conducted flying schools at Laurium, in the Copper Country, and at Rochester for some time past, has returned from Washington, where he received full instructions. Designation of the Fontana school for the instruction is a singular honor, and recognition of the high quality of the work since the school was established at Laurium two years ago and at Rochester a year ago.

Forty light Army planes are reported already at Rochester and a caravan of several large Army trucks, jeeps and ambulances, 30 glider cadets and eight or 10 officers is said to be en route to the new training center.

One of 20 Schools

Rochester airport, where Fontana has his school, will be the main base, with actual glider instruction to be given at three auxiliary fields leased from Haverhill and Viola township farmers, starting June 1. The Fontana school is one of 20 civilian pilot training centers of Civilian Aeronautics Authority selected by Army to give preliminary glider training. Light Army airplanes will be used—not gliders, at present.

Thirty students will be assigned to the school weekly until 210 have been trained, and is believed likely by the training will be extended. Each student group will get four weeks' training at Rochester before going on to more advanced glider training, so that at the peak 120 cadets will be in training.

Plans call for the construction of temporary facilities, including one or two buildings, depending on the size, at each field selected for the training. These will be for maintenance, storage of supplies and office work. All fields will be under 24-hour guard and strict military discipline.

To handle the new program, the Fontana School of Aeronautics will engage 16 additional instructors including about 35 other personnel, including mechanics, guards, truck drivers and administrative employees. Fontana said that persons who can qualify for positions other than instructors may contact the Fontana School at the airport.

First Student Group

The first group of students is comprised of glider pilot candidates from the regular Army air forces. Flight instruction at Rochester will be with light Army planes. From there the students will go on to schools giving instruction in larger types of gliders. A feature of the light airplane instruction will be that all landings will be "deadstick" landings, with power off. In this respect the landings will simulate those made with gliders.

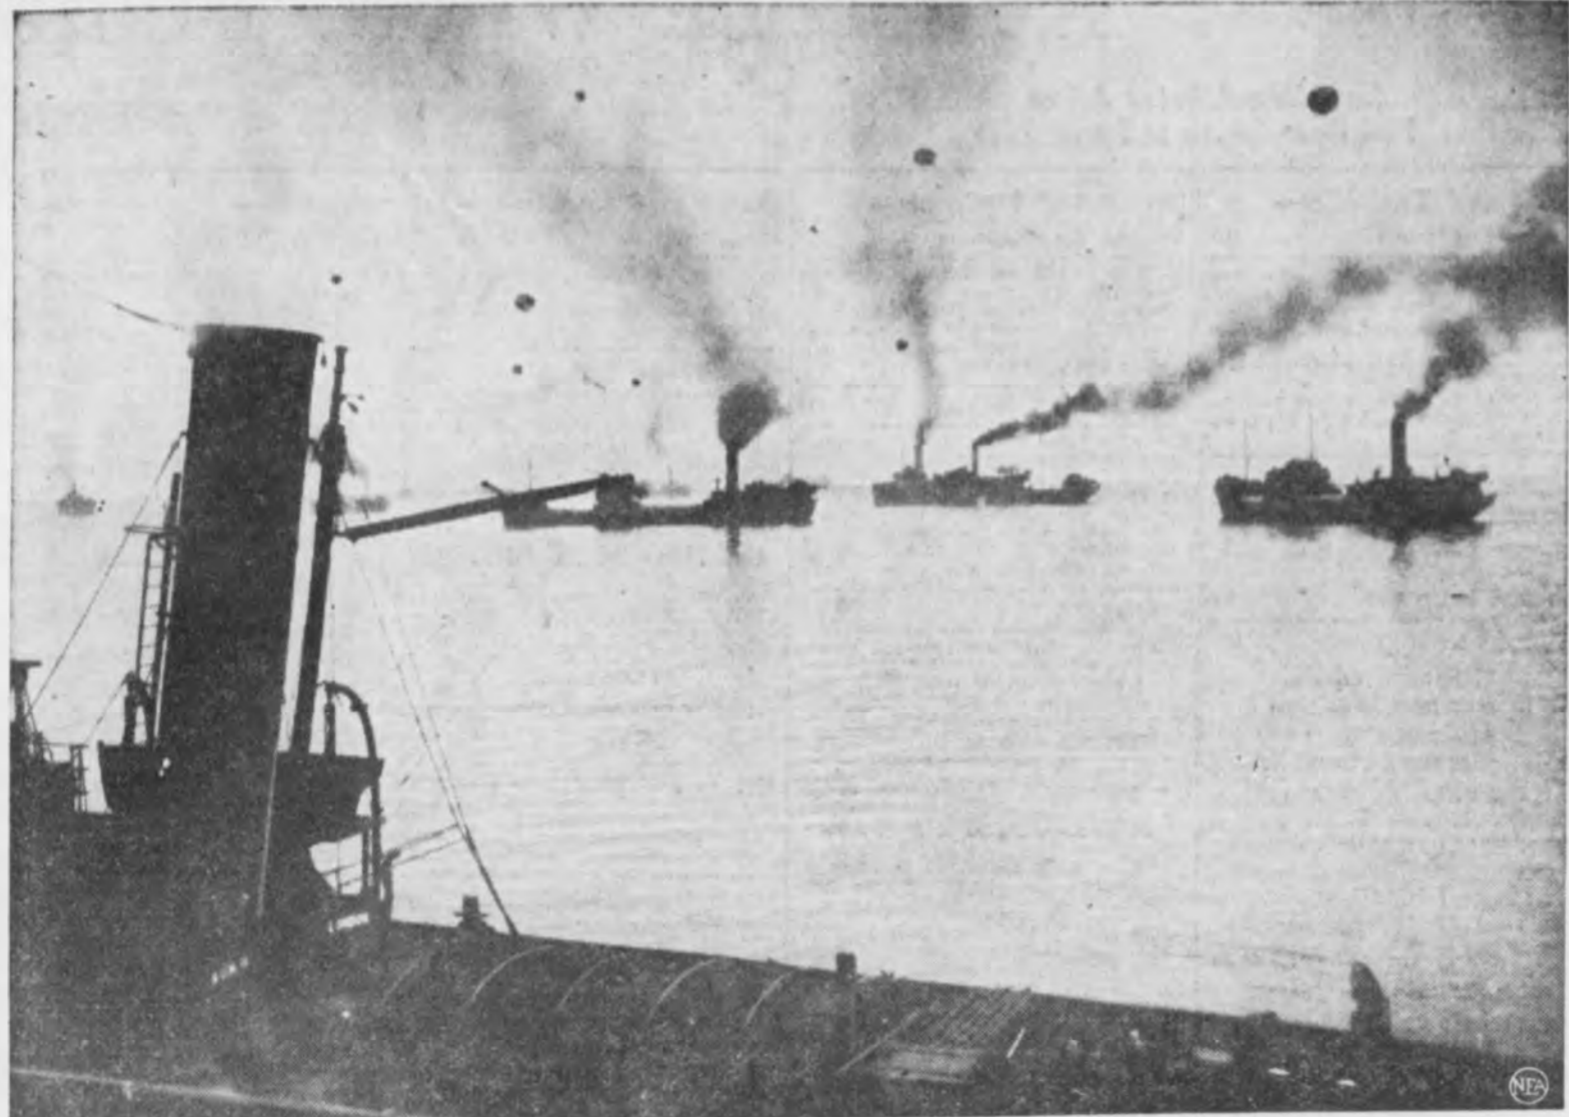

While the first group of students is from the Army air forces, the program is open to men from 18 to 35 years of age, who have had training as civilian pilots and who have been ineligible for aviation cadet training. A recent War Department report indicates that light airplane and glider schools are being established in various parts of the United States, chiefly in the midwest, to train Army air forces as glider pilots. The Rochester school is one of them.

Civilian applicants for the course will be enlisted in the Army air force enlisted reserve and assigned to the training course. Students who complete the glider course will be promoted to the grade of staff sergeant; given the rating of glider pilot and assigned to active duty. They will receive flight pay.

SWEDISH EXPORTS UP
STOCKHOLM — P — Sweden's 1941 imports dropped 16 per cent from the 1940 figure to a total of 1,671,000,000 kronor (about $417,750,000 per), but exports rose one per cent over the 1940 figure to 2,351,000,000 kronor (about $337,750,000). Overseas trade carried in baltic ships was approximately 10 per cent of the total turnover.

News Behind the News

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, May 27—Several members of Congress have filed private protests with the Department of Justice against a movement to discredit them by the Union for Democratic Action, an organization sponsored by liberals and former New Dealers. Many legislators, who are not assailed in this specific instance, regard the effort as part of a scheme to bring the popular branch of the Government into disrepute.

The Union has polled "liberal editorial writers and Washington correspondents" to determine who are the "10 worst Congressmen." In its letter it says that the results will be publicized widely in a tryout to brand the "obstructionists" on Capitol Hill. The postcard suggests 17 lawmakers for blacklisting, with Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, at the top. Every person proscribed happens to have been a noninterventionist or an economic reactionary. Oddly enough no Senators are included.

Even Rooseveltian leaders are indignant about growing attempts to defame the men who make our laws, and they demand prosecution of those heading the campaign. They believe that endeavors to belittle the legislative unit in wartime are quite as subversive as would be a tirade against the President or the heads of the Army and Navy. They point out that dictators abroad have been built on a loss of trust and faith in the peoples' representatives.

BARS—The 4,000 inmates of San Quentin prison are making a contribution to the victory effort. In many ways as great as that by a similar number of people outside the walls. According to a letter received here, the men are "with our Government 100 per cent in fighting and winning this war."

On several occasions since the Pearl Harbor battle Warden Clinton T. Duffy has issued a call for volunteers to expedite manufacture and delivery of goods needed by the armed forces. Once, when he asked for 70 workers for the jute mill, the most undesirable place in the penitentiary, more than 500 responded. Many prisoners use their recreation time to make bandages, suits, strollers and first-aid kits. Enrollment in the trade schools has increased because of the students' desire to fit themselves for useful occupations upon release.

Salvage campaigns have been launched in a big way. All material, such as old paper, tin foil and the like, is collected regularly and handed over to the proper authorities. From funds sent in by friends for purchase of articles not furnished by the state the convicts have saved and invested $20,000 in U. S. bonds. And the California institution is no exception, according to Federal Pen Director James V. Bennett. The boys behind the bars are doing their duty so far as their lot permits.

State May Allocate Over Half of Relief Cost

LANSING, May 27—P—Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton today upheld legality of the state social welfare commission's practice of allocating to some counties more than half of the cost of meeting their direct relief needs, upon showing they are unable to carry the burdens without special aid. The budget office had questioned the practice and John D. O'Connell, state social welfare director, requested the opinion. Some counties receive virtually all of the cost of their welfare programs from the state. Rushton said no county may receive from the state less than half the cost of its welfare program.

postwar unemployment will be advanced soon at the Capital.

GROWLS—Despite diplomatic denials, Price Administrator Leon Henderson and other Presidential advisers are working quietly for a freezing of wages. The rollypoly economic czar believes that stabilization cannot be prevented without the $2,000-a-year level.

President Roosevelt shied away from this complication when he submitted his seven-point program to Congress. FDR publicly advocated a less arbitrary scheme, insisting that increases would not be necessary if the cost of living were controlled by fixing prices. But he may eventually accept the Henderson idea, although the mere suggestion has provoked growls from organized labor.

New York

By Albert N. Leman

INJURED—A new war scare has swept the Argentine and in its wake has changed for the worse the already delicate relations between the United States and the super-sensitive southern republic. The story is fantastic yet it is vouched for by high officials of that nation, now in New York, who themselves have always been friendly to our country. In a nutshell the plot is this: Brazil, armed and equipped by Washington, is poised to take advantage of a world crisis. Without warning she will swoop down upon the fertile wheat fields and cattle ranches of the pampas and attack Buenos Aires by land, sea and air.

Uncle Sam will back up Rio de Janeiro because he is vexed by the neutrality policy of the Gauchos. Nazi propaganda agents below the equator have been circulating this report at every opportunity. Copies of American magazines containing criticisms of acting President Castillo's position are translated and used to add fuel to the flames of mistrust. Present tension is on solid foundation because for years the two Latin American powers have predicted eventual war for supremacy.

Actually President Vargas is in no condition to meddle with his neighbor. Although the fact has been concealed, the so-called "light auto mishap" that befell him recently was a serious accident in which he was badly injured. Even if he were on his feet, he is too shrewd a diplomat to engage in a fight with Argentina while Axis forces menace him from across the narrow strip of ocean between Dakar and Natal.

STOLEN—Fresh complications in the system of sugar and rubber rationing appear in New York from week to week. The latest headache is suffered by the grand hotels whose delicacies were the envy of the country's chefs. The quotas of these famous institutions in proportion to former usage is less than that for commercial pie and cake bakers. Since the reputations of many de luxe dining rooms were built upon superior pastry, their dearth is affecting the menus.

Many inns have cut down on deserts or have been obliged to purchase them from the outside. Some managers are considering a plan to request each guest to bring his own table sugar for tea, coffee, cereals and fruit. Although the kitchens of the hostesses are short of sweetening, the customers, many of whom have no housekeeping establishments anywhere, are entitled to ration cards which they do not use.

The current sore spot in elastics is a wave of tire stealing. Thieves not only snatch spares but in some cases jack up wheels and pilfer the shoes of cars parked in secluded lots—shaded by dimouts. The police claim the depradations are the work of organized gangs. Even locked materials do not escape because the robbers are equipped with master keys. The serial numbers are immediately buffed out and the stolen goods released in the black market.

RUINED

The greatest scarcity that faces the wholesalers and retailers of the country, according to their New York national headquarters, is a shortage of answers to questions, "Tell us what to expect," is the plea; silence from Washington is the reply. After a lapse of time a sudden command flashes from the Capital upsetting plans, creating confusion and causing tremendous business losses.

The stores want the Government to define promptly its requirements for manpower and resources. Then the merchants will have a clear conception of what will be left for the consuming public, a throng which includes the 100 million persons not in the war effort. For example, electric iron cords are wearing out and unless renewed an increase in home fire accidents is inevitable. The authorities have not yet released raw materials for replacement. Similar delays occur in nearly every line. Manufacturers of substitutes dare not begin production. Buyers cannot write orders.

Although rulings are ground out by the alphabetical agencies daily, the OPA admits it has not yet found a way to inform the large majority of small proprietors. The little fellows do not know the purpose of a regulation nor the method of carrying it out. Hence wholesalers may be compelled to take over the task in which Washington has failed. Otherwise corner shops will be strangled by red tape and starved by unforeseen famines. Price ceilings, inventory controls and rationing will cripple or destroy limitless numbers of firms. But even more will be ruined if they are not forewarned.

DETROIT, May 27—Extension of the gasoline rationing program in the interest of tire conservation, according to automobile industry authorities, will mean the elimination of an additional large number of car retailers.

The fuel rationing already affects something like 30 per cent of the nation's passenger car owners. Extended to every one of the more than 29,000,000 passenger vehicle operators it will mean a sharp reduction in repair and maintenance work and consequently further curtail dealer income, these experts assert.

some trade sources expressed the belief that older models in dealers' possession might be taken over before privately-owned vehicles would be affected. Trade sources now suggest that since reduction of car usage is the objective there is little likelihood that vehicles on dealer floors or lots would be taken over first.

In this motor-minded capital of the nation's automobile industry talk of tire scarcity and of rationing that would limit privately-owned car operation has brought varying reactions. There has been no disposition to question the shortage of rubber and the impossibility of replacing tires for everybody who would like to do so.

There has been concern in official quarters, however, lest a fuel rationing program as rigid as that effected in the eastern states be invoked here and cripple transportation of war factory workers expected to number in excess of 1,000,000 by the end of the year.

There have been some differences of opinion also as to whether tires do or do not deteriorate as rapidly in the average form of "dead" storage as they do in careful use. A suggestion that slight over-inflation of automobile tires contributes to their longevity has come in for a lot of argument.

Care Assures Longer Life

One authority has pointed out that while it might serve to prolong the life of the sidewalls excess inflation causes tires to bounce more freely and scuff valuable rubber off the tread surface.

D. U. Bathrick, general sales manager of Pontiac division of General Motors, urged motorists hoping to conserve their tires to avoid driving on freshly oiled roads.

Engineers have determined, he explained, that fresh road oil, forced into the tire treads at driving speed, remains for an indefinite period and has a highly injurious effect on the rubber.

Bathrick asserted that the motorist who takes all possible care of his tires will still have serviceable rubber on his car at 40,000 miles.

"WORDS TO YOUNG MARQUETTE" —

“Young people who need money are apt to think of almost everything except going to a bank for it,” said the late Louis G. Kaufman, president of the First National for many years.

... And the business of a bank is to loan money where it's needed. Don't get the mistaken idea that a bank isn't interested in anything but long-term loans on large amounts. We're interested in meriting your business, and we loan small amounts of money on short terms. If you need money for any good reason, come in and see us.
