By NEA Correspondent

NEW CALEDONIA, July 17heard of New Caledonia," said an American buck private from New York City. "Now I'm here and I like it pretty well. And I'd like to see those yellow so-and-so's try to get me to move."

That statement, though a trifle inelegant, sums up the attitude of American forces stationed on the largest island of the New Hebrides. They're here because "those yellow so-and-so's" probably will try to take this important steppingstone in the Australian supply line some day, and because so long as the United Nations hold this Free French possession, Japan's position in the Southwest Pacific is additionally vulnerable.

Learn To Live Off Country So thousands of American soldiers are learning the technique of tropical warfare to fit their rough, but not unpleasant surroundings. They are taught how to live off the country. They learn may reading, ballistics, radio operations, camouflage techniques.

Accent is on individual initiative. Boys who a few months ago worked at a desk or behind a counter are now blazing trails like so many Dan'l Boones. And if the Japs try any infiltration tactics, the Americans on New Caledonia think they'll be in shape to out-filter them.

All work in New Caledonia, however, is not of a military nature. The Polynesian wilderness has needed some subduing, and the Americans-boys and girls together -have been pioneering. For the armed forces include several feminine lieutenants of the Medical corps, and these nurses have been leading a life such as few American women have since pioneer

Wild Tales About Rubber In Wilds

BY PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

**** SOME fascinating reports are being peddled around Washington about fearless American explorers, deep in the heart of—no, not Texas —deep in the heart of Brazil, looking for raw native rubber. They're supposed to be so deep in the heart of the Amazon country that shot-guns have to be flown in to them to be used for hunting their food. This jungle is so wild that the rubber explorers have to live off what they can shoot, it being too far inland for food supplies to be transported to them.

The anticipated happy ending to these stories will be that the fearless explorers, way back in some jungle never visited by white man before, will find a beautiful Shangri-La of rubber trees, supplying enough rubber to make tires for everyone. So optimistic are some theorists about this possibility that preliminary requests have been drawn up for priorities on 60,000 tin-cups to gather the rubber as it drips from the trees.

But wait up a minute. There are still a few realists remarking pointedly that if this country is so remote, it might be a bit difficult to get the rubber out, even if the explorer do find it, which the skeptics seriously doubt they will. And this tin-cup priority business is typical of some of the fuzzy thinking still going on in high places. Brazilians have been gathering what little rubber they can find in gourds, for years, and there is no priority on gourds in the Amazon.

Downright Deceitful

Realists in the raw rubber supply business doubt that there i enough native rubber in all Latin America to supply more than 30, 000 tons, or less than one-half of 1 per cent of U.S. needs this year. Consequently, it is downright deceptive to lead anyone to hope that there is any immediate or eventual solution to the rubber shortage in the woods of the western hemisphere.

Department of Commerce sta tistics show that the best yield of Brazilian rubber ever obtained was 55,000 tons a year when the price was $1.50 a pound. Top price today is 39 cents, and there is no enthusiasm for going out and getting it at that price.

Such rubber as is produced in Brazil has three possible outlets, under present world shipping conditions: Brazilian manufacturers can grab it for home consumption it can be exported to the United States, it can go out the back way, through Bolivia to the Argentine. azilian rubber export figures fo the month of May, 1942, latest figures obtainable, tell this story. Total production of Brazilian rub ber that month was 2,000 tons. Of that, 1.150 tons went to Brazilian rubber manufacturers, 250 tons came to the United States and the the United States did, and the Argentine is the most active competi-

CHICAGO, July 17-/P-Audacious Leo Durocher matched Schoolboy Rowe, a relief pitcher, against the mighty Claude Passeau in Brooklyn's series final with the Chicago Cubs today and the Dodgers won the gamble, 10 to 5.

Passeau, with the best pitching record in the major leagues, started well, but the former Detroit Tiger star handled the Cubs easily for seven innings and Manager Durocher let Ed Head finish the WASHINGTON, July 17- AP -It was the same old story for the Detroit Tigers tonight.

For six innings, Hal Newhouset had a one-hit performance to his credit in a scoreless mound duel with the Tigers' No. 1 nemesis, Buck Newsom. But in the eighth inning Hal blew up, the Detroit infield went up with him, the Washington Senators pushed over three runs and went on to a 3-0 victory for a clean sweep of the three-game series.

It was the sixth straight licking for the Tigers, who dropped to the second division behind the St. Louis Browns.

Newsom, registering his second shutout of the season over the Figers, whom he has defeated three times, permitted only two hits in the final six innings to capture his seventh triumph

New Zealand Troops Score Gains in Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, July 17-AP-Two Axis counter-attacks on the desert front some 80 miles west of Alexandria have been beaten off with heavy losses to the forces of Marshal Erwin Rommel, it was reported tonight.

The first of the two counterstrokes, delivered within the last 24 hours, came last night against the central sector, where the fighting has been extremely heavy.

The second was delivered this morning as the Axis infantry attacked Indiaon troops holding a ridge to the south of the central fighting ground.

Meanwhile, heavy and medium bombers, supporting the British land troops with aerial thrusts behind the Axis lines, attacked Tobruk and raided shipping in that

Wage Control in the Air

THE President, it is reported, has intimated to members of Congress who were able to get more. counting on getting away for several weeks that duty will demand that they remain in session to deal with measures, soon to be proposed, designed to prevent an inflationary spiral of the cost of living.

Congress cannot continue to sanction such an unprincipled misuse of public funds without laying itself wide open to charges that it is indifferent toward loose practices within its own ranks.

Senate Is More Generous

When the legislation is finally enacted it will doubtless be found that the views of the Senate as to the amount of money Mr. Henderson should be given to organize price control will be closer to the figure one proposed by the House, $75,000,000. Analysis of the work of the board, which was set up by the President, shows that, without exception, it has disposed of wage cases that have come before it by granting in whole or in part requests for wage rises. The net result of its work, therefore, has been impetus to rises in the cost of living. If the President now finds himself under the necessity of pressing for wage ceiling legislation not the least of the causes is the attitude on wage issues that have come before it of the board he named.

The evidence is convincing that the public has not liked the attitude of Congress on farm parities or its persistent refusal to concede that if there is to be effective price control there must be some effective measure for wage control. If the President is now of a mind to force these issues-and so wage issue-there is no doubt that he will be strongly backed by an impressive majority of the people.

New Scrap Drive Begins In County

To meet the call for more scrap iron, steel and other salvage materials, a new drive was started in Marquette county this week under the leadership of Wilbur J. Weber, county Salvage for Victory chairman.

"As the war progresses and we begin to play a greater part, the need for scrap materials increases," Weber said yesterday. "The American steel industry this year hopes to produce 85,000,000 tons of steel, as much as all foreign countries can produce,

"To bring steel production up to the industry's full capacity of 90,-000,000 tons in 1943, however, the steel industry needs an extra 6,-000,000 tons of scrap steel for its furnaces. Every ton of scrap we can send in will directly help the war effort and will swell our production of tanks, ships, planes and ty men are going into military service," Weber stated. "On the home front we must see to it that industry does not lack materials needed for arming and equipping them. Housewife Can Help

"Every housewife can play an important part in this drive. She should inspect carefully all of her house furnishings to determine what equipment has outlived its usefulness and can be turned over for scrap.

"An old iron pot or a knife in the kitchen, the steel springs of an old upholstered chair in the attic, some discarded pipe or heating equipment in the cellar, unused wire clothes hangers in a closet-these are a few of the items that will provide pounds and pounds of scrap. "Waste kitchen pots, and rub-ber, are also needed badly and should be turned in."

Hargrove. Thriftiness, though looked upon as one of the major virtues in our grandmothers' days, was never cultivated by the younger generation. It just wasn't smart to be thrifty. Today, British women (and probably tomorrow, American women) are bewailing the fact they were never taught that mending was a fine art. Even the British army has 'make - and - mend" days. Holed socks, torn uniforms and underwear, instead of being automatically thrown out as in the good old days, are now carefully collected, gone over and repaired.

"Tommies" Darn

No issues of new garments are allowed when any single one can be mended or darned or patched. The Tommies are being taught to darn socks and patch up torn battle-dress-but, when it's too big a job, it is handed over to a woman expert.

Making-over and mending have become front-line necessities of civilian life, with the nation continually being exhorted to make what they already have last, whenever possible.

Taking the shine out of navy blue trousers, far from being classed along with other "littleknown occupations" is not only a flourishing trade but is being widely advertised by some of the exclusive West End outfitters. Khaki trousers get shiny too; one swank firm claims to go one better and restore the nap of any fabric to its original texture. This is done by an electrical process and the cost is relatively small-around four dollars for a uniform or civilian suit and half that for a shirt or trousers. This includes cleaning and pressing too.

The small cobbler who, before the war, eked out a meager living repairing footwear, now finds himself unable to cope with the amount of work which comes his way. Countless men and women have gone through old closets and trunks for discarded shoes, wondering how they ever could have been so thriftless before.

Plenty Of Music

Tonight the Legion junior drum and bugle corps put on a snappy exhibition at the city square, after which the Industrial association band arrived on the scene and, with the drum corps as escort, marched to the rock garden of the Mather Inn for a formal concert.

Merchants had booths near the Inn and women went through the throng selling corsages, Lapel-V's, boutonnieres and stamp handkerchiefs, all designed to increase sales and bring the merchants up to their quota for July.

The Ishpeming Store company, C. Penney, F. W. Woolworth, Koski Mercantile, Gately's, Style Shop, Isidor Dubinsky, and Riley Hat Shop made corsages and other novelties, or sponsored booths from which stamps were sold. Some did both.

Sheehan Gives Address

Thousands thronged the streets tonight for the special events in connection with the observance. During the intermission in the band concert program Ralph Shee-han, of the Michigan State police, Change Aids delivered an impressive address on "American Heroes Day" in which he pointed out that "the men who are in our armed forces and upon are in our armed forces and upon whom we depend to win this war are not expecting or looking for individual recognition as heroes, but are in their doing what they conceive to be their duty as Amerwhich must be sacrificed on the home front to give them the support they must have. They cannot do the job alone."

War Stamps For New Baby Come In Greeting Card

Probably the cave dweller, if he ever had an opportunity to shove aside the thought the was too inarticulate to express) that his first business was self-preservation, now and then encountered a person whom he looked upon with special favor, a person he considered what we now call a friend.

One wonders how he designated such, set him apart from inimical acquaintances or strangers.

Doubtless the cave dweller's accelade of affection and friendship was the presntation of a gift of food, or mayhap a stout cudgel.

Is Old Custom

For there is no doubt that man likes to give gifts to those he loves. For centuries past there, now and again, appeared in the records note of some gift given in salutation to a visitor of high degree, or as a greeting to a friend on a special occasion.

Some may recall that it was 100 years ago that the first Christmas greeting card was put on the market in England. Since then the greeting card industry is one that as run into tall figures.

Miss Grace Ross Urges Nurses To Be Prepared

Recently Miss Grace Ross, a former resident of Marquette, daughter of Mrs. William Ross, West Ohio street, was interviewed in Detroit by Jean Pearson.

Said Miss Ross: "When you consider that the Army alone is taking about a 7,000,000 man force, and h takes at least six nurses for every thousand, you can see why there is such a crying shortage of trained nurses.

Miss Ross, who is chairman of the Detroit Red Cross chapter's committee on nursing, notes that is why over 100 senior students of nursing in Detroit took the Red Cross Nurse reserve pin Tuesday: When they have graduated they may have their choice of becoming either a second lieutenant in the Army or an ensign in the Navy."

Nurses For Civilians Needed

She stressed the great need of nurses, too, for the civilian population, and reminded: "There's no need to try to fool ourselves. It's going to be a lot worse before it gets better."

She was speaking from experience, said the interviewer, Jean Pearson, for during the last war, Miss Ross, who is now director of he division of nursing of the De-

'Darn It' Now England's Lusty War Slogan

LONDON - By the time peace comes, thriftiness will be so firmly anchored in the British nation's scheme of living that it will have become second nature, says Rosette Hargrove.

Thriftiness, though looked upon as one of the major virtues in our grandmothers' days, was never cultivated by the younger generation. It just wasn't smart to be thrifty. Today, British women (and probably tomorrow, American women) are bewailing the fact they were never taught that mending was a fine art.

Even the British army has 'make - and - mend" days. Holed socks, torn uniforms and underwear, instead of being automaticalthrown out as in the good old days, are now carefully collected, gone over and repaired.

"Tommies" Darn

No issues of new garments are allowed when any single one can be mended or darned or patched. The Tommies are being taught to darn socks and patch up torn battle-dress-but, when it's too big a job, it is handed over to a woman expert.

Making-over and mending have become front-line necessities of civilian life, with the nation continually being exhorted to make what they already have last, whenever possible.

Taking the shine out of navy blue trousers, far from being classed along with other "littleknown occupations" is not only a flourishing trade but is being wide ly advertised by some of the exclusive West End outfitters. Khaki trousers get shiny too; one swank firm claims to go one better and restore the nap of any fabric to its original texture. This is done by an electrical process and the cost is relatively small-around four dollars for a uniform or civilian suit and half that for a shirt or trousers. This includes cleaning and pressing too.

The small cobbler who, before the war, eked out a meager living repairing footwear, now finds himself unable to cope with the amount of work which comes his way, Countless men and women have gone through old closets and trunks for discarded shoes, wondering how they ever could have been so thriftless before.

Girdles Repaired

City Honors Heroes; Buys War Stamps

ISHPEMING, July 17-Favored with ideal summer weather following a discouraging morning rain, this community, whose slogan has become "More Ore to Win the War," today participated to the utmost in the observance of "American Heroes Day" with color, music, speeches-and generous purchases of war savings stamps and bonds. The picture was 100 per cent pro-American as shoppers bought stamps, merchants reported increased enthusiasm and colorful novelties spurred interest in stamp

Plenty Of Music

Tonight the Legion junior drum and bugle corps put on a snappy exhibition at the city square, after which the Industrial association band arrived on the scene and, with the drum corps as escort, marched to the rock garden of the Mather Inn for a formal concert.

Merchants had booths near the Inn and women went through the throng selling corsages, Lapel-V's, boutonnieres and stamp handkerchiefs, all designed to increase sales and bring the merchants up to their quota for July.

The Ishpeming Store company, J. C. Penney, F. W. Woolworth, Koski Mercantile, Gately's, Style Shop, Isidor Dubinsky, and Riley Hat Shop made corsages and othfrom which stamps were sold. Some did both.

Sheehan Gives Address

Thousands thronged the streets tonight for the special events in License Law connection with the observance. During the intermission in the band concert program Ralph Shee-han, of the Michigan State police, Change Aids delivered an impressive address on "American Heroes Day" in which he pointed out that "the men who are in our armed forces and upon whom we depend to win this war are not expecting or looking for individual recognition as heroes, but are in their doing what they conceive to be their duty as Amerwhich must be sacrificed on the home front to give them the support they must have. They cannot do the job alone."

Heroes Day Spurs War Stamp Sales

NEGAUNEE, July 17-The sale of war savings stamps in Negaunce zoomed today as the community observed "American Heroes' Day," sponsored by retail merchants of the county.

Rain fell throughout the morning, but the retailers reported encouraging results in the early afternoon and the sales increased as the day progressed. Booths staffed by women were placed in the business district and hundreds of corsages, boutonnieres and other war stamp novelties were sold,

Merchants reported that customers were buying stamps without being urged.

"Everywhere there has been evidence that the people have caught the full significance of this drive, said C. J. Tamblin, general chair man. "We had fine cooperation and the character of the preparations has been reflected in the results.

Negaunee residents are particularly proud of their own group of heroes, a pride reflected by the hundreds who gathered around the windows of Levine Brothers and the Ben Franklin stores where more than 100 pictures of service men are displayed. A special space was reserved for the picture of Walter Beamer, who was killed in service last January.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 17-"Six Marine Corps dive-bombers attacked the enemy force in the face of heavy odds" . . . "Sixteen Marine Corps dive-bombers attacked and scored three hits on a carrier Another group of eleven Ma rine Corps dive-bombers reported two hits on an enemy battleship."

These quotations, from the Navy Department's recent thrilling story of the great Midway Island battle add a glory-brilliant chapter to the history of the smallest-and least known - air arm of the United States forces.

Planes Widely Scattered

One reason Marine Corps Aviation is little known is that planes of the Fleet Mariae Wings have been scattered all over the vast island and coastal theater of war -as holding forces, scouting forces and initial striking forces.

Another reason is that when join ed in action by fleet units, the Marines operate with and are indistinguishable from the Navy flyers. Both have identical equipment and aircraft insignia.

In the Coral Sea and Midway battles, the Marine airmen played heroic roles, along with their teammates of the Army and Navy. The epic of Wake was something else again, of course; that was an all-Leatherneck show. Marine Corps Aviation is the one air arm that must be utterly self-sufficient, and by the same token, it is the most versatile.

Individual pilots have extra responsibilities. First they go through the regular naval air training course, which includes aircraft carrier training because they must be able to replace or relieve the Navy's carrier squadrons.

After that, they spend six weeks with Fleet Marine Aircraft tactical units, and then are assigned to Marine Aviation Wings for squadron News Behind the News and group training before being PHILADELPHIA, July 17-A-Stocky Chet Laabs continued his batting spree for the St. Louis Browns today - socking out two more homers and driving in six runs-as the Browns beat the Athletics in both ends of a doubleheader, 4 to 2 and 11 to 1, to oust Detroit from fourth place.

The Browns now have won eight games in a row-one from the Yankees, three from the Red Sox and four from the A's-and Laabs' mighty bat has provided the power to win nearly all of them.

In the last seven days he has walloped six homers and driven in 22 runs. He now has clouted 17 homers and batted in 64 runs compared to his 15 roundtrippers and 59 RBI for the entire 1941 campaign.

Herman Besse held the Browns in check in the opener except for a four-run uprising in the sixth, climaxed by Laab's four-bagger with Mike Chartak on base. Steve Sundra was nicked for 11 hits, but was effective in the pinches.

Laabs' second roundtripper of the day and his fifth in the fourgame series came in the first inning of the nightcap, again with Chartak on base. In the fifth he trippled in two more runs. Stan Ferens blanked the A's until the ninth when Buddy Blair's single drove in Dee Miles. (First Game)

In foursome pairings both captains led with strength. Hogan and Demaret, moving up from the challengers, went unbeaten through two previous tests in the domestic series. Little, who teamed with Mangrum for the Inverness invitational title at Toledo, has a good partner in Cooper, who won his match here two years ago.

Picard and Byrd, runners-up at Toledo, apparently are well matched with Nelson and Dudley, the latter a last-minute replacement for Sam Snead, who was unable to arrange leave from the Navy. In the singles there may be real lineup manipulations, depending, of course, on the relative status of the squads in foursome play.

The third renewal of the series is expected to yield $25,000 for the Red Cross. More than $30,000 was raised when the cuppers beat Sarazen's challengers in 1940 and lost to Bobby Jones' squad last year.

In conjunction with tomorrow's play, Fred Corcoran, PGA tournament manager, said the association's advisory committee would meet to plan a possible war relief golf tour by a squad of the nation's top pros in September.

Wide World Features

"FIRST to fight for right and freedom"-from the hymn of the United States Marine corps. And here are some other Marine firsts:

First step to provide Marines was taken November 10, 1775, when the Continental Congress authorized two battalions

First Marine officer was Lieut. John Trevett, who reported for duty aboard the Columbus in November, 1775.

First Marine recruiting station was at Tun tavern, Philadelphia. First Marine unit was a detachment aboard the Cabot in Decem-ber, 1775, as part of the naval squadron under Comm. Esek Hopkins.

First Marines in the northwest territory were with George Rogers Clark on his tour of exploration in 1778

First (and last) time a Marine corps was disbanded occurred in 1785 when the Alliance, last ship of the Continental Navy, was disposed of. On July 11, 1798, Congress authorized creation of the present organization.

WASHINGTON -A- Dropped by the Army, at least for the duration, are the symbols A. M. and P. M. "You gotta get up" at 0545 at Army camps nowadays. Taps is sounded at 2200.

Under the 24-hour system adopted July 1 by the Army, the "Chattanooga Choo-Choo" leaves Pennsylvania Station at 1545 instead of a quarter to four."

There is nothing new about the system. It has been in use by governments, railways, steamship companies and airlines throughout Europe for many years. The Navy adopted it in 1920, has used it continuously since.
