At Least 16 Killed In Army Transport Crash

PONCE, PUERTO RICO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—More than 16 persons were reported killed today in the crash of a United States Army transport plane near Orocovis.

The plane was reported off its route.

Twenty persons were said to have been on board.

It left Ponce at 8:30 a. m. and was seen from the air about 11 a. m.

An ambulance was sent out immediately.

Amount Of Meat For Civilians Cut

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration tonight issued an order to meat packers cutting the amount of meat going into civilian consumption by almost 20 per cent.

The order, a preliminary step to the meat rationing program which will cut consumers to about two and a half pounds a week by the end of the year, is effective immediately and will remain in force until December 31.

Assign Quotas to Packers

The action was taken by assigning quotas to all packers, specifying the amount of beef, veal, pork, mutton and lamb which may be distributed for civilian use.

The Army and Navy said lend-lease would take 90 per cent of the "cutter and carner" grades of beef, used in "bully beef" and corned beef. An official of the Agriculture department said this was in order to permit the Army to build up during the rest of this year supplies of "iron rations" for the use of American expeditionary forces.

Actual Start of Rationing

The order was intended to establish an iron clad control over meat to insure that sufficient quantities are conserved for the armed forces and lend-lease.

The order, in effect a rationing at the packer level, does not specify how quotas shall be distributed among different parts of the country or between customers, but Price Administrator Leon Henderson said he had called upon the packers to see that "our available meat supplies flow steadily and evenly into all parts of the country." He said he was confident the industry would cooperate fully.

Henderson also asked consumers to comply with the Government's share-the-meat program by holding per capita consumption to not more than 2-1/2 pounds a week.

1,000 Netherlanders Taken as Hostages, Report

LONDON, Oct. 2 (Friday)—(AP)—The Daily Express reported in a Stockholm dispatch today that a German aircraft in the Netherlands had seized 1,000 Netherlanders children as hostages as a result of a wave of sabotage sweeping the country.

The children were said to be mostly from Jewish families.

President Finds Production Satisfactory on 8,000-Mile Journey to Arms Factories

By Douglas B. Cornell

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, completing today a secret inspection tour of war activities from border to border and coast to coast, expressed the firm conviction that production was going along extremely well and that the national capital was lagging far behind the rest of the country in war spirit.

At a special press conference, he said he had found war plants operating at 94 to 95 per cent of efficiency, with both labor and management traveling with all possible speed toward the goal of maximum output.

Leave Strategy To Experts

In declaring that war spirit was not as high in Washington as elsewhere, he cited three reasons:

1. Many members of Congress, seeking to justify their service to the war effort, are delving into questions which should be left to military experts. This was no new thing, he said. It has been going on since the American Revolution.
2. A minority of the press and radio, which appears not to be really familiar with the country, was thinking in local terms and disseminating sentimental news. While most stories are all right, he said, some do harm because they aren't based on facts, and the greatest offenders are some commentators and columnists. (Asked to give specific examples, the President declined.)
3. Certain Administration officials, who might well button up their lips. Some of these men, who do not have access to full information or possibly are publicity seekers, make picturesque speeches, he said. Sometimes they act under the impression that insufficient emphasis is being given to their particular fields.

Discussing his trip, which had been kept secret until the White House lifted the censorship veil today, Mr. Roosevelt remarked that there had been no suppression of news. The three representatives of major news services—AP, UP and INS—who accompanied him were given complete freedom, he said.

8,754 Miles In Two Weeks

He read all the stories they had written and deleted nothing, he said. Asked whether he had added anything, he said he thought he had added several touches.

The President had traveled 8,754 miles in two weeks, through half the states and a sliver of Mexico. Dodging big cities wherever possible, he dropped in on 11 private war plants, and on eight Army, seven Navy and two Marine stations.

He saw soldiers, sailors and marines being toughened for battle, "wounded ships and wounded men" from battles already fought, and death-dealing war machines for land, air and sea forces rolling off assembly lines in growing volume. He observed how management and labor were trying to win the battle of production.

And he was so pleased with the trip around the edge of the nation that he expressed a hope he would be able to make one or two similar trips next spring through the center of the country and into the southeast. Among the things that impressed the Chief Executive most deeply was the increased and increasing employment of women in all kinds of plants, including Navy yards. He was certain that a howl would have been heard around the world had he tried to give women jobs in the yards a year ago.

To get those ideas, Mr. Roosevelt left Washington September 17, touching Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, New Brighton, Minn., Athol,

Press Lauded For Keeping Trip Secret

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Byron Price, director of censorship, said tonight that the press and radio demonstrated their patriotism and proved "the workability of voluntary censorship" by keeping President Roosevelt's inspection trip a secret.

"For two solid weeks every newspaper, every radio station and every periodical in the United States kept a secret the news of the President's trip across the country and back inspecting war plants and camps first hand.

"Most of them knew about the trip which would ordinarily be big news as soon as it happened. But the only consideration in all their minds was the safety of the commander-in-chief in war time so far as they could contribute to it—a consideration which was called to their attention by the voluntary radio and press censorship code.

"No mandate or compulsion in law caused the publishers and broadcasters to keep this secret. They were guided purely by their own patriotism and caution in abnormal times. In some cases they cancelled regular working confidential telegraph messages for fear of transmitting inadvertently any information of the President's movements.

"The American press and broadcasters have never before made such a sacrifice of regular operations. Their act provides striking proof of the workability of voluntary censorship which must rest on the patriotism of press and broadcasting agencies."

RAF Bombers Resume Raids on Nazi Targets

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Resuming bombing attacks on the continent after a week's layoff, RAF bombers scored hits on chemical works at Sluis, Holland, and an oil refinery near Ghent, the air ministry reported tonight.

Single aircraft were sent out this evening and all returned to their bases, the ministry added.

The last bombing attack was on the U-boat yards at Flensburg September 24.

MacArthur Lured Foe Into Jungle Trap

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

Japanese troops which "sit on New Guinea," as Hitler put it in his Berlin broadcast, probably do not wholly share either his confidence that "they will get all New Guinea into their possession" or his scornful contempt for General MacArthur.

It is conceivable Japanese leadership is more concerned immediately over extricating its mountain climbing forces on New Guinea from what begins to look like a MacArthur-prepared trap than with ways and means of taking over the whole island.

There is no doubt that the Japanese attempt to take Port Moresby by crossing the Owen Stanley range from bases on the north coast of New Guinea has backfired. Whether the Japanese retreat northwest is actually an attempt to withdraw to the bomb-battered beachheads of the expedition for a sea evacuation or a withdrawal to less exposed defense positions is not yet clear. Surrender of Nauro ridge without a fight, permitting an almost unopposed Australian advance another 10 miles, has the look of an escape effort in which the prime factor is speed at the price of abandoned stores and installations.

Defense Design Clearer

New Guinea developments tend to explain to this writer something that greatly puzzled him weeks ago. The first word of the Japanese breakthrough by way of a 6,000-foot mountain pass to begin a descent upon Port Moresby came from MacArthur's headquarters, not Japan. That was on September 10. It said Australian defenders of the heights had been outflanked both north and south of the gap, the enemy driving through beyond a point on the south flank of the ridge.

It seemed a perilous stab. Japanese forces had penetrated the tremendous mountain barrier where only jungle trails were available and ultimately were within 32 miles, air line, of Port Moresby. Yet the MacArthur bulletin was quite bland about it. It was obvious that the general had not thrown heavy reserves into action to hold the pass despite his readily available superior forces and shorter and less difficult lines of communication. It invited the conclusion that he had some other defense design.

Supply Problem Difficult

The obvious weakness of the Japanese thrust was its extended and difficult supply lines. They ran from 100 miles over narrow trails and through rugged country. Every manpower replacement, every gun or round of ammunition, every pound of food for the troops at the front had to make that passage over the pass. And every foot of the way as well as the sea approach to Buna was under relationship.

Australians Pursue Japanese Through New Guinea Jungle; Hold Firm, Stalin Tells Reds

Nazis Gain in Northwestern Suburbs of Stalingrad, But Retreat in Another Sector

By Eddy Gilmore

MOSCOW, Oct. 2 (Friday)—(AP)—A German siege army of 300,000 men advanced slightly in the northwestern outskirts of imperiled Stalingrad yesterday, but was forced out of another locality south of the city, the Red high command announced today on the 39th day of siege.

In a situation frankly described as Stalingrad's most decisive moment the Red army garrison fought on in response to Josef Stalin's telephoned command: "Hold firm! Put down any panic!"

Anti-Inflation Bill Passage Today Likely

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today criticized the delay in Congress in enacting his anti-inflation program, but reserved an opinion on the Senate compromise bill until he had conferred with Congressional leaders tonight.

He told a press conference—a special one called to report on his two-week tour of the country—that he would confer with some of the leaders tonight, mostly by telephone. He did not say, however, whether any of them would call personally at the White House.

He also related a hitherto unpublished account of a reunion he had with former Vice-President Garner at Garner's home at Uvalde, Texas, during his war plant inspection tour. He reported that Garner agreed with most of the people the President had talked with on his journey, namely, that the people were a bit jittery about the increase in the cost of living.

Would Remove People's Fears

The President added that Garner contended, as did others with whom he talked, that anything that could be done to prevent this increase would remove one of the major fears in the country districts.

In criticizing the delay on his anti-inflation program, the President compared today's Congress with that in 1933 when, he said, it was the normal thing for Congress to pass needed legislation in a purely domestic economic crisis in 24 hours or in a couple of days.

He contrasted this with today's situation where he said the very existence of the nation was threatened from the outside and it was important to have speed.

Meanwhile, the row in Congress over farm price ceilings in the anti-inflation bill appeared to be nearing a peaceful ending as House farm bloc leaders disclosed they would support a compromise approved by the Senate.

Blood Banks Distributed For Emergency Use

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The sixth civilian defense region said today that 8,000 units of frozen blood plasma had been distributed for civilian emergency use to hospitals in Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, the area served by the sixth region.

These blood banks, established by the Office of Civilian Defense through the Red Cross procurement program, will be maintained exclusively for treatment of casualties resulting from enemy action.

Alpha Man Burned In Fire Aboard Tanker

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., Oct. 1.—(AP)—An explosion set fire to the oil laden tanker Michigan docked in the Indiana Harbor ship canal today and one man was believed lost and seven others of the crew of 31 and a Coast Guardsman were burned.

Coast Guard boats fought the flames and searched the canal for the engineer who, one crewman said, was trapped below deck and leaped through a porthole into the water. The Coast Guard said the missing man was Severin Hauge, Staten Island, N. Y.

Fire apparatus of the oil companies and the city of East Chicago fought the flames for an hour and a half.

Ernest Talbot, 33, Detroit, a cook, was most seriously burned. Others burned included Ernest Whol, 47, Toledo, a fireman; James Sturdevant, 26, Port Huron, Mich.; deckhand Leo Nowark, 21, Detroit; a Coast Guardsman; Ted Kaleski, 39, Alpha, Mich.; deckhand, and Edward Schultz, 31, Detroit, a cook.

Ruthless Devastation Of Enemy Lands Demanded By Legion's New Commander

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The American Legion's new national commander called tonight for "ruthless" prosecution of the war and "ruthless" devastation of "the lands and cities of our enemies," and then enforce a dictated peace.

This nation must be knit into a great fighting giant, with the will to kill, destroy, and to win, Commander Roane Waring declared in his address at a homecoming celebration marking his return from the Legion's national convention at Kansas City.

"America, even now, has not yet settled down to total war," he said. "Too much time is consumed by labor over questions of jurisdictional strikes, too much bickering between bureaus in Washington, too many instances of jealousy are in evidence in our armed forces—and again, too much unnecessary hesitancy and relay prevails in Congressional action.

"The time has come for us to demand of those to whom we have

Allied Planes Blast Enemy Supply Lines

By C. Yates McDaniel

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Oct. 2 (Friday)—(AP)—Without meeting any Japanese opposition, hardened Australian soldiers made progress today through the mountains and jungles of New Guinea toward Menari, 46 miles north of Port Moresby, while Allied heavy bombers destroyed a large section of the important Wairoi bridge on the Japanese supply line, General MacArthur announced today.

Make Direct Hits On Bridge

The Japanese were being harried from the jungle and from the air by the Allied offensive in the Owen Stanley mountains. The advancing Australians have advanced more than 10 miles over tortuous terrain since they dislodged the Japanese from their advance point only 32 miles from Port Moresby.

"Ground forces continued progress north of Nauro toward Menari," General MacArthur's communique said today.

Schedules Of Passenger Trains Frozen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Government today froze railway passenger schedules, effective October 4, and called a halt on all special trains to sports events.

Director Joseph B. Eastman, of the Office of Defense Transportation, restricted all passenger trains to the schedules existing September 26, in a move designed to ease the burden on wartime transportation facilities.

The order, in addition to ruling out specials to football games, races and other sports events, prevents the running of extra sections to regular trains unless they have been operated at least 20 per cent of the time during the last 90 days to handle normal passenger traffic.

It also bars special cars chartered for baseball teams, orchestras, etc. This means, an ODT spokesman said, that if the current World Series continues beyond October 4 the players, accustomed to special cars, would be compelled to buy train tickets between St. Louis and New York in the regular way and "hope to get reservations."

The New York Yankees travelled to St. Louis in three special cars. The Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals will travel to New York tomorrow for three more games and, if the series is not then over, the teams must return to St. Louis.

Trailer-Making Plant Damaged by Blaze

CHESANING, Mich., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Fire swept the plant of the Roycraft Coach Co., engaged in making trailers for the Government, today. A. J. Roy, president of the concern, estimated the loss at $25,000.

Roy said operations would continue while repairs are being made. He attributed the blaze to a bursting electric light bulb, believed to have ignited petrol fumes in a spray booth.

Main Enemy Force Not Engaged

American and Australian tank bombers and heavy bombers made repeated attacks on Japanese positions and supply lines, centering their weight on Menari, which lies four miles beyond the latest Allied conquest of Nauro. Nauro fell without the main body of Japanese troops engaged, but the enemy was known to have developed defense positions in depths in some of the most rugged country on earth.

In the 10-mile advance from the Toribawa ridge, Gen. MacArthur's men had to climb and descend 4,000 feet of rough mountains, cut away by the rugged trails. Their advance was so swift, however, that the Japanese did not have time to build intermediary defenses. Headquarters sources expected the advance to be slower as the Japanese were pushed closer to their supply base in the Buna-Cona area on the north coast.

Paris Press Calls For Alliance With Axis

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The German-occupied Paris press opened a campaign today to bring France into a military alliance with the Axis and clear the way for German aid in the "defense" of the French African empire.

Simultaneously Vichy announced a decision to evacuate European women and children from Dakar.

The Paris radio has made repeated assertions that the Allies soon would attack Dakar, strategic naval base in West Africa. Numerous conferences have been held among Vichy military chiefs and colonial administrators on defense problems.

Today the Axis radios resounded with tales of great activity at Gibraltar, presumably aimed at Dakar, Casablanca, Tunis or Algiers. All these reports lacked confirmation.

Marquette's Ore Tonnage Off 612,202

Ore shipments from Marquette's two docks for the season to October 1 aggregate 3,662,838 tons, or 612,202 less than the 4,275,040 tons shipped up to October 1 last year.

Dock superintendents at the L. S. & I. and the D. S. S. & A reported yesterday that 518,588 tons were shipped from the city in September, compared with 614,271 in the same month last year.

The South Shore reported its second best month of the season, its shipments in September amounting to 105,985 tons. In May the South Shore loaded 110,599 tons.

It opened with 46,383 in April and shipped 101,384 in June, 68,778 in July and 101,483 in August.

The L. S. & I. loaded 412,600 tons in 53 boats last month, compared with 503,049 in 63 carriers in September, 1941.

In September, 1941, the South Shore loaded 111,222 tons, slightly more than this year's mark for the corresponding month. Fifty-three carriers have taken, to October 1, an aggregate of 531,921 tons of ore, compared with 612,202 tons in 61 boats to October 1, 1941.

Record Set For District
CLEVELAND, Oct. 1.—P—Iron ore movements from the Lake Superior district totaled 11,847,919 gross tons in September, a new record for the month despite adverse weather conditions, the Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported today.

This was 14.9 per cent higher than the 10,311,517 tons shipped the corresponding month last year and compared with movement of 13,235,862 tons in August.

Last month's shipments brought the total for the season to October 1 to 72,441,453 tons, an increase of 10,417,225, or 16.8 per cent, compared with the 62,024,228 tons for the corresponding period in 1941.

Severe Penalties For Speedsters in Detroit

DETROIT, Oct. 1.—P—Police ticketed the first violator of the new 35-miles-an-hour speed limit today just two and a half hours after the regulation became effective at midnight. His license was suspended for four months in traffic court, and he was given the alternative of paying a $75 fine or serving 15 days in jail for driving 48 miles an hour and ignoring a stop street.

More than a dozen other violators arrested on the first day of the new speed limit were fined from $25 to $75. Two men charged with drunk driving were given until Friday to pay $300 each, half of which was to go to the Red Cross in contributions.

New Sugar Delivery Zones Established

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—P—Three new sugar delivery zones for distribution of western beet and cane sugar were set up today by the Office of Price Administration in a further move to avert cross-hauling of sugar and to free more freight cars for war materials.

The OPA said creation of the new zones, bringing the total number of zones to 11, "was necessary to regulate the distribution of sugar which will be produced from the new beet crop now being harvested in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana."

The Lower Peninsula of Michigan was designated as zone 9; the territory from eastern Indiana to Maine which is not included in the seaboard refiners' zones as zone 10, and territory outside the seaboard and gulf zones but not included in the new zones as zone 11.

Harry Kelly Speaks Here Next Tuesday

Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly, Republican candidate for governor, and Judge Homer Ferguson, Detroit, Republican candidate for United States Senator, will make a swing through the Upper Peninsula next week and will visit Marquette county Tuesday, it was announced last evening by James A. Jerstad, Republican county chairman.

Mr. Kelly will arrive in Ishpeming Tuesday morning and will be the guest of the Ishpeming club at luncheon in the Mather Inn Tuesday noon.

Early Tuesday afternoon Kelly will come to Marquette and speak at a dinner to be served in Guild hall, beginning at 5:15. The dinner will be concluded at 6:15 and at 6:30 an address by Mr. Kelly will be broadcast from the studio of WDMJ, the Mining Journal radio station, and relayed by WDMJ to all other radio stations in the Upper Peninsula.

Rally at Negaunee
Following his radio address Kelly will go to Negaunee where he will join Judge Ferguson and Eugene C. Keyes, Republican candidate for Lieutenant-governor. The three candidates will speak there at a county Republican rally. It will be held at the city band shell and will begin at 8. If the weather is unfavorable the rally will be held in the Negaunee high school auditorium.

Wednesday Judge Ferguson and Mr. Kelly are scheduled to speak in Munising at the annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau.

King Ben's Fence Going Into Scrap Pile

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Oct. 1.—P—The hand-wrought fence which two of his followers fabricated for King Ben (bewhiskered Benjamin Purnell) of the House of David, is going into the scrap pile.

The ornamental structure was built in 1904, a year after Purnell and his wife arrived in Benton Harbor with their belongings in a push cart. It was erected around the first temple, occupied by King Ben.

The House of David cult, which flourished under King Ben's leadership, was divided following charges of immoral rites which were aired during a receivership trial.

Albion Freshman Found Dead of Gunshot Wound

ALBION, Mich., Oct. 1.—P—Charles Hughes, Jr., 17-year-old Albion college freshman, was found dead of a gunshot wound in his parents' home here last night. Relatives said they believed the gun was discharged accidentally while the youth, an enthusiastic hunter, was inspecting it.

Young Hughes' mates on the Albion football squad, who considered him a promising guard prospect, will participate in twilight funeral services Saturday following their afternoon game with Ohio Northern university.

Action Taken Against Persons Hoarding Scrap

DETROIT, Oct. 1.—P—John D. McGillis, executive secretary of the Michigan state salvage committee, today ordered 83 county salvage chairmen to prepare for requisition all cases in which persons were refusing to sell their scrap to the Government at a fair price.

McGillis said he hesitated to take the step because of a fear that some American might be disgraced. "There is always a possibility," he said, "that the person is holding the scrap not realizing the need for it in the war effort."

Air Warning Service To Start Sunday

The aircraft warning service set up in Marquette as the request of the United States Army will be put into operation Sunday morning at 7 a. m., it was announced yesterday by Ralph H. Eldredge, chief observer.

Manned by a force of men and women volunteers numbering about 300, the aircraft observation post, erected on top of the penthouse on the Gravenet high school roof, will be operated on a 24-hour basis for the duration of the war. Two observers will be on duty at all hours and each shift will run three hours. Each observed will be required to work one shift every two weeks.

All observers have been notified relative to the hours they have been scheduled for duty and have been requested, in a bulletin received yesterday, to attend a meeting in the Gravenet high school auditorium this evening at 7:30.

Final instructions will be given observers at tonight's meeting by Mr. Eldredge, chief observer; William F. Armstrong, first assistant, and Mrs. R. T. Young, second assistant.

The following nine men left yesterday morning to take final physical examinations in Milwaukee:

John P. Novey, 20, Alpha; Charles G. Gossen, 20, Bessemer; Vernon J. Harrington, 21, Crystal Falls; Hilding E. Skoglund, 20, and Norman A. Hagman, 21, both of Gladstone; Raymond A. Amicangelo, 20, Iron Mountain; Darwin E. Nichols, 20, St. Ignace; Joseph Ostanek, 21, Traunick; and Eugene J. Fastelin, 21, Verona.

Warrant Against Fenner Sought in Liquor Hoax

LANSING, Oct. 1.—(P)—The state liquor control commission today requested Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton to obtain a warrant against former State Senator Clyde V. Fenner, Detroit, in connection with a recent liquor tax stamp hoax.

The commission asked the attorney general to proceed under a statute making it a misdemeanor to willfully report a fictitious crime.

Fenner recently submitted to Rushton a number of bottles of whiskey bearing state liquor tax stamps which, the attorney general said, Fenner described as bootlegged liquor. Subsequently, however, Fenner released a statement declaring he had placed the stamps on the bottles himself, having removed them from bottles he purchased legally in this state. He explained he wanted to demonstrate this was possible with the type of stamp now used. Rushton said he had been made the victim of a hoax.

Fenner was a salesman for a stamp concern whose project has been rejected by the commission. R. Glen Dunn, deputy attorney general, declined to comment today, declaring the commission's letter had not yet reached the office. Rushton was away.

Train Fire Blamed On Boy's Curiosity

DENVER, Oct. 1—P—The curiosity of an eight-year-old boy was blamed tonight for fire that damaged five units of a Denver-to-Chicago streamlined train in northwestern Colorado last night. R. J. Brandt, acting special agent in charge of the Denver FBI office, said the boy related that he leaned an angle iron against one rail of Union Pacific railroad tracks 2 1/2 miles west of Snyder "to find out how far it would be thrown when a locomotive ran over it."

The next train along was the U. P.'s eastbound City of Denver. As the Diesel power unit ran over the iron it was flipped between the tracks into an upright position, causing a fuel tank to be punctured. Fuel sprayed along the side of the train, traveling at about 90 miles per hour, and caught fire from a spark.

Politics In War Effort, Kelly Charges

JACKSON, Oct. 1.—Harry F. Kelly, Republican nominee for Governor, opened his campaign here tonight in an address assailing wartime policies of Governor Van Wagener, his Democratic rival, and charging that "politics has been deliberately placed into this war effort by the Governor himself."

Kelly glibed at the Governor's campaign literature which describes him as a "war Governor," challenging the Executive's right to the title. He accused Van Wagener of having delayed the setting up of civilian protective services. The speech, broadcast and also delivered to a political rally, declared that Van Wagener, after the Japs struck Pearl Harbor last December 7, conferred with "his Democratic advisers" on the need for a special session of the legislature, but did not consult Republican state officials.

Politics 'Must Be Ripped Out'

"The next day," he continued, "every thoughtful man who follows government at Lansing knew that the politics that had saturated and hampered the war effort before Pearl Harbor did not stop at Pearl Harbor but apparently would be carried on.

It has been carried on from that day, and I say that type of leadership must come to an end in Michigan. Politics must be ripped out of Michigan's war effort, and I shall keep it out from next January 1 on." New Year's also will be inaugural day.

Van Wagener Opens Campaign

ADRIAN, Oct. 1.—Defining a close relation between the November election and the war, Governor Van Wagener formally opened his campaign for reelection here today.

Van Wagener, who had assumed a "non-political" attitude before the primary, flatly asserted at a luncheon meeting that "I have come here to ask you to vote for me."

Reviewing his first term administration, Van Wagener declared that "there are people who say the chief of the state and the war have nothing to do with each other. We know that is not true."

He said the state "must elect to Congress those candidates who will support our commander-in-chief, President Roosevelt, and not just support him with words, but with deeds. In state and local government, we also must have public officials who will give us honest, vigorous administration and will give effective support to the war program."

Alexander was the name of eight Popes.

people to reelect" Republican state officials, Kelly demanded. He asserted "the fact that Michigan in many months" reached a point in civilian defense organization which "should have been reached in half the time is nothing for a chief executive of this to brag about."

He said the country was at peace when Van Wagener was elected, and he therefore can not describe himself as a "war governor."

"If the people should be asked to reelect a Governor merely because he happens to be Governor while war is in progress, why did they not carry that thought to its logical conclusion, and ask the

TO THE MOTORIST AND TRUCK OWNER

Like every other loyal citizen of this last great free land, you have doubtless asked yourself, "What more can I do to help?" No matter what your answer may have been, we believe we can suggest one further service you owe your country.

That duty—heightened by war—is the conservation of your car or truck. As an average citizen, you may not even be able to replace your present motor vehicle; it therefore becomes imperative that you PRESERVE the car you now drive.

There are 32,000,000 cars and trucks in America—nearly 70 per cent of all in the world. You and I and other motorists in the country are integral parts of a civilian transportation system the like of which the world has never known before. How well we do our part on the home front "service and supply" has a very direct bearing on victory.

To help you SERVE your country by CONSERVING your car, Chevrolet has instituted a new movement, known as the Victory Service League. It is an alliance of motorists like yourself who are pledging their aid to the nation by careful driving, and proper car maintenance. These are all very direct factors in our national war on waste, for a car operating at less than its maximum efficiency burns gas and oil needlessly, and also results in parts failure.

We have associated ourselves with this new movement, believing it to be potentially one of the finest services we can render our nation at war. Our dealership has been designated Victory Service League headquarters for this area. The success of this organization, however, rests upon you in the last analysis.

Won't you drop in and let us tell you more about the Victory Service League? Your car should display the VSL emblem, for it is a badge of honor and a pledge of patriotism. We will be happy to help you help yourself . . . and serve America.

finding the going increasingly tough. Not only are they subject to price ceilings and controls, they have difficulty replacing the merchandise they take from their shelves.

As much of this business has been conducted on narrow margins failures and voluntary suspensions must increase as the months go on.

The oil and gas distributors in the rationed states, in which consumption has been reduced approximately 35 per cent, have been hard hit.

While munitions output in August was up eight per cent compared with July, Mr. Nelson, the WPB chief, says the showing was nothing to brag about.

The reasons for the small increase are not enlighteningly dealt with in Mr. Nelson's summary, perhaps because they are obscure.

Another debatable question is the effect of strikes. They were comparatively small in number and were not long lived.

All these factors have contributed to the disappointing August showing, with production falling significantly behind what it should have been in support of the valiant men in the field and on the seas.

Contemporary Opinion

The Commentator got a laugh out of the accusation made by John R. Dethmers, chairman of the Republican state central committee, that Gerald L. K. Smith is leagued with the Democrats to promote the reelection of Senator Prentiss Brown.

Smith will get the hillbilly vote, if any, and that vote is normally Democratic. This section of the state contains tens of thousands who have moved here in recent years from the hillbilly belt.

The soundest investment today is a United States Government bond. We have the opinion of almost every economist and expert in the nation for that statement.

One question about Mr. Smith's vote in the primary election none can answer. It is the proportions that came from voters usually aligned with the Republicans and those usually aligned with the Democrats.

Government economists are pessimistic about the survival of large numbers of small retailers under the war economy, so much so that they recommend provisions for their orderly liquidation as an alternative to "profitless competition."

The only peace I'm interested in is a peace that will assure the complete annihilation of the German and Japanese ideals of government.—Col. Roane Waring, new national commander of the American Legion.

Thirty Years Ago

Marquette (October 2, 1912) Eskil Carlson, school teacher at Big Bay, was in the city on his way to Iron Mountain, where he will attend the seventeenth annual teachers' institute of the Upper Peninsula Educational Institute.

Miss Mary C. Nelson left for Jackson, where she will teach the second grade in the public schools. Miss Nelson taught at Bancroft last year after being graduated from the Northern State Normal school in 1911.

Shipment of iron ore from Marquette halted for the last time today. The shipment for the last month totaled 576,176 tons, or slightly less than a quarter of the year's volume.

The report of Alma A. Olson, librarian at the Peter White Public Library, for September shows the registration, or number of cards issued, to date to be 3,374.

The Misses Rose Anderson, of Diorite, and Florence Morrow, of Champion, yesterday enrolled as students in the Ishpeming business college.

Only seven of the 80 teachers of Ishpeming public schools will attend the annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Educational association which will be held today and tomorrow in Iron Mountain.

The card party given in the parochial school building by the women of St. Paul's church congregation was a gratifying success.

How Much Of What?

The late Newton D. Baker was mayor of Cleveland when publication of the 1910 Federal census figures showed that most of the population in a place among the first six in the country.

All of us know of men taken into the draft who quite obviously are unfitted by age for Army service. Many of these men were useful in some occupation and most of them could be taught other tasks, if their accustomed ones were not directly contributing to the war effort.

Whatever size Army we think we can support is very likely not the largest we could and would support if we should be driven to the same extremities as have been the British, the Russians and the Germans.

It is a mistake to believe that congressmen have easy financial salings. Their salaries of $10,000 a year, what with campaign expenses, entertaining their constituents, and Washington living expenses, most of them are hard put to get by.

Quotations

We can help (Russia) by sending food this winter. If we don't, millions may go hungry. A hungry man, even if he has the heart of a lion, cannot go on fighting.—Wendell Willkie, speaking in Moscow.

If peace came tomorrow, Americans immediately would want $5,000,000,000 worth of automobiles, washing machines, radios, refrigerators, improvements and new houses, and what's more, would have the money.—U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

This year we must support with determination the war needs of our Allies in addition to the usual community services. Particularly we are supporting the campaigns in those far-sighted communities where war chests are established to meet all these needs in a single drive.—Philip Murray, president CIO.

Control of the seas, formerly dependent on battleships of the line, is now dependent upon control of the air.—Rear Adm. Frederick C. Sherman.

Because of the distressing, tragic total war situation, labor is called upon as never before to contribute to worthy causes, including the community chest drives.—William Green, president AFL.

Political Second Front

The silliest spectacle we have seen in a long time is that of American communists, who until June 22 of last year were doing all they could to injure this country's defenses and stab Britain in the back, holding a mass meeting in Union Square to demand that the military strategy of the United Nations be changed to suit the party line.

More serious is the frank insistence now being made in Moscow that a second front be opened at what ever cost. The Russian demands call for plain speaking. We are not in this war to save Russia.

Now let us consider our actual relationship to Russia and her actual relationship to us. Self-preservation dictates to her that she shall not risk losing more than she gains by permitting us to use her Siberian bases against Japan, though by doing so we might save many thousands of American lives and many billions of American dollars.

New York Chats

IN FLIGHT: ST. LOUIS TO ALBANY.—The sight that most impressed me in St. Louis was a uniformed guard, with shotgun over shoulder, walking 'round and 'round a great pile of used tires . . . and a pleasant luncheon with Friend Don Thompson, of the Post-Dispatch, with whom much gossip of the newspaper world and mutual friends was shared.

The streets in this fantastic, smelly city look as though they had been decorated with wild gadgets such as used to be credited to Cartoonist Rube Goldberg. I believe some young men on a Cornell University magazine first started entertaining the public with such "crazy inventions" along about the time Rube and I were wearing our first long pants.

The smells which assail the nostrils miles away from the refineries are now being bottled and sold. Perfume manufacturers are the best customers. However, gas companies that sell odorless but deadly gases also buy these smells to mix with their gases, so that they may detect the gas by the added odor, thus preventing many deaths by asphyxiation.

Weather was bad as time came for our unwilling departure from this wonderful country. We had to fly direct to Cleveland, without stopping enroute, to try to beat a "cold front" that was blowing down from Canada.

After the glass stills, towers and what-nots are studied sufficiently, the engineers go to work on a small factory that will actually produce the product in question, but in small quantity. This is called a pilot unit. It is operated generally at a loss of money until its possibilities and shortcomings have been detected and analyzed. Then they go to work on the first big plant of this new type.

But I was going to tell you about the amazing 750 acres of oil refinery that I visited at Wood River, and got only as far, in my recital, as the place where they raise and kill flies.

The chemical and mechanical laboratories kept me so long spellbound that I came near forgetting about the miles of towers where aviation gasoline is being turned out for our planes throughout the battlefields of the world, and the other towers where they are extracting toluene (or toluol) one of the ingredients of TNT.

Not so startling now as it would have seemed before the war is the trans-Atlantic passenger service foreseen by E. G. Miller, managing director of Phillips and Powis Aircraft, Ltd. He thinks on air travel, 12 hours between the United States and Europe, at a cost of eight pounds 10 shillings, is a likely development.

The advantages to the traveler are immediately apparent. No morning hunt for a deck chair, on which some other passenger, disregarding the name, has fallen asleep. No need of relearning deck tennis or shuffleboard, or getting hardened to the mechanical creaks in the gymnasium. No obligation to sing or play, or collect the charity money, at the ship's concert.

At a reception given by President Wilson a man held up the long line of guests to shake the President's hand while he recounted a long and tedious account of some of his experiences.

An American soldier in England was giving some illustrations of the size of his country. "You can board a train in the state of Texas at dawn," he said impressively, "and 24 hours later you'll still be in Texas."

The worst and most dangerous solution of all would be the organization of private armed bands, all under the temptation of behaving like vigilantes on any slight provocation. This must not happen.—Cleveland Press.

"If you're lacking an answer to a letter you gave your husband to mail, I can understand it—I never can remember to mail my wife's letters!"

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The nation has been led to believe that the farmer has been the main obstacle to enactment of legislation to prevent inflation. While certain farm bloc leaders agitated for higher prices to the farmer, the record will show that the Administration itself has brought about the biggest factor in inflation—

Looking back over the record, the biggest single inflationary force in the present high costs of the Government's war program is the 40-hour week. There never has been and there is not now any reason why a work-week longer than 40 hours cannot be worked, but the insistence of the Administration that the taxpayers shall pay for time-and-a-half on all overtime has increased the payrolls of America to fantastic heights.

Why Farm Bloc Kicks Now when a manpower shortage looms, not a single word has come from the Administration indicating that it wants America to work a 48-hour week for the same hourly rate of pay as the 40-hour week. On the contrary, as the work week lengths, the cost of the war program will be increased and the Government will find itself searching for a larger and larger amount of revenue from a minority of the population so as to meet the staggering war costs.

The reason why the farm bloc Senators and Representatives are so resentful of the criticism leveled lately by the thick-and-thin supporters of the Administration is that the impression has been spread that the farm groups are alone responsible for inflation by demanding 100 per cent of parity, when the truth is the Administration has forced up the costs of the things the farmer has to buy and has put into distribution billions of dollars of purchasing power that is not being siphoned off by taxation.

If the Administration is to permit special privilege to one group, it is that the farm groups are alone responsible for inflation by demanding 100 per cent of parity, when the truth is the Administration has forced up the costs of the things the farmer has to buy and has put into distribution billions of dollars of purchasing power that is not being siphoned off by taxation.

Government Needs More Typewriters

Results of the Federal Government's recent typewriter purchase campaign in the Upper Peninsula were gratifying, but more typewriters are needed for the war use, George Wallner, Iron Mountain district manager of the War Production Board, says in a letter commending U. P. newspapers for their cooperation and support.

"The WPA appreciates the fact that many firms cannot dispense with their machines, but there are many instances in which public institutions and business firms can find means of selling 25 per cent of their typewriters," he said.

Center Stripe on Roads Will Be Painted White

LANSING, Oct. 1.—P—War will change the yellow stripe down the middle of Michigan trunk line highways to white, the state highway department reported today.

Yellow paint of the type used on road beds contains chrome and can not be obtained.

On black-top highways, a double white stripe indicates a no-passing zone, while a single white line will mark those areas on concrete pavement.

Duck Hunting Reported Fair In This Area

LANSING, Oct. 1.—P—Early Michigan duck hunting has been spotty with most gunners awaiting flights of northern birds to improve the sport, the state conservation department reported today.

Upper Peninsula field officers reported that heavy snow storms drove out many local ducks, but improved conditions for the upland game season which opened today north of the Straits of Mackinac. Small game shooting will start below the Straits October 15.

While hunters were absent on small lakes and ponds, average crowds were reported at better known hunting spots over the opening weekend. Report by districts:

Gogebic-Ontonagon — Most local ducks disappeared with the first snow storm. No reports of northern duck flights, but several geese flights observed. Ruffed grouse plentiful near Ironwood and large numbers of allgrouse near Watersmeet.

Baraga-Houghton — Duck hunting poor with most local ducks gone. Sharp-tail hunting expected to be good near Kenton, Sidnaw and Port.

Marquette — Alger — Fair duck hunting success reported with most bags ranging between one and three birds. Prospects good around Gwinn and Republic for sharp-tail, prairie chicken and partridge hunting.

Delta-Menominee — Local ducks are plentiful and some flight ducks are reported. Many limit bags were checked on the opening. Heavy foliage expected to hinder small game hunters.

Luce-Chippewa — Good mallard shooting reported in Luce, northern Schoolcraft and eastern Alger counties. Cold nights and sunny days are bringing partridge out on the roads.

Compliance With Speed Curb Noted

LANSING, Oct. 1.—P—State police officials today reported general compliance with Governor Van Wagener's proclamation imposing a 35-mile-an-hour speed limit on Michigan highways.

For the present compliance was required only by the "honor system"—the Governor's appeal to the patriotism of drivers to cooperate in this phase of wartime traffic conservation. But state police, instructed to halt speeders and caution them, disclosed they are keeping a record of flagrant violations which will be submitted to gasoline rationing authorities for their information when rationing is started next month.

G. Donald Kennedy, state highway commissioner, moved to make effective an order declaring the entire state highway system constitutes a "speed control" zone in which it will be a misdemeanor to drive faster than 35.

He said a copy has been submitted for approval of Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton, who on Tuesday voted an effort to impose a state-wide speed limit. Kennedy declined to discuss the order until Rushton has had opportunity to study its text.

It was prepared under a state law allowing the state police and highway department to jointly establish speed zones in interests of public safety.

Capt. Caesar J. Scavarda, in charge of the state police traffic division, said he believed rationing boards would be interested in data on persons who willfully or flagrantly violate the control order. He said the advent of gasoline rationing would provide the strongest weapon to compel the slowing of traffic by "a limited few" who, he asserted, "will insist that, regardless of the war and the need to conserve tires, they still are entitled to drive as they please."

Scavarda and Byron L. Ballard, the Governor's legal adviser, said they considered loss or suspension of privileges to purchase gasoline would be a proper penalty for violators.

U. P. 'What Doctor Ordered' For Winter Sports, Birger Berg States in Article

"Just what the doctor ordered" is the description given in the Upper Peninsula when it comes to describing ideal conditions for winter sports.

The phrase is contained in an article, "Snow and Ice Conditions Affecting Winter Sports," by Birger Berg, copies of which have been received by the recreational division of the World's Projects Administration and the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau.

Describing how interest in winter sports has spurred in the last decade, Berg said there are three primary meteorological factors which determine whether a region is desirable as a winter sports playground. These factors are snow, average temperature and average maximum temperature.

In addition, topographic features have to be considered in classification of winter sports areas.

Ideal Snow Belt

Since snow is the most important factor, from a skiing standpoint, data on Upper Michigan and the northern section of Lower Michigan prove this area is the ideal "snow belt." Average annual snowfall is 90 inches in the Upper Peninsula, varying from 120 inches in the northern part of the Keweenaw peninsula to 60 inches along the shore of Lake Michigan. Snow is on the ground in western and northern counties from the middle of December to the middle of March.

During that same period, the average temperature is below the freezing point—assuring dry snow conditions. In addition, the average maximum temperature does not rise above the freezing point during December, January and February and the average minimum temperature does not fall below zero.

"Thus," Berg stated, "proving that temperature conditions on an average are almost ideal for persons dressed properly for actual participation in winter sports activities."

He also pointed out that the region of greatest altitude in Michigan—a factor in classification of winter sports areas—includes portions of Marquette, Iron, Gogebic and Ontonagon counties. The eastern half of the U. P. generally is less than 1,000 feet above sea level and less than 400 feet above the bordering lakes, average elevation

Seven New Men On Faculty Of Michigan Tech

PROF. MARSH

Houghton, Oct. 1.—Seven faculty members, one of them a former consul general of the United States, took up teaching duties at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology this week as the fall term opened with an enrollment of 740, three per cent under that of last year. Most of the new instructors are replacing men on leave of absence to serve in the armed forces.

Professor O. Gaylord Marsh, whose services are shared by the departments of history and modern languages, was in Federal government service more than 32 years, 26 of them as consul and consul general in Canada, Latin America, France, and Korea. He also taught, and served as attorney for the Bureau of Audits, in the Philippine Islands. He is giving courses in current world affairs and in Spanish, and has been added by the Michigan Council of Defense Speakers Bureau to its list of "state-wide" speakers. He is a native of Buchanan, Mich.

The departments of chemical engineering and chemistry have added Dr. George M. Machwart as associate professor, Dr. A. R. Kendall as assistant professor and Ernest Epperson as research engineer. Prof. Machwart secured his Ph. D. degree from Ohio State university, Dr. Kendall from Iowa State college. Both men, and also Mr. Epperson, have had industrial experience.

A great deal of practical experience is also represented by Jesse C. Butler and Earl Roberts, now instructors in mathematics. Thomas R. Richards, in the same department, taught in Pennsylvania high schools. He is an alumnus of Pennsylvania State college and Bucknell university, Mr. Roberts of the University of Wisconsin, and Mr. Butler of the University of Michigan and Michigan Tech.

USES Seeks More Alaska Road Workers

Men who want to sign up for employment on the Federal Alaska road construction project can do so on their way north by next Monday if they apply at the Marquette office of the U. S. Employment service today or tomorrow.

He was advised that $771,000 would be spent at the Flint airport, $975,000 at Gayling, $1,135,000 at the Saginaw-Bay City airport, and $1,261,400 at Traverse City. Details were not made public, he said.

'What The Sam Hill'

Have you ever stopped to think where that unusual expression originated? Thanks to Robert L. Ripley, the Believe-It-Or-Not man, we have this explanation: "Sam Hill, of Houghton, Mich. (1889) became so famous for swearing a blue streak that the public began to substitute the name 'Sam Hill' for any cuss word in general.

Free Radio Course—So great is the need for aircraft radio engineers and the anticipated need for them in the armed services in the near future that the U. S. Signal corps is offering a free pre-service training course at the University of Michigan or Michigan State college to women, 18 to 25, and to men, 18 to 35, who are not in A-1 or B-1 or who are not now deferred because of a corrective physical impairment or because of dependency. The training is open to civilians and does not entail enlistment in the armed forces. Complete information may be obtained from Percy C. Chubb, secretary of the U. S. civil service board of examiners, Marquette office.

Women Urged To Cooperate By Qualifying For Various Jobs

There's Special Need For Typists, Stenographers

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

"I wish I could do something to help in the war." You hear any number of women saying that and one hopes they mean it for the time is approaching when willfully women will have to be mustered in to do their part. Not fighting, but in taking over jobs that will release women with special skills to take another job, or to replace men who are now in jobs which women can handle, and should, to free men for more direct war effort participation.

About 1,500,000 American women are now working in war industries. It is believed that another 2,000,000 will be placed in jobs making the material needed by the fighting men before the end of this year. That means that the time has passed when active women can sit on a silk cushion and sew a fine seam.

There's a Big Reserve

The other day Norris Markey, in an article entitled "Help Wanted—Female," said that the United States has a reserve of 13,000,000 women between the ages of 14 and 65, without children of their own under 16.

From time to time thousands of these women will go into jobs that will help win this war.

The Manpower Commission has listed 1,859 different jobs in industrial work which women can do as well as men. But as women move into industry, other women are required to take their place in the jobs they left.

The women, who have had previous experience in doing any special kind of work, should brush up on that work, plan to get a job of that kind or a similar work.

We are more and more becoming aware that there are not enough men to form the fighting forces, and to run the various departments of business and industry, and women will have to step in. To supply the extra people needed the American plan of living will have to be shifted a bit.

It's Case of Everyone Working

Older women, many of whom never have worked before, will have to take jobs replacing girls who are young and strong enough to get into war industries. Some of that older group will have to open their homes to care for young children of mothers who can be employed if there is some one to care for the children during the day. That's especially true in towns that are war production centers.

There will be calls for volunteers to help harvest the crops, for women needed in all kinds of temporary jobs.

If you read the news in yesterday morning's paper you could hardly fail to realize that we are still a long way from winning this war. In order to accomplish that we shall have to get behind an all-out participation on the part of the women.

The Nazi women have been employed to an astounding extent in work in Germany that will replace men. To beat the Axis our American women will have to be just as willing to put their shoulders to the wheel.

There are many jobs available for women who can pass the civil service examinations and information about that can be obtained from Russell R. Olds, at the Marquette office of U. S. Employment Service, or from Percy Chubb, at the postoffice.

Right now there is an urgent demand for stenographers and typists in various government offices and war agencies in Detroit. If in the past you have done stenographic work, now is the time to put your ability to work to help your country.

Need Is Urgent

A communication received by the local employment office notes that the Detroit positions pay $1,260 or $1,400 per year to typists and $1,440 of $1,620 for stenographers.

If you are not a typist or stenographer, you may be qualified to fill one of the following positions: Telephone operators, teletype operators, accounting clerks, statistical clerks, senior clerks, immigration inspector, and salaries for these range from $1,260 to $2,100 per year.

Information regarding the qualifications necessary and the proper application may be obtained from the two sources in Marquette, previously mentioned, or from the Central Rating Board, room 410, Federal building, Detroit.

Mr. Olds urges that women who are qualified, or think they are, should apply to fill those positions.

Two representatives of the Civil Service Commission are traveling in various parts of the state and women thinking of applying for these Detroit jobs should query Mr. Olds or Mr. Chubb about the possibility of a personal interview when the Civil Service representatives are in town.

Stand Ready for Call

Even if women cannot qualify for the Detroit positions, or others requiring Civil Service tests, they would do well to register with the U. S. Employment Service office, listing the skills and abilities they possess, the training they have had, the kind of work for which they can qualify.

All women will not be able to measure up to and hold key positions. Most of those call for a special and technical training.

But no matter how humble the work may be, any woman who can release another woman to do needed work which she has the youth, strength or training to do to forward war effort, that humble worker is doing a real service to her country.

Women, who with a little extra training and practice, can fit themselves for work should be about the business of making that prop-

All Qualified Nurses Urged To Enroll Speedily

More than 10,000 Red Cross First Reserve nurses have been on duty with the armed forces this summer. That is startling news for some readers, but it is only the beginning.

More and more trained nurses are needed so that the United States armed forces may receive adequate care, so as few days as possible will be lost by them because of sickness, so the morale of the men may be kept up by the knowledge that, needing nursing care, they know it will be provided by skilled and trained women.

Society-Club

Special Service—Lieut. Col. William H. Fox, Milwaukee, division commander for the Wisconsin and Upper Peninsula division, will conduct a Corps Cadet rally at Ishpeming tomorrow. On Sunday he will speak at two services, the one to be held at 11 in the morning, and the evening service at 8.

Presbyterian Red Cross—This afternoon the Presbyterian Guild will work in the Red Cross production center, Washington street, to sew or make surgical dressings, beginning at 2. Members are asked to wear a wash dress, a head covering, and to omit the wearing of nail polish.

Get-Together Sunday—The college and high school groups of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Presbyterian church will hold a get-together meeting at 4 Sunday afternoon in the church house. Dr. A. H. Burrows, of the faculty of the Northern Michigan College of Education, will be the speaker. The women of the church will serve refreshments.

Register Now—The committee to organize volunteer service for Marquette social agencies, remind men and women interested in doing such civilian defense work to register now at the OCD, city hall. All persons registering for such work have been asked to take the preparatory training which consists of attendance at a series of lectures, given by representative workers in various phases of social service. The first lecture will be given next Tuesday night, and it is important that those planning to attend, register for their volunteer work now.

Release Nurses To Serve

The task of enrolling the necessary number of nurses should not be the responsibility or problem of the American Red Cross alone. It should be aided by nurses themselves, civilians, and hospital organizations; and no obstacle should be placed in the way of the nurse who wants to enroll for war nursing service.

The local Red Cross Nursing committee is taking enrollments for the Red Cross First Reserve Nurses, most of whom will be assigned to immediate military duty.

Unmarried nurses between 21 and 40 are urged to sign up. Civilian nurses must be newly aware of the cooperation they can give by enrolling for war nursing service.

Girl Scouts Ask For Dolls For Annual Project

Girl Scouts are busy this year with defense and first aid work, and it is therefore important that they start early to collect dolls to be repaired for Christmas, and that they limit the time when dolls will be accepted for repair work.

Beginning Monday the Girl Scouts will attempt to collect as many dolls as possible during the ensuing two weeks. The senior Girl Scouts will repair and repaint the dolls which, when completed, will be distributed among the various troops to be dressed.

The Scouts will repair a legless doll, one without a wig, or those whose complexions are nicked and worn.

Are For Underprivileged

The completed dolls will be distributed to make Christmas a happy one for children in town who would otherwise be "doll-less" on the big day.

Persons having dolls to contribute may take them to the following most convenient stations:

North Marquette—Mrs. Victor Hurst, 619 West College avenue.

Central section—Mrs. B. H. DeVos, 352 East Crescent street.

South Marquette—Mrs. Jack Messenger, 115 Champion street.

Persons unable to bring the dolls to those stations, are asked to telephone to one of the three women mentioned and arrangements will be made to have the Scouts call for them.

The important thing is to get the dolls in early, for the Scouts have so many diversified activities in which they are engaged, that only two weeks can be devoted to the collection of the dolls.

D. A. R. Invites Marian Anderson To Give Concert

The national society, Daughters of the American Revolution, has invited Miss Marian Anderson, famous Negro contralto, to appear for a benefit concert in Constitution Hall; entire proceeds to be turned over to an accredited war relief organization to be named later. The invitation was given following that request of Miss Anderson's manager for concert appearance. During the summer plans have been under consideration to offer Constitution hall for a number of benefit performances to aid war relief throughout the duration and Miss Anderson was selected by the executive committee to be invited for the first benefit.

Plan Series of Concerts

On Constitution day, September 17, this year the Daughters of the American Revolution sponsored a benefit in New York City, "Cavalcade of Stars," the proceeds of which went to the USO and Save the Children Federation. The executive committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, meeting in Washington last week, enlarged the society's program of war activities already launched during the spring and summer.

In addition to projects already adopted, notably the raising of $150,000 for the purchase of equipment for extending collection of blood plasma, the new features now announced are:

A drive for the purchase of $5,000,000 in war bonds by the members of the society, and the contribution to selected war relief agencies of the use of Constitution Hall, the society's auditorium in Washington, for a number of benefit performances during the war.

Marine Mothers Sponsor Public Card Party

The Marine Mothers club is sponsoring a big card party to be held at 8 Wednesday night, October 7, in the Elks hall and every one is invited to attend.

Proceeds will be used to purchase a Christmas gift for each Marquette Marine in training here, or in service abroad. The club also hopes to supply a gift to Marines from Ishpeming and Negaunee. Mothers of such Marines are invited to attend the card party next week, and to send their sons' addresses to Mrs. Grover Gleason, 209 West Prospect street, president of the Marquette club, so gifts may be shipped. Since overseas packages must be mailed early it is important that the addresses be sent in immediately.

Public Urged To Attend

The Marquette Marine Mothers have been giving a "fifty" of cigarettes to each Marine leaving for service, and since the exchequer is a bit pinching the card party is being held to finance the Christmas presents.

Bridge, "500" and cribbage will be played. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

The thing the club wants is a record attendance, and every one is invited, but it would be of great help to the committee in making preparations, if all planning to be present would notify Mrs. Gleason, 2423; Mrs. C. F. Kuhn, 2353-J, or Mrs. N. E. Rose, 682-W.

The Elks have contributed the use of the hall, and the Marine Mothers hope the public will be as generous in cooperating by attending.

Home Nursing Certificates Were Presented To 115 Marquette Women At Impressive Ceremony

From the opening number of assembly singing of "Star Spangled Banner" to the closing singing of "Angels of Mercy," the program, presented to mark the awarding of certificates to those women having completed Home Nursing course, was most thrillingly impressive, indicative of the sincerity with which numbers of Marquette women are devoting themselves to projects in winning the war. Mrs. Helen Fohlman was song leader and Mrs. Marie Moore, pianist.

There was much interest in an excellent motion picture, "Marching With Glory" which portrayed the many services offered by the American Red Cross.

E. L. Pearce, county Red Cross chairman, presided at the meeting which was held Wednesday night in the Gravert high school auditorium.

Gives Needed Service

In his talk on chapter activities he reminded of the Red Cross enrollment in the first World War and of the increasing membership during this war, pointing out that the organization was one supported by voluntary contributions by the people, who obviously are realizing that, because of its international function, the American Red Cross is an effective link between the folk on the home front and their relatives in the service.

All persons having men in service have not called for a service flag, but the Marquette headquarters of the county Red Cross chapter has given out flags that indicate 753 men in the city who are in the military service.

Mr. Pearce noted that the chapter takes pride in the fact that nearly 3,000 First Aid certificates have been awarded in the county.

Miss Nettie Bealer, superintendent of nurses at St. Luke's hospital based her talk on a quotation: "Behold before you is an open door of service. You have entered to learn. Go forth now to serve."

Contribute To Community

She pointed out that the accelerated program "of war calls for persistent assiduous, profound striving toward our critical problems." The speaker noted that Americans hold steadfast to the principles of the American way of life and that the women who took the home nursing course have learned the principles and care of the sick in the home.

"In case of an emergency it is to you the medical and nursing profession will turn for assistance in the care of the community sick. Through the busy days you have given of your time for study and practice, to learn the ways illness may be cared for."

Miss Bealer noted that "in this form of government, we can live most and serve best; and do unto others as we would that others would do unto us. . . . We are fearful of the destruction caused by war, but we are ready to present our bodies in a living sacrifice in home or in service, and we stand ready to serve, each in her own way, that our American way of life shall not be driven from this earth."

In reporting on "Home Nursing in Action," Miss Elba Morse expressed pride in the 30 certified instructors for Red Cross Home Nursing instruction in Marquette county. They are all graduate nurses, volunteers, and are serving without pay. The quota of women taking home nursing courses in Marquette county was set at 440. Since January 1, there have been 443 women who qualified for their certificates. The goal of the committee is to have one woman in every family in the county; who has had the training of the course.

Will Be Ready To Serve

In Ishpeming 162 women have completed the work; 155 in Marquette. Miss Morse said that the present class schedules will make it possible for all those enrolled to complete the course before Christmas. That frees them for the busy preholiday period, and also has them trained so they can, if necessity arises, make use of their training during the winter when there is most likelihood of illness in town.

In addition to the classes being organized in the city, it is planned to have classes at Trowbridge Park, Sands, and Dukas. Mrs. Gladys Spear is class organizer and Miss Alice Stewart has charge of equipment.

The 16 women who had been in-structors in the home nursing class, wearing their uniforms, presented the Red Cross certificates to their respective groups among the 155 women who completed the course.

The following were instructors: Mrs. Hazel M. Drury, Mrs. Fannie Grant, Mrs. George Johnson, Mrs. Sadie Lindholm, Mrs. Leone LaBonte, Mrs. Beulah A. Loeber, Mrs. Allen Savola Jacobson, Miss Marie Elmer, Mrs. Ada Eurt Vilemetti, Miss Alice E. Snyder, Mrs. Wilhelmina Hartvig, Mrs. Dot White, Mrs. Marcella Arps, Mrs. Martha Hatch, and Mrs. John Nicholson, all of Marquette, and Mrs. R. W. Nordling, Negaunee, who came to Marquette to conduct the classes.

In her talk, "Working Together in Red Cross," Mrs. Bernice Chamberlain, executive secretary of the Marquette county chapter, made brief comment on the various activities of the county chapter—production, home service, staff assistance, First Aid, home nursing, and the nutrition program, and invited women to choose the phase in which they were most interested and to participate in the work.

It is planned to add a canteen corps to the local program, and possibly a volunteer nurse's aid program, and, in the future, possibly motor corps work will be introduced.

The speaker noted that the county has no blood donor center such as is operated in chapters located in large industrial centers. The cost of installation, operation, and maintenance of equipment makes it too expensive to be used in chapters similar to that of Marquette county, but there is a possibility that in the future some mobile unit may be supplied to service this and similar other chapters.

A committee, not new to national Red Cross, but to this county chapter, has been formed, that for disaster relief, of which Walter Gries, Negaunee, is chairman.

Varied Comments Provide Day's Chitter-Chatter

The other day a friend, who knew that many of us had seen magnolias in bloom but mayhap had not seen them when the flower had gone to seed, brought in a pod which had been sent to her from Mississippi.

You know how the buds of the magnolia look when they are long points of tightly furled white petals? One would hardly recognize the seed pod as belonging to the species. It is a cone-shaped beige colored fuzzy structure, and where the small seed pockets are slightly opened there is a faint streak of brilliant Chinese red.

As the seed pod matures, those numerous small pockets pop open and there, suspended by a fragile white filament, hang what look like flat oblong beans, exactly the color of the berries that at this time of year make barberry shrubs so attractive.

When fully ripened the least movement of the pod, dislodges those seeds.

Going to plant some, just for fun, and see what will happen. Nothing maybe, even indoors, in this northern clime.

Quite Different This

A woman, who has just returned from Detroit, tells laughingly of her bewilderment when she went shopping at Hudson's. She didn't get some of the things she wanted, but she did encounter a surprise.

She saw great quantities of the old-fashioned union suits, the underwear of the nineties, made up for 1942 purchasers and being purchased, too, by crowds of women!

Wool stockings were proving equally popular merchandise, and the Detroit women gave every evidence of preparing for a winter that might be one of low room temperatures because of the fuel oil rationing.

The Marquette woman said when she came home she hunted through her possessions and found a union suit that hadn't been put to use for some years. She plans to don it this winter.

Such Careful Mothers

Two tiny tots were sitting on a porch on North Front street yesterday morning. They are awfully quaint little maids, anyhow, but yesterday they were hugely diverting because they were so busy talking about the weather.

There they sat commenting to each other on how good it was to have the sunshine, for all the world like mothers worried about babies not getting a sun bath. Both had their dolls there for an airing.

A woman coming along said: "It's nice to have sunshine for your doll babies, isn't it?"

"Yes," agreed the one small girl, "my doll likes to go walking in the sun," and perfectly serious she upped her doll and had her walking in her stiff-legged gait across the porch.

Here's A Laugh

The inconsistency of the dear men. Here we have been told repeatedly to cut down on unnecessary use of the telephone as our part in forwarding war efforts and taking a load of extra work off the operators.

And, low and below, since the blessed old World Series of baseball game have started, the telephone has been ringing like mad.

TWO-LAYER LAKE

Two layers of water make up Pine View lake, near Ogdon, Utah. The bottom layer is from artesian wells at the bottom of the lake, the top layer from melting snow in the mountains. The two do not mix fully.

Cards Dazzle Yanks With Speed, Deadlock Series With 4-3 Victory

Keller's Long Homer in 8th Of No Avail

By Judson Bailey

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Oct. 1.—P.—Showing the same speed and grit which won them the National league championship, the St. Louis Cardinals today tamed the New York Yankees, 4 to 3, before 34,255 fans in another break-taking chapter of the 1942 World Series and left for New York tonight all even with the American league powerhouse.

The Redbirds simply ran their way to victory with probably the most dazzling show of sprinting the present Yankees ever had seen and their will to win more than offset New York's slugging which was climaxed with a tremendous two-run homer by Charley (King Kong) Keller to momentarily tie the score in the eighth inning.

Held to only six hits by Ernie Bonham while the Yankees pummeled Johnny Beazley, the Cards' 23-year-old rookie sensation for 10, St. Louis scored twice in the first inning, again in the seventh and finally won the game with another thrilling tally in the last half of the eighth.

Speed Produces Every Run
Speed figured in every one of the Cardinals runs, but never more so than with the score tied and the pressure on in the eighth.

Jim Brown and Ted Moore were easy outs, but Enos Slaughter slammed a scorching liner to the deepest corner of right field and slid headlong into second base for a double. Roy Cullenbine, who had been somewhat confused by the Redbirds' earlier footracing, made a good throw to the bag, but little Phil Rizzuto let the ball slip a few yards away from him and while he still was trying to locate it Slaughter jumped to his feet and dashed safely to third.

Before the smoke had cleared Stan Musial, the rookie outfielder who had a chance to be a hero yesterday and failed, smashed a ground single directly over second base to bring home the deciding run.

Much of the responsibility for the Yankees' defeat could be charged to the fact that Bonham, the great control artist who walked only 23 men during the entire American league season, gave a base on balls to the first batter he faced.

Apparently feeling the tension that bears heavily on all players in a World Series, Bonham threw three balls to Brown before he got a strike across at the start of the game and Brown ultimately was passed.

W. Cooper Sends 'Em Home
It was a costly mistake because Moore laid down a sacrifice bunt on the first pitch and when the big Yankee ace threw to second trying to head off the run, Brown beat the throw and both runners were safe.

Bonham patiently worked on the next two hitters and got them out, but Walker Cooper sliced a double over Second Base man Joe Gordon's head and the ball skidded tantalizingly all the way to the wall in right center, both runners racing home.

Bonham, winner of 21 games against five losses, settled down and allowed only two hits for the first six innings—the other being a single by Johnny Hopp in the fourth. This play gave the fans some fun, because Hopp rounded first on his hit and Cullenbine sought to trap him with a throw to Buddy Hassett. But as soon as Hopp saw where the ball was going, he set sail for second. Hassett fumbled the throw when it arrived and no play ever was made on Hopp.

The fleetest of the Redbirds didn't get any farther in the inning, but he caused trouble in the seventh when he shot another liner to right for what might have been the same sort of play.

Triple Angers Yankees
Hopp again rounded first and the crowd taunted Cullenbine, a former outfielder for the St. Louis Browns, to throw to first, but this time he kept the ball ahead of the runner. It didn't make any difference, as it turned out, because George (Whitey) Kurovski followed with a triple.

This hit infuriated Manager Joe McCarthy and his Yankees because it was a liner so close to the left field foul line that when the ball bounced out of Keller's glove it landed a few inches in foul territory. But Umpire George Magerkurth ruled it a fair ball, judging that it was fair when Keller charged into it on a dead run.

This boosted the Cardinal lead to 3 to 0 and at the time it seemed all that Beazley would need. The young righthander had been hit intermittently, the Yankees getting runners on base in every one of the first five innings, but he worked himself out of these jams with the help of some fancy fielding by his teammates, who performed the series' first double play in the fifth after Bonham had walked and Rizzuto singled with none out.

Keller's Wallop Knots Score
However, Beazley set down the Yanks in order in the sixth and seventh and got the first two men out in the eighth before the Bombers blasted.

Cullenbine hit a grounder which Brown managed to knock down but could not throw and it was scored as a single. Joe DiMaggio, who had made three hits yesterday, came through with a sharp line single to right to bring Cullenbine home.

Then Keller, connected with Beazley's next pitch with all the force of an electric shock and the ball sailed high and far over the right field pavilion to knot the score.

Beazley fanned Joe Gordon to end the inning, but had another narrow escape in the ninth.

Bill Dickey led off with a single and Tuck Stainback was sent in to run for him. Buddy Hassett crashed another single into right and Slaughter made the most magni-

Northern, Central Tangle Here Tomorrow; Graveraet Host to Gladstone Eleven

One of the finest games on the abbreviated football calendar in Marquette this season will be seen here tomorrow afternoon when the Northern Michigan Wildcats tangle with the Central Michigan Chippewas from Mt. Pleasant. The game will be played on College field.

Central never fails to come to Marquette without a powerhouse grid machine and every indication points to the fact that 1942 is no exception. The Central line will average 194 pounds and the backfield average is 175.

Northern can not match this weight but by its showing against Oshkosh last week it provided plenty of evidence that the Wildcats have fight and scoring potentialities.

Two Home Games
The Wildcats duplicated their two-touchdown margin over Oshkosh in 1940. Two years ago, the Olive and Gold beat the Wisconsin college eleven, 13-0, and last Saturday the Marquette gridgers won by 12-0.

As last Saturday, two games will be played in Marquette tomorrow. This is unfortunate for Marquette grid fans, who already have shortened schedules to contend with.

The college played Oshkosh last Saturday while Graveraet was playing its dedication game with Ishpeming, and tomorrow the college will battle Central while Graveraet will entertain Gladstone. You can take your pick but you can't see both of them.

Gladstone defeated Manistique, 6-0, last week. The Redmen, of Marquette, have yet to chalk up a victory. They have tied Musising and Newberry and lost, 12-0, to the Ishpeming Hematites.

Marquette fans are hopeful that the Redmen will initiate their new field with a victory, something they couldn't accomplish last week in the dedication tilt.

Michigan Tech, whose opener tomorrow has been postponed because Northland college, Ashland, failed to show up, sending a frantic throw of the series, sending a strike to Kurovski in time to catch Stainback sliding into third.

Play Third Game Saturday
Manager Billy Southworth held a hasty conference on the mound, but decided to let the freshman work out his own fate and he did it magnificently—making Pinch-hitter Red Ruffing fly out and Rizzuto grounded out on easy chances.

As a result it was a jubilant Cardinal club that hurried to catch a train for New York, where the third game of the series will be played on Saturday.

Southworth said he was undecided between his two southpaws, Max Lanier and Ernie White, for the first starting assignment there. Manager McCarthy refused to name a probable pitcher for the Yankees before he could confer on the train with his coaches. Spud Chandler, who relieved in the ninth inning yesterday, seemed the likely choice.

Brilliant Frosh
In the backfield, Charles McLeod, third-year Saginaw squad member, will start at quarterback. Terry Carey, former sensational Mt. Pleasant high school running star and now a sophomore, and Letterman Lucien Bartnick, Grand Rapids speedster, will line up at the halves. 191-pound Harold Kazynski, Flint's pile-driving fullback, will be at his old position for the second consecutive year.

Among the new and brilliant freshmen, who are eligible to play this season, are John Yednak, former Flint Northern star, and Tony Pabalis, passing ace at Saginaw high last fall, both halfbacks.

Head Coach Ronald W. Finch has 60 gridgers working under him with prospects in sight for one of the best teams in the school's history. Only two lettermen were lost to the armed forces, and the caliber of the frosh is especially high.

Newberry Gridders Go To Manistique

NEWBERRY, Oct. 1.—On a comparative score basis, the game in Manistique tomorrow afternoon between the Newberry Indians and the Manistique Emeralds promises to be a humdinger. The kickoff is slated for 2.

The Emeralds appear to have a slight edge, but Coach Joe DeCook expressed the opinion today that "past scores don't mean a thing," and he is giving his Indian gridgers for a bang-up showing. Newberry turned the trick over Manistique last year by a score of 15-7.

Coach DeCook is optimistic about the season. Practices have gone well, and none of his aces have been injured. The team had an open date last Saturday, and have had two weeks to recover from injuries obtained in the last game.

Down Sports Trail

BY WITNEY MARTIN
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The guessers already are trying to place Bucky Harris in a nice managerial spot, but even with this free parking privilege they are having their troubles. There just isn't no more room right now, as they say.

They can't, in their usual generous manner, hire Bucky without firing someone else, and there's always a little embarrassment involved in the firing, particularly if the guy they are firing thinks he has done a pretty fair job with the wheezy athletes at his disposal and hasn't been told officially to refrain from slamming the door as he goes out.

We have no idea what will happen to Bucky, but nothing that happens could be too good for him, as he is one of those gents who can associate with and write about the baseball personalities a pleasure. In brief, he's a swell guy, and capable to boot.

He's undoubtedly done a neat bit of silent suffering the last three or four years, as he isn't the kind to yell when he's been stuck with pins, or ball players either. And some of the ball players he's been stuck with would be no bargains in the League of Nations, which Scout Joe Cambria must have thought he was signing them for, at that.

And He Couldn't Talk Spanish
Cambria would shed his coat and plunge into the cane fields of Cuba or the Venezuelan wilds and come up with qualities of ball players who even threw curves in Spanish, and Bucky didn't know enough about Spanish to order a Spanish omelet. We still carry a vivid memory of him sitting pensively in the dugout at Orlando two or three years ago watching a squad of these imported ball players prancing around to the accompaniment of chatter that was strange and meaningless, even for ball players' chatter.

If Bucky thought this was carrying on with American relations a little too far he never mentioned it. He did the best he could and kept silent, as he did when the armed services took a goodly percentage of his players this spring.

The guessers haven't made up their minds just whom to fire to make room for Bucky next year. You don't usually fire a manager who has had a good year, or a better year than he was expected to have, or a manager who everyone knows had a hopeless task in the first place.

Nobody blames Hans Lohert for the Phils' showing, and anyway if Bucky were to take a job like that it would be the same as stepping

Cubs Again Beaten In Chicago Series, 9-5

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—P.—The White Sox made it two in a row in the Chicago city series here today when they whipped the Cubs at Wrigley field, 9-5, before a small gathering of 3,320.

Lon Warneke was driven to cover with a four-run barrage in the eighth inning after the White Sox had moved up to a 5-5 tie in the previous round. Eddie Smith started for the American leaguers, but was knocked out in three innings as the Cubs took a 5-3 lead. Joe Haynes then took over for the White Sox and hurled shutout ball the rest of the way.

Don Kolloway led the 11-hit White Sox attack with a homer and three singles to tally four runs and drive home two more.

Fire Danger In Hoarding Of Gasoline

ISHPEMING, Oct. 1.—Reports of gasoline hoarding in advance of rationing brought a warning today from Fire Chief Arthur Brown that there is great danger in the practice.

"I have nothing to say about the alleged hoarding of gasoline. That is a matter for each individual to judge for himself.

"But I would like to point out that fire hazards are greatly increased with surface storage of gasoline. There should be none in homes other than what is necessary for household use.

"Gasoline fires spread rapidly and often there is an explosion, so the hazard is great."

Risk Loss of Insurance

Insurance agents point out storage of gasoline is a direct violation of regulations governing dwellings. In a mercantile risk, undue amounts of gasoline on the premises can bring a penalty in the form of higher rates and also affects the rate applying to adjoining property.

"There is also," said one agent, "a possible denial of liability should it be shown that a claim arises from property where undue amounts of gasoline were stored, in violation of conditions stated in the policy."

In the case of household dwellings, fire insurance policies bar storage of gasoline on the premises except in amounts needed for household use."

Sixteen hundred dollars was found in the pipes, but the search is being continued for other money believed hidden about the house. (Associated Press Telegram)

Hit by Auto, Boy Narrowly Escapes Death

NEGAUNEE, Oct. 1 — Stanley Joseph, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Chapman, 509 Prince street, narrowly escaped death last evening when he ran out from behind the family car, which was parked in front of the residence, into the path of a car driven by Arthur Denn, Ishpeming. The boy was cut and bruised about the head.

Shortly after supper, Mr. and Mrs. Chapman were on the porch, their son on the sidewalk. Older boys were playing in the street with a football. One of them called to Mr. Chapman and the child apparently thought they were calling him, for he darted into the street.

Mrs. Chapman saw the oncoming car and screamed, but the child did not hear her. When the car struck him he was thrown into the air and before the driver could stop the car hit the boy again. His legs were jammed between the body and the fender and this probably saved him from further injury.

He was taken to Twin City hospital, but returned home shortly after and today was declared to be out of danger.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

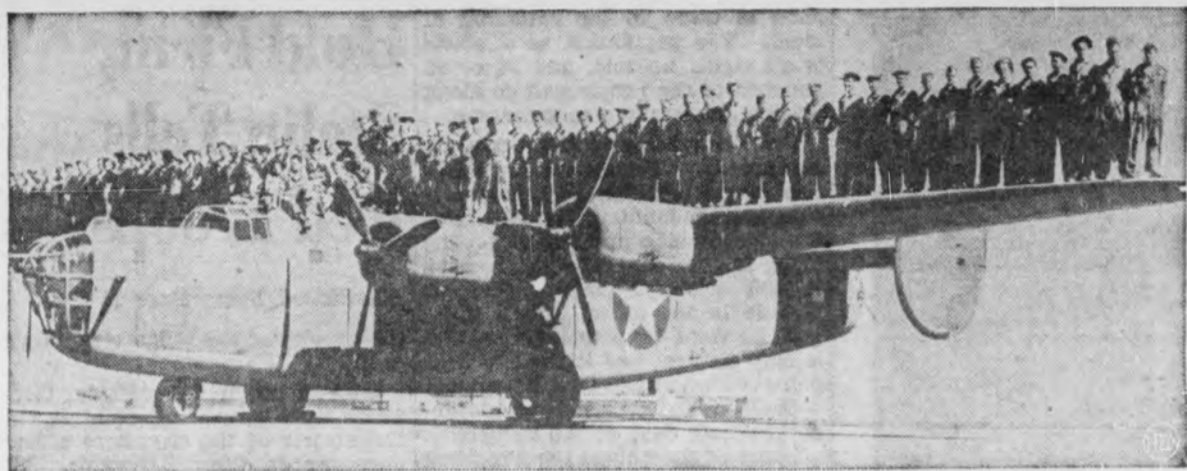

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with stinging and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Curtis Calls Attention To Need of Fire Prevention

NEGAUNEE, Oct. 1—Fire Chief Tom Curtis, Jr., today called attention to Negaunee residents to Fire Prevention Week, October 4 to 10.

"The Governor," said the fire chief, "has issued a proclamation. It is more than just another job of the Governor's. It is an important and vital message, doubly so because of the war and the urgent need for conserving materials."

"I would like to have every resident read this proclamation and realize how deeply fire can affect us in wartime."

'Every Fire Is Sabotage'

The Governor's proclamation follows:

"Every fire is sabotage today. Our resources of manpower, material and productive equipment are irreplaceable today, and are the tools by which we fight the war. Last year in Michigan, 50,000 fires cost the lives of 267 persons and destroyed $12,000,000 in property."

"Recognizing that fires are among our greatest perils in time of war, the firemen of Michigan were the first civilian group to organize a state-wide unit of civilian defense, creating fire auxiliaries around existing peace-time organizations.

"Fire remains today the most potent weapon of the enemy. The incendiary bomb, and the deliberate sabotage by fire, are added dangers, able to increase the damage done continually by our failure to take adequate precautions against the many hazards which cause accidental fire."

Prepare To Fight Bombs

"This year, civilian defense officials in Michigan will join with regular fire fighting agencies during Fire Prevention Week in an intensive public educational program which will stress, in addition to regular precautions against fire hazards, the emergency program for combating incendiary bombs, guarding against sabotage, and keeping every home, farm and factory in Michigan prepared to deal with fire from any source.

"I hereby proclaim the week of October 4 to 10, 1942, as Fire Prevention Week in Michigan, and I call upon all citizens to make this an occasion for special attention and action on all practices needed to combat both enemy action and carelessness or ignorance regarding fire hazards among our own citizens. In this way we can become better prepared for any eventuality of war, can reduce the tremendous annual cost of fires, and also can produce a more favorable fire loss ratio which ultimately will be reflected in lowered fire insurance rates for all of us."

Pep Session For Students This Evening

NEGAUNEE, Oct. 1 — If there are few "customers" at the Negaunee-Lepening game on the latter's lot Saturday afternoon it will not be the fault of the high school student body.

One of the largest pep sessions the students have held in recent years is slated for Friday evening. Students will assemble at the high school at 7 to form a parade.

The march will end at the city playgrounds, where there will be a huge bonfire and old-fashioned pep rally.

Officials of the high school pep club are in charge and this afternoon they invited adults to "relax and join."

"This is one of the few out-of-town games of the year," said a school official this afternoon, "when the fans will be able to attend without feeling uneasy about their part in tire conservation. It is the meeting of traditional rivals. And above that, if the weather is right, it brings together two teams which give every promise of making it an interesting afternoon for the audience."

bill, the House wrote into it a provision that parity farm price levels should be increased by the inclusion of labor costs. Then no ceiling price for farm products could be established at a point below the new and higher parity.

Parity is the price level at which the farmer's income from a bushel of corn, wheat or other commodity provides him with an income equal in its purchasing power to that which the commodity yielded in previous past periods of farm prosperity.

With the Administration much opposed to the farm bloc's new parity formula, the Senate ultimately worked out a compromise under which farm price ceilings would be set first of all at the present parity level. Then the Administration would be directed to adjust such prices unless they reflected the increases in labor and other costs since January 1, 1941.

Although this controversy had been settled for them, the conferees still had to resolve several points of conflict as between the Senate and House bills.

The House measure includes a direction that wages may not be stabilized at a point lower than 115 per cent of their level of January, 1941—an application of the formula which the War Labor Board applied in the Little Steel case. The Senate voted down an amendment intended to place a similar provision in its bill, which calls for stabilization at September 15, so far as practicable.

The House bill provides for Government crop loans at 90 per cent of parity for the duration of the war, and for three years after hostilities have ceased. The purpose is to fix a floor for farm prices as requested by the President.

The Senate bill, too, provides for 90 per cent loans, but for the duration only. Moreover, the Senate bill also contains a restriction on corn loans, intended to protect hog raisers against high prices for corn outside the commercial corn producing area.

There are numerous other minor differences of language, none of which the conferees thought would produce controversies.

tively close range American-Australian bomb fire.

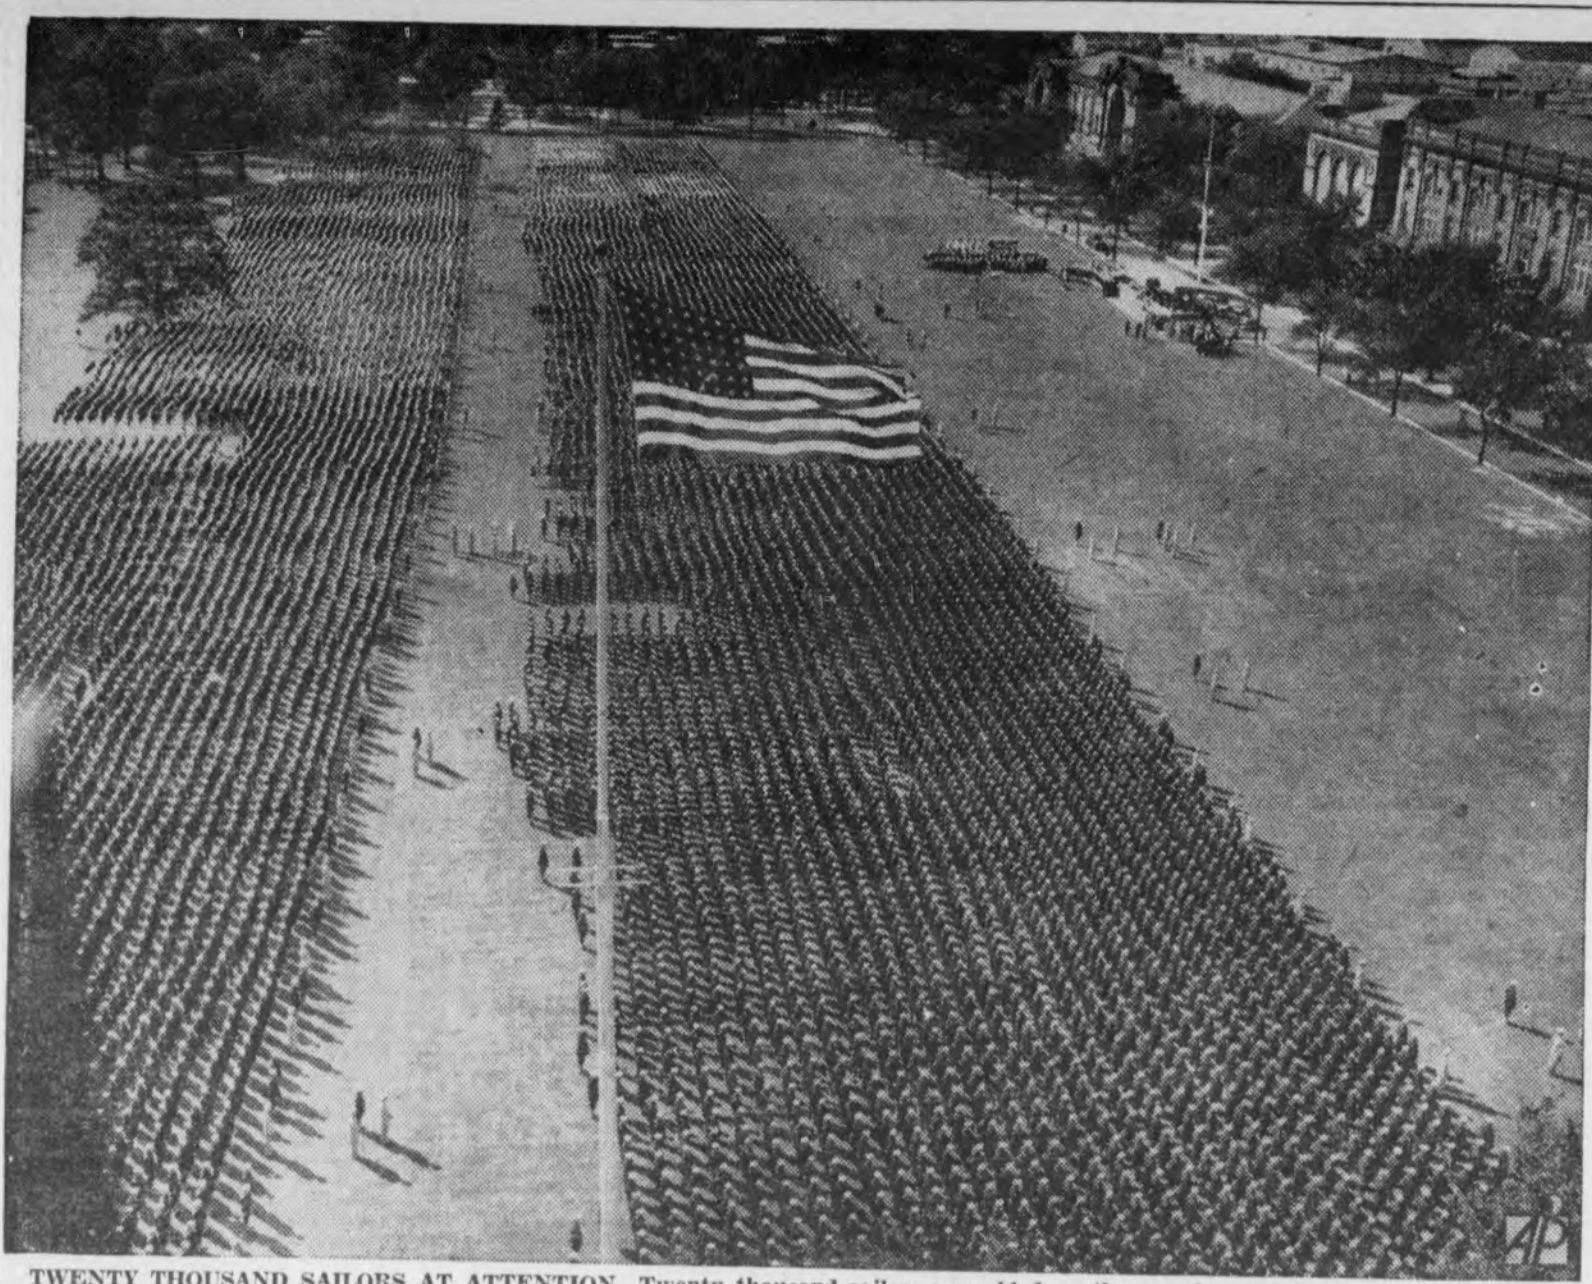

MacArthur's recognition of that weakness was promptly demonstrated. His air force began a harrying attack on those supply lines that has never let up. His planes combed the sea approaches. It is a reasonable guess that Japanese losses in trying to maintain the threat to Port Moresby by that route were out of all proportion to the gravity of the threat itself.

If it turns out that Tokyo has ordered withdrawal and evacuation, risking a Japanese Dunkerque, there will be justification for the thought that actually this, like the Milne bay action which preceded it at the eastern tip of New Guinea, was a MacArthur-made trap. In effect, he offered just enough resistance in the mountain passes to lure the foe on.

Sea Withdrawal Unlikely. The British effected a miraculous sea escape from Dunkerque. A sea withdrawal by the Japanese from their New Guinea beachheads would require concentration of an umbrella of fighting planes to protect embarking troops, and their shipping from Australian-American bombers primed to deal with them. And to provide that air protection from carriers, not from close-up shore bases as was the British protection at Dunkerque, would seem to be all but impossible for the Japanese.

For that reason if no other the Japanese withdrawal seems likely to be only to defensive positions supported by much shorter communication lines. Even so the sting has been taken out of that Japanese enterprise.

The Bad Lands of Wyoming and South Dakota contain the most extensive fossil beds in the world.

TWENTY THOUSAND SAILORS AT ATTENTION—Twenty thousand sailors assembled on the parade grounds at the Great Lakes, Ill., Naval Training station to witness the presentation of awards to two Navy fliers who participated in the destruction of a Jap aircraft carrier in the Coral sea. Lieut. George O. Wood, Galt, Calif., was awarded the Navy Cross and Lieut. Robert D. Buchan, Chicago, received a gold star in lieu of a second Navy Cross. The ceremony was held on the reviewing stand at right.

governors who happened to be up for reelection.

He saw seven Democratic and four Republican governors along the route, and invariably he spent less time talking with them than with plant officials and military personnel.

Meets Garner in Texas. Once, in the Texas cattle country, the President stopped for six minutes in Uvalde, not for any official inspection, but to chat with John N. Garner. It was the first time he had seen the former Vice President since their split over the third term issue.

They met with hearty handclaps, laughter, and shouted greetings, then settled down to a few moments of serious conversation. Garner told his one-time "boss" that the real farmers in Texas were backing the Administration's stand against inclusion in anti-inflation legislation of any provision increasing parity prices.

From other conversations and personal observations during his travels, Mr. Roosevelt said he got an idea that the morale of war workers was amazingly high, that the people were jittery about the rise in living costs in recent months, but that they were willing, 94 or 95 per cent of them, to make any sacrifices or put up with meat and mileage rationing or any other necessary, emergency measure.

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed his impressions of the trip shortly before it ended, in an informal chat aboard his special train with the three reporters who had accompanied him. He talked the tour over with the Washington press corps at a White House press conference soon after his return to the capital.

Visited Detroit First. In brief, here is what he went and what he saw in military war-plant centers.

Chicago, September 19, Great Lakes naval training station.

Milwaukee, September 19, Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., which makes various war supplies.

New Brighton, Minn., September 19, plant of Federal Cartridge company.

Athol, Ida., September 21, Faragut naval training station.

Tacoma-Seattle area, September 22, Fort Lewis, Bremerton Navy yard, Boeing bomber plant.

Vancouver, Wash., September 23, Alcoa Aluminum reduction plant.

Portland, Ore., September 23, yard of Oregon Shipbuilding corporation, where a 10,500-ton Liberty freighter was launched 10 days after the keel was laid.

San Francisco Bay area, September 24, Mare Island Navy yard, Navy supply depot and embarkation center.

of work for your country and for our civilization, and with the help of God we are going to see this thing through together."

Appearance Surprise To All. Employees and men in uniform at most of the places the President stopped had no idea he was coming. Jaws sagged down in amazement when he suddenly turned up beside a machine or work bench. Women shrieked and jumped up and down in excitement.

Railroad crews boarded the Chief Executive's special train, operated it for a few hundred miles, and got off again without ever knowing who their passenger was. One Pullman porter didn't know for 36 hours.

Even some governors were not told whom they were being invited to meet. Mr. Roosevelt made official stops in 12 states—Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina. He saw the governors of all of them, except Dwight H. Green, Illinois.

The President brought back to Washington not only a vivid picture of men being molded into fighting trim and war plants operating around the clock to supply them with weapons. He got an equally sharp impression of extensive precautions against attacks of any sort—camouflage, barrage balloons, smudge pots to make smoke screens, gas alarms, row on row of air raid shelters, dimmed lights, blacked out buildings.

President inspected were operating 24 hours a day. Discussing worker morale with reporters who went along on the trip, he commented on the fact that neither he nor they had heard about a single strike as they traveled around the rim of America.

Now in Washington, he said, if 200 men walk out of a plant because a foreman used profanity or because of a small jurisdictional row, a lot of people, including the press, blow it up and make the country think it is the rule rather than the exception.

Those people, he remarked in measured tones, are doing the most harm of any he knows.

Those strikes affect a tenth of one per cent of production, he added, yet they are headline news.

He took a similar tack a moment later, after he was asked whether he was "convinced that the little people of the country are ready for more sacrifices than anybody in Washington dreamed."

Absolutely, he replied, adding that mileage rationing provided a very good example. Screams and yells were heard from Texas three months ago when there was talk of extending gasoline rationing, he explained, but he thought Texas was going along now with mileage rationing as much as Massachusetts.

Moving deeper into the Midwest, he looked in on thousands of men mostly of British and American manufacture. (Stockholm reports quoted by the Reuters news agency said, however, that these Russian relief attacks had broken the German defensive position at some points along the river Don northwest of Stalingrad.)

After 38 days of ordeal, factory workers who fought the civil war battle of Stalingrad, then Tsaritsyn, 24 years ago, still were relieving the Red army men, and dispatches from the city were heavy with heroic detail of soldiers and civilians fighting from every ruined building, house and cellar, refusing to surrender.

It is interesting to note that if we started today, Japan could be smothered in six months. They advocate sending hundreds of fighters and heavy bombers to China, the fighters to cover Chinese army drives against airbases; the bombers to attack Japan's industrial centers, nearly all of which are located along a single railway line from Tokyo to Shimoneseki and Moji to Nagasaki.

Proponents of this argument believe that concentrated attacks on factories, piers, shipping and railroads would so cripple Japanese production as to make end of the war inevitable within a short time.

On the basis of my own knowledge of the Japanese people and of Japan's industrial setup, I agree that this would be the quickest and easiest way to end the war.

Rail Bonds On Recovery Track Again

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—Railroad issues got back on the recovery track with a rush in today's bond market, many rising fractions to a point or more and cancelling Wednesday's spotty performance.

Big blocks of low priced carrier loans made frequent appearances on the tape throughout the day, lifting sales to $13,200,300, par value, from $9,125,200 the day before.

The Associated Press average of 20 rails advanced 2 of a point to 64.9, placing that group back within 1 of a point of the high of 65 reached on the current move a week ago today.

Industry, utilities, foreigners and low-yields used in the index reflected extreme steadiness.

Attracting substantial support throughout the day were Kansas City, Ft. Scott & Memphis 4s of '36 at 65, International Great Northern 5s at 26 1/4, Lehigh Valley 4 1/2s at 35 1/4, Missouri-Kansas-Texas adjustment 5s at 21 1/8, Missouri Pacific 5s at 3 5/8-2, New York Central 4 1/2s at 47 1/2, St. Louis-San Francisco 4 1/2s at 12, International 4 1/2s at 53 3/4, St. Paul 5s at 17 3/4, Rock Island 4 1/2s at 19 5/8 and North Western 4 3/4s at 35-8.

U. S. Governments were at about a standoff on the stock exchange and over the counter.

Australia 5s and Argentine 4s were among foreign issues advancing. New South Wales 5s were lower.

Profit Sales Erase Wheat Price Gains

CHICAGO, Oct. 1—(AP)—Wheat prices rose about a cent a bushel today to highs since early summer in a short-lived advance inspired by the Senate passage of anti-inflation legislation which would raise government loan rates on basic crops.

Later, profit taking waned out most of the gain when it was pointed out that the legislation still is not in final form.

Many traders also expressed uncertainty as to whether higher loan rates for basic crops were mandatory and whether they will apply 1942 production.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1-4 higher compared with yesterday, December $1.28 7/8 to $1.29, May $1.31 3/4 to 7/8; corn, unchanged to 1-2 up, December 85 5/8, May 90 1-8; ats, 38 to 1-2 lower; soybeans, 1-8 lower to 1-2 higher, and rye, 1-8 to 7/8 lower.

Manistique Man Sent To Prison on Fraud Charge

MANISTIQUE, Mich., Oct. 1—(AP)—Circuit Judge Herbert W. Runnels has sentenced William Carefelle, Manistique, to serve 18 months in Marquette branch prison on charges of fraudulently obtaining $1,196 from the Schoolcraft county social welfare board.

Carefelle had pleaded guilty. Carefelle was charged with accepting payment as a hauler of surplus commodities for work he did not do.

Partial restitution of several hundred dollars is expected through the sale of his truck.

Retired Lumberman Dies; Nearly 100 Years Old

ALGONAC, Mich., Oct. 1—(AP)—Isaac Pulifer, retired lumberman, died at a daughter's home here just nine months before he would have observed his 100th birthday.

Born on a farm near Port Huron, he became a boss timberman in the Upper Peninsula. At one time he owned and managed five camps in the Au Sable region.

He retired 39 years ago, moving to Detroit, but continued a daily diet of wood-chopping as a hobby until his last illness, a few days after his 99th birthday last June.

Until then, he read his newspaper without the aid of glasses and smoked three cigars a day.

He had lived with a daughter here for several years.

Step-By-Step War Against Japs Costly

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Clark Lee has seen the Japanese in action in China, in the Philippines and in the southwest Pacific. His graphic stories of combat, or heroism and of people have won him wide praise and many honors. Here he reports on the situation and sizes up the task facing the United States if it is to regain the territory lost in Japan's first surge of conquest.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1—(Wide World)—Perhaps the best way to picture what faces the American forces in the Pacific today is to visualize an attack on Truk, Japan's greatest southwest Pacific base.

Truk is Japan's Pearl Harbor, the springboard for Japanese action in the southwest Pacific, a harbor on the island of Truk, which is situated in the air over the United States' outer edge.

Need Hundreds of Planes

It would be necessary to have 500 planes and possibly double that to keep constantly in the air over Truk during the decisive stages of the battle and as protection over our sea forces. That means aircraft carriers plus escorting surface ships of all classes, along with countless transports and supply ships.

For at least one day and perhaps longer, if we move on Truk, our armada would be under attack by Japanese long-range land-based bombers. But, if the American forces had sufficient fighters to protect them, that would not be a great obstacle.

If the Japanese still had enough carriers, however, they could intercept our forces from their goal and possibly destroy or damage enough of our own carriers to make us turn back. Once the enemy carriers had gone, our offensive forces would be able to move within six or seven hundred miles of enemy bases without fear of attack.

On the basis of my own knowledge of the Japanese people and of Japan's industrial setup, I agree that this would be the quickest and easiest way to end the war.

The big part of this program would be getting the supplies to China. Airplanes would have to be flown from India, so would bombs and ammunition, spare parts and everything needed to maintain an air force. However, with United States air production increasing, this problem should not be insurmountable.

Another alternative to a south sea drive from the southwest Pacific would be a direct attack against the Japanese northern islands from our Alaskan bases.

Our final offensive may combine all three.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—A housemaid plunged from a Park avenue apartment to her death today, narrowly missing pedestrians.

Armas A. Dolk, a cab driver passing the scene, stopped to see why the crowd had gathered. He planned at the crushed body, then cried:

"My wife!"

Detective Thomas Tunney said the dead woman, Mrs. Signe E. Dolk, 37, leaped or fell from a maid's room on the 14th floor.

REMEMBERING PITY
CHAPTER XIX

Martin appeared already dead. His head had a crushed look and from his nose and the corner of his mouth trickled a thin dark stream.

For the space of a breath that seemed ages long they stood, Peter and Candace, arrested in attitudes of horrified disbelief. The shocked group gathered in the doorway understood that: after all, Dr. Martin Corby, one of their own—out on the highway—the policeman was saying, "They hit the back of a truck. You should see their car. Folded up. Like an accordion."

The attendants moved off, as though they still had work to do, and with a sense of nightmare repetition Candace heard the sounds commence again, the opening and shutting of doors, the squeak of a stretcher-carriage wheel. Still her limbs felt locked, immovable.

Peter spoke, releasing her. His voice, cool, peremptory, was the voice of a doctor ordering her to duty; mechanically she moved to obey.

Peter's hands were moving swiftly, cutting away cloth, deftly probing. Under those searching fingers Martin stirred, his eyelids fluttered open. He managed what was almost a smile. "No—use, Pete," he gasped painfully. "Number's up."

Peter said gruffly, "Nonsense, boy," but when he straightened from that hurried examination his own face was gray.

Martin's gaze slid beyond him, seemed to search for something; when his eyes fell on Candace he had found it. "Candace," he said, "Candace." Painfully. A mere breath of sound. "It's been all wrong. Wrong. You shouldn't have let me—"

Peter looked at a hovering orderly, then walked away, and a screen was put round Martin and Candace, closing them in alone in a cold white stillness.

Outside in the room a girl was crying. She screamed once, a shrill crescendo of pain and loss, "Martin, Martin!" When he didn't even stir at that, when she knew finally, irrevocably, that Martin never would stir again, Candace left him there and stepped out, side the screen, drawn unwillingly, like a sleepwalker, to that cry.

Peter looked up at her standing there, eyes hard and bright, face drawn, and she knew it was over. She shrieked again, wildly, and struggled to rise. An interne held her and Peter spoke soothingly, "You're all right." There was the brief flash of a needle against the exposed white arm before its healing point went home.

Candace had seen Faith Hartshorne often, driving about in her open car with her bright curls blowing or sitting outside the hospital in it waiting for her fiancé, Dr. Corby. The curls were matted now, the young face smeared with tears and dirt and discolored by an ugly forehead bruise, the eyes that Candace had seen crinkled with laughter were buried and discolored too.

Blue, those eyes, blue as a smiling inland lake, but clouded now with a grief too terrible to be borne, a wild look, a lost look. Candace had seen a look like that once before, in eyes that had stared back at her from a mirror in a lonely hotel bedroom; the pansy-dark eyes of another girl who had lost Martin, a long, long time ago. . . . In an awe-remembering pity she bent to touch the girl's straining hand.

Faith clutched at her fingers, searching her face with a fierce hunger. "Nurse, did he—did he say anything?"

The way of Martin's going had left the other girl with a festering core of bitterness; for her sake this should be a clean wound, one that would heal. Candace lied gently, "He asked for some one named Faith. He said, 'Tell Faith I love her.'"

She turned swiftly, made blindly for the door. Peter would cover her, he would know she couldn't stand any more.

He was at the doorway as she reached it. "Candace," he said. His voice was warm, and compassionate. For a dizzying instant she fought with a longing to clutch as that girl had done.

The moment passed, pity! She hardened herself. She wanted no one's pity. She said bitterly, "Your perfect machine in operation."

tion, Doctor. The patient's condition called for something special in the way of treatment, and your machine trotted it out."

His own expression hardened. "Perfect machines don't break down in the middle of a job."

Peter worked with one eye on her and another on the clock. He watched Candace moving about, obeying orders as in a daze, and he was grateful for the confusion that would keep anyone from noticing that or his own distraction. He dreaded the blank moment that would come after the Harts, none girl had been moved upstairs.

Dr. Patterson had been summoned, other staff members swarmed about; he hoped that the confusion would last until the nurse who was to relieve Candace, and his own relief, had come. He was almost gratefully thankful when the two turned up practically simultaneously and they were at last free to go.

He threw his topcoat about his shoulders and waited to catch Candace at the outside door through which she must pass. He grasped her elbow and steered her firmly past the nurses' home, down the path to the road. If she was feeling even remotely as he himself felt she wanted to run, she wanted to scream, to release all the emotions pent up inside her. It would be better to walk her. Walk her until bodily exhaustion matched that of mind and nerves.

They were walking for an hour before he felt her pace slacken, falter. Wordlessly he turned her about and started back.

At the door of the nurses' home he held her hands in his. "Candace, I want to tell you: I let you in for this, and I'm sorry. I asked Patterson to fix it so you'd work with me because I knew that you wanted to run away from me, from everything. And I didn't want that. I didn't think it would be good for you. I wanted you to stand and face things. Now I'm not sure I did right."

She looked up at him dully. "That isn't true. I let myself in for everything, from the beginning."

"The girl? What of her?"

"There's a slight concussion, but no skull fracture. Multiple contusions and abrasions elsewhere but no fracture by X-ray. There may be some internal injury, it's too soon to know definitely about that, and she's badly in shock of course; but as far as I can tell now, she should be all right."

His concern wasn't for her, it was all for Candace. "You'll be wanting to get away now, I imagine?"

She said with weary surprise, "Why now, more than before? All this—this losing Martin," she said, stiff-lipped, "that really happened a long time ago for me. Tonight—doesn't make any difference. Nothing—has changed."

A sudden wave of bitterness engulfed her. Martin living and married to another girl would have been one thing to fight, Martin so tragically dead would be quite another. Even in death Martin was playing dog-in-the-manger.

And here he was, Peter thought, still hanging around hoping that sometime, somehow, Candace would snap out of it; hoping that he'd be around when it happened. It didn't look as though she ever would now.

He said to her, "You'll sleep? You're all right?"

"Yes." But she had begun to shake. She said, panicky, "Peter,

I can't go back to Emergency! I can't!"

"All right," he soothed her, "it'll be all right. Report yourself sick for a few days. After that we'll see—"

"Private duty?" she suggested anxiously. "I've been thinking about that for a long time." "Yes, that's good," he reassured her. "Yes. It should be easy to arrange."

News Behind the News

BY RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—Our top military experts now classify the air-raid defeat of the Japs at Midway as one of the world's most decisive battles. Not quite a Waterloo, but certainly a Saratoga. That engagement, in their opinion, "transformed Hirohito from a bully into a cautious man."

Our high command has been slightly puzzled by Tokyo's failure thus far to take the offensive against our forces in the Solomon islands, or against Port Moresby after its troops crossed the Owen-Stanley mountains. We had fully expected all-out attacks on both those positions and were not too well prepared to resist had they been launched several weeks ago. Now, and this is not giving away secrets—the foe will have a hard time recapturing Guadalcanal or winning the New Guinea base, which lies only a short distance from northern Australia.

The Nips, according to our strategists' conclusions, are worried about: (1) Their severe losses of aircraft carriers, destroyers and other vessels. (2) Our two-to-one aerial supremacy as demonstrated every time we have closed with their planes, and (3) Submarine sinkings of their fighting and transport craft.

Without a navy and a merchant marine Japan becomes only a second-rate power, as even her own martial specialists admit. It is this consideration which underlies our major plan in the Pacific—namely, whittling her ships and then sinking her.

TEARS—Tokyo had three obvious moves on the checkboard of carnage after her first victorious sweep through the French, British and Dutch possessions in the southwestern Pacific and her capture of Wake, Guar and the Philippines. It looked then as if the Oriental power were master of the ocean. But so far, owing to her repulse at Midway, she has not dared to capitalize on her gains.

It was assumed here that when Singapore and Bataan fell the foe would invade Siberia; march into a demoralized and apathetic India; try to smash Allied forces in Australia. The Soviet army's magnificent stand at Stalingrad is believed to have kept the Nipponese from attacking Asiatic Russia. If Hitler's crack troops cannot subdue the Moscovites neither can the Japs and they know it now. Had the City of Steel capitulated a month ago, as Berlin expected, the Mikado's men would be swimming through the northern provinces at this moment.

Our occupation of islands lying athwart the enemy's supply line to the south apparently drives Tojo from assaulting India or Australia in a massive way. It appears that Japan, instead of lunging forward, will settle down to exploit the lands she has conquered and then issue this challenge to the United Nations: "Come and drive us out." Incidentally, Der Fuehrer may adopt the same strategy if repulsed on the Volga. It will usher in a new chapter of war in which Britain and the United States must shed blood, sweat and tears. But we are almost ready for that expenditure and that sacrifice.

HUSH—Democratic leaders and members on Capitol Hill were never more annoyed with President Roosevelt than at present. During their deliberations on the anti-luxury measures they have the most important since the First World War—he has withheld counsel and influence.

Here is an incident illustrating the vexation which is current: Instead of consulting party bosses and aides, FDR has adopted the practice of sending them "cable" letters containing his ideas and, if they please, his orders. Although he wants his views relayed to other boys with prestige in the House and Senate, he attempts to flatter the recipients by labeling his communications "strictly confidential." It is an old gag in Washington. Give the mark of secrecy to a story or missile and every card driver will hear about it within a few hours.

But several powerful committee chairmen who have received these hush messages have taken the President at his word. In fact they are keeping such good faith that they have not discussed the contents even with their wives.

MOB—At the recent football game between the Washington Redskins and the New York Giants—a semi-championship contest which attracted 35,000 fans on a wet, dreary day—numerous members of the Cabinet and Congress were in attendance.

In the crowd near the stadium entrance attempting to get to their seats before the kickoff were six dignitaries as Jesse H. Jones, Secretary of Commerce, and his party, Senators "Bob" LaFollette, Worth Clark, of Idaho, Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, and many others. They were not asking special favors although they might have rated extra courtesy. But the next time they go to a game they will probably demand the works.

For while they were mulling around in the unruly mob a limousine with a C card drove in with a police escort which shoved aside the proletariat—and the solons. Out of the car stepped big, handsome, likable "Ed" Halsey, the secretary of the Senate. The elder statesman took it quite philosophically and good-naturedly. All they said was, "Well, I'll be damned!"

DEFENSE—A midwestern newspaperman recently buttonholed Mr. Wallace and asked him what he had to say about the Red army's magnificent stand on the banks of the Volga.

replied the modest Iowan, "and not a military strategist. But you can say for me that Stalingrad is Chicago's first line of defense!"

Even Chief of Staff George C. Marshall thinks the V. P. knew what he was talking about in this instance.

Winning The War

By Albert N. Leman

ARSENALS—Certain facts are known to U. S. troops in Egypt which are not bruited beyond the borders. It is common gossip in Cairo pubs that Tahrak fell swiftly because contingents of South Africans, containing many soldiers of Boer stock, were so dissatisfied with their leaders that they quit cold rather than serve under any longer. Churchill sensed this and immediately changed not only the high command, but also minor staff officers.

Rommel's recent thrust failed for two reasons: General Alexander, a scrapper of the first water, fought the Germans to a standstill and the United States ferry service accomplished a marvelous task, which so far has not been described. Our freight planes, working 24 hours around the clock, brought up a steady stream of artillery ammunition and supplies. Front line gunners were never without sufficient TNT to hurl at the advancing Nazis.

In similar desert or jungle campaigns the custom had been to wait until the slowly moving trucks arrived. But the impatient Yanks rejected this tortoise method. They flew in material from our new base in Eritrea and at the height of battle even transported spare parts from America by way of Brazil, West Africa and the Congo. On many occasions the Germans and Italians were decimated by weapons that had been stacked in arsenals in the United States only a few days before.

ARROWS—Although a military topic of the day is the probability that the Japanese will attack India, the shells are not being aimed among the United States and British soldiers on the Assam frontier. They are planning an offensive that will redeem the province north of Mandalay and reopen the Burma road to China. General Wavell's boast concerning such aggression and Willkie's presence in Chungking add emphasis to the story.

It is not yet shouted from the housetops that the United Nations are already maneuvering to hamper Tojo's widely scattered units. Key officers have organized guerrilla patrols in the Naga tribesman in the hill country that divides the hostile armies. These fierce warriors steal into the Nipponese lines to destroy supply dumps or surround scouting parties. They issue this challenge to the United Nations: "Come and drive us out." Incidentally, Der Fuehrer may adopt the same strategy if repulsed on the Volga. It will usher in a new chapter of war in which Britain and the United States must shed blood, sweat and tears. But we are almost ready for that expenditure and that sacrifice.

HEAVEN—Every time an Axis pursuit gunner compels an United States bomber to try to climb out of range, the adversary indirectly benefits passengers on future peace cruises. Obviously military aeronautical engineers study each encounter, seeking new methods to increase the altitude of our sky battleships. But what is not widely heralded is that commercial experts now examine the same reports and figures and from them are designing the stratosphere luxury liners of tomorrow.

At present, Pan American has three Boeing 307 type boats which give 25,000 feet above the tree tops and correspond to the martial Flying Fortresses. Crews are not forced to wear uncomfortable oxygen masks as their cabins are sealed. A smoke door, not taste capable of projecting more than 30,000 feet, to this giant—and to its successors now in the blueprint stage—will be added improvements resulting from the lessons of today's dogfights.

AAA Elections—The farmers in three communities of the county have held their AAA elections and chosen the following committees to carry out their 1943 program: Baraga township—William Lappala, chairman; K. William Lesellus, vice-chairman; Werner Hietikko, member; L'Anse and Arvon townships—Eimer Paulson, chairman; Carlo Heikkinen, vice-chairman; John Kivela, member; Covington and Spurr townships—Alex Anderson, chairman; Joseph Beuprey, vice-chairman; Elias Nopola, member. The county committee consists of John Erikainen, chairman; Arthur Stenson, vice-chairman; Matt Ollila, member.

Tire Certificates—The Baraga county war price and rationing board issued the following certificates from September 17 to 23. Passenger and light truck tires and more than 150 feet traversed trans-oceanic routes, settling on the surface by means of pontoons. Their destinations necessarily were seaports. But an examination of the closely guarded designing boards of transport companies shows that the postwar air liners will be land machines with wheels instead of floats.

Many reasons previously impelled the use of hydro types. A stretch of smooth water reaching from a harbor offered nature's own runway. Pioneers utilized lakes and sheltered bays because while experimenting they could descend without damage. In theory airships could perch on the waves far from shore in case of accident. Now quadruple motors allow repairs to any dead cylinder during flight.

Lack of fields has been the main handicap. Building Flying Fortress bases throughout the globe solves the difficulty. Bigger airports will dot the inland cities of the world. Tourists will hop from the middle west and disembark in central China or Russia. They will arrive at departure points from distant farms and ranches in "family cloud cars" which, because of the strides made in far aviation industries, will be as cheap as present day autos.

U. S. Awards Contract For Ore Docks

ESCANABA, Oct. 1—Merritt, Chapman and Whitney, of New York City, one of the largest marine contracting firms in the world, has been awarded the contract for construction of new ore docks at Escanaba. Twenty-two engineers and other employees of the New York concern arrived last night and took up residence at the Ludington hotel.

Announcement of awarding of the contract was received yesterday in a long distance telephone call from Rep. Fred Bradley in Washington. Jesse H. Jones, Secretary of Commerce, who is also chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Defense Plant corporation, allocated the funds for the Escanaba project this week, and the U. S. Army Engineer corps was assigned to supervise the building operations. Instructions to the contracting firm were to begin work at once.

Army Engineers Here
Five engineers of the War department inspected the dock sites and conferred with local officials of the Chicago and North Western railway yesterday.

Major Kump, spokesman for the group, declined to comment on the dock project or to offer any information. He declared that any announcement concerning the details of the project would have to come from War department headquarters.

Wage Hearing Monday
The War department has asked the U. S. Department of Labor to fix the wage scales to be paid on the dock project, and a public hearing has been ordered for Monday, Oct. 5, at the Elks club.

Rep. Bradley said yesterday there is the possibility that some delays will be encountered in obtaining the steel, timber and other construction materials. Expansion of the plans will make necessary the use of more steel than was originally anticipated, he pointed out.

The North Western railway, Soo Line, Escanaba and Lake Superior railways and other lines participating in the program for the creation of an alternate ore shipping route, with Escanaba as the water outlet, were authorized to start work at once. Their work will consist of ballasting the tracks for the handling of heavier ore traffic between the mines and Escanaba, the reconstruction of some bridges, and laying the tracks for extensive ore yards at this point.

The double docks, 1,920 feet long, each capable of loading four ore carriers at one time, will be completed for the 1943 navigation season, according to Rep. Bradley. The plan is also to drive the piling for two additional docks, but building of the superstructure will be delayed until later in the year.

Michigan Girl In Army Nursing Corps

Another Marquette county nurse has set aside all personal ambitions and previously made plans to offer her services to the United States.

Announcement was received yesterday from the United States Army headquarters, Chicago, that Miss Marjorie B. Fredericks, R. N., Michigan, has been appointed to the Army Nurse Corps with relative rank of second lieutenant, by Major General H. S. Aurand, commanding general of the Sixth Ser-

OPA Orders Rubber Boot Inventories

NEWBERRY, Oct. 1—Inventories of the six types of men's rubber boots and rubber work shoes, stocks of which were frozen Tuesday by the Office of Price Administration, must be made in duplicate by dealers, John T. Turnbull, Luce county OPA administrator, said today. Inventory forms may be obtained at the rationing board offices.

The order effects manufacturers, intermediate distributors or wholesalers, and retailers. Mr. Turnbull said. After filing an inventory the dealer can obtain his certificate to do business. The deadline for filing the inventory form in duplicate is Saturday, October 10. Local boards will not accept inventories after this date and the dealer will then be required to obtain his certificate to do business in rationed commodities from State OPA Director Arthur H. Sarvis.

Rationing Begins Oct. 5
The regulations further require that dealers must have certificates to make transfers or sales of the rationed articles after that date. From next Monday, October 5, until the filing date deadline, dealers may accept rationing certificates from consumers in anticipation of obtaining their business certificate upon filing of the inventory.

The rationing regulation on rubber footwear permits only those engaged in occupations essential to the war effort and to public health and safety to obtain certificates from the local board. Dealers may transfer or sell only to those holding certificates. Turnbull warned dealers as well as consumers that anyone making a false or deliberate misleading statement on a Government form or report is subject to penalties provided in Section 35-A of the United States Criminal Code.

W. J. Lavender, of the White Star Northern Oil company, reports that fuel oil rationing also starts today. According to information received by him, only 25 per cent of fuel oil obtainable last year will be obtainable this year.

At local meat markets voluntary meat rationing has been started. Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, of the statute for religious freedom in Virginia, and founder of the University of Virginia.

NEWBERRY, Oct. 1—The decomposed body of Arthur Mattson, 38, patient who escaped from the Newberry state hospital last June 26, was found today by a hunter in the woods about two miles east of the hospital. The hunter shot a partridge and as he walked around a pile of brush to pick up the bird he saw Mattson's body hanging to a tree. Mattson had hung himself by making a noose out of his handkerchief and tying one end of it to a limb on the tree.

Mattson was a resident of Stonington. His wife is the only surviving relative.

Junk Matinee Swells War Scrap Pile

NEWBERRY, Oct. 1—A group of girls threw a big box of scrap metal down with a loud clatter in front of the State theater. The junk was the price of their admission to the special scrap matinee which Mr. Shimmins gave Wednesday.

A sharp ringing sound came from an alarm clock which burst into sight from the bottom of the scrap, a bit dilapidated, but still running. Up the street, down the street, from everywhere came youngsters lugging lawn mowers, parts of stoves, solid iron bars and metal carts—rushing so that they could "make" the scrap matinee. One parent sadly shook his head and said: "Our stove is ready to fall apart. Each of my kids took a piece off." Another commented: "My kids wanted to saw the handle of the rake off and take the bottom."

When the matinee finally started, the pile of scrap filled a large truck. Not only grade school youngsters came with scrap and lots of enthusiasm, but many high school girls lugged odds and ends of metal their parents had forgotten to put out for the collection last Saturday. Thanks to Mr. Shimmins, Newberry boys and girls certainly "got in the scrap!"
