These are the hot blast stoves and blast furnace at the new steel mill being built near Fontana, Calif., by Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder, at a cost of $50,000,000. It is the first complete new steel plant in the war construction program and will go into production about January 1.

Allies Ready for Offensive, Parliament and World Told By South African Premier

By Gladwin Hill

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(P)—The impressive counsel of Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, veteran statesman and strategist of South Africa, was given the United Nations today amid semi-secret and historic circumstances.

Speech Broadcast to World

Against the sounding board of a closed assemblage of 1,000 of the 1,300 members of Britain's houses of parliament, the 72-year-old prime minister of the Union of South Africa delivered himself of this opinion in an unprecedented international broadcast for the ears of Russia, America, Britain and all their allies.

The gathering was held with many of the colorful trappings of parliament and with many innovations as well, with kilig lights flashing for the newsmen as Smuts, in field marshal's uniform, walked lightly down the center aisle past the unusual turnout of notables to a red-carpeted stage behind two great British war leaders of two war generations—the bent figure of David Lloyd George, his World War cabinet chief, and Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

It was, however, the first time that a British empire statesman had broadcast a speech before a joint assemblage of the members of parliament, and Prime Minister Churchill, himself, in a brief speech described the gathering as "in many ways unprecedented."

Writing secrecy permitted mention neither of time nor place, or even a description of the furniture of the hall.

Declaring that he wished to emphasize that "the defense phase has not ended" and "another must now begin," the veteran marshal summed up the urgency for action in these words:

"Once the time has come to take the offensive and to strike while the iron is hot it would be folly to delay, to overprepare and perhaps miss our opportunity. Nor are we likely to do so."

Allied Strength Growing
Drawing upon his long experience and "the best inside information," he painted the situation in these dramatic sentences:
"The final alignments both of Allies and our enemies have been made. Resources have been developed and mobilized on a very large scale, ours still on the increase, those of the enemy on the decline."
"Our manpower is still growing, that of the enemy getting depleted, while he makes ever heavier drafts on his suffering vassal peoples."
"The spectre of want, hunger and starvation is beginning to stalk through the subject countries. The spirit of unrest is heaving and rising. The explosive limits of endurance are nearing."
"We are approaching the point when, both on the war fronts and on the home fronts in the enemy countries, the situation is ripe for far-reaching developments."
On the point of the Allied offensive, he said "it would be unwise for me to say more and thus to set going unnecessary and perhaps harmful speculations."
Smuts said that "probably no such losses on both sides have ever been suffered in the history of war" as in Russia.
"The appalling bloodletting which is necessary for Hitler's ultimate defeat is being administered by the Russians and they alone can do it."
But—and here he emphasized that he was speaking from the best inside information, the Russians

"show not the least sign of giving in."
However, he said, Russia is "bearing more than her share of the common burden" and the Allies must give help in whatever form "in the fullest measure and with the utmost speed."
He said "for Japan, just as surely as for Hitler's Germany, the handwriting is on the wall. All that will remain of this spectacular Japanese success will be 'Japan for the Japanese.' In the long run Japan will not be good enough as an associate even for Germany. There are degrees in infamy."
President Roosevelt, he added, was "one of our greatest leaders," a reference that was heartily applauded.

Americans Raid Japs In North China, Report
TOKYO, (From Japanese Broadcast, Oct. 21.—(P)—The Japanese north China army command announced that three planes of the U. S. Consolidated B-24 type (Liberators) dropped several bombs from a high altitude late today in the eastern part of Hopei province in China, but "the damage was negligible," Domei said in a Peiping dispatch.

(There was no Allied announcement of such a raid, but if U. S. airman stationed in China made the attack it was the first reported instance of an aerial thrust so far west in Japanese-occupied territory.)

Japs Name Captured U. S. Pilots

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(P)—Germany and Japan appeared from their propaganda broadcasts today to be trying to build up a case of alleged war inhumanities that would justify reprisals against the United States and Britain, and the punishment of prisoners.

The Tokyo radio, which continued its broadcasts of threats to punish United States fliers taken after raids on Japanese territory, named four airmen it said were captured after the April 18 raid on Tokyo, and said they had confessed to inhumanities against the civilian population.

In Washington, the War department would make no immediate comment on the Japanese-German broadcasts.

Raid Dressing Station—Berlin

The German high command charged in its communique that British planes had attacked a German dressing station for wounded on the Egyptian front, and commented:
"From this the German high command is compelled to draw the conclusion that the British are engaged in a policy of terrorism."

Chinese City Bombed By Nine Jap Planes

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 22.—(Thursday)—(P)—Nine Japanese light bombers from French Indo-China attacked Mengzi, in Yunnan province, Tuesday afternoon, bombing the city and machine-gunning its streets, the Chinese Central News agency reported today. It did not give the number of casualties.

Indirect Sales Tax Deduction Permitted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(P)—Indirect sales taxes, as well as direct sales taxes, were made deductible from income taxes under a provision of the new tax bill to remove inequities as between states employing the two types of sales tax, Treasury officials announced today.

In Michigan, where an indirect sales tax is imposed, the tax is levied on the dealers, who in turn pass it on to the purchaser. A direct sales tax is paid by the buyer on purchase.

Senator Brown (D-Mich) secured Congress' approval of the provision in order that Michigan's indirect tax could be deductible the same as a direct sales tax.

The law provides that taxpayers can deduct indirect sales taxes by stating the amount paid during the year. The Treasury will accept this estimate if it is considered reasonable.

Treasury officials said that they had not calculated what sales tax deductions would amount to in a year, but Brown estimated that the provision might save Michigan taxpayers as much as $4,000,000.

President Signs New Tax Measure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(P)—The new tax bill, applying record shattering levies to the income of 45,000,000 Americans, became law today when President Roosevelt affixed his signature. The measure, which is signed into law at 10:30 a. m. today, raises the individual income tax rate from 13 per cent on the first dollar of taxable income to 88 per cent at the top. This is accomplished by a normal six per cent rate to which is added a graduated surtax ranging from 13 per cent to 82 per cent.

On top of that, the bill imposes a unique new "victory tax" of five per cent on individual income in excess of $624 annually or $12 weekly. Limited credits are allowed for debt retirements, insurance premium payment, war bond purchases and post-war rebates.

Corporation Taxes Higher
The new law also increases corporation taxes by nine percentage points, raising them to 40 per cent, through a combined normal and surtax. In addition, excess profits, after an exemption of $5,000, are taxed at 90 per cent.

Another section of the measure raises excise taxes, effective November 1, on liquor, cigars, cigars and other items.

Mr. Roosevelt signed the bill although the Treasury had called it inadequate, and although he personally found it objectionable in two respects.

200 Trapped By Fire High In Mountains

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Oct. 21.—(P)—Two hundred fire fighters were trapped late today, a sheriff's radio report said, by flames which encircled them in the flaming Santa Monica mountains.

On other sectors of this front there were engagements of local importance and exchanges of artillery and mortar fire.

One Russian unit was said to have repelled a number of attacks, killing about a company of German infantrymen.

In the Mordok area in the Caucasus, the communique said, Soviet troops held their previous positions despite enemy attacks and conducted several reconnaissance raids.

"One guard unit," it said, "repelled attacks of three battalions of German infantry supported by 25 tanks. Five German tanks were damaged or burned and 200 officers and men wiped out."

The Red army also held its lines in the Black sea area, southeast of Novorossik. The main engagement took place around an important height which the Germans attacked unsuccessfully, losing about two companies of men.

There appeared to be no letup in the German attacks inside Stalingrad as the battle for the city continued in a cold autumn rain.

Nazis Complain of Weather

The Soviet moon communique said Red army men "hurled the enemy back to his original positions," wiping out a company of infantry used in overnight German attacks.

Thus Stalingrad ended its 58th day of battle.

The Germans, who claim the Red October Gun Works is one of the three main Russian centers of resistance, said Wednesday in a high command communique that "struggles are being continued" in Stalingrad and reported the resumption of strong Russian tank-infantry relief attacks from north of the city. These, the Germans added, "broke down" with the loss of 40 Russian tanks.

In the west Caucasus, the Germans said, continued bad weather was impairing operations.

Ranch Home Destroyed

Brown reported the $50,000 ranch home destroyed—one of at least 100 score gutted by the sweeping flames—but said a large barn and a herd of valuable cattle had been saved.

Eyewitnesses, meanwhile, described a sheet of seething flame a half mile wide which flashed in what seemed like seconds up a brush covered slope lower in the canyon.

Firemen backed desperately at other points along a front more than three miles long, ranging up two picturesque canyons and at times licking down almost to Roosevelt highway on the ocean front.

At least 20 homes—some luxurious—had been destroyed late today, Sheriff S. T. Paul Nester said, and unofficial estimates ranged as high as two score gutted.

Endangered was the rambling ranch house of Movie Actor Richard Dix, high in Las Flores canyon.

Deer fled in terror before the arcing flames, and one box canyon to which they took refuge looked like a deer park. Some horses and cattle were burned, but many more were driven to safety.

1,500 Fighting Flames
Two miles away, on the Warner ranch near Calabasas, flying embers touched off a replica of a Swiss chalet which Warner Brothers had built to use tomorrow in a new Ann Sheridan picture.

Nester said some of the homes destroyed in Las Flores canyon were valued up to $25,000. Also endangered was the hamlet of Fernwood.

Nearly 1,500 begrimed, weary fire fighters deployed along the three-mile seaward front battled desperately to control the surging wave of flame.

Japs Again Retreat In Owen Stanley Mountains

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Oct. 22.—(Thursday)—(P)—Japanese forces in the Owen Stanley mountains have been forced to retreat for the second successive day, being driven from defensive positions at a point where the Allied command announced today.

A raid by Allied medium bombers which caused serious damage to the Jap-occupied town of Maubisse in Timor, north of Port Darwin, was reported in the communique.

Allied heavy bombers also attacked shipping in the harbor of Rabaul, New Britain, causing fires and explosions. The oft-bombed Rabaul airdrome was attacked and fires started.

Nazis Driven From Buildings As Reds Take Initiative In Stalingrad Industrial Area

MOSCOW, Oct. 22 (Thursday)—(P)—The Russian army took the initiative in the blackened, rain-soaked wreckage of Stalingrad's northern industrial district yesterday and drove the Germans from a number of buildings, the midnight Soviet communique said today.

In other parts of the city the Germans were said to have "constantly attacked" Russian positions throughout the day without dislodging the Red army from the positions which it has defended successfully since Sunday.

"All attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy," the communique said.

In one sector of the city 11 German tanks were destroyed and about two companies of infantry wiped out.

Attack Northwest of City
The Russians also took the initiative at several points northwest of Stalingrad, but results of the operations were not disclosed. The communique merely said Soviet units "conducted active operations on some sectors."

On other sectors of this front there were engagements of local importance and exchanges of artillery and mortar fire.

One Russian unit was said to have repelled a number of attacks, killing about a company of German infantrymen.

In the Mordok area in the Caucasus, the communique said, Soviet troops held their previous positions despite enemy attacks and conducted several reconnaissance raids.

"One guard unit," it said, "repelled attacks of three battalions of German infantry supported by 25 tanks. Five German tanks were damaged or burned and 200 officers and men wiped out."

Second Rape Charge Filed Against Actor

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—(P)—A second charge of rape involving a 15-year-old girl was filed today against actor Errol Flynn.

Juvenile Officer Lt. R. W. Bowling signed a complaint charging that the swashbuckling film idol raped Peggy Larue Satterlee, 15, August 3, 1941, during a weekend trip to Catalina island on the actor's yacht.

Flynn is scheduled to appear for preliminary hearing Friday on a charge of raping Betty Hansen, 17, movie struck Lincoln, Neb., girl at a party in Bel Air the night of last September 27.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas W. Cochran said the actor's lawyers plan to surrender him tomorrow on the new charge.

"I hardly spoke to the girl, and I certainly did not harm her," Flynn said after his arrest on the charge of raping Miss Hansen. "I cannot understand what all this is about."

Bowling said that Miss Satterlee told him she and her sister, Mickey June, previously had been on a motor trip with Flynn and nothing improper occurred. Then the actor telephoned invited her on the yacht outing.

The district attorney's office said the girl's mother, Mrs. William C. Satterlee, had asked an investigation in August, 1941, but the girl could not be found. Later the parents wrote from Santa Barbara saying they had decided not to press the charges because of the publicity to which Peggy would be subjected.

Raped Her Twice, Girl Charges

Judge Oda Faulconer issued the new complaint against Flynn, based on Miss Satterlee's assertion that the actor raped her twice during the Catalina island yacht trip.

"We will fight the charge," said Flynn's attorney, Robert Ford. (Turn to Page 9, Column 3)

U. S. Airmen Down Twelve Jap Planes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(By A. P.)—The Navy tonight announced the loss of two destroyers—the O'Brien and the Meredith—in the still-developing battle for Guadalcanal, but American airmen damaged a Japanese cruiser and "stopped" a cruiser with a bomb hit.

Aerial activity yesterday and the day before resulted in the destruction of two enemy bombing planes, nine Zero fighters and a seaplane. Three American fighter planes were lost.

These developments were made public in a Navy communique which said many enemy ships had been sighted in the northern Solomons, and reported "little recent troop activity" on the island of Guadalcanal itself.

American airmen are meanwhile seeking out and attacking small ship units or task forces in the southern Solomons, and continuing to bomb enemy supply dumps and positions on Guadalcanal.

Thus, in its present phase, the battle for the Solomons appears to be:

For the enemy, an effort to gather his strength for an assault, while attempting to weaken the American defenses by bombing the air base at Guadalcanal.

For the American forces, an effort to soften the blow when it comes by attacking the enemy's sea forces, seeking to cut him off from supplies and disorganize his land forces with aerial attacks.

Bombers Damage Destroyer

On Monday, the communique said, enemy aircraft attacked American positions on Guadalcanal. American Grumman Wildcat fighters shot down two Zeros.

Later that afternoon "our Douglas Dauntless dive bombers attacked three enemy destroyers to the westward of Guadalcanal. One destroyer was damaged and an escorting seaplane was destroyed.

During Monday night, the communique continued, naval aircraft attacked an enemy cruiser to the westward of Guadalcanal. "The cruiser was damaged and stopped by at least one bomb hit."

Early yesterday morning American naval aircraft bombed enemy supply dumps and positions on northwest Guadalcanal.

Later in the morning 30 Zero fighter planes flew over the Guadalcanal airfield and were followed an hour later by 16 enemy bombers

Chest Total Increased To $8,497

Only a few team captains reported yesterday's collections to Community Chest campaign headquarters in the commission chamber of the city hall and pledges they turned in amounted to $2,349, bringing the reported total, after three days of canvassing, to $8,497.02, or less than half the Chest budget of $18,662.

The canvass will be continued through the week and it is expected that a partial report will be received from every team captain when the canvassers meet in the city hall at 5 this afternoon. None of the teams has completed its work and most of the groups, it was stated last night by George E. Bishop, campaign chairman, have not covered more than half of their territory.

Expect Big Boost Today

"The amount of money reported in today," he stated, "would be discouraging except for the fact that it represents the work of only a few campaign teams. I am still confident that we will reach the goal and that after Thursday's reports are in we will be able to push the 'mercury' in the Community Chest 'thermometer' on the County Savings Bank building up a considerable distance toward the top."

Bishop has asked every campaign team leader and divisional head to make a report today of all pledges received up to 5 p. m.

Pledges reported by divisions up to 5 p. m. yesterday are:

No Gas, Tire Restriction On Trucks Used to Haul Scrap

Firms using trucks for part-time collection of salvage material will be given enough gasoline, under ration rules, to continue this work. They will not be required to reduce mileage, a recent ODT ruling states.

This information is contained in an announcement of the War Production Board and it is expected that this ruling, together with an OPA decision giving tire preference to truck owners who use their vehicles for salvage collection, will make an increased number of trucks available for use in scrap collection in Marquette county.

It was the general opinion that in order to make a request for extra gasoline for scrap collection, truckers would have to begin hauling scrap prior to the date of gasoline rationing in order to keep a record of mileage.

Will Not Be Handicapped
The WPB announcement, with regard to gasoline rationing and its relation to salvage trucks, follows in part:

"The OPA fuel rationing division says that trucks collecting scrap will not be handicapped for lack of gasoline since regular service rations are based on actual mileage of each vehicle. Under a general permit issued by the ODT, private and contract carriers engaged in

Coast Guard Recruiting Officer Here

Quarters for a permanent Coast Guard recruiting office in Marquette, plans for establishment of which were announced a few weeks ago, were selected yesterday by Chief Yeoman Leroy Hamilton, who will be in charge of the office.

The quarters are on the second floor of the Union National bank building and the Coast Guards will use three rooms, Hamilton said. He expects to open the office on Monday, November 2, and will have a staff of two men under him.

Hamilton, who came here from the Coast Guard divisional recruiting office in Detroit, said a decision had been made to open three permanent branch offices, one in Sault Ste. Marie, one in Marquette and one in Duluth. The Sault Ste. Marie office has been open for some time and results there have been satisfactory.

The Duluth office also will be opened November 2, according to Hamilton.

present plans. Yeoman Hamilton has gone to Duluth to procure quarters for the office there and will return to Detroit to get equipment for the Marquette office. He will come here two or three days before November 2.

350 Attend Bond Rally, Hear Whitney

War bond and stamp quotas will go higher as the war and its tremendous cost go on, George G. Whitney, executive director of the Michigan retailers' war savings organization, warned merchants and clerks at a rally held yesterday morning in the Nordie theater.

The rally was attended by 350 persons and preceding the address by Mr. Whitney, a war savings film, "The Flag Speaks," was shown. Whitney, who was introduced by Mayor L. W. Biegler, congratulated the retailers of Marquette on the work they have done to promote the sale of war bonds and stamps and said Marquette county's record was considerably better than the average in Michigan.

Sign Enlistments
Enlistment blanks which were passed out to the clerks following Mr. Whitney's inspirational appeal to them as "salesmen for Uncle Sam" were signed in large numbers. The clerks agreed to learn what stamps and bonds are so as to better salesmen and salesladies. They agreed to set a selling goal for themselves as individuals; and to sell stamps as they do other merchandise; and to ask all customers to take their change in war stamps.

Mr. Whitney told them that salespeople of the nation have been chosen by the Government as the agency to make the greatest attempt to sell war stamps because they reach more prospective buyers than any other group. He declared that they must accept the responsibility, "for a half-army is as weak in salesmanship as it is on the battlefield."

Each store which enlists under the new plan is to receive an emblem for prominent posting so that the general public will know bonds and stamps are on sale there.

Billion Quota For Year
Whitney brought a message of greeting from J. B. Webster, Jr., chairman of the state committee for retailers. Whitney said the national retailers' quota is a billion for the year ending May 1, and Michigan retailers' share is $48,000,000 for the same period. Michigan's overall quota for September was 35 million dollars and Michigan led all the larger states with 23.9 per cent of its quota.

The retailers of Michigan did the best they have ever done in September, but Whitney said more must be done to meet future demands.

"The war cost now is estimated at 185 billions for the next fiscal year, and it is still on the way up," he stated.

FFA Makes Small Game Survey in Michigan

LANSING, Oct. 21—P—The state conservation department, seeking to determine the value of small game to Michigan farmers, has asked the 4,000 members of the Future Farmers of America to conduct a backyard survey.

The farm youths will be asked to extend the survey until November 5, end of the Lower Peninsula pheasant season, recording the kill of pheasants, rabbits and squirrels on their own farm lands. The reports will be relayed to the Rose Lake experiment station where a long-standing study of farm land game yields is being made.

Of the total automotive scrap collected in three months, iron and steel accounted for 319,000 tons.

A new species of white blackberries was recently discovered in Florida.

Foundation Endorses Asikainen, Lindahl

E. C. Prettyman, superintendent of the Michigan Temperance Foundation, Inc., East Lansing, yesterday notified Andrew Asikainen, Gwinn, Prohibition party candidate for Congressman from the Twelfth district, and Harold Lindahl, Iron River, candidate for state senator from the Thirty-first district, that they have been given the Temperance Foundation's endorsement. They also have been endorsed by the W. C. T. U., Upper Peninsula members of which are assisting in their campaign.

William Persons, Kalamazoo, Prohibition party state chairman, announced yesterday that Dr. Frederic B. Goodrich, Albion college chaplain and Prohibition candidate for governor, will speak in Grace Methodist church, Marquette, next Sunday evening at 7:30. Dr. Goodrich, former president of Albion college, is starting his 51st consecutive year there. He is a graduate of Wesleyan college, Conn., and honorary degrees from Defiance and Albion.

Dr. Goodrich is making a special tour of the Upper Peninsula in the interests of the Prohibition party candidates in this district. He will be in Iron Mountain today, Ironwood tomorrow, Houghton Saturday and Marquette Sunday.

Service In St. Paul's At 10 Tomorrow

A two-hour period of devotion with special intention of thanksgiving for the elevation of Bishop-elect Herman Riddle Page to the Episcopate for the Diocese of Northern Michigan will be observed in St. Paul's church, beginning at 10 Friday morning.

The service of consecration of the bishop-elect will be held during the same time in St. Paul's church, Dayton, Ohio, which parish the bishop-elect served as rector for 13 years prior to his election at the diocesan convention in Negaunee last May.

The Rev. John G. Carlton, rector of St. Paul's, announced to the parish Sunday the special devotional period. There will be a celebration of the Holy Eucharist during the period, beginning at 10:30. The new bishop will make his first visitation to St. Paul's as celebrant and preacher at the 10:30 service Sunday, November 1, All Saints day.

Addresses By Gideons To Be Broadcast

Arrangements have been made by John H. Francis, West Allis, Wis., secretary of the Wisconsin Upper Michigan division of the Gideons, who will hold their fall convention here this weekend, for a series of radio programs to be broadcast over WDMJ, the Mining Journal radio station.

The first is scheduled for today, from 5:15 to 5:30 p. m., and the speaker will be Harold Lindahl, Iron River, the Gideons' divisional president, and Mr. Francis will sing.

Tomorrow, from 4:15 to 4:30, an address by Captain Bergstrom, chief chaplain in the U. S. Army hospital in Fort Knox, Ky., will be broadcast and the program will include other features.

A half-hour program is scheduled for Saturday, from 5 to 5:30, and the speakers will be A. E. Lewis, Eau Claire, Wis., international president of the Gideons, and S. A. Fulton, Milwaukee, international trustee.

The weekend rally will be attended by approximately 75 Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin Gideons and their wives. At least 125 persons will attend the convention dinner Saturday night in the Clifton hotel.

PUNCHES CLERK'S JAW

LANSING, Oct. 21—P—Al Keyes, clerk of the Lansing traffic bureau, collected a punch on the jaw instead of a dollar from a man who had parked overtime in a control zone here today. The man, who identified himself as C. E. Burris, Brooklyn, N. Y., salesman, now faces a charge of assault and battery as well as the traffic ticket.

Reassuring Report

THE OWI, in a 10,000-word report designed to give a clear understanding of how the American airplanes are acquiring themselves, makes the conservative statement that on the average their performance is good.

The country needs less assurance on this point than it needed some few months ago, when criticism of American planes was rife. The proof of the quality of the planes of any country is their performance in combat.

With this exception the American fighters are definitely inferior to the best of the foreign types in high altitude fighting. But as this is a field in which the British are well prepared the deficiency, attributed to tardy and incomplete development of the Allison air-cooled engine, is not serious.

The OWI admits that the American fighters are definitely inferior to the best of the foreign types in high altitude fighting. But as this is a field in which the British are well prepared the deficiency, attributed to tardy and incomplete development of the Allison air-cooled engine, is not serious.

Current production of aircraft is putting into service ships vastly superior to those turned out when production was first started. Lessons learned from actual use have been applied without serious delay in output.

question is when it will be joined. While it has been known that large American naval forces have been concentrated, the first word of their action since the Japanese reinforced their land troops told of their shelling of Japanese coastal positions. It was accomplished without retaliatory action.

The fighting in the Solomons has significance all out of relation to the forces engaged. In attrition resulting from it up to this time the Japanese have suffered more severely than the Americans. They have paid dearly for piecemeal effort to redress the balance.

The keenness of American interest in what is happening in the Solomons is realistic. They are the center of a critical phase of the global war.

Army's Negro General

Big, blocky, genial, Brig. Gen. Benjamin Oliver Davis, the only Negro general in the American Army, is in England to inspect Negro troops. News of his presence was touched off by a protest in Parliament against reported statements by a British officer counseling discrimination against American Negro troops.

Both parents of Gen. Davis' mother were slaves. His grandfather on his father's side was a slave, but bought his freedom in 1800, and the general still treasures the certificate given him then to protect him against the fugitive slave law. Young Pvt. Davis, serving in Manila in 1898, caught the eye of his superior officers as a smart and able soldier.

He was there that he gained his lieutenantcy in 1901, fighting through the Philippine insurrection. Gen. Davis and his son, Lieut. Benjamin Oliver Davis, Jr., are the only two Negro line officers in the regular Army, although there are now around 350 Negro reserve officers. Lieut. Davis was graduated from West Point in 1936, ranking thirty-fifth in a class of 276. He was the fourth Negro to be graduated since Henry O. Flipper of the class of 1877. He has been serving as an instructor at a students' ROTC at Tuskegee institute.

So I went out scouting for information about the practicability of the scheme to fuel us via New York City's flushers. I remembered that I saw a great pipeline station in Wood River, Ill., when I was on a brief flying trip, a few weeks ago. Mr. Ralph C. Canaday, who operated the station for Shell, suggested then that I visit the headquarters of the company in Rockefeller Center, to view the interesting mechanism that gives him his orders and gets the oil, gas and other products going through the line.

Here, then, I might at least injure two birds with one pebble. This much seems to be clear about the flusher business: The flushers were never made for fast roadwork. They are heavy and they burn up a great deal of gasoline per mile.

They were taken to Lima for fuel oil and brought it back to New York, they would burn up in the process almost exactly the amount of fuel that they could carry back. Possibly the gasoline and oil consumed on the long voyage would be worth just a little more than the fuel oil transported.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The United States Navy is up against one of the toughest tasks in all its history—the effort to make sure the landing of Marines in the Solomons. But the difficulties involved have been foreseen from the very beginning, and the one thing that causes Navy men concern is the inability of the public apparently to understand the real nature of the job and the reasons for the way news has to be handled from the Pacific area.

Thus, a criticism made on Capitol Hill, to the effect that the Army forces in Australia under General MacArthur were not being utilized to help the Marines, is a misunderstanding of the nature of the operations.

The high command in America consists of General Marshall, Admiral King and Admiral Leahy, who comprise what is known as the United States chiefs of staff. All three men have a voice in the decisions and in the making of strategy. To assume that the Army forces in Australia or anywhere else have not been permitted to do something they ought to do is to say that General Marshall does not have an opportunity to express himself or to influence the strategy that is finally adopted.

Deception as to losses is practiced by all the navies of the world as an integral part of strategy, and policies differ with the situations that arise. In one instance, it may be revealed that deception caused the Japanese completely to underestimate our strength in the Battle of Midway. When the story of the Solomon Islands operations is disclosed some day to the students of naval history, it will be discovered that the reasons, good or bad, which caused a withholding of the news about the three cruisers were directly related to naval strategy.

One thing can be stated positively: The high command of Army and Navy is not holding back news about any relationship to the problem of morale on the home front. The reasons are strategic, and the American people must trust the high command. It is a military and naval group which knows what it is doing. It is interested only in victory—and not in politics or morale problems arising from the fighting fronts. There is unity of command and purpose today in the United States chiefs of staff.

New York Chats

By Charles B. Driscoll

NEW YORK—Our Mayor La Guardia is currently making such a noise about cheating and gambling and getting little boys to tell on their fathers who bet on the horses that he apparently has forgotten all about his flash announcement that he was going to stop the fuel shortage in New York with street flushers.

He announced on the radio, many weeks ago, that he was going to employ his fleet of a thousand street flushers to haul fuel oil from the nearest pipeline terminal. We all felt a glow in anticipation of the heat we'd get from that oil this winter.

Winter is here, if I can judge by the temperature this morning. The street flushers, as this is written, are still flushing streets.

So I went out scouting for information about the practicability of the scheme to fuel us via New York City's flushers. I remembered that I saw a great pipeline station in Wood River, Ill., when I was on a brief flying trip, a few weeks ago. Mr. Ralph C. Canaday, who operated the station for Shell, suggested then that I visit the headquarters of the company in Rockefeller Center, to view the interesting mechanism that gives him his orders and gets the oil, gas and other products going through the line.

Here, then, I might at least injure two birds with one pebble. This much seems to be clear about the flusher business: The flushers were never made for fast roadwork. They are heavy and they burn up a great deal of gasoline per mile.

Not So 'Terrible'

It's a little inconsiderate of Roger 'Terrible' Touhy to stage a dramatic prison break just at this time along with six other ex-public enemies. We just can't be bothered with small-fry hoodlums in these stirring times.

Mr. Touhy will soon find out that things have changed since 10 years behind him and a 99-year sentence stared him in the face. The public could get excited then about the Dillingers, 'Baby Face' Nelsons, 'Two-Gun' Crowleys, et cetera. Guys like Al Capone could make the blood pressure of the law-abiding mount to the boiling point.

But today's run-of-the-mine news, dealing with mass murder through bombing, callous flinging of thousands on thousands of men into sanguinary battle, and deliberate starvation of conquered populations makes these small-time toughs appear the rankest sort of amateurs in comparison.

'Terrible' Touhy will be caught, of course, or killed in his attempt to evade capture. We can trust the F. B. I. and the Middle West police authorities for that. But before he bid for freedom ends one way or another, we'll bet he wishes he were back, snug and comfortable in 'str' again. The world has moved past him and his kind since he left.—(From Columbus, Ohio, Evening Dispatch.)

news announcements. Criticism has come from some sections of the press, especially because the news about the three heavy cruisers lost at Tulagi in August was not given out till a date more than two months later. It is argued that the enemy must have known about these losses.

The important thing to be borne in mind that Naval warfare, especially over the broad expanse of oceans, is based to a large extent on deception. The game of fooling the enemy may mean safety to tens of thousands of our sailors, and it may mean the difference between victory and defeat in the shaping of tactics to meet the enemy at a particular moment.

To reveal the reasons why a particular piece of news is withheld is to tell the enemy just what phase of the art of deception was involved in a particular instance. No general rule can be drawn, because no two cases are alike. In one operation, it may be deemed desirable to withhold the news until replacements are already in the same area and it may take a long time to get them there from other areas. In another instance, we may have already replaced in secret a certain type of vessel and it may be desired to let the enemy believe that no replacement could possibly have arrived within a certain interval.

Deception as to losses is practiced by all the navies of the world as an integral part of strategy, and policies differ with the situations that arise. In one instance, it may be revealed that deception caused the Japanese completely to underestimate our strength in the Battle of Midway. When the story of the Solomon Islands operations is disclosed some day to the students of naval history, it will be discovered that the reasons, good or bad, which caused a withholding of the news about the three cruisers were directly related to naval strategy.

Plywood Goes To War

Candidates for the title of 'Busiest Plants in the Entire Nation' are the sixteen plywood factories in the United States. Now far behind with their orders, they struggle to catch up through three-shift or continuous operation and additional buildings. Plywood happens to be one of the world's strongest structural materials with numerous war uses such as shipping containers, bombers, air transports, gliders, torpedo boats and army landing boats.

What is this plywood? Take wood veneer sheets from one-hundredth to one-tenth of an inch thick, cement them together under great heat plus heavy pressure, and you have a semi-plastic that is tough, waterproof and similar to metal, though stronger and frequently lighter.

Plywood has proved itself a worthy substitute for many metal parts of planes and other war items. Moreover, in many cases it has proved to be better than scarce metal it replaces. Unfortunately, the types of veneers required must be shipped from widely separated points in the United States, from South America and elsewhere. When present supplies are exhausted the use of plywood must lessen if, in the meantime, forest experts have not located suitable woods close enough to the shipping pinch.—Christian Science Monitor.

Today And Tomorrow

Secrecy and Accountability

By Walter Lippmann

THE event may show that in his radio address the President did not say the last word on the subject of lay criticism of military operations. In fact, a study of the six paragraphs in his address which dealt with this subject can lead only to the conclusion that, having made a useful point, the President chose not to consider the grave substance of the real argument.

The debating point was taken against the amateur strategists who presume to tell the high command where and when the offensive must be launched. The President was everlastingly right in insisting that these decisions cannot and must not be made under the prodding of the civilians; that they must be made by the commanders who will bear the responsibility when the battle is joined.

There Must Be Accountability

But though it was necessary and highly desirable for the President to prove to his commanders that he would protect them against the pressure of uninformed opinion, the graver question remains unanswered. It is how the nation is to know that there is an effective system of accountability in the high command which leads to necessary reforms.

The President's dictum that "we therefore, will continue to leave the plans for this war to the military leaders" will never satisfy the nation unless the nation has good reason to believe that somewhere and somehow there is a way of seeing to it that the lessons of hard experience are promptly learned and put into effect.

For while it is self-evident that the lay public cannot and should not dictate future operations to the commanders, it is no less evident that the lay public has a right and, indeed, a duty to insist upon accountability after the event. The President should not confuse these two very distinct forms of criticism; on the one hand dictating what should be done, and on the other hand insisting on proof that from what has been done the lessons have been taken to heart. Thus there is all the difference in the world between agitating for a "second front" now and demanding a Robert's board after Pearl Harbor and then asking whether the reform of personnel and their organization and their strategic and tactical ideas have been carried forward.

This second form of lay criticism is indispensable in any war. In our war it is imperative because Mr. Roosevelt has taught us to realize that he will almost never dismiss any one he has appointed, no matter how inadequate his appointee, no matter how blatantly his appointee has failed. For this reason the nation cannot complacently accept the view that no searching questions must be asked about the military conduct of the war.

If Mr. Roosevelt as Commander-in-Chief were a disciplinarian who could be relied upon to hold men accountable as sternly as sentries are held accountable by regimental officers, and if the President had a war cabinet of eminent civilians who had the right to advise him fully and as equals, the outside public and its typerwart strategists would be spared much anxiety.

Stories Have Never Been Told

This is no time to speak bluntly about these matters except to say this: the stories of Pearl Harbor, of Luzon, of Dutch Harbor, and of the August night action off Savo Island in the Solomons have never been told; such disciplinary measures and reforms as followed these hard experiences are almost entirely unknown. This is an impediment to conduct a war in a free country. It puts a great strain upon the confidence of the people.

That strain would become too great if, without true information of what has happened and without a confident belief that the lessons of the past have been resolutely applied to the future, the people were confronted with bad news that they did not expect. For while the policy of concealment which has been practiced since Pearl Harbor can perhaps be justified on the ground of military secrecy, the policy cannot be sustained if the nation is not assured that behind the curtain of secrecy there is firmness and lucidity in holding men to account. For the withholding of information is tolerable only if it is certain the girl in formation withheld will nevertheless be acted upon promptly, fearlessly and effectively.

For Frying Salt Pork

Now that we must share food with our Allies many of the old-time Ozark recipes could assume national importance. One such recipe is the one for frying salt pork which has been practiced since Pearl Harbor can perhaps be justified on the ground of military secrecy, the policy cannot be sustained if the nation is not assured that behind the curtain of secrecy there is firmness and lucidity in holding men to account.

For while it is self-evident that the lay public cannot and should not dictate future operations to the commanders, it is no less evident that the lay public has a right and, indeed, a duty to insist upon accountability after the event. 'Tommy' Keough

As long as there is a shred of hope that there is a mistake, we refuse to believe the report of the death of First Lt. Thomas Keough. And there is just a chance of an error. His last weekly cablegram direct from him to his parents is dated one day after the date on which he was reported killed.

But it seems as if it were only yesterday that "Tommy" was scuffling with other Jads here in the office, waiting for his papers to take out on his carrier route. To us, he was the embodiment of all that was finest in the American Army. We like to think of Tommy as a typical Murphysboro boy and a typical American boy. They didn't come any finer. The whole town mourns him as their own, while clinging to the faint hope that there has been a mistake. This shocking report brings home the full realization that this is war, a hateful and horrible war which all decent Americans sought by every honorable means to avoid, but which we must and will win now whatever the cost.—Murphysboro (Ill.) ### Questions And Answers On Idle Tire Plan

Questions motorists have asked about the idle tire purchase plan are answered in the following list of questions and answers received by the Mining Journal yesterday from the Office of Price Administration:

- Q. Why is it necessary to sell my idle tires?
- A. The rubber shortage is serious. Your Government must have tires immediately to ration for essential use.
- Q. What happens if I don't sell my idle tires?
- A. National gasoline rationing starts Nov. 22. If you or any member of your household, related to you by blood, marriage, or adoption,

Idle tires, as described in this question-answer article on rationing regulations, can be turned in by calling the local office of the Railway Express Agency, which will pick them up. A receipt will be given by the Express agent to a person turning in tires and later he will receive a check in payment for them.

has more than five tires per passenger car after Nov. 22, you will be denied the privilege of using gasoline in any passenger car you own. Q. I have only four tires and a spare. Must I turn in my spare? A. No. Only your idle tires.

Definition of Idle Tire. A. An idle tire is any new or used passenger type tire (even if it needs repairs) in excess of tires mounted on running wheels plus one spare per motor vehicle. Tires that are beyond repair also are idle tires but should be sold to a scrap dealer.

Q. Does this mean that I cannot drive a car after Nov. 22 if there are more than five tires for each passenger automobile in my household?

A. It means exactly that. By Government order, it will be illegal to use gasoline in your passenger car.

Q. What will I do when my own tires wear out—put up my car? A. No. Automobiles are essential. The purpose of this plan is not to take cars off the road—but to keep all cars on the road—yours included, for essential driving.

Q. What about synthetic rubber? Won't that solve the problem? A. Not quickly enough. Unless we take steps immediately to pool and use idle tires, many cars will be off the road by 1944.

Q. I bought two tires before Pearl Harbor and used them for a rainy day. Do I have to give them up? A. No. "Rainy Day" Tires.

Q. Sorry, but it's America's rainy day now. The limit is five tires per passenger car. But you can keep your five best tires and sell the others to the Government.

Q. What will the tires I sell be used for? A. Every tire will be put to work—to get farmers to markets, to get workers to their jobs, to keep every car in useful operation. If later you need tires, the Government will do its best to see that you get some.

Q. What about tubes? A. You will not be refused gasoline because you possess idle tubes, but they are urgently needed. The Government will buy all useable tubes that are offered.

Q. Must trade tires be turned in? A. The gasoline refusal does not apply to idle truck-type tires, or tubes, but the Government will welcome the patriotic action of truck owners who offer idle truck tires or tubes. However, idle passenger type tires must be turned in even if set aside for use on trucks if the owner applies for a passenger car gas ration.

All Useable Tires "Frozen" Q. Can I sell or give my idle tires to a neighbor? A. No. All useable tires are now "frozen." Useable idle tires held by a consumer can be sold or given to the Government under the idle tire purchase plan.

Q. What about trailers? A. You may keep tires actually mounted on the running wheels of trailers and similar equipment. You are not entitled to any spare tires for such equipment.

Married Men To Be Called In November

LANSING, Oct. 21—P—Michigan's December draft quota may take between 5,000 and 10,000 married men, the state selective service headquarters said today.

A heavy November quota may be filled without inducting married men other than those who married when there was reason to believe they would be subject to the draft. Spokesmen said the November quota was "roughly equal" to the number of men drafted in the entire first six months of 1942, and that the December quota was 10 per cent greater than that.

"Even if action is completed on Congressional legislation allowing the drafting of 18 and 19 year old men," a statement said, "we still would need between 5,000 and 10,000 married men—those who have no children—in addition to those married in the face of imminence of induction."

"We have not yet learned what disposition should be made in cases of married men who have no children, but who do contribute to the support of collateral dependents such as parents and brothers or sisters."

Serving U. S. News About Marquette County Men in Uniform

EDITORS NOTE—The Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Merchant Marines are growing in strength every day. That means more and more Marquette county men are "Serving U. S." They read and enjoy this column as faithfully as those of us at home. Don't fail them! Send in items about men in uniform to the Service Editor, The Mining Journal, Marquette, Mich., or telephone Marquette 150. In Ishpeming, phone 3; Negaunee, 401, and in Republic, 701.

WARREN BESSEK, who spent a furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bessek, 1535 Presque Isle avenue, has returned to Great Lakes, Ill., from where he expects to be transferred soon. He enlisted in the Navy in Los Angeles September 2 and was sent to Great Lakes for boot training, which he has completed.

PFC Joe Newman, son of Mrs. Anna Newman, Palmer, stationed at Camp Blanding, Fla., writes that the Army is swell, but he prefers Michigan to Florida. Joe wants his friends to write to him, and here's the address: Hq. Btry. 311 F. A. B. N., A. P. O. No. 79, Camp Blanding, Fla.

Staff Sgt. Philip A. Martin, son of Mrs. Marie H. Martin, 1748 Fitch avenue, is listed as a successful candidate for the Army medical officer candidate school in official orders issued at the reception center, Scott Field, Ill., where he is stationed in the medical section. Sgt. Martin entered the Army at Fort Sheridan, February 13, 1941, and served in the morale office there until last December, when he was assigned to his present post. He was promoted to sergeant June 8 and has been a staff sergeant since July 18. Nice going, Phil!

Ensign William Beckerleg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Beckerleg, 1010 Pine street, recently was promoted to lieutenant (j. g.) somewhere in foreign waters. (We can't name the spot). Bill has been in service more than two years, and has been out of the United States since last October 30. Congratulations, Bill—Hope your ship hits a home port one of these days.

Pvt. William E. Peura, son of Mrs. Anna Peura, Deerton, has reported to the Armored force school tank department at Fort Knox, Ky., where he will learn to tear down a tank, piece by piece, and assemble it again—thereby becoming one of the thousands of technicians manning the hard-hitting armored divisions. The Fort Knox school graduates more officers and men annually than any civilian college or university.

Two Republic brothers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fowler, keep track of each other through the Service Column, which both receive. They would like to hear from their friends. Their address are: Candidate Clarence J. Fowler, Co. H-19-1, 2, E. S. R. Fort Belvoir, Va., and Sgt. Milburn W. Fowler, Co. D, 48th Arm'd Reg., A. P. O. No. 262, Camp Campbell, Ky. Their uncle, Pvt. August Karbun, also in the service, is stationed with Co. D, 20th Bn., 6th reg., B. I. R. T. C., Fort McEllan, Ala.

Oliver Adolph Pentimaki, Rolling Mill, Negaunee, was among the 753 ensigns commissioned yesterday as deck officers in the Naval Reserve after completion of their three-months V-7 training course at the New York USNR Midshipmen's School. The swearing-in and graduation ceremonies were conducted in the Riverside church by Captain John K. Richards, USN, commanding officer of the school. Rear Admiral John Henry Newton, USN, assistant vice-chief of naval operations, was the commencement speaker. The eighth class, of which Ensign Pentimaki was a member, was the largest V-7 class in the history of the Naval Reserve. The New York school now has 2,600

All-Michigan Ordnance Unit Being Formed

Opportunity for men 18 to 44, inclusive, to enlist in an all-Michigan company of the U. S. Army ordnance department is being offered through the cooperation of the Michigan state highway department, which is recruiting men for this service.

B. F. Sparks, Upper Peninsula engineer for the highway department, said applications for enlistment in this Michigan ordnance company may be made at any state highway office in the Upper Peninsula. In counties where no state highway garage is located, applications will be received through the cooperation of county road commissions.

The company to be organized will have a total personnel of 215 men, including a captain and three first lieutenants. Men skilled in the use of tools who meet the Army's physical standards for general military service may be enlisted directly in the ordnance company.

"Keep 'em firing" Men applying for service in the Ordnance Enlisted Reserve will be selected on their qualifications and their ability to meet exacting requirements of the Ordnance Department. The men will be employed in the development, procurement, testing, issuance and maintenance of fighting tools for the Army.

In the field of battle, Ordnance soldiers are the "men behind the men behind the guns." They are skilled men who "keep 'em firing." Men with the following skills are sought for enlistment: armorer, automotive engineers, automobile mechanic, blacksmith, construction carpenter, general clerk, cook, electrician, repairman, machinists, stewards, tool makers, truck drivers, welders, motorcyclists, cooks and orderlies.

The captains and lieutenants will be selected by Army officials at an interview in Lansing on Friday. After applications of enlisted men are received Army representatives will interview them at four or five cities in the state next month.

Several states have already completed the organization of their ordnance companies, Sparks said. The companies will train as a separate unit, and will be retained as a unit wherever it is sent into service, thus the Michigan men will remain together for the duration.

SOLD LIQUOR TO GIRL LANSING, Oct. 21—P—Five popular downtown drinking places were penalized by the liquor control commission today upon the testimony of a 17-year-old girl she had been served with drinks in all of them. The license of each was suspended for 15 days.

Midshipmen preparing for officers' commissions, making it second only to Annapolis as a training center for naval officers. After a short leave, Ensign Pentimaki will report to his new post.

Francis Johnson, brother of Mrs. John Polier, Ishpeming, has been promoted from private, first class to sergeant and has been transferred from Fort Knox, Ky. His new address is Sergeant Francis Johnson, 500th F. A. Btry A, 14th Arm'd Div. Camp Chaffee, Ark.

Pvt. John Aho has returned to Shepard Field, Texas, where he is stationed, after spending a 10-day furlough with his mother, Mrs. Ailino Aho, Lincoln street, Negaunee. John has been in the service only two months, but likes it a lot. He was formerly stationed at Seattle, Wash. He likes the Michigan climate much better than that in Texas—It's too hot down there, "deep in the heart of Texas!"

Wesley Ruohomaki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ruohomaki, North Lake, has been promoted from private, first class to corporal. His new address is Corp. Wesley Ruohomaki, (A. S. N.) 8618734, 979th M. P. Co., A. V. N. APO 3298, care of Army Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Physicians To Be Trained In 'Sister Kenny' Method Of Treating Polio Victims

LANSING, Oct. 21—P—The executive office announced today completion of arrangements to employ Federal funds to train a group of orthopedic physicians, nurses and physical therapy technicians to employ the so-called Sister Kenny method of treating infantile paralysis sufferers.

The prepared statement said those who complete the training must agree to assist the state crippled children commission in providing treatments at hospitals in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Traverse City, Marquette and Ann Arbor.

Dr. Carleton Dean, medical director of the commission, was out of the city. Those selected for training will attend a several months' course at the University of Minnesota, where Sister Kenny, the Australian nurse who developed the method, is

War Courses To Be Given In Ten Cities

Interviews this week between Michigan College of Mining and Technology representatives and school men in 10 Upper Peninsula cities, looking toward the establishment of engineering, science and management war training courses.

Dean James Fisher and Professors C. H. Baxter, R. E. Seeber, L. A. Rose, Chester Russell, T. E. Richards, and A. N. MacIntosh are consulting with President H. A. Tape, of the Northern Michigan College, in the Upper Peninsula, and with superintendents, principals and teachers in Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Sault Ste. Marie, Escanaba, Ironwood, Bessemer, Wakefield, Iron Mountain and Menominee.

The aim of the ESMWT program is to train men and women for work in laboratories or in the armed services, in order to replace people who have had special training in technical work and to fulfill the added demand for such people.

For High School Graduates All the courses are of college grade. Applicants must be high school graduates, employable in the type of work toward which the training is directed, and must have completed certain prerequisites for the course chosen. No tuition fee is required for any of these war training courses. However, the trainees must purchase textbooks and minor supplies.

Courses to be offered, and Michigan Tech faculty men who are investigating the possibility of setting them up, are as follows: Pre-flight training, Prof. MacIntosh; engineering drawing, Prof. Seeber and Richards; the training of routine chemical laboratory assistants, Dr. R. P. Makers; safety engineering, Prof. Baxter; map interpretation, Prof. Baxter and MacIntosh; topographic drawing, Prof. Baxter; mathematical methods and engineering drawing, Dr. Fisher; the chemistry of powder and explosives, Dr. Makers; engineering report writing, Dr. Rose; and the fundamentals of radio, Prof. Russell.

The courses will be supervised by these men. However, the actual class instruction will be in the hands of teachers from the local schools.

It is urged that women apply for admittance, and as the enrollment in most classes will have to be limited, all persons interested should at once contact the local high school superintendent. Announcement will be made in newspapers and over radio stations, giving the date, time, and place of enrollment meetings. All classes will be held in the evening.

Here's How Victory Tax Affects You

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—(P)—Taxpayers who have business expenses and individuals who receive compensation for injury or sickness will be able to deduct those items from income before figuring out their 5 per cent Victory levy.

The Victory levy, a new impost placed on top of the regular income tax, will go into effect Jan. 1 on incomes over $624 a year. Periodic collections will be withheld from the pay checks of wage and salary earners.

Ordinary individuals will have few deductions from the tax unless they are engaged in business for themselves. However, they can subtract any alimony or separate maintenance payments from their taxable income as well as any gain from the sale of a capital asset and any compensation they receive for injury or sickness.

Business men will be permitted to deduct the expenses they are allowed to subtract from their regular income tax net income, including interest, taxes, business losses, bad debts, depreciation, depletion, payments to pension trusts, net operating losses, and amortization.

It Affects All Alike The new tax will be collected from all alike, whether they are single or married and have dependents.

Thus a wage earner who makes between $20 and $24 a week, for instance, will find 50 cents withheld weekly from his paycheck and a man who makes between $70 and $80 a week will find $3.10 subtracted. (In certain cases, such as wages paid to domestic servants and proceeds paid to public officials, the tax will not be collected at the source, but will be payable in the same manner as regular income levies.)

At the end of the year, the married taxpayer will be permitted to claim a credit for 40 per cent of the tax, plus two per cent additional for each dependent, up to a maximum of $1,000. The single person can claim credit for only 25 per cent of his tax, or a maximum of $500.

This credit can be used in two ways, either for current deductions or for post-war rebates.

Life Insurance Credit Thus, when the year ends, the taxpayer could take credit for the amount he had paid during the preceding 12 months in premiums on life insurance for himself and his family, if the insurance was in force on Sept. 1, 1942.

He could take another credit if his outstanding indebtedness at the end of the year was smaller than the smallest amount he owed in the period beginning Sept. 1, 1942, and ending with the close of the preceding taxable year. For instance, if the smallest amount he owed at any one time between Sept. 1 and Dec. 31, 1942, was $200 and he only owed $100 on Dec. 31, 1943, he could claim credit for $100 in figuring his 1943 Victory tax.

Credit For U. S. Bonds A third credit would be available for the amount the Government

Army Helps Solve Men's Job Problems

The vocational problems of younger men, always greater in troubled times, are being partly solved by the Army's program allowing men 18 and 19 to choose their branch of service, it was stated yesterday by Maj. Archie B. Whitlow, district recruiting officer, who pointed out these young men can select a branch of service in which they are interested and during their tour of duty receive specialized training in Army schools which will fit them for good positions when the war is won.

A young man joining the air force has a chance to work on the finest planes, learning a trade which will be in demand in the air-minded nation of the future, the major said. "Radio is still in its infancy and Signal corps—trained men will have a wide future. The ordnance department turns out first-class mechanics and the Engineer corps makes construction men," he added.

Many Other Branches Other branches of the service open to men 18 and 19 for direct enlistment—every one leading to a specialized skill—include cavalry, armored force, chemical warfare service, medical field artillery, infantry, coast department, military police and quartermaster corps.

These young men, Maj. Whitlow stated, need only the consent of their parents to be enlisted directly into the branch of their selection. After completing their basic training they will be trained as skilled workers in their particular fields.

The Army recruiting office for this area is in the Federal building, Marquette.

Why Be Troubled By Wartime Constipation?

Avoid one of the common causes—lack of "bulk"!

No wonder so many folks feel "all done in" these war days! It's the way we live—longer hours, harder work, irregular eating habits. And in this hurry-burry, meals are apt to be rushed, improperly balanced—and overloaded.

What a difference getting enough "bulk" might make! For lack of it is one of the common causes of constipation. In such cases, medicinal laxatives are only "makeshift" remedies; they don't correct the cause!

But eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN cereal and drinking plenty of water can prevent or overcome this trouble. For this delicious cereal supplies the necessary "bulk." Start eating ALL-BRAN today. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly In Place Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass you by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. # Youngsters Are Reminded To Prepare For Palestra Hallowe'en Party

Some Women Are Not Being Fair About War Work

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

Probably most of us are selfish in our attitudes. We do generous things often because of what may be a really selfish reason—the being generous gives us so much pleasure.

That kind of selfishness is human and not destructive or obstructive, but there are a lot of other kinds of selfishness that are definitely obstructive; and some of the women are guilty of it.

For instance, the other day a woman, who was serving as chairman of a committee formed to enlist aid from the women in a war effort project, tried to line up some women for work.

Is That Real Excuse?
She went to one woman and was met with the announcement: "Well, I couldn't possibly help on that day because my bridge club meets."

A second woman turned down the request for a volunteer with the excuse: "I don't have a free afternoon. There is a club meeting practically every afternoon except Thursday and then my maid is out."

But the pay off came with the announcement made to the chairman of another war project group, who tried to enlist a volunteer worker for a different kind of war effort project. The prospective, or rather non-prospective volunteer, said, as if she were making the most reasonable remark: "I'd love to help but you see I don't have any time. I have many social obligations to return and I am scheduled to do several things so I really don't have any time."

Well, now really? I agree that we are quite some distance from the combat regions, but goodness gracious, don't the women, who are showing aside war effort for bridge and study clubs, know that there is a critical war, that we are long past the stage where we can turn down requests that we help?

What's A Bridge Club Now?
There are many women with small children or invalids in their families who have to make the choice of taking care of their immediate responsibilities because there is no other choice to make. But doesn't it seem supremely selfish (and maybe it is more ignorance of the situation than just selfishness) that any woman should have the temerity to refuse to serve because it interferes with her bridge club or any purely social activity?

All we need relaxation, but assuredly not to the extent where it interferes with doing our duty as American citizens.

The amount of Red Cross production work, Home Nursing class and First Aid class attendance, that can be shown as Marquette's record proves that all women are not slackers. They are not all shirking their responsibilities by a great good deal, but you cannot blame the women, who have been working like beavers the past several months, if they get furious when they see young women who haven't contributed a bit to the war effort devoting one afternoon after another to bridge, to teas, to trips to camp, to going on as usual.

It's Time To Share Load
Mothers, wives and sisters of the men, who are in fighting forces, have a right to be highly increased that they should be the ones to work for Red Cross and community service plus having made the greatest contribution to be made, bidding farewell to their menfolk who have gone into service.

It's foreign to everything democratic for some women to be working with every ounce of energy to help the war, while some other women have the insufferable impudence to lean back and expect social activities to go on as usual.

Every one has a right to a few hours of relaxation during the war, but only after the job has been done in a day's hard work. The ill of the field that toil not and neither do they spin are passe and with no right to a place in the war picture.

But, having said that much, here's a better piece of news. During the Community Chest drive one captain of a team interviewed four young married women asking them to be responsible for getting Community Chest pledges in a certain area. Each of the young women had not been married many years, each has the responsibility of caring for her baby. But each one, who are in effect, "wid" be only too glad to help. There was some one to take care of the baby."

It Solved The Problem
Mrs. Harvard Jean, North Front street, who knows the young mothers and who has a youngster of her own of kindergarten age, said: "I'll take care of the babies for the four."

So Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday afternoons of this week, Mrs. Jean has been nursemaid for the small ones. One of the babies is two months old, the oldest is two years. Of the quartet of babies, one lies in the carriage, one walks and two sit on the floor.

Probably folk on North Front street have been wondering what kind of a baby party has been going on every afternoon this week in the Jean residence, but it is nothing in the nature of a festive, social event, but merely an instance of a neighborly and co-operative spirit.

One woman shouldering the task of changing diapers, giving the baby's milk ration at the proper time, and caring for the active little ones, is releasing four other women to work on the Community Chest drive, for two and a half hours daily. And the one woman wasn't selecting the easiest job by any means.

Those young women have ingeniously solved a problem, and there will be more and more such problems confronting us as war brings added responsibilities and demands.

That kind of thing is demonstration of the practical application of the principles of democracy.

All of us can't help in the same way to the same degree in war effort for we aren't all blessed with the same strength, the same skills, the same amount of free time to devote to it, but every single man or woman in Marquette can do something to help and the hundreds of women in town whose men are in service have a right to feel that it is high time folk humped themselves to row their weight in the boat of war effort.

Award Prizes For Costumes And Lanterns

This is a hear ye, hear ye call to the boys and girls who may have forgotten that Hallowe'en is in the offing. It's time to prepare for the annual big party which will be sponsored by the Marquette Police department and conducted by the city recreation department.

Prizes will be given and they will amount to 75 cents for first prize, 50 for second, and 25 for third. Prizes will be thrift stamps.

Have you any good ideas for a costume or for a lantern? If you youngsters have now is the time to try out those ideas.

The following costume prizes will be given: For the best ghost, best witch, the most partiote, the best representation of the United Nations, the most hobo-like hobo; the most original, the prettiest, the most comic, the best Negro, and the best group.

These are the way the lantern prizes will be awarded: The best pumpkin, the most artistic and attractive handmade one, the best purchased lantern, the largest, the smallest, the most original and unusual, and the most comical one.

Knowing how ingenious boys and girls are there should be some most exciting costumes and lanterns in the Palestra on Hallowe'en.

The doors of the Palestra will open at 6:30 and at 7:30 the judges will be on hand, looking, taking notes, discussing, and trying their best to pick out the prize winners from the many interesting entries.

There will be a program and motion pictures at 8.

Keep Date for Party
For some of the older boys and girls who are busy helping in the salvage campaign and other community projects, there will be dancing upstairs from 8:30 to 12.

There will be other details given later, with announcements of committees, but today there is merely announcement so all the boys and girls will get busy right away, will put on their thinking caps, and will make plans for their special costume or lantern.

The children can make their costumes as simple or elaborate as they please, but every youngster will be expected to come in the mood to have a good time; because that's what the party is for and why it is on Hallowe'en.

With prizes being given for ghosts and witches, the scene at the Palestra ought to be quite an exciting one.

Pierce Has Programs During 'Scrap Week'
Pupils of John D. Pierce Training School are not only collecting scrap in the salvage drive, but are thinking on the subject, or organizing themselves with some of the reasons for collecting the metal.

In observance of the week's drive the school has held assembly programs on related subjects.

The program Monday was in charge of the American History class. On Tuesday the eighth grade took over, and yesterday, the seventh grade.

At the Wednesday program there was a brief report on the history of the pledge of allegiance and comment on its anniversary.

Additional emphasis on the assembly will be held next Monday morning.

At the high school, as well as assembly programs of the Northern Michigan College of Education, one stanza of "Star Spangled Banner" is sung at every such program.

Not been contacted by the committee, are asked to telephone 2276.

'8 Et 40' Holds Benefit For Fort Brady Fund

The "8 et 40" will sponsor a "camp and hospital" benefit for Fort Brady. It will be held at 2:30 Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Abby Beecher Roberts, Deer Track.

There will be a stroll around the grounds to show the natural habitat of mosses and woodland plants, and Mrs. Roberts will give a talk on this subject to which she has given much time and research.

There will be on display an exhibit of the various mosses and plants.

Following the program tea will be served. However, this will not be a silver tea; instead, an admission fee will be collected at the entrance to the grounds.

It will be recalled that the county is to provide for the furnishings of one room at Fort Brady and this is the "8 et 40" contribution to the project.

Mrs. Grace Cowland of Ishpeming, is camp and hospital chair for the county and doubtless there will be several persons from Ishpeming and Negaunee and elsewhere in the county at the benefit party Monday afternoon. Every one is invited to attend.

There will be additional information about the program, this is merely announcement to reserve the date.

Girls Don't Check Chic, at Factory
Want to know the what's what of a working-beauty style that's bound to make quite a sweep among the women in war production? Then, have a look at the sub-assembly girls—welders, inspectors, motor-mount oiler's who're making planes down in Dallas, Texas, says Alicia Hart.

They've put aside powdering their noses on the job, reports Turkey Poyner after an intimate survey of the girls and their beauty habits. But after work they're all out for beauty.

They had to solve many new feminine problems—by themselves, in the best way they could, and the result is a beauty all their own—a face that "needs no camouflage."

"Shining As Silver At 67"
One reason nose powdering has faded is that the girls have discovered makeup plans—for home, or shopping, or a date. Then they make up—and look as soft and radiant as a Hollywood gal.

Typical quality of this working-beauty-mouth-bright with lipstick, eye-bright with enthusiasm and around their unpowdered face short hair curls and glistens, clean as a soap bubble.

No. 1 problem, is hand-care. The plant gives them a wonderful protective hand cream that makes it easier to remove grime. But they have to scrub with pumice soap, too, and this leaves hands rough and dry.

"When I get home," says Margaret Cook, who does hydraulic sub-assembly, "the real work begins. I have a heavy hand cream that I rub thoroughly into my hands and over my nails. And I don't forget my elbows, either."

Georgia Krodel and Venita Anderson, who work as a team riveting side panels, swear by that homely liquid, olive oil, and this is the first choice for hand-care of about half the girls.

Nail care varies with the work. Nail polish—when there's a reason. Lella Combs is a magnaflex inspection gal; she handles dye as well as greasy gadgets, and she keeps her hands heavily coated with enamel polish to prevent staining.

Long nails, are out; quite a few of the girls have nails shorter than those of some of the men working in the plant. All use cuticle oil and ointments lavishly.

You'll Spoil Your Hair
The technique for hair beauty is even more individual a matter. How often locks are washed depends on what the girl does. Ena May Montgomery, operating a milling machine, has to keep her hair constantly covered to avoid catching in the gadgets. She shampoos only twice a month. But Mildred Maurer and Elsie Faye Allen, who oil motor mounts and often turn their oily hands through their hair, shampoo every fourth day. Likewise Mary Lou Thompson, who inspects machined parts, and gets locks full of lint and dirt. None are worried about dry or listless hair—for all preach and practice brushing. It's gotten to

Incidents Of Chitter-Chatter Are Varied Today, But Most Of Them Provide Some Chuckles

Hallowe'en seems to be looming larger than usual in the minds of the small fry this year, and seldom have the "false faces" available been quite so horrific in appearance. The more ghastly such masks look the better the small fry like them even though the young beholders become goose-pimpled with delicious jitteriness.

The other afternoon two women walking along High street saw an urchin standing sedately beside a baby carriage.

As soon as the women approached he clapped on a ghastly white "false face." The one woman gave the properly terrified squeal, commenting on the awful-looking creature.

The little boy stood perfectly motionless staring. The woman, playing the game, looked backward every few minutes as she went down the hill. There stood the youngster absolutely silent and hidden back of the leering mask.

As the two women reached the end of the block there came a wild shout, and when they turned, there stood the boy holding the mask in his hand.

"It's me," he shouted. More surprise on the part of the woman; secret delight on the part of the small boy; with everybody concerned parting happily.

Not So Good This!
Now all adults expect the youngsters to have some fun on Hallowe'en, but quite properly most of them dislike too early ringing of doorbells, soaping of windows, and the "tricks or treats" visits.

It's much too early for that kind of thing.

But even worse than that some urchins who soaped windows this week got quite too far out of bounds.

One small lad had soaped on some windows: "Buy war bonds," which tended to make the beholders chuckle a bit. But some other boys had chalked up some obscenity on the windows.

They used phrases that were not funny, nor mischievous but simply filthy. There were calls from indignant women who realized that the very small youngsters passing those windows would see and parrot the expressions soaped on the panes of practically all the stores in that block on Third street. In addition there were pictures on the windows, and some panes on Front street carried similar dirt.

The children who were old enough to soap the windows in that obscene fashion probably would have been the better for it if some of their soap had been used for mouth washing.

There is nothing funny about that kind of Hallowe'en celebration. It's not smart, but exceedingly dumb tactics and especially dumb this year when help is not so readily available in stores and to clean up the mess means some one has to take time from his regular work in the store to do some window washing.

Some children got off on the wrong foot when they tried to show off on Third street.

Beating The Devil
The Rev. Fred J. Clifford, formerly pastor of the First Methodist church, and now pastor of the Woodmere Methodist church in Detroit, is chuckling at a recent experience. He told the story to a former parishioner during a recent visit here and it's too good not to circulate.

Rev. Clifford some weeks ago was hurrying about his business somewhat absentmindedly. More intent on his thoughts than on traffic he walked against the lights. "Hey," yelled a cop, "you trying to beat the devil?"

"That's right," grinned the preacher, hauling out his card and presenting it to the policeman who had a scowl of humor.

The cop took a squint at the card, grinned from ear to ear, and remarked: "Go right along!"

There's another joker in the deck, too, for Rev. Clifford related the story to a friend in Detroit who submitted the story to a magazine and received $5 for it!

"Little Orphan Annie" Speaks
Those who follow the fortunes and misfortunes of Little Orphan Annie in the comics may have seen this, but if many of the readers are like the editor of this page, they seldom see the "funnies."

A business man yesterday sent in a note saying: "Found this yesterday and thought you'd be interested in the last picture of Shanghai and the Padre on the Little Orphan Annie page."

"Seems to me the Padre's idea is a whole lot better than some folk who say: 'We're sure licking the Japs now,' or 'It looks like we're losing this war,' depending on how the news happens to be on a particular day."

"Just read what the Padre says in the last picture, put the paper away and after about 10 minutes see how you feel. It kinds of grows on you."

And this is the dialogue in the "funnies":
Shanghai—Reading the papers, be a proverb with 'em: "Spare the brush and you'll spoil your hair." Of course, the brush offsets both the drying effect of very frequent washing, and the dulling effect of very infrequent washing.

How About Those Books?
Goodness things move with such speed these days that we tend to lose track of what is going on.

Do you happen to remember that some months ago the "8 et 40" chose as its project for the year the collecting of books for the use of men in the service?

You do remember? Well, the response naturally was most generous at first, but then in rushing around attending to a multitude of things folks tended to forget and the contribution of volumes fell off a bit.

This is merely a reminder that there is still a real need for those books. If you have such volumes of interest to the men in service do take them to the Peter White public library. If you do not have such and would like to contribute to the project, there is a box at the library desk into which you can drop a nickel, dime or quarter or "folding money" if you have that. That fund defrays the expense of shipping the books.

Lions Celebrate Charter Night With Dinner

The Marquette Lions are celebrating the twenty-third Charter Night this evening. It is of especial interest to the group for the local organization is the oldest of the 123 Lions clubs in Michigan.

Charter Night will be observed with a dinner dance. Dinner will be served at 6:30 this evening in the Northland and at the after-dinner program Wallace Kemp will be the toastmaster.

Wendell Doty, of Battle Creek, International Councilor, will be the principal speaker. There will also be a talk by District Governor Carl Price, of Kalamazoo. Special musical numbers will also be presented.

Following the program there is to be dancing and it is expected that Lions from Munising, Gladstone, Sault Ste. Marie, Rudyard and Calumet will be here for the Charter Night festivities.

Ohio Grocer Disgusted With Human Beings

(A reader recently brought up the following story which he opined echoed his sentiments, too. It tells the opinion of a disgusted grocer in Ohio.)

MEDINA, O.—Daniel R. Pelton is a Medina, grocer who has seen so much boarding he is just plain disgusted.

He felt so incensed over the shortages of foodstuffs brought about by hoarders that he ran a quarter-page newspaper advertisement under the caption, "This War Proves Man Evolved From Monkeys and Insects." He signed it, "Peltons—Hooped Food Store."

The notice read: "All the monkeys need to do to get the hogs busy is to tell them six or eight weeks ahead of rationing that coffee, tea, salmon, tuna, bean sprouts, baked beans, meat and what not is about gone."

"They will rob the baby's bank; quit paying the preacher, priest or rabbi; stop paying their honest debts to get cash to run all over God's earth and wear out their tires to get the very thing they should leave alone."

"The Government asks them to cut down on tea, put up with the little devil that killed their brothers at Pearl Harbor and throughout the Pacific, and they just can't get along without their tea and coffee, no matter if all the men on all the ships go down trying to get it here."

"They have run the chain stores out of everything hard to get but scratch grain and onions. Then they trot to the poor little home owned store and give him the devil for not having enough stock to care for the chain customers too. Really it seems that more folks came up from hogs than monkeys."

"Monkeys have monkeyed around with the synthetic rubber proposition until we have to walk in the snow and slush while they fight over whether to use wheat or oil. Too much monkey business as well as too much hog."

Pelton ended with, "God speed the day when all our boys return and this monkey hoggishness comes to an end."

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lawrence, 1301 North Front street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lois Audrey Lawrence, and Claude Arley Fisk, son of Mrs. Joseph Crosscher, of Sault Ste. Marie, at 4 Saturday afternoon, October 3, in the chapel of the National Naval Medical Center, at Bethesda, Md., the chaplain, the Rev. John E. Frazel, officiating.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Clarence Beatty, matron of honor, and Miss Ethel Norberg, bridesmaid. Staff Sgt. Glenn Morgan, formerly of Marquette, was the best man.

The bride wore a purple afternoon dress with cerise hat and a corsage of orchids. The matron of honor chose a brown crepe dress trimmed with green and a matching hat. Tallman roses formed her corsage. The bridesmaid wore a black hat and corsage of pink roses with her beige wool dress.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the Rainbow room of the Hamilton hotel in Washington, D. C., and was followed by a small reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beatty.

The bride is a graduate of the Gravenet high school and previous to her marriage was in the employ of the Washington National Insurance company in Evanston, Ill.

The groom, who was formerly owner of Claude's barber shop in Marquette, is a second class hospital attendant and is attending dental school at the National Naval Medical school.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisk are living at 4218 Sleaford Road, Bethesda, Md.

Can You Give Some Musical Instruments?

The soldiers at Fort Brady would like to form a band and an orchestra. There is direction and talent available, but there are no musical instruments, Arthur E. Jackson, field director of the American Red Cross at Fort Brady, has written Mrs. Bernice Chamberlain, executive secretary of the Marquette county chapter, hoping that it might be possible to obtain used instruments from residents of the county.

Probably there are violins, flutes, trumpet, drums, saxophones and other musical instruments in Marquette county homes which are no longer being used by the folk who originally purchased them.

It seems too bad to have any such gathering dusty and taking up space, when they would contribute so much to the men at Fort Brady.

Folk of the county are asked to take a "look-see" at their possessions and see if there is anything in the line of band or orchestra instruments that they can contribute to the project.

Telephone Red Cross Secretary
If you have such that you would be willing to give for this purpose please notify Mrs. Chamberlain who will get in touch with the officials at Fort Brady before sending on the instruments to make sure that they are the kind needed or which have not been duplicated.

Since it is hoped to get the musical groups in the fort organized as promptly as possible please look over your possession today and notify Mrs. Chamberlain.

No one can fail to understand how much it does for the men to be able to have a band or orchestra, but as readers can readily understand there is no fund now available for the purchase of musical instruments for this purpose, so—what can you do to help? Something probably, for there are a considerable number of musicians in the county. Maybe Mrs. Chamberlain will be able to make quite a cheering report to the officials at Fort Brady.

Ohio State, Nation's Leading Eleven, Has Best Offensive Record

Tulsa Paces Colleges In Total Defense

By Dave Hoff
CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes, the nation's greatest offensive aggregation two weeks in a row, have climbed from second to first in team rushing, thus backing up the No. 1 rating given them again in the Associated Press poll of sports writers.

The Buckeyes' downfield advances, the American Football Statistical Bureau reported today, are downright phenomenal. They have gained an average of 431.3 yards a game by rushing and passing plays, and have rolled up an average of 329.8 yards a game on the ground alone.

No team in 1941 averaged more than 400 yards in its first four games, the bureau's researchers observed, but there are four in the plus-400 bracket right now, including two teams that have played in five games.

Behind Ohio State comes Georgia, averaging 416.2 yards in five contests, Tulsa at 408.8 in four games, and Missouri at 406.2 in five tilts.

Tulsa's Defense Best
That's not the only time Tulsa's Golden Hurricanes grab off a load of honors, either. They have been outstanding in playing a lesser brand of opposition than the Bucks, Tulsa drew special mention for leading the nation in total defense, having allowed its foes to average only 67.5 yards a game; for ranking ninth in rushing defense, second in passing, and first in pass defense.

Tulsa's four top foes, averaging a scant 18.3 yards with aerials, have completed only five passes in 41 tries, and the alert Hurricanes have intercepted eight. Tulsa's own aerial game has been amazingly successful, with 50 completions in 78 throws for a 64.1 percentage, the nation's best average.

Columbia actually rates as the top team in distance passing for averaging 217.8 yards, largely through Paul Governall's throws. Tulsa has gone 205 yards a game via its aerials.

The Hurricanes, too, are the high team in punting, having a 43.13 yard average. Surprisingly they have found it necessary to punt only 16 times in four games—once a period—further proof of the potency of their ground and aerial attack.

Trailing Tulsa in team defense are Temple, Detroit, Arizona and Alabama. Missouri and Brown are close behind Ohio State in rushing offense.

Boston College has established a great record in stopping its foes' rushing attack, limiting their opponents to 11.3 yards a game. Next best in rushing defense are Hardin-Simmons, Detroit, Alabama and Texas Christian.

Kansas Holds Most Passes
Pursuing the 1-2 combination of Columbia and Tulsa in passing are Georgia, Georgia Navy and Notre Dame, with 14th place Kansas holding laurels for trying the most passes, 125 in five games.

Arizona, Georgia Navy, Harvard and Penn State are rated in that order behind Tulsa in pass defense.

Figures on the leading teams:
Total offense: Ohio State averaged 431.3 yards per game; Georgia 416.2, Tulsa 408.8, Missouri 406.2, Texas 366.5.

Total defense: Tulsa allowed opponents 67.5 yards per game; Temple 78.5, Detroit 88, Arizona 93.8, Alabama 100.8.

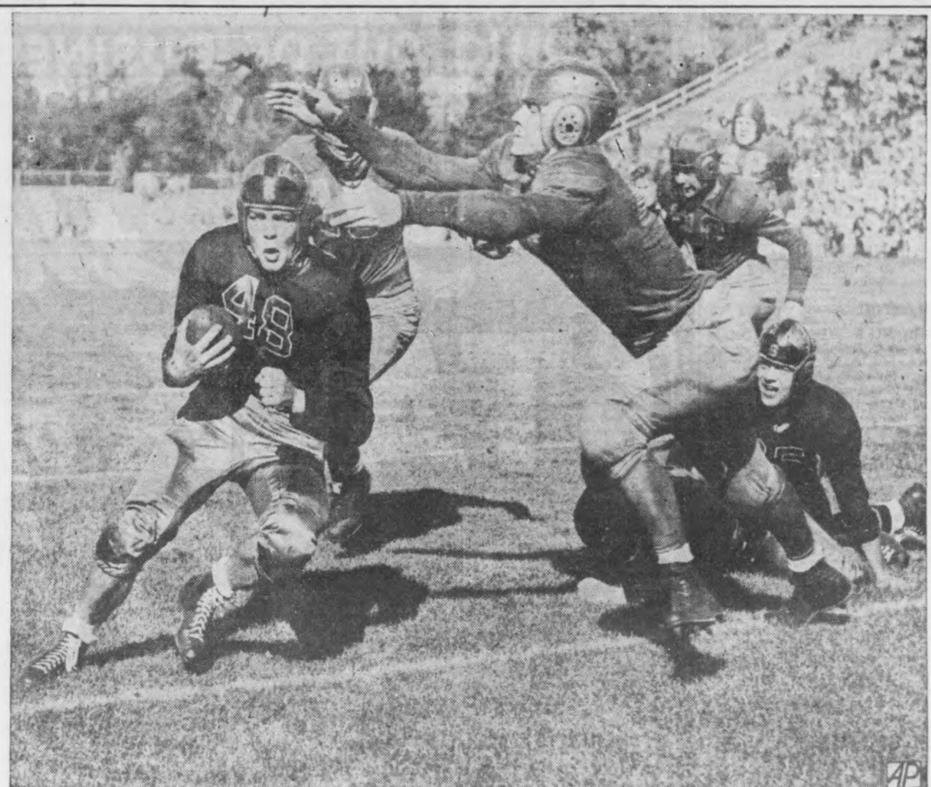

Rushing: Ohio State averaged 329.8 yards a game, Missouri 319.6, Brown 310.7, Hardin-Simmons 290.3, Texas 288.8.

Rushing defense: Boston College allowed opponents 11.3 yards per game, Hardin-Simmons 36.3, Detroit 46.3, Alabama 41.3, Texas Christian 42.3.

Passing: Columbia 217.8 yards per game, Tulsa 205, Georgia 176, Georgia Navy 161.3, Notre Dame 134.5.

Pass defense: Tulsa allowed opponents 18.3 yards a game, Arizona 22, Georgia Navy 26.7, Harvard 27.5, Penn State 27.7.

Punting: Tulsa 43.13 yards average, Tennessee 42.13, North Carolina 40.81, North Carolina 40.7, Arizona 40.01.

Branch Rickey Confers With Dodger Board

By Judson Bailey
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—P—The Brooklyn Dodgers' search for a president moved closer a solution today with the appearance of Branch Rickey, vice-president of the St. Louis Cardinals, for a conference with Brooklyn's board of directors.

The negotiations were surrounded in secrecy by both Rickey and the directors, but the veteran baseball executive, who will be 61 years old December 20, a few days before his contract with the Cardinals expires, said he hoped to know something definite within the next week.

"There seemed to be sound reason for believing the position was Rickey's to accept or to refuse, but it also was apparent that there still were obstacles to overcome.

One of the principal problems might be a settlement of Rickey's contract with the Cards, which expires December 31. This is a participating arrangement in which Rickey receives a share of the profits—and profits for the Cardinals usually are determined to a large extent by the players they sell at the annual winter meetings in the first week in December.

The Dodgers' need of an executive before these same meetings, could ill afford to allow Rickey to finish out his contract at St. Louis, yet it might not be to Rickey's advantage to obtain an early release unless he could reach an agreeable settlement with President Sam Breadon, of the Cards.

His income in salary and bonuses from the Cardinals last year was reported to be approximately $75,000.

Down Sports Trail

By Whitney Martin
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—P—It would be funny, at that, if next year's major league rookie of the year turned out to be Babe Herman or Pepper Martin or Gabby Hartnett or some other mossier guy who would have to saw off a leg and count the rings to find out just how old he is.

With the Army threatening to grab the youngsters who in normal years would be considered top rookie material, we have an idea that many an old gaffer creaking toward the end of his career in the minors is eyeing the future optimistically, and hoping the scouts eyed him the same way.

Door Open for Old-Timers
It's a cinch that next year's major league teams, if any, will be made up of married men with children or 4-F guys able to throw a baseball, but not considered able to throw a hand grenade. And with a dearth of the young, single candidates the door will be open for the old-timers, many of whom slumped it on their way out long ago.

That a gent like Babe Herman, who started his major career with Brooklyn in 1926, would be welcomed come on many a big league club next year is not at all improbable. He still plays that ball when he plays with Hollywood. It might be hard to drag him away from his poultry farm, but a phonograph record of a Brooklyn crowd at high tide might do it.

We don't know whether Pepper Martin played at all this year as skipper of Sacramento, but the wild boss is the kind of citizen who would be able to get out and play at 80 if he had a mind to. Just give him a chest protector and plant him at third base. Or maybe it would be better to give third base the chest protector. He really tears up around there.

Hartnett Tops in Association
That popular old perennial, Gabby Hartnett, still is plenty of catcher. Bill Killefer, Phil coach on a scouting expedition, said Gabby, managing and catching at Indianapolis, was the best catcher he saw in the American association this year.

There probably are a score of other old timers around the minors who still might fill in with major clubs. There is Hank Dana, the Fort Worth player who was with the Phils back in 1933 as an outfielder. This year Rogers Hornsby took a look at Hank and told him that as long as he batted like a pitcher he might as well be one, so he began pitching, with astonishing success.

There is Johnny Moore, who tried out with the Cubs as far back as 1928 and later was with the Phils and Reds. He was the Pacific Coast league's leading batter with Los Angeles in 1941. Then there is Roy Walker, who, at the ripe age of 39, won 22 games for Montgomery, Ala., this year. What a rookie of the year he would make!

And here's a prospect that isn't quite so far-fetched, although they'd have to fetch him clear from Seattle. He's Kewpie Dick Barrett, who just pitched that club to another coast league pennant. He won something like 29 games, which isn't bad for a fellow who, by his own figures, was born in 1908 and has been in pro ball about 15 years.

Signed While at Illinois
Barrett is a chunky, talkative gent who was signed under the name of Dick Oliver by Yankee scout Paul Krichell in 1927, the alias being necessary as Kewpie still was attending the University of Illinois. He tried out with the Athletics in 1933, and was considered a prospect then. He later tried out with the Braves and the Reds, but for some reason never stuck.

On his 1941 record he would seem a cinch to get another chance, his years notwithstanding. And as far as being a rookie-of-the-year possibly at his age, Ray Starr, of the Reds, would have to be a pretty stout bid for the honor this year if he'd had a team behind him. And he's a perfect 35.

Illini Seeks Defense To Halt Bertelli's Passes
CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 12.—P—The Illinois football team was given a long defensive drill today as Coach Ray Eliot sought ways and means of checking the passing of Notre Dame's Angelo Bertelli.

Buck Correll and Ray Florek, backs, returned to the lineup after nursing bruises, but Fullback Tony Butkovich was withheld from action because of a cold.

Notre Dame Jinx Long Has Plagued Seahawk Chieftain

By BURTON BENJAMIN
NEA Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—If Notre Dame gives up football (which is expected to happen about the same time the mint stops printing dollar bills), Bernie Bierman will have surmounted his only obstacle.

In three attempts—twice with Minnesota and once with the Iowa Pre-Flight School—the dour, perpetually-worried master mind has failed to take the measure of the Irish.

Bierman-coached teams—meticulous, sharp, power-laden—have battered all opposition so conclusively, that Notre Dame's record assumes the proportions of a football monument.

Commissioned a lieutenant-colonel in the Marine Corps and assigned to coach the Iowa Air Cadets, Bierman's critics found fresh ammunition this season in the star-studded lineup of the sailors.

It has been repeatedly asserted that Bierman is a product of his material, that any coach with a normal amount of intelligence could produce winners given his array of talent.

Bierman Boswells deny this, notwithstanding the tremendous personnel which responded to the call at Iowa.

Based On Fundamentals
It is standard that football is 60 per cent material, 40 per cent coaching. Bierman defenders say it's 50-50 in his case.

The mild strategist with the clefted chin makes a 12-month job of coaching. He has endless patience with detail. He never overlooks a bet, is a superb organizer. Quizzes him on the dressing room analytical mind of any coach outside of Roekne.

His offense is conservative, not based on sleight of hand. He operates from a single wing, believes in getting enough blocking ahead of the ball-carriers so that eventually they will explode into the open for long runs.

He never wavers from rock-solid fundamentals but makes them so perfect by everlasting pounding that they are rarely stopped.

It has been said his teams cannot pass, but time and again he has salvaged victories by air when his ground offensive stalled.

He is a master at building a defense for any opponent. He could always stop a one-man threat like Tom Harmon of Michigan, Otto Graham of Northwestern or Pat Harder of Wisconsin.

Never given to emotion, he gives his team one asset that most squads lack—poise. A story is told of one of his Tulane teams that, in a quarter of the dressing room with a lot of fire to play the second half.

"Stop, you fools," shouted Bierman. "Walk to the field! You may need all that energy when you get there."

Bierman took an ordinary team in 1933 and went through the season unbeaten although tied four times. He took an average club in 1940 and led it to the national championship.

Moan Incenses Players
Unforeseen adversity never bothers him. He made a right half-back out of Bob Sweiger last year when Herman Frickey was hurt at the start of the season. When Frickey and Bruce Smith were hurt, he took Bill Garman and even Sweiger and put them in new spots.

Bierman moans 12 months a year. He never lets up. His squads grow incensed at his lugubrious air. There's never a word of praise until the season is over.

Yet they revere him for his football knowledge. They feel if they have any ability whatsoever he has brought it out. It gives them confidence.

Only twice have his teams been defeated when they should have won. Against Nebraska in 1937 and '39, the Gophers got chesty, over-confident and let down.

He knows how to bring a team back, even after it has taken a physical beating.

Future opponents of the Iowa Air Cadets may consider themselves warned.

Lions Trade Tackle For Cardinal Halfback
DETROIT, Oct. 21.—P—The Detroit Lions, of the National Football League, announced today acquisition of Halfback Chester Wettrlund from the Chicago Cardinals in a straight player deal in which they gave up Tackle Tom Chentiles. Wettrlund is from Illinois Wesleyan and Chentiles from Southern California.

The Lions also said that Tackle Alex Schibanoff would leave after Sunday's game here with the Green Bay Packers to enter the Navy's training school at Columbia University. Schibanoff, up from Franklin and Marshall college, is in his second season of pro football.

Lieut.-Col. Bernie Bierman mops up on all fronts except Notre Dame.

Michigan Has Outstanding Defense Mark

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 21.—P—Coach Fritz Crisler today gave his University of Michigan football squad a batch of new "defensive signals" for use in their grudge battle with Minnesota Saturday.

The Wolverines, with a strong line and two clever backers-up, now have one of the better defensive records in the nation.

Against Great Lakes, Michigan State, Iowa Cadets and Northwestern, Crisler's eleven surrendered but 252 yards by rushing, an average of 63 yards per contest.

Much credit for the performance must go to the "seven oak posts," Elmer Madar, Al Wistert, Bob Kolesar, Julius Franks, Bill Pritula, Phil Sharpe, and Merv Fregulman, and Captain George Cethlam and Fregulman are two of the smartest line-backers in the college ranks.

Over and above this individual prowess, however, is the minute attention to detail Crisler has given this often-neglected phase of the gridiron sport. From Monday through Friday, the Wolverines devote three-fourths of their time in maneuvers against opponents' plays.

Crisler's scouts furnish him with detailed charts each Sunday and the coaching staff designs special formations for the varying formations. Against Northwestern Saturday the Wolverines used a seven-six, and sometimes five-man line against varying formations.

Quarterback Cethlam calls the defensive signals, usually after the opponents have left their huddle.

This week the strategy seems to be tailored particularly for the Gophers running game. Some new Wolverines maneuvers are being taught for use in this game only.

Wally Weber's freshman squad is emulating the Gophers this week, and with disconcerting success. The yearlings, cognizant that the varsity is looking for a running attack, have been connecting with passes.

Northwestern, you may recall, connected on 20 out of 30 attempts through the air Saturday and Otto Graham was quoted as saying: "That Michigan flat zone was open all the time."

Bears' Coach Enlists In Navy, Arch Ward Reports
CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—P—George Halas, 45, over-coach of the world champion Chicago Bears professional football team, will enter the Navy as a commissioned officer next week, Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, will say tomorrow in a copyright article in his column "In the Wake of the News."

Says the Ward column: "The greatest coach in football will direct his team for the last time Sunday (against the Philadelphia Eagles) until the world is rid of Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito. It will disturb him no little to read these lines. He doesn't think anyone knows he will be wearing the uniform of a lieutenant commander in Uncle Sam's Navy before the following weekend of football rolls around. He would prefer that no mention be made of his departure.

"But it would not be right to have him walk out of Wrigley field Sunday afternoon without at least a farewell cheer from the thousands he has entertained with his Chicago Bears for many years."

Halas was not available for immediate comment.

However, his enlistment would be his second in as many wars.

American commercial investments in Japan before the war were approximately $165,000,000.

Victims Of Axis U-Boats Total 501

By The Associated Press
The number of Allied and neutral ship victims of Axis submarines in the western Atlantic passed the 500 mark— to 501— yesterday with Navy announcements of the sinkings of an American merchantman in the north Atlantic and a Panamanian vessel off the northern coast of South America.

A tabulation of announced Allied and neutral western Atlantic maritime losses since Pearl Harbor showed that approximately 3,400 crew members and passengers lost their lives in the torpedoings, at least 1,950 persons were missing, but that 15,462 others were rescued and safely landed in Allied ports.

Ship captives shared the fate of their crews. Sixty-one are known war casualties, including 12 taken prisoner aboard Axis raiders between June and August of this year.

Based on announced sinkings, June was the costliest month of the war for the United Nations, with 111 cargo carriers reported sunk. Losses since then have decreased sharply, with 48 during August, 14 in September and only five thus far this month.

Additional signs that Axis submarines were meeting stiff resistance were shown in British reports that 530 enemy undersea craft have been sunk or damaged since the outbreak of war. More than 145 destroyers, corvette and plane attacks scored on German submarines last month alone.

U-boat pack attacks were reported being countered successfully by escort ships' smoke screen and construction as far ahead as 1944.

Branch Rickey Confers With Dodger Board

By Judson Bailey
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—P—The Brooklyn Dodgers' search for a president moved closer a solution today with the appearance of Branch Rickey, vice-president of the St. Louis Cardinals, for a conference with Brooklyn's board of directors.

The negotiations were surrounded in secrecy by both Rickey and the directors, but the veteran baseball executive, who will be 61 years old December 20, a few days before his contract with the Cardinals expires, said he hoped to know something definite within the next week.

"There seemed to be sound reason for believing the position was Rickey's to accept or to refuse, but it also was apparent that there still were obstacles to overcome.

One of the principal problems might be a settlement of Rickey's contract with the Cards, which expires December 31. This is a participating arrangement in which Rickey receives a share of the profits—and profits for the Cardinals usually are determined to a large extent by the players they sell at the annual winter meetings in the first week in December.

The Dodgers' need of an executive before these same meetings, could ill afford to allow Rickey to finish out his contract at St. Louis, yet it might not be to Rickey's advantage to obtain an early release unless he could reach an agreeable settlement with President Sam Breadon, of the Cards.

His income in salary and bonuses from the Cardinals last year was reported to be approximately $75,000.

Untried Ends Face Sailors On Saturday

By Burton Benjamin
EAST LANSING, Oct. 21.—P—Four sophomore ends, two of them untried, must halt the sweeps of Bruce Smith, Bill De Correvont, Paul Anderson, et al., when Michigan State tackles the star-studded Great Lakes naval training station team here Saturday.

From the college clinic today came report that veteran Bob McNeil was confined by a cold and unlikely to play against the Sailors. Roy Fraleigh, the squad's only other seasoned wingman, is benched indefinitely by a dislocated shoulder.

The early season performances of Vincent Mroz and Barney Kaspopp have been impressive, but Fenwick Cane and Ken Balge, who must replace them at the flanks when the expected Sailor pounding takes its toll, are awaiting their baptism of fire.

Face Herculean Task
Balge already has seen action at tackle and should be able to render a satisfactory account at the position where he won all-state honors in high school last fall. Crane, the squad's tallest player at 6 feet, 3 inches, was a backfield player in high school and was hampered by injury most of the early drills.

Outside of its Herculean defensive chores, the Sophomore foursome will be called upon to try to uproot such stout Sailors as 250-pound Urban Odson and 230-pound Jim Daniel.

The thought makes Spartan coaches shudder and it's most likely whenever State does get the ball Saturday, passes will shower all over Macklin field.

Whether Dick Kieppe will be State's chief singer in the David-and-Goliath contest remains doubtful. Kieppe was reported to still be wobbly from a cold which kept him out of the Marquette game.

Gingrass Hurls 'Em, Too
With Elbert Stark the only other passer available, Spartan coaches are trying former Fullback Morgan Gingrass in the tailback position with instructions to warm up a little-used pitching arm.

Barney Neubert, second string guard, also visited the hospital yesterday for treatment of a cold, but was released today. Dr. C. F. Holland, team physician, said there was no apparent epidemic of colds on the squad, but that "the boys never complain until they have a fever."

Wis., again was at center in today's workout, Nick Vodick, South Bend, Ind., at right half and Lynn McNutt, Colby, Kan., at quarterback. Vodick and McNutt, in their brief appearance against Michigan Saturday, each scored a touchdown on passes from Otto Graham.

Coach Halas Not Satisfied With Bears!

By Charles Chamberlain
CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—P—The Chicago Bears may be the best in the football business, but their boss is far from satisfied with them.

The Bears haven't been defeated since November 2, last year, when the Green Bay Packers turned in a 16 to 14 verdict. They now are lumbering along with a 17-game winning streak. They've won nine games this season, including four National Football League contests, to remain the only unbeaten member of the pro circuit as they chase after their third straight championship.

Still, their coach, George Halas, chirps: "Sometimes we stink."

"Take that game last Sunday," he says. "We beat the New York Giants, 28 to 7. Look at the statistics. We gained 244 yards by rushing. That's pretty good. We lost only 24 yards by penalties. That's plenty bad."

"Show me a team that isn't penalized and it isn't good. Give me a team that is set back 100 yards a game and I'll show you one which is on its toes."

Halas, on this basis, must have been elated two weeks ago when the Bears set a league record of 150 yards in penalty assessments against the Chicago Cardinals.

"But I think we have a good team," Halas adds, after cooling off. "Although we're not as good as last year. That 1941 bunch was my best ever. We couldn't be the same after losing such men as Norm Standlee and George McAfee, both now in the service."

er Sunday's game here with the Green Bay Packers to enter the Navy's training school at Columbia University. Schibanoff, up from Franklin and Marshall college, is in his second season of pro football.

Down Sports Trail

By Whitney Martin
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—P—It would be funny, at that, if next year's major league rookie of the year turned out to be Babe Herman or Pepper Martin or Gabby Hartnett or some other mossier guy who would have to saw off a leg and count the rings to find out just how old he is.

With the Army threatening to grab the youngsters who in normal years would be considered top rookie material, we have an idea that many an old gaffer creaking toward the end of his career in the minors is eyeing the future optimistically, and hoping the scouts eyed him the same way.

Door Open for Old-Timers
It's a cinch that next year's major league teams, if any, will be made up of married men with children or 4-F guys able to throw a baseball, but not considered able to throw a hand grenade. And with a dearth of the young, single candidates the door will be open for the old-timers, many of whom slumped it on their way out long ago.

That a gent like Babe Herman, who started his major career with Brooklyn in 1926, would be welcomed come on many a big league club next year is not at all improbable. He still plays that ball when he plays with Hollywood. It might be hard to drag him away from his poultry farm, but a phonograph record of a Brooklyn crowd at high tide might do it.

We don't know whether Pepper Martin played at all this year as skipper of Sacramento, but the wild boss is the kind of citizen who would be able to get out and play at 80 if he had a mind to. Just give him a chest protector and plant him at third base. Or maybe it would be better to give third base the chest protector. He really tears up around there.

Hartnett Tops in Association
That popular old perennial, Gabby Hartnett, still is plenty of catcher. Bill Killefer, Phil coach on a scouting expedition, said Gabby, managing and catching at Indianapolis, was the best catcher he saw in the American association this year.

There probably are a score of other old timers around the minors who still might fill in with major clubs. There is Hank Dana, the Fort Worth player who was with the Phils back in 1933 as an outfielder. This year Rogers Hornsby took a look at Hank and told him that as long as he batted like a pitcher he might as well be one, so he began pitching, with astonishing success.

There is Johnny Moore, who tried out with the Cubs as far back as 1928 and later was with the Phils and Reds. He was the Pacific Coast league's leading batter with Los Angeles in 1941. Then there is Roy Walker, who, at the ripe age of 39, won 22 games for Montgomery, Ala., this year. What a rookie of the year he would make!

And here's a prospect that isn't quite so far-fetched, although they'd have to fetch him clear from Seattle. He's Kewpie Dick Barrett, who just pitched that club to another coast league pennant. ## Retain Prep Schools To Detroit Competitive Sports

DETROIT, Oct. 21.—P—The Detroit board of education voted, 4 to 3, today to retain competitive high school sports as a supplement to the wartime physical fitness program advocated by Superintendent of Schools Warren E. Bow.

Dr. Burt R. Shirley, member of the board, said the combined programs would require only 19 more instructors than the physical fitness program alone.

"We would look silly if we could not obtain 19 more men," he declared.

The board's only woman member, Mrs. Laura F. Osborne, sponsored the unsuccessful resolution to abolish varsity sports in Detroit's public high schools for the duration of the war.

15-Billion Appropriation Bill Approved by House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A $15,000,000,000 bill to intensify the Navy's striking power, including a provision for 14,611 new bombers and fighting planes was approved finally by the House today.

Similar Senate action was expected tomorrow, sending the second supplemental wartime appropriation and contract authorization measure to President Roosevelt.

The legislation brings to $67,000,000,000 the total of direct appropriations and contract authorizations for the sea forces since July, 1940.

For all defense and war purposes since that date the appropriations and contract authorizations aggregate $222,000,000,000. However, nothing like this amount will be expended in one year, since the sum represents provision for materials

Gas Rationing Plans Studied By Officials

ISHPEMING, Oct. 21 — Officers of the civilian defense council are giving thought to the part they will play, actively and indirectly, when gasoline rationing becomes effective. Their active part will be in the selection of personnel to handle some of the registration, details of which have not been definitely presented.

Their other task will be formation of neighborhood war clubs to handle some of the arrangements through which the largest possible number of workers can be given transportation with the least number of cars.

Mayor John J. Johnson, titular head of the defense council, has been requested to call to the attention of the proper officials the urgency for proceeding at once with formation of these clubs.

Further information probably will be received this week so that clubs can be formed and other details attended to before November 9.

Mr. Hebbard expressed appreciation to those whose signatures to his petitions had already qualified him as a candidate.

WPB Okehs Sponge Iron Plant Plans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 — P — Notice that the war production board has cleared plans of the Republic Steel corporation to build a $450,000 sponge iron plant at Youngstown, Ohio, with a 100-ton daily capacity was handed a Congressional committee today in the midst of its investigation of the sponge iron question.

In a climax to a series of hearings before the House merchant marine sub-committee studying the steel shortage, H. Leroy Whitney, technical consultant to WPA Chairman Donald Nelson, rose to announce the proposal was approved yesterday.

For several weeks the committee has been inquiring into the status of sponge iron development, seeking to establish its practicability and reasons for what some members said was an apparent lack of interest in its possibilities.

Sponge iron was described by its advocates before the committee as a low-temperature process for reducing iron ore, capable of utilizing low quality ore and avoiding the necessity of scrap iron for steel production.

Weddings

Larson-Ring

ISHPEMING, Oct. 21 — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Larson, 1212 North Second street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen, to Pfc. Creighton Ring, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Ring, Bank street. The ceremony was performed at 5:45 Thursday afternoon in the Methodist church in Richmond, Va. The Rev. Harry W. Backhus officiated.

The attendants were Miss Lucille Tremayne, Ishpeming, and Pfc. William Tremayne, Camp Pickett, Va.

Mrs. Ring has returned to Ishpeming, where she is employed in the F. W. Woolworth store. Her husband is stationed at Camp Pickett, Va.

More than 500 "off-the-highway" trucks are being built for use by mining and other essential industries and for export.

Conservation Films Shown To Range Club

ISHPEMING, Oct. 21—Approximately 100 members of the Marquette Range Engineers club attended the first meeting of the fall season, held last evening in the Georgian room at the Mather Inn, and heard an informal talk by Richard C. Gearhart, of the educational division of the department of conservation, who also showed four films, three in color.

One was a "premiere," the title of which is "Canoe Trails," a colored recording of canoeing on the Paint and Tahquamenon rivers. The latter included excellent views of the Tahquamenon falls and wild game in that area.

One of the relatively new films, "Commercial Fishing," in color, was well received, as was "Timber Harvest," showing woods operations in the Lower and Upper Peninsula. "On Point," a film in black and white, depicted several field trials for various types of hunting dogs.

Nominations for officers will be made at the next meeting of the club and the metallurgy department of the Inland Steel company will sponsor the program.

Obituary

Proposal No. 2 Subject Of Radio Broadcasts

ISHPEMING, Oct. 21—"The Editor," a character created by the state committee for Proposal No. 2 — the Wayne county home rule amendment — will be heard over Station WDMJ in a series of eight transcribed broadcasts, beginning Monday, October 26, and ending Monday, November 2, the time schedule to be as follows: Weekdays—6:55 p. m. Sunday—12:25 p. m.

"The Editor" will bring to residents of the state the story of Wayne county's fight to reorganize its government along lines designed to prevent a recurrence of the scandals exposed by the county grand jury, in which several county officials were convicted and sent to prison for accepting bribes and other offenses.

SHARE RIDES TO CHURCH

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 21 — P — The Temple Emanuel church here has decided to apply the share-the-ride plan to conserve tires to Sunday church-goers. An emergency transportation committee has been formed to see that all necessary automobiles headed for church services are well filled, and a warden in certain designated sections of the city will take care of arrangements.

That Extra Something! ...You can spot it every time

IT TAKES something extra...a plus...to make a reputation that everybody respects. Coca-Cola got its reputation for quality, because it has always been made the quality way out of quality ingredients.

Coca-Cola is an original creation with a very special something to offer, found in no other drink...a finished art in its making...a blend of wholesome flavors that creates for Coca-Cola a taste all its own. That's why Coca-Cola has the taste that charms...and never cloy.

There are many things for thirst but only one stands out for refreshment...ice-cold Coca-Cola. The only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself.

Wartime limits the supply of Coca-Cola. Those times when you cannot get it, remember: Coke, being first choice, sells out first. Ask for it each time. No matter how short the supply, the quality of Coca-Cola carries on.

What drink do you find at the Post Exchanges? Ice-cold Coca-Cola, of course...to offer pure, wholesome, taste-good refreshment.

World War Hero Sends Bund Leaders to Prison

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—(AP)—Twenty-four former German-American bund leaders convicted of advising their followers to evade the draft were sentenced to prison today by a man who won the Croix de Guerre beating back the Germans in the last war.

The mass sentencing of the 24, moody and bitter at trial, ended the Government's first major step to boot the bund out of America.

The man who sent them on their way to five years in prison each was Federal Judge Alfred D. Barksdale, who went from Virginia to European battlefields and became an infantry captain in the First World War.

"I have no quarrel with anyone who offers his life on the battlefield for his country," he said, as the prisoners lined up for sentencing, "but in our Army now no one is required to do front line combat duty against a country to which he has attachments."

Play By Play

By Paul David Preston

THE STORY: Nancy Hale is ruining Blythe Miller's happiness. And Nancy's 2-year-old son, Scooter, has all but ruined a football game for the Lincoln Field cadet pilots' team. Nancy, a pretty young widow, seems to have captivated Duane Hogan, cadet football star whom Blythe loves. And Scooter upset Duane, on the way to a touchdown in a scoreless game, by running out on the field and causing Duane to fall in avoiding him. The cadets win the game through the generous act of conceited Quarterback Norman Dana, who grabs the ball, fools the opposition, and then passes it to Duane for another try. This sends his stock up only slightly with Blythe, whom he wants to marry.

POEMS AND PLANS

CHAPTER X

Nancy certainly is beautiful. Nancy certainly is beautiful. That sentence, uttered in the theater by Norman Dana, kept moving through Blythe Miller's mind. Norman had to be back at Lincoln Field on duty at 6 p. m., so he had been forced to leave her rather hurriedly downtown.

"I don't want to come home," Blythe had told herself. "I—I want to be alone, at least for a while."

She slipped in a place called The Ship's Anchor and ate shrimp cocktail and salad and ham paties for Sunday supper; then because she would almost surely be recognized here soon if she lingered she slipped back out again. Two blocks up she found a branch library open.

A library is a perfect place to think, she reminded herself. You can always pretend you are reading. A sign said she had until 9 p. m. here. And there weren't many other patrons. Presently she found it all very cozy and warm and nice. Street sounds were a faint, far-off, audible memory; calmly now she could lay her own thoughts and problems on the big oak table and inspect them.

The book she held had come from a nearby shelf labeled "Essays and Poems; Miscellany." She read one tidbit:

"I built a chimney for a comrade old, And I paid great wages were my only hire. Then I traveled on in winter's cold, Yet all the day I glowed before the fire."

The beauty of it turned Blythe's mood into something a little mellow. Edwin Markham's poem, Edwin Markham, who must have achieved somehow the perfect philosophy of life. Blythe wondered about him. At 19, she couldn't know much about the love that grows from old companionship. But she wondered, had this poet ever fallen in love, as she was in love with Duane Hogan?

She didn't know, and she wasn't interested now in hunting his biography. She grew pensive, introspective. A chimney for a friend . . . and I glowed before his fire . . . even though out in winter's cold. Well, she could understand that. She had built a chimney for Nancy Hale, hadn't she? Nancy, the widow, who had so sadly needed friendship and gotten it from Blythe. And, truly, Blythe had glowed before that heat fire. It was all very poetic and perfect just like Edwin Markham—that far. But then Nancy had fallen in love with the boy Blythe herself had wanted. That "other" kind of love.

"I wish he had written a sequel," Blythe whispered. "I wonder if he could have continued glowing even if that friend had stolen his sweetheart."

She supposed he could have. Philosophers like Markham were, she conceded, far above her; almost divine. She herself felt human and little and narrow; she, Blythe Miller, wanted to do what the gashouse jennies would have done—jump on her rival and scratch out her eyes. But no—Her attention slipped over to a longer poem by one Hugh C. Cave, and the last stanza read:

"We go from friend to sweetheart-heart, dear, Without a touch of pain. But—sweetheart—do you know there is No pathway back again?"

That simple quatrain suddenly frightened her. No pathway back again!

Duane Hogan, big Duane of the kind heart, had also seen Nancy Hale's frantic grasping for help and friendship, and of course he had responded. It had been Duane who lifted Nancy out of the wrecked coupe that night in the storm. It had been Duane who captivated baby Scooter, who gave him the puppy, who almost single-handedly had remodeled the loft apartment in which Nancy and baby and puppy now lived. Of course big Duane, the sentimental Texan, had tendered friendship, and of course Nancy would have been a fool not to have succumbed. Blythe could understand all of that. But—"no pathway back again!"

The newspapers, the popular talk, even the radios, had hinted broadly that Duane and Nancy were lovers indeed. And tonight even the movie screen had seemed to verify it.

On the other hand, Pop Miller himself had lectured her on fighting for her rights, scrapping for what you want, for what is rightfully yours. Neither Pop nor his daughter Blythe liked a person who just "took" life's blows; they believed you could and should fight back. But, with brains. And Norman Dana had said in the theater that "Nancy certainly is beautiful."

"All right," Bly whispered to the book of poems now, "if he thinks she is beautiful, he could be made to do something about it! She really is beautiful, and he's good-looking himself. If only they—they!—had struck it off together! . . . Duane liked me once. . . . I know he did! I'm sure of it. I guess I was too slow about encouraging him. Too—too prideful, waiting for him to make the open moves . . . Duane is girlish . . . But Norman isn't. Norman isn't shy of anything. He's aggressive to a fault. If he would only start rushing Nancy, he would flatter her even more than Duane's friendship did. . . . Maybe I . . . could do them all a favor . . . and myself as well! . . . Maybe!"

The book disappeared before her eyes and Blythe was living, planning, rehearsing a campaign out in life. There's always something zestful about playing Cupid even when you yourself are involved, and she felt a definite enthusiasm now. In the theater this evening, Norman had admitted his conceit, admitted it as a fault and tacitly said he yearned to overcome it. It had raised him high in her estimation; this new, deeper understanding of a cocky young man. It hadn't made her love him as he thought he wished her to—not that; but it made her know that some girl, somewhere, would be extremely lucky to get him. Just as any girl would be lucky to win Duane.

"The truth is, Norman is lonely!"

"That thought struck her all at once. It bore out some things wise old Pop had said. She was almost whispering her thoughts again.

"Norman is lonely, inside, and trying to hide his loneliness with smart talk and conceit. Hide it from himself! Pop said. . . . Pop said it is a common way for lonely people to act . . . He said we had to forgive them . . . and help them."

"Norman knows she is pretty; he said so. He at least likes her. It was he who suggested that the two of them adopt her and baby Scooter. If she—if her—her charms . . . could be dangled before Norman . . . in just the right way . . . He has money, and money is important in Nancy's life; money and glamor and comradeship. Now if only they . . . If only I could bring them together in such a way that . . ."

Three muted notes of a gong interrupted Blythe; the library clock announcing closing time. But she didn't care. Her eyes were bright now. Bright with a new hope. A new kind of inspiration. A new plan.

Second Rape Charge Filed Against Actor

can say no more until I have conferred with Mr. Flynn."

Attorney Jerry Giesler, chairman of the California state rape and boxing commissions and who also has been retained as counsel for Flynn, released this statement as coming from the actor:

"It is very strange that I am now charged with an alleged offense that supposedly took place more than a year ago. I recently became an American citizen and have absolute and abiding faith in American principles of justice, and I am confident my innocence will be demonstrated in court beyond any doubt."

Giesler said the charges involving both girls was statutory rape. Didn't Cry For Help

Police Sergeant Bowling said Miss Satterlee told him that after the moonlight ocean trip got underway aboard Flynn's yacht, Sorocco, the actor entered her cabin where she was in bed and, while making love to her, forced her to submit to his advances.

Asked whether she had cried for help, Bowling said Miss Satterlee declared she thought it useless to do so, "since my cabin was next to the refrigeration system and the machinery made so much noise nobody could have heard me."

Miss Satterlee was ordered held tonight in protective custody pending Flynn's court appearance tomorrow.

Her sister, Mickey June, recently was married to actor Eddie Norris, former husband of Actress Ann Sheridan. Norris recently filed suit for divorce, charging his wife married him "just for publicity."

Hepburn Resigns As Premier of Ontario

TORONTO, Oct. 21—(AP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, outspoken critic of the dominion government of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and of the Canadian war effort, resigned the premiership tonight and was succeeded by Attorney General Gordon Conant.

Hepburn said in a statement that he was retiring in line with previously announced plans and recommended Conant as the new premier.

Hepburn said he had offered his resignation also as provincial treasurer, but at Conant's request had agreed to retain that portfolio for a short time, after which he would retire from public life.

Conant said he would retain his attorney-general portfolio for the present and "the entire personnel of the new government will be announced in a few days."

Eye, Tonsil Clinic Gets Chest Support

NEGAUNEE, Oct. 21—One of the important public health programs supported by the Community Chest is the eye and tonsil clinic conducted by the public schools.

In a recent comparable year, including duplications, 2,092 cases in parochial and public schools needed professional treatment by physician, dentist or optologist.

Of these 869 received the treatment and care recommended, leaving 1,223, or 58 per cent, who did not.

"Practically," said a Community Chest spokesman, "the same condition exists today."

From Community Chest, Woman's club and Lions club funds, in the year used for example, 36 pairs of glasses were purchased and 23 tonsillectomies performed.

Without adequate funds only a small part of the children needing attention can be cared for.

"Contribute," urged this spokesman, "to the Community Chest and enjoy the satisfaction of having helped these needy and unfortunate cases."

Negaunee's Community Chest drive will get started this weekend and at a meeting Thursday evening campaign workers will get final instructions and supplies.

Matinee At Vista Boosts Scrap Pile

NEGAUNEE, Oct. 21—Close to four tons of scrap ranging from small pieces of metal to tires were brought to the Vista theater Tuesday afternoon by residents of Negaunee.

The scrap was hauled by truck to the pile near the city square, and donated to the school scrap drive. No admission other than scrap was taken at the matinee and the theater management paid the operating expenses for the day.

This donation to the scrap pile brought the total weight to approximately 35 tons. Proceeds from the scrap sale will be given to the Negaunee schools. No individual will be paid for scrap he brings to the pile and no individual weighing of scrap will be made.

If any Negaunee residents have pieces of metal too heavy or bulky to be carried in the family car, arrangements to move it by truck may be made by calling the civilian defense office, 666.

"The pile must be moved before snow comes," said Bruce Nelson, salvage chairman, "so bring scrap now from your back yard, garage and attic. Remember, that old iron stove may make the deciding bomb in this war. Don't let somebody's boy die over there because you failed to do your bit over here."

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Leaf Have Silver Wedding

NEGAUNEE, Oct. 21—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Leaf, 729 Snow street, were guests of honor at a silver wedding reception held Wednesday evening, October 14, in the Covenant Mission church by relatives and friends of the couple.

They were attended by Mrs. Gust Leaf and Fred Anderson, who attended them at their wedding 25 years ago.

The following program was given:

Scripture reading and prayer—The Rev. Mr. Peterson.

Horn solos—Robert Voegtline.

Reading—Mrs. Ellsworth Pascoe.

Piano solo—Mrs. Gordon Richards.

Vocal solos—The Rev. Mr. Peterson.

A basket of flowers from the Mary Martha society, of which Mrs. Leaf is a member, was presented to the couple by Mrs. Anna Broten, and the Rev. Carl A. Peterson presented them with a purse of silver from relatives and friends.

After the program a reception was held in the blue and silver-decorated church parlors at which time Mrs. Leaf cut a three-tiered wedding cake which was topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Continuation of County Fairs Sought by State

LANSING, Oct. 21—(AP)—Continuation of county fairs during wartime is being sought by the state department of agriculture, but agricultural and horticultural societies have been advised to delay planning for 1943 until word is received from Federal officials.

A. C. Carton, director of county fair supervision, has asked the fair societies to fill out a questionnaire which would indicate the part they would advance the war effort in the recently-ended county fair season.

GOP Wants Democrats To Pay for Radio Debate

LANSING, Oct. 21—(AP)—John R. Dethmers, Republican state chairman, today invited the Democratic party to arrange a radio debate between Judge Homer Ferguson, Republican U. S. Senatorial nominee, and Senator Prentiss M. Brown, his Democratic rival at expense of the Democrats.

"Inasmuch as the challenge issued from your candidate, you should provide the radio facilities," Dethmers wrote in an open letter to Charles S. Porritt, Democratic state chairman. "As the challenged party, Judge Ferguson should open and close the debate."

Axis Loses 10 Supply Ships This Month

CAIRO, Oct. 21—(AP)—British and Allied submarines have sunk 10 Axis supply ships so far this month in the Mediterranean, a recapitulation showed today, in addition to successes scored on both land and sea in constant Allied air attacks such as those in which American medium bombers participated yesterday on an increased scale.

An American communique covering Tuesday's operations said the medium bombers of the U. S. Army desert air task force "stepped up the tempo of their attacks," scoring direct hits on grounded aircraft, revetments and tent areas and destroying three enemy fighters as they were about to take off.

Two other enemy fighters were shot down from a group of 22 attacking the American bombers over the Axis airbase where, in addition, one Junkers 88 was destroyed on the ground.

In all the Allies downed 11 enemy planes and damaged many others at a cost of 12 Allied planes, none of which was American.

The RAF-British command communique reported for the night of October 19-20 that Allied heavy and medium bombers caused explosions among ships at Tobruk; light bombers and naval aircraft attacked aircraft grounded at Sidi Haneish and El Daba, and torpedo planes and bombers hit three vessels at Lampedusa, Italy.

The score of Allied submarines on Axis supply ships was increased to 10 for October with the admiralty announcement that four more had been sunk in attempts to get supplies to the stalemated desert army of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel. One submarine was credited with sinking two vessels. The newest successes were scored on both sides of the Mediterranean, some close to the Italian shore. At least six other sinkings have been officially credited to unescorted craft this month.

Japs Name U. S. Pilots Captured

conclusion that the British government no longer attaches any value to maintenance of the convention at Geneva (which pledges respect for the Red Cross emblem).

The Japanese said the four American airmen had been convicted and would be severely punished according to international law.

It named them as: Second Lieut. William J. Farrow, 23, St. Jones street, Darlington, S. C.; Second Lieut. Dean E. Hollmark, 27, of 80 Way avenue, Dallas, Tex.; Corporal Jacob D. Deshazer, 29, of Oregon, and Sergeant Mechanic Harold A. Spatz, 20, of Kansas.

Although there was no confirmation that any of Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle's Tokyo raiders had fallen into Japanese hands, the names given by the Tokyo radio closely resemble four in the list of 80 officers and non-commissioned officers awarded decorations for the raid.

Not Reprisal, Japs Say

Those were Lieutenants W. D. Farrow and D. E. Hollmark and Corporals Deshazer and C. Spatz. The award list gave no addresses.

A German broadcast quoted Tomokazu Hori, Japanese foreign office spokesman, as saying the action was not a reprisal and that punishments were intended to protect the Japanese civilian population against "enemy terrorism."

That statement suggested a Japanese fear of further raids and an effort to discourage them by the threat of punishment or death to captured aviators.

War Secretary Has No 'Idea of Resigning'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—(AP)—Secretary Henry L. Stimson said tonight he has no "idea of resigning" as head of the War department.

Reports had been current that he was considering giving up the position of War Secretary to which he was appointed July 10, 1940, but when the 75-year-old Republican was asked about the reports, he said:

"That's the first thing I have heard of. I haven't any idea of resigning."

Only last week Stimson testified before the House military affairs committee on legislation lowering the draft age, and members commented at the time that he appeared to be in the best of health.

Michigan Relief Case Load Reaches New Low

LANSING, Oct. 21—(AP)—John D. O'Connell, state welfare director, announced today that Michigan's relief case load was slumped 1,638 cases in four weeks despite a rising tide of unemployment in rural areas.

The weekly case load dropped 193 to 20,513, again the lowest point on record, O'Connell said, while the WPA load fell 633 cases to 13,746.

O'Connell said sharp drops in urban case loads were offsetting increases in rural areas resulting from a decline in agricultural and resort employment and the approach of colder weather.

Scrap Admits Pupils To Grid Game Saturday

NEGAUNEE, Oct. 21—"Boys and girls below the eighth grade will be admitted free to the Negaunee-Houghton football game Saturday, if they bring five or more pounds of scrap material to the ticket-taker at the gate," R. A. Gilmore, principal of the Negaunee high school, said today.

This is the last game of the '42 football season, and Negaunee fans are hopeful of winding up the schedule with a victory.

Play will start at 2.

Axis Loses 10 Supply Ships This Month

CAIRO, Oct. 21—(AP)—British and Allied submarines have sunk 10 Axis supply ships so far this month in the Mediterranean, a recapitulation showed today, in addition to successes scored on both land and sea in constant Allied air attacks such as those in which American medium bombers participated yesterday on an increased scale.

An American communique covering Tuesday's operations said the medium bombers of the U. S. Army desert air task force "stepped up the tempo of their attacks," scoring direct hits on grounded aircraft, revetments and tent areas and destroying three enemy fighters as they were about to take off.

Two other enemy fighters were shot down from a group of 22 attacking the American bombers over the Axis airbase where, in addition, one Junkers 88 was destroyed on the ground.

In all the Allies downed 11 enemy planes and damaged many others at a cost of 12 Allied planes, none of which was American.

The RAF-British command communique reported for the night of October 19-20 that Allied heavy and medium bombers caused explosions among ships at Tobruk; light bombers and naval aircraft attacked aircraft grounded at Sidi Haneish and El Daba, and torpedo planes and bombers hit three vessels at Lampedusa, Italy.

The score of Allied submarines on Axis supply ships was increased to 10 for October with the admiralty announcement that four more had been sunk in attempts to get supplies to the stalemated desert army of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel. One submarine was credited with sinking two vessels. The newest successes were scored on both sides of the Mediterranean, some close to the Italian shore. At least six other sinkings have been officially credited to unescorted craft this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Leaf Have Silver Wedding

NEGAUNEE, Oct. 21—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Leaf, 729 Snow street, were guests of honor at a silver wedding reception held Wednesday evening, October 14, in the Covenant Mission church by relatives and friends of the couple.

They were attended by Mrs. Gust Leaf and Fred Anderson, who attended them at their wedding 25 years ago.

The following program was given:

Scripture reading and prayer—The Rev. Mr. Peterson.

Horn solos—Robert Voegtline.

Reading—Mrs. Ellsworth Pascoe.

Piano solo—Mrs. Gordon Richards.

Vocal solos—The Rev. Mr. Peterson.

A basket of flowers from the Mary Martha society, of which Mrs. Leaf is a member, was presented to the couple by Mrs. Anna Broten, and the Rev. Carl A. Peterson presented them with a purse of silver from relatives and friends.

After the program a reception was held in the blue and silver-decorated church parlors at which time Mrs. Leaf cut a three-tiered wedding cake which was topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Continuation of County Fairs Sought by State

LANSING, Oct. 21—(AP)—Continuation of county fairs during wartime is being sought by the state department of agriculture, but agricultural and horticultural societies have been advised to delay planning for 1943 until word is received from Federal officials.

A. C. Carton, director of county fair supervision, has asked the fair societies to fill out a questionnaire which would indicate the part they would advance the war effort in the recently-ended county fair season.

GOP Wants Democrats To Pay for Radio Debate

LANSING, Oct. 21—(AP)—John R. Dethmers, Republican state chairman, today invited the Democratic party to arrange a radio debate between Judge Homer Ferguson, Republican U. S. Senatorial nominee, and Senator Prentiss M. Brown, his Democratic rival at expense of the Democrats.

"Inasmuch as the challenge issued from your candidate, you should provide the radio facilities," Dethmers wrote in an open letter to Charles S. Porritt, Democratic state chairman. "As the challenged party, Judge Ferguson should open and close the debate."

escorted by fighting planes. In these two attacks, enemy bombers and seven Zeros were shot down, and two United States fighters were lost.

Typical Jap Strategy

Persons familiar with Japanese tactics speculated that the two raids were a typical bit of Japanese strategy which they made familiar during the early fighting in the Philippines.

First the 30 fighting planes came over. The object was to draw American fighters into the air, skirmish with them until they were forced back to the field for refueling, with the bombers appearing at that point and finding the American fighters earthbound.

The communique said that it was believed nearly all of the personnel of the destroyer O'Brien was saved, and that many from the Meredith were saved as well. Each ship carries a normal complement of 175 officers and men.

The Meredith was launched at the Boston Navy yard on April 24, 1940. She was named for Sgt. Jonathan Meredith, of the Marine Corps, a hero of the fighting at Tripoli early in the 19th century. Her displacement was 1,630 tons, her overall length 341 feet and her beam 35 feet.

Commander's Fate Not Revealed

The O'Brien, of similar dimensions, was launched October 20, 1937. She was named for Capt. Jeremiah O'Brien, a naval hero of the Revolutionary war.

Skipper of the Meredith was Commander Harry Ensor Hubbard, 39, Baltimore, while Lieut. Commander Thomas Burrows, 38, Keyport, N. J., commanded the O'Brien. There was no information as to whether the commanding officers were saved.

There are about 120,000 blind persons in the United States.

The church is to be dedicated to the Blessed Virgin Mary and

Stock Market Firm; Profit Selling Checks Upturn

Steel Issues Slump After Early Climb

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Profit selling checked bullish activities in some sections of today's stock market, but a shift of buying interest to recently neglected groups helped to keep prices generally on an even keel.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed at 40.0, off 1/4 of a point from yesterday's figure which represented the best level since last November 6. Transactions were 672,500 shares compared with 667,350 the previous session.

Dow Chemical had a final advance of 2 1/2 points and Monsanto added 2. Gains were recorded by Sears Roebuck, Boeing, United Air Lines, American Airlines, Eastern Airlines, Pan American Airways, Air Reduction, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana and Paramount. Pepsi-Cola reached a new high for the year as did Chrysler, although the latter closed unchanged.

Steels experienced a reversal after a higher opening. U. S. Steel closed down 3/8 and Bethlehem dropped 3/4. Crucible was up about a point.

Curb stocks up fractions included Aluminum of America, Creole Petroleum, Humble Oil and Fairchild Engine. Glen Alden Coal and Gulf Oil slipped. Transfers here were 106,870 shares compared with yesterday's 106,505.

Rail Bonds Erase Losses Of Tuesday

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The railroad section of the bond market returned to the advancing track with a rush today and on average more than wiped out the losses of Tuesday.

The reversal of trend involved some degree of selectivity, however, in that not all of the loans which fell fractions to three points or more the day before recovered all of the lost ground. The general corporate list reflected extreme steadiness.

Brokers attributed the quick comeback of the carrier group to two main factors: additional earnings reports of prominent systems showing new peaks in income and the adoption of a "wait and see" attitude on the part of buyers of the low-priced issues with respect to possible Federal intervention in trading of those loans.

Bonds of the St. Paul, Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, Central of Georgia, Rio Grande Western, Seaboard, Florida East Coast and New Haven were in the actively higher contingent.

Activity in the carrier section obscured developments in other groups where price changes were mostly small and the trend steady.

U. S. Governments were all but neglected on the stock exchange and the range was narrow over the counter. Dealers were preparing for the new $2,000,000,000 Treasury financing, announced overnight and expected to reach the market some time next week.

Advances of 1/2 point to a point or more in the Latin American group featured foreign bond issues.

Total sales of $13,129,000, par value, compared with $16,692,500 the day before.

L'Anse

Baraga Plays Here Saturday—Old grudge rivalry between L'Anse and Baraga will again be an issue here Saturday afternoon when the teams meet on the athletic field at the rear of the high school at 2:30. It may be the final game for the duration of the war, the Cooper Country conference has taken action to cancel games, because of transportation difficulties.

L'Anse dropped a close game to Baraga, 7-0, on Baraga's field earlier in the season. The Purple Hornets took a bad beating at the hands of Houghton last Saturday, 41-0, and are considerably crippled for this week's battle, but Coach Poisson's charges are none the less determined to even the score.

Gas Rationing

C. J. Sullivan, superintendent of schools, announces that he is advised which Michigan schools are asked to provide facilities and supervision for the registration and issuing of "A" gasoline cards November 9, 10 and 11. In many respects the registration will be similar to the sugar rationing. It will be necessary to use each elementary school site and to provide additional registrars in order to take care of people effectively. Each person applying for a card must have had his tires inspected. Consumers will be instructed through the press, radio and trade channels concerning this inspection. At the time of registration persons requiring additional gasoline allotments will take with them supplemental cards which will be provided. Supplemental allowances will not be the responsibility of teachers.

Children Get Warning From Police Chief

MUNISING, Oct. 21.—Chief of Police Frank Case today issued a statement to Munising residents which is particularly intended for children.

"With the last two weeks two children have been hit by cars on our city streets," he said. "The cause of both accidents was children running across the street into the path of cars. The state police, sheriff's department and city police have on many occasions warned children of the dangers of playing in streets and talking chances on crossing in front of cars. These warnings have not been heeded."

"The law enforcing officers ask and urge the cooperation of parents in bringing the dangers of this practice before their children and to do all they possibly can to keep their children off the streets and highways."

"So, boys and girls," the chief added, "let's play in our yards and walk on the sidewalks or shoulders of the highway."

H. F. Mellin Will Enter Army School

MUNISING, Oct. 21.—Harold F. Mellin, employed in production and sales work for the Deerfield Glassine company, of Monroe Bridge, Sheepshead, the last 15 years, will be inducted into the Army at Fort Devens, Mass., Saturday and will attend an officers' training school. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mellin, Munising.

Mrs. Mellin and daughter, Jeanne, will reside with Mrs. Mellin's mother, Mrs. Mary Piehl, of Munising, for the duration of the war.

A graduate of Mather high school in 1928, Mr. Mellin completed a four-year CMTC course at Fort Sheridan, Ill., the same year. After being employed by the Munising Paper company a short time he moved to Monroe Bridge. He has been chairman of the board of commissioners of the Monroe water district, and was appointed director of civilian defense for that city by the state commission of public safety. He also was a charter member of the North Adams Ski club and of the Monroe Rod and Gun club.

Not Guilty Verdict In Kauppi Case

MUNISING, Oct. 21.—An Alger county circuit court jury today found Charles Kauppi, Calumet, not guilty of negligent homicide in the death of Wayne Pelkki, Chatham, on June 9, 1941. The jury deliberated one and a half hours.

Wayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Toivo Pelkki, Chatham, was struck by Kauppi's car on a Chatham street. He was taken to the Munising hospital, where he died a few hours later.

Russell Peters, charged with breaking and entering in the daytime, and Roy J. Hoy, charged with entering without breaking in the daytime, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Runnel this morning.

Corn Prices At New Lows For Season

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Prices of all grains except corn pointed upward today as the cereal market displayed new signs of attempting to recover some of the loss sustained since passage of latest price control legislation.

Corn was depressed to 1942 lows by hedging sales associated with expanding harvest operations, but other grains were strengthened by purchases of professional traders. Some mill buying was reported in the wheat pit.

Corn dipped as much as 5-8 cent at one time, all contracts reaching new lows for the season, with December at 79 1/2. However, closing prices were unchanged to 1-4 lower compared with yesterday. December 79 1/2 to 5-8, May 84 1/2 to 5-8. Other grains closed at or near best levels of the day, with wheat 1-8 to 1-2 higher, December $1.24 5-8 to 3/4, May $1.27 3-4 to 1-4; rye 1-4 to 3-8 higher and soybeans unchanged to 3-4 higher.

Legion Holds Annual Armistice Day Supper

MUNISING, Oct. 21.—The Roderick Prato post, American Legion, will hold its annual Armistice day rabbit supper the evening of November 11 in the Legion County club. Walfred B. Johnson is chairman of the supper and entertainment committee.

The hunt for rabbits will be held November 8 and Arthur LaFlamm is chairman of the hunt committee.

Weddings

GRAND MARAIS, Oct. 21.—Two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Abrahamson were brides at a double wedding ceremony Saturday at 3 p. m. in the Finnish Lutheran church.

Miss Aino Abrahamson became the bride of Russell Nesbit, and Miss Louise Abrahamson was married to Ervin Warner.

A wedding dinner was held at the Abrahamson home after the ceremony and a reception was held in the Finnish hall.

Merchants Asked To Step-Up Bond Sales

MUNISING, Oct. 21.—Munising merchants were urged to "step up" their sales of war bonds and stamps by George G. Whitney, Detroit, at a meeting held last night in the Legion club. Mr. Whitney, executive director of the Michigan retailers war savings committee, visited here as part of an Upper Peninsula tour to spur bond and stamp sales.

Ted Aanderud, chairman of the Alger county retailers committee, said today plans are being made for a special bond and stamp sales event, to be sponsored by the committee.

Children Get Warning From Police Chief

MUNISING, Oct. 21.—Chief of Police Frank Case today issued a statement to Munising residents which is particularly intended for children.

"With the last two weeks two children have been hit by cars on our city streets," he said. "The cause of both accidents was children running across the street into the path of cars. The state police, sheriff's department and city police have on many occasions warned children of the dangers of playing in streets and talking chances on crossing in front of cars. These warnings have not been heeded."

"The law enforcing officers ask and urge the cooperation of parents in bringing the dangers of this practice before their children and to do all they possibly can to keep their children off the streets and highways."

"So, boys and girls," the chief added, "let's play in our yards and walk on the sidewalks or shoulders of the highway."

H. F. Mellin Will Enter Army School

MUNISING, Oct. 21.—Harold F. Mellin, employed in production and sales work for the Deerfield Glassine company, of Monroe Bridge, Sheepshead, the last 15 years, will be inducted into the Army at Fort Devens, Mass., Saturday and will attend an officers' training school. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mellin, Munising.

Mrs. Mellin and daughter, Jeanne, will reside with Mrs. Mellin's mother, Mrs. Mary Piehl, of Munising, for the duration of the war.

A graduate of Mather high school in 1928, Mr. Mellin completed a four-year CMTC course at Fort Sheridan, Ill., the same year. After being employed by the Munising Paper company a short time he moved to Monroe Bridge. He has been chairman of the board of commissioners of the Monroe water district, and was appointed director of civilian defense for that city by the state commission of public safety. He also was a charter member of the North Adams Ski club and of the Monroe Rod and Gun club.

Japs Moving With Caution In Solomons

By Kirke L. Simpson

Whatever the reason for the slow-motion pace of Japan's attempt to regain lost ground in the Solomons, it is so striking a departure from previous practice as to invite conjecture.

The implication is that the enemy is forced to move with extreme caution. For the first time, except for abortive attacks in New Guinea, Japanese leadership has been dealt a hand with certain major trumps lacking. It can count neither on surprise nor air superiority. If there is a grim joker in the deck, it is apt to be disclosed in the American hand, not the Japanese, this time.

If there is any parallel for the week lost since Japanese landings in force were effected on Guadalcanal without a major battle developing either ashore or afloat, off-hand memories of Nipponese blitzkrieg methods in China, the Philippines, Malaya, the Dutch Indies and Burma do not call it to mind. All of those campaigns of conquest were driven forward at amazing speed.

Retain Only Previous Delay

MacArthur's stand on Bataan caused the only previous notable delay in the Japanese conquest schedule unless his defense of New Guinea has also upset Tokyo's plans. There is not much doubt also that his long range bombers are now contributing vitally to the defense of Guadalcanal in two ways.

The information they supply as to the whereabouts of movements of Japanese warcraft and supply and troop convoys in the Solomons area may be more vital in setting the stage for the ultimate clash than the damage their bombs do, serious as that must be. As air scouts as well as bombers those planes have been ranging the islanded seas for hundreds of miles northwest of Guadalcanal every day. It was from them, unquestionably, that word of many enemy warships and auxiliaries still deployed on the Solomons area came to supplement Navy patrol plane reports.

The prime uncertainty with which the foe must reckon is the whereabouts and strength of American naval forces. A substantial part of the air forces available to the Nipponese commander in the Solomons zone, certainly a Navy man, must be seeking that information. That not only limits the air power that can be thrown into action over Guadalcanal to aid a land attack or shelter additional landings. It sharply restricts Japanese ability to screen important movements of fleets or convoys from American eyes.

Japs Lack Fifth Columnists

The Japanese commander also is feeling the lack of fifth column agents with means of communication in the Solomons. They helped materially at every preceding stage of the long-plotted Japanese attempt to master the far Pacific. Now the delay in development of the expected full-scale Japanese attack to recapture a lost and vitally important air base warrants the conclusion that its commander must go it blind.

The air scouting as well as the air bombing odds are against him. That he hesitates risking swift action and is groping for some sign of American main fleet dispositions before moving in is understandable. He must know even better than his opponents how crucial for Japan's whole war design a bad sea defeat could be.

Yet the certainty expressed by Secretary Knox and American naval authorities that the foe still is to strike his greatest blow in the Solomons rests on something more than greater specific information as to the Japanese forces assigned to the task. It is founded very largely on the conclusion that having begun the attempt to retake Guadalcanal, Tokyo dare not permit its abandonment or that it could long lag.

Guadalcanal is now a matter of "face" with the Japanese as well as an important element in military strategy. A confession of defeat by omission to press the attack could injure Japanese prestige throughout the Asiatic world almost as seriously as a sharp sea defeat could impair her military capacity to hold what she has seized, let alone expand her victory.

Stake Great; So Are Risks

Her defense perimeter is vast and thinly held. The impetus of her surprise attack has worn off. Her

News Behind the News

BY RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—The inside story of the appointment of James F. Byrnes as National Economic Stabilizer is that it was forced upon the Administration by an angry crowd of influential Democrats on Capitol Hill, mostly committee chairmen. They acted swiftly when they heard the original plan was to permit Leon Henderson to finger all anti-inflation controls.

The rebellious group, which dominates legislative bodies handling finances, appropriations and military measures, tried to make an appointment to submit their complaints against the Price Administrator to the White House. They intended to inform FDR quite frankly that they would not go along with the Presidential trail thereafter if Leon were given this tremendous assignment. Mr. Roosevelt, however, learned in advance of their purpose and they were unable to make a definite date with him.

Then they buttonholed Speaker Rayburn and Senator Barkley and insisted that they relay their warning to the head man. The two leaders, who have exhibited increasing independence in recent weeks, took their advice. That is the background of one of the finest additions to his super-Cabinet that the Chief Executive has made since Pearl Harbor.

FINANCE—Washington experts handling frozen foreign funds advance a novel but seemingly plausible explanation for Hitler's failure thus far to try forcing such neutrals as Switzerland, Portugal, Spain and Sweden into the conflict. They base their conclusions on their search and seizure of American spokesmen are already warning the Japanese people that the war in the Pacific has only begun and of American preparations of weapons for counter attack in "astronomical figures."

All of these considerations as well as the tactical situations in the Solomons tend to enforce a greater degree of Japanese caution than at any other stage of the struggle, not yet quite a year old. That probably explains Japanese delay in coming to grips with the first American offensive move of which Guadalcanal is the symbol. The stake is great; but so are the risks.

can balances and securities owned by enemy higherups.

So far their explorations have not disclosed that Axis leaders have sought a haven in this country for their stolen wealth. Private industrialists seeking to escape confiscatory taxation at home have bought property or bonds over here, but no important political figure has chanced similar investments. It would be highly illogical for instance, for Hitler or Ciano to bank in the United States for when they lose the war they will not be able to recover in any aftermath settlement. According to present plans for punishment of those guilty of precipitating the world's most inhuman slaughter, they will be breaking rocks on Alcatraz or some other St. Helena instead of cashing deposits pounced upon by Henry Morgenthau.

Our investigators conclude, therefore, that the Axis chiefs have socked away their shekels in the four nonbelligerent nations mentioned above. And for that and other reasons they are quite content to let Bern, Lisbon, Madrid and Stockholm, carry on with "finance as usual."

STATESMANSHIP—President Roosevelt's conservative stance in recent weeks forms the principal topic of conversation among his close friends in the Capital. While it cheers some of his intimates, it has provoked others to remark, "The New Deal is dead!"

His reliance upon men like Baruch, Jeffers, Byrnes, Nelson and Army-Navy aides drawn from downtown Manhattan is only one of the manifestations of the changed point of view of the Executive. Both he and Mrs. Roosevelt have recently given private business and industry a pat on the back.

FDR saw how management had pitched into the work of winning the war. His visit to former Vice-President Garner at Uvalde had special significance for those who appreciate the irreconcilable philosophies of the Texan and the New Yorker. Such liberals as Hopkins, Mellett, MacLeish and Ickes have been submerged and have disappeared from White House council chambers.

FDR is exhibiting political statesmanship in the best sense of that term in the opinion of the majority of his advisers. Like Woodrow Wilson, he realizes that there is no room for reform during a crisis fraught with such peril to the nation. He also senses that people become grim and slightly intolerant of dictatorial social idealism when they are sending their sons to battlefields.

SECRET—Although the United States Information Center on Pennsylvania avenue (the name has been changed to Bureau of Public Inquiries since it was placed under Elmer Davis' OWD) has been maligned as a useless agency, it is performing a distinct service for the public and businessmen from out of town. At least 15,000 queries weekly are answered over the counter and telephone. Letters total 2,000 a day.

The office makes an excellent listening post for Federal officials anxious to know the fears, hopes and thoughts of the average American. The nature of the inquiries changes with almost every development on the domestic or military front, mirroring a nation's sentiment. Here are a few sample interrogations:

Whom do I contact to sell rafts to the Coast Guard? Whom do I see in WPB about manufacture of glycerin? Are there rifle practice training courses for women? When will the Pan-American Highway be completed? In what speech did the President warn against rumors? Where and how do you get a permit to travel to Alaska? Are debts contracted by draftees frozen for the duration? Can the fishing boats seized from Italians—now tied up in Boston—be rented? How can I get a priority to change from an oil to a coal furnace? What are the latitude and longitude of the Washington monument? Note: The answer to that last one, like the weather when a sports contest is cancelled because of rain, is a military secret!

Winning The War

By Albert N. Leman

CRIME—Laval in promising to conscript French labor to slave for the Reich, has demonstrated how little he cares for the liberty of his countrymen. What is not known in America is that in many ways his conduct has been even worse toward his official guests. Certain members of the Belgian war cabinet, who supported their neighbor republic when Gamelin's demoralized armies were being crushed by the Wehrmacht, crossed the border to direct the two million refugees streaming into France. By all the rules of international law the "Good Samaritans" were entitled to diplomatic courtesy—and gratitude. Instead Vichy placed them under arrest.

August De Schryver, Minister of Economic Affairs, recently escaped to New York with Auguste Balthazar, Labor Minister. M. Schryver reveals that eight other executives of his government are held in "enforced residence"—a punishment similar to that meted out to former French Prime Minister Herriot because he dared to criticize Pétain. The captives are compelled to report for police questioning every day and must walk a 12-mile road trip to the gendarmerie headquarters. Two are sick men. Ten thousand pro-Ally Belgians are still confined in French concentration camps and medieval dungeons.

The ministers requested freedom or that the marshal tell them with what they were charged but he refused all communication. However, their guards showed them copies of Axis-controlled Parisian newspapers which railed at them for expressing sentiments favorable to Great Britain and the United States; that is now a political crime in the eye of neutral Vichy.

TRICK—Even though kept behind locked gates M. Schryver found means of learning what goes on in France where, he says, 90 per cent of the nation prays for an American victory.

Rioting against enforced labor in Germany is approaching the dimensions of a civil war. At first Laval kept mum about his deal with Hitler and corralled a small group of workers without public notice. But although the muzzled press printed nothing the British Broadcasting Corporation exposed the arrangement and immediately toolers everywhere became apprehensive and restless.

The first batch was composed chiefly of convicts, released on the promise that they would help the Nazis, and large numbers of Algerians, who were stranded in the cities. Laval's agent shifted their tactics. They openly offered exorbitant wages and bonuses but even then the jobs were rejected the bribes. Next, the employment officials played on the heartstrings of war-prisoner families. They swore that if a healthy son would sign up, his own soldier father would be allowed to go home. A few sincere boys made the sacrifice but practically all others suspected it was a trick and refused to budge.

M. Schryver discloses that the people in the occupied zone obtain more food than do those in Vichyland but neither section has a sufficiency. There is better farm and cattle country in the west and the shrewd peasants manage to hide some of their possessions from the plundering Nazis. The Belgians and coastal Frenchmen are more convinced than any other Europeans that the Allies will win because almost daily they watch squadrons of American and RAF planes enroute to bomb the Germans.

MOTORS—The National Automobile Dealers association warns its members not to go off half-cocked in expecting a stream of wonderful new cars immediately after the blowing of taps for this war. Even if Donald M. Nelson doesn't force manufacturers to scrap their dies, as was revealed recently in Whirligig (19-October '42), months will elapse before an adolescent can pester Dad for the use of the family chariot. The first machines will be duplicates of this year's models and in all likelihood will be much more expensive.

But once the industry has hit its stride, engineers promise marvels. From the technical point of view the 1942 type vehicle will be 20 years behind the times. In other words, science has made such progress that when we start turning out really new style autos again they will be of 1962 vintage as compared with current standards. There'll be no more water to freeze in radiators; we'll adopt aviation's sealed cooling systems. Weight will be a ton less. Power output will be tripled, with smaller and lighter engines.

Superchargers and fuel injection devices will improve speed. The gasoline probably will have an octane rating of 150 or almost twice that of the best juice in today's jolopies. In fact experts hint that the ordinary tank fluid will be replaced by an entirely different and superior petroleum product. Rear motors and midsize runabouts for children will make their bow. And the ultimate cost will be much less than ever before.

WEATHER—Rumors that the Nazis are stymied in southern Russia until spring should be taken with a grain of salt, say New York engineers who have worked in that section. The Caucasus mountain passes will be locked by ice but in the valleys and desert lands fighting weather can be counted on for many more weeks. At this season rains are frequent and the poor roads are bogged with mud. But freezing temperatures are not continuous before the first of the year. Similar conditions are found in the low lands on the southern border of the Caspian sea. Severely cold days are of short duration, hence armies can maneuver.
