

American Subs Sink Seven More Japanese Ships

93 Vessels Destroyed By U. S. Raiders

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(AP)—American submarines have sunk seven more Japanese ships in the western Pacific, the Navy announced today, and damaged and probably sank a Japanese destroyer.

These latest blows at the enemy's extended supply lines included the destruction of three large ships, a transport, tanker and cargo vessel; two medium sized ships, one a cargo carrier and the other an auxiliary; and one small cargo ship and a patrol vessel.

Subs Have Sunk 93 Ships

All the communicate said of the destroyer was that it was "damaged and believed sunk."

Announcement of these latest successes by the United States fleet of undersea raiders raised to 141 the number of Jap ships sunk or damaged by submarines since Pearl Harbor. Of this total 93 vessels have been sunk, 21 probably sunk and 27 damaged.

Earlier the Navy has announced that aerial diversions of the American base on Guadalcanal island in the Solomons shot down 17 Japanese dive bombers and fighter planes yesterday and probably destroyed five other while losing seven of their own planes.

A brief communique, which made no reference to the progress of ground operations on the island, said that the Japanese attacked the American-held section of the island twice—November 11 (Guadalcanal time).

Wildcats Intercept Enemy

The first wave consisted of 10 bombers and 12 fighters. Grumman Wildcat fighters intercepted them over the island and bagged six bombers and five fighters. The second wave consisted of 25 bombers and five fighters, and that time the Wildcats shot down six more bombers.

"Three additional enemy bombers and two fighters were reported as probably destroyed during the encounters," the Navy said.

The last report on ground activities was made yesterday when a communique said that troops supported by bombing planes were continuing offensive operations against both the eastern and western enemy positions.

Allies Pound Jap Base

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Nov. 13—(Friday)—Allied bombers have dealt a heavy blow at the Japanese base of Buna on the northern Solomons, the high command said today. The raid was the second in as many days on a base where recently Allied bombers sank or damaged more than a score of ships, including an aircraft carrier.

Today's raid, made at dawn, caught Jap ships in the harbor loaded with troops and equipment. The bombers, supporting the defense of Guadalcanal in the Solomons to the southeast of Buna-Faisi, hit four of the loaded ships and losses inflicted were believed heavy.

The ships were of the cargo type, used for transports, and their total tonnage was estimated at 37,000. One ship appeared to be of 12,000-ton type, another 10,000, a third 8,000 and the fourth 7,000.

One of the four ships had suffered a previous hit in yesterday's raid.

Meanwhile, the land battle for control of northeastern New Guinea progressed in the Allies' favor with the Japs cleared out of the Ovi-Gorari area, some 50 miles southwest of the coastal base of Buna. The Japs were retreating toward Wairopi, having lost heavily in equipment and yielded some of their number as prisoners. Equipment losses included field guns and horses.

Allied planes strafed installations to the rear of the retreating Japs. Prior to the attack by heavy bombers on the ships in the Buna-Faisi area, medium bombers struck at the Buna airfield, catching enemy planes on the ground and starting eight different fires.

In Portuguese Timor, other medium bombers attacked enemy barracks and other installations in Bobonaro and Maobisse.

Nazis Ready To Abandon Tobruk, Belief

CAIRO, Nov. 13—(Friday)—Retreating Axis forces are withdrawing supplies from Tobruk, much-touted port 80 miles inside Libya, and apparently are preparing to abandon this stronghold without making a serious stand.

A delayed message reaching here this morning from Edward Kennedy, Associated Press war correspondent on the Libyan border, said that the Germans and Italians were withdrawing equipment westward from Tobruk as early as Wednesday.

Front line advice yesterday told of heavy Allied aerial bombardment of concentrations of enemy transport along the road between Tobruk and Gazala, another 30 miles to the west along the coastal highway.

African Corps Cut to Pieces

This apparent decision by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel to pass up Tobruk as the spot at which to try and stem the mounting Allied victory tide confirmed estimates of how badly his legions have been mauled by British-American land, sky and sea power because Tobruk offers a tough obstacle to an attacking force when it is well manned.

The British in an earlier phase of the shifting North African campaign once held out there for eight months under fierce siege operations.

Even before "Muney's" message was received from the frontier, the heavy westward movement of Axis transport spotted by Allied planes far beyond the Libyan border indicated Rommel might have decided to make no stand at Tobruk.

All Enemies In Egypt Captured

The gap between the British eighth army driving Rommel's remnants from the east and the Americans and British pressing in from the west still was upwards of 1,000 miles wide, but was narrowing swiftly.

At Tunis yesterday, the long-range British fighters destroyed 11 Junkers-88's, five Junkers-52's (transport planes), two Focke-Wulf 201's, a small Feisler Storch and a glider.

The only enemy troops remaining in Egypt were prisoners, including nine Italian generals. A tenth Italian general was killed.

On land and in the air, the main British problem was keeping pace with the fleeing enemy and his planes. Axis air forces finally were brought to battle yesterday in the Tobruk area and 23 of them—in-

Argentina, Chile Approve U. S. Invasion of Africa

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 12—(AP)—Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Gulmaru tonight expressed to Secretary Hull Argentina's solidarity with the United States' operations in North Africa, ending an official silence on the campaign.

The foreign minister's message to Hull aroused particular interest because Argentina and Chile are the only South American nations not having broken relations with the Axis.

President Juan Antonio Rios, of Chile, previously had called President Roosevelt expressing approval of the African action.

Ruiz Gulmaru's message said that the Argentine people watch "with solidarity and interest the efforts made by the great and friendly nation in safeguarding the security of the Americas." It also reiterated faith in the "high continental ideals" of the United States.

Allies, Nearing Tunisian Frontier, Get Air Support From Malta; Darlan Asks French Fleet To Sail For North Africa

Gen. Clark Promoted For Daring Trip

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(By A. P.)—A daring undercover trip to French North Africa by submarine, during which a commando-escorted party of American officers prepared the way for the occupation of that strategic area, won Major General Mark W. Clark a promotion to lieutenant general today and a place in history alongside the bearer of the "message to Garcia."

Three weeks before the current North African campaign opened, Gen. Clark and his party landed there from a submarine. He opened negotiations with representatives of the French general, Henri Giraud, which led to his rallying French forces to the United Nations cause. He obtained invaluable military information. He appraised the sentiment of Frenchmen in the area and found it favorable to the Americans.

Police Almost Caught Him

All this was disclosed today, with a War department announcement that the tall, lanky, resourceful Clark, who later returned to Africa as second in command of the expeditionary force, had been promoted.

Meanwhile, dispatches from Allied headquarters in North Africa pieced together the details of his amazing exploit, a long tour which used almost every conceivable means of transportation, including a narrow escape from capture by the Axis-controlled Vichy police, and an upset boat which resulted in the loss of most of the party's clothing and $18,000 in gold.

The details came from Clark, himself, and from Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the North African offensive. It was called by Wes Gallagher, Associated Press correspondent in North Africa.

It was evident, Eisenhower told Gallagher, that a large group of Frenchmen in North Africa was anxious to cooperate and that it would be desirable to send a group of officers there to contact them and obtain essential military information.

"Clark and all men on the mission volunteered enthusiastically," he added.

Leaving London secretly by train, the party reached Africa by devil's means. At an unnamed point in North Africa a light was to have been flashed in a house to let the men know the coast was clear.

Arab Servant Told Police

But the appointed hour arrived and passed without any light appearing, and the party had to wait for some time in extreme danger before the signal finally was given.

The members of the party entered the house, where they engaged in close consultation with

Congress Passes Teen-Age Draft Bill; 1,500,000 Become Liable for Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(AP)—The Senate approved the teen-age draft bill late today and sent it to the White House. Signature of the measure by President Roosevelt will make an estimated 1,500,000 youths of 18 and 19 immediately liable for service in the armed forces.

The bill lowers the minimum induction age from 20 to 18 in response to General George C. Marshall's plea for "combat units of vigorous, aggressive soldiers." Senators reluctantly receded from their demand that the 'teen-agers be trained at least a year in this country before being sent into combat overseas.

Five Hours of Debate

There were nearly five hours of debate, however, before the Senate approved the bill on a voice vote. It had previously been revised by a joint Senate-House conference committee and accepted by the House.

Much of the argument centered on a provision directing local draft boards to defer necessary farm workers as long as they remain on the farm and until satisfactory re-

Axis Troops Stay 30 Miles From Toulon

LONDON, Nov. 12—(By A. P.)—The voice of its longtime commander was added tonight to the radio chorus urging the French fleet to steam away from Toulon where it is lying strangely orphaned—the last bit of unoccupied France.

From Algiers, where he is a prisoner of the Americans, Admiral Jean Darlan broadcast a "request" that the commanders at Toulon bring their ships to North Africa. The former collaborationist and one-time commander of all Vichy French armed forces did not order the ships to sail but merely suggested that they join the Allies or at least flee the German menace.

Darlan Returns to Allies

This message follows similar appeals by British and American military and naval leaders which have been beamed toward the silent French Mediterranean port for days.

The broadcast by the admiral apparently combined rumors that his swift capture at Algiers persuaded his return to the Allied side after years of work in the collaborationist camp in Vichy France.

It was he who gave the cease-firing order at Algiers and who yesterday directed an end to all French resistance in North Africa—an injunction that was heeded despite the fact that he had been officially removed as Vichy generalissimo by Marshal Petain after the Algiers surrender.

But both of these actions were dictated by military necessity and today's broadcast seemed to be the first positive evidence that he was swinging his weight to the Allied side in spite of his known dislike for the British.

Some Vessels Depart?

Naval authorities were convinced that the French warships still were in Toulon, ready for any eventuality, but sources on the continent, with close connections in France, persisted in the belief that at least some vessels had detached themselves from the fleet in the last several days to join the Allies.

Against a background of threats, promises and intrigue in overrun France, three German armored divisions slashed through the hithermost zone to the Mediterranean coast.

But Hitler, treading lightly lest he frighten the French ships into flight, pulled up his forces at Marseille, 30 miles short of Toulon, and the German-controlled Vichy radio said this concession was ordered because the French navy chiefs had pledged themselves to resist "any aggression."

British naval authorities shrugged off as worthless Hitler's promise to "safeguard" the fleet.

Pray on Thanksgiving, President Asks Nation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(AP)—President Roosevelt, in an unusual proclamation, called upon the American people today to observe both Thanksgiving and New Year's as days of prayer.

Devoid of the "whereas" of customary Presidential proclamations, it started with a quotation from the Ninety-Second Psalm: "It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord."

48-Hour Week Proposed By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(AP)—The Senate defense investigating committee today urged the appointment of a single administrator to direct both industrial and civilian manpower mobilization and recommended a 48-hour week in industry.

To avert any inflationary trend from resulting overtime payments, the committee proposed that all over time in excess of the 1942 average be paid in bonds redeemable after war or useable for taxes.

Received President Report

In war industries, where the Government buys the output, the committee suggested that all overtime be paid for at time and a half, as at present. In civilian industries, where price ceilings are a factor, it suggested that overtime beyond the present average command no premium above the regular basic wage.

Another Senate group heard testimony that a worker in the Consolidated Aircraft corporation plant at Fort Worth, Tex., had made affidavit that several bombers had been brought in there "to make it look like they came off our assembly line" in order to deceive President Roosevelt on his visit here.

Harvey W. Brown, president of the International Association of Machinists, told a Senate labor subcommittee of the affidavit in testifying that workers were being wasted in some plants.

The defense investigating committee, headed by Senator Truman (D-Mo.), issued a report opposing compulsory legislation affecting the individual worker and expressing the opinion of industry's manpower needs could be filled through Government direction of employers' hiring policies.

Portuguese President Thanks Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(AP)—The White House made public tonight a message of appreciation from the president of Portugal, General Carmona, to President Roosevelt, for the latter's assurance that Portugal had nothing to fear in connection with the United States occupation of North Africa.

President Roosevelt sent the assurance to the Portuguese chief executive at the same time that he sent a similar letter to General Franco of Spain.

The letter from General Carmona thanked Mr. Roosevelt for the solemn assurances that my country has nothing to fear from the intentions of the United States, which is another proof of the unalterable and confident friendship existing between our two nations.

Kaiser Builds Ship In 4 Days, 15 1-2 Hours

RICHMOND, Calif., Nov. 12—(AP)—The 10,500-ton freighter Robert E. Peary, which grew from keel to completion in 4 days, 15 1-2 hours, slipped from the Henry J. Kaiser ways today to break all records for speed in merchant ship building.

It is expected to be delivered, fully outfitted, to the Maritime Commission "before next Monday"—still another and even more significant mark.

Here is its schedule: Keel-laying—12:01 a. m. last Sunday; launching—3:30 p. m. today; anticipated time from keel-laying to delivery—8 days or less.

The previous record for a similar ship was 18 days, 11 hours and 35 minutes from keel-laying to launching, and an additional 3 days, 12 1-2 hours for outfitting—both set by a Kaiser yard in Portland, Ore.

Flying Jeep Christened At Aircraft Plant

By David J. Wilkie

DETROIT, Nov. 12—(AP)—Two new airplanes expected to contribute materially to the United States war effort were introduced today by the Stinson division of Vultee Aircraft, Incorporated, a small highly maneuverable liaison craft and a navigation trainer for British naval pilots.

Christening of the new aircraft during an employees' rally attended by Army and Navy officers and representatives of the British naval air staff, was the first time that carefully guarded war work at the Stinson plant.

The "flying jeep," which has a wing span of but 34 feet and is 24 feet long, is described by its designers as intended for use as the

Bond-Selling Army Formed By Treasury

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(AP)—To ease the strain on the nation's monetary machine, the Government today started mobilizing a mammoth war financing army to borrow money from all possible sources from the biggest banks to the smallest homes in the land.

Announcing that Treasury borrowing to meet the rising cost of war is to be resumed on an unprecedented scale November 30, Secretary Morgenthau told his press conference that the program would involve three points:

1. The nation's need for funds and its borrowing plans will be taken to the people by a vast volunteer army of financiers, advertising men and salesmen, spearheaded by a small group of paid workers and administrators.

2. To provide breathing spells between heavy borrowings and to check the effects of the various issues on the market, the Treasury plans to do its financing on a bi-monthly basis, shifting from the present month-to-month schedule but not returning to the old peacetime quarterly financing.

Interest Cut to 2 Per Cent

3. The Treasury will do all possible war borrowing from non-banking sources in an effort to spread the load and avert inflationary tendencies as far as possible.

The Secretary said that his program for borrowing money on an approximate 7-10 year basis from banking sources at two per cent would stick, cutting interest on that part of the public debt to about one-half the rate paid on the last war's financing. Slightly more than $4,000,000,000 was borrowed at two per cent during October in the face of strong opposition from some banking quarters.

Morgenthau said, however, that the record low rate had been approved by the various banking groups.

The big borrowing program will be built around expanded activities of the victory fund committees which sold nearly $1,000,000,000 in tax savings notes during October. In addition to the saving notes, the system will promote sales of war bonds and conduct a campaign on "tap" bonds, so named since they are made available by the Treasury for an unspecified length of time, thus being on "tap" indefinitely.

Reds, Nazis Fighting In Sub-Zero Cold

MOSCOW, Nov. 13—(Friday)—Fighting in sub-zero cold, the Germans and Russians traded narrow strips of Stalingrad's battle-ripped earth yesterday while the Reds in the Caucasus successfully counter-attacked near Nalchik and held firm at Tuapse, the Soviet midnight communique reported.

The Russians said the Germans brought up reserves and attacked at several places in the Stalingrad area, at one point penetrating defense lines in a wedge 100 to 200 yards deep but at enormous cost.

In a northern sector of the city, the communique declared, Soviet counter-attacks shoved the invaders back 400 yards and cost the Germans 200 dead while northwest of the city the Germans were driven from several houses.

Indeed, official Allied statements said the German army and movement of the Allied force under stringent military secrecy.

The force under the command of the 50-year-old Scot appeared, nevertheless, to be carrying out the largest combined operation since the historic American-British armada of 850 warships began disembarking the Allies in Africa Sunday morning.

Obviously it was many times greater in numbers than the airborne personnel the Germans have been able to ferry to the airfields around Tunis and Bizerte. Up to last night, these were believed to number no more than 1,000 men, with planes.

Far behind Anderson the reinforcements were believed to number 10,000 men.

More Yanks Landed In East Algeria

LONDON, Nov. 13—(By A. P.)—A powerful Allied striking force advancing at a 75-mile-a-day clip early today was nearing the frontier of Tunisia where reports said the Nazis had landed at least 2,000 men by air in an expanding effort to hold that strategic Mediterranean corner now under RAF assault from the opposite direction.

RAF twin-engined bombers based on Malta aided the Allied land forces by heavily attacking the Axis-infiltrated region of Tunis, capital of Tunisia, yesterday, and these blows were expected to increase in coordination with the U. S.-British advance from the west.

The Vichy radio said the Tunis area was again attacked last night and that anti-aircraft guns in the French protectorate were in action during an alert lasting from 8:15 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

50 Miles From Border

Continuously fed from the sea and gathering momentum by land, the combined assault armies had reached and occupied Bone, eastern Algeria, only 60 miles from the Tunisian frontier, yesterday morning, according to Vichy reports.

By now it was believed here the Americans and battle veterans of the British first army might have plunged across the frontier.

In France, meanwhile, the Axis divisions that overran the remainder of that country placed the naval station of Toulon in a strange zone of quarantine, mysteriously failing to occupy that port or to lay hands on the battle fleet which so long has lain offshore.

No matter what the French feeling at home was, the French in North Africa were beginning to swing over to the Allies. French stevedores in Algiers now are aiding unloading of equipment to speed the Allied advance.

Although official silence cloaked the actual progress thus far, Allied ground troops were said in a Vichy broadcast to have been bolstered by U. S. troops landed from British ships in occupied Bone.

The Allied troops were trying with the utmost speed to close a 1,000-mile coastal gap and catch the remnants of Marshal Petain's troops which now are between them and the British eighth army crossing into eastern Libya from Egypt.

The force is commanded by a veteran of Flanders and Dunkerque, British Lieut.-Gen. K. A. N. Anderson. Many of the hardened Tommies in his first army have met the German enemy before.

Under General Anderson, part of the major force which the United States landed at Algiers, is Maj. Gen. Charles Ryder, U. S. A.

Some entirely unofficial estimates placed the combined force at nearly 150,000 men.

The first direct blow at the air vanguard which Hitler is trying to build up in Tunisia was struck by twin-engined fighters of the RAF.

Flying the 200 miles from island Malta, that "bright gem" in the British crown, these British planes destroyed or damaged 38 German air transports, dive-bombers and other aircraft on an airfield near Tunis.

Axis Claims Extravagant

By Axis accounts, the flow of Allied ships supplying and reinforcing the Anderson-Ryder armies was under air attack all along the coast of Algeria. There was, however, no confirmation from the Allied side of extravagant Axis claims of bombing of aircraft carriers, cruisers, transports and supply ships.

Board Moves For Better Bus Service

Authorization for forwarding a resolution to the state public utilities commission advocating improved bus transportation between Ishpeming, Negaunee and Marquette was voted by the county board of supervisors at its November meeting here yesterday.

Charles J. Stakel, supervisor from North Lake, and Lloyd LeVasseur, county clerk, were given authority to consult the county rationing board and other interested organizations to obtain the "combined thought" of the county regarding the transportation problem and to draw up a resolution for the board in an effort to expedite improvement of service.

Since present transportation facilities between the three counties and also the service in the townships are generally regarded as "inadequate" and since the problem will be even more acute when gasoline rationing goes into effect on December 1, it is understood that the resolution will be sent to the utilities commission as soon as possible.

Ration Board Seeks Action

The need for quick action was brought to the attention of the board by a letter from L. B. Hadley, executive secretary of the county rationing board, and the problem was explained fully to the supervisors by Supervisor Stakel.

"For some time, this board has been concerned with the transportation system in this county, particularly as regards the lack of proper facilities for public transportation between Ishpeming, Negaunee and Marquette," Hadley said. "We realize there are other deficiencies in public transportation in the county, but this one in particular is of vital importance."

The rationing board pointed out that under the present setup, the holder of the franchise, William J. Billing, Ishpeming, is making only one round trip a day between Marquette and Ishpeming with the Northern bus.

"This, of course, is worse than having no trips at all because if there were no transportation, some organization would take the franchise and give adequate service," Hadley said.

Workers, Students, Others

Stating that he had asked service clubs in the county to adopt resolutions advocating improved transportation to be dispatched to the state public utilities commission, Supervisor Stakel told the county board that the Greyhound service was prepared to "make three round trips a day if they could get the franchise."

As an example of the difficulties that would be encountered after gasoline rationing is in effect, Stakel pointed out there are many Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company employees living in Marquette and working in Ishpeming who need daily transportation.

"Anything the board can do to provide better bus transportation will be greatly appreciated by all persons who live in one town and work in another," he emphasized.

There are 32 students in Ishpeming and Negaunee and two in Palmer who commute daily to classes at the Northern Michigan College of Education, and in addition there are several Gossard factory employees and others who require transportation daily between the two communities.

Would Save Rubber

Supervisor James Nardi said improved transportation would benefit the public as well as the workers now and after December 1 and expressed belief that there would be enough business for the present operator to make six trips a day instead of one circuit jaunt.

The concern of the rationing board, Hadley said, is "the amount of rubber which is being worn out on private cars being used for transportation, as well as the demand which will take place for supplemental gasoline rations when gasoline rationing goes into effect. A large percentage of this waste could be avoided if there were adequate transportation facilities."

"We are writing you at this time in order that you will be fully cognizant of the present status of the attempt that is being made to improve the county transportation facilities.

Suggest Trains Be Met

"We believe that with this information in your hands, there may be some action which the board of supervisors can take to speed up the procedure."

It was suggested by Lincoln J. Lindstrom, Marquette supervisor, that the board's resolution include also a recommendation that arrangements be made, under whatever new setup may be devised, to meet the Upper Peninsula "400" in Negaunee, as a means of saving rubber on private automobiles which make the trip periodically to transport friends and relatives of Marquette residents.

The board was officially notified by K. L. Sawyer, superintendent of the county road commission, of the closing of the county airport October 31 because of the transfer to Escanaba on that date of the Civil Aeronautics Department's flying school conducted here for some time under the supervision of Sigurd O. Wilson and C. B. Hedgcock.

The board concurred in action taken by the committee on county airports to arrange for protection of the premises at the airport.

On the recommendation of the budget and executive committee, the board also asked a provision of stenographic help for Miles Betts, county welfare agent, by arranging for Elsie Bertrand, stenographer for L. R. Walker, county agricultural agent, to divide her time equally between the agricultural office and the county welfare agent's office.

Meet Next December 16

Pointing out that since October, 1941, the sum of $1,313.05 had been paid into the general fund as money due the county for the care of dependent children and that in several cases, men either contributed toward the support of their children or were prosecuted, Betts said "there are a number of others who can and will be made to help care for their children."

"There is no reason why the county should bear the whole burden in many of these cases. I can do a much better and more thorough job if the board will give me clerical assistance. I also will be able to spend more time looking after some of the children who cannot get to the clinic unless some one takes them."

Betts said his work kept him in the field much of the time and added that he "is willing to cooperate in any way that will be a benefit to the county and to the children."

The board adjourned until December 16 at 2 p. m.

Deer Scrap Depot Only For Donations

Collection of deer fat and hides and the manner in which independent purchasers of such salvage material fit into the program, has been clarified by W. J. Weber, chairman of the Marquette county salvage committee.

Weber said the committee has no intention to hinder the purchase of deer hides by any local agency. He pointed out that the Marquette Sausage company has been designated as a depot in Marquette where deer hunters may donate deer fat and hides. Funds from the sale of this salvage material will go to the civilian defense council and will be used to defray shipping expenses in connection with the fur salvage program being carried on here.

Others Buying Hides

At Negaunee the Sues Super Market has been designated as the fat and hide depot, but in contrast with the Marquette depot, the Sues Market will purchase the fat and hides.

"The salvage program does not in any way effect independent buyers of deer hides," Weber declared. "They may continue to buy hides as they have in the past."

The salvage chairman said that Joseph Narotzky, Ishpeming, purchased more than 1,000 deer hides last year. "Mr. Narotzky and other dealers are free" to continue to buy as they have in the past. The depot in Marquette was set up only for those who wish to donate deer fat and hides.

Defense Unit To Get $100 From Scrap

Approximately $100 will be turned over to the Marquette defense council as a result of donations of salvage material in Marquette county.

A detailed report, showing every donation and the amount of money received from the sale of donated salvage, will be ready for publication within a few days, W. J. Weber chairman of the county salvage committee, said yesterday.

During the salvage campaign residents were urged to donate salvage material. All material in the school scrap drive has been donated, the funds being used to purchase school equipment. Funds from the sale of scrap donated to the salvage committee will go to the defense council.

Batteries Donated

Merchants who collect rubber boots in connection with the rubber boot rationing program, are permitted to sell to scrap dealers all boots turned in under the rationing program. Joseph Narotzky, Ishpeming junk dealer, said that included in a carload of rubber he shipped out of Ishpeming on November 10, were 300 pounds of rubber boots turned in by Ishpeming merchants. All were donated by the merchants.

The Marquette office of the Western Union yesterday donated to the salvage committee 150 pounds of worn out dry cell batteries. These batteries, contain zinc, copper and brass, John G. Rank, Western Union manager, said.

St. Paul's guild today because of the death of Mrs. L. W. Howe, a member of the group.

Legion County Council—The Albert V. Braden unit, of the American Legion auxiliary, will entertain the county council Wednesday evening, November 18, at the American Legion clubhouse, Ishpeming. The meeting will begin at 8:15 and will be followed by a social hour.

Labor Board Hearing—The state department of labor and industry will conduct a hearing of petitions to redeem liability in the court house here next Monday afternoon, beginning at 1:30. The county clerk was notified of the hearing by David M. Martin, commissioner of the labor department.

Non-Support Case — Ray Venard, Marquette, waived examination on a charge of non-support when arraigned in city court yesterday and was bound over to the next term of circuit court. Failing to furnish bond of $500, he was committed to the county jail. The next term opens November 30.

Notaries Asked To Use Caution During Wartime

LANSING, Nov. 12—P—Notaries public and other officials authorized to administer oaths were requested by Governor Van Wagoner today to exercise caution during the war in determining identification of persons requesting their services.

The Governor advised that police should be promptly notified if suspicious circumstances are detected in requests for administration of oaths or for legal services. "I am sure the general public will respond gladly to such requests, since they will help stop foreign spies from circulating among us under false colors," he asserted.

VETERAN PASTOR DIES

EAST LANSING, Nov. 12—P—Services will be held here Saturday for Dr. Martin Luther Fox, 77, associated pastor emeritus of the People's church here and well known to Michigan college graduates and students, who died Wednesday of a heart attack. He formerly held Methodist pastorates in Ionia, Muskegon, Kalamazoo, St. Johns and Lansing, and was a former superintendent of the Niles district of the Methodist church.

Nash-Kelvinator Plant Lockout Appealed to WLB

LANSING, Nov. 12—P—The United Automobile Workers union-CIO today appealed to the War Labor Board to end what is described as a lockout of employees of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation here, a large producer of war materials.

Military observers said they had submitted a complete report of the case to the Army Air Corps and were awaiting instructions from "higher authority."

Spokesmen for the union and the company met in conference this afternoon in an effort to settle the dispute, which closed the two big plants of the corporation this morning. But Don Falor, sub-regional director of the union, reported at the conclusion that the negotiations were stalemated. The company issued no immediate statement on this phase.

Both the union and the company said the dispute revolved about the demand of the union that Floyd Baird, foreman of the propeller division, and an assistant foreman be transferred out of that department.

Motor vehicles are the only means of transportation for 18 million non-farm rural workers, many of them war workers.

Board Accepts 82 County Registrants

Eighty-two Marquette county men and other registrants from Schoolcraft and Alger counties who were accepted by the Army medical examining board here yesterday are in luck!

Because of a new furlough schedule adopted by state selective service headquarters to prevent overloading Army reception centers in November and December, they will get 15 days furlough instead of seven.

Men accepted from the Houghton and Keweenaw contingents reporting for examination today also are favored by the new schedule. They will get 14 days furlough.

Turkey At Home

For most of the draftees it will mean a chance to spend Thanksgiving at home before being required to start their Army service. Thursday, November 26, is Thanksgiving day, and men inducted yesterday and today will not report until the following day.

"The staggered schedule of furloughs has been arranged by state draft headquarters to keep Army reception centers from being too crowded during the holiday periods," Major L. B. Kiblinger, chief executive officer of the board, said yesterday.

"After December 23, we will revert to the regular plan of granting only seven-day furloughs."

Board Returns Dec. 7

The medical board will return to Marquette December 7-11, inclusive, to examine Upper Peninsula contingents scheduled for the December draft.

Under the new schedule, men inducted December 7, 8 and 9 will receive 10-day furloughs and those who take the oath on December 10 and 11 will receive 11 days.

One hundred and twenty Marquette county men were examined yesterday, and 82 of them were accepted. The list of county men accepted Tuesday and yesterday will be available for publication tomorrow.

The board will complete its work today.

Thirty-eight volunteers from the Escanaba recruiting station, including several 18- and 19-year-old men, were examined here yesterday.

Men below the draft age were given direct assignments in the branch of service of their choice. Some had direct assignments as aircraft mechanics in the Air corps or Signal corps. Two men were assigned to the ski troops.

Development and use of substitutes for scarce materials for production of civilian goods has kept some factories in production.

News Bits About Marquette County Young Men in Armed Forces

EDITOR'S NOTE—The Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Merchant Marines are growing in strength every day. That means more and more Marquette county men are "Serving U. S." They read and enjoy this column as faithfully as those of us at home. Don't fall them! Send in items about men in uniform to the Service Editor, The Mining Journal, Marquette, Mich., or telephone Marquette 150. In Ishpeming, phone 3; Negaunee, 404, and in Republic, 701.

ROBERT H. LINDSTROM has arrived home from Great Lakes, Ill., to spend a nine-day leave visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln J. Lindstrom, 511 High street, Marquette. He has completed his boot camp training at the U. S. Naval Training station, ranking third in his class, and at the conclusion of his leave he will be assigned to a 16-week signal school. Bob said his training in signalling and first aid as a Boy Scout have helped him considerably and given him a good background for his Navy duties.

PFC Rudolph Palomaki, 23, son of Mrs. Diana Johnson, 820 Fifth street, Ishpeming, is stationed at the Army Air Base, Drew Field, Tampa, Fla. He has been chosen for aviation cadet training in the Army Air corps. Rudy entered the service last January 5.

Lieut. Dean Tippett and Sgt. Dick Nordquist, old Graveraet high school buddies, ran into each other, figuratively speaking, in chemical warfare class at Wendover Field, Utah, a U. S. Army Air Base. "We take time out each day to discuss 'God's Country' and how much we would like to be back there," Dick writes. "There's still no place like Northern Michigan." Lieut. Tippett is a navigator and Sgt. Nordquist is first radio operator on one of the Army's Flying Fortresses.

Pvt. Jack E. O'Neil, son of Ray O'Neil, Hampton street, Marquette, is serving with the Army Air corps in Australia. He left Marquette with old Company D, National Guard, in 1940 and was stationed in Louisiana a year. He was fortunate enough to come home for a two-month visit before leaving last March for Australia. Jack was serving in a cannon company and his father believes he was a gunner in a Flying Fortress crew whose picture was recently printed in a metropolitan newspaper rotogravure section. They had just completed a raid on the Japs at Rabaul, New Britain.

Warner Welland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Welland, 227 West Hewitt avenue, Marquette, has been advanced to seaman, first class, in the U. S. Navy. He is stationed at Corpus Christi, Texas, and is serving as a camp police. Warner, who will be 18 years old tomorrow, rides around camp in a jeep and hands out tickets, presumably traffic tickets. He enlisted in the Navy about a year ago.

Reino Kangas, U. S. Navy, is spending a nine-day furlough at the home of his parents, Elmer Kangas, Gwinn. Reino, 17, has been in the service about five months, and has completed his training at Great Lakes. Upon his return he will be in submarine duty.

Second Lieut. Charles MacKenzie Kroll was graduated Wednesday from the officer training school at Fort Belvoir, Va. After graduation, he was transferred to Louisiana, where he will receive training in parachute jumping. Charles entered the Army last May 11, 1942.

Pvt. George William Green, Ishpeming, would like to hear from his friends. His address is Pvt. George William Green, F. A. F. R. D., Hammer Field, Calif.

Pvt. George Salminen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Salminen, Champion, is with the Medical ambulance corps in Camp Barkley, Tex. George says: "Letters are welcome." His address is Pvt. George Salminen, Co. A, 34 Med Ambulance Bn., Camp Berkeley, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maloney, Oak street, Ishpeming, have received word from their son, Aviation Cadet Thomas J. Maloney, telling of his arrival at San Antonio, Texas. Tom enlisted in June, but was not called until a week ago. His address is A/C Thomas J. Maloney, Army Air Force Classification Center, Squadron 105, Flight "G", San Antonio, Tex.

First Lieut. John B. Langley, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Langley,

Every trace of the damage removed, the fenders re-shaped, the running boards replaced—in short your car once more will look as it did originally.

Little Lake, is serving as chief of motor vehicle inspection in the Detroit ordnance district, headquartered in Detroit. Lieut. Langley has 325 field inspectors and technicians and an office staff of 35 employees ranging from typists to engineers under his supervision. He says the assignment is very interesting because he is "closely affiliated with the automotive industry and its personnel."

Pvt. Orin C. Bell, Marquette, writes to say he has been transferred from Camp Callan to Camp Haan but is still enjoying California sunshine. He is in the Coast Artillery, automatic weapon division. Orin's new address is Btr. C-535—C. A. Bn. Sep. (A. W.), Camp Haan, Calif.

Since his return to Great Lakes, Ill., after spending a furlough here with his parents, Francis M. McGrath, seaman, first class, has been assigned to the quartermaster training school in Newport, R. I., where he expects to be stationed for 16 weeks. His address is Quartermaster School, Co. 1559, U. S. N. T. S., Coddington Point, Newport, R. I.

James A. Woodbridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woodbridge, 897 Lee street, Marquette, who has been in the service a year and in Australia since May, has been advanced from private to private, first class. He says he has a good sun tan by now and has been battling mosquitoes lately but likes it all the same.

Jim's brother, Pvt. William C. Woodbridge, saw mud for the first time at Camp Hulien, Texas, where he has been stationed for some time. He enlisted in the Army three months ago and—despite the mud—he likes it very much.

The flow of non-food civilian goods to the domestic market of the United Kingdom has been reduced to one-third of pre-war volume by the middle of this year.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Time Is Factor

AMERICAN and British troops yesterday were speeding across Algeria to combat the Axis attempt to seize that key French colony, and British bombers are striking the first blow in the battle for Tunisia. Meanwhile, three Nazi divisions are reported to have reached the Mediterranean coast and Hitler is said also to be rushing 40 divisions from the Russian front toward Italy and Greece as the victorious Anglo-American expeditionary forces in North Africa pose a growing threat to attack on the "under side" of Nazi-conquered Europe.

Will Hitler be able to react in time and in force to thwart the Allied move in North Africa? That is today's phase of the campaign which moves with increasing tempo on both sides of the Mediterranean and which commands the full effort of the opposing forces. Time is the essence.

If Hitler is to succeed he must, by frontal attack, stop the Allied drive to clear the entire African shore of the Mediterranean of Axis armed forces. He must halt the Allied effort to reopen the Mediterranean to Allied convoys. And he must block Allied moves for an attack on Italy or some other German-occupied part of Europe.

Hitler faces grave peril. If the United Nations are successful in their first aim, they will release considerable British and American forces, hitherto employed in parrying Axis moves, for action elsewhere. Success in the second aim would shorten British and American communications with the Middle East and India by thousands of miles, facilitating the movement of convoys which have been going around South Africa. And if the Allies achieve their third aim they could attack Hitler, in Europe, under conditions far more propitious, probably, than are offered by the coast of the Channel and the North Sea.

The next few days may determine whether Hitler has been able to move fast enough and with sufficient force to block any or all of these objectives. The immediate future must, of necessity, reveal much regarding these now uncertain factors.

Only The First Step

Churchill's comment that the Allied drive in North Africa may be "the end of the beginning" is a good answer to some commentators and wishful thinkers who would have us believe the war is nearing a victorious conclusion.

Events of the week are most encouraging and have bolstered morale no end. Furthermore, there is something besides mere talk in the words of President Roosevelt and General Marshall, who forecast certain doom for the Axis, but it should be obvious that only the first step has been taken in what is bound to be a long, hard fight.

The Allies have gained their first objectives and are moving swiftly to check counter-attack and proceed to more important goals. To date they have been able to transport troops and equipment to invasion bases and it appears they have an offensive advantage which the Nazis may not be able to overcome, but there is no ground for exuberant expectation that Italy will be conquered and the Germans squeezed to death in a few weeks. Italy may be on the brink of collapse, but in any event it will possess a substantial nuisance value even after the Allies invade its home soil. As for Germany, it must be remembered that her defeats have occurred far from home; that she possesses great military strength to hurl against an invader. Hitler has been beaten when he has extended his lines too far. He may be stronger as he pulls in those lines and those of the Allies are lengthened.

Americans should brace themselves for whatever comes. Not all the news can be good, because the Allies have undertaken a military task of unprecedented proportions. A bloody route lies between them and the encirclement and utter defeat of Hitler. That it will be accomplished there is no doubt, because the Germans are up against an incomparable coalition of manpower and mechanical equipment, but it cannot be done quickly and it cannot be done without losses.

Hunters Get Break

Postponement of gasoline rationing to December 1 means Michigan men fortunate enough to get time off from their labors will be able to hunt deer "as usual" the last two weeks in November. If the gasoline ban had become effective November 22 deer hunting after that date probably would have dried up to negligible volume. As it is, the nimrod who has enough ammunition for his rifle and enough rubber on his tires will be able to spend as much of the season in the woods as he desires and can go to his favorite hunting ground, wherever it may be.

Deer hunters are being asked to aid in the war effort this year by saving, for salvage, the fat and hides of bucks they bring down. The number of hunters in Michigan will be smaller than it was last year, but deer are plentiful and the kill may not be far under the 1942 figure. If so, hunters can help the Government materially by producing a considerable tonnage, in the aggregate, of much-needed fats and thousands of hides from which buckskin garments can be made. They will be paid a fair price for what they turn in and it is probable that most of them will comply with the appeal.

With the gasoline bugaboo eliminated, the red-coats need only a few inches of snow to give them about as near normal a season as they could hope for. They will have to make every round of ammunition count and it may not be possible to keep the camp coffee pot filled night and day, but otherwise there will be nothing to kick about.

Buy Those Gifts Now!

In all earnestness this year retail merchants appeal to the public to complete Christmas shopping this month and the person who pays no attention to this sound advice is in for sharp disappointment.

Shortage of materials long has been pinching factories in which Yule gifts are made. As store shelves are depleted of stocks of many kinds of merchandise, merchants find it impossible to get replacements. There will be no change in the situation, so it is certain that shopping negligence in November will result in a shortage of gifts under the family Christmas tree, come the night of December 24.

The wise buyer also will select, so far as possible, gifts of a quality that will serve the recipients a long time. In many cases they may be articles that cannot be replaced until the war is over. Merchants have done their best, under wartime handicaps, to prepare for the Christmas trade and at present their stocks are at a peak which probably will not be reached again until peace returns. November shoppers will be able to get a good selection and will find pretty much what they need, with the exception of scarce items. But it will be slim picking for the last-minute buyer.

The only sensible thing to do is buy now and give yourself a chance to get what you want before it is gone. Another good bit of advice is to mail your gifts earlier than ever before because holiday mail congestion this year undoubtedly will be unprecedented.

First Things in Taxes

It now seems to be generally agreed that the Treasury will not move for Congressional consideration of its proposed new $6,000,000,000 tax program until some time next March, after there has been opportunity to observe the effects of the $9,000,000,000 tax law recently enacted. But this should not mean that no further progress is to be made in the intervening months to prepare for needed improvements in our wartime financial program.

In the closing days of the recent tax debate it was apparent that Treasury officials and members of the Congressional tax committees were drawing closer to agreement on certain principles. One of these is the principle of compulsory savings, which the Treasury, after long reluctance, recognized, when it proposed its spending tax, to be inevitable. Another is the necessity of adopting some form of the "pay-as-you-go" plan for collecting taxes of the present magnitude.

Senator George, chairman of the Senate Finance committee, has now said that in his opinion any new tax program ought to be limited to these two principles, rather than directed toward another wholesale overhauling of the tax structure such as has taken place twice in the past twelve months.

There is good sense in this. It may be necessary later to undertake further broad revision of taxes; but compulsory savings and "pay-as-you-go" collections of income taxes have now become so clearly indicated as essential that they should have first place on the tax calendar and should be dealt with without the complications of another wholesale revision of our tax laws.

Contemporary Opinion

Kaiser on Competition

Henry J. Kaiser has reduced the man hours of labor constructing a 10,500-ton victory ship from 900,000 to 375,000. That's how the 10-day record was set. He expects to reduce the man hours to 300,000. And here is his most interesting and significant comment—that he doesn't expect to hold the record.

"I don't think we will be out in front very long," he says. "I certainly hope not. This is something America can do. It is America. That's what we live on—free competition, something we have on all our enemies. And that is how we will beat them. We constantly devise new means of producing with less work so we can produce more."

"For example, right now we have a cement plant producing five million barrels a year. We have every method and time saving device available and are constantly advancing. Even if Japan furnished labor free for a competitive plant we could still compete."

Stressing that costs are lowered in ratio to the competitive system's ability to reduce the man hours required for building a product, Kaiser warns of industry's tendency to depend on "help" from some one or from government, or protection, and he also warns of the deadening influence of monopoly.

Free play of the competitive system, unhampered by government subsidies on the one hand or monopolistic privilege on the other, is indeed the American way. And Kaiser, with his 10-day 10,000-tonners, is the living example of that.—New York World-Telegram.

Overworked Words

A Northern contemporary thinks that "treachery" and "sneak" should be dropped from use for the duration. Leaving out Pearl Harbor, it says, treachery does not explain why our airplanes were shot on the ground at Maela a little later, why Kiska was taken, or why American cruisers were caught under fire in the South Seas with their guncrews running to stations.

Too many "sneak raids" pop into our naval vocabulary. An enemy who sneaks up on you successfully does a very good job in warfare. Dieppe was a sneak raid. Forget about treachery and sneaking and talk about attacks.

We think our contemporary's point is well taken.—New Orleans Item.

Thirty Years Ago

(November 13, 1912)

Leo M. Geismar, representative of the extension department of Michigan Agricultural College, and the Rev. M. Jodocy, of St. John's church, have returned from a visit to St. Nicholas colony on the Escanaba river, six miles south of Maple Ridge and several miles west of the main line of the Northwestern railway, on a recently constructed 20-mile spur. Mr. Geismar made the visit for the purpose of examining soil conditions on a large tract of fertile land on which a colonization society of the Belgian and Holland priests of the United States have taken an option for settlement purposes. Twelve families have already located there. A large and substantial church is being constructed. Father Jodocy held services at the settlement last Sunday and 45 persons attended.

Stockholders of the Skandia Creamery company filed articles of association at the county clerk's office. Democrats of Marquette will meet tomorrow evening in the board room of the city hall for the purpose of effecting a permanent city organization, following the example of the Progressives. The club will look after interests of the party in all matters of politics.

Shpeming. Matt Loffberg and K. A. Ruona have returned from a hunting trip north of the city. August Suttinen and several other Shpeming men who were in camp with them are remaining a few days longer.

Mesdames M. M. Allen, W. H. Moulton and F. M. Sackler and Miss Kiefer will conduct a B-club social tomorrow afternoon in the Presbyterian church parlors.

The Katchmequic club will conduct a dancing party in the Anderson hall tomorrow night. Births recorded in the city yesterday were a son to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Dyer, 531 Cleveland avenue; a son to Mr. and Mrs. Al Watter, 321 South Second street, and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Phil Ekberg, 112 New York street.

About 30 members of the Roosevelt-Johnson club of Shpeming met and cleaned up work of the city committee. The club was disbanded, but was immediately reorganized under the name of the Progressive club. Stephen S. Collic, who was president of the Roosevelt-Johnson club, was unanimously elected president of the new organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Jarvi, of Catskill, N. Y., are the parents of a son, born yesterday. Mrs. Jarvi has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gronberg, 317 Third street, for the last three weeks.

Negaunee. The Volunteer mine on the Cascade range, owned and operated by a company of which Thomas F. Cole is one of the principal stockholders, will resume operations after having been idle since last June.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ollila, Case street, were given a surprise last evening, the occasion being the anniversary of their marriage. About 35 Negaunee and Shpeming persons were present.

With exception of a single outfielder, a complete line of star baseball players will spend the winter in Escanaba. Among them is Steiny Aronson, captain and third baseman of the Negaunee team.

Charles J. Harrison, mayor of Chicago; Emie Demmie, proprietor of the Hotel Bismarck; Oscar F. Mayer and two other Chicago men who have been hunting deer on Grand Island for a week, will depart for their home tomorrow, taking the evening Northwestern train at Little Lake. Joseph H. Winter is in camp with them.

Liquidating Vichy Policy

The tie between the United States and Vichy has been dissipated in the gun smoke over North Africa. Marshal Petain asserts that the honor of France, which has been repeatedly defaced by the Vichy government since its shameful inception at Bordeaux, bids him command Frenchmen to fire on those who come to set France free, and some Frenchmen have obeyed. Laval has informed the American Charge at Vichy that the old marshal has severed relations with the United States, and Vichy's Ambassador at Washington has been given his passports. One of the most controversial episodes in American diplomatic history has come to an end.

It is hardly possible that the controversy will quite vanish with its cause. Mr. Hull has stated bluntly that the principal objective of the State Department in regard to relations with France was to prepare for the present operations in the Mediterranean. Its success will be measured in American, British and French lives saved; in the co-operation given by the French in North Africa to the Allied cause; in the contribution of the American military intelligence service within North Africa to the Allied cause. The only yardstick—admittedly a crude one—is the British campaign in Syria, conducted without the aid of direct diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Vichy and under the handicap of a far more difficult military situation than prevails today, as well as the bitter aftermath of the fall of France.

The Irrevocable Pact

To balance all the various factors, military and political, at work in North Africa today is impossible now and will be extremely difficult in the future. Any war which is fought in any useful purpose in this war, any more than would an appraisal of all the diplomatic "ifs"—the untested possibilities of other courses than that which was followed by the United States might have done more in the tense days of military collapse of metropolitan France than accept the surrender as a fait accompli and exact pledges "every few hours" from the men who were surrendering. Perhaps from the outset the colonies might have been saved for France's fight. Perhaps early and forthright encouragement of General de Gaulle would have produced a more favorable political climate in North Africa than is now apparent. But all that is in the irrevocable pact; certainly the nation now has proof that the State Department worked steadfastly within the framework of its policy to salvage what it could for the cause of the United Nations.

Common Aim Achieved

Now that aspiration and policy are openly united; now that the United States has officially summoned all Frenchmen to rally to the cause of their national liberation, and has demonstrated its ability to aid, forcefully, in that cause, it would be well to wipe clean the slate of past disputes. The common aim of all Americans, the liquidation of the Vichy policy, has been achieved. The common hope, a true and fighting alliance with the France that fights, is in prospect. It can be based on a document to which all patriotic Americans and patriotic Frenchmen will alike subscribe—the moving address of President Roosevelt to the French people, Vichy is moribund—"Vive la France Eternelle!"—New York Herald Tribune.

Quotations

Unless the post-war world can operate within a new framework in which the last word rests with world law, a world law paramount to national sovereignty, the condition of the people will remain in the rut of chaos and anarchy.—Dr. Joseph F. Thorning of Mount St. Mary's College.

An Anniversary

November 15 this year is an anniversary of which wartime America can be proud. Seven years ago, on November 15, 1935, the government of the Philippine Commonwealth was inaugurated.

This was the near-climax of many years of friendship between the people of America and the people of the Philippines. The final climax will come, of course, after the Japanese are thrown out of the islands—and the independent Philippine Republic is established.

To the peoples of the world, who may wonder about the good faith of the United States in her pledge of worldwide freedom, this anniversary is an undebatable answer. Americans have not simply paid lip-service to President Roosevelt's Four Freedoms, or to the eight points of the Atlantic Charter. Long before either of these was proclaimed to the world, Americans had demonstrated their idea of the relationship between a powerful nation and a weaker one.

Early Troubles. The early years of America in the Philippines were troubled. But out of them there slowly grew a spirit of understanding. Over and over, American leaders assured the Filipinos that the United States did not look upon the Philippines as a colony peopled by an inferior race.

Rather, the American position was one of education and friendship. In 1916, the Jones Act promised Philippine independence as soon as that was practical. The promise was kept. In 1934, Congress passed the Tydings-McDuffie Act, which President Roosevelt signed. This Act provided that the people of the Philippines would have a democratic constitution, under which a temporary Commonwealth Government would be created, preparatory to the establishment of complete independence.

That is the story of American-Philippine cooperation. It is the story of heroism, their sacrifice, and for their continuing fight even today, as the guerrilla warriors carry on their secret struggle against the invaders from the mountains and the jungles of the islands. Because of the circumstances

Side Glances

"I wish you could figure some way to bring back all that young girl soda trade that went out the window when your handsome male predecessor went to war!"

Today In Washington

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Accent on North Africa just now may cause the public to ease up its pressure for action on the home front. While it is true that military and naval plans are being summated successfully a few months of preparations, there is still lack of a definite policy on these major questions:

- 1. Manpower supply and allocation.
2. Distribution of food.
3. Civilian supply of goods planned for military uses.

President Roosevelt has been giving some attention to the manpower question. A struggle seems to be going on for control as between selective service headquarters and the war manpower commission. This will be settled shortly.

As for food shortages and the need for some system of rationing certain scarce products, very little has been done thus far.

What of Civilian Goods?

The major weakness, however, lies in the failure of the Administration to develop a plan for the distribution of civilian goods. The Army and Navy have set their goals—they know approximately how many men they will need and, in general way, what materials will be needed for production of weapons and munitions. What is to be done with the balance of the goods?

It has not been determined what the civilian economy is to get out of the total supply. It is one thing to talk about removing the fat from the civilian economy structure, but it is quite another to ignore the situations in which there has already been a cut to the bone. How much shall be made available to repair our factories and plants? What shall be available for the health preservation services of the nation? What about the needs of the utilities and the railroads? All these instrumentalities of service to the civilian economy are waiting on the Government to tell them what they may expect for the months that lie ahead. It isn't a question of business-as-usual but whether some of these essential services are to survive or break down.

Manpower Muddle Forecast

Several weeks ago in these dispatches the coming of a manpower muddle was forecast, and we are unfortunately in the midst of a tangle on that question now. But the most serious breakdown we may encounter on the home front can come out of the lack of planning for the civilian economy.

The demoralization of the civilian economy not only can cause confusion, but it can actually impair the smooth operation of the war program. For there are certain necessities of life without which workers cannot get along and without which the production program itself may be injured.

Smiles

Modern Problem. Visitor (in defense plant)—"Look at that youngster, the one with the cropped hair, the cigaret and trousers on. It's hard to tell whether it's a boy or girl."

War Worker—"She's a girl and she's my daughter."

Visitor—"My dear sir, do forgive me. I would never have been so outspoken if I had known you were her father."

War Worker—"I'm not her father, I'm her mother."

Good News. When driving through the countryside, Hitler's car ran over and killed a small dog. Halting the car, der fuhrer sent his chauffeur to the farmhouse to express regret. The driver came back a few minutes later with a big package under his arm.

"The farmer was not angry," he assured der fuhrer. "What did you say to him?" insisted Hitler. "When I went to the door," the driver explained "I saluted and said, 'Heil Hitler—the dog is dead.' The farmer yelled 'Hoo-ray, and gave me a big ham.'"

New York Chats

By Charles B. Driscoll

NEW YORK—Thinking out loud: I wonder whether there is anybody left who puts so much faith in voodoo that he won't go outside his house on Friday the thirteenth. As far as I know, I've never noticed that either Friday or the thirteenth or any combination of the two made for ill luck, publicly or privately. . . . New York's birth rate has taken a tremendous wartime spurt. It began some time before Pearl Harbor. There is a long list in draft books of young men at present ineligible for service because little dependents arrived in their homes while the war clouds were gathering. . . . Five or six years from now, New York will be reopening a lot of kindergartens that were closed by the hard-times slump in births. . . . It no longer seems smart to speak French to waiters in New York restaurants. It used to be quite an affectation among the affecters. There are no restaurants here where the waiters don't understand English. Besides, more of them seem to bring on their feet more quickly if you spoke Greek or Italian to them.

I found Giovanni Martinielli in high spirits when I went to talk with him the other day. He was looking out the window of his suite in St. Moritz, where the rapidly wintering scene of Central Park, across the street.

His great head of bushy hair is now completely white.

Somehow, we found ourselves talking of spaghetti. I told him how I had hunted the town over for years in a search for spaghetti Bolognese, and had seldom found it. That's spaghetti with meat sauce, entirely devoid of tomato.

The great singer didn't seem to take a lot of interest in this quest. He likes his spaghetti with tomato or in the sauce. He also likes it with butter only, and finds this easier on his digestion than the heavily sauced spaghetti dishes.

"He doesn't smoke, and finds smoke so irritating to his throat that he makes it a point never to be near smokers when he is preparing for a concert or opera. If he visits at the home of a friend, it is understood beforehand that the host will see to it that nobody smokes while he is there. He eats in his apartment to avoid the smoke in restaurants, when he does not eat in a place where all smoking can be stopped upon his arriving."

He doesn't like flying, either. He flew once and caught a throat cold; never again.

His wife and two children are in Rome, Italy. They were caught there by outbreak of the war, and have been unable to get away.

"I hear through the courtesy of Vatican City that they are alive and well. No other word of them is possible. However, it is good to know that much, and I shall try to be satisfied with that until peace comes."

He overflowed with enthusiasm about the decree of our government which releases loyal American Italians from classification as enemy aliens, even though they be still Italian subjects.

Our wonder-working park commissioner, Robert Moses, has refused to accept any responsibility for junking the ugly metal statues that such lamentable eyesores in New York.

Moses has just been through two nerve-straining controversies, and he's dodging this one for the present, while he rests up with only five or six major jobs on his hands.

He won in the Battle of the Aquarium, and lost the Battle of Henry Street. He resigned the heavy scrap job when he couldn't get cooperation in Washington. But he's tearing down the Aquarium, in spite of the agonized protests of many societies that want it preserved as a relic.

Voodoo on the Screen

Newsreel theaters have recently been showing a short subject deal with palmistry, produced by Paramount Pictures. Contrary to what you might suppose, this motion picture accepts palmistry seriously as a reputable branch of science. Not only that, but it shows the palms of the chief Axis dictators and indicates that they are doomed, by the lines in their hands, to certain failure.

There is, of course, absolutely no scientific foundation for palmistry whatever. It is a piece of pure voodoo, on a plane with astrology, tea leaves, and crystal-ball gazing.

No reputable motion-picture company should ever take it seriously; but it is ten times worse to do so in the middle of a war, with the implied argument that we need not exert ourselves in order to win, since fate has already done the job. Paramount Pictures, which has produced many fine movies in the past, should be thoroughly ashamed of this one.—The New Republic.

Military Courtesy

One of our scouts has just panted in from San Francisco with the tale of a lady in uniform, a cable car and a colonel. He forgot to find out whether she was a WAAC, a WAF, or a WAVE, or a Red Cross worker. Anyway, she was in uniform and looked very nice indeed. The car was crowded. When the colonel boarded it, she stood up, smartly saluted, offered him her seat. He waved the offer down, saluted, bade her to remain seated. She insisted. He became embarrassed. Finally, both standing, glaring at each other, he roared, "Madam, I am making a silly ass of myself. Good day!" He saluted.

Justly Proud

BANKING, the one industry above all others which of necessity was the sober-sided partner in American progress, has rolled up its sleeves to fight this war all-out. The President recently recognized the unstinted war effort of the banks in a letter to the American Bankers Association.

"For over a year they (the banks) have met unprecedented demands from industry for the expansion and conversion necessary to win the battle of production," he wrote. "They have been in the forefront of the fight against inflation not only through the sale of savings bonds. . . . but by putting into effect restrictions on consumer credit and combating unnecessary expenditures of all kinds. They have been indispensable in the freeing of foreign funds to prevent their use directly or indirectly by the enemy. I mention all this in the past tense not because the job is done, but because even now it represents a record of accomplishment of which you all may be justly proud."

The battle has just begun. Tradition shattering events are taking place every day. The most that can be hoped for is the preservation of a framework upon which a better future for freedom and private enterprise can be built. The banker knows the American people are depending on him to save that framework—and he will do his utmost to save it. But he can't do it all. The people must help by keeping ever in mind the principles upon which this country's way of life has been built.—Michigan Manufacturer and Financial Record.

She saluted. He got off the car.—W. D. in Collier's.

Can't Tell How They Do It

I can't give you the recipe for my favorite Ozark cake. Only my mother can make it so that it has that "food fit for the gods" taste. It is a quick cake, baked in a shallow rectangular pan, and served in warm unfrosted big cubes from the baking pan at the table. The cake is known in the family as "dog cake." This came from a time long ago when my mother took one of these cakes hot, spicy and fragrant, from the oven and remarked disgustedly, "This cake isn't fit for a dog to eat!"

It was as true a word as she ever spoke. Even at its best the cake was indeed much too rich and hearty and starchy for a dog. And that day she had made it overrich, a quality that endeared it all the more to the family. Forever after, that type of cake has been known as "dog cake."

When I ask for the recipe my mother starts out, "Well, you take a dab of butter, and the cream that's left in the pitcher after breakfast—"And right then and there give up."

The dab of this and the pinch of that cooking method wouldn't get far with the modern generation of cooks. But this method, coupled with the need for using what one has on hand, has made culinary geniuses out of many Ozark housewives.—From "And Green Grass Grows All Around" by Marguerite Lvon.

Timber Men Meet Saturday In Iron River

Price ceilings on pulpwood, ties and lumber will be interpreted at a special meeting of the Timber Producers Association of Upper Michigan and Northern Wisconsin at the Iron Inn in Iron River tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 2. Modification of regulations relating to classification of woods workers by selective service boards also will be discussed. Special consideration is being given under the new rulings to key workers in woods and mill operations who are needed to maintain the present production capacity.

Arthur Upson, chief of the lumber products branch of the War Production Board, Washington, D. C., has called upon producers of forest products to "leave no stone unturned" in order to increase the output of logs, lumber and railroad ties.

To Attend Washington Session
A. O. Anderson, Michigan, president of the Timber Producers Association, will preside. After the meeting, he will go to Washington to attend a meeting of the hardwood advisory committee of the lumber branch of the WPB. The session will be held November 21.

Directors, officers and persons having special matters to take up with the association will meet at a noon luncheon tomorrow in the Iron Inn. After the general business meeting in the afternoon, a dinner meeting will be held, beginning at 6:30.

"It is obvious that the ceiling prices are fixed to encourage the production of certain products and to discourage production in lines in which the present demand is not acute," Lawrence P. Walsh, Ontonagon, secretary of the association, points out.

Second Child Dies Of Burns In Farm Home Fire

PORTLAND, Mich., Nov. 12—P—As the result of a farm home fire which took the life of his two-year-old brother last night, Jerry Ball, three, died in a hospital at Lansing this afternoon.

Another brother, Robert, 10, risked his life and suffered severe burns to bring Jerry from their burning farm home while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ball, were away. He was restrained from a second attempt to bring out his two-year-old brother, Duane, who was fatally burned. Richard, nine, and Betty Ruth, five, other members of the family, fled to safety.

Farmers May Be Unable To Meet Goals in 1943

EAST LANSING, Nov. 12—P—The Michigan farm bureau, meeting in its first wartime convention, asserted today that farmers would be unable to meet 1943 production goals "unless the necessity of capable, trained, experienced and able-bodied manpower is thoroughly understood by those in charge of national policies."

Opening a two-day session, approximately 500 delegates representing 17,500 farm families heard Clark L. Brody, executive secretary, declare that the nation's farmers have been unjustly described as a "selfish, grasping group" for fighting for what they consider to be fair prices for their produce.

"The farmer has not demanded cost-plus contracts with five-year amortization clauses, or a 40-hour week with time and a half for overtime and double time on Sunday," Brody asserted. "Many farmers have already been forced to take the road of abandoned or reduced production."

"Hundreds of auction sales, the sending of dairy cows and thin feeder cattle to the block, lack of labor to grow and harvest farm crops, depletion of farm machinery and equipment, and uncertainty of securing supplies are striking at the very vitals of American agriculture."

Manistiquie Man in Navy, But Army Paid His Fare

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12—(P)—Ovela G. Beaudry, 27, Manistiquie, Mich., is in the Navy now—but the Army paid his fare, all the way from Menominee, Mich., to Milwaukee.

Beaudry came here to take the final examination required of a prospective Army air cadet, and received a transportation allowance from Army recruiting officers. Then he met Ralph Reeter, 39, Madison, Wis., a Navy recruit, and Reeter sold him on the Navy.

Navy recruiting officers told Beaudry he was still a free agent in choosing the branch of the service he wished to join. They didn't say who would reimburse the Army Air Force for Beaudry's train ride.

U. M. To Hold Classes On New Year's Day

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 12—(P)—University of Michigan students will be required for the first time in years to attend classes on New Year's day of 1943.

The board of regents today announced the vacation dates would extend from December 18-30. The move was designed to ease the rush of holiday traffic on public transportation systems. Christmas vacation usually begins a few days later than the new date and continues until after January 1.

LET US MAKE THIS A GOOD CHRISTMAS

Our chain of joyous, untroubled Christmases is broken. This Christmas will be different . . . but we can still make it a good one.

All that Christmas means to us is in peril today. The peace and good-will, the warmth and cheer, the joyous gathering of family and friends . . . all these may be lost to us unless we dedicate ourselves wholly to the task of winning the war.

We must, with valiance and courage, preserve our Christmas spirit, so it will shine out for all the world to see. This Christmas, of all we have ever known, must be a good Christmas.

Red Safest Color For Deer Hunters

By F. M. HALLER
(In Grand Rapids Press)

The novice deer hunter has fitting examples of the hunting clothing he needs furnished him by almost every hunter and sporting goods store and fortunately they're red. The old argument that deer can see red better doesn't stand up. A deer's eyes, useful at night are poor in daytime for shape, size or color. He can distinguish motion quickly but outside of that his eyes are of little value to him.

This was demonstrated to me on the occasion of bringing down my last buck. He was old and wise. I heard him approaching from the north, slipped the safety off my gun carefully so it would not click and faced that direction. The next second I looked out of the tail of my eye to the northeast and there he stood about 60 yards away, looking straight at me with ears and nostrils extended.

One move upon my part and he would have changed ends and been off for parts remote and I would have had to try a snap shot with the usual result. Instead, I froze and remained motionless. I had no cover of any kind and was wearing the conventional red.

I gave him full opportunity to look me over or at least do all the looking he wanted in my direction. After satisfying himself that he was looking at nothing to be afraid of he turned his head away and started southeast. All the advantage was with me then and a quiet, deliberate turn and head on his shoulder brought him down in his tracks.

Green Is Dangerous

In recent years I have seen several suits of green and black checks in the deer woods. They surely look natty but they melt into the surroundings and do not serve proper notice of your presence on other hunters.

Of all the abominations of the deer woods none is as bad as a human wearing something that may look like game. He's foolish to the extreme and unfair to himself and his fellow hunter. He accounts for most of the accidental shootings in the deer country.

I can well remember an approach to such an accident on Buck creek several years ago. I left camp at "noon-day" and in the gray mist of dawn I saw across the valley a brown movement. Jackpine limbs turned upward and inward after the fashion of deer horns and made the illusion almost complete.

A Close Call

The safety went off my gun. It came to my shoulder and I lined up the sights. What stopped me is more than I can tell but extreme caution lowered the gun and I approached slowly for a better look. There was a man dressed in a drab overcoat without a stitch of other color.

I was frantic and I hope the excited lecture I gave him did him some good. At first he seemed to resent it, but when I made him understand how dangerous a close he had come to stopping a 30-06 slug he took off the coat and turned it wrongside out.

I've often wondered why the makers of rubber boots don't give us red ones for the deer season. Not reddish-brown but red, the bright vermilion shade we buy for our kids. Out of Rosemount county a few years ago came this story:

A hunter was dressed in red completely except for a pair of grayish-black, 16-inch laced boots. Perhaps as he stood or walked in the brush only the boots showed. At any event a careless hunter with a shotgun filled his lower legs full of buckshot at less than 50 yards. His excuse was that he thought he was shooting at a porcupine.

Clothe yourself warmly and above all have it red, nothing but red from head to toe if possible.

Ward's Toy Department A 'Children's Paradise'

Despite the war, which has curtailed production of many adult luxuries, young America will not be denied the customary Christmas toys without which the holiday season would be incomplete.

Evidence of this is provided by a visit to the toy department in the basement of the Montgomery Ward store on Washington street. Finishing touches in the colorful and Artful department in the south section of the basement were being applied yesterday.

The powers-that-be apparently decided children should have a gay Christmas, regardless of the war, and parents will attest to the fact it was a wise decision that will better the morale of the entire country.

Ward's have a complete line of toys for boys and girls of all ages and tastes. The war theme is reflected in young "service" uniforms for both boys and girls, but the emphasis is on the wide variety of customary Christmas toys, games, dolls, sleds, electric trains, tricycles, go-carts, scooters and other items that appeal to all youngsters.

Food Stamp Plan Useful In Wartime

Although surplus food is extinct in wartime, and the food stamp plan of the Agricultural Marketing Administration is no longer a vehicle for saving surplus foods from waste, it still remains an efficient way of supplying food to the needy.

William O. Tulloch, AMA area supervisor stated yesterday.

Persons benefited by the additional purchasing power given by the use of food stamps are mainly unemployables, such as the aged and children.

In October, 11,450 persons in the Upper Peninsula participated in the program. During the month, about $72,000 worth of orange food stamps were purchased, or given relief families, which entitled them to an additional $36,000 in blue stamps representing federal funds.

With the higher cost of living today, these stamps enable needy families to stretch their food dollar to meet this increase.

High Production

Although foods available are no longer the "surplus" type, since even the country's two-year supplies of wheat has its potential consumers, they are foods which are comparatively plentiful in wartime and have a high production rate. For instance, the November blue food stamp list contains fresh vegetables, eggs, apples and flour.

The plan continues to aid the farmer by the purchase of perishable stocks for local distribution, thus freeing more transportation and storage facilities for the war effort. The plan will endure in wartime, Tulloch believed, because it has been proved an efficient way of providing food for school children and adult needy.

Parole Board Releases Slot Machine Operator

LANSING, Nov. 12.—P—Harry Kivlin, Detroit slot machine operator serving a term of two to five years in prison for conspiracy to obstruct justice, was ordered released today by the state parole board.

Kivlin, who accepted sentence without appeal after he had been convicted in connection with Judge Homer Ferguson's recent grand jury investigation of graft in Detroit and Wayne county politics, was sentenced May 14, 1941. He was convicted of having paid bribes to the then Sheriff Thomas Wilcox, of Wayne county, for "protection." He has served the minimum term, less allowances for good conduct.

British army men call the German launch-terpedo boat an "E-boat," with the "E" meaning enemy.

OPA Office Moved To Iron Mountain

Effective tomorrow, the Upper Peninsula headquarters of the Office of Price Administration will be transferred from the Kaufman building, Marquette, to 101 1-2 East Ludington street, Iron Mountain, it was announced yesterday by Edward Dundon, district manager.

Dundon said that copies of maximum price regulations are available at the office of the Marquette county rationing board in Donckers building.

"Requests for interpretations of price regulations must be made through the district office, which hereafter will be located in Iron Mountain," Dundon said. "Enforcement procedure is handled by the district office but complaints of violations of price regulations and rationing orders may be made to the county rationing board. They will be forwarded to the district office."

Canada's production of flax in 1941 was approximately 66 1-2 billion bushels.

It is estimated that the American public will spend $2,389,000,000 for recreation this year, an increase of 22.6 per cent compared with 1941.

Deer Hunting Prospects In U. P. Good

LANSING, Nov. 12.—If present weather conditions continue, prospects for the opening of Michigan's deer hunting season Sunday will be "excellent," the state conservation department predicted today.

The department, in its weekly hunting survey, said snowfall has been general in northern Michigan and should provide good tracking of a substantial deer population. Many areas report heavy volume of reservations for hunters, it was said.

Archers Kill 11 Deer
Archers have taken 11 deer, eight of them in Allegan county, in the current bow-and-arrow season, the department said. Late flights of northern ducks have improved waterfowl shooting in some areas, the report said, while interest in rabbit hunting has perked with advent of cold weather.

The deer season ends November 30, and the duck season closes December 4.

Reports by districts:
Gogebic-Ontonagon—Deer supply plentiful and hunting conditions range from good to very good. Duck hunting is declining rapidly and most northern flights are gone. Rabbit hunting is very good in Ironwood, Ontonagon and Rockland areas.

Houghton-Baraga—Deer show a marked increase over the past two years in the Baraga district and prospects appear excellent. Duck hunting has slumped, while rabbit hunting ranges from fair to good in most sectors.

Deer Hunting Outlook Good
Marquette-Alger—A light blanket of snow throughout the district promises good deer hunting. Rabbit and duck hunting is fair.

Iron-Dickinson—Deer prospects very good throughout the district. Several groups of Lower Peninsula hunters already have arrived for the season opening. Colder weather er and snow have improved rabbit and duck hunting.

Menominee-Delta—Deer reported plentiful throughout district. A number of bag limits reported by rabbit hunters, while duck flights continue to be fair.

Luce-Chippewa—Excellent prospects for the deer season opening. Two deer bagged by archers. Rabbit hunting is good. Very few flight ducks remaining.

PLACED ON PROBATION
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 12.—Ernest M. Leach, 40, Bridgeport, Conn., charged with representing himself at Bontor Harbor as a Federal officer, was given a six-month suspended sentence and placed on probation for three years when he appeared in Federal court here today. A sentence of imprisonment for one year and three months and a fine of $100 was given Ruth Thomas, 37, Muskegon Heights, on a charge of selling liquor at retail without a Federal internal revenue license.

An American heavy tank costs approximately $75,000.

Traffic on Michigan Roads Continues To Drop

LANSING, Nov. 12.—The state highway department today released a report indicating a further shrinkage in the volume of travel on Michigan highways, in relation to traffic a year ago.

The report said figures compiled at 22 strategically located counting stations on Trunk line roads indicated the traffic flow was 27.5 per cent smaller in October than in October a year ago. The September flow was 23.5 per cent smaller than in the preceding September.

Sharpest reduction was noted on US-112 near Jonesville, a drop of 55.2 per cent from October, 1941, a road construction project possibly being a factor in the drop. The traffic burden was down 46.3 per cent on US-31 near Elks Rapids, and down 43.4 per cent on US-27 near Wolverine. Smallest decline was on US-31 north of Muskegon, a reduction of 5.5 per cent.

The first oranges in England were brought from Spain in 1290.

Directors Meet Tonight
"We are deeply grateful to sector and air raid wardens for their invaluable assistance in organizing and conducting the elections," said E. E. Jacques, city chairman of the war neighborhood clubs. "We also want to express our appreciation to the board of education and Superintendent of Schools Willard Whitman for the use of school room space to carry out our program."

District directors will meet with zone directors and the chairman of the war neighborhood clubs in Room 202, Gravenet high school, this evening at 7:30 to make preliminary plans for further organization of the club setup and to become acquainted with the general plans of procedure.

All chairmen of war services, other than protective services, are invited to attend this meeting.

MULBAR APPOINTED

EAST LANSING, Nov. 12.—P.—State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander today announced Captain Harold Mulbar, superintendent of the state police detective and identification bureau, has been appointed state vice-president of the International Association for Identification.

Obituary

Mrs. L. W. Howe

Mrs. Evelyn Ann Howe, 35 years of age, died in her home at 431 East Ridge street, at 6:20 yesterday afternoon following an illness of eight years.

Mrs. Howe, wife of Dr. L. W. Howe, was born in Lake Linden October 4, 1907, and had resided in Marquette for 17 years. She was a graduate of St. Luke's training school of nursing. She was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

In addition to her husband she leaves a son, Dan Oxford Howe, 10 years old, and her father, Ernest White, Marquette.

The body was taken to Swanson's funeral home, where it will remain until the time of funeral services, which will be conducted Saturday in the Morgan Memorial chapel. The Rev. John Carlton, pastor of St. Paul's church, will officiate and burial will be made in Park cemetery.

John Baranski

John Baranski, 63 years of age, died early yesterday morning in St. Mary's hospital, where he had been a patient for four days. He had resided in the Northwestern hotel on West Washington street.

The body was taken to Fassbender's funeral home. Funeral arrangements have not been made, pending word from a sister who lives in Detroit.

Mrs. Agnes Hynes

Funeral services for Mrs. Agnes Hynes will be held at 9 this morning in St. Peter's cathedral, with burial following in Holy Cross cemetery. Pall bearers will be John Mahoney, William Dooley, Emmett Dwyer, Martin Flanigan, Fred Donckers and Francis Stenglein.

Michigan Students Doing Part in War Activities

LANSING, Nov. 12.—P.—Michigan's schools are not committed to any set Federal program of war activity, beyond the obligation to do their part to the best of their ability, Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, asserted today.

Dr. Elliott has conferred with Dr. John Lund, senior specialist of the U. S. Office of Education, relative to the "victory corps" plan of that Federal agency designed to gear wartime activities of schools to a plan charted in Washington. The superintendent told Lund he would not require schools of this state to abandon the "war council" and other student war plans already started, in favor of the "victory corps" program proposed by Washington. The latter would award awards to the students to identify their role in the plan. Lund assured Dr. Elliott that Michigan is doing its part and lauded the work of students in aiding farmers harvest their crops in a period of labor shortage.

Reports of Oil Burning In State Denied

LANSING, Nov. 12.—P.—P. J. Hoffmaster, state conservation director and state supervisor of wells, today declared rumors that Michigan refiners have burned large quantities of gasoline for lack of a market are without foundation.

Hoffmaster said he was concerned because the reports came from some "reputable sources" and were not confined to "just idle gossip."

F. R. Frye, state petroleum engineer, concurred in Hoffmaster's statement, but cautioned that "if refiners can't make sufficient adjustments to gasoline rationing they may have trouble disposing of their gasoline production and then we don't know what will happen."

Frye described the Michigan refining industry as producing less gasoline than the national average, and making more fuel oil. He said it has been urged to emphasize fuel oil production.

While there has been some discussion of returning gasoline to underground structures for storage, he continued, no actual plans to do this have come to his attention in Michigan, although the practice is employed in the middle east. He added few Michigan refineries are close enough to suitable areas for underground storage, and that he believed it might be difficult to obtain enough steel to carry out such a project.

Total industrial production in the United States during the fiscal year 1943 will doubt that of the average for 1935-39.

Danger of Epidemic In Chippewa County

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 12.—P.—There is danger of an epidemic in Chippewa county in the vicinity of Fort Brady unless health and sanitary conditions are improved there, Morton Hilbert, sanitary engineer of the county, warned at the 22nd annual conference of the Michigan Public Health association today.

Hilbert asserted that concentration of workers on defense projects in the area emphasized a lack of sanitary facilities and improper inspection of foods. He said many workers are occupying summer resort properties unsuited for winter residence, and added that others were living in tents and trailers without adequate sanitation.

Miss Emilie G. Sargent, Detroit, was elected president of the association, and E. D. Rich, Lansing, was chosen president-elect. Others named were Dr. C. D. Barrett, director of the Ingham county health department, vice-president, and Marjorie Delavan, director of the state health department's bureau of education, secretary-treasurer.

School Board And Graveract Band Are Taken Off Union's 'Unfair List'

Are You Unduly Sensitive About 'Brain Child'?

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

Every now and then one has the cheering experience of encountering a parent who thinks the world and all of the children, but retains the ability, to a practicable degree, of seeing his child as other persons might see him.

Being a good parent, he loves the child no matter how badly the youngster may misbehave, and will stand by him, but in doing so he does not give the child the impression: "Because you are my child you can do anything you please and I'll see that you are not penalized in any way."

Knows There Is Standard
The youngster, who has such a parent, is most fortunate for the child has the needed sense of security and protection, and yet he knows that his misbehavior will not be condoned and overlooked, that he will have to do something about improving.

And then there is the other kind of a parent, who may have a child who will beat up children smaller than himself, with or without provocation; who will be impudent to all adults when he chances to feel so inclined; who will cheat in a game, always demand more than his rights—and will be upheld in everything he does by his parents.

Those parents will blame any other child or adult. Their youngster is never in the wrong. They are so keen for their offspring that they see him wearing a pink halo even while he is pinching or slapping some child. Their primitive and intense love for the youngster makes them develop a "blind spot." They can see him only as their beloved child and not as he looks to other persons.

Makes For Trouble
Their attitude in some ways makes life easy for the child during childhood, but it is a poor preparation for a healthy and constructive adult life. And naturally, because the parental attitude is such an abnormal and stupid one, the youngster and mamma and papa manage to be in quite a turmoil most of the time in their relation to other families.

A great many of us can see the idiosyncrasy of such an attitude, but won't recognize the fact that a lot of us have just as definite "blind spots" about our ideas, our "brain children."

Once let any one hold an opinion different from some pet opinion and we take it as a personal affront. Having once enunciated a thought, there are a lot of us who can't bear any dissent.

Is Way Of Progress
Yet we'd make precious little progress if every one agreed with all others all the time. We go forward by discussing, discarding, and accepting opinions which are our own or handed out by some other person.

We are lucky if we can, in expressing a thought, hearing disagreement with it, stand off and view it as though it were some other person's "brain child."

As the war goes along, most of us tend to become a tiny bit itchy emotionally. The worry about paying the income tax, the need for balancing the budget, despite the rising food costs and necessary contributions to war effort; the possible apprehension about disruption of the family because father or sons may be called into the service; the unconsciously nagging worry about the welfare of relatives or friends in the armed forces—all these elements tend to make us a bit more irritable, quite decidedly more touchy, and with emotions somewhat hair-trigger in quality.

No doubt there will likely be even more such tension before this war is ended. It's nothing new or unexpected, but a usual accompaniment of war. But it is good sense to be aware of such reactions and not to coddle them. That's especially true, in the instance of those who belong to clubs and lodges and are engaged in war work on various committees.

The Right To Express
If we happen to voice an opinion which is opposed to that of all other persons, assuredly the dissenters have a right to differ, to disagree determinedly, or to criticize. 'Tis a free country in which a man has a right to think and say what he thinks when he gets no further out of bounds than to express a dissenting opinion from yours or mine.

And in the ordinary course of events there is no reason for any of us to look upon the other fellow's criticism as a direct personal slap, nor as an attempt to do a bit of private knifing.

Not that I don't agree that, in criticism, there is sometimes criticism of the person, who expressed the idea, as well as of the idea. In pretending to criticize an opinion expressed, the criticism may veil a direct attack upon the individual.

Can Remain Good Friends
But grant that might be so sometimes, it isn't ordinarily the case. I have disagreed with my best friends, sometimes, as no doubt you have, which does not at all mean that those with dissenting opinions cannot remain good friends; not, that is, if they have the ability to engage in a discussion and think in terms of the subject discussed and not personalities.

And even when persons may dissent and criticize one's point of view it may be well to remember the pertinent observation made by Pope: "Get your enemies to read your works in order to mend them; for your friend is so much your second self that he will judge too much like you."

There is another angle accentuated once upon a time by a little-known

Supper Party—Members of the Marquette Women's Bowling League are reminded that the supper and costume party will be held at 6:30 tomorrow night in the private dining room in the Northland. Those who do not appear in costume will have to pay a penalty. All members are asked to report to Mrs. Earl Hansen on the quilt sale on or before Saturday night.

Scrap Dance Tonight—The Graveract high school students invite all pupils of the John D. Pierce and Baraga high schools to attend the scrap dance to be held from 8 o'clock to 11 in the Sidney Adams gymnasium. Guests from the other two high schools are reminded to bring identification slips signed by the respective principals. The admission fee is 15 pounds of scrap metal or 15 cents. In addition to the prize of $2 in war stamps to be awarded, there comes announcement that there will also be the presentation of the following prizes tonight: 3 (six-bottle) cartons of pop, six lines of bowling (three at each alley), two theater books, and three trade-in slips at the concessions tonight in the gym. Obviously the Graveract high school student body plans to have fun, but to contribute to war effort, too, by salvaging a lot of scrap.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Armistice Day Program

The Auxiliary of the Richard M. Jopling Post, No. 44, American Legion, entertained husbands of members, and Legionnaires, at an Armistice and Marine Day program and party held in the Federated Women's club Wednesday night. Seventy-five were present.

The evening's program opened with the advance of the American flag and the Legion colors, followed by the assembly playing Allegiance to the Flag, and standing in silent tribute to the memory of departed members.

Past Commanders Spoke
The national anthem was sung and Mrs. Agnes Graham, program and music chairman, read the proclamation of Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner, proclaiming November 10 as "Marine Corps Day" in Michigan. After which the following program was presented: Reading—"For Vets Who Are Now in the Grandfather's Draft" by Mrs. Jane Kelley.

Paid Tribute to Armed Forces
Arthur Primeau in his talk noted the program memorialized the 167th anniversary of the Marines and the twenty-fourth of Armistice Day. He commented on the work of the men in the Marines, Navy, Army and Air Corps in World War II and said: "We have a right to be proud of them, and further, the Legion should be proud of its Auxiliary, although sometimes I do think we do forget them, but the Auxiliary never forgets the Legion. 'Seeming default contains the substance of new achievements' and I do hope that now, that we shall have a meeting place in the old Mathews home, it will be an inspiration for all Auxiliary members and Legionnaires, to put their efforts into a membership campaign."

Mrs. Helen G. Vierling was the only Marine mother of World War I, her son, Lt. Martin Vierling, having served three years with the corps. Two Marine mothers of World War II participated in the program, Mrs. Charles Bur, the guest soloist, whose son Rich is somewhere in the South Sea islands; and Mrs. Agnes Graham, whose son, William, is serving with the Marines in San Diego, California.

After the program, cribbage, bridge and "500" were played. Mrs. Mary Boucher, Mrs. Myrtle Bashaw and Mrs. Lucille Pawriter which bears remembering: "Criticism is the child and handmaid of reflection. It works by censure, and censure implies a standard."

So during this period when legitimately there should be plenty reflection and criticism on many important issues, critics might well expect, and be able to take, outspoken and dissenting opinion.

Lyceum Course Talent Will Be Obtained

Here is information that will be read with delight by parents of children in the public schools, school administrators, teachers, townfolk and members of the musicians union.

Yesterday, W. M. Whitman, superintendent of schools, received the following telegram signed by James C. Petrillo, of the national Musicians' union:

"Board of education, Graveract high school band removed from national unfair list. This as per agreement reached among you, our traveling representative, and Local 218."

Taken Off Unfair List
Last Saturday the traveling representative, with groups referred to in the telegram, met in conference, existing difficulties were solved and the band taken off the unfair list.

Certainly all will breathe a sigh of relief for it has not been pleasant to be aware of an undercurrent of ill-feeling and distrust which has developed among our townfolk. There is no reason and no excuse for carrying on any kind of war of intolerant opinions on the home front when we have all too much war on the battle front.

Steps will be taken immediately to engage talent for the lyceum course which most of us feel is needed more than it ever has been needed. There is a real contribution to be made to public morale by hearing fine concerts, listening to good lectures. They will for a few hours take peoples' minds off the sordid and brutal.

Lyceum Course Will Be Given
It may take a little while to produce the entertainments of a standard maintained in past years, but there will be a lyceum course which will make a lot of folk cheer. There is something cheering and heartwarming about the information conveyed in that telegram from the national Musicians' union.

A.A.U.W. Hears Talks Anent Consumer Topics

Mrs. B. H. DeVoe, tracing the development of the consumer movement over a 50-year period, in her talk at the meeting of the Marquette county branch of the American Association of University Women, noted that, in the early part of the period, people had consumer problems even though they may not have recognized them as such.

The speaker said they were for the most part problems of home production. As the concentration of population increased, labor became more specialized, more people were involved, a wider variety of products were developed, in varying quantities, buying problems became more complicated, and the home less self-sufficient. Homemakers are becoming increasingly aware of the need to know more about consumer problems and are learning to help themselves secure the needed information.

The meeting was held in the home of Miss Martha Mehnert with Mrs. Ruby Richey as the assisting hostess. The latter also participated in the program discussing recent trends in consumer education.

Concerns All People
She reminded that consumer education, like all education, should begin in the early years, and that it is a subject of vital importance to all people; that a large proportion of one's income and time are spent in securing food, shelter and clothing.

Mrs. Richey accentuated the importance of budgeting that one may know where to direct the dollars to be expended. She advocated being critical of one's purchases; of the care, repair, and proper use of commodities, and said that consumer education tends to help

Howard Junior High PTA Unit Sponsors School 'Visiting Day' For Parents Monday Afternoon

The Howard junior high school unit of the PTA will not hold its regular meeting Monday night, but, instead, will sponsor something equally, or more important, a go-to-school afternoon for the parents. Or possibly it sounds more like the pleasant thing it will be to call it a "visiting day."

All parents of pupils of the junior high school are asked to go to the school in time to visit the classes for the last two periods. If they are at the class room at 2:20 Monday afternoon, that will permit them to attend two classes.

Parents are asked to query the children as to which classes they will be attending at the 2:20 and the following hour, so they might know in which room to find the youngsters. However, if parents are especially interested in some other class, and would rather visit that one than the ones in which their children are at those hours, they, of course, have the privilege of doing so.

Recognizes Education Week
This "visiting school" afternoon is really the junior high PTA unit's recognition of American Education Week which is being observed this week. However, because of Armistice Day and other activities, it was decided to hold the special afternoon open house this coming Monday.

It is quite a few years since most parents, of children of junior high school age, were in those grades themselves. During those years there have been many changes in the way subjects are taught, the illustrative material used, even some of the subject matter.

Doubtless, as parents have looked at the children's textbooks and heard the youngsters' talk, many a mother or father has thought: "I'd like to attend a class; hear and see what goes on, how the lessons are presented, what the children get out of it."

But most parents are a bit shy about going to visit school alone, or with just a friend or two. But there will be dozens of mothers and fathers at Howard Junior high school

Biographical Sermon Series Begins Sunday

Beginning Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service, the Rev. Herbert J. Bryce, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will preach the first in a series of seven biographical sermons.

The following are the titles for the first sermon and those to be given on the six ensuing Sundays: "Cain, the Natural Man," "David, the Man After God's Own Heart," "Job, the Man Who Made Satan Quit," "Joshua, the Man After Whom Jesus Was Named," "Jeremiah, the Man Who Was Strong and Tender," "Nehemiah, the Man Who Preferred to be Right Than Popular," "Jeroboam, the Man Who Caused Others to Sin."

Interested persons are invited to attend the services.

make life easier by helping us to know what we need. The speaker noted a recent trend toward decentralization of population, more gardening, and more home production.

The American Association of University Women has been active in the consumer movement for a number of years.

Following the program, lunch was served.

Monday afternoon, and it is the perfect opportunity for parents to satisfy their natural curiosity about the schools, and not feel odd about doing so.

Teachers Are Welcoming
The teachers, of course, are perfectly aware of the fact that it is a great deal easier to do good teaching, that there is more co-operation between school and home when parents really know what is going on in school, and they are eager to have the mother or father, or both parents, of every child in junior high school visiting school Monday afternoon.

A bulletin will be placed in the hall so parents may know in which rooms classes are being held, and there will be pupils stationed to direct parents to the various rooms.

After school is dismissed, the visiting parents are invited to stop in at the sewing room to have a cup of tea and talk with other parents and the teachers. So, no matter what club or group meets Monday afternoon, absent yourself from the meeting long enough to visit school. The idea is a good one. It has the full support of the teachers and deserved 100 per cent attendance of parents, doesn't it?

Weddings

Lauri-Storstrang
Mrs. Herman Ferval, 1612 Presque Isle avenue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Elsie Storstrang, to Ensign T. J. Lauri, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lauri, of Rock, at 2 Wednesday afternoon in St. Mark's Lutheran church, the Rev. Arnold Stadius officiating. This was the first wedding in the new church.

The couple was attended by Miss Eini Hakala and Ensign Albert Nurkala, of Nestoria.

The bride wore a floor-length brocaded white satin dress and a blusher veil held in place by a tiara of yellow chrysanthemums, Talsman roses and yellow chrysanthemum formed her arm bouquet.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the bride's home. White cathedral candles provided the lighting for the table which had as its centerpiece the tiered wedding cake with the traditional decoration.

The bride, who is a graduate of the John D. Pierce high school, attended the Northern Michigan College of Education and is now employed in the office of the treasurer of Marquette county.

The groom is a graduate of Rock high school and of the Northern Michigan College of Education where he received his CPT training under Sig Wilson. He was a member of Tri Mu fraternity. He received his "Wings," on November 6, in the U. S. Naval Reserve Air Force at Corpus Christi, Texas. He and his best man are members of the Upper Peninsula Wildcat Squad.

Ensign and Mrs. Lauri left on a short honeymoon and the groom leaves November 29 for Norfolk, Va., where he will be stationed.

The bride was guest of honor at a prenuptial shower at which the girls employed at the court house entertained, and two at which Miss Eileen Jeanson and Miss Eini Hakala were the hostesses.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lauri, and Mr.

Elks Invite You To Party For VNA Milk Fund

The Marquette Elks, for some 12 years, have annually conducted a public game party for the purpose of raising a sizable fund to contribute to the Visiting Nurse association's milk fund project. The men of the lodge have looked upon this as one of their outstanding welfare projects. This year it is scheduled for November 21.

On that Saturday night, the Elks hope there will be an even larger than usual attendance so the always generous contribution may be a large one, since during the war years there should be special effort to keep all important projects functioning.

The Visiting Nurse Association, through money received from the Elks, the Community Chest, the Intercollegiate ball, and individuals, provides milk daily for undernourished children in seven different schools.

Are Chosen According to Need
The children to receive the milk are selected by Dr. C. P. Drury, the health officer; Miss Hilda Carlson, the school nurse, and Miss Lily Olson, of the Visiting Nurse association. The youngsters are ordinarily five or more pounds underweight.

The past year a child, for whom milk was provided, was 18 pounds below normal weight, and six other children were 10 pounds underweight.

In the history and physical examination of many of the children there was plenty of evidence to indicate the importance of seeing that they received special nourishment. For instance, more than six children came from families in which there had been a history of tuberculosis. Obviously as a preventive measure, they need such additional protective foods as milk.

That is true, too, of several of the children whose teeth show a dietary deficiency. Other children were given milk daily because they were below par physically as a result of pneumonia, whooping cough or some other debilitating illness.

Need Protective Food
Naturally the time of the greatest need for protective food is during the winter when there is a greater tendency to respiratory disorders and when there is less sunshine.

From January to May, 1942, the VNA distributed milk daily to 142 children at a cost of $743.57.

Some folk, thinking of how fine and Mrs. Walter Selin, of Rock, and Mr. and Mrs. George Purto, of Ishpeming.

icky their children are sometimes about drinking milk may ask: "But will those children drink the milk when it is provided?"

The teachers provide the best answer to that query. They tell how the youngsters are quick to observe if a child, who ordinarily is given milk, is absent. They clamor for that extra and unclaimed milk.

The Elks' party always makes a sizable contribution which makes it possible to carry on the milk fund work successfully year after year. To give the party, men of the lodge devote much time and effort to making arrangements and producing prizes, but they have been uniformly eager and willing to do the work for they know the good accomplished by that daily distribution of milk.

However, the success of the party depends not only on the work the Elks put into this annual event, but on the patronage of the public, so circle on your calendar a week from tomorrow night for attendance at the Elks hall.

What's more folk who go to the party not only have the assurance that their attendance is helping in a most important project, but the folk have much fun for themselves. So don't make any other engagement for November 21.

The officers of the Visiting Nurse association are: President, Mrs. W. F. Morgan; 1st vice-president, Mrs. L. O. Gant; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. M. Sherwood; secretary, Mrs. John Walsh; treasurer, Mrs. C. A. Brennan; chairman of supplies, Mrs. E. Day; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. P. Chamberlain.

More Marquette Folk Help Fur Salvage Drive

The cold weather sent folk scurrying to their trunks in the attic looking for fur jackets, coats, rugs, any fur, with a good strong skin, that could be salvaged to make fur jackets for the men of the armed forces who will be in need of such protective clothing when standing watch this winter. As previously announced 800 such jackets are requested by the Great Lakes force alone.

The response has been so generous that L. P. Schuster is going to send out the first shipment of furs within the next few days to make more room for those to be brought in by donors next week.

So if you have any furs which you can contribute you might well bring them to the Schuster shop, Hartow block, today or tomorrow, so they will be included in the shipment the first of the week.

Certainly there are a great many more pieces of serviceable furs than can be salvaged in Marquette so please do give the subject your attention immediately.

In addition to the donors (previously announced) of the 40 different kinds of fur articles contributed, the following have since brought in some more fur coat jackets, muffs, boots and so on: Mrs. N. G. DeHaas, Mrs. E. M. Bureau, Mrs. R. Samuelson, Mrs. Robert McAdams, Mrs. George Rublein, Miss Josie Cox, Mrs. Lee Carter, Mrs. D. M. Begole, Mrs. James V. Graham, H. E. Perkins, and Mrs. Gus Quinn.

Just received! Stunning berets of felt and fabric in Black, Brown, Red, Kelly, Blue, Gold, Aqua, Rose, Turf, Wine, Beige and Toffee.

Record-Breaking Crowd Of 57,168 To See Michigan-Notre Dame Tilt

Big Game Of Season For Both Coaches

By Charles Dunkley

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 12.—A South Bend, Ind., Nov. 12.—A record-breaking crowd of 57,168—the fifth sellout since Notre Dame's stadium was built in 1930.

Taught Irish Grid Sport

The renewal of gridiron relations between Michigan's Wolverines and the "fighting Irish," broken off in 1910 due to an eligibility dispute, presents a perfect No. 1 attraction for both teams. The contest is particularly attractive because Michigan introduced football to Notre Dame 55 years ago. The Wolverines are the only team in the Big Ten holding a margin of 8 to 1 victories over Notre Dame.

The game is the one the rival coaches would like to win, above all others, if a choice could be made. Coach Fritz Crisler, of the Wolverines, and his assistants are teaching the strategy that has been decided upon after careful observation of all previous Notre Dame games. Frank Leahy, of the Irish, and his aides are setting up a defense for the "Wolverines" attack and planning their own assault to strike wherever Michigan reveals weakness.

Crisler hopes to devise defensive moves that will bottle up Notre Dame's superb passer, Angelo Bertelli.

Leahy's principal worry is the Wolverine backfield of Don Lund, Bob Stenberg, Don Boor and Robert Wiese, their combined talent presents an even-dangerous threat.

Lund and Wiese for Michigan and Notre Dame's Corwin Clatt and Jerry Cowhig, all sophomores, probably will carry the burden of the short rushes. What they accomplish will depend upon the strength of the lines. Michigan's forward wall, rated as one of the best in the Midwest, probably will need to play the full 60 minutes because of the lack of reserves.

With Bob Davy as captain, George Murphy at the ends, the Irish probably are better fortified at the flank positions than the Wolverines.

U. M. Campus Excited

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 12.—If campus spirit makes a football game, this Michigan-Notre Dame dog-fight at South Bend Saturday will be a whopper.

Despite a lapse of 33 years in gridiron relations between the two schools, the Wolverine campus is more steamed up about this contest than any of the more traditional meetings on the Michigan schedule so far.

Hundreds of students will make the 155-mile jaunt into Hoosierland by train, bus and on the wilder times of fliers. The 100-piece Michigan band, generally conceded to be one of the Midwest's best, will be on hand.

Every Ticket Sold

Notre Dame furnished the University of Michigan authorities with a batch of 12,000 tickets, and the supply was all exhausted two weeks ago. The last remnants were sold out Monday.

The war seems severely to have affected the game, South Bend officials announced the sale of every ticket in the stadium this week, which means that a howling crowd of 56,000 partisans will see the long-awaited battle.

Most of the crowd will consist of alumni of the two institutions, who are almost equally plentiful in this part of the Midwest.

Coch Fritz Crisler, meanwhile, gave ample hint that he was expecting a bruising battle that in some respects might not be so much different from the shingards and moleskins era of 1909 when the two schools last clashed.

The Wolverines have been instructed to expect no quarter whatever in the realm of hard physical knocks. Crisler broke a precedent Wednesday afternoon when he ordered a stiff mid-season scrimmage. The Wolverines usually do not gamble with practice injuries once the regular playing season has opened.

Wolverines at Full Strength

Another scrimmage of a more moderate nature was held today, with the accent heavily on defense. Most of the week has been devoted to secret sessions in which new plays and strategy were developed, but today the varsity labored overtime in stopping Notre Dame plays.

Michigan will be at full strength, with the exception of reserve fullback Don Boor. The latest word from South Bend says the Irish will be without the services of Lippy Evans, a hard-hitting halfback who has been plagued by a leg ailment most of the season. Evans led Notre Dame in scoring and in ground gained in 1941.

Crisler has stuck to a backfield through practice this week that has Tom Kuzma and Paul White at the halfbacks, Bob Wiese at fullback, and Captain George Ceitham at quarterback. Don Robinson and Bob Chappuis are high-caliber reserves ready to relieve Kuzma.

The American Rhodes Scholarships were suspended in September, 1939, as a result of the war.

13 Contests On Schedule For Munising

MUNISING, Nov. 12.—With a schedule of 13 games to be played, tires and gasoline permitting, Marquette high school cagers are preparing for their opening clash in Sidney Adams gymnasium, Marquette, against Gravenet on Wednesday, November 25. The Thanksgiving eve engagement will ring up the curtain on the season for both schools.

Coach C. J. St. Germaine has a quartet of regular lettermen and a small corps of lesser varsity-experienced players to select from to form his starting lineup, and in addition to those boys there is a group of youngsters who are training hard to earn a first-string uniform.

Bud Parks, elongated center, Deane Floria and Mike Elavsky were on the floor regularly last season, and Gary Zastrow, who saw action two years ago, are the "old line" regulars. Zastrow was not in uniform last year because of an injury received in football. Leonard Manning and Gordon Mooto, who served capably as subs during the 1941-42 schedule, are also back.

Seven of the games on the Mathew calendar will be played here and six on foreign courts. The complete schedule is: Nov. 25—At Gravenet. Dec. 4—At Newberry. Dec. 11—Ishpeming, here. Dec. 18—Gladstone, here. Jan. 8—Gwin, here. Jan. 16—Negaunee, here. Jan. 22—At Soo. Jan. 29—At Manistique. Feb. 5—Newberry, here. Feb. 19—Gravenet, here. Feb. 24 (Wednesday)—Baraga, at Marquette. Feb. 26—Soo, here. March 5—At Negaunee.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(P)—It begins to look like Branch Rickey had better start sending out some "Aw, come on fellows; I was only kidding" messages to the Brooklyn Dodgers if he hopes to have a quorum of athletes on hand for the 1943 season.

Mr. Rickey is known to prefer lithe, rapid gents still on the light side of 30 for his ball clubs, and he has hinted that when he gets around to it there'll be some changes made in the Brooklyn roster. He may sign players for a dime, but he doesn't want to them to play on it and there are some Dodgers who are close to that point now. Down to two nickles, anyway.

The Brooklyn players whose jobs are in danger have only to look up their birth records and recalling that a squirt at arches which have more fall than spring in them to identify themselves.

Casey, Camilli Have Quit

Within the space of a couple of days two players have announced they wouldn't be back next year. One of these, Hugh Casey, says he will enter the armed service, and as plump Hughey still is under 30 and might survive the Rickey purge it is logical to assume that he would join the service regardless of who was bossing the Dodgers, and more power to him.

The Dolph Camilli case is a little different. Camilli, still a whale of a ball player, nevertheless is at that point in his career where he'll soon be having to borrow time to play. It is logical to assume that he would join the service regardless of who was bossing the Dodgers, and more power to him.

Green Bay, Nov. 12.—After camping on the trail of the Bears for six weeks in the Western division race, the Green Bay Packers will get their chance to catch up to the Bruins Sunday, when they invade Wrigley Field for the climax battle of the National Football league season.

The Chicagoans beat the Packers, 44 to 28, in the season's opener at Green Bay in September, but the Bays have rebounded with a record-smashing rampage of six straight wins to serve notice that they won't be fooling in the return engagement. Cecil Isbell and his brilliant receiver, Don Hutson, have wiped most of the scoring and passing records from the books. Paced by the aerial duo, Coach Curly Lambeau's charges have piled up 241 points in seven contests to lead the league in scoring.

Have Two Coaches

The Bears, now co-coached by Luke Johnson and Hank Anderson since George Halas donned a naval uniform, have done right well also. They trail Green Bay by only 13 points and have permitted opponents only 70 points in their seven encounters.

Their records: Green Bay Packers .28 Chicago Bears .44 Packers .17 Chicago Cards .13 Packers .38 Detroit Lions .13 Packers .45 Cleveland Rams .28 Packers .28 Detroit Lions .7 Packers .55 Chicago Cards .24 Packers .30 Cleveland Rams .12 Packers .24 Opponents .135 Chicago Bears Bears .44 Packers .28 Bears .21 Cleveland Rams .7 Bears .41 Chicago Cards .14 Bears .26 New York Giants .7 Bears .45 Philadelphia .14 Bears .16 Detroit Lions .0 Bears .35 Brooklyn .0 Bears .228 Opponents .0

Fans remember the determined band of Packers who journeyed to Chicago last season and upset the vaunted Bears, 16 to 14, to throw the division rivalry into a tie, and Green Bay believes it can be done again.

In addition to the sensational aerial game displayed by Isbell and Hutson with help from Andy Uram and other potential receivers, the Bays have a line that has shown steady improvement since their first defeat.

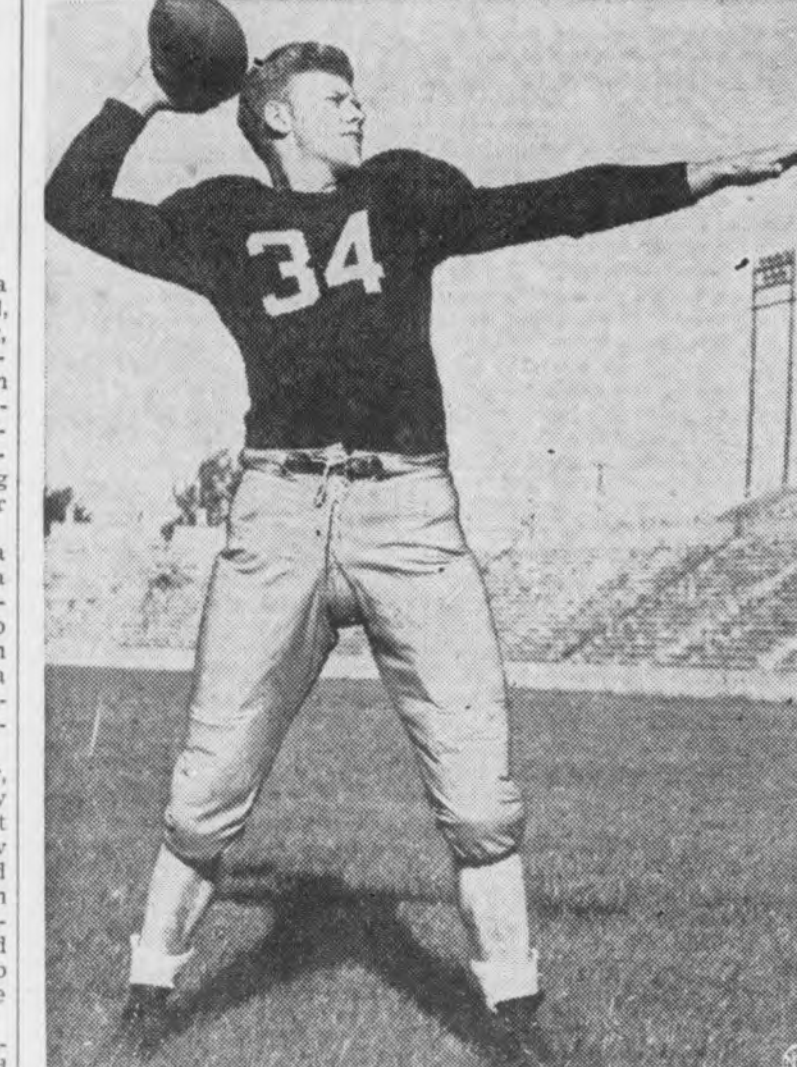

They also have such able runners as Chuck Sample, Ted Fritsch, Tony Canadeo and the aforementioned Uram, and a gang of reserves all seasoned in grid combat through the astute personnel handling of Coach Lambeau.

lack O'Brien, Colorful Ring Champion, Dies

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(P)—Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, the colorful fistie character and ring great who admitted he was the best light-heavyweight in modern boxing history, died today. He was 64.

The clever, sharp-punching ring-general, who started as a lightweight, fought his way up to become one of our best light-heavyweight champions and an unsuccessful claimant of the heavy-weight crown—although he never weighed more than 170 pounds—succumbed in Polyclinic hospital after an operation. O'Brien, whose real name was Joseph Francis Anthony Hagen, had come here November 3 from his home in Ventnor, N. J.

Since his retirement in 1912—after a 16-year career during which he lost only five of 184 fights—O'Brien had been one of the leading exponents of the reducing system of physical culture for business men and women.

SLINGS FOR SYRACUSE—Syracuse banked heavily on good right arm of Halfback Tommy Maines in traditional battle with Colgate in Syracuse.

Down Sports Trail

turned loose the very capable Walker Cooper was coming up. When they sold Don Padgett to Brooklyn last winter, they had Stan Musial ready. They got food a little on Ray Sanders, whom they had counted on to replace Mize, but it worked out all right as Johnny Hopp and his talented feet fitted into the Card lineup even better than Mize.

Anyway, it will be interesting to see just who goes where and how soon when Rickey starts chopping at the dead wood. But he'll better not talk too much about breaking up the team or the team will break him to it. Nobody's going to break up Dolph Camilli, by gum. They can't fire you if you resign before they get a chance.

Western Expected To Win

Wayne, in the victory column for the first time after beating Akron, runs into Western Michigan's four-game winning streak. The Broncos are reasonably strong favorites.

The schedule (with won-lost records in parentheses): —Saturday— Michigan (5-2) at Notre Dame (5-1-1). Purdue (1-6) at Michigan State (2-3-1). Wayne (1-5-1) at Western Michigan (4-1). Michigan Normal (3-2-1) at Albion (3-4). Grosse Ile (3-2) at Baldwin-Wallace. —Sunday— Villanova (3-2) at Detroit (4-1).

Orlando and Stewart Punished for Fight

MONTREAL, Nov. 12.—The National Hockey league took disciplinary action today against Jimmy Orlando, of the Detroit Red Wings, and gave Stewart, of the Toronto Maple Leafs, principals in a fight during a league game at Toronto Saturday.

Orlando was barred from Toronto ice and Stewart from Detroit ice "until further notice," and in addition each was ordered to pay $100 to a war charity.

Four More State Elevens End Season

DETROIT, Nov. 12.—(P)—While the Notre Dame-Michigan clash is the ultimate in quality, this weekend's Michigan college football program leaves something to be desired in quantity.

There are five games on Saturday and one game on Sunday, but fortunately from a spectator standpoint both Michigan State and Detroit play at home. The Spartans, starting a three-game home stand, tackle a Western Conference foe in Purdue, while Detroit meets an old rival on Sunday in Villanova.

Irish Favored Over U. M.

The long awaited Notre Dame-Michigan game is without parallel. For 33 years since they last met there has been public clamor for a meeting of the two schools, usually among the best in the Midwest or the nation. Because of Angelo Bertelli's passing and Michigan's obvious flaws in pass defense, the Irish are small favorites to win.

In other Saturday games, Michigan Normal plays at Albion in the final contest for both teams, and Wayne and Western Michigan likewise close out their seasons by meeting at Kalamazoo. Grosse Ile, Michigan's only service eleven, meanwhile collides with Baldwin-Wallace at Berea, Ohio.

While crippled for a second straight week by injuries to Wally Paulowski and Ed Ripmaster, the Spartans are favored to beat Purdue and square their series at two victories each. The teams played a scoreless tie last year. Before that all decisions were by 20 to 7, Purdue winning in 1931 and 1939 and State winning in 1940. Some 12,000 fans will see the game at Macklin field.

Some 18,000 will see Detroit and Villanova renew their bitter rivalry. The easterners won, 7-6, last year for a 6-3 advantage in the series with two ties, but Coach Gus Dorais is counting on his team to rebound from its defeat two weeks ago to Marquette. The Titans were idle last week.

Spartans Can Equal Last Year's Record

EAST LANSING, Nov. 12.—(P)—A triumph over Purdue here Saturday is needed to give Michigan State's Spartans a mathematical chance of finishing the 1943 campaign above the 500 mark.

With the Boilermakers, West Virginia and Oregon State still to be encountered, the Spartans hold a record of two victories, three defeats and a tie.

To equal their 1941 record, the Spartans must sweep the last three games, a trick they did last year to finish with five wins, three setbacks and a deadlock.

Meanwhile, the current Spartan squad drew the praise of Coach Charley Bachman for displaying more "pitch" than any other State aggregation in the past decade. "Never Shirked a Minute"

"This team is quite a ways from being the best we've ever had here since I came to town, but none has tried harder to win games," he declared. "I'm proud of the boys. They have never shirked a minute."

Bachman announced that neither Halfback Wally Paulowski nor Fullback Ed Ripmaster would be off the hospital list by Saturday and indicated that Edg Mennotti, Detroit sophomore, would make his debut at right halfback.

Both Mennotti and Tackle Glenn Deibert are back in the good graces of the coaches after being dropped from the roster prior to last week's game with Washington State in what Bachman described as a disciplinary measure.

A rib injury suffered by veteran Jack Fenton enhances Mennotti's chance to see considerable action at the right half post. With Ken Balge switched from tackle to end, Deibert is the only seasoned replacement at tackle where Alger Conner and Dick Mangrum turned in 60-minute performances against Washington State.

Surprise showing of Bob Otting, Laper, erstwhile quarterback, at the fullback post this week may keep the shifty, 185-pound sophomore at the latter position to alternate with Morgan Gingsrass and Bill Beardsley.

Raising Attack Groomed

Discouraging reports that Purdue's defense was crushed by Great Lakes' ground assault last Saturday, Bachman groomed the Spartans passing attack for the Boilermakers invasion and stellar Dick Kieppe was expected to resume his run-and-pitch tactics.

Ticket officials estimated a crowd of between 8,000 and 10,000 would attend Saturday's game.

The Spartans drilled against Purdue plays as demonstrated by the freshmen today and then engaged in a lengthy signal practice. Lou Brand, Grand Rapids junior, alternated with Bill Milliken at quarterback and Mennotti switched with Pete Fornari at right half on the first team. Remainder of the lineup included Ken Balge and Barney Roskopf, ends; Dick Mangrum and Alger Conner, tackles; Don Leclair and George Radulescu, guards; Bill Monroe, center; Kieppe, left half, and Gingsrass, fullback.

Caseys Take Top Place In Crib League

The Knights of Columbus, defeating the Independents by a score of 11,540 to 11,059, took over first place in the Marquette Cribbage league this week—133 points ahead of the second-place Elks.

The Pfeiffer Beers were trounced by the American Legion, 11,463 to 11,197, while in the third match the Cliffs Dow triumphed over the Elks, 11,422 to 11,201.

High score of 1,227 was pegged by A. Smith and T. Wolf, while Summers and Nyquist were runners-up with 1,225.

Next week's schedule: Pfeiffer Beers at Elks; Cliffs Dow at Independents; American Legion at Knights of Columbus.

Pythians Of U. P. Meet This Evening

ISHPEMING, Nov. 12—Judge Char' J. Schuck, of West Virginia, supreme vice-chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, will pay an official visit to the Upper Peninsula Friday when he appears in Ishpeming at a joint meeting of Pythians and D. O. K. K's.

Scores of members of both orders are expected to come here to hear the judge, who talks on a program starting at 8. It will be an open session. No business or ritualistic matters will be taken up.

The Upper Peninsula is one of five areas in the grand lodge jurisdiction and the vice-chancellor is making an official visit to all U. P. lodges by appearing here Friday.

Judge Schuck is a distinguished jurist and has traveled extensively over the United States. Members of the order in the Peninsula feel fortunate in having him as a guest.

Grand Chancellor William St. John, Zenith lodge, will be chairman of the meeting. In addition to the speech by the supreme vice-chancellor the D. O. K. K. choir will sing.

A social hour will follow, during which a turkey lunch will be served.

Army Selects Site To Train Weather Men

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(AP)—The War department announced today that it had taken over extensive facilities in Grand Rapids, Mich., for an Army Air Force weather training center—the first Army training school to be devoted exclusively to the preparation of military weather men.

The school, which will have facilities for 5,000 students, will open in about two months. Its commanding officer will be Col. Edward C. Black, formerly in command at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, Tex. Weather training will be under direction of Col. Don MeNeil, who has been at the air weather school at Chanute Field, Illinois.

The War department will lease the city's largest hotel—the 10-story, 750-room Pantiind—as a dormitory for trainees for the duration of the war. The hotel also will afford dining facilities for the school.

DUCK HUNTER DIES

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 12—(AP)—Apparently stricken while on a duck hunting expedition Tuesday at Gun lake in Barry county, George L. Reinberg, 35, Grand Rapids, died in St. Mary's hospital tonight. He was found this morning in a swamp near the lake by members of a searching party which had been looking for him since Wednesday. He was taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition, suffering from exposure and shock.

POSES AS HEROINE — Thirty-year-old Miss Mardella McDowell (above), Elkhart, Ind., pleaded guilty at South Bend, Ind., to a charge of illegally wearing insignia of the U. S. Army. Assistant District Attorney James E. Keating said the woman was apparently intrigued by the glamor of military life and had posed as a heroine of Pacific fighting. (Associated Press Telemat)

Range Club Meeting To Attract Many

ISHPEMING, Nov. 12—An excellent attendance is assured for the meeting, Friday evening, of the Marquette Range Engineers club in the Mather Inn, W. R. Atkins, secretary, announced today after receiving 75 reservations.

An interesting program has been arranged, through the cooperation of the Inland Steel company, with L. S. Marsh, manager of the department of inspection and metallurgy, in charge. He will show pictures of treatment of ore after it has been received at the lower lake docks, of war-time production and of work done in his department.

There will be a brief business meeting with selection of officers from a list submitted by a nominating committee composed of F. A. Olson, Negaunee; Grant Fitch, Ishpeming, and Henry Posanke, Marquette.

At the last session, it was deemed advisable to hold the December meeting in Marquette as a courtesy to the members of the club who reside in that city.

Bishop Page Preaches In Grace Church Sunday

ISHPEMING, Nov. 12—The Rt. Rev. Herman R. Page, who was consecrated bishop of Northern Michigan October 23, will preach at the Sunday morning service in Grace Episcopal church.

Before his consecration, Bishop Page was secretary to the school for chaplains at Cambridge, Mass., holding the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He served as an Army chaplain in the First World War.

Johnsons Honored On Silver Anniversary

ISHPEMING, Nov. 12—A reception was held Tuesday evening in the Cleveland Avenue Methodist church in observance of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson, 820 North Third street. The church was decorated with cedar and large bronze and yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and their attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carlson, entered the church to the strains of Lohengren's "Wedding March," played by Mrs. Maurice Hager.

The following program was given: Presentation of flowers, Mary Elizabeth Hussman; devotions, the Rev. G. A. Schugren; vocal selections, Mrs. Alfred Eliason, piano solo, Miss Grace Hampton; remarks, Gust Johnson; vocal selections, Arthur Hammer; remarks, Harold Sundblad; vocal solo, Mrs. Vincent Malmstrom; remarks and presentation of gifts, the Rev. G. A. Schugren.

After the program lunch was served. The table was centered with white and orchid pom-poms flanked by white candles in silver candelabra. Mrs. Harry Mills poured.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were married November 10, 1917, in Ishpeming. They are the parents of one son, Glenn, and there are two grandchildren.

Among the out-of-town guests at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Eliason, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Olson and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Windoff, Marquette; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hancock and Mr. and Mrs. Gronberg, Forestville.

Auxiliary Host To Legion County Council

ISHPEMING, Nov. 12—The Albert V. Braden unit of the American Legion auxiliary, will entertain the county council Wednesday evening, November 18. The meeting will begin at 8:15 and a social hour will follow.

On the committee are Hetta Magnuson, chairman; Cecelia Lovensstein, Hulda Rosberg, LeViolet Olson, Elizabeth Carolyn and Jessie Simons.

A short meeting of the Ishpeming auxiliary will be held at 7:30, preceding the county council meeting.

New Furnace 'Blown In' By Inland Steel

CHICAGO, Nov. 12—The first new blast furnace built in the Chicago district since the war began will be placed in operation Monday, November 16 when Inland Steel company "blows in" its No. 6 furnace at Indiana Harbor.

Privately financed and with a capacity of 1,200 tons of iron a day, the furnace was built to insure maintenance of the present maximum production rate of iron and steel.

According to James H. Walsh, vice-president in charge of operations at Indiana Harbor for Inland, the company's five blast furnaces have been operating at maximum capacity since August, 1940, each producing about 1,000 tons of iron daily. This continuous push for production, he explained, exacts a toll from the furnaces which necessitates shutting them down for relining or rebuilding.

Need Continuous Output Before Pearl Harbor, Inland officials visualized that there would be need for continued maximum production. This, they realized, was impossible as No. 3 furnace, built in 1917, needed complete rebuilding—a five-months job—while two other furnaces needed relining—a two-months delay.

Rather than rebuild No. 3 furnace and deprive the war program of 150,000 tons of iron Inland determined to insure maximum production by building a new blast furnace and having it ready before No. 3 or any of the others failed. With No. 6 ready for operation, not only has the race been won, but the doubtful furnaces continue to pour out 1,000 tons of iron every day. Rather than shut the latter down, every effort will be made to keep them in operation as long as possible.

Inland's coke ovens can produce coke for only five furnaces, so a temporary source of coke for the sixth furnace has been arranged through the iron and steel branch of the War Production Board.

Ishpeming Briefs

Mrs. William Ball, Atlanta, Ga., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Prin, Maurice street.

The Kaleva choir will meet for rehearsal at 7:30 tonight in Kaleva hall.

The Woman's auxiliary of Grace Episcopal church will hold a rummage sale from 9 to 12 Wednesday in Guild hall. Persons having articles to donate are asked to bring them to the hall Tuesday afternoon.

Group 6 of the W. S. C. S., First Methodist church, will meet at 2:30 this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Beiram Cain, 109 Bancroft street. Members are reminded to bring carpet rags and needles.

Weddings

Bietila-Hoim
ISHPEMING, Nov. 12—Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bietila, Ishpeming, announce the marriage, on October 28, of their daughter, Miss Laila Bietila, to Lieutenant Arnold Hoim, of Fort Hancock, N. J., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoim, Ishpeming. The ceremony was performed in the Little Church Around the Corner in New York City by the Rev. Charles A. Weatherly. Miss Jacqueline Nordlinger, of Hawthorne, N. Y., and Sergeant Steven Bradley, of Fort Monmouth, N. J., were the attendants.

Mrs. Hoim was graduated from Michigan State Teachers College and has been teaching in Detroit. She is the sister of Aviation Cadet Walter Bietila, of the Navy, who was rated the best American-born ski jumper in 1941. Lieutenant Hoim was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1941. The couple will live near Fort Hancock.

Slothful workers in Palestine are subject to fine or imprisonment of both.

Sports Club To Discuss Plans Monday

ISHPEMING, Nov. 12—The IshpeMING Winter Sports club will meet at 7:30 Monday evening in the Mather Inn to elect officers and discuss the club's program for this winter.

There is general opinion that the club should continue, despite war conditions, to promote winter entertainment for IshpeMING residents.

This, however, will have to be determined upon the basis of available financial support. Even without improvements to physical plant or extension of services, it will cost several hundred dollars to operate the clubhouse and keep the winter sports area open to the public.

Leaders of the organization believe that with travel cut to a minimum, there should be some place in the city for outdoor entertainment.

All persons interested in plans for the winter season are invited to attend Monday's meeting.

More Yanks Landed In East Algeria

forcements apparently still were coming; Axis reports said 38 more merchantmen had arrived in Gibraltar, joined by a large protecting force of warships; Lisbon dispatches last night described the southward progress of the Portuguese coast of bombers, transport planes and gliders.

American parachute troops already have gone into action in Africa, after a non-stop 1,500-mile flight from Britain.

French Naval Losses Severe

In Vichy tonight, the German-controlled radio was broadcasting that the French fleet off Morocco had taken "severe losses" since Sunday morning. It was admitted that the new battleship Jean Bart had been put out of action by the sea and air power of American Rear Admiral H. K. Hewitt.

From Paris, the German-run station was broadcasting the story that Adolf Hitler had faith in the "loyalty" of the French fleet commander at Toulon, and hence had left that naval base unoccupied.

On the Mediterranean mainland of France, Marseille was occupied and Toulon enveloped—but by-passed—by at least three German panzer divisions and an unestimated number of Italian motorized troops which moved in from the north and east, respectively.

The Italians also claimed they had occupied all of the island of Corsica.

From Berlin and Vichy the Germans and puppet French broadcast the cryptic announcement that Hitler had decided to set Toulon apart as a special area and not to occupy it because the French navy officers there had "made an engagement to defend themselves against all aggressors."

Thus, said Vichy, "our ships will be safeguarded."

The Germans obviously sought to leave the impression that they had made a deal with the commanders of the Toulon squadron.

May Resist German Seizure
Their curious pretense of trust and magnanimity indicated strongly, however, that they were not at present able to board and seize the three battleships and numerous cruisers, destroyers and other craft attached to Toulon.

If these units still are lying off port, they may evade or strongly resist German attack from the shore.

If, as is persistently reported, some of them have sailed for parts unknown, the remainder could be holding off German occupation of Toulon by the mere threat to depart.

There was, moreover, a report that Hitler has given Pierre Laval the terms of a general "peace settlement" between Germany and France, by which, it appeared, the Germans still hoped to have the fleet delivered intact to them without fighting for it.

Vichy's German-occupied cabinet met during the evening, under Marshal Petain. It issued a statement seeking to deter the French in Africa from following General Henri Giraud, who, after escaping from both Germany and Vichy France, has become the man on horseback of the liberation movement in Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia.

Generals Anderson and Ryder were heading for Tunisia and the key naval port of Bizerte, which have many excellent airfields, by the one route into Tunisia which is not strongly defended.

Rear of Bizerte Unprotected
Bizerte has strong fortifications, but they largely command the sea; the rear is relatively unprotected. In the southeast, facing Libya, the protectorate has the Mareth, or "Little Maginot" line of defenses based on the Matmeta mountains.

The Allied forces now moving toward Tunisia left behind them more than 3,000 miles of Moroccan and Algerian coast and cities in which all effective French resistance had ended.

The story-book background of this 77-hour conquest by the American expeditionary forces came out today. It was disclosed that three weeks before the general North African attack was launched, a group of American officers led by Maj.-Gen. Mark W. Clark (now Lieut.-Gen.) reached Vichy territory by submarine, conducted elaborate negotiations with French officials sympathetic to the Allies and gained elaborate military information.

power but without a chosen ally will determine on which side they will fight.

The big prize at stake, with the Axis standing on the near side of the Mediterranean and the Allies triumphantly on the other, consisted of 62 warships, including three of the capital class.

A Vichy dispatch said that Hitler, himself, decided the Toulon naval base should not be occupied, and that the base had been labeled a "camp retranche," to be by-passed and set apart from occupation.

Hitler's Terms for Peace

LONDON, Nov. 12—(P)—Adolf Hitler's terms for immediate peace with Vichy, restoring to France all her 1939 continental territory except Alsace and Lorraine, were carried to Vichy by arch-collaborationist Pierre Laval from his Munich meeting with the Fuehrer, it was reported tonight in reliable continental circles with close Vichy connections.

The report was not confirmed. The reported provisions, especially that involving the loss to the French of the two provinces, would prove decidedly distasteful and unacceptable to the whole French nation.

The cardinal terms of the proposed peace as reported by these informed sources, which, of course, could not be further identified were:

1. France would regain all her continental area except the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine.
2. Alsace and Lorraine would become autonomous. (They have been incorporated into the Reich).
3. France would keep her empire (virtually of which now is controlled or Allied with the United Nations).
4. The French fleet would cooperate with the Germans to regain the empire.

Laval Rejects Alliance
5. Italy would renounce territorial claims on France.

The Italians in the past have yelled loudly for "Nice, Tunisia and Corsica," but an Italian spokesman in Rome yesterday said Italy's share in the occupation was not intended in the interests of territory.

Most reliable Vichy circles reported that Laval, who has consistently favored the Germans, had nevertheless rejected a military alliance with Germany.

Informants from the former unoccupied area said aged Marshal Petain is showing the strain of the crisis.

He has not yet decided on his future course. Yesterday he was represented as deciding to remain in France and be close to the people, after declaring that the 1940 armistice had been broken, with the right of free decision falling to all Frenchmen.

But this course was reported discarded when the Vichy radio withdrew from all broadcasts the marshal's protest against the German occupation of all France.

Game Hunters Shoot The Axis—Indirectly

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Big game hunters this year will take pot shots at the Axis by bringing in fat from animals they have killed.

The amount of fat that could be salvaged from the 900,000 big game animals bagged annually is estimated at between four and five million pounds—enough fat, if converted into nitroglycerine, to fire 16 million anti-aircraft shells, according to the Salvage Section of the War Production Board.

Engineers Finds Trucks Just Riding on Air

TULSA, Okla.—(P)—Imagine the expression of City Engineer W. R. Wooten when he found a section of downtown pavement, with heavy trucks rumbling over it, laid across an empty basement and nothing to hold it up!

"Whatever prevented the trucks from falling through is beyond us," said Wooten. "At one time there were beams over the basement but they long since had rusted out."

The deep excavation extended into the alley from a building that was torn down a year ago.

"eyes upstairs" of the artillery, cavalry, armored force and infantry. Carrying a pilot and an observer, it can hover and maintain altitude at an exceptionally low speed, while directing artillery fire or the movement of tanks or troops below. In many operations it replaces the "sausage" observation balloons used during the last war. Weighing only 2,100 pounds, it can be pushed around by its own crew and hidden under trees.

It can get in and out of a cow pasture or plunk itself down on a highway. Mrs. Stinson named the L-5 the "Sentinel."

Mrs. Smetton gave the name of "Reliant" to the AT-19, which is essentially a war model of the peace-time Stinson Reliant which was used extensively by business executives and sportsmen and also by airlines for keeping pilots up to the mark on instrument flying. It has a wing span of 42 feet; its length is 30 feet and gross weight 4,000 pounds.

Details of its performance and the extent to which the design has been changed from the peace-time model cannot be disclosed.

The AT-19 is being built under direction of the United States Army Air Forces for assignment to the British government under the lend-lease agreement.

Fish Play A Doubleheader

DENVER—(P)—C. E. Hagley's last fish story of the season was his best.

Helping to clean the fish screens in a reservoir near Jefferson, Colo., he found two trout, one of them dead and both of them about 12 inches long, fastened together with a fisherman's leader.

Apparently one fish had struck at a fisherman's fly, and broken the leader after the hook was imbedded in his jaw.

The leader had another fly upon it and a second fish, seeing it trailing behind the first fish, struck and was hooked upon it.

Why Not Raise Coffee—For Your Coffee?

NEW YORK—(P)—You can beat the coffee shortage by growing your own, says the New York Botanical Garden. All you do is plan the live coffee berry in your greenhouse. Under controlled conditions, the coffee plant can yield a full crop of berries. There's only one drawback. The plant doesn't bloom for eight years and won't yield a full crop of berries for ten or fifteen.

The big prize at stake, with the Axis standing on the near side of the Mediterranean and the Allies triumphantly on the other, consisted of 62 warships, including three of the capital class.

French officers who had arrived there, mostly in civilian clothes. A suspicious Arab servant, meanwhile, informed the police. The French officers received word that the police were on the way.

"I never saw such excitement in my life," Clark said with a laugh. "Maps disappeared like lightning. A French general in military uniform changed into civilian clothes in a minute flat, and I last saw him going into the window. They were going in all directions."

Clark and his staff gathered up papers and guns and hid in a wine cellar. The owner of the house met the police. The general crouched in the cellar with a revolver in one hand and 15,000 francs in the other.

"If the police came down, I was uncertain whether to shoot them or bribe them," he said.

Meanwhile, a British commando officer who accompanied the party whispered: "I'm afraid if I hold this cloak back any longer I'm going to choke to death."

"I'm afraid you won't choke," Clark told him.

The police went away after an hour. A boat upset crossing a small piece of water nearby caused the loss of clothing and money—but not of papers.

Lost $18,000 in Gold
"We lost almost every stitch of our clothes and I lost some $18,000 in gold," Clark said. "I wonder if Morgenthau (the Secretary of the Treasury) will get after me for that."

The party scrambled ashore with only its papers and underclothing. Hiding in the woods from time to time, walking and shivering the men ultimately kept a secret rendezvous with a United Nations transport, which took them back to London. They arrived eight days after the start of their journey.

Gen. Eisenhower said: "The fact that land resistance was not terrifically great anywhere and we did not have to land in a place where the opposition was great testifies to the success of Clark's mission."

No Pot of Gold At Rainbow Bridge

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—(P)—War-time travel restrictions have halved income of the Rainbow Bridge between Canada and the United States across Niagara gorge. Officials found it necessary on the first anniversary of the bridge's opening—to give indefinite leaves of absence to 15 of the 25 members of the bridge staff.

City Survey Started By H. A. Olson

NEGAUNEE, Nov. 12—Herbert A. Olson, director of the Michigan Municipal League, arrived in Negaunee this morning to begin a survey of the city's services, as requested by resolution of the common council a few weeks ago.

He set to work immediately, acquainting himself with provisions of the city charter to get a working knowledge of the background of the city's services.

He also requested a meeting with the committee named by Mayor George H. Russell to cooperate in this program.

"This afternoon Mr. Olson said it is far too early to make any specific statement. We cannot reach conclusions until we have the facts.

"We do not anticipate being able to complete the survey before the first of December, and this, of course, is conjecture. It may take longer than that.

"Community surveys are not at all uncommon. It is one of the services available through the League. I have been impressed with the cordiality of officials I have met thus far and with their willingness to cooperate."

cluding six large transport carriers were shot down.

The main blows at the Axis survivors of the Egyptian debacle, however, were being struck from the skies some 150 miles west of the Libyan frontier.

Bugbug, just inside Egypt, and Sid Barrani both were cracked. Only a small part of Rommel's army managed to reach Libya, and those that did left most of their remaining war equipment on the Egyptian sands. Some 80 tanks had been abandoned early in the retreat at El Daba because they were too slow and lacked fuel.

There was no indication whether the Axis was preparing to evacuate the remaining forces from Africa in a desert Dunkerque, or whether Rommel would try to make a determined stand.

The United States desert air task force was in large scale action, shooting down three Stuka dive bombers and starting fires among retreating enemy vehicles. Heavy bombers attacked Benghazi by night and day, and also Candia in Crete. Shipping in the harbors made up the main targets.

In all their widespread air activity from Crete to Sardinia, the Allies lost but 10 planes.

Play By Play

By Paul David Preston

EXCITING EVENING CHAPTER XXIX

"All right, you lugs!"

"In that elegant but effective manner the two detectives announced their presence. It was the one named Ed who spoke.

The two gamblers whirled around. They had been facing Nancy, their backs to the closet door. For a second or two they just stared in astonishment.

"Cops!" one gasped. "City dicks!"

"Yeah, you git it, Hymie! We're from the city force, sure 'nough. You boys're gonna be our guests for a while."

He was already approaching them with handcuffs—it had been the cuffs, not the hammer of a gun, which Blythe heard click in the closet doorway now.

Next moment Hymie's hand moved like a rattlesnake striking. It darted inside his own coat. He never even withdrew it, but fired twice with the gun still concealed there.

But as he fired, something sailed over the detective's head. It struck Hymie full in the face and dropped him instantly. The something was a pottery bank the size, shape and appearance of a football, and it must have held $5 or more in pennies. It had been among Scooter's toys.

"Duane!" Blythe shrieked in delighted excitement. "You hit him!"

He had made an accurate forward pass indeed; rolling pennies were testimony, they and the man Hymie now slumped on the floor. But the second gambler had started running. He was the brass-voiced one who had made the original approach both to Pop Miller and Nancy.

"Oh! . . . Oh! . . . He's getting away!" Nancy was pointing.

"Look out!"

A detective shot one at the fleeing man, missing him. He could fire no more because Duane Hogan's form blocked the stair door now. He plunged ahead, following Duane.

The chase led out of the building and toward the end tunnel of the stadium nearby. By this time at least 20 or 30 other men had come running from Pop's office and from the foyer of the gym. Norman Dana, dressed for his dinner date, had just come up, and baby Scooter Hale, the two movie men, Loumann and Natwick, Summers of the Journal, all the others, were witnesses to that last short race.

"Hey-y-y-y-y!" Norman shouted. "What's cooking, Hogan?"

"Sneak play!" Duane yelled back.

In that same moment, Duane tackled. His graceful 188 pounds stretched out horizontally, took the fleeing gambler from behind. There was a grunt and a groan, then a hullabaloo. Duane was lifted off the prostrate man. Somebody had to run for water, and Pop's own emergency kit was brought out. It took nearly five minutes to get the gambler back to his senses.

"I thought flying tackles had been ruled out!" Elmer Summers teective asked.

"Yes. And I overheard Nancy agree to do what he wanted. Oh, Nancy darling, I thought you—you—" Blythe went stargazed then, and her chin was trembling a little. All the shame and horror with which she had been regarding Nancy Hale had been wiped away!

It dawned on Blythe, then, that Norman Dana now was standing at Nancy's side, a protective arm around her shoulders. For no earthly reason—here in the excitement of this moment—she remembered that Norman had said Nancy was beautiful, that Norman's flowers were upstairs on Nancy's dinner table now. She looked around quickly—and a little frantically—for Duane.

He had gone to see about the other gambler and the detective left upstairs. As matters developed, those first gunshots had wounded the detective, and the officer hegerated himself for not coming out of the closet with gun in hand. He was not hurt badly; indeed he helped Duane carry the prisoner downstairs. Duane's blow with the pottery penny bank had been a bumping good one!

Blythe had a feeling, next, of being shouted at by a thousand happy people. Summers, Loumann and Natwick, the movie men, were raving about contracts and new picture ideas. Scooter Hale and his puppy Link were running in circles, and everybody else had this and that to say. For her part, Blythe wanted to see Duane. Somehow she just wanted to see him, and talk to him, and try to make him understand that she had thought only of his happiness, always.

By this time Pop Miller was rounding up all his football players who were present.

"Come with me, lads!" he ordered. "I got to take you in hand and make you rest this night. I'll find privacy for you in a hotel. I'll have to wet-nurse you excitable youngsters, I will!"

In the hurry and hilarity, Duane too was taken away. Blythe saw him no more that afternoon or evening.

(To Be Concluded)

Exportation of thoroughbred mares from Argentina has been prohibited to preserve the quality of horses for the Army.

"I still got the money—by George!" Pop sat back on his heels in surprise, just remembering. "I forgot I had that! The U. S. O. can use it!"

"Yes! I hid it! Oh, Pop, I was afraid you—"

"How'd you know it was them, honey? These two?"

"I saw the man who called on you and then I saw the same one—this one you've just bandaged. He came sneaking up Nancy's stairs. I—I trailed him, I guess. I'm kind of—silly that way. Duane and I play Indian a lot. Sign talk. Western stories and all. I—"

Michener Protests Gas Rationing in Michigan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(AP)—Rep. Michener (R-Mich.) has lodged a sharp protest against rationing of gasoline in Michigan with the OPA, pointing out that thousands of Michigan war workers depend upon automobiles for transportation between their jobs and their homes.

"A concern which almost amounts to consternation prevails in Michigan over the proposed gasoline rationing order," Michener told the House in disclosing his protest. "A vast majority of those familiar with the situation are of the opinion that the carrying out of the gas rationing order will materially interfere with the job Michigan is doing in the war effort on the home front."

Finland's summer lasts only two to two and one-half months.

'School' For Registrars Next Tuesday

NEGAUNEE, Nov. 12—On the assumption there will be no further changes in the program of registration for and rationing of gasoline, H. S. Doolittle, superintendent of school and chairman for registration, has called a school of instruction for volunteer registrars to be held at 8 Tuesday evening in the high school.

Mr. Doolittle emphasized that all persons interested in rationing, whether they are connected with the registration group or not, will be welcome to attend.

"I believe," he said, "that the more opportunity we give people to learn the answers to their questions the less confusion and more satisfaction there will be with rationing."

The superintendent also expressed appreciation for the cooperation extended by teachers, members of women's organizations and the Horizon club, an organization of high school graduates.

"These volunteers, I am sure," he said, "will be capable registrars and with the instructions passed on to them from rationing officials we should be able to handle the Negaunee registration smoothly and easily."

Two Month Stay Costs Cleric $30

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—AP—The woman appealed to general session court for judgment against a minister who came for dinner and remained two months without paying.

Judge Neil Acuff heard the plaintiff testify that the evangelist was invited to the home, and, after dinner, it was agreed that he remain two weeks during the revival.

"It's just a case of someone wearing out his welcome," the judge commented. He granted the plaintiff $30 against the minister.

Detroit Utility Files Answer to Rate Petition

LANSING, Nov. 12—The state public service commission today filed November 23 for a hearing on the city of Detroit's petition for a rebate of revenues by the Detroit Edison company.

The city has asked the commission to rebate to its customers during November and December a sum equal to the amount it would pay in excess profits, taxes this year.

The company today filed its answer to the city's petition, admitting it will pay excess profits tax on about $5,000,000 worth of business, but denying that its rates were unreasonable or excessive.

The company reply asserted its existing rates would not produce a reasonable return next year under current business conditions and that there was no basis for the city's demand for a 25 per cent rate reduction.

The commission, the company contended, has no jurisdiction over the dispute with the city because it cannot reduce rates for a past period of time, nor in any future period to adjust earnings made in the past.

State Delays Drafting Of 1943 Budget

LANSING, Nov. 12.—P—With opening of the 1943 legislature only 54 days away, the law-makers' primary headache, the state budget, still is a long way from its initial draft.

Four reasons for the delay are advanced by fiscal authorities:

- 1—The necessity for appointing a new budget director.
- 2—The minor part played in preparing departmental requests by the state civil service department, sole authority over payrolls.
- 3—Difficulty foreseen by financial authorities in estimating revenues which will be available to the state in the next two years.
- 4—Delay occasioned while legislative leaders waiting to learn whether governor-elect Harry F. Kelly will ask them for two annual legislative sessions, a suggestion he advanced during his campaign.

To Name New Director

Kelly and Van Wagener have agreed to name a new budget director soon to succeed the former director, Leo J. Nowicki, who resigned to enter the Army. In the meantime, the acting director, C. J. McNeill, said he does not feel at liberty to proceed with the usual departmental hearings which are a preliminary step in the first budget draft. McNeill has gathered the supporting data, however.

Normally, when an administration is changing the budget preparation is confused, but this year the difficulty has increased because the job rests upon an acting director with limited powers.

McNeill, asserting he wished the legislature to have a clearer picture of payroll needs for the next two years, has invited the civil service department to sit in on all preliminary budget hearings.

He said the department had been consulted by some agencies, but that he felt it should advise with each department as to how many employees will be placed at salary maxima during the next two years.

"Civil service has power over all payrolls," he declared, "so it should be in on the preparation of the budget. The civil service people say they haven't wanted to usurp our budget powers, but I think they belong in the picture and I will recommend to whomever Mr. Kelly appoints that they be included."

McNeill, clerk of the senate finance committee in the 1941 legislative session, recalled the controversy between lawmakers that session and the new civil service commission because the latter agency was unable to say what it intended to do with proposed pay increases.

Nugent, Espie Oppose Proposal

"A department may get an approval from us and the legislature for five new employees in the next year," he said, "but if civil service isn't going to allow it, what's the use of going into it at all?"

Meanwhile, Speaker Howard Nugent, of the house, and Rep. John P. Espie, chairman of the house ways and means committee, showed little enthusiasm for Kelly's divided session proposal, but they did not reject it until they learned how far he intends to go.

They said the budget problem was doubled by difficulty in estimating revenues next year, but declared they saw little chance of a further fight over school aid payments. Schoolmen, Espie said, probably would not ask for more than the $44,500,000 granted them in 1941.

Million Dollar Bird Still Hides in Bush

KANSAS CITY—P—The May-weather brothers, Willie and Floyd, are convinced there's something to that old saw about a bird in the hand.

A year ago they were awarded a half share of $7,412,286 by a Sapuka, Okla., district judge as a climax to litigation over possession of Oklahoma oil land that once was the allotment of a Creek Indian.

Today the two Negroes still are working for a meat packing company. They haven't received a dime yet, and have no idea when they will. The oil companies have appealed to the Oklahoma supreme court and there the matter stands.

Meanwhile, interest at six per cent is piling up on the principal. The litigation grew out of a one-time 160-acre government land allotment to Lete Kolvin, Creek Indian. The district court held that Willie and Floyd are maternal nephews of Joe Stevens, Lete's last husband.

News Behind the News

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Two of Hitler's most formidable agencies in spearheading his 1940 conquest of Europe—his intelligence service and his fifth columnists—were completely outsmarted by American invasion of North Africa.

The operation was conducted with great secrecy. Aside from the elaborate preparations involving millions of tons of shipping, tanks, artillery, planes, food and men, which transformed docks and military centers here and in England into beehives, there were many other closely guarded moves.

The leaflets containing appeals to the natives were printed in England. In order to obtain the cooperation of Generals Charles de Gaulle and Henri Giraud, the Fighting French in France and Africa had to be let in on the plan. Rio de Janeiro was tipped off so that Brazil's ambassador to Portugal, timing his visit with F. D. R.'s nine o'clock message, could assure Lisbon that the attack meant no threat to her sovereignty. Radio and newspapermen allowed to go along had to be informed so they could procure the proper garb for the African climate and terrain.

Meanwhile our military representatives, posing as civilian inspectors and pseudo-diplomats in Unoccupied France, Madrid, the Portuguese capital and in French Morocco, were watching the enemy closely and making full reports on its strength, powers of resistance and prospective reaction toward our intervention. Der Fuehrer was indulging in understatement when he admitted in his Munich beer hall speech that he had been caught "off guard." The heads of some of Hitler's agents may roll.

HERO—The wooing and winning of the famous General Giraud to our side demonstrates conclusively that the French people favor the Allied cause over the Vichy government and will welcome a triumph of the democracies. "The incident is one of the most stirring individual exploits of the war."

The famous commander, who escaped from a German prison in the last struggle, Houdinied himself out of an enemy fortress six months ago. His ability to rope scale a steep wall at his age inspired suggestions that his getaway was phony and that he was being used by the Nazis. But they placed a price on his head and demanded his return from Petain and Darlan. He was too popular with the people and ex-soldiers for the Marshal and Admiral to hand him back to Berlin. Despite the reward for his recapture he moved about freely in utter safety.

A month before the Moroccan expedition Allied spokesmen got in touch with him and found him sympathetic to the Eisenhower plan. Anglo-American and French friends smuggled him out of France and placed him aboard a plane or sub. He appeared in Algiers only a few hours before the United States landing.

He immediately went on the radio with a request that the colonial troops offer no fight and join the liberators. His action, which may account for the speedy fall of this key city, startled the old man in Vichy. Petain branded the broadcast a propagandist fraud, assured the home folks that Giraud was loyal and gave out a letter in which he was supposed to have pledged his fealty. Meanwhile, DeGaulle gracefully sidestepped and left the stellar role in Africa to the better known First World War hero.

BOLT—The steady and amazing decline of Axis air power provides Washington and London with reasons for looking forward to a far shorter war than had been envisaged only a few months ago. At the very moment when United States production is topping five thousand machines a month—and that is nowhere near the planned peak—both Germany and Japan are strapped for planes.

An important factor in the rout of Rommel was Hitler's inability to rush Luftwaffe reinforcements to the vast desert stretches, where sky scouting is essential to victory. Not even after the Montgomery breakthrough and the Eisenhower invasion was it possible for Der Fuehrer to spare a few bombers or pursue for the fleeing "fox." The explanation is that his main force cannot be withdrawn from the Russian front and his factories are not turning out replacements in volume. It should also be noted that England has been comparatively free from a cloud blitzkrieg and that our flyers over western Europe and Italy are encountering almost no resistance.

Japan is in no better condition, according to some confidential military advisers. Although Tokyo has concentrated her principal strength in the Solomon sector, she has not been able up to now to accomplish heavy damage. Her lack of "umbrellas" explains MacArthur's surprising successes in New Guinea. Nippon's forces in the Aleutians were virtually bereft of craft after the first few weeks. Her armies in China, Burma and former Anglo-Dutch possessions are resting on their arms for want of an aerial armada. In short, there is a belief here that the Axis has shot its bolt in the blue.

OUTCASTS—Congressional Democrats show scant regret about the Capitol Hill re-alignment resulting from the G. O. P.'s overwhelming triumph on November 3rd. They behave as if they had rung up a tremendous victory.

Most important change will be a shift in numerical strength on major committees. The new setup will mean a reduction of New Dealers and an increase of Grand Old Party followers. There are no enough Rayburnites to go around in accord with the present distribution. Groups which now have fifteen Democrats and eleven Republicans will be altered to thirteen and eleven or nine. Those with fourteen and seven, or eleven and eight, will have a ratio of eight-five or seven-five.

The increase of rival members will furnish leaders with an alibi at the White House on failure of domestic legislation. When F. D. R. blames his wheel horses for not putting over his bills, they can cite the control exercised by the formal opposition and anti-Roosevelt conservatives. There will, of course, be no weakening in the handling of war measures for everybody is committed to all-out prosecution. But on issues like agriculture, labor, taxes, price controls, power, tariffs etc. the President crowd can hamper him without becoming political outcasts at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. And it probably will.

Winning The War

By Albert N. Leman

ROCKIES—Strategists cautiously watch the effect on Tokyo of our Moroccan drive. Instead of having the jitters the Japanese are likely to strike in retaliation. Nipponese do not love the Germans any more than we consider ourselves blood brothers to some of our allies. But they are realists and they know that the ultimate defeat of Hitler spells danger to Hirohito. The Nazis did a good turn in flattering the emperor's people when they were suffering from a sense of racial unpopularity. A New York diplomat who was in the islands in 1940 says that the Germans made two hundred personal contacts to every one scored by Americans or British—mainly through "tourists" who came by way of the trans-Siberian railroad. This favor is not forgotten.

The Chinese campaign was started seven years ago for the purpose of training all males to become veteran soldiers. Many died from disease in the swamps and hills of China. Katsuhiko's capture or fall before bullets, but the tough survivors constitute one of the most experienced armies in the world. Since 1924 when the U. S. A. passed its Exclusion Act the fanatical officer class has had one dream: Invade and punish the West Coast.

The hatred of the war lords is not so much the result of wishing to liberate India or Portugal. African Mozambique—and devote their economic energies to developing the Pacific Co-Prosperity Sphere.

GIANTS—Von Thoma has an excellent reason to cuss Americans. If one of our General Sherman tanks had knocked his vehicle Friday night not have been taken prisoner. This wonder machine which played so large a part in the Libyan affair is the dernier cri in desert styles. Just as the medium twenty-eight ton General Lee is an improvement on our earlier General Grant, this metal behemoth is an improvement on the latter. Its silhouette is low with heavy welded armor and it mounts a 75.5 extra long-barreled shooting iron.

But the Nazis "ain't seen nothing yet." It can now be told that unless the Axis skeddaddles altogether out of North Africa in a "Dunkirk" Uncle Sam has an even more telling surprise up his sleeve. We have available for the Moroccan front a sixty tonner which has the pulling power of twenty-four elephants. In fact it is actually a mobile gun carriage superior to the moving 15-cm cannon with which the Germans wrecked the British drive earlier in the year.

In our new mechanical armadillo United States engineers have combined two factors which Europeans have not been able to duplicate: Protective steel and speed which makes destruction less likely. Most tanks, including Hitler's best, have approximately one-half the horsepower in weight as compared with the shapely National Mozambique. We have secretly developed a transmission capable of handling a motor of great strength so that our giant moves as fast as the lights and mediums. And its battery effect is staggering. In fact it is the most formidable weapon of its kind in the world.

ALIENS—Demand for mechanics is so great in our armed forces and in our expanding war industries that it is denting the garage field. Many of the twenty million passenger cars and five million trucks now in operation may be immobilized unless repair men can be kept in the shops. The National Automobile Dealers Association recently surveyed the country and discovered that many concerns are hiring girls to tinker with motors but even they cannot fill the growing gap.

The Brookings Institution estimates that our new Army and Navy will require at least six million four hundred thousand additional civilian workers. The extra numbers must be drawn from women under forty-five years, the fourteen-nineteen and over sixty-five age groups and Mexican immigrants.

If heavy orders for additional help are given below the Rio Grande, welfare authorities foresee labor crawling and possible diplomatic name calling. Peons already admitted to the U. S. A. are segregated in schools and residence areas in many states and barred from sitting on juries which try their people. Last summer growers in western commonwealths brought in fifteen thousand Latin harvesters and in many cases paid wages of a

Consumers Urged To Attend 2-Day Institute Opening

It is urged that there be a large representation of townfolk, housewives and retailers, as well as representatives from other towns, at the first Consumer Institute to be held in the Upper Peninsula, under the auspices of the Marquette Consumer Interest committee of the O.C.D.

The first session of the two-day institute opens at 10:30 this morning in the home economics department of the Northern Michigan College of Education.

There will be a welcome by Dr. H. A. Tape, president of Northern Michigan University, chairman consumer committee, Michigan Council of Defense, and Mrs. Martha G. Sawyer, chief of consumer activities of the state Council of Defense, will attend the meeting.

Panel Discussion Today

The morning will be devoted from 10:40 to 12 to a panel discussion on "Does the Consumer Have a Place in War Effort?"

During the afternoon session, 1:15 to 3:15, there will be talks and demonstrations by the college home economics staff, and it will be followed by the Workshop from 3:15 to 4:15.

Tea will be served at the end of the first day's program by the Marquette county consumer committee.

Tomorrow morning there will be demonstrations from 10:30 to 12 in the morning, and a lecture and demonstration on "Meat Equivalents and Extenders" at 1:30 in the afternoon.

All sessions have been planned to emphasize the practical in the information on foods; equipment, its care and repair; and on clothing.

Have Had Much Experience

Mrs. Ida Z. Keinman, of Detroit, who is chairman of the state consumers' committee, has long been interested in social work, has served in many governmental agencies, and is a member of several organizations concerned with social work.

She is a member of the Detroit Citizens' housing and planning council, of the American Association of Social Workers, the Consumers League of Michigan, the Social Workers club of Detroit, and is on the advisory council of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation commission of which she was formerly commissioner. In addition, she was active on the mayor's unemployment committee in Detroit.

Mrs. Kleinmann will have much of interest to contribute to the Institute as will Mrs. Martha G. Sawyer, of Ann Arbor, chief of the Consumer Activities division of the Michigan Council of Defense, who is in charge of the Council's Consumer Interest programs in the state.

Ms. Sawyer's services are being loaned to the Council by the University of Michigan of whose faculty she is a member. She has been a lecturer in business reports in the School of Business Administration at the university for three years.

For nine years previously she was assistant to the dean of the school.

At present she is state president of the American Association of University Women's and has just completed a term as chairman of A. A. U. W. Social Studies committee, which devoted much time to the study of consumer problems. She has long been active in civilian defense work in Washtenaw county.

Mrs. Sawyer, who is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the American Economic association, and the American Business Writing association, has taken an active part in civic affairs in Ann Arbor. She is a past president of the Ann Arbor PTA council, a former member of the board of education and the board of directors of the Ann Arbor Community Fund.

Her husband, Lieut. Commander Ralph A. Sawyer, a professor of physics at the U. of M., is now on active duty in the Navy at the Naval Proving Ground at Dahlgren, Va., in charge of the armor and projectile laboratory.

There is no admission charge for the sessions of the Consumer Institute to be held today and tomorrow, and since all talks and demonstrations are of immediate interest to all consumers, housewives and clubwomen are urged to attend in numbers.

dollar a day. At the same time thousands of unemployed farm hands in the South were begging for jobs. The presence of the strangers created bad blood on both sides of the fence. A much greater rumorm is likely to explode next year if aliens swarm across the border.

EARTH—Headlines regarding labor migrations feature thousands of workers flocking to the war industrial areas. But not so well-known is a trek from the great metropolitan areas to the farm country. New York realty experts say that a noticeable trend is under way especially to upstate areas, the hinterlands of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont and to the Princeton, New Jersey, suburbs.

One rather strange reason for the movement is that families with small children and elderly people feared earlier in the war that cities might be bombed. That worry has practically disappeared. But people who inquired into rural properties were so impressed that purchases followed. Also this bubble of inflation drove many back to Mother Earth.
