Sue For Peace, Churchill Tells Italy

Warns of Great Assault From African Bases

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill tonight advised the Italian people to break with Mussolini and their German partners and sue for peace before their nation is brought "under prolonged, scientific and shattering air attack" from Allied North African bases.

Broadcasting to the world on the eve of his 68th birthday, the prime minister declared that "now at this moment the first British army is striking hard at the last remaining footholds of the Germans and Italians in Tunisia" and "before long" they will be expelled and the war will be carried to Italy "in a manner not hitherto dreamed of by its guilty leaders."

Decision Left to Italians

"It is for the Italian people, 40,000,000 of them, to say whether they want this terrible thing to happen to them or not," he said. Emphasizing the Allied peace offensive that was being directed toward Rome, the British Broadcasting corporation this afternoon preceded the prime minister's 30-minute speech with broadcast appeals to the Italian people to make a separate peace.

During the next 24 hours Churchill's speech will be broadcast in full to Italy, Germany and France four or five times by the BBC, and the high points of the address will be broadcast to the same countries throughout the week.

It was a victory speech that the war leader made in a strong, firm and confident voice, but he warned his people and their allies against dreaming their successes in North Africa, Russia and elsewhere had removed expectation of anything but a long war.

"Somerly," he concluded, "the dawn of 1943 will soon loom red before us, and we must brace ourselves to cope with the trials and problems of what must be a stern and terrible year."

'Farce' At Vichy Ended

Churchill said the overrunning of occupied France by the Germans was welcome by the United Nations because it brought "extinction for all practical purposes of the sorry farce and fraud of the Vichy government" and was a "necessary prelude to that reunion of France without which reconstruction was impossible."

The French fleet at Toulon, "brought by folly and worse than folly to its melancholy end," had redeemed its honor in the sacrificial fires, he said, and from "the flames and smoke of the explosions at Toulon France will rise again."

Disclosing that Premier Josef Stalin had cuttled to him the plans for the Russian offensives when he visited Moscow last August, thus implying that Russian strategy was dovetailed with that of the British and Americans in the Mediterranean, Churchill described the immense battle on the Soviet steppes as "moving forward to its climax."

"One hundred and eighty German divisions, many of them reduced to little more than brigades by the slaughters and privations they have suffered, must prepare themselves with weakened forces and with added pang for a second dose of what they got last year," he said.

While declaring the war may last much longer, he said "it may well be that the war in Europe will" (Turn to Page 8, Column 7)

Allied Leaders Confer In North Africa

22 Japanese Planes Bagged Over Canton

By J. Reilly O'Sullivan
WITH AMERICAN FORCES in China, Nov. 27.—(Delayed)—Twenty-two Japanese fighter planes were believed destroyed and five others probably shot down by American bombers and fighters in a slashing air battle today over Canton, while two large enemy freighters were sunk and the dock area plastered with bombs.

The mission sent out by Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of Allied air forces in China, returned unscathed despite "suicide" interception by Japanese fighters, most of whose planes went down in flames from the accurate blasting of our P-40's heavy-caliber machine gun fire.

These unofficial totals were compiled from pilots' reports. Only one Japanese bullet came near to causing a casualty. Sgt. T. H. Cave, Hollywood, Calif., was hit in the seat of his pants while photographing the action from a bomber's tail. It slightly bruised him. He saved the jagged slug as a souvenir.

The big fighter screen, led by Group Commander Col. Robert L. Scott, Macon, Ga., and the medium bombers, commanded by Lt. Col. Herbert Morgan, Freedom, Pa., gave the Japanese the worst day they have ever encountered from the aggressive, growing China air task force.

Lt. William Durwig, Boston, knocked down two Jap planes from his own fighter. Lt. John Lombard, Ionia, Mich., accounted for a single enemy ship.

Takes on Three Planes
Durwig, one of the first pilots to make contact with the enemy, shot down one of three Zeeros attacking Lombard. The Japanese pilot bailing out with his parachute.

"I leaped at one," Durwig related, "fought down on another, holding my fire until I was within 75 yards. Every shot went into the cockpit. The smoke was immediately followed by flames and he parachuted."

"I pulled out of my dive, turned back, and found another Jap coming head-on at me. I fired 150 rounds into him and down he went. Then another Jap got on my tail and I beat it."

Large Tanker Launched At Duluth Shipyard
DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 29.—P—The largest seagoing vessel ever launched from a Great Lakes shipyard slid down the ways today at the Barnes-Duluth Shipbuilding Co. yards.

50,000 Salesmen Join Treasury Financing Drive

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau today announced final details of a Treasury campaign to borrow $9,000,000,000 during December—the largest financing of its kind ever attempted.

About 50,000 professional salesmen in the banking, securities and insurance fields will join the campaign, Morgenthau said, in addition to some 300,000 volunteers of the war savings staff.

In view of the unprecedented borrowing next month, the Treasury does not expect further financing, except the usual sales of savings notes and bonds and Treasury bills, until February.

The principal security to be offered in the December drive is a 2-1/2 per cent bond due December 15, 1948, but callable five years earlier. Sales will be to individuals, corporations, institutions and other investors, except commercial banks, which may not hold the issue for their own account.

The issue will be in denominations from $500 to $1,000,000.

Japs Renew Occupation Of Attu Island

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Renewed Japanese occupation of Attu Island in the Aleutians was disclosed today by the Navy, which reported that a small enemy cargo vessel had been bombed, set afire and apparently sunk off the island.

A communique containing this information also reported new aircraft attacks in the south Pacific against the Japanese-held Munda bay area of the New Georgia islands in the Solomons.

Japanese destroyers have shelled native villages in the western islands of the New Georgia group, the communique said. One explanation of this action was that the enemy was apparently trying to scare the natives in these villages before moving in to occupy them.

RAF Blasts Turin With 4-Ton Bombs

LONDON, Nov. 29.—P—A powerful force of Britain's four-motored aerial freighters carried new, four-ton block-busting bombs across the trans-Alpine airways to Italy last night and delivered a devastating assault upon the northern arsenal city of Turin, already badly smashed eight nights before by the mightiest bomber armada ever sent against Mussolini's war factories.

In addition to dropping salvoes of the most powerful bombs ever made, the RAF scattered more than 100,000 incendiaries upon Italy's most important industrial and railway center.

It was the first mention of any German shipping in this area in months. The communique said the ship was in "the western sector." (Apparently this was in the Indian ocean west of Australia.)

In the action at Buna, the communique said, heavy bombers attacked an enemy naval force of four destroyers trying to bring in reinforcements.

Japs Land Reinforcements
SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Nov. 29.—P—Landing of submarine-borne Japanese reinforcements at beleaguered Buna was indicated today by the appearance of a "sizeable" force of enemy submarines off the Allied-surrounded base in New Guinea.

The submarine fleet was spotted by Flying Fortresses on reconnaissance patrol as American and Australian troops continued to carry the fight to the cornered but still fiercely resisting enemy garrison along a narrow, 10-mile beach-head between Buna and Gona.

The Fortresses also found a Japanese transport of 8,000 or 10,000 tons hiding at anchor between a mangrove island and Gona, but there were no landing craft about the ship and it was not determined whether it too had arrived with reinforcements.

Japs Raid Casualty Stations
Presence of the submarines was believed in some quarters to have accounted for Japanese marine reinforcements which have reached (Turn to Page 9, Column 2)

British Eighth Army Marks Time In Libya

CAIRO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—British and American air forces in the Middle East are entering increasingly into the Battle of Tunisia while Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's eighth army marks time on the approach to El Agheila, the desert funnel in which Marshal Erwin Rommel is expected to make his big stand in Tripolitania.

Medium bombers, striking from advanced air fields on Rommel's east flank attacked the Tunisian naval base of Bizerte Friday night, touching off large fires and explosions in the dock area, today's communique said.

The iron ore wharf received a direct hit and bomb bursts were served near fuel stores and fuelling jetties, unofficial reports added.

10,000 Nazis Being Killed Daily by Reds

MOSCOW, Nov. 30.—(Monday)—Russian armies have killed nearly 15,000 Germans in the new Soviet offensive west of Moscow and have crashed through a new German defense line of the east bank of the Don before Stalingrad in triumphant pursuit of the Nazis across the snows of Russia, it was announced early today.

A special communique said the grand offensive in the south alone had, in the 10 days between November 19 and November 29, netted the Soviet forces 66,000 German prisoners.

The Nazis killed on all fronts, the Soviet newspaper Izvestia reported, totalled 100,000 in the past 10 days—a rate of 10,000 a day.

Great Masses of Arms Seized
The onrushing Red army continued to sweep over populated places and towns both before Stalingrad and west of Moscow, the communique said, and great masses of material were reported captured.

The special war report announced the capture of Orlinaya, which is 70 miles southeast of Kotelnikowski, a city on the Stalingrad-Krasnodar railroad. This placed the lower fringe of the fighting well down on the Kalmuk steppes at the fringe of the Ergen hills in the upper Caucasus. In this area south of Stalingrad the Russians reported the capture of the station of Nevikovskiy.

Of the Stalingrad fighting, the special communique said: "During November 29 our troops before Stalingrad, overcoming (Turn to Page 9, Column 8)

Flame Of Match Causes Disaster In Night Club

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—(By A. P.)—A terrific "flash fire" that caused more than 600 casualties among a 1,000 suddenly panic-stricken merry-makers in Boston's Coconut Grove—the nation's worst night club holocaust—was traced tonight to a tiny match flame in the hands of a 16-year-old busboy.

While Deputy Police Superintendent James R. Claffin quoted the youngster as saying he had accidentally ignited a paper palm tree to start the lightning-like blaze, the Boston committee on public safety reported the death toll alone at 433 and added that it probably would reach 470.

Allies Only Twelve Miles From Tunis

LONDON, Nov. 29.—P—Axis forces in Tunisia stood with their backs to the sea today before the relentless drive of Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson's British first army, which had reached a point only 12 miles from the Mediterranean between Bizerte and Bizerte, and virtually had driven a wedge between the two enemy strongholds.

An Allied communique disclosed that the British, American and French troops sweeping in from the west had smashed their way to Djedida, an important railway junction 12 miles northwest of Tunis and only slightly farther from the sea.

By thus severing rail communication between Bizerte and Tunis the Allies almost at the start of the campaign virtually had isolated the Axis garrisons in the two cities, leaving only a coastal road open.

Simply by closing the narrow coastal corridor, Anderson's powerful forces could concentrate their assault against either Tunis or Bizerte and destroy the Axis barriers of each separately. Operations were said to be "proceeding satisfactorily" about Mateur, a major rail point 25 miles south of Bizerte.

The Paris radio said fighting also was going on in the Sousse area on the coast 70 miles southeast of Tunis.

Allied patrols were said to be operating in that area to cut off Axis forces trying to reach the Tunisia garrison from Italy's Tripolitania.

The capture of Djedida was preceded by a clash of armored units yesterday at Tebourba, 15 miles west of Tunis, in which 40 Axis tanks were reported to have been destroyed. The Nazis were dynamiting bridges and highways in the path of the Allied army, but their efforts to stem the drive were uniformly futile and they were believed to have fallen back upon their fixed fortifications outside Tunis and Bizerte.

Allied air forces were giving the enemy no rest. Ten Axis planes were believed to have been destroyed in air attacks on the airfield and docks at Bizerte yesterday, a communique said, with the loss of only two Allied craft.

Allied Leaders Confer
A dramatic conference between commanders of the British and American armies converging to destroy the last Axis forces remaining in North Africa portended a swift and deadly climax to the campaign, with Allied bombers and fighting planes playing an important role.

Flying Fortresses of the 9th U. S. Army Air Force carried Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur William Tedder, commander of the RAF in the Middle East, and Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the American Air Force in the Middle East, from Egypt to an Allied base somewhere in northwest Africa for a two-day conference with Allied leaders in that area.

Attending the meeting, at which plans were perfected for crushing the last Axis resistance, were Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of Allied forces in North Africa; Admiral Sir Andrew B. Cunningham, commander of Allied naval units in North Africa; Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle, commander of U. S. Air Forces in North Africa, and their staffs.

Crowd Thrown Into Panic
District Chief William J. Mahoney said he had found bodies tangled and piled four or five deep, most of them frightfully burned, and that there was definite evidence that the crowd had been thrown into a fighting, clawing panic. Chairs and tables were tipped and scattered among the bodies.

The inquest will be resumed tomorrow, with testimony by survivors and police.

The students who died included: John C. Cobb, business school, Green Bay, Wis.

The dead officers in special training included: William J. Rowland, 2nd lieutenant, Signal Corps, Gladstone, Mich.

21 SHOPPING DAYS TO Christmas Give WAR BONDS • STAMPS

'Fill 'Er Up' Spree Before Gas Rationing

Approximately 70 per cent of the motorists in Marquette county registered for basic mileage gasoline rationing "A" books November 18, 19 and 20 and those who did not must wait until after December 2 to make personal application at the ration office.

With or without books, motorists are expected to "make a run" on filling stations today before the national gas rationing program goes into effect at midnight tonight.

Motorists may purchase gasoline without restriction and without coupons today, and most of them probably will do so in order to start the rationing period with a full tank and save off as long as possible use of gas stamps.

Check Dealers, Distributors

Car owners will get a little better break for the first rationing period, ending January 21, 1943, than they will in succeeding periods. Because the start of the plan was postponed from November 22 to December 1, motorists will be allowed 32 gallons for a seven week period rather than for eight weeks, as will be the practice after January 21.

The "A" book starts with Coupon No. 3 in order to conform with eastern states where gasoline rationing has been in effect several months and where the first two coupons already have been used. All gasoline dealers and intermediate distributors in the Upper Peninsula will be checked tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday by representatives of the district OPA office, Michigan state police and agents of the secretary of state's office, Edward J. Dundon, district OPA manager, reports.

Fixed gasoline storage facilities and inventories will be checked as of December 1.

Sales of gasoline after 12:01 a. m., December 1, can be made only in exchange for gasoline coupons. Dealers and intermediate distributors must be prepared to show the inspectors sufficient gasoline coupons to make up for fuel sold or withdrawn from their tanks after 12:01 a. m. tomorrow.

Beginning tomorrow, all dealers and intermediate distributors must register on OPA Form R-545 with their county war price and rationing board. At the time of registration each dealer will receive a book of instructions, explaining the operation of mileage rationing. Holders of gasoline coupons must comply, also, with a new requirement, Dundon said. Each gasoline consumer must immediately endorse on the back of each coupon, in any or all books he may hold, the vehicle license number and date of registration.

Coupons Must Be Endorsed

Passenger fleet operators using interchangeable coupon books must endorse the fleet name, state and city in which the principal office of the fleet operators is located. "C" coupons must be endorsed on the back with the War Certificate number issued by the Office of Defense Transportation, or by the fleet name. "E" and "R" coupons must have endorsed thereon the name and address of the person to whom they are issued, as shown on the front cover of the coupon book. All endorsements must be in ink. Bulk coupons must be endorsed with the name and address of the person to whom the coupons were issued.

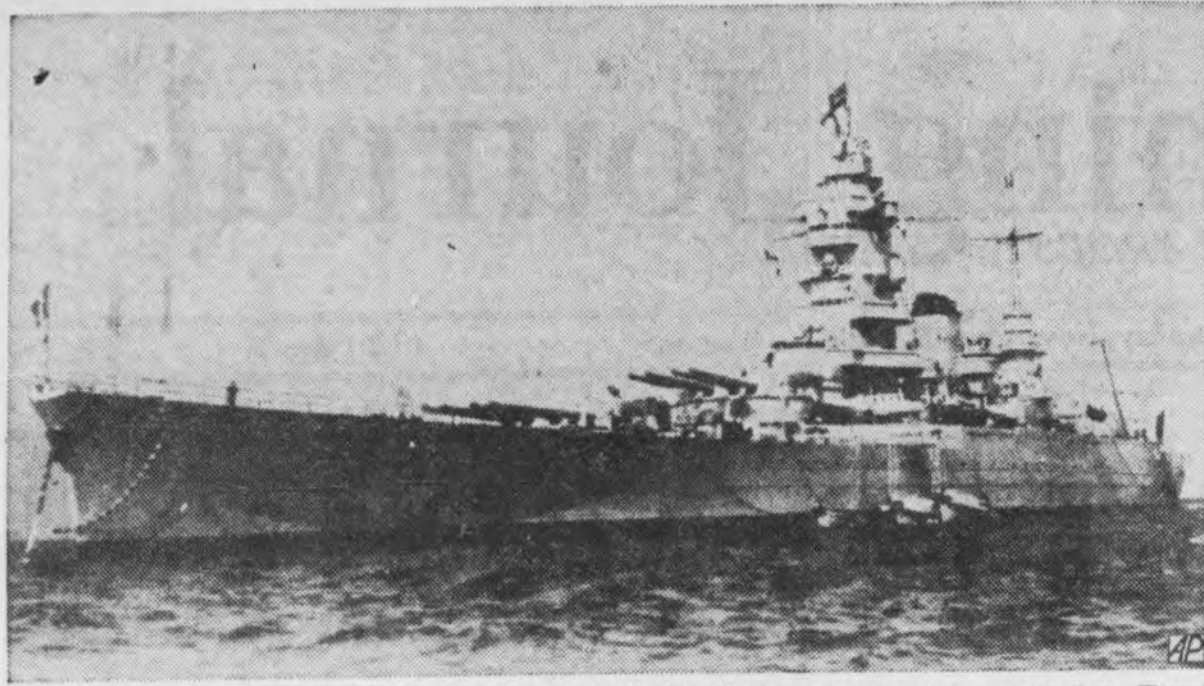

Dealers and intermediate distributors must write in ink on the reverse side of inventory coupons issued to them and the names and addresses of their establishments, as shown on their registration certificates. Dealers and intermediate distributors and suppliers will not honor a gasoline coupon unless the above endorsements appear thereon.

Salesmen Out Of Luck

Salesmen who apply for "C" mileage rationing books are doomed to disappointment, the local rationing board said after reviewing its first flood of applications for supplemental rationing.

"C" books are issued only to a restricted list of persons essential to the war effort, and provide gasoline for more than 470 miles a month. The local boards have no power to issue these books to drivers not listed in the essential categories from which salesmen are explicitly barred.

The board also is without power to increase gasoline allotments assigned to commercial vehicle operators by the Office of Defense Transportation. If the allotment is inadequate the operator may appeal for an increase to the district ODT office at Green Bay.

'Second Cup' Of Coffee War Casualty

"Have another cup of coffee?" At midnight Saturday that question passed out of use for Americans on the home front for the duration, because at that hour coffee rationing became a reality and now its one cup a day for coffee drinkers after they reach the end of the stocks they now have in their pantries.

Pound Every Five Weeks

The new ration provides for a pound every five weeks for each person over 15 years of age, and if that's not enough, you may supplement by visits to restaurants during business hours. Even that resort has its limitations since some restaurants have ruled that coffee will be sold only with food orders. So that extra cup at the lunch counter may entail eating a second breakfast—bad for the purse and waistline.

Coffee may be purchased by surrendering stamp No. 27 of ration book No. 1—the sugar book. Subsequent purchases will require surrendering of stamps in the back of the book, while remaining stamps in the front of the book will be used for sugar.

Ration book No. 1 will be retired soon after the first of the year when a "universal" book is to be issued.

Rush To Buy Unnecessarily

Coffee wholesalers and distributors are appealing to householders to withhold immediate use of the first coffee stamp unless it is necessary. This will ease the pressure of the coffee roasters, who are striving to have ample supplies everywhere as rationing begins.

One coffee firm, in an advertisement in the Daily Mining Journal today, makes the following appeal: "Wasting problems of production and distribution make it impossible to have enough coffee everywhere at the same time to fill all demands immediately. So spread your stamps out. If you have a number of coffee stamps in the family, we suggest you buy several times in the next few weeks instead of all at once. And if you have enough coffee on hand to last a while, don't rush down to the store to get your ration. Let your less fortunate neighbors have a chance to get their coffee first. Stamp No. 27 is good through January 3, 1943."

Cloveland Press Suspended—Ewen, Nov. 29—Subscribers of the Cloveland Press of Ewen received a letter the first of the week announcing the suspension of that newspaper for the duration of the war. This action, as stated in the letter is due to the decrease in revenue received through the paper and the scarcity of skilled help required to publish a newspaper. The Cloveland Press was established by William N. McQueen and William J. McPhail, both experienced newspaper men. The first issue was published December 12, 1912.

Truck Owners Get More Gas, If 'Short-Changed' in Error

Temporary gasoline rations will be granted to operators of commercial vehicles whose Certificates of War Necessity, because of clerical or other errors obvious on the face of the certificates, provide for less fuel than the owners should have been granted to operate their vehicles under ODT regulations, it was announced Saturday by Edward J. Konkol, district manager, Office of Defense Transportation, Green Bay, Wis.

Through an agreement between the ODT and the Office of Price Administration, such operators will, upon presentation of the erroneous certificates to their OPA war price and rationing board, be given gasoline ration sufficient for one month's operation.

Operators of commercial motor vehicles who have filed applications for Certificates of War Necessity, but who have not received certificates also may obtain temporary rations sufficient to operate through December 31.

Operators May Appeal—The holder of such a temporary ration or any holder of a certificate who is dissatisfied with the amount of gasoline allowed him may appeal at once for a modification to his ODT district office, after which a corrected certificate will be issued if sufficient cause for making such a correction is shown.

Farmers and other operators of commercial motor vehicles engaged in transportation of farm commodities and supplies should make such appeals through their county agents or, directly to the United States Department of Agriculture war board in their county. The war boards will review individual cases and send recommendations to the ODT district office for correction.

Instructions are being issued to district offices to follow the recommendations of county war boards for adjustment.

Many Errors Found—Gasoline allowed in temporary rations will be subtracted from gasoline allowance in the corrected certificates.

ODT officials said a number of cases had been reported in which Certificates of War Necessity contained obvious errors.

In many cases, the ODT added, applications for Certificates of War Necessity contained insufficient information to enable the ODT to determine how much gasoline or mileage was required. In such cases, small amounts of gasoline were allowed the operators to tide them over, pending receipt of further information.

Farm Machinery Repair School on December 7

EWEN, Nov. 29—A machinery repair and construction course will open December 7, at Leo Nippa's shop, Bruce's Crossing. All interested farmers are asked to report at 8 a. m. for the organization meeting. Another machinery course may be opened at Ewen on a later date.

The Government is urging that machinery repair and construction courses, also other production courses, such as dairy and poultry, be held in all communities where it is possible. H. W. Newland is helping to organize courses in this area. "There is no expense to the farmer, and if you have something you want to make, such as a sweep rake, or a 'bug', or a mower to get into adjustment, get into one of the blacksmith shops listed above and go to work?" Newland said today.

In 1940 German and Rumanian supplies of oil were about 2.6 per cent of world production.

4 Ways to Save

for Victory

- Keep your modern gas range clean both inside and out. Don't let spilled foods burn onto the top burners or the oven lining but clean off as soon as possible. Follow recommendations and instructions of the manufacturer or ask at our service desk for suggestions in cleaning the porcelain finish of your range to keep it beautiful for years.
- Use your gas range economically . . . your gas refrigerator and water heater too. Use all the cheap gas you want but don't waste it as gas is a vital war fuel, helping to build armaments and fighting equipment in many a large industrial plant now converted to war needs. When you bake, cook an oven meal too. Switch your burners to simmer speed when foods are boiling to save not only fuel but the vitamins and mineral salts in the foods. Use low temperature baking to lessen shrinkage in meats.
- Have your gas appliances kept in good repair and they'll last for many years. But, please don't ask us to make special trips to your home for a repair or adjustment service that can wait. We, too, must save tires, oil, gasoline and trucks, as well as man hours. We're "bunching" calls, making each trip out with a truck take care of a half dozen jobs instead of one, so it may be a day or two before we get to you but we ask your cooperation and patience. The more we save at home the sooner the boys at the front will get more of the things they need to win this war. Emergency calls, of course, will be answered immediately, but please don't ask for immediate service otherwise.
- Invest every dime, every dollar you can in war savings stamps and bonds to help defeat the Axis. You're only asked to LOAN 10% . . . is that too much to ask when the men in our armed forces, yes and the women too, are GIVING EVERYTHING? Do your full share, BUY ANOTHER WAR BOND TODAY! What you save now will buy those new and wonderful home appliances you'll want when this war is won.

Few Hunters In Woods As Season Ends

Many Marquette county residents took advantage of fine weather yesterday to make a last-minute assault on the deer, but hunting here and elsewhere in the Upper Peninsula is expected to be light today, the last day of the season. No new hunter fatalities have occurred during the last four days, but searching parties are still looking for two missing men, Edward Hickman, 29, Detroit, lost near Newberry since November 16, and James Newbigging, Pontiac, lost since Friday noon near Nirvana in the Lower Peninsula.

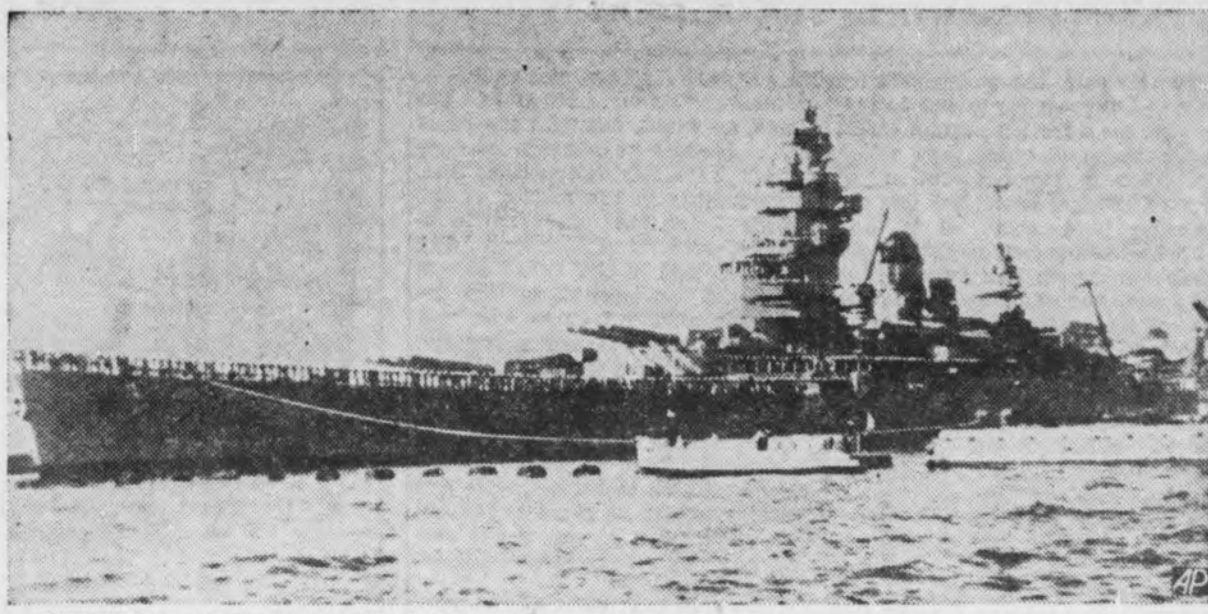

A large force of conservation officers and volunteers is searching for Newbigging, and considerable fear for his safety has been expressed because of the freezing temperatures prevailing in the area in which he was reported lost. Camp Roads Blocked Where snowfall was light, hunting conditions in the Upper Peninsula were good, but deep snow and cold weather got the best of almost all other areas. The conservation department reports only a few hunters left in Upper Peninsula woods, of whom are concerned with getting their cars from camps to secondary roads. Road plows in the Houghton region, center of the Thanksgiving day storm, have opened roads into remote hunting regions, and as far as is known all hunters got out safely. A road was cleared to Bete Gris, 40 miles north of Calumet near Keeweenaw point. Granite Point Road Opened Fourteen persons were marooned during the storm at camps at Granite Point north of Marquette. They got out safely only after roads were opened by use of a tractor and makeshift snowplow, obtained from the Skaug lumber camp. Automobiles owned by Walter Steere, Ralph Eldredge and Otto Schwenke were towed out by the tractor and the group of 14 persons, among them hunters and campers who had gone there for Thanksgiving day dinners, were transported from the snowbound area. At Conway lake cars owned by Dr. A. K. Bennett and Paul Tinetti, Jr., were reported snowbound. The conservation department reported yesterday that final figures on the number of deer and bear carcasses taken across the Straits of Mackinac would be available Wednesday.

Trapper Held For Shooting Of Warden

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Nov. 30—Michigan state police are holding Emil Schroeder, 46, a trapper in the woods near Sagola, in connection with the fatal shooting Nov. 18 of a Wisconsin conservation warden. Jack Miller, state police detective, said Schroeder had been identified as the killer of Albert E. Reif, 33, and had admitted the shooting which occurred in the woods near the Wisconsin-Michigan border. Miller, who arrested Schroeder Saturday, said the identification was made by Floyd Sanders, who was with Reif at the time.

Ewen

Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Hogue visited in Ironwood over the weekend. Mrs. Fred Mursu and daughter, Phyllis, have returned from Detroit after a visit with relatives. Vernon Halverson and Eugene Ellefson, Bergland, were Ewen visitors last week. The Misses Leona, Blanch and Irene Lanctot, Marinisco, have returned home after a brief visit with friends and relatives in Ewen. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt and Harold Harmon, Coldwater, have returned home after hunting in the vicinity of Ewen. Mrs. Adams and daughter, Miss Dee Wolters, and Miss Arlene Hayes, Pontiac, have returned home after a visit here with friends. Mr. and Mrs. Dolph Stindt, Marquette, are here visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lindgren. Miss Catherine MacKenzie and Miss Mayme Makie spent the weekend at their homes in Minneapolis and Virginia, Minn., respectively. Word has been received of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Arne Posio, Rockland, former Ewen residents. Sgt. Urho Raisanen has returned to Sacramento, Calif., after spending a furlough here with his parents. The Misses Elynor Kempainen and Emma Johnson spent the weekend with friends and relatives in Hancock. The Women's Society of Christian Service will hold a bake sale and bazaar at the Methodist church Saturday, December 5, from 2:30 to 5. Tom Miesbauer, who is attending vocational school in Superior, Wis., spent Thanksgiving here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Miesbauer. Gordon Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Anderson, spent the Thanksgiving vacation here. He is a student at Western college, Kalamazoo. Miss Joy Kooker, instructor in the Trout Creek schools, spent the weekend here with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kooker. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kling have received word of the promotion of their son, Raymond, from private to first class. He is stationed at Camp Aterbury, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cummings

Serving U. S.

News About Marquette County Men in Uniform

EDITORS NOTE—The Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Merchant Marines are growing in strength every day. That means more and more Marquette county men are "serving U. S." They read and enjoy this column as faithfully as those of us at home. Don't fail them! Send in items about men in uniform to the Service Editor, The Mining Journal, Marquette, Mich., or telephone Marquette 129. In Ishpeming, phone 3; Negaunee, 401, and in Republic, 701.

ALBERT JOKELA, son of Mrs. A. Saima Jokela, 212 East Peck street, Negaunee, former student at the Northern Michigan College of Education and one of its outstanding basketball players, has been awarded his "Navy Wings of Gold" and a commission as ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He completed his training at Corpus Christi, Tex. At class graduation exercises there, he was designated a naval aviator.

Jack West, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. West, Hancock, former residents of Marquette, has been advanced from the rank of second lieutenant to first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps. Lieut. West has resumed flying after recovering from injuries received when his dive bomber crashed in Tennessee a few weeks ago. During his convalescence, he and Mrs. West visited a short while in Hancock.

Pvt. D. G. Yshinsky, portside Marquette kegger, has been transferred from Camp Wolters, Tex., to Camp Young at Indio, Calif., desert training center, where he is attached to the U. S. Army Signal Corps. Dave is anxious for his Mining Journal to catch up with him, having missed a few en route. His address is: Hqs. Co., 4th Arm'd Sig. Bn., Camp Young, Indio, Calif.

Pvt. Lawrence "Eke" Peickert, another Marquette kegger, has been under the weather a bit lately at Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis., but says he's in the pink now and rarin' to go. He had an attack of pneumonia. "The first time I've been in a hospital in 22 years," he writes.

Ensign Dominic Ghiardi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ghiardi, East Peck street, Negaunee, is home from Connecticut to visit relatives and friends. He recently received his commission after completing four months' training. He entered service for Naval Reserve officer training shortly after his graduation from Northern Michigan College of Education last June.

Paul R. Cody, son of Frank Cody, Iron street, Negaunee, has returned to the U. S. Naval station, Norfolk, Va., after spending a 10-day furlough with his father.

After serving in several parts of Australia, Sgt. Oliver A. Vallma, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Vallma, Box 468, Gwin, has been moved with his outfit to New Guinea. He says it's not as bad as it sounds. "We are in the trenches and it's really warm here," Oliver writes.

Pvt. Harland Im'slund, son of Mrs. P. Im'slund, Marquette, has returned from Munising. They attended the funeral of their son-in-law, Stanley Charron, who was killed in an auto accident near Detroit.

has arrived at Scott Field, Ill., U. S. Army reception center.

After serving seven months in the U. S. Army, Donald M. Archambeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Archambeau, 363 Argyle street, Marquette, has been advanced from private, first class, to corporal. He entered the service last June 9 and is now stationed at the Army Air Base, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Mrs. Aldaya Jenore, Humboldt, has been informed that her son, Pvt. Joseph Edward Jenore, better known as Ed to his pals, is serving at Camp Calumet, San Diego, Calif., where he's attached to Btry. D, 53rd A. A. Tng. Bn.

First Sgt. Louis F. Hamel, his wife, Opal, and their son, Jerry, have returned to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., after spending 30 days visiting Sgt. Hamel's parents in Champion. Just before returning home, Louis had the pleasure of receiving a telephone call from his former classmate, Billy Mitchell, Champion, who is attending radio school in Indianapolis, Ind. They planned a get-together on Louis' return.

Tech. Cpl. Joseph A. Clark, son of Charles C. Clark, 2206 Wilkinson avenue, Marquette, has been enrolled in a special course of instruction at the Signal Corps school at Camp Murphy, Fla. Cpl. Clark was selected for this specialized training on the basis of his aptitude.

Five more Upper Peninsula young men who enlisted in the U. S. Navy at the recruiting station in Marquette have been accepted in Milwaukee. They are Jerome Ernest Dupuis, 20, Lake Linden; Dominic Charles Faletti, 20, Kearsarge; Theodore Robert Hainault, 20, Hubbell; Charles Jarvi, 19, Laurium; and Ralph John Spehar, Jr., 20, Calumet.

"Life in the Army agrees with me very much." Pvt. Frank S. Kronsich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Kronsich, Princeton, writes. Frank has been taking an eight-week Field Artillery course at Fort Sill, Okla. He used to be a miner but is now attached to a mule transport unit, where, he says, both he and the mules are "getting a kick out of life."

PFC Floyd N. Christy has returned to Camp Edwards, Mass., after spending a 10-day furlough with his wife and mother in Carlsbad. He has been in the service nine months and likes it very much. The Christys celebrated Thanksgiving early this season because Floyd had to report back to camp for duty Thanksgiving morning.

New Negaunee recruits at the Great Lakes, Ill., Naval Training station at Donald Carl Austin, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Carl Austin, 221 East Clark street, and Neale Marvin Veale, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Veale, 306 Cherry street. After boot training, they'll get a nine-day leave before being assigned to duty elsewhere.

Cadet Jack McDonald, U. S. Navy Air Corps, who has completed his course at the Navy's preflight school in Iowa City, is home on furlough and will leave Wednesday for Minneapolis where he will resume flight training. The son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McDonald, 427 North Front street, he is a former student in Northern Michigan College of Education. He took his preliminary flight training at the Marquette county airport under the instruction of Sigurd O. Wilson and his secondary flight course at Madison, Wis.

Editor Lists Duties At Government's Request

NAHUNTA, Ga., Nov. 30.—(UP)—Uncle Sam asked, and Editor Carl Broome, of the Brantley Enterprise, a weekly newspaper, answered—in detail. Filling out an occupational questionnaire for selective service he gave his duties as:

"I write news, editorials, advertisements, keep books, pay bills, read proof, clean type, set headlines, set advertisements, set news and editorials, pay bills, set jobs, fold press, cut paper, wrap bundles, solicit advertisements, solicit subscriptions, pay bills, repair presses and linotype (checkeg repairing), splice belts, saw metal cuts, pay bills, chisel cuts, make up newspaper, order supplies, tell people where the local draft board is, tell others where the 'n's lawyers might be, tell still others that silly rumor they were excited about was only a silly rumor, pay bills, wash forms, distribute type, solicit job printing, pacify irate subscribers whose paper failed to arrive, pay bills, edit bungled copy, collect bills,

Whiskey Sale Hit by War Restrictions

Wartime conditions, drastically affecting the liquor industry as many whiskey stills are converted to the production of alcohol for explosives, will reduce the number of brands to be carried in state liquor stores.

Nearly 100 brands of straight, blended and bottled-in-bond bourbon, rye and corn whiskey, as well as some brand of gin and sloe gin are listed by the state liquor commission as "unavailable" and will be dropped from state store stocks, the manager of the Marquette branch store, has been advised.

Accompanying the list of brands to be eliminated was an order revising purchase plans for SDD dealers and Class C tavern license holders. The SDD dealers will be permitted to make purchases not oftener than once a week, and may not purchase more than a normal two weeks' supply at a time, according to the revised rules.

Class C licensees may not make purchases oftener than twice a week and may not purchase more than a normal week's supply at a time. A further provision requires that holders of class C licenses must purchase three, six or 12 or more bottles a time and eliminates sale of single bottles to this group.

Public Must Buy Victory Securities

Faced with the greatest war-financing job in history, the Government is calling upon every person and business organization in the nation to invest to the utmost in the future security of America through purchase of Victory Loan securities, according to E. L. Pearce, executive vice-president of the Union National bank and chairman of the regional Victory Fund committee.

The safest investment in the world because they are backed by the integrity of the United States government, these Victory Loan securities now are offered in several different forms to meet the needs of every type of buyer—wage earners who absorb more heat than a bright, shiny one.

er, farmer, banker, co-operative creamery, trust fund, small and large business firms, Pearce said. "In December alone, our government must raise $9,000,000,000 to pay the cost of fighting this war," Pearce pointed out. "Citizens of this region and of every other section of the United States must do their part to help us reach this tremendous goal."
Victory Fund committeemen and War Savings staff members have full information on all the various types of Victory Loan securities—securities that Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau describes as "designed for every type and class of investor."

Now you can buy COFFEE AGAIN

ALL LAST WEEK grocers were not allowed to sell coffee to consumers. So you couldn't buy any. But the "freeze" is over, and since midnight, November 28, you have been able to take War Ration Book One — up to now just your "Sugar Book" — to the grocery store and buy coffee again.

Stamp No. 27 in the "Sugar Book" (lower left-hand corner) is good for one pound of coffee through Sunday, January 3, 1943, if the age shown at time of registration was 15 years or over. Any person not having a "Sugar Book" may still obtain one by registering (prior to December 15, 1942) with his local War Price and Ration Board and, subject to age limit, the stamps will be good for coffee, too.

Ration stamps for coffee must be detached by the grocer or his authorized delivery man because of the age limit. Stamps authorized for coffee must not be detached from a book "under age limit," as these stamps will have to be accounted for when the time comes to renew the "Sugar Book."

Wartime problems of production and distribution make it impossible to have enough coffee everywhere at the same time to fill all demands immediately. So spread your stamps out. If you have a number of "coffee stamps" in the family, we suggest you buy several times in the next few weeks instead of all at once. And if you have enough coffee on hand to last a while, don't rush down to the store to get your "ration." Let your less fortunate neighbors have a chance to get their coffee first. Stamp No. 27 is good through January 3, 1943.

On the other hand, if it happens that limited transportation facilities—living in the country, for instance—make buying in the specified quantities a hardship, we understand that you may apply to your local War Price and Ration Board for a certificate enabling you to buy up to five pounds of coffee at a time. (The equivalent number of stamps will be removed from your book to cover the "advance" ration.)

If there should be any change in the basis or method of coffee rationing, it will be publicly announced and your grocer will also know. You can count on him to keep you properly informed.

The quantity of coffee obtainable by anyone under Rationing Regulations at the time this goes to press will represent a greater reduction for many people than it will for others. But let's look at rationing . . . for coffee or any other commodity . . . in a sensible and reasonable manner. Rationing is a wartime measure made necessary, in the case of coffee, by interruptions in supply that have resulted from a shortage of ships . . . aggravated by unusual consumer buying in the past few months. And even if it serves no other purpose, rationing is a means by which everyone will be able to get his share of the coffee that is available.

It is to be hoped that many of the recent uncertainties of supply and demand that have existed across the Nation with respect to coffee will become adjusted through the functioning of coffee rationing. And let us hope, too, that as time goes on more ships will be available to bring in the supplies of green coffee that are awaiting shipment from our neighboring countries in the South and Central Americas. Statements by Government authorities have indicated a desire to increase the allowance of coffee under the rationing system just as soon as conditions will permit—perhaps even eliminate it entirely. When that happens . . . wholly or even in part . . . the coffee-pot will indeed have a new "silver lining."

Fanatical and Tenacious

NEWS from Guadalcanal and New Guinea for several days gone far to confirm what Mr. Grew, the former ambassador to Japan, has been telling the country about the fanaticism and tenacity of the Japanese fighter.

The character and formidability of the task of driving the Japanese out of the islands and areas they have conquered is shown by the news from New Guinea. Its terrain is similar to that of other tropical areas in which the Japanese are established.

While Hitler may be the principal enemy, all that has happened in the months that have passed since the attack on Pearl Harbor makes clear that the war against him is one thing and the war against Japan entirely another.

The scuttling of the fleet was a notable negative contribution to the United Nations cause. But recognition of this fact cannot prevent regret that it was not, while there was still time, sailed to North African ports.

Campaign Expenditures

Michigan Republicans were out-spent by the Democrats in the campaign of '42. Their total is reported at $64,750, compared with $107,000 by the Democrats.

As the fat fryers of both parties were equally energetic it is apparent that the Democrats had access to the best sources. The influence of the highway department doubtless turned in a considerable part of their funds.

Cabinet Shakeup?

If the adage that where there is much smoke there is some fire is applicable there seems to be probability of an early shake-up in the Roosevelt cabinet.

A Great Secretary of State

The same man who outgassed most of the Administration last fall, warning that Japan would attack us before Germany, is largely responsible for the initial success of our North African offensive.

'Hatchet Day'

'Hatchet Day' is a significant expression in the occupied Netherlands. Hollanders are collecting hatchets against the time when Allied armies free their country from the German occupation.

measures that would have prevented its development. Men have been taken for the services with too little attention to the needs of industry.

We have been in the war nearly a year. We are only now beginning to deal seriously with a fundamental problem that should have been taken up within a period of weeks after our entry.

News Blackout in France

While Vichy news has for some time been suspect as under Nazi influence, it has been of much more value as revealing what has been going on in France than that which has emanated from Nazi controlled Paris.

Fortunately there are still a few relatively free sources from which the seepage of news from France can reach the world. There are still Stockholm, Bern, Madrid and Lisbon.

The story will conform to those that have come from other occupied countries. But because France is greater in potential power of resistance, it may be treated with somewhat more consideration.

The status of Petain and Laval is for the moment obscure. The one failed France; the other failed the Nazis. They may be kept as a facade of a Nazified French government—though Petain would not be likely to accept the role—or they may have to give way to new Nazi instruments.

The scuttling of the fleet was a notable negative contribution to the United Nations cause. But recognition of this fact cannot prevent regret that it was not, while there was still time, sailed to North African ports.

Merchant Deserves Credit

While we are fretting about the personal effect on us of gasoline, tires and food rationing and other inconveniences of the war program we might give a little thought to the plight of the merchant.

He has imposed on him the same restrictions as we have and in addition has the thankless job of administering the restrictions directly to the public.

Teamwork, Not Rivalry

The row over the President's request to Congress for power to suspend for the duration certain tariff, immigration and other laws which interfere with the prosecution of the war, if regrettable, has one encouraging implication.

In light of the recent elections, our legislative branch has developed a new spirit, one of determination to reassert its function as an equal partner in government. That this in itself is a wholesome growth very few of us will deny.

But in applying them it should be extremely careful to remember that to crush the enemy must now be the country's first object, and to this end an essential pre-requisite is co-operation with the commander in chief, not rivalry for authority.

Side Glances

The suggestion of resentment is unfortunately strong. Much of the blame, no doubt, lies with the President. He has on occasion misused powers previously delegated to him, conspicuously in the matter of the $25,000 limitation on individual salaries, something Congress had twice rejected in its consideration of income tax legislation.

On the other hand, Congress too, is at fault. Both in its indiscriminate surrender to his demands and in its opposition to them at the best of pressure groups it has emboldened the President to take advantage of it.

But while the American public will be glad to learn that Congress intends to redeem this sloppy record it wants no revengeful swing of the pendulum. In the present instance it is aware, through the testimony of some of the most distinguished and able men in charge of our war effort, that the restrictions the President would suspend are in fact impediments to that effort.

$9,000,000,000 VICTORY LOAN

The Secretary of the Treasury has assigned to the Victory Fund Committees the task of raising Nine Billion Dollars for the War effort. These funds are to be raised during the month of December.

The War wheels turn swiftly now. Our guns boom over the Mediterranean, in the South Seas, in Russia, in the hills of China, across the English Channel, and on every ocean where our convoys pass. Behind them must stand our billions—billions of dollars.

Every American should lend every available dollar to our Government. Every American corporation with available cash should purchase suitable Treasury issues. The Treasury Department has created issues of securities to meet the requirements of all investors with accumulated savings or idle funds.

We offer on behalf of The United States Treasury a New Issue 2½% Victory Bonds of 1963/68

Available in coupon or registered form, readily marketable, acceptable as bank collateral, and paying interest semi-annually.
Price 100% and accrued interest.

WE ALSO OFFER ON BEHALF OF THE TREASURY

1¾% Treasury Bonds

Due June 15, 1948 and yielding 1¾%.
(Readily marketable bonds acceptable as bank collateral. These bonds will find favor with banks, individuals and corporations desiring a short term investment. They are issued in coupon and registered form.)

Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness

Due December 1, 1943 and yielding ¾ of 1%.
(The above issue appeals particularly to banks and to corporations with large temporary cash balances.)

Treasury Tax Savings Notes

(Tax Notes are especially adapted to individuals and corporations accumulating cash for the payment of Federal income, estate or gift taxes—for which they are acceptable at par and accrued interest—and for investment of temporarily idle funds of individuals, corporations and public bodies.)

United States Savings Bonds—Series F

Due 12 years from date of issue and yielding about 2.53% if held to maturity.

(This issue is not marketable but may be redeemed by the owner at fixed prices prior to maturity, although in that case the yield is not the full 2.53%. These bonds are registered and appeal particularly to those preferring to have their savings accumulate, rather than to receive current income.)

United States Savings Bonds—Series G

Due 12 years from date of issue and yielding 2.50% if held to maturity. Interest payable semi-annually.

(This issue is not marketable but may be redeemed by the owner at fixed prices prior to maturity, although in that case the yield is not the full 2.50%. These bonds are registered and are designed to provide current income.)

Detailed descriptions of the above issues are available at all Banks and Trust Companies. Selection should be made on the basis of individual requirements. Any Bank, Investment Dealer, Broker or other member of the Victory Fund Committee will be pleased to discuss these issues with you, and to act for you, without charge, in their purchase.

They're Cutting Off Shirtrtail Bit At A Time

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

The girls aren't the only ones to have their wardrobe affected by the war. It is true that gone are the voluminous draperies of other days. Don't know what those women who were wont to dress themselves with flowing skirts, wide angel sleeves, swirling sashes, will do now.

There's one good thing about it, we shall no longer see a too-too plump dowager care sailing into a room with useless yards of streamers fluttering, looking for all the world like a ship in full sail. Those were the girls who always read poetry, of all things! If they had elected to give a glowing herd, a bull moose, a galloping herd, the cowboy rodeo, or any other rather virile subject, their stage appearance would not have seemed so incongruous.

She Is Simplified

But now the too plump, overly sentimental, gesturing woman will step forth quite streamlined.

Her more slender sister will not be wearing a bolero or eton jacket with her afternoon or evening dress. Nor will she have cuffs on her sleeves and huge patch pockets scattered all over her suit. She, too, will be trim.

Nighties, pajamas, slips, girdles. . . all those articles of apparel have been trimmed down and simplified in design by reason of the war and the need to conserve goods.

However, the lads have been taken into camp, too, and effectively shorn of some of the excess materials used in their wearing apparel. Cuffs have disappeared from trousers. The high waisted, pleated trousers received the thumbs-down gesture. Suits began to conform to the smart and tailored look of the military uniform.

But the diverting announcement (I mean as read by the women) is the (2) story that men's shirtrails will be shorter and pajamas plainer.

Shear Off Shirtrails

Shirts manufactured after December 15 will be two to three inches shorter; which, it is estimated, will result in an annual saving of cotton and other materials sufficient to manufacture 10,000,000 additional shirts. The order to simplify pajamas will save enough material annually to make about 200,000 additional pajamas.

That's a sizable saving, but there is another angle to the new order about men's shortened shirtrails that makes the women chortle.

You have seen the lads, rather slim as to hips and not too bothered about personal appearance, who have had the habit of buying long-tailed shirts. They wear them tucked into their pants and the rest bloused over the belt, billowing in the breeze, looking slouchy; often part of the shirt tail was pulled out entirely in the back. With, or without cuffs, they tended to look slovenly. With shorter shirtrails the order of the day, they won't be able to gallop around with that flopping blouse effect.

They'll Have Red Ears

And then there are the absent-minded lads, encountered now and then, who, lacking a clean handkerchief to polish their glasses, will nonchalantly pull up a bit of slack of shirtrail and rub their glasses and calmly tuck in their shirt again. They will have to keep in mind the rationed shirtrails of garments manufactured after mid-December. If they don't they're going to be quite embarrassed.

Some of the boys are going to be quite embarrassed anyhow. You know the classical gesture of some of the men when they are a bit peeved about something, or at a loss for a gesture to express their self-consciousness at having to make a decision. It is quite the classic gesture for some of them to straighten up, importantly, put in their tummies, and tuck in their shirtrail. It's kind of a serving notice: "I've said my say, I'm grouchy. The conversation is finished."

The fellows had better acquire the habit of military posture and no slouching or they'll find the abbreviated shirtrails waving in the breeze.

Don't Ask Them To Stretch

Wives will have to remember not to ask their husbands to reach on high shelves, or hang pictures when strangers are around because can't you see the shirtrails minus the three inches of material, sliding up above their heads?

No longer will the careless fat man be able to indulge in that low-slung belt effect—not with such shirtrails. He'll have to wear his pants in a conventionally well-groomed, waist-line position. Even if he has to guess at the location of his waist. Likely he'll even take to exercise to reduce his weight.

And then, on that subject of pajamas. You know a lot of the ordinarily conservative fellows, who wouldn't think of wearing an extreme style in suits or coats, indulge their taste for the exotic in their choice of pajamas. They have them decked out with diverting variations of collars, cuffs, and pockets; some of the more extreme designs having perfectly useless pockets and pocket flaps. Not any more.

Wouldn't be surprised if the fellows might, in the not too distant future, find that there will be a definite decrease in the number of colors and designs of materials which will be available for the making of pajamas. Hah! Will some of the lads, who have expressed themselves in flaming reds, gaudy purples, and exotic pinks and greens, ever feel chastened and frustrated if they have to wear those serviceable white-with-blue-stripes pajamas?

The story didn't say, but possibly the WPB will begin to contemplate the possibility of cutting off the pajamas to the knees! Some fellows would look funny if, forgetful of the change in pajama styles, they went galloping to the door to answer the bell, or hop ome to make a telephone call in the hall, in plain view of the passerby.

Of course one feels a glint of sympathy for the lads facing the problem of adjusting their minds and modesty to the idea of three striped pajamas, but . . . it is to laugh! Think how they ribbed the women about excess yardage in their clothes. Besides it's a good thing for the men to realize that they are expected, as civilians, to do their share in war effort, even to sacrificing three or more inches off the shirtrail.

Meetings

Weddings

Schert-Boldig

Miss Alice Boldig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Boldig, Sault Ste. Marie, was married to Lt. Herbert A. Schert, son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Schert, Minneapolis, Monday afternoon, November 24, in St. Olaf's church, Baltimore, Md. It was a candle-light double ring ceremony and the rites were read by Dr. Otto H. Bostrom, pastor of the Gustavus Adolphus church in New York, who for 12 years had been the Boldigs' pastor in Marquette. The bride was given in marriage by the Rev. A. Eckman, pastor of St. Olaf's church. White chrysanthemums formed a trim for the altar and Mrs. Carl Peterson, organist, played the traditional nuptial music and, preceding the ceremony, "O Happy Home Where Thou Art Loved the Dearest" and "Lord, Who at Cana's Wedding Feast." Dr. Bostrom sang, "O Perfect Love, All Human Thought Transcending."

Mrs. Michael Geraghty, formerly of Fort Brady, was matron of honor, and Lt. John Folks, a classmate of the groom at Camp Ritchie, was best man.

The bride wore a white satin gown made with sweetheart neckline and full sleeves, the fitted bodice fastened in the back with small, satin-covered buttons. Her fingertip length veil was fastened to a Juliet cap of satin and she wore a gardenia in her hair. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a white Bible from which was suspended a cream and pink orchid and a shower of white ribbon.

The matron of honor wore a dress of which the skirt was navy blue, and the full-skirted, square neck bodice white. There was a bright accent of color provided by the wide belt of bright red jersey. She carried an arm bouquet of white chrysanthemums and red roses, and wore small white chrysanthemums in her hair.

Mrs. Geraghty was hostess to members of the bridal party at luncheon. Chrysanthemums decorated the table. Dr. Bostrom played

Doll Festival Will Be Held On Thursday

The Doll Festival, sponsored annually by the Marquette Business and Professional Women's club, will be held Thursday afternoon and evening in the Federated Women's club. Every one who likes dolls is invited to attend and inspect the display.

More than 80 dolls will be exhibited and since there is no regimentation about dolls' clothing, there will likely be baby dolls, Scotch lassies, jack tars, nurses, soldiers and all other kinds which ingenuity can devise.

Is Sociable Affair

Few women can withstand the fascination of dolls. Maybe it is a carry-over from childhood. However, it is certain that every year there are a great many people who await the opportunity to attend the festival, to see the present year's model of dolls, and to enjoy a cup of tea and visiting with acquaintances.

There will be no admission charge, but there will be a silver tea held in conjunction with the display. The hours are 4 to 6 in the afternoon and 7:30 to 10 in the evening.

More than 14 organizations are participating and dressing the dolls which will be distributed later this month through the Christmas bureau, the children's clinic committee, and the orphanage, to assure that children who might be yearning for a doll will be sure to receive on Christmas morning.

Committee Personnel

Miss Lillie Olson is chairman of the committee of arrangements for the festival. Miss Eleanor Doering and Miss Lillian Pearce will be responsible for distribution; Miss Mary Pierce and Miss Sadie Thompson are on the refreshment committee. Miss Grace Wilson will arrange the tea table. The general chairman will be assisted by Mrs. Josephine Hornborg, Miss Eleanor Doering; Miss Mayme McCarter, president of the sponsoring club; Miss Augusta Zerbel and other members.

It really begins to seem Christmas when announcement comes of this annual doll festival, and women, men, all persons interested are cordially invited to reserve Thursday afternoon or evening for attendance.

The bride is a graduate of Northern Michigan College of Education and a member of Tau Pi Nu sorority. She has been a member of the faculty of the Sault public school system.

Lt. Schert recently received his commission at Camp Hood, Texas, and is now a student officer in a special school at Camp Ritchie, where he will complete his course on December 23. After that date Lt. and Mrs. Schert expect to go to the Sault. At present they are making their home at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa. Lt. Schert is a graduate of Valparaiso university, Ind., and prior to his entrance into the Army was sales manager for the Elsbetter Mills corporation, Jacksonville, Fla.

WPB's Fabric Reduction Real Boon For Large Sized Woman

Two good examples of smartly slim styling for larger figures are pictured above. At left is a frock of fine rayon mossy crepe, bronze beading at shoulders and on skirt front accent the milk-brown tone of the fabric. The two-piece daytime frock at right, of purple, pebbly rayon crepe, features gilt-trimmed, self-covered buttons on the scalloped jacket-bodice.

By NEA Service

NEW YORK—Surprise of pleasant surprises is the effect of Uncle Sam's cloth-saving riles upon women's-size dresses this winter. Women who couldn't get into misses' frocks were worried by WPB regulations. They feared the order would bring in skimpy, unbecoming clothes, which literally would put the squeeze on the substantial figure. And if there's one thing that will make a large body look larger, it is pinning it in tight clothes, as most women know.

Actually, new women's dresses are made with about 20 per cent less yardage than was used in peacetime.

However, the chief casualties prove to be the once-ubiquitous bolero which was eliminated automatically by the WPA rule forbidding the sale of a jacket with a dress at one unit price; and the equally ubiquitous voluminous draping, especially bodice draping, in women's size frocks.

Strictly good riddance! For as many women are now learning, there is another error which maximizes instead of minimizes a full figure just as surely as does pinching it. The second error is to try to hide it self-consciously with loose folds. Such obvious devices simply tagged the wearer's painfully apologetic about her figure.

Dresses Really Fit

These cloth-consuming features eliminated, designers find they have plenty of fabric to make a women's-size WPB dress that fits subtly but frankly—which is the first necessity for a pleasing effect.

Furthermore, the designers are

Soup Kettle Can Provide Fine Food In Winter

Get out the old family soup tureen and the big ladle!

Limitations imposed by the government's voluntary Share the Meat Plan suggest that for reasons of both economy and health many people may want to bring the old-fashioned soup pot back into modern kitchens and use it to squeeze every last ounce of good out of the meat which is allotted.

Bone Counts on Share

Meat weight in the Share the Meat plan must be figured "bone in." Common sense dictates that since the bone is being paid for and counted in the allotment, all the good in it should be utilized. And there's no better way of doing so than in the good old-fashioned back-of-the-stove soup pot.

And it can be done with the modern gas, electric or kerosene stove, just as well as with the old-fashioned coal or wood stove. No less an authority than Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the bureau of home economics, United States department of agriculture, vouches for the practicability from personal experience in her own home as well as from laboratory tests.

The trick, explains Dr. Stanley, is to use the refrigerator in combination with the stove. After the first cooking has been completed satisfactorily, the broth should be allowed to cool slightly and then be placed immediately in the refrigerator.

Heat and Cool

When new material . . . bones or vegetables . . . are to be added, the broth again is put over the heat, makes the book sound like forbiddingly heavy and serious reading, but it isn't that.

Dramatic and colorful as the author makes the story of this history of man's adventuring into the field . . . in fact it is a particularly good one to use for vegetables which have been chopped fine so that they will cook quickly in the broth. (Quick cooking helps retain more of the vitamins.)

Any vegetables which suit the fancy can be used in the soup pot . . . in fact it is a particularly good one to use for vegetables which have been chopped fine so that they will cook quickly in the broth. (Quick cooking helps retain more of the vitamins.)

To make the broth thicker, or to give it "backbone," macaroni, cooked oatmeal and rice all are suitable additions. Seasoning is important, too. A bit of onion, a hint of garlic, a few chives or leek pop up the brew (provided the family approves of them). A clove or two will prove interesting. And to give it the real French tang, experiment with herbs . . . a pinch of thyme, sweet marjoram or summer savory, for instance.

As additional liquid needs to be added, pour in the lamb, veal and pork chops and the sirloin steaks will yield fine material for the soup pot. And of course any bits of meat left over from a meal should go in, too.

The broth thus obtained can serve many purposes. Its first use, obviously, is in the lamb, veal and pork luncheon. But it is a flavorome addition to gravy, too, (use it instead of water) and to sauces, which poured over rice or noodles it gives a richer, meatier flavor to those bland dishes.

OPA Has Eye On Needle Shortage And Other Items

WASHINGTON—Have you noticed how difficult it is to buy plain, ordinary sewing needles? Here's the background on the temporary shortage—and don't worry, it is only temporary, says Ann France Wilson, NEA staff correspondent.

There's no domestic manufacture of sewing needles. In pre-war days the United States imported needles from Britain, Japan and Germany. Now, of course, they come solely from Britain.

However, the British changed the packaging of needles, included fewer needles and lowered their prices. The Office of Price Administration felt that the price had not been reduced in accordance with the new packages and set a lower price ceiling on the needles than importers are willing to sell them for.

Well—the importers finally had to give in and have released $600,000 worth of needles under the new OPA ceiling prices. So, you won't have to go looking for needles in haystacks—they'll be released to the retailers until spring.

White Sales

Don't expect large January white sales this year. There may be a few isolated sales, but large stores won't try to induce housewives to stock up on sheets and towels. Reason is that the Army will need all sheets 63, 72 and 81 inches wide and all towels 22x24 now in the hands of manufacturers until spring.

However, department stores will keep America well furnished with sheets for a long time to come. So don't rush out and buy sheets—there'll be plenty of them. Sales just won't be promoted.

Holiday Fowls

There's been a great hullabaloo—plus innumerable articles—about giving the grease from your holiday turkeys, geese and bacon. All that's very fine, but patriotic zeal and the prospect of a cents a pound from the butcher shouldn't obscure the main reason for the campaign.

That reason simmers down to this: Both the Department of Agriculture and the WPB's Conservation Division want you to save fats and grease, and sell them. But it won't do any good if you dutifully save the grease from your skillet, turn it in—and then purchase more fats for frying.

Turn in the extra fats and greases you might be tempted to throw out. But DON'T turn in any that you possibly can use again.

EQUALITY STATE

Every year publishers' lists show an impressive array of titles of books just off the press. Sometimes the bewildered reader scans the lists trying to glean from the titles an inkling as to the content of the book.

Now and then the reader depends on book reviews published in his favorite newspapers to help him in making a choice of what he shall read out of the vast supply available.

Whether he chooses by the sound of the title or by the sound of the review, he sometimes finds himself disappointed. A reviewer may be enthusiastic about a book that leaves the reader if not completely cold, at least lukewarm.

Can't Tell by the Label

Not infrequently a provocative title proves to be nothing more than that, or a title may be quite misleading.

Perhaps that foregoing statement may explain the people who pass by Marie Beynon Ray's book, "Doctors of the Mind."

The reader may glance at the title as the book stands on the shelves of the Peter White public library and cogitate: "Is that some biography about doctors, or is it something about psychology? I don't think I'll care much for that."

Acting on such a thought a great many readers will cheat themselves of a unique and stimulating literary experience. The book tells the story of a great scientific adventure; it is the history of man's persistent effort to surmount a challenging barrier—the knowledge of just what takes place in the mind, why it functions as it does, what effect the physical has on the mental make-up, and to chart the position of the psychiatrist.

Is Vastly Entertaining

This reviewer concedes that presented thus baldly, the reader may think the prospect of entertainment decidedly and no matter how rich the supply of information obtained from the book.

However Marie Beynon Ray brings to her creation of this book a robustness of style, a buoyancy of spirit, an absorbing interest in her subject, and a facility in expression that makes the book (even when dealing with technical subjects) rush along with the unrestrained excitement and emotion of suspense of a cross between an excellent travelogue and a good novel.

"Doctors Of The Mind" Presents History Of Psychiatry In Book Understandable To Layman

The author pertinently points out that during the past 50 years science has conquered many of the problems of the air, has provided drugs and medicines for physical ills has made it possible to a degree never before known in history for man to control his physical environment.

The challenge that has to be met and mastered is the one concerning the emotional makeup of the individual; the dependable knowledge of why he behaves as he does in some situations, why he remains so emotionally immature.

Despite the technological progress of the past 50 years, we have, through thousands of years, made so little perceptible progress in control of ourselves.

Control Or Extinction?

Mrs. Ray in her foreword points out that this lack of emotional control is the underlying cause of the present world crisis, and warns that unless we can achieve emotional control as we have environmental control our race may become extinct. That in itself is an exciting statement warranted to give rise to interesting debate.

She concedes that for ages many of the best minds have devoted themselves to the study of human nature, but until 50 years ago there was little opportunity to check their conclusions in a scientific way, and consequently there was little progress made in understanding and improving human nature.

Then, that half century ago, the new science of psychiatry began to come to the fore. It began as the study and treatment of the abnormal mind but amazingly "it throws more light upon the normal mind than all the studies directed to that end have ever done."

And in this book "Doctors of the Mind," Mrs. Ray traces briefly the history of psychiatry, tells about the conclusions that have been accomplished and of the new scientific equipment available to check and cross-check some opinion that formerly could be only opinions.

Gives History of Science

The outstanding mile-posts of achievement in trying to fathom the intricacies of the human mind from man's earliest efforts in that direction are presented in a chronological order. Now this reviewer recognizes that the foregoing comment

300 Ask For Supplemental Gas Ration

ISHPEMING, Nov. 29—Approximately 300 requests for supplemental allowances of gasoline have been received to date by the gasoline rationing board, F. C. Stanford, chairman, said this morning. At the current rate of 50 a day, it is anticipated that about 200 more will be received.

Many of the requests already have been processed, but the board will sit Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons to continue its work and to hear oral applications, if any.

Persons whose requests have been accepted, as well as those whose petitions have been denied, will be notified by mail. "It should not be expected, however," added Mr. Stanford, "that we can get these out before December 1. They will have to wait a day or two after that date. In the meantime, those entitled to gasoline can get Class A rations."

Persons rejected have the right to appear before the board to present their story and it is possible the board may find instances where they want to call the applicant in for questioning.

Ski Club To Give Dance Thursday

ISHPEMING, Nov. 29—The Ishpeping Ski club will hold its first special meeting of the season in the clubhouse Thursday evening. Whitford's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

Members may bring guests without charge. The club has decided that although conditions will not permit a big scale tournament this year, it will sponsor a meet for the encouragement of junior riders.

Officials emphasize that in Class B and C, in which Ishpeping has predominated in practically every ski tournament held in recent years in the Midwest, there are boys 15 to 18 years of age. It is not expected that heavy inroads on the 18-year-old groups will be made by selective service before the February ski meet and there is every reason to believe a tourney well worth public support can be offered.

In the meantime the club will keep its membership intact and have available a working force for the many duties that have to be undertaken in connection with a tournament of any size.

100,000 SEAMEN NEEDED

More than 100,000 seamen and officers will be needed to sail the 2,300 new ships expected to be built by the end of next year.

TIRES First product rationed in December, 1941, but soon all drivers may be able to get some sort of tires.	AUTOS Production stopped on new cars, now rationed to essential users. Bicycles also rationed, but used cars aren't.	GAS Gasoline rationing, begun in oil-short East, a new nationwide rationing system. Fuel oil rationed in several states.	SUGAR First food rationed. War needs and loss of sources forced rationing last May of half-pound weekly per person.	COFFEE Coffee finally rationed after months of shortage in grocery stores. Tea, cocoa shortages also developing.	MEAT Fresh shortage in pork, beef, bacon and other meats may be a result of pressure rationing of about 2 1/2 pounds weekly per person.
DAIRY PRODUCTS Milk, butter, cheese shortages likely as U. S. freezes some stocks, sends more to armed forces, lend-lease.	CANNED GOODS Government bars cans for many foods. Grocers limit purchases of certain canned goods because of shortage.	DRIED FRUITS Raisins, prunes hard to get because of armed forces needs. Canned fruits because of shipping shortage.	CLOTHING Less wool, fewer vests, no cuffs, no frills in suits and dresses. Silk stockings, girdles, zoot suits out.	HOUSING Building materials, plumbing, new house construction limited to needs of war plants, war workers and armed forces.	TOOTH PASTE TUBES Metal tubes scarce, so one must be turned in for each new tube of toothpaste, shave cream, etc., purchased.
REFRIGERATORS Electric refrigerators, washers, vacuum cleaners and other household items out.	MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS Manufacture of musical instruments, radios, phonographs stopped. Horns go to armed forces.	ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES Production stopped on electrical appliances such as waffle irons, toasters, irons, fans, mixers, etc.	LAWN MOWERS No more lawnmowers because war plants need the metal. Get in scrap to now done Japs.	TYPEWRITERS Typewriters rationed. Production limited or stopped on many types of office equipment.	JUKE BOXES Juke boxes out for the duration. Jitterbugs can expend excess energy riding the war effort.

THE RATION SITUATION 12 MONTHS AFTER PEARL HARBOR—This is how it is on the home front after a year of war. The average man finds many of the things that were commonplace in pre-Pearl Harbor days are now scarce, rationed or out for the duration. First it was tires; rationed after Japs seized the sources of our rubber; then cars, as plants went over to war work; next metal objects, as iron and steel went to the Army and Navy. Some foods have become scarce because armed services and lend-lease are dipping deeper into our larder or because limited shipping facilities slow transport of items like coffee and bananas from abroad.

Kill of Deer Heavy, Say Observers

ISHPEMING, Nov. 29—Although the Thanksgiving storm saved the lives of hundreds of deer, the kill in this part of the Peninsula is expected to be the heaviest in several years.

One competent observer said today: "You can be certain the Thanksgiving storm cut down the kill materially. Since then hunters have been far more concerned in getting out of the woods than in shooting bucks."

"Despite this, however, the fine weather the first part of the season, the impending gasoline rationing and uncertainty whether hunting will be possible next year brought out a record number of hunters and they have cut heavily into the Peninsula deer herd. Everybody who has had experience in the woods, either as hunters, observers or peace officers agrees that the kill is the largest in recent years."

L'Anse

Fred Kent has returned to Benton Harbor after spending 10 days here.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lucas and family have returned to Milwaukee after a visit at the Zagar home.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Baltic, Escanaba, spent the weekend at the home of Mrs. Baltic's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnston.

Miss Rosemary Roberts, who teaches at Lorretto, has returned after spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hampton and family have returned from a visit with her parents in Iron Mountain.

Lionel Fortier will return this week to Great Lakes, Ill., after spending a seven-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fortier.

Victory Garden Awards — Outstanding achievements in one of the most important projects in this year's 4-H program—Victory gardens—have won special recognition for five club members in this county. Extension Agent G. F. Biekkola announced Saturday. The county winners are: Miriam Halonen, Pelkie; Earl Jacobson, Keweenaw Bay; Taist and Harjo, Pelkie; Robert Anderson, L'Anse; and Elizabeth Perrault, Pequaming. Each will receive a medal provided, together with all other awards in this contest, by Sears Roebuck & Co. One of the five will be named to compete for state honors, in which four representatives of the blue award group will each receive a $25 War Savings bond. The state winner, selected from these four, will compete for sectional and national honors, awards for which include all-expense trips to the National 4-H Victory congress scheduled to be held in Chicago next November, and $100 War Savings bonds to the two highest scoring participants in this extension section. Biekkola said 314 club members in Baraga county participated in 4-H Victory Garden competition.

War Club Meeting Tuesday — Neighborhood War club leaders and zone directors will meet in the village council rooms Tuesday night for information concerning the salvage and nutrition programs. A war transportation committee has been organized in the county by the Michigan state safety commission with William Warjonen, supervisor of Spurr township, as chairman. Supervisors of each township will act as directors of share-the-ride clubs.

ARCHITECTURE SAVES STEEL

Steel savings are being effected by changes in structural design which specify use of lighter beams and columns but in no way endanger safety of the building. Other savings are effected through use of continuity in design and welded fabrication.

Today in Washington

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—Someone has misled Jimmy Byrnes—director of economic stabilization—and, incidentally, many other persons in America have been misled into believing that only persons with a salary of $67,200 are affected by the salary limitation decrease issued by the White House. The truth is that anybody with a salary of $46,800 might be affected under certain circumstances, and such a taxpayer may be compelled to give back money to the Treasury so as to conform to the regulation.

The confusion arising is so great that it is understood that the Treasury itself is considering the issuance of an explanatory regulation which will indicate that persons with a salary range from $46,800 to $67,200 may find themselves affected by the salary restriction and required to give money back to the Treasury.

Mr. Byrnes in a recent speech said: "The so-called $25,000 salary limitation actually affects only those having a salary in excess of $67,200. The tax on that salary will reduce the net income to $25,000."

But what was forgotten evidently was the effect of allowable deductions on the result. Thus, a married person receiving a salary of $46,800 and having two dependents, with allowable deductions equal to 10 per cent of his gross salary, will find that under the new 1942 revenue law his total normal tax, surtax and Victory tax amounts to $21,792 which leaves $25,000 after taxes. This excess of $8 will have to be returned to the Treasury.

Take the man who has a salary of $50,000, and again allowing for deductions amounting to about 10 per cent or $5,000, and the total tax is $23,881, which leaves the taxpayer a remainder of $26,119. But this is $1,119 in excess of the $25,000 which he may retain under the Byrnes formula. He will have to give that to the Treasury unless the regulations are changed.

Now it is true that a person with a $67,200 salary cannot retain more than $25,000, but it is apparent that when certain deductions allowable under the revenue laws are taken, the net amount remaining might exceed $25,000. Any excess would have to be given to the Treasury. So as the sum of allowable deductions increases, the chances grow that the taxpayer will be compelled to give the Treasury more money, so as to have not more than $25,000 left after taxes.

Those Who Work Penalized — It is estimated that approximately 5,400 persons in the United States receive salaries in excess of $46,800.

The number of persons with dividends of $46,800 was about 5,234 in the year 1939, and the present estimate for 1942 made by competent statisticians is that the number is about 8,000.

Thus, one set of citizens can retain far more money than another set, even though the amounts received are the same. The people who work are penalized. The people who derive money from investments are not penalized. Congress didn't authorize either group to be punished, but if punishment is to be meted, Mrs. Roosevelt is right in declaring that both groups ought to be treated alike.

Incidentally, Mrs. Roosevelt, on her return from her visit to Britain, stated that "practically no one" in Britain has more than $21,000 left after payment of taxes. This might lead some observers to believe that Britain has a salary ceiling. This is not true. In Britain anybody can earn as much as he wishes and the only way his salary can be cut is by a tax law. There is no barrier to the earning of $1,000,000 a year or deriving that sum from investments if the opportunity can be found. Incidentally, in Britain the amount remaining to the taxpayer on a $1,000,000 income is $38,420, and that $1,000,000 is net income only after many allowable deductions have been made—Britain's laws being more liberal than ours.

If the allowable deductions in both the United Kingdom and America were to amount to 20 per cent, respectively, the net cash retained by the British taxpayer under a gross salary income of $67,200 would be $14,074, while in the United States the taxpayer, because of the salary limitation, would retain net cash of only $11,560. And yet it is being widely stated that Britain's system is more drastic than ours.

Utility Strike Will Affect 19 Communities

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 29—(AP)—The Michigan state joint utility workers council, composed of officials of 20 locals of the Utility Workers Organizing Committee-CIO, today voted to call a strike of Consumers Power company employees throughout Michigan at midnight next Friday.

Herman R. Chadwick, Saginaw, state president of the council, said the decision means 19 communities will be affected by the strike unless an agreement is reached before the deadline. The communities are Jackson, Muskegon, Saginaw, Pontiac, Adrian, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids, Flint, Lansing, Six Lakes, Manistee, Alma, Bay City, Kalamazoo, Charlotte, Cadillac, Owosso, Mount Clemens and Hastings. The power company supplies gas and electricity to all these cities except Lansing, where gas alone is furnished.

WASTE FAT GOAL SET

A half billion pounds of waste fat per year is the goal of the Conservation Division. Urban residents are expected to contribute 4.5 pounds per capita, and farm dwellers have a quota of 2.8 pounds. Average collection from the armed forces is two pounds per month per man.

About 450 Will Attend Scout Dinner

NEGAUNEE, Nov. 29—A record-breaking display of public support of Boy Scouting in Negaunee is expected Monday evening when Paul Young, executive for the Hiawatha area, presents another in the series of district pot-luck dinner programs planned to emphasize the family character of the Scout movement, the neighborliness it should promote and its character building values.

Groups of mothers, representing Scout troops, have been promoting attendance and arranging the dinner menu. Approximately 450 persons will attend.

Want Parents To Be Informed — "We want this to be a neighborhood get-together," said Mr. Young today. "We want to stress that Scouting is not a formal, aloof thing about which parents know little. We want them to get a better insight into our work, the programs planned for boys and the goals we seek to achieve."

"With such a foundation we can go far in Scouting, not only in this community, but in any town where Scouting has a foothold. Upon such a friendly basis we can build our programs and there will be good entertainment for those who attend the dinner."

The Rev. Fenton Tehan, of St. Paul's church, will have a worthwhile message. Although a relatively newcomer in the county, he has addressed several groups and is a forceful speaker.

Will Screen Color Film — "We will screen a color movie of special interest to parents and council officers will be elected. We appreciate the work of persons who have carried on the Scouting movement in Negaunee, but we want to interest others, so that the work can be divided among many. By doing that we can expand community interest in and responsibility for the Scouting program."

Persons attending the dinner are asked to bring their own dishes.

'Save Meat' Conference This Evening

ISHPEMING, Nov. 29—All Ishpeping women are invited to attend a meeting called for 7:30 Monday evening in the American Legion hall, at which the share-the-meat program will be discussed.

The meeting was arranged primarily for women asked to serve in the house-to-house canvass during which the program will be explained to housewives, but any woman interested in the meat conservation plan will be welcome.

This is the final instructional meeting prior to the house-to-house canvass, which will start Tuesday evening. It is hoped to convince every housewife in Ishpeping of the need for voluntary reduction of meat consumption. People will be asked to reduce meat consumption to two and one-half pounds a week for each adult. Poultry and fish are not included.

All women asked to serve are urged to be present Monday evening. Mrs. J. A. Piirto, chairman of the nutritional committee in charge of the canvass, said today.

Gasoline Dealers Set For Rush of Business

ISHPEMING, Nov. 29—Gasoline dealers expect rush business Monday, prior to gasoline rationing. Wholesale dealers report a strong demand for barrel lots, but said they would take care of their dealers first.

"It is obvious," said one, "that we have to make the barrel boys wait until all our other business is taken care of. Our dealers are expecting a strong demand for tankfuls and we will meet their needs."

MOHAIR UNRESTRICTED

Mohair has been completely released from restrictions of the Wool Conservation Order. Practically all mohair comes from Texas, and presents stocks amounting to 19,000,000 pounds. An additional 8,000,000 pounds will soon be short.

Gas Ration Board Sets Work Hours

NEGAUNEE, Nov. 29—The Negaunee gasoline rationing board will be in session in the Negaunee high school from 1 to 9 p. m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to process requests for supplemental allowances, Russell C. Miller, chairman, announced this morning. If all requests cannot be acted upon in the time prescribed the board will continue its work.

All members of the board, composed of Mr. Miller, H. S. Doolittle, Searle Bath and Peter Dighera, will be available during the hours stated for interviews and review of applications.

Getting a flying start to eliminate confusion, the board already has worked on early requests and many applications have been forwarded to H. S. Doolittle, clerk of the board, and are ready to go through the processing channel for filing and subsequent issuance of ration cards.

"Those whose applications have been rejected," said Mr. Miller, "will be notified by mail if they do not appear at the high school during the processing hours Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday."

Weddings

Korpi-Neste — ISHPEMING, Nov. 29—Miss Gertrude Korpi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Korpi, Palmer, and Tapio Neste, son of Mr. and Mrs. Onni Neste, Palmer, were married Friday evening, November 20, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. K. Ruotsalainen officiated. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. John Lehto and Arne E. Laifala. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Neste will reside in Palmer.

Negaunee Man Held As Disorderly Person

NEGAUNEE, Nov. 29 — Vaino Lehto, Negaunee, was bound over to a circuit court on a charge of being a disorderly person, third offense, when arraigned in municipal court, and was committed to the county jail upon failure to post $100 bond.

Esko Halappa, Tilden township, paid a fine of $5 and costs on his plea of guilty to being drunk and disorderly, and Arma Kallio was fined $10 on the same charge.

Yule Savings Club 'Melon' $34,509.69

NEGAUNEE, Nov. 29 — About $34,500 will be released in Negaunee December 1 with distribution of Christmas Savings Club checks by the Negaunee First National bank.

The aggregate of club savings this year is $34,509.69, representing 795 members. Last year there were 852 members who saved $34,163.97 and in 1940 $26,878.46 was saved by 726 persons.

Bank officials noted the decrease in members from last year, but savings increased, and they explained that the number of men taken selective service accounted for the difference in members, while those who subscribed entered higher classifications.

It is expected that a larger proportion of the money will be used this year to pay income taxes. Year-end expenses usually account for most of the expenditures by Savings Club members and a large portion of it will go for Christmas buying and other expenses this year, but the certainty of heavier income tax will cause many persons to set aside Christmas club money to help meet that obligation.

Men's Silk Sox Okeh For War Salvage

NEGAUNEE, Nov. 29—Men wear silk hose, too, and Miss Rose Lowenstein today urged men to add discarded silk socks to the pile which will help furnish silk powder bags to Army use.

"We have had encouraging response," said Miss Lowenstein, "but it was best immediately after announcement of the salvage plan was made. Since then there has been a sharp drop in receipts and only a few men's silk socks have been discarded."

"The appeal was directed primarily at women, of course, but it does not mean that men cannot do their part in making this project a success."

STEVE O'NEILL

O'Neill Faces Hard Job As New Detroit Tiger Manager

By Watson Spolstra

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—Steve O'Neill has tackled some knotty baseball problems in his 33 years, man and boy, in the game, but as the new manager of the Detroit Tigers he faces his most difficult assignment.

Detroit, one of baseball's real hotbeds, has been lukewarm toward its Tigers for the last two seasons as the club finished fourth and fifth in the American league. Now, with wartime problems mounting, O'Neill replaces Del Baker in an effort to put new life into Owner O. Briggs' collection of talent.

Obviously O'Neill will turn to Detroit's Texas league farm club at Beaumont, where last year the new Tiger pilot guided a bumper crop of youngsters to the pennant, but several key performers already are in the nation's service and others are to follow.

With more than a dozen seasoned players in the service, the Tigers currently have 31 available for next season, but this total is certain to be slimmed down by April. Among the holdover matters of prime concern is the reasonably deep mystery of simultaneous batting slumps of Rudy York and Barney McCosky. York and McCosky are two remaining power hitters from Detroit's 1940 pennant winner. McCosky is 26, three years younger than York, and both should be heading into their best years. Yet last season both finished with records far off their major league averages, and O'Neill quite evidently will have to discover a solution.

McCosky, speedy outfielder who batted .311, .340 and .324 in his first three years in the big show, slipped to .292 last year, 33 points off his average. York batted a skinny .259 and, with a $5,000 bonus dangling before him, failed miserably in his bid for 100 runs batted in, something he once could accomplish in merely part-time duty.

There is the possibility, too, that McCosky, unmarried but the sole support of his parents, may be in the Army. York is a family man.

In yesterday's announcement of the managerial shift, the Tigers said they were parting with Baker, who had been in their employ for 14 years, on friendly terms. General Manager Jack Zeller declared the club "will give him any desired assistance in making a favorable connection elsewhere."

Baker quite possibly may make a new connection at the major league sessions this week at Chicago.

33 U. P. Boys On Honorable Mention List

Three Upper Peninsula high school gridgers were singled out for recognition in the Associated Press' second annual selections to the Michigan all-state high school football team.

The three are Paul Goodreau, end on Kingsford's U. P. co-champions, named to the first team; Joseph Sossi, of Calumet's U. P. co-champions, back on the second team, and Elmer Maslak, Menominee Maroon tackle, on the third eleven.

33 Get Honorable Mention

In addition 33 other Upper Peninsula players were given honorable mention, including eight from the Marquette district. The eight are: Ends—Parks, Munising; Tackles—Willey, Ishpeming; Case, Marquette.

Guards—Normand, Marquette; Erickla, Negaunee; Centers—Gray, Ishpeming; Kukuk, Marquette.

Backs—Hansen, Marquette.

The selections, announced Saturday, were made after spirited competition by 85 football experts—35 sports writers of Associated Press newspapers in Michigan, reflecting the opinions of their staffs, and 50 coaches and officials.

In addition to the three team selections, 250 boys representing more than 150 schools received sufficient votes to achieve honorable mention.

Following are the first three teams and honorable mention selections from the Upper Peninsula:

Rams, Giants Finish Third In Pro League

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The Detroit Red Wings poured five shots past goalie Paul Bibeault in the first period and went on to beat the Montreal Canadiens, 7-3, in a National Hockey League game tonight before 10,294 spectators. The victory maintained Detroit's grip on the league lead.

Wings Keep Lead With 7-3 Win Over Montreal

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—The Detroit Red Wings poured five shots past goalie Paul Bibeault in the first period and went on to beat the Montreal Canadiens, 7-3, in a National Hockey League game tonight before 10,294 spectators. The victory maintained Detroit's grip on the league lead.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The New York Rangers put their revised lineup on display tonight and came out with a 3-2 victory over the Boston Bruins, who had beaten them in two previous National Hockey League encounters. A crowd of 14,851 saw the Rangers win out with two goals in the third period.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The battling Bentley boys, Doug and Max, each scored a goal in the final period tonight to shove the Blackhawks over the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3-2, and send the Chicago club into second place in the National Hockey League before an approving crowd of 13,366.

'Corn Bowl' Grid Game Planned for Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Tentative plans for a Corn Bowl football game at Soldier Field New Year's day between Holy Cross, yesterday's surprise conqueror of Boston College, and an opponent yet to be selected were announced today by the Catholic Youth Organization.

Bay Women Break Record In Pin Meet

ISHPEMING, Nov. 29.—Another Great Northern bowling tournament record was broken by two pins over the weekend as the tournament ended. The Packers Pinyard, Green Bay, bowled 2,329, with Anne Davis making 514, to break the previous record of 2,337. The high team event in the Ishpeming tournament was held by Powell's No. 1, Rhineland, with 2,252.

Wolverines Top State In Grid Scoring

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—Michigan's high-scoring Wolverines ran their season's point-total to 221, against 134 for opponents, to grab a commanding lead in the state's collegiate touchdown parade as they vanquished Iowa's Hawkeyes, 28-14, in Saturday's 1942 finale.

"American and British troops are pressing forward side by side."

"We expect to expel the enemy before long from the 2,000 miles of African coastline," he said.

He outlined the advantages of an African victory as the reopening of the Mediterranean to military traffic, saving a voyage around the cape, and the opening of the air battle against the Axis from a new front.

"Already the centers of war industry in northern Italy are being subjected to harder treatment than any of our cities experienced in the winter of 1940," he said.

More than 100 Italian generals and nearly 300,000 Italian soldiers have been captured, he reported, and added:

"The German air force is a wasting asset. Their new construction is not keeping pace with their losses. Their front line is weakening both in numbers and on the whole in quality."

"The British, American and Russian air forces already together are larger and are growing steadily."

"Turning to the French who have scattered their fleet and are differing among themselves as between Gaullists and Vichy followers, the prime minister declared his faith that the Fighting French would play a dominating role in the future of the nation."

In the prime minister's prepared text appeared the statement "the destiny of France must be worked out by Frenchmen themselves," but Churchill omitted this sentence in the delivery.

Telling the British they confront a new test "in the face of victory," the war leader said "I promise nothing, I predict nothing. I cannot even guarantee that more successes are not on the way." And he cautioned them "not to be led away by any fair-seeming appearance of fortune."

Calling the expedition to French North Africa under the leadership of U. S. Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower an "astonishing success," Churchill said it was made possible "only by one sovereign fact, the perfect comradeship and understanding prevailing between British and American staffs and troops."

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—Michigan's high-scoring Wolverines ran their season's point-total to 221, against 134 for opponents, to grab a commanding lead in the state's collegiate touchdown parade as they vanquished Iowa's Hawkeyes, 28-14, in Saturday's 1942 finale.

Alma's Scots, high-scoring leaders from beginning to end of their seven-game schedule, wound up their season with 163 points to 26 for opponents and retain a shade of advantage on a game-for-game basis, having averaged 23.2-7 points per contest compared to Michigan's average of 22.1 points.

The Wolverines' triumph Saturday put them out in front of the state's "big three" for the first time since the season began with seven victories and three defeats. Detroit's Titans, unbeaten and untied until the season was well advanced, were smothered, 33-6, Saturday by Oklahoma A. & M.

Titans Play One More Game

Even if Detroit beats San Francisco on the coast this week in the only game remaining on the Michigan collegiate schedule, the Titans will end the season with a record of only six wins—one fewer than Michigan—in nine starts.

The Aggies' hall hawks found pass interceptions provided a solution for Detroit's strong defense and, employing a strong attack of their own, rolled up two more points than had been scored against the Titans in all their previous games this season.

Injury-riddled Michigan State wound up its season in the first division of Michigan college teams by being out 7-7 tie with Oregon State at East Lansing Saturday. The west coast eleven, last season's Rose Bowl champions, had been slight pre-game favorites.

Western Conference All-Stars

Chosen by Big Ten coaches as outstanding in the 1942 football season, these 11 gridiron stalwarts have been named to the Associated Press' Western Conference all-star team.

Three Michigan Men Placed On Big Ten All-Star Squad

By Dave Hoff

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Wisconsin placed four men—including two sophomores—on the 1942 Western Conference all-star football team chosen annually for the Associated Press by Big Ten coaches.

The Badgers, who lost only one game and missed a chance to be Ohio State for the conference championship because they played one less contest than the Buckeyes, landed End Dave Schreiner, sophomore center Fred Negus, sophomore halfback Elroy Hirsch and fullback Pat Harder on the all-star squad.

Three Repeat Performers

Thus the all-stars, packing size, weight, smart quarterbacking and outstanding ball-carrying ability, line up with Shaw and Schreiner at ends, Wildung and Wistert at tackles, Franks and Houston at guards, Negus at center, Ceithaml at quarterback, Hillenbrand and Hirsch at halfbacks and Harder at fullback.

Wildung, Schreiner and Hillenbrand are repeat performers from last year's all-star team. It was other 1941 stars who performed again this fall failed to retain their places on the select squad, Bob Mott, Northwestern, rating the second team at end and Bill Daley, Minnesota, handicapped most of the season by injuries, drawing honorable mention.

The only positions contested closely were at guard, where Illinois' Alex Agase was barely edged out; at center, where Mervin Pregulman, Michigan, missed tying Negus by one point, and at halfback, where Michigan's Tom Kuzma, Ohio State's Paul Sarringhaus and the area, estimated at 150,000, free to swing south into Tripolitania and catch Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered African corps from the rear while General Bernard Montgomery's British eighth army closed in from the east.

Ready To Spring Trap

That something of the sort was contemplated was strongly indicated by the fact that for four straight days General Montgomery's headquarters had said there was "nothing to report" from its ground forces. Apparently Montgomery was purposely delaying an assault on Rommel at El Agheila and merely waiting for the trap to spring.

The presence of so many high air officers at Gen. Eisenhower's conference indicated the air arm would be expected to play an important part in the concluding phases of the North African battle. Allied forces moving on Bizerte and Tunis are known to be heavily supplied with parachute troops.

The Moscow radio declared that, as a result of concentrated British bombings, the entire Italian navy had been transferred from the Mediterranean to the comparatively safe waters of the Adriatic.

The Morocco radio reported that the Allies were continuing to unload "enormous quantities" of battle equipment at Casablanca, on the West African coast.

AUTHOR OF SLOGAN DIES

Paw Paw Couple Lose Two Bucks; Camp Burns

NEWBERRY, Nov. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith, Paw Paw, who came to Luce county to hunt deer, probably hung up a record for hard luck.

Smith shot a 12-point buck the first day of the season, hung the carcass in front of his camp and he and Mrs. Smith went to McMillan to get supplies. When they returned the buck had been stolen. They reported the theft to the state police. The next day Mrs. Smith shot a buck and, being excited, forgot to put her tag on it.

She went to camp to get her husband and when they returned to the spot where she made the kill, another hunter was cleaning the deer. Disappointed, but still not licked, they returned to camp, only to find that the building had burned to the ground during their absence. All their equipment and supplies were destroyed.

Their only consolation is that Smith finally did get his buck. The carcass was traced to Battle Creek where two men were arrested for the theft. Their names have not been disclosed by the state police.

Car Owners Filling Tanks; 904 Registered

NEWBERRY, Nov. 29.—Newberry car owners are filling up their gas tanks in preparation for the rationing period, starting Tuesday. Registration for Luce county last week was 904, representing about two-thirds of the car owners in the county. Registration by townships: Columbus, 65; Lakefield, 50; McMillan, 65; Pentland, 154. Those who did not register must wait until after December 2 to report to the local ration board.

Coffee rationing began today. Sugar books will be used and tickets for coffee will begin with No. 27. Each adult over 15 is entitled to one pound of coffee every five weeks.

Car Hits Pedestrian On Newberry Avenue

NEWBERRY, Nov. 29.—Struck last night on Newberry avenue by a car driven by George Edwards, Fred Loper was injured and was given treatment in the Newberry clinic. His head was cut and he had minor bruises. Three persons, including Loper, were walking north on Newberry avenue and were on the west side of the highway, walking against traffic. Two of them were on the side of the road, but Loper was about three feet out on the pavement. Edwards said he saw the two persons on the side of the road, but did not see Loper.

Police warn pedestrians that during the winter the accident hazard is increased because many persons walk on highways, inasmuch as sidewalks are not being plowed. They should walk against traffic and stay as close to the edge of the roadway as possible.

Newberry Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leif, former residents of Newberry, are visiting friends and relatives here. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Nixon have arrived home from Cheboygan where they spent the Thanksgiving holidays.

Sherman Ludlow, attending the General Motors school at Flint, has returned to Flint after spending the Thanksgiving holidays with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. James Green have returned to Lincoln Park, Mich., where Mr. Green is teaching in the high school. Mrs. Susan Green, mother of Mr. Green, came here with her son and will remain here indefinitely.

Arthur Hauswirth, Houghton, was arrested Sunday for exceeding the speed limit of 35 miles an hour. He was driving 55. He was arrested in McMillan township, appeared before Justice Becks and paid $4.35 costs.

Claflin questioned the bus boy as saying: "A patron came into the place and unscrewed a bulb in the ceiling. This made the room too dark, and so the waiters came to me and asked me to screw the bulb back in."

"I stood on a chair to do it. I lighted a match and held it while I screwed the bulb in with the other hand.

"The match set fire to a palm tree. That is how the fire started." Burned Beyond Recognition

Thus the flame of a match started a blaze that raced so swiftly and so fiercely through the night club that many bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Many of the victims were "terribly burned" after death, asserted Medical Examiner Timothy Leary after examining bodies at the Southern mortuary.

Most of the deaths of those he examined were due to carbon monoxide poisoning, inhalation of smoke and holoocaust.

The orchestra leader had raised his baton to signal for the National Anthem as a prelude to last night's floor show, then—

There was a puff of smoke; a thin finger of flame raced among the decorations; a girl cried "fire," and within seconds the crowded night club was bedlam.

The rising tide of dead reached its peak today as the bodies of those who were injured being treated in hospitals throughout greater Boston.

By daybreak all the bodies had been taken from the one and one-half story stucco building that squatted among taller structures on a narrow back bay street.

The structure itself had the appearance of a huge brick oven—filled inside with burned and charred wreckage but with hardly a scorched spot on outside walls and roof.

Germany To Be Beaten First

Red Heroism Makes Allied Task Easier

By John M. Hightower

Prime Minister Churchill's suggestion that Germany may be defeated before Japan reflects United Nations grand strategy, which is proved by the military commitments the United States and Great Britain already have made.

It should give the Japanese little comfort, however, for even before the massed might of the Allies is brought fully to bear in Asia and the Pacific they must expect many powerful blows from our forces.

These will have to be delivered, despite the demands on our forces in Europe and Africa, in order to hold the Japanese in check, to protect our supply lines across the Pacific and Indian oceans and to open new supply lines into China.

The future must include further heavy sea fighting in the south Pacific, land battles in Burma through which great quantities of supplies can be moved to China when the enemy is driven out, and increasingly heavy air actions by the forces based in India, Australia and our island outposts in the southern archipelago.

But there can be no doubt, especially now that Churchill has spoken, that the decisive campaigns of the predictable future will be waged against Nazi Germany according to a pattern of attack which is even now taking form on the Mediterranean shores of Africa and the snowy, blood-stained front that twists across the steppes and plains of southern and central Russia.

Giving evidence of great unity among Washington, London and Moscow, Churchill made it plain in his speech that the smashing Russian offensive, the rout of Rommel's Afrika Korps in Egypt and Libya and the American campaign in French Africa all were part of the same pattern.

Face 3-Front Aerial War

Because of this unity of action, Germany is now defending herself against a full scale offensive on the eastern front. She faces a three-front aerial war which will develop when Allied air forces in Africa are in position to strike across the Mediterranean in conjunction with those already pounding the Nazis from Europe and Russia. And she faces the real opening of a western front in Europe after her armies are driven out of North Africa.

Even before this the Nazis are confronted with a revolutionary potential in Italy. This is the import of Churchill's invitation to the Italian people to rid themselves of Mussolini and get out of the war if they do not want virtually all their cities to suffer the terrible destruction already brought upon Genoa and Turin by RAF bombardment.

The British must be convinced that the Italian people, who never have had much stomach for the war anyway, and now thoroughly sick of it, whether they would be able to throw off the German yoke to make a separate peace with the United Nations is questionable, but certainly an effort to do so would explode a revolution that would shatter the morale of Italian divisions still fighting in Russia and Africa and set up in other Nazi-dominated centers of Europe new hope of freedom.

70,000 Expected At Sugar Bowl Contest

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—Expecting a sellout of more than 70,000 fans when Tulsa and Tennessee meet New Year's day, the Sugar Bowl people are inclined to chuckle over their previous hopes of matching the 100,000 unbeten and untented tens. Here's why:

(1) Aside from Tulsa no major eleven finished sans setback. (2) Only once in the eight-year history to the Sugar Bowl classic have two untopped squads met here. Tennessee was one of them, losing 19-13, to Boston College in 1941. But this year, the Vols go in with one defeat and one tie.

Tulsa tripped through 10 games without a serious scare, bombarding various scoreboards with a total of 427 points while holding the combined opposition to 32. Tennessee lost one game, to Alabama, and was held to a scoreless tie by South Carolina, but hit the home stretch with power to squander.

Family Has Six Sons In Armed Forces

MUNISING, Nov. 29—In a letter received by friends this week Joseph Kordish describes his life as a "sailor rookie" as "swell." That fact establishes a sextet of brothers who are all "getting along fine" in the nation's armed services. Joe, youngest of the brothers, enlisted in the Navy two weeks ago and is training at Great Lakes, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kordish, East Munising avenue, are parents of the sailor an five soldiers. The other sons, in the Army, are: Corp. Victor, in the infantry at Camp Croft, S. C.; Sgt. Vincent, in the tank division at Camp Polk, La.; Pvt. Frank, "in parts unknown." Pvt. John, last reported at Camp Crowder, Mo.

Pvt. Louis, who joined the service October 22 and began duty at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Merchants Prepare For Holiday Buying Rush

MUNISING, Nov. 29—With Christmas only 22 shopping days away it appears Munising residents will not have to dream about a "White Christmas." They'll have the genuine thing, the Thanksgiving storm having brought snow which probably will "stick."

Several Munising stores already have been "converted" to gift business and have attractive window displays. While some products will not be obtainable this year, stores are well stocked.

Shoppers probably will have to do holiday buying without inspiration from the city's usual "Santa Claus lane." Because a WPB request that street and yard decorating be eliminated this year to conserve manpower, materials and electricity, the city commission is expected to dispatch with installing Christmas lights in the business section.

Obituary

Mrs. Luella Buckley
MUNISING, Nov. 29—Mrs. Luella Buckley, 71, died at 8 this morning in the Munising hospital after four months' illness. She had been a patient in the hospital nine days. The former Luella Croissant, she was born in Beaver Falls, New York, on March 16, 1871, and was married to Patrick Buckley in New York state on July 10, 1892. They moved to Munising in 1899. Mrs. Buckley leaves two sons, Eugene and William, Detroit, and two daughters, Mrs. C. D. Florin and Miss Lucille Buckley, Munising. The body is in Beaulieu's funeral home, where the Rosary will be said at 8 p. m. Tuesday. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 9 a. m. in Sacred Heart church.

If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Trout Creek

School News—Trout Creek high school opened its basketball season with a victory over Watersmeet, 23-14. Trout Creek plays Bergland at Bergland December 4. More than one hundred students indicated their interest in the new Victory Corps, organized two weeks ago. Two students from each of the high school classes were chosen to form the Victory Corps council. A class in military drill has been started under the guidance of Gerald Gossett, athletic coach. Other Victory Corps activities include the sale of scrap to the WPA. The money will be used to purchase war bonds for the school. The student body and patrons of the school are looking forward to the entertainment to be furnished by the Bently trio today and the grade opera, "Susanna's Christmas Auction," to be given before the holidays. The second issue of the school paper, "Glimpse," appeared last Wednesday. It is planned to publish the paper monthly. School was closed last Tuesday afternoon as a tribute to the late Edward Cameron, Sr., who served on the board of education many years.

You Live Year In A Month On Guadalcanal

Sherman Montrose, Acme Newspictures cameraman, who landed with the Marines on Guadalcanal last August, and whose pictures were distributed to newspapers and the country through the "photographic pool," has just returned to San Francisco from his assignment. Montrose and his equipment are undergoing repairs, but despite the fact that the photographer is convalescing from malaria, dysentery and a badly infected leg, he has written six gripping, eye-witness stories of life on Guadalcanal, of which this is the first.

By SHERMAN MONTROSE
Written for NEA Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29—You live for about a year in a month on Guadalcanal — if you live — so it seems like a long time since that early morning in August when the Marines splashed ashore from their landing barges and the word "Solomons" became important to Americans.

Dressed in a regulation Marine "work" uniform, with a full pack, two cameras, plate holders, filters, cans of developer and hypo, I was waiting to go over the side and down the rope ladders when somebody cracked: "He looks like a secret weapon — he'll scare off the Japs."

That was right at the beginning. But the men who were so quick on the wise-crack then have grown more serious as they have lived and fought through months of heat, strafing, sniping and bombing. After the initial landing and attack, I was away from Guadalcanal, bouncing around the ocean, for about a month. It was when I returned that I noticed how these lighthearted fighters had changed.

Gun Would Be Handy

If you're a non-combatant serving with U. S. forces as a photographer or correspondent, you're not supposed to go armed—even where there are Jap snipers all around you in tropical jungles. But there's many a time you wish you had a light machine gun, a .45 and a couple of pockets full of hand grenades.

Life is like that in the Solomons. Stay back of the front lines and you don't get any pictures — and that's your job out there. It doesn't make much difference anyhow, one place is as safe as another, everybody figures.

Bob Miller, of the United Press, and I were together on those first days of Guadalcanal. A few Japanese snipers opened up on our forces, but the main body of Japanese had headed for the hills. We moved our lines steadily on their heels.

An abandoned Japanese work-village, tents clustered by one shell, provided swell picture possibilities. When the shelling started, the Jap workmen had just left — their breakfast dishes scattered around, personal belongings in orderly array by their pallet beds.

We looked over thousands of pieces of Japanese fighting and construction equipment abandoned in the hasty retreat, found a couple of ill Japanese men who promptly made prisoner longed for at case after case of Jap beer we wanted to sample but didn't because we were afraid we'd find it poisoned.

We had lost our Marine patrol in the interest of investigating the camp and didn't know exactly where we were in relation to Japanese-occupied territory. So when machine guns started chattering a few yards away we threw ourselves on the ground.

About that time my holders were empty of unexposed film and it was necessary to reload, which I did from the prone position.

We looked across a shallow creek and saw Japanese troops running to the hills and decided then it was time to execute a maneuver generally known as "getting the hell out of there."

Then one lone Marine sentry stopped us, told us that as far as he knew he and his sergeant were the only two Marines in that vicinity. We crossed the creek on a rickety bridge to investigate a shack on the other shore. It had been the home of a group of Japanese artillery officers manning a 70-mm. battery on the shore.

Why Japs Didn't Fire

Their guns were stilled on the beach, but in good working condition. Sightings had been affixed and fuses shells were nearby in ammunition cases. All that was necessary was to start shooting. We wondered why they hadn't used the pieces on our advancing troops but when we looked directly at our destroyers had mowed down palm trees in that entire area, we had the answer.

A jeep puffed up and we hooked one of the 70 mm.'s onto the bumper and hauled it back toward our command post. At the now-captured Henderson airport, we stopped and examined the field which has proved to be one of our most important possessions in the South Pacific.

Then anti-aircraft started out in the bay, where unloading operations were continuing. We raced to the beach to see the excitement. In the distance we could see Japanese torpedo planes skimming the water. Smoke rolled upward from at least a half dozen burning planes streaking to their doom.

It was obvious that the attack wasn't getting anywhere, although we saw one of our ships burning furiously from a hit. Later we found that it was an empty transport set afire when a torpedo bomber, out of control crashed into it.

At night, as we dragged into our camp, footsore, weary and covered with mosquito bites, the rain started. A rain that we were to see a lot more of in weeks to come, a rain that never was appreciated.

Japs Attack

Early silence of the night was ominous. It didn't last long. Japs tried to rush the camp, and for hours machine guns, Springfield, and .45's barked over our heads. A

News Behind the News

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Although submitted as a war measure, the bill permitting Mr. Roosevelt to suspend laws affecting tariffs, immigration and information carried certain postarmistice implications which irritated legislative bellwethers on Capitol Hill.

The behind-the-scenes controversy constitutes another round in the struggle regarding the extent of American participation in eventual world reconstruction.

With our machinery, money and men launching many new industries in foreign lands, especially South America, members fear that dictatorial power over import rates might be used to admit a flow of competitive goods.

Similar experiments have been inaugurated in Baltimore, Louisville, Buffalo, southern California and other places. Now W. M. C. hopes to establish twelve regional districts which will try to persuade owners and unions to adopt the same scheme.

Experts—Certain economic expansionists at the Capital are grousing privately about our failure to plan for development of the North African area before our troops invaded that territory.

MAIL—Don't be astonished if the Post Office asks you to reduce your letter writing to the barest minimum. Like the restrictions which telephone companies and railroads have had to apply, Uncle Sam may request that nobody take quill in hand unless he cannot resist the urge.

Winning The War

By Albert N. Leman

STARVATION—When our golden fields were harvested this Fall confidence was widely felt—even in Washington—that, except for a little inconvenience here and there, we should have ample supplies.

VOTERS—Preliminary study of voters' absentee ballots indicates that servicemen behaved the same as men in full on Election Day.

Jap plane came over, dropping flares. In the distance naval guns fired started and the earth trembled from the shock of big shells.

Runners came into camp to report to General Vandergrift: "Sir, enemy craft approaching offshore. We can see them on the horizon!"

ilian life predications. If they had been G. O. P.-ers, as in certain sections of Pennsylvania, the majority stuck with the Grand Old Party. Where the boys had preferred the donkey's emblem, as in Maryland and nearby states, they did not shift allegiance.

In short, neither Party derived any comfort from the armed forces' political likes or dislikes. So all the Congressional shooting and orating regarding the issue of far-from-home voters was a waste of time.

FREE—A neutral diplomat now in New York who has recently traveled in Europe affirms that the breath-taking movie scenes of hunted persons dodging across frontiers amid a shower of bullets actually happen in real life today.

GUN MAKING TIME CUT

Rifling gun barrels, one of the most delicate of machining tasks, is now done in one-third the time required before the wartime hurry-up.

THIS IS TOULON HARBOR—This is a general view of the harbor at Toulon taken a number of years ago where 62 French warships were reported scuttled to keep them from falling into the hands of the Germans when they took over the city.

STORM—Through its very effective underground, Belgian headquarters in New York has received word that the puppet government in Brussels has been ordered by Berlin to recruit 500,000 skilled workers for transportation into the Reich.

SNOOPEE—Distinguished Spaniards in Manhattan say that the strained relations which have existed between their nation and the United States have been caused in some measure by American officialdom.

THEY ARE NOT IMPUTING any selfish or postbellum interests to London, for that would constitute a violation of the Atlantic Charter and F. D. R.'s promises to victory and the Italian people. But simply as a means of shortening and winning the conflict, they believe Washington ought to arrange in advance for mobilizing the essential products of reconquered lands.

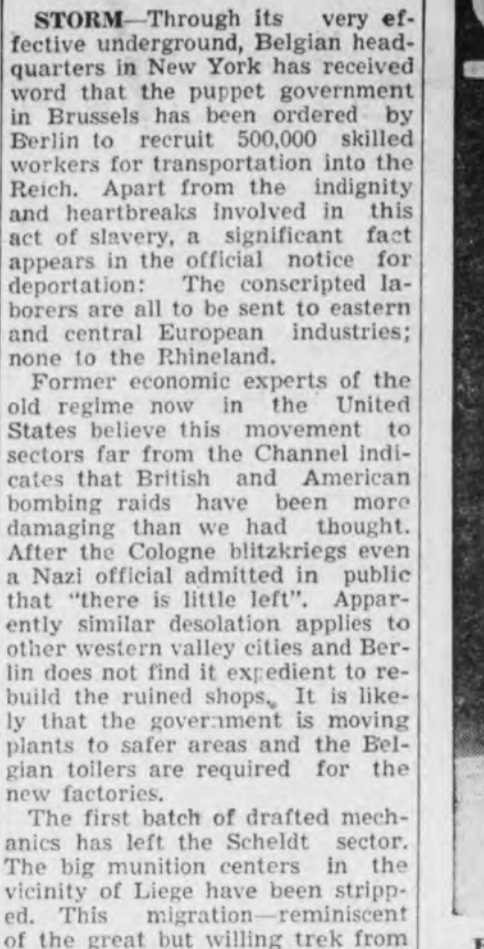

Wounded Frenchmen Treated

There were some summer homes, a restaurant and some Arab huts made of grass. We dug trenches and took cover behind stone walls surrounding the houses. The place was a beach resort. Most of the boat crew went into the restaurant, but it had nothing to sell but wine. We stayed there all day. Some French people—men, women and children—were brought to the restaurant for treatment of wounds suffered under fire from our ships' guns.

THE STORY: Major Ruck reveals his identity as an English spy, and entrusts Gerd and Stensgard with a code book, and reports that help is coming. Meanwhile, Captain Kowling orders confiscation of the house of Sixtus Andersen, the schoolmaster. The schoolmaster staidly accepts notification that he must leave within 48 hours.

WILL SHE BETRAY HIM? CHAPTER XII

That night Karl Fischer stood guard at the dock from midnight until 4. Under a cold sky hazy with stars, the boats rode still. The water eddied dark and bitter under him, swept on an incoming tide.

He paced slowly back and forth with a rifle over his bony shoulder, and stamped his feet to keep warm. He dreamed guard duty at night. It meant he was alone and had to think . . . of the towers and halls of Göttingen, and the life he had deserted for a world in which he had no place.

Then he vanished. Quite by accident several weeks later Spanish leaders here discovered that he was being held at Ellis Island and subjected to anything but a friendly welcome. Petty immigration officials paid no attention to the note to the White House and treated him as a suspected alien.

Winning The War

By Albert N. Leman

STARVATION—When our golden fields were harvested this Fall confidence was widely felt—even in Washington—that, except for a little inconvenience here and there, we should have ample supplies.

VOTERS—Preliminary study of voters' absentee ballots indicates that servicemen behaved the same as men in full on Election Day.

Jap plane came over, dropping flares. In the distance naval guns fired started and the earth trembled from the shock of big shells.

Runners came into camp to report to General Vandergrift: "Sir, enemy craft approaching offshore. We can see them on the horizon!"

Patrols were sent out to intercept possible landing attempts. Water rolled down in sheets. Later the general called together the three correspondents then on the island—Miller, myself and Dick Tregasius of INS, who had landed from another ship—and told us he thought we should leave.

"We're glad to have you stay if you want, but if you're smart, you'll get out with the transports this afternoon. If you want to stay, you must figure on being here for six weeks or more and not being able to get your material out."

I had more than 100 pictures I regarded as pretty important, and looking forward to seeing sea action, decided to leave. Tregasius made the same decision. Miller threw his fates in with the Marines and elected to stick it out for the balance of the campaign.

U. P. Sailor Tells About African Fight

AN EAST COAST PORT, Nov. 29.—P—Returning casualties from the U. S. Navy's amphibious forces that participated in the African landing operations Nov. 8 told today how a soldier was buried in the sand or 30 minutes by a bomb explosion, and how quickly dug trenches shielded the Americans from French planes' strafing attacks.

Oliver Gustafson, 25, seaman, second class, of Bessemer, Mich., who suffered shrapnel wounds in the leg when a hand grenade he picked up on a beach exploded, said that "French planes bombed us and strafed us with machine guns while we were in the trenches, but no one was killed."

The unidentified soldier buried in the sand was dug out and revived in the trenches.

In Ramp Boat Crew

Gustafson was a member of the crew of a ramp boat that landed troops and jeeps from a transport six miles off shore under cover of darkness. He said a searchlight from a fort on a hill overlooking the rocky beach toward which they were moving picked out several ships and that French 75's immediately went into action from the fort.

American warships turned their guns on the searchlight and quickly shot it out.

The fort's guns kept firing at our ships and landing vessels but we kept going toward the coast and many of our landing vessels landed safely under cover of darkness," Gustafson related.

"In my boat were 30 soldiers and my boat crew. My boat got hung up on a rock about 20 feet from shore. The troops jumped out and waded ashore in five feet of water. The water was cold. The boat crew tried to get the boat off the rock, but we couldn't, so we waded ashore. Dawn was just breaking."

Wounded Frenchmen Treated

There were some summer homes, a restaurant and some Arab huts made of grass. We dug trenches and took cover behind stone walls surrounding the houses. The place was a beach resort. Most of the boat crew went into the restaurant, but it had nothing to sell but wine. We stayed there all day. Some French people—men, women and children—were brought to the restaurant for treatment of wounds suffered under fire from our ships' guns.

"That night the tide pushed our boats up on the beach. We tried to launch them to return to our ships but the tide was so strong we couldn't launch them. We removed the guns from the boats and some of the men stayed to guard the boats."

"About 6 p. m. some of us in the boat crews started for another beach. On the way, I saw a hand grenade on the beach and picked it up. It exploded and the shrapnel struck me in the left leg. My buddies carried me to a road and a jeep picked me up and carried me to a field hospital in a French home that had been vacated. They treated my wounds. I slept until 11 p. m. and then they carried me on a litter to some trenches two miles away. We stayed there a day and a half."

Strat By French Planes

"French planes bombed us and strafed us with machine guns while we were in the trenches, but no one was killed. One soldier was buried in the sand for 30 minutes by a bomb explosion, but he was brought to the trenches and revived."

A civilian truck carried Gustafson and two other wounded men to a hospital on another section of the coast. On their way, Gustafson said, they saw American Navy planes high overhead "and we felt safe." Then a French plane came down over the truck flying at about 200 feet. It strafed the men in the truck but nobody was hurt.

When they arrived at the hospital, they found it crowded with casualties, Gustafson related. On Nov. 11 he was removed to a transport offshore and we felt we were taken ashore again and carried by train to Casablanca. Gustafson and other casualties sailed from Casablanca aboard a transport on Nov. 15, arriving here yesterday.

Kills 400-Pound Bear

HOUGHTON, Nov. 29 — George Pastore, Jr., of South Range, a senior at Michigan Tech, strolled through the woods about seven miles north of Mass City in the Lake Mine district on his first deer hunting trip. He was into a bear's den and came away with a bear weighing over 400 pounds. With four shells in his rifle, the Tech student was about one and a half miles from camp when he sighted the bear. He first observed a mound of fresh earth which appeared to have been recently deposited. When he approached to investigate, he was greeted by a yawning bear pit into which Bruin apparently had prepared to set himself up for the winter. The bear moved slowly out of the den toward Pastore 60 feet away, and the young hunter took careful aim and fired, the bullet piercing the animal's head. The bear moved several more steps and Pastore fired once more. Hurt and dazed but apparently still able to move, the bear continued toward the hunter. A third shot downed him as he was about halfway toward Pastore.

ter. Are you surprised to see me here, in this lonely little town? I had many German friends, you know." She kept talking quietly in her slow, burring speech, watching him surreptitiously, with her small chin tilted to one side.

"I know you're not what you pretend," she whispered. You didn't learn German that well in two years."

He stiffened and kept watching her face. His arms tensed. (To Be Continued)
