War Picture Has Turned From Darkness To Dawn In A Year

BY THOMAS M. JOHNSON NEA Military Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 — In the year since Pearl Harbor, the whole picture of America's war has turned from darkness to dawn. The country was numbered as a man who has been black-jacked. It had been thrust not only into war, but into disaster. Almost hysterically men asked: "Have we no admirals? No generals? No leaders?"

The story was whispered of a Navy and an Army that, though warned well ahead by detection of a Jap submarine and the drone of planes caught by locaters, still were caught with ships and planes huddled in the open like sitting ducks, inviting slaughter. And despite that horrible example's ample warning, at Manila our planes were caught the same way, spelling a second disaster. Philippine defense was left mostly to native levies so scantily trained that often they broke under fire. Equipment was always scanty, frequently out-moded. For which complacent and capulous generals and admirals and Manila politicians were to blame.

People at Fault Washington politicians were immediately to blame for the stovepipe cannon I saw at the Army maneuvers then just ending, but primarily to blame were the complacent American people. That sudden discovery made them fighting mad, and aroused trainees snarled as they drove bayonet into dummy. Pearl Harbor has resurrected the American fighting spirit to inspire the best trained army ever sent into war—and the best led.

As never before in peace, we have trained generals. In those post-Pearl Harbor maneuvers Eisenhower and Clark proved themselves as chiefs of staff, Fredendall as a corps commander, Patton as a tank commander. They learned to handle men in the field and the men learned to handle themselves in mountain, jungle, desert, shore-landings—as Africa shows. They learned new tactics combining individual initiative with teamwork. They mastered new equipment now streaming from production lines that a year ago seemed clogged with inertia and red tape.

Today Africa and the Solomons show that we have the best weapons in the world in the new Garand rifle, carbine, 108mm. howitzer, medium tank and newer devices of de-bilting the blitzkrieg.

Kits Are Tops As for personal equipment, an inspecting British general exclaimed: "Gad! Your privates' kit is up to our officers'!" Those troops were going to Iceland, one of thirty-odd ends of the earth where nearly a million of our four-million-man Army (going on 7,500,000) is distributed. On every continent our Army has demonstrated that it has one of the world's finest air forces. Its heavy and medium bombers are changing aerial tactics and even strategy, making possible an attack on German military targets, including key cities, of a six-and-a-half-night accuracy that was beyond the splendid RAF. Its fighters are showing a superiority over the Japanese of from 5 to 10 to 1, and new types look good against the Luftwaffe.

Our Navy's aviation primarily is responsible for turning back the Japanese from Australia, lately its surface vessels have retrieved earlier shortcomings. But more shakeups are likely. The Navy is paying for a publicity policy that before Pearl Harbor was too careless and since has been too careful. On December 7, 1941 the Navy was proclaiming itself "ready—in

Home Front Health Hazards Cause Concern at Capital

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 — Here (and elsewhere) are rumblings that may break forth any minute into one of the major manpower problems of the war—the growing shortage of physicians and dentists to care for civilians. Topflight dentists recently met in Washington. The whole business was off the record, but the principal speaker at the closing session, a civilian topnotcher in the dental ranks, fairly yanked the molars out of the military men for their raids on the profession.

According to figures made public here recently, about one-third of all the able-bodied physicians in the country (exclusive of non-practicing physicians and most of those over 65) are now serving the armed forces.

If there is any state left that has the ratio of one doctor to 1,000 persons, it hasn't been reported here and in states hardest hit by enlistments and the "voluntary draft" of medical men, the ratio is rapidly approaching one doctor to each 3,000 persons.

Must Protect Home Front

Compare this with apportionment in the military forces of one medical man to approximately 135 men. That doesn't mean, of course, that every physician has only 135 men to look after. With specialists, surgeons, etc. devoting themselves to special treatment, every Army or Navy doctor's brood is much larger than that. Nor is there any quarrel with giving the fighting men the ultimate in medical care. The point is that somehow the health of the home front must be kept up, too, and that the 85,000 (more or less) physicians left in civilian practice are just about absolute minimum, provided they were equably distributed in all states, cities and defense centers, which they aren't.

Borrowing Trouble

It's certainly borrowing trouble

Coffee Shortage Is Real in Greece NEW YORK—(P)—Worried about the coffee shortage? You don't know the half of it. According to New York officials of the Greek War Relief association, a Greek laborer would have to work 188 days, or more than six months, to earn enough money to buy one pound of coffee, which costs the equivalent of $190 on the Black Market.

Army Cot Has Long Life

AUSTIN, Tex. — (P)—Recently Lieut. Gov. Elect John Lee Smith visited an army barracks at Fort Strong, Mass., and found his initials carved on an Army cot. He had placed them there 25 years ago when he was stationed at Fort Strong.

to contemplate what might happen if we had a recurrence of (or something similar to) the "flu" epidemic of World War I, but contemplating just such a possibility with the prospect of losing another 15,000 medics to the armed services is what has health officials between a fit and a fiddle. One partial remedy suggested is the compulsory allocation of medical manpower.

But behind the scenes here is that old bugaboo of organized medicine: the fear that any such national regulation will lead to "socialized medicine."

The solution isn't anywhere near in sight, but there isn't a crowded community in the country (Washington included and close to the top) where members of any family in which there is a seriously ill child, a pregnant wife, an outbreak of colds, or a weekend toothache, fail to realize that this is one of America's critical wartime problems.

Luning, Nazi Spy, Made Use Of Canaries

BY PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

A LOT of the best stories out of this man's war can't be told till after it's all over, but now and then a foreign spy case does get cleaned up and that chapter of the book can be bundled off to the archives. Of such is the case of one Heinz August Luning, who ended up before a Cuban firing squad down in Havana the other day.

The Luning case didn't attract much attention in the United States except as an incident disclosed by Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles to prove to the Chilean government that some of the spy-lines from the Western Hemisphere back to Germany could be traced through the Republic of Chile, which had not been playing ball any too well under the program of co-operation for the American republics agreed upon at the Rio conference. But the story of this Luning is as good a record as any to show how a German agent can do business and dirt in a Latin American country.

Luning was born in Bremen, Germany, of a German father and Italian mother. When he was 26 years old he came to the United States, settled in New York, lived at the YMCA for a time, and finally got into the exporting business. He was apparently none too successful, for he went to Santo Domingo in 1936, then back to Hamburg, back to Santo Domingo, back to Hamburg, still trying to get established as an exporter.

He did manage to pick up Spanish and English, and with that language background, instead of being put in the Army at the outbreak of the war he was sent to a German espionage school in Hamburg. In six weeks' course he was taught how to build and operate a radio set, using spare parts and such materials as could be found in Latin American countries.

Becomes A Spy When he finished his course, Luning, and told him he was a Honduran-born refugee Jew who had been forced to flee from Rotterdam when the Nazis invaded Holland. To make it look good, the Nazis purchased for him, from a crooked Honduran consular official in Germany, a pre-dated Honduran passport attesting to his birth in the Central American Republic of Honduras. Thus equipped, and with $3,000 in U. S. currency, Luning sailed from Barcelona, Spain, for Cuba, arriving in Havana in late September, 1941.

Luning opened up a small women's apparel shop in Havana and with his experience in the exporting business, he began to correspond with exporters and importers throughout the Western Hemisphere. His most useful job for the Nazis was the observation of ship arrivals and sailings from the port of Havana, though he did pick up some stray bits of information on ship movements from his correspondence.

Enrique Luni, the refugee Jew, had his living quarters in a rooming house in Teniente Rey street. To this rooming house Luning brought the radio parts he purchased in Havana stores, and began the assembly of his set.

Canaries, a Ruse But he also began to make other strange purchases — singing canaries. He filled his room with their cages and their constant chattering served him two very useful purposes. First, it kept the other roomers in the house from hearing the noise of his little radio transmitter in operation. Second, if anyone came to his door he would delay their admittance with the excuse that one of his canaries was loose in the room and he didn't want to open the door till the bird was safely back in its cage. That gave him a chance to scurry around and hide his equipment.

Luning used his radio for communication with Nazi submarines operating off Cuban and Caribbean waters. Curiously enough, however, it was not his radio which led to his detection, but his mail. Some of the letters sent to him from other countries, giving information on ship movements, attracted suspicion to his importing and exporting business and that led to observation of all his activities and the detection of the radio transmitter.

The U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation got into the picture, and the G-men worked through the Cuban National Police for the catch.

Would-Be Kings Dust Off Crowns in Europe, America

BY G. W. WARNECKE

A coterie of ousted monarchs, pretenders and heirs more-or-less apparent are dusting off their crowns in European and American social sanctuaries. The status of these anointed and unanointed sovereigns is currently at the heart of United Nations politics. Delays in forming a supreme inter-allied war council mainly are rooted in problems resulting from their claims which crashed to the dust in World War I. A score of republics subsequently arose in Europe, but soon most of them were transformed into dictatorships. Many signs now point to a possible wholesale return of royalty when and as the present conflict ends in the opinion of well-posted diplomatic insiders.

Here is the nub. Countries such as Spain, Italy and Austria, and the national groups of southeastern Europe, are said by conservative spokesmen to form a category in which the courts alone can provide a rallying point for stable government in place of Fascist rule. As opposed to that view, exiled parliamentary representatives demand that the Allies shall support peoples' governments modeled on the democratic pattern of the United States Constitution and Bill of Rights. They insist that only in this way can the principles of the Atlantic Charter and Four Freedoms be realized.

Hits Allied Political War

Behind the scenes this conflict of opinion is reaching fever heat. It is softening the impact of Allied political warfare in the occupied countries. Leon Morand, the French labor leader who escaped to England following the North African coup, declares President Roosevelt's influence in France has been reduced 75 per cent as a result of our acceptance of Darlan.

Although the basic war aims of the Allies are involved, public discussion is inhibited by censorship. Many Allied leaders rate Hitlerism as the arch-enemy. After its overthrow, they suggest, other regimes can be brought into line with democracy by grants for reconstruction—plus disciplining, if need be, by an aerial police corps. (That is the essence of Washington's armistice idea).

In the meantime the trend of Allied policy is to use, wherever possible, royalists and their sympathizers against Fascism in Italy and Yugoslavia, against Nazism in Austria, and against the Falange in Spain. Critical observers forecast that restoration of monarchies would light the fuse for another holocaust 20 years hence. But the President's explanation of the Darlan arrangements as a "temporary military expedient" remains the clue to official policy.

Shadows Behind Thrones

Prominently in the picture at present is Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the Austro-Hungarian throne. He has been authorized by Secretary Henry L. Stimson, in a letter addressed to "Otto of Austria," to help recruit an Austrian battalion for the U. S. Army. Austrian democratic groups which had made similar requests to the War department were rebuffed.

Otto and other members of the Hapsburg family live in Washington. His mother, the forcefully ambitious former Empress Zita, spent a weekend at the President's home in Hyde Park last summer. Suggestions have been made that a reconstituted Austria might form the nucleus of a federation comprising the various nations carved out of the Austro-Hungarian empire at Versailles. This, however, concerns King Peter of Yugoslavia, who recently flew to London after visiting the Capital. His government is one of the United Nations.

Not that all Moscow is vitally interested in that part of Europe. Pan-Slav and Communist sentiments exist in Yugoslavia side by side with an intense nationalism. Partisan armies composed of these elements are at present fighting General Mihailovitch, King Peter's commander, charging that he had made an armistice with Italy in order to suppress the insurgent guerrillas.

Yugoslavs' Plan

Yugoslav nationalists have blueprinted a Balkan federation extending from Russia to the Adriatic, built around the Slav composite state of Yugoslavia as a cornerstone. London and Washington are asked to uphold this project. France Snot, a minister in the Yugoslav government and a leader of the Slovenian Peoples Party, who is now in New York, openly denounces as "astounding" the reported proposal for a revival of Hapsburg rule over the Slavic and Balkan regions.

Italy's dynasty is on the spot as a result of the Allied military and political barrage opened by Prime Minister Churchill in his broadcast last Sunday. Influential Italian statesmen at present in the United States, including the democratic Count Carlo Sforza, have voiced antimonarchical opinions in discussing the future of their country. But important quarters here and in London are said to favor contact with the supporters of Victor Emmanuel III, despite his twenty years' submission to the Duce. Another suggestion is that the Italian king may abdicate in favor of Crown Prince Humbert.

Even more obscure is the situation of Infante Don Juan of Bourbon, third son and legal heir to the throne of Spain. After the exile of his father, the late Alfonso XIII, Don Juan went to Lausanne. Recent Swiss dispatches report that the pretender, although only a "Highness," is addressed as "Majesty," and spends his days receiving numerous supporters.

Monarchists Prop Franco The monarchists are one of the principal groups propping General Francisco Franco. Anglo-American diplomacy in Spain, informed sources reveal, hopes for backing from this quarter in securing the Gaudillo from the Axis; but that

An historic shift will then occur in the concert of nations. With the destruction of French and German power, working control of Europe passes to Russia, Britain, and the United States. Washington will be committed to participation in the reconstruction of Europe.

Reds Pushing Forward In Twin Drives

By Eddy Gilmore

MOSCOW, Dec. 5 (Saturday)—P—The Red army seized 11 more villages in the Stalingrad area yesterday, presumably in the Don river bend west of that city, surrounded a German stronghold near Velikie Luki on the frozen central front, and killed upwards of 2,500 Nazis in twin offensives that still are gaining ground, the Soviets announced early today.

The regular midnight communique said the Russians gained 200 to 300 yards inside Stalingrad itself, occupied two important points northwest and southwest of the Volga river city, and were beginning "the liquidation of encircled enemy strongpoints" in the area of Velikie Luki, only 90 miles from the Latvian border.

Nazi Reserves In Battle

Dispatches said the Germans were throwing reserves into the central front in a desperate effort to stem the Red army in the Rzhev-Velikie Luki-Vyazma triangle northwest of Moscow.

The communique said that several more populated places had been seized west of Rzhev, and for several days the Russians have reported numerous holes torn in the German lines between that point and Velikie Luki.

One German infantry battalion counter attacking west of Rzhev was smashed, the Soviets said, and another battalion was routed from a height controlling an important road in the Velikie Luki area.

"Hundreds of enemy dead remained on the field of battle" in the latter sector, the bulletin said.

Closing Trap On Enemy

In the Stalingrad area, the communique said, the Russians still were advancing on the eastern bank of the Don near Stalingrad. It is this momentous push that threatens to trap the Nazis siege armies anchored between the Don and Volga rivers between Stalingrad. Several enemy strongpoints were overrun during yesterday, and a commanding height was taken after a battle which cost the Germans 600 dead.

Southwest of Stalingrad another 1,000 Germans were killed, and six tanks, 19 machine guns, two trucks and 30 enemy dugouts were destroyed in the capture of a strong enemy point.

The Russians conceded they were meeting stubborn resistance.

Mackenzie King Begins Talks With Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—P—President Roosevelt and his old friend, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada, began a series of weekend conversations today on what the President termed some of the deeper problems of post-war humanity.

The prime minister, a frequent visitor here, arrived this morning and the President delayed his press conference nearly 25 minutes to exchange greetings with his guest. Mackenzie King later spent 45 minutes with Secretary of State Hull.

The President told reporters he expected to spend a quiet weekend with the prime minister as old friends talking about a great many things, including some of the deeper problems of humanity after the war.

In response to a question, the Chief Executive said they would discuss the objective but not the details of the 1941 Hyde Park agreement under which the United States agreed to continue purchases of raw and other materials from Canada to provide her with necessary exchange to buy war goods here.

French Somaliland May Join Free French

CAIRO, Dec. 4—P—Fighting French quarters here believe that the coming week may see a decision on the fate of French Somaliland which until now has remained formally loyal to Vichy.

Reports received in Cairo said superior officers and officials held a stormy meeting at Jibuti last week and agreed that with Allied occupation of Madagascar and Reunion islands a desperate situation faces the colony and that it is necessary now to join the Allied camp. Until now the colony has been receiving some supplies from Madagascar and Reunion.

Senate Okeys Transfer Of Property To Panama

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—P—The Senate today approved an agreement transferring a number of United States-owned properties to Panama, despite objections that the measure was an Administration move to pass the Senate's constitutional say on treaties.

The agreement, presented in the form of legislation requiring a bare majority vote in both Senate and House, was passed by the Senate, 46-29. In the form of a treaty, requiring Senate approval by a two-thirds majority, it would have failed of ratification. As a treaty, however, it would not need House approval.

Only two Republicans, Senators Austin, Vermont, and Gurney, South Dakota, voted with 38 Democrats for the measure. Against it were seven Democrats. 21 Republicans and Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.). It now goes to the House.

President Presents Medal To Pilot's Parents

President Roosevelt presents the Congressional Medal of Honor to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pease, Sr., of Plymouth, N. H., in Washington after bestowing it upon their son, Capt. Earl Pease, Jr., Army pilot killed when he took a battered bomber on a raid over the Jap base at Rabaul, New Britain.

Existence Of WPA Ended By President

By Richard L. Turner

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—P—The Works Projects Administration, which provided depression relief for millions and an ever bitter controversy for Congress, was ordered out of existence today by President Roosevelt.

Wartime increases in private employment make the agency unnecessary now, he said in a letter to Major General Philip B. Fleming, Federal work administrator. Some individuals remain on the rolls, he added, but they can be provided for by the states and localities. Uncompleted building projects are to be taken over by other Federal agencies.

In "many states" the death sentence is to become effective by February 1 in others "as soon thereafter as feasible." The whole is to be liquidated by June 30 at the latest, for Mr. Roosevelt observed there would be no necessity for WPA appropriations for the next fiscal year.

During its career, WPA spent more than $10,000,000,000, providing relief for some 38,000,000 people.

To the end, the President stoutly defended the agency, its record, and the policy which guided it. It displayed "courage and determination in the face of uninformed criticism," he said. It had "asked for and earned an honorable discharge."

WPA began its existence seven years ago as the Works Progress Administration. It was a successor to the old Federal emergency relief administration. Its program was rooted in the theory that it was better to make work for the jobless, than to provide them with an outright dole.

WPA's foes began clamoring for its liquidation some time ago, on the ground that increased private employment had made it unnecessary. Last spring the House came within four votes of abolishing the agency outright.

10,000 On Rolls In State

DETROIT, Dec. 4—P—Officials estimated today that 10,000 persons remained on WPA rolls in Michigan to be affected by President Roosevelt's order liquidating the Federal agency.

Fate of War Powers Bill Uncertain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—P—Chances for passage of legislation giving President Roosevelt wartime authority to suspend certain tariff laws faded today as the House ways and means committee became involved in argument.

Rep. Gearhart (D-Calif.) contended that the measure would transfer legislative authority from Congress to the Executive departments.

On the other hand, Rep. Robertson (D-Va.) declared:

"There are some in this country, unfamiliar with this legislation, who feel that Congress would lose a golden opportunity to show its independence if it fails to throw a harpoon into the commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy."

The bill would permit the President to suspend tariff laws when he found that they interfered with the movement of property and information needed in the war effort.

The committee tentatively agreed to close public hearings next Thursday and several members expressed doubt that the House and Senate could act before Congress adjourns January 2.

Civilians In 18 States Searching For Wagner

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 4—P—Civilians in 18 states have been asked to aid in the search for Lt. Col. Boyd D. (Buzz) Wagner, ace combat pilot missing since Sunday night on a routine flight from Elgin Field, Fla., to Maxwell Field, Ala.

Officials at Maxwell Field, from which an air and ground search for the missing flier has been conducted, have asked residents of the entire area in which the flier might have landed to join in the quest which so far has been fruitless. In addition to ships from Maxwell Field, planes of other fields along his scheduled and possible route likewise have been participating.

Wagner, one of the Army's youngest lieutenant colonels, is credited with destroying between 30 and 50 enemy planes in the air and on the ground. After winning the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in the Philippines, he was assigned to Australia.

Trapped Jap Garrisons Get Aid From Air

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN Australia, Dec. 5 (Saturday)—P—Hard-pressed Japanese, apparently finding too costly in ships their repeated attempts to aid trapped forces in the Buna-Gona area, were reported today dropping supplies by parachute in an aerial attempt to relieve their beleaguered comrades.

The Allied command communique issued at noon said that "the enemy has resorted to supply dropping by parachute in an effort to relieve his beleaguered garrison."

The noon communique told of mopping up of pockets of opposition left behind by the Allied spearhead which fought its way to the coast near Gona and then turned toward Buna. More than 400 enemy dead have been counted. In addition, an estimated 40 Japs drowned when two large barges were sunk from under them by bombers of General Douglas MacArthur's air force.

The fighting in sectors other than around Gona was referred to as intermittent.

Allied planes bombed airstrips up the New Guinea coast at Lae and Salamaua and also ranged above New Guinea to New Ireland, setting fires last night among aircraft at Kavieng.

Government Curtails Ice Cream Manufacture

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—P—The Government today ordered the manufacture of ice cream curtailed about 20 per cent in December and January in order to provide more butter.

War Production Board Directed Manufacturers and Restaurants to Produce Only 80 Per Cent of Their October Output

Because less ice cream is made in the colder months of December and January, however, the cut will amount to only about 20 per cent below the normal production.

The order is designed to save enough butter fat to make 3,300,000 pounds of butter in December, about three per cent of the amount of butter produced last December.

SUES COOGAN FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24—P—Jackie (The Kid) Coogan's second wife, the former Flower Parry, filed suit for divorce today, alleging cruelty. She asked $131.50 monthly support for their son, John Anthony, aged eight months. Coogan, formerly the husband of actress Betty Grable, is in the Army.

Japs Short Of Material, Knox Believes

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—P—Japan's latest costly and futile attempt to deliver troops and supplies to Guadalcanal island was cited by Secretary of the Navy Knox today as evidence that enemy forces there must be running short of material.

"They lost a lot of ships," Knox said, "and they went away. They failed to gain their objective. They did not get ashore."

Expects Them To Try Again

The Secretary told his press conference, in fact, that he believed the enemy had been unsuccessful in landing any reinforcements or supplies for the past three weeks; that is, since their greatest effort to retake the island was smashed by a great American naval victory November 13-15.

"They must be expected to try again, however, he said, and the only safe theory is that they will return with ships and men as long as they can."

Knox said, American forces are gradually expanding and "taking in more territory."

One objective of the expansion was brought out by Major General Ralph J. Mitchell, chief of Marine aviation, who said that construction of another airfield on Guadalcanal was contemplated when suitable territory was won.

Patrol Activity Minor

The rains will be at their worst in late December and January, he explained, "and just what will happen we don't know."

Mitchell expressed the view that all the Japanese on the island must be cleaned out and America's hold fully secured before any invasion of enemy territory in the northern Solomons can be undertaken.

Meantime, Navy Reported in a Communique that ground activity on Guadalcanal Thursday was limited to minor patrol operations in the course of which 14 Japs were killed. Army fighters executed five attack missions in support of the land troops.

Allies Reported Forced Out Of Base Near Tunis By Axis Counter-Attack

McNutt To Direct Policies Of Selective Service In Transfer to WMC, Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—P—Executive orders naming Secretary of Agriculture Wickard as food administrator and transferring control over selective service to the war manpower commission headed by Paul V. McNutt were reported tonight to be on President Roosevelt's desk for action tomorrow.

High Administration sources who could not be quoted by name said the President planned to confer on Wickard wide authority over the nation's wartime food production, along with power to determine what products should be rationed and when new rationing orders should be issued.

The decision to make McNutt the chief in this field was said to have been taken after the President abandoned plans for a three-way Cabinet split which would have given the post to Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Subsequent suggestions to Mr. Roosevelt that he turn over the manpower authority to James F. Byrnes, the economic director, were said to have been met with a "strongly negative reaction."

McNutt's hands centralized control over manpower.

The delegation of selective service policy-making functions to the manpower commission, it was indicated, would be accompanied by transfer of the Federal employment service to the commission. This would concentrate in McNutt's hands centralized control over manpower.

The Axis is making desperate efforts to keep the central Mediterranean open and is running into heavy opposition.

The full nature of this new battle cannot yet be told, but when it is revealed it may prove to be one of the most decisive engagements of the present war.

Aerial Blows May Crush Foe in Africa

CAIRO, Dec. 4—P—An Allied aerial offensive is raging against the Axis in the Mediterranean. It has been going on for several days. Technically it is known as a "period of lull" in the war on the desert front.

During the present "lull" Allied aircraft, notably long-range bombers and long-range fighters, have been inflicting losses on Axis strength and shipping so heavy that it may turn the balance in the second stage of the campaign to drive the enemy out of Africa and pursue him into Europe.

WAAC Goes AWOL, Turns Up As Strip Teaser

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 4—P—The WAACs had a new problem on their hands today—what to do with a former chorus girl who went AWOL and turned up as a strip-teaser in a Des Moines theater.

The WAAC press relations office identified her as Kathryn Doris Gregory, Fort Worth, Tex., a curvaceous, 22-year-old brunette who claims extensive experience in George White's Scandals and also work for Earl Carroll.

Jeffers Fears 'Disastrous' Delay in Rubber Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—P—William M. Jeffers, rubber director, bluntly warned today that the nation is threatened with military "disaster" because materials needed about synthetic rubber factories are being devoted to other war uses.

Unless vital equipment for the factories is forthcoming immediately the armed forces face a serious shortage of rubber in 1943, he said in a report which he laid before a joint committee of Senators and House members. He added that he had little hope of solving the problem in time to avoid a crisis.

Instruments, forgings, valves, heat exchangers and other equipment are badly needed, Jeffers said, if they are not provided it will be impossible to get synthetic plants into quantity production soon enough to prevent such a drain on crude rubber stocks that there may be none left for heavy duty tires, self-sealing gasoline tanks and other military necessities.

The final solution is not yet developed, his report said. "The rubber program is receiving notable help in obtaining priorities and materials. But its relationship to other programs endangers its completion in time to avoid a crisis and I am not hopeful."

Jeffers protested vigorously that this was in direct conflict with what he had been led to expect from President Roosevelt's executive order of September 17 which endorsed the report of the Bernard M. Baruch survey committee listing rubber as the nation's most critical problem.

Enemy Also Holding In Bizerte Area

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS In North Africa, Dec. 4—P—American combat troops striking southwest of Tebessa near the Tunisian-Algerian border drove a Nazi armored column back toward the coast today in a disorderly retreat, capturing more than 100 prisoners and taking a town.

LONDON, Dec. 4—P—A series of terrific Axis counter-attacks through the mountains between Djedda and Mateur which caught the British first army with its American armored forces on the flank at Tebourba were reported tonight to have left the plains and hills of Tunisia strewn with the wreckage of tanks and the situation at Tebourba in doubt.

It is now clear that Axis troops have recaptured Tebourba, 20 miles west of Tunis and about 35 miles south of Bizerte, said the military correspondent of Reuters, British news agency.

The Germans also were reported holding to Mateur, 25 miles south of Bizerte.

An Allied headquarters communique, however, said "our troops in the neighborhood of Tebourba are consolidating their positions" without giving the situation at Tebourba, itself, and without mentioning the situation at the previously advanced positions of the Allies at Djedda or at Mateur.

Meeting Strong Resistance

The implication was plain, however, that the Allies had come up against a stone wall of resistance in the admission that the forces of Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson were consolidating at the rearward position.

Axis Accused Of Spy Plot In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 4—P—The Summer Welles charges of Axis espionage in Argentina were substantiated today by an Argentine federal judge who declared in the midst of an inquiry that spying here was directed from the German embassy and who made an initial move to punish the offending diplomats or expel them.

Judge Miguel Jantus made the startling disclosure in ordering the testimony of six accused spies sent to the supreme court to determine whether the Reich's diplomats may be brought to trial.

Have Diplomatic Immunity

The supreme court is the only tribunal authorized to try diplomats, but in order to do so it must obtain permission from the German government to have the representatives waive their diplomatic immunity from prosecution.

A court source said that if Berlin refused, as expected, to permit the diplomats to stand trial as common spies, then Argentina would be forced to declare them persona non grata.

Strike At Allied Rear

The last official reports also said that the Allies still were applying pressure at Mateur. But there was no official report on the situation at those two places tonight.

An Allied communique last Tuesday mentioned clashes with German armored patrols in the mountains between these two towns, about 15 miles apart, and apparently the enemy launched his first counter-attack in that area the next day to strike at the Allied rear and perhaps in an effort to separate the two Allied forces operating against Tunis and Bizerte.

Raid Docks at Bizerte

British and American bombers raided the docks at Bizerte in daylight yesterday, the Allies reported, while both day and night raids were made on the airfield at Tunis. Allied fighters were said to have made sweeps over the northern battle front, as well as over the coastal area occupied by Axis forces between Tunis and Gabes.

Further reports of air fighting during the past three days show that 13 enemy aircraft have been destroyed in addition to those already announced, and that eight of

18-Year-Olds To Register In December

Beginning next Friday, December 11, all 18-year-old youths will register for selective service—the sixth registration of men for duty in the armed forces since the draft legislation was passed in 1940.

Not all, however, will register at the same time, national selective service headquarters setting up the following periods:

1—Those who were born on or after July 1, 1924, but not after August 31, 1924, on any day during the week beginning Friday, December 11, and ending Thursday, December 17.

2—Those born on or after September 1, 1924, but not after October 31, 1924, on any day during the week beginning Friday, December 18, and ending Thursday, December 24.

3—Those born on or after November 1, 1924, but not after December 31, 1924, on any day during the period beginning Saturday, December 26, and ending Thursday, December 31.

4—Those born on or after January 1, 1925, shall register on the day they become 18 years old, except when such anniversary falls on a Sunday or holiday registration will take place on the following day.

The local draft board has been notified to procure registration places and volunteers, but it was not announced yesterday where the registrations will take place.

State selective service headquarters estimates that approximately 25,200 men will be required to register in Michigan during December, about 70 per cent of the total listed in the second registration.

Recruiting For Navy Not To Be Halted

Lieut. Gerald C. Ellick, officer in charge of Navy recruiting in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, yesterday emphatically denied a rumor, spreading throughout the district, that voluntary enlistments will be discontinued December 15.

"I don't know how this rumor got started," said Lieut. Ellick, "but reports are coming to our stations and to the Milwaukee main recruiting station that students are quitting school and vital war workers leaving their jobs to enlist before some 'December 15 deadline' which this station knows nothing about. Enlistments of this sort are definitely interfering with the war program."

Lieut. Ellick added that the Navy Department and others well informed about the Navy system and its needs realize that the voluntary enlistment plan is the only plan whereby the Navy can successfully operate.

134 Treated In Year At Sanatorium

Sixty-eight patients were discharged or died during the year, leaving 66 in the institution at the close of the fiscal year ending October 1, Dr. Robert F. Berry, superintendent of Morgan Heights sanatorium, says in his annual report.

One hundred and thirty-four patients were treated in the sanatorium during the 12-month period, including the 75 who were there on October 1, 1941, and 58 who were admitted during the following year.

"An analysis of the statistics for the past year's work," Dr. Berry stated, "reveals that progress has been made in the tuberculosis program being carried out in Marquette county. The death rate from tuberculosis reached an all-time low in 1941, being 27 per 100,000 population. When we recall that the death rate in 1930 was 109 per 100,000, we should feel amply repaid for our past efforts and should also be encouraged to attain even greater results in the years to come."

Fewer Advanced Cases—It also is significant, he said, to note that there are 2 per cent less far advanced cases and seven per cent more minimal cases admitted this year than last year, indicating a more effective case finding program which results in earlier and more effective treatment of minimal cases.

If that trend continues, he declared, "we can expect eventually to hospitalize and treat all cases of tuberculosis before reaching the far advanced stage of the disease. This is our aim and, if accomplished, tuberculosis can eventually be eliminated as the major cause of death in the 15 to 45 age group."

A budget of $96,500 for 1943 was proposed to the county board of supervisors, of which $50,000 is requested as appropriation from the county. The latter figure is slightly above the 1942 allocation of 49,000 for the previous year, caused an expected decrease in estimated revenues.

In submitting the budget, the board of trustees listed increases in expenses of administration, care of patients, dietary, grounds and general operation, but a decrease in planned expenditures for permanent improvements and contingencies resulted in a budget almost equal to the 1942 figure of $96,570.

In their report, the trustees stressed labor problems confronting the sanatorium and stated that provisions for transportation of employees to points throughout the county was made necessary by Government rationing of gasoline and tires.

Signal Corps Recruiters Here Tuesday

Marquette county men between the ages of 18 and 45 who have had high school algebra and physics, or their equivalent, are being sought for enlistment in the Army Signal Corps, according to word received from Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commander of the Sixth service command, Chicago. Several hundred from the Sixth region are needed for pre-service training schools and to man the new secret weapons and communications equipment of the Signal Corps.

Interested men may call at the Northland hotel between 8 a. m. and 9 p. m. next Tuesday or Wednesday, December 8 and 9. Personal interviews and qualifying aptitude tests will be given applicants to determine their adaptability for radio training by Signal Corps representatives under direction of Lt. T. A. Cox.

Those selected will join the enlisted reserve and receive schooling as civilians. Training is provided in schools and colleges located in Illinois, Wisconsin and Kentucky. The training period may last nine months, depending on the learning capacity of the individual, while trainees will be paid salaries ranging from $85 to $165 a month. Upon completing the course each man is given regular Army basic training before assignment to active duty with a Signal Corps unit. Technical ratings or commissions are the possible goals of men who successfully complete the training.

Cavalcade Of Arms Today At High School

As a means of including 18 and 19-year-old men to enlist in their preferred branch of Army service before the December 15 deadline, the "Cavalcade of Arms," colorful display of infantry weapons in use on war fronts in the global war, will be presented here this afternoon, beginning at 3 in the Graverath high school gym.

Youths not yet affected by the draft, but who will be subject to call after their registration this month, can still enlist in the infantry, cavalry, field artillery, coast artillery, air force, armoured forces, corps of engineers, signal corps or medical corps. On and after December 15 all enlistees will be listed as unassigned and will be assigned to service after being interviewed and classified at an Army reception center. Aviation cadets and specialists are the only exceptions.

Lieut. Col. W. C. Bechtold, commanding officer of Fort Brady, said the Cavalcade has been presented in several places in the Upper Peninsula this week and is being brought here from Houghton where it was on display yesterday. The Cavalcade is being presented so that men 18 and 19 years of age can learn the benefits of enlisting in the Army now, rather than waiting to be drafted. To enlist means a choice of the branch of service, while those who wait for the draft will find that the Army will make the assignment at the induction center. Young men interested can meet the Army officers at the high school today, Col. Bechtold said.

Junk Useless Jalopies Now, Veiht Urges

There are only 10 more days in which to scrap useless jalopies in Marquette county and Ted Veiht, chairman of the war salvage jalopy roundup, urges residents to report any and every old automobile that should be junked.

Veiht said there was encouraging response to his earlier appeal, but expressed the opinion "there are all kinds of old cars ready for the junk heap which have not yet been reported."

Anyone knowing of cars that should be turned in for scrap are asked to report them to Mr. Veiht at the Public Service garage, Marquette.

School children all over the county are canvassing their neighborhoods to find cars suitable for junk.

Mr. Veiht declared that "despite rumors, there is no surplus of scrap. The greater the lift we could give the Axis would be to relax our efforts at this time."

He pointed out that approximately 20 to 25 per cent of scrap iron and steel purchased by steel mills for war production has been supplied by auto graveyards and the stock of junked cars in Cleveland has been reduced 80 per cent during the last six months.

W. J. Weber, chairman of the county salvage committee, also stressed the need for continued effort in the collection of scrap metal.

"As long as the war lasts," he said, "there must be no letup in our salvage efforts. We will need more scrap as the months go by."

"In 1917 only 90 pounds of steel were required for every fighting man in our armed forces, but in today's mechanized war approximately 4,900 pounds must be provided for each soldier. The jalopy roundup is another opportunity to get in the scrap with your scrap."

Gas Ration Coupon Plan Explained

Under gas rationing regulations, motorists operating on the highways with passenger vehicles will have to have an A, B or C sticker prominently displayed on his windshield in order to purchase gasoline. He will, of course, have to yield coupons to cover his purchase at the rate of one coupon for each four gallons of gasoline. Alas, he also will have to pay for the gasoline.

An A sticker on an automobile—the kind that most of the traveling public will possess—shows that the vehicle is limited to 240 miles of driving per month, figured at the rate of 15 miles for each gallon of gasoline. If your car gives better mileage than that, OK, you win. If your jalopy is a gas burner that yields only 10 miles on a gallon, you lose.

The 240 miles per month figured for the holder of an A book is based on the use of 90 miles of non-occupational driving, such as taking the children to school, for shopping, etc., and the remaining 150 miles is allocated for occupational driving—going to work.

560 Miles On B Book If your occupational driving exceeds 150 miles per month and you can prove the need, even with car pooling, you may get a B book, which permits a maximum of 560 miles per month, including the ration coupons in the basic A book which you must have before acquiring a B book. The B book allows a maximum of 470 miles of occupational driving per month plus the 90 miles of non-occupational driving figured in the A book.

If you're one of the very fortunate who is entitled to a C book, you will be allowed the amount of gasoline needed for preferred mileage, that is for necessary purposes essential to the war effort or for public health and safety.

Even the B books are tailored to the bare requirements of the motorist. Although the B book provides a maximum of 560 miles per month, a person who can only show the need for, say, 300 miles, will get sufficient gasoline only for that mileage, and the remaining coupons will be deleted from his book.

U. P. Banks Respond To Bond Appeal

The huge campaign launched by the United States Treasury department, contemplating sale of $9,000,000,000 of Victory Loan bonds in December, has passed its first stage, in which subscriptions were open from November 20 to December 2 for 1 1/2% Treasury bonds, due June 15, 1948, and E. L. Pearce, regional chairman of the Victory Fund committee for the Ninth Federal Reserve district, was informed yesterday that the aggregate of subscriptions from 48 banks in the Upper Peninsula was approximately $2,500,000. Only two U. P. banks failed to subscribe.

While it is expected that banks and other large institutions will have to assume a big portion of the $9,000,000,000 program, individual investors, Pearce said, are showing keen interest in the various investment "packages" offered by the Government in addition to Series E War Savings bonds. The new offerings include tax anticipation notes, Series F and G Victory Bonds and the so-called tap issue of 2 1/2% coupon bonds of 1948.

"Complete subscription and fulfillment of the nine billion dollar goal is vital to the welfare and safety of our country, to provide our fighting men with the instruments of war they must have to survive and win," Mr. Pearce asserted. "This means that to raise the nine billion dollars the accumulated savings and idle funds of the American people must be utilized to the utmost."

"Members of the Victory Fund committee believe the public will meet its responsibility and that despite the size of the December project, the outcome will be successful."

Woman's Work Brings Defense Council $10.38

Through the efforts of Mrs. Royal Elle, of Arnold, the Marquette county civilian defense council is richer by $10.38. Mrs. Elle had charge of one of two rural scrap collection depots in Wells township. When the newspaper drive was on, with emphasis on rural salvage, the collection at the Elle depot was sold to a Marquette junk dealer. But there was a little left over—stuff that couldn't be piled on the junk dealer's truck.

All of this scrap was donated. As time went on more was donated until there was sufficient for a truck to come after it. Mrs. Elle sold it to the WPA—2,680 pounds of scrap metal and 200 pounds of rubber.

Yesterday Mrs. Elle drove the 60-odd miles to Marquette to deliver the check to W. J. Weber, chairman of the Marquette county salvage committee.

"I wanted to make sure the defense council got the money," she said. An additional $1.39 was turned over to the salvage committee earmarked for the council, through the sale of rubber boots to J. Narozky, Ishpeming junk dealer. Boots were donated by Koski's store, Ishpeming, and Levine's, Negaunee.

Servicemen To Get Tax Exemption

Michigan soldiers and sailors (including Marines and Coast Guardsmen) of the U. S. armed forces in World War II will be given exemption from direct property taxation to the extent of $2,000 valuation for the time they are in service and for one year thereafter, Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton has ruled.

A copy of the attorney general's opinion rendered in response to a request from Auditor General Vernon J. Brown, has been received in the office of the Marquette county treasurer.

The ruling, which interprets action by the Michigan legislature last February, will not affect tax rolls for 1942, which were spread last June and which are now being paid.

Must File Affidavit The attorney general's ruling on this exemption follows: "Soldiers and sailors who entered the service of the United States during 1940 or thereafter are entitled to the exemption of their

USES Under Manpower Commission

No change in employment service is effected by transfer of the United States Employment Service to the War Manpower Commission. Robert C. Goodwin, regional WMC director, says in a letter to the USES office in Marquette. The transfer, ordered by the President, has been completed in Region 5, comprising the states of Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

Formerly the employment service was operated under the Federal homesteads from taxation up to the value of $2,000, during the period of service and for one year thereafter, upon filing an affidavit with the (township) supervisor or (city) assessor stating that he is in the naval or military service of the United States.

"Such affidavit may be made by wife, child, parents, brother, sister, nephew, niece or next of kin. Such sailor or soldier may be not exempted from payment of taxes for the year during which he enters the service, but if his homestead is delinquent for taxes, he may be exempted from the payment of any taxes which become payable during his service under such affidavit. An affidavit of a soldier or sailor in the present war need be filed but once and it will serve to exempt his property during his period of service and for one year thereafter."

Others Exempted Others who are now exempted for similar tax payments are, soldiers and sailors who served three months or more in the Philippine Insurrection, China Relief Expedition, Spanish-American War, or the Indian, Civil or Mexican wars. Likewise, any who served less than three months in the above wars and who were honorably discharged because of disability resulting from this service are exempt.

World War I veterans having service connected disability or non-service disability recognized by the U. S. Veterans Administration, are also exempted as are unmarried widows of those veterans listed above.

al Security Agency," Goodwin explained, "but its transfer to the WMC will not mean any change in personnel or in pay rates. It will continue to be the principal field arm of the War Manpower Commission and will become a more important factor in mobilization of the region's manpower."

As in the present war, the USES directed activities of state-city free employment services in the First World War and afterwards were placed under state-city supervision. On January 1, 1942, the state employment service was transferred to the USES. The WMC, under which it will not operate, is charged with administering activities relating to recruitment, training, transfer and full utilization of the labor supply, as well as coordinating other activities affecting manpower problems such as housing and transportation.

Deer Kill About Normal, Figures Show

While final figures on the 1942 deer season will not be available for comparison with earlier years for some time, guides customarily relied upon indicate it was a normal season in abnormal times. If no more than the usual number of licenses remain unsold in dealers' hands, there were about 200,000 hunters in the field, conservation department officials reported yesterday.

8,488 Deer Carcasses If Straits of Mackinac traffic is a fair key, a not-yet-final 1942 count of 8,488 bucks, 147 bears, 10 coyotes, eight bobcats, 22 foxes and nine wolves may be compared with the 1941 tally of 10,916 deer, 127 bears, 18 coyotes, 10 bobcats, 20 foxes and eight wolves. Many of the 1941 deer were camp deer. In previous years the Straits buck count ran: 1940-7,859; 1939-7,599; 1938-7,073; 1937-5,453; 1936-3,900. Permits to take deer through Wisconsin totaled 933 in 1941, while the latest report this season lists only 614. Five elk and 300 illegal deer were recovered by conservation officers who made more than 440 arrests during the season and delivered about 100 urgent messages to hunters. There were 12 fatal gun accidents—one more than last year, but only about half as many reported injured. One hundred dollars worth of caviar may be produced by a single sturgeon.

Wise Counsel

THE public is being wisely counseled from many authoritative sources not to read too much into the favorable war news of the past few weeks. It is prone to be too pessimistic when the news is bad and too optimistic when it is good.

It is well to bear in mind that while the Nazis and the Japanese have been getting the worst of it in recent fighting they are still formidable enemies, enemies that will stand prolonged beating before they are brought into subjection.

Without detracting from what has been accomplished against them, it is conclusive only on the point that they have probably reached the ultimate in extension of their military conquests.

The Russians have again surprised the world with the power they have been able to muster for their present offensive. But it cannot be assumed that they will be able to inflict a conclusive defeat on the enemy.

In the public's engrossment with the victories of the past few weeks the Nazi threat on the seas has been overlooked. It is the consensus of the British and American naval commands that they are building submarines at a rate much in excess of the rate of loss.

If the United Nations are now producing many more planes than the Axis, they have to disperse them over world-wide fronts. Many weeks have passed since a 1,000-bomber assault has been aimed at the Nazis, and additional weeks are likely to pass before there is another.

If the turn of the road has been reached, the road to be traversed before victory is achieved is still a long and difficult one. The good news should be taken only as an incentive to intensified effort by the factories, shipyards and farms at home on which the successful conclusion of the war and the time when it will be attained, principally, depend.

Receivership At End

Approximately $25,000,000 has been made available for payment of interest to former depositors of the First National-Detroit bank by sale of remaining assets to a corporation organized to take them over. Depositors were long ago paid in full. Interest they were entitled to has been paid in part under a receivership, ordered in 1933, that has, to all intents and purposes, been closed.

That the receivership has paid depositors in full, paid as much as will be paid on interest accounts and absorbed all the costs of the receivership and the loss occasioned by forced liquidation of assets at prices much below what they would later attain suggests that if aid equivalent to the aid given other banking institutions had been given to First National-Detroit it would have continued a going concern.

If this could have been the case the depositors and the owners would have been much better off and the community would have been spared the disruption that followed on the closing of the bank.

operation would have been able to secure the assistance from the Federal treasury that would have enabled the bank to weather the storm.

Corporate Earnings

Industry has been outpacing this year considerably in excess of output in 1941, but when the financial results of its activity are determined it will have much less to show in dollars and cents than at the close of last year.

The iron and steel manufacturers, the heart of the war effort, straining at the utmost to secure maximum delivery, had a profit after taxes in the first nine months of the year 27 per cent less than in the comparable period last year. Profits in the chemical industry were 19 per cent off; in lumber 27 per cent and in the machinery industry 14 per cent.

The principal factor reducing earnings are the greatly increased corporate rates made effective by the new tax bill. In anticipation of the increases the corporations have been setting up reserves for taxes largely in excess of those put aside last year.

The loss in corporate earnings is, of course, reflected in dividend disbursements. They will be materially less than in 1941. Fortunately for the shareholders, in many instances they will not be curtailed as much as corporate earnings have been curtailed.

All of which contributes to the impressive evidence that this is not a rich man's war, and that those who are worrying about the millionaires it will create are unduly concerning themselves.

The Nazis Ransom Racket Since the Nazis are already guilty of large-scale robbery, corruption and murder, there is no particular shock in learning that they are now going in for wholesale kidnapping and extortion.

Refusal to pay ransom was urged by the authorities when kidnapping was rampant in this country. Then they went into action, broke up the gangs and eliminated this form of organized crime.

The shortage of physicians is approaching serious proportions. One does not have to read the testimony given before the Senate subcommittee headed by Senator Pepper to know that.

All this "carryover" to the time of war represents a vast medical plant that can be utilized. And, we think, in a way to insure an adequate medical corps for our armed forces and an adequate staff of civilian physicians.

As matters stand now we have the makings of another "rubber controversy" in this matter of medical care. The Journal of the American Medical Association attacks the question of contract practice versus private practice has been raised.

We think the view must be adopted that the entire medical profession is no longer private in the old sense. It is as much a part of the Government as is the Army or the Navy.

It may be asked why, if this is the case, the regulations don't frankly say laws which provide for deductions. So secret are the regulations apparently have been issued to use $67,200 as the basic amount and to permit allowances for deductions, so that conceivably if a man has $67,200 of deductions he could retain as much as $67,200 and pay no tax at all.

It is important that the CIO be placated, for ever since John Lewis left that organization the report has been heard that everything must be done to build up the CIO, so that Lewis will not be able to undermine his brethren in the organization he founded.

Also Mrs. Roosevelt, who is credited with the idea of limiting salaries to $25,000, must be vindicated, and that the important, too, to those who are given the difficult task of writing regulations. So what has been written and made public would appear literally to prevent anybody from having any more than $25,000 left after taxes are paid, and deductions to be ignored, whereas actually the Bureau of Internal Revenue understands that, in practical application of the regulations, the deductions still stand.

This technique of facing both ways is possible only because the Administration does not want to appear today to have reversed its original position. It wouldn't like to announce that it has agreed to a salary of $67,200. It sounds better politically to talk of a "$25,000" deduction. But anybody with any sort of deductions—often running for legitimate reasons to 10 or even 20 per cent of a gross salary—will in a number of instances be permitted to retain sums in excess of $25,000, according to the latest word from inside sources.

Another thing which the regulations do that seems at variance with the Act of Congress is in reference to the wage and hour law known as the Fair Labor Standards Act. The anti-inflation law specifically says that nothing in the measure is in any way to suspend or affect the wage and hour law. But in the "regulations" just issued will be found this amazing paragraph:

"Payment for overtime will constitute an increase in salary rate, and thus will require the approval of the commissioner, unless the customary practice of the employer has been to pay for overtime and the rate has been changed." The rate specified in the law is time-and-a-half, and if an employer has not paid for overtime in the past he has violated the law. Under the new regulations, he must continue to violate the law. Thus are the star chamber regulations proclaimed without opportunity for the public to be represented to challenge those regulations before their adoption.

The Logan-Walter bill provides for just such a check. The President vetoed it last year, but it will be revived after January, when the people's Congress comes into power.

Today And Tomorrow

"The Realists"

By Walter Lippmann WE HAVE been hearing lately from our friends "the realists," and the burden of this talk is that they are shrewdly judges of the realities of the war that Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill command. They profess to be giving utterance to the unspoken fears of unnamed but exceedingly high American military commanders that the President and the Prime Minister, who have just brought to the greatest strategic success of the war, are sentimentalists who do not know what they are doing in dealing provisionally with the relations between France and the United Nations.

The inspiration of this whole potter might be worth tracing down. For we may rest assured that even if the Army held such views, our commanders are men who do not dream of stooping to the insubordination of inciting propaganda to undermine their declared foreign policy of their commander in chief. And we can be equally certain that the suggestion now being bruited about by these "realists" is false when they suggest that in relation to French affairs the President and the Prime Minister are or have been working at cross-purposes.

There is as little foundation for this story as there was for so many other similar stories which they have vouched for: that Churchill and Stalin quarrelled last summer about the "second front"; that no agreement on high strategy was reached by Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt; that there is an unresolved conflict among them as to the order of business in dealing with our enemies in Europe and Asia.

There are also frequent differences of view among the Allies, though oftener than not these national differences arise from the fact that in one country certain professionals have influence and in another country certain other professionals.

Thus any one who talks as if the differences of opinion are due to an alignment of "American experts" against "British experts," or of "Anglo-American experts" against "Russian experts," or of "the State Department" against the Foreign Office, is talking fiction and not reality.

Common sense is enough to make us realize that in a war which is waged on so many fronts by so many allies with such complicated weapons it would be absurd to suppose that every one concerned is automatically inspired at the same moment with the same exact plan of campaign. Agreement on what to do and when to do it and how to do it must inevitably be reached through the stages of exploration, investigation, negotiation and final decision, and it is a phoney realism to treat the smoke from these arguments as evidence of great fires within the edifice of the coalition.

These "realists" are for the moment trying to teach Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill the facts of life about France and the politics of North Africa and to undermine the declaration of policy made by the President on November 17. It will be found, if it were worthwhile to examine the record, that men who boast about their "realism" are like women who boast about their virtue. It was these realists who told us on expert authority that Poland was right when he decided in 1940 that Germany had won the war, and that Britain was incapable of becoming a great air power, and that Germany was the supreme and invincible air power of Europe, and that the German panzers would go through Russia like a knife through cheese, and that the British had no generals and no armies capable of dealing with Rommel, and that the Germans were coming down through the Caucasus and Turkey to meet the Japanese who were coming through India.

Scratch these pseudo-realists and what you find are defeatists. That is why they have always been so much attracted by Marshal Pétain and his collaborators, why they never cease to snap at the heels of Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin, and De Gaulle and all those who, because they have the will to shape reality, evoke those invincible energies in men which never figure in the calculations of the armchair realists.

They are the worst of all guides (Turn to Page 8, Column 1)

Today In Washington

By David Lawrence WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—Congress used to make the tax laws and the public used to have a chance to express its views at the public hearings, after which the measure was debated in the open and public opinion had a chance to criticize particular provisions.

This seems now to have been changed. Behind closed doors for several days now the treasury and the Bureau of Internal Revenue have been trying to write a decree reducing the salaries of businessmen. There has been much back and forth, much debate and much discussion, but all of it has been secret.

At last the "regulations" have been issued. They have the force of law and persons can be put in jail for violations thereof. Congress refused to put a limit on salaries, but Mr. Roosevelt disregarded the will of Congress and permitted his bureaucrats to twist the anti-inflation law into alleged deductions to reduce pre-war salaries on the ground that this prevents inflation.

The new regulations are ambiguous. They do not clearly say that a citizen shall have a maximum of $67,200. They say that his maximum salary shall be reduced by taxes without taking into account the deductions written into the revenue laws. But the unofficial word is that actually the Bureau of Internal Revenue has been instructed to construe the new regulations so that $67,200 is the gross salary, and that if a man has deductions he will be allowed to keep more than a net of $25,000.

It may be asked why, if this is the case, the regulations don't frankly say laws which provide for deductions. So secret are the regulations apparently have been issued to use $67,200 as the basic amount and to permit allowances for deductions, so that conceivably if a man has $67,200 of deductions he could retain as much as $67,200 and pay no tax at all.

Side Glances

"One of the first things I learned as a kid was never to go in back of a horse without first speaking to him, but I suppose that's too much for a machine-age boy to master!"

The Edge Of Darkness

By William Woods THE BOATS RETURN CHAPTER XVII

Three quarters of a mile on the other side of the forest, Mortensen, the farmer, climbed wearily out of bed and started dressing to go up on post at the plateau.

Like an old hurt, the thought came back to him of the short letter he had received that day from Trygve, stamped with the censoring seal, Oberkommando der Wehrmacht. Barely hidden between the empty words, he had read the boy's hatred and bitter loneliness.

The letter was dated August, and contained half a dozen sentences in his son's terse, emotional style that he could never quite understand. "Greet Froken Karen for me," he had written at the end.

"You're a fool to go out tonight," his wife called from the bed. "Your educated son gets himself in prison, and you have to go out and do the same." She laid particular emphasis on the word "educated," as if that were a crime in itself.

Something choked in Mortensen's throat whenever he thought of his son. That Trygve should have done a thing important enough to get himself locked up. "Whatever it was," he thought, "if I were his age, I would probably have done the same."

He got his scarf and wound it around his neck. Her shrill voice went on and on, giving him reasons why he should come back to bed. He would be caught. His lungs could not stand the cold. He was not a young man, he should think more of his family. "Ja," he kept saying. "ja... ja..." As if there was any use to talking to her.

Bundled up tightly at last, with a fur hat on his head, and the dictionary and light and binoculars under the deep pockets of his jacket, he went out to the kitchen and stirred up the fire. A few minutes later, having drunk a plate of soup and buckled on his snowshoes, he was on his way up toward the plateau in the cold and biting air.

The snow had stopped falling, but it lay deep, piling in huge drifts behind the trees. The last clouds fleeing before the moon, were riding swiftly out to sea.

As he was crossing the little strip of woodland that separated his own field from the long meadow he thought on the smell of meadow. It puzzled him for a moment until he put it down as a crazy notion and plunged on. But coming out from behind the trees, he saw Osterholm's saeter cottage in the bright starlight, with smoke pouring from the chimney, and the window facing him, gleaming yellow with light.

His first thought was that the troops had taken the place over. They, too, might be watching for signals, and if so, the whole plan was betrayed. He stopped in consternation, wondering what to do. This would mean that everything was ruined. They might not even be safe in their beds if the troops saw an English signal. The first thing he asked himself was what Trygve would have done. Gone to investigate, of course.

He drew the dictionary, the field glasses, and the light out of his pockets, and hid them behind a tree. If he were searched, at least they would find no evidence. Then, keeping cover as well as he was able behind the drifts, he crept slowly toward the cottage. An owl cried shrilly somewhere in the forest behind him.

From a distance of some fifty yards, he stopped to see if there was a guard. The dark building, with its low eaves half buried in the snow, stood out in sharp relief against the glistering white field. The whole air had that peculiar, gray, translucent quality of winter nights. Far on the northern horizon behind the hills, he thought he could see the pale, blue welt of the northern lights.

Minutes passed. He crept nearer. When he judged he was close enough he stood up and dashed for the wall under the window. And there he crouched again with his heart pounding under his thin ribs, and waited. Still no sound, but the wall was warm from the fire on the other side.

More boldly, he made his way around to the front of the building.

Dear, Dear, How Hard It Is To Be Thrifty!

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

Are you extravagant? "No," you shout. Are you thrifty? "Certainly," you reply somewhat indignantly. Oh well, maybe you answered correctly and honestly, but if you did, a lot of you didn't give the replies quoted here.

Dear, dear, don't I know it by reason of my own startling demonstration of a lack of real thriftiness. It has always been easy enough to be thrifty about food, planning and buying for meals for the week. To throw away any "dripplings," or grass has always seemed a disgraceful kitchen conduct.

It was Accepted Easily Left-over bits of meats and vegetables have been made appetizing dishes, stale cake, cookies, and dry bread are camouflaged as appetizing puddings. Such thriftiness has been the rule.

Along comes the war when we are asked to save scrap, fur, silk and nylon stockings for salvage purposes, and that, too, is obvious enough. But it is equally obvious that, since every one is urged to do everything he can to purchase war stamps and bonds, and since taxes and living expenses are higher, if we are to make both ends meet, we shall have to practice economy all along the line; care for the possessions we have so they will serve as long as possible without replacement.

And it is in saving on everything, small odds and ends, that most of us feel how shiftless and extravagant we really are. There are folks who are naturally stingy-savers. But I've never been one. My first reaction is to rip tissue off a package, drop the string and paper in the wastebasket. Now the string might well be saved and the paper put aside for making out shopping lists, or to wrap other parcels.

Don't You Love Light? Then there's that item of light. It's so heavenly to have rooms brightly lighted. On a winter's night there is a comforting cheer about passing a house with many glowing windows. You feel so good-tempered when, from the living room, you look out onto a brightly lighted street. Those dimmed lights give such dashed funeral shadows around the edges of a room. But oh my, oh my, up the bills.

Do you remember to be careful about opening the refrigerator door, holding it open only long enough to get dishes out to hold the kitchen looking for a dish or spoon when the door stands wide open? Do you behave just as wastefully in your use of your electric range? When the bars of soap have been used until just a few chips are left, do you put them in a jar and save them until you have enough to hold up as a soap jelly for cleaning purposes?

Old rags are as good for some purposes of cleaning as the new pieces you buy at the store. The last bit of ink in the bottle is usable, but do you refuse to go to the bother of tipping the bottle to drain those last few drops for your pen?

It Takes But... Using old envelopes and waste wrapping paper for kitchen memoranda, putting on overshoes carefully rather than giving them an impatient yank that pulls the top off at the heel, mending the rip or hole at its first appearance on a stocking or a pair of trousers, the time to darn carefully the larger worn places on elbows of a dress, brushing and sponging shabby clothes until they look quite decent. . . hee, how I hate it and what remarkably fine discipline it is affording me!

The only trouble is that whenever I slip from grace and forget to be thrifty I have such a whipped-up feeling of shame that I haven't remembered to do as I should have done about saving.

Just as the old saying reminds that there is a straw that breaks the camel's back, so it is possible for me to be really thrifty about big expenditures, to deny myself those decidedly extravagant purchases, but how it grips to indulge in those seemingly infinitesimal savings—a length of thread, some pieces of cloth, two or three pennies in change, snapping off the light as soon as one finishes work in a room, drawing the curtains over the windows so as to cut down on the heat, turning off the hot water faucet promptly, using only enough foundation cream to do the job, using lipstick until it is used right even with the edge of the tube. . . I'm going to do all those and other saving procedures, but believe me it's going to be as harrowing a daily discipline as wearing a hair shirt under my girdle.

Aren't You As Bad? Aren't I'd be willing to wager a war bond that about 75 per cent of the readers won't have any better rating than mine if they honestly inventory exactly how extravagant or thrifty they are about those small items that, though they are so tiny when considered alone, run up to startling proportions.

But we are going to have to be thrifty as we never have before in our hitherto fairly comfortable lives. There will be no choice about that. We shall have to save everything, conserve all possessions so they will be of service as long as possible; stop all the minute leaks in our work and our housekeeping so the pennies saved may do good service in the purchase of necessities and bonds, and—since we have to face that in the coming year, we may as well start in acquiring the habit of real thrift right now. It will make us seem a dozen times a day that need for being reminded of wasteful details, but one hopes (how one does hope) that after awhile, the sensible prac-

Dolls Were Out In Number At Annual Festival

"Isn't she cute?" You guessed it. That was the commonly heard exclamation as small girls saw some especially attractive doll at the annual festival held Thursday afternoon and evening under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's club in the Federation Women's club.

The older girls, married women and grandmothers, echoed the sentiments. Nearly 100 dolls were arranged in the big lounge. There were charming baby dolls, a diverting boy doll with suit, uniform and Red Cross nurse doll standing beside a doll patient in a doll's bed, character dolls; in fact, dolls of all descriptions and colors were in evidence.

They'll Be Happy One doll had a most complete outfit, even to silk underwear. Another had a change of clothing. One exquisite baby doll had a frilled bonnet and every piece of clothing was made with the most painstaking stitches. There is assurance that many girls are going to "oh and ah" with delighted surprise on Christmas morning.

The festival, while sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club, is made possible only by the generous cooperation of several women's clubs and individuals who do the work of dressing those dolls and of buying them. Special commendation was given to the Girl Scouts for the exceptionally fine work they did in salvaging dolls. There was pertinent reminder of the magic their busy fingers work, in a group of two dolls, one labeled "before" and the other, "after." The before doll was minus a leg, had a broken nose, and hair that had been pulled out in tufts. She was no worse looking than a great many which the Scouts took, gave a new body, new legs or arms, sometimes new eyes, and a wig, and presto, there was a spanking new, pretty doll.

Group Sang Carols During the evening there were delightful piano solos by Miss Leta Osterberg, and the following group of little children, wearing colored caps and caps, sang carols: Jean Zweifel, Betty Dagenais, Patricia Hoffman, Erna Elman, Martha Jean Johnson, Jean Carlson, Billy Rushton, Billy Temple, Tommy Rushton, Michael McDonald.

ers. The following presided at the table: Mrs. Julia Flanagan, Mrs. Margaret Stafford, Mrs. Mary Northrop Spear, Mrs. Bessie Jopling, Mrs. Jessie Louney, Mrs. Hil-da Skytta, Mrs. Louise Tauch, Mrs. Edith Long, past president; and Mrs. Rose St. Onge, president. Guests were received by Mrs. Vierring assisted by Mrs. Ruth Steere, Mrs. Hortense McCall and Mrs. Mary Milnar.

Tunes Of Yesteryears During the early hours of the tea, a 100-year-old music box, belonging to Mrs. James Kelley, played tunes of other days. At 5 o'clock Mrs. Agnes Graham, music chairman, played "Old Mexico," "La Campana" and several other distinctly Mexican music. Arrangements for the tea were made by Mrs. Irene Pogue and Mrs. Agnes Graham, co-chairmen, and Mrs. Helen Vierring, Mrs. Abbey Roberts, Mrs. Margaret Evon, Mrs. Mary Milnar, Mrs. Marie Smith, Mrs. Marie Connors, Mrs. Hortense McCall, Mrs. Ruth Steere, Mrs. Edith Long, Mrs. Jane Kelley, Mrs. Josie Beaudry and Miss Augusta Primeau.

Mexican Motif Accented At Auxiliary Tea Glass, pottery, basketry, various items of wearing apparel, silk mantillas, fans and numerous other articles from the country to the south of us were shown in the Mexican exhibit which Mrs. Helen Vierring arranged as the display for the apron sale and Mexican tea held in her home, West Hewitt avenue, Thursday afternoon under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary. Proceeds will be used for welfare work of the organization.

One hundred women attended the sale and found aprons of all kinds, stuffed animals, hot pan holders, and numerous crocheted and embroidered articles offered in tempting array.

Accented Mexican Theme Horoscopes and tea leaves gave entertaining touches to the afternoon. The living rooms were in deep orange and reds, a typical Mexican color scheme. The table, with its Mexican lace cloth and Mexican hammered silver tea service, has as its centerpiece a silver tray and large silver basket of cala lilies with white candles in low curved silver holder.

St. Joseph ASPIRIN WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER AT

Editor's Mail

Is it not about time that a vigorous protest be made by the people of Marquette to the City Commission or whatever agency or person is responsible for the poor condition of our sidewalks? Our first large snow storm, that of Thanksgiving Day, can be forgiven as he snow was extremely wet and hard to move. But in the case of the last, which began about midnight of December 1st and continued all forenoon of the 2nd, there would seem to be no excuse for the deplorable condition of the walks and the extreme slowness of city crews in making any attempt to better conditions. No one would expect much to be done during the forenoon of the 2nd, with the amount of snow and wind which prevailed. However, the storm was over by noon of that day and no attempt was made to do anything for the walks north of Washington street that afternoon or evening. I cannot speak of conditions south of Washington as I did not care to wade snow to go and see. The street plows did a good job on Thursday and I am willing to admit that the streets should be plowed first as a fire protection. Thursday morning at 8:30 a sidewalk plow had succeeded in getting up the hill on Third street as far as Ridges, but it was late in the afternoon before walks on Third, Fourth and Front streets were plowed. Surely these at least should have been done Wednesday afternoon and the shorter cross streets on Thursday. Thursday noon I saw small children coming out of the Ohio street entrance to the Gravenet school and wading snow on the sidewalk. Who can blame them for walking in the street? We all know children and adults should not be on the streets but the temptation of a well plowed street in preference to a badly drifted sidewalk is too much. Who would be responsible for the injury or death of a child under such circumstances, the driver of the car or the City for not having provided a safe place to walk? I telephoned the Superintendent of streets about plowing sidewalks and his excuse was that he did not have enough men. If this is true then WHY did a street plow go over Alger street four times Friday morning when the street was already in good condition? I speak of Alger because I have first hand information on it. The street was plowed down to bare pavement in spots and the snow banks shoved back so far that the covered sidewalks, obliterating what paths had been made by those few who preferred safety to comfort in walking and filling walks that had been shoveled out and at 8:30 this morning there had been no attempt to plow the walks. The city needs a housecleaning in the street department.

While on the subject; the only less desirable persons than inefficient officials are those misguided souls who overdo in their zeal and shovel walks down to the concrete. Did you ever see a little mother struggling with a sled or cutter on such a walk or a small boy hauling home some groceries? Then the first thaw covers the bare walk with a coat of water which turns to nice slick ice, fine for broken bones. If the city will not or cannot plow the walks let each householder

Oh, yes—that must be Mr. Jones' call! I'll try to find him for you

War is on the Wires, Mr. Jones!

ALL TIME is precious these war days—and especially telephone time. Yet hundreds of hours are wasted daily by people who place a Long Distance call, then leave the telephone and are not there to take the call when the connection is made.

Long Distance lines now are crowded with military and war production calls. Normally we would build enough additional lines and equipment to take care of all demands. But we can't do that today because the necessary materials are more urgently needed for fighting.

To make the most efficient use of what we have—to keep the wires clear for the fast transmission of war calls—those are responsibilities shared by every telephone user. For war calls must go through!

Here are some ways in which you can help:

1. Keep all your telephone calls as brief as you can.
2. Don't call information for numbers listed in the directory.
3. Make only the most essential Long Distance calls, and avoid especially the crowded lines to war production centers.
4. When possible, give the number of the distant telephone you are calling.
5. If the operator can't complete your call promptly, stay close to the telephone, ready to answer when it comes in.

Gas Board Hits Snags In Truck Cases

ISHPEMING, Dec. 4—The Ishpe- ming gasoline rationing board has practically completed the job of dis- posing of requests of truckers for gasoline allowances and expected to begin passenger car rationing this afternoon. Extra clerks were being engaged today for work Sun- day in an effort to expedite the work.

The ration board has been de- layed by a large number of truck applications. The number has been about 300 per cent more than an- ticipated. Many Certificates of Ne- cessity were incomplete, truckers had difficulty filling out the cer- tificates properly and some of the instructions from the ODT office in Green Bay have been confusing.

Loggers were started to find their gasoline allowances cut drasti- cally although some of them have contracts with mining companies to furnish timber for mining opera- tions.

"Apparently," said a member of the ration panel, "the importance of timbering in mining is not real- ized by the ODT staff, that is, of course, quite understandable. But it complicates the work of the board here."

Most of the mining companies of the range are handling truck al- lowance requests through the Ish- pe- ming office. Most of the log- gers in this territory are doing the same. The Cliffs Power and Light company has a large fleet and it is possible that Ishpe- ming's truck allowance schedule exceeds that of Marquette and Negaunee combin- ed.

"However," said F. C. Stanford, chairman, "we are getting fine co- operation from volunteer groups and where we would have been without them no one would care to predict. We have had occasion to keep some of the workers long hours and they have remained at their desks loyally and patiently until the day's work has been clear- ed up."

Chief Nestor Eckloff was em- phatic this morning in declaring that tags will be issued as long as motorists continue to violate the regulation.

The municipal court, it was stated, will fine violators $1, if they answer the police summons. How- ever, if they disregard it, arrest will follow on police warrants and the case will be treated as a mis- demeanor, with a minimum $5 fine and costs.

"We have given the public suf- ficient notice. The ordinance is ef- fective December 1 to April 1 and everyone will be treated alike," Chief Eckloff concluded.

In 1941, 77 per cent of all auto trips were for "necessary pur- poses," but "unnecessary" driving accounted for more than 65 billion road miles of travel and consum- ed more than four billion gallons of gasoline.

City To Have Yule Tree, Despite War

ISHPEMING, Dec. 4—City offi- cials today corroborated the state- ment of Industrial association rep- resentatives that despite dim-out, blackouts and all other wartime regulations, there will still be a Christmas observance in Ishpe- ming, highlighted by the community Christmas tree and visits from Santa Claus, who will bring gifts to the children.

The tree has been selected. There will be more difficulty this year than last, Edgar Wahlman, su- perintendent of the board of public works, pointed out today, in bring- ing the tree to the city. Roads will be clogged with snow and it will be necessary to haul the tree into town on a sleigh. The men who haul it will have to tramp through deep snow between the road and the tree.

Last year they walked in on bare ground and a truck and trailer were used to haul the huge tree.

"But we'll have it," said Mr. Wahlman, "and it is a dandy. Street lighting, even limited to the city square, probably is out of the pic- ture, but the tree will be lighted. It is a traditional part of our Christmas and in reading over re- leases from Governmental agencies there is nothing to indicate that Yule tree lighting must be dis- pensed with."

22 Violators Of Parking Law Get Tags

ISHPEMING, Dec. 4—Any ques- tion of whether the city police de- partment means business in en- forcing the winter parking ordi- nance was answered this morning by a sheaf of summon of the desk of the municipal judge.

In two nights 22 drivers were given police tags for keeping their cars on streets between 1 and 6 a. m. in violation of the ordinance, despite a warning from police that they expected one notice to be suf- ficient.

Chief Nestor Eckloff was em- phatic this morning in declaring that tags will be issued as long as motorists continue to violate the regulation.

Gas Rations Insufficient, Dairymen Say

ISHPEMING, Dec. 4—Some of the smaller dairy operators in Ish- pe- ming are disturbed because gaso- line allowances permitted under ODT Certificates of Necessity will not permit them to cover their routes, even on an every-other-day basis.

Their troubles were discussed in- formally last evening when a quorum failed to appear for the special meeting of the city council to discuss the milk ordinance.

One view is that gas allowances were sharply reduced on the as- sumption that a milk shortage is nationwide, whereas there is no shortage in this district.

Dr. N. J. McCann, health of- ficer, and Lloyd Guy, dairy inspec- tor, were asked by the dairymen to serve as a committee to determine what, if any, relief could be had.

City officials indicated their first step will be to consult the regional ODT office in Green Bay to learn the formula on which the local ra- tions were determined.

Absence Of Mayor Starts Council Row

NEGAUNEE, Dec. 4—Despite assurance from Roy Lee, mayor pro tem, that Mayor George H. Russell, now working in a Detroit defense plant, has no intention of resigning the city council will formally ask the mayor for a statement of his intentions relative to conduct of his office between now and May 1.

His Home Still in Negaunee

When Lee said it was the mayor's intention to continue in office, Ollila asked City Attorney Lowenstein if the charter "has anything to say on that." The city attorney quoted city charter and state statute provisions, the charter providing the office to be vacant on death, resignation, removal from office, ceasing to be an inhabitant of city or ward from which election or on conviction of crime; the state statute providing for removal by the governor on proper affidavit showing wilful neglect of duty or official misconduct.

He was very emphatic in asserting he was not interpreting these provisions in the light of the issue at hand, leaving that to the council, if it so desired.

In response to a question from Lee, the city attorney said that the mayor's home and business are still in Negaunee; that through employment he is absent from the city a major part of the month; that the mayor has certain duties and whether these duties can be handled from Detroit was up to the council. He said there was a distinction between an office holder retaining residence in town and working elsewhere and a voter remaining eligible to cast a vote in the community while employed away from the city.

Neglect of Duty Charged

Alderman Lehto expressed opinion that the mayor is neglecting his duty, although he meticulously avoided use of the word "wilful." Lee challenged Lehto's statement of neglect, pointing out this was the first meeting the mayor had missed and that he would be present to preside at a special meeting to be held in the near future.

Ollila again pressed his motion to request a declaration of intention from the mayor and it was adopted. When that argument had subsided, Alderman Pridieu demanded how many telephone calls to Detroit were being made and whether the city was paying for them. He was supported by Alderman Lehto in his contention that these charges should not be borne by the city.

Phone Calls Barred There was some discussion over the number of calls and Pridieu said he wasn't interested in how many, but in cutting them out altogether.

Lehto gave further support by offering the motion that no further calls to the mayor in Detroit be paid for by the city of Negaunee and that those who did use long distance telephone facilities to reach the mayor be prohibited from using city phones. Mayor pro tem Lee declared the motion had failed when only two voted for it and none against, holding there were only two out of nine votes in favor of the motion. He was immediately challenged and the city attorney suggested an aye and naye vote, if there were any misunderstanding. The motion to bar further phone calls then was passed, with Kemp, Pridieu, Lehto, Garceau, Cattron and Ollila for it and Gust and Ernest Johnson and Lee opposing.

Council Notes

George Simondi was the only alderman absent from the meeting.

Charles Ruhanen, called into the Army this month, was granted a leave of absence for the duration of the war. It was pointed out the action was binding only on the present council.

Membership in the Michigan Association of Police Chiefs, with annual dues of $5, was voted for Police Chief Arne Pynnonen. A contribution of $100 was granted to the Community Chest, which reported it was about $1,000 short with slightly in excess of $5,000 collected.

Aldermen Edward Pridieu, William Garceau and Ernest Johnson were named a committee to determine if figures on sewage disposal, compiled some time ago by Ray Brotherton, can be obtained for transmission to the state stream control commission of the conservation department. This, it was pointed out by Roy Lee, mayor pro tem, would save the city the expense of $300 or $400 to bring in an outsider to do this same work.

Lindberg and Son was granted the city's Christmas candy order on a low bid of $108.65 for $20 pounds. Alderman Osmond Kemp observed cars were still being parked in streets overnight, adding the observation: "They're supposed to be tagged."

The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, which asked for the Governmental survey, advised the council it would meet the expense of that work, now in progress under the direction of Herbert A. Olson, Michigan Municipal league.

Mrs. Martin Marita, Cambria location, was granted exemption from water tax payments.

Alderman Ollila and Lehto questioned the propriety of the mayor pro tem serving as presiding officer and chairman of claims and accounts, on the basis it didn't seem "quite right" to have the man who signs the checks also approve the bills. In response to Alderman Lehto's view that "I'd be sport enough to resign," Lee said: "I may."

The council voted for bids on 1,000 feet of snow fence, at the same time adopting a motion to prohibit future loaning of fence to private parties. This has been a custom in previous years and much of the fence has not been returned. Arthur Anderson, foreman in the street department, told the council all snow fence loaned this year had been taken back and that some had been recovered which had been loaned as long as three years ago.

October and November claims and accounts were approved and ordered paid in January. Alderman Lehto endeavored to ascertain if any of the recommendations in the fact-finding committee report had been carried out, specifically asking whether any money had been turned in to the city representing the difference between the amount of scrap the city got and the amount it commanded at the scrap dealer's depot. Mayor Pro Tem Lee told him "that was settled" at the last meeting" and when Lehto insisted on an answer he was told to go to the city treasurer for it.

CANCEL WINTER EVENT LANSING, Dec. 4—P—The state conservation department reported today it was informed the Grayling winter sports carnival will not be held again until the war is over. The department said C. B. Johnson, manager of the Carnival association, had declared the association would not seek to rent the Grayling state park until wartime transportation problems have ended.

City Studies Presidential Salary Order

NEGAUNEE, Dec. 4—The salaries committee of the city council will have to give serious consideration to a Presidential decree on wage and salary increases.

City attorney Aaron Lowenstein last night read to the council excerpts from the order, interpreting them to mean no employee could be getting a raise if he is currently receiving 15 per cent or more than he was receiving January 1, 1941. The council has raised the scale twice since then, on May 13, 1941, and February 28, 1942.

The city, however, has admitted that even with these two increases its scale is below that of Ishpeming and Marquette. Under provisions of the decree, the city may file a certificate with Federal authorities and can raise salaries only if given consent.

Alderman Lee, mayor pro tem, asked the committee to give this serious attention and to consult the city attorney before submitting its report.

City Survey Report To Be Finished Soon

NEGAUNEE, Dec. 4—It will not be possible to have a report on the governmental survey of Negaunee, now in progress, for the January meeting of the council, but it will be presented shortly thereafter. Herbert A. Olson, director of the Michigan Municipal league, who is in charge of the work, advised the council last night.

He had hoped, he said, to complete the field work by Saturday, but was uncertain whether that would be possible. He will complete the writing of the report in the Ann Arbor headquarters of the league.

Mr. Olson suggested that several copies of the report be printed, pointing out it would cost very little. He expressed appreciation for the courtesies which have been shown him, telling the council that department heads and employees had been generously cooperative. Without this, he said, the survey

Laakko's mother, Mrs. Suoma Kijander, 603 North Lake street, Ishpeming, have returned to Camp Stewart, Savannah, Ga., where he is serving in the coast guard artillery. Laakko has his troubles with extremes of weather. When the Russian-Finnish war broke out he was a music student in Helsinki, and he served as an air raid warden for a year, before coming to the U. Close Calls? Daily Dish On Guadalcanal

Below is the last of six eyewitness reports written by Sherman Monroe, Acme Newspictures cameraman, who landed with the Marines on Guadalcanal last August, and whose pictures were distributed to newspapers of the country through the "photographic pool." Monroe, stricken by tropical illness in Guadalcanal, is convalescing in San Francisco, to which he has just returned from his thrilling assignment.

By SHERMAN MONROSE
Written for NEA Service
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—Narrow escapes? Everybody has 'em on Guadalcanal. When the boys come home you'll hear some hair-raising tales. Screaming Japanese jungle lighters scream "Marine! YOU DIE!"—and you darn near do.

One day three loco Japs came yelling into camp—an officer brandishing a sword, and two unarmed soldiers. Hopped up, no doubt—but in they came. Not lasting long.

Another day a few of us were swimming in the Lunga river that wound its sluggish way nearby. That was our only recreation—a respite from the heat and sweat and the dive-bombing mosquitos. The river was warm, clear, and the swimming was superb—until the strafing started.

Do? Why, we just lived for the bottom. Can't Spot Snipers Whenever we walked through the jungle, we mightn't spot a Jap machine gun nest until we were three feet away. Snipers potted us from high in the palm trees. And the tropic rains soaked us—and my cameras—every time we ventured out.

But my narrowest escape was nearly missing the boat home. Correspondents were flown out of Guadalcanal the latter part of October. I landed in a South Seas port and tried to find out how I could get transportation back to Pearl Harbor. There were a lot of Marine flyers waiting there, too. Those boys had seen plenty. There was Major John Smith, an ace with 19 Jap planes to his credit. There was Captain Marston Carter with 17.

Well, there was a freighter to sail the next morning. Home-ward? Sure. Okay—they'd take me. So I gathered up my gear, water-soaked and battered, and stowed it and my dysentery-wasted frame into my cabin.

Memory Is Vague From then on, things are vague. They tell me I was taken ashore to a hospital, quitte out of my head, with malaria, and a leg swollen twice its size. That was infection from the abrasion I got falling over the bomb crate one night during a shelling. The sort of injury you think nothing of—the sort a dab of iodine clears up.

The ship was to sail at dawn. I woke up in the hospital at 8 a. m. and shook my head. Not too good. But I had to get that boat. All my gear and pictures were on it. I reached for my pants. An orderly took them away. The fireworks started.

"You can't do this to me! I'm a free man."

"You're a sick man and you're not going out of this hospital."

"The hell with that. I'm catching that boat."

"You go and they'll have to cut off your leg."

The surgeon and the superintendent and I went round and round. Signs Waiver

Finally I signed a statement exonerating the Army hospital from all responsibility—and they sent me down to the pier in an ambulance.

The boat had sailed. And it was headed not to Pearl Harbor—but to home.

I still don't know just what I did, but it must have been plenty. I got a speed boat, and chased that freighter. We caught it at the entrance to the harbor, and I shouted for a Jacob's ladder. How I ever got up that rope ladder I don't know, but I did.

Back in my bunk I looked over at the bottles of quinine and sulfa drugs the Army surgeon—bless his tough soul—had given me. Believe me, I followed directions, and I stayed flat on my back for the first 10 days. After that, I lay out in the sun on deck. The waves sparkled, the sun beat down—aside from a little wind and occasional rough going, it was an ideal voyage—almost.

One narrow escape remained. I thought I'd lost my luck. Home was just over the horizon, by San Francisco Bay—just beyond that fog that hung over the Farrallones, 26 miles out.

Feeling fit as the well-known fiddle, I was up on the bridge with the captain, as we felt our way through the mid-morning fog. Suddenly came a shout from the lookout:

"Surf ahead!" I looked down and it seemed right on our bow. Waves were breaking 50 feet high. The captain leaped into action.

"Hard right! Full speed astern!" We missed smashing to pieces on island rocks by about ten feet.

The fog was a drizzle when we passed Mile Rock and crept up to quarantine. The young pilots coming home for new equipment laughed and called good-bye as they went over the side even before the freighter nosed her way into San Francisco's darkened docks.

I hope they got a good furlough. They deserve it.

Timid Bidding Of Little Aid To Stock List

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Timid bidding helped scattered stocks in today's market, but many leaders lacked support and shifted to moderately lower territory.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 40 for the second day in a row. Transfers of 530,033 shares were propped by several special offerings. The aggregate was 630,420 the day before. Of 766 issues traded, 308 were down, 232 up and 226 unchanged.

Warner Bros. edged up 3-8 to 6 7-8, a new year's peak, but Universal Pictures preferred dropped a point despite a $2 dividend on this stock.

Steels were soft throughout although they reduced losses at the finish. U. S. Steel conceded 3-8 and Bethlehem 1-2. International Harvester and United Fruit fell a point or so each.

Rail Bonds Continue Upturn

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Railroad issues continued in the advancing mood of the previous session in today's bond market and, while the balance of the list was steady, important changes were lacking.

Volume picked up for the second day in a row, sales totaling $10,388,500, par value, against $9,115,800 the day before. The Associated Press average of 20 rails added .3 of a point to the preceding day's gain of .4, placing the group at the best levels in several weeks.

Of highest interest in bond circles was announcement at Washington by Secretary Morgan that the half-way mark had been reached in the current country-wide drive to sell $9,000,000,000 of new Government securities to private investors.

Grain Prices Steady

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Demand for wheat contracts specifying delivery before the end of this month put a spark of life in the grain market today. Otherwise prices held about steady, fluctuating nervously around previous closing levels.

December wheat rose more than a cent a bushel at one time to $1.27 3-8, highest in two months.

tion in Old World politics on a scale deeply involving the time and attention of Congress and the chief Administration agencies, and unpredictably affecting the national economy.

Consequently, the crucial issue shaping up in this country, and shrewdly watched by foreign observers, centers around the question, "What will be the pattern of America's new internationalism?"

Three trends are discernible: 1. American leadership based on dominating military strength, particularly airpower, and on food and industrial leadership. 2. Anglo-American leadership. 3. Joint leadership by an inter-Allied council representing the United States, Britain, Russia, China and other members of the United Nations.

Meanwhile, in London, Washington, Rome and Lusanne four young men are eager and waiting. But the pendulum may not swing in their direction.

both oceans." Today that claim begins to be justified. It escorts convoys safely over the Seven Seas while sinking Japanese warships so fast—sometimes three to one—that their Pacific superiority is ending. We build about three to their one, four to one in 1941 production, scrapping all records, launching in one autumn month twelve major warships.

Subs Still Threaten Smaller warships lag, hence submarines are still our most serious danger, merchant shipping our most serious lack. Yet merchant ships are now launched faster than sinks—six times as fast as a year ago—sometimes in less than five days. For Africa we and the British found 500 which, escorted by 350 warships, got through virtually unscathed.

If our African expedition clears the Mediterranean, shorter hauls mean that there one ship will do the work of three, releasing more for use against Japan. Already here merchant ship losses are worse than ours. Since Pearl Harbor we have sunk a million tons of hers; she can build only a third of that. And ships bringing her staple rice soon will be exposed to attack not only by our better-commanded submarines, but by our better-flown airplanes, land-based.

Jap War Is "Ours" Japan's standard-of-living production is known, despite censorship, to have fallen too. She seriously needs automobiles and machine tools and her steel output is 7,500,000 tons against our 90,000,000. Japan is not cracking up yet—but her dishonest economy shows preliminary cracks. Our need to prevent her exploiting her recent conquests helps explain the risks we have taken in the Solomons.

Pearl Harbor meant that the Jap war would be our war. Even Churchill recognizes that, saying relatively little about Pacific strategy. And increasingly the Hitler war becomes our war. American men, ships, planes and friendship with the French made possible the
