

New Year's Drinks May Cost More

New Year's celebrants will find plenty of liquor on the bars in Marquette taverns tonight, but their celebrations may cost them more than in former years.

There is definitely a shortage of the lower-priced brands of whiskey and those whose taste runs to the cheaper stuff, may have to move up into the higher brackets.

At the state liquor store here, it was stated yesterday, the supply of popular-priced whiskeys is "very low." This, it was explained, is caused by war demands for alcohol used in whiskey blends.

Although the supplies of cheaper whiskey are at a low point, there is plenty of rye and bottled-in-bond liquor, as well as imported Scotch.

Some tavern keepers saw the handwriting on the wall and bought up as much as they could before the holidays, so the shortage may not be noticeable in some places.

Although a 10 o'clock closing hour was enforced Christmas eve, the state liquor control commission has relaxed closing regulations to permit establishments selling for consumption on the premises to remain open until 4 a. m. New Year's day. So, if you can find the kind of liquid refreshment you like, you will have plenty of time to welcome 1943 before the law calls a halt.

Stephansky New Aide To Dorias Curry

Bernard A. Stephansky, district supervisor for the state conservation department at Crystal Falls, has been promoted to the post of assistant regional supervisor at Marquette. It was announced here yesterday by Dorias Curry, regional supervisor. The change is effective January 1, 1943.

Stephansky began work for the conservation department as a fire warden in April, 1934. In January, 1935, he was promoted to the position of assistant district supervisor at Crystal Falls and he became district supervisor there in December, 1939. He is 30 years old.

Claude Smith, assistant district supervisor at Baraga, has been promoted to the position of district supervisor at Crystal Falls. He joined the conservation department as fire warden in 1928 and was made district clerk in 1930. In January, 1933, he was given the post of assistant district supervisor at Baraga. He is 46 years old, is married and has four children. He served in the Navy in World War I.

John McGinty, assistant district supervisor at Crystal Falls, has been transferred to Baraga to serve in the same capacity. He has served in the conservation department since 1934, starting as fire warden. He was promoted to the rank of conservation officer in December, 1936, and was appointed assistant district supervisor in January, 1940. He is 37 years old, is married and has two children.

O'Brien's Election In 13th District Upheld

LANSING, Dec. 30—(P)—Clarence J. McLeod, Republican challenger, today lost in the supreme court his fight to upset the reelection of George D. O'Brien, Democratic Representative in Congress from the 13th Congressional district, which he won.

The court held that neither it nor the state board of canvassers had authority to change the result of the election, and that McLeod's only redress if he still believed his opponent was wrongfully elected would be to appeal to the National House of Representatives or seek a recount of the votes. McLeod has refused to seek a recount.

Albert King Dies in Cabin At Gordon

The body of Albert King, 38, for 35 years a resident of Marquette, was found by a railroad workman early yesterday afternoon in his cabin at Gordon. He had been dead two days.

Coroner Marvin P. Fassbender said last night he believed King died of a heart attack. No inquest will be held.

Report of the death came from Stephen Solody, 503 North Front street, Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railroad section man, who saw the body lying in a bed when he looked in through a window of the cabin.

Solody called state police officers.

Surviving are five brothers, Daniel, Adolph, Fred and Alex T. all of Marquette, and Ben C. of Detroit, and a sister, Mrs. Clarence Haney, of Cloquet, Minn.

The body was brought to the highway on a toboggan, and taken to the Fassbender funeral home where it will remain pending completion of funeral arrangements.

cers. Troops Morris Chenoweth and Virgil Fairlock, equipped with snowshoes and a toboggan, drove to within half a mile of the cabin and snowshoed the rest of the way. Solody told the officers he was in the habit of calling on King periodically, but yesterday he noticed that smoke was not coming from the chimney of the cabin and decided to investigate.

Died In Sleep

Breaking the door, the police officers found the body, dressed in night clothing, lying in a bed. They concluded he had died, probably of a heart attack, while asleep. His two hounds were in the cabin when the officers entered.

A neighbor said he had not seen King since Monday morning. Edward King, a nephew, resided with his uncle nearly all his life. Six months ago he was called for Army service and is now in California. King lived alone most of the time since.

Gas Ration Hearings Set For January

A second conference between Marquette truckers and a representative of the Office of Defense Transportation will be held in Marquette January 7, 8 and 9, it was announced yesterday by Ben DeVoe, secretary of the Marquette Chamber of Commerce.

So many truckers showed up at the first conference, held two weeks ago, it was impossible to review all cases during the two-day session. As a result Howard J. Walters, of the Green Bay, Wis., ODT agent, will return to complete the work. Many complaints had been received from truckers who claimed that errors had been made by the ODT in issuing Certificates of War Necessity upon which gasoline allowances are based.

New County Officers On Job Friday

Four new county officers, elected last November, will begin their duties with the coming of the new year tomorrow.

Lincoln J. Lindstrom, former supervisor from the Third precinct, Marquette, will begin his term as county treasurer. Elected on the Republican ticket, he succeeds the late John Moroney, who died after winning the Democratic nomination last fall.

Robert Q. Archibald, Ishpeming, takes over as prosecuting attorney. Elected on the Republican ticket, he succeeds John D. Voelker, Ishpeming Democrat, who goes out after serving eight years in the office.

Richard Johns, also a Republican winner in November, is the new mine inspector. He succeeds John Tilot, Democrat, who held the office three terms.

Fred Northey, Negaunee Republican, takes office tomorrow as coroner. He succeeds James T. Hodge, Negaunee, Democratic incumbent who was defeated for re-election. The other coroner is Marvin P. Fassberg, Marquette, elected on the Republican ticket to serve his third term.

Fourth Term for LeVasseur
Lloyd LeVasseur, county clerk begins his fourth term in that office tomorrow. He was re-elected on the Democratic ticket in November.

Howard C. Treudo, sheriff, re-elected on the Republican ticket, begins his third term. He announced yesterday there would be no change in his force of about 40 regular deputies. In addition to these officers Sheriff Treudo has deputized a large number of men employed as guards and special police at mines, docks, power plants, rail terminals and industrial plants.

Mrs. Fannie Aartila, register of deeds, begins her second term. She was re-elected on the Democratic ticket.

Enlistments Suspended By State Order

Enlistments in the Navy, Coast Guard and Marines have been halted until further notice because December quotas have been filled, according to an order received by the Marquette county draft board from state selective service headquarters.

The only exception to the ban are men applying for commissions in the Navy or Marine corps.

The date for reopening of enlistments is uncertain. Some Marquette county selectees who have sought to enlist in other services may be ordered to report for Army induction with the contingent to be examined in Marquette the week of January 10.

It was pointed out at the draft board office yesterday that if the enlistment ban is not lifted before tomorrow, it will be impossible to release such applicants from the Army call. Under selective service regulations, the draft board cannot release a registrant for enlistment after he has received his order to report for induction. Selectees must be given 10 days' notice before reporting for induction and some may be called for Army service despite their preference for other branches of the armed services.

Many 18 and 19-year-olds have applied for enlistment with the draft board. Under the enlistment suspension order, these will not be permitted to enlist in the Navy Coast Guard or Marines at the present time, but the ban may be lifted before this age group is called. The teen agers are not subject to call with the January group.

The order does not affect registrants who wish to volunteer for immediate induction into the Army. They are processed through the draft board and the Army induction station with regular contingents of selectees.

C. when he was called to service in the Army two years ago December 1.

Pvt. William Dymond informs his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Dymond, National Mine, that he is stationed at Camp Croft, S. SNIDER'S DELICATESSEN

TO OUR MARQUETTE FRIENDS . . .

Every day of the 2½ years we have been in town it has been a real pleasure to us. To the community we say: We have tried hard to be a good citizen. To our fellow merchants: A parting handshake and the sincere hope that we have been good, fair competition without deviating from our policy of lower prices on top quality merchandise. And to the people of this community, our customers, we say: You have given us your kindly support and with real regret we leave you.

The kind of merchandise we have sold you all these years has gone to war. The steel and rubber in the famous electrical appliances that made your work easier is now found in planes, tanks and guns on a hundred different foreign fronts.

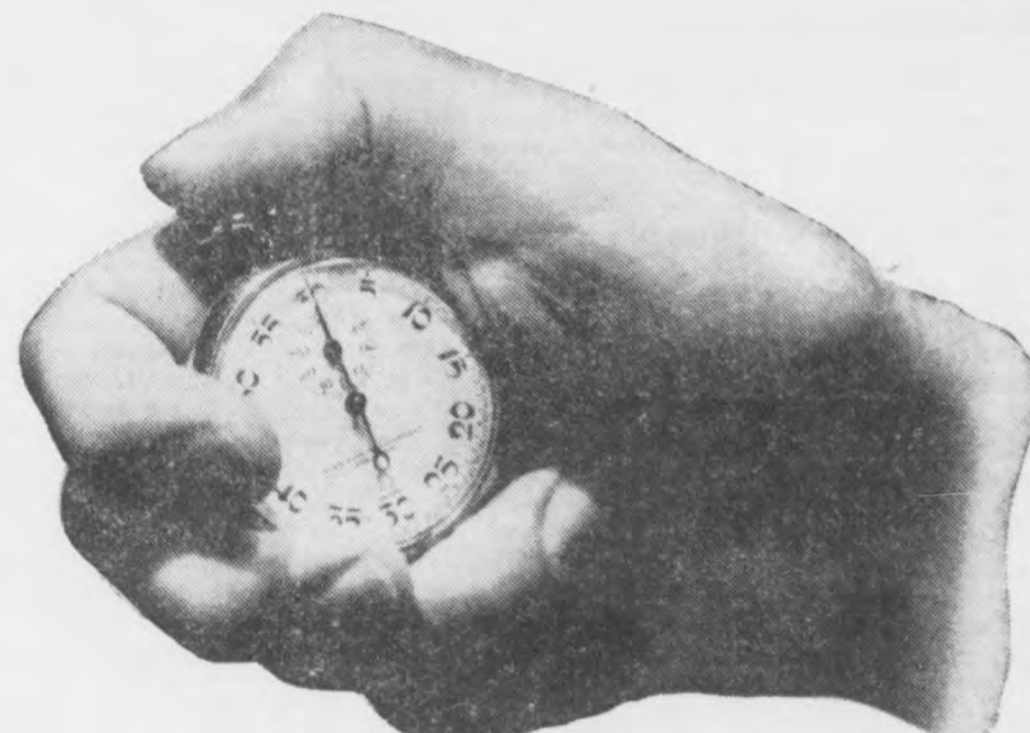

There are still thousands of things in Sears, Roebuck catalog that you will need and that you can get; things that would not be practical for us to stock here in town. Write without delay to Sears, Roebuck and Company, Chicago, Ill., for your catalog.

—for all of us to make a solemn pledge that nothing shall be left undone to win the war—and to win it quickly.

The Penney Company regards its more than 1600 stores, its more than 40,000 men and women associates, as a group of tremendous vitality and force in the war effort. In addition, helping shoulder to shoulder, we include the thousands of people who supply us with what we sell; who in mills and factories all over the land produce with only one thought in mind: the speeding up of the war effort. But most important of all, are the millions who are our customers. They know that no sacrifice is too great for our common cause—and they make it—willingly and gladly.

The Penney Company's job has always been to supply typical American families (people who live simply but well) with clothing and home furnishings at substantial savings.

Those American Families are now the Home Front!

It is their job to send an ever-increasing avalanche of supplies to those who are fighting our battles on the far-flung war fronts of the world.

Those American families, that Home Front, can count on us to continue our efforts to supply the good American merchandise they must have to keep fit for their great task. We will continue, unremittingly, our efforts to secure their needs at savings: Today it is more than good sense and good management to save—Thrift and Savings are now an imperative duty.

"A Good New Year"

The traditional "A Happy New Year" suits the times no better this year than it has suited them for several years past.

Of this there is fair promise. The past twelve months have been for us a time of organization and preparation. They have not lacked in achievement in war that has carried us a considerable ways toward our goal.

If the new year is to be a good year the people must accept cheerfully the mounting restrictions to which they will be subjected. They must realize the need for rationing, and conform closely to its rules.

They Will Take Office

The supreme court held that Mr. Burhans could not serve as a regent of the University because he was serving as a state senator at the time of his appointment.

While Burhans' term started while he was still a senator, those of Dignan and Brake will not start until they have ceased to be senators.

If the attorney general had held that the supreme court's ruling in the Burhans case was applicable to the status of Dignan and Brake the situation could have been, and would have been, met by appointment by Governor Kelly of these designates to the offices for which they had been chosen.

FBI in Chicago

The Chicago constabulary has been badly shown up by the FBI's sterling achievement in rounding up those members of the Touhy gang not killed when they resisted arrest.

It was not in line of duty for the FBI to round up the Touhy gang because they broke the Stateville prison. Neither this nor the crimes for which the men who escaped were sent there was a Federal offense.

were jailed not for their looting of public treasures in that state, but because they had illegally used the U. S. mails. FBI investigations in each instance paved the way for the Federal prosecutors who made the cases and secured the convictions.

Change Expected

It is expected that when the city commission assembles next Monday night for its first meeting in the new year—the first to be attended by the new commissioner-elect, William H. Schneider—Commissioner Lee McGinley will be assigned to serve as head of the department of accounts and finances.

The department of accounts and finance handles a large volume of business. It is one of the most important in the municipal setup and must be carefully managed, if the public interest is to be properly looked after.

There is rumor that with the change in the lineup of the commission Joseph Cone, city auditor and purchasing agent for nearly a decade, is slated for removal.

If Mr. Cone is to get the gate, he and the public are entitled to know the reasons therefor. And if good and sufficient reasons cannot be presented, he should be retained.

Governor Goodland

With the coming of the first of the year Wisconsin's new governor will be Walter S. Goodland, elected by the Republicans in November to serve as lieutenant governor.

It is impossible to understand the French question without remembering that it is the Dutch, when defeated in Europe, continued the war in their whole empire overseas.

There will be little dissent from Secretary Wickard's reasoning on the need for a more comprehensive rationing scheme. The thoroughly unfortunate aspect of the situation is that the foreseeable need could not have been acknowledged earlier so that the entire system could have begun functioning at the same time.

Contemporary Opinion

The prime war objective is the preservation of individual freedom. All other objectives are incidental, including economic security. Of course, everyone wants economic security.

It is also a fact that we have been steadily working toward greater security for the average citizen by the slow, sure path of enlightened industrial operation coupled with every wider distribution of the products of industry.

These things do not constitute independence and security, what in the world does? At least these are the things our soldiers and marines and sailors are fighting to save.

Among wartime acts of patriotic sacrifice, one that should not be forgotten is the recent gift of $48,500, contributed by refugees from Central Europe to the War Department for purchase of a fighter plane.

There is no doubt in the mind of any Red army man from commanders down to the rawest private that the siege of Stalingrad will be lifted and that Russia's armies will surge on to ultimate victory in the war.

Point Rations Best

It is good news that the new ration books, now promised for February, will allot food on a points basis. Nations with a longer experience of the technique of wartime rationing than ours have found the points system to be fairest, least irritating to the consumer and the most equitable.

There will be little dissent from Secretary Wickard's reasoning on the need for a more comprehensive rationing scheme. The thoroughly unfortunate aspect of the situation is that the foreseeable need could not have been acknowledged earlier so that the entire system could have begun functioning at the same time.

Today And Tomorrow

THE election of General Giraud to the presidency of the French African Imperial Council is an event of capital importance. For it is now possible to reconstitute the political unity of France, and thus to enable France to re-enter the war as a sovereign power among the United Nations.

That event occurred early Sunday morning when Marshal Pétain's proconsuls in North and West Africa vested the supreme power in General Giraud. Until that had happened, France was irreconcilably divided.

As long as Admiral Darlan was in sovereign control of the largest military forces of France, the wish of France and of the world was free to choose her own government.

It is necessary to understand clearly why French unity was impossible and why it is now possible in order to see clearly what lies ahead.

We have to begin by realizing at the outset that in June, 1940, Hitler's army in metropolitan France, which had defeated the Dutch army in Holland, had the French navy and the whole French empire in Africa, in Indo-China, Syria, Madagascar, the West Indies, and the Pacific under its control.

Parts of the empire and air force of the navy and army and air force and the merchant marine continued in the war.

A loud and prolonged raspberry greeted him. It was given as applause from the excess of high spirits in the boys but it smacked Beano hard, reminding him of that time in Chicago...

The morning was spent in preparation for the strenuous afternoon that was inevitable. The girls spent busy hours finishing up preparations for the big event.

Beano's red robe was brushed off, his beard and wig were combed and he contemplated it with the serenity of the one who is in a benign mood to the rest of the world.

There was a moment of silence as Beano emerged from a doorway with a crown of stars around her blue black hair and a star-topped wand in one hand.

Then they were distracted by Beano, hissing under his breath, "With love from you know who."

Beano too was disconcerted. He recovered as best he could and a touching little ceremony took place as he passed the gift to Beano.

Then suddenly there came a sharp ring that produced a deadly pause on the part of the two male principals, Benny and Beano.

High Priority Rating Will Help Loggers

A serious problem of purchasing replacement parts and operating supplies by Marquette loggers has been solved through authorization by the War Production Board of a high priority rating for loggers and lumber producers.

The new rating, AA-2-X, applies to purchase orders for materials required for maintenance, repair and operating supplies.

In announcing the new rating, the WPB office in Iron Mountain defined the term logger and producer as applied to the order.

A logger is defined as any person actually engaged in the production of logs of any species within the limits of the United States, its territories or possessions, or the Dominion of Canada.

A producer means any plant within the limits of the United States, its territories or possessions, or the Dominion of Canada which processes, by sawing, edging, planing, cutting, slicing, peeling, laminating or other comparable method, 25 per cent or more of the total volume of logs, cants, flitches, veneers, and lumber purchased or received by it and which sell as lumber, plywood or veneer the product of such processing.

The cost of materials for maintenance, repair and operating supplies to which a logger or producer applies a rating may not, in any calendar year, exceed 110 per cent of the cost of such material actually used by the logger or producer applying a rating in the most recent preceding calendar year in which he was logging, and in any calendar quarter shall not exceed 40 per cent of the cost of materials to which a rating may be applied in the same calendar year.

Copies and further information regarding this order may be obtained by loggers and producers from the district office of the WPB at Iron Mountain.

Fortress Pilot Forbidden To Fly Training Plane

LANSING, Dec. 30.—P—Lieut. James A. Gibb, Jr., pilot of a Flying Fortress in the south Pacific war zone and winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross, may be good enough to fly a mighty Army airship in battle, but he isn't allowed to pilot a cub training plane over Lansing.

Gibb learned this to his amazement at the local airport today when he sought to take a brother and Lieut. Gordon Goyt for a ride in a light civilian plane. The officers of the Civilian Aeronautics Authority refused to let them leave the ground, asserting they would have to take examinations and undergo training to obtain the necessary licenses.

Gibb has more than 1,200 hours of flying time to his credit, he said, including 407 hours of combat flying, while Goyt is credited with 1,100 hours aloft and is rated as an Air Corps instructor.

An official of the CAA office said past experience has shown it was unwise to allow Army pilots, accustomed to flying high-powered ships, to revert to elemental craft.

Rushton Writing Ruling On Legality of Election

LANSING, Dec. 30.—P—Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton worked into the night to prepare a written opinion requested by Governor-elect Harry F. Kelly as to whether State Senators Herman H. Dignan and D. Hale Brake were legally elected as secretary of state and state treasurer, respectively.

The question grew from a supreme court decision that State Senator Earl L. Burhans, because he was a legislator, was illegally elected to the University of Michigan board of regents. He was unseated by the opinion and Governor Van Wagoner appointed to the position Franklin M. Cook, Democratic aspirant whom the Republican Burhans defeated.

Kelly, without explaining what he meant, said he would take "appropriate" action in event Rushton held Dignan and Brake were not entitled to their seats, or that here was any question of their right. Kelly's friends said he meant that he would first take office Friday as Governor, then appoint the two men to the positions to which they were elected.

Titanic Axis Retreat Near On Red Front

By Kirke L. Simpson

With the capture of Kotelnikowski, southern anchor point of the yielding Axis front in south Russia, onrushing Soviet legions have scored the heaviest blow of their second winter offensive.

Moreover, the broad-scale drive is rocking Hitler's lines for the whole curving length of the Don river, and even below it deep in the upper Caucasus.

Moscow indicates that strong points and advance supply bases serving desperately endangered Axis forces in the Stalingrad salient are invested and about to topple.

Reid took his oath of office a few hours later and filed it promptly with the department of state lest some slip-up allow the incoming Governor the opportunity to place a Republican at head of the highway department, which has won fame in Michigan as the key of one of the most potent Democratic political organizations this state has seen in action.

Reid 'Not a Politician'

Kennedy will become vice-president for highway transportation of the automotive Safety Foundation, effective New Year's day, the day striking power is ebbing away even if his defensive strength remains great.

1943 Outlook Heartening

Allied strategy of diversion, expansion of front and steady attrition are catching up with the Axis slowly but surely, to undermine all its vast victories against peaceful and ill prepared nations. That is the most heartening omen of this new year season for the peoples of the United Nations and the millions in Europe and Asia who look to them for rescue.

German-Italian manpower attrition in suffering Europe and Japanese sea and air power attrition in the Pacific are the surest symbols of complete Allied victory, soon or late, as this grim war year of 1942 ends. And it is in Russia, on the huge and ever expanding Don front, that war wastage is eating most savagely into Hitler's human reserves.

Hitler is paying a heavy price for the commitment he made a few weeks ago to keep his grip on the Volga at Stalingrad as the vital element of his whole 1942 Russian campaign. It is not possible now to doubt that again this winter, as last, his "intuition" generalship has defied and deposed seasoned professional soldiers foreseeing the dangers of a tremendous Russian winter resurgence and urging withdrawal before it was too late.

Annihilation Probable

The annihilation of the Axis army in the Stalingrad salient is no longer merely a glittering possibility. It is an imminent and grim probability. The loss of those 22 Axis divisions and all their gear could not be a decisive blow; but it could end Hitler's hope of mustering the power for a major offensive in Russia next spring.

That is what authors of the British war review just issued had in mind in saying that the greatest Allied asset arising from the simultaneous offensives in North Africa and Russia was the fact that they denied Hitler a "creative pause" this winter to prepare new striking power for next year.

Manpower attrition was already dodging his heels last winter. He is being bled white of cannon fodder now in Russia and Africa. His

L. B. Reid Succeeds Kennedy, Resigned Road Commissioner

L. B. REID

LANSING, Dec. 30.—P.—G. Donald Kennedy today resigned as state highway commissioner to take a job in Washington, officially breaking up the team of "Pat" (Governor Van Wagoner) and "Don" which has ruled the Democratic roost in Michigan for years.

Governor Van Wagoner, who himself will leave office Friday to make way for the Republican gubernatorial victor, Harry F. Kelly, as one of his last official acts appointed Lloyd B. (Dutch) Reid, deputy highway commissioner, to succeed Kennedy.

Reid took his oath of office a few hours later and filed it promptly with the department of state lest some slip-up allow the incoming Governor the opportunity to place a Republican at head of the highway department, which has won fame in Michigan as the key of one of the most potent Democratic political organizations this state has seen in action.

remained through its dominance in Michigan.

Van Wagoner and Kennedy announced the latter's resignation at a joint press conference. The Governor, who had been highway commissioner from 1933 until his election for a single term in the executive office, said he "sincerely" meant the statement that Kennedy was the best highway commissioner in Michigan's history.

In Washington, the joint announcement said, Kennedy's first assignment with the Safety Foundation, a privately operated agency, will be to supervise and expand programs for speeding wartime transportation and to emphasize the need for conserving highways and operating equipment.

He will busy himself with promotion of adequate highway maintenance programs and promotion of access road construction to serve military and war production centers.

In addition, Kennedy will help to plan post-war projects including highway facilities to aid cities in elimination of slums and congestion, and development of inter-regional limited access routes.

Long in Public Service

Kennedy is a native of Michigan and a graduate of the University of Michigan. He has been in public service for 21 1/2 years, including three years as a member of a firm of consulting engineers at Ann Arbor which worked exclusively for governmental agencies.

His first public office was that of city engineer of Jackson, and subsequently he was director of water supply and aeronautics in Pontiac before coming to Lansing as an Wagoner's deputy highway commissioner.

In that department Kennedy was instrumental in the building of a political organization which took command of Democratic affairs.

Reid also is a Michigan man, and has a long record as a consulting engineer in private and local governmental employment before he joined the highway department staff in 1933, and rose to the position of deputy commissioner-business manager in 1941.

Card Proposes Bonding Of Produce Buyers

LANSING, Dec. 30.—P.—Leo V. Card, state commissioner of agriculture, today proposed that all commercial buyers of agricultural produce be bonded to insure that they will meet their debts to farmers.

His proposal was occasioned by the state's action revoking the dairy license of the Johnson Milk company, Detroit, on charges of failing to pay farmers for their milk.

Card suggested legislation requiring all persons or firms buying produce from farmers for resale or processing to post a bond.

"Many times farmers have to take payment for their produce in the form of a check or have to see it on credit," Card said. "Then, the purchaser just gives him a wave of his hand and he is out several hundred dollars which he cannot afford to lose."

52 Air Raid Instructors Get Diplomas

A four-day school for air wardens instructors closed here yesterday afternoon with the graduation of 52, who heard addresses by Robert W. Wright, Ironwood state commander of the American Legion, and Ernest L. Pearce, vice-president of the Union National bank, Marquette.

The instructors, who are to be used in their home communities to train air raid wardens, were given an intensive course in all phases of wardens' duties. Classes began at 8 a. m. and continued daily until 10 p. m.

Speakers on the program were Lt. Col. Owen J. Cleary, chief air raid warden for the Michigan Council of Defense; Henry Lohr, executive secretary for the council; Sgt. Leo Franks, Michigan State police detective bureau; James Valentine, state police detective, and Olin Williamson, state police, fire marshal's division.

Charles Rogers, Marquette, chief air raid warden for the Upper Peninsula, had charge of arrangements for the school. He expressed thanks to those who assisted him.

Parole Board Won't Liberalize Standards

LANSING, Dec. 30.—P.—The Michigan bureau of paroles today declared it will maintain regular parole policies despite a new selective service system policy of liberalizing its moral standards in accepting draftees.

The selective service announcement that registrants who had been disqualified on moral grounds would be granted waivers unless guilty of "heinous crimes" was "welcomed" by the bureau, according to Gerald F. Bush, a member.

Bush pointed out, however, that although the bureau was "glad to know that the Army has removed a bar stopping parolees from serving their country, we see no reason yet to assume that the military authorities desire a wholesale delivery of the state's prison population."

"At least until there is evidence to the contrary," he continued, "the bureau will continue to act on the theory that parolees in wartime should be on the same basis of merit as those in peacetime."

It was estimated that about 6,500 men may be inducted under the new policy.

In the World War I battle of Verdun there were 2,000,000 combatants of which number 1,000,000 were killed.

Several Churches Plan Special Observance Of Arrival Of 1943

Tck, Tck, This Certainly Was Muddled Year

(By MANTHEI HOWE)

This is one New Year when likely there will be fewer than usual resolutions made. Somehow the war has rather jolted most of us into a greater awareness of our personal responsibilities and we are more likely to have set our house in order and are going along on a sensible and even keel.

No one will weep that this plagued old year has ended. It has been a topsy-turvy, dramatic and startling year.

A Long, Long Year

When one says "a year," it seems such a short space of time as we ordinarily reckon weeks and months, but 1942, judged from the standpoint of changes made of things that have happened, of disputes and new orientation, has been ages long.

In this one short year we have gone all out for war. The small towns and cities, the hitherto calm and peaceful countryside, have been drained of their hundreds of thousands of young men.

That has meant changes in social life. One doesn't have the figures, but this must have been a record year for marriages. And those marriages were not all, by any means, impulsive war marriages, but contracts entered into in the spirit which, during the past year, has become more and more characteristic of America—we can and will see this war through and we will determine that the fine and normal things of life shall go on.

We're Catching Up Now

The dawn of 1942 brought the grim knowledge to us that we were not sufficiently prepared to defeat the Axis, but that picture (and it is one of the highlights of cheer during the somber 1942) has been changed. The United States has become geared to wartime production in astounding proportions. Ships have been turned out in a space of time that last year would have seemed impossibly fantastic. Factories, formerly devoted to the production of articles that made living more comfortable, have been speedily converted to the production of war materials.

The educational system, at least that of the high schools and colleges, has been somewhat jolted. A year or two ago we were unable to believe that any of our colleges would be closed. Some will be and there will be changes in curriculum. It will, in the last analysis, likely be a good thing for the schools.

Women Are Recruited, Too

Women by the thousands have been taken out of the ordinary pursuits and have enrolled in the ranks of munition workers and have made good at it. Even some of the hitherto obdurate unions have permitted the women to join the ranks.

Many women who never before had been on the business end of a mop or broom for more than 20 minutes at a time are doing their own work. Other women who would never think of being seen carrying a package are lugging home the groceries in big bulky shopping bags. They carry them, or else!

Those of us who may have thought that money could buy anything are finding that no amount of money will buy more gas, fuel oil, or sugar than the ration cards allow; nor will it buy deferment for sons, brothers and husbands who are called by Uncle Sam.

Oh, there have been plenty of strange and new happenings in 1942. Why in that year the Republicans even got a "look in" for the first time in some years; and even the erstwhile all-powerful New Deal had its brows furrowed by the noise of the rumbling and grumbling voters finally stretching and turning over. Pledged to unity of purpose in forwarding the war effort, the men and women nevertheless gave warning that they also intended to maintain their old rights of freedom.

Made Plenty Mistakes

There were plenty of mistakes in the old year. Grumbling business men read of departments in Washington over-stuffed with workers who hadn't enough to do to keep them busy, while in other sections there was a scarcity of labor. Criticism of not sufficiently-considered gas and fuel rationing plans made folk growl threateningly.

Premature release of the news of contemplated rationing made unpatriotic folk flock to the stores to stock up on a few broadsides of disapproval. There was plenty of tension, of muddling, of exasperation in the old year. But all that is gradually being smoothed out and industrial and administrative wheels seem to be turning over more effectively.

Goodness knows, we'll all hail the arrival of a New Year with enthusiasm and high hopes. We don't know what it will bring, but we do know there will not be the confusion of 1942. The American people seem to have acquired something of a national "sea-sickness." They are not fooling themselves. They are quite aware that there will doubtless be things plenty tough in 1943, but most of them are eager for the dawning of the new year, keen to be about the business of winning this war speedily as possible, and if it can not be speedily, then slowly and assuredly.

No one is any longer making the mistake of thinking it is bound to be an easy victory practically handed to us on a silver platter. It will have to be fought for grimly and without slacking, but I have not yet met an American who entertains the least doubt as to the fact that we shall win.

So here's to you in the New Year! May you above all have good health. May you be of good cheer, knowing that you have the courage to face whatever may have to be faced. May you look toward the future confidently, serenely determined to do your part. Tomorrow and every day in the coming year may you be happy and at peace with your conscience. May we all in 1943 be really good Americans, worthy of the fighting men. Here's to speedy victory and a lasting and just peace!

IRON RIVER, Dec. 30—When Corp. Isadore Lipiec, of Iron River, and his mortar crew, sunk a Japanese transport in the Gulf of Guinea the other day, as brought out in news dispatches yesterday, he justified the nickname of "one-man contingent" which he earned when, after obtaining a 30-day deferment as a member of the November, 1941, contingent from Iron county, he left alone, Dec. 11, last year, for Fort Sheridan. Guilty of Trespass MANISTIQUE, Dec. 30—A plea of guilty to a charge of trespass was entered in the court of Justice Alger W. Strom on behalf of Joe Lavine, Manistique, and Lavine was sentenced to pay a fine of $25. Lavine, it is alleged, entered into a contract with the state of Michigan for removal of certain specified stumps from five acres of state owned property. Instead of selective cutting being used, the state alleges the timber was slashed. The trespass was investigated by Conservation Officer Herb Lenon, of St. Jacques. In addition to the fine, the defendant, Lavine, will forfeit a $160 bond posted with the state to indemnify against possible damage.

Arraigned in Judge Mahlon Stewart's justice court, Johnson, who signed a confession that he took for money and admitted robbing the Sool Oil company of $41 on Dec. 21 or 22, was bound over to circuit court on bond of $500. The bond was not furnished.

Keep Menu Patriotic On New Year's Eve

Lots of fun and a toast to the New Year—yes, certainly. But let's begin with a full understanding that Gen. Eisenhower's forces in Africa need great amounts of food, says Mrs. Gaynor Maddox, NEA staff writer. So do all our scrapping allies. Therefore, keep your party supper patriotic.

Use unrestrictive foods. If every household in the United States said, "Well, we can splurge a bit just for tonight, there would be millions of pounds less food for the boys who are fighting for us. So let's eat the American way on New Year's eve."

Make the supper menu substantial, not fussy or over-delicat. The crowd will want big wads and little frills. Have a tray of assorted cheeses—good crackers to go with them. Have a tray of assorted non-restricted cold cuts, such as liver sausage, sliced tongue, liver loaf. A great bowl of salad made of mixed greens such as lettuce, romaine, chicory, sliced celery leaves, chopped green pepper, a little onion, grated raw carrots, hard-cooked eggs, with French dressing, can be served in small wooden bowls to everyone's delight.

Individual chicken or turkey pies can be made easily and quickly. Have lots of them and keep them very hot. Here's a recipe which uses left-overs.

Simply combine cooked chicken or turkey meat with any left-over or cooked vegetables and mix with a good giblet gravy. Add a can of condensed cream of mushroom or celery soup diluted with 2-3 cup water. Then turn this thrifty and delicious mixture into small baking dishes or individual casseroles. Cover with biscuits made from prepared biscuit flour, or from your own less rapid recipe. Bake in very hot oven (450 deg. F.) for 15 to 18 minutes. Do not make your full supply at once. Keep 'em rolling.

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit juice, omelet with Spanish sauce, whole-wheat toast, coffee or milk.

LUNCHEON: Left-over chicken pie, enriched soft rolls, apple-sauce, peanut cookies, tea, or milk.

DINNER: Boiled tongue with horseradish sauce, parsley, potatoes, Brussels sprouts, raw carrot sticks, apricot chiffon pie, coffee or milk.

Marquette Girl Receives Letter From Irish Lass

Ralph Carlton, 232 West Bluff street, who has been serving with the Army in Northern Ireland since March writes his family that he had received his Christmas box November 27, which will set at ease the minds of other Marquette county folk who may not have been able to get a letter from their men in Ireland.

While in Irish overseas Ralph Carlton met an Irish cooless, Sheila Mooney, whom he introduced via letters to his sister, Miss Corinne Carlton, of this city.

Yesterday she received a Christmas card and letter from Sheila who is in the women's civilian army, serving as a cook.

The card is quite different from those to which we are accustomed and shows a cottage with roses clambering over the open door, and hollyhocks and other bright blossoms running riot in the garden, but the inscription on the inside of the card is much like ours: "A Merry Christmas and a happy year, Good hope, good days, much fortune and good cheer."

The letter, sent by air mail was written December 10 and came from Belfast, Ireland. Miss Mooney writes:

"My dear Corinne: At last, my dear, I have found some time to answer your most welcome letter. I do hope you will forgive me for not writing sooner, but I have been very busy. You see, dear, I am a 'cook' and I get very little time to myself.

"Well Corinne, you seem to enjoy life to the full. Sometimes I often wish to wear my civvies again, although I find my army life very interesting. We girls have to work very hard, but we do it with a will, and one day soon we will all be proud of the work we have done."

"I don't go for any sports at all. I do dancing a lot and go to the movies. I met your brother while he was in Ballymena, that's when he had his accident. We are great friends. I think a lot of your letter. It is a fine fellow, which reminds me I owe him a letter. I don't see him very often, he is a good distance from me, but we correspond.

"I am sure you find it boring at times, with all your pals joining up and leaving your homes, but never mind, dear, there will be better days coming. Sometimes I get so browned off (Army slang) with cooking I could scream, but the job must be done."

Finishing her letter on Friday, December 11, she says: "Well, here it is 6:30. Last evening before I had time to finish this letter, I had to go on duty again. Some one was taken ill and I had to replace her, so you see we must always be ready when duty calls.

"I was to have gone to a dance tonight. The American troops were giving it for the A. T. S., but it was postponed. All the girls were very disappointed, we were all looking forward to it, but better luck next time."

"Weights 8 Stone"

"I would like to see you and your picture. I would like to have one of you. I will send you one of myself in uniform as soon as I have one done. Of course I am not very good looking. I am five feet one, light brown hair, slightly wavy, blue eyes, fresh complexion, weight about 8 st. I have not much more news now so I will close with love and best wishes for a happy Christmas and New Year. I don't suppose you will receive this until after Christmas so I hope you will not have eaten too much turkey."

It is signed "Your Irish friend, Sheila."

It sounds much like the letter an American girl might write, and gives reminder that Irish, Scotch, and English girls are working as determinedly in civilian army service as are their brothers and husbands.

Miss Carlton didn't know how much Sheila's weight was, but "8 stone" should be 112 pounds, since we don't tell our weight in so many "stones" as do the British, but the dictionary says a stone, British measurement of weight, is 14 pounds.

Weddings

Oates-Bennett

Miss Ruth Adelaide Bennett, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur King Bennett, 425 West Arcan street, was married to Edward Donald Oates, Monroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Oates, Chicago, formerly of Marquette, at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church, the Rev. Herbert J. Bryce officiating.

White cathedral candles in the windows and the chancel provided the illumination for the ceremony. Preceding the reading of the nuptial rites, Martin M. Johnston sang two solos: "Ich Liebe Dich" and "Because," with Mrs. George Quinnell as the accompanist. She also played the traditional nuptial music for the wedding procession. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Lois Oates, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Brott, Miss Dorothy Jean Anderson, Miss Betty Foard and Miss Jane MacNaughton, Midshipman Arthur K. Bennett, Jr., brother of the bride, was best man.

The usher were the bride's brothers, Dr. Matthew C. and David C. Bennett, James Clark and Harlan Oates, brother of the groom.

The bride's gown, of white tulle over slipper satin, was made with a bouffant skirt, fitted bodice with a sweetheart neckline and short sleeves. Her veil was held in place by a halo cap of Chantilly lace. A single strand of pearls was her only jewelry and she carried an all-white colonial bouquet. This same gown was worn by Mrs. Matthew Cole Bennett at her marriage to the bride's brother, Dr. Bennett.

The bridesmaids were all gowned in white, carried colonial bouquets of red cyclamen and wore the same kind of flowers in their hair, as did the maid of honor who wore a white gown with a net skirt and lace bodice.

Mrs. Bennett chose for her daughter's wedding a floor-length winter green dress and a tiny matching hat. Talisman roses formed her corsage.

The groom's mother wore a black dress with accents of gold and a flower hat in fuchsia shades, with a matching fuchsia corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 200 guests was held in the home of the bride's parents, from 5 to 7 o'clock. The rooms were trimmed with Christmas greenery and here, too, the light from many tall white candles provided the illumination.

Crystal candelabra with white candles and white chrysanthemums and gypsophila formed the centerpiece for the table at which Mrs. Harlow Clark, Mrs. Charles P. Drury, Mrs. Stanton Bice and Mrs. Matthew C. Bennett presided. The bride cut her wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Oates left for a brief honeymoon in Chicago and will live at 634 Navarre, Monroe, Mich. For traveling the bride wore a sheer white dress, trimmed with small rhinestones, the neck line, and a cocoa brown hat.

Bride and groom are graduates of Graveraet high school and the Northern Michigan College of Education where the former was a member of the Tri Mu fraternity.

The out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Oates, Harlan and Miss Lois Oates, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lake, Clinton, brother-in-law and sister of the groom; E. L. Carter and Miss Miriam Carter, Negaunee, and Miss Jane MacNaughton, Grosse Pointe.

How To Relax When You Get Over-Tired

If you're head over heels in work and tired—try lying flat on your back with your heels propped up on pillows, well above your head.

Says Alicia Hart, NEA Service Staff writer, "It will rest you quickly, and it may get you into some muscle-building routines which are less strenuous than a 6-year-old's jumping in bed and yet freer and more fun than oldtime daily-dozen numbers.

You can also rest and relax, and stimulate your shoulders, back, and arms simply by standing up, bending from the hips, and letting head and arms drop and hang toward the floor for a few minutes. If fatigue and tension strike you in the small of the back, rest on your elbows and knees, your back held straight though not taut, your head down on floor or bed.

This may not sound very pretty and ladylike—doesn't look it either, for that matter—but it will relax you, quickly and simply.

If having sampled these rest positions, you want to go in for muscle-building, too, continue thus: Lie flat on the back, on the floor. Bring right leg up, bending knee and grasping it with both hands. Hold it close to your chest, while you count five, then return to rest position and your 10, reverse, bringing left knee up, and repeat.

Mrs. Crockett's New Guinea Tale Is Entertaining

Folk, who have lads in service in New Guinea, will be interested in reading a book, "The House in the Rain Forest" by Charis Crockett, which is available at the Peter White public library.

When the lads return home they will have some tall stories to tell if they have served in the region. Many readers will be interested in the rather detailed map of the Solomon Islands, the New Hebrides, and the Philippines given on the inside covers of the book.

Woman Could Take It

Undoubtedly there are some things one wouldn't like about the New Guinea climate, physically, but there will be plenty of discomforts for the fighting men who chance to be stationed there, but likely many women will not feel quite so worried when they learn that an American woman lived there and found many readers will be interested in the rather detailed map of the Solomon Islands, the New Hebrides, and the Philippines given on the inside covers of the book.

Charis and Freddy Crockett went to New Guinea on a yacht to do anthropology. They had been recently married and Charis was a Redcliffe girl, nothing in the prizefighter class, physically, but with plenty of courage, persistence, and a lively scientific curiosity. Coupled with that, she has a real literary gift and a humor that made her see the ridiculous even when things looked momentarily dismal and squalid.

The book is quite profusely illustrated with pictures of the men, women, and children who live in that region which, previous to our entry into the global war, was a closed book to most of us.

The author and her husband were a bit dismayed to find that the Papuans who were once cannibals, far from being ferocious, were afraid of the white men. At first the two newcomers tried to be nonchalant about the obvious way the natives ignored them, or ran away. But it was uncomfortable to be held at such man's length by human beings even if those human beings were not much of any clothes, decorations in noses and ears, and astounding hair-dos.

The Crocketts confess that they tried with all art at their command to win the confidence of the natives, and finally succeeded in really becoming friends with them.

H. J. Adams Retires After Long Service

ISHPEMING, Dec. 30—Herbert J. Adams, statistician for the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company since January 1914, ends 28 years' service with that company Thursday, December 31. Announcement of his retirement was made today by S. R. Elliott, manager of the mining department of the company.

Mr. Adams, however, does not intend to be inactive. He is working on plans for formation of a Marquette county tax bureau, an ambition of some years' standing.

Born on a farm at Oxford, Oakland county, Mr. Adams attended Cleary college, Ypsilanti, in the late nineties and his first job after leaving the business was with the W. K. Kellogg health home in Battle Creek.

Started in 1898

His first job for the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company was in 1898 as road man for his brother, the late L. E. Adams, the first work being at Cooks Mill near Manistique, building a logging spur. After a few months, he was transferred to Michigan mine; then to the Morone mine, known better to present-day citizens of Ishpeming as the Hard Ore, under the name James Murphy. In 1902 he was made assistant bookkeeper under Thomas Martin, now deceased, and in 1904 was advanced to head bookkeeper of the mining department.

Mr. Adams left Ishpeming in 1906 to accept a position with the Globe Consolidated Copper company, Globe, Ariz., and in 1908 was transferred to Bisbee, Ariz., as auditor for the Hovland and Smith partnership. When this partnership dissolved, Mr. Adams returned to Globe for the formation of a local Copper company, and in 1913 he accepted a position with the East Butte Copper company, Butte, Mont., as paymaster.

Returns To Ishpeming

He returned to Ishpeming in January, 1914, to start work for the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, a position he has held continually since.

During his years in Ishpeming he has been public spirited and since 1933 has served on the city council as alderman from the Third ward. For eight years he has been chairman of the finance and taxation committee and instituted several bookkeeping reforms which have been credited with simplification of city records.

He also has been interested in tax problems and has represented several of the taxing units of the county in hearings before the state tax commission.

Plans County Tax Bureau

Mr. Adams' aim in the formation of a Marquette county tax bureau is to have a centralized organization with associates in each of the three principal communities of the county, with the cooperation of various political units and public-minded firms and individuals. It would be entirely free, he stresses, of partisan politics.

He believes much of the trouble encountered now is due to out-grown tax laws, a condition recognized by the state tax commission. "It is highly probable," he said, "that new and revised tax laws will be proposed in the next legislature. Marquette county, the leading iron producing county of the state, could, and in our opinion, should have a voice in such legislation. We believe that findings and recommendations from an independent tax bureau would carry much more weight than from the industry itself, or from individuals. It is obvious that it would at least aid."

Only One Report Of Gasoline Theft in City

"We have had only one report of theft," he said.

"As to tires, we have had no thefts in several months. At the outset there were one or two cases of tires missing, but there was no definite evidence of theft."

All Retail Stores Close At 6 Today

ISHPEMING, Dec. 30—Ishpeming merchants will observe the usual mid-week hours New Year's eve, stores closing at 6 Thursday.

All but service stores will be closed New Year's day and all establishments will be open on normal schedules Saturday.

There are two reasons for the weekend schedule. First, there is no observance of the second day of the New Year, as there is following Christmas, and clerical forces have not had the rush they had the days previous to Christmas. Second, there is a "bottle thing" called inventory the clerks had to dispose of before the new year is many hours old.

Decision to close at 6 New Year's eve was reached by unanimous agreement at the last meeting of the Ishpeming Industrial association.

There will be traditional features, with dancing starting at 9:30 and continuing into the early hours of the first day of 1943. A buffet luncheon will be served. Noise-makers and favors will be distributed.

"This has been one of the pleasant family affairs of the year," said an officer of the lodge this morning. "We regret that our quarters do not accommodate a sufficient number to make it possible to open the party to the public."

First Junior Ski Meet Set For Saturday

ISHPEMING, Dec. 30—Persons who wonder what will happen to Ishpeming's ski talent, now that the war has put a crimp in big-time tournaments, will be reassured if they attend the first junior meet of the year, to be held at 2 Saturday afternoon on the Teal lake slide of the Winter Sports club. Two classes are open—boys from 8 to 12 and boys from 12 to 14. Five prizes will be offered in each class and all participants, regardless of how they finish, will get 10-cent coupons to be used for trade at the clubhouse.

Registration may be made up to noon Saturday at Emanuel's shoe store, Johnson's or Berg's sports goods shops, and after that at the clubhouse. Boys are asked not to go to the hill until they have been given tournament numbers.

Officials are being selected to handle the meet "just like the big time."

Hill In Good Condition

Adults who have a few hours to spare Saturday are invited to see what the young boys can do on the flying sticks. The hill is in excellent condition and greatly improved since last year. Boys who hit the takeoff here are the ones who will carry Ishpeming colors into post-war competition. Sports club officials pointed out.

For the older boys there will be plenty of competition in the following week when the Baby Lake hill will be opened. This, too, has been improved and 100-foot jumps will be common.

Drinking In Army Camps No Problem

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—(AP)—Dear Mom:

The best selling beverages around Army camps are coffee, milk, malted milk and bottled soft drinks.

The Office of War Information said today, Elmer Davis' investigators traveled 12,000 miles in a coast-to-coast investigation "to provide the American people with honest and accurate information about the millions of men who are doing their patriotic duty in the armed services."

OVI conclusions: "The present Army 'may or may not be the best in the history of armies, but it is certainly the best behaved.'"

There is not excessive drinking among troops, and drink does not constitute a serious problem.

The sale of 32 beer in Army camps is "a healthy and sensible arrangement," and the fact there is "vastly less drinking among soldiers in this war than in the last war" may stem in part from the sale of beer in camps.

Commanding officers said considerably more than half their troops drank nothing stronger than beer by choice, and that many abstained even from beer. Chaplains, with one exception, shared this opinion.

Allied Fliers Superior On All Fronts

800 anti-submarine patrols and 14,000 attacks on enemy shipping.

The air ministry asserted that, together with the navy, the air command had scored one of the most important victories of the year, however unspectacular, in the "greatest submarine hunt of the war"—over the Bay of Biscay while Allied armadas of 850 ships were enroute to North Africa.

As a result of this victory, the air ministry said, no Allied ship was attacked until after the armadas had passed Gibraltar.

One group of fighter planes was disclosed to have destroyed more than 500 planes during the year. The number of fighters was not specified.

"Late in the year," the review revealed, "the enemy concentrated submarines around Iceland. The coastal command retaliated rapidly. American-built Liberators and Hudsons maintained daily sweeps in all kinds of weather."

Major developments of the year listed in the review included "saturation" night raids over Axis territory, precision day bombing by U. S. Flying Fortresses and conversion of the fighter arm into an offensive weapon.

American-built Mustangs of the army cooperation command "revolutionized" the tactical use of supporting aircraft so much that "one man did the job of two," and maximum speed became something near 400 miles per hour, the review stated. "These aircraft, fast as fighters, are well able to defend themselves, and attack with energy."

Use Huge Bombs Now

In general, the air ministry reported, the year showed a "formidable addition of power to the RAF and Allied air forces" so that now "heavier bombers carry the offensive to the Axis in daylight. Superiorly over the Luftwaffe in numbers and types over all the battle fronts, together with new tactics in full cooperation with land and sea forces, indicate the development of the RAF in 1942."

Four-ton "block-buster" bombs were used for the first time in 1942, and the accuracy of bombing improved with the weight, the review set forth.

Offensive sweeps across the English channel changed in character during the year when the fast and heavily armed Flying Fortress bombers became operational. "They fly faster and farther than our own light bombers previously used in daylight sweeps," the air ministry said, "and they are well able to look after themselves."

The new Spitfire with its four-bladed propeller was said to be "far ahead" of those used during 1941, just as the Spitfires of that year were reported superior to their predecessors.

No Shortage Of Crews

The review concluded cheerfully with the statement that "the RAF is in no fear of running short of highly trained and enthusiastic crews."

It asserted that behind 1942 successes lies a feat of flying training "surpassing anything dreamed of during the early stages of the war."

The empire training program is still on the increase, it said, with an unceasing flow of trained men coming out of Canada where 150 training establishments are in operation.

Allies Shell Foes in Hills Of Tunisia

que said roads from Tunis were bombed and machine-gunned by Allied planes Monday night and one enemy fighter was shot down yesterday while Allied bombers attacked the Tunisian port of Sousse and other objectives.

No Allied planes were reported lost.

The sticky mud of Tunisia, made worse by rains and electrical storms, meanwhile kept land and air activity to a minimum.

The mud and the mystery of the whereabouts of Nazi Marshal Rommel's main armor were two major problems of the Allies in Libya and Tunisia.

Although badly hurt by the British breakthrough at El Alamein and nicked deeply again after El-Aghela, it was generally agreed by observers here that Rommel still has a heavy weight of men and tanks somewhere.

Seeking Merger In Tunisia

The latest official report tending to confirm the widespread belief that Rommel was pushing through seeking a junction with Gen. Walther Nehring, Axis commander in Tunisia, was yesterday's communication telling of a successful attack by American planes on a long Axis motor column west of Tripoli and moving westward.

But the big questions in London were how far toward such a merger Rommel had gone, whether the bulk of his forces already had shifted to Tunisia or, if not, how this might be done.

The only avenues feasible for heavy equipment are the motor road along the Mediterranean and the Dangers of the latter were well demonstrated by the heavy toll of Axis ships taken by the Allies in this area in the past few weeks.

"The highway also is growing constantly more dangerous, as yesterday's raid illustrated, because the narrowing Axis-held territory makes possible overlapping of Allied fighter attacks."

Axis Strength Emphasized

The slight withdrawal of Allied forces from footholds upon a ridge six miles northeast of Medjez-El-Bab, announced by the Allied command yesterday, was not regarded by observers as serious in itself. But it was seen as further evidence of what the Allied command has been emphasizing right along—that the Axis is strong in Tunisia and is prepared to fight to the last to save its final African foothold, thereby delaying as long as possible the day when the United Nation would be in position to strike into Europe from the south.

Unofficial reports from Libya said mines which had bothered the British pursuit of Rommel were thinning out as the eighth army presses on after Rommel's rear-guards. However, these advances said the British were proceeding cautiously.

Observers At Plane Post Get Fur Coats

ISHPEMING, Dec. 30—Thanks to the generosity of citizens of Ishpeming and Marquette, volunteers who serve as aircraft warning observers at the Ishpeming post will not suffer during cold days for want of warm clothing.

A call went out a few days ago for fur coats to provide comfort for men and women who make their two-hour rounds, day and night, at the post.

The coats were forthcoming within a short time. Joseph LaBoeuf, of the Maytag Sales, donated one, and L. P. "Larry" Schuster, Marquette furrier, made a very neighborly offer of the other, which has been accepted by civilian defense officials, acting for the aircraft observation organization.

In addition, Maurice Johnson, sports goods dealer, donated two hoodies to further protect the watchers.

"This is a fine gesture of cooperation and we heartily assure the donors it is deeply appreciated," said O. E. Stolen, city defense commander.

MOSCOW RAID DENIED

MOSCOW, Dec. 31 (Thursday)—(AP)—The Soviet bureau of information denied early today the claim by DNB, official German news agency, that the German air forces raided Moscow Christmas night and caused great damage. "The Hitlerites lie because their affairs are in a bad state," the Soviet bureau declared.

One Dead, Nine Missing In Syracuse Hotel Fire

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 30—(AP)—A $1,000,000 fire in the downtown Empire hotel block early today claimed one life, and with nine persons reported missing, officials expressed belief tonight "there are several bodies in the ruins."

Fire Chief George C. Winter said it might be 24 hours before the ruins cooled sufficiently to permit a search.

Fire Lieutenant Edward Gilmore told of climbing ladders to reach two women seen waving for help from windows. "We reached one of them," he said, "but when we went after the other she had gone back into the flames and we couldn't find her."

Sixteen stores and offices were destroyed.

U. S. Treasury Department

Drop Primary Vote System, Group Urges

LANSING, Dec. 30—The state elections study commission today described the "secret" or multiple primary ballot, as an "unmitigated nuisance," but failed to suggest and substitute.

The commission, appointed to recommend to the legislature changes in the Michigan election system, proposed that the "secret" primary ballot, first adopted in 1937, be dropped. Members, however, could not agree on another form of primary.

The system of giving every voter a separate ballot for each party represented at a primary election and allowing him to cast his choice in secret was described in the commission's report as expensive and confusing.

The system, the report asserted, resulted in too many rejected ballots at an election in which the electorate "never has shown much interest." It pointed out that at the pre-presidential primary in 1940, about 38,000 ballots were "lost" in Wayne county because voters forgot which ballot was the one they had voted.

The commission proposed to forbid insane persons the right to vote, Michigan being the only state lacking such a law, and suggested clarification of the constitution to permit either husbands or wives of property owners to vote on bond issues.

The commission proposed appointment of a state board of election commissioners, to be composed of two Republicans and two Democrats appointed by the Governor and presided over by the secretary of state.

Ask Rule On Ballot Markings

The system of permanent registrations now in mandatory effect in communities of more than 5,000 population would be extended to the entire state, under another commission proposal.

Emphatically, the commission recommended elimination of the "pernicious" Michigan method of permitting registrations to be sworn in at the polls on election day, asserting such a method was open to "Chicanery."

Also, the commission proposed to clarify statutes to validate ballot markings which clearly show the intent of the voter. Another clarification would validate ballots in ship officials be elected for two year terms.

Standardize the type of paper to be used for ballots to insure they all will be of equal quality.

Other recommendations would: Eliminate the necessity for witness signatures on absent voters' ballots and extend the period between the deadline for submitting such ballots and the election.

Authorize ballots to be printed if a candidate fails to return his copy proof as required by law.

Eliminate requirements that a voter go to two polling places to transfer and vote on election day.

Extend a constitutional provision permitting summarization of public city charter amendments and conditions overlooked in the past session.

Require all candidates, except those for Congress, to be resident and registered electors of the district in which they run.

Provide means to determine the validity of signatures on new party petitions.

Allow persons leaving Michigan to vote in this state until they can establish residence elsewhere.

Clarify statutes allowing elimination of primary elections where there are no contests.

Clarify the number of sticker votes necessary to nominate.
