TROUBLE IN CAMP

County Board Will Have to Determine Building Committee's Authority.

MIX-UP OVER COUNTY JAIL.

Superintendent of Construction Is Dischargee, But He Refuses to Recognize Notices to That Effect From Committee:

At its meeting next week the Board of Supervisors will be called upon to decide whether or not the building committee of that body is vested with the legal authority to dispense with the services of the superintendent of jail construction. On the 9th of July last E. Olson, chairman of the building committee, formally notified Mr. David Narracong, who is also a member of the committee, that his services as superintendent were no longer required, but notwith-standing this Mr. Nart cong contin-ued to superintend. The notice was signed by Messrs. Olson and Kleiber, a majority of the committee. On the 24th of August another like notice was served upon the superintendent of construction, but he still held the fort, setting forth the claim that the board of supervisors employed him, and consequently that body alone had the authority to discharge him, and he has superintended throughout the construction of the jail and sheriff's residence.

There seems to be a difference of opinion among the supervisors regarding the matter, and something of a controversy is likely to ensue. Mr. McDonough, who made the motion before the board to employ a ington. superintendent, when questioned by The Iron Port Tuesday said, substantially, that his motion instructed the building committee to engage a superintendent of jail construction, and if the committee bad the power to employ help it certainly had the discharge. game authority li

NEW CITY HALL BEGUN.

Ecavations for Escanaba Public Building Under Way.

On Monday last Contractor J. W. Lawson commenced excavating for the new city hall building, and proposes to push the work as rapidly as possible in the hope of finishing the foundation and laying the first floor covering this fall. Approximately 140 cords of stone will be necessary for the foundation, while an additional 40 cords will be used in lining the red sandstone, 3,500 cubic feet of which will be required in the first story walls. Of brick about 250,000 common, 22,000 pressed and 2,000 molded will be used in the building. The foundation material will be furnished from the quarries at Wells, and a Green Bay firm will furnish the common brick.

STRANGE DISCOVERY.

Human Bones Unearthed While Excavating for Building.

While excavating for an addition to Cleary Brothers' wholesale liquor house on Monday workmen unearthed what appeared to be bones of a human being. The discovery attracted little attention from the diggers, and the decayed remains of a sup posedly "good Indian" was ruthlessly tossed aside, and only for the timely appearance upon the scene of one versed in skeletology a most valuable find would have passed unnoticed.

Some two hundred years ago, ac cording to our authority. Mr. George Preston, the Royal Order of Moose, (now extinct) an organization of Indian origin known as "Alce Americanus," meaning American Moose, celebrated its centennial anniversary on the shores of Little Bay de Noc, and while attending this carnival, extending over three moons, the Supreme Moose, the Great Monondock, whose lodge was many days distant, was taken suddenly ill while explaining the mysteries of the Klondike to the multitude, and died. One of the customs of the ancient order was to bury the remains of a member upon the identical spot where death occurred, without pomp or ceremony, after placing an indestructible and secret brand upon the spinal column. Mr. Preston discovered this peculiar mark on the spine, and immediately gathered up the scattered fragrants for preservation. This interesting specimen is now on exhibition at PeterLemmer's, where it will remain for a few days, after which it will be forwarded to the Smithsonian Institute at Wash-

Aggregate Amount Necessary for Current Year $3,835,844.97.

DELTA RAISED 50 PER CENT

Recent Increase in Equalized Valuation of State Largely Responsible for the Heavy Budget. Delta Share $22,848.33.

The total state tax to be levied in Michigan in December is $3,835,844 .-97. This is the largest levy in the history of the state, and is $110,000 greater than the monumental levy of 1899, which was considered the top notch for state taxation. It is notable that exactly ten years ago the total state tax levied was $1,443,849 .-61. The tremendous jump can be appreciated when a comparison is made on increase of population. In 1890 it was 2,093,889 and in 1900, 2,420,982.

The state tax this year would have been less than that of 1899 had it not been for the recent increase in the equalized valuation of the state which increased the tax for the support of the university by $118,000. The increase in the population of the state also occasions a corresponding increase in the military fund, which is a per capita tax.

As indicating the large increase in the tax budget for the year it may be mentioned that last year Delta county was taxed $11,800.22, while the tax apportioned to that county this year is $22,848.33.

PRESERVE THE HEALTH

Health and Should be Avoided.

If ever a person needs to exercise the God-given quality of common sense, it is when he begins to be sick. One can afford to be stupid or freakish, or careless and frivolous when well. It is not wise then to take all due precaution against sickness, and especially so at this season of the year. Cold or wet feet are a menace to the health, and more sickness is attributable to this single cause than any other. This may be overcome by wearing the Ralston Health Shoes, sold exclusively by Rathfon & Young. Men's shoes $4.00. QUESTION OF SCHOOL HOUSES.

Jacques Cartier's sententious declaration, "We must respect the future," might profitably be applied to houses in this city. The work of providing new buildings has been going on pretty rapidly for some years, and many fine additions to it we did not rename it Jefferson, the array of schoolhouses have been made. But the opening of schools this fall shows conclusively that even with the addition to the Barr school, now under way, and the recently finished addition to the Franklin, only a short time will elapse before the present accommodations will be inadequate. With the rapid growth of Escanaba the number of children of school age will soon increase beyoud the capacity of our schoolhouses.

"We must respect the future. That is the rule in providing school accommodations. We know that the number of school children will increase at a certain ratio. There should, therefore, be an automatic system of increasing school room at a corresponding ratio, after, of course, we have once caught up and made room for all. To establish such a system will be no simple matter. Schoolhouses cannot be manufactured as is cotton cloth, and kept in storage to be distributed according to speak English, or arbitrarily to imthe needs of the market. They must pose on them a new nomenclature. in all cases be made to special order. And they must be built where the should be allowed to remain even children are, and planned for evenin advance of the advent of the children who are to fill them. To effect that is not merely a matter of architecture and finance. It is one to be dealt with by students of social and vital statistics.

In certain parts of the city the school population is increasing rapidly, in others slowly. This requires constant attention and careful consideration. There have at times been too much empiricism and hand to mouth living in this as in confined to the season with which it other matters of municipal adminis- is commonly associated, though the tration. The building of schoolhouses has been neglected until the supply was far behind the demand, and then with a sudden spurt houses have been put up, often with an eye solely to the meeting of the immediate requirement and without due regard for future conditions caused by the normal movements of population. What is wanted is to have a system which will have regard for the near future as well as for the present, and anticipate the public need. It is better to have a schoolhouse partially empty for a little while, waiting for children to fill it, than to have children kept out of school waiting for schoolhouses to be built.

TAMPERING WITH NAMES.

The Iron Port enters a protest against the scheme to change the name of the Philippine Islands to the McKinley Islands. The proposition is one which naturally arises among the people who in a spirit-of affection seek to raise a fitting monument to their fallen chief. There is some--the president under whose adminisa course fails to take account of the difficulties and embarassment of changing old and universally acceptfied in the thoughts of Americans.

as a naval station or a mart for commerce, McKinley might properly be its name. If we in the development of theislands create new provinces, one of them might be called McKinley. Nothing, however, but worldwide annoyance could result from trying to take from the islands arbitrarily a title they have borne for three hundred years, a title from which the name of the civilized inhabitants is derived, and from which they doubtless have the same feeling that we have for the name American.

These islands, it is true, were named for a Spanish king quite as arbitrarily as we should rename them now. modern knowledge we realize how much more fitting it would be if bese continents were called Columbia instead of America. Yet nobody seriously proposes to blot out the nomenclature of four hundred years. The personality of Vespucci is lost in the generic names of these Western lands. So, too, the personality of Philip is forgotten. The average man would have to consult a cyclopaedia to find out just which Philip is commemorated. The name now stands merely for the islands, and the islands embody the name, just as in the case of England, France the planning and building of school or Italy. Whoever rules these countries, their names are indestructible. Louisiana was called after a French king, but when we annexed

> Another objection to the proposed change is found on euphony. "The McKinley Islands" is not so bed, but what about the people of them? Are they to be McKinleyites or McKinleyans? And in that far-off time when they may possibly establish an independent or semi-independent state, is it to be handicapped by a designation which is, after all, not a true name, since it cannot stand for the country without qualifying words? It cannot be McKinley or even the McKinley Republic, or the Dominion of McKinley, or anything. of that sort. It must be the state, province, republic or what not of the awkward phrase. Moreover, the feelings of people who speak Spanish be considered. Americanism is all very well, but one of the most impolitic of steps in that direction would be an attempt to tamper with their language, to force them to They are Filipinos, and Filipinos after they learn English of their own free will and adopt American institu-

PREVENT SMALL-POX SPREAD.

Notwithstanding small-pox is notoriously cold weather disease it was not wiped out in this peninsula with the passing of winter, cases being reported here and there during the past summer. Strange as it may appear the disease has the decidedly unusual characteristic of not being decline in its prevalence during the summer months was marked.

The present is undoubtedly the crucial season, and the season of supreme opportunity. The plague exists in comparatively few places, and with great care we may hope to get through the coming winter without fear of small-pox. But if with the oncoming of cold weather there shall be a reversal of tendencies, and the number of cases shall begin to increase, the outlook will be gloomy indeed. Already some of the lumbering concerns of this peninsula are taking necessary precautions against the invasion of the dread disease into their camps. This is a proper move. The entire medical profession should put forth every possible effort to keep down the plague, and all citizens should co-operate with the medical authorities to that end.

A potent sign of the times is the awakening of our Canadian cousins to their possibilities in the way of national development. It has long been a habit to look upon the Canadians as slow and easygoing, but one who ventures across the line these days sees that, whatever they may have done in the past, none of them are sleeping now. Lethim go where he will and he will find men and corporations proposing and discussing new schemes for opening territory heretofore deemed worthless.

The pound limits should be extended forthwith from Oak street toBirch street. There has been no inconsiderable building on Maple street this season, and residents of that thoroughfare are powerless against the cow nuisance. It is impossible to make the improvements they desire on this account. Those who attempted to make lawns have had them destroyed almost completely by cows. There is no good reason why property owners of that locality should not have the same protection against live stock as their down-town neighbors.

Those of our people who express a willingness to improve the city by improving and beautifying their property should certainly have the help of the common council to any reasonable extent.

Most is at large again. But he has been thoroughly frightened, and it is practically certain that, for a considerable time at least, he will keep a bridle on his anarchist tongue. > What to do with the city's lighting plant is a conundrum. It must have improvements to the extent of $35,000 or $40,000 to meet the demands made upon it. Are we prepared to make this expenditure? It is believed by many that the investment would prove remunerative but some time must necessarily elapse before the net returns from the plant would aggregate this amount. The question before the people is this: Shall the city make the improvements, or sell the plant?

The Iron Port strongly endorses the action of General Charles H. Grosvenor, in requiring a certain share of the proceeds from the sale of his book to be set aside for a Mc-Kinley Monument Fund. Our readers will see an advertisement of this book in another column of this paper.

Escanaba Making Preparations for Big Season .- Notes.

Preparations are being made on the Escanaba & Lake Superior railroad preparatory to the coming logging season. Mr. Wells says that fifteen miles of new logging road will be built, extending far into the company's timber, and that fifty more logging cars will be purchased. The company has an immense amount of timber still standing and will be able to run long after most other lumbering concerns have ceased operations. Thirty thousand feet of pine and hemlock will be put in nextyear and the E. & L. S. road expect to do a big business.

The Lake Superior & Ishpeming railroad, which usually suspended operation at the close of the oreshipping season, will be kept open this winter. The Soo News says the project to build a railroad between Sault Ste. Marie and St. Ignace is a sure thing.

The Soo railway management is making arrangements to replace oi! headlights on its fast trains with the powerful electric searchlights that have been in use for some time on the western divisions.

The Manistique railway, the terminals of which at present are Grand Marais and Germfask, is to be extended into Portage township, Mackinac county, if plans already begun are carried out.

It was reported here that the whaleback steamer Thomas Wilson, ashore on a reef near Bailey's Harber, is a total loss. The crew of 20 were rescued without loss of life. The Wilson was bound from South Chicago to Escanaba without cargo, when she was fetched up on the reef. She was worth about $120,000. Like all the steel trust's boats, the Wilson was not insured.

In his answer Auditor Powers contends that the allowance of the claim by legislature does not prevent him from questioning the accuracy of the claim, and he asks the court to frame an issue so that it may be legally determined whether the distance was actually traveled. The action of the legislature, it is contended, was a nullity and a legal fraud, if Cook did not actually travel the distance.

Beserfbes Personal Experiences During His Studies-He Says the "X Faculty" Is Pre-eminently the

John Armstrong Chanler, the divorcd husband of Amelie Rives, now Princess Trouberskoy, the noted Virginia author, replying to a recent teleram from the New-York Journal asking a detailed statement of his plans for publication and details touching scientific study entitled the "X Facul-

I have as yet made no arrangements for publication, as John Chilton, the alias under which I lived for two months in Lynchburg, could hardly negotiate with publishers for the work of John Armstrong Chanler. I lean, however, toward publishing all my works myself.

Before touching the "X Faculty" a, few extracts from scientific authorities are needful. I quote from the work of Frank Podmore, A. M., entitled "Studies In Psychical Research" (Putnams), chapter 12:

SECONDARY CONSCIOUSNESS.

"Of late years attention has been strongly directed to certain mental states in which actions such as ordinarily imply the accompaniment of will and intelligence are performed without leaving any trace on the normal consciousness. Such unconsciousness or subconscious cerebral activities play a large part in psychical research. Some of the most striking and characteristic manifestations of what we have called telepathy testify to these submental activities. The phenomena of clairvoyance and spirit impersonating are connected with mental states divided by a more or less definite line from the normal working life. The study of hypnotism indeed is little else than the investigation of the workings of a secondary state of consciousness."

It is important, then, for the right appreciation of, or evidence in general and indispensable and as regards the matters to be considered in the succeeding chapter, to have some knowledge of the facts roughly brought together under the heading of secondary consciousness. So far observers for the most part have centered their attention on one set of the phenomena to be explained, and the explanation put forward has been proportionally one sided and inadequate. There remains as the oldy generalization which is prosedly founded on a comprehensto survey of all the facts at issue the hypothesis put forward by the late W. H. F. Myers, president of the Society For Psychical Research of England, in his paper on the subliminal consciousness, supported to some extent by Dr. Max Dessoir, author of "Das Doppen-

The following passage contains a concise statement of the theory as held by Dr. Dessoir:

"In the course of ordinary life certain actions occur which presuppose for their origination all the faculty of the human spirit, but which nevertheless work themselves out without the knowledge of the agent. The actions we term automatic. Among them are certain automatic movements as the act of dressing oneself or of retracing a well known path and some other automatic performances, such as counting one's steps or adding up columns of the figures. The latter acts plainly indicate the existence of a separate train of memory implied upon them, and, moreover, although they take place without the agent's knowledge, they cannot take place without his consciousness. They cannot be truly unconscious acts. They must in some fashion belong to a subconsciousness, which in its relation to the far more potent upper consciousness may best be understood if we consider it as a secondary consciousness, and if we regard consciousness and the memory as the mental constituents of an ego we may boldly say that every man

The "X Faculty" is founded upon the above extracts as well as the profound researches of Professor Flournoy, professor of psychology in the University of Geneva, Switzerland, as exemplified in his book, "From India to Mars" (Harpers); also in Professor William James' (professor of psychology in Harvard university) work of 1,400 pages entitled "The Principles of Psychology" (Holt).

conceals within himself the germs of a secondary personality."

In conclusion I will say that the "X faculty" is pre-eminently the literary faculty. Before the development of the "X faculty" in me I never wrote a line of poetry, and since then I have written the "X Faculty," a short study in advanced experimental psychology, shortly to be published; a historical novel, well under way, which I expect to finish by next spring; a theatrical blank verse play, also well under way, founded on an incident in the said novel, and finally 400 sonnets.

All of this has been done since my arrest and incarceration, the 13th day of March, 1807.

finnual Report of the Board of Education interesting.

Receipts and Expenditure, Cost of Improvement, Bonded Indebtedness, and Salaries.

The annual report of the public schools of Escannba is interesting. inasmuch as it shows the growth thereof and the expense of operating. There are thirty-four teachers, including Superintendent R. D. Ewing, in the five schools, and the aggregate salaries paid for the school year of 1900-1901 amounted to $19. 090. At the beginning of the year there was a balance of cash on hand of $148,87. Taxes amounting to $4, 450.15 were received from the county treasurer; $5,594.05 from primary school money; $13,880.64 from city taxes; $3,000 from the city; $178.44 from library fund; $41.50 from tuitions and incidentials, which together with a loan of $14,500 brought the total receipts of the year up to $41,793.65. The expenditures consisted of the usual salary list, fuel and incidental expenses, $8,784.33 for building, $1,769.57 for improvements, and $1. 994.83 for interest on bonded indebtedness of $61,000.

The value of school property is $125,000, as against $90,000 for 1898-1899, and the attendance this year is 1600, as against 1058 last year. The census recently completed shows 3026 children of school age in the city, while one year ago the number was 2697, certainly a healthy in-
