Secretary Morton Will Ask Congress to Provide More Armor-Clads-United States Eapfdly Out-strips Other Nations.

Secretary Motion will soon recom-mend to congress the construction of three and possibly four armor-clad ships. If congress, however, between now and 1909 does not authorize another ship the American people by that time will have a navy that will have cost approximately $302,199,-

In round numbers it now costs $75,-000,000 a year to maintain the navy When the new ships are finished the fighting strength of the navy will have been nearly trebled, because instead of two armored cruisers there will be 12, and each will be substantially twice the size of the two with which the Spanish war was fought.

The cost of maint nance, unless a very large number of the ships nov in service are sent to the scrap heap. will be at least $125,000,000. At present rates the United States will then be paying more for protection on the water than any other nation, just as Davy lamp. While the gasoline connow it is building ships in greater number than any other nation.

A good idea of the progress of the American navy toward first-class importance so far as size is concerned may be had from the fact that three of the sort of faips congress will be asked to provide for will have a total displacement equal to that of five battleships in the navy at the outbreak of | floded almost instantaneously. the Spanish war.

At that time the battleship tonnage amounted to 48,519. Some of the latest ships laid down will have a displacement of in excess of 16,000. There are to-day 13 battleships in commission, with a total tonnage of 132,229. The tonnage of all vessels, at the beginning of the late war, hardly came up to that figure, which in a few years will look like modesty it-

The battleship fleet now consists of three yessels of the Ohio class, with a tonnage of 37,500; four of the Wisconsin class, with a tonnage of 46,100; three of the Oregon class, 30,864; one of the Iowa class, of 11,340, and the little Texas, 6,315 tons. The increase in battleship tonnage has been 83,710, or 172 per cent. in less than six years.

There are 13 battleships under construction, the tonnage of which is 196,200. When these are finished the battleship tonnage will be more than doubled, while the speed will be increased from 16 to 19 knots for the fastest ships.

The four battleships that will be put into commission during the coming year are the Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Colorado and Maryland, the first two of 14,000 tons, and the last two of 13,600. In addition to this other vesesls under construction, cruisers, gunboats, torpedo-boats and colliers, have a tonnage of 54,325, making a grand total of 374,325, or nearly three times the tonnage of all the ships in the navy at the time the Maine was destroyed.

Since the beginning of the fiscal year last July 1 builders have launched 12 ships for the American navy. No other nation has done so well. In this list there were five battieships and one armored cruiser. The other seven were gunboats, training ships and cruisers of comparatively small sise.

CLAIMS MILLIONS IN LAND.

Texas Business Man Begins Suit Involving Beal Estate Valued at $500,000,000.

Joseph T. Cowan, a well-to-do business man of Dallas, Tex., is about to bring suit against New York city for the recovery of 160 acres of land worth in the neighborhood of $500,000,000. It is north of Seventy-Fifth street and extends northerly as far as One Hundred and Twenty-Fifth street. It runs from river to river in spots, and takes in part of Central park.

Suit is to be brought because of the finding of a lease covering a period of 39 years, said to be now in the possession of United States Senator Murphy J. Foster of Louisiana, one of the counsel for Mr. Cowan.

Mr. Cowan said: "The records in Albany, which we have searched, show that this land was granted to Andrew Hartsfield by Great Britain. After his death it became the proper-ty of Andrew Hartsileld II., my greatgrandfather. On March 12, 1795, he eased the land thus described-to New York city. Device Invented by an Englishman to la Attached to Receptacles Containing Inflammable Liquide

England has a devise for preventing off explosive gases. It is an application of the principle of the Humphrey Davy safety lamp used in mines. If a vessel of ordinary type, containing an explo-sive liquid, be subjected to sufficient heat outside, or if the contents be lighted at orifice, the walls of the tank will burst by the force of the expansion. A 20-gal-ion tank was partly filled with gasoline and placed upon a lighted bonfire. The which were simply soldered together, soon blew out, the solder having melted, and the ascending vapor caught fire immediately; but no explosion followed, because the orifice of the tank formed the upper end of a tube which projected down inside the vessel to its bottom where it was closed to allow the oil or which this tube was composed had been perforated, and while the perforations would permit the spirit to be poured out, they prevented the passage of the burning gas to the interior, by absorbing Its heat as the wire gauze does in the tained in the tube burned, the flame did not extend to the liquid or accumulated Vapor in the half full tank. The flame was easily extinguished with a bundle w rags, and then lighted and put out weral times. A motor car tank to which the device was affixed, was lighted with a match, and extinguished at will. TEACHING OF THE BLIND.

Austrian Expert Says They Are Developed Mentally Through the Hearing.

Dr. Peller, director of the Jewish institute for blind children, of Vienna, describes some highly interesting and important observations which he has made in recent years.

He insists that the educators of the blind are wrong in assuming from the first that the mind of the blind is weakened and instructed by the sense of touch. He says that the progressive phenomena of a blind child's development are so minute as to be microscopical. Closest study has revealed to him that, except in those who are also deaf, the blind are developed mentally by hearing, not by touching.

This explains why so many of the blind, led-by fancy and imagination, exist in a dream life which, while it makes poetical beings of them, also renders them a prey to distress and misery.

Dr. Peller lays down the law that schools for the blind of the future must teach them to recognize by the ear what they have learned to conceive by touching-material, dimensions, form, numbers and so on. He says, too, that in teaching them great attention must be voted to changing the passive imagination of the blind into active imagination, a process very slow, because the blind are nearly enthralled by passive imagination.

The czar of Russia has donated $20, 800,000 to the Russian treasury to be used to pay part of the enormous expenses of the Russo-Japanese war.

Even this will not make the czar poor. Nobody knows the exact amount of his immense fortune, but it is a fact that Nicholas II, owns 100 palaces and castles scattered in all parts of his great empire. On these estates he gives work to $2,000 servants, cooks, pages

RESIDENTS ALL SHAKE.

Citizens of Vanceboro, N. C., Afflicted with Chills and Fevers-Country Abounds in Swamps.

The topographers who made the map of the Vanceboro (N. C.) quadrangle, recently published by the United States geological survey, would probably not choose the task again for a season's pastime. Owing to the idiosyncrasies of the topography, the map they have made has few of the conventional features that are supposed to be parts of most finished maps. It lacks rivers, lakes, railroads, turnpikes, mountains, hills and towns. It abounds in swamps.

The village of Vanceboro, from which the quadrangle takes its name, is the one metropolis of the region. Its existence is maintained by about 300 shaking citizens, all afflicted, periodically or perennially, with chills and fever. Swift creek is happily near and offers some escape to the outside world for those who care to patronize the steamer that plies between Vanceboro and Newbern once or twice a week. Other parts of the quadrangle are ex-tremely inaccessible, as the only roads are logging tramways.

Boston University Trying to Bring lly procured them for him. About Reform in Languages and Spelling.

Boston university is about to call a world's conference of philologists and his home. language professors in Boston for the purpose of adopting a universal alphabet by which to indicate the pronunciation of words in the leading European lan-guages, and to institute some reforms in the methods of spelling.

A circular has been issued inviting opinions on the proposal for an interna-tional conference, and the initial steps have already been taken. The 26 letters of the Roman alphabet are known all over the world and probably 90 per cent. of the world's printing is done with these letters. Thus the "universal alphabet" already exists. It only remains to remove a few differences. For the most part the 26 letters represent the same sounds in all languages. By slight modifications it is thought that the number of letters can be increased from 26 till it suffices to represent all the sounds of all the leading languages.

DWARF DIES AMONG DOLLS Little Man Passes Forty-Two Years of His Life in Play Like a Child

Nursing his dolls like a little child. James Welsh, a dwarf three feet three inches tall, recently died at the age of 42, at his home in Ansonia, Conn. Welsh practically remained a child in actions during his whole life, and his bedroom, which he used as a playroom, was filled with dolls, jumpingjacks, rattles, and such like.

He had an enormous head for his size, and enjoyed good health until a few weeks ago, when he contracted a cold. His father and mother were both robust people.

When P. T. Barnum was alive he made frequent visits to Welsh's home for the purpose of influencing his parents to allow him to travel with the circus at a salary of $250 a week, but, although the members of the family always worked in the mills, they refused the offer.

Too Much Fresh Air.

The University of Wisconsin is inrestigating the discovery—testified to by "dozens of miners"-that a live toad was found on October 10 in the coal mines at Newton, six miles from Seattle, in a solid stratum of coal, 300 feet below the surface. It was carried to the surface and lived several hours. It is said to have been of unusual size.

SHERLOCK HOLMES RETIRES

Conan Doyle Announces That Famous Detective Will Devote Time to Bee Keeping.

It will be a matter of great regret to many that next December will mark the final retirement from public life of the eminent detective, Sherlock Holmes.

Despite his iron constitution and nerves of steel, Mr. Holmes is at last feeling the strain of his great achievements. The bald announcement of his retirement is chronicled in a London magazine as follows:

We hear that Sir Arthur Conan number of the Strand Magazine the last adventure of the famous Sherlock Holmes which he will ever chronicle. was induced to leave the cab, when he It is said to be "The Adventure of the Second Stain."

When Sir Arthur Conan Doyle was arked for the reasons and circumstances of the famous detective's retirement, he said:

"A man must retire some time. He can't go on forever. Yes, his retirement is now absolute and final. So far committed to jail in default of $2,000 as I know, there is not the slightest the work of the detection of crime. His last adventure will be a strenuous one, and will, I think, be on a level with some of his higher achievements. After it he retires for good.

"For a long time he has nursed the idea of a country life, with its simple delights. He will take a little place sides a large number of other visitors and will go in for bee-keeping."

THINKS HIS PLANTS MOURN

French Professor Relates Story of a Missing Pot of Lobelia-Rider Haggard Outdone.

H. Rider Haggard's curlous story of telepathic communication with a favor ite dog is outdone by a tale sent to a French periodical by Prof. B. Le Fevre, a French teacher in a high school at Sumry, in the province of Kharkoff, die a sweet, patural death. He said:

He relates that as he was watering the plants in his garden one morning he approached a window of his drawing-rooom and was suddenly impressed with a feeling of acute sadness. On the two succeeding days the same feelings possessed him whenever he approached that window, and he was at a loss to account for it.

On the third day he noticed that one of several pots of lobelia was missing from among others at that window. He spoke to his wife about it, and she then told him that she gave it away four days before.

M. Le Fevre believes that the other lobelia plants in that window were mourning over the departure of the plant given away and that the "aura" of sadness emanating from them communicated itself to his own spirit. He confesses that he is extremely sensitive to psychic conditions.

Constal Hernandes Said to Suffer

Many Persecutions. A Venezuelan, who arrived at New York a few days ago from Maracalbe, old a story of persecution about General Jose Manuel Hernandez, who is a political prisoner in Venezuela, says the Philadelphia Press. This story in some respects resembles the accounts of the treatment of Captain Dreyfus while imprisoned on Devil's tsland. General Hernandez, who is equally well known by the sobriquet "El Mocho" (the Malmed), because of a erippied arm, the result of builet wounds, is the bead of the Conservative party in Venezuela. He has led several revolutions against the Liberal governments of the republic. Something like two years ago be started a rebellion against President Cipriano Castro. General Hernandez was captured and incorcerated in San Carlos fort at Maracaibo. He has been there since.

His political and military strength was recently shown in the organization of a revolutionary movement on the frontier under the lendership of General Rangel Garbiras.

"Immediately following this," said the Venezuelan, "began the systematic attack on General Hernandez which his friends fear will end the veteran's career. The first move was to transfer blm to the darkest dungeon in the foul smelling old fortress. A buge ball was fastened to his ankle. His keepers take a flendish delight in throwing acute form developed in the majority of large live rats, spiders and other vermin into his dungeon, particularly when he sleeps."

To Nicholas Hernandez, twenty-four years old, the son of the general, who lives in New York city, was repeated this story of the treatment of his father. He said, "It has been some time since I have beard from my father, but tion has reached me."

YALE FESTIVAL EXHIBITS.

Collection of John Trambull's Works and Yale Manuscripts.

Several collections that will be part of the Yale bleentennial are now be'ug prepared by the university authorities at New Haven. There will be in the art school a nearly complete collection of the paintings of John Trumbull, the Revolutionary war soldier-artist, with the exception of the large canvases in the capitol at Washington and in various state capitols, says the New York Times. Yale already owns a considerable number of Trumbull's paintings, and these will be augmented by private 'oans. The Trumbull exhibit will open on Oct. 10 and remain open until a week after the celebration. In the music department there will be an interesting collection of old planos and clav-Ichords.

One of the most interesting and valgable exhibitions to be made will be that of Yale manuscripts and volumes bearing both on the history of Yale and on American education. This col lection will take in all of the famous old books that were parts of the college curriculum from 1701 to 1850. In this connection there will be shown a collection of the early diplomas of Yale, commencing with the first one given to Nathaniel Chauncey of the class of 1702, which is owned in Durham, Conn. The commemoration medal is now being struck off by Tiffany & Co. of New intention of his ever again entering Fork in honor of the celebration. The medal is designed by the artist Bela Pratt of Boston and will be presented to all of the distinguished visitors who visit New Haven in October. It is now anticipated that fully 6,000 Yale graduates and their friends will be in New Haven over the celebration, beand the numerous collegiate guests of the president.

The Bell Rock lighthouse keepers had a singular experience the other day. Toward midnight, according to the London Globe, the Arbroath tugboat hove alongside and wanted to know what was wrong. Explanations discovered that two cormorants, tired of fishing, had perched themselves on the signal pole in so peculiar a way that at Arbroath, twelve miles away, it appeared as if the distress signal had been hoisted.

Supervisor M. J. Hutt is busy these days with the tax roll. There will be considerable difference this year between the assessments in districts No. 1 and No. 2. In district No.1 the taxes on $1,000 will be $20 and in No.2 will amount to $37,-20. The cause of this difference lies to the fact that district No. 2 must raise this year $2,500 for school purposes while district No. 1 has louly 1900 to raise. In district No 1 the bool tax for $1,000 valuation will be $8.80 and in district No. 2 the schol tax will be $26 for $1,000 valuation. Escanaba-Menominee Game

By a score of 12 to 6 the Escanaba ligh School foot ball team won from game was not won by as large a score as was anticipated by the supporters of the local team.

Had it not been for the numerous fumbles which were made by the Esca-naba backs the score would undoubtebly have been much larger against Menominee. Menominee could not hold the local team for downs and nearly always got posession of the ball after a fumble in the first half that practically gave Menominee its touchdown.

Fally 15,0) people witnessed the struggle between the two teams, and ranchman is usually satisfied to note when Menominee made its first touchdown in the early part of the game the supporters of that team were almost wild with delight. After that touchdown however the Escanaba players settled down to steadier work and within a few minutes equaled the score by making a touchdown and kicking goal.

Aggregate Age of Two Horses Is 84 Years and Their Value Is $5,000.

Working six days a week on the construction work of the New Hingland Telephone company at Mariboro, Mass., are two gray horses whose ages aggre-gate 84 years. This statement is vouched for hy their owner, Herbert E. Lathe, who has owned them for 40 years. He purchased the pair when they were two-year-olds, and finished breaking them himself. Mr. Lathe secured the horses in St. Johnsbury, Vt., and says they never have had a sick day since he owned them.

They have been worked steadily and show every indication to-day of being able to do as much work as they ever did. In fact, the owner says that they can do more work in eight hours than the younger animals working beside them. The owner claims he can prove his assertion about their age and says they are the champions of the world as they are the champions of the world as far as age and ability are concerned.

They are of Arabian blood, their parents being imported about 60 years ago. Mr. Lathe says that the animals They returned to Rapid Rive Thurs-day and gave a dance at the Opera or ones and asserts he would not sell them for $5,000.

Declares Only One Operation Is Necessary - Introduction of System Gives Rise to Argument as to Its Possibility.

Can teeth be replanted?

The introduction of a system by Dr. William Watson, a dental sur-geon of Glasgow, Scotland, has given rise to considerable argument as to the possibility of replacing extracted teeth after the decayed matter has been removed and they have been

A newspaper correspondent who called upon Dr. Watson was shown a lady's tooth which had just been removed. The surgeon showed the root which he had just "prepared" on his patent machine, and in an incredibly short space of time he had the crown joined to the root and inserted into the socket from which the decayed tooth had been taken, declaring that the replanted tooth would remain in' place and take firm root.

Dr. Watson talked in apparent enthusiasm on his method, which he claims to be original.

"Modern dentists," he remarked,
"go in very largely for supplying artificial teeth, because it pays them to do so, but the result is that the practice of dentistry suffers.

"A woman who has lost two or three of her teeth goes to a dentist, who the teeth, or puts in a plate and wires. two of her good teeth. The result is that in six months these two teeth are useless and broken away. c

"Two more good teeth are wired, and two new teeth added to the case. This may go on till she has lost every tooth, and the next resort is the extraction of all the roots and an upper case of teeth.

"The dentist as a rule never thinks of advising the patient to have her teeth properly and permanently stopped or crowned, because it pays him better to supply artificial teeth." SUCCESSFUL INVENTION OF A BUFFALO MAN.

A perfect rotary engine, the much-desired achievement of hundreds of mechanical inventors, is the triumph which, in the opinion of eminent ex-which, in the opinion of eminent experts, has crowned more than a score of years' work by William M. Hoffman, a successful inventor of Buffalo.

A year ago P. T. Berg of Stockholm, Sweden, formerly of the Carnegle Steel company and now consulting engineer for the United States Steel corporation, examined Mr. Hoffman's engine for Charles M. Schwab and made a favora-Charles M. Schwab and made a favora-ble report on the inventor's claims. Cornelius Vanderbilt, several of whose inventions are now in use on the New York Central railroad, has declared that if the engine bears out the claims of the inventor it will send all the present style omotives to the scrap iron heap.

In brief, the advantages of Mr. Hoffman's engine are that it will occupy not more than one-fourth the ordinary floor space required for other engines of simllar power; it will effect a saving of onefourth in steam; it is economical in construction and operation and it is without "The problem in my invention," Mr. Hoffman said, "was to overcome friction of packing, and this I have done by what I consider a unique yet simple combination, consisting of revolving the cylinder around a stationary abutment. This stationary abutment does not come in contact with the inner periphery of the cylinder or the cylinder heads or walls, and the construction is such that the revolving piston makes a steam-tight joint on an elliptical abutment throughout one-half of a revolution of the engine when it takes the place of the piston which has been exposed to the steam pressure and performs the same function, the one in advance producing the steam-tight joint. In other words, the entire packing, which produces joints fully as steam tight as the packing rings in reciprocatin engines, is exposed practically to no wear and consequently no friction, as the packing all revolves with the cylinder and pistons. An evidence of the correctness of this claim is provided in the fact that my engine in Buffalo has been run for five hours without lubrication of any kind and without bad results of any description."

A collector of curious trifles notes that the sultan of Turkey has 71 titles, and on the parchment containing them are the words, "As many more as may be desired can be added to this number." Among the titles are "Abdul Hamid, the Eternally Victorious," "the Eternally Smiling," "the Eternally Invincible," "Distributer of Crowns to the Heroes Seated on Thrones" and "Shadow of God on Earth."

The shah of Persia has also many pompous titles, among them being "Luminous Star of the Firmament," "the One Star That Gives Light to the Terrestrial Planets," "Pivot of the Universe" and "the Magnetic Center of the

The funniest title, however, is borne by the ruler of Ava, a small kingdom on the borders of Afghanistan.6 This monarch signs all his decrees as fol-lows: "Signed and sealed by the King of Kings, whom all the world should obey because he preserves life in all human beings, because he regulates the seasons, because he is the father of the sun, and because he is the king of the 24 umbrellas."

IS A WEAK FIGHTING FORCE

An American Naval Expert Sc Cousiders the Russian Baltie Fleet.

New York,-The naval expert of the tific American does not deem the Russian Baltic fleet of great impor-tance as a fighting unit. Of it he says:

"As regards the material of which the fleet is composed, although it includes four battleships which we consider to be, in some respects, the best in the world, the fleet as a whole is omposed of so many different types, that it is totally lacking in that hom geneity which tacticians of the modern school consider to be of prime importance to the effectiveness of a fleet. The most important element is, of course, the four recently completed battleships of the "Borodino" class, ships that are very similar to the Czarevitch, now sheltering, badly crippled, under the protecting wing of a neutral port. They embody, however, certain improvements over that The vessels are the Borodi Orel, Imperator Alexander III., at Suvaroff. They carry four 12-inch as 12 six-inch guns, besides a numero battery of smaller rapid-fire pieces,

The belt of Krupp steel varies fro nine inches amidships to four a one-half inches at the ends. T heavy guns are protected by 11 and inches of armor, and the six turre that contain the 12 six-inch guns pairs, carry-six inches of armor.

Theoretically, these ships are t sinkable by gun fire at ordinary battl ranges. In addition to the protective deck at the water line, which is fou inches thick, they have an upper pr tective deck, two inches in thickness and the space between them is entire filled with coal. Moreover, two vert cal bulkheads of four-inch armor e tend throughout the ship at abou eight or ten feet from the side.

Compared with the latest battlesh designs of other nations, the secondar battery of six-inch guns is too ligh for its purpose. Our own Connecticut carries secondary batteries of seve and eight-inch guns, the Lord Nelso of the British navy carries ten 9.2inch guns in its secondary battery, while the latest Japanese, carry four ten-inch guns.

Twenty-two years ago Mrs. A. G. Fitzgerald returned to England from India with her two children, and, believing the debt now remaining secured by said mortal the debt now remaining secured by said mortal the debt now remaining secured by said mortal married Knight. married Knight.

For years they lived together, the only trouble of their married life being the mysterious disappearance of the woman's daughter by her first marriage.

A year or two ago Knight, it was stated, discovered by means of an advertisement that the woman's first husband was alive when he married her. By the same means he also discovered the whereabouts of the missing daughter.

The daughter was reunited to the family, but a few weeks afterward Knight induced Mrs. Fitzgerald to sign a separation agreement by which he was to make her a weekly allowance.

Then he left her, taking with him the daughter. Mrs. Fitzgerald recently discovered that Knight had been married to the daughter, and that they had one

She thereupon brought an action against him for the recovery of £10 due under the deed of separation.

In the agreement Mrs. Fitzgerald said there was a clause that if she interfered with Knight the allowance would cease, but all she had done was to go to her daughter and induce her to come back.

The judge characterized Knight's action as the most disgraceful thing a man could do, and told him that that court at least would do nothing to prevent Mrs. Fitzgerald from molesting him. He gave judgment for Mrs. Fitzgerald for the full amount, with costs.

Portuguese Priest, After Experimenting, Announces Great Things About Old Sol's Warmth.

Father M. A. G. Himalaya, the Por tuguese priest who invented the pyrhollophore, or sun motor, recently issued a bulletin in St. Louis giving the results of his experiments with the curious machine at the world's fair. Most important of these is the discovery Father Himalaya claims to have made that the heat of the sun is purely electrical. The bulletin reads in part: "Prof. Himalaya finds that the heat of the sun is not produced by impact of the aerolites on the solar masses nor by contraction of the so-called solar nebulae nor by oxidation nor chemical reaction nor by radio activity. He has discovered that solar radiation is not the result of anceasing and powerful electrical discharges in the solar

EXPORTS TO BRITISH AFRICA

Decrease of Mearly Fifty Per Cent. Is Shown for Eight Months as Compared with Last Year.

Exports from the United States to British Africa were about $11,500,000 in the eight months ending August 31, 1904, as compared with over $20,000,000 for the corresponding period in each of the two years preceding. Of this $11,451,000 exports to all British Africa, $9,659,000, or $5 per cent., went to British South Africa; and it is a noteworthy fact that South Africa is our only foreign market in which our sales do not seem to be increasing. The department of com-merce and labor, through its bureau of statistics, has recently received some foreign periodicals which show that the decrease is due to a general reduction in imports of South Africa from all coun-

Of the goods entering the ports of Cape Colony and Natal in 1908 the following countries contributed: Great Britain, $146,338,823; United States $30,227,306; British colonies, $21,847, 972; Germany, $10,908,567; Belgium, $3340,054; Holland, $1,653,754; France, $1,151,141. Detailed figures for the present year are not available to show how much the trade of each of these countries has fallen off.

As compared with the trade in the other direction imports into the United States from British Africa are very small, but even here there has been a large proportionate decrease. For the eight months of the present year the United States imported $528,000, much lees than in 1903, when the corresponding amount was $804,000 more than 1902, when the eight months' imports amounted to $640,000.

Strange Bace Discovered in Island of Java Thought to Be Long-Looked-For Missing Link.

Prof. Van Sickle of Amsterdam, who for some months has been making geological charts of the northern part of Java, cables the Academy of Scientific and Control of Scientific and C in this city that he feels certain that he has discovered the long-looked-for missing link. He does not claim the honor of the discovery himself, but says that some weeks ago he was informed by a Dutch merchant, Van Beuren, that he had discovered a new species of mon-keys in a dense forest in which he had lost his way.

The professor started out to look into the discovery of the merchant, and while watching for the animals to appear he heard a peculiar half human voice. Looking up, he saw an enormous nest and two ape-like animals looking down upon

ALASKAN CABLE IS DONE.

Big Telegraph System Connecting Behring Strait Begion with United States Completed.

Gen. Greely has received a dispatch from Maj. Edgar Russel, of the signal corps, announcing that the Burnside, which has been engaged in laying a cable from Valdez, Alaska, has at last buoyed the eastern cable end at the mouth of Sitka harbor. It will require several days to make the shore end connections in the narrow passage of Sitka harbor and throw open the cable to commercial

This completes the Alaskan telegraph system, which has been under construction for the past three years, during which time about 4,000 miles of land lines and submarine cables have been constructed and laid, and it brings the Nome and Behring strait regions in di-rect communication with the United States over an all-American route.

This system contains the first submarine cable of American manufacture and the length is sufficient to extend from Newfoundland to Ireland.

"WHACKS" And What They Mean.

When Old Mother Nature gives you a "whack," remember "there's a reason," so try and say "thank you," then set about finding what you have done to demand the rebuke, and try and get back into line, for that's the happy place after all.

Curious how many highly organized people fail to appreciate and heed the first little, gentle "whacks" of the good old Dame, but go right along with the habit, whatever it may be, that causes her disapproval. Whisky, Tobacco, Coffee, Tea or other unnatural treatment of the body, until serious illness sets in or some chronic

Some people seem to get on very well with those things for awhile, and Mother Nature apparently cares but little what they do.

Perhaps she has no particular plans for them and thinks it little use to cap, almost spinster like in its simplicity, waste time in their training.

There are people, however, who seem to be selected by Nature to "do things." The old Mother expects them to carry out some department of her great work. After these people have drugged for a time, they get a hint, or mild "whack," to remind them that they have work to do, a mission to perform, and should be about the business, but are loafing along the wayside and become unfitted for the fame and fortune that waits for them if they but stick to the course and keep the body clear of obstructions so it can carry out the behests of the mind.

Sickness is a call to "come up higher." These hints come in various forms. It may be stomach trouble or bowels, heart, eyes, kidneys or general nervous prostration. You may depend upon it when a "whack" comes it's a warning to quit some abuse and do the right and fair thing with the body.

Perhaps it is coffee drinking that offends. That is one of the greatest causes of human disorder among

Now, then, if Mother Nature is gentle with you and only gives light little "whacks" at first to attract attention, don't abuse her consideration, or she will soon hit you harder, sure.

And you may also be sure she will hit you very, very hard if you insist on following the way you have been

It seems hard work to give up a habit, and we try all sorts of plans to charge our ill feelings to some other cause than the real one.

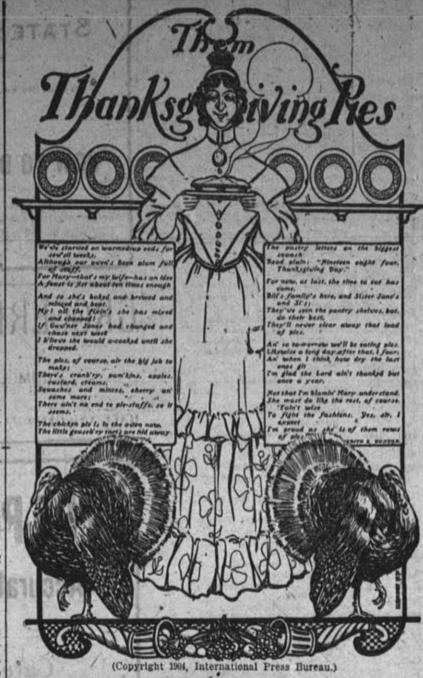

Coffee drinkers when ill will attribute the trouble to bad food, malaria, overwork and what not, but they keep on being sick and gradually getting worse, until they are finally forced to quit entirely, even the "only one cup a day." Then they begin to get better, and unless they have gone long enough to set up some fixed organic disease, they generally get entirely well.

It is easy to quit coffee at once and for all, by having well made Postum, with its rich, deep, seal brown color which comes to the beautiful golden brown when good cream is added, and the crisp snap of good, mild Java is there if the Postum has been boiled long enough to bring it out.

SUSAN JANE A Story for Thanksgiving

By T. C. HARBAUGH

OME people have nothing to be thankful for," said Polly Baer, "Leastwise that's my opinion. Now, there's Susan Jane-'

Just then the door opened and a prim looking young woman, with a pretty entered the room. It was Susan Jane herself. "Did you want me, Polly?"

"No; but I was just saying to Mrs. Darnell that some people haven't much don't all see just alike, and our needs aren't just the same."

"That's true, Susan Jane," remarked Mrs. Darnell, who had just "dropped in," as was her invariable custom at least every other day. "No doubt there will be some thankless folks to-morrow, and I heard Miss Jackson say yesterday that she didn't see what Thanksgivings were for, unless every one could just naturally enjoy 'em."

"That's a narrow-minded view of Phanksgiving, to say nothing against Hester," returned Susan Jane. "Now, take my own case for an example," and the young woman smiled. "You know that people will talk-"

"They always will, Susan Jane," "Just because it's their privilege, I suppose. Well, some one might say that have little reason to celebrate Thanksgiving." Here she glanced demurely at Polly. "For you know that John doesn't write any more; at least, not as often as he used to," she corrected. "But it's John's way-I presume."

"But, Susan Jane, you ought to teach him a lesson in manners. Now, there's the young parson-"

"You know, Susan Jane, he hasn't written for eight months," said Polly. "He got the Klondike fever, Mrs. Darnell, and I shouldn't be surprised if he, man like, for all men are fickle, has giv-

"It's too bad, but just like some men." sympathized the visitor. "Now, there's Daisy Marshal-"

"Pardon me, but Daisy's is no paral-lel case," gently broke in Susan Jane.
"I haven't lost faith in John, whatever ou women may think of his silence." "But you'll admit that you have no cause to be thankful this time?"

"We will not cross the stream until we the famous little book, "The Road to reach it, Mrs. Darnell," said Susan, with heart that had waited for him, and for a show of spirit.

"Oh, well, Susan Jane, I've lost faith in mankind in general. They just twist us round their fingers and, when tired of the pastime, they untwist and throw us aside. I think John Moore needs disciplining. Why did he go 'way up there where men starve and die, where they become mere beasts, when he had you to look after at home, Susan Jane?" · "John wanted to go, and I did not say nay. You know the way of men, Mrs. Darnell. But there's the carrier!" and as she looked up from the oven. Susan Jane left the house and eagerly seized the letter which the R. F. D man extended from his vehicle.

That night no one ventured to question Susan Jane about the letter. If she had a secret she carried it in her own bosom, and the ground was too sacred for even Polly to venture upon.

Thanksgiving morning dawned clear and bright, with a flurry of snow on the ground. It was the second snow of the waning year. Polly put the turkey to roast early, and Susan Jane helped her, saying little, but looking somewhat expectant, as Mrs. Baer decided to her-

Mrs. Darnell who, as a neighbor, had been invited to share the Thanksgiving feast, dropped in, of course, ahead of time. She had the happy faculty of never being late-to a good dinner.

"I must say, Susan Jane," she remarked, "that your Aunt Polly was right when she said some folks have nothing to be thankful for to-day. Pardon me, but there's John, and the way he's gone

"Just a moment, please, Mrs. Darnell," interrupted Susan Jane. "Some one's stopped in the yard." She opened the door and sprang out

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE. Remarkable Coincidence Which Would Have Made a Bad Case for Innocent Man.

"Several years ago I took a late train from Boston to New York," and a man in business in Kansas City, according to the Star. "In the morning I was awakened earlier than usual by the porter, who said that a robbery had been committed on the sleeper during the night and that all the passengers would have to get up. Some one had taken six $100 bills from the clothing of a gentleman who occupied a berth in the middle of the car. Every section had been taken before he left Boston, and as the train had been almost constantly in motion it seemed certain Boston, and as the train had been almost constantly in motion it seemed certain that the person who had committed the theft was still on the car. The porter said no one had been aboard but the passengers and that none of them had left. It was proposed to search everybody. A man who had a berth directly opposite from the one who had been robbed objected. He told his name and said anyone might easily find that he was a man of good reputation. In the meantime some officers boarded the car and after a little sweating got the money from the some officers boarded the car and after a little sweating got the money from the colored porter, who was the guilty one. Then the passenger who had refused to be searched asked the officers to examine his pockets. This seemed strange, but he insisted. In an inside pocket they found six $100 bills. It was merely a coincidence that he should have the same amount of money as the other passenger had been seen that the same amount of money as the other passenger had been seen that the same amount of money as the other passenger had been seen that the same amount of money as the other passenger had been seen that the same amount of money as the other passenger had been seen that the same amount of money as the same amount of the same amount o money as the other passenger had lost, and in exactly the same denominations, but he knew that under the circumstances he could hardly establish his innocence. How was that for a case of circumstantial evidences.
