ESCANABA, MICHIGAN, SATURDAY, AUGUST 12 1905.

NUMBER 33

VISITORS HERE TODAY

Merchants and Manufacturer's Association of Milwaukee. Arrive This Morning

PROGRAM OF THE DAY

Entertainment of Guests has been Carefully Prepared for, and City Will Exert Itself in Doing Them Honor.

Everything is in readiness for the reception of the members of the Merchants and Manufacturer's Association of Milwaukee, and according to the program outlined by the committee of business men, this will be a very busy day from the arrival of the guests at 9:30 a. m. until their departure at about 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon.

The members of the special committee into whose hands, the plans for entertainment have been placed are: Mayor A. J. Valentine, Herman Salinsky, A. J. Young, John M. Hartnett, E. M. St. Jacques, W. R. Smith and J. W. Lawson.

A delegation of citizens and business and professional men will meet the special train which carries eighty or more distinguished visitors.

The program will be substantially as follows:
9:45 trolley ride to Wells, Chemical Plant, Escanaba river and South Park.
11:00 a. m. Carriage ride and visit with local merchants.
1:00 p. m. Special train to ore docks, crusher plant, and tie plant.

Escanaba with her rapidly growing population, and increasing industries and advantages, should be able to win the regard of every member of the association.

At the scheduled time this afternoon the members of the visiting association will leave for their homes in Milwaukee, Escanaba having been their last stop.

BLUE RIBBONS WON.

John Johnson's Team Shows Decided Superiority over Delta County Hardware Company Players.

The base ball game at the South Park Sunday, between the Blue Ribbons and the Delta Hardware Company's team, resulted in an easy victory for the former by a score of 15 to 5. M. Walsh occupied the box for the Blue Ribbons and was opposed by Peterson of the Deltas. Walsh's work was effective and his support good but had it not been for the poor support given Peterson, the score would have been much closer. As it was, Peterson pitched an excellent game, striking out 11 men, and showing good control of the ball at all times.

Throughout the game the repeated errors of the Delta's lost them all hope of being victor in the contest.

Following was the lineup of the two teams:

Blue Ribbons	Delta Hardware
Wells	c. f. White
N. Walsh	f. b. Moran
Nolden	s. b. Johnson
Flath	s. s. Bezor
Fish	r. f. Hirn
M. Walsh	p. Peterson
J. Walsh	c. Wheeler
Hodda	t. b. Sullivan
Matt	l. f. Flath

GOW GOOD SWIMMER.

Cow Longs for Home and Start to cross Water. Picked up by a Vessel.

Joseph Smith, of St. Ignace, the other day took a cow over to his fishing grounds on Marquette island, where his family is spending the summer. A day or two later, the bovine, not relishing the pasture on the island, decided to cut cross lots and come back to St. Ignace. When she was out about two miles from the island she was discovered by Captain L. Goudreau of the steamer Wau-Koo, who at once directed the boat toward her and coming up alongside the exhausted animal passed a rope over her horns and pulled her aboard. A tourist on board had a flask of liquor, which he poured down the animal's throat while others assisted in making the creature as comfortable as possible. The animal was landed at St. Ignace, and again taken over to the Snows on the next trip of the boat.

ANOTHER STRIKE.

Negroes Employed on Street Work Go on Sympathetic Strike Monday.

Colored laborers in the employ of the Barber Asphalt Pave Company, went out on a strike Monday afternoon, and their places were taken by white men. The strike resulted from the discharge of a negro laborer, who had disobeyed the foreman's orders, and the refusal of the company to reinstate him at the demands of the other negroes. Every negro but one, went out on the strike, but enough white men were secured to continue the work and no material delay was suffered. On Tuesday, more men were engaged and the work proceeded as before.

Supt. A. O. Watson declares that the Ludington street pavement will be completed by the contract time.

Popular Play.

A lively rivalry was instituted among several prominent managers in New York, the past season when "Dora Thorne" as a play was placed for the first time on the market. Amusement characters, always on the lookout for something new and novel to satisfy (it must be confessed) the somewhat satiated dramatic appetite of our vast American public, were eager to obtain possession of a theatrical venture that looked so promising.

Prominent in the managerial race were Messrs. Rowland and Clifford, and in this instance fortune again smiled on them, for not only did they secure the play but from the start of its dramatic career, "Dora Thorne" has been a substantial success. Manager Peterson has secured this attraction for the Opera House Saturday, August 13th.

WILL HELP SOME.

Chicago & Northwestern Establishes Industrial Department.

The Chicago & Northwestern railway recently established an industrial department, with George Bonnell as industrial agent. It is the purpose of the road to co-operate with commercial or business men's association on the line of the road and to provide manufacturers seeking locations with definite and reliable particulars regarding the advantages and opportunities of different localities on their line. Through the local agents the various cities will be kept informed of applications received so that if any such seem suited to the surroundings of the cities they may take advantage of the same.

PICNIC WAS ENJOYED.

Owing to Unavoidable Circumstances Methodists Hold a Double Picnic.

Two most enjoyable picnics were held by the Methodists on Tuesday instead of the one that had been arranged for Maywood was the scene of one gathering of the pleasure seekers, while Stonington afforded another crowd of picnickers, a place for fun and recreation.

Maywood was the place originally decided upon for the picnic but the arrival of the United States steam boat inspectors, interfered somewhat with the well-laid plans.

The Lotus made its first trip up the bay on schedule time, and many of those who have been counting on enjoying the picnic at Maywood were on hand at 7 o'clock, and were carried safely to their destination.

A large crowd was at Stephenson's dock to make the second trip but Uncle Sam's inspectors were in possession of the Lotus and no more trips could be made that day.

The picnickers were a chagrined lot of people until it was suggested that they all board the Maywood and go over to Stonington. It rained late in the afternoon but everyone took shelter under a wide pavilion where games of all sorts were indulged in.

MAYWOOD IS POPULAR.

Many People Are Camping at Resort Across the Bay.

Maywood is fast becoming a most popular summer resort and a considerable number of people have already sought rest and recreation there. The cottages built by the Escanaba & Gladstone Transportation company are now occupied most of the time.

The natural beauties of the place are many and these added to the many improvements made in the grounds this summer make it a most desirable place to spend a few days.

PETITION FOR STREET.

Property Owners on Langley Street Want Improvements.

A petition from twenty-eight property owners on Langley street has been presented to the council asking that the street be graded and graveled between Charlotte street and Stephenson avenue. The petition was referred to the street committee.

QUIET WEDDING.

Popular Young Couple Took Vows. Surprise to Many Friends.

A very pretty but quiet little wedding took place on Wednesday evening, when Miss Frances M. Swan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Swan, was united in marriage to Mr. John H. McCarthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George McCarthy. The ceremony took place at St. Patrick's church and was performed by Rev. Fr. Langan. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party visited the home of the bride where a delightful repast was enjoyed.

At nine o'clock the happy couple left for Milwaukee where they will enjoy the first days of their honeymoon. The announcement of this wedding came as something of a surprise to many, and the good wishes of the entire community accompanies them.

A Thoroughbred Tramp.

The attraction coming to the Peterson opera house Thursday August 17, is none other than Elmer Walters' familiar comedy drama A Thoroughbred Tramp. A character play depicting incidents in the west. Elmer Walters' plays wear well and his audience usually get a run for their money.

The manuscript of a Thoroughbred tramp has undergone an overhauling recently which practically makes a new play of the last two acts, the third act now showing the home of the feeble-minded at the Colorado asylum.

Teachers' examination has been held forth at the court house, during the past three days. There are about 35 applicants for certificates.

SAVED DROWNING GIRL.

Prompt Action by George Bartley, of Steamer Lotus, Results in Saving Girl's Life.

George Bartley of the Steamer Lotus, showed his courage and skill Tuesday afternoon, when he saved Carrie Villemur, a 15 year old girl, from drowning in the Maywood dock. The girl had in some manner stepped or fell into the water and Bartley dived in after her.

It required much effort and was attended with a great risk to himself, but Bartley was equal to the emergency and succeeded in getting hold of the drowning girl and brought her close to the dock, where many hands were outstretched to raise her to the boat. She was unconscious for several minutes, after being taken from the water, but recovered when restoratives had been applied.

TOLAN'S CHANGES GOOD.

Chief James Tolan Successfully Operated on at Chicago.

Everything looks now as though Chief James Tolan will completely recover from the disease that has seemed so malignant and that has almost caused him to lose hope in his struggle against it. He was operated on at the Chicago hospital Saturday and, although the operation was an extensive one, the chances for recovery seem to be entirely in his favor.

Mr. Tolan was examined prior to the operation by the celebrated surgeon, Dr. Nicholas Senn, who told Mr. Tolan that an operation could save him without doubt.

The case was a very interesting one from a surgical standpoint and many surgeons were present.

Everyone in Escanaba will be greatly pleased to learn that Chief Tolan's condition is so favorable.

SAD NEWS RECEIVED.

Death of Mrs. A. Barabe announced in Escanaba Wednesday Morning.

The news of the death of Mrs. A. Barabe, mother of Mrs. J. C. Maynard, at the home of Dr. A. Dufresne at Oconto was a distinct shock to friends of the deceased in Escanaba. The illness which resulted in Mrs. Barabe's death was contracted while traveling with Mr. and Mrs. Maynard and Dr. and Mrs. Dufresne, in Canada, about two weeks ago. Mrs. Barabe was well known in Escanaba, having been here many times visiting friends and relatives.

HAD HARD FALL.

Frank LaCrosse, aged 75 Years, Fell Twenty Feet Without Injury.

Frank LaCrosse, an employe of the I. Stephenson Co., and about 75 years of age, sustained a fall of 20 feet from a lumber pile, early this week without suffering any injuries of more than a trivial nature. LaCrosse had stepped on the projecting end of a board on the top of the pile, when it broke, and caused him to fall to the ground. That he was not seriously injured seems incredible, but such was the case.

No Loop Track.

There will be no loop track constructed around the block bounded by Tilden Ave., Wells Ave., and Smith court, by the Escanaba Electric Street Railway company, according to an announcement made Wednesday by Mayor Valentine.

The reason for this decision is because the property owners have been complaining to the city officials on account of the grade at which the tracks have been placed.

This grade is the same that will be used when the street is paved, and of course is much higher than the present grade of the street. The rails consequently would form a ridge, almost impossible to get over, and this is the reason the property owners object.

Shoals in Death's Door Passage.

The government lake survey steamer Search has located the following uncharted shoals in the vicinity of the Ports des Morts passage into Green bay from Lake Michigan:

A boulder shoal about 100 feet diameter on the 21-foot contour, with a minimum depth of 18.8 feet at the present stage, lies 1 1/2 miles N, 270 30 W, (NN W 1/2 W) of Pilot island lighthouse and 1/2 mile E of the south end of Plum island.

A boulder shoal of about the same extent as the above, with minimum depth of 19 feet at the present stage, lies 4 1/2 miles S, 110 50 W, (S by W) of Pilot island lighthouse and 1 1/2 miles S, 250 25 W, (WSW 1/2 W) of Outer shoal bell buoy.

New Policeman.

At the last meeting of the council Mayor Valentine appointed Knute Larson as policeman to take the place of Gus Bregman. The mayor's appointment was unanimously confirmed by the council.

DIED IN COLORADO.

Andrew Halgren, brother of P. N. Halgren of Escanaba, Succumbs to Disease.

Dispatches were received Wednesday morning by P. N. Halgren of this city, announcing the finding of his brother Andrew Halgren in a dying condition on the bank of Berkeley Lake in Colorado. The unfortunate man had evidently suffered a hemorrhage of the lungs which rendered him helpless, in an isolated spot, and was forced to lie on the ground, without food or water for three days, before being discovered by anyone. By that time his strength had left him and soon after the first news of the pitiable discovery had reached Escanaba, another telegram was received announcing his death.

The death of his brother came as a sad blow to P. N. Halgren, who had not been aware of his brother's critical condition.

The deceased had been in Escanaba, about two months ago, and left for the West in search of health.

ARRANGE FINE TRIP.

Plans Being Made to run Excursion From Escanaba to Manistique and Beaver Island.

According to plans now being made, there will be an excursion on the steamer Maywood from Escanaba to Manistique and Beaver Island on August 5th.

This excursion will probably be the most popular one of the year for the reason that the Beaver Islands, aside from their picturesque beauty, are of some historic interest. The opportunity to visit Manistique will also be a great inducement to many Escanaba people to take advantage of this excursion.

The officials of the Escanaba & Gladstone Transportation company have announced that the Maywood will leave Escanaba at noon on Saturday August 26th. Proceeding to Manistique and from there to Beaver Island.

The trip will be a beautiful one at this time of the year, as there are many lovely points along the route.

In returning, the Maywood will leave Beaver Island on Sunday afternoon and after touching Manistique will proceed homeward, arriving here about eleven p. m.

RECORD BROKEN AGAIN.

Steamer E. H. Gerry for Second Time Breaks all Records for Ore Carrying on Great Lakes.

The steamer E. H. Gerry, by carrying 13,967 net tons or 12,462 gross tons of ore, from Escanaba to South Chicago Tuesday morning, again broke the record for ore carrying on the Great Lakes. The previous record cargo was established on May 30th, when the Gerry carried 13,443 net tons or 12,003 gross tons.

The showing of the Gerry is a remarkable one and is a great credit to the lakes.

The record of 11,000 gross tons, established by the Augustus B. Wolvin, was thought to be a great achievement and it can be seen how fast this great industry is growing in size and proportions.

In view of what has already been accomplished by the Gerry, the public will not be greatly surprised if this boat will be able to again break her own record this year.

LAST MEETING SUNDAY.

Seventh Day Adventists to Depart From Escanaba.

The last meeting of the Seventh Day Adventists will be held tomorrow evening at their tent on First street, after which the entire camp equipment will be shipped to East Jordan where the annual conference of Adventists will be held. This week has been a busy one for those in charge of the meetings.

Met Death in Boat Hold.

Harry Erickson was killed by a fall into the hold of the schooner Moravia Friday morning of last week about 1 o'clock. It is supposed that Erickson was sleeping in the door of the donkey engine room, and that he was startled from his slumber by the call of the mate for the men to stand by their lines, falling through the open hatchway. No one saw the accident, but the thud of Erickson's body was heard, and he was at once given assistance. He died very shortly.

Ann Arbor Railroad Steamers.

The Ann Arbor Railroad Steamers are now operating on regular schedule across Lake Michigan leaving Menominee 11:30 p. m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday and Manistique at 9 p. m. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, arriving at Frankford the following morning connecting with Ann Arbor Railroad train for all points in Lower Peninsula.

Big Timber Deal.

The Wolverine Cedar & Lumber company of this city and Northland, has just closed one of the most important timber deals of the year.

The Wolverine company has purchased from the Chicago & Northwestern railroad all the timber land in Town 43, Range 26, amounting to over 5,000 acres. All this land is tributary to the company's Northland headquarters.

This 5,000 acre tract is conceded to be the finest cedar and pine left standing in Northern Michigan.

Christian Science.

Christian Science services are held every Sunday morning at 10:30, and Wednesday evening at 7:30 over Tiffany's music store.

Subject for Sunday: "Mind" All are cordially invited.

CAPACITY INCREASED.

Interior of High School Building Being Rearranged. Action made Necessary by Increased Number of Scholars.

The entire second floor of the Franklin school building will be occupied by the High School department this year, this arrangement being made possible by the extensive changes now in progress. Two new recitation rooms will be added on the second floor and the seating capacity will be increased by more than one hundred.

The problem of providing increased room for the ever multiplying number of students entering the Franklin school has been a difficult one and has caused much discussion. There will be more than three hundred students enter the High School this year.

Under the new arrangement the office of Supt. F. D. Davis will be located on the first floor, and the room formerly used as an office will be converted into a recitation room. Another room will be formed by using the space that has been occupied by the wide stairway, running from the east entrance to the second floor. This stairway is to be removed. A narrow stairway will be placed at the center of the building, connecting the second and third floors.

By the removal of some partitions on the second floor, more seating will be provided for the High School students.

According to the new plans, the former high school room will be used by the large first year class. The other students will occupy the four remaining rooms on the second floor.

ANOTHER TYPHOID VICTIM.

Tracy Chevrier, Well Known Escanaba Youth Succumbs to Ravage of Typhoid Fever.

Tracy Chevrier, who has been sick for three weeks with typhoid fever, died Thursday morning, at the Delta County hospital. His condition became very critical Wednesday morning and he was then taken from his home at 1106 Ruth street to the hospital, but the efforts of the physicians to save his life were in vain. Death was caused primarily by severe haemorrhages of the bowels.

Mr. Chevrier was 22 years of age and had lived in Escanaba all his life. He is survived by a wife and one child; also a sister and a brother.

BARS THE DIME NOVEL.

Northwestern Will Keep Yellow Literature Off Trains.

Paper backed novels, better known as "dime literature," are to be tabooed on Northwestern trains.

Orders soon will be issued prohibiting the sale of this class of reading matter, as has been done by the big roads in the east. The Pennsylvania adopted this course on all their trains, so the announcement will not come as a shock to the news agents who have been handling the novels for years past.

Officials who have abolished Sunday excursions and who run as few trains as possible on Sunday, believe that the wild-eyed detective stories breed crime and as many of these books deal with railway life, holdups, murders, wrecks and other schemes to rob trains, the companies feel justified in suppressing the sale of such literature from the "newsies," who are considered such a nuisance by some railroad companies that the boys have been altogether prohibited from the trains.

THE PORTLAND EXPOSITION.

Visit Colorado and California on the Way Out and Back.

Greatest variety of attractions to the Pacific Coast tourist. You can spend some time in the Rocky Mountains, visit Yellowstone Park, attend the Portland Exposition, sojourn in the Southern California, return over Southern route by way of El Paso through New Mexico. Or you can go via Minneapolis and St. Paul and Northern route in either direction. Send for Rock Island folder and details of summer excursion rates. THE NEWS OF A WEEK CONDENSED

SUMMARY OF MOST IMPORTANT EVENTS AT HOME AND ABROAD.

THE WAR IN THE FAR EAST

Progress of Peace Negotiations Between Russia and Japan—Foreign and Domestic Items of Interest Told in Brief.

RUSSO-JAPANESE WAR.

President Roosevelt introduced the Japanese and Russian peace envoys and proposed a toast to peace. The plenipotentiaries then departed for the Portsmouth conference.

It is said that M. Witte has the power to sign a treaty of peace within 24 hours if Japan's terms meet with his approval. Japan is expected to demand $750,000,000 indemnity.

Japan will grant freedom to all political prisoners at Sakhalin. The island is in Japan's hands, the garrison surrendering.

Japanese announce that the Russian forces on Sakhalin island were routed after a hard fight.

It is officially reported at Tokio that two Russian torpedo boat destroyers appeared off Chungking, on the northern coast of Korea, and attacked the Kelsho, a small merchant steamer. The destroyers fired 60 shots, seven of which hit the port side of the engine room and bridge, killing the captain and one boy, and wounding two of the crew.

Advance guards of the hostile forces south of the Tumen river are within rifle range and an early conflict is regarded in Tokio as inevitable.

Japanese in Korea begin a simultaneous advance against Musari and Plateabang passes, but the Russians report that both columns have been checked.

The Japanese have 430,000 infantry, with 1,600 cannon, facing Linevitch, according to estimates from the Russian lines. The weather is favorable to operations.

PLAGUE IN THE SOUTH.

President Roosevelt, acting on the request of Gov. Blanchard, of Louisiana and leading officials and citizens of New Orleans, has directed Surgeon General Wyman to take charge of the yellow fever situation. A Mississippi quarantined boat was captured by Louisiana naval militia and officers and men arrested.

Federal doctors have taken control of the fever situation at New Orleans. The city has pledged $250,000 for use of government in checking the fever. Thirty-one new cases and nine deaths reported in city and vicinity. The condition of Archbishop Chapelle, ill with the fever, is reported serious.

Owing to the strict quarantine against New Orleans enforced by Louisiana parishes, handling of mails is being stopped and the federal government is expected to take control of the yellow fever situation.

The southern portion of Illinois has been quarantined against the yellow fever districts in Louisiana and other states.

The fever record is: New cases, 28; total cases, 533; deaths, 8; total, 106; new sub-foci, 2; total sub-foci, 93.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Charles F. Pfister, Milwaukee's leading capitalist and politician, was indicted by a grand jury, charged with stealing $14,000 entrusted to him for use in obtaining a city garbage contract for the Wisconsin Rendering company.

Charles F. Pfister, of Milwaukee, has issued a defiance to his accusers. His action took the shape of a civil suit commenced against the Wisconsin Rendering company, Fred S. Gross, Joseph Schaaf, R. Schoyer, Charles Fredrich and Henry J. Killilea. These defendants were members of the rendering company, or guarantors of the company's notes, and Mr. Pfister demands the return of $6,542 said to be due him.

H. H. Loving, a former banker of Paducah, Ky., shot H. A. Rose, a prominent lumber man, and killed him. It is supposed that the shooting resulted from a quarrel over business affairs.

The Warren paper mills at Raubsville, Pa., were almost destroyed by fire. Loss $50,000, partially insured.

Seven state insurance commissioners met in Chicago and decided to visit New York and investigate the large life insurance companies.

The celebration of the semi-centennial of the opening of the Erie canal was begun with a naval parade, witnessed by Vice President Fairbanks.

One person was killed and six fatally injured in a collision between an express train and a street car in Cleveland, O.

State Senator Frank H. Farria, of Missouri, was acquitted by a jury of the charge of bribery in the legislature. Joseph Anderson and James Sellers, coal miners, were crushed to death in a mine at Cumberland, Wyo., and eight others were hurt.

The discovery of three human skeletons under an old log house on Crapse island, near Mokena, Ill., recalls a triple murder committed there before the civil war.

The interior department at Washington has adopted the policy of leasing Indian lands for agricultural instead of grazing purposes, with the hope of deriving a larger revenue for the owners.

A Cotton Belt passenger train struck a party of negro choppers near Hillsboro, Tex., killing Ray Edwards and his wife and injuring two others. The negroes were asleep on the track.

Paul Morton and his wife, with two friends, narrowly escaped injury in an automobile accident in New York.

A battle between rival gangs in Chinese theater in New York resulted in three fatalities being killed, two perhaps fatally wounded and many seriously hurt.

Reports from Washington show that while grain shipments at important interior points were lighter this year than last, the live stock business raises totals somewhat in excess of first half of 1904.

The governor of Wisconsin says the Chicago pool room ship will find no refuge there.

A disastrous fire swept through the business section of Winnemucca, Nev., burning 16 business houses and inflicting $90,000 damage.

B. B. Kieran, the Australian amateur champion, in a race at Southport, England, broke the world's quarter-mile swimming record, his time being five minutes 22 1-5 seconds.

The body of Dudley F. Chambers, treasurer and assistant general manager of the Southwestern Oil & Gas company, was found floating in a tank of oil near Chanute, Kan.

Capt. Evan P. Howell, long prominently identified with southern journalism, died at Atlanta, Ga., after an illness of three weeks.

Miss Elizabeth Burgess, of Maitoon, Ill., helress, leaped to death from the steamer Manitou in Lake Michigan.

Nine boats capsized by storm during a regatta at Pewaukee, Wis.

George P. O'Connell, a former Chicago policeman, fatally wounded his wife and when pursued by his former comrades sent a bullet into his brain.

Coe, the Boston athlete, made a new world's record in the shot put in the Portland games, which were won by the Chicago Athletic association team with 60 points.

E. H. Conger, ambassador to Mexico and former minister to China, will retire from the diplomatic service.

Rear Admiral Charles E. Clark, who made the battleship Oregon famous, and whose name is closely linked with the history of the destruction of Cervera's fleet at Santiago, will be placed on the retired list August 10, on which date he reaches the statutory age.

Congress, says Secretary Wilson, is responsible for the government refusing meat inspectors to small packers, thus aiding the beef trust.

Attorney General Moody has telegraphed several United States district attorneys in the northwest to investigate the facts as to the interruption of telegraph service on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads in view of the government's duty to keep unobstructed the avenues of interstate commerce.

Both sides claim the victory in the strike of telegraph operators against the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads.

Telegraphers on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads went on strike because of a difference over wages.

The ranks of the striking telegraphers on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific systems are said to be broken. Manager Horn declares the attempt to tie up traffic a failure.

More delays of passenger trains have resulted from the telegraphers' strike on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

Secretary Taft and party sailed on the Manchuria from Nagasaki, their last port in Japan, closing a tour marked by many demonstrations.

Secretary Taft and party received an elaborate welcome in Manila.

IS OPPOSED TO INDEMNITY

M. WITTE ALSO OPPOSES TO CESSION OF TERRITORY.

Russia Willing to Give Up Port Arthur—Peace Envoy Arrives at Portsmouth.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 3.—M. Witte, accompanied by M. Wlenken, financial agent of the Russian embassy in this country, arrived here at 11:15 o'clock Monday night from Boston. M. Witte was taken at once to the Hotel Wentworth in one of the state department's big red automobiles. He retired soon after he had arrived, saying he had spent a busy day sight-seeing in Boston, and desired to get a good rest before the beginning of the conference today.

It was learned here from men who have talked with M. Witte during the past few days that he is unalterably opposed to an indemnity.

In this he is supported by public sentiment in Russia. He comes here to make peace, if peace can be made, and his position can be described as an envoy who wants peace, who will welcome peace, but who is not willing to purchase peace at any price. Japan, the Russians understand, also wants peace. It is the opinion of those who have talked with M. Witte that he will earnestly strive for peace, and the pessimism toward the outcome, as displayed by both Japanese and Russians, is more fancied than real.

It can be stated authoritatively that the Russians will cede no territory. They consider this a colonial war and say the Japanese have given no territory and therefore must not seek for a cession. They are willing to give up Port Arthur and the control of Korea, and they will not haggle very long about minor matters. They are firm on the indemnity proposition.

So far as Sakhalin is concerned, the Russians are convinced that in the last analysis the Japanese only want the fishing rights.

London, Aug. 3.—The correspondent of the Mail at Tokio says: "I learn that the success of the peace negotiations is regarded in Japan as assured. The terms of the probable settlement are not known, but it is said that they include the payment by Russia of an indemnity and the cessation of territory."

SET FEVER'S LIMIT.

Government Doctors Hope to Stamp Out Yellow Scourge by Middle of September.

New Orleans, Aug. 3.—If success crowns the work of the Marine hospital bureau it is possible that the yellow fever will be completely under control by September 15 without requiring the expenditure of the maximum figure which is asked from the city to stamp out the disease.

With $70,000 immediately in hand, resulting from an assessment on the citizens of New Orleans, no difficulties stand in the way of the immediate inauguration of federal control of the fever situation. Dr. J. H. White estimated the total expenses for eradication at $1,500 to $2,000 a day, or from $100,000 to $240,000 for four months, which would carry the campaign into December, by which time frost may be expected. There is, therefore, available enough money to go forward with the federal plans at high pressure for a month or six weeks and long before that time it is assured by Mayor Behrman and Chairman Janvier, of the citizens' committee, that the total of $250,000 asked by the government will be on hand.

Official report of the situation to six p. m. Monday is as follows: New cases, 32; total to date, 565; deaths, 8; total to date, 113; new sub-foci, 4; total to date, 97.

PLEASURE CRAFT SINKS.

Excursion Boat Goes Down in River Near Indianapolis with 180 on Board.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 3.—The excursion steamboat Sunshine sank Monday afternoon at Broad Ripple park, ten miles from the city with 180 passengers on board, all of whom were men, except one, a woman, who was rescued by a launch.

Lorah H. Whitson, of Russellville, a passenger of the steamer, is missing. With two companions he was standing at the stern on the lower deck when the vessel collapsed. All were thrown into the water. His companions reached shore safely, but Whitson has not been found. Several persons were injured in the panic. The boat piles on the backwater of Broad Ripple dam on White river, and was carrying a picnic party consisting of employees of the Indianapolis stockyards.

Sound as a Dollar.

Monticello, Minn., Aug. 7th.—Mr. J. W. Moore of this place stands as a living proof of the fact that Bright's Disease, even in the last stages, may be perfectly and permanently cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Moore says: "In 1898, three reputable physicians after a careful examination told me that I would die with Bright's Disease inside of a year. My feet and ankles and legs were badly swollen; I could hardly stand on my feet and had given up all hopes of getting cured, when a traveling salesman told me that he himself had been cured of Bright's Disease two years before."

"He said he had taken to his bed and expected to die with it, but that he had been cured by a remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"I commenced taking them at once and I am thankful to say that they saved my life. After a short treatment I was completely restored to good health and I am now as sound as a dollar."

"The Simple Life"

Proper Food is Really the First Step in Right Living.

One of the evils of our complex modern way of living, is our unnatural and unhealthy foods.

To have really good health and a good stomach it is necessary to eat simple nourishing food. EGG-O-SEE is the ideal food, and reaches the proper requirements in this direction more nearly than any other cereal now on the market.

To make EGG-O-SEE the kernels of the choicest California white wheat are first cleansed by brushes, then thoroughly steam cooked, then flaked and crisped to a maple tint and delicately flavored with natural fruit juice and pure grain sugar.

In these delicious flakes, lies the mighty strength-giving power of the whole wheat grain that evenly nourishes every part of the body, and gives physical and mental energy that means splendid health and successful endeavor.

No one with regular bowels and healthy stomach can contract disease. A person with Constipation and Stomach Trouble is always the first to succumb to Sun Stroke, Heat Debility and Prostration. Cholera, Colic and Diarrhea are more fatal in Hot Weather because vitality is lower—they are the direct result of Constipation. It is a mistake to suddenly check diarrhea, the danger is Blood Poison. A physic is also dangerous as it weakens the patient and reduces vitality. Treat the cause with Mull's Grape Tonic. Constipation and its attending ills are caused by decaying or dying bowels and intestines—Mull's Grape Tonic revives and strengthens the Bowels so that they are enabled to act naturally and eject the poison from the system, everybody should take it during hot weather. It wards off disease, builds up the system and purifies the blood. Typhoid Fever and Appendicitis are unknown in families where Mull's Tramps to Be Given Meals. Kalamazoo.—When the will of Mrs. Almira Kramer, who died recently, aged 83, was read here in the presence of the heirs, the latter were astonished by a provision that appropriates $10,000 to be used in feeding tramps who come to Kalamazoo. Senator Burrows, who drew up the will, is named as trustee and will have direct charge of the money. All applications must be made by tramps at the police department, where the hobos will be presented with a ticket entitling him to a square meal at a restaurant. If the tramp wishes he may also have a hot bath. The heirs are satisfied with the arrangement, as the residue of the property amounts to about $105,000.

Peculiar State of Affairs. Marshall.—A peculiar state of affairs exists in the Curtis district, near this city. The director elected last year moved away, and another was appointed to fill the vacancy. When the time for the school meeting arrived only two persons attended, both being members of the board. As they did not care to elect themselves to office no meeting was held. A teacher has applied for the school, but as the directors' time expired with the school year, he declines to act, and the other officers are not sure of their position. The matter was referred to the superintendent of public instruction, who asked time to look up the law.

Big Damage Suit. Benton Harbor.—As an echo of the killing of Albert Griswold by John Cook in a saloon fight July 16, 1904, a $6,000 damage suit has been filed in the circuit court by the widow against the proprietors of the saloon. The declaration alleges that liquor was sold to Cook when he was intoxicated, causing him to lose his self-control and without provocation strike and kill Griswold. Cook was arrested for the murder of Griswold, but on trial was acquitted.

Prepare for Reunion. Three Rivers.—The G. A. R. post of this city is making preparations for the annual reunion of the Eleventh Michigan infantry, which will hold its annual reunion in this city from August 24 to 25. The local veterans of the civil war are making elaborate preparations for the event. The opera house has been secured for the meetings and on the last day an old-fashioned camp fire will be given by the regiment.

Girl Saves Pet Lamb. Standish.—One of the largest bears that ever wandered into this section of the state was killed by Laura, the 13-year-old daughter of John A. Orr. While alone at home she saw a large black bear about to make a supper of her pet lamb. Laura snatched down her father's Winchester, took a shot at the animal and rolled him over.

Saginaw.—The national convention of the workers among the adult blind will be held in Saginaw August 22 to 25.

Calumet.—Numerous cracks and holes caused by the recent earthquake have been found in this vicinity.

TELEPHONE TYRANNY

ADVANTAGES AND DISADVANTAGES OF MUCH-USED INSTRUMENT.

Minor Discomforts Saved by That Weird Contrivance on the Wall—Reducing a Gas Bill by Telephone—A Man's House No Longer His Castle If He Has a Telephone—It Disturbs One's Meals and Demands an Immediate Answer—Importunate Trustees Break Into a Home Evenings.

BY MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

Undoubtedly the telephone is a great convenience. Whoever has had it in his house would sacrifice many luxuries rather than go without it. Time and strength and letter-writing and telegrams, and all sorts of minor discomforts are saved us by this mysterious tube into which we speak; this odd receiver which brings us voices from afar. We want to talk with a friend, to ask after her sick husband, or about her absent son; we are confronted by an emergency and obliged to leave home suddenly, or unexpected guests arrive, and the dinner must be nicer, with an added course or two—in every case the telephone is our friend. Certainly we should hate to do without it, this link that through the power of applied science binds us closer to our comrades on the road. It is a great convenience, and to some of us an indispensable necessity.

Take for example the woman's club. How on earth could a club president, or secretary, or the chairman of an important committee, get on and manage her work and communicate with her fellow members if there were not the telephone? Everybody knows that a club, however small, finds opportunity for endless discussion and arrangement and rearrangement, at other times than when in session. The telephone makes this conversation possible and easy; it is a boon of loans to the club woman.

Once in a personal experience, once only, and the incident lives in memory as startling, the telephone was found successful in reducing the amount of an exorbitant gas bill! Householders know how difficult an enterprise this is, how seldom accomplished. On this occasion letters had proved abortive, and interviews had proved officials adamant, but the talk over the telephone, a party here at that, proved immediately reassuring. The percentage asked for was granted; the obnoxious bill was reduced to its rightful proportions.

If you want a doctor in the dead of night, it is not now needful for the man of the house to dress and go hastily out in the cold and darkness; the telephone will ring a signal at the doctor's head, and he will rise from his bed, tell you what to do, or come himself in half the time it used to take to get him to the patient. When there is sudden illness in the home, you cry blessings on the telephone, and they are heartfelt.

And yet, it has its drawbacks. There is a tyranny of the telephone that has done something to make life less simple than it used to be. There are moods in which one wishes she had never seen, never heard, never touched or handled the little affair which has done more than any other single agent to rob life of privacy and independence.

We have often heard that a man's house is his castle. It is, and it isn't. It depends on whether he has a telephone. You may bolt, you may bar, you may lock at your will. But the telephone demon will pounce on you still. No shutters exclude him, no key keeps him back. At the sound of the bell, he is here on your track.

To cut off the service is the only way to exorcise the invisible imp who disturbs you at your meals, breaks in on your prayers, and demands an instant answer to his summons with a peremptory haste, not unlike the old challenge of the footpad on Hounslow Heath: "Your money or your life?" For instance:

You have decided to spend a day in quiet retirement, withdrawn from the world and its cares. You have planned to admit nobody; you wish to rest to relax, to let life's flood-tide refresh you, since too much work, too much talk, too much distraction of business has brought your powers to the ebb. In vain is your planning and precaution. The telephone rings and you take down your receiver.

Aunt Frances, Uncle Jonathan and the children are on their way to spend the day with you. They have just decided that they can come to-day, and will be with you about noon. Now you love your kinsfolk, and John's, too. You like Aunt Frances better than any other of John's aunts, and Uncle Jonathan is an "old dear." The children are objectionable when they have a headache and are tired; they are stirring children, always on the rampage; always meddling; not well-trained, or well-bred, and you would willingly omit them from the program, but Aunt Frances is a devoted mother, who never leaves her brood at home.

To put them off for a day would give offense, be misunderstood, and hurt John, who is most loyal to his own people, and always delighted to have them under his roof. Therefore you fly around, dust chairs and tables, get out the best china, make a salad order ice cream, and slip into a fresh and dainty frock. No time to relax till Jonathan and Frances shall depart. But for the telephone they would have notified you via Uncle Sam's mail, and you would have had your rest day as you meant to have it without hindrance or interruption.

Here is John's side of it. I address John. John is a good citizen, I hope. Perhaps you belong to the public in some detail of your life. Most of us do. Very few of us escape wholly from some obligation to the community in which we live, and we are constantly reminded that the wishes of the individual must be subordinate to the good of society. After a full and trying business day, a day of strife and care, you eat your supper, put on dressing gown and slippers and unfold your newspaper. The lamp sheds a soft glow over the room. Your wife sits opposite you, in her hands a bit of dainty needlework. In the parlor across the hall your pretty daughters are entertaining a lad or two of the neighborhood. You can see them by lifting your eyes; you hear the soft murmur of their voices. Such an evening at home takes a man to Arcady. Your heart is beating time to the old fill:

"Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam, Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home. A charm from the skies seems to hallow us there That seek through the world is not met with elsewhere."

Hackneyed as the lines have become, familiar to the commonplace, they are very beautiful. They bubble up like spring water through green moss, and keep sweet and fresh the sentiment of love for the home, that is so deeply rooted in every true heart. Into this sphere of peace there penetrates a clamorous appeal, not very loud, but very positive. You go to the telephone. "Hello!" "Hello! Is this you, Mr. Morrison?" "Yes, Mr. Shackelford."

PRESENT FOR A MAN.

A Case for Pipes May Be Made by Deft Fingers at Small Outlay of Time and Trouble.

Ladies who like to make presents for their gentlemen friends will find such a pipe-case as we illustrate very acceptable. It can be fashioned from the top of a pair of long kid or suede gloves, or a piece of new kid may be used. There are two pieces, one being cut longer than the other at the top of the lower part, so that it may be buttoned over. The kid should be lined with satin, the edges of which should be turned in and slip-stitched a trifle below the edges of kid; then the two pieces are placed together and machine-stitched close to the edge all round. A small buttonhole is worked in the flap, which is fastened to a button on front part.

BITS OF FASHION.

Black, dark blue and brown gowns require light gloves, ruffles, a light vest or yoke and undersleeves, but the new millinery may correspond with the gown, relieved with the lighter tone. If a touch of color is needed, add a cluster of carnations in the dress and flowers of corresponding color to the millinery, but no colored trimmings on a dark gown of solid coloring.

And hats—there never were so many radical changes. It's as if the whole world millinery were in a state of upheaval. Big hats appear here and there—half-shame-faced before the tiny, tip-titled things we've been accustomed to and liked for their saucy little style.

A new brown is around town—brilliant in comparison with the rather lifeless color we usually mean by brown. It is especially pretty in the horsehair hats, as the ruddy tint in it takes the light best in horsehair.

The revival of an old fashion is the sailor hat with wide crown and narrow brim. The favorite way of trimming them is to drape on a veil of mousseline de sole in one of the new, rich shades.

Tiny three-cornered hats for weetsots are trimmed with three prim ruffles of baby ribbon—one on each place where the brim turns up.

Light weight wash-bonnets have polka dots of color or white embroidered at regular intervals over the cloth.

Lots and lots of pale blue hats—the shade that goes with everything—are worn.

We want to talk with a friend, to ask after her sick husband, or about her absent son; we are confronted by an emergency and obliged to leave home suddenly, or unexpected guests arrive, and the dinner must be nicer, with an added course or two—in every case the telephone is our friend. Certainly we should hate to do without it, this link that through the power of applied science binds us closer to our comrades on the road. It is a great convenience, and to some of us an indispensable necessity.

Take for example the woman's club. How on earth could a club president, or secretary, or the chairman of an important committee, get on and manage her work and communicate with her fellow members if there were not the telephone? Everybody knows that a club, however small, finds opportunity for endless discussion and arrangement and rearrangement, at other times than when in session. The telephone makes this conversation possible and easy; it is a boon of loans to the club woman.

Once in a personal experience, once only, and the incident lives in memory as startling, the telephone was found successful in reducing the amount of an exorbitant gas bill! Householders know how difficult an enterprise this is, how seldom accomplished. On this occasion letters had proved abortive, and interviews had proved officials adamant, but the talk over the telephone, a party here at that, proved immediately reassuring. The percentage asked for was granted; the obnoxious bill was reduced to its rightful proportions.

If you want a doctor in the dead of night, it is not now needful for the man of the house to dress and go hastily out in the cold and darkness; the telephone will ring a signal at the doctor's head, and he will rise from his bed, tell you what to do, or come himself in half the time it used to take to get him to the patient. When there is sudden illness in the home, you cry blessings on the telephone, and they are heartfelt.

And yet, it has its drawbacks. There is a tyranny of the telephone that has done something to make life less simple than it used to be. There are moods in which one wishes she had never seen, never heard, never touched or handled the little affair which has done more than any other single agent to rob life of privacy and independence.

We have often heard that a man's house is his castle. It is, and it isn't. It depends on whether he has a telephone. You may bolt, you may bar, you may lock at your will. But the telephone demon will pounce on you still. No shutters exclude him, no key keeps him back. At the sound of the bell, he is here on your track.

To cut off the service is the only way to exorcise the invisible imp who disturbs you at your meals, breaks in on your prayers, and demands an instant answer to his summons with a peremptory haste, not unlike the old challenge of the footpad on Hounslow Heath: "Your money or your life?" For instance:

You have decided to spend a day in quiet retirement, withdrawn from the world and its cares. You have planned to admit nobody; you wish to rest to relax, to let life's flood-tide refresh you, since too much work, too much talk, too much distraction of business has brought your powers to the ebb. In vain is your planning and precaution. The telephone rings and you take down your receiver.

Aunt Frances, Uncle Jonathan and the children are on their way to spend the day with you. They have just decided that they can come to-day, and will be with you about noon. Now you love your kinsfolk, and John's, too. You like Aunt Frances better than any other of John's aunts, and Uncle Jonathan is an "old dear." The children are objectionable when they have a headache and are tired; they are stirring children, always on the rampage; always meddling; not well-trained, or well-bred, and you would willingly omit them from the program, but Aunt Frances is a devoted mother, who never leaves her brood at home.

To put them off for a day would give offense, be misunderstood, and hurt John, who is most loyal to his own people, and always delighted to have them under his roof. Therefore you fly around, dust chairs and tables, get out the best china, make a salad order ice cream, and slip into a fresh and dainty frock. No time to relax till Jonathan and Frances shall depart. But for the telephone they would have notified you via Uncle Sam's mail, and you would have had your rest day as you meant to have it without hindrance or interruption.

Here is John's side of it. I address John. John is a good citizen, I hope. Perhaps you belong to the public in some detail of your life. Most of us do. Very few of us escape wholly from some obligation to the community in which we live, and we are constantly reminded that the wishes of the individual must be subordinate to the good of society. After a full and trying business day, a day of strife and care, you eat your supper, put on dressing gown and slippers and unfold your newspaper. The lamp sheds a soft glow over the room. Your wife sits opposite you, in her hands a bit of dainty needlework. In the parlor across the hall your pretty daughters are entertaining a lad or two of the neighborhood. You can see them by lifting your eyes; you hear the soft murmur of their voices. Such an evening at home takes a man to Arcady. Your heart is beating time to the old fill:

"Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam, Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home. A charm from the skies seems to hallow us there That seek through the world is not met with elsewhere."

Hackneyed as the lines have become, familiar to the commonplace, they are very beautiful. They bubble up like spring water through green moss, and keep sweet and fresh the sentiment of love for the home, that is so deeply rooted in every true heart. Into this sphere of peace there penetrates a clamorous appeal, not very loud, but very positive. You go to the telephone. "Hello!" "Hello! Is this you, Mr. Morrison?" "Yes, Mr. Shackelford."

Mr. Shackelford proceeds: "There is to be a meeting of the trustees of the church, a called meeting, at my house in 15 minutes. It is most important. We depend on you. You know about — and — and it won't do for you to be absent. In 15 minutes, please. Good-by."

(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Azalea Nugent wuz a dreamy absent-minded helpless sort of a girl, always with not much gumption about her. I thought sometimes that it wuz her name that struck in; you know what flutterin' delicate lookin' posies azaleas be, nothin' what you can call solid and reliable about 'em.

But she wuz thought well on when a girl and when she married, her husband, John Powers, jest worshiped her. You know it is these helpless actin', babyish, onfanculized sort of wimmin that a man has to take care on that git ten times more love and pettin' than wives do that stram right round into the work and go ahead and take first rate care of their house and husbands, specially if the dependent leanin' sort are good lookin', and they generally be. Azalea wuz real pretty, sort o' confidin' and sweet lookin'.

Well, she'd been married five years and they wuz gittin' along well. They lived in a pretty house; they had half of a house that belonged to a widder. It wuz convenient and pleasant and handy to John's work and he wuz attached to the place. By their havin' half the house they didn't have to climb the stairs much. They had a good large settin' room below, a cozy dining room, a big airy bedroom and a neat little kitchen with every convenience, and two bedrooms and a sewin' room above with plenty of closets above and below.

Well, they had lived there in peace and happiness, for the wide gaps that yawned in Azalea's housekeeping at first, wuz filled up with John's love and patience and she wuz beginnin' to be a good cook and housekeeper; the days havin' passed by when she put dry beans and a piece of salt pork in the oven and wondered helplessly why they wuzn't juicy and tender; and mixed her bread up and baked it without raisin' and then wept because it didn't taste like ma's bread.

She wuz a good cook and John, who, like any hard workin' man, loved his vittles, wuz quite happy about it. She wuz a very good housekeeper, too, her pride and interest havin' been roused up afresh by her great-aunt havin' bequeathed to her some handsome old-fashioned solid mahogany furniture that had been her great-great-grandmother's; also from the same source getting some vases, homely but valuable, too good to use, but worth everything to her to look at and talk over with other wimmen who naterally envied her articles her ancestors used 200 years ago. It put a stamp of solid respectability upon her like a coat of arms. This furniture and the vases wuz like the apples of her eyes, no profane hand did she ever allow to touch 'em, only in the way of reverent admiration.

She wuz also learnin' (slow) to be economical and John had begun to lay up money. He had got quite a few hundred in the savin' bank and they wuz both lookin' forward to their gale, which-wuz to own a little farm and cozy home in the country. They had two pretty little children, twins, named by Azalea, Eglantina, Azalea and Aubrey De Vere John, and they didn't want 'em to grow up in city streets, but wanted 'em to enjoy the blessin' of pure air and sunshine and the green fields of the country.

Well, things wuz in this condition when one spring about the first of April Azalea got it into her head (it movin' fever rages and is epidemic in April and May. But 'tennyrate she took it and had it bad.)

What Azalea needed now wuz the antitoxine of Common Sense and Prudence to wrastle in her veins with that movin' microbe and throw it. But Azalea couldn't seem to git holt of that remedy and she begun to torment poor John and made his home a wallin' place, so to speak. She told him the house wuzn't convenient. And when he wanted to know what ailed it she said she didn't like the paper in the front hall, it wuz depraetin' in color and too big figured, and the kitchen sink wuzn't where it wuz handy, and the nub wuz off the upstairs closet door and the shelves too high.

John told her these things could be remedied and should be. And then she said the neighborhood wuzn't what she wanted to bring up the children in. The corner grocery man wuz the postman had a wart on his nose that wuz repulsive to her. And the minister, though a good man, wuz dull, and couldn't hold the audience, specially the children.

John said segin' the children wuz in the cradle yet, as you might say, it wuzn't necessary to have 'em held by the minister, only in his lap, when he visited 'em. And then she complained of the air; she mistrusted it wuzn't good, and she'd hearn that right where their house stood used to be a swale. But John said segin' the swale wuz filled in 200 years ago and wuz good dry land now, he didn't see what difference it made.

And finally she come out and owned that accompanied by Miss Hanson she'd hunted round sarahuptishusly and found a place that in her feverish state seemed all that could be desired. She thought the house more convenient, the neighborhood better, Miss Hanson wuz goin' to live only a few doors away. At which information John groaned, for Miss Hanson and her house might as well been put on casters since she never stayed long enough in one place to pay for settin' down.

And then sez Azalea the rent is 50 cents a week cheaper, "and jest think, John," sez she, "50 cents jest clear gain, two dollars a month, that will buy our bread, and you know, John, that bread is called the staff of life. And if we can save twenty-four dollars a year on a few more items in household expenses as well as rent three dollars it will be for us. Why what more would make," and she begun to sing:

"Four times four is sixteen and one to carry, Four times two is eight and one is nine—" tains (also heirlooms), and bein' impartial had left generous samples of their life blood on the delicate carpet and silken cushions. Azalea always put that day apart in her mental calendar as the Jews bewail the Fall of Jerusalem.

AZALEA WUZ SITTING ON A PILE OF CARPET, WEEPIN'.

When John, poor man, reached home that night Azalea wuz sitting on a pile of carpet weeping into her broken china, too dazed and exhausted to do more. The twins, swathed in linen bandages, wuz playin' with the brass shovel and poker, the copper boiler and a silver water pitcher. The stout woman wuz sleeping peacefully on the kitchen floor with her head in the coal scuttle, the empty bottle appearing as silent witness against her.

Azalea rushed to him and threw her arms round him, "Oh why did you let me move, John? Why didn't you command me to stay in my peaceful blessed home? Oh, you wuz right, John, and I wuz a guilty wretch to insist on coming to this dreadful place. But I have suffered, John, for that and all my other sins this day. My vases and my furniture!" But at these dreadful memories tears choked her utterance.

John, good man, did as he always had, wiped her tears away, comforted her, called a policeman, who took charge of the convivial woman, set up the kitchen stove and with Azalea's help got supper, which they eat off a carved mahogany headboard laid on top of a barrel of dishes, covered with a towel. They set up a bed in the upstairs bedroom, the steep stairs of which Azalea now had to climb day after day, for there wuz no bedroom below, and they passed their first night in their new home. The next day John hired a trusty woman to help settle the house, but the carpets did not fit the floors, the furniture wuz too large for the smaller rooms, water stood in the cellar, and the grate in the sitting room smoked.

The moving fever having been shocked from her system by her terrible experience Azalea thought the neighborhood wuz not so good as she'd left, the minister of the church she'd left, the minister of the church she'd left, the minister of the church she'd left, the minister of the church she'd left, the minister of the church she'd left.

John saw the movin' fever had left her fairly childlike. They stayed there one year, and John's expenses durin' that time with car fare, moving, repairing broken furniture, etc., wuz $200 more than in the old home. At the end of the year, at Azalea's weepin' request, John hired the old house agin and they moved back, this time John gittin' leave of absence and conductin' the moving himself with no more than the inevitable loss that always attends it at the best, which has been stated by one that pretends to know, is as bad as a fire, and Azalea with a thankful heart and contented mind settled herself and what wuz left of her household gods.

John had a 'rals in his salary that year that a little more than paid for the loss and wreckage and Azalea tried to undo her mistakes of the past, so far as she could, by trying to be all that John wished her to be. The amount in the savin' bank is growing fast and steadily. They are already searching the columns of the papers describing small country places.

Nomination of Senator.

Wm. Alden Smith believes the people ought to have a voice in the election of a successor to Senator Russell A. Alger. His sentiments will meet with popular approval. Until the federal constitution is amended senators will be elected by the legislature. But the tendency is becoming stronger and more pronounced that this important function should not be left solely to the legislature and to those influences which find it to their interest to control legislative action. In Illinois and Wisconsin this growing tendency finds expression in a primary election law requiring senatorial candidates to submit their pretensions to the popular vote. In several other states various methods have been adopted whereby the people are given opportunity to make known their preferences. In Michigan the senatorial question has not yet been dealt with by law, but in the two last senatorial elections precedents were established which are so well approved by public opinion that they will, or at least ought to be followed in the future. Senator Alger was nominated by the state convention held in this city three years ago. Senator Burrows was similarly nominated last summer. Their nomination by the convention was equivalent to pledges to the people of their election and they took the senatorial question out of the campaigns for the nomination of members of the legislature. The plan worked to everybody's satisfaction and to the advantage of the state in both instances, and all the arguments are of the continuation of this plan until some better plan is devised. The people are entitled to a voice in the senatorial election and the determined stand of William Alden Smith for convention action will insure making the senatorship an issue in the election of delegates to the state convention. The delegates will be elected by primary elections and while the senator may not be nominated by direct vote, this fact will make the nomination but one removed from a direct vote.—Grand Rapids Herald.

"The Honorable Peter White" is the title of a book written by Ralph D. Williams, editor of the Marine Review, and published by the Penton Publishing company of Cleveland, says a dispatch. "The book is really a history of the Lake Superior iron country, written in the form of a biographical sketch.

Early Peace Improbable.

Although the Japanese and Russian plenipotentiaries have met and are about to begin their epoch-marking work, it cannot be said that the end of the war in eastern Asia seems near. On the contrary; the indications are that much blood and treasure must be added to the waste of the long conflict before fighting will cease. At close range, as when oceans and continents separated them, the Japanese envoys, close-mouthed as they are, convey an impression that the demands of their country will be such as Russia will not accept. The most authoritative statements of the Russian position indicate that the situation in eastern Asia will have to become much worse before the czar will yield all that Japan seems likely to insist upon. Hence it is improbable that an armistice will be signed at an early date. The Japanese have too keen a realizing sense of the advantages which they may gain by scoring further military successes. The Russian government is well aware that a battle which did not end in a decided Russian defeat would help the Russian side materially in the peace negotiations. Both countries are presumably ready to try the issue of one more general engagement. Both seem to expect another great battle. Climatic conditions have placed an embargo on extensive military operations in Manchuria, but the heavy summer rains will soon cease.

Then war news may soon rank at least equal with peace negotiations in public interest. Meanwhile the Japanese are feeling their way carefully toward the complete investment of Vladivostok. They are about to drive the last Russian forces out of Korea. They have landed north of Vladivostok and are apparently soon to begin a campaign up the Amur. That great river is so wide and deep that the Japanese can employ a flotilla of small boats to good advantage. They will have water transportation to facilitate the advance of the land forces.

Every mile of Russian territory occupied and strongly held will count for Japan in the conference at Portsmouth. The more imminent the fall of Vladivostok the harder it will be for the Russian plenipotentiaries to deny Japanese demands. Another great victory in Manchuria would go far toward creating a situation in Russia which would force the czar to grant almost any terms to save his country from revolution and retain his crown. All of these facts argue for further fighting and prolonged delay before a treaty of peace can be agreed upon. The war has lasted a year and a half. It may not end for several months, possibly not before the close of the year.

County Correspondence

NAHMA.

Nahma items have been delayed for two weeks. Mrs. F. W. Good, Messrs. Charles and Earl Good and Miss Mildred were guests at the Soo last week at the Sem-Centennial. Mrs. W. E. Barlow was also at the Soo at the celebration. Mr. and Mrs. W. McClincy and children were at the Soo. Mr. P. C. Cameron spent Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and a part of Friday at the Soo. If any one wishes a good time stay close to Mr. Cameron for he is the boy. He also made a flying trip to Gladstone last evening. He arrived home O. K. Miss Esther Lucia has accepted a position with the Bay de Noquet Co. We all welcome Miss Esther with open arms and shall try to keep her here forever. The dyptheria cases are all around again. Should say the afflicted ones.

Mr. Hewes of Joannes Bros., Green Bay, is a Nahmite today, Wednesday. Mr. Geo. Urwan had the misfortune of injuring his back slightly Tuesday but is much improved today. Thanks to Dr. W. J. Laird. Mr. O. Lyons of Chicago, with Read Murdock & Co., is a Nahma visitor.

The woods are full of berry-pickers these days. Ask Mr. H. O. Whitney what happened to his auto one day last week. Which is preferable riding or walking? A very pleasant dancing party was given in the Nahma opera house last week Aug. 9. All report a delightful time.

Mr. F. W. Good is building an addition on his house, which will greatly improve its appearance. A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Brophy and children, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Cameron, Miss Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Davis and children, Mrs. F. W. Good, Miss Mildred, Earl Good, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Barlow, son Farnsworth, went to Moss Lake for a few days' outing, and to gather blueberries. All had a fine time.

BARK RIVER

J. B. Frechette arrived at Mackinac Island with the "Celeste" Sunday morning after making the run from Escanaba in fifteen hours. A record which proves the speed of the new launch. Mr. Frechette expects to visit the Soo and other points near Mackinac Island and then cross Lake Michigan to points on Green Bay.

After a period of five years as pastor of the Catholic churches at Bark River and Schaffer, Father Corcoran leaves this week to take charge of the Catholic parish at Manistique. The announcement that Father Corcoran will leave this parish will be heard with regret by the members of his congregation and in fact by the entire community. It has been decided to divide the present parish and hereafter there will be two priests in charge of the work, one at Schaffer and the other at Bark River. Rev. Father Stahl of Manistique will be stationed at Bark River.

Father Corcoran's work during his pastorate here has been excellent and the members of his congregation have always felt themselves fortunate in having so capable a man. The Bark River church was in debt when he came and is now in a prosperous condition. A large number of improvements in the church property have been made and the church is now in excellent shape. The trustees as a token of their regard made Father Corcoran a present of $25.

G. A. Goodrich called on the merchants Monday. The box of money at J. B. Frechette's store goes to Mr. O. F. Raman who held the right key to the lock. The box will be opened on August 15 and Mr. Raman will know then how much the box contains.

Sam Machivich made a trip to Marinette and Menominee this week. The Bark River Juniors will play at Ford River mill tomorrow.

Ole Bromstrom has the addition to his confectionery store nearly completed.

A number of Bark River people have gone to Oregon on a short trip for the purpose of finding suitable land for homestead entry. The members of the party who went from Bark River are: E. J. Bergman, John Gasman, Henry Gasman, Louis Douglas, Edith Gasman and Ed. Erickson.

Ralph Fillion of Escanaba is visiting at the home of Dr. W. B. Royce.

T. A. Roberts spent Sunday at Schaffer. Kaufman's pick up team of Escanaba met defeat at the hands of Schaffer last Sunday by a score of 12 to 7.

RAPID RIVER

Mrs. L. D. White left Sunday for a visit at Lower Michigan.

The Royal Neighbors gave a card party Tuesday evening. Raspberries and cream were served by the ladies.

Clara and Effie Holmes left Wednesday morning for Manistique to visit for a few days.

Father Deschamp spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Escanaba.

Mrs. Micheau of Masonville, is quite sick.

The Madden mill closed Wednesday having finished the cut. Even the broom sticks were sawed this time so it looks like a close down for good. Fred Dahlberg of Marinette gave an illustrated lecture in the Congregational church Wednesday night.

The Congregational church was re-shingled this week.

Among those who attended the celebration at the Soo last week were Mrs. A. B. Conners, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ackles Miss Emma Ackley, Eva Johnson, Ceelia Hruska, Fred Ackley and Oscar Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby daughter, born Monday.

Alex Peterson, a former resident of this township is here visiting friends.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Schultz on Thursday of last week, a son.

Jas. McPherson has nearly completed the building of a new barn.

C. E. Hamilton is building an addition to his residence.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Archie Knisey on Wednesday of last week, a daughter.

Wm. Dutcher is building an addition to his residence.

Glen Cole and Berle Cleveland returned Sunday from a fishing trip up the Whitefish. They report that the stream is about fished out.

The school board has decided to build a school house at Peno.

Mr. and Mrs. Darling, Mrs. Hamilton, Sarah Buchman and Master Harry Buchman enjoyed a few days at Camp "Hoo-Hoo" this week. They report a good time and lots of visitors. Mr. Hamilton, Maud Rabideau and Gertie Buchman visited the camp on Sunday.

Sheriff Richard Perow was at Masonville Sunday investigating the Dimock murder.

Upon close investigation the new man at Wm. Boedecker's tailor shop proves to be Mr. Boedecker himself, minus his moustache.

A. P. Hopkins is building a new home at Masonville.

It is reported that the firm of Ackley and Anguilm will be dissolved and that Mr. Anguilm will continue the business.

GLADSTONE

Chas. Waltz left last night for Detroit where he expects to visit a week. Clarence Carey and Walter McEwen of Escanaba, were Gladstone visitors Sunday.

A false alarm was turned in by some miscreant, bringing out the fire department in a hurry, one evening this week. The name of the guilty person is said to be known to the police, and an arrest is expected to follow soon.

Work at the docks is still very active. Among the boats here yesterday were the steamers "Christie" and "F. B. Squire."

A great many Gladstone people are taking refuge from the heat, by visiting Maywood. This is the popular time for camping out.

Sick Headache

When your head aches, there is a storm in the nervous system, centering in the brain. This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting. This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc. Allay this stormy, irritated, aching condition by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They stop the pain by soothing, strengthening and relieving the tension upon the nerves—not by paralyzing them, as do most headache remedies. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do not contain opium, morphine, chloral, cocaine or similar drugs. "Sick headache is hereditary in my family. My father suffered a great deal, and for many years I have had spells that were so severe that I was unable to attend to my business affairs for a day or so at a time. During a very severe attack of headache, I took Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they relieved me almost immediately. Since then I take them when I feel the spell coming on and it stops it at once."

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. W. L. Howard of Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits may be realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown."—A recent bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College in part says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is continually diminishing and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future. The market for our cultivated root will exist as long as the Chinamen exist."—Counsel General W. A. Rublee of Hong Kong says in the U. S. Consular reports: sale of the Ginseng root grown in America is very large here and the demand is so great that much more could be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indispensable to the 400,000,000 Chinese as is their rice." Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat, and cotton. The present market price varies from $5.00 to $8.00 per pound according to quality, while the cost of production does not exceed $1.50. There is room in an ordinary garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant is hardy and thrives in all parts of the United States and Canada, except in the arid regions. We are successful growers and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. You can get a good start in the business for a comfortable income. We have several thousand choice roots for sale for fall delivery. The planting season begins in August and continues till the ground is frozen.

North Carolina Heroine Saves Passenger Train

A Pretty Mountain Maid Prevents a Bad Accident on the Southern Railway.

USES HER RED PETTICOAT FOR FLAG

The Passengers Wanted to Adopt Her, But She Would Not Leave Father and Sisters—The Railroad Company to Give Her an Education.

Asheville, N. C.—A tale that reads like a romance woven by an ingenious teller of stories is that of pretty Nannie Gibson, the South Carolina mountain maid, whose presence of mind saved a fast passenger train from plunging to destruction down a mountain precipice; whose loyalty to home and kindred caused her to decline offers from rich people to adopt her, and give her a life of ease, and choose instead the days of toil and care in the little mountain home of her father and sisters because she was needed there. And now comes the unexpected sequel to the story of her devotion—an education, the dearest hope of her young life. This has been guaranteed tail fell upon the main track of the Southern railroad.

Goes to the Rescue.

It was a situation to appal anyone but the little heroine with good cool blood in her veins. She recovered her wits instantly and became master of the situation. Seizing a red tablecloth, she told her sister Patty, a little tot nine years old, to run for her life down the track and flag trains coming from below.

Then turning household affairs over to little Julia, a six-year-old mountain kid, she ran like a deer up the track, where she knew a train would soon be coming down the mountain. She had no red tablecloth, but she switched off her red petticoat as the roar of the ner by the Southern railway. Corporations must not be entirely soulless.

This is how it all came about, and why Nannie Gibson is going to attend the Asheville normal collegiate institute and secure the education she has dreamed of and wished for, and yet felt would never be hers.

This is the story: Nannie Gibson, the heroine, 14 years old, lived in a rough mountain hut with her father in care of her younger brothers and sisters. It is a wild, stupendous region, with the Black mountain range rising high on every side. A river rushing like a torrent through the gorge below spreads away in soft silver loveliness as it reaches a plateau in the wilderness.

Nannie's mother had died but a few weeks before, and, being the eldest, she became the "Little Woman" of the household. She was at work about the house cooking and caring for the children when suddenly the mountain trembled, and with the roar and crash of a cyclone an immense slab of the mountain was heard approaching and waved it frantically as the big locomotive came thundering down the mountain.

The engine driver "reversed" and the grinding machine came along in a cloud of steam and with fire streaming from every wheel. The heavy train finally came to a stop not ten feet from the big rocks of the mountain avalanche. It was in that part of the canyon where the road runs through a notch in the mountain, 1,000 feet above the valley.

Wanted to Adopt Her.

When the passengers swarmed out of the train, and men, women and children looked into the dizzy abyss they realized what they had escaped. In an instant they brushed the trainmen away from the girl and hugged and kissed her as if she were the only heroine on earth. "Bob" Weaver, the engine driver, had already picked her up in his arms, calling her an angel whom Heaven had sent to save the train and its passengers. A dozen men, with tears in their eyes, came forward and wanted to adopt little Nannie on the spot, while others, swearing or crying, were taking up a collection. Enough money to fill a Baptist preacher's stovepipe hat was raised in two minutes.

Nannie thanked everybody in a sweet, bewildered way, but told them that her mother was dead, and that there was no one to care for the children and run the house in the absence of her father but herself.

Told Her Story.

With the modesty of the violets by her side, the girl talked shyly of her family affairs, and explained why it would be impossible for her to accept the many kind offers showered upon her for a home in a big house, with servants to wait upon her and a piano to play after she had learned music and other things.

She accepted the money, however, because it was pressed upon her, and they told her that she could do what she pleased with it. It was all hers, they said.

Like a dutiful daughter, she gave every penny of it to her father, who is an industrious and honest man. Instead of going on a North Carolina spree to drink moonshine whisky and have a big time with the boys at the crossroads, he went further down the mountain and bought the sweetest little home you ever saw. There is a patch of grass around the house, a fine area of farm land under cultivation, with the clearest of trout brooks flashing down from the glets above to irrigate the crops during dry seasons.

In a New Home.

It is an ideal place, where the bluebells and violets bloom all the season, where the skies are as blue as in Italy, and the air is crisp and tingling with health.

It was in this new home that Nannie and her father settled down with the children the other day, and were six times happier than a Texas ranchman with 100 square miles of land and cattle. In this particular case it seemed as if virtue were really its own reward. There was only one possible thing that the girl hoped for, and that was an education. Like all resolute minds who read, she was ambitious for knowledge of books and the world she dreamed of.

Such was the situation in that quiet mountain home near the wonderful region of Asheville, where the Vanderbilts and other millionaires have their palaces, when the unexpected happened. A representative of the Southern Railway company appeared and said the corporation was anxious to offer the girl a substantial and permanent reward for her courageous foresight in saving the train in that awful emergency.

Wanted Only Education.

Thi girl said that she wanted nothing now that she had a home, except an education; but she little thought that anything short of a miracle or a cloud of angels from Heaven could bring that wonderful thing about. Then the railroad man told her that she should go to college at the company's expense and receive a first-class up-to-date education. In the bewildering of this astounding information, when everything in the world seemed dancing to fairy music, she began talking of her brothers and sisters and asking herself what would become of them. It was explained to her that with education she could easily look after them.

So it came about that the matter was speedily arranged, and in that longest and most beautiful of all the sunny days of the girl's life she learned that she was to begin her education at the Asheville Normal Collegiate institute.

It would take a diamond-pointed pen with an ink pot full of rainbows to begin to describe the joy of the girl and her household over their wonderful good luck in saving the train full of people and in getting a pretty little mountain farm, with a first-class college education thrown in. But that seems to be the way they do things on great occasions down among those mountains near Asheville, N. C.

Her Presence of Mind.

"I was listening to hear the train go by when the landslide came," said Nannie, as she afterward described the incidents in what was to prove to be the great and memorable day of her life. "I knew by the sun that it was pretty near the time. I was listening for the train to go along so as to put the potatoes on. If you put them on when the train goes by they are cooked just right when daddy comes home to dinner. So when I heard the noise of the landslide I knew that it must be almost train time. That's what made me hurry so and run down the track to stop the train. I didn't feel very sure that I could stop it, because the trains never do stop here. I was afraid that the engine driver wouldn't pay any attention to me even if I did get there in time. He might not know what I meant and I didn't know how to signal to have it mean stop."

Telling Time by Trains.

In sparsely settled mountain communities, like that where Nannie's home was, clocks and watches are scarce things. The sun is the most frequently consulted timepiece, and in many cabins the only one.

However, cabins located near the railroad are considered to be especially favored, as the trains go by at certain hours, and their passing answers the purpose of a town clock. When the up express goes along the mountaineer knows that it is half-past eleven, and that in half-an-hour dinner will be ready.

The passing of the trains are the chief incidents of the day. Everybody stops work to watch them, and watches are regulated accordingly.

Enough to fill a dozen books has been written about the charm and beauty of that wonderful health resort of the mountains. But nothing can compare with the clear romance of this little story, comments the New York Herald, which ends like a fairy tale of childhood, and which many a big six footer has read in preference to poring over musty volumes on law or the ways of stocks and high finance.

PLAN FOR STATE FAIR

ARRANGEMENTS ARE RAPIDLY NEARING COMPLETION.

MANY NOTABLES TO SPEAK

President Francis of St. Louis Exposition and Governor Warner Are Among Features of Show—May Have Auto Races.

(Wm. Eilers, Staff Correspondent.)

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 7.—Plans for the Michigan state fair, which is to be held in Detroit in September, are rapidly being hatched out by the business committee, and now all arrangements are steadily advancing to completion. Arrangements have been made for special days at the fair. Tuesday, September 12, will be Exhibition day, and the next will be Michigan day. On this occasion the formal dedication of the fair will take place, and President Francis, of the Louisiana Purchase exposition, has been asked to speak. He has made a conditional acceptance, and if he cannot be present, some other well-known man will be asked. Invitations have been sent to the governor, the mayor of Detroit, state officials and others. Luncheon will be served to the invited guests. Detroit day will be either Thursday, September 14, or the Saturday following. The matter of auto races and other attractions has been left to President Fifield. The plan is to have races and a parade for one or two days while the fair is running. One state fair official, who is almost in ecstasies over the bright prospects for a successful show this year, elucidates as follows: "In establishing the state fair at Detroit, the Michigan Agricultural society is desirous of making its annual exposition thoroughly representative, not only of all the activities in the state, but of their highest expression. They hope, by this means, to bring the state fair into closer relations with all classes of the community, and thus to widen their sphere of influence and strength their appeal. By its nature, the state fair is a popular institution, and wherever established would attract crowds from 'up state' and small country towns and hamlets, both as exhibitors and as sight-seers. Of that attendance, therefore, the society is already assured. But if the state fair is to become an annual event and important factor in that larger and more critical audience of the large towns and cities, it must offer a somewhat higher and more subtle lure than prize cattle, mammoth squashes, intricate machinery and marvelous patchwork quilts, estimable as are all of these. The city-bred man, the student, artisan and craftsman want, in order to feel the same loyal and intimate relation to the state fair, to be given also adequate expression of their activities in the fields of craftsmanship. Indeed, to prove a continued attraction from year to year, the housing of the exhibits architecturally must be of a more dignified and beautiful nature than hitherto, the grounds and approaches must be treated with foresight and skill by competent landscape artists and not in the generally hit or miss style; in short, a central idea should pervade the whole, throughout all departments."

Art and artistic effect will be looked after at the state fair by Art Superintendent B. E. Hall, of Port Huron, who has associated with himself as a committee A. H. Griffith, Miss Clara E. Dyer and Miss Helen Plumb. The general idea of the committee is to scatter the art exhibit throughout all the buildings, and make it show up as a part of the general scheme. This committee will also give advisory aid in the arrangement of fruits and flowers and in the decoration and finish of buildings.

State Thief Catchers Meet.

The twelfth annual meeting of Michigan Police, Sheriffs' and Prosecuting Attorneys' association was held at Jackson and the session was one of the most interesting in the history of the organization. There was a good attendance at the convention of thief catchers, the meetings of which were held in the Elks' temple. Mayor Todd delivered the address of welcome and Mr. Clute responded. The latter figured out that there are 500,000 constables in Michigan, 83 sheriffs, and a sufficient number of deputies, town marshals, night watches and metropolitan police-men to make a good-sized army. "There are many statutes that have been asleep for years, as the result of public opinion," said Vice President Clute, in his response to the address of welcome at the opening of the meeting. "I believe the old laws should be left in repose and not resurrected for the benefit of those seeking revenge and influenced by bigotry."

Governor Needs Rest.

Since his inauguration last January, Gov. Warner has been a very busy man with state affairs, but he feels that like other men he ought to have a vacation. Early in the summer he engaged a cottage at Cass lake, near Pontiac, and took his family there, but he has not been able to spend more than one day in a week there. Recently the governor went to his summer cottage, and he hopes to remain there for at least a couple of

To Visit Michigan.

Royal S. Kellogg, assistant in the forest service, has left Washington on a western trip which includes Michigan, his purpose being to arrange for the collection of statistics for forest products. These statistics will be published next spring by the forest service and annually thereafter. Returns covering the situation of forest products are now available only every five years. Great need is felt among all users of wood products to know more often and more accurately the draughts which the lumber trade and the wood working industries are making on the country's sources of supply. The proposed annual reports aim to satisfy this need. Help from every quarter is being extended the work, and full co-operation is being given by the National Lumber Manufacturer's association.

Higgins Is Deposed.

The first direct result of the Jackson prison investigation has been the deposition of Convict John Higgins as warden de facto. He has been notified that he would be dismissed from his job as apothecary and deprived of the privileges he has hitherto enjoyed. He was told that henceforth he would have to share the fate of all other criminals in the institution and do contract work. Higgins will not be taken out of the hospital at once, however. Warden Vincent says he must first find a competent man to take Higgins' place. Besides there are some matters to be disposed of before Higgins can be spared. The warden says he has no reply to make to Gov. Bliss' assertion that he did not authorize Vincent to charge up cigars or groceries or draw interest on convicts' deposits.

Don't Use River Ice.

Health Officer Nottingham has issued a warning to the people of Lansing not to use river ice in drinking water. This warning is of as great value to other Michigan cities as it is to Lansing. It should be heeded. "Everyone knows," he declared, "that the sewage of the city goes into the river and that the ice sold here is taken from the stream. It is not unlikely that typhoid fever may be caused thereby." While the health officer thinks that the use of river ice in drinking water is dangerous, he says it may be safely used for all ordinary purposes. He will urge the enactment of a law prohibiting the taking of ice from the river below the points where the sewers empty into it.

Soon to Appoint Board.

Gov. Warner will soon appoint a board of six members to have charge of the proposed state sanitarium for consumptives. The board is to be composed of four physicians, with two additional members, and it will determine the location of the proposed institution. There are strong objections to locating the hospital in an isolated place in northern Michigan, and it is stated that a site may be procured among the sand hills and adjoining one of the fine lakes in Oakland county. The law creating the institution contemplates that the site for the hospital will be donated by the state.

Warner Favors Vincent.

Gov. Warner still has hopes for the retention of Alonzo Vincent as warden of the state prison at Jackson. He says that, in spite of the fact that the warden has admitted buying cigars and having them billed as "butter and eggs," he has no doubt as to the sterling integrity of the official. Aside from this is the proposition to commute the sentence of Lifer John Higgins to 50 years' imprisonment and transfer him to either the Detroit house of correction or to the prison at Marquette. Before Gov. Warner takes any definite action, however, he will lay the whole matter before the board of control, and will endeavor to have the members take his side of the question. He believes that Warden Vincent is an honest, painstaking officer, and should be given a chance to recover from charges that have been made against him.

Experiment in Forestry.

One of the most interesting spots to the visitors at Tawas beach, at East Tawas, is the tree nursery started this spring under the direction of Prof. Roth, of the University of Michigan. Here can be seen seedlings of the giant redwood of California and other of the needle-bearing trees, with the seeds sticking to the tops of the small seedlings, for all the world like onions just coming through. Thousands of pines and ornamental trees have been set out in the spacious grounds and are being cared for by the students from the university. The experiment will be of value to every person interested in the disposition of the cut over pine lands of northern Michigan. That these lands could be made to again grow forests is not doubted, as one has only to wander over the plains and see what nature has done, when fire is kept out, in the way of reforesting work. Large tracts of white and Norway pine from two to six inches in diameter are to be found and if protected by the state and patrolled so that the danger from fire would be reduced to the minimum, the day would not be far distant when the pine that made Michigan famous could be cut in quantities again.

Retires as Secretary.

Freeman O. Gullifer has retired as secretary of the state tax commission, and Orien Bolt, of Muskegon, the recently appointed secretary, has taken up the duties of the office. No change in the clerical force will be made until September 15, when the law passed by the last legislature reorganizing the tax commission becomes operative. The new secretary will busy himself for the next month in becoming familiar with the duties of his office. The force of clerks will be cut down to ten when the change is made. The retiring secretary was presented with a traveling case by the clerks of the commission, by whom he is held in great esteem.

MILK FROM WHALES.

A NEW FOUNDLAND SCIENTIST HAS AMPHIBIAN DAIRY.

Perfects Device for Milking His Quaker Cattle—Yield Five to Seven Hogheads a Day.

Not the least of the triumphs of modern scientific methods in man's utilization of natural resources is forecast in the brief announcement just received from the Balena whale fisheries of Port-au-Basques, N. F., to the effect that Prof. Muller has succeeded in domesticating a herd of 50 sulphur-bottom cow whales and has perfected an apparatus for milking the mammoth cetaceans.

The yield of milk from a full-grown whale is from five to seven hogheads a day. The milk is fresh and sweet and peculiarly rich in nutritive and medicinal qualities. It is much thicker and richer than the best Jersey milk and possesses a peculiarly pleasant and distinctive flavor which those who have tasted it pronounce superior to any known product of the lacteal variety. Chemical analysis has shown that the milk of the sulphur-bottom whale is rich in those same fats and proteins which give to cod-liver oil its value as a remedial food.

Prof. Muller's experiments with whales, which have been carried on in comparative secrecy for several years, have resulted in many remarkable discoveries in the line of utilizing the different parts of the huge carcasses which have hitherto gone to waste.

He has devised a process for curing and preserving the tons of meat which has always been considered worse than valueless. This meat, which compares favorably in texture and flavor with the average beef, will soon be put upon the market. The company has assurances that it will find ready sale in the West Indian islands and other tropical countries which now depend for their meat supply on the South American jerked beef.

Prof. Muller has invented and patented a process for making leather from the intestines, plural sacks, heart coverings and other internal membranes of the whale, which, when tanned and finished, is of greater durability and finer texture than any known leather. Besides its superior quality, the whale leather furnishes single pieces of much greater dimension; than it is possible to procure from any other animal. It is possible, according to the inventor, to obtain from the intestines of a full-grown sulphur-bottom a strip of leather nearly 200 feet in length and three and one-half feet in breadth. From the pleural lining a piece of leather 25 feet in diameter can be obtained.

Processes for grinding the mammoth skeletons into bone meal for fertilizer and of converting the gristle and cartilage into glue and like products are among the minor inventions of the expert, who has included himself for the past five years at the little fishing village and turned his attention to the study of whales.

But by far the greatest triumph yet attained by the credulous professor lies in the domestication of the cow whales. Like all scientific men, Prof. Muller would rather conserve than destroy. The whales are still abundant in Newfoundland waters but under the old system of killing them for their oil and casting the carcasses a drift, it was a question of only a few years at most when they would become so rare as to make their pursuit unprofitable. It will now be for the financial interest of whalers to capture the young whales and keep them alive, because of the promise of richer reward from the dairy products than can be realized in their destruction.

The problem of teaching them to permit the operatives to milk them was a more difficult one. An apparatus was devised to do the work, but when an effort was made to try it there was trouble at once. It was necessary to drive the whales up on the flats at low water to do the milking and it has been this part of the work which has absorbed the attention of the professor for more than a year.

Patience in the face of all discouragements with a determination to succeed finally conquered. The first calves learned gradually to go of their own accord to the milking ground. The herd has been increased a few whales at a time until it now numbers 50 and it requires the services of a staff of 60 men to carry on the daily milking.

Just what the plans of the company are is not generally known and none of the officials will say. It was learned on good authority, however, that as soon as the dairy experiments in the way of butter and cheese making are complete and the canning plant is ready the herd will be driven down to an inlet on the Maine coast, which has been fitted for a pasture. There the dairy will be established permanently.

Experiments have been made recently in permitting several of the tamer cows to go outside the inlet. These experiments have been peculiarly gratifying. In every instance the cow has returned, indicating clearly her preference for domestic life, and on two separate occasions cows of the herd have brought back with them strange companions. The strangers are now thoroughly domesticated and have become valuable members of the herd.

If, as is now believed, the whale milk is of rare medicinal value and proves to be a palatable substitute for the nauseous cod-liver oil, it is easy to see the possibilities which lie in the new industry of whale culture. The butter and cheese products are said to be of exceptional delicacy.

TWENTY YEARS OF IT.

Emaciated by Diabetes, Tortured With Gravel and Kidney Pains.

Henry Soule, a cobbler, of Hammondsport, N. Y., says: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me eight years ago, I've reached 70 and hope to live many years longer. But twenty years ago I had kidney trouble so bad I could not work. Backache was persistent and it was agony to lift anything. Gravel, whirling headaches, dizziness and terrible urinary disorders ran me down from 166 to 100 pounds. Doctors told me I had diabetes and could not live. I was wretched and hopeless when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, but they cured me eight years ago and I've been well ever since."

BAD CLERK FOR BUSINESS.

Couldn't Dissemble When It Came to Answering Questions of Customers.

An Arctic explorer was praising the late William Ziegler, whose great wealth went in the past to fit so many expeditions of discovery in the white north, relates the San Antonio Press. "He was a man of the alertest wit," the explorer said. "I never saw his equal in blitting off a person's character in an opposite story. Once, I remember, he was describing a flour manufacturer of loose morals. "Mr. Ziegler said the manufacturer was like a certain grocer who called his clerk up before him one day and said: "That lady who just went out—didn't I hear her ask for fresh laid eggs?" "Yes, sir," the clerk answered. "And you said we hadn't any?" "Yes, sir; that is correct." "The grocer, purple with rage, yelled: "Didn't you see me lay those eggs myself on the counter ten minutes ago? You are discharged, you mendacious scoundrel, and see that you don't look to me for a reference, either."

CUTICURA OINTMENT

The World's Greatest Skin Cure and Sweetest Emollient—Positively Unrivaled.

Cuticura Ointment is beyond question the most successful curative for torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed by the severe cases by a dose of Cuticura Resolvent Pills, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and scaly humors, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all else fails. It is especially so in the treatment of infants and children, speedily soothing and healing the most distressing cases.

NAUTICAL KNOWLEDGE.

The Acquisition of Which Would Assuredly Fit One for an Exciting Cruise.

Having been sailing one afternoon with a friend, you notice how simple it is to manage a boat, so you buy one—whether it is a center-board or a fin-keel boat you don't know, and it doesn't make any difference so long as you like the color, says the Chicago Daily News. Ask half a dozen friends to act as crew. Great care should be exercised in choosing only men who know nothing about sailing, otherwise they might make suggestions as to the management of the boat. Far better is it for you to train the men after your own ideas of sailing—and you stand a much better chance of getting a picture of yourself and your boat into the papers. After sailing around the harbor a few times without damaging any of the other boats, you will be in a position to invite your girl friends to go sailing. If experienced yachtsmen tell you that your boat will with safety carry ten, invite twenty friends. If you bring them all back you will establish a precedent. Never postpone a sailing party because of an approaching storm. This would look cowardly, and by all means establish a reputation for daring even if you have to risk the lives of all your friends. Always carry full canvas—before a squall and during it. Once outside the harbor tie your main sheet down—in hard knots if possible. This will make the trip more exciting. By carefully following the above rules you will give the newspaper reporters a chance to write columns on "Yachting as the Most Dangerous of Sports" and will also help the life-saving crew to earn their salaries.

CONVERSATIONAL NEED.

BABY'S INSTINCT

Shows He Knew What Food to Stick To

Forwarding a photo of a splendidly handsome and healthy young boy, a happy mother writes from an Ohio town: "The enclosed picture shows my 4-year-old Grape-Nuts boy. "Since he was 2 years old he has eaten nothing but Grape-Nuts. He demands and gets this food three times a day. This may seem rather unusual, but he does not care for anything else after he has eaten his Grape-Nuts, which he uses with milk or cream, and then he is through with his meal. Even on Thanksgiving day he refused turkey and all the good things that make up that great dinner, and ate his dish of Grape-Nuts and cream with the best results and none of the evils that the other foolish members of the family experienced. "He is never sick, has a beautiful complexion, and is considered a very handsome boy. May the Postum Company prosper and long continue to furnish their wholesome food!" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in every pkg.

THE MIRACLE OF DAWN.

What it would mean for you and me if dawn should come no more! Think of its gold along the sea, its rose above the shore! That rose of awful mystery, Our souls bow down before.

Think what it means to me and you To see it even as God Evolved it when the world was new! When Light rose, earthquake shod, And slow its gradual splendor grew 'O'er deeps the whirlwind trod.

What shoutings then and cymbalings Arose from depth and height! What worship—solemn trumpeting, And thunders, burning white, Of winds and waves, and anemings Of Earth received the Light!

Think what it means to see the dawn! The dawn, that comes each day! What if the East should ne'er grow wan, Should never more grow gray! That line of rose no more be drawn Above the ocean's spray! —Madison Cawein, in Ailslee's Magazine.

A Real Bad Man

HE yellow sands of the Painted desert flew past the car windows as the train plunged into an Arizona twilight. The glamour of a desert sunset, where the great red ball of fire sinks slowly behind the San Francisco peaks, fell upon the party of railroad officials who were traveling in the private car. It was the most natural thing in the world that under the influence of the exhilarating and peculiar beauty of the desert, which is all its own, the eastern men should start a reminiscent discussion of life in the wild and woolly west. Orders had been issued not to light the lamps in the cars until the twilight had given way to the darkness of the night. The fact undoubtedly added to the zest as the discussion of the bad man of the west and his terrible deeds grew more interesting. "I'll tell you what it is, fellows," declared K—, "I don't believe there exists to-day a good example of the old-style 'real bad man' of the west. You read about 'em in stories written by those newspaper fellows who have never been west of the ponds in Jackson park and who are made up of three-fourths imagination and one-fourth truth. "If what I hear is true," protested one of the party, "there are, on the contrary, a few of the real article left around these very same bad lands we're scooting through at this moment. "Oh, pawaw," retorted K—. "It's just like the stories of the cowboys which we read every day. The real, simon-pure article in the cowboy line don't exist any more except in fiction. Travel the west over and you won't see one of 'em, and I know what I'm talking about. Hain't I eaten with him, bunked with him and helped him sober up many a time in the early days, when I was a freight agent in Colorado? They are not to be found, I tell you, and in this respect they are just like the typical bad man of the west. Oh, of course," he conceded, "there are a lot of counterfeiters hiking around, simulating the real article, and making the tenderfeet believe 'em. That's easy enough when a fellow is a tenderfoot, but if I should see one of those blamed, howling, counterfeiting coyotes hanging around I'd know him for what he really was. "I dare say you are right," replied one of the party. "Of course, you are familiar with the west, while the rest of us are more or less green in this respect."

THE RECORD EXPLOSION.

Tremendous Spectacle Witnessed in Blowing Up of Whipload of Explosives.

The world's record for submarine explosions has just been made at Alexandria. Some months ago a consignment of explosives arrived at Alexandria on account of Messrs. Nobel & Co., of Glasgow. It was dispatched to Cairo by grasshops (native sailing boats), but unfortunately one of these vessels, which had 1 1/2 tons of dynamite on board, got into a collision and was wrecked. The explosives were salvaged from the water and were brought back to Aboukir, as that was the only safe place where they could be deposited. However, the dynamite had become a danger to the public safety, owing to the contact with the water having generated certain gases, which might at any moment act on the dynamite and explode it. So, as a lawsuit was being brought in the mixed tribunal, the permission of that court was obtained for the destruction of the explosives. Harold Harris, F.C.S., chemist to the Messrs. Nobel, came out specially from Glasgow to superintend the operations, and he was assisted by Mr. Ferdinand Muquier, chemical expert to the mixed tribunal. The explosives were conveyed from Aboukir fort in boats about a quarter of a mile out in the bay, off Nelson's island, and there sunk in 15 feet of water. Electric wires were let down and connected the explosives with a battery in the fort. The sight was one never to be forgotten. The sea was perfectly calm. All of a sudden, without any visible warning, there was a tremendous upheaval of the water, the sea became a churning mass for a great distance around and a waterspout of gigantic height rose toward the sky. The sun, shining on, or rather through, this mass gave it a superb glistening appearance and produced a wonderful effect. The rising of the water lasted nearly two minutes. It was estimated by the technical spectator that the waterspout attained 2,000 feet in height, while its base was 200 feet in diameter. These details, coupled with the fact that the explosives consisted of 6 1/2 tons of zellignite and ten tons of blasting gelatin, which, containing as it does, 90 per cent, of nitroglycerin, is one of the most powerful explosives, make this explosion a record as being one of the greatest submarine explosions that have ever taken place since explosives were invented.

There was no danger to household property. A vibration like that of an earthquake was felt in Alexandria and the houses were shaken, but that was all. Thousands of fish were killed in the bay, much to the satisfaction of the local fishermen, who benefited by it. The explosion will entail a fresh sounding of Aboukir bay and the adjoining sea.

SYSTEMATIC WALKING.

Five Thousand Miles Walked by Easy Daily Trips During One Year.

On January 1, 193, I conceived the idea of walking 5,000 miles before the expiration of the year, writes W. A. Green, in Outing. The object was not to achieve any unusual feat, nor to accomplish any conspicuous performance. The underlying motive was, rather, to insure a plan by which regular and systematic exercise could be obtained. To travel this distance, it was necessary to cover an average of 14 miles a day. Now, 14 miles for a day's walk is well within the compass of the ordinary man. But an occasional walk of this length is one thing; the sustained effort, day after day throughout the year, is another. Let me answer the question by saying that at the end of the year I had completed a distance on foot of 5,205 miles, or a daily average of 14 1/4 miles. The stipulated 5,000 miles were finished on December 16, but an additional 200 miles were covered in order that each of the 52 weeks of the year might claim an average distance traveled of 100 miles. I set out upon my enterprise with the knowledge that it was incumbent upon me to maintain a daily average of 14 miles, and I made it a rule, when practicable, of keeping above the average, so as to have something in hand to meet the emergencies which were almost certain to arise. That they did arise was shown by the fact that for 15 days in the year, owing to sickness, lameness and rainy-day traveling, no walking whatever could be indulged in. The inability to utilize these 15 days was equal to a loss of over 200 miles. It will, therefore, be seen that, under the circumstances named, it was imperative on many occasions to exceed the distance of 14 miles a day in order to preserve the average. At the beginning of my walk my weight was 192 pounds in street clothes, while at the end of it my weight was 178 pounds. This loss of 14 pounds was in every way acceptable. The avoirdupois lost was only redundant weight, and I felt, as a result, more active, stronger and harder. In the matter of health, I felt decidedly better than I had for several years.

ATE THE EVIDENCE.

While a recent forgery prosecution was in progress in a Washington (state) court the accused calmly reached over, took the forged document from the table and ate it before the astonished court officials recovered sufficiently to interfere. Thereupon the prisoner's counsel promptly moved for his discharge, on the ground that there was no evidence against him. It was certainly a most effective defense.

Tumors Conquered Without Operations

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Cases of Mrs. Fox and Miss Adams.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor. So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by excessive menstruation accompanied by unusual pain extending from the ovaries down the groin and thighs. If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation; secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use and write Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for advice. Read these strong letters from grateful women who have been cured: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.) "In looking over your book I see that your medicine cures Tumor of the Uterus. I have been to a doctor and he tells me I have a tumor. I will be more than grateful if you can help me, as I do so dread an operation." —Fannie D. Fox, 7 Chestnut St., Bradford, Pa. Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.) "I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. "Eighteen months ago my monthly periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician, and was told that I had a tumor on the uterus and would have to undergo an operation. "I soon after read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed, the tumor is entirely gone. I have again been examined by the physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my monthly periods once more, and I am entirely well. I shall never be without a bottle of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house." —Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa. Another Case of Tumor Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "About three years ago I had intense pains in my stomach, with cramps and raging headaches. The doctor prescribed for me, but finding that I did not get any better he examined me and, to my surprise, declared I had a tumor in the uterus. "I felt sure that it meant my death warrant, and was very disheartened. I spent hundreds of dollars in doctoring, but the tumor kept growing, till the doctor said that nothing but an operation would save me. Fortunately I corresponded with my aunt in the New England States, who advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before submitting to an operation, and I at once started taking a regular treatment, finding to my great relief that my general health began to improve, and after three months I noticed that the tumor had reduced in size. I kept on taking the Compound, and in ten months it had entirely disappeared without an operation, and using no medicine but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and words fail to express how grateful I am for the good it has done me." —Miss Luella Adams, Colorado Hotel, Seattle, Wash. Such unquestionable testimony proves the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and should give confidence and hope to every sick woman. Mrs. Pinkham invites all ailing women to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound: A Woman's Remedy for Women's Ills.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.) (Save the Lion-heads for valuable premiums.) SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE WOOLSON SPICE CO., Toledo, Ohio.

WOOD ALCOHOL IN WHISKY

Pennsylvania Pure Food Commission—
As Founded at His Discovery
—in Rye Products.

Dr. B. H. Warren, Pennsylvania's pure food commissioner, has made a startling discovery regarding the cheap-grade whisky sold all over the state. In an interview he said:

"Most of the cheap whisky sold in Pennsylvania, I have discovered by analysis, is manufactured from wood alcohol and red or India pepper, the latter element giving the deadly dose the chemists informed me of the findings in a number of cases, and immediately had 1,000 samples taken up all over the state. Ninety-five per cent. of the samples so far examined have shown the presence of wood alcohol in poisonous quantities along with the pepper. Some samples contained arsenic, turpentine and traces of prussic acid."

Dr. Warren said he had instituted proceedings in over 100 cases where the deadly stuff had been sold. The total number from present indications will exceed 1,000, and may before the investigation is completed, reach 5,000. "No wonder," said the doctor, "that our saylums are full."

SETS A NEW RECORD.

American War Vessel, in Night Practice, Does Remarkable Work While Speeding in Open Sea.

Some sensational night shooting has been done by the North Atlantic squadron in target practice at Menemahs Blight.

Close inspection of developments in the Russo-Japanese war has given the general board the idea that many of the great naval battles of the future will be fought at night. Consequently the North Atlantic squadron has been ordered to do considerable night work and develop its gun pointers in the use of the searchlight.

Using her eight-inch guns, one of the battleships made the remarkable score of eight hits out of nine shots at night. The target, distant about a mile, was illuminated by a searchlight, and the gunners used a special night sight. What is more remarkable is that the ship was forging ahead in the open sea at ten knots.

HOW FLIES MULTIPLY.

Their Increase Limited Only by the Amount of Food Accessible to Them.

Fly time is here, and the English scientists, through their eminent Lancet, have been giving some timely thought to the infestation, and warning people against the pestilence. It is admitted that disease is carried by them, and the public is warned to destroy flies.

Flies multiply at a prodigious rate. Given a temperature sufficiently high to hatch the eggs, their numbers are only limited by the amount of food available for them. Linnæus is credited with the saying that three meal flies, by reason of their rapid multiplication, would consume a dead horse quicker than would a lion, and the fact that certain diptera having some outward resemblance to the honey bee lay their eggs in the dead carcasses of animals probably led Samson and Virgil to make erroneous statements with regard to the genesis of honey and the manufacture of bees.

In three weeks it seems probable that a female fly might have some 25,000,000 descendants in the course of a hot summer. Other varieties of flies multiply still more rapidly. As flies multiply upon and in organic refuse of every kind, it is obvious that the sooner such refuse is placed where it cannot serve for the feeding and hatching of flies the more likely is the plague of flies to be lessened.

FARMING IN ALASKA.

Investigation Shows That Its Agricultural Resources Are of Considerable Importance.

Coming back to Alaska, Uncle Sam, as well as the engineers, is doing his part in making that land habitable, says the Little Chronicle. The agricultural department has established experiment stations above Sitka and in the Yakon valley, and they have found many places where the vegetables and grains and small fruits may be grown and many more where cattle and sheep may be raised. Indeed Dawson is no more than a hundred miles farther north than St. Petersburg, and the most northern point of Alaska is in the same latitude as Hammerfest, Norway, a town of 2,500 people. Certain parts of it—the seacoast and the great valleys—are warmer than Siberia, which, being chiefly a country of frozen plains, is exposed to arctic winds. If Norway, Sweden and Finland are self-sustaining countries, raising grain, root crops, live stock and carrying on fishing and lumbering, there is no reason why Alaska should not also become a busy country filled with people engaged in either industries or mining.

Jack Carkeet, the noted wrestler considered by many to be the premier wrestler for the United States, Jenkins not excepted, will shortly pay a visit to the upper peninsula, his old home. Carkeet, this week has a very important job on his hands. A match has been arranged whereby he agrees to throw Tim Harrington, formerly of Calumet, and Joe Curran, of Butte, both exceptionally clever wrestlers, each twice in one hour falling to do which he forfeits $200. Carkeet has a possible match for next week with Frank Gatch to take place in Butte, after which he will come to the peninsula with a view to arranging for a number of matches.

Dora Thorne.

Lovers of the good and beautiful in fiction will no doubt be gratified to learn that an opportunity will be given them to follow the career of gentle "Dora Thorne", the story that made Bertha M. Clay famous, in a dramatization which has been put forth for the first time this season. Who have not laughed and cried with the fortunate and still unfortunate, Dora, following her through her loves, hopes and vicissitudes with deep hearted interest; and when the story of her life was ended, laying it aside reluctantly as though parting from a beloved friend. And then the beautiful little twins, the manly and impulsive Ronald Earle, the statuesque Valentine Charteris; all the well-known characters come to life and tell the beautiful story all over again. This play may well be termed "pure as the lilies" refreshing and wholesome, and is surely a play for all, reaching all and pleasing all in its direct touches in to the hearts and home life of the rich as well as the poor. The splendid production will be seen at Peterson's Opera house, Saturday, August 12.

"NOT FOR A MILLION"

TO AILING WOMAN

Many Escanaba women Make a Serious Mistake.

Many so-called female complaints are nothing more than kidney and bladder troubles. No woman can be strong and healthy unless the kidneys are well, and regular in their action. When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to have filtered out of the blood are left in the system.

The female constitution is naturally more subject to kidney disease than a man's; and what is more, a woman's work is never done, her whole life is one continuous strain. But do not give way to fretting over some imaginary female trouble. Give the kidneys the help they need, in Doan's Kidney Pills, and see how much better you will look and feel after a few days. For this medicine will assist your kidneys to drive out of your body the poisons which makes you feel despondent, irritable, nervous and languid, which causes bearing down pains, backache, urinary disorders, irregular heart, etc.

Mrs. Joseph Perry, 330 Mary St., Escanaba, Mich., says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for they cured me of backache after I had suffered for a long time. There was a constant aching across my loins, accompanied by a weakness and misery that it is hard to describe. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended by our most reliable citizens and sent to the Mead Drug Co's store and got a box. The quick relief I obtained from this remedy astonished me, and it resulted in a permanent cure. I have had no return of my old trouble since taking Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.
