WERE LOST FOR 18 HOURS

Party of Escanaba Women and Children Lost Their Way While Picking Berries.

WERE NEAR SWANZY

Searching Party Sent Out From Escanaba Thursday Morning and Found the Wanderers.

A party of six Escanaba women and children lost their way Wednesday while picking berries near Swanzy and remained out 18 hours before being found. They were forced to spend the night in the woods and the experience was a frightful one.

Those in the party who were lost are: Mrs. J. A. Fisher and son, Mrs. Bernard Snow and son and daughter and Miss Evelyn Doyle.

The party should have arrived Wednesday night and when they failed to come their relatives in this city became alarmed. Mr. J. A. Fisher whose wife and child were in the party, started for Swanzy on the first train together with three other Escanaba men and an experienced cruiser. They arrived at Swanzy at 7 o'clock and within an hour had located the lost party in a deep swamp four miles north of Swanzy.

According to stories told by members of the missing party they lost their way soon after they left Swanzy. At night a fire was built and members of the party would shout at frequent intervals in order to attract the attention of any chance passer-by.

RAILROAD IN SWAMPS.

C. H. Worcester Company Adopts New Plans for Lumbering Cedar.

The C. H. Worcester company of Chicago, one of the largest cedar concerns operating in the upper peninsula, with manufacturing plants and yards at Munising, Chassell, Ontonagon and Petrel will try the plan of conducting its timber operations in future by the use of a railroad, doing away entirely with teams and sleighs in the woods. The use of a railroad in cedar lumbering is a novelty in the upper peninsula, and the Worcester company is the first to give the plan a trial. The fact that the best cedar timber is found in swamps, and practically all lumber operations must be on lands of this character, makes the task of building a railroad an arduous one.

The method to be employed in constructing a grade is to lay the steel on heavy ties, having hewn timbers and corduroy roads for foundation in swamp holes and places where there is soft ground. When it is desired to lay the railroad into a tract of timber, a roadway is cut the same width as in making an ordinary logging road, and the expenditure for building corduroy, if constructed at the time the road is cleared, is figured to be no greater than the cost of making a wagon or sleigh road suitable for hauling logs with teams. As fast as the land is lumbered, the railroad is taken up and moved to another location, where the same method is again employed.

The first railroad to be built by the company will be in connection with the Munising railway on the line of the east branch, near Petrel, Alger county. On this branch the company owns an original tract of 50,000 acres of cedar lands into the heart of which a railroad eight miles in length was recently completed by the Munising railway. From this extension the Worcester company will build rail logging roads, at different points along the line, operating a standard gauge road with Lima locomotives and using Russell log cars for carrying out the cedar stock. From the branch line the timber will be shipped to the mill at Munising, or sent to the stock yards at Petrel or Cusino.

If the plan is a success, it will be introduced in all the operations of the company in the peninsula. The use of railroads for logging is general in the peninsula by lumbering companies operating in hardwood and pine lands, but the building of logging railroads in swamps has never been regarded as practicable. The plan was suggested as a solution of the problem of maintaining logging roads in winter as one of the greatest items of expenditure encountered by cedar operators is the maintenance of roads during periods of heavy snow fall. As the timber cannot be hauled at any other season of the year, owing to the fact that it is impossible to build wagon roads in swamps it is sometimes necessary to expend large sums of money to get the stock out. Under the plan adopted, the Worcester company expects to be able to lumber at all seasons of the year. The result of the experiment will be watched with interest by upper peninsula lumbermen. Construction work on the logging roads will begin at once, as the steel and logging stock has been shipped and will be delivered to the company at Petrel by Sept. 1.

STEEL IN THE FUTURE.

Manufacturer Says Steel and Iron Industry Still in its Infancy.

A prominent steel manufacturer says in the Wall Street Journal: "In 1900 I went on record as saying that the steel and iron industry was in its infancy. This prediction has been born out in all that the word implies. Notwithstanding the enormous increase in production over the last five or six years I will again go on record as saying that the steel and iron industry is still in its infancy. You will live to see the time when we are shipping to the steel district 50,000,000 tons of iron ore a year.

Outside of increased consumption of steel in proportion to increased population and the development of the wonderful resources of the country, the expansion in output will be due largely to the new uses to which the products of iron ore are being put or will be put. It will not be many years before the present wooden street cars and passenger coaches will be placed in the antiquated class. The development of the steel street railway and passenger car industry will be as rapid as the evolution of wooden freight cars to steel cars. Steel ties will also be in common use. Then again steel skeletons for residences will be in general demand before many years have passed. We will have periods of depression, but at the same time the average increase in steel consumption will be pronounced.

Work Completed.

The Rieboldt, Wolter & Co. dredge completed its work at Gladstone. The outfit excavated 60,000 cubic yards of earth, being 25,000 less than was figured on in the first place. The dredge returned to Sturgeon Bay last week.

TO DISBAR JUTTNER

Charges Made Against Prosecuting Attorney of Menominee County.

As an echo of the Pipecorn case at Powers, and the recent justice court cases in Menominee, and directly bearing on the former as a basis, action has been begun. It is today announced, in disbarment proceedings against Prosecuting Attorney Charles F. Juttner before Judge Stone at the November session of circuit court. This is serious business, and the Herald-Leader sent a letter to interview M. J. Doyle, who is reported being the attorney who will file the charge against Attorney Juttner, acting for F. C. Spencer of Stephenson, the complainant.

Mr. Doyle gave the reporter the following written statement:

If Mr. Spencer's charges be sustained Mr. Juttner will undoubtedly be disbarred. If the charges are without foundation Mr. Spencer has exposed himself to serious consequences. He appears to understand this fully and has ordered me to proceed."

The special ground upon which Spencer's charges rest are that Juttner is guilty of fraud in the Pipecorn case, and conduct not becoming a member of the bar.

Launch Struck by Lightning.

Judge Jos. H. Steere of the Soo, Judge Wandy of Grand Rapids, Attorney Colwell of Detroit, and others of the profession of law, on a fishing trip on the north shore of Lake Superior, had one of their gasoline boats struck by lightning. The bolt struck a spar and followed a cord to water. The marvel is that the gasoline tanks did not blow up.

BIG LAND DEAL

Oliver Mining Company Acquire 7,160 Acres in Alger County.

A deal which has been pending for several months, was recently closed between the Oliver Mining company and Daniel W. Powell of Marquette and Dr. Frank Gregory, of Menominee, whereby the latter parties disposed of 7,160 acres of timber lands to the Oliver company for $70,000. Nearly the entire tract is located in Alger county, being tributary to the Whitefish river and a branch line of the Chicago & Northwestern railway. It contains a heavy growth of mixed timber—pine, hardwood, cedar and tamarack—which it is estimated will cut 70,000,000 feet.

The timber will be used in the mining operations of the company in the Menominee and Marquette ranges, although it is unlikely that the lands will be lumbered for several years. It has heretofore been the policy of the company to acquire as much timber as possible from the small jobber and homesteaders, holding it as a reserve supply. During the course of a year the company uses between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 feet of timber in mining operations, and also many thousand pieces of logging. A few years ago none of the mining companies would purchase any kind of timber but pine, hemlock or tamarack, but they are now ready to accept anything in the shape of stumpage, and are gradually using greater quantities of hardwood each year.

They Carry Passengers.

Half of the freight steamers owned in Chicago have taken out passenger licenses since the recent changes in rules for the government inspectors of passenger boats.

RODNEY STOCK COMPANY

Will Open Week's Engagement at Peterson's Opera House Monday Night.

The Rodney Stock company will open at the Peterson opera house, Monday Aug. 28 for a week's engagement. This is what the Evening News of Michigan City, Indiana, says of the Rodney Stock Company.

"The Park theatre proved a popular place last evening when the Rodneys presented 'The Christian' to a good house. The bill is one of the strongest ever presented here by a stock company and was presented in a faultless manner. Miss Calvert as 'Glory,' the high spirited Manx girl, captivated the entire audience. The part is one to try the powers of any actress, but Miss Calvert was so real, so natural, it made one forget that after all it was but a bit of art instead of nature, one was so deeply interested in. Miss Calvert is proving herself to possess the touch of genius that raises the actress above the average.

Mr. Rodney, as 'John Storm,' was a fit opposite to Miss Calvert. He is one of the few actors who get the best out of every part, no matter what it may be, from comedy to tragedy. It is owing to his able directing that such a performance was possible. The entire company was excellent.

PUTTING ON CRUSHED STONE

Street Contractors Now at Work on Wells Avenue.

Contractors Flemming & Zane whose contract for paving Wells Avenue expired on Tuesday of last week, were granted an extension of 60 days and work is now rapidly progressing on that street.

The work is being done according to contract although efforts have been made to have the material changed from crushed rock to gravel. The contractors expressed themselves willing to make the change but the council refused to make the change, fearing that such action would invalidate the whole assessment.

An attempt was made at the meeting of the council on Friday night of last week to have the Wells Avenue contract declared expired, and a resolution to that effect was introduced. The resolution was lost by a vote of 7 to 5 and an extension of 60 days was granted.

TEAM DISBANDED.

Soo Base Ball Players Paid Off and Released.

The Soo base ball team has disbanded for the season, the management being dissatisfied with the kind of ball the team was playing. Following is the account of the disbandment as recorded by the Soo News:

No more base ball for the Soo. The far-famed Homesbuns, who were heralded last spring as the heaviest hitting team in the league, have disbanded.

The star that dawned so brilliantly has set in a dense fog.

"Back to the farm!" chant the sad-eyed fans as the stars of many games shoulder their clubs and march away. The team is to be paid off this afternoon.

And then—the end.

"The reason the team wasn't to get every cent he has coming. Probably every player will receive his check this afternoon. As a result the Soo cannot pay its money to see any more 18 to 1 games, or any spectacular contests where 11 runs are made in one inning.

No more will we hear "How it Happened," and it will be written on the pages of history that we held the bottom place in the column of percentages with a determination that stood the test of time.

A PIONEER SOCIETY.

Efforts May be Made to Have One Organized in Delta County.

The organization of a pioneer society, composed of the early settlers and residents of Delta county is being talked of by a number of the old residents of this city and it is likely that such a society may be formed in the near future.

Many counties in the lower peninsula have societies similar to that proposed here, and besides serving for the enjoyment of the members, the societies have been found quite useful in furnishing historical data.

The organization of such a society here is urged by the Pioneer and Historical Society of Michigan of which the local society would be a branch.

BIG FREIGHTER IN SERVICE.

Steamer William E. Corey Made First Trip Last Week.

The new steamer William E. Corey, named after the president of the United States Steel corporation to which the ship belongs, sailed from the shipyard at South Chicago last week bound for Lake Superior. In many ways the new steamer is said to be the finest and most complete freighter ever constructed on the lakes. The passenger accommodation for a limited number of guests are exceedingly fine, and the steamer will be the lake yacht of the steel trust fleet, although the big boat is destined to carry cargoes of over 12,000 tons every trip. An innovation on lake freight ships with passenger accommodations will be that Capt. Bailey will wear a dress suit at dinner when distinguished guests are on board.

Carferries Carrying Ore

Wednesday of last week marked a new era in the business of the Wisconsin & Michigan Carferry Transportation Co. between South Chicago and Peahigo. On that day carferry No. 1 received the first load of ore, the cars coming direct from the mines at Arago, Mich. The ore is transported via the Wisconsin & Michigan railroad to Peahigo Harbor and thence by carferries to the Illinois Steel Company furnaces at South Chicago. This means the opening of an immense traffic by this system and will undoubtedly result in the addition of one or more carferries to the fleet.

OLD PROPOSITION REVIVED

Claimed that Syndicate Will Build Canal Between Lake Superior and Lake Superior.

AU TRAIN TO RAPID RIVER

New Course Would Shorten Distance From Duluth to Chicago by 285 Miles.

Several years ago it was reported that a canal across the peninsula connecting Lake Superior and Lake Michigan was to be built. The report at that time proved to be only a report. This week it is given out by the Duluth News Tribune that a syndicate has been formed at Chicago for the purpose of building such a canal.

Following is the report as published in the News Tribune.

"A syndicate has been formed in Chicago to build a canal between Lake Superior and Lake Michigan, beginning on Lake Superior at Au Train and running through the Whitefish river to Gladstone or Escanaba.

It is said that this canal will shorten the distance between Duluth and Superior to Chicago by at least 285 miles, one for the head of the lakes to Buffalo it will shorten the distance by even a greater number of miles. In other words, vessels to and from the head of the lakes will not have to go through the Soo at all.

The syndicate says it will begin digging this canal in a short while, as it has a charter, and claims there are only sixteen to twenty miles distance that this canal will run, which will have to be dredged, the rest of the distance being already a water course.

The men interested believe they will make big money by digging this canal and at the same time charge far less toll than the Soo takes in.

NEW ORDINANCE SUBMITTED

Entire Platted Portion of City May Be Included in Ordinance Requiring Cement Walks.

City Attorney A. H. Ryall has submitted to the council an ordinance which includes the entire platted portion of the city in the district in which new wood sidewalks are prohibited and only cement walks allowed. At present only a part of the city is bound by the ordinance requiring cement walks.

FREEMAN RELEASED.

Former Menominee Man Will Engage in Business in Washington.

Archibald V. Freeman, sent up from Menominee county, for forgery, was released from the Marquette prison Saturday morning, after serving a four years' sentence, which was shortened to the extent of 264 days by good behavior. When liberated he left the city immediately for Detroit, where he will join his wife, who has been engaged in the millinery business there during her husband's incarceration.

The crime of which Freeman was convicted was the embezzlement of a large sum of money from the firm of Rober & Watson, Chicago. The concern operated heavily in the cedar business in the upper peninsula, and Freeman was in charge of the business in northern Wisconsin and Michigan. When the crime was discovered, he fled to Mexico, but was captured there by a detective. The sheriff of Menominee county made two trips to Mexico before he was able to force the Mexican authorities to give him up.

During his term in prison Freeman has been a model inmate, having been a trustee and acted as assistant in the clerk's office. It is reported that he will go to the state of Washington, where he will engage in the lumber business and begin life over.

Siege of Port Arthur.

The siege of Port Arthur reproduced by moving pictures will be presented at Peterson's opera house on Nov. 22.

These scenes are exhibited by Mr. Howe exclusively, who secured them necessarily at great expense direct from the only war photographer in the trenches and on the firing lines before Port Arthur—Mr. Joseph Rosenthal of London. Mr. Rosenthal was one of the ten fortunate correspondents to secure permission from the Japanese war office to accompany the 3rd Imperial Army. He was the only one of this party of ten to secure a comprehensive series of moving pictures and was furnished special facilities by Gen. Baron Nogi to enable him to obtain the living history.

Opens at Peterson's Opera House Next Week.

On a former occasion this company proved to Escanaba theatre-goers that it is possible to present good actors and plays at popular prices. "Oak Farm" the play to be presented on the opening night is given with the full strength of the company and the scenes and electric effects are said to be beautiful. The management has arranged to admit ladies free Monday evening, that is a lady and gentleman or two ladies will be admitted for one 30 cent ticket purchased before 6 p. m. Monday.

FINDS VALUABLE MINERAL.

Molybdenum, Worth $500 a Ton, Discovered Near Republic.

A find of valuable mineral on lands in which he is interested, near Republic, has been made by Carl Peterson. Exploratory work on the tract Peterson encountered a bright scaly substance which was entirely new to all prospectors to whom it was shown. Samples were sent to the Michigan College of Mines with request for analysis. The answer came back that the mineral had been identified as molybdenum, a comparatively rare substance in demand for use in chemical laboratories, but that no data was at hand at the moment to indicate its commercial value.

Some eastern chemists were communicated with and they have now replied that a ready market could be found for practically all the molybdenum the Republic man could furnish, and that if the shipments averaged up to the samples submitted a price of between $400 and $500 per ton could be guaranteed.

DIED OF HEART FAILURE.

Mrs. Lizzie Iverson Died Suddenly Monday Night.

Mrs. Lizzie Iverson, wife of Officer Andrew Iverson died suddenly at seven o'clock Monday evening at the family home at 1280 Wells Avenue. The cause of death was heart failure. Mrs. Iverson was in her usual health Monday and was sitting quietly conversing with her husband when she was stricken. She lived only a few minutes, and passed away before medical help could be summoned.

She was 31 years of age and is survived by her husband and one son. The funeral was held from the First Methodist church on Wednesday afternoon.

A Real Good Coon Show.

Parents Consented.

A marriage license was refused on Tuesday. Rose Bendain and Philip Labelle of Gladstone for the reason that the bride had not reached the required age of 18 but confessed that she was only 17. The necessary written consent of the parents were then obtained and the license was issued without further objections. The couple were married Tuesday afternoon by Judge Linden.

Robbed by Pickpockets

While standing in the crowd that gathered about the open air service of the Salvation Army at Campbell and Ludington streets Tuesday night pickpockets working in the crowd, relieved Fred Jensen of $20 which he carried in the inside pocket of his coat.

The loss was not discovered until after the crowd had dispersed and the officers to whom the case was reported have no clues on which to work in making an investigation.

It is not probable that any arrests will be made as no suspicions are held as to the identity of the thief.

Mr. Jensen took a load of blueberries to Ford River Tuesday and disposed of his pickings for a week, which netted him a total of $20.

On returning to the city Mr. Jensen joined the crowd around the Salvation Army workers in the street and although he was jostled several times by people in the crowd he had no thought of pickpockets.

Progress of Peace Negotiations Between Russia and Japan—Foreign and Domestic Items of Interest Told in Brief.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

At request of the president Baron Rosen came to Oyster Bay and had a long talk with Mr. Roosevelt regarding status of negotiations and the stumbling blocks that have stopped further progress by the envoys. President is believed to have asked Russia and Japan to submit to arbitration questions on which they are unable to agree.

A break in the peace negotiations was narrowly averted when the Sakhalin issue was brought up.

Russia's attitude in the peace conference is attributed to pressure brought on the czar by the Kaiser, who seeks to block Japan and England in their plan for controlling the far east by preventing peace.

Japan has redeemed every pledge by restoring Manchuria and the railroad to China, declares the Peking correspondent of the London Times.

A London Times correspondent says there now is no possibility of the present conference concluding peace. There is no common ground on indemnity, Sakhalin, interned ships or limitation of naval power questions.

SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE

BUILDINGS TREMBLE AND PEOPLE FLEE IN TERROR.

Disturbance Is Felt in States of Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee.

St. Louis, Aug. 22.—Illinois, Missouri, Tennessee and Kentucky were visited by severe earthquake shocks at 11:08 o'clock Monday night. The entire central portion of the Mississippi valley was shaken and consternation and terror followed the shocks in places where the vibrations were most severe.

The heaving of the earth was distinctly felt in St. Louis, Springfield, Ill., Cairo, Ill., Fairview, Ill., Brownsville, Tenn., Paris, Tenn., Paducah, Ky., Memphis, Tenn., and many other towns throughout the four states named. In St. Louis the shocks were so severe thousands of persons were roused from sound sleep and sent hurrying in alarm to the telephones. Dishes, doors and windows rattled all over town and in some places pictures fell from the walls.

The big office buildings downtown quivered as if shaken by a storm and in the newspaper offices where night forces were at work the shock was instantly noted by the trembling of desks, chairs and tables.

At Memphis, Tenn., hundreds of persons fled from their homes into the streets at 11:10 o'clock, when two distinct shocks started nearly every house in the city to trembling and quivering, threw pictures from the walls and started dishes and windows rattling in a most alarming manner. The shocks lasted almost a minute.

Telegrams from Clarksville, Erin and Brownsville, Tenn., state that the shock was severe there. In Clarksville the shock was sufficient to awaken everybody in town. Many of the people rushed in terror out of their houses. Dogs howled and fled into the open. Chickens flew crowing from their roosts. Several old brick buildings collapsed, but as these were uninhabited no lives were lost.

FLOWERS DRUG PURVEYORS

Australia Orchid Contains Alcoholic Sap That Intoxicates Bees.

Laying down her book, she smiled sadly, shook her head, and smoothed the folds of the white ribbon on her breast, relates the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"We teetotalers," she said, "have a hard time to find good, logical arguments for our cause. It is amazing, when you come to study teetotalism, what a lot of logic the drinkers can bring up against you.

"There's bread, for instance. There is alcohol in bread. In a month we consume in rolls and toast an amount of alcohol that would be sufficient, taken at one time, to make a strong man drunk.

"Then there's medicine. Nearly every medicine is mixed in alcohol. Alcohol is the base, the vehicle in which we swallow nearly all our drugs.

"These things, though, are man's work; they are not the work of nature; and hence it is not impious to argue against them. But in this book here—this book that I have just put down—I find that there are flowers that keep grog shops.

"Flowers that keep grog shops! It sounds incredible. Nevertheless it is true.

"Flowers, we have always held, can do no wrong. As pure as a flower, we say. 'As fair and sweet and modest as a flower.'

"Well, if a flower, the most innocent thing on earth, keeps a grog shop, why shouldn't you, or I, or the Rev. Dr. Smith?

"The grog dispensary I am talking about belongs, my book says, to Australia. It is an orchid, a mauve orchid, and it exudes a sap distinctly alcoholic, a sap which the bees love, though it makes them drunk.

"The orchid makes bees drunk because, otherwise, it would not propagate; it would die out. Its stigmata, you see, lie in a part of it that bees wouldn't visit because it is too unhandy and remote. But these stigmata must be fertilized, or the flower perishes. Hence the orchid loads the bees with its sap, making them disgracefully tipsy, and the poor, staggering, lurching bees, when they can drink no more, fall and roll into the uninviting place where the stigmata are, and with their pollen fertilizing these stigmata, they keep the orchid flourishing on the earth."

IN THE METROPOLIS

THE STRONG PERSONALITY OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY JEROME.

OF LIVELY INDEPENDENCE

Police Force of New York Suffering from Politics—Smashing a Prejudice—Uselessness of a Late Expensive Toy.

NEW YORK.—LORD BROUGHAM once referred to Daniel Webster as a steam engine in trousers. He didn't mean that Webster suggested the panting hurry of the locomotive; a steam engine then meant rather the grim, smooth power of the stationary engine. We think now—days in terms of electricity. William Travers Jerome is a human live wire. His father was Larry Jerome, celebrated as a wit, whose best witticisms gained point from a delicious stammer. The elder Jerome was a clubman, of a type then rare in New York; the younger is a clubman, too, if mere membership in exclusive organizations can be so defined; but he has no time to waste in club windows. He is 46 years old, of medium height, athletic when he can get the time for training. His portraits make him look younger than he is; his face is deeply marked with lines of thought and activity. On the platform he again looks younger than he is; his lithe, panther tread, the intensity of a voice he never needs to raise above a conversational tone to make thrill with earnestness, aid in the impression of deathless youth and vigor.

Jerome is an aristocrat by birth, if there is any such thing the new world; yet he is the idol of the great East side. He is a democrat; yet he has thrown the so-called democratic leadership in this city into a panic. He is a law officer; yet he has alone among men of this generation dared to tell the truth about New York's courts, which is that they are unworthy of New York. He is financially poor, the son of a man who never cared to make or save money. He is a relative of that Jennie Jerome who entranced England with her beauty, who became Lady Randolph Churchill, and was nearly thereby the wife of a premier, and who has since married a man much her junior.

Such the man and such his antecedents, who has thrown Tammany into a flutter by announcing his candidacy for reelection upon a nomination by petition.

Jerome in Larger Politics.

HERE was never any question that Jerome could get a regular party nomination if he wished it. What he wanted was to get his call from the people first; then he could accept an endorsement without being bound by bargains. There is in his feeling over the matter the combination of a boy's chuckling glee over a merry prank and a man's deeper purpose. He enjoys his work, every minute; enjoys controversy, enjoys the smoke and heat of battle. He is outspoken, has abused every leader of prominence in both parties—Platt, Dewey, Odell, Murphy, Hill, the latter least of all. Four years ago, when he was running upon the fusion ticket for his present office, he gave Platt a lively platform trouncing; people said it meant his defeat at the hands of knifing republicans. He actually carried the borough of Manhattan, which was a bigger feat than carrying the whole city. If New York has an idol, Jerome is that man.

Will Jerome be reelected upon his novel platform? How can they prevent it? He is out against both machines, the republican and the democratic. The people in this city love neither. They have suffered from both. Tammany, which has usurped the democratic name, rules them badly, robs them, neglects them; the republican machine exploits the city to the advantage of upstate republicans and taxpayers. Neither is liked; either is capable of trying to share in Jerome's power by indorsing him.

There is another way. The people may insist upon nominating him for mayor. He is the logical opponent of Mr. McClellan, who is a gentleman like himself, and whom the people instinctively recognize as personally an excellent man.

The Chinese Riots.

COMPARE the district attorney's office—dockets cleared up for the first time in years, the "lottery king" sent to Sing Sing, gamblers closed up—with the inefficient police.

I hesitate to speak of gangs and gang rule again so soon, but when a white gang gives notice that a policeman who has offended them by arresting a member, must not walk his beat, on pain of murder, and the accommodating management changes that beat; when in a Chinese theater three men are murdered in a single shooting scrape between rival gangs, what are we to think about the police of the great metropolis?

This: That it is a magnificent force; that the stranger within the gates must be favorably impressed with the splendid mounted men who manage the difficult crossings; that on the surface it is everywhere right and clean. But the force, like every other department of city activity, is suffering from politics.

A colored man and brother, reeling from his wounds in the recent race riots on San Juan Hill was heard to bemoan altered days.

"Ain't no use goin' roun' dese yere times," he said to a sympathizer. "Cap'n Williams, he know how to manage niggers. He seen a niggah profeckin' roun' too fresh he'd say to um: 'Go home, niggah; go 'way 'um dis 'r I'll club yo' head off.' Das er way to do it." There sits in a quiet office downtown a gentle-voiced old man, not over large or burly, who talks of indifferent matters with keen intelligence. His eye flashes more brightly when police matters are mentioned. His cheek flushes faintly as he delivers himself with energy. Thomas Byrnes, a born policeman, made the force great. There has never been a Byrnes since. Which is not so wonderful, as no other city, so far as I can learn, has Byrnes to spare. Perhaps such policemen are as rare as Jeromes.

Hyde in Newport.

AMES HAZEN HYDE, the great four-in-hand whip, the most daring innovator in the matter of fancy balls, the Patroclus of the Equitable Assurance company's Trojan war, is making quite as big a stir in Newport as if he had not since last summer the central figure in an astounding disclosure of graft. Hyde was a prominent figure at the Bay Shore horse show, which is held near the great house he owns as his chief country home. But he is hardly important as a yachtman.

The great annual cruise of the New York Yacht club eastward was a more impressive spectacle this year than ever before, in spite of the defection of the speed-madness motor-boatsmen, but the principal yachts in that splendid procession were owned by men who do not greatly specialize upon horse display. Frederick G. Bourne, a South Shore neighbor of Hyde, has a steam yacht nearly 200 feet long. He has just provided a second country home by building a castle at a cost of a quarter of a million dollars on the St. Lawrence river. Bourne "got his" in sewing machines, Singer machines. He was selected by the late Alfred Corning Clark as a bright young man to represent the Clark estate on the West side of New York city.

The Clark estate was a potent factor in the city's life at one time. On the West side lay great areas of vacant land. People feared to build there. It was a maxim that to build on West side lands spelled failure. Clark knew that the way to break a prejudice was not to tap it, but to smash it. He sent an architect to France to study flat architecture, to return, to put into a flat building which should be the finest in the world the best ideas he had gleaned, regardless of expense. The enterprise was not to yield more than four per cent. profit. The quest was fruitful in a solid building, which is still among the best, as it is probably the most exclusive of New York's apartment houses. It has a waiting list of several hundred names. It carries no fire insurance, so solid is it. At the same time Clark began to build rows of great private houses costing $70,000 each. He set the character of the neighborhood.

The Motor Boat Race.

PREDICTED months ago—easily enough—the craze that motor boating would have this season. Forty miles an hour is the goal the speed-mad devotees have set. Herreshoff is the mar, of course. Forty miles is 35 knots, or thereabouts. Herreshoff's latest marine wonder of 35 feet in length and five feet in width is said to make it.

The automobile has made the fast motor boat possible by developing the light, fast motor. The problem is the same. On land, to put into a big machine hardly longer than a farm wagon the power of a double procession of horses an eighth of a mile long. On the water to put the same power into a hull that a man could row in a calm sea at a respectable pace.

What was the old school maxim about double speed meaning quadruple power expended? Double several times the power of the man with the oars, and there you are.

There you have, also, about the most useless boat that the mind of man ever designed. You cannot go anywhere in her; her power needs constant re-igniting. You can have no fun in her; the wind blows in your eyes the spray stung up by her sharp prow so that you can only crouch under the hood and look astern.

But she is fast; and in a recent flying trip to Bar Harbor and Newport I saw the harbors fairly dotted with such expensive toys.

SCANDAL AT CAMP

GRAVE CHARGES MADE AGAINST HIGH STATE OFFICERS.

WILL HOLD COURT-MARTIAL

Accusations and Counter Accusations Are Made by Captain and Major in First Infantry—Warner to Approve.

(Wm. Ellery, Staff Correspondent.)

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 21.—A scandal which may involve a large number of state militia officers has been unearthed at Camp Warner, at Ludington, and Brig. Gen. Harrah has decided to convene a court martial, subject to the approval of Gov. Warner, to investigate the charges made against each other by Capt. Shipman and Maj. Bersey, both of the First Infantry. Charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman have been made by Capt. Fred C. Shipman, commanding Company K, and candidate for the office of register of deeds in Wayne county at the last election, against Maj. John S. Bersey, in command of the Detroit Light Guard battalion. Counter charges of intoxication and the flashing of a loaded revolver in the face of a brother officer may follow. The scandal is the result of a pleasure party in Capt. Shipman's tent on a recent night. The charges are now in the hands of Col. John P. Kirk of the First regiment. The unfortunate affair must now be passed on to Brig. Gen. C. W. Harrah. The hour and the circumstances of the fracas will drag in almost a score of other officers of the regiment as witnesses, each of the three battalions being represented at the gathering. While neither of the principals will talk of the affair, information gleaned from various sources combine to prove that the fight started by Capt. Shipman's ordering Lieut. Larry Lawrence of the Second battalion to leave the tent. Shipman is alleged to have drawn a revolver to enforce his command; but the weapon was wrested from his grasp by Maj. Bersey, who also took occasion to severely lecture Shipman. The impression among the officers of the regiment was that Maj. Bersey would prefer charges against Capt. Shipman, and the latter's move in making charges against his superior officer was a complete surprise. It is 18 years since a general courtmartial has been held in the Michigan national guard, and then it was a private soldier who was tried. A general courtmartial must be composed of 12 officers of equal rank with the accused.

Fair Nearing Completion.

From Detroit comes the news that the state fair buildings are rapidly nearing completion and they will be finished in ample time for the opening of the festivities on September 11. Three hundred men are working overtime to hustle the work along. The achievements of each day are astonishingly great. The din caused by the work of hundreds of busy mechanics fills the air as each hour the structures take on a more complete appearance. Men and teams swarm the race track and the grounds where the grading is in progress. Half a dozen large gangs of workmen are employed on different jobs. The splendid looking "Michigan" building in the foreground has all its parts in place and the roofing is nearly finished. The main exposition building 900 feet east of the Michigan building, and which was started later than the others, has gone up with a tremendous rush. The enormous buildings for the horses are almost ready for use now. Great pieces of iron for the grandstand swung into place from a crane. Sixty-three concrete columns on which the structure will rest have been ready for weeks. Ten carloads of steel and iron have arrived on the grounds. There will be a total of 50 carloads used in the grandstand. The foundry company in charge have the required pieces of steel available. This is an important fact because of the scarcity of steel, making it impossible to get orders filled in less than four months. Arrangements for this steel had been made with due foresight to have the place completed so that spectators to the number of 3,000 can view the proceedings on the race track. With a skill that has achieved wonders, the fields east of the grandstand have been transformed into an excellent mile track. The process of bringing it to the pink of condition is now in progress. Inclosures for cattle, sheep and swine have been erected. These will be covered with canvas, for this season. A small army of men with teams are busy grading the entire grounds. They will be given the smoothness of a croquet ground. From Woodward avenue the buildings appear stately and commodious. The Michigan building shows splendidly from its prominent site near Woodward avenue. It is the rebuilt Michigan building which attracted attention at the St. Louis exposition. Two enormous verandas circle the place and many pillars add to the strength and

State Owns All Game.

A new doctrine in this state was enunciated in the general game law enacted at the recent session of the legislature. It is stated in the first section, which contains but three lines: "All wild animals and wild birds, both resident and migratory, in this state shall be, and are hereby declared to be, the property of the state." No more has the discoverer, nor the owner of the land upon which they may be found any rights of ownership in even a chipmunk or a chickadee. They are the property of the state, to be molested or appropriated by individuals only upon permission of the state, and according to rules which the state shall prescribe. The doctrine is sound, and it is wholesome. It furnishes a rational and efficient basis upon which to build whatever legislation may be desired for the protection or production or destruction of wild creatures, for the public benefit in either a material or an aesthetic sense, from considerations pecuniary and humane. The act divides the birds into classes, game birds and non-game birds. The game birds are embraced in four families, the first consisting of geese, brant and ducks; the second, rails, coots and gallinules; the third, snipe, woodcock, plover, sandpipers, tattlers and curlews; the fourth, turkeys, pheasants, grouse, prairie chickens and quail.

Camp Warner Ends.

(Special Correspondent.)
Camp Warner at Ludington has come to an end after numerous ceremonies which have made residents from all over the state come and wonder. The camp contained nearly 3,000 men. Forty companies were in line when Gov. Warner reviewed them, and the impression made was a lasting one. Maneuvers, sham battles, dress parades and festivities given by Ludingtona people beguiled the time for the Michigan national guard. The camp is declared to have been a success by the officers. There is but one marbling feature, the love of liquor which was displayed by the troops. Several cases of delirium tremens developed and drunkenness was common.

Commission Meets.

A commission created by the last legislature consisting of the state banking commissioner, attorney general and state treasurer, met in Lansing recently to decide upon the class of securities in which state banks may invest. It is the intention of the law that banks may purchase certain industrial securities, in which they were not permitted to deal under the law as it stood prior to last winter.

Will Be Historical Road.

State Highway Commissioner Earle says that the road which is to be built from Lansing to the agricultural college will be historical. It is unique in the fact that the United States government, through the agricultural college, the state, the city and the township will all contribute to the building of the two miles of road, which will cost about $12,000. The United States government will contribute about $3,000, the state $2,000, the city will furnish aid and the township will build the bridges and culverts. The balance of the cost will be provided for by private subscription. The road will be graded 21 feet in width, and have a metalled roadway of 15 feet.

Separated Thirty-Three Years.

After being separated 33 years, each thinking the other had died many years ago, John James of Montreal and Robert James of Rapid River, brothers, were reunited in Rapid River recently. The Montreal James learned of the existence of his brother through a conversation on a train while passing through Rapid River with a chance acquaintance, and he stopped at the next station to return. The brothers were separated when boys by the death of their parents and neither could recognize the other, the identification being by means of a scar on the arm of the older brother from a wound inflicted by the younger when the boys were at play. John James is a wealthy land owner in Canada, and his brother will accompany him home.

Fear for Bumper Yield.

Western Michigan, known as the "peach belt," is now concerning itself with the question: "How shall we move the peach crop?" The yield for this year has become such a huge one that there is a serious doubt existing as to the possibility of shipping all the product. Railroad facilities are being brought into service as fast as they can be secured, but still the situation is critical. One road official says: "The condition that confronts us this year is different than we have ever experienced before. We have between 3,000 and 4,000 refrigerator cars, and from the Michigan fruit belt over 5,000 cars of peaches will be shipped. It will require about ten days for a round trip of a refrigerator car from Benton Harbor to the eastern market, and if peaches should string out over a period of a month each car would be able to make three round trips, but all the cars cannot be diverted to the peach trade, so the situation is worrying us." An estimate for the distribution of these cars is as follows: Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, 150; Grand Rapids, 2,000; Fennville, 500; Hartford, 500. C. Hilton of Ferris county says that peach prices will be good this season. Arrangements have been made for securing markets in New York, Philadelphia and other cities where Michigan peaches have been sold but little heretofore.

It Is No Easy Job to Find Suitable Ones—Saints Furnish Many.

Outlook for Peppermint Crop. Kalamazoo.—The peppermint growers of Michigan are to be congratulated on the ideal weather recently prevailing, which has caused a rapid growth of the plants, and their enrichment in oil. The prospects accordingly, which awhile ago were only quite moderate, have recently changed, greatly for the better, and we have learned of some fields which have given the remarkably large yield of 20 pounds to the wagon load, and from 50 to 60 pounds per acre. An unusual endeavor was made last spring, to plant as large an area as possible, as the demand the past few years has been very good, and an increase of about 75 per cent. in area over that of last year, was planted. We hear various estimates of the crop of Michigan and adjacent territory, ranging between 175,000 to 300,000 pounds, and should judge that the output will not exceed 250,000 pounds, as compared with about 135,000 pounds last year.

Big Drowning Record.

Lansing.—During July there were 62 accidents in Michigan, an average of two for every day in the month. There were eight deaths from tetanus during the month of the Fourth of July festivities, and seven of the cases were traced directly to the deadly toy pistol. This number exceeds by three the number reported for the month of July last year. There were two deaths from rabies, one in Calumet township and one in the city of Hancock. Four deaths from smallpox occurred. The total number of deaths in the state was 2,482.

Come North to Escape Fever.

Grand Rapids.—Thousands of panic-stricken persons are flocking from Dixie land to the northern summer resorts to escape the scourge of yellow fever that has settled upon the southern states. From Baton Rouge, Jackson, New Orleans, Texarkana, Shreveport, Bon Ami and Tusculuma whole families are migrating swiftly to the north.

Women Work in Fields.

Birmingham.—So scarce has been help in Southfield township this season that the farmers' wives and daughters have been forced to take a hand in the work, riding mowing machines and raking hay. Many of them have driven the big self-binders and they say they will manipulate a pitchfork when the threshers come, if necessary.

Railroads Doing Well.

Lansing.—Commissioner Atwood reports that the Michigan earnings of railroad companies for June were $4,316,743, an increase of $204,850 over June, 1904. The aggregate Michigan earnings for the first half of 1905 were $23,901,528. This is $1,863,250, or 8.49 per cent. more than for the same period last year.

News Briefly Stated.

Belding.—Aaron Osborn and Dan Fisher, well diggers, were killed by choke damp or carbon monoxide gas while entering a well to make repairs at Mathias Jonas' farm, five miles from here.

Muskegon.—Mrs. Jennie Carr in a suit for divorce in the circuit court, says that since 1876 her husband has been an habitual drunkard. Twenty-nine years a drunkard is an unusual record in Muskegon county.

Grand Haven.—Thomas Golden, veteran employe of the Grand Trunk railway died from bright's disease, aged 66. He had for 23 years been bridge tender at the railroad bridge over the Grand river between this city and Ferrysburg.

Newaygo.—John A. McKinley broke both arms by falling from the belfry of the Congregational church.

Sault Ste. Marie.—The sawmill of the Mud Lake Lumber company, near Rader, has burned, causing a loss of $25,000, insured for $11,750. It will be rebuilt.

Adrian.—Aunt Betty Weatherwax died of pneumonia recently in the house in which she had lived for 60 years. Had she lived until September 26 she would have been 93 years of age.

Bellaire.—William Hamilton, aged 21, of Midland, was accidentally struck by a pole falling on him here, while at work on the tents of Sun Brothers' circus. He died from the injury.

Albion.—The corner stone of the new $3,000 W. C. T. U. building was laid with impressive ceremonies. Owing to the rain the greatest part of the exercises were held in the Methodist church. Prof. F. S. Goodrich, of Albion college, delivered the principal address.

Traverse City.—On a farm which her husband left her with $7,735 encumbrance, Mrs. Henry V. Butler has since December last, with the air of three sons under 15 years of age, cleared off $3,425 indebtedness. She has supervised all of the work and put the farm on a paying basis.

Detroit.—Contest over the $1,000,000 estate of the late Peter Henkel, who died May 22, 1904, was instituted in the Wayne circuit court. Mrs. Alice Henkle Pennington, granddaughter of the deceased, who was bequeathed $500 in the will, asks the court to set aside the instrument.

Menominee.—After emptying his revolver at fellow employes of a sawmill, and jumping into the river in an attempt to commit suicide, Swan Peterson was taken to jail, where he strangled himself with a heavy cord concealed on his person.

Lansing.—Gov. Warner has appointed Philip A. Snyder of Three Rivers, a delegate to the annual congress of the National Prison association, to be held at Lincoln, Neb., in October.

Hillsdale.—The house of Jonas Brown was entered during the absence of the family and $460 in money taken, a portion of it being gold coin.

APARTMENT HOUSE NAMES.

It Is No Easy Job to Find Suitable Ones—Saints Furnish Many.

"There used to be a story to the effect that George M. Pullman allowed one of his daughters $10,000 a year for naming palace cars," said a New York architect. "Nearly every one who heard the story supposed Miss Pullman had a stonore, and that the salary was merely the vehicle chosen by her father to convey an annual present to her. But if she finds names for the thousands of cars that the Pullman company built she earned her money.

"Before I had been called upon to find a name for a new apartment hotel I had never dreamed what a hard job it is.

"Of course the car names are not so important nor so difficult to find, for all the cars are numbered as well as named, and the name is chiefly ornamental. No one is compelled to remember it, and travelers are not likely to complain if they find themselves assigned to cars the names of which are not euphonious.

"But when it comes to naming an apartment house or hotel it is different. The name ought to be short, musical, euphonious, easily spelled, easily remembered, not commonplace, not yet wholly unknown. For the same reason that a man should never name a child for anyone who is still alive a hotel would be better not be named for any popular hero of the hour.

"You haven't any idea how hard it is to find a name for a hotel, and it is still harder to find a name for a high-class apartment house. Just try to think of a name you would like to see carved in stone over the entrance to a family hotel you were to own or manage. You might use your own name if it isn't Jones or Smith or if you didn't bring it from Russia or Hungary with you. But is your own name well enough known to be easily remembered? Would it add anything to the attractiveness of the house to a stranger? Is it easily pronounced and spelled? All these things and more are required.

"The name must never have been connected with any unfortunate event. It must not be historically offensive to any race, nation or creed. It must not have any hoodoo associations.

"These are among the reasons so many houses are named after saints. The religious prejudices of few people are strong enough to make them resentful against a holy man or woman of another creed, and besides, few people know enough of saintly biography to be conversant with the deeds of those who have been canonized. The names of sainted women are more desirable than those of sainted men, on the general principle that women are more interesting to more people than men.

"I remember the first time I was called upon to find a name for a big apartment house in a fashionable part of New York. My firm received the contract and the owner added the stipulation that we should find a name. I had no idea what a task it would be, so we didn't ask any additional compensation. After a general plan of the building had been outlined we all set to work to find a name.

"Then I tried a lot of Indian names, but I found that all that were not already attached to hotels were unsuitable for some reason. I went into mythology and struck the same snag. Then I tried the names of cities, counties, places, monarchs, statesmen, ancient and modern, but they were all in use or unavailable. Finally I was forced to try the saints, and with the aid of a public library I found more names than New York could use in many a year."

Lightning and Cities.

"Lightning never kills people in cities," said an insurance agent. "My company's statistics show that in cities there is practically no danger of death from lightning stroke. Look back and ask yourself if you ever heard of anyone being killed by lightning on Broadway, or in front of the Auditorium, or on Beacon street, or on Chestnut street, or on Nicolet avenue? No. It is in the country or in little villages that the all-dreaded thunderstorm does its deadly work. Why are cities in this way immune? Some say it is because they have no trees to attract the lightning. Some say it is because the cloud of factory smoke above their roofs is a protection. At any rate, stay in town this summer if you want to be safe from thunderstorms."

Looking for Information.

It was the bride's first appearance at any race-track. "Clarence, dear," she said, "what makes them put those funny-looking bracelets around the horses' ankles?" "To keep them from interfering, pet," answered the other half of the sketch. "Indeed!" exclaimed her bridegroom, who was enjoying her emancipation from the wilds of Pike county to the limit. "And do they really make the horses mind their own business?"—Chicago Daily News.

Very Considerate.

"One way for you to improve yourself, young man, is to constantly associate with your superiors." "I know it, sir, but I am so conscientious I cannot bring myself to do it." "And why conscientious?" "I hate to think what my superiors would be suffering all that time."—Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

What Has Happened in Kansas.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell in the September McClure's smashes the last refuge of those apologists of John D. Rockefeller and his associates who, when the tainted money discussion was rife, cried that if Standard Oil had been an offender once it had now reformed and put itself above reproach. "If one wants a neat demonstration," says Miss Tarbell, "complete to the last detail, that the Standard Oil Company is today, as always, 'a conspiracy in restraint of trade,' he should go to Kansas. The oil war in that state, which in turn amused, bewildered and excited the country during the earlier months of the present year, was the direct result of a sudden realization by the Kansans that the Standard has been playing in their territory a game thirty years old, playing it under their very noses so quickly and deftly that, keen as they pride themselves on being, they have not realized its meaning until they began to feel the pressure.

The story of the Standard's attempt to gobble the Kansas oil field is the history of its earlier piratical aggressions repeating itself, but with a different ending. In Kansas it encountered a new brand of public spirit, and went into the contest with this enlightened and electric commonwealth, handicapped by its past sins; but for a while, until public sentiment was aroused, Standard Oil had everything its own way.

Miss Tarbell tells in the September number what Standard Oil did to Kansas, how it came into the state after fortunes had been sunk in locating the oil, and by the operation of its old, well tried juggernaut, the railroad rate, proceeded to gobble the fruits of the pioneers' sowing. Miss Tarbell shows in the clearest and most informing way just how the railroads operated as secret allies of the Standard. The whole railroad situation appears in miniature in this story of the Standard Oil's smothering of the Kansas oil industry. What happened there is going on all over the United States, but the Kansans are the only Americans who have put the state above special privilege. "You may be investing $15,000,000 for taking care of our oil" said the people. "You may do the work more promptly and perfectly than any other concern ever could, but justice is more important than millions, and every man shall have a chance in Kansas. We are going to stop your game. You must play fair if you stay in Kansas.

Easy Michigan Marriages

W. L. Bodine of Chicago raises his voice to protest against Michigan's "getting married easy" industry. It is timely. Decency and good morals join with him in the protest against what had become a state scandal. During the summer season the excursion steamers bring their crowds from Chicago, Milwaukee and other across the state points. Many young couples come unattended by parents, guardians or friends. Only too often getting married in a part of a day's frolic, and the solemn vows are spoken not from the heart, but in a spirit of levity. It is not a sacred obligation they enter into, but a joke. It is a dull Sunday that does not see fifty or sixty excursion marriages performed at St. Joseph alone, and while that may be the center, other shore or nearby towns also have a share of the traffic. Some of these marriages may end happily but in more instances sorrow, suffering and vain regrets follow. Forsaken wives, deserted husbands and abandoned children are the results. What was done as a joke becomes a tragedy.

The Michigan marriage laws ought to be amended. Two or three days ought to elapse between issuing the license and performing the ceremony. This itself would be a great reform. It would be a safe guard against the impulsive marriages of Sunday excursionists. The examination of applicants for licenses, as so age and social conditions should be more rigid. Still other regulations might be enacted to guard the thoughtless and the unwary from the consequences of their own indiscretion.

Marriage is a sacred institution. The eagerness for the fees of the county clerks, justices of the peace, hack drivers, restaurant keepers and easy condescended preachers ought not to be permitted to make it a farce and a scandal. Other states have stiffened their marriage laws and Michigan should do the same. This state should not tolerate an evil that Wisconsin several years ago put a stop to.

Farm Coming Back to Its Own.

Things on the farm are changing, and we already observe, if we watch the barometer of social life, that there is a tendency to get back to the country. Fifteen years ago, for instance, less than 50 per cent of the population were moving countryward; in 1900 the statistics show that 70 per cent were seeking out homes in rural districts, and it is likely that the population now going away from the city reaches 75 per cent. At last, with Solomon, they are discovering "all is vanity" in the cities; that friendships are difficult, that neighbors don't know the real names one of the other, that noise, dirt, confusion are there and the struggle to live is at the desperate stage all the time.

The telephone, the trolley line, free rural mail delivery—these are mitigating the unsocial side of rural life, and the beauty of nature is doing the rest.

Sucs for $39,000

Marine men are much interested in the outcome of a suit by the owners of the sterner Gladstone against the steamer Sacramento. The Gladstone was sunk by the Sacramento in the Detroit river several years ago, and the suit is for $39,000, the difference between the amount the Sacramento brought when sold and its alleged value when surrendered to the court. It is stated that approximately $35,000 was expended in the repairs and improvements on the Sacramento, which has just left the Bay City drydock, after a stay of two months.

Relieve this terrible strain at once with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. It invigorates and strengthens the heart nerves and muscles, stimulates the heart action, and relieves the pain and misery.

Take no chances; make your heart strong and vigorous with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

"I suffered terribly with heart disease. I have been treated by different physicians for my trouble without results. I went to a physician in Memphis, who claimed that I had dropsy of the heart. He put the X-ray on me, and in connection with his medicine he came near making a finish of me. Some time before this a Mr. Young, of St. Louis, was in our town. He saw my condition, and recommended Dr. Miles' Heart Cure to me. I gave it little attention until my return from Memphis, when I concluded to try it, and am pleased to say three bottles cured me."

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. W. L. Howard of Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits may be realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown."—A recent bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College in part says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is continually diminishing and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future. The market for our cultivated root will exist as long as the Chinamen exist."—Counsel General W. A. Rüblee of Hong Kong says in the U. S. Consular reports: sale of the Ginseng root grown in America is very large here and the demand is so great that much more could be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indispensable to the 400,000,000 Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat, and cotton. The present market price varies from $5.00 to $8.00 per pound according to quality, while the cost of production does not exceed $1.50. There is room in an ordinary garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant is hardy and thrives in all parts of the United States and Canada, except in the arid regions. We are successful growers and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. You can get a good start in the business for a comfortable income. We have several thousand choice roots for sale for fall delivery. The planting season begins in August and continues till the ground is frozen.

Benner—"Do you ever go on the merry-go-round?" Jenner—"No, I am on the water wagon now."

Guest—"Don't you like to have company to dinner?" Truthful Tommy—"No'm. We have more to eat, but I don't get as much of it."

Friend—"Are you sure Mr. Pinkey loves you?" Mrs. P.—"Well, he must when he loans me his razor to open a can of tomatoes with."

The Lover—"You see, ma and pa are opposed to me, but the girl isn't." Friend—"You're all right. You're going to be elected by an overwhelming majority."

A three-year-old boy upset a box of baking powder. His sister set him on a chair and told him to be good. After sitting there awhile he said: "Are you satisfied? I am."

"Have you ever considered the debt of gratitude you owe your country?" "Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "But it doesn't bother me. A debt of gratitude can't foreclose any mortgages."

A New Yorker was visiting in Boston. Seeing a parrot in a cage he asked: "Does Polly want a cracker?" "I require no sustenance from you whatsoever," replied the Back Bay bird, with hauteur.

"Mamma, my leg hurts," complained a little girl. "Don't say leg, dear," corrected mamma; "say limb." Two days later the little girl went to her mamma and said: "Mamma, my limb hurts where my leg used to be."

LITERATURE AND ART.

Rudyard Kipling used to be an expert at carpentering and has successfully constructed many miniature ships.

Mrs. Ogden Golet has had made an enormous expense an edition de luxe of "Hyperion." It is a limited edition of one and that will be placed in her library.

The heroine of "Annie Laurie" is the daughter of Sir Walter Laurie, of Maxwelltown. The composer of the song was William Douglas, of England, in the stewardry of Kirkcubright.

Leonid Andreyev is a new Russian author whose work is taking its place alongside that of Gorky in popularity. He was born in 1871, and his literary career did not begin until seven years ago, after his failure as a lawyer.

Prof. White, of Ithaca, N. Y., has arrived in Berlin from Florence, Italy, after he had succeeded in securing the release from the Italian government of the valuable collection of books and art objects left to Cornell university by Prof. D. W. Fiske, the well-known Danish scholar.

Harold Speed, the London artist, is pleasantly cynical and witty in speech. One of his sayings is: "No gentleman (in the ordinary acceptance of the word) should be an artist, for either the gentleman or the artist must suffer."

Another favorite observation of his: "Look a fool, but don't be one." Mr. Speed is a bit of a dandy, but everything about him betrays the artistic temperament.

A change to the right kind of food can lift one from a sick bed. A lady in Welden, Ill., says:

"Last Spring I became bed-fast with severe stomach trouble accompanied by sick headache. I got worse and worse until I became so low I could scarcely retain any food at all, although I tried every kind. I had become completely discouraged, had given up all hope and thought I was doomed to starve to death, till one day my husband trying to find something I could retain brought home some Grape-Nuts.

"To my surprise the food agreed with me, digested perfectly and without distress. I began to gain strength at once, my flesh (which had been flabby) grew firmer, my health improved in every way and every day, and in a very few weeks I gained 30 pounds in weight. I liked Grape-Nuts so well that for 4 months I ate no other food, and always felt as well satisfied after eating as if I had sat down to a fine banquet.

"I had no return of the miserable sick stomach nor of the headache, that I used to have when I ate other food. I am now a well woman, doing all my own work again, and feel that life is worth living.

"Grape-Nuts food has been a god-send to my family; it surely saved my life and my two little boys have thriven on it wonderfully." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Should Artists Attempt to Reflect the Times

By HON. JOHN COLLIER, Artist Who Painted the Celebrated Picture "The Cheat."

[In "The Cheat" Mr. Collier depicts four persons at the card-table. The game is Bridge, and one of the ladies is accusing the other of unfair play. In recording on canvas one of the ruling passions of the hour the artist has ventured on a course which, with variations, might well be followed by other painters.]

I am decidedly of opinion that pictures should reflect the times. My theory is, although I do not always practice it, that modern artists should paint modern scenes if they possibly can. Unfortunately, it is not easy to discover subjects that can be treated pictorially. I have painted people playing billiards and whist, but in these cases I relied more on the effect of light and shade than on anything else.

Then, on looking about for another subject of modern life, bridge occurred to me. People are playing bridge mostly nowadays, and I knew that the idea of "The Cheat" would afford me opportunities for depicting the play of expression, of emotion and of gesture. There is no reason why one shouldn't paint other times. I have done so myself, but I think it would be a great pity if all artists confined themselves to the representation of ancient days.

Personally, I would rather paint my own day, but, as I have said, there is the difficulty of selecting subjects. If you abandon your own period you can choose any setting, any costume; on the other hand, as regards modern costume, it is very unpictorial, especially that of men, and, moreover, modern surroundings are, as a rule, also unpictorial. Some people have inquired which was the cheat, and this, too, has annoyed me. I imagined that the identity of the cheat was perfectly obvious; if it isn't then my picture is wanting.

I have had one or two letters in reference to cheating at bridge, but I am not concerned with the moral aspect of the question. I do not set up as being a moralist. I painted the picture for its dramatic possibilities, and of course I endeavored to make it real. The problem was, how would such an incident happen in real life? There are four players. One lady is castigate, the other, who is suspected of cheating, is furious; the two men are non-committal. That is what I intended to convey. I am no bridge player myself, but I had expert advice before I started on the canvas.

It is legitimate that a picture should lead people to think. There are some who maintain that a picture should never tell a story. That I consider going too far. The story related should be quite a simple one, however. The advantage of telling a story on canvas is that you can introduce the play of expression and gesture. It is my opinion that art would be better appreciated—more attractive—if pictures dealt with episodes in our own life. It is a thousand pities that the old masters did not paint their own day more than they did. The reception accorded "The Cheat" has been gratifying, but I will say frankly that the picture has caused me some annoyance. It has been extremely successful, but in the wrong direction. The public has been interested in the problem, instead of the painting, which is the last thing I wanted.

Living in the Upper Stories

By REV. GEORGE W. KING, Presbyterian Pastor, St. Louis.

Man is built in three stories. He is a three-storied structure. On the ground floor there dwells the animal. Above that, on the second story, there is the savage. And on the third floor there is the man.

The important thing for us to learn is that we may either live in a cellar or top-story life, a dog-life, or a man life. Friend, go up higher. Paul summed it up in a single sentence when he said: "Walk in the spirit and we shall not fulfill the lusts of the flesh."

In plain English, live in the upper story, and ye shall not do the things people do in the cellar. No man can live in the upper story of his life who wrongs his body either by an unworthy estimate of it, or a gross abuse of it. Pascal's theory that to be pious one must starve himself, and be pale, no longer obtains. Tall, sickly, spiritual shadows are not wanted anywhere today, save in the sanitarium.

Closely connected with this truth is another—no young man is safe who plays with his passions. No young man is living in the upper stories who runs life out to its finger tips. Not that there is anything unworthy in our passions; they are God-given. The passion for food, for drink, for dress, for praise, for beauty, for truth, for love. How noble these heart-hungerings! How excellent! How sterling! Only when we begin to play with them and run them to riot do they lose their luster and become base metal. Does some one ask: "What shall I do with these passions of mine?" Keep them in check. Learn the dignity, the glory of self-control.

The man who trifles with his body is living on the lowest floor of his being. He is living in the cellar. The man who lets his passions run riot, who fans his baser feelings into flame, who dulls his brain with some stimulant, or narcotic, is the man who never rises above the second-story existence. He is the savage, descending occasionally into the cellar, there to grovel like the animal.

Again, no young man can live the highest life who is in the habit of playing with the world of chance. The gambling instinct is a marked characteristic of the savage races. The possibility of getting something for nothing has a subtle fascination for the heathen sitting in darkness, as well as for some other folks we know.

The young man who is playing with the world of chance is blinding his eyes to the fact that manhood alone is the true riches—the imperishable wealth.

And this leads me to express the conviction that no man can live continuously and permanently in life's upper stories without the help of Christ. I believe that the truly manly life is the Christian life. The life that is lifted and sustained above the animal and savage stages is the Christ-filled life. If this be true, then it is important that we ascertain what Christ's claims are upon us, and how we may have His help. Those claims are two: individual and social. To live really and truly in Christ's upper story, we must be Christians, and we must help others to be Christians.

No man who follows Christ can live on the plane of the animal or the plane of the savage. The power of the Christ life will lift him into the higher altitudes of living.

But the very fact that Christ helps us to live on life's higher levels obligates us to help others to live there, too.

IF YOU HAVE THE BLUES AND JOHN GOT HIS PLACE.

Miss Better-Half Was to the Fare and Brought Things Her Way.

Three hundred motormen, gatemen, etc., were in the line in and near the office of the Interborough Railway company trying to get their old jobs back when a large and square-jawed wife led her husband past them all. No one dared resist her, says the New York World, though many of the men had been waiting for hours.

"My husband wants to go back to work," said the woman. "He's a platform man at the — station," she explained. "Been on strike?" asked Mr. Norris, one of Mr. Hodley's assistants.

"Not one minute. I wouldn't hear of such nonsense," said the woman, snapping her jaws. "Support for duty every day!" asked Mr. Norris.

"Yes," snapped the lady. "John, you reported, didn't you?" "No-o-o!" admitted the man, timidly. "What!" cried the wife. "Then you disobeyed orders!"

"Yes, the poor man answered. The fact is, the strikers wouldn't let me go up the stairs to the station. I tried, every day, but they dragged me back."

"Hmph! I'd like to see 'em drag me," snorted the lady. "I'd just like to see 'em! Well, Mr. Superintendent, does John get back his position or don't he?"

Mr. Norris started as if he had touched the third rail.

"Er—oh—oh—yes, madam! Oh, certainly! Yes, yes, mere matter of form. Oh, yes! Go right back to work as soon as we examine him."

All the waiting men grinned at John, who looked smaller than 30 cents' worth of radium.

"No, but you may say 'No questions answered.' I'm the finder."—Philadelphia Press.

Tomatoes Always Fresh. Great Demand Leads to Forcing the Plants Under Glass Coverings. The demand for fresh tomatoes the year-round has induced growers to increase very greatly the production of this vegetable—which, by the way, is more properly regarded as a fruit—under glass. Usually the plants are trained up tall wooden stakes, being thus persuaded to adopt a vertical method of growth, simply for the reason that when managed in this way they take up much less room. Wires used to be employed, but the sticks have the advantage of being more rigid. It is customary to restrict each tomato vine to a single stem, which, reaching to the roof of the forcing-house, attains a height of seven or eight feet. A good deal of the foliage is pruned away in order to admit sufficient light.

Tomato plants grown under glass are of dwarf varieties, which, having shorter joints, produce fruit in clusters much closer together on the stem. Another advantage possessed by these varieties is that they ripen earlier, beginning to yield marketable fruit by March 23 and continuing to bear until July 15. From each plant should be obtained during this period an average of 25 tomatoes, weighing about five pounds.

Inasmuch as the tomatoes yielded by each plant may be expected to sell for from $2.06 to $2.53, it would seem that there is money in the business. Much care and skill are required, however, the glass gardener being obliged to fertilize the blossoms artificially between December 1 and March 1 in order to insure a satisfactory crop.

Naturally, the great demand for forced tomatoes comes after the frost has destroyed the outdoor crop, and it lasts until the Florida crop comes to market. If it be desired to get ripe fruit by Thanksgiving day the seed must be sown by July 20. In the neighborhood of our great cities, especially New York and Boston, the area devoted to truck gardening under glass is becoming greater every year, and increasing attention is given to tomatoes, the demand for them being so large and unflagging.

AND JOHN GOT HIS PLACE.

Miss Better-Half Was to the Fare and Brought Things Her Way.

Three hundred motormen, gatemen, etc., were in the line in and near the office of the Interborough Railway company trying to get their old jobs back when a large and square-jawed wife led her husband past them all. No one dared resist her, says the New York World, though many of the men had been waiting for hours.

"My husband wants to go back to work," said the woman. "He's a platform man at the — station," she explained. "Been on strike?" asked Mr. Norris, one of Mr. Hodley's assistants.

"Not one minute. I wouldn't hear of such nonsense," said the woman, snapping her jaws. "Support for duty every day!" asked Mr. Norris.

"Yes," snapped the lady. "John, you reported, didn't you?" "No-o-o!" admitted the man, timidly. "What!" cried the wife. "Then you disobeyed orders!"

"Yes, the poor man answered. The fact is, the strikers wouldn't let me go up the stairs to the station. I tried, every day, but they dragged me back."

"Hmph! I'd like to see 'em drag me," snorted the lady. "I'd just like to see 'em! Well, Mr. Superintendent, does John get back his position or don't he?"

Mr. Norris started as if he had touched the third rail.

"Er—oh—oh—yes, madam! Oh, certainly! Yes, yes, mere matter of form. Oh, yes! Go right back to work as soon as we examine him."

All the waiting men grinned at John, who looked smaller than 30 cents' worth of radium.

A Finder's Graft. "I want you to put in your 'Lost and Found' column an advertisement like this: 'Wanted, containing considerable sum of money and papers. Finder will keep money return papers.'" said the man.

"No, but you may say 'No questions answered.' I'm the finder."—Philadelphia Press.

The Reason Why. Drummond, Wis., Aug. 21st (Special)—Whole families in Bayfield County are singing the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills and the reason why is given in experiences such as that of Mr. T. T. Wold, a well-known citizen here.

"I had such pains in my back that I did not know what to do," says Mr. Wold, "and as I came across an advertisement of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I sent for a box. That one box relieved me of all my pains. My wife also used them and found them just what she needed. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills as a sure cure for Backache and other Kidney Troubles."

Backache is one of the earliest symptoms of Kidney Disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure it promptly and permanently and prevent it developing into Rheumatism, Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease.

Tomatoes Always Fresh. Great Demand Leads to Forcing the Plants Under Glass Coverings. The demand for fresh tomatoes the year-round has induced growers to increase very greatly the production of this vegetable—which, by the way, is more properly regarded as a fruit—under glass. Usually the plants are trained up tall wooden stakes, being thus persuaded to adopt a vertical method of growth, simply for the reason that when managed in this way they take up much less room. Wires used to be employed, but the sticks have the advantage of being more rigid. It is customary to restrict each tomato vine to a single stem, which, reaching to the roof of the forcing-house, attains a height of seven or eight feet. A good deal of the foliage is pruned away in order to admit sufficient light.

Tomato plants grown under glass are of dwarf varieties, which, having shorter joints, produce fruit in clusters much closer together on the stem. Another advantage possessed by these varieties is that they ripen earlier, beginning to yield marketable fruit by March 23 and continuing to bear until July 15. From each plant should be obtained during this period an average of 25 tomatoes, weighing about five pounds.

Inasmuch as the tomatoes yielded by each plant may be expected to sell for from $2.06 to $2.53, it would seem that there is money in the business. Much care and skill are required, however, the glass gardener being obliged to fertilize the blossoms artificially between December 1 and March 1 in order to insure a satisfactory crop.

Naturally, the great demand for forced tomatoes comes after the frost has destroyed the outdoor crop, and it lasts until the Florida crop comes to market. If it be desired to get ripe fruit by Thanksgiving day the seed must be sown by July 20. A WOMAN'S ORDEAL.

BREADS DOCTOR'S QUESTIONS Thousands Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free.

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions in regard to her private life, even when those questions are asked by her family physician, and many continue to suffer rather than submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease; and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female diseases.

This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise women more wisely than the local physician.

Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Ia. She writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude in words. Before I wrote to you telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady, and spent lots of money in medicines besides, but it all failed to do me any good. I had female troubles and would daily have fainting spells, backache, bearing-down pains, and my monthly periods were very irregular and finally ceased. I wrote to you for your advice and received a letter full of instructions just what to do, and also commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have been restored to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave to-day."

Mountains of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

A LASTING EFFECT.

This Evidence Should Prove Every Claim Made For Doan's Kidney Pills in Escanaba.

Relief from the pains and aches of a bad back is always welcome to every backache sufferer; but to cure a lame, weak or aching back is what's wanted. Cure it so it will stay cured. It can be done. Here's the strongest evidence to prove it:

William Christensen of 1481 Escanaba St., Escanaba, Mich., says: "My back was so weak I could not go to work and could scarcely get my clothing on. My back has been so weak that I could not get up from a chair without catching hold of something for support. After using a number of remedies with little or no relief I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the Mead Drug Co.'s store and began using them. Inside of forty-eight hours I felt so much better that I was astonished. I used three bottles in all and my back has been strong ever since. I have not had any return of the old trouble, and you are welcome to publish my statement so that others may know of this valuable kidney and backache remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

NEW DOCTRINE IN MICHIGAN.

State Proclaims Ownership of Birds and Animals.

A new doctrine in Michigan was enunciated in the general law enacted at the recent session of the Michigan legislature. It is stated in the first section, which contains but three lines: "All wild animals and wild birds both resident and migratory, in this state, shall be, and are hereby declared to be the property of the state." No more has the discoverer, nor the owner of the land upon which they may be found any right of ownership in even a shipmunk or a chickadee. They are the property of the state, to be molested or appropriated by individuals only upon permission of the state, and according to rules which the state shall prescribe. The doctrine is sound, and it is wholesome. It furnishes a national and efficient basis upon which to build whatever legislation may be desired for the protection or production or destruction of wild creatures for the public benefit in either a material or an aesthetic sense, from considerations pecuniary and commercial, or sentimental and humane.—Marionette Eagle.

ELECTION CASE UP AGAIN.

Menominee County Case Will Be Tried Next Month at Marquette.

The contest case growing out of the election last fall in Menominee county, in which there are two claimants for possession of the office of sheriff, will be heard in Marquette before Judge Stone, Sept. 25. The case is known on the court record as Erdlitz vs. Packer, the latter at present holding the office of sheriff, while Erdlitz was a candidate on a rival ticket last fall, and is plaintiff in the present contest. All the evidence in the case has been submitted, including that portion relating to the examination of the election ballots, on which the contest is brought, and the assembling of attorneys next month will be for the purpose of argument. Both sides are represented by the best lawyers obtainable in the southern part of the peninsula, and the contestants in advance have both expressed an intention of carrying the case to the supreme court.

The decision of Judge Stone will be awaited with considerable interest in Menominee county, as another contest is said to be contemplated by the candidate for the office of probate judge who was on the ticket with Erdlitz. Decision from the circuit court is not expected before the first week in October.

Money is Not Enough.

Give a man a 10-cent cigar and he will beam all over and love you for six hours; offer him the 10 cents with which to buy it for himself and he will throw it in your face. Give a man a pass to a show and he will call you a good fellow in all the language at his disposal; offer him the money to buy a ticket and he will call you a fool. Ask a man to your home to take "pot luck" and he will jump at the chance; give him $2 and tell him to get a good meal at a cafe with your compliments and he will knock you down. The dollar is mighty, but it isn't warm. Nothing chills hospitality and good fellowship more than the touch of cold metal. You may spend money on a friend, but you must not ask him to touch it. Silver isn't a good conductor and you can't transmit half as much cordiality and hospitality to a friend through the medium of a dollar as by means of a bad cigar. Money substitutes for good looks and good sense with great success, but can't take the place of good fellowship worth a toothpick.

The above is the picture of the only Dr. A. B. Spinney in this state. His history is as follows: Fifteen years in private practice, twelve in East Saginaw, Mich., with no large practice as any physician then had. Two years professor in Detroit Homeopathic College and twenty-two years in Detroit. Had charge of Alma Sanitarium eighteen months; Ypsilanti one year, and for the past seven years has owned a sanitarium at Reed City. On December 13, 1902, his sanitarium was burned, loss fifteen thousand dollars; but in forty-eight hours he had bought another and is in good shape for business again. He will move to Belling, Mich., next spring, where he has a Sanitarium with sixty rooms nearly completed.

There is a firm in Detroit calling themselves Spinney & Co. Their history is this: Anson B. Spinney founded the same, but he has been dead some three years, as an extract from the Evening News of September 8th, 1900, will prove. The office has been run by his heirs, cutting physicians in the same that they could bite until about a year ago when Keran & Kennedy bought them out and have been running the business since. I am the only Dr. Spinney in the state. Have been here forty-five years, so do not make a mistake and consult or write the wrong firm if you wish to see me. I am at the Sanitarium every Sunday except one in a month. Will be at the place you date below as follows:

The patient is always told the truth and upon just what can be done. To all who are poor we give treatment absolutely free, only charging cost of medicine. Operations at hospital free, only charging exact cost of board while patient is recovering. Any person suffering from PILES or any curable disease we will wait for our pay until cured, if you will secure us.

The Train Robbers

In presenting this great scenic production of "The Train Robbers" at Peterson's opera house, Manager Peterson takes pleasure in announcing that unlike other plays and theatrical performances based upon incidents of a similar nature which has visited us in the past the playwright has in no way attempted to justify their crimes nor place a halo about the heads of the evil doers. No atmosphere of heroism nor martyrdom permeates the play as is usually the case and no excuse is offered for the man whose impulses are criminal. It is a strong sermon on the inevitable end of the wrong doer who transgresses the laws of society and disregards the teachings of his youth. Plainly told, and with a realism that only an elaborate investiture of scenery can give, the story of James Ford is forcibly impressed upon the minds of the audience and the impossibility of averting the consequences of his career is so strikingly illustrated that the play becomes a strong factor in the moral life of its audiences and a detriment of many a man who can see the gilded side of a life of crime and the easy benefits that may be gained from a life of outlawry. Interwoven with a story of love and devotion on the part of a woman and true manliness on the part of a man and the ready wit and spontaneous merriment of an Irishman who is not a caricature but a true type of that race, together with many other characters so faithfully portrayed. "The Train Robbers," as presented by the Davidson Company ranks as one of the best melodramatic productions of the current season. Wednesday Aug. 30.
