Brother of Unfortunate Young Lady and Another Young Woman Were Also in the Canoe When It Capsized.

A sad drowning accident occurred last Sunday afternoon when Miss Lina Lucia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Lucia, and a popular young lady of this city was drowned at Cisco lake near Watersmeet, where Miss Lucia had been visiting since the first part of July.

A party of three consisting of Miss Lina Lucia, a young lady friend, and Ralph Lucia, Miss Lucia's sixteen-yearold brother, started out in a canoe for cents, to two dollars per day which was a trip about the lake. When about 400 feet from shore the canoe capsized and the three occupants were thrown into water 13 feet deep. Miss, Lucias friend was fortunate enough to secure at once a good hold on one end of the capsized canoe. Miss Lucia herself was not so fortunate but was partly caught beneath the canoe. Ralph Lucia who is a fairly good swimmer went at once to his sister's rescue! He succeeded in freeing her from the conce and then with her hands on his shoulders set out to swim to shore. He quickly realized that he would be unable to make the distance and after swimming a short ter from Deputy Attorney General distance turned back with his sister to Chase at Lansing dealing with just this the canoe. The church was crowded at the funeral and the large number of flower tributes spoke eloquently of the regard with which she was held in this community.

The following young men who were close friends of Miss Lucia acted as pall bearers: Fred Bartlett, Taylor Peterson, Robert Smith, Hubert Bessex and Earl Good.

Besides a mother and father, five brothers and five sisters remain. The family is well-known in this city and county and to them sympathy of the entire community is extended.

WILL BUILD SPUR

Track Will be Laid From Railway Yards to City Lighting Plant.

In order that the city may be saved the expense of drayage on the coal, a spur track will be laid from the yards of the C. & N. W. railroad to the City Lighting plant. The matter has been under consideration for some time and at a recent meeting the city attorney was instructed to confer with the officials of the railroad company concerning the cost of such a spur. At the council meeting Tuesday night, the city attorney presented a contract which the railroad company agreed to sign. The company agrees to furnish all the rails, ties and other material and the city is to pay for the labor required in building the track and for the labor required in maintaining it hereafter.

The council considered the proposition a fair one and the mayor and clerk were authorized to enter into a contract with on top of No. 6 ore dock early yesterday the officials of the company for the construction of the track.

Mr. Chase also said that the county clerk has no right to refuse a license to such persons provided they possess the common qualifications and make the application in the proper manner.

Foreign Game Birds In the past few years several varieies of foreign game birds have been rought to this country for propagation with but slight success as to the outcome. It may be of interest to know that within the past two years a famous game bird of Norway, known scientifically as the capercailzie, has been successfully finding a home in Alger county. This bird is popularly known as the 'black game bird of Norway," and is closely allied to the grouse family. In its flight it takes a straight away course and is exceptionally swift. It is a hardy bird and inasmuch as the climate conditions are similar here as in its habitat there is every reason to believe that it will prove prolific. The capercailzie were first brought to the upper peninsula two years ago at Grand Island, Alger county, by Wm. G. Mather, president of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, whose attention was directed to the birds by Chase S. Osborn of the Soo. Mr. Osborn had the year before made a trip through Norway, and was convinced that the species could be succesafully raised in the upper peninsula. other cities in the Upper Peninsula and This street Columbia grouse, a hardler Wisconsin.

NEW LAWS OPERATIVE

Negotiable Paper Law Most Impor tant of Recent Acts....

All acts passed at the last session of the legislature, which were not given immediate effect, went into effect last Saturday, at the expiration of ninety days from the close of the session. The 'negotiable act" is one of the most important of these laws Besides abolishing the days of grace on notes and all forms of negotiable paper, the act provides uniform procedure in Michigan in the giving and collecting of negotiable paper in conformity with the laws of Wisconsin, Ohio and several adjoining states. Copies of the negotiable law may be had by any person on application to the secretary of state.

The new truancy law provides that in all counties of the state, deputy sheriffs shall exercise the duties of truant officers and require all pupils between 7 and 15 years, inclusive, to attend school throughout the school year. This law increases the maximum age for attendance at school by one year. It is expected that it will operate to greatly increase the attendance at rural schools, statistics showing that only 60 per cent of the pupils of school age in the country now attend, while 90 per cent is the record for cities. The new law establishing juvenile is also in effect. These courts in Wayne and Kent counties are to be presided over by circuit judges, but in most of the counties of the state circuit court commissioners are given jurisdiction in all juvenile disorderly cases. The constitutionality of this law is being questioned on the ground that judicial powers are conferred on circuit court commissioners, and also because of lack of uniformity in the law. A large number of persons have obtained the idea that the governor is to appoint rew county agent, as the act gives such agents enlarged powers. The governor states, however, that county agent a now in office will not be disturbed. The new law providing for the exammation and licensing of accountants also went into effect last Sunday. It provides for the payment of a license

The annual business in sight with the Pittsburg Steamship company, it is claimed, will reach a like sum. The dock will be over 1,000 feet long, and will have a capacity of at least 35,000 tons of coal. It is not probable that the full amount will be carried in stock at allseasons of the year, as coal decreases in value from crumbling when the pressure is too great. LARGE ISSUE OF BONDS.

City Council Votes to Issue $85,000 Special Assessment Bonds to Pay for Street Work.

BEAR FIVE PER CENT.

City Has $100,000 Outstanding in Street Assessments and Bond Issue is Necessary to Relieve City's Finances.

In anticipation of street assessment taxes which amount to nearly $100,000. the city council on Tuesday night voted to issue bonds to the amount of $85,000 in order that the cost of the improvements may be paid for at once, without waiting for the money to be paid in by the property owners who owe their assessments. The city has already expended large sums in the payment of street work and the assessments have come in so lowly that the city has been forced to keep borrowing almost continually. The issue of bonds is made to pay for all street work now being done in the city and to relieve the strained condition of the treasury. The bonds will be a claim against only the property upon which the assessment tax is not paid and will not affect or cause any increase in taxes upon property where no street tax is assessed or upon which the street tax is paid. The bonds will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent, per annum and will be issued in the denomination of $500 each. Beginning Oct. 1, 1905, there will be five separate series of the bonds with $17,000 due Jan. 1, of each year and the same amount due on each year thereafter until paid.

In addition to the amount of the special assessment property owners whose taxes are unpaid must pay six per cent figured from July 1. The separate sections in which the Ludington street assessment is levied are also subject to the interest charge.

Following are the amounts that have been designated for the funds in anticipation of special assessments that have been levied and are unpaid: Ludington street $50,000, Sarah street $5,000, Stephenson avenue $3,000, Wells avenue $6,000, Hartnett avenue $4,500, Oak street $5,000, Norris street $4,000, Hale street $2,500, Maple street $2,500 and Fifth street $2,500.

Barker Co. Sells Timber

According to deeds filed in Delta county, the C. A. Barker Lumber company of Rapid River has sold to the Bay de Noc Lumber company of Nahma 3,906 acres of land in Delta county. In addition the deal includes 810 acres in Alger county, making over 4,700 acres involved. The land from which the timber in Delta county is sold lies in Masonville and Nahma townships and the Alger county lands are located close to other holdings of the Bay de Noc company. The lands transferred have been cut over, but there is a large quantity of good stuff left to be utilized by the Bay de Noc company.

WRECKED BY SAME MAN

Kose Kazimer Called at Home of County Road Com. Same Night Birch Creek Cemetery was Raided.

County Road Commissioner Fra k Dunning, of Menominee county, says that Kose Kazimer, the notorious cemetery wrecker, now in the Marquette county jail, paid him a visit at his home about six miles up on the state road. the same night that he wrecked the cemetery at Birch Creek. On the evening of Sept. 16th two weeks ago last Saturday, Mr. Dunning relates that he was just about to sit down to supper with his family when the wild and unkept looking stranger appeared at the house and demanded something to eat. The fellow was very odd in his appearance and made hir demands with scant courtesy. Mr. Dunning, seeing that he was a strong and able bodied man, promptly ordered him to get out as he was fully able to work for his own living. The fellow refused to go, however, and again fiercely demanded food. Mr. Dunning advised the stranger to make himself scarce before he received sudden assistance in doing so. At this the man cried out "crazee, crazee," with a broken foreign accent and ran out of the yard and down the road. For some distance he continued to cry "crazee, crazee," in the strangest manner until he was out of sight. That same night the Birch Creek cemetery was vandalized. Mr. Dunning says that his strange visitor was the wildest looking and acting creature he had ever seen. He paid very little attention to the picture of Kose Kazimer appeared in the Herald-Leader when he at once recognized the face as that of his stru and unwelcome visitor of a fortnight

New York, Oct. 3 .- The name of the young man under arrest for the theft of securities amounting to $359,000 from the National City bank on Wednesday last was Henry . Leonard. He is a young clerk in the employ of Halle & Stieglitz, brokers at No. 30 Broad street. By his confession, made Monday, the mystery was entirely cleared up. Leonard, who lives with his parents at No. 586 One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street, was arrested Sunday and kept in close confinement while the detectives continued their search for the missing securities, every dollar of which was recovered. The prisoner, who is only 24 years old, and who has previously borne the reputation of an industrious and thoroughly reliable clerk, made the astounding statement in his confession that he had planned and carried out his scheme of forgery and robbery, not from any criminal motive, but solely to show by what a simple device the safeguards of New York banks could be set at naught

New York, Oct. 3 .- The $10,000,000 gift of John D. Rockefeller to the general education board, which was announced last June, was paid to the board by Mr. Rockefeller in cash Monday. In his letter of last June, Mr. Rockefeffer announced that this gift would be forthcoming on the 1st of October in cash or securities, at his option, and the cash was turned over to the board Monday. The $10,000,000 were delivered to the executive committee of the board while in session by F. T. Gates, a representative of Mr. Rockefeller, and also a member of the committee. The payment was made in a series of checks made payable to George Foster Peabody, treasurer of the board. Six of the checks were for $1,000,000, and two for $2,000,000 each.

The estimated income from the fund will be at least $500,000 a year. The principal, according to the terms of the gift, is to be held in perpetuity as a "foundation for education." The disbursement of the income is left entirely to the discretion of the board, except that it is to be devoted to the promotion of a "comprehensive system of higher education."

DEPORTATION OF AN AMERICAN CITIZEN

Immigration Laws Are Broken. Because of Their Failure to Provide for Emergencies.

Sad Tale of a Russian Jew, His Bride and Their New-Born Babe-Hard Struggle of the Husband-Federal Statutes Not Tempered with Mercy.

New York .- Strict and exacting im- 1 the immigrant Jew-the pushcart. migration laws are of the utmost necessity. Were this not the case the country would soon become the refuge of Europe's paupers and beggars.

The federal statutes that provide for the admittance of foreigners are supposed to cover every possible case and the officials at Ellis Island are compelled to act in strict accordance with the law which does not provide for emergencies.

It was the result of the law's failure to provide for emergencies that the officlais were recently compelled to depor: a new-born American citizen.

It is against the law to deport an American citizen. The law does not specify any age limit in citizenship. It simply says that a child born on American soil of alien parents is an American

Comes to Make His Fortune. Over three years ago Romanik came to this country from Russia. He was young, healthy, capable, and was admitted through Ellis island without the slightest trouble. It was a good start to his fortune in the new land. He was a tailor by trade, and with the incustry and pertinacity of his race he ertablished himself in short order in a small shop on Attorney street. The shop thrived, so did Romanik's lovemaking. Back in his Russian home lived Lotta, the sweetheart of his boyhood, and the girls of the East side Ghetto had no claim for the busy little tailor. as he worked steadily month in month

There is one grade lower yet. The swinging shelf of collar buttons or shoe strings that hang from the necks of curb venders in the Ghetto market place.

The Romaniks were above both grades. They were respected and well liked in the neighborhood, and by virtue of his having a "store business" of his own Romanik was adjudged a rising young man. When it was rumored there was a possibility of his having a son to bear his name the news was accepted as but another sign of the good luck which had followed him since his first landing in the country

Clouds Hover Over Home. The cloud of trouble fell darker over the little home for the sunshine that had gone before. One day Romanik closed his shop and went away. He returned with two doctors. Nothing was told to the neighbors, but in less than a week the tride of a few short months was taken away to Bellevue hospital, and the little tailor worked and lived alone.

It was a severe shock to the pride and independence of the little tailor. He had not been able to read the English on the Bellevue entrance card he had signed, and was totally ignorant of its nature. Going to Dr. Dent, of Ward's island, he offered to sign a bond to pay for the care of his wife until after the birth of the child. but the offer was refused. It was the eleventh hour, and Romanik in his extremity turned to the People's law firm as a last resort. The card of the People's law firm states that "Mary H. Grace Quackenbos, LL. B., can be consulted and retained as attorney and counsellor at law in cases involving attendance upon the courts and otherwise, especially with a view to meeting the requirements of litigants of moderate means.

Saved by Fifteen Minutes.

As a litigant of moderate means Herman Romanik sought Mrs. Quackenbos and laid his case in her hands. It was not an easy case. Mr. Watchorn said positively that he could do nothing. The law allows the Ellis island commissloper no discretionary powers in emergency cases. Everything must be referred to Washington, and it was too late to communicate with the department of commerce and labor. It was a time for quick wit and quicker action. Mrs. Quackenbos set out to procure a writ of habeas corpus. Federal judges are not always within easy reach. it was late at night before District Judge Adams was found and the writ signed.

It was served on the commissioner at Ellis island the next morning just 15 minutes before the scheduled leaving time of the steamer. The advocate of

The poor little tailor man was scurrying from Attorney street to the ferry on foot, as no conductor would permit him to board a street car with his gigantic load. He pleaded with tears that it was but a few feather beds for Lotta and the baby. Steerage bunks are hard to lie on, but the hearts of New York street car conductors are harder. The little tailor had to walk and caught the steamer by five minutes.

Then he found out and the People's law firm found out that a baby citizen had

The federal judges were at lunch somewhere. The writ remained unsigned. and the vessel steamed down the bay for Bremen, with its baby citizen clasped close to the little alien mother's breast.

As a point of law the matter rests in abeyance. As a point of mercy probably the best thing has happened. The mother and child were not separated and the husband went with them. So much was accomplished. But what of the exigencies of the case? It is but one case in many where Ellis island officials have been the People's law firm did not waste an compelled to act in strict accordance Romanik would take no more chances with public institutions. He placed his wife in the New York infirmary for women and children and undertook to pay $25 a week until the child should be born.

The case was set for hearing in the federal court, but never came up for trial. Twenty-five dollars a week is a heavy tax on an Attorney street tailor shop, and Romanik was compelled to give up in a few weeks. It would be five or six weeks before the birth of the baby. Mrs. Romanik became more and more violent, and the Ellis island authorities were once more notified.

Mrs. Quackenbos had sailed for Halifax to take a much-needed rest, and left the case with her assistants pending her return. The Ellis island authorities contended that the woman was an epileptic, and had been prior to her arrival in this country. Her husband swore her insanity was due to her condition. To deport her now was not only dangerous but inhuman. But there was no one to blame. Each department acted strictly according to its official duty as interpreted by the bare, cold letter of the law. As an insane alien, ordered deported, the liftle mother-elect was once more hurried from the infirmary and taken on board the steamer. She longed for her husband, but he had long since exhausted the little tailor shop profits and was

As an accompanying alien the People's law firm endeavored to have him deported also at the expense of the government, but failed. Finally a ticket was procured for him from the United Hebrew charities, and $25 was added by the People's law firm, so that the forlorn pair might not land in Europe penniless.

What the excitement and discomfort of the voyage will lead to remain to be seen ...

The Romaniks have not yet been heard from in Bremen. Should the mother die from the effects of her deportation, what then? It is an emergency unprovided for by the law. If it can be proved that the woman is perfectly sane, and not an epileptic, there is a chance to show where the law is at fault, but at present no law has been broken save in the deportation of a newborn American citizen.

Boy Promises to Revolutionize Great Industry-Indiana Lad Finds Remarkable Powder.

Evansville, Ind.-The bursting of a shotgun and the shattering of a boy's arm has brought to light an inventive genius in the person of Louis Byrd, a country boy, of Hazleton, Ind.

Louis Byrd, in search of a way to cut down his powder and shot bill during 'he hunting season, experimented with powder making until he got a combination of explosives that promise to bring him a fortune. He makes a white powder, either coarse or fine, as it is intended for blasting or gunning purposes, that is twice as powerful as nitro-smokeless powder and three times as powerful as ordinary black blasting powder. It can also be manufactured several times cheaper than

To the physician who set the boy's arm, Louis Byrd said he had tried out the powder in the coal mines at Hymera. Ind., and in other places and had been offered $10,000 for the formula. Byrd has applied for a patent. Two years ago Byrd's inventive genius cropped out in the construction of a drill to distribute onion seed.

GIRLS SHOULD NOT WORRY OVER ENDLESS DISAPPOINTMENTS.

Discouragements Test Character-Case of a Clever Girl Who Failed in Her Senior Year-A Literary Woman Who Refused to Fail-Don't Care Too Much What People Say-Financial Trouble or Sickness May Wholly Change One's Plans-Don't Be Hysterical Over a Failure.

BY MARGARET E. SANGSTER. (Copyright, 1906, by Joseph B. Bowles.) Once in a while we fail, do we not, girls? There is something on which we have set our hearts; some perfectly right and desirable thing, but we cannot get it. We have tried faithfully to the best of our ability. But we are disappointed. We feel very much as we would if we saw somebody else climbing, without the least trouble, to the top of a mountain, while we kept sliding back to the bottom.

Everybody cannot be equally successful, and a friend or a classmate often seems to gain without much effort whatever she wants, while we lose. It is so in many departments of life outside of the schoolroom. It is not only that another girl wins the gold medal for proficiency, while we have not even a mention on the honor list; that another always has reports enriched with a double A, while we have only a B or C, but there are other failures that try our hearts quite as much.

Another girl makes a friendship where we have only a slight acquaintance, or goes off on a splendid trip to Europe, while we stay at home without change of scene. The fact is, if we choose to disturb ourselves about them. the small disappointments of life are endless. The great ones, too, occur now and then. It is a test of character to meet discouragements bravely, and to refuse to be downcast and blue, when we fall in an attempt through no fault of our own. As I write I am thinking of a girl friend who has had an experience which will show her mettle and disclose in its later effect the sort of girl she is. Elizabeth is a quick and clever girl, who learns without taking much trouble, and who has a reputation in her family circle for extraordinary genius. She has always been expected to carry off all the prizes in sight. Her father amuses his friends by the unconscious vanity which prompts him to boast of Elizabeth's sprightliness, and he is continually repeating her witty speeches and telling any listener whom he can buttonhole the story of her latest triumphs. Her mother has less to sleeves , it is eminently simple, and it is say, and is more tactful, but in her quiet, unobtrusive fashion, she is just as proud of her daughter and just as convinced of her superior talents as her good husband is. Both these people, without meaning it, have puffed Elizabeth from her cradle with th result that she has come to depend entirely too much on her quickness and has omitted the hard study which at certain points is indispensable. You may imagine the family consternation and chagrin when Elizabeth failed to pass her senior examinations and was told that she would have to take her last year over if she is finally to be graduated.

A year does not look very long to your father and mother, because as people grow older the years seem fairly to rush along like waves in a mill race, but it seems a tremendous thing to a girl of 17. It looks to her like a long level stretch of eternity if we adapted to the washable materials that fail in anything when we are young we | many women prefer at all seasons of the are tempted to fancy that we never can make up our loss. That is one reason why young people are blue when they ought to see everything in rose-color. Once we allow ourselves to be discouraged, we are handicaped. We are very apt in such moods to discourage others. If a girl in Elizabeth's position happens to be preparing to teach, or ered into puffs or left free at their lower has in mind a determination to be an edges. artist, or a journalist, she says to herself, "I may as well give it up. There is no use in keeping on. I shall never attain what I wish.

"Never" is a word-one hears on the lips of schoolgirls much oftener than one ought.

Looking over a closet one day in which a middle-aged woman had packed away many treasures of her girlhood, I came upon a lot of old school books. In one of them I found written in very black letters, underscored, too, on the margin of several pages the word "Despair." "Have you any idea," I said to the owner of the books, "why or when you wrote this word on these pages?"

"Oh," she said, with a laugh, "When I was 14 I had moods. I often used to think that I had almost reached the jumping-off place of the world, and if I failed in a lesson I felt as it the disgrace were inscribed upon me in letters so large that everybody could see them. I suppose I scribbled that one day when I was blue."

A woman who has been widely known as a successful writer told me that her first work during the first year of her struggle to enter the profession was invariably returned. "Stories, poems, essays," she said, "all came hurrying back, declined with thanks, and she added, "I used literally many a time to wet my pillow with tears. Yet the oftener I falled the more determined I became not to fall. I would just pull myself together and work

SCHOOL TROUBLES disguise. In need not be an irretrievable loss. One thing you and I should guard against is caring too much about what people say. A hurt to wanity wounds like the thrust of a knife. We are often so mortified because our friends think us slow and compare us as we imagine with others who have done better than we, that we cease our endeavors or let ourselves he sidetracked entirely too long.

Occasionally it becomes necessary wholly to change the plans for one's life. A girl may be compelled by loss of health or financial trouble in the family to do something quite different from that which she had anticipated. If this is duty, be brave and accept it without making a fuss and complain-

This is such a bright and cheery world in which we live, and there are so many reasons for being happy, that it is a positive sin for anybody ever to be blue. When a girl lets herself drift into a habit of self-pity she becomes morbid and miserable, makes herself wretched and perhaps loses the power of controlling her nerves. She wants to scream. I wish you and I could understand as we ought that, however we may feel inside, we never have a right to show our friends anything except brightness and sympathy.

To let ourselves huddle up in tearful heaps, to be damp, moist and unpleasant, and have hysterics over anything whatever, is absurd and shameful. The worst failure anyone can have is a failure to rule one's own spirit and bein the Life of Burne-Jones, a book that is full of glorious courage, there are continual proofs of the great artist's heroism. When you see his lovely pictures I want you to remember that the loveliest thing about him was his refusal ever to be discouraged. He made his friends stronger by his habit of constant cheerfulness. We ought to make stepping stones of our failures. If we happen not to succeed to-day, let us start right over and succeed tomorrow. One learns more by failing than by gaining easy honors in the early struggles of this strenuous time. The one who fails and tries again will win at last.

These reduced rates are in effect on certain dates in months of May to October, inclusive. They apply from all Eastern points via Chicago, St. Louis or Memphis gateways. The Rock Island System will take you up in either Chicago or St. Louis, or at hundreds of other Middle West points and carry you to the Coast in through Standard or Tourist Sleepers with unexcelled Dining Car service. The Rock Island also affords a choice of routes: on the "Scenic" route you can stop off in Colorado-see Salt Lake City-visit Yellowstone National Park; on the "Southern" route you can go via El Paso, thru New Mexico, then "up coast" to San Francisco and on to Portland or Seattle if desired.

In short, these Pacific Coast excursions offer an unusually good chance to see our western country in a comprehensive manner.

If you desire to go only as far as Colorado, there are excursion rates in effect to that section and return, all summer long. specially reduced June 30 to July 4, August 12 and 13, and August 30 to September 4. Extension trips to Ogden or Salt Lake and return at low cost also.

From September 15 to October 31, 1905, one-way tourist or "colonist" tickets will be on sale to California and the Pacific Northwest-about half regular fare.

"I had a very bad case of heart trouble. For six months I could not work. Last July I was plowing corn and feeling bad all day; in the afternoon in plowing one row I had to lay down, or fall down, three times. My heart throubed as though it would burst through, and I had difficulty in getting my breath. I purchased a bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and before I had used half of it I could lay down and sleep all night. Previously I had to get up from five to tentimes a night. THEE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. W. L. Howard of Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits may be realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown."-A recent bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College in part says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is continually diminishing and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future. The market for our cultivated root will exist as long as the Chinamen exist."-Counsel General W. A. Rublee of Hong Kong says in the U.S. Consular reports: sale of the Ginseng root grown in America is very large here and the demand is so great that much more could be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indispensable to the 400,000,000 Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat, and cotton. The present market price varies from $5.00 to $8.00 per pound according to quality. while the cost of production does not exceed $1.50. There is room in an ordinary garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant is hardy and thrives in all parts of the United States and Capada. except in the arid regions. We are successful growers and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. You can get a good start in the business for a comfortable income. We have several thousand choice roots for sale for fall delivery. The planting season begins in August and continues till the ground is frozen.

VANDERBILT WEDDING

Marble House May Go a-Begging-Mr Hyde But Foolish Tool of Stronger Men-Perkins Emerges Fairly Well.

EW YORK .- The duchess and the duchess' friends and the duchess' relatives, and where they are all going and what they are doing and to do-this is the topic of society, as insurance corruption is the topic of the man in the street. Things have changed since her grace, of Marlborough, was Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt. Changed with some rapidity, as regards herself. In the ten years or so since she was married the scale of ostentatious extravagance in society has so broadened that the Blenheim estate is now, in spite of her dowry of $15,000,000, rather pinched for means. It is a vast white elephant of a place, given to the first duke of Marlborough-the "Malbrook" of the old French song out of which we have made "We Won't Go Home Till Morning"by the grateful English nation after his victories in the low countries. Changes like that confront some of New York's society leaders. Not Mrs. Clarence Mackay, at whose marble chateau on Harbor hill the finest entertainment in honor of the duchess was given. This finest country estate in America may have cost, with its formal grounds, toward $5,000,000. It had not been built when the duchess was last in the country.

The duke has never been in America since his marriage. He says he never will come here. I do not much blame him. He's a very decent sort of little man, and it was using him roughly when on his wedding day he went to his father-in-law's estate on Long Island, found no carriages waiting in a pouring rain and with his bride walked to the great house, the gaping villagers traipsing along behind. The pair were as awkward and shy as any country pair in the crowd would have been in like circumstances. And no wonder. Aristocracy marries its children early. The countess of Craven was but 15, and very undeveloped, when she was wedded. She gave little promise of the great beauty she has since won; as the duchess of Marlborough looked fittle like a duchess, and now looks very much like Pulitzer and Vanderbilt.

NE of the prettiest functions that the duchess will attend will be the wedding next month, at the bride's home in Vermont, of Joseph Pulitzer's son and the granddaughter of William H. Vanderbilt.

Shelburne farm is one of the most beautiful estates in the country, most of its 2,000 acres overlooking Lake Champlain and the distant Adirondacks. Dr. Webb married one of the daughters of the man who was then the richest in the world. Mrs. Webb had a dowry of $10,000,000, which has been increased by railroad operations, notably by the building of the Adirondack line. still called "Webb's road" by the natives. Dr. Webb derived a considerable fortune from his family, that of James Watson Wobb, himself a pioneer in American journalism. Miss Frederica Webb is a teautiful young girl, whose friends among the young set in society

Mr. Pulitzer is young, a Harvard man. of Hungarian paternity, on his mother's side descended from the Davis family, of which Jefferson Davis was the most notable member. He is believed to be the coming man in the conduct of the great newspaper by which the elder Mr. Pulitzer is chiefly known. Mr. Pulitzer is fond of sport, a keen rider to the hounds, a good shot after game, a skillful automobilist. Responsibility has made him serious beyond the wont of most youth of his age and fortune; he is studious by nature and training, and he is better fitted to shine in intellectual soclety, and more familiar with it in seven different countries, than most New York society youth. As to worldly fortune, the pair are fairly matched.

Mr. Ralph Pulitzer occupies, as his father's representative, the "Editor's room" in the World building dome. The elder Pulitzer once formally retired from editorship, but in early middle age -he is but 66 now-he could not restrain his eager zest for the discussion of public questions. He is, in fact, the editor of the World, wherever he may be, conducting its affairs by cable or telegraph.

Vanderbilt Family White Elephant. HE affairs of another branch of the Vanderbilt family were recalled the other day by a re-port that "Jimmy" Hyde, of Equitable fame, was about to marry Miss Warren and buy Marble use, in Newport, it was to be used but a few weeks each year, though its builder had then a great steam yacht, the Alva, named after Mrs. Vanderbilt, which was afterwards wrecked, and a house on Fifth avenue, designed by William H. Hunt. When the divorce was arranged, Mra. Vanderbilt was literally house poor. Upon her marriage to Mr. Belmont they went for a time to live in a few rooms hastily added to the Belmont stable, out of which a fair Newport house has been evolved. The most beautiful Belmont place, however, is the new game preserve and country place on Long Island. I doubt whether the Fifth avenue house has been occupied two weeks a year upon an average for ten years. If the Marble house could be sold for one-quarter of its cost it would be a good bargain. When people have a million or so to put into a house, they are apt to want it built to order. Besides, Marble house would cost a good deal to run. Every one said last winter when James Henry Smith, the "silent man of Wall street," bought the W. C. Whitney house of the heirs at a fair price that they were very lucky to sell. Not every man wants a ready-made house. Of course, this Marble house story is quite inconsistent with that other and earlier story about Hyde's selling out all his American property to go and live in Paris because of the insurance scandals. I do not attempt to reconcile the warring tales.

publican alike-was without our knowledge or consent contributed to the campaign funds of the republican party not only in the two Bryan campaigns, but in that against Judge Parker, when the Lord knows it was not needed!

You may remember that in the campaign Judge Parker charged in public address that the republican funds had. been swollen by corporation money, President Roosevelt replied with some heat that this was not the case; or rather, he said that no corporation contribution had been received, which could possibly be construed as a result of political blackmail, which was of course true of the insurance contribution. Still, I fancy Mr. Boosevelt now wishes he had not made the dealel quite the letter what is told him by men whom he trusts. He undoubtedly received strong assurances about corporation contributions last fall. Yet there are the facts. Cornelius N. Bliss, himself an insurance company director and ne of the best, so far as complicity with the grosser forms of grafting are concerned, received as treasurer of the republican national committee practically $150,000 in three presidential campaigns from the New York Life

Now imagine a democrat, a red-hot Bryan man, a policy-holder in the New York Life. This Bryan insurer pays certain premiums to his company. He also gives $25 to the campaign fund of his party. How will he like being told that, while he was doing this, his own money, that he paid in for insurance and for nothing else, was being misused to beat his candidate. In this state the bribery of the legislature by insurance money quite overshadows this misuse of it in politics. For a full generation the baser men in the Empire state legislature have been practically bribed with the diverted money of policy holders-not to do anything wrong, but merely to refrain from passing any insurance laws at all. Hyde's father, a marvelous man, got all the law he wanted a generation ago. The game has since been to keep it unchanged.

Office Boy Perkins.

UT of the ruck of wilted financiers who have emerged with damaged complexions from the merciless probing of Counsel Hughes. I fancy Mr. Perkins, Morgan's young partner, has come with as much credit as anyone.

Perkins was a magnificent witness. This was the precise relation of Perkins to Morgan and to the New York Life, the circumstances of his unusual employment in the double capacity, and the manner in which the two jobs were undertaken. Morgan must have been badly in want of a partner, for he besought Perkins in interview after interview to come with him. Perkins finally did so, surrendering all but $25,000 of the $75,000 salary up to which he had worked his way in the insurance company from an office boy's $300 a year. Morgan has almost a dozen partners. Perkins being the foremost, and Steele the second. All the partners have their specialties. Mr. Bacon, now first assistant secretary of state, left the firm about the time the ship trust was founded. People said that he and Morcan had difficulties and differences. Bacon is less of a business man than Perkins, more of a student.

But what a career. Office boy at $300; at 43 years of age-he does not look it -vice president of the greaters insurance company of America, and leading unior partner of its greatest banking Labor Federation Meets.

The Michigan Federation of Labor held its annual meeting at Saginaw recently, and the features of the session were resolutions for factory inspection and the declaration for woman's suffrage. The legislature is to be asked to pass a bill with the latter agitation for a basis. The next meeting, it was decided, will be held in Kanamazoo. Officers were elected as follows: President, Gustave Dible, Detroit; first vice president, O. E. Reaves. Jackson; second vice president. Charles Evans, Saginaw; third vice president, Charles L. Carpenter. Grand Rapids; organizer, Charles Zahn, Menominee; delegate to the national convention, David S. Jones.

classes of people. Michigan heroes who passed away during the Spanish-proclamation, the issuance of which was chronicled by your correspondent,

Gov. Warner reminded the people that the legislature had set apart two days of the year, September 30 and May paid to the memory of the departed defenders of the flag. The May date was set with the evident intention that graves should be decorated and burial grounds be beautified. Last Saturday, organizations connected with the military of the state held services in numerous places and all speeches trended toward the dead soldiers. Cemeteries everywhere were beautified by the mourners of the departed ones and all manner of ceremonies were entered upon to show the love which Michigan people, in both country and city, cherish for the departed saviors of their nation.

Schools in every section of the state held exercises in the schoolrooms on Friday, and Saturday was devoted to paying tribute in a more substantial manner, at the graves. This day has been observed for years in a rather indifferent manner, that is, not being to observe the occasion in a fitting manner. This year, however, all was Niles Pioneer Dead. Niles.-William H. Sinclair, who had been in the insurance business here for half a century, is dead at his home in this city from a complication of ailments. Mr. Sinclair was born at Newark, N. J., June 20, 1829. He was one of the six surviving passengers of the ancient brig Illinois which arrivel at the point in Chicago's harbor now marked by the north pier from Buffalo, May 25, 1835. The brig was commanded by Capt. "Bob" Wagstaff, a swashbuckling sea dog of old salling days, and on that voyage carried some 25 or 30 passengers, westward bound to better their fortunes, besides a cargo of freight in the form of merchandise for frontier trade and household goods for ploncers.

Vandals Desecrate Graves. Negaunce.-Vandals, presumably the same who have been raiding Catholic cemeteries throughout northern Wisconsin and the lower part of the upper peninsula, entered the Catholic cemetery here and completely wrecked over 50 monuments and caused damage aggregating many hundreds of dollars. Scarcely a cross in the cemetery escaped injury, being either completely demolished or else pulled out of the cround.

THE OLD YANKEE ACCENT.

New England Provincialisms Are Not Quite So Often Heard as

We hate to believe our Green mountain friend, the Burlington News, when it assures us that "the Yankee accent is dying out," says the New York Sun. Even in that New England world of French Canadians, Italians and other foreign stocks we hope that "Haow air ye?" still gladdens the car. Yet the Burlingtonian is sure that "even in remotest parts of Vermont the long-drawn 'caow' and 'naow' and kindred words are rarely heard." So much the worse. The kindly native tang, the provincial stamp of speech, are welcome to all but pedantic and priggish long ears. The final "a" sounded as "i" in "pin." "Ameriky," "Africy," "Cuby;" "E1ropean" with the accent on the antepenultimate, a pronunciation that even Mr. Seward is said to have used; the sloughing off of final "g" in "ing;" the adding of "h" to height, thus pronouncing it as Milton spelled it; the little "vulgarisms" like "git," probably reminiscences of the speech of our ancestors; they have their charm, especially as one grows older and roturns to his first love.

If we may judge by books, dialect never flourished more than in these days of trolleys and cheap travel an 1 citified country. Mrs. Wilkins-Freeman hears dialect enough in New England. Probably Mr. Kipling detected strange intonations and lingo in Vermont, though nothing approaching the unintelligible hash in which he is pleased to compose. In Maine, lovely Maine, there are pronunciations which reproduce. "Coat," "boat," even "state," "stet o' Maine," have their interesting variations of sound. "Surry," "cluset," "culerny," "Pucahuntas"-why should everybody pronounce like everybody else?

The truth is that no universal uniformity prevails. The southerner, the westerner, the middle stater, the inhabitant of each several state, have their little peculiarities. The country is full of local dialects. Many of the peculiarities ascribed to the "Yankee" speech may be heard more or less over much of the country. Certain mountain dialects of the south may be more limited in their geographical distribution, but the Yankee of parts of Indiana and of the south will preserve the good old Yankee speech, even if it be true-which we decline to admit-that Hosea Biglow is "as extinct as the dodo." The other day we picked some good words out of the dictionary of "Terms Used in Forestry and Logging," mere drops out of the great ocean of special yet in the main essentially popular vocabularies. That strange and gifted speech, "Pennsylvania Dutch," is still too little known. We see no reason why a man shouldn't be eager and proud to possess and treasure every particle of his native Houghton.-Frank Revard and Fred dialect, be it Floridian, Oregonian, are dead as the result of falling from the that cheap plated "cosmopolitanism" mast which they were scraping. > > The North River.

Long before the revolutionary war, North river (in Massachusetts) had become an important factor in the life of this people. It was an outlet to a large inland country. Not only were its fisheries of importance, but coasting vessels found their way up the stream, and considerable trade was carried on. Packet lines were established, and the river became a scene of busy life. Here, also, industrial activity found a place. As early as 1678 ships were built on its banks. from Pembroke to the sea, and, in the years that followed; numerous shipyards brought prosperity and renown to this part of the country. The vessels built here became known the world over before 1800. They were always designated as having been built on the river, and never in any of the towns on its banks.-From "Old Colony Ship-Building." by Evelina W. Drew, in Four-Track News,

LOSS OF APPETITE

Oold Sweats, Twitching Nerves and Weakness Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Nature punishes every infraction of her laws, and careless habits easily lead to the condition described by Mr. William Browne, of No. 1019 Lincoln street, St. Joseph, Mo. Mr. Browne is an expert tinner in the employ of the National Biscuit Co. He gives the following account of a trying experience:

"In the spring of 1902," he says, "while I was regularly working at my trade, I grew somewhat careless in my habits of eating and drinking, and finally habits of eating and drinking, and flually found that my appetite was fickle, a bad taste lingered in my month, my nerves twitched and were beyond my control, my kidneys were out of order and cold sweats would break out over my body at odd times. Perhaps, while I stood talking with some one, this trembling of the limbs, and profuse sweating, and a severe chill would seize me. I became alarmed at my condition and baying alarmed at my condition and, having read an endorsement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I got a box and began to use them. They helped me at once. After I had used one box the twitching of the nerves, the trouble with the stomach and the cold aweats stopped and have not reappeared, and my appetite is good. I have told all my friends that Dr. Wil-liams' Pink Pills cured me and I recommend them to everybody."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cared Mr. Browne because nothing can strengthen the nerves except good rich, red blood-and Dr. Williams' Pink P.lls actually make new blood. They don't act on the bowels. They don't bother with mere symptoms. They drive from the blood the cause of anæmia, indigestion, nervous disorders, general weakness and the troubles of growing girls and women. The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or harmful drugs. Sold by all druggists, or by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Plain Talk About Millionaires and Their Money

President of Princeton Theological Seminary.

By DR. FRANCIS L. PATTON.

Tresident of Princeton Theological Seminary.

It does not suit me that a man should make a great fortune and then try to square himself by giving large bequests to charitable institutions. I would like to see him give some of it away while he is making it to the poorly paid people whom he employs.

That would be a much more real and effective benevolence than endowing institutions or swelling the funds of organized charity. I would like to see the poorly paid clerk and moderate salaried employe receive a little more practical attention from That appears never to enter the calculations of the manufacturer or business man of any kind.

The man who had come down the steps of the city hall had found a small dog under his feet, and given the animal a kick, relates the Wasaington Star. The owner came forward and demanded: "Because I believe in transmigration," Two years ago I knew a mean man. He died. Your dog looks so much like him that I believe it is a cause of transmigration. I always wanted to like the man, and, finding your dog under my feet, I could not resist the impulse."

"Sir," said the dog. Your dog looks so much like man, and, finding your dog under my feet, I could not resist the impulse."

"Sir," said the ded. Your dog looks so much like dog. The was the crankiest, meanest critter on the face of the earth. He died. The minute I set eyes on you, I knew that it was a case of transmigration. I always wanted to wailop that mule, but never got the chance. It has come at last. And now—

And when the crowled handled them spart theory of transmigration works like a double-barreled shotgun. their employers. That appears never to enter the calculations of the rich merchant or manufacturer or business man of any kind.

I don't mean to say that I think the rich are hypocrites as a class and that they drive hard bargains on week days and do things which are not sancitioned by the law of man's justice to man, while on Sunday they pose as good Christians, but I do mean to say that a great many of them probably do not think of the injustice and unnecessary hardships their lack of consideration entails. The spirit of commercialism is so strong that it dominates even men who mean to do the very right thing.

Money is a good thing, but it's also a dangerous thing. The country couldn't get on at all unless there were rich men in it. The accumulation of large fortunes is absolutely necessary to the progress and well being of th ecommunity. I a mno socialist. I do not believe in dividing up equally all the money.

It would be ruinous. Supposing Mr. Carnegie's $300,000,000 were divided up all over the world, that would only be a dollar apiece for 300,000,000 people. What possible good could that do? None at all to anybody; and you can readily see what great harm it would do, because it would rob Mr. Carnegie of the great power for good which his accumulation of wealth now gives him.

I have read that there is water power enough in New England to supply all the power necessary all over the world. Suppose all those New England streams were concentrated and their power controlled. What a great thing it would be! Then, on the other hand, suppose that the mountains and hills of New England were all leveled and the course of the streams brought down level with the sea. The power would all be gone. Oh, yes, we have to have great fortunes to do great things. There have always been rich men and there always will be.

I don't believe in this howl about tainted money at all. I have no patience with it whatever. I am not asking for money. I am not gan to improve almost at once, and now begging for anything. But I do not believe in tainted money. It is easy for a man to climb the social ladder and be recognized in the highest walks of life so long as he has money with him. But as soon as he loses his wealth his so-called friends lose his address. They promptly forget that he had any money tainted or otherwise.

I think that one can do just as much good with tainted money as with any other kind, and perhaps the doing good with it is the best in the blood and consequently no Rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the vay to remove the taint.

Woman's Righest and noblest Privilege

By CARMEN SYLVA. Queen of Roumania.

It has come to pass that women would strive to manifest their mental powers in other kinds of work, and by amother sort of intellectual culture than that which formerly proved all-sufficient for their own happiness and for the training of their children. The present is, as we know, an epoch of transition and change, in which men are finding out, among other things, that they have been accustomed to look upon women too much as their property, treating them as mere playthings, and denying them just participation in their own counsels and decisions, above all, failing to accord to the wife and mother that recognition which is her due as the soul and center of family life, the guiding spirit and true guardian of the home, to which the husband and father as the breadwinner brings active material support.

Later on these difficulties doubtless will disappear when women, having acquired their so-called rights and having insisted on earning their own living for a time will have gained experience by their own mistakes, and then by a series of mutual concessions the situation will simplify itself to allow that the man's work shall once more suffice for the maintenance of the family, while to the wife leisure will be left for the intellectual training of her children, and she will no longer be reduced to occupying herself merely with their physical welfare, although, after all, rightly to manage one's household is in itself no small merit and involves endless trouble. It is rather the desire of knowledge than the actual sum of knowledge a woman possesses that will fit her to give her children the spiritual sustenance for which they look to her.

Apart from all trivial considerations, there would be this great advantage resulting from our making up our minds to live more simply that there would be more money left to spend on works of art, by which rich and poor alike must benefit equally; for just as churches stand open at all hours, so that all who enter them may find peace and comfort there, a beautiful picture or a noble statue is a perpetual source of delight, not merely to its owner, but to all who behold it. In itself it seems an injustice that a work of art, to which all mankind should have an equal right, should be looked upon as the property of an individual. True; but whence, then, comes the necessity of looking upon it as the property of some person? Simply from the desire of preserving such treasures from desecration. And does not this necessity point to a lamentable deficiency. in our boasted modern system of popular education?

For the spread of education surely for one of its chief aims the instilling into the minds of all such awe and veneration for the works of nature and art, that there would be no need to guard them against acts of vandalism. Every mother should strive to kindle enthusiasm for the beautiful in the hearts of her children, and seek by every means in her power to keep alive in them the sacred flame. I doubt if she could have a higher and nobler privilege

U. P. Exhibit at State Fair Took First Prize of $200.

Interviewed by the Soo Times, Judge E. C. Holden, president of the Upper Peninsula Agricultural association, had the following to say concerning the North country's exhibit at the state fair at Detroit:

"Of all the genuine surprises at the state fair, the farm and garden exhibits from the upper peninsula were the greatest. People from the lower peninsula and other states did not seem to know that the upper peninsula was capable of growing such farm and garden stuffs, and when they saw, as thousands of them did, that many of the best products on exhibition came from the upper peninsula you can scarcely imagine their astonishment. Many had supposed that we live in the frozen north, and when they saw Kentucky hemp, raised from the seed in Dickinson county feet three and one half inches, being one-third taller than it grows in Kentucky or Tennessee, they examined the great tobacco plants, the only ones shown at the fair, they could hardly believe that Alger county had produced said the tobacco was of the first quality.

"The peas exhibited by us were entirely free of bugs and worms so com mon in the lower peninsula peas, and shrunken and showed other defects not existing in our own.

outclassed anything from other sections. Roscommon and Crawford counties cam next in order in the potato exhibit.

"Hubbard squash weighing over thirty and perfect.

"The apples grown by Joseph N. McAdam of Drummond Island, clearly out-classed any apples from other localities. His Northern spies were regarded as the very acme of perfection and the center of attraction for fruit growers. The apple crop of lower Michigan is weak and faulty this year. Besides the McAdam apples there were many others from the upper peninsula which outclassed those of any county south of the straits.

The wheat shown ranks well with that of other localities as did the oats and barley, for none were better. Alfafa clover and other grasses were as good or better than those shown from more southern latitudes.

The display of sugar beets and the product at its different stages of manufacture from the crude molasses to the refined product was shown by the Menominee factory and was the only exhibit of the kind on the grounds.

Turnips, rutabagas, cabbage, cauliflower, kohrabi, soi, beans, coffee-beans and other similar products attracted much attention and some of the finest clusters of plums of different kinds and limbs from crabapple trees heavily loaded with fruit, attracted much attention. In fact the display as a whole was a revelation to all who were not heretofore familiar with the products of the rich soil and splendid climate of the land between the lakes. The people had forgotten that the champion vegetables that won the great first prize at the Columbian exposition, twelve years ago in the greatest contest ever known on the continent were raised within twenty-five miles of the Soo. They did not seem to have been aware that the medal of honor had been awarded for like products to the upper peninsula at the exposition now going on in Porttand, Oregon, but one thing they did learn and many of them will never forget it, that the display of grain, fruit and vegetables at the Michigan state fair this fall was well worthy of the two hundred dollar prize awarded.

The secretary of the big show had requested us to limit our exhibit this year on account of lack of space, and we did limit it, but next year, we are assured by the management that they will raise the limit and give us all the space we need and certainly we can and will as-tonish the people from less favored sec-tions by the excellence of our own pro-

Ben's Theatre Cafe Is Reopened Un-der New Management

Ben's Theatre Cafe, which has been closed through the greater portion of the summer, has been re-opened by A. L. Porter, of Houlton, Me., who for several years conducted a short order restaurant in that city, and the establishment has been re-christened as Porters cafe. The restaurant has already been re-opened under the new management and because of the proprietor as a successful restaurant keeper of many years and the excellent location that has been selected by him, the business should prove to be a success. .

Seventy Bottles of Booze Found in a Cellar.

No booze for Pickford!

This is the slogan of the people of the little village to the south of the Soo. Supervisor John B. McDermid is after the "blind pigs" and already one man has been arrested on a charge of selling liquor without a license. Charles Brown, it is alleged in the complaint made by McDermid, has been a violator of the law. He was arraigned before Justice A. W. Taylor yesterday and after waiving examination was bound over to the December term of the circuit court. Prosecuting Attorney George B. Holden, who handled the case for the people, returned from Pickford to-day. He was accompanied on the trip by Deputy Sheriff Frank B. Atwood. Atwood searched Brown's cellar and discovered 70 bottles of whiskey. After the hearing the defendant was released on $200 bonds.

Pickford has long had the reputation of being a prohibition town, but it has been noticed that many of the citizens have been able to secure liquor whenthat had grown to the height of fifteen ever they desired something for their stomach's sake.
