THIRTY-FIFTH YEAR

ESCANABA, MICHIGAN, SATURDAY, OCT. 28, 1906.

NUMBER 44

ISHPEMING WON GAME.

Defeated Escanaba High School By Score of 46 to 0 Last Saturday.

ESCANABA OUTWEIGHED

Local Team Was Unable to Score Against Ishpeming's Heavier and More Experienced Team

By a score of 46 to 0, the Escanaba High school foot ball team was defeated by its old time rival Ishpeming. Escanaba was clearly outplayed and though a plucky fight was put up, they were no match for the Ishpeming team with its greater weight and larger experience.

Ishpeming was fast and showed careful coaching. In the first half a total of 17 points were made and in the second half 29 more were added. The defeat is the most decisive that Escanaba has sustained for several seasons, and serves to show that the local team is not in championship form, a fact which the team and its supporters has realized from the start. The team is composed almost entirely of new men, all but one of last year's championship team being out of school this year. For Escanaba, Walsh and Ray Sullivan are credited with doing excellent work both on the defensive and offensive. Thatcher appeared in the game for the first time this season and gave a good account of himself. At only one stage of the game did Escanaba have a chance of scoring. In the last part of the second half a desperate effort was made by the local boys to cross Ishpeming's goal line. With good gains by Walsh and Sullivan the ball was advanced to Ishpeming's 20 yard line. On the next play Walsh broke through and throwing off the tackling players, he placed the ball behind the goal line. In making the run however, it was discovered that he had stepped with one foot outside of the line and the ball was brought back. Time was called with the ball in Escanaba's possession on Ishpeming's eight yard line.

The Mining Journal has the following to say concerning the contest of Saturday:

"It is very evident from the game the Escanaba High school foot ball team played Saturday afternoon at Union Park against Ishpeming high that the state championship will not go to the Sandy City this season. The visitors were defeated by a score of 46 to 0. Escanaba has a plucky lot of players, who will doubtless give a much better account of themselves next season than this year. They are lighter than Ishpeming, and besides only one of last year's men are playing. Semer, Riley, Nugent and the other heavy players who were largely responsible for Escanaba's fine showing the past two years, are no longer in the team, they having finished their school work last year. The visitors were hardly in the game when they realized that they stood no chance of winning, but in spite of this fact they played strenuously until the last. The game was decidedly interesting in spite of Ishpeming's walk-away, as a number of sensational runs were made by the Ishpeming players, including J. Kjesboe, Will Walters and Ed. and Gust Johnson. Styer also carried the ball for good gains."

The schooner Elizabeth, bound from Cedar River to Menominee with a cargo of 60,000 feet of lumber, went on the beach a few miles north of the latter port Tuesday evening of last week and is a total loss. The accident was caused by the craft dragging her anchor. It was owned and commanded by Capt. Fred Hamilton of Marinette, and was valued at $1,500.

AUTOISTS ARE BACKWARD

Only 2,700 Have Paid State License Fee.

Either the number of automobiles in Michigan was greatly overestimated or a large number of machine owners have failed to comply with the state law requiring the licensing of automobiles, as only 2,700 licenses have been taken out at the office of the secretary of state.

It was estimated during the session of legislature that at least 5,000 machines were owned in Michigan. The license fee of two dollars on each machine goes to the support of the department of good roads. The enforcement of the law requiring the payment of the license fee rests with no state authority, and if police departments do not require the payment of the fee it remains unpaid.

HALLOWE'EN

Tuesday Night the Time for Pranks—Guard Your Gate

Next Tuesday evening will be Halloween, and if it proves no exception to the general course of events, the elderly ones will be angry while young America will be in his element.

Hallowe'en is the name popularly given to the eve of vigil of all Hallowes or festival of All Saints, which begins the first of November. Hallowe'en is the evening of the 31st. of October in England. It has long been customary to crack nuts, duck for apples in a tub of water, and perform other harmless fireside revelries, while the same thing can be said of Scotland. It is to be hoped that on this Hallowe'en, they will hold themselves to harmless pranks.

"OLE OLSON"

Will Appear at Peterson's Opera House Friday November 3.

"Ole Olson" blonde of hair, ruddy of cheeks, ingenious as to manner, unsophisticated in worldly ways, but honest to the core, and willing to incur any danger in behalf of his friends and the triumph of right, is one of the few stage characters that have retained their popularity despite the ever-changing tastes of the theatre-going public. Like "Rip Van Winkle" "Uncle Joshua Whitcomb" and "Nathaniel Berry" in "Shore Acres" "Ole" pursues the even tenor of his way, delighting his audiences and carrying with him an atmosphere of honesty, homely and wholesome naturalness, worth infinitely more than the sham bravado of romantic heroes and the flippant cynicism of drawing-room characters in problem plays. This explains why "Ole" lives and lasts and is also a tribute to the good sense and wholesome instincts of the great mass of theatre goers. "Ole" will be presented here at the Peterson Opera house Friday evening, Nov. 3, by the original and only authorized company playing this comedy. It is rehearsed, staged and played by Ben Hendricks, who is conceded to give the best portrayal of this quaint character on the American stage, and it is guaranteed that a thoroughly artistic and excellent performance will be given.

That Michigan has the largest institution of learning in the country was made known Friday when the register gave out the figures completed at Boston. The present attendance at the largest colleges is as follows: Michigan, 4,048; Harvard, 3,865; Minnesota, 3,759; Columbia, 3,725; Pennsylvania, 2,250; California, 3,100; Yale, 3,100; Cornell, 2,982; Illinois, 2,944; Northwestern, 2,741; Chicago, 2,530; New York, 2,500.

Mills who has been retained as counsel by Brennan was on hand and said he was willing to proceed with the case if his client insisted, but that otherwise he would not object to a continuance.

MAY HAVE BEEN MURDERED.

Dead Body of Geo. Elie, an Indian Found in Bay at Nahma.

SUSPECT UNDER ARREST

A Handkerchief Bound About the Mouth of the Dead Man Lends Color to Murder Theory.

The body of George Elie an Indian who disappeared from Nahma two weeks ago was found after a three day's search in the water near the dock at Nahma. A handkerchief was bound tightly about the mouth of the dead man and other circumstances in connection with the case lend strength to the theory that the Indian was murdered. Alfred Salter, with whom Elie was last seen alive is under arrest at the county jail. According to the evidence collected by the authorities, Elie went out in a row boat to visit a schooner anchored in the bay upon which a house of ill fame was conducted.

It is supposed that the Indian became involved in a quarrel and was ordered to put ashore. Salter who was engaged as ferryman claims that Elie was intoxicated and that he landed him upon the Nahma dock.

It is claimed that Salter remarked a day or so afterward that another Indian had gone where he would cause no more trouble. This remark it is claimed was one of the things that aroused the suspicions of the town officials the search followed which resulted in the finding of the body and the arrest of Salter. The body of the Indian was examined by Dr. Laird and it is his opinion that death occurred before the body entered the water.

The preliminary hearing will be held at Nahma before Justice of Peace W. J. Laird as soon as the term of circuit court is over.

An attempt is also being made to locate the captain of the schooner who is alleged to be Capt. George Seely.

THE SCHOOL GIRL

Will be Seen at Peterson's Opera House Sunday Oct. 29th

A theatrical pastel, that is what a famous English critic termed "The School Girl" by way of differentiating it from the ordinary run of musical comedies. "The School Girl" is a genuine comic opera, possessing all the qualities of elegant craftsmanship. Its music is an inspiration. Its freshness and fragrance and orchestral coloring is fascinating in the extreme, eclipsing in splendor of texture the pretty strains of Leslie Stuart's other famous success "Florodora." The story is equally interesting. For once the theatre goer can feel some interest in the development of a rational plot, a story of a romantic school girl, Carrie Reynolds, brought up in a convent school, who, full of sympathy for her love-lorn playmate, Helena Byrne, burning with indignation at the worldly views of that young lady's parents, runs off from school, finds her way to Paris, and follows up a clue that brings her into the bustling centre of the Stock Exchange, in the hope of finding the artist in whom all her friend's hopes are concentrated.

This stockbroker's office is an effective scene, tickling with telephone bells, clicking with typewriters and tape machines, where a goodly portion of the gay, debonair society of the French capital congregate. Mr. S. P. Pulem will be seen as the swindling stockbroker, calm, imperturbable, simply overwhelming in his profession of philosophy, and the impudent self-assurance with which he palms off worthless shares on helpless clients, is simply delicious. Among the victims are Mr. Arthur Wooley as Tubby Bedford, another clever variation of the vacuous aristocrat with lots more money than sense, with whom we are all familiar, Mr. Barrie Maxwell as General Marchmont, as gruff and irascible as most military men of high rank and experience, but a thorough-paced old reprobate as often as he can break away from the matrimonial leading strings that hold him so firmly, and Mr. Robert Whyte as the invertebrate Sir Ormsby St. Ledger, the elderly, well-preserved, hard-living bachelor destined for the ill-assorted marriage already referred to, whose portraiture is the essence of entertaining caricature, illuminated by many a deft touch of instinctive comedy.

Mr. Gus Vaughn, as the young artist true to his school girl love as every artist always is on the stage, whatever he may be in real life, acts with manly grace and unaffected sincerity, and sings expressive love songs with true emotional fervour. Throughout the performance the interest is held at high pitch and there is every indication that "The School Girl" will be one of the big events of the local theatrical season.

WRECKER GETTING FAT

Life in Marquette Jail Agrees with Hungarian Cemetery Vandal

Kose Kazimer, the cemetery wrecker who has been an inmate of the county jail since his capture at Ishpeming a month ago, is the most contented of the half dozen men in the upper cage. Until this week, Kazimer has occupied a cell alone, but when Paul Brunet, the man who was brought from Baraga on the charge of larceny came to the institution the two men were assigned the same cell. Since his incarceration, Kazimer has shown signs of mental improvement, and is apparently as sane as any man in the jail, commingling with the other prisoners, and talking freely to officers or visitors. His daily diet consists almost wholly of bread and butter and potatoes, washed down by large quantities of tea, coffee and milk. Although the prison bill of fare includes meat twice a day, fish on Friday, and baked pork and beans Saturday and Sunday, the cemetery wrecker will not eat these foods. He has not partaken of meat or fish in any form since he has been in jail, and will not eat the beans for the reason that they are cooked in pork. Sheriff Rough says Kazimer is the first prisoner he has had since he took charge of the jail who has "asked for more" food. The man was furnished with one slice of bread when he took his first meal, but that did not satisfy him, and he asked the sheriff if he would be allowed two slices for each meal. The request was complied with. It is stated for the purpose of illustrating Kazimer's appetite for bread, that the slices are about ten inches long, and six inches thick.

Mr. Rutledge Busy.

The anti-saloon agent for the upper peninsula did business last week. Mr. Rutledge does his work very quietly. The saloon men are not sent postals announcing his coming to their city, but they are soon made aware of his presence if he sees or hears of a violation of the liquor laws by being summoned to appear before a justice and answer to the charge of transgressing the laws made and provided for the conduct of drink shops. This week Mr. Rutledge was in Menominee county with his drag net and succeeded in landing four victims. At Daggett he caused the arrest of P. E. Johnson, W. Reduz and Herman Wertzell, each one of whom were charged with conducting their places of business under an illegal bond, their sureties holding residence in another township. The warrants for their arrest were sworn out at Stephenson, three miles distant from Daggett, and as soon as the fact became known among the Stephenson saloon keepers there was a great hustling on their part to secure a legal bond as a number of them were doing business under the same plan as their Daggett brethren. At Metropolitan Robers L. Dunlap was arrested for keeping his saloon open after hours. All of the defendants were bound over for appearance at the next term of the circuit court in $200 bonds, which were furnished.

A Double-Barreled Love Story

"Mrs. Carter" plays the part of fate in the latest Jean Webster's stories of the servants, in the November McClure's. The groom whose heart history has added to the gaiety of previous numbers of the magazine is bowled over at last by the charms of "Annie," though the course of true love runs no more smoothly "below stairs" than in the drawing-room. "Mrs. Carter as Fate" is a pretty, heart-warming double-barreled love story, and it is hard to say when all is over whether your interest has been more keenly enlisted in the affairs of Miss Ethel or the maid.

MISS ROOSEVELT RETURNS.

President's Daughter Again on American Soil After Her Tour of the Orient.

San Francisco, Oct. 24.—Miss Alice Roosevelt arrived here Monday on her way back to Washington after a tour of the orient and now is speeding eastward on E. H. Harriman's special, which will try to break all records from coast to coast.

Miss Roosevelt's presents were packed in eight large cases which went through in bond from Yokohama to Washington. She denies that they have the fabulous value placed on them by newspaper romancers. The collector of the port wished to pass without examination her personal belongings, which were in several trunks, but she refused to allow, saying she wished to be treated like any other American girl. So they were examined, but none was dutiable. The president's daughter said she had a delightful trip, having seen many wonderful sights, but was glad to be back in America. She said: "The gifts with which I was presented in various places I accepted as a compliment to my country and got in the nature of a personal tribute. Please deny for me, however, that they represent any such value, or are of the fabulous character reported in the newspapers. "There is also absolutely no foundation in fact for the absurd story that I took a dive into the tank or board ship with all my ordinary clothing on, as a result of a dare with Mr. Longworth. Neither did I receive an offer of marriage from the sultan of Sulu. "The circulation of such nonsensical stories is the only outcome of my whole trip that I have to regret. I have had an exceptionally enjoyable time from its inception, and have been in the best of health and spirits throughout. I am going directly to the white house."

Miss Roosevelt declined to go into details concerning her trip, excusing herself on the ground that she was forbidden by her father to give interviews to newspaper men.

UNIQUE CHARACTER GONE.

Death at Wichita, Kan., of Former Congressman Jerry Simpson—His Career.

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 24.—Ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson died Monday morning. Mr. Simpson was conscious up to five minutes before his death. The end came without a struggle. Death was caused by aneurism of the aorta. Mr. Simpson had been in ill-health for nearly a year. It is stated by his attending physician and by Mrs. Simpson that Mr. Simpson's trouble originated in the campaign of 1900, which was particularly wearing upon him. At the close of the campaign he was greatly fatigued and any unusual exertion was followed by a cough and a pain near the heart, that gradually grew worse. Ex-Congressman Simpson was born in New Brunswick, on March 31, 1842. At 14 he began life as a sailor, and during his 23 years' following that pursuit commanded many large vessels on the Great Lakes. In the civil war he served in the Twelfth Illinois infantry. He came to Kansas in 1878. Originally, he was a republican, but later became a greenbacker and populist. He was a member of congress from 1891 to 1895 and from 1897 to 1899, being nominated the last time by both the democrats and populists. After he left congress he moved to Roswell, N. M., where he engaged up to the time of his death in stock farming. He returned to Kansas a month ago and entered a local hospital for treatment.

RUSSIA'S LATEST TROUBLE.

Complete Tie-Up of Railways Throughout the Empire by Strike of Employees.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—The railroad strike situation has now entered on a highly serious phase. The movement is spreading rapidly to all the railroads of the empire, and apparently cannot be stopped, while in many cities it is communicating itself to the mill and factory employees. A flood of dispatches yesterday from Simbirsk, Saratoff, Vyazma, Poltava, Nizhni Novgorod, Kharkoff, Smolensk, Kieff, Elizabethgrad Kazen and other railroad centers all over Russia announced the complete tying up of all transportation. St. Petersburg has one line to the frontier and the employees of this line held a meeting late last night to decide whether or not they should participate in the strike movement. The last link that bound Moscow, the commercial center of the empire, with the outer world was broken yesterday afternoon when the men on the Nicholas road, connecting Moscow with St. Petersburg, went on strike. The engineers shut off steam in their engines and Prince Hilkoff had great difficulty in obtaining a crew for the special train which brought him to St. Petersburg at midnight.

STRENGTHEN THE STOMACH.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Relieve Curious Indigestion Instead of Merely Relieving Symptoms.

There are plenty of remedies by which you can relieve for the time heartburn, pain and gas on the stomach and can soothe nervous sensations and induce artificial sleep. You can humor your stomach by giving it predigested food. But when you take your next meal all your trouble begins afresh. There is only one sensible thing to do. Strengthen the stomach and do away with the necessity for drugs and artificial foods. The best remedy ever found for this purpose is the one that was used by E. E. Stroug, of Capleville, Shelby county, Tenn. "For years," he states, "I suffered greatly from indigestion. I tried many different remedies and some of them would relieve me for a time, but the trouble always came back. About six months ago I had an unusually severe attack, and while I tried everything I had ever heard of, I found that none of the ordinary remedies would reach the difficulty this time. "One day I read in a Memphis paper how Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured a Michigan woman, a sufferer from chronic dyspepsia of a most stubborn type. I then tried the same remedy and it proved just as successful in my case. I took only three boxes, and was cured. I have not had the slightest symptoms of indigestion since. "The tonic treatment has a sound principle as its basis, and abundant success in actual use. Multitudes of cases that had defied all other remedies have been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pills actually make new blood and strike at the root of all diseases caused by bad blood. They contain no harmful stimulants or opiates. Every dyspeptic should read, 'What to Eat and How to Eat.' Write the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a free copy.

HIS ONE COMPLAINT.

"Do they treat you well here?" asked the good woman who was trying to do a little missionary work behind the bars. "Fairly well, ma'am," answered the burglar, who was enjoying a three years' vacation. "I have only one fault to find with the treatment they hand out. "What is that?" queried the lady visitor. "It's refuse to let me carry a night key!" replied the prisoner.—Chicago Daily News.

MANY KNOW THIS—DO YOU?

The following very interesting conversation between Mr. White, banker, and Mr. Walter Wellman, retired, two prominent citizens of the town, was recently overheard: "I never buy patent medicine," said Mr. White. "When I feel the need of medical assistance I call our physician. I don't believe in taking a lot of stuff that I know nothing about. I know, however, that a great many do use it, and apparently with good results, but I am for getting a doctor every time. "Your circumstances render this possible," replied Mr. Wellman, "but the majority of people must consider the expense. My experience is that some patent medicines frequently cure when the doctor's skill is baffled. Take, for instance, an affliction, say like constipation and stomach trouble. Did you ever hear of your family physician curing a case like that? If constipated, he gives you a physic; but a physic cannot cure constipation, and he will tell you so. It is a temporary relief and before long you need more physic or pills. The doctor charges you $2 every time you call on him and you have to pay 50c to 75c to have his prescription filled. Pretty soon you have the 'Pill or Physic' habit and your doctor has a steady customer. You cannot read the doctor's prescriptions. You know no more about what he gives you than you do about the ingredients of a patent medicine. No reliable company will put a lot of money into a patent medicine unless they are convinced that it will do all that is claimed for it. Usually it is the prescription of some specialist who has devoted his life to the study of a certain disease and has mastered it. I mention constipation and stomach trouble because I suffered from that affliction for years. It is the beginning of nearly all disease. Once it gets a grip on you, it is serious, stubborn and hard to overcome. I never knew a case that was cured by an ordinary practicing physician, but I do know of a number of had cases that were permanently cured by a remedy called Mull's Grape Tonic. I have used it in my family with satisfactory results. It cured me, and I know a great many more persons it has cured. It costs 50 cents for a small or $1.00 for a large bottle. I don't know exactly all that is in it, but I do know it cures constipation and stomach trouble, and that is more than my family doctor could do for me. I was first attracted to the remedy by the company's offer to give the first bottle free to any one who would write to them giving their druggist's name. I am thankful for the benefit it has given and advise every sufferer from constipation to write to the Mull's Grape Tonic Co., 147 4th Ave., Rock Island, Ill., giving them their druggist's address, so that they can procure a bottle free of expense."

LADY HOLLAND'S DEBT

STITCH, stitch. How busily the bright needle darted in and out of the pretty silk, catching some stray sunbeams on its gleaming point—sunbeams that flickered first on the gilded picture frames, then on the carpet's wonderful blue roses, lastly on the curly head of the little seamstress who sat weaving near the window. The casements were thrown wide open and in with the sunshine came whiffs of freshly mown lawns, sweet peas, and syringa from the old-fashioned garden outside.

The summer's beauty made the industrious worker sing lightly to herself, though, heaven knows, there was not much cause for song in little Cissy Blackwood's life, unless it were that she was the belle of Moseley and had the brightest brown eyes and the sunniest curls you could wish for. And it was not only the village boys who discovered how charming and refined Cissy was and how melodious the clear voice that was now daring to carol within the gloomy walls of Holland court.

Anstey Cheshurst, second son of the widowed Lady Holland, found quite a number of excuses which carried him into his mother's boudoir, where the clever fingers made up elaborate toilettes for his women-folk. Ah! those dresses, those hours of patient labor. Many a month had Cissy waited, and many a month more was she likely to wait, for the money which was owing to her.

Such a large sum that it was sufficiently alarming to cross her line beneath Lady Holland's eyes as she planned and plotted each wakeful night on the difficult problem, viz, how to keep up "appearances" rank, Holland court and a town residence on next to nothing a year. True, her eldest daughter was disposed of to a penniless young baronet—oh dear! that trousseau, how the money did mount up—but there were still three damsels for sale. So far their education, smart dresses, and lack of wearing accomplishments had failed to have the desired effect, and no one seemed disposed to pay Lady Holland as a capricious, seeing what a difficulty she had in settling her own daughters.

Still, rich Miss Ingots, her present guest, seemed undoubtedly impressed with her unmarried son, with his handsome bearing and ready tongue. His sole income, a legacy, was only small compared with the figures of the lady's fortune, his "wild oats" were well known in Moseley, but beauty covers a multitude of sins, so Miss Ingots approved. "How nice!" and so on. So far, so good. But Anstey, well aware of his mother's intentions, took a wicked delight in alternate petting and teasing the heiress, delaying all efforts to secure this golden treasure with the most irritating coyness. He knew quite well how to charm Miss Ingots, and he knew equally well how to fascinate pretty Cissy Blackwood until that simple maiden imagined him to be the perfect ideal of manly attraction. And Anstey enjoyed himself thoroughly, increased the number of stolen interviews and looked down admiringly at the lovely face that brightened at his coming. He had always preferred wild roses to gardenias.

"You must not come and talk to me any more, Mr. Anstey; it would vex her ladyship terribly if she found it out. Please keep away," said Cissy. But her voice lacked emphasis and Anstey did not keep away. Though tolerably in awe of his lady mother he thoroughly enjoyed stealing a march on her and the sedate Miss Ingots, who, poor thing, could not purchase Cissy's youth and sweetness—in spite of the tempting advertisements—with all her wealth.

Anstey was honorable enough to feel both worried and indignant on learning the extent of his mother's debt when Cissy confided to him how very much she would like her money.

"I shall feel quite rich then," said Cissy, joyfully, "for I have quite a lot of money in the bank. You see, I have nobody to spend it on, for I haven't a relation in all the world."

"Lucky little woman," sighed Anstey.

"Ah, I don't know about that. You like to belong to some one and feel they care about you."

"You know I care." The remainder of that conversation was incoherent.

"Your account shall be settled in a week or two," my lady promised, with the air of one who confers an unpeakable benefit. "I have overlooked it for quite a long time, but there have been so many things to see to."

Perhaps it was the memory of a certain face, the echo of whispered words, that caused the patient worker to wait still longer, planning fresh attire with unflinching cleverness and success. Even Miss Ingots in her Parisian creations looked overdressed and vulgar beside the perfect taste and cut of Lady Holland's gowns. So thought my lady herself as she glided down the passage to her boudoir—still, for want of space, a temporary workroom—and her noiseless footsteps enabled her to witness a very interesting scene within.

The half-opened door revealed Cissy sitting idly at the table, a mass of silk and chiffon lying untouched in her lap as she listened eagerly to her companion's talk. On the table, perched near her ladyship's new bodice, sat Anstey Cheshurst, leaning forward to admire more fully the brown eyes that watched him with such unfeigned admiration. I cannot actually declare that my lady's hair stood on end, perhaps had it cost less it might have done so, but at any rate her eyes flashed with indignant anger and her bony fingers could have torn Cissy in pieces with the greatest pleasure. It would never, never do for Anstey to flirt, however harmlessly, with this notorious little worker. (Lady Holland, a chemist's daughter, had come to the same school as Cissy's mother, the daughter of a farmer). Goodness only could conjecture what Miss Ingots might do if she ever suspected such a thing. Anstey must be made to see that amusement with the bourgeoisie was too dangerous in their present position—of course, she did not consider for a moment Cissy's feelings in the matter. People of that class, my lady said, were mercifully born without feelings. Certainly she ought to have known. Anger quickened her usually deliberate movements, but she was yet too slow to prevent a scene that positively paralyzed her. Anstey, jumping lightly down from his undignified seat, said a few loving words to Cissy and kissed her dimpled chin with ardor. His mother shivered from head to foot and glared at the unconscious pair with helpless fury.

Her scapegrace son then quitted the room as his mother swept in by the second door nearly speechless with wrath. It was a pity Anstey did not look round before he closed the door; he little guessed the tableau he left behind him, and yet, Lady Holland, what did you ever do that gave you the right to look down at that shrinking little maiden with such scorn and bitter contempt? I own she is a foolish little creature, for she pays her small bills regularly, helps those who cannot repay her, and never wins money by gambling with those who cannot afford to lose. It certainly could not have been with any feeling of conscious merit that Lady Holland frowned at the startled face, which seemed to say: "I couldn't help it, really I couldn't. Please forgive me."

"I witnessed your disgraceful conduct with my son, Miss Blackwood. You will have the goodness to collect your things instantly and leave the house. Your services are no longer required."

The tone brought a vivid color into Cissy's cheeks, and a curious, rather teasing, twinkle danced in the brown eyes as she said demurely: "I was going to tell your ladyship that I could not come any more after today. I only came because of the fact that your ladyship wanted this dress for your grandchild's christening."

"I would rather go in rags than keep you a minute longer in this house."

"Certainly, your ladyship. And my account?"

It was no use reviewing empty purses, the money was not forthcoming, so Lady Holland took refuge in righteous indignation.

"Your account, indeed! After the scandalous scene that has just taken place, I wonder you have the effrontery to ask me. You may consider yourself extremely lucky, Miss Blackwood, if I do not warn everybody of your disgraceful conduct."

"And the equally unpardonable behavior of your son," retorted Cissy, facing the angry woman quite calmly. "But you are right about the money, Lady Holland; it has been paid."

"What did the girl mean! Was she mad? Or had Anstey discovered the debt and paid it? Hardly possible, for Anstey and his mother were generally in a state of petty warfare, and her numerous debts were carefully hidden from his critical eye."

"Perhaps you will have the goodness to explain what you mean."

"When I said I was paid," explained Cissy, "I did not mean it was paid in money, but I have received what is more than its equivalent. For some time I hesitated out of respect for you, but your treatment exhausted my patience. I am all alone in the world, so—"

"Finish your sentence. I have yet to learn why Mr. Cheshurst troubled himself in my affairs."

"Your son has paid me no money; he could not do so. Unworthy though I am of the honor, I am your ladyship's daughter-in-law. Anstey knew it would be hopeless to invite you to our wedding, so we were married quite privately at the Church of St. Andrew's yesterday. Good morning, your ladyship."

RECREATION HOURS

PLAYS AND GAMES WITH WHICH TO AMUSE.

Clever Scheme for Place-Cards—Unusual Way to Arrange Partners at Informal Evening Affair—Pretty Table at a Birthday Party.

A Souvenir Postal Card Party. Nearly every town of any size has its own individual postal, and in this day and generation everyone is the recipient of many of these charming reminders of travel, both at home and abroad. Something original in the way of entertaining for either dinner, luncheon or "afternoon" was given by the hostess when she planned this affair.

The rooms were decorated with postals fastened together by holes punched in the corners and ribbons run through them. Panels were formed in this way and made a most effective decoration. Cards were stuck in picture frames, placed on tables, on the mantels and every spot where they would attract attention. These cards were topics of conversation which was very animated. "Do you remember?" and "that reminds me" were expressions heard on all sides.

Invitations were sent out on local souvenir cards. Then for "place cards" at this luncheon the hostess had mailed cards to each guest, ten in number, addressing them to her own house number. By these they found their places at the table. Each one was asked to come prepared to relate some incident of travel, either "humorous," "startling" or "pathetic." A vote was taken as to the best story in each class, souvenirs were awarded inexpensive articles which the hostess had collected with this party in mind. Souvenir spoons were used and the table linen came from Ireland.

The menu consisted of grape fruit, creamed potatoes served in ramakins, whole wheat bread, cherry salad made by replacing the pits of California cherries with hazel nuts, serving it on head lettuce leaves with a rich mayonnaise dressing, and cheese wafers; ice cream was served in halves of canteloupe with small cakes. The bonbons were in dress-suit case boxes, and the almonds in miniature hand-boxes, which the guests were given for favors. Iced tea was the beverage, with a bit of lemon and a candied cherry in it.

Fun with Soap Bubbles.

Here is a pretty way to amuse one child, or any number of children. Cover sewing tables with an old blanket, or any soft material that will make a soft pad. Then procure little bowls of blue, yellow, or the so-called "Dutch" ware, a quantity of clay pipes and several bolts of baby ribbon—the penny-a-yard quality will do.

Light colors are also becoming to middle-aged women, and light blue is especially the crowning beauty of the woman who has white hair. A discreet use of pink is also attractive even upon elderly women, discreet meaning in the use of touches in either blue or pink, which is a different matter from indulging in the overfulness of an all pink or pale blue gown. A few folds of pale pink velvet or chiffon on a black net toque or lace straw hat is charming on an elderly wearer, while pink roses, if tucked under the brim of a lace-edged hat, never seem too much. One of the prettiest effects possible was that of a jetted toque, the jetted black net almost covering the frame, but revealing the white net with which it was "filled," underneath. Twisted through the crown and coming through to the outside at the back was a trail of pale blue velvet, which held a bunch of the finest pale blue ostrich tips which clustered down over the gentle-faced wearer's white hair.

White is especially fitting for a grandmother's dress, and all the white laces of stately effect which can be resurrected or procured by the woman of 70 should be treasured religiously and combined with white silk for evening dresses, instead of being combined with black, or given away to younger aspirants for their loveliness. White lace and white silk is a thousand times more attractive for the elderly woman's evening wear than black lace and black silk, and where black lace is used it should be lined with white chiffon or lightened with jet ornaments and pale blue.

When the date arrived, the rooms were found decorated with ears of red and white corn; they hung as a frieze from grill-work, from gas jets, and portieres were made from corn kernels strung on a heavy thread. The kernels were first soaked in lye to soften for the needle.

A long basket filled with ears of corn, each tied at the large end with ribbon, were passed to each guest with the request to count the kernels. Wooden plates were furnished on which to put the shelled corn. After all had finished counting a memorandum was taken, then the contents of each plate were emptied into a large bowl, which was conspicuously placed in the hall, and each person requested to guess the number of grains of corn in the bowl. A record was kept of each guest. An account was taken and the two who had come nearest the correct number were awarded prizes. The refreshments were hulled corn, served in bowls with Jersey cream and sugar; hot corn muffins, with maple syrup; popcorn, doughnuts and coffee.

A hostess who wished for something new in the way of place cards for the six guests whom she had asked to lunch with her, devised this clever scheme. She set about illustrating each girl's special fond or individualism by pictures, which she mounted and marked with the date, but no name.

One girl had a fashion of sitting Turkish fashion on the floor, and an advertisement was found to suit this case to perfection. The girl girl was easy, also the boating girl; the equestrienne was soon provided for, as was the girl whose latest fad was cooking; it caused much merriment, as each girl found herself.

Another up-to-date hostess evolved an unusual way of having her guests find their partners at an informal evening affair.

The company was a large one and she desired to mingle the guests as much as possible. So she gave each man a paper and pencil, introduced him to a lady, telling him to talk with her for five minutes and then write a minute description of her gown, general appearance, hair, etc., etc.

After ten minutes the papers were collected. At refreshment time these slips were scattered promiscuously among the men and they were asked to find the lady who answered to the description on their paper and take her to supper.

Here is a description of a table arranged for a birthday party of a ten-year-old girl. It was so beautifully simple in design and detail that any mother could carry out the scheme with very little trouble or expense. The guests were 24 in number.

To save table linen, as it was in the country, and laundry work at a premium, the table was set with pink crepe tissue paper mats. The cake, which was the center of attraction, was a large angel's food, iced with white and decorated with candied cherries and spikes of citron. Around the cake was a barrel hoop, wound with pink paper and ferns. In the hoop pink candles were stuck. The holders can be pasteboard with sharp tacks in the end, such as are used on Christmas trees. There were just as many candles as the hoop would hold; they represented "the years to come." On a small hoop right close up to the cake were ten pink candles, while one tall candle, "the year to grow on." Bowls of flowers were at the four corners of the table, with plates of chicken sandwiches, suited almonds, lemonade with cherries in it, and tall glasses filled with plain vanilla ice cream. The cream had a tablespoonful of whipped cream on top, capped by a Maraschino cherry. Paper napkins were used and "snapping" caps, so dear to childish hearts, were the favors.

FOR THE ELDERLY WOMAN.

All Black Not the Proper Choice—The Beauty of Pale Blue Against White Hair.

It is the worst possible policy for the middle-aged woman to dress in unrelieved black. There is nothing more unbecoming to such a wearer, as only the bright rose tints of the young face can satisfactorily bear black close to it. Plenty of white of dainty freshness in the shape of collar, or ruffle, or vest will so modify the severity of a black gown as to make it not only becoming, but gives the impression, which is particularly attractive for the elderly woman, of fastidiousness, nicety and spotlessness.

Light colors are also becoming to middle-aged women, and light blue is especially the crowning beauty of the woman who has white hair. A discreet use of pink is also attractive even upon elderly women, discreet meaning in the use of touches in either blue or pink, which is a different matter from indulging in the overfulness of an all pink or pale blue gown. A few folds of pale pink velvet or chiffon on a black net toque or lace straw hat is charming on an elderly wearer, while pink roses, if tucked under the brim of a lace-edged hat, never seem too much. One of the prettiest effects possible was that of a jetted toque, the jetted black net almost covering the frame, but revealing the white net with which it was "filled," underneath. Twisted through the crown and coming through to the outside at the back was a trail of pale blue velvet, which held a bunch of the finest pale blue ostrich tips which clustered down over the gentle-faced wearer's white hair.

White is especially fitting for a grandmother's dress, and all the white laces of stately effect which can be resurrected or procured by the woman of 70 should be treasured religiously and combined with white silk for evening dresses, instead of being combined with black, or given away to younger aspirants for their loveliness. White lace and white silk is a thousand times more attractive for the elderly woman's evening wear than black lace and black silk, and where black lace is used it should be lined with white chiffon or lightened with jet ornaments and pale blue.

Relaxing. Ten minutes of perfect relaxation gives more rest than hours of so-called resting with tense muscles. Many a woman has been heard to say after arising from her seats that she feels more tired than before. It is not to be wondered at, for her muscles were unrelaxed and her brain much disturbed. Rest with utter abandonment of mind and body. Let the bed, couch or chair bear the whole weight of the body. Imagine that you have not the power to lift a limb. Loosen all tension, and in a short time you will feel renewed strength.

An Afternoon Call.

In making an afternoon call a man usually leaves his overcoat, cane or umbrella, hat and gloves in the hall before entering the drawing-room. At a first or exceedingly formal call he may, if he choose, carry his hat, gloves and cane into the room, if the call is to be a very brief one. He should put his card on the tray which the servant extends to him as he enters the room.

Crystal Hatpins.

Hatpins with crystal heads, or with an opaque colored bead for a head, are worn.

IN MODERN MINING.

ELEMENT OF CHANCE ELIMINATED BY THE DREDGE.

Obstacles of Primitive Methods Have Been Done Away With in Up-to-Date Hunt for Gold.

Placer mining came to a stop in Egypt and Spain when their product fell to the level of hand labor; it stopped in Brazil partly for the same reason, and partly because the gravel being small and fine, the placer fields are nearly flat and the mines are "out of grade." It stopped in California, states the Chicago Chronicle, because the tailings choked up the rivers, and the law courts interdicted the hydraulic process.

In Australia it had almost passed the level of hand labor when the gold dredge was invented. In Alaska, though stopped in winter time for lack of running water, it is still going on during the summer time, when the streams are released from frost. In none of these countries was placer mining arrested because there was no more gold in the gravel, but for the other reasons given, all of which are now remedied by the gold dredge.

This invention supersedes hand labor; it requires no "grade" or delicately down which to sluice its gravel; it will choke no river; it needs only enough water to float itself in and to wash the gold with; and all of this water it can and does use over again. It is as much at home in the arid but auriferous deserts of Arizona as in the golden marshes of the Feather river.

What is this "goldship"? It is simply a dredge that floats in a pond of its own making—pond which accompanies it wherever it chooses to go, and which enables it to move over the land in any direction. It scoops up the gravel subjects it on its decks to the action of any desired process, mechanical or chemical, and then, having exhausted it of its gold, casts the gravel behind, and keeps on advancing until the field before it is sifted and treated from surface to bedrock.

As the ground can be thoroughly tilled and sampled beforehand, this process lifts gold mining from the category of speculative enterprises to that of a manufacturing business. The gold dredge is a gold manufactory, with an insatiable demand and an assured market for its product, at the rate of $20.47 for each troy ounce fine, paid down by the mints in gold coin.

No risk, no idle stock on hand, no debts, no commission, brokerage or discounts, no monopoly of trade now or ever possible. An instant sale for the entire product at a fixed price, paid in cash. Such are the incomparable conditions of the gold-manufacturing business.

It goes without saying that unless the cost of taking part in it is beyond the ordinary means of business men such an industry will not fail to invite a vast number of participants. This contingency can be settled at once. The dredges cost from $30,000 to $50,000 each, according to size—a sum quite within the means of the average business man, commercial partnership or small corporation.

Like most other inventions, the goldship is a development. A gold dredge was used on the Magdalena river 20 years ago; the device was further developed several years later in New Zealand; it was brought almost to perfection in California; at the present time a dozen machine shops scattered all over the United States are rivaling one another in turning out a more and more perfect dredge.

The home demand for these machines is so urgent that but few have as yet been shipped abroad, yet several of them have already gone to South America, and several more to Europe. The present rate of output is about one machine a week; in the course of a few years it will be one per diem; in ten years it probably will be ten machines per diem. When this takes place, and perhaps before it, the world's production of gold, even should the quartz mines yield no more than at present, will be $2,000,000 a day.

Strength of Katydid.

"Enormously strong are the katydids," says a man who trained one of these insects—a kind of grasshopper. "If a man were as strong, proportionately, he would be able to tear up a church. I harnessed my katydid to a sled made by folding a piece of ordinary note paper, and then loaded the sled with various articles. The insect proved able to draw, in addition to the original paper, 12 paper sheets, each three by four and one-half inches, a large screw, two steel pens, a stone weighing two ounces, and three and a half lead pencils. When the weight became too heavy to be drawn otherwise, the katydid got its forefeet over the edge of the table for a better hold, and, on the addition of another weight, it increased the adhering power of its feet by moistening them in its mouth."

THE CHANGE OF LIFE

INTELLIGENT WOMEN PREPARE

Dangers and Pain of This Critical Period Avoided by the Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that the most critical period in a woman's existence is the change of life, and that the anxiety felt by women as this time draws near is not without reason?

If her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, it is at this time likely to become active and, with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden.

At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to begin their destructive work. Such warning symptoms as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, dizziness, headache, dread of impending evil, sounds in the ears, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and incontinence are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period of life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the world's greatest remedy for women at this trying period, and may be relied upon to overcome all distressing symptoms and carry them safely through to a healthy and happy old age.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism, and builds up the weakened nervous system as no other medicine can.

Mrs. A. E. G. Hyland, of Chestertown, Md., in a letter to Mrs. Pinkham, says:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I had been suffering with falling of the womb for years and was passing through the change of life. My womb was badly swollen. I had a good deal of soreness, dizzy spells, headaches, and was very nervous. I wrote you for advice and commenced treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as you directed, and I am happy to say that all those distressing symptoms left me, and I have passed safely through the change of life a well woman."

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. It is free and always helpful.

COLORADO CONCERNS.

Routt county, Colorado, contains within its boundaries 72,770 head of cattle, valued at $817,643. In this respect it leads all the counties in the state.

From 35,000,000 to 50,000,000 more tons of freight will be shipped into Denver this year than last, say the general freight agents, who also add that last year was considered the banner year in the railroad history of the town.

Owners of 2,000,000 acres of dry lands in eastern Colorado and western Colorado have formed the Colorado Association for Scientific Farming, to spread the knowledge of the Campbell system of dry farming to the world and to induce the settlement of the western plains.

Following the success which has attended the feeding of field peas to lambs in the San Luis valley, hundreds of farmers who have made fortunes in the process are now trying the same food on cattle, with equally good success. More than 600,000 lambs are being fattened there this year, and it is believed that in two years more the number of cattle fattened per season will exceed that number.

ODD FACTS ABOUT GOLD.

Few people know the real color of gold, because it is seldom seen except when heavily alloyed, which makes it much redder than when it is pure.

The purest coins ever made were the $50 pieces which once were in common use in California. Their coinage was abandoned because the loss by abrasion was so great and because their interior could be bored out and filled with lead. They were octagonal in shape, and were the most valuable coins ever minted and circulated.

All gold is not alike when refined. Australian gold is distinctly redder than that taken in California. Moreover, placer gold is more yellow than that which is taken from quartz. This is one of the mysteries of metallurgy, because the gold in placers comes from that which is in quartz. The gold in the Ural mountains is the reddest in the world.

A Bilingual State.

GREAT SONG WRITER.

Paul Dresser, the Popular Composer, Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Paul Dresser of New York, author of "Banks of the Wabash" and many other great song hits, writes:

Gentlemen: I wish to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, in the hope that my endorsement will be read by some of the many thousands of sufferers from kidney complaint. I was so wretched from this malady that I could not sleep, rest nor eat, and had a weak and aching back. Doan's Kidney Pills effectually cured me, and I wish that others may know.

"Such is fame."
Word comes from New York that Edgar Allen Poe is denied an entrance to the Hall of Fame. He got only 43 votes while Mary Lyon got 58 votes.
Just why the name of Mary Lyon should go thundering down the ages while the poor spirit of Edgar A. Poe hovers disconsolate within the halls, sighing, "Nevermore!" is not quite plain except that Mary Lyon got more votes. The ayes appear to have it. The ayes have it.
After all, Edgar Allen Poe was but a dissolute fellow who haunted the bars of Baltimore and wrote jingling verse.
While Mary Lyon—
Mary Lyon?
Why, she got 58 votes to his 43.

Life insurance will come forth purified and better than it has ever been, after those investigations are concluded. And it has always been among the very best investments for a young man, or young woman, on an salary. The fact that Alexander, Hyde, McCall and McCurdy, with all their relatives have been taking large salaries, really stealing thousands and thousands of dollars, and still having their companies safe and solvent, is an assurance to policy holders that their faith was well founded, that the companies are all right, and in time policy holders will receive the funds which, up to this time, have been stolen by the officers.

Senator Alger of Michigan will head a committee of members of both houses of congress to prevent the location of the naval school at Lake Bluff, Ill. The senator is basing his renewed fight on the Lake Bluff site on the allegation that the waters of Lake Michigan in the vicinity of Lake Bluff are so polluted by the refuse from the tannery at Kenosha and the glucose factory at Waukegan that the health of the 2000 or 3000 seamen that the United States proposes to keep at the training school would be seriously endangered.

That "misfortunes never come singly" was demonstrated during the past month in the case of Peter Olson and family who live three miles south of Bark River. About three weeks ago their farm house and all their household effects were destroyed by fire. One of the younger children came near being burned to death, being overcome by the smoke and rescued just in time. On Friday of last week Mrs. Olson died following an operation at the Delta county hospital. A large family of young children is left in very destitute circumstances.

A REWARD OF $200.00

Offered by the Board of Supervisors of the Arrest of Hans Handberg

The board of supervisors of Schoolcraft county have offered a reward of $200 for the arrest of Hans Handberg for whom a warrant has been issued on the charge of assaulting Agnes Floyd with intent to murder. The affair occurred at the Martin boarding house at Manistique on the morning of Sept. 11. He mistook Miss Floyd for another lady with whom he had had trouble and kicked her down stairs. She was unconscious for thirty hours and during that time Handberg left town, and previous efforts to find him have been fruitless. Sheriff Klagstad has distributed cards through various states notifying officers of the reward offered. On same the following description of the much wanted man is given as follows:

Height five feet six inches; weight 160 lbs.; short, stubby, sandy mustache; full face, light complexioned, brown hair, blue eyes; nose very much dished in center and turned up at end. Can talk some German, Danish and English fairly well, with slight Scandinavian accent. Is a bar room bummer and very apt to mix in or butt into conversation while frequenting saloons. Claims to be a grist miller from Minneapolis, and is quite a boaster. He left Manistique Sept. 11th and at that time wore a dark slouch hat, a gray checked suit, and a green checked shirt.

SHIPMENTS OF GAME

State Game Warden Chapman Sends Out Circular to County Clerks Explaining Game Laws.

For the information of those desiring to receive an interpretation of the provisions of the game laws enacted by the legislature of 1905 for the shipment and cold storage of game, the following rulings of the Department of Game and Fish Warden, based upon the opinions of the Attorney General are published:

Section 23 of Act. No. 257 of the Public Acts of 1905 provides: "No game birds shall be shipped by express, freight, or baggage, or in any other manner except as hand baggage."

"Hand baggage" is construed to mean baggage carried in the hand, always accompanying the owner in any public conveyance.

Opinion of Attorney General Sept. 7, 1905: The law containing the language in question is Section 23 of Act. No. 257, of the public acts of 1905. This act, while permitting the transportation of deer skins, under certain prescribed conditions, and providing for the manner of marking packages, adds the further proviso as above, that "no game birds shall be shipped by express, freight or baggage or in any other manner except as hand baggage." It is my opinion in answer to the question you submit, that this section clearly contemplates that no game birds shall be shipped in any other manner than as hand baggage, the owner accompanying the shipment. The word "hand-baggage" is defined by the Century Dictionary as "baggage carried in the hand." As used in railroad technology, it imports any package or parcel which the owner is not required to check in course of transportation, but may carry and keep with him in an ordinary passenger coach. The presence of the owner or custodian of the shipment is clearly presumed under the definition. As used in the statute, the word "hand baggage" would apparently cover all hand-packages or parcels or bundles of game birds, which would be transported under existing railroad regulation by the owner or custodian in a passenger car with himself, and which he accompanies in the course of shipment. If, as you suggest, game birds are packed in hand traveling receptacles and then shipped by express, unaccompanied by the owner or custodian, such shipment constitutes a palpable violation of the statute, for the reason that the package in question then becomes an express package and is not hand baggage within the meaning of the law.

Opinion of Attorney General, September 15, 1905: Section 20 of Act. 257 of the Laws of 1905 prohibits any cold storage company or any person or persons, corporation or co-partnership from having in his or its possession, five days after the closing of the open season, the dead body or carcass or skin or any portion thereof of any animal or bird mentioned in said act 257 of the laws of 1905, except specimens, horns or pelts prepared or mounted for scientific or educational purposes. Section 21 of Act 257 of the Laws of 1905 authorizes the State Game and Fish Warden to issue to any non-resident of this state, who has taken out a non-resident license to hunt for deer in this state, a permit to take one deer out of this state, when fully satisfied such deer was lawfully killed by such non-resident. Permits for such shipments can only issue following the killing of the deer. To avoid delays and annoyances, notification should be sent to the State Game and Fish Warden by each hunter, holding a non-resident license, as soon as the holder may determine from what station or point such deer would be liable

EXCURSIONS TO THE WEST

To the Pacific Coast—to California, Oregon, Washington—round-trip, long transit and return limits, liberal stop-over privileges.

The rate is practically on the basis of one fare for the round trip. Of course, if you wish to visit both California and Oregon or Washington, the cost is slightly more.

These reduced rates are in effect on certain dates in months of May to October, inclusive. They apply from all Eastern points via Chicago, St. Louis or Memphis gateways. The Rock Island System will take you up in either Chicago or St. Louis, or at hundreds of other Middle West points and carry you to the Coast in through Standard or Tourist Sleepers with unexcelled Dining Car service. The Rock Island also affords a choice of routes: on the "Scenic" route you can stop off in Colorado—see Salt Lake City—visit Yellowstone National Park; on the "Southern" route you can go via El Paso, thru New Mexico, then "up coast" to San Francisco and on to Portland or Seattle if desired.

In short, these Pacific Coast excursions offer an unusually good chance to see our western country in a comprehensive manner.

If you desire to go only as far as Colorado, there are excursion rates in effect to that section and return, all summer long, specially reduced June 30 to July 4, August 12 and 13, and August 30 to September 4. Extension trips to Ogden or Salt Lake and return at low cost also.

From September 15 to October 31, 1905, one-way tourist or "colonist" tickets will be on sale to California and the Pacific Northwest—about half regular fare.

If interested, send name and address on this coupon, designating which booklet wanted and to what point you plan to go. Name probable date of start also, so we can advise definitely with respect to rates, etc.

Convulsion, Fits, then Epilepsy.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine has been so successful in curing these brain-wrecking diseases that there is every reason to believe that even the most hopeless cases can be benefited, if not fully restored.

We will be pleased to refer any one thus afflicted to many who now enjoy the blessing of health, after years of hopeless suffering.

"I have a son that had brain fever when two years old, followed by fits of the worst type, and he was pronounced incurable. I spent hundreds of dollars for him, without relief. After about fifteen years he became so bad that we sent him to Longsight hospital for the insane, at Levensworth, Ind. He was there nearly three years, but he continued to grow worse, so we brought him home July 28, 1902, in an awful condition. He had lost his mind almost entirely. He hardly knew one of the family; could not even find his bed; was a total wreck. He had from 2 to 10 fits a day. We were urged to try Dr. Miles' Nervine, and before the first bottle was used, we could see a change for the better. We have given it to him ever since, and he has had but two very light spells since last August, 1903, and then he was not well other ways. We pronounce him cured, as he can work and go anywhere. If any one wishes to ask any questions concerning this, they are at liberty to do so."

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. W. L. Howard of Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits may be realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown."—A recent bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College in part says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is continually diminishing and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future. The market for our cultivated root will exist as long as the Chinamen exist."—Counsel General W. A. Rublee of Hong Kong says in the U. S. Consular reports: sale of the Ginseng root grown in America is very large here and the demand is so great that much more could be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indispensable to the 400,000,000 Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat, and cotton. The present market price varies from $5.00 to $8.00 per pound according to quality, while the cost of production does not exceed $1.50. There is room in an ordinary garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant is hardy and thrives in all parts of the United States and Canada, except in the arid regions. We are successful growers and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. You can get a good start in the business for a comfortable income. We have several thousand choice roots for sale for fall delivery. The planting season begins in August and continues till the ground is frozen.

The Principle and Practice of Health

By EDWARD B. WARMAN
(Author of "Scientific Physical Training," "Footing," "Editor Health Department
Ladies' Home Journal.")

Anyone Who Stands, Sits or Walks Incorrectly, Cannot Have Health—No Excuse for Slip-Shod Manner of Professional Men—Don't Abuse Your Spinal Column: Most Vital Part of Man His Backbone—Remove Headaches and Kidney Troubles by Correct Standing—In Walking Keep an "Active Chest"—Sit Correctly and Prevent Indigestion.

Health depends upon correct position of the body. Anyone who stands, sits or walks habitually, in an incorrect position, does not and cannot possess health so long as the habit continues.

Harmony is the law of the universe. Correct position is one of the fundamental laws of health. Violate the law and you must, sooner or later, pay the penalty. There is no exception to this rule. I am well aware that many persons are engaged in certain pursuits that are of such a nature as to compel them to violate this law during working hours. This does not, however, weaken the force of the argument. They are not well nor can they be well unless they counteract the ill effects, physically, by some means or methods outside of those hours of daily toil.

This class, for whom a reasonable allowance may be made, does not, fortunately, represent the majority. What about that vast array of lawyers, ministers, teachers, clerks, doctors, etc., who have no reasonable excuse for the ungainly and unhealthful positions assumed in standing and sitting, to say nothing of the careless, slip-shod manner so generally employed in walking? It is a fundamental principle that the structure must be right or the functions cannot be right. How important then that we should look to the cause and not resort to drugs. When the organs of a man's body refuse, from any cause, to do their work, nature does not intend that he should force them to action with drugs, but that he should restore them to normal condition by right living, by strength obtained from nourishing foods, and by obtaining and retaining correct position and carriage of the body.

I should like to impress upon the readers of this series of articles the fact that we are not punished for our physical sins, but by them; and, "the wages of sin is death." Whatever nature gives you over the counter you are expected to pay for at the cashier's window, and if you evade payment she will charge you double.

What Is the Correct Position?
Whether standing, walking or sitting there is one rule that invariably holds good, viz.: the position of the spinal column must be such that no one part infringes or unduly impinges upon any other part. Man is a machine, and the most vital part of the human machine is the spinal column with its wonderful spinal cord and the 31 pairs of spinal nerves. Therefore, look to it, that the most delicate and vital part of the anatomical structure is not abused by incorrect positions. Whatever may be the slogan of war, the slogan of health is—look out for your backbone.

To give you a definite idea of correct position I will ask you to note the perfect poise of the perfectly articulated skeleton that you will find in the museum or in the office of the physician. That little word poise is very significant.

How to Secure Correct Position—Standing.

Seek the center of gravity. This is done, when standing, by having the weight of the body over the center of the feet, about equally divided between the ball of the foot and the heel. The upper portion of the body should be erect, but not rigid; neither too far back nor too far forward. As a rule, when you ask a man to "brace up," he braces back. By so doing he throws the body as much out of poise as when he leans too far forward.

Avoid extremes. In leaning backward and standing heavily upon the heels (an almost universal position) there is an undue pressure over the kidneys and a congestion at the base of the brain; the latter causing a most violent headache. Therefore, to remove such a headache remove the cause; in other words, secure the correct position of the body. As this is easier said than done I propose prescribing a simple means whereby anyone can attain it and by a little care and watchfulness can retain it.

Stand against the wall (or a door). With the feet near together touch the heels to the wall, then the limbs, then as much of the body as possible (this brings the shoulders to a natural position and prevents throwing them too far back—a grievous fault), then place the back of the head against the wall without raising the chin. You will observe that the drawing in of the chin raises the chest to a high, firm position and it is held in that position through the aid of the chest muscles and not by inflating the lungs. This will acquaint you with what I call an active chest; the chest raised and fixed independently of the breathing.

While holding the position against the wall (or door) you have the correct position of the body in every respect save one, viz: your weight is upon the heels, but you are prevented from swaying too far back. This, therefore, is only a means to an end. As correct position of the body depends upon the correct position of the spine and the poise over the center of the feet, all that you now have to do is to sway the entire body from the wall without moving the feet and without moving any joint but the ankle joint. In order to do this correctly; that is, to avoid moving the body forward by bending the neck or by yielding at the waist or by swaying at the knees, imagine an inflexible rod extending from the crown of the head to (but not through) the ankle joint. Were this the case, you would correctly transfer the weight of your body from the heels to the center of the feet.

As a test for the correct standing position, rise on the ball of the foot—on feet. If in so doing you are obliged to sway forward (no matter how slightly) from your standing position, or transfer your weight from your heels by swaying the body forward at the hips, you are not in a correct position.

Assuming that you have now learned how to get the correct position (to retain it is a matter of practice), I will next consider the very important feature of health as regards the carriage of the body.

Walking.
To start right, to avoid the general tendency of allowing the body to settle, take your position once more against the wall, or door; sway forward to correct position, then as you step forward you should feel an impulse from the chest—the chest being active and the legs comparatively passive—a feeling of lightness and buoyancy as if actually led by the chest.

'Tis true, the legs are indispensable as a means of bodily locomotion, but they are more of a support than a motive power; that power is resident in the chest. Shut off the lung power, the great air reservoir, and you at once are deprived of the necessary propelling force, and the whole human machinery stops. That is the reason that I place so much stress on keeping an active chest. It also avoids friction or undue crowding of the vital organs—a most essential point as regards the heart.

The chest should have the appearance of leading; the abdomen, never. At first you may feel and even appear somewhat awkward, but this feeling and appearance will disappear in proportion to the daily application of these principles until, in a remarkably short time, correct position and carriage of the body will become second nature to you and, instead of striking your heels so heavily as you walk, instead of making your legs do all the work and dragging your body around day after day, you will distribute the effort more evenly (in fact, there will be no effort), you will step with the lightness and elasticity of youth, you will be able to walk miles where now you walk blocks, to say nothing of your general appearance and, best of all, the securing of those conditions that obtain for health. The strict adherence to these principles will add not only years to your life but life to your years.

Sitting.
When sitting, your body should be as well poised from the hips as, when standing properly, it is poised from the ankles. In both cases the same caution is to be observed, viz.: avoid any undue curvature of the spine, either forward, backward or lateral. To do this, sit either on the forward edge of the chair when at a table or desk, or as far back as you can without your back touching the chair-back. In no case allow the chair to be so close to the desk or table as to cause you to crook the spine or drop the chest. By observing this caution you will be able to work more hours with less fatigue; eat without crowding the digestive organs, and, in both cases, you will avoid any interference with circulation—a most important matter as regards the prevention of indigestion, torpid liver, irregular heart action, insufficient respiration, headaches and the thousand and one things that follow closely and inevitably upon the violation of the law of correct position, especially the position of the chest.

To carry your head high, is fashionable; to carry your head high, is metaphorical; to carry your chest high is both practical and healthful.

Reasoning of Bees.
Honeycomb shows how economy of room, building materials and mathematical theories may coincide, and shows also that the bees have taken advantage of the fact. Some of the savants have asserted that the rectangle or the equilateral triangle would have been quite as efficient as working plans for constructing cells for storing honey. But probably the bees, originally, made their cells to fit their brood, and would not thus build a cell which would surround a larva with unfiled corners. The hexagonal cell was better fitted for their needs, so they developed it.

Easily Remedied.
"Papa says he is afraid the money you inherited from your father is tainted." "Does he? And what am I going to do about it?" "Well, I suggested to papa that if he'd let me marry you I'd soon put it where the taint couldn't affect you."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Impossible Imitation.
The irritable employer turned to his typewriter with a sudden snarl. "Why don't you write it just as I say it?" he demanded.
"Because my typewriter hasn't the car-tarrh," she quickly desponded.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DECAY OF LAW OF CUSTOM

Due to the Traveling of the White Race Into All Parts of the World.

The progressive penetration of the white race into regions of the earth which are inhabited by colored races may be said to have culminated in the recent expedition to Lhasa, which probably marks the beginning of a sapling process destined ultimately to lead to the fall of the last citadel of immemorial custom and prejudice, says the London Lancet. Under the title of "The Decay of the Law of Custom" an interesting address was recently delivered at the forty-fourth annual meeting of the Devonshire association by the president, Basil H. Thomson, governor of the Dartmoor convict prison. The laws of custom which have governed the colored races for countless generations are, it is pointed out, gradually breaking down, though it is estimated that some 800,000,000 of the 1,500,000,000 constituting the population of the globe are still comparatively uncivilized and stagnant under the influence of these laws. The ever-increasing facilities of intercommunication must make steadily for a greater uniformity of view and conduct among the different races of mankind and for the white race the question is of the first importance as to what part the colored races will come to play in the affairs of the world when they shall have assimilated the teachings of western civilization.

With this is bound up the question of the relative mental capacity of the white and colored peoples. It would be rash to assert that any race is inferior in mental endowment to, and inherently incapable of reaching the mental level of another, though plenty of white men are to be found who, after years of residence in Africa or the east, speak confidently of the general mental inferiority of the colored races. Even in instances in which it is manifest that no such inferiority exists, there is, they say, and always will be, a profound difference between colored and white races in the manner of viewing things. This is to maintain that a man's attitude of mind is as innate and as little liable to alteration as is the color of his skin.

We prefer to take the view that the differences between white and colored races are in the main matters of custom and tradition and as such are subject to the influences of the agents of civilization, such as steam and electricity, which have already done so much toward obliterating lines of demarcation between nationalities and toward establishing uniformity in manners and customs.

That this is Mr. Basil Thomson's view may be seen from the following words of the address referred to: "In tropical countries the line of caste would soon cease to be the color of the skin. There, as in temperate zones, wealth would create a new aristocracy recruited from men of every shade of color. In the great cities of Europe and America we might find men of Hindu, Chinese and Arab origin controlling industries with their wealth, just as Europeans now controlled the commerce of India and China, but with this difference, that they would wear the dress and speak the language which would gradually have become common to the whole commercial world. . . . Just as the aristocracy of every land would be composed of every shade of color so would the masses of men who work with their hands. . . . White men would work cheek by fowl with black and feel no degradation. There would be the same feverish pursuit of wealth, but all races would participate in it instead of a favored few."

Indians' Remarkable Graveyard.
The red Indians of Pala, in California, were converted to the Catholic faith in the eighteenth century, and remain Catholics to-day. Though some superstitions prevail, their belief in the resurrection is strong. Believing that the dead must remain for some time in the grave, they observe exactly the hour at which the spirit departs, and the rude wooden cross over each grave in the cemetery states the exact hour, minute and day on which the person died. Suspended from the arms of the cross is an alarm clock, with the hands set at the particular hour. The alarm at the back of the clock has been set at the same moment. The person who placed the clock there believes that at the proper moment the alarm will sound and will awaken the sleeping spirit.

Foreigners in Berlin.
In Berlin the authorities hold the theory that all foreigners reside there by simple sufferance, and may be asked to leave at any moment. No reason is ever given for an expulsion beyond the curt police formula: "Further residence is denied." But expulsion is rarely or never resorted to except in the case of alien anarchists and international agitators and mischief makers, including newspaper correspondents who commit the offense of telling malicious lies—not about the course of politics, but about the high personalities of the court. The Prussian government has always allowed the fullest independence of judgment to foreign correspondents about matters of general policy.

Changeable.

He—Well, you see, the weather we were having then didn't suit me at all, and I thought I'd wait half an hour or so until it changed.—Yonkers Statesman.

Hint made at use of cash in killing Doherty insurance bill at last legislative session.

(Wm. Ellery, Staff Correspondent.)

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 23.—Senator Andrew Fyfe, member of the insurance committee in the state legislature and declared to be one of the best insurance authorities in Michigan, has shaken commercial circles throughout the commonwealth by his recent statement from Grand Rapids, in which he is quoted with the assertion that in a more or less direct manner, money was spent in the last session of the state legislature to head off bills supposed to jeopardize the interests of life insurance companies. Senator Fyfe says that men sufficiently corrupt to gouge policy holders would testify that they spent money in bribing legislators, when, as a matter of fact, they put it in their own jeans. As shown by the legislative probe in New York, Michigan people last year paid $2,000,000 for new insurance issued by old line companies. As shown by the testimony before the New York state legislative committee the first year's payments are spent in agents' commissions and expenses. Michigan people, therefore, contributed $2,000,000 during 1904 to the spent by insurance companies. Having spent the bulk of this $2,000,000 received on new business from Michigan in commissions and expenses the companies had to dip into the surplus of the old policyholders and take out $1,200,000 with which to provide the reserve fund required by state law. Thus the old policyholders in Michigan carried the insurance of the new ones.

Paid to Kill Adverse Bills.

For ten years or more Schuyler S. Olds has looked after the interests of the big insurance companies in Michigan. He has produced satisfactory results, too, but his methods of doing things heretofore to discuss. "I was paid a retainer in 1903," he said, "and it was perfectly legitimate. You know, politics has many ramifications, and I accomplished what no other man could do in the way of stopping obnoxious legislation." "Did not W. F. Thummer, of Albany, one of Judge Hamilton's assistants in looking after legislative matters, come to Lansing last winter for the purpose of stopping Senator Doherty's bill increasing the insurance tax from two to three per cent?" was asked. "Yes," he answered, "Thummer was here and I saw him. Somebody in Detroit had impressed him with the necessity of seeing some certain member of the legislature in order to kill off the bill. I told him not to do it, because the thing could be handled without expending a dollar. I do not know whether Thummer saw Senator Doherty or not."

Calls Senate Graft Paradise.

"The anti-cigarette bill was defeated by the last session of the state senate, the happy hunting grounds of the grafter," said Mrs. Augustus Barnes, of Howell, wife of a state senator, in speaking before the Michigan State Federation of Women's clubs at Kalamazoo recently. "It was one of those bills introduced at each session. The tobacco manufacturers spilled their money and the legislative grafter dived for it and came up like an eel, with a knowing wink, 'catch me if you can.'" Mrs. Barnes later was asked if she knew directly of any bribery, but said she knew only by inference.

Burrow's Portrait at Capitol.

A full-length portrait of Senator Julius C. Burrows, painted by Percy Ives, of Detroit, has been hung in the senate chamber of the capitol here. The picture is a token of esteem from 52 prominent gentlemen of the state who have contributed to the fund for the purpose and their names are embossed on a silver plate. The friends of the senator who are making this presentation elected F. W. Waite, of Grand Rapids, chairman of the committee of arrangements, and this committee commissioned Mr. Ives to do the work.

Michigan Odd Fellows Meet.

The Michigan grand lodge of Odd Fellows held its annual convention in Benton Harbor, and more than 3,000 members of the order were present at the session. Business houses were decorated in honor of the visitors, and homes of residents thrown open for those who could not find accommodation either there or at St. Joseph. At the session proper the secretary read his annual report. The membership of the order in Michigan has increased from 41,725 last year to 44,100. Fifteen subordinate lodges and eight Rebekah lodges have been instituted. The amount paid for relief of widows and families, $3,649; for burials, $14,011, and for special relief, $976. The invested funds of subordinate lodges aggregate $581,000 and $152,000 was expended for the support of subordinate lodges. Drakle J. Orr, deputy grand master of the Michigan I. O. O. F., accompanied by Grand Master W. L. Barr, of Cheboygan, and a delegation of 75 local Odd Fellows attended the session, where Mr. Orr was installed as grand master. Mr. Orr is prosecutor of Bay county, and has held various public positions. He is one of the greatest "liners" in the town, belonging to pretty nearly everything in sight. He has gone through the various steps of Odd Fellowship in unbroken succession and is well on the way in a number of other organizations. He was elected grand master of the Odd Fellows.

New Law Same as the Old One.

Attorney General Bird, in reply to an inquiry by Warren Otis Fuller, of the Ionia reformatory, has prepared a lengthy opinion construing the new indeterminate sentence law of 1905. Some judges have taken the position that the new law applies only to crimes committed after it became operative, and that the repeal of the indeterminate sentence law of 1903 by the law of 1905 revived the law in force prior to 1903, giving the court authority to fix a definite term of imprisonment. The attorney general says that in his judgment this is not a proper construction of the law. In this state the legislature has provided that whenever a statute shall be repealed by a subsequent statute, such statute, or any part thereof, so repealed, shall not be revived by the repeal of such subsequent repealing statute. The old law, it is held, is therefore not revived. As the indeterminate sentence law of 1905 is practically a reenactment of the law of 1903, the law of 1903 is to be construed as having been in continuous and uninterrupted operation since it became a law.

Gov. Warner Again Says "No."

Gov. Warner has again emphatically said "no" to all appeals for pardon for Thomas F. McGarry, the Grand Rapids attorney convicted in the water scandal exposures, and for whom such strong efforts have been made to secure freedom. Disclosures involving alleged gross breach of trust and practices of fraud by Thomas F. McGarry upon Mrs. Mary A. Ford, widow of the late Melbourne H. Ford, who was McGarry's law partner, have convinced Gov. Warner that McGarry is not a subject for executive clemency, and under no circumstances will he permit the campaign that has been conducted for some time to secure McGarry's pardon to have any effect upon his decision in the matter. In urging of clemency for McGarry, the latter has been held up as a man of utmost integrity, aside from his connection with the Grand Rapids water deal, but the facts that have come to light in connection with the suit of the Grand Rapids national bank versus Mary A. Ford, which is on the calendar of the supreme court for a hearing this term, indicate that McGarry may be a party to other false moves.

State Pays High for Gas.

A canvass of the gas plants in Michigan shows that residents of the state are paying an average price of $1.27 per thousand feet, which is just 24 cents more than the average price paid in the United States. Some other interesting facts are also shown, not the least of which is that the assessed valuation of the companies is less than half the valuation as represented by the stock and bonds outstanding. Of the 51 gas companies in the state, one is a municipal plant and two are copartnerships, with no stock or bonds. The total stock of the other 48 is $12,355,000, and the total of bonds outstanding $12,143,000. Against the total valuation of $24,498,000 thus indicated, stands the assessed valuation of $2,789,020 real and $9,044,491 personal, $11,833,511 in all. A matter of $12,644,489 between what the owners think the plants are worth and what the assessors think they are worth—or rather what the owners make the assessors think they are worth.

Current State Topics in Brief.

The fifth annual conference of the D. A. R. has been held at Pontiac. The governor of North Carolina has written Adj. Gen. McGarrin for information regarding the heirs of William A. Copeland, who was second lieutenant of company B, Tenth Michigan Infantry, and who lost his sword at the battle of Chickamauga. Talk is rife at the state capitol on the senatorship topic. Michigan university's football team is playing in good form and hopes to again capture the western championship.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS

Scandal at Poor Farm.
Grand Rapids.—A scandal at the county poor farm was brought to a focus at a midnight meeting of the poor commission, when it was decided to ask the resignation of Mrs. Thaddeus Brownell as matron of the home. She is the wife of the superintendent. Investigation shows that the Brownell family have been drawing nearly all the pay for services to keep up the home, their eldest daughter and another being on the rolls as well as themselves.

Child Hero Risks Life.
Muskegon.—While playing with matches, Raymond Bouchard, three years old, set fire to his clothing, receiving burns which will probably prove fatal. In trying to save him the child's eight-year-old brother risked his life and was badly burned about the hands. How the accident occurred no one knows, beyond the fact that the child was heard to scream for help and that his brother responded.

Girl a Suicide.
Big Rapids.—Miss Gladys Winchell, of Roscommon, was found dead in her boarding house, shot through the breast. She was taking a two years' course in stenography at the Ferris institute, and attended the class, when nothing unusual was noticed about her. So far no cause is known for her taking her own life. She had owned a revolver for some time. She was 29 years old, handsome and popular with her classmates.

Entire Family Ousted.
Grand Rapids.—Developments tumbled over one another in the county poor farm scandal recently. Keeper Brownell was given until a recent date by the poor superintendents to leave the place. The board at first discharged only his wife and oldest daughter, against whom acts of cruelty are charged, but finally concluded it would be best to get rid of the entire family.

Steamship Progress Safe.
Munising.—The seas having run down sufficiently to allow the reporter's boat to reach Grand Island, it was learned Sunday that the steamship Progress, which had left Ashland before the gale and was thought to have been lost with her crew of 15 men, had safely reached shelter behind the Island. The Progress, Cadillac and Thomas have left shelter.

Two Killed.
Elmira.—Two Polish trackmen were killed and six fatally injured on the Boyne City, Gaylord & Alpena railroad, five miles northwest of Elmira, when a locomotive rolled down an embankment, where the men were at work. Work was in progress for a crossing over a creek and a temporary bridge gave way under the weight of the locomotive.

Detroit Centenarian Dead.
Detroit.—Ehert W. Strelow, a resident of this city since 1869, died here, aged 100 years and two months. His sight was so good and his nerves so steady that he was able to shave himself until after his hundredth birthday.

News Briefly Stated.
Muskegon.—Jasper Vandergazelle, who was last week exonerated of the charge of attempted murder for shooting Alexander McHale, who was said by the jury to be insane, was sentenced by Judge Russell to the state criminal asylum at Ionia.

Glenwood.—The fern industry at this village has made it famous.
Kalamazoo.—Dr. Fred C. Sizeland, one of the most prominent dentists of the city, has disappeared, leaving a wife and three children, and a sensation which stirs the aristocratic portion of the city has resulted.

Mt. Clemens.—The board of supervisors concluded their session by a report of the committee on equalization. The assessed valuation of Macomb county, $26,162,420, was reduced by the board to $25,000,000.

St. Joseph.—Four carloads of power launches were shipped from here to the khedive of Egypt for use on the river Nile.

Holland.—One of the most serious results of the storm on Lake Michigan was the wrecking of the steam barge Kate Lyons off Holland.

Marshall.—Miss Catherine Dewolfe Brewer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Brewer, was married to Murray Irwin of Jackson, Mich.

Ablon.—Mrs. Jane Conney, a pioneer resident, died at the home of her sister, aged 85.

Coldwater.—The first county convention held in this state for good roads was held in the city at Army hall.

Flat Rock.—Thomas D. Cooke, one of the best known pioneer farmers of Wayne county, died at his home in Flat Rock, aged 72.

Saginaw.—Daniel F. Foster, a well-known pioneer, died here. He came to this county in 1846.

Kalamazoo.—The Michigan asylum board has appointed Dr. Atwood R. Noble of Worcester, Mass., superintendent of the institution, as successor to the late Dr. William M. Edwards.

Detroit.—The barge Roby, which grounded and burned on the east bank of the Lime Kilns nearly a month ago, was raised by Harris W. Baker and brought to Detroit.

Tawas City.—The life-saving crew here went out the other night to rescue the crew of a boat reported wrecked by colliding with a lumber raft. The name of the crippled boat has not been learned.

Menominee Defeats St. Norbert.

The Menominee High school football team defeated the St. Norbert's college team of De Pere in the game which was played Saturday afternoon, the victory being one of the cleanest and most creditable which the Menominee team has upon its record. The disparity in the size of two teams was striking, the Menominee team of all high school boys averaging in weight about 140 pounds or less looking rather small against the huge players of St. Norbert's line who averaged fully 170 pounds. The St. Norbert's team was defeated by Menominee by a score of 18 to 0, and last year 35 to 0.

Reforestation a Success.

That white pine reforestation is a success is being demonstrated by Samuel H. Bridges, owner of one of the largest farms in Dickinson county. Included in Mr. Bridges' 1,280 acres of land is a tract of eighty acres along the Sturgeon river, which was burned over thirteen years ago, the fire killing every tree. There are now on this land about 5,000 young white pine trees. Some of them were trimmed up six years ago, and they have attained a height of twenty-five feet and are from ten to twelve inches in diameter at the base. It is Mr. Bridges' intention to have the rest of them trimmed this fall, and he is satisfied that in twenty years more he will have a valuable tract of timber. White pine has already become so scarce in upper Michigan that lumber from the Pacific coast can be laid down here at practically the same price asked for the home product.

THINK THIS OVER

There is Food for Thought in These Paragraphs

There is only one remedy that has won the endorsement of people right here in Escanaba, and that is Doan's Kidney Pills. Such endorsements command attention. Doan's is the remedy that makes lasting friends. Recommendations given long ago are repeated and confirmed. There is not another medicine that can equal this record and it is merit, and merit alone, that does it. Read this Escanaba testimony.

James Bridges, carpenter, of 1125 Escanaba St., Escanaba, Mich. says: "I suffered with my kidneys for several months, the result of a bad fall on the ice about two years ago. I have had several very severe attacks brought on by taking colds which settled in my back and caused terrible pains, particularly at night. I could not stoop forward and regain an erect position without taking hold of something, and have had to lay off work several times. I used a number of remedies but none of them gave any more than temporary relief. I learned the value of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box at the Mead Drug Co.'s store. The relief obtained from their use was almost instantaneous, and the cure was permanent. I have had no return of the trouble now for over eighteen months."

For Securing Scandinavian Game Birds for the Upper Peninsula.

The plain of securing the Scandinavian game birds for the upper peninsula was first suggested by Chas. S. Osborn of Sault Ste. Marie, who several years ago made a tour of the Scandinavian peninsula, and saw specimens of the birds on the range, says the Mining Journal.

When he returned to this country he suggested to William C. Mather, president of the Cleveland-Cliffs from company, his belief that the birds could be successfully propagated in the upper peninsula, as the climate condition and environment was similar to that of Norway, the native home of the birds. The importation of 150 specimens followed soon after, and birds have been on the island since that time, and so far as can be learned by the keepers are increasing in number. The birds are what is known as "rangers," covering a wide expanse of territory while in quest of food. During periods of heavy snow fall they burrow into the snow and remain until a blizzard subsides before again venturing out. Their food in winter consists chiefly of birch buds, and in summer they catch mice and other small animals. In nearly every way they are like the partridge in habits, and are rated by naturalists as members of the grouse family.

FURNISH POWER FOR MINE

Beautiful Spot on Menominee River Will be Destroyed.

Sturgeon Falls, on the Menominee river, one of the most beautiful waterfalls in upper Michigan, is to be harnessed and the 3,500 horse power developed used to run the big mine in that vicinity. The harnessing of the falls will practically destroy the most beautiful spot on the entire length of the Menominee river, but the power developed will be sufficient to run a great amount of mine machinery.

The work will be done by the Penn Iron Co., a Cambria steel concern, which owns the land on both sides of the river. The improvement will cost a large sum, but the plant, once built, can be operated at a nominal cost, and the ore in the company's Vulcan mines must be worked cheaply if at all, owing to the low grade of ore.

The cheapest power possessed by any iron mine in Michigan is that enjoyed by the steel corporation's great Chapin property, under Iron mountain which is operated by compressed air from the Quinnesec Falls. The cost of pumping at the Chapin is heavy but the cheap power more than offsets it. This plant was established in 1883, but the Penn company believes that its system of electrical transmission will give as cheap power as that which operates the Steel Corporation property.

At Quinnesec the original undershot wheels have been discarded for turbines which will also be used at the Sturgeon Falls plant.
