ELOPERS MARRY HERE

Miss Florence Harn of Oshkosh and Edwin T. Davis Elope to This City.

IS SURPRISE TO PRIENDS

Objections of Parents Circumvented By Flight to This City Where Marriage Took Place

In order to escape the objections of arents to their marriage, Miss Florence D. Hurn, daughter of J. N. Hurn, a prominent business man of Oshkosh, and Edwin T. Davis, who is well-known in this city eloped to this city Tuesday morning and were married on the same day by the Rev. P. B. Ferris at the Presbyterian parsonage. Miss Alice Robertson acted as bridesmaid and Dr. C. J. B. Kitchen as groomsman.

The marriage of the young couple proved a great surprise to the friends of Mr. Davis in this city and the news has no doubt caused a like sensation at the home of the bride where nothing was known of the marriage until after it was over.

The bride is a popular young society woman of Oshkosh, while the groom has been employed for some time as foreman for the Barber Asphalt Paving company, in which connection he spent the summer in this city.

The young couple left Tuesday evening for Oshkosh to crave parental forgiveness. They were accompanied to the station by a large number of friends.

MUST MAKE REBATES

Some Property is Assessed More Than 25 per Cent of Valuation.

puzzling question is up before the lity council with regard to some of the street assessments on a number of the streets improved this year. It has been overed that a mistake has been ade by the special assessors in assessing against certain properties a sum greater than twenty-five per cent of the property as placed by the previous state and county assessment. The city charter expressly provides that no assessment shall be made which shall be greater than twenty-five per cent of the valuation of the property.

The members of the council are willing to rebate the over charge wherever any has been made but are not sure as to the procedure in allowing such rebates. A resolution instructing the brought by Bonnassee to recover a balance which he claimed was due him on the sale of about 5,000 posts to Harstad & Labre that they had not agreed to purchase all the posts but it was understood that the culls should be returned to Mr. Bonnassee, and that they still remained near the track at Bark River. Mr. Bonnasee claimed that he should be reimbursed for the 1,220 cull es as the culls had been sold by Labre to Harstad after the dissolution of partnership of that firm. Harstad-and Labre, however, claim that in the settlement of the partnership affairs the poles were treated as all the other passets of the business and that no sale them had been made. Judge Linden after hearing the case decided that a sale of the posts had been made and awarded Mr. Bonnassee a judgement of three cents per pole which amounted to

RULES ARE CHANGED

Some Alterations in Athletic Sport Regulations.

Many changes in the rules governing athletics in the upper peninsula high schools were advocated at the last meeting of the Upper Peninsula Educational association, just closed at Houghton, but despite this fact, the association remains firm in the matter of age limit and other important rules, which were the main points of attack. The complete code as adopted for the ensuing year is as follows:

1. No person shall be qualified to represent any school under this agree ment in any athletic contest with members of another school or other schools unless he shall have been enrolled as a member of the school from the first of October or the first of March in the semester in which the contest or event takes place.

This statement shall be taken as a legitimate basis for the principal's or superintendent's certificate until evidence to the contrary is found. Scarcity of Teachers

There is an unusual scarcity of teach ers for the country schools in this county this year. County commissioner of schools, P. R. Legg has written to the school commissioners of a large number of counties asking for teachers to fill positions here but has been unable to secure any teachers. School districts which do not hold school for a certain portion of the year forfeit their share of the primary school fund. The scar-city of teachers will probably result in larger salaries being offered in the dis-tricts still unsupplied.

Lighting Plant Report Shows Gain of $1.674,52 for Three Months

The report of the city Treasurer which was presented to the council Wednesday night shows that the city lighting plant has made a gain of $1,674.52 for the past three months, and the overdraft is accordingly reduced by that amount. The report shows that the amount of overdraft on Oct. 1, was 11,-678.50. BRITT-NELSON FIGHT

One of the most interesting branches

of motion photography is the portrayal of pugilistic battles, and the advance made in this line of art is wenderfully evinced by the Britt-Nelson films, now on exhibition, and conceded by everyone to be the best and most attractive ever shown. The first fight pictures ever displayed showed a battle between Young Griffo and Welter Campbell, and although posed specially for the camera-were blurred and unsatisfactory. Then the Maher-Choynski bout and the great Corbett-Fitzsimons mill at Carson received the attention of the camera. Marked improvement was noticeable, but the pictures were still far short of perfection, rifts of light and shadow marring the effect and frequently coming in at the most exciting moments of the mill. The Jeffries-Sharkey contest was given fairly good picturing, but the same defects were still preceptible. A little over a year ago, the battle between Jack Root and George Gardner at Fort Erie, was the subject of motion photography, and the pictures then taken showed great improvement over the past. It remained for the Britt-Nelson films, however, to illustrate the perfection which could be achieved with the motion camaras. These films are simply superb clear, bright, every movement and detail faultlessly portrayed. They are not only a splendid set of pictures, but they mark an epoch in the history of motion photography.

J. W. Coffroth, president of the Colma (Cal.) Athletic Club, where the fight occurred, is the owner of the copyrighted films, and Lou M. Houseman. the Chicago sporting writer, has acquired the exculsive right to the pictures in the middle west. The pictures will be shown at the Peterson opera house on Thursday and Priday evenings November 16 and 17.

MICHIGAN ALUMNI SOCIETY

Steps Taken in Copperdom Last Week to Organize an Upper Peninsula Body.

Steps have been taken in the copper country for the organization of an Upper Peninsula association of alumni of the University of Michigan. At the close of the lecture by Superintendent Cooley of Chicago at the Kerredge theatre Friday, the alumni of the U. of gram: M. present were invited by Superintendent Jeffers of Atlantic to remain in the auditorium for the purpose of considering the matter of organizing such association. C. W. Schurtz was chosen temporary chairmam, and C. E. Cullen the stack and placing some new grate of Norway temporary secretary. After some discussion it was decided that a committee of five be appointed to make Mr. Mullins, who was in the bank, let arrangements for perfecting the organization. On this committee there were appointed Principal J. A. Doelle of Houghton, and Dr. Wm. ESCANABA LOST GAME.

Menominee Meads Off Escanaba's Chances in Championship Race.

SCORE 6 TO 0.

Teams Practically Equal in Strength And Game Was Close at All Stages.

The Escanaba High School foot ball team was defeated last Saturday by Menominee by a score of 6 to 0.

The game was hard fought from start to finish.

The two teams appeared to be nearly equal in strength and neither side was able to advance the ball for long gains. Menominee's score came early in the first half and but for a decision by Referee Wall which the Escanaba players considered unfair, it is doubtfull whether Menominee would have scored. The ball in Escanaba's possession was being rapidly forced toward Menominee's goal and when the twenty-five yard line was reached a touchdown seemed almost a certainity. At this point the ball was taken from Escanaba by the referee and given to Menominee, whose players went down the field for a touchdown. During the remainder of the contest honors were about even. The ball changed hands frequently but neither team was able to advance it far. During the last few minutes of the game Escanaba made a desperate effort to score and Waish tore around tackle and end for several successive gains and the ball was carried to Menominee's 25 yard ine when the whist'e blew.

Walsh proved Escanaba's strongest player, the principal gains being made by him. Thatcher suffered a dislocation of the right shoulder in the second play after the game started and had to be taken out.

Fuller made a number of good tackles and displayed considerable nerve by remaining in his position though injured.

"The Boy," which was termed "the show with music" holds the record at the LaSalle Theatre, Chicago, for length of run.

There is not a dull moment in the piece from the rise to the fall of the final curtain. The piece deals with international complications in the Balkans. The Grand Bey has been threatened with death at the hands of the insurgents and flees the country. The throne being vacated, a ruler is needed An advertisement for a band leader is sent to America and Louis Wurtzelhoimer, a German band leader from Kankakee, applies for the positions. The band leader is installed at the Grand Boy. He is also selected leader of the insurgents, and is selected by the latter to kill "the Bey" (himself). There are many ludicrous situations in the piece. To add to the troubles of the ruler, he is followed to this strange land by his wife. On arrival she finds he has a harem, and proceeds to make life miserable for him. To add to this the Turkish government is threatened with war by foreign nations. There is a pretty love story running through the entire piece. A beautiful Georgian slave has been purchased for the ruler. She is in love with a newspaper correspondent. "The Boy" agrees to assist the woman by taking her place. The ruler, dressed as a slave in female attire, is one of the most laughable scenes created. It is so cleverly executed that no offense is given the gentler sex. Louie returns to America with his wife, the slave becomes the wife of the newspaper correspondent and the end-

Massacres Occur All Over the Empire-Many Thousands Killed and Wounded.

Berlin, Nov. 7 .- The Kieines Journal says 800 peasants were burned to death in the Russian village of Jedozvograd, province of the Don, through the firing by Cossacks of a shed in which they were holding a political meeting. Peasants to the number of 1,000 had gathered in the shed to discuss the situation in Russia. The prefect was unable to suppress the meeting and gave his approval to the firing of the building. The whole structure was ablaze in a moment after the torches were applied, and the peasants, in a wild panic, tried to get out. About 200 escaped, while the others were burned while trying to fight their way through the single narrow exit. Twenty Killed in Warsaw. Warsaw, Nov. 2 .- Twenty persons were killed and upwards of 100 wounded in the encounters Wednesday night between the mobs and the troops.

Massacres Continue. London, Nov. 4.-Dispatches from Russia are very meager, owing to the disturbed condition of the country. The situation in St. Petersburg, where order is maintained by a show of armed force, remains critical, though improvement is shown in the resumption of operations by the electric lighting plants. Communication by rail with the frontier has not yet been reestablished. From many of the interior cities come reports of conflicts in which the Jews appear to be the principal sufferers. In Kieff the loss of life and property has been very great. In disorders have been most serious. Kishineff Burned. London, Nov. 4.-The Daily Mail's Odessa correspondent gives an uficonfirmed report that Kishineff has been absolutely destroyed by fire. He says that the three suburbs of Odessa, Persessyp, Zastava and Moldavanka have been completely devastated. The Daily Telegraph's Odessa correspondent also reports Kishineli in flames.

which they anticipate. In Odessa Sunday was passed in comparative quiet. Estimates of the casuitles there from the beginning of the present troubles until Saturday night 3,500 to 5,750 killed and 12,000 or more wounded. According to reports the Jews were massacred with the utmost barbarity. At Roston-on-Don 100 persons are said to have been killed on Sunday in a collision with soldiers. At Kishineff murder and pillage continue and the are said to prevail at Lodz, Tiflis, Kremenchug and other provincial cities.

Czar's Grant Is Sweeping. London, Nov. 7 .- That the czar's arant of freedom for Finland is no half-way measure is shown by the text of the manifesto, which was made public in St. Petersburg last night. The reforms granted include universal suffrage, freedom of speech, meeting and the press, and a home-rule administration responsible to a diet chosen by the people of the grand duchy. No such libertles were ever before enjoyed under the flag of the double eagle. The manifesto has been received in Finland with great rejoicing.

CONSTIPATION AND STOM-ACH TROUBLE CAN BE CURED

J. S. Janssen, President of the Milwaukee Retail Druggists' Association, Talks on the Dangers of Constipation and Stomach Trouble.

"Have you noticed the large number of cases of typhoid fever-lately?" said Mr. J S. Janssen to a Daily News representative. "To my notion typhoid fever, ma-larial fever, appendicitis and many kindred complaints are the result of constipation, which in many cases is allowed by the patient to run along without proper treatment. You will remember when you were a child and the doctor was called, his first prescription was a dose of castor oil! All physicians know the value of having the lowels thoroughly opened. People, when they grow up, allow constipation to become chronic through lack of attention. Constipation is the failure of the bowsls to carry off the undigested food, which collects in the slignester constitution. collects in the alimentary canal and there collects in the alimentary canal and there decays, generating poisonous disease germs. These germs find their way into the blood by means of which they are carried to every tissue. The fever thus created affects not only the lungs, kidneys, stomach, heart and nervous system, but in fact any organ of the body is liable to break down as a result. The blood becomes thin and watery. The sufferer loses in flesh and strength. Castor oil and pills will not cure an affliction like this. Something more than a lexative is needed. AN AUTO ELOPEMENT

55 T is no use in talking, Madge, your father will never consent our marriage, and there is nothing left for us but to elope."

"Elope!" exclaimed the girl, in a frightened tone. "Oh, Leonard, we never could do that. Why, we would have to have a balcony and rope ladders, roses and things like that, and it is winter time."

"You little goose," began the young man, as he pinched her already rosy cheek, "we would have a modern, upto-date elopement. See, there is my machine out there at the curb now. Why can't you put on your wraps and let me drive you over to Rev. Mr. Fourthly's and have all this worry over with? I got the license this

Madge patted the floor with one tiny foot and her brow was puckered into a mass of little wrinkles. .

But it will make all Oak Park talk," she began, "and we can't have any wedding and bridesmaids and flowers and presents and things."

"Never mind, dearie, we can have each other, and that is better. Come ly. We were on the way to his house along and I'll go out and give the chauffeur directions as to how to reach Rev. Mr. Fourthly's house. Hurry up, my dear, for your father might come home any time, and you know your mother ma arrive from the city at any moment and spoil our little scheme."

The young man gave the proper directions to lifts chauffeur, and it was not long before Madge came down the steps, a little bit frightened and nervous, but still tooking like a picture with her flashing 'eyes, her rosy cheeks and plumes and all.

Just as they drove away from the house the girl turned and saw her father coming down the street in his new racing machine. She gave a little scream and cried: "Look, Leon-

He looked, and with that he commanded the chauffeur to drive as fast as ever he could.

Mr. Neversmith alighted from his machine and harried into the house. "Where's Mrs. Neversmith?" he asked of Maggie, the maid.

"She's gone to town, sir," said the

"Where is Madge?" he arked this time.

"I-I-I dunno, sir," was the reply. "Didn't she leave any word when she went away?" he began, sternly. "No. sir. but I did hear her and her young man talking about eloping, sir."

"E.oping!" jerked out Mr. Neversmith. "Do you meanto say that she has run away with that worthless she go away with that young man?"

"Yes, sir; I think so, sir. I heard them talking about going away to Mr. Fourthly's, and they went away together. They ! ft the house just before you came in."

By this time Mr. Neversmith had reached the front door. He glared at time had been like a thundercloud, the maid as though it had been her suddenly lighted up with a smile. fault that the young folks had started to elope.

"I will catch them, and it will be when you heard them plotting to run yours, too," he said, as he shook his fist in the direction of the maid and jumped into his machine.

"Do you know the Doolittle chauffeur?" Neversmith asked his driver.

"Yis, sor," came the reply. "Well, I want to overtake them. Head the machine toward Rev. Mr. Fourthly's and speed it up to the limit."

The machine gave a sudden lurch forward and then stopped as suddenly.

And then there was a delay.

In the meantime the fleeing couple had not made much headway. Something had gone wrong with the automobile and while the young man and his chauffeur were both trying to fix it Madge looked back and saw her father start after them.

"Oh. Leonard, he's coming-he is coming," she began, "and he'll never let me see you again. Oh, I wish we hadn't started. He is driving his machine !lke mad, and I know he is fu-

"Most certainly I do," replied the minister. "It is too bad that your machine broke down."

"Mr. Fourthly, don't you think that xou could marry us right here in the machine?" aske I Doolittle, sheepishly. 'We have the license."

"Well, it might be done," hesitated the minister, "but, of course, it would be altogether unusual."

e don't mind that, Mr. Fourthly," safe the girl, with a smile. "I rather think it would be a slark. You see, Leonard and I could stand in this machine and you in that one, and the two chauffeurs could be witnesses. It would be a novel wedding, and so long as I can't have a big church wedding with lots of flowers and things, I don't care what kind of a ceremony it is." "But your father," thoughtfully began Mr. Fourthly. "Well, of course, we expected him but if his machine has broken down it may take him some time to fix it, and I don't think we'd better wait," said the young man. "No, let's don't wait for papa," exclaimed the girl, "for when his machine breaks down he gets awfully excited and he would not be in a state to witness a wedding."

With that the young people took their positions and in the fewest words possible the minister pronounced them husband and wife. The final worls had scarcely left his mouth when Mr. Neversmith plunged his machine alongside and shouted furiously:

"Madge Neversm!th-" but he got no further, for the smiling bridegroom said, mockingly: "Madge Doolittle, if you please, Mr.

Neversmith." "Yes, papa," chimed the bride. "We are married. You can ask Mr. Fourthwhen the old machine broke down and you would be late," Neversmith looked at the minister inquiringly and saw at once that he had arrived too late.

"So that is the reason you did not care to wait for your father?" began the minister, as he took in at a glance the situation.

"Forgive us, Mr. Fourthly," began young Doolittle? Answer me. Did the girl, and, turning to her father, she went on: "and you, too, father. I love Leonard and you wouldn't consent to our marriage, and so we eloped, and I am very sorry-no, I mean glad-oh, I don't know what I mean, only that I want you to forgive me."

You should have 'phoned me of my esteem, that the bridegroom in his excitement has forgotten to give away. I could wring their necks, and you," and he handed the astonished minister a crisp $100 bill.

When the bridal party arrived home Mrs. Neversmith, who, by the way, was fond of young Doolittle, was at the door to bestow her blessings.

"It's all your fault," growled Mr. Neversmith, as he shook his fist at Maggie, the maid. "You ought to be drawn and quartered." "Yes, sir; thank you, sir," replied the maid, with a grin.

MICHIGAN RAILROADS BALK

State Avenues of Commerce Would Satisfy Travelers in Another Manner-Explanation of the System Now in Vogue.

(Wm. Ellery, Staff Correspondent.) Lansing, Mich., Nov. 3 .- Despite the fact that the outward agitation for the restitution of the interchangeable mileage book, which was in use in Michigan prior to the time the state's roads joined the Western Passenger association, substituting the new system which travelers declare is incon venient, has somewhat subsided, Gov. Warner is not idle, and he is at present seeking a method by which he can compel the railways to bring back the old system. Meanwhile, the roads are seeking a way to satisfy the traveling men of the state without returning to the old northern mileage system, which was put into effect when there was agitation in Michigan for a two-cent fare. It is claimed that the traveling men promised the railroads to use their influence to defeat a two-cent fare measure, provided 'the companies would give them an interchangeable mileage book good on trains at a two-cent rate. It is declared this agreement was re sponsible for the northern mileage book. But the traveling men failed to stop the two-cent fare bill, which became a law. Subsequent to the pasrage of the act the railroads decided to adopt the Central Passenger association mileage book. The latter is not good on trains, and baggage is now checked only to junctional points. Traveling men are compelled to exchange their mileage certificates for tickets, and frequently where connections are close they do not have the time to do so and are compelled to pay full fare.

Protest Against Hunting Act.

Protests against one of the deer hunting laws enacted by the last legislature are coming in from sportsmen in every part of the state and Grand Rapids, from which town all things audacious spring, announces that it will have the law tested. The act provides that no person shall have in his possession more than five days after the closing of the season any part of a deer. Hunters claim that it is unfair and unreasonable that a man having a piece of venison left at the expiration of five days after the closing of the season should be obliged to throw this vension away. They contend that so long as the deer was legally killed and came into their possession according to the requirements of the law, they should be allowed to eat that venison whenever they choose. It is the the legitimate hunter, but was almed at the cold storage proposition. The law, however, does not mention cold storage people, but includes all people. A matter of confusion which may result seriously to hunters who do not study the law, is that the deer season opens November 10 this year according to the revised law. Several legislative correspondents have announced the opening of the season as November 8, as formerly, but this is not correct.

Smith May Not Be Candidate.

The name of William Alden Smith was talked of as a candidate for the place which will be vacated by Senator Alger, when his present term expires, but if a recent interview is to be accepted, there is much doubt as to the truth of the initial report. Some day I'm going to put up it cannot be supported." a hard fight for senator, but it is too early to say whether I will at this time." | Current State Topics in Brief.

The supreme court has handed down an opinion declaring unconstitutional the special act of the last legislature establishing a municipal court in Battle Creek. Conceding the legislature a power to reduce the number designated by the war department to atof justices of the peace in the city to tend the post military school at Fort one and confer additional powers on that official, it is denied that it has the right to wipe out the justice of the peace system of the city entirely and substitute a new tribunal therefor. Montcalm county courthouse litigation which was decided before the Michigan supreme court here last week. By the decision Stanton, the other city in the controversy, cannot bulld the courthouse and jail which last February was destroyed by fire, with the money received from the insurance on the burned edifice. The history of the case is this: Last February the courthouse and jail at Stanton was practically destroyed by fire. Immediately the supervisors met and submitted a proposition to the people to bond the county for $40,000 to rebuild the courthouse. Greenville got busy and the proposition was voted down by a majority of 577. Thereafter the supervisors by a vote of 14 to 12 decided to use the insurance money received, about $20,000, to rebuild the courthouse at Stanton. Legal action was taken to prevent the construction of the building, a writ of certiorari to review the board's proceedings being issued. In an opinion by Justice Blair the supreme court holds that the board had no right to use the insurance money for the purpose of repairing or rebuilding the courthouse without a two-thirds vote of the board, which the proposition did not receive.

Rehearing in Railroad Case.

A rehearing has been granted by the supreme court in the mandamus proceedings brought by the attorney general to require the Wayne circuit court to compel the Michigan Central Railway company to file a more specific bill of particulars in the $1,000,000 damage case against the state for a repeal of its special charter. The question was decided against the state on a previous hearing, but as the opinion was concurred in by only four judges the attorney general requested a rehearing before the full bench. Gas Leak Causes Horror. Ishpeming .- Three children are dead and 13 people are injured, one fatally, as the result of an explosion here which completely destroyed the Miners' pational bank. The dead are: Steven Goodman, aged 12 years; Alice McGee, aged ten years, and Edward McGrath, aged 12 years. The victims were church attendants on their way home from mass. A gas leakage in the basement of the bank building was primarily responsible for the explosion and loss of life. Anderson and Peterson, steam fitters, had been engaged to make repairs to the heating plant, and as they entered the building they detected the smell of gas. They thought little of the circumstance, however, and as they passed into the furnace room they struck a match to a gas jet. The explosion followed.

Bystanders turned away sickened, thinking the man was crushed, but he crawled from the wreck, uninjured except for a few bruises.

HUNGRY DREAM OF FOOD

Explorers in the Antarctic- Tell Strange Stories of Their Experience.

"Food dreams," superinduced by ex-treme hunger and the difficulties that attend the advent of Morpheus in the Antarctic regions, are very interesting reading, and from the account of the voyage of the Discovery to the Antarctic is extracted the following data:

"In the journey to the south, in which we were absent three months from the ship," says Edward A. Wilson, M. B., writing in the British Medical Journal, "our food allowance was for some six weeks a bare pound and a half to each man daily. On this allowance hunger never left us and sleep was much disturbed by disappointing food dreams-sirloins of beef and steaming caldrons of cabbage and potato, hall suppers, stuffed turkeys and splendid hams, and waiters flying around with plates full for everybody else, but, shout as one might, one could not get attended to, and then one awoke and remained awake in one's sleeping bag for hours from sheer hunger and healthy appetite, to wait for a breakafst of bolled rice and the crumbs of one and a half biscuits fried in the fat of a thin slice of bacon.

"Then four hours' hauling on the sledges and a cold lunch of dried chips of seal meat, eight lumps of sugar and a bizcuit. Then three more hours of hauling on the sledes or, worse still, of driving on the dogs, and a final camp for the night on a pannikin of soup made of pemmican and pea meal. with plenty of boiled tea water and a fraction of a piece of chocolate. As for sleep in the lower temperatures of the spring sledge journeys, it is hardly worth the name.

"The seamen used to wake in the morning and swear they had been awake all night, but my own experience is the same as that of others, and it is this: One gets into the reindeer skin sleeping bag with no joy at all, for after a few days' sledging the accumulation of moisture from the condensation of one's breath and from the snowdrift and from perspiration deer hair with frost and rime and made the leather hard and full of frozen wetness. "One crawls into this after freezing one's fingers over changing socks and boots of reindeer skin-an absolute necessity to prevent the freezing of one's feet. Having drawn the flop over one's head and buttoned all the toggles, so that as little air as possible can get in or out, one begins to shiver one's self warm, a business which occupies from an hour to an hour and a half or two hours: sometimes it seems to occupy the whole night. During the process the bag begins to thaw, as well as one's various garments. "After this thaw has set in properly one begins to dream, and but for dreams the most absurd under the sun one would not believe that one had riept at all. Every hour or so one wakes to shiver, and then again the dreams begin, and this goes on until at last there is light enough in the tent to cook by, and one knows

THE CANADIAN BIRTH RATE

French Population Has the Highest of Any Nation in the World.

The birth statistics of Montreal, which have just been published. should delight the heart of President Roosevelt. The mean birth rate for the 17 years up to and including the year 1903 was 38.92 per 1,000 of the population. The French-Canadian birth rate was 49.08 per 1,000; that of the other Catholics, 24.87; that of the Frotestants, 23.41.

In one section of the population at leas: there is no race suicide. London, England, had in 1901 a ratio of 29.0 per 1,000; Glasgow, 31.7; New York. 22.7; Paris. 21.4; Berlin, 26.7; St. Petersburg, 25.5; Sydney, 25.8; Mad-1id, 30.2. The French-Canadians of Montreal lead the world in the matter of obeying the Biblical command to "Be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth."

The birth statistics of the rural districts, both among the French of the Province of Quebec and the Acadians of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, show an equally high percentage. In contrast, however, the English-speaking Canadians are no better than the much-abused inhabitants of the older parts of the United States. To keep Anglo-Saxon preponderance it is necessary to recruit our population from Great Britain and the American republic. Fortunately, although differing from the dominant race in language, the French in Canada have be-come so attached to British institu-tions and a British form of government that, as the Bt. John Globe said the other day, they are loyal support-ers of the Canadian constitution and British connection. It is well that this is the case, as in a very short time, unless all present indications fall, the French will be in the majority of native-born Canadians. ___

THE IRON PORT. BY THE IRON PORT CO. G. F. Mc Ewen, Mgr, SATURDAY, NOV. 11, 1905.

There is a general protest against the provision of the state game law to the effect that it shall be a misdemeanor for any person to have venison in his possession five days after the close of the deer hunting season, and from Grand Rapids it is reported that the hunters plan to attack it in the courts. The law was, as regards this provision at least, carelessly drawn, and its enforcement will have an effect that the legislature could hardly have contemplated. The offending section was designed to prevent the cold storage of venison, which is an incentive for the abuse of the law, but in effect it will prevent the individual hunter from consuming his venison as he sees fit. There is a feeling among sportsmen that when the law interferes with their disposal of two deer, legally shot, as long as the venison is not sold, it is going too far, and public opinion will support their view. If the offending section can't be knocked out in the courts the next session of the legislature will be expected to modify it.

Sick Headache

When your head aches, there is a storm in the nervous system, centering in the brain.

This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting. This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc. Allay this stormy, irritated, aching condition by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They stop the pain by soothing, strengthening and relieving the tension upon the nerves -not by paralyzing them, as do most headache remedies. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do not contain opium, morphine, chloral, cocaine or similar drugs.

"Bick headache is hereditary in my family. My father suffered a great deal, and for many years I have had spells that were so severe that I was unable to attend to my business affairs for a day or so at a time. During a very severe attack of headache, I took Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they relieved me almost immediately. Since then I take them when I feel the spell coming on and it stops it at once."

It is reported from London that an inventor named Apostoloff has devised a new process of milling wheat by which the quantity of flour obtained is increased no less than 15 per cent. The quality, it is claimed, is improved at the same time.

An Italian scientist has invented a novel substitute for irrigation. He uses the fruit of the Barbary nopal, a fig tree which bears figs that are excellent reservoirs of moisture. In the spring the scientist digs a ditch about the foot of the tree he desires to pro tect from the coming drought and this ditch is filled with figs cut into thick pleces. A dense layer is made and beaten down. The mucilaginous pulp, covered with earth, stores up much moisture, which it gives off gradually, watering the tree sometimes for as long a period as four months.

OLD FASHIONED FARE.

Hot Biscuits, Griddle-Cakes, Ples and Puddings.

The food that made the fathers strong is sometimes unfit for the children under the new conditions that our changing civilization is constantly bringing in. One of Mr. Bryan's neighbors in the great state of Nebraska writes:

"I was raised in the south, where hot biscuits, griddle-cakes, pies and puddings are caten at almost every meal, and by the time I located in Nebraska I found myself a sufferer from indigestion and its attendant illsdistress and pains after meals, an almost constant headache, dull, heavy sleepiness by day and sleeplessness at night, loss of flesh, impaired memory, etc., etc.

"I was rapidly becoming incapacitated for business, when a valued friend suggested a change in my diet, the abandonment of heavy, rich stuff and the use of Grape-Nuts food. I followed the good advice and shall always be thankful that I did so.

Whatever may be the experience of others, the beneficial effects of the change were apparent in my case al most immediately. My stomach, which had rejected other food for so long, took to Grape-Nuts most kindly; in a day or two my headache was gone, began to sleep healthfully and before elt was out the scales showed that my lost weight was ceming back. My y was restored with the re newed vigor that I felt in body and mind. For three years now Grape Nuts food has kept me in prime condition, and I propose it shall for the

Haragraphic Editorials for the Campaign Grator

By MAURICE B. BLUMENTHAL, Organizer and Manager of the Speakers' Bureau of Temmany Hall.

A campaign speech is not judged by its length. If you must put fireworks into your speech, put them where they will light up a solid argument.

Don't content yourself with amusing your audience; give them at lease one wholesome and convincing argument.

. To entertain an audience is all right, but let the entertainment be at the expense of the opposition.

There is no better way of winning an audience than to illustrate a point by a good story.

A good story well told makes admirers for the speaker, but when told to illustrate a point makes an impression upon the audience and votes for the ticket.

When you speak at a local meeting be familiar with the local political situation and know something about the local candidates, so that you may make brief reference to them, and thus touch a subject probably nearest to the hearts of your hearers.

Every political speech should have some preparation. No man can do his duty to his party by making a speech that is really impromptu.

Don't rely for applause, as many do, solely on the mere mention of a leader's or a prominent candidate's name; such applause doesn't make a single vote.

Don't talk merely; say something.

When candidates or other speakers are waiting to be heard, "cut it short" and give them a chance. You may be a candidate or "another speaker" yourself some day.

If you don't know how to say things that will make votes, for Heaven's sake avoid saying anything that will lose votes.

Applause does not always mean "Go on!" It often indicates 'Enough!" Keep your wits about you to know how you stand.

If you've said a few good things and have been well received, start in to quit; the next round of applause would be a good time to bow yourself out.

Almost every mass meeting contains at least one man who will interrupt a speaker to ask questions; he is either looking for information for himself or trouble for you. Give-him the benefit of the doubt and tell him to wait until lthe end of the speech and answer him then. Don't fear further interruption from him, because for fair play the audience will not tolerate it.

You will find more intelligence in a mass meeting audience of poor workingmen than in one made up of bank presidents.

Be enthusiastic without being excited.

Limit Weight of Football Players

By HON. SAMUEL L. POWERS. Dartmouth College, on Team of 1874.

What is the matter with football? There is nothing the matter with a game of football and never has been. It there be trouble it is with the players and not with the game. It is a contest in which accidents are liable to occur, but if all unnecessary roughness were eliminated the liability of injury would be tremendously lessened. It is within the power of the coaches to make the game what it should be. They have already done much to improve it. Twenty years go men were taught by the coaches to disable their adversaries, and 'put them out of the game." It was not an unusual thing to see in a single game six or eight men disqualified for slugging. Harvard and Yale declined to play each other at football in 1892 and made charges and counter charges of a most serious character.

Since then the game has gradually and greatly improved in every way. To-day public sentiment demands a "clean game"-one free from roughness, and if possible free from accidents. The games played between Harvard and Dartmouth last year and the year before were ideal, and fully up to the standard of what football should be.

There is no good reason why the game should be condemned because now and then a player loses his temper and is guilty of slugging his adversary. The man who cannot control his temper is not adapted for the sport, and ought not to play. Neither ought we to insist upon radical changes in the rules, because now and then a player, either through lack of training or judgment, or even viciousness, uses more force than is necessary, and thereby injures another player.

Many of the evils heretofore complained of are rapidly disappearing. College and school authorities are doing much to place the game upon a higher level. Evidently President Roosevelt believes that the coaches are largely responsible for the character of the play, and can do much in their teaching and training of the men to avoid accidents, and he has seen fit to lend his great influence in behalf of the elevation of this most

There is one suggestion, however, I would like to make. I believe the time has come when there should be a fixed limit as to the weight of the player. Football is a game requiring high skill, alert and concerted action, both on the offense and defense. Efficiency is acquired by long and patient training.

If the teams are about equal in weight, the one that is the better trained and has the greater knowledge of football is reasonably sure of winning. If, however, one team has a rush line averaging 200 pounds or more to a man, while the other averages only 170, the heavier team is likely to win, even though it has far less knowledge of the game.

It is for this reason that all the coaches and captains are seeking for heavy, beefy men, weighing from 200 to 250 pounds, to make up the rush line. A large university with 3,000 or 4,000 students has a far better opportunity of finding heavy men than a small college with 300 or 400 students. Now, for the good of the sport, why should there not be a limit upon weight? Let the rules provide that no teams shall play a man who weighs more than 180 or 190 pounds. Such a rule would place the college teams more upon a equality, the games would be faster, the play more open and the liability to accident somewhat lessened. I believe there is good and sufficient reason for the adoption of a rule of this

Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for her. She says:

"I was a great sufferer from Rheumatism, caused through my Kidneys being out of order. I was subject to it for years. It would take me without warning, and while the attack lasted I was so lame I could not get around. So I had to send for Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took them for three days, but didn't feel much benefit, but on the fourth day I noticed a great change, the lameness in my back was gone, and the pains I used to suffer were less. I kept on with Dodd's Kidney Pills and now I am glad to say I have no lameness nor pains of any kind. I feel as if I didn't know what Rheumatism was. I shall never be without Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house, and I bless the day I first heard of them."

EXPERIENCE

Two Marquette Men Spend Three Nights in Woods Surrounded by Animals.

AN AXE ONLY WEAPON.

Kept Fires Burning in Circle to Prevent Attack-Animals Followed Them in Daylight When They Left Camp.

Surrounded by a pack of wolves num bering from twenty-five to thirty ani-mals, and confined within a circle of fires without weapons save only a woodsman's axe, Stephen Lowney and Roy Sullivan, two Marquette landlookers, spent three nights in the woods in Iron county without sleep or rest. The men arrived in Marquette last Saturday and tell a thrilling story of their ex-perience. "We were looking land in an unexplored region lying between the South Shore and Northwestern railways in the township of Atkinson, Iron county," said Mr. Lowney. "The land on which we pitched our tent was old pine burnings, now grown up to second growth birch, cherry and brush, with here and there an occasional tree left nearest human habitation, and there were no trails, roads or other signs of civilization except the government survey marks. We saw a great many railway and the place where we made every unsettled part of the peninsula, especially west of Marquette county. It was about 5 o'clock in the evening when Sullivan went to a stream, which was three rods from the camp, for the purpose of getting water for supper. He was dipping the water up with a tin cup, when his attention was arrested by a deep gutteral growl which seemed only a short distance away, and, looking up, beheld six or seven wolves a few feet away, and the largest of the pack circling back and forth as if ready sistance, and as I heard the animals some minutes before in the distance, I ton street. knew what to expect. I took a brand from the fire, and with this drove the animals away. From that time until camp was surrounded by a pack of from twenty-five to thirty wolves, and we were compelled to build a circle of fifteen fires around the tent in order to keep them away. We had no weapons except a small woodsman's axe, and our only hope of keeping the animals at bay was by the use of fire. All night long we piled boughs on the fires, keeping them biazing as brightly as possible. at druggists. tain sleep, and it was necessary for one man; to cut boughs while the other busied himself heaping on the wood to keep the fires alive. The animals kept up a series Bell phone. 630. of screams and yells and we could see them darting from one place to another as they shifted position in looking for a vulnerable point in our circle of fire. The pack seemed to increase in numbers every night, and we could hear them coming for their nightly vigil an hour before they arrived at the camp. In all my experience in the woods, I never saw so many wolves congregate in one place. The snow in that locality is from twelve to eighteen inches deep, and the wolves find it impossible to capture deer which accourts for their extreme hunger at this season of the year. We saw hundreds of fresh wolf tracks in the woods, but did not see the animals at any time except at night.

The snow surrounding our camp was beaten into paths by the animals, who in the three nights that we stayed there ran back and forth in a circle around the fires. I have no doubt if we had not taken the precaution to build fires around our camp, and maintained strict watch during the night that they would have attacked us. In fact, we were looking for an attack at any time, as it was. The locality where we were camped is an ideal place for the ani-mals to range. There is protection for them in the growth of underbrush, and the place is remote from civilization. There are no camps, roads or trails, and hunters seldom frequent the locality for that reason.

The third night we spent in camp the wolves were much bolder than on the two previous nights, and when we Gives a service up. broke up' the next day to start home, of three miles in the direction of the railroad. They kept back a distance of several rods, but we could see them dodging from one place to another be-hind and sometimes ahead of us. The hind and sometimes ahead of us. The pack seemed to be under direction of a leader, and every morning before departure the animals retreated at a signal given in a different key than the regular howl. We did not see them in day time except on the day we left camp. (Nahma Continued) from Page 3.
