New Form of Gambling.

NEW YORK .- Another stage beauty has captured the heart of a Gotham millionaire and retired from the glare of the footlights to the quietude of domestic life. This time it is Miss Mabel Carrier, who won the admiration of theater goers last season in "A Chinese Honeymoon," playing a minor part. Miss Carrier is now the wife of Daniel G. Reid, one of the prominent figures in New York's financial world, tin plate and rallroad magnate, whose wealth is estimated at between $25,000,000 and $40,000,000.

No formal announcement has been made by Mr. Reid of his marriage and the date on which the ceremony was performed has not been made public, but it is known that the wedding took place several weeks ago.

Mr. Reid's name has been linked with that of Miss Carter for the last year, but with characteristic secrecy he refused to let any of his friends know of his love for the beautiful young woman., His attitude in the matter recalled the manner in which he concealed the fact of his second marriage, in 1904, to Clarisse Agnew, a chorus girl of marked beauty, who died within a year after the ceremony. The new Mrs. Reid is about 23 years old, and was born in Detroit. She is tail and statuesque, and strikingly handsome. Her stage career has been brief, her first engagement being with "A Chinese Honeymoon" last year. She next appeared in an important role in "The Runaways," and her last engagement was with the "West Point Cadet," which had a short life at the Princess theater in New York. Mr. Reid is 48 years old, and has been married twice before. With William B. Leeds he organized the timplate trust, out of which he made a

Speaking of weddings recalls the recent announcement of the engagement of Miss Margaret Chanler, the Astor heiress, to Richard Aldrich, of the editorial staff of the Times: Miss Charler is following the lead of several other young women of fortune and social position in promising her hand in marriage to a man of no means, but possessed of brains. In the pursuit of his newspaper work Mr. Aldrich met and became acquainted with

Miss Chanler, worth several millions in her own right, a great-great-granddaughter of the original John Jacob Astor, daughter of the late John Wintkrop Chanler and sister of Mrs. John Jay Chapman, is a remarkable young woman. She is beautiful, tall, slender and stately, and Instead

CARRY BUSINESS TO LUNCHEON TABLE.

Those who take a casual view of the great restaurants in the lower part of the city at midday are likely to think that New York business men live in sybaritic bixury. The appointments of the tables, the excellence of the food and the leisurely dallying over coffee and clgars which have of late become concomitants of a luncheon might be taken to mean that the "quick lunch" habit had entirely disappeared and that men had taken to rational ways of eating,

All of this looks well, but as a matter of fact the luncheon has become a business function, as much as any other duty connected with office or counting room. Over the tables, where napery and silver gleam, are discussed contracts, and deals and margins. The restaurant for the time becomes a mart or a rendezvous, and everything is seasoned with shop?

New York men are taking more time over their luncheous because they have more business to transact or discuss at

"AUTO POKER" NEW FORM OF GAMBLING.

"Automobile poker," a new form of gambling in public, has struck this city and its spreading from the sea to the Yonkers line. Along the avenues approaching the Sheepshead Bay race Capt. Knapp appeared to be excited track men and boys in groups are playing "gutomobile poker.". On Fifth avenue, Broadway, Madison avenue, and all auto favored thoroughfares, automobile poker is indulged in, evidencing that the new "bug" has taken hold, for the-time being,

The game is played thus: Stationing themselves on an auto haunted thoroughfare, the "bookmaker" and the players lay bets on the highest possible hand to be found in the next devil wagon which may come honking along. The auto comes and passes in a cloud of dust. The number, say is 11,651. One equals an ace, so the hand showed is three aces. Those who guessed acare, t to the value of that hand win. If the auto number is

7,211, the hand is two pair, four high. In the same way the another may reveal three or four dences, trays, or fours.

The bookmaker takes all bels on any old number, but pays off only to the holder of the highest hand.

But the game is destined to put the bookmakers out of business, for the chanffeurs and their friends are "next," and the game is being already plugged; self-respect and of womanly devotion, by them. Knowing the number of their own autoa obile, they send their not reluctant to give its best if it may friends along the line to get down a bet, and then comes the automobile, the add some brightness to the shadowed number 5, ominently displayed, the wiley chauffeur sitting with apparent un- lot of a loved one. concern at the tiller.

MOTOR BOATING BECOMING POPULAR.

Motor boat enthusiasts are constantly increasing. Hundreds of the little crafts may be seen skimming the waters of the sound and harbor, There are so many of them now that all aquatic sports are undergoing a sea change.

Some motorboatiacs get the disease by first acquiring a cathoat and others again are possessed with a mania for speed, acquired on land in air ordinary automobile. Few enthusiasts have started out deliberately to submit themselves to this strange fascination. They begin by spending money for sloops or cats and the microbe which fastens the motor boat habit on them seizes them about the time they buy a small auxiliary gasoline engine for their sailing craft. The sensation of going five or six miles an hour is exhilarating, and when the wind dies down and the canvas flaps the spell of going without the aid of Aeolus appeals to the enthusiast.

It dawns upon him that he does not need sails at all, and before long he is buying motor boats, trading motor boats and dreaming of the same. Motor boats have several advantages over steam launches, for the owner may be in charge of it without having to obtain a license as engine driver. There is no waiting to get up steam, for a few twists of wheels and the turning of a switch are all the preliminaries necessary to cutting through the

As farmers and slowgoing folks on land are distrustful of the automobile corcher, so are the fishermen and the clam diggers inclined to look upon the owners of the motor boats as encroaching upon their rights. They declare that the odor of the gasoline, especially in shallow water, and the thrumming of the screw and the chug of the engines drives away the fish and disturbs even the peace of the clams in the mud. Nevertheless there are in the neighborhood of the metropolis hundreds of motor boats, and their number is constantly on the increase.

Women who wish to consign articles of value to an exchange, must plainly state the amount they are worth and the lowest selling price the owners are willing to accept. Attorney General John E. Bird is now occuped with an another railroad case, in which the Wisconsin & Michigan seeks to enjoin the collection of taxes upon their ad valorem assesment which they claim was unfairly increased by the state board of assessors, after a valuation had been fixed and reported to the company. The ground on which the increase by the board of assessors is justified, is the discovery of trackage property of that company which was unknown to the board when the former valuation was made:

THINK MORE--SPEND LESS

Why is it that the average man is worth much less in money and property than we have a right to expect him to be? It isn't because he doesn't make money, for the average man is industrious and has earned from $10,000 to $30,000 in the past ten years. It is because he doesn't give much serious thought either to his income or his outgo. Serious thought would teach him the value of a dollar; then he would spend carefully and save steadily. That system soon places any man ahead of his fellows.

A BANK ACCOUNT helps you to realize the value of money, makes, it easier to handle your financial affairs and to have a growing balance after paying necessary expenses. We invite your account and will help you to save,

NIGHT OPERATORS SEEM TO BE THE PREY OF MIDNIGHT ROPBERS.

A THIRD ASSAULT MADE.

This Time Near Jackson and for Purpose of Robbery it is Thought; Victim Escapes Death.

Assailante Escape.

August 27.-Lloyd A. Dynes, Michigan Central night operator at Gallen, Mich., shot dead while sitting at his telegraph key in the station. Crime unsolved.

September 11 .- H. L. Armstrong. Michigan Central night operator at Wiard's Crossing, knocked unconsclous by blow on the head from a "billy" while sending message. Crime unsolved.

September 18.-D. A Boomer, Michigan Central night operator at junction east of Jackson, assaulted by three men. Struck in the face by man who appeared to be a negro. Men escape; crime unsolved.

D. A. Boomer was the victim of the third assault committed on Michigan Central night operators in Michigan within a month, when three men assaulted him as he was coming out of his office at the junction east of Jackson, Tuesday night. One man, supposed to be a negro, but more probably, it seems, a white man with his face blackened for the purpose of disguise, struck him a heavy blow in the face, which nearly felled him. He staggered back into the depot, whence the trio started to follow him, but desisted. He extinguished the lights immediately and hid, and the men fled east and have escaped,

It is supposed the object of the assault was robberg, but as the thugs said nothing to Boomer, it is not known. The ascault is shrouded apparently in the same impenetrable mystery as those committed on Operator Dynes at Gallen, who gave up his life, and on Operator Armstrong at Wlard's Cressing, In each case, as far as can be learned, a motive is entirely lacking. The only explanation offered is that some man or several men have an insane grudge against Michigan Central night operators and are systematically going about the matter of getting revenge.

"I thought of poor Dynes, who was killed, and of Armstrong, the moment I saw those men," said Boomer, "As in their case, I was given no chance to defend myself. I owe my escape to pure luck, that's all. If the blow that big, powerful man hit me in the face had struck my chin or my head I would have been knocked unconscious. Then I suppose I would have been killed, if necessary. I have no notion whatever as to their motive, unless, of course, it was robbery. That would be foolish, as there is no money kept at the junction."

It will be recalled that there no money kept at Wiard's Crossing nor at Galien, except occasionally.

To Close the Tabernacle.

Intense excitement was created in Battle Creck Monday by the announcement that an effort is being made to turn the famous Seventh Day Adventist talicrnacle over to the general conference, composed of "Prophetess" Ellen White's friends, for the purpose of closing the building.

The tabernacle is the largest church to Michigan in seating capacity

Members of the conference, refuse to be interviewed. The idea of closingthe church is to deny Adventists a place of worship in the hope that they will follow Mrs. White's orders and move away from Battle Creek. While many have already gone to-Washingen, some 2,500 remain, and most of these say if the tabernacle is closedthey will leave the denomination and join the Seventh Day Baptist church, continuing to live in the city.

A Remarkable Love Story.

"I knew Mrs. Owen was brokenhearted because I boarded at her house. But I loved her husband, he loved me, and we couldn't bear to be apart.

Thus testified Miss Maxine Curtis, an attractive girl of 21 years, at the inquest on the death of Mrs. Blanche L. Owen, wife of J. B.Owen, manager of a Lansing store. Mrs. Owen died September 13, and is supposed to have committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. She left a baby several weeks old.

Miss Curtis came to Lansing last December from Big Rapids, She made a hit with her manager, and he took her to his home to live last June, On the stand she admitted that Mrs. Owen objected to the attentions her husband was showing her boarder, and grew despondent as the weeks passed by, 'We talked of Mrs. Owen's possible -

Tortoise Surprised the Cook.

The tortoise is a great-sleeper. One was a domestic pet in an English house, and when his time for hibernating came he selected a corner of the dim coal cellar for his winter quarters. The New State

Bigger than Missouri; as big as Ohio and Indiana combined, with a soil teeming with all the crops that any State raises, OKLAHOMA; the new State-is destined to occupy first rank in a few short years. Here at the present time over a million people are duplicating the life which is going on in Illinois and Indiana. Their houses, their towns and their schools are newer but in nothing else do their surroundings differ from those in our States. Their cities and towns are growing and expanding with the impetus of a fertile soil, and a pushing, wide-awake citizenship. Her settlers, mainly from the older States, see the virtue of encouraging emerprises of every kind and the needfulness of getting more and better facilities; of getting more hands to develop the country.

In brief, conditions to day are simply these: OKLAHOMA is in need of nothing save people. More men are needed in the cities and towns; more farmers for the vast areas of unimproved land not now yielding crops of which it is capable. There are openings of all sorts, for farmers and cartisans, for mills and monatacturing plants, for small stores of all kinds.
