TO BUILD

NEW ROADS

Ed. Co. Road Commissioners ask Supervisors to Pass Resolutions

TO BOND COUNTY

For $25,000 and Submit Proposition to Voters of County at Election Next April

The Board of County Road Commissioners have asked the Board of Supervisors to pass resolutions favoring a bond issue of $25,000 for the building of new county roads, and to arrange for submitting the proposition to the voters at the annual spring election next April.

If the proposition is submitted to the voters and carried, the Road Commissioners intend to carry out extensive improvements on the roads throughout the county. It is the intention of the board to construct two miles of macadam road in each of the following townships next year: Bark River, Ford River, Wells, Escanaba, Brampton and Maple Ridge.

The issue of the bonds is to be in addition to the regular tax levy of $2.00 on each $1,000 valuation in Delta County.

All the road work to be undertaken next year will be in accordance with the plan approved by the state highway commission and will allow the county to receive the state bounty of $1,000 for each mile of road constructed in Delta county during the season.

The annual report of the board of road commissioners which was submitted to the board of supervisors at their Annual October session this week, shows that during the year there was collected for road purposes the sum of $18,789.86; the total amount expended was $18,505.29 leaving a balance on October 1st of $484.57.

The report shows that in addition to repairs made on several of the township roads, one and one-half miles of macadam road were constructed in Bark River township and the same amount of macadam was laid on the bay shore road.

PASADENA LOST

Ore Barge Goes to Pieces in Storm on Lake Superior

The barge Pasadena, bound from Duluth to Cleveland, with a cargo of iron ore, went to pieces on the beach a mile from the Portage Lake ship canal at seven o'clock Monday night. The boat was caught in a big blow on Lake Superior, and was flying a distress signal when sighted by the life-saving crew at dusk.

Captain McCormick and his crew attempted to reach the boat but she was broken up before they could get to the craft. Several members of the crew, including the captain, were picked up and brought to the station at the canal, and three members of the crew are still missing, and it is feared they were drowned. The captain was severely bruised by wreckage as he was leaving the ill-fated boat. The wind was blowing fifty miles an hour.

The Pasadena was a wooden ore carrier of 1,382 tons, and was built in 1889 at Cleveland, O. She was 250 feet long, 40 feet beam, and 13 feet deep. She was owned by M. A. Bradley of Cleveland.

Paul's Alleys Open

Paul's bowling alleys at 606 Ludington street were opened to the public last Saturday for the season of 1906-07.

During the summer, while the alleys have not been in use, Mr. Paul has had them refitted and put into first-class condition and equipped with new pins and balls.

Mr. Paul expects to set aside two afternoons each week for the exclusive use of women bowlers.

This form of amusement proved to be very popular last winter, and with the new equipment, the patronage of the alleys this season should be considerably increased.

OPEN TO TRAVEL

Bay Shore Road Now Passable and in Use

Although the new bay shore road between Escanaba and Gladstone is not fully completed, yet it is passable and is now in use.

Outside of one mile of sandy soil the new road is in fairly good shape and the trip can be made at least thirty minutes quicker than by the old route.

MAUDE FEALY PLEASD

Enthusiastic Audience at the Peterson Tuesday Night.

Maude Fealy, the talented young actress, appeared before a large audience at the Peterson opera house last Tuesday night and was given a warm welcome.

Miss Fealy is an actress of more than ordinary accomplishments and is supported by an excellent company of clever artists.

"The Illusion of Beatrice," in which Miss Fealy is starring this season is a comedy, although many of the interesting situations in which the principal players find themselves would, if occurring in real life, be anything but amusing to the parties concerned.

Miss Fealy appears in the role of "Beatrice," a child who imagines herself the daughter of an Austrian prince. On the contrary she is poor, nameless and the ward of a wealthy Wall street broker who adopted her in her infancy. Being placed in school she queens it over her play companions and demands the respect due her rank. She grows to womanhood still possessed of her illusion.

Pathos, love and jealousy all enter into the story and, with the comely situations, form the basis of a beautiful play.

The company carries its own scenery even to the handsome furniture used during the first act.

Should Miss Fealy ever play another engagement in this city, it is safe to say that standing room will be at a premium.

Institutions Board Visit

During the months of September and October in each even-numbered year, preceding the biennial session of the legislature, the state board of correction and charities visits all of the state penal, reformatory and charitable institutions, to investigate their needs and pass upon the estimates of their several boards of managers as to cost maintenance and needed improvements for the succeeding two years, and make recommendation to the legislature upon its assembling in January. For this purpose the board holds special sessions at the seats of the various institutions.

When the board of correction and charity was created by act of 1871, there were five of those institutions. Now there are sixteen—five asylums for the insane, three prisons, two juvenile reformatories, school for the deaf and the blind, the state public school for home-less children, the soldiers' home, the home for epileptic and feeble-minded, and the employment institution for the blind. It may be seen that to visit and inspect these sixteen institutions, investigating their needs and examining their estimates so as to make intelligent recommendation for appropriations, with faithful attention to the needs of the institutions and the wise use of the public funds must furnish a pretty strenuous two months' occupation in a very high grade service.

WORK ENDORSED

Supervisors Show Gratification Over Work of Hon. O. B. Fuller and Hon. Ole Erickson Before State Board.

The work of O. B. Fuller and Hon. Ole Erickson before the state board of equalization at Lansing where they secured a reduction of $1,300,000 from the valuation of 10,800,000 which was placed on this county by the state board, was enthusiastically endorsed by the members of the board of supervisors at their session on Tuesday morning.

In addition to allowing the bill of expenses incurred on the trip a motion was carried, against the protest of both Mr. Fuller and Mr. Erickson, allowing them each $5 a day for their time.

Club Increases Capital

At a meeting of the stockholders for the Pine Grove Park association of Iron Mountain it was voted unanimously to increase the capital stock from $3,000 to $6,000. This increase was made necessary by the erection of an elegant club house which is now rapidly nearing completion. The clubhouse is one of the finest in the upper peninsula. At Norway, same county, the Norway Club, an institution which has had for some years a more or less precarious existence, reached a point a short time ago when decisive action as to finance was absolutely necessary. The club had a secured indebtedness of more than $1,400 and assets of a nominal valuation of about $3,000. At a recent meeting it was decided to make an effort to clear up the debt by subscription and then re-organize on a somewhat different basis. That the proposition will be successful is almost assured by the fact that fully $1,200 has been pledged and the remainder is "in sight."

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Dault on Saturday a baby girl.

ARONSON THE ### NOMINEE

Named for Sheriff's Place in Convention Held Monday

HAD NO OPPOSITION

Was Placed in Nomination For Both The Short and Long Terms

Acting Sheriff Frank W. Aronson was nominated by the Republican Convention on Monday for the office of sheriff to fill vacancy and for the full term.

The short term will expire on the 1st of January 1907 and the full term on January 1st, 1909.

No opposition developed to Mr. Aronson's candidacy.

Mr. Aronson himself did not care to be nominated for the short term but it was evidently the opinion of the delegates that the same man should be nominated for both terms.

FEDERAL BUILDING SITE

Representative of Treasury Department Was in the City This Week

W. D. Wisdom, representative of the United States Treasury department was in the city the early part of this week investigating the sites that have been offered for the new $50,000 federal building which will be erected in Escanaba. Mr. Wisdom was interviewed by a committee from the business men of the city who are interested in having the building located at Ludington and Wolcott streets and by another committee of those who want the building located at Mary street and Wells Ave.

Mr. Wisdom gave no hint while here as to which site he was most favorably impressed with but stated that a decision would be made by Secretary Shaw within six weeks.

THREE PEOPLE INJURED

In Train Collision Near Rapid River last Thursday

Three people were injured Thursday morning in a collision on the Soo Line between a fast freight train and a mixed passenger and freight train.

The collision occurred near Rapid River. Emanuel Olson, President of the Escanaba Brewing Company was injured by jumping from the train. An unknown woman and boy were also injured, being scalded about the face and hands by escaping steam.

The mixed train was at a standstill while the engine was taking water and the rear coach extended out across the main track, when suddenly a fast freight came rushing around a curve near the crossing, the engineer was unable to stop the freight in time to avoid a collision, so, after seeing the brakes and reversing the engine, he and the fireman jumped.

The passengers on the mixed train made an attempt to get out of the coach rushing frantically for the doors at either end. Nearly all succeeded in doing so. Mr. Olson jumped as the engine struck the coach and was hurled some distance, sustaining several bruises.

The boy and woman were still inside the coach when the engine struck it, but both managed to reach the outside without aid.

The injured were attended by Dr. A. J. Carlson of Rapid River and were able to proceed with the train.

CHARGED WITH

MANSLAUGHTER

Wesley Miller, Saloon Keeper at Maple Ridge Arrested

FOR CAUSING DEATH

Of Timothy McNamara, Who Died Under Suspicious Circumstances Last Monday Night

Wesley Miller, a saloon keeper at Maple Ridge was arrested Thursday by Acting Sheriff F. W. Aronson on a charge of manslaughter.

Timothy McNamara, a bartender employed by Miller, died at the saloon last Monday night, and it is believed by the officers that the man did not die of natural causes.

The condition of the body when found and marks that were visible on the face, neck and breast, led to this belief.

It is claimed by Miller that McNamara dropped dead suddenly from heat failure while working in the saloon Monday night.

The jury which heard the testimony at the coroner's inquest, returned the following verdict:

"We, the members of the coroner's jury, find that Timothy McNamara came to his death at the saloon of Wesley Miller at Lathrop, Michigan, on Monday evening, between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock from causes which are unknown."

The story as told at the inquest by several witnesses is substantially as follows:

Several men were in the saloon on Monday evening. Some of them were drinking heavily and a disturbance was raised. A chicken soup lunch was served by the proprietor and shortly after 10 o'clock a number of the men were seated in a small room at the rear of the bar room, eating. One of the men called to McNamara for a glass of beer. The bartender did not respond, and the proprietor went out to learn the cause. He claims that he merely rubbed McNamara's face roughly for not responding to the call and that McNamara fell and struck his face on the floor. An attempt was made to give him a drink of water but he died with the cup at his lips.

Coroner Shedd was sent for and J. A. Alb was notified of the death and instructed to take a casket to Maple Ridge. After the coroner had completed his investigation the body was brought to this city and in preparing the body for burial, several pieces of teeth and splinters of jawbone were found in the mouth. His mouth was badly bruised and the appearance of the face, neck and breast would seem to indicate that McNamara had come to his death by foul means.

Prosecuting Attorney Judd Yelland was notified and he at once started an investigation with the result that enough evidence was found to warrant the arrest of Miller, pending a full investigation of the case.

Miller was given a preliminary hearing before Judge O. V. Linden immediately after his arrest, and the case was continued until next Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Bail was fixed at $1,000, which Miller announced he would furnish.

It is expected by the officers that enough evidence will be forthcoming at the hearing Tuesday, to warrant the trying of the case in the circuit court.

Anderson Resisted Officer

Andrew Anderson, a fisherman living near Gladstone, was found on the streets about six o'clock Sunday night by Chief of Police Bietzer, and warned to go home. The chief went with Anderson to the barn where his horse was being cared for and after placing him in the buggy proceeded to hitch up the horse. Before the operation was completed and before the reins had been placed in Anderson's hands, he suddenly seized the whip and dealt the horse several blows. The horse dashed into an alley and was caught by Chief Bietzer, who immediately placed Anderson under arrest.

Anderson resisted the attempt to place him in the police station and gave the chief considerable difficulty in placing him behind the bars.

Monday morning Anderson was arraigned before Judge Emil Glaser and fined $20 and costs, which he paid.

Knocked Down by Team

ARM NEARLY SHOT OFF

Clive Gelzer had Narrow Escape From Death Sunday Afternoon

Clive Gelzer, the fourteen year old son of Mrs. M. Gelzer of 402 S. Campbell street, was the victim of a painful shooting accident last Sunday. His escape from death was miraculous.

The young man in company with his older brothers, Cecil and Will had been partridge hunting in the vicinity of Lathrop and were driving back to that place, when one of the older boys remarked that it would be a good thing to have a gun handy in case they should see moose birds. Clive then got out of the buggy and started to pull a double barreled shot gun from the back of the rig. He grasped the gun by the barrel and pulled toward him, when the trigger caught on the buggy box and discharged the weapon, the entire charge passing through his right arm below the shoulder. The muscles of his arm were blown away, portions of his clothing passing through the arm.

He was immediately driven to Trembly where the services of a physician were secured and the wound dressed.

The accident occurred about 1:30 in the afternoon and he reached Escanaba at nine o'clock.

Dr. Forsyth was waiting at the depot with his automobile, and the boy was taken to the Delta County hospital, where he is being cared for.

The young man will recover but it is probable that he will never have the use of his right arm again.

THE NEW COMMANDMENTS

1. You shall sell your farm produce for cash wherever you can, but not to us; we do not buy from you.

3. You shall send the money in advance to give us a chance to get the goods from the factory with your money; meanwhile you will have to wait patiently for a few weeks, because that is our business method.

4. You shall apply to your nearest city to aid you in building good roads, so that you may conveniently get the goods from the depot that you buy from us, for we do not build country roads.

5. You shall buy church bells and interior church fixtures from us and forward the money in advance, for that is our business method.

6. You shall collect from the business men in your community as much money as you can for although we earn more money from you than they do, it is against our rules to donate money for building country churches.

7. You shall buy your tools from us and by your own mechanic, in order to drive the mechanics from your vicinity, for we wish it so.

8. You shall induce your neighbor to buy everything from us, as we have room for money.

9. You shall have the mechanics that repair the goods you buy of us book the bill, so you can send the money for their labor to us for new goods.

10. You shall, in case of accident, sickness or need, apply to your local dealer for credit, as we do not know you.

Dog Lead to Dead Master

An old and faithful hunting dog, owned by Sammy Greenski, a famous Indian hunting guide, led by a party from Chase S. Osborne's camp through the woods to where the body of the dead master lay. Greenski had been accidentally shot while returning from a duck hunting trip.

The dog bounded into camp, greatly excited and began barking and wheeling towards the woods, giving every sign he could without speaking, that help was needed, and he would show the way. When one of the party started toward the dog he wheeled and made for the woods like a shot. The woodmen followed him and the Indians dead body, still warm, was found. The dog had licked the blood away from his master's wound, and when the party reached the dead Indian's side, the dog was affectionately licking his face.

WAS HELD

Citizens Discuss Lighting Plant Question Wednesday Night.

AT THE CITY HALL

Applause Greeted Speakers who Favored Retention of Plant by City.

A mass meeting of citizens was held at the city hall Wednesday evening to discuss the lighting plant question.

The mass meeting was called by the City Council to determine in some measure just what the sentiment of the people was in regard to the proposition of disposing of the plant or raising money to improve it.

The report of A. H. Rolph on the lighting plant was read and showed that the plant had been operated at a profit of over $12,000 since the city owned it and during the past year had made a gain of $6,000.

Following the reading of this report a number of citizens expressed themselves on the question, some being in favor of selling the plant and others being opposed to any such action.

Mr. S. Greenhoot a member of the Board of Public Works made a strong statement in favor of the retention of the plant by the City and his remarks were heartily applauded as was every other speaker who was in favor of keeping the plant.

Arguments in favor of the retention of the plant by the city were advanced by Mr. Patrick Fogarty, Herman Salinsky and others.

Among those who advocated the disposing of the plant by the city were A. H. Ryall, I. C. Jennings, John Cumiskey and W. R. Smith.

DIED AT MILWAUKEE

Mother of Matt Fillion Passed Away At Post Graduate Hospital

Mrs. Margaret Fillion of Schaffer, mother of Matt Fillion of the firm Young & Fillion Company died on Sunday night at the Post Graduate hospital of Milwaukee, following an operation for cancer which was performed on September 29th.

It was supposed that the operation had been a complete success and the recovery of the patient was looked for. A change for the worse took place however on Saturday and on Sunday night Mr. Fillion who had returned from Milwaukee Sunday morning was again summoned to the bedside of his mother to find that death had taken place several hours before.

Mrs. Fillion was born in Canada and came to Delta County with the members of the family eleven years ago. She was fifty years of age and is survived by a husband, five sons and three daughters.

For some time she had been ill with a chronic affection of the bowels and two weeks ago decided to go to Milwaukee for treatment. It was found that she was suffering from cancer of the bowels and an operation was deemed necessary.

RATE NOT EXORBITANT

Rates For Light at City Plant Not Higher than the Majority of Other Plants in Upper Peninsula

A great deal has been said by people who are in favor of having the city lighting plant sold about the "exorbitant" rates the city plant is charging. Compared with the rates charged in upper peninsula and Wisconsin cities the Escanaba rates are fair and equitable and are not exorbitant.

A comparison of rates charged in the cities in this part of the country is on file at the office of the lighting plant and may be seen by any who desire to satisfy themselves as to the rates charged here.

SINK SHIP FOR BOOTY

SUSPECT MEMBERS OF CREW OF ROBBING STRONG BOX.

VESSEL DRIVEN ON ROCKS

Conspirators Supposed to Have Left Big Liner in Small Boat, Carrying $500,000 in Gold to Place of Safety.

Cartagena, Spain.—Evidence tending to prove conclusively that robbers sacrificed the lives of 150 persons and wrecked the big trans-Atlantic steamer Sirio in order to "steal $500,000 was discovered Monday.

The strong box of the steamer was uncovered in the wreckage and opened. It was found to be empty, although hermetically sealed when discovered.

A tremendous sensation has been caused by the discovery. The secret service agents of the government intimate that members of the steamer's crew are under suspicion and that arrests are likely to follow. The assistance of the Italian government will be asked in clearing up the mystery.

It is declared that a conspiracy existed among the suspected members of the crew and that after looting the strong box and sealing it again they deliberately wrecked the steamer that they might have a chance to land with their rich booty.

Whether the robbers actually escaped with the great load of gold is yet a mystery, but the authorities have apprehended a crew showing that a small boat landed several mysterious men near the scene of the wreck long before any passengers from the wrecked steamer reached shore.

Their descriptions have been obtained and the authorities are engaged in tracking them. It is believed they were the robbers and that they had the gold in the boat and everything else in readiness for departing from the steamer the moment of the wreck, thus escaping the pain and crash that followed.

The Sirio was wrecked last August on Romigas Island. It was on a voyage from Italy to New York. It carried several hundred Italian emigrants.

VENETTA IN INDIANA REVIVED

Feud Renewed When Young Man Calls on Sweetheart in Rival Town.

Kokomo, Ind.—The venetta existing between Oakford and Hemlock, rival villages, eight miles here, has broken out afresh.

He had been calling on a young woman in Hemlock, and was en route home when shot.

The feud is confined to young men and boys, and when a man of one village calls upon a young woman of the other town, it is a signal for bloodshed.

Chandler's Joke on Conkling.

Roscoe Conkling was a capital boxer and quite proud of his skill. One evening after considerable banter he induced Senator Chandler to "put on the gloves" with him. He played with Chandler for a few rounds, much to the discomfiture of the downcast. The latter bided his time and some time later quietly brought a professional pugilist to dinner where Conkling was a guest. In the course of the evening "Mr. Smith" was induced to engage in a boxing bout with Mr. Conkling. The professional danced around the senator, landing when and where he wished, playing with him as he would with a punching bag. The elegant New York senator was dazed, overwhelmed, humiliated, crushed. When he surrendered and called enough, as he did at last, Senator Chandler smiled blandly and presented the pugilist in his true colors.

From the State Capital

Information and Gossip Furnished by Special Correspondent at Lansing.

Lansing.—Acts providing for the appointment of county drain commissioners by the governor in counties where the election of these officers by the people has been provided for by the legislature have been repeatedly attacked as unconstitutional. The supreme court, however, in a case arising in Livingston county, held the law valid, as being a reasonable exercise of the power of the state in the matter of preserving the public health. A judgment of ouster was ordered entered by the court against Eugene T. McClellan, who was in office when the new law was enacted and was appointed by the supervisors. The office goes to William Alexander, who was appointed by the governor. Judge Miner who tried the case below, held that the law empowering the governor to make the appointment of drain commissioners was unconstitutional, and his decision is reversed. Several counties besides Livingston have similar laws.

Military Encampment Expenses.

The exact statement cannot be given out at the state military department yet as to the expenditures for the recent encampment at Indianapolis, but it is known that the sum will approximate $60,000, which is about $22,000 less than last year, when the camp was held at Ludington. The difference is represented by about the cost of the transportation of the troops, which was paid by the United States government. At the camp, Gen. Carter, who was in command for the war department, expressed the hope that the experience had been such as to induce the Michigan national guard to go to Indianapolis another year, but it is believed the opinion of the officers and men favor Ludington for the next camp. This is not the attitude of Brig. Gen. Harrah, however, who would favor either the maneuvers in connection with federal troops or a camp in the state at some other place than Ludington. Twice the camp has been held at the latter place and as the ground is well known to the old officers, there would be less interest and instructiveness in the brigade maneuvers. Whether the Michigan troops are invited to join in another federal camp depends on the attitude of the war department.

Will Visit Penal Institutions.

Attorney General Bird will soon visit the various penal institutions of the state to inspect the work being done therein so that he may more intelligently advise the warden and prison boards as to what employment is prohibited under the recent decision of the supreme court. In a case brought by the broom makers' union the court recently decided that broom making in the prisons of the state is contrary to the provisions of the constitution prohibiting the teaching of mechanical trades to convicts. Questions as to whether haking and cigar-making are mechanical trades are being presented to the attorney general, who is desirous of ascertaining the conditions that prevail in the prisons before giving an official opinion on this important question. It is evident that all trades now in competition with prison labor will follow the example of the broom makers and endeavor to enjoin the prison authorities from pursuing them in the prisons.

For New Primary Election Law.

The primary election law will be the subject of amendment in the next legislature, it is expected. A proposed amendment that is being discussed and which will probably receive favorable consideration is one which would do away with more than one primary in state election years. It is now provided that on governor and lieutenant governor the vote shall be taken in June, and for county candidates and in the legislative and congressional districts, in September. It has been proposed that the June primary be eliminated, and have the governor and lieutenant governor nominated in September or on some other date suitable for all offices.

Holds Great Camp Not Liable.

Anthony Kaminski, who was injured while being initiated into Belle Isle tent, Knights of the Modern Macabees, brought suit and recovered judgment, but in the supreme court the judgment was set aside and a new trial ordered. Suit was commenced against the great camp. The supreme court holds that the men who roughly used the plaintiff during his initiation cannot be held to be the agents of that order. It is intimated, however, that if suit had been commenced against the subordinate tent, or the persons conducting the initiation a different question would be presented.

Gives Power to Governor.

The supreme court has held that the law empowering the governor to appoint county drain commissioners in place of those selected by boards of supervisors is constitutional, reversing the decision of Judge Minor, of Livingston county. A judgment of ouster was ordered entered by the court against Eugene T. McClellan, of Livingston county, who was in office when the new law was enacted and who was elected by the supervisors. The office goes to William Alexander, the governor's appointee.

Two Funds to Benefit.

Attorney General Bird has advised Auditor General Bradley that the penalties paid by the railroads for failure to pay their taxes promptly must be credited to the primary school interest fund which is to be apportioned by the state in November, and that the interest on the railroad taxes and penalties should be credited to the general fund. As the penalties collected amount to about a million and a quarter dollars the November apportionment of the primary school money will probably be at the rate of $11 or $12 per capita, instead of $10, as previously announced. The interest on the primary school moneys, a large portion of which has been in the state treasurer's hands since last May, will amount to about $150,000, and will be credited to the general fund.

May Build Speedway.

Park Commissioner Breitmeyer may build a speedway on the Western boulevard speedway of Detroit, between Holden and McGraw avenues. The German Protestant league directors and several citizens owning property adjoining the boulevard sought to restrain Robert E. Bolger, at that time park commissioner, from building the speedway, which was to be about five-eighths of a mile long and occupy a part of the boulevard therefore given over to a grass plot. Six thousand dollars was appropriated for the purpose. The supreme court affirmed the decision of the lower court in dismissing the bill for an injunction, saying that the important question is whether the proposed speedway is in contravention to the uses of a public boulevard.

Warm September Weather.

With an average temperature for the month of 67.46 degrees, a maximum of 92 and a minimum of 41 degree, the month just past has been the warmest September in 22 years. In September, 1884, the average temperature was 53.100ths higher. The warmest September on record was in 1881, when the average was 71.33 degrees, the maximum 99 and the minimum 47 degrees. The average for 27 years was 62.06 degrees. The last month holds an interesting record in the fact that on six days the temperature exceeded 90. This was on the 9th, 11th, 12th, 17th and 18th. The rainfall of the month was only 74.100ths of an inch, while the average rainfall in September for 27 years has been 2.99 inches.

Bonds of School Treasurers.

It has been ascertained by the special reports received by the department of public instruction that in fully 1,000 school districts of the state treasurers have given no bonds whatever, and in 3,000 to 4,000 districts the bonds were inadequate. In the state there are 7,267 districts. The department is now taking steps to assist the school officers in complying with the law before the large apportionment of school money is made.

This city already leads all others in the manufacture of gasoline engines, having 20 factories in which explosion engines are manufactured.

PENINSULAR HAPPENINGS

MEMBER OF CHARIVARI PARTY KILLS A DOCTOR WHO WAS PASSING.

WHO FIRED FATAL SHOT?

A Mysterious Suicide—A Tell-Tale Letter Discloses Secret Marriage—Various Matters.

Dr. Frank Conover, aged 24, was killed in Ellis Junction, Menominee, by a random shot fired by a member of a charivari party. A heavy charge from a shotgun tore a great hole in his leg, from which he bled to death in an hour. The doctor was passing the crowd on the way to visit a friend.

The charivari party was composed of both boys and men, who were intoxicated and all armed. They fired hundreds of shots and had the whole neighborhood terror-stricken. The doctor evidently thought they were firing blanks.

Dr. Conover was a member of the local Masonic chapter and was a well known sportsman and crack shot. He was unmarried. He came from Plymouth, Wis., where his family is prominent.

No Cause Known.

C. S. Johnson, an assistant superintendent of the Michigan Telephone Co., who committed suicide by taking carbolic acid in a hotel in Houghton, Mich., Tuesday night, lived in Detroit, with his wife.

Mrs. Johnson cannot explain her husband's act, as he had written cheerful letters home, saying he expected to be back shortly, when he and his wife were to start housekeeping.

Johnson had been with the telephone company 15 years and for 3 years was manager of the Detroit branch. His finances were in good shape and friends and relatives say there were no family troubles.

A Secret Marriage.

Schoolmates together, friends in later years, then lovers, Charles Stone, a popular Flint musician, and Miss Florence Minor, a belle of Frankfort, Ind., culminated their love affair by eloping from the home of the bride last June and going to Indianapolis, where they were wedded. The secret of their marriage leaked out in Flint by the chance opening by another party of a letter addressed to Mr. Stone from his bride. The contents disclosed that Mrs. Stone would arrive in Flint Sunday to join her husband, who would meet her in Detroit.

Mrs. Stone is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Minor, prominent residents of Frankfort.

Found Master Dead.

An old and faithful hunting dog, owned by Sammy Greenski, a famous Indian hunting guide, Sault Ste. Marie, led a party from Chase S. Osborne's camp through the woods to where the dead body of his master lay. Greenski had been accidentally shot while returning from a duck hunting trip.

The dog bounded into camp, greatly excited and began barking and wheeling toward the woods, giving every sign he could without speaking, that help was needed, and he would show the way. When one of the party started toward the dog he wheeled and made off through the woods like a shot. The woodsman followed him and the Indian's dead body, still warm, was found. The dog had lapped the blood from his master's wound, and when the party reached the dead Indian's side, the dog was affectionately licking his face.

Unique Point of Law.

Henry Hartzell, of Ravenna, serving a 30-day sentence in the county jail for being drunk and disorderly, has brought up an interesting point that may be of great moment to judges throughout the state.

Hartzell says that he was arrested, arraigned before a Ravenna, Muskegon county, justice, sentenced and brought to Muskegon and confined in jail all while he was so drunk he didn't know his own name. He says he should have had an opportunity to defend himself and that it is legally unlawful for the authorities to arraign him when he was not in his right mind. He threatens to bring suit against the county.

Crushed to Death.

While attempting to board a moving elevator in Mercy hospital in Bay City, Clare Neely, aged 21 years, an employe for the past week as an orderly in the institution, was instantly killed Monday. He was caught across the abdomen, and his body almost severed. His parents, in Mason, were notified.

By a peculiar circumstance, almost exactly two years ago to the hour his older brother, Louis, was washed overboard and his body never recovered. His father, Solon D. Neely, is a civil war veteran.

Swank Withdraws Charge.

Because Clyde Swank withdrew his charge against them, Mrs. Corda Swank and Will Smith, who were held to the circuit court in St. Joseph, have been released from jail. Smith was suspected of knowing something of the murder of Lloyd A. Dynes, of Galet, but Sheriff Tennant was unable to secure evidence to hold him on a charge of murder.

In a runaway accident Mrs. Frederick Balke had her limb penetrated by one of the thills of the buggy. It entered just above the knee and emerged about one foot lower. Several ribs were broken and she may not recover. Her paralytic daughter, who accompanied her, escaped uninjured.

Formal charges of manslaughter have been made against Henry Girard, Henry De Lorge and Henry Rivet, in Bay City. Prosecuting Attorney Orr says that he has three witnesses who tell that these men were galloping the team that ran down and killed Corlanna Hebert Wednesday evening.

MICHIGAN NEWS.

Robbed the Stage.

In the very heart of the district terrorized by the White Cloud bank robbers ten days ago, two men, who are believed to have been members of the same gang, held up a stage in true Jesse James fashion, secured $150 in cash and stamps, and escaped.

The stage runs between Bately and Volney, northwest of White Cloud, in Newaygo county. It was five miles from Volney at 11 o'clock Monday morning when two men stepped from the scrub and ordered Driver Cassidy to throw up his hands.

While one covered him with a gun the other went through his pockets and rifled the mail bags. Cassidy had just received his quarterly remittance of $50 and had with him $100 in stamps to replace those stolen from the Volney postoffice recently. These were taken.

After robbing the stage the men changed their shoes for rubber-soled tennis shoes and went toward White Cloud. One had a Winchester and the other a shotgun.

Where's Swanson?

The Flint police have been notified of the unaccountable disappearance of Gus Swanson, a well-known and well-to-do German farmer, from his home near Otterburn. Swanson left the farm Saturday morning, stating that he was going to Flint to purchase some sheep, and not hearing from him his wife communicated on Monday with Sheriff Zimmerman.

The missing man had $200 with him and this fact has given rise to the suspicion that he may have met with foul play. A search made in Flint failed to elicit any information concerning the missing man, and it was reported from Otterburn that no news of his whereabouts had been received by his family. Swanson's domestic relations have been pleasant, and there is no known reason why he should voluntarily remain away from home.

Northport's Fire Loss.

The village of Northport was nearly wiped out by fire Monday afternoon. The principal losses were Northern hotel, $10,000, insurance $6,000; H. E. Gill's general store, $18,000, two-thirds insurance; Carl Schroeder's residence, $5,000, partly insured; John Nelson's residence, $1,500; car ferry dock and warehouse, $15,000.

The fire started in the hotel, a frame structure, spread rapidly to the other buildings and ran through to the bay. Had the wind been in the opposite direction every building in the town would have burned. The village had only a bucket brigade, which was powerless. Traverse City sent a steam engine and hose company on a special train.

Preferred Death.

Miss Lella Simmonds received a note Monday morning from her sister, who resides near her north of Wolf creek, requesting her to come over in a couple of hours as she was feeling badly. The sister did as directed and was surprised to find the house locked up.

In starting to leave for home she happened to notice that the cover had been removed from the cistern, and looking in she saw the body of her sister. In the house was found a note to the sister and one to the husband, who had gone to Onsted on business, informing them that she had been ill so long that she could not stand it any longer, and thought she might as well be dead as alive.

Suicide Story Doubtful.

Herman Moechel, who was mysteriously shot and killed at the farm home of his father, Charles Moechel, in Watrou township, Jackson county, Wednesday, was a student for one week at the Sachaw German Lutheran seminary. The rules there are very strict. There has been no hearing, but it is suspected that Moechel, who was intending to become a minister, may have found the discipline too severe for his liking. He soon returned to his home. His brother, Carl Moechel, is still a student in the seminary.

The Moechel family says there was no cause for suicide by their son. When he left the house he said he was going to shoot owls in the barn. After the first shot he was found dead with a wound over his heart.

Buck Sawyer's Death.

William Sawyer, better known in Jackson as "Buck" Sawyer, died in the city hospital of morphia poisoning taken with suicidal intent early Tuesday morning. While in Frey & Bollinger's saloon late last night he called out: "Good by, boys," and drained a bottle of poison. His purpose was not suspected at the time.

"Buck" Sawyer was a local character. He achieved some local prominence by thrashing "Tug" Wilson, who ran the town some years ago. He served through the Spanish-American war, fell in love with an estimable girl on his return, reformed and married her. They separated a few months ago, and since then "Buck" went to the bad. He was 38 years old.

Grief Led to Suicide.

Wm. Brown, janitor of the Coldwater public library, slashed his throat early Thursday morning in the library. He was nearly dead from loss of blood when found, but was taken to Emergency hospital and may recover. He told his son-in-law he was going to commit suicide, but the latter thought nothing of it. He bought a new jack-knife for the purpose. He has been acting queerly ever since the death of his wife.

William Gray, Bay City, machinist, aged 53, fell down a stairway to the ground and was instantly killed.

Civil service examinations will be held October 17 for the position of meat inspector in the bureau of animal industry in the following places: Grand Rapids, Manistee, Marquette, Escanaba and Sault Ste. Marie.

THE SQUIRES VISITOR

By L. A. HARKER.

"The squire is a terrible old man!" said the new parson, shaking his head. "I pointed out to him that for his coachman to beat his wife causes a scandal in the village, and implored him to remonstrate."

"And what did he say?" asked Aunt Susan.

"Oh, he smiled politely, and begged to point out that he had interfered between a man and his wife more than once in his life, and that trouble had always come of it; therefore he intends to interfere no more. It seems the man Jeffs is kind enough to his wife when he's sober."

The new parson looked inquiringly at Aunt Susan. She, too, shook her head, remarking:

"The squire is incorrigible. This very coachman got drunk last election day. So the squire pulled him off the box, and put him inside the carriage. Then, mounting the box himself, he called out to the crowd—there's always a crowd outside the King's Arms on election day—'He's driven me home many times when I've been drunk, so now I'll drive him home!' and so he did."

"That was kind!" answered a new voice, a clear, young voice.

Aunt Susan started. "Why, Mellory, child, I did not know you were here. Run away, dear; I don't want you just now."

But Mellory ignored her aunt, and, standing in front of the new parson,

"Beat the Coachman, Then!" exclaimed Mellory, triumphantly.

demanded, "Is the beaten wife much hurt?" And who beat her, the squire or the coachman?"

"The coachman, my dear, since you've heard so much, but it's not a pleasant subject for little girls."

Mellory looked at the parson with some scorn, then slowly and with dignity left the room.

Aunt Susan gave a sigh of relief as the door closed. "She is my nephew's only child, and lost her mother two years ago. She is always with him, and terribly spoiled."

"Then they changed the subject, and both Mellory and the squire were forgotten."

Mellory, however, didn't forget. Fully conscious of her influence in her own sphere, where she ruled Dad and the friends who frequented the big study, with a rod of iron, she decided to go herself to remonstrate with the squire. "I'll teach him it's horrid to beat wives—anybody's wife!" she said to herself, and she trotted down the road. The squire's big gates stood open, and she turned down the drive, which seemed very long. But presently she came in full view of the great square house. On the lawn, under the shade of an immense tulip tree, sat an old gentleman—Mellory, feeling sure it was the squire, walked slowly across the grass towards him. Her sun-bonnet had fallen back, masses of brown curls clustered round the hot, pink cheeks, and her brown eyes were shining. A big deer hound, lying at the squire's feet, rose as she approached, and sniffed at her. Laying a little brown hand confidently on its collar, she and the dog faced the squire together.

"What is your name?" abruptly demanded the squire.

"Oh, my name is Mellory. You don't look very wicked!" she added, quickly.

The squire sat up in his chair.

"What made a good little girl come to see such a wicked old man, eh?"

"Oh, yes; because you are, you know!"

"Who told you I am wicked?"

"Well, people seem to think so, and so do I if you approve of beating a wife."

"What?" almost shouted the squire; but Mellory was not in the least alarmed. Calmly seating herself upon his knee, she continued: "You encourage your coachman to beat his wife. I wish you wouldn't; it isn't nice, really?"

"So that's what they say, is it?" laughed the squire, and his voice was not quite so pleasant this time. He put his arm round Mellory, asking, "Do you believe it?"

Mellory looked into his face; and then she said decidedly, "No, I don't. You are more like a knight than a squire—a right worshipful knight," she added softly.

The squire shook his head, and his face grew sad as he said: "Alas! No, I'm not that. I might have been—once! What made you come to see such a wicked old man, eh?"

"I'm not good here. I am at home; but Aunt Susan's goodness is different somehow, and I can't do it. Perhaps you can't be good here either?" she suggested.

The squire muttered something and then stopped. There was silence for a minute, till Mellory asked, "Do you love your coachman very much?"

"Well, no; I can't say I love him. He's been a good servant to me."

"Tell him he mustn't beat his wife. He would pay attention to you."

"Do you always pay attention to what you are told?"

"Well, no," said Mellory, rather slowly; "but I don't beat people."

"Neither do I," said the squire, "though I should often like to."

"Beat the coachman, then!" exclaimed Mellory, triumphantly, "then he'd know what it's like."

"Egad!" said the squire, stopping his unoccupied knee. "It's an excellent idea, I will."

Mellory put up her face, and the squire was satisfied by kisses on both cheeks. Then she got off his knee, saying, "I'm glad I came; I don't believe you are a bit wicked, really!"

He looked very sad as he answered, "Try and believe the best of people, always, my dear; then you will grow up as good as you are pretty, and as happy as you are both."

Mellory did not understand exactly what he meant, but she realized that he was not very happy, so she said again, "I'm glad I came; we shall always be friends!"

"I wonder," mused the squire. He walked with her to her aunt's gate, and as he waved his hat or leaning her, she called after him, "You look a right worshipful knight, anyhow!"

He stood in the middle of the road to wave his hat once more, and to look back at the little figure standing in the sunshine. Then he turned into his own great gates, where the drive lay all in shade, like his heart.

LOOK TO THE FUTURE

In considering the proposition of selling the lighting plant which the city council may submit to a vote of the people at the election next month, it is very important that the citizens and voters of this city should consider the future of the plant and of the city.

The lighting plant as it is running now is paying off its bonded indebtedness and at the same time making extensions and improve-

In a few years the bonds will be paid off and with the new improvements which the plant will have made, the citizens of this city will enjoy a better light rate than would be possible from any corporation. There is no reason why the Escanaba Municipal plant cannot furnish its patrons with as good a rate as the Gladstone Municipal plant after the needed extensions are made and the bonds paid off.

The annual fall harvest of death has begun on the Great Lakes. The steamer Pasadena was caught in a big blow on Lake Superior Monday and went to pieces. Several members of her crew, including the captain, were rescued. The remaining three members of the crew are believed to have perished.

The Philadelphia manager of Armour & Co, one of the members of the so-called "beef trust" has been arrested for using boric acid in curing hams. Subpoenas will be issued for the heads of the firm in Chicago to ascertain whether the meat is "doctored" in Chicago or Philadelphia.

One man instantly killed, a boy fatally injured and half a dozen other spectators more or less badly bruised, was the harvest of death and injury reaped during the Vanderbilt automobile cup race last Saturday.

The accident which nearly cost Olive Gelzer his life near Lathrop last Sunday only emphasizes the fact that people cannot exercise too much care in the handling of firearms.

Humphreys' Specifics for Children

The introduction of Humphreys' Specifics into the home is often through the children. When your child comes in from play, hot and feverish; and after being in bed, is restless, tosses and unbles about, a dose of Humphreys' Specific Number One, quiets the child and the chances are largely in favor of the little one waking in the morning perfectly well and happy. Thus serious fevers and sickness may be prevented by keeping this Specific in the house.

Nervous Worn-Out

If you are in this condition, your nerve force is weak - the power is giving out, the organs of your body have "slowed up," and do their work imperfectly. This failure to do the work required, clogs the system and brings distress and disease. When the nerves are weak the heart is unable to force the life-giving blood through your veins; the stomach fails to digest food; the kidneys lack power to filter impurities from the blood, and the poisonous waste remains in the system to breed disease. Nerve energy must be restored. Dr. Miles' Nerve will do it, because it strengthens the nerves; it is a nerve medicine and tonic, that rebuilds the entire nervous system.

"Several years ago I was all broken down. I was nervous, worn-out, could not sleep, and was in constant pain. I doctored for months, and finally the doctor said he could do nothing for me. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve, and used altogether eight bottles, and I became strong and healthy, and now weigh 120 pounds." - H. C. CUNNINGHAM, 108 Ellsworth Ave., Allegheny, Pa.

Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

GARDEN

Frank Krause, agent for the National Harvester Company, was in the village the past week settling business matters for that corporation. He reports business in this line good.

The society of St. Jean Baptiste of which the young man was a member, turned out in a body and paid their last respects to their departed brother.

Morris Weiss of Baileys harbor Wis. recently appointed to the position of 2nd assistant keeper at St. Martin's Island light house was in the village on the 6th, for the purpose of taking his official oath of office.

Joseph Jaque, an old time Garden boy now holding a position in the Globe hotel at Escanaba, has been talking over old times the past week with his many friends in this village. Times are not the same now in Garden, as they were in our day, Joseph.

Rev. Fr. Dassylva, at one time located at Garden, but now in charge of the Catholic church at Shafter is spending a short vacation with old friends in this place. He has gone up into the woods for a hunting trip with the two Napoleon Bourdeau's father and son. Hope they have a good time.

The funeral services of William Moran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Moran of this village who was accidentally killed at Nahma last week, were held at the Catholic church the 5th. The afflicted parents have the heartfelt sympathy of their friends and neighbors in their hour of bereavement. This is the fourth time they have been called upon to mourn the loss of a son or daughter within the last three years.

The farmers of Garden and vicinity are certainly playing in hard luck. For the last two seasons hay, (their principal crop) has been selling at $6.00 and $7.00 per ton, a price that hardly paid them for harvesting and pressing. This fall when hay is selling at a good price, they have no shipping point. The dock at Vans Harbor is the only dock within twelve miles at which a boat can stop, or from which they could ship their produce. And it has been used by the public for that purpose for the past twenty years or more. Now the company that bought out VanWinkle this summer and who own the dock, flatly refuse to allow a ton of hay shipped over their dock. The company claims that they will buy all the hay, the farmers have for sale. They allow the dock open for passenger and other freight traffic but no hay can be shipped over it. This leaves the farmer the choice of hauling his hay to the Soo R. R. sixteen miles away, or to Fayette twelve miles. Or they can take whatever price the company chooses to pay them for it, or they can let it rot in the barn. One buyer here tells me that he had 1,000 tons contracted for among the farmers of Garden to be shipped to Escanaba and other points but the company told him plainly that he could not ship a ton of it over their dock. This may be a "square deal" but it doesn't look that way to the Port correspondent. We won't try to express any opinion on the matter, don't think we could do it justice, language would fail us, and it wouldn't look very well in print anyway.

A "Coney Island" hunting trip was the order of the day for some of our young men last Sunday. Cast of characters: John Frechette, captain; Carl Huss, helmsman; Louis Douglas, first mate; Bert Kendall, "whoa" man; John Hutt and George Welch appointed as a committee to regulate the day's proceedings. The order of the day was to simply sit still and say nothing. Slogan of the party, "Who threw the slant sandwiches on the lower deck?" When after a few attempts to locate the mouth of Bark River a good lunch at an extra trip to Coney Island, Garden City, up a sand hill etc., the party at last breakfasted at the Cottage. And what a breakfast and dinner! After that the slaughter of the feathered tribe was something terrible. It's time to say "Whoa."

Mr. Cole did not care to take a mark with the colt but in one heat at the Menominee fair his horse drove the winner out in 21:19 time which was the best mile made by any horse at either of the fairs. Mr. Cole is satisfied that his colt can go faster with better track conditions than existed at Menominee.

GERONIMO TELLS THE STORY OF HIS LIFE

Geronimo, untamed man killer, un-reconstructed savage, wily, blood-thirsty and cruel, now an aged, helpless, dying prisoner, has told the complete story of his life. His autobiography, which has been edited for him by S. M. Barrett, with full permission and consent of the war department, is about to be published. It makes a long, weird and intensely interesting story, as will be noted by portions reproduced here, says the New York Herald.

Mr. Barrett, after gaining the confidence of the old Apache, led him to tell of his birth, his early days and his warfare on other Indians and palefaces.

Of his battles with Miles and Crook, of what he calls the injustice done to the Indian, the old savage writes:

"Perhaps the greatest wrong ever done to the Indians was the treatment received by our tribe from the United States troops about 1852. The chief of our tribe, Mangus Colorado, went to make a treaty of peace for our people with the white settlement at Apache Tejo, N. M. It had been reported to us that the white men in this settlement were more friendly and more reliable than those in Arizona, and that they would live up to their treaties and would not wrong the Indians.

"Mangus Colorado, with three other warriors, went to Apache Tejo and held a council with these citizens and soldiers. They told him that if he would come with his tribe and live near them they would issue to him, from the government, blankets, flour, provisions, beef and all manner of supplies. Our chief promised to return to Apache Tejo within two weeks. When he came back to our settlement he assembled the whole tribe in council. I did not believe that the people at Apache Tejo would do as they said and therefore I opposed the plan, but it was decided that with part of the tribe Mangus Colorado should return to Apache Tejo and receive an issue of rations and supplies. If they were as represented, and if these white men would keep the treaty faithfully, the remainder of the tribe would join him and we would make our permanent home at Apache Tejo. I was to remain in charge of that portion of the tribe which stayed in Arizona. We gave almost all of our arms and ammunition to the party going to Apache Tejo, so that in case there should be treachery they would be prepared for any surprise. Mangus Colorado and about half of our people went to New Mexico, happy that now they had found white men who would be kind to them, and with whom they could live in peace and plenty.

Claims Comrades Were Slain.
"No word ever came to use from them. From other sources, however, we heard that they had been treacherously captured and slain. In this dilemma we did not know just exactly what to do, but fearing that the troops who had captured them would attack us, we retreated into the mountains near Apache Tejo.

"During the weeks that followed the departure of our people we had been in suspense, and, falling to provide more supplies, had exhausted all of our store of provisions. This was another reason for moving camp. On this retreat, while passing through the mountains, we discovered four men with a herd of cattle. Two of the men were in front in a buggy and two were behind on horseback. We killed all four, but did not scalp them; they were not warriors. We drove the cattle back into the mountains, made a camp and began to kill the cattle and jack the meat.

"Before we had finished this work we were surprised and attacked by United States troops, who killed in all seven Indians—one warrior, three women and three children. The government troops were mounted, and so were we, but we were poorly armed, having given most of our weapons to the division of our tribe that had gone to Apache Tejo, so we fought mainly with spears, bows, and arrows. At first I had a spear, a bow and a few arrows, but in a short time my spear and all my arrows were gone. Once I was wounded, but by dodging from side to side of my horse as he ran I escaped. During this fight we scattered in all directions and two days later reassembled at our appointed place of rendezvous, about 50 miles from the scene of this battle.

Fought With Rocks and Clubs.
"About ten days later the same United States troops attacked our new camp at sunrise. The fight lasted all day, but our arrows and spears were all gone before ten o'clock and for the remainder of the day we had only rocks and clubs with which to fight. We could do little damage with these weapons, and at night we moved our camp about four miles back into the mountains, where it would be hard for the cavalry to follow us. The next day our scouts, who had been left behind to observe the movements of the soldiers, returned, saying that the troops had gone back toward San Carlos reservation.

"A few days after this we were again attacked by another company of United States troops. Just before this fight we had been joined by a band of Chokonen Indians under Cochise, who took command of both divisions. We were repulsed and decided to disband.

"After we had disbanded our tribe the Bedonkohe Apaches reassembled near their old camp, vainly waiting for the return of Mangus Colorado and our kinsmen. No tidings came save that they had all been treacherously slain. Then a council was held, and as it was believed that Mangus Colorado was dead I was elected tribe chief.

Geronimo then relates the tale of his capture by American scouts, of his imprisonment for four months and his subsequent release. He continues:

Fearing Further Imprisonment.
"In the summer of 1883 a rumor was current that the officers were again planning to imprison our leaders. This rumor served to revive the memory of all our past wrongs—the massacre in the tent at Apache Pass, the fate of Mangus Colorado, and my own unjust imprisonment, which might easily have been death to me. Just at this time we were told that the officers wanted us to come up the river above Geronimo to a fort (Fort Thomas) to hold a council with them. We did not believe that any good could come of this conference, or that there was any need of it, so we held a council ourselves and, fearing treachery, decided to leave the reservation. We thought it more manly to die on the warpath than to be killed in prison.

"There were in all about 250 Indians, chiefly the Bedonkohe and Nedni Apaches, led by myself and Whoa. We went through Apache Pass, and just west of there had a fight with the United States troops. In this battle we killed three soldiers and lost none. "We went on toward Old Mexico, but on the second day after this United States soldiers overtook us about three o'clock in the afternoon and we fought until dark. The ground where we were attacked was very rough, which was to our advantage, for the troops were compelled to dismount in order to fight us. I do not know how many soldiers were killed, but we lost only one warrior and three children. We had plenty of guns and ammunition at this time. Many of the guns and much ammunition we had accumulated while living in the reservation, and the remainder we had obtained from the White Mountain Apaches when we left the reservation.

"The troops did not follow us any longer, so we went south almost to Casa Grande and camped in the Sierra de Saharipa mountains. We ranged in the mountains of Old Mexico for about a year, then returned to San Carlos, taking with us a herd of cattle and horses.

Horses and Cattle Seized.
"Soon after we arrived at San Carlos the officer in charge, Gen. Crook, took the horses and cattle away from us. I told him that these were not white men's cattle, but belonged to us, for we had taken them from the Mexicans during our wars. I also told him that we did not intend to kill these animals, but that we wished to keep them and raise stock on our range. He would not listen to me, but took the stock. I went up near Fort Apache and Gen. Crook ordered officers, soldiers and scouts to see that I was arrested. If I offered resistance they were instructed to kill me.

"This information was brought to me by the Indians. When I learned of this proposed action I left for Old Mexico, and about four hundred Indians went with me. They were the Bedonkohe, Chokonen and Nedni Apaches. At this time Whoa was dead, and Naiche was the only chief with me. We went south into Sonora and camped in the mountains. Troops followed us, but did not attack us until we were camped in the mountains west of Casa Grande. Here we were attacked by government Indian scouts. One boy was killed and nearly all of our women and children were captured.

"That night we held a council of war; our scouts had reported bands of United States and Mexican troops at many points in the mountains. We estimated that about two thousand soldiers were ranging these mountains seeking to capture us.

Interview with Gen. Crook.
"Gen. Crook had come down into Mexico with the United States troops. They were camped in the Sierra de Antunez mountains. Scouts told me that Gen. Crook wished to see me and I went to his camp. When I arrived Gen. Crook said to me, 'Why did you leave the reservation?' I said: 'You told me that I might live in the reservation the same as white people lived. One year I raised a crop of corn, and gathered and stored it, and the next year I put in a crop of oats, and when the crop was almost ready to harvest you told your soldiers to kill me in prison, and if I resisted to put me if I had been let alone I would now have been in good circumstances, but instead of that you and the Mexicans are hunting me with soldiers.' He said: 'I never gave any such orders; the troops at Fort Apache, who spread this report, knew that it was untrue.' Then I agreed to go back with him to San Carlos.

"It was hard for me to believe him at that time. Now I know that what he said was untrue, and I firmly believe that he did issue the orders for me to be put in prison or to be killed in case I offered resistance.

"We started with all our tribe to go with Gen. Crook back to the United States, but I feared treachery and concluded to remain in Mexico. We were not under any guard at this time. The United States troops marched in front and the Indians followed, and when we became suspicious we turned back. I do not know how far the United States army went after myself and some warriors turned back before we were missed, and I do not care.

Capt. Lawton in the Field.
"Soon Gen. Miles was made commander of all the western posts, and troops trailed us continually. They were led by Capt. Lawton, who had good scouts. The Mexican soldiers also became more active and more numerous. We had skirmishes almost every day, and so we finally decided to break up into small bands. With six men and four women I made for the range of mountains near Hot Springs, New Mexico. We passed many cattle ranches, but had no trouble with the cowboys. We killed cattle to eat whenever we were in need of food, but we frequently suffered greatly for water. At one time we had no water for two days and nights and our horses almost died from thirst. We ranged in the mountains of New Mexico for some time; then, thinking that perhaps the troops had left Mexico, we returned. On our return through Old Mexico we attacked every Mexican found, even if for no other reason than to kill. We believed they had asked the United States troops to come to Mexico to fight us.

"South of Casa Grande, near a place called by the Indians Gosoda, there was a road leading out from the town. There was much freighting carried on by the Mexicans over this road. Where the road ran through a mountain pass we stayed in hiding, and whenever Mexican freighters passed we killed them, took what supplies we wanted and destroyed the remainder. We were reckless of our lives, that Gen. Miles was the chief of the American troops, and I decided to treat with him.

"I sent my brother Perico (White Horse) with Mr. George Wrattan on to Fort Bowie to see Gen. Miles and to tell him that we wished to return to Arizona; but before these messengers returned I met two Indian scouts—Kayitah, a Chokonen Apache, and Marteen, a Nedni Apache. They were serving as scouts for Capt. Lawton's troops. They told me that Gen. Miles had come and had sent them to ask me to meet him. So I went to the camp of the United States troops to meet Gen. Miles.

Gen. Miles' Promises.
"When I arrived at their camp I went directly to Gen. Miles and told him how I had been wronged and I wanted to return to the United States with my people, as we wished to see our families, who had been captured and taken away from us. Gen. Miles said to me: 'The president of the United States has sent me to speak to you. He has heard of your trouble with the white men, and says that if you will agree to a few words of treaty we need have no more trouble. Geronimo, if you will agree to a few words of treaty all will be satisfactorily arranged.'

"Then he talked with me for a long time and told me what he would do for me in the future if I would agree to the treaty. I did not hardly believe Gen. Miles, but because the president of the United States had sent me word I agreed to make the treaty and to keep it. Then I asked Gen. Miles what the treaty would be. Gen. Miles said to me: 'I will take you under government protection. I will build you a house. I will fence you much land. I will give you cattle, horses, mules and farming implements. You will be furnished with men to work the farm, for you yourself will not have to work. In the fall I will send you blankets and clothing, so that you will not suffer from cold in the winter time. "There is plenty of timber, water and grass in the land to which I will send you. You will live with your tribe and with your family. If you agree to this treaty you shall see your family within five days.'

Agreed to Make Treaty.
"I said to Gen. Miles: 'All the officers that have been in charge of the Indians have talked that way, and it sounds like a story to me; I hardly believe you.' He said: 'This time it is the truth.' I said: 'Gen. Miles, I because we felt that every man's hand was against us. If we returned to the reservation we would be put in prison and killed; if we stayed in Mexico they would continue to send soldiers to fight us; so we gave no quarter to any one and asked no favors. "After some time we left Gosoda and soon were reunited with our tribe in the Sierra de Antunez mountains.

Skirmishing Every Day.
"Contrary to our expectations the United States soldiers had not left the mountains in Mexico, and were soon trailing us and skirmishing with us almost every day. Four or five times they surprised our camp. One time they surprised us about nine o'clock in the morning, captured all our horses (19 in number) and secured our store of dried meats. We also lost three Indians in this encounter. About the middle of the afternoon of the same day we attacked them from the rear as they were passing through a prairie—killed one soldier, but lost none ourselves. In this skirmish we recovered all our horses except three that belonged to me. The three horses that we did not recover were the best riding horses we had. "Soon after this scouts from Capt. Lawton's troops told us that he wished to make a treaty with us; but I knew do not know the laws of the white man, nor of this new country where you are to send me, and I might break their laws.' He said: 'While I live you will not be arrested.' Then I agreed to make the treaty. Since I have been a prisoner of war I have been arrested and placed in the guard-house twice for drinking whisky. "We stood between his troopers and my warriors. We placed a large stone on the blanket before us. Our treaty was made by this stone, and it was to last till the stone should crumble to dust; so we made the treaty, and bound each other with an oath.

"I do not believe that I have ever violated that treaty, but Gen. Miles never fulfilled his promises. "When we had made the treaty Gen. Miles said to me: 'My brother, you have in your mind how you are going to kill me, and other thoughts of war; I want you to put that out of your mind and change your thoughts to peace.'

"Then I agreed and gave up my arms. I said: 'I will quit the warpath and live at peace hereafter.'

"Then Gen. Miles swept a spot of ground clear with his hand and said: 'Your past deeds shall be wiped out like this and you will start a new life.'

The Latest Styles in Coats

THREE-QUARTER LENGTHS TO BE IN FAVOR.
Paris Already Has Set Stamp of Approval on the Garment—Especially Adapted for Woman of Slender Figure.

Novelties to Be the Feature of Season.
Unique and Pretty Dress and Toilet Accessories to Delight the Smart Woman.

It is early in the year to speak of winter fashions, but it is certain that very long three-quarter length coats will be first favorites when Tout Paris returns to the gay capital, writes Idalia de Villiers.

At the Deauville races and on the planches at Trouville I saw a number of these coats in Irish lace and Venetian guipure, and the same style will be worn all through the winter. These coats are cut after the fashion of the picturesque garments worn by Louis XVII. They are shaped to the figure, but they do not fit tightly. They have large pockets and turned back cuffs, but they are not so ornate as the coats worn in the time of Louis XIV.

On a tall, moderately slender figure a coat of this order is a thing of real beauty. It has a careless grace of its own, and it is delightfully comfortable. One the other hand the short, stout women must avoid this fashion. It will cut her figure in a most unbecoming manner and take away from her inches.

Sack coats are still very popular, but when winter comes we shall find their place taken by the semi-tight coats I have just described.

With the Louis XVII. coats it is necessary to leave the fronts open and loose, therefore the blouse or bodice underneath must be specially attractive and well made. For morning wear we shall have long, perfectly tight, redingotes—buttoned up in front like a riding habit. With these a severely plain blouse must be worn and an exquisitely neat collar and tie.

The redingote is specially beloved of Parisiennes and they always manage to look most attractive in that particular style of costume. Perhaps this is because they are naturally very neat, as regards their hair and their neck arrangements.

KEEPS THE PURSE SAFE.
Simple Contrivances Does Away with Irritating Losses.

If every purse were provided with the device of which we give a sketch, the number of purses lost yearly would be much smaller. It is easily made and sewn on to any handbag or purse, and renders loss almost impossible. It consists of a loop of cord sewn on to each side of the purse. Over this loop of cord a good sized bead is slipped, and a ring (a small key-ring will answer the purpose), is sewn at the end of the loop so that the bead cannot slip off. The sketch shows this clearly. Through the upper portion of the loop of cord the hand is passed, and then if the bead is raised it will tighten the cord round the wrist, and the purse then is safe from being lost, snatched, or laid down and forgotten.

Plaid Petticoats.
Attractive workaday petticoats for the women who are too hard on silk ones to subject them to daily trials are made of mohair in pretty Scotch plaid effects.

Most of them are rather somber, except for a thread of yellow which may lighten the whole piece. And lots of plaid silk petticoats are being made up now to wear with fall and winter suits, some of them made to match the shirtwaist.

Beads.
Everything feminine wears beads, and the shops are yet full of dangling strings beseeching buyers. Lovely colorings are shown this year—pale, translucent rose, yellow amber, currant red, mauve and lavender, and the strikingly chic green jade, as well as the exquisite pinkish white coral.

Dainty new things shown in shops will delight smart women and young mothers who go shopping now, for there are so many unique and pretty dress and toilet accessories for both grown-ups and infants. Ribbon corsets are among the novelties this fall, and they are so beautifully made of rows of wide satin that every member of the fair sex who has seen one immediately wants to possess such an article of dress if only to use on special occasions. These corsets are exquisitely made, with each ribbon overlapping the one below and held securely in place by hand embroidered daisies, fleur de lis, a tiny bunch of lily of the valley or a rosebud. At the top there is an edging of narrow baby ribbon filled on, or a piece of sheer Valenciennes or Cluny lace gathered to make a fitting finish. In white ribbon these corsets are delicate enough for a bride, but for practical use the ones made of gray, light tan or even a delicate shade of light blue or dainty pink will be most serviceable.

Figured silk garters will be worn by fashionable women. Not like the narrow plain ones that were formerly used for hard wear but artistic kinds made of pretty colored silks gathered and smoked so that they are decidedly decorative. Instead of being about an inch wide, as the styles of a year ago, these new ones are at least three inches in width, with an edging of narrow baby ribbon or of Valenciennes lace. In black with yellow rosebuds or in white with purple orchids these silk garters are stunning when gathered, pleated or smoked in the latest fashion.

To be in keeping with the tailored waists to be worn this coming season, the neckwear on display is more severe than it has been for several years, and the modish collars are patterned like the men's, except that they are prettily decorated with hand-embroidered scroll designs, or dainty floral devices, either natural or conventional. In sheer linen these collars—turnovers about an inch and a quarter high—are attractive and will be exceedingly becoming to women with long thin necks, as they are to be worn close to the throat. With these collars a tie of some description is essential for a finish, and as lingerie bowknots or short four-in-hands are the most convenient to tie, they will be used exclusively. If daintily made of hand-woven lace, or a combination of handkerchief linen and sheer Valenciennes, these bowknots or the larger ties are effective when properly arranged on the collar.—N. Y. Tribune.

STYLES FOR THE BABIES.
Fashionable Little Ones Are Now Wearing Sweaters.

Sweaters for babies are the newest thing that young mothers can buy for the fall wear of their little ones. These garments, made on the same lines as those worn by grown-ups, will be most serviceable for use before it is time to put on heavy winter wraps. The sweaters are made with simple stitches in white wool, with a narrow border of pink or blue around the cuffs and neck, or in light blue or delicate pink with white borders. Some are made vest-like, cut quite low at the neck with the edges bound with silk, while others have the regulation turtle neck such as athletes wear. These go on over the head, and as they fit tight to the body need no button fastenings.

In strong contrast to these outdoor garments are the beribboned frocks that little ones will wear indoors this fall. These dresses, made of eyelet embroidery, are decidedly elaborate, being trimmed with wide satin ribbon in blue, pink or white. On either side of the waist in front and back there are two broad pieces of ribbon, extending from the neck to the waist. These join a ribbon belt that matches and ties in front and back with bows having four or five loops.

A Home Desk.
In the home the busy housemother needs a business desk without going to the expense of a "roll-top." A settle table can be turned into a desk, using the seat part for the keeping of larger account books and extras. On top may be placed file cases, made by a handy brother, either in the shape of two high boxes or as two shelves the length of the table, to be set upon it at the back, not nailed to it, in case it be desirable to move it. Paint it with a dark green or a dull black paint, and you have a neat piece of furniture at small cost, which really looks quite gay when good desk ornaments are placed on it—ink well; pen tray, blotting pad, stamp box, postal card and telegraph cases.

USE FOR MIRRORS.

CAN BE MADE TO SEEM TO INCREASE SIZE OF ROOM.

A Little Care Taken in the Placing of Them Will Frequently Work Wonders—Should Reflect Door or Window.

To increase the apparent size of a room there is nothing better than the judicious use of mirrors.

Supposing that you have a glass about five feet high and two wide, in a wooden frame, you may employ it most decoratively in a sitting room.

Mount it about a couple of feet from the floor and arrange in front of it a row of ferns, palms or other foliage plants, concealing the pots with a handsome box, filled in at the top with fresh moss.

The mirror should be placed either where it will reflect the view from the window or else opposite the entrance of the room, so that when the door is opened one may see the hall, or passage beyond, reflected in it. Of course, the room will not be any larger really, but the fact that it will appear so is a great point, for, as a friend of my own says, "If we cannot have a pleasant illusion."

I know one house where the dining-room is long and dark, and the only window gives a very insufficient light, says a writer in the Chicago American. Here an immense improvement was effected by placing a good mirror over the sideboard at the end of the room opposite the window.

This reflected the light and the landscape seen from the window, with the result that one was almost deluded into the belief that the room had two windows, and one certainly was not conscious of the want of an outlet.

TRIO OF MENU FEATURES.

Good Dishes for a Small Luncheon or Family Meal.

Bowl rice in salted water until tender; then drain and mix in white hot one teaspoonful of butter; then pour over a sirup in which pears have been boiled, a little lemon juice and preserved ginger being added. Mold up on a dish and set away to become cold. Arrange the cooked fruit about the mold and in the center of each half place a little whipped cream.

A combination of cheeses makes a novel stuffing for celery. Equal parts of Roquefort, Camembert and cream cheese are crushed together in a mortar. Sherry is added until the mixture is of the consistency of thick mayonnaise. This is then spread in the stalks of celery, which have been previously separated and trimmed, if needed, to suitable lengths.

Cook one cupful fine cut celery in boiling salted water until tender, then drain. Place a half pint of oysters in their own liquor in a saucepan over the fire and cook until plumped, season with salt-spoonful salt and a little less pepper. Mix a teaspoonful flour with a tablespoonful butter, stir into the oysters and add a quarter cup rich milk. Add the celery to the oysters, then pour over buttered toast.

Pretty Curtains.

Very effective curtains may be made that are not forever in need of the washtub and stretching poles, as are those of muslin and lace. Buy a thin grade of glass-cloth for about 25 cents a yard. Cut it to hang straight from the top of the window on each side, with a deep hem at the bottom.

Then make a stenciled border across the bottom, or reaching one-half way up the curtain, of a simple design. Apply the color over the design with navy blue diamond dye. Do not trouble yourself to boil it. Simply mix a spoonful of the dye with water. These curtains will not wash, but they remain clean for a considerable time, and may be easily shaken to free them from dust and pressed with an iron.

The Empire Comb.

The old-fashioned empire comb in plain shell has once more returned to fashionable favor. Just at present it seems to be the stylish caprice for women with blonde or light brown tresses to wear these and their side-combs in dark tortoise shell.

The plain part of these combs is about two inches wide. They are most attractive when worn rather high in the hair close to the knot.

Stiffness in hair-dressing seems the thing to be especially avoided, an easy natural style being preferable.

Physical Culture.

It should give a perfectly erect, poised figure.

A straight, flat back. A broad, deep and capacious chest. Uplifted, flexible and harmonious development of all the muscles. Perfect ease and grace of movement. Marked muscular powers and endurance.

Splendid health. Bright, sparkling eyes. Perfect digestion. A love of activity. A voice of notable, clear quality and power.

Baked Tomatoes Stuffed With Rice.

Cut a thin slice from the blossom end of the tomato, take out the seed and fill with boiled rice and a little butter; bake one-half hour. Chopped meat added to rice is also good. Toatoes stuffed with a dressing of bread, butter and seasoning is fine.

"A SMALL THING."

Do you believe in progress? Do you believe that all the wonderful achievements of the nineteenth century—the railroad, the telegraph, the telephone, electric light, kerosene, sewing machine, agricultural machinery, steamships, trolley cars, etc.—have made life easier and better worth living? I do. I believe that a man who lives 40 years under modern conditions has experienced more life and better life than Methusalem, though he had lived 20 centuries of his time.

The triumphs of the nineteenth century were triumphs of human service—the placing of knowledge and the fruits of knowledge within the reach of the common man. Every man's life is better, happier, more secure because of them. We live more comfortable, more sociable lives in better and more comfortable houses because of them. Even the hopeless dweller in the worst city slums is more comfortable in his physical conditions than the middle-class citizen of the days of George Washington.

In little things as in great, comfort and convenience have been the legacy of the "Century of Improvement." Paint, in a certain sense, is a minor matter, yet it gives beauty, healthfulness and durability to our dwellings. Fifty years ago painting was a serious proposition, a luxury for the owners of stately mansions who could afford the expense of frequent renewals. Today ready mixed paint is so cheap, so good, and so universal that no house owner has an excuse for not keeping his property well painted.

A small thing, indeed; yet several hundred large factories, employing thousands of chemists and skilled workmen, are running every day in the year to keep our houses "fresh, clean and wholesome."

A small thing, yet a can of good ready mixed paint, such as one may buy from any reputable dealer, embodies the study of generations of skilled chemists, the toil of a thousand workmen in mill, laboratory and factory, and the product of a long series of special machinery invented and designed just to make that can of paint and to furnish us an infinite variety of tints, colors and shades.

It was a wonderful century, that nineteenth of our era, and not the least of its wonderful gifts was that same commonplace can of paint.

What He Most Wished For.

Joan Fiske, the American historian, was an ardent lover of music and himself no mean musician. Furthermore, he was extremely corpulent and felt the hot weather painfully. He was once delivering a course of lectures at a summer school in a small city of the middle west. The heat was terrific and adjoining the house where the lecturer stayed was a church where an ill-matched but zealous "quartet" practiced and performed during all hours of the torrid afternoons and evenings. One evening, seeing the famous man sit for a time unoccupied and apparently oppressed by this combined affliction, the young daughter of his hostess attempted to divert him by offering him a new novel, just becoming popular. "I think 'The Choir Invisible' is perfectly splendid, Mr. Fiske," said she. "Wouldn't you like to read it?" The historian put the book aside. "My dear young lady," said he, "the only choir in the world in which I could feel any interest at this moment would be the choir inaudible."

Condemn Daytime Naps.

Prolonged "winks" during the day are severely condemned by many doctors on the ground that they affect one's regular sleep. Scientists have found that in the ordinary course in the human being there is the greatest vitality between ten a. m. and two p. m., and the least between two o'clock and six o'clock in the morning. Long sleeps during the day interfere with this order of nature and sometimes affect various organs, causing headache. The nap of 40 winks, but only 40, proves refreshing to many because it is too short to have any injurious consequences.—London Telegraph.

LOOSE TEETH.

Made Sound by Eating Grape-Nuts.

Proper food nourishes every part of the body, because Nature selects the different materials from the food we eat, to build bone, nerve, brain, muscle, teeth, etc.

All we need is to eat the right kind of food slowly, chewing it well—our digestive organs take it up into the blood and the blood carries it all through the body, to every little hook and corner.

If some one would ask you, "Is Grape-Nuts good for loose teeth?" you'd probably say, "No, I don't see how it could be." But a woman in Ontario writes:

"For the past two years I have used Grape-Nuts Food with most excellent results. It seems to take the place of medicine in many ways, builds up the nerves and restores the health generally."

"A little Grape-Nuts taken before retiring soothes my nerves and gives sound sleep." (Because it relieves irritability of the stomach nerves, being a predigested food.)

"Before I used Grape-Nuts my teeth were loose in the gums. They were so bad I was afraid they would some day all fall out. Since I have used Grape-Nuts I have not been bothered any more with loose teeth."

"All desire for pastry has disappeared and I have gained in health, weight and happiness since I began to use Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Get the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

PROPER USES OF POWDER.

Protection to the Skin and a Means of Natural Beauty.

There are women who do not believe in the use of powder. Why? Well, they were not "brought up" to use it, and they hold to the biased opinion that "the habit is foolish and tawdry and damaging to the cuticle." This kind of reasoning went out of fashion when it was discovered that powder is a protection to the skin and a means of natural beauty as well. To protect the skin from the ravages of temperature means the preservation of natural beauty—see?

Use a first-rate brand of powder. Don't use the sort made pernicious by minerals that fairly corrode the skin. Get a brand that is finely bolted and has a disinfectant quality along with a refreshing influence. Use plenty of it, but not too much!

Before you go into the weather put cold cream on your face. Gently rub the cream into the skin. Then wipe the cream off—after which apply the powder with a soft cloth or piece of chamols. The powder puff is a good thing to use when you want to refresh the face. But when you are preparing it to fare into the weather, use the cloth or chamols.

Always remove powder from the face at night before you retire. You can not wipe powder off with a damp cloth, nor can you wash it off with cold water. Give the face a bath with a suds made of water and a fine toilet soap. Then rinse all the soap off the cuticle.

The application of cold cream before you retire is another story.—Chicago Journal.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Deep breathing will tend to decrease the size of the abdomen.

The skin, especially that of the face, should be treated as the finest china, tenderly and delicately.

Before applying a poultice cover the skin slightly with glycerin to prevent any particles from adhering.

Don't torture your eyes, but humor them, for if ill-treated they revenge themselves by making formidable wrinkles and crow's feet.

Shoes that are too large sometimes slip and cause the heel to blister. To prevent this fit the heel of the shoe with a piece of velvet.

If a finger has been pounded or crushed, plunge it into water as hot as can be borne. This will relieve the pain more quickly than anything else. One teaspoonful of glycerin to a tablespoonful of boiling water taken ten minutes before meals is said to be a certain cure for indigestion.

For a bruise the best treatment is an immediate application of hot fomentations. After that, witch hazel, vinegar and hot water, or alcohol and water, put on with a bandage and often moistened.

The hands should be well massaged, every finger separately, with olive oil every night, and soft suede gloves two sizes too large should be worn. The tips of the fingers must be cut out, and a small hole must be cut in the palm.

FANCY WORK FOR CHRISTMAS.

Theater Bag a Charming Gift Not Hard to Make.

Now is the time to get together patterns and materials for the fancy work which is to turn into Christmas gifts. The theater bag makes a charming little gift which may be adapted to old or young, as it is carried out in gray, white or black. It is embroidered in beads and spangles.

Use heavy silk or soft suede, and work in the dots with beads and the rest of the pattern in oblong and round spangles. The bag is made alike on both sides and has a fringe of beads added to it as a border.

With gray silk use steel beads and silver spangles; with black use jet and black spangles; or, a dainty and beautiful bag may be made with white or yellow silk done in yellow or gold beads and gold spangles.

Pretty bits of brocade and light weight bits of furniture tapestry also make lovely bags by following the woven pattern in putting on the bead-work. Steel chain and clasp should be used for the gray, gilt for the yellow, and gun metal for the black.

Glass Candlesticks.

Glass candlesticks are much more in demand now. The pressed glass can be had at remarkably low prices, while the cut glass is not prohibitive in price. Many persons object to touching any brass object, and also dislike the labor of cleaning brass. Glass is more desirable on this account, and looks very pretty upon the dining table, either with or without shades.

It is growing to be more and more a glass age. Glass shelves are used in cabinets and china closets, and in up-to-date bathrooms even the tub is of heavy glass.

A Good Furniture Polish.

Take equal parts of beeswax and white wax and shave up fine; then cover wax with spirits of turpentine; let stand a while, then mix to a paste. Rub on furniture with a small woolen cloth, then polish with large woolen cloth. This is fine; try it; nice for floors also.

Vest is Fashionable.

Ladies are going to wear waistcoats this winter, which they call by the plebian name of vests. Orange velvet, embroidered in brown and such like combinations are some of those that have already been seen. The artistic woman will be sure to have something very pretty in the vest line.

NO REST NIGHT OR DAY.

With Irritating Skin Humor—Hair Began to Fall Out—Wonderful Result from Cuticura Remedies.

"About the latter part of July my whole body began to itch. I did not take much notice of it at first, but it began to get worse all the time, and then I began to get uneasy and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies that were recommended for skin humors; but I became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time. Especially at night, just as soon as I would get in bed and get warm, my whole body would begin to itch and my finger nails would keep it irritated, and it was not long before I could not rest night or day. A friend asked me to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I did, and the first application helped me wonderfully. For about four weeks I would take a hot bath every night and then apply the Cuticura Ointment to my whole body; and I kept getting better, and by the time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured, and my hair stopped falling out. D. E. Blankenship, 319 N. Del. St., Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27, 1905."

New York's Great Ocean Trade.

New York is the second great seaport of the world. In 1903 over $9,000,000 tons of imports and 8,700,000 tons of exports were cleared through New York harbor. London is the greatest seaport, exceeding New York in imports, though not by exports. Antwerp and Hamburg are third and fourth, respectively.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh of the Bladder. It is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Remarkable Double Wedding.

A remarkable double wedding has been celebrated in a Viennese church. A manufacturer named Muller married a widow, while at the same time his son married the widow's daughter. Thus the father becomes the father-in-law of his own son, and the mother also the mother-in-law of her daughter.

Cheap Excursions South.

On the 1st and 3rd Tuesday of each month the Big Four Ry. will sell excursion tickets to most all points in Virginia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia at rate of one fare plus $2.00 with return limit 30 days. Liberal stopover privileges. Write I. P. Spinning, General Northern Agent, Big Four Route, 235 Clark St., Chicago, for further information.

Evangelists Torrey and Alexander are under engagement to conduct meetings next winter in the following cities: Nashville, Omaha, Winnipeg, Buffalo, Pittsburg and Montreal.

Washing Windows.

The method of washing windows has changed very much of late. Have a pair of lukewarm suds made from Ivory Soap. Dip a soft cloth in the water; squeeze almost dry, and wipe the glass off. Then polish with chamols as it leaves no lint and does the work with more ease.

ELEANOR R. PARKER.

The most important events in the average man's career are his birth and death.

Smokers appreciate the quality value of Lewis' Single Binder cigar. Your dealer or Lewis' Factory, Peoria, Ill.

About two-thirds of a man's friends are enemies in disguise.

Hurt, Bruise or Sprain. St. Jacobs Oil relieves from pain. People with real troubles never advertise them.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

A Scranton Woman Tells How Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Made Her Well and Strong.

Nervous debility is the common name for what the doctors term neurasthenia. It is characterized by mental depression; fits of the "blues," or melancholy, loss of energy and spirits. The patient's eyes become dull, the pink fades from the cheeks, the memory becomes defective so that it is difficult to recall dates and names at will. Some of these symptoms only may be present or all of them. The remedy lies in toning up the nervous system and there is no medicine better adapted for this purpose than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Jane J. Davies, of No. 314 Warren street, Scranton, Pa., says: "Some years ago I became greatly reduced in health and strength and my nervous system became so debilitated that I felt wretched. I could not rest or sleep well at night and woke up as weary and languid in the morning as I was when I went to bed. My head ached in the morning and often there was a pain in my right side which was worse when I sat down. My nerves were on edge all the time, every little noise bothered me and I was generally miserable. Then I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, as my husband had taken them with good results, and they did wonders for me. Now I have no more pain in my side, no more headaches, I sleep well and feel strong and able to do my work."

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter.

In those good old-fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies, calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields, and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out, and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among them.

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price, as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were too much for the large real-estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time, the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until today Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study, and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of woman's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-earned knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With woman assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

CONDITION NOT SERIOUS

"Dr. A. Defnet" Writes Letter From Ann Arbor to Parents of Benjamin Kratze.

Escanaba students at the University of Michigan are coming in for their share of the experiences with the class rushes. Several Escanaba freshmen have been already given the usual degrees imposed by the sophs. Among them are Clarence Lehr and Horace Atkins whose pictures appeared with other freshmen in the Detroit Journal last week. Benjamin Kratze has also been receiving some attention from the sophs and this week his parents received a note from "Dr. W. A. Defnet" assuring them that although their son had come in for his share of the bumps yet his condition was not serious and that there would be no need to worry.

Following is the letter:
"Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 7, 1906.
Mr. and Mrs. I. Kratze and family:
Just a little note to explain the injuries sustained by your son Benjamin in the recent class rush, as follows: two abrasions on left arm, with several unimportant scratches, arm very stiff, can not use it freely, but expect he will use it in contrast tomorrow. His chest is sore from climbing trees and remaining in trees for a couple of hours with soaking wet clothes, shins and knees badly bruised from attempting to imitate the graceful squirrel at climbing also his mind is unsettled, due I presume, from the meagre facts I gathered, that he proposed to several girls, was forced to kiss their hands and in one instance was compelled to kiss one old woman's foot.

The patient is resting, and is getting along nicely, I expect to have him in shape to attend classes Monday morning, charges to follow. Trusting that you will not be worried, as there are many others in his condition, I am,
Yours respectfully,
"W. A. Defnet, M. D."

WORK WEAKENS KIDNEYS

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Escanaba

Most Escanaba people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk—riding on jolting wagons on cars—doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken or injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs. Escanaba cures can prove it.

Oscar Glavin, miner of 329 No. Murry St., Escanaba, Mich., says: "I never a remedy which acts so beneficially in such a short time as Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me of an old chronic case of backache from which I had suffered for years in spite of trying all kinds of remedies. I have seen times that I had to quit work and come home simply on account of the pain in my back. It was so severe at times that I thought that my back would come unjointed. I was told about Doan's Kidney Pills and sent to the Mead Drug Co's store and got a box, and their use as directed helped me from the start. I had not used one whole box before my trouble had left me. I have had never had a backache since I took Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
