

FREAKS OF CONSCIENCE.

An Instance When the Silent Monitor Caused a Thief to Repent. Constant readers of newspapers may have observed that a curious epidemic of conscience often follows the commission of a great crime.

THE JUNIOR'S RIGHT.

How the Youngest-Born is Always Favored in Song and Story. The wide range of junior-right is one of the most remarkable discoveries of recent anthropological science.

Mrs. Cleveland's Double.

Mrs. Cleveland has her double in Washington. The lady is Miss Mullen. She is employed in one of the departments, and the joke of the resemblance is that Miss Mullen has been innocent of it until quite recently.

One More Failure.

A man who appeared to be about sixty years old, accosted a patrolman at the Central Market yesterday with: "Sir, I desire to speak a few words with you."

LITERATURE FOR BOYS.

How to Get a Lad to Read and How to Get Him to Read Proper Books. Dr. Johnson, who said first and last a good many clever and practical things, observes in relation to what he rather quaintly calls "getting a boy forward in his learning."

There are manifestly two things to be considered, to get the boy to read and to get him to read proper books. For the first of these desirable things the receipt of Dr. Johnson can not be surpassed.

How to combine the two ends, that of having the lad read whatever will interest him, and having him read what will beget in him taste for desirable books, is a question which will have to be answered differently in each individual case.

GUILLOTIN'S MACHINE.

When French Society Looked Upon It as an Amusing Toy. And yet it is evident that the guillotine was not at first a terror-inspiring object. One General of the revolutionary army had a guillotine engraved on his seal.

THE SOUTHERN TORTOISE.

Prof. Shaler Describes Some of the Habits of This Queer Reptile. Here and there, but rarely, perhaps, in one amid a hundred of these mounds, we find the place where the reptile entered the ground.

Love in a Cottage.

Love in a cottage. How sweet that sounds! When we think of it we see a cozy little dining-room with a cozy little dining-table, seated before which are the loving young couple.

Indian Sense-Training.

A powerful argument in favor of training the senses is the following account of the skill with which Indians judge of distance and direction. It also shows how this ability is acquired.

Adulterated Food in Paris.

The municipal laboratory in Paris appears to be doing solid work in the way of inspecting, making analyses of and passing judgment on the various articles of food that enter into the daily consumption of the metropolis.

HINTS ABOUT QUILTS.

An English Journal Breaks a Lance in Defense of Patchwork. In these days of art decoration and superior needle-work, patchwork is looked upon with horror by a great many people, but not so by all.

SACRED LITERATURE.

Little Messages Found on the Blank Leaves of a Hymn-Book. I suppose it is not conducive to a proper religious frame of mind, but when I find myself in a strange church, or in a strange pew, I invariably look at the blank leaves of the hymn-book.

Anti-Tipping Association.

"The question of tips is at length to be seriously grappled with," says the St. James' Gazette. "A German psychologist has taken it in hand, and has constructed an elaborate plan for its solution."

It Moved Him to Tears.

"And this," exclaimed the tourist from New England, wiping his spectacles and looking from the summit of the Mount of Olives with a long-drawn, quivering sigh at the city of Jerusalem spread out before him.

Battle of Michigan.

A trace to all your babble of democat's defca, And how their men were slain by scores...

Don and the bard forgathered upon that bloody day, And from a lofty height looked down upon the bloody fray.

Don raised his glass unto his eye and turned it to the south— (As a general rule a glass don't pass a democat's mouth);

"But how is Kent?" he questioned; and ah! his face grew black— "Belknap astride of Weston and Weston on his back?"

"In sheer disgust he turned his indignant face away; Pouncing his binocular to the cities on the bay—

"But Tarnsey seems to falter upon the river banks; He hesitates as though he were of old-time vim bereft—

"That's Hor's force on the right of Tim and Bliss is on the left." All eagerly the glass was turned above the stormy straits,

"Kind fortune smiles propitious," quoth Don in pleasant mood, "The gutters of the city run full of beer and blood;

"All round the rural districts an ominous war cloud rolled; The meeting house and school house bell were frantically tolled;

"At last he interjected: "Our name is Mud, we're gone." For bursting from the dust-cloud roughriding farmers sweep

"Fall in the front rode farmer Luce upon a Southdown ram— He's of a lamb-like nature, so he loves his foes to lamm—

"It came down hard, that final charge," said Don with sullen frown; "But for all the final charges the grangers must 'come down."

"THE MEWLING postoffice kid" is the phrase by which the N. Y. Press indicates our own Don M. That's a good reason for non-intercourse, and basis for a libel suit. Go for it, Don.

"THE Chamberlain-Endicott wedding came off on the 15th. We observe that while the reporters all know and give the age of the groom not one of them alludes to that of the bride.

SOME FOOL starts a yarn that the British government will endeavor to reinstate Sackville when the new administration comes into power. Why President Harrison should be more kindly disposed toward him than Grover, whom he tried to help, is not stated.

F. R. ANDERSON, a trusted employe of A. Booth & Sons, for whom the fishing steamer "Anderson," in use in our waters, was named, died on Wednesday of last week.

A. W. TOURNER, author of "A Fool's Errand," and "Bricks Without Straw," and a voluminous writer on the topics of the day, was not employed as a speaker by the republican national committee because he refused to be limited to one topic.

NOT CLEVELAND himself, nor Waterloo R. Burt is half so badly whipped as Don M. Dickinson. The place he holds, the seniorship he hoped for, even the leadership of the forlorn democracy of Michigan "gone glimmering," there is left for him only the refuge of all wrecks like him, a residence in New York city up as it did Sam Cox.

ONE DR. BUSHNELL, a woman, was engaged four months in an investigation of the woods broths of Northern Wisconsin and makes report in the True Idea, the organ of the W. C. T. U. of that state. She found 59 such places, containing 575 women, and says they are as filthy and brutal as such places can be.

"A FREE VOTE and a fair count" sounds right. In a republic it would appear to be a condition necessary, but as demanded of the communities of the union the population of which is largely composed of ex-slaves there is difficulty.

A southern gentleman who holds a high office under the administration said: "I have heard very little from people in my state about their hopes and fears for the future, but I know there is a wide and deep feeling of dejection and solicitude."

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES of the 51st congress will be composed of 166 republicans and 159 democrats and of the latter ten or more will act with the republicans in matters pertaining to the tariff.

THE NORTH CHICAGO Rolling mill company now uses oil for fuel under its boilers with satisfactory results. The oil used is from the Lima, Ohio, district, delivered at South Chicago by the pipe line built during the past summer.

FRENCH Canadians are moving for annexation to the U. S. Their organ, the Electeur, published at Quebec, comes out boldly in favor of the proposition. If the question is once submitted to the people of the Dominion there is little doubt that they will decide in favor of annexation.

CHRISTIAN COUNTY, Mo., should be renamed. It is the habitat of the "Bald Knobbers" and the bloodiest patch of ground in the country. The boss of the gang is under sentence of death for murder and last week five of the persons upon whose evidence he was convicted were hanged by his partisans and three others compelled to flee the county to escape a similar fate.

HANNA & AREHEART have come into possession of the plant and good will of the old Democrat, at St. Ignace, and commenced the publication of a five column quarto called the News. They make their paper neat in appearance and newsy and call it independent in politics, and the IRON PORT wishes them all success, but there are too many printing offices and too many papers in Mackinac county and some of them must starve.

JUDGE RUCKER, of Colorado, says that the president, in his presence and that of Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, said certain things derogatory of Hill, Hewitt, Hugh Grant and other New York democrats. Blackburn says that Rucker is "a fool and a liar" and that God owes mankind an apology for having created him. Friends of the senator say there will be no duel.

WHEN Crystal Falls republicans jubilated D. C. Lockwood (who had earned the honor by good work as chairman of the county committee) was selected to fly the eagle, and he just turned the old bird loose, for keeps, and sent it at the democracy with hooked beak and curving talon, to grasp, and tear and slay. He pictured "the party of protection in battle array," its lines extending from ocean to ocean and from the lakes of sweet water to the briny and tepid gulf that washes our southern shores.

THE CHICAGO police, which is probably better informed concerning the anarchistic plans and schemes than any other in America, is of opinion that the centennial of the destruction of the bastille, July 14, '89, will be celebrated by them by uprisings in the chief cities of Europe and America, but not in Chicago.

IT BECOMES evident that the supply of fuel gas in western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio is falling and that a return to the use of coal is inevitable.

SWEDISH ore, from the newly opened mines at Gellivara, is displacing in English and German markets the Bilbao ore heretofore used. It is higher in metal and lower in impurities.

NOW, MYRON Mc CORD may claim to be "a strong man" in his district—the 9th Wisconsin—having out run the electors, by a thousand votes, instead of having been towed by them.

"BLAINE is going to be secretary of state we told you so," shout the democratic fuglemen. All right, if the president wants him in that position. We don't know a better man for it.

TOM BARRY'S appeal to the K. of L. convention did him no good—the convention sustained the action of the executive committee (i.e. Powderly), by a vote of 122 to 24, so T. B. B. is out, to stay.

CHARLEVOIX folks have just heard of the loss of the Leonard Hanna which has been on Fox Island beach a year or more. She has gone all to pieces and a part of her stern drifted ashore at Charlevoix.

NOW, TIM is mad, clear through. The Canadian government has raised the export duty on sawlogs to $3 per M and he must saw his fifty million feet of logs in Canada or contribute $150,000 to the Dominion treasury.

THE H. of L. convention refused to hear Tom Barry shoot his mouth, which was wise. Now, if it will put Powderly under bonds to write no more letters it may have a fighting chance for its life—it will certainly earn the good will of the newspaper crowd.

MRS. HELEN M. GOUGAR gets a little che-riosity (which seems to be necessary for her comfort) by challenging Mr. Blaine to a talking match. Helen is ambitious; her home reputation is not enough for her, but she tackles the wrong man. Sam Cox is her huckle-berry, or Train.

CAPT. W. E. DICKINSON, we learn from the Florence Mining News, is to exchange the superintendency of the Commonwealth mine for that of the big Colby on the first proximo, succeeding Capt. Sellwood. His successor, at the Commonwealth, has not yet been selected or, if selected, not named.

JUDGE RUCKER, of Colorado, says that the president, in his presence and that of Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, said certain things derogatory of Hill, Hewitt, Hugh Grant and other New York democrats.

PROF. WILLIAM D. MARKS, of the University of Pennsylvania, who was one of the experts appointed by the court to investigate the Keely motor, reports: "In the course of my investigation, after I had made three visits to the shop of Mr. Keely, during which time I carefully watched all his manipulations, I became convinced that the source of his alleged power was compressed air located in a cylinder which he called an 'expansion tube.'"

THE PEASHTO mills are both shut down for the winter. The editor ran for the legislature and was beaten, as many a good man has been before. That's the whole story. Now give us a rest. Stephenson's Island mill, Witbeck's, the Marquette Co's, and Merryman & Co's mills are idle and the others will be tomorrow. Too much ice in the river. A broken crank-pin in the R. L. Co's mill let the engine "run through itself," knocking out cylinder heads and doing other damage.

THE ONE HOPE of the political prohibitionists was to inflict a second defeat of the republican party, and thus force it to adopt their plan of dealing with the evils of the liquor traffic as a part of its national policy. The success of the republicans is a sore blow to the third party. It shares in the defeat of the democrats, for even its leaders know that they have not the smallest hope of getting that party out of its alliance with the liquor interests.

ESCANABA, MICH., NOV. 24, 1888.

School Column.

KIRK SPOOR, CONDUCTOR.

Last Friday was the day for the girls to furnish the entertainment. Their programme was good, and they felt satisfied that they had beaten the boys. We admired their way of writing the programme on the board thus saving announcements.

A number of visitors were present, and seemed to enjoy it.

A week from Friday afternoon the boys will make an effort to do as well if not a little better.

It is impossible to make of all pupils good scholars. There are persons born with strong physical development that can not confine themselves to study, and to expect of them good scholarship is useless. I can call to mind a number of pupils that would have made good housekeepers that could not make good scholars. They were born for something else.

Some years ago a teacher in a large school, had among his pupils two or three girls that gave him more trouble than all the rest of the school. They were not bad girls, good hearted, excellent at play, but endowed with a strong physical nature, enjoying physical games and pleasures, they had never learned to control their natural activity. The teacher was nervous and noise and confusion annoyed him and made him worse.

He told the girls that upon their behavior depended his ability to keep the school during the remainder of the term. It was a foolish thing to do, for girls as well as boys have no respect for weakness and in this case seemed to act worse than ever. These girls thoughtlessly, of course, thought, "He is only talking, he will not become sick," and perhaps they did intend to do better, but it is easy to forget. One of them had a mother that deprived herself of many comforts and did her own work on a large farm to allow her girl to go to school in the hope of making a teacher of her but term after term went by and she failed to obtain a certificate. The next term she would renew her efforts and have good intentions, but they were not lasting. At recess she would play with zeal, one would think her a smart pupil. She would begin to study so hard, her lips buzzing loudly all the time, for five minutes, then a thought would come into her head, she remembered something that would not keep a minute, she must tell her seat mate and away she would go. So it was day in and day out until the teacher fairly hated the sight of her. Before the teacher had finished his term he dropped from his desk and left the school room. He felt hard towards these girls, charging them with his trouble and during his feverish dreams they were constantly his tormentors. Pondering over the matter, he thought he would tell their mothers that he could not have them another term, that it was useless to try to do anything with them. His heart was full of bitterness.

One day there was a rap at the door, a quick entrance of two or three pupils, eager to see him expressing their feelings sorrowfully, and leaving a basket of choice fruit and other delicacies. It touched his heart and he thought, "Other men may hold grudges but teachers have no place for them."

I tell this story for many teachers feel that pupils are purposely annoying and do things willfully, when, in reality, it is only a natural tendency or thoughtlessness. Teachers should hold no grudge.

Eight of the bodies taken from the Rochester Lamp Works were so burned that they could not be identified.

The Catholic knights of America, in convention at Mattoon, Ill., chose Peter McGrath president and Bishop Ryan, of Alton, spiritual director.

Colquitt was re-elected to the senate from Georgia. Brady, the editor of the Atlanta Constitution, refused to be a candidate, and Colquitt had a walk over.

Kino's first wife was Carrie Kensler, of this city. The Van Nostrand homestead has been bought and will be converted into a hospital. H. B. Huffman will give a thanksgiving dinner to all Mexican veterans who may present themselves at the Huffman house, Fort Howard. Wm Paranteau and Julia A. Young were married Wednesday. Judge Brown, of Wrightstown, died Thursday. Frank Hagan, Jr., and W. J. Lander have each a broken arm.—Advocate, Green Bay.

GROVER, it is said, proposes to saddle "Dan" upon the country, for life, while he has the power to do so, by making him judge advocate of the army, vice Swaim. As the position is one that "Dan" could fill well enough we do not know that any one will kick, and it is rather creditable to Grover to take care of one who has been of so much service to him: shows a sense of gratitude which the president has not been supposed to possess.

WASHINGTON wisecracks forecast the president's message, which he has gone to his country place to prepare, as a reiteration of the one of last December. Should the event prove them correct it will but verify the saying, with regard to the Bourbons, that they forget nothing and learn nothing. If after the verdict of the people as to him and his assault upon the tariff, he orders another charge he shows not only pig-headed stubbornness but a fatuity greater than his severest critic has ever charged to him.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Intense excitement was occasioned this morning by the report of an attempted murder in the Whitechapel district. An enormous crowd rushed to the vicinity of the crime as the news spread. According to the story of the intended victim of the would-be murderer, the man seized her and struck her once in the throat with a knife. Her cries alarmed him and he fled. The neighbors heard her cries and saw the man fleeing. They gave chase and followed him about three hundred yards when he disappeared from view. The woman claims she would be able to recognize him and gave a description of him to the police. The latter are hopeful of capturing him.

This is the tenth in the series of Whitechapel atrocities by the same man and the first in which the murderer has failed to accomplish his purpose. The victims were all women, all horribly mutilated, and the crimes extend over space of six months and more, from the 3d of last April.
