FIRE WIPED OUT ALL BUILDINGS AT LEMAY FARM

WILL BLAME BIG BILL

(Special to Morning Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 6.—Members of congress are not at all satisfied that the "big stick" which was welded so effectively during the Roosevelt administration is going to become a dust-covered relic in the executive offices at the White House.

The stick has been swishing through the air for a week past. Members of the house who have particularly doubtful districts to look after are feeling more hopeful about their political future as a result of the attitude of the president, and many of them are already preparing campaign literature to prove that they voted for the tariff bill only because it was the president's desire that they do so.

With the tariff bill a thing of law and the animosities of conference and debate all but forgotten, the "tariff builders" sat with the President at dinner in the state dining room of the White House. The high-ceilinged, tapestry paneled chamber never held a merrier throng. It was Mr. Taft's celebration of the end of the tariff fight and his farewell dinner of the season.

POLICE READY FOR BIG STREET CAR STRIKE IN "CHI"

(Special to Morning Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 6.—The vote of street car union men, which is the heaviest ever recorded in Chicago in a similar situation, is said to be almost unanimous in favor of a strike.

Reports are current of concessions contemplated by the company and of an amicable settlement in case, despite the temper of the employees.

Police actively are preparing for a strike, men on furloughs are recalled, special details are held in readiness, and an order is given for 500 additional stars, clubs and patrol box keys.

BAT NELSON SUES BIG HOTEL CONCERN

(Special to Morning Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 6.—Battling Nelson began a suit in the United States District Court to recover $10,000 damages from the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

The action is based on alleged discrimination indicated by the action of the Bellevue-Stratford management in twice refusing to provide the prize fighter with accommodations at the hotel.

In the bill of allegations, Nelson claims that the Bellevue-Stratford management has injured and brought him "into scandal, injury and disgrace."

EATS STOVE POLISH PUDDING, BUT LIVES DESPITE STRANGE DOSE

(Special to Morning Press.)

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 6.—Grandma scolded so that Mrs. Lily Martin, recently parted from her second husband, made a pudding last night which she hoped would place her forever beyond the reach of the old lady's rebukes.

She took a teacup full of bluing another of stove blacking, a heaping tablespoonful of carbolic acid and half a cup of starch.

At Red Cross hospital, the doctors, used the stomach pump.

Flames Starting From Defective Chimney in House Spread to all Surrounding Structures

FINE HORSE BURNED

Farmers of District Made Strong Fight to Save Property but all Efforts Were Fruitless

Fire which started from a defective chimney in the house yesterday wiped out all of the buildings at the farm of Joseph LeMay at Misery Bay. All of the contents of the house and barn together with a valuable horse, tied in the stable were lost and the property was but partially insured. The farm was leased by Fred Frederickson, who recently moved from Escanaba and whose loss is particularly heavy.

The fire started shortly after noon near the chimney in the house and before it was discovered had gained great headway. Fanned by a strong breeze off the bay and with the roof and timbers as dry as tinder nothing could be done to stop its progress. While those fighting the fire were making an effort to save some of the furnishings in the house flying brands of fire were carried to the barn and other outbuildings.

Before the fire fighters realized the danger every building on the place was ablaze. A determined effort to enter the stable where a valuable horse was tied, was made but the intense heat drove back the men and the horse perished in the flames.

The barns were filled with the crop of hay that has just been stored and all of the farm equipment under cover was burned and will be a total loss.

Other farmers in the vicinity hastened to the fire as soon as they were called but the efforts of even the combined force were without effect.

TIGHT LACING IS DEATH TO GIRL IN CINCINNATI

(Special to Morning Press.)

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 6.—Miss Elsie Gasser, aged 18 daughter of Attorney John J. Gasser, 2419 West McMicken avenue, is dead. Dr. Gustave Strobach, the family physician says her death was caused by tight lacing of corsets and clothes.

Miss Gasser was stricken ten days ago with what appeared to the doctors to be appendicitis. An operation followed, but the doctors could not trace any harm to the appendix. The operation so weakened her that the injury to the vital organs from tight lacing brought on her death.

One of the doctors who attended Miss Gasser wanted to use the example for the theme for a pamphlet, but Dr. Strobach states that it will be useless to attempt to teach young girls the danger they run in lacing their clothes too tightly.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO RAISE $500,000

(Special to Morning Press.)

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 6.—The twenty-seventh annual convention of the Knights of Columbus is ended. In a report upon the $500,000 endowment fund for scholarships by E. H. Doyle of Detroit it was announced that 70 per cent of the councils of the order had endorsed the fund.

The movement was endorsed by the convention and it was decided that the amount be collected within two years and surrendered to the Catholic University.

Hot, Hotter, Hottest

SOLDIERS CRAZED BY MARCH IN HEAT

(Special to Morning Press.)

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 6.—Japanese newspapers contain bitter attacks on the military authorities of Japan for fatalities from sunstroke while the South Osaka division was making a forced march recently in a burning sun with the thermometer at 120 degrees. The soldiers were informed that the march was to cultivate fortitude.

This excited a strong feeling of competition. Six men died and scores fell exhausted to be picked up and carried in rickshas.

Hundreds of soldiers were conveyed by train to the garrison hospital, where several became insane.

DAY NOT HOTTEST BUT CITY PEOPLE SUFFERED MUCH

Although yesterday was not the hottest day of the year Escanaba suffered from the high temperature more severely than at any time before this season. The absence of the usual summer day breeze left Escanaba sweltering in the heat from early in the morning until night, when a cool breeze sprang up and gave relief to hundreds in all parts of the city.

The highest temperature recorded yesterday at the weather station was 81 and the high record of the season is 87, which record was achieved last week.

TWENTY-SIX BABES DIE OF THE HEAT

(Special to Morning Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 6.—The effect of the latest spell of hot weather in Chicago was seen in the death record for yesterday, the report containing names of 26 infants 1 year of age and under.

The humidity, according to the health department, has added even more than the heat itself to the distressing mortality.

Michigan State News

VETERAN DRIVER IN CLOSE CALL FROM AN AWFUL DEATH

(Special to Morning Press.)

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 6.—Ed F. Geers, the widely known driver, had a wonderful escape from serious accident at the Grand circuit races, when he was thrown over the fence during the first heat of the $5,000 pacing event.

Geers was driving Annabelle Lee, and led to the half, soon after which the mare broke. He took her to the outside to straighten her up, but a line snapped and Annabelle Lee swerved, then plunged through a gap in the fence.

The sulky was demolished and Geers struck the turf, which saved him, perhaps from fatal injury. No bones were broken, but one ankle is badly sprained.

A large party of Gladstone people came to Escanaba last night on the excursion arranged aboard the steamer Lotus. The pleasure seekers arrived in the city shortly before 9 o'clock and flocked through the streets until after 10 o'clock when the boat returned to Gladstone.

GOVERNOR HAS HARD APPOINTMENT TO MAKE

(Special to Morning Press.)

LANSING, MICH., Aug. 6.—Governor Warner at a recent state convention declared that in making appointments to fill vacancies on state boards he should see that every board had at least one local member.

This puts the chief executive of the state up against a problem in appointing a successor to fill the vacancy on the board of control of the blind institute at Saginaw caused by the resignation of W. S. Bateman.

The law requires that one member of the board shall be a blind man and Bateman was that member. In order to keep his convention promise Governor Warner must appoint a Saginaw blindman.

Friends here state that the name of F. Bruce Smith, a blind citizen of Saginaw is being favorably considered. Smith is a newspaper man.

OH, HORRORS! FRED LOST HIS LEFT LEG UNDER STREET CAR

(Special to Morning Press.)

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 6.—"Oh! Oh! A man has fallen underneath the wheels of the street car!" rose from many voices as a local car bound for the circus grounds was speeding along.

A man running swiftly had caught up with the car, hurled himself at a side bar and missed the hold. He fell beneath the wheels.

There was a crunching sound. The car stopped and conductor and passengers crowded around.

Some years ago Wilson was the victim of an accident and his left leg was amputated. Consequently today's accident was not as serious as it might have been. Fred's cork leg, which takes place of the real bone and flesh variety, was gone, the splinters lying scattered between the tracks.

In the hurry and excitement of the accident an ambulance was called. Then a carpenter was called and fixed up a temporary wooden leg. Wilson limped away.

BLUE LAWS NOW DEAD

(Special to Morning Press.)

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 6.—Both the houses of the Connecticut legislature have passed a bill repealing the so-called "blue laws" relating to Sunday observance.

One of the laws specifically repealed is that which provides for a fine of $4 on each person who shall attend a concert or entertainment on Sunday.

TREE LOCK-UP GETS ALL TRAMPS IN DELANCO, N. J.

(Special to Morning Press.)

DELANCO, N. J., Aug. 6.—A tree lock up is the novel device by which Special Officer George F. Hanner, the town's single policeman guard an, has succeeded in ridding this neighborhood of many of the tramp who formerly infested it and who spread terror among the women by their raids upon pantries and hen-roosts.

Unable to hold his tramp prisoners longer than a few hours because of a ruling of the county auditor which forestalled the commitment of tramps, Hanner struck upon a new scheme. He ordered an extra supply of handcuffs, and some of the tramp caught in the next raid were chained to trees in the village suburb. His experiment was a success.

MAKE PLANS FOR BRIDGE

(Special to Morning Press.)

Plans for the interurban railway bridge spanning the Escanaba river near Wells, have been completed by Engineer D. A. Brotherton and bids for the work have been asked for from contractors. The company which will construct an electric line connecting Escanaba and Gladstone has now practically secured all of the right of way for the line and as soon as details are closed up actual work can be started.

The company is anxious to get as much of the work as possible completed this season and to push the road through next season and place the line in commission.

YOUNG NAVIGATORS BACK FROM CRUISE

(Special to Morning Press.)

Charles Ellsworth and Kenneth Morrell returned yesterday afternoon after a delightful lake cruise to Marinette, Menominee and Cedar River. The young men left a week ago on the sloop Peggy, a trim little yacht eighteen feet over all. Both of the youthful navigators say that their trip was better than they expected and are already laying plans for a much more extended cruise.

No accident of any kind marred the trip and the weather was ideal except for a day and a half when the wind gave out and the young men were forced to resort to the oars.

INMATE DIES AT COUNTY ALMSHOUSE

INTENSE HEAT CRAZES MAN WHO TAKES LIFE

John Wedin Took Dose of Arsenic at Woodlawn and Race for Life to Escanaba was in Vain

PATIENT DIED HERE YESTERDAY

Man Had Been Acting Strangely for Several Days. Took Wolf Poison While Wife Was Out of House

Crazed by the intense heat while working in the woods John Wedin took a quantity of arsenic at his home at Woodlawn on Thursday and although rushed to the Delta county hospital here as quickly as possible he died from the effects of the drug yesterday morning.

The body was removed from the hospital to the undertaking rooms of J. B. Wilkinson where it was prepared for burial and at 11 o'clock the body was shipped to Woodlawn.

According to relatives of Wedin, who accompanied him to the city he had been acting peculiarly for several days and it was feared that his mind was affected by the heat. His family urged him to come to Escanaba to consult a physician but he refused to do so. On Thursday he did not go to work as usual however and remained at home. While his wife was absent from the house he secured a quantity of arsenic, which was kept in the house to be used in poisoning wolves, and before her return had swallowed a quantity of the drug.

He became deathly sick and an attempt was made to secure a physician but none was available and the patient was placed on a train and rushed to Escanaba. He was removed from the station directly to the hospital where everything possible was done to save his life with out avail.

Shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning he passed away.

Wedin was 21 years of age and is survived by his wife and one small child. The couple had been married but slightly over a year and the action of the husband has nearly crazed the bride of a year.

Funeral services will be conducted over the body at Woodlawn today.

"LAST SUPPER", MASTERPIECE THAT WRECKED A HOUSE

(Special to Morning Press.)

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 6.—Bring with him from Europe The Last Supper, the $100,000 painting which is said to have been the cause of his divorce. William Homer Leavitt, the former husband of Ruth Bryan, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, has returned to his Newport home.

Under the guidance of a special committee headed by the mayor, the artist's masterpiece was placed on exhibition in the largest hall in the city. Later Mr. Leavitt will exhibit the painting in Chicago.

For several years after Leavitt married Ruth Bryan the two lived happily. Then the artist became absorbed in the creation of his painting. He traveled the Holy Land and flung himself into the work with the utmost intensity. Differences with his wife grew apace.

WILL NOT LET HER CHILDREN SUFFER FOR HER MISDEEDS

(Special to Morning Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—"My children shall not suffer for my sin. My beautiful Meta and my boy Gustav I would rather see dead. I have paid my price in suffering and my own shall be saved from sorrow. Ja, nutter im Himmel, ich komme bald-meine kinder mit."

Mrs. Emma Michels thus tremblingly wrote the final to her life's sad history, and, opening a gas jet, asphyxiated herself and her two children—Meta, aged 15, and Gustave, 21. The act was committed on the eve of her appearance in court for separation from her husband on her charges of drunkenness and non-support, and followed years of what in her last letter, Mrs. Michels called persecution by her husband's relatives.

had threatened to blow up the home of his divorced wife and who was released from custody on his promise to leave the city, has again been arrested and his case will be heard in Judge O. V. Linden's court today. It is claimed that on his return to the city Dufresne resumed his threats to blow up his wife's home and so violent did his conduct become that a warrant was sworn out for his arrest.

MARK TWAIN ADMITS SMOKING CAUSED HEART DISEASE--ONLY FOUR A DAY, NOW

Veteran Humorist Paying Penalty for Taking to Tobacco at Least 40 Times a Day During Most of His Life

(Special to Morning Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—In an interview in Redding, Conn., Mark Twain let it become known that he is combating heart disease, brought about by his many years of excessive smoking.

A reporter went to see if the veteran humorist had anything to say in reply to Dr. James L. Tracy's assertion in "American Medicine" that Twain was below par morally because he smoked a cigar in Oxford, England, while waiting the conferment of a degree over there. He was found in an easy chair puffing at a pipe.

"hours nowadays," he explained. "And I am obliged to sit right here for months and perhaps forever, by the orders of my doctor. He allows me only four smokes a day, where I have been all my life in the habit of taking at least 40."

"I cannot walk 300 yards and take an extra smoke or two, but I pay the penalty with a severe pain in my heart. When I consider that I lived almost 74 years in as good health as any man and smoked 40 times a day, without injury, as I thought, only to be cut down now to four smokes a day I am in no position to dispute anything which Dr. Tracy says."

POLITICS vs. BUSINESS.

The regulation of business by political bodies is a great failure, says President Fred D. Underwood.

"We should have a tariff commission whose sole business of life should be to study the tariff and recommend such changes as were found necessary."

"Men, or most of them, never stop to think what would happen if the purchasing power of railroads were destroyed."

"The roads have to borrow money and when the borrowing power stopped all had to stop. It meant stagnation, which reached into every hamlet in the country."

"The cause of it all was politics. Politics and business don't mix. It was said that the business of the country became sick."

For Employer and Employee

The judicious path along which is distributed disciplinary censure and encouraging praise is the one which produces best and most profitable results.

An over-confident employee often needs "taking down a peg or two." But—the need of the discouraged employee is even greater. He needs a word of praise for the part of his work done well.

To help a man down the ladder is easy. You can do it with a kick. But—think how much better it is to help a man up the ladder.

Watch your best employees, because they may need the check of a little holding in to keep them from going too fast.

And don't forget that upon conduct depends confidence—upon confidence depends loyalty—and upon both, depends the efficiency, the productivity, the profitability of your organization.

Kramer, pastor of the First Baptist church of Spokane, is a believer in the value of printer's ink, saying in the course of a recent sermon that if he had his way the church would spend $1,000 a year in advertising. He added: "The other day a man said: 'Kramer is the advertising pastor. Well, I would rather draw people to my church by advertising than to substitute jubilee singers, picture lectures, hot and cold suppers and ice cream festivals for the preached word. Most of the churchmen in our land are railing against a minister or church for advertising as suffering for a congregation. The hardest thing I ever tried to convert was an empty pew. I say I am right up to date when I advertise my services. Men of today demand a church of today. The church which fails to keep step with the march of events will be left to muse on the ashes of its own desolation. Many are calling the existence of the Church in question, because in no way does it advertise itself to the unreached multitude. We cannot change the truth, but we can change worn-out methods, and it is folly to use them. Men are not going to church because it is their duty and because the Bible tells them to. They must be attracted. The church with an undertaker's sign over it is not likely to draw many. Next to the Bible, the newspaper is spreading the Gospel. Christ said: 'This thing was not done in a corner.' Hence, He gave the command: 'Publish it to all the nations.'"

AUTO SPEEDERS "NEVER NO MORE"

(Special to Morning Press.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 6.—A device has been invented by which the speed of automobiles may be automatically controlled. Report to this effect is made by Vice Consul H. M. Byington of Bristol, who describes the device as it has been attached to English machines. The attachment removes the clutch when the speed of the car exceeds the arranged limit. When necessary the brake is automatically applied so that the speed is reduced to just below the arranged limit. The brake is then quickly but gently released and the clutch again put in. The apparatus is put in action very easily. It fits in a compact aluminum box and requires little space.

Paid for Bride by the Pound.

In the village of Kolked, in Hungary, it has since time immemorial been customary for the bridegroom to give the bride's parents some compensation before the wedding. The other day a peasant farmer named Kotvoos and the parents of his pretty young betrothed could not come to terms as to the amount, and so they agreed to make the mayor arbitrator. That good man, a cattle dealer, valued the bride at 60 cents a pound. As she weighed 88 pounds the happy bridegroom had to pay only $51.60, and thought himself lucky to get a wife so cheap.

Chemical Formulas.

In chemistry the elements are represented by accepted abbreviations, called symbols, each of which indicates a single atom of the element. When more than one atom is to be represented, figures are placed to the right of the symbol either above or below the line. A molecule representing a compound is indicated by a series of such symbols called a formula; thus alcohol has for its formula C2H6O, which shows that a molecule of this substance contains two atoms of carbon, six of hydrogen and one of oxygen.

Carlyle's Expressive Phrase.

The phrase "unspeakable" Turk came into use in England during the Bulgarian insurrection of 1876. It originated with Thomas Carlyle and made its appearance in a published letter of his, in which occurred the following sentence: "The unspeakable Turk should be immediately struck out of the question and the country left to honest European guidance."

BLOOD DRIES UP; WOMAN'S CASE IS BAFFLING DOCTORS

(Special to Morning Press.) WASHINGTON, Ind., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Samuel Taylor, wife of a prominent retired farmer of Odon, is suffering from an illness that baffles the attending physicians. Little hope is entertained for her recovery. Mrs. Taylor was taken to her bed a little over a week ago, and it was found that her blood is slowly drying up and black spots are breaking out all over her body. Doctors say cases of this description are rare and members of the medical profession in Daviess county are watching Mrs. Taylor's case.

TRICKS OF THE MEDICINE MEN. Secrets Are Revealed to Them in Dreams.

A young Indian, who is ambitious to become a doctor, and finally a prophet, learns from his father or other member of his tribe, the name and medicinal properties of some herb, says a writer in the Denver Field and Farm. He can also, by presenting a sufficient number of ponies to a medicine man, prevail upon the doctor to impart the secrets of the herbs to him. Frequently Indians allege that the secret is revealed to them in a dream, or by a bird or an animal. After procuring it, the novice is prepared to begin the practice of medicine. Success in their opinion is only possible with the aid of the Great Spirit, and in order to invoke the help of the supernatural they resort to various sacrifices. For instance, there is the practice of ascending a butte or other elevation and lying with the face to the ground for several days without food or until they are completely exhausted. During this period they profess to have been taught some song or the Great Spirit conversed with them through a bird, wild animal or reptile. They frequently allege that wolves come to them and howl and that they understand what the animals say. While treating a patient they place tobacco in little pouches which they tie with sinew. These are painted brilliant colors and fastened to willow sticks about the size of the shaft of an arrow, but somewhat longer.

LOAFER, BUT HAD REAL TACT.

Delicate Situation That Was Handled in Masterly Manner. "Talking about tact," said a woman who is just verging on middle age, "I never saw anyone get out of a difficult situation more deftly than did a man I met at a blacksmith shop in a New England village I was driving through last summer. I was alone in the lanes with my friend, the horse, when I noticed that he limped a bit, so when we reached the next village I stopped at the door of the blacksmith shop. A man was holding up the doorpost and to him I said: 'Will you please tell the blacksmith to come out? I want to see him.' 'After the manner of the village loafer, he did not stir, but smiled sweetly at me, and lifting up his voice cried: 'Bill, come out! There's a lady wants to see you. 'From the depths of the blacksmith shop a voice roared: 'Is she young, John, or old?' 'In the words of an old poem, I looked at John and John looked at me. Then, still without moving, he called: 'You'll be satisfied, Bill, when you get out.'"

A Rural Enoch Aiden.

"In our little town in a western state," said Brown, "there was a half-witted sort of a fellow named Bill Wilkes. One day Bill took to the railroad tracks and never reappeared for about six years. In the meantime his wife, Bettie, took in washing and supported the family. One day Bill came back. He went around to the kitchen door, softly opened it, stuck in his head and said, 'Boo, Bettie.' Bettie turned around from her washub. 'He, he,' said Bill. 'I scared ye, didn't I, Bettie?' Wherever I see a stage husband return to his family I think of Bill's greeting after six years' absence: 'Boo, Bettie. I scared ye, didn't I?'"

Why and Wherefore.

A minister one day found a little boy in tears and questioned him as to the cause of his distress. The youngster replied that his father had punished him for being naughty, and he was mighty glad that his mother hadn't done it. "Why do you prefer to have your father whip you?" questioned the minister. "Is it because he is less severe than your mother?" "No," replied the boy, "but when he licks me ma says he's a brute and always gives me money to buy candy." —Harper's Weekly.

FIFTY YEARS GROUGH; WEALTHY SPINSTER IS DEAD, LEAVING MILLION

(Special to Morning Press.) FORT PLAIN, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Elizabeth Diefendorf, a wealthy and eccentric spinster of good family, died at her home here at the age of 77 years. Fifty years ago she closed her house to her many friends and up to the time of her death was seldom seen even by her neighbors. Thirty years ago a local newspaper per centric the seating accommodations of an assembly hall in what was then the biggest and best building in Fort Plain. Miss Diefendorf owned it. The hall was closed the next day, the tenants' leases were not renewed and the building has stood ever since, heavily taxed, but dusty and vacant. Miss Diefendorf leaves an estate valued at about $1,000,000, chiefly in western real estate. She left no will, but is survived by a sister and several cousins.

"Good luck, old man, and don't fail me, for heaven's sake."

Jerry immediately started for Mr. Wentworth's office, where he left the note, believing that Mike would call there as soon as he could. He talked with Mr. Wentworth until a little after four o'clock, when he started to the station.

As he took his seat on the train to Escalon his heart was as heavy as any that ever beat in the breast of man, and his conscience was so guilty that he blushed in shame.

CHAPTER XXII.

On the Road to Jimenez.

Mike O'Connor arrived in the City of Mexico at a little after 11 o'clock the next morning. He spent more than an hour around the station looking for Jerry Chambers and trying to learn if persons answering to the description of Andre, Felipe, Riaz, Marina and the strange woman had been seen to leave a train. An official who had been on duty for many hours told him that he had not seen them, and that if they had gotten off a train that entered the station he probably would have seen them.

Mike's disappointment and surprise in not meeting "Tommy Flannery" brought him close to a decision to abandon the chase and to strike out immediately for the "States." Although he could not understand why the young man had departed so abruptly from him in Vera Cruz, he felt reasonably confident that Jerry had a good excuse for his action, but he could think of no reason why he had not met him at the station.

"Maybe he didn't get my message," Mike said to himself after he had asked the price of a ticket to El Paso. "But I am sure I remembered the number he gave me and that I didn't make a mistake." The train he had in mind to take to the border did not leave until five o'clock in the afternoon, and, to satisfy himself and, incidentally, to "kill time," he went to the office of Thomas Wentworth.

"Have you seen a young fellow named Tommy Flannery?" he asked of the old Gemini.

"Yes," answered Mr. Wentworth. "he was here yesterday, and left late in the afternoon for the north."

"Where did he go?"

"To Escalon."

Mike frowned. "Then he didn't get my wire, or else he didn't stick. Hell of a note!"

"You were to have met him here?"

"I wired him to be comin'. My name is O'Connor, and—"

"Oh, Mr. O'Connor," interrupted Mr. Wentworth, "he told me to give you this note," which he took from his desk and handed to the engineer. Mike was visibly excited when he tore open the envelope, and after he read the contents and pocketed the $200, his doubting eyes sparkled with a new enthusiasm.

"I thought I might 'a' been hasty in judgin' him," he said, half unconsciously of the old Gemini's presence, "and I guess this shows it. Still, I'm damned if I can understand what he's tryin' to do. Why couldn't he have told me somethin' definite about matters?"

A few minutes later he was briskly on his way to the railroad station, where he told the agent that he would not go all the way to El Paso, but would take a ticket to Jimenez. The thought of wiring Jerry had escaped his mind.

Mike felt convinced that the kidnapers and Marina had departed from Vera Cruz and that they had lost no time in proceeding to Jimenez. He also accepted as fact that the day's trip from that place would bring them into the mountains. He wondered why they should go so far away from Vera Cruz and why they should not remain in some place of considerable size.

Mike figured that they had left their train before reaching the City of Mexico and caught a train for Jimenez at some other place than the central station. He also believed that they would depart from the capital at the earliest possible moment. His time table showed that they could have caught a train which preceded the one on which he traveled.

It was a little after seven o'clock when the train drew up at a small station. Mike looked at his schedule card and found that it was a "flag" station, and he went to the platform and watched another coach being added to the train. Considerable time was taken in switching to the main track, and he sat down on a truck to smoke his pipe. Just as he struck a match, which, he afterwards thanked his lucky stars, did not light, he saw five persons—three men and two me! If I could only get word to Tommy to head 'em off! But I can't, and chances are he wouldn't get the word in time, anyway. But," darting around the station, "I'll take a chance." He was near the telegrapher when the engine bell began to ring and the order to move was given. The time to write a message was too short, and, pulling his hat down over his eyes, he ran to the train.

The first thought that flashed across his mind after he was aboard was that either Andre or Felipe would go through the train with eyes fixed for either him or Jerry. The train had not proceeded far before he was talking with the conductor.

"I'd give almost anything to ride on an engine," said he. "I'm an engineer myself, but I've never seen the workin's on a locomotive afore. Is it possible for me to get in the cab?"

"It's in violation of an iron-bound rule for any passenger to ride in the cab," said the conductor.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said Mike; "I'll give you the price of a suit of clothes if you can fix it for me." He drew a crisp note from his pocket and held it so that the poorly paid official could feast his eyes on it.

"I'll see what I can do for you," said the conductor, as he moved towards the engine. Mike followed him to the door and whispered in his ear:

"Try to get me on right away; I want to see things whin it ain't too dark."

Mike had just settled into a seat when the rear door of the coach opened. He drew his hat down over his eyes and appeared to be asleep, but he managed to cast a glance down the aisle. Wearing a cap well down over his eyes Andre came towards him. The stranger drew a glassful of water from the tank at the forward end of the car and then dropped into the fourth or fifth seat, three seats from Mike. He took a paper from his pocket and began to read as the conductor re-entered the coach. The official, a smile of pleasant anticipation on his lips, went to Mike and whispered: "I've fixed it. Come right along."

"Sh—! I've got a pain in my stomach now, and I think I'll wait till it's gone. I'll be there all right."

Fifteen minutes later Andre, his cap on the back of his head and his face wearing an expression of confidence, slowly went out of the coach.

"A pretty detective!" smiled Mike, as he sat up and pushed back his hat. "You won't always be goin' about with your cap on the back of your head, my dandy. I can tell you that. Your name's what my father's was!"

Riding on a locomotive was not a novelty to Mike O'Connor, for he had "run" engines in the United States in his earlier days, and when he went to the cab the sensations were not strong enough to keep him from concentrating his whole mind on plans for the future. When he returned to the coach, after midnight, with an "invitation" to come back to the cab any time, he had decided to follow the five as far as he could out of Jimenez, to find out their hiding place, if possible, and then to communicate with "Tommy."

When the train reached Escalon he looked around for Jerry, and, while he would have given much to see him, he was glad that he was not at the station. Numerous delays added half a dozen hours to the running time, and Jimenez was not reached until after midnight. Mike was on the front platform when the train came to a stop at the station, and, after giving the engineer a bill, he got off and hastened to a building 50 feet away, stationing himself where he could see the full length of the platform. He remained there until the train pulled out, and, to his great surprise, he had not seen the five occupants of the last coach get off. But as the last car swept past him he saw a carriage moving away from the other side of the track.

He ran to the end of the platform and cast his eyes after the vehicle, which soon was lost in the darkness. Then, not knowing what course to take, he approached a policeman and asked where the street led to.

"To the mountains," was the answer. "The city's down the other way."

"Was that a station conveyance that just went away?" he asked, and the officer eyed him closely.

"It doesn't ordinarily meet trains," was the answer. "Why did you want to know?"

"I thought maybe an old friend o' mine—Aurelio Zacate—was drivin'. I have come all the way from the south to see him, and the last I heard o' him he was drivin' a rig here."

Before Mike had thought of hiring a cab and following the carriage of the officer said something about its being one of the only two vehicles of the kind in the city. Knowing that he could do nothing further that night, he sat down on a box and engaged the officer in conversation. The policeman was a willing talker, for Mike had a bottle of extra fine whisky, which he aurelio didn't wear a mustache when I saw him last," said Mike, "and he didn't appear so skinny. The carriage couldn't have gone very far."

"No; perhaps not farther than the river—the Florida. Perhaps the people in the carriage took a small beat down the river. Many folks spend the hot weather down there."

"Any particularly attractive spots down the river?"

"Some beauties, but I don't think I'd go down there. Fifty miles southwest is pretty tough. We know of several gangs that have headquarters down that way, but we've never been able to locate them."

"There's a good deal o' minin' around here, ain't there?"

"Yes; and northerners seem to be crazy about finding a mine that was lost in a landslide 100 years ago down that way. But it's time thrown away and money wasted for the end of the rainbow. The mine—the San Dimas—may be down there, and it may not. There's a story that it was the best producer in all Mexico 200 years ago, but what's left of it now is buried so deep that all the steamshovels in the universe could not get at it."

When Mike went to a cheap hotel that night he felt certain that the five had taken a boat for some point down the river, and, recalling that the captain of the yacht had mentioned a trip of about 24 hours, he calculated that their destination must be far down the stream. He also decided that he could accomplish but little alone, and that the first morning train should have him as a passenger back to Escalon, where he would try to locate "Tommy Flannery" and apprise him of the developments.

He Ran to the End of the Platform and Cast His Eyes After the Vehicle.

He Ran to the End of the Platform and Cast His Eyes After the Vehicle.

CHAPTER XXIII.

The Man with the White Whiskers.

"Is there something here for Rodney Graves?" asked Jerry Chambers of an elderly man in the office of the — Mining and Smelting Company at Escalon, three minutes before the expiration of the 40 hours. He had been in the Chihuahuan town a few hours, but he had determined to wait until the last moment before calling for his instructions.

Robert Hallington of The College class of '68, and a wearer of the Pin of the Twins, cordially extended his hand and gave him the "grip."

"There is, just such an envelope as one I received many years ago," smiled Mr. Hallington, producing the instructions from his pocket.

"Haven't you received a telegram for me—Tom Flannery?" Jerry quickly asked, showing considerable concern.

"You—Flannery? Why, no. The envelope is all I have to give you."

"Strange," muttered Jerry, his brow knitting. "I was sure there would be a message here for me."

He soon was in the street, and his extreme disappointment in not receiving word from Mike O'Connor embodied fear that the engineer had forsaken him. In the shade of an awning he opened his envelope and read the following:

"Within 48 hours after ye have received these instructions ye shall start in search of the lost San Dimas gold mine, supposed to be in the Sierra Madre mountains about 50 miles southwest of Escalon, not far from the source of the river Florida. Your beloved brothers in The Gemini, Robert Hallington and Thomas Wentworth, will direct ye to the trail over which many have passed in fruitless quest of hidden treasure; also, they will instruct ye in the method of procedure and provide all supplies which they may deem necessary. The one companion whom ye may have with ye, if ye desire to be accompanied in your exploring, shall be paid in Mexican currency the equivalent of $150 a month in the money of the United States of America, and he shall be subject to no orders other than his own."

"It is the will of all Gemini that ye shall appear at 12 o'clock (noon) on the nineteenth day of September, 1899, at Montezuma street, El Paso, Texas, for further instructions. In going to El Paso ye shall consume no more time than is necessary to make the trip in time to receive four further instructions. Proof that ye have labored honestly in your efforts to locate the lost San Dimas gold mine must be presented in exchange for the instructions which shall await ye in El Paso."

"May the spirit of Rodney Graves guide ye well and the love of all Gemini give ye new courage."

After re-reading the instructions Jerry went back to Mr. Hallington and asked about the trodden trail to the mountains. The old Gemini smiled knowingly and told him that within 24 hours he would be supplied with all possible information that he could provide.

"It will be an exceedingly interesting time for you," said Mr. Hallington. "Then you know all about it?"

A room sacred to woman, a room which only the names of male visitors may enter, where women may await their escorts without being subjected to the stare of every passerby—this is the latest addition to the up-to-date hotel. It is to fill the need for such a room that a combination of sun bath, lounge and boudoir is now being constructed off the left hand side of the grand staircase of the Savoy hotel, London.

Glass windows, curtained from within so that women may look out for their escorts when they will, but insuring absolute privacy from the masculine eye, will be a feature of the room, which will extend some fifty feet back from its entrance. The top may be entirely of glass, so that lady may recline in an easy chair and take a brief sun bath as she whiles away the minutes until tea, dinner or supper. There, too, she may find solace in a lemon squash or cup of tea, or beautify self with the many toilet accessories provided before long mirrors.

MOORE BERRY CROP, SURE

John Ewald the oldest and most extensive blueberry buyer in the United States, who is in the peninsula for his annual buying campaign estimates that from 25,000 to 35,000 crates of berries will be shipped from the upper peninsula this season.

The shipments last year, when the crop was a failure in many places, were much below normal, not only from this region, but also from points in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"The crop in Northern Wisconsin is the largest I have ever seen," Mr. Ewald said. "The shipments in the territory between Superior and Spooner should almost reach 100,000 crates, provided there are no killing frosts this month. The territory between Duluth and Bemidji, Minn., will probably send out in excess of 25,000 crates. The market is not very active at present.

"I am receiving encouraging reports from all of the berry buying centers in the territory I cover, with the exception of Wellsburg. The reports from there are conflicting. "All things considered, I think that this will be the best season for blueberries that we have had in some years. The price has gone off during the past two weeks. When we started in at Trege we paid the pickers $4.50 per bushel, but now $2 is paid.

MARRIED MAN JUST TO SHOW HER HATE FOR HIM, WIFE SAYS

(Special to Morning Press)

MUSKEGON, Mich., Aug. 6.—"I never loved my husband, I always hated him. I married him to torture and torment him. "I kept him out of college for a year and I wish I could keep him out longer. "I made a fool of him right along. I made him get down on his knees and beg and beg, and beg, and then I laughed at him. "With these and similar statements Mrs. Helen Barry Wilson made a final display of the bitterness she has manifested toward her youthful husband all through the hotly contested divorce suit in the Muskegon circuit court. Judge Sessions granted a decree to her husband, Raymond Wilson, a medical student, and then she announced that she would appeal the case. The wife was formerly Miss Helen Barry, of Chicago. The couple were married a year ago, while young Wilson was attending a medical college in Chicago. Then she was 18 and he was 21.

SINGER, STRICKEN DUMB, MYSTIFIES PHYSICIANS

(Special to Morning Press.)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 6.—Whether Charles J. B. Paquette, a young singer who broke down while singing at the Pastime theater in Boston, was made dumb through stage fright or some disease, is a question which two medical experts cannot agree.

Paquette, who is 23 years old, has not been able to utter a word since he started to sing his second song on his first appearance as a professional in the Boston amusement house last Monday afternoon. Dr. Alphonse Normandie has twice examined the young man at the home of his father and says that he can find nothing at all wrong with his focal cords, and believes the patient could speak if he would.

A Fall River specialist, after examining Paquette, declared he was stricken dumb from some mysterious cause which as yet he has been unable to fathom. Paquette scrawled on a piece of paper: "I am dumb," when a theatrical manager demanded what he meant by rushing from the stage.

EMPTY BOX CAR A FAMILY HOME

(Special to Morning Press.)

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Aug. 6.—Attracted by the plaintive wail of a little child, a party of deputy sheriffs who were searching the Milwaukee road yards on the upper Milwaukee river for tramps, came upon a man, woman and child quietly sleeping in the midst of hay, paper and other refuse which littered an empty box car.

The man proved to be George Albert, who had appeared in district court on the charge of vagrancy. "We just went up the Milwaukee river for an outing, your honor, and when it started to rain we found shelter in an empty box car. Other people have money to go on a vacation, but we can't afford it so we just had little family picnic."

Such was Albert's defense, but it appears that he has arranged the permanent home for his family and Judge Neelen decided to take the child away until they established a suitable home.

Just to Make Sure.

An old farmer, who by hard work and thrifty habits had got together a small fortune, decided that the time had at length arrived when he was justified in ordering a family carriage. He went to a carriage builder and described in detail the kind of vehicle he wished to buy.

"Now, I suppose you want rubber tires?" said the carriage builder.

"No, sir," replied the old farmer in tones of resentment. "My folks ain't that kind. When they're riding they want to know it."

The Value of Books.

A young girl once asked Mark Twain if he liked books for Christmas gifts.

"Well, that depends," drawled the great humorist. "If a book has a leather cover it is really valuable as a razor strap. If it is a brief, concise work, such as the French write, it is useful to put under the short leg of a wobbly table. An old-fashioned book with a clasp can't be beat as a missile to hurl at a dog, and a large book, like a geography, is as good as a piece of tin to nail over a broken pane of glass."

Liberty.

Liberty is worth whatever country is worth. It is by liberty that a man has a country; it is by liberty he has rights.—Henry Giles.

Great Lakes

GREAT WATERWAY HALF COMPLETED

"The new Livingstone channel is now just half completed and it will surely be finished by the end of the season of 1910, so that it will be turned over to commerce at the opening of the season of 1911. Fifty per cent of the work was finished last Saturday," declares President Livingstone, of the Lake Carriers' association.

"The completion of the Livingstone channel will give us a double track up and down the lakes and will be the culmination of a great achievement."

"It will be the most important event in the history of the great lakes since the opening of the Soo canal," declares another L. C. A. official. "It behooves us to celebrate."

Boats can then carry their full capacity up and down the Detroit river and the erstwhile terrors of the Linekirk Crossing will have finished.

WILD CARRIERS ON LAKES BOTHER ORE BUSINESS PLANS

(Special to Morning Press)

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 6.—Although the movement of ore is heavy there is a surplus of tonnage on the market and there is some talk of taking a number of the wild carriers out of commission.

"If the boats that are waiting for cargoes were laid up fifteen or twenty days," said a local manager "it would do more to brace the market up than anything else."

There will be better demand for tonnage all around in September. Coal is moving more freely.

WATER FEED RULE IS A VERY OLD CHESTNUT

(Special to Morning Press.)

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 6.—It is not believed the ruling of the supervising inspectors requiring independent water feed on all marine boilers will affect lake vessels.

It is learned that such a rule, or what is believed to be the same rule, has been in effect for many years and has been generally enforced on the lakes.

WELFARE PLAN ON LAKES A SUCCESS

(Special to Morning Press)

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 6.—President Livingstone of the Lake Carriers' association, states that 4,500 men have given their signatures to the welfare plan of the association.

Five death benefits have been paid so far this season.

FIREMAN IS LOST OFF A TUG BOAT

(Special to Morning Press)

MARINETTE, Wis., Aug. 6.—According to a report filed by Captain William Dennison of the tug Nettie Dennison, Albert Pennings, a fireman on that craft residing at Green Bay, was lost overboard at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon, while the boat was on its way to the local harbor.

In a whisper broken by moments when it was impossible for him to speak, because of emotion, Captain Dennison told the cause of the accident.

The captain says that Pennings was sitting on the rail just aft from the pilot house when he saw him lost aboard and that the man's head was bowed as tho he felt ill or tired.

Pennings was a brother-in-law of Henry Dennison of the boat. He has a wife and two children residing at Green Bay. He was a middle aged man and was a favorite with his employers. The Dennison cleared for Green Bay to break the news of the accident to the relatives of the drowned man.

Arrivals and Clearances.

Saint Had Disregarded Small Girls' Appeal and Her Faith in Him Had Vanished.

There is one small girl in a New York school who has lost her faith in the saints—a faith that was implicit, says the New York Tribune. Her name is Elizabeth, and she can't learn to spell. She is always at the foot of the spelling class. She does her best to learn, but if a wrong letter can creep into a word it sneaks in when Elizabeth tries to spell that word. Tuesday she came into the class beaming, but inside of two minutes she had spelled innocent "in-ocent" and flew "dough." The teacher shook her head.

"Elizabeth, what shall I do with you?" she asked. Elizabeth looked at her with a hopeless gaze, two tears trickling down her nose.

"There ain't nothing to do," she said in a tone of finality. "I did the last thing this morning. I offered St. Anthony 50 cents if he'd help me spell right, and he hasn't done it, and I've no more use for him."

Golden Opportunity That Cassandra Overlooked.

Xanthippe, Cassandra, Queen Elizabeth and Dido were walking along the Styx one afternoon not long ago and the conversation between these eminent ladies turned upon prophecy. With the exception of Cassandra none of them seemed to take much stock in it.

"Tell me the honest truth now, Cassandra—could you really see into the future?" asked Dido with a skeptical smile at the prophetess.

"I could, honestly," said Cassandra earnestly.

"How far, Cassie?" queried Queen Elizabeth.

"All the far there was," said Cassandra.

"Humph," said Xanthippe. "Could you see as far ahead as—Rudyard Kipling?"

"Yes," said Cassandra. "I'd read all Kipling ten years before the fall of Troy."

"Then all I've got to say," said Xanthippe tartly, "is you were an awful fool not to copy the stuff down and publish it as your own."

Encouragement.

There is a young clubman of Philadelphia who has been most persistent in his suit for the hand of the only daughter of a wealthy old merchant of that city.

Not long ago a friend meeting the young man on the street asked:

"How are things, Tom? Has she given you any encouragement?"

"I should say so," replied Tom. "Only last night she told me that she would get every cent of the old man's fortune when he dies."—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Pat's Deficiencies.

Mrs. McCarthy's husband went out in a boat alone, the boat overturned and he was drowned. A friend met her some weeks later.

"I hear," said he, "that Pat left you very well off—that he left you $20,000."

"True," said Mrs. McCarthy. "He did."

"How was that?" asked her friend. "Pat couldn't read nor write, could he?"

"No," said Mrs. McCarthy, "nor swim."

"Walk more," said the physician. "But," he protested, "I already have an automobile."

Closed Season for Snails.

The edible snail, which furnishes a much-prized delicacy on French menus, is threatened with extinction and the general council of the Yonne recently petitioned the minister of agriculture to order a "close" season on its behalf, as is done for game and fish. M. Roux duly ordered an inquiry, the only result of which has been to determine the legal status of the snail. A ministerial circular published declares that the snail is neither game nor fish, but merely an agricultural parasite; as such it may be destroyed at any time and in any season. The decision of the authorities has thrown the great snail producing region—the center of which is Burgundy—into consternation. During the exhibition of 1902 the consumption of snails rose to 800 tons, and to ward the close of the exhibition snails were in such demand that the price was trebled in a month. Eighty million snails are received at the Halles every year.—Dundee Advertiser.

TYPICAL OF NEW YORK LIFE.

Idea for Picture Postal Cards That Would Show Outsiders Just What is the "Real Thing."

"I have a new idea for a picture postal card," said the tired-looking man. "I'd make it to represent the interior of an uptown flat. There ought to be millions of them on the market. They would sell. Every day people living here are asked by out-of-town acquaintances to send them postals descriptive of New York life. There are hundreds of such cards for sale, but none of them gets right down to the very marrow of metropolitan conditions. It takes a flat to do that.

"Even persons who are perfectly familiar with the scenes represented on picture postcards complain that they cannot recognize the places. But just transfer to a postal card a drawing of a New York flat, and there will be no mistake made as to the environment. Chuck, a lot of handboxes under the folding lounge, jam the baby's crib bang up against the buffet, hang a lot of clothes in every corner and on the walls for drapery, stack up a lot of illustrated books on the refrigerator, and pile the piano high with a bohemian luncheon outfit and other miscellany, and there you are. Friends and acquaintances all the way from Jersey City to Timbuctoo will exclaim at once: 'That's New York, all right.'"

Small Boy Then and Now.
This is the way the editor of the St. Joseph, Ga., Eye writes it:

"David was considered a noble little fellow because he went forth and slew the giant, Goliath, with his sling. It pleased King Saul and all the children of Israel to such an extent that he was at once crowned as a hero and made a ruler. Very little heroism would be credited to an act of that kind in our day of the world.

"Give the average ten-year-old boy a sling of the David style and he would not only kill all the giants within four miles of him, but there would not be a window light nor a dog with in that radius."

Fully a half million shingles are to be used on the different buildings to be repaired and other work undertaken will be on the same scale.

OLD BATTLESHIP TO COME HERE

Escanaba lads who are longing for a touch of life before the mast and dream of brave deeds done in the watery main, will be given an opportunity to enlist in Uncle Sam's service on Aug. 9 and 10, when the training ship Wolverine, formerly the famous old man of war, Michigan, will visit this port. The Wolverine is on its regular cruise about Lake Michigan ports picking up recruits for the navy at every station and while stopping here local eld be-lievers will be given an opportunity to enlist.

The Wolverine carries an excellent drilled squad of blue jackses whose exhibitions have attracted attention at each port visited and the old battleship will undoubtedly attract many visitors when she comes here next Tuesday.

CONFERS WITH OTHER OFFICIALS

In an effort to induce the Menominee county road officials to change their plans for road building work that improvements planned will connect more satisfactorily with new roads that have just been completed in this county, Commissioner H.
