FOREST FIRES THREATEN MANY NEARBY TOWNS

Foster City, Metropolitan Hermansville, Turner, Northland and Ward are Among Points in Danger--Heavy Losses Were Reported Yesterday--No Relief in Sight

Serious forest fires yesterday threatened a number of towns in the surrounding district and unless a heavy rain all comes at once some of the towns in danger may be wiped out.

Foster City, Metropolitan, Hermansville, Northland, Turner and Ward were last night in imminent danger of destruction.

Throughout the district every possible effort is being made to stop the advancing flames but with the country burned to a tinder by a drought that has extended through weeks, but slight resistance can be offered the advancing walls of flame.

Throughout yesterday and last night an emergency train was kept in readiness in the local yards of the North Western road to be rushed to any point of danger on a minute's notice when it appears certain that a town is to be wiped out. The train is to be maintained with steam up until the forest fire danger in the district is over, according to the announcement issued by North Western officials last night.

The town of West Turner on the line of the Escanaba and Lake Superior railroad was wiped out yesterday with a great quantity of timber belonging to the H. A. Bauman Company and the Ford River Lumber Company.

Three sets of camps belonging to ex-Mayor M. Perron together with a quantity of timber on the landings and in the woods, were destroyed.

The barn of Emil Derouin at Hyde was burned yesterday with all of its contents and the entire cut of hay of Fred Derouin at Newhall furnished food for the flames during the afternoon.

Fire fighters and fire fighting equipment were rushed to Hermansville, Foster City and Metropolitan from every part of the district yesterday. Late last night it was reported that the fires were close to Hermansville and that the fire fighters were making a brave stand against the advancing flames.

Foster City the fire had jumped the river and was rushing toward the town where the mill and yards of the Morgan Cedar and Lumber company is located. At Metropolitan the same conditions exist and with the fire fighters exerting effort to save the town.

At the offices of both the North Western and the Escanaba and Lake Superior Railroads last night it was announced that the fires were confined to no particular district but were reported from every part of their lines making up one of the most serious forest fire conditions to maintain in this district in years.

Yesterday the brisk wind that was blowing carried ashes from the brush fires into the city in a perfect shower. Throughout the day the sun was covered with a haze of smoke appearing as a great ball of fire in the sky, giving the appearance of cloudy weather but with no clouds in sight.

NO RAIN MANY DAYS

The last good rain, 1.06 inches, occurred May 17th. In June one-half inch rain occurred, and two showers that were of slight benefit. July 12th, .08 of an inch of rain fell, the only shower in July that was at all beneficial. During the past 64 days 1.72 inches of rainfall have occurred, and during the past 30 days only .15 an inch.

In 1908 only 1.43 inches of rain fell from July 18 to Sept 17, or 71 days; and only 3.76 inches from July 18 to Nov. 23, 168 days.

NO RAIN IN SIGHT FOR CITY

According to the prediction issued by U. S. Cole no prospects for rain are offered for this district today. Every part of the surrounding district is absolutely dry and there was only one shower reported between Escanaba and the Rocky Mountains. Through the Gulf states a heavy rain was reported yesterday.

BIG WEEK DAY CROWD WILL BE ATTRACTED

It is expected that an army of Escanaba fans will be attracted to South Park this afternoon when the Escanaba and Gladstone teams will clash in a postponed game and when both teams will make a determined effort to win. The Gladstone team after being idle for ten days will come to Escanaba today primed to the muzzle in a desperate endeavor to humble Olathe's crumps while the locals, with every man in perfect condition, will meet equally as strong an effort to gain triumph over their old rivals.

MANY VIOLENT DEATHS REPORTED

The majority report for the month of June, issued by the secretary of state shows that 2,997 deaths occurred in Michigan last month. This number corresponds to an annual death rate of 13.3 per 1,000 estimated population.

Generally these reports show tuberculosis to be the chief destroyer, but last month 243 of the deaths reported were due to violence. Tuberculosis claimed 205, while cancer was third with 169. The report states that the increase in the number of deaths from violence was due to the large number of drownings. One death was reported from pellagra, a disease rarely found in this section of the country.

There were 4,719 births reported as having occurred in June. This corresponds to the annual birth rate of 21.0 per 1,000 estimated population. There was a decrease of 143 births last month over the number reported in May. The returns received in time for the compilation of the bulletin represent a reporting population of 2,501,835 persons, according to the last state census.

Announcement was received in the city yesterday that Sheriff and Mrs. F. W. Aronson will return from Detroit, where Mrs. Aronson became ill while on a visit there, either on Thursday or Friday.

that the Gladstone team will be accompanied to Escanaba today by a big party of strenuous, rooting fans who will give the wearers of the colors of the Upper Bay city every possible encouragement during the game. Because of the intense rivalry between Escanaba and Gladstone every local fan who can steal away from his regular business will be at the grounds when the game is started at 3:00 o'clock and every fan will go to the game confident in his belief that the locals will again show the scrappy character of their warriors of last.

CAR ROBBER IS NOT SURE

John Ryan who was caught in the act of breaking into a car in the yards of the Escanaba and Lake Superior railroad this week and who pleaded guilty to the charge in justice court, was arraigned before Judge R. C. Flannigan yesterday. Ryan appeared to be unwilling to plead guilty to the charge of larceny in the circuit court and Atty. H. J. Rushton was appointed by the court to confer with the prisoner and determine what plea would be entered.

MEN FIGHT OFFICER

After a terrific but futile fight against arrest with Officer Otto Sheriffs, Harry Freeman and Frank Johnson, suspicious characters, found by the officer at North Escanaba, were lauded at the police station late Tuesday night. When approached by the officer both men started to run. The officer pursued and soon caught one and a series of shots fired from the other prisoner brought him to a standstill. Repeatedly after the officer had placed them under arrest they attempted to break away from him and while being brought to the city aboard a street car one of the men attempted to leap through the open window of the car but was prevented. The actions of the two men were peculiar and it is believed by the officers that they may be wanted in some other city for a serious offense. Yesterday they were sentenced to 15 days in jail on a vagrancy charge and the officers are now conducting an investigation to learn if the men are wanted in any surrounding city.

FUNERAL YESTERDAY WAS ATTENDED BY MANY MOURNERS

A large number of sorrowing friends and relatives attended the funeral of Frank J. Sheedlo at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Solemn requiem high mass was performed over the body by Rev. Father Julius, assisted by Rev. Father Sauriol and Rev. Father Herbert. Interment was at St. Joseph's cemetery. Members of the Escanaba council Knight of Columbus attended the service in a body and accompanied the body to its last resting place, thus paying their last respects to a departed brother. Those who served as pallbearers were: George Walker, Fred J. Portlance, John O'Meara, Joseph Deloria, Adam J. Henry and James McKittrick.

MINING COMPANY REWARDS CLANCY

James Clancy, who resigned the position of master mechanic of the Oliver Iron company's Marquette range properties a few months ago, when he received the appointment of postmaster of Ishpeming, is the recipient of a handsome silver service, the gift of the Oliver Iron Mining company. The token came as a surprise to Mr. Clancy. With it was a letter from W. J. Olcott, the president, written in behalf of the company, in recognition of the services rendered by Mr. Clancy during the long period of years that he was in the company's employ.

The silver service is composed of five pieces of colonial design. On each piece is engraved the name of the company, the year that Mr. Clancy entered its employ, and the year in which he retired. He began work for the company in 1876 and retired early in 1910, having remained with the company the entire thirty-four years.

NEW CITIZENS TAKE OATH

Forty-three new citizens took the oath of allegiance to the government of the United States before Judge R. C. Flannigan, in the circuit court yesterday. Six cases were continued to allow the applicants to study government and one case was dismissed because the petitioner failed to appear after his case had been continued in April and he had been especially notified to appear at the present court term. Ten applicants who might have received the oath yesterday failed to appear.

Naturalization Examiner H. L. Roethe, who represented the national government in the naturalization matters heard yesterday paid particularly high compliment to the Delta county clerk's office and the class of applicants who appeared yesterday, after the court proceedings.

Mr. Roethe asserted that the petition prepared in the clerk's office for the petitioners were the most perfect that he had yet found in any county in Michigan and in addition he asserted that the class of applicants received here was far above the average intelligence of those examined by him. Mr. Roethe announced to a reporter that the clerk's office could be held responsible for many failures to pass the examination and the limited number that failed here showed well the care that had been observed by the county clerk and his office force in preparing the petitions and seeing that the applicants were provided with witnesses.

Shobogan, July 20.—The three-masted schooner James H. Mead, bound from Gladstone, Mich., to Chicago, with $9000 worth of hemlock lumber for the Hines Lumber company was towed into port in a sinking condition in a northeast gale. The crew had been at the pumps constantly for ten hours and had attracted the attention of the local fire saving crew by burning torches. The crew managed to keep the pumps going until the tug Peter Reiss came to the rescue. The Mead was built here in 1874.

Depew of Munising, sister of John Fisher of this city, and who was known to a number of people in Escanaba through her frequent visits to this city. Frank Fountain has assumed charge of the harness shop of the late Frank J. Sheedlo and will conduct the business along lines that were followed by Mr. Sheedlo for years in making it the success that it proved to be. Mr. Fountain was for several years employed by Mr. Sheedlo and he is therefore thoroughly conversant with the methods of the late owner. In addition he is an expert harness maker and will give his time to all repair work that is taken to that shop.

W. R. Northup and W. B. Mooney of Grand Rapids were in Nahma on business yesterday. C. M. Thatcher will go to Nahma this morning on business.

OSBORN GETS OVATION IN NEWAYGO COUNTY

Upper Peninsula Candidate for Governor Making Friends and Winning Votes Wherever he Visits in Lower Peninsula. Campaign Below Straits is Growing Warm.

Muskegon, Mich., July 20.—Newaygo county was in the political spotlight with vengeance Tuesday with senator Townsend and Mr. Osborn as the stellar attractions. Mr. Townsend opened his campaign with a noonday speech at Fremont while the Soo man started an automobile tour of the county at Grant. At the same hour Senator Burrows was a few miles south in Kent county making this section of the state the hotbed of politics for the time being; in fact the counties of Oceana, Muskegon and Kent will hold the center of the political stage for the next couple of days. The senatorial candidates are booked to appear on the same platform at a big meeting at Pentwater, Wednesday, while Mr. Osborn is giving two days this week to Muskegon county where he has many friends.

Newaygo republicans could hardly have been more cordial and Mr. Osborn was very proud of his reception for the reason it was in Newaygo thirty-three years ago that he really made his start in Michigan. For several months he was employed in a lumber camp at Hangerford in 1877 and recalled his experience with pardonable pride.

At Grant Mr. Titus, one of the founders of the Republican party at Jackson, presided and he expressed the earnest desire that the Soo man be made party nominee in September. At Newaygo, E. O. Shaw, an old time party leader and a life long friend of Mr. Osborn, introduced him. With the exception of the evening meeting at Fremont the banner meeting of the day was held at White Cloud where Mr. Osborn addressed a large and representative crowd from the court house steps. With his usual vigor he reiterated his opposition to the Warner-Kelly regime and their opposition to him, which he says is

GEORGE JOHNSON WAS RELEASED

Because witnesses that were secured by the prosecution at the preliminary hearing could not be located George Johnson, a negro, charged with conducting a house of ill fame on Thomas street was yesterday released on his own recognizance in the amount of $2,000 to report at the first day of the next court term. That disposition of the case was made at the suggestion of Acting Prosecuting Attorney John Cummins who investigated the matter and found it would be impossible to proceed without the missing witnesses.

Judge Flannigan acquiesced in the suggestion and after warning Johnson that he must appear here at the next court term allowed him to leave. Johnson's wife, who is partially blind came to Escanaba shortly after her husband's arrest and following the release of her spouse thanked the court for his action.

MANY POOR PEOPLE AIDED IN PAST YEAR

It cost the county of Delta a total of $21,611.64 to support the poor people of the county for the year running from July 1, 1909, to July 1, 1910, according to figures that have been compiled by Supt. of Poor F. M. Oimsted who has forwarded his annual report to the secretary of state. Of the total amount expended by the county for supporting its poor people, $3,910.20 was spent in caring for indigent insane patients. During the year a total of 580 people of Delta county were given aid by the poor department when such as-the real issue in the campaign. The effort of Kelly's Lansing organ to make this campaign a sectional fight between the Upper and Lower peninsulas was given special attention by Mr. Osborn in his White Cloud speech. The Soo man recalled the political history of General Alger and Governor Warner, both of whom went to the straits beaten by democratic opponents but in each case the Upper Peninsula furnished the majorities that saved the Republican ticket from defeat, which leads Mr. Osborn to remark that Mr. Kelly's effort to create a sectional prejudice comes with poor grace.

Prosecuting Attorney Anderson introduced Mr. Osborn at the Fremont meeting and paid his respects to the Warner-Kelly regime in vigorous terms recalling the erroneous statements made by Gov. Warner and Lieut. Gov. Kelly with reference to the condition of the state treasury during the closing days of the 1908 campaign.

A well known Fremont man who publicly took issue with Messrs. Warner-Kelly during that campaign, relative to the statements made by them as to the condition of the treasury, was present at the Osborn meeting at Fremont and Mr. Anderson warmly congratulated his fellow townsman on his courageous stand in taking issue with the administration leaders and the speedy vindication of his position furnished to the public after it became certain that Mr. Warner had been re-elected for a third term.

Mr. Osborn will spend the balance of the week in Muskegon, Allegan and VanBuren counties, going into Kalamazoo Saturday night. Monday Mr. Osborn will start an automobile campaign in a big machine leased for the balance of the campaign, the machines to date being furnished by his friends.

PRISONERS ARE GUILTY

Mr. and Mrs. William Londerville and Edward Kinney, who recently appeared before Judge Emil Glaser and pleaded guilty to stealing a quantity of linen and silverware from trunks belonging to Dr. Solomon Davis, yesterday appeared before Judge R. C. Flannigan and repeated their acknowledgments of guilt. The trio will be arraigned in court again today and will then be sentenced. Through the efforts of Detective George McCarthy and Chief of Police Andrew Iverson it was learned that the goods were stolen by Londerville and Kinney and were taken to the Londerville home where a portion of the booty was sold by Mrs. Londerville, knowing that it was stolen property. Practically all of the stolen articles were recovered by the officers and will be returned to the owner.

A SENATOR AND THE LAW.

When he was asked to stop the exhibition of prize-fighting pictures the other day, Mayor Gaynor of New York replied that he would do what the laws allowed him to do, but that he would not step in to decide arbitrarily what should or should not be done.

The mayor's retort upon the anxious reformers sounded good to New York. It sounds good to the whole country, when it comes from a man who does not urge homilies upon the restrictions of the law as a cloak for not doing what is fairly deducible from them as executive duty.

But it has also had the effect of stirring up some persons to find out what laws New York has in regard to prize-fights, with the discovery that a person who holds stakes for a prize-fight commits a misdemeanor, and that any resident of the state who goes out of the state to commit an act that would be punishable under this law, commits the same offense as he would if he had done the act at home.

This hits pretty hard the stakeholder of the Jeffries-Johnson prize-fight. This official was no less a person than T. D. Sullivan, a senator of the state of New York, who should be presumed to know the law. It is suggested that a vigorous prosecution of Sullivan in this connection would be good for public morals.

THE RECEIVERSHIP GRAFT ENDS.

An infant industry which long ago grew to years of discretion has been given a severe setback by act of congress. Receivership no longer will be good for a new automobile and a trip to Europe for the astute financier who lands them. The bankruptcy laws have been amended so that now the compensation is placed on a percentage basis instead of the catch-as-catch-can method of old.

The receivership graft, like most sources of easy money, has been overworked. Estates have been eaten up in individual receiver's fees without adequate protest from the courts. The judges, in fact, as former lawyers, have been inclined to place an altogether exaggerated value upon receiver's services. Their attitude has been one of good faith, but for all its sincerity has given rise to grave abuses. So large has the evil grown that in some instances when seemingly prosperous companies have failed the intimation has been heard that they were deliberately wrecked to provide a powerful official or director with a fat job as receiver.

Bankruptcy is enough of an industrial calamity without being made worse by artificial handicaps and congress by recognizing the need for reform has accomplished a large measure of good for the business world.

TOM CORBETT GIVES RULES ON BETTING

San Francisco, Cal., July 20.—Tom Corbett, the official betting commissioner for the Jeff-Johnson fight, has answered a number of queries in regard to bets on the Reno battle. He said: "The bettor wins who wagers that Johnson would win in fifteen rounds. The other bettor loses who bet that Jeffries would last fifteen rounds. He stayed fourteen and a fraction rounds and it would have been necessary for the bell to ring at the end of the fifteenth to win that bet."

Other novel bets, also were made. One fellow wagered $100 that the fight wouldn't go fifteen rounds. He won. Another bet that Johnson would be an even money shot at the ringside and be also cashed, as the negro even with Jeff about the twelfth and fourteenth rounds.

Persistent rumors of curtailment and coming together of the large copper interests, caused activity and higher prices in the general copper market today although no definite information on this subject seems to be obtained. Rise in Amalg and Utah in the New York market had a very favorable influence in the local issues and a better demand sprung up all along the line with offerings very light in the leading issues.

The balance of the list responded in sympathy with it, but towards the close receded sharply on realizing, the coppers retaining the greater part of their advance. Various rumors were afloat regarding probable favorable developments with regards to the metal industry, but although official confirmation was lacking, still it seems to be the general impression that something tending towards betterment will be accomplished in the near future.

Her Supreme Moment

By ANNIE HINRICHSEN

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press

The manager, who was also the leading man, faced the newest member of his company with a flinty countenance.

"I can't do it," the newest member wailed. "I can't—I can't. Play that part here, of all places—a part I don't know and haven't time to learn. Is it necessary? Won't you reconsider?"

The manager sighed inwardly. But before him were two ill—the anger of his star, the grief of his newest member; and the grief of the newest member was a tiny evil compared with the anger of his star.

"I'm sorry, Miss Fortesque—awfully sorry. But I can't help it."

"Aren't you the manager? Don't you control this company?"

He was silent. He was the manager, but the star was the star, and to her he was in absolute subjection.

"This is my home town, Mr. White, and tonight will be my first appearance here in a professional company. Every man, woman and child who will come here tonight knows me. I was born and raised here; so were my parents and grandparents. If you change the bill and compel me to play 'Marna' in 'Stratton's Policy' you will make me ridiculous. I don't know the play nor the part; I don't know a dozen lines."

"Your part is a minor one and you can subordinate it still more. Keep well away from the center of the stage, speak only when addressed and cut out all business of acting. The rest of the company are so familiar with the play that they can swing it along without much help from you."

"One can't play even the part of a lay figure without preparation."

Six months before he had taken her from a company in which she was playing an insignificant part and given her a place in his own, second in importance to that of his star. But the freshness, the enthusiasm and the originality of her work and the charm of her personality had been out of all proportion to a minor part. In de-ance of all the laws of the profession, her own individuality had turned a small role into a conspicuous one.

"Mr. White, hasn't there been in your life a purpose that meant more to you than anything else—that you dreamed of and worked for with all the strength that was in you? Haven't you looked forward to the time when your own endeavors brought the realization of the dream? Perhaps my dream has not been a very lofty one; but I have put into it everything I have. It was that I might successfully play a good role in a big company before the people of my own town. I've toiled, drugged, slaved since the day I left here. I've made good. I've come back in a part that the critics say is remarkably well done. Tonight's performance was to have been the biggest event of my life, the supreme moment toward which everyone who has a dream of an ideal looks—the big realization! And for a whim you will wreck it all. You will change the bill and put on 'Stratton's Policy' instead of 'The Holbrookes' and give me a part I've never seen. The company had ended the tour with 'Stratton's Policy' when I joined them. I'll be worse than a failure—I'll be a horrible, ghastly travesty of an actress. Don't—I can't—I won't!"

"You must," declared the manager. He had to do an unpleasant thing and he intended to be brave and firm about it. "We shall not discuss the matter any longer. The play tonight is 'Stratton's Policy' and you are 'Marna.'"

All afternoon they rehearsed. Miss Fortesque's part was made as insignificant as possible, but even in the background her unfamiliarity with the role showed glaringly awkward. Every member of the company, except the famous star, Miss Dora Deane, was ill humored. Miss Deane was happy and patronizingly amiable to Miss Fortesque.

Long before the curtain of the Shorehamville theater rose every seat in the house and every foot of standing room had been sold. Shorehamville was a southern city of old traditions. Mary Fortesque had been the most popular girl in the city a her youth her mother had held the same distinction; and there were aged gentlemen who spoke of the early beauty and charm of her grandmother. Three generations of friends and relatives pecked the house.

The first act was half over. The leading man, who was also the manager, had received an almost inaudible greeting, the famous star a weak and perfunctory applause.

The curtains at the back of the stage parted. Marna, sister of the hero, ran in and threw her arms around the neck of her stage brother. A cheering roar broke from the house. Every man and woman in it seemed to be clapping, cheering and pounding. The volume of sound subsided and rose, again and again.

With her arm tightly about the neck of the leading man Mary Fortesque turned toward the audience. As fresh and innocent and unspoiled as when she had left home, she stood before them with all the sweetness of the home-loved, home-loving southern girl.

The leading man squirmed uneasily and her arm tightened about his neck.

As the last cheer died away, still gripping the leading man's neck with her arm, half dragging him, she walked to the center of the stage.

"My friends, my own people," she began. "I shall not try to tell you how happy I am to be here. You know the love in my heart for you all. I'm home—home! I want to hold out my arms to you and weep a little while—just for joy."

"I wanted to appear before you tonight as a good actress in a good part, and I say, without vanity, that had the play been the one scheduled, 'The Holbrookes,' I could have done so and you would not have been ashamed of me. But this morning the manager, this leading man"—she shook him—"changed the bill and compelled me to appear tonight in a play that I had never seen. I do not know my part. I shall not try to act. I shall stand on the stage while the play goes on around me. Your judgment of me will be kindly; you can understand how bitter is my disappointment because I cannot give you my best. But Mr. White"—another shake—"has decreed—"

"Lynch him!" yelled a voice. "String him up!" "Burn him!" came from all parts of the house.

"We shall give you the play," she went on, when she could be heard; "you will know why I only stand and smile."

The play went on as best it could. Whenever Mary Fortesque came on the stage the house cheered and clapped. The few lines she spoke, every gesture, every smile, brought enthusiastic applause. In the dressing rooms and wings the flowers were stacked in sheafs. The leading man's best scenes were enlivened by catcalls and hoots from the audience. Half a dozen times Mary Fortesque was recalled before the final curtain dropped.

In one of the wings the manager was alternately pleading with and swearing at a newspaper representative.

"Spare your feelings? Keep quiet about this story!" jeered the newspaper man. "Not on your life. Every morning paper in the country shall have this tale. And won't you get the roastings? Serves you right for letting that jealous Deane boss you around. You ought to have stood by the little girl."

The little girl, her arms heaped high with flowers, came up to them.

"I was just congratulating Mr. White," said the journalist, "on your success tonight. Why, Miss Fortesque, you're made—you've arrived. Tomorrow you'll be the most talked of actress in America. Your fortune—"

She shook her head gently. "No," she said quietly. "Tonight I leave the stage forever. I've had a little glimpse of fame and I've had a long look at what lies under it—jealousy, self-seeking, sordidness. For some the reward compensates for the bitterness, but it never will for me. Home and love and—"

She dropped her face in the mass of roses. In a moment she looked up. "Did you see that big, black-eyed laddie who yelled 'Lynch him'?" He is a perfect laddie, but until tonight I thought fame was better than love and home. Now, if he still wants me—"

Through the wings came a broad-shouldered young giant, impatiently pushing aside the piled up furniture.

"And I think he does," she said.

Left Fortune to Old Sweetheart. Ralph Wilcox of Wenatchee was notified that he had fallen heir to $10,000 in cash, an automobile, a section of valuable wheat land with horses and stock, left to him by a sweetheart of boyhood days from whom he had separated in a lover's quarrel, and of whom he had since known but little. The girl vowed she would marry the first man that proposed. A man eighty years old sought her hand, and she accepted. They went east to live, and in a few years the old man died, leaving his wife all of his property. She then started to Oregon to seek her old lover. He at that time had found another and her heart was broken. But she told him she was going to make him heir to her property when she died.

FOR WINTER SUPPER TABLE

Preserved Cherries One of the Best and Most Delicious of Put-Up Lunchees.

There is an ancient superstition that cherries and milk are a combination that will insure speedy death. Therefore small boys and girls have been tortured with a most terrible uncertainty when, surreptitiously, they have gorged themselves with the robin's perquisite or the later coming choke cherries, and have then had bread and milk presented to them as their sole choice of evening meal. From a feeling of wish-I-dared to what-do-I-care, they have proceeded to gather the fruit of hidden branches, possessed with that same eerie uncertainty about the future which a boy may have when he courts death with a giant firecracker. Mothers have suffered from frightful apprehensions in cherry time.

Preserved cherries are among the most delicious of all the put-up fruits and are as serviceable for pies and puddings as any there are, if one wishes to extend the cherry flavor in this way. The cooked cherry is delicious, and considerably less sugar is required for it than for preserves. To candy cherries requires a good deal more care than most domestic managers can take, but some think it worth while, since the produce has more flavor than those that are articles of merchandise.

To preserve cherries a level measure of sugar to a heaping measure of cherries is a reliable portion. Twenty to thirty minutes is about the time required for cooking them. The old-fashioned long cooking was not necessary and deprived them of their beautiful color. Cook and skim the sugar first before adding the cherries slowly.

GREEN TOMATOES THE BEST

For Frying, the Unripe Ones Will Always Be Found to Give the Most Satisfaction.

Now that the tomato season is here, the fact that green tomatoes are more delicately flavored and more deliciously fried than the red ones usually cooked in that way is worth a word of reminder. Got it down in the household new idea book to be tried for breakfast some morning or at luncheon, with or without a meat dish.

Cut into thin slices some large, perfectly green specimens (they must not have begun to show any sign of ripening, and those freshly pulled are really the best for the dish), sprinkle with salt and dip in cornmeal until covered. Sauté in a little butter until a nice brown. Cover the frying pan throughout the cooking process to keep the tomatoes tender. They may be brought to table with the accompaniment of a brown sauce or plain.

Cream Raspberry Pie.

Line a pie dish with rich puff paste, and fill with a quart of raspberries sweetened to taste. Cover with pastry, but do not press this down at the edges. While it is cooking heat a small teacupful of milk, with a pinch of soda in it, and stir into it half a teaspoonful of corn flour which has been previously wet with a little cold milk; add one tablespoonful of white powdered sugar, and cook for three minutes. Pour the mixture into a small basin, and beat in the frothed whites of two eggs; whip to a cream and let it get cold. When the pie is taken from the oven lift the top crust and pour in the cream you have made; replace the crust and set aside to cool. Sprinkle a little sugar over the top before serving.

Rhubarb Jam.

Add to each pound of rhubarb cut without peeling a pound of sugar and one lemon. Pare the yellow peel from the lemon, taking care to get none of the bitter white pith. Slice the pulp of the lemon in an earthen bowl, discarding the seeds.

Put the rhubarb into the bowl with the sugar and lemon, cover and stand away in a cool place over night. In the morning turn into the preserving kettle, simmer gently three-quarters of an hour or until thick, take from the fire, cool a little and pour into jars.

Scotch Shortbread.

One-half pound flour, one-quarter pound unsalted butter, two ounces powdered sugar. Sift flour into bowl, rub in the butter smoothly and add sugar. Knead well with the hand until soft enough to hold together. Form into a ball, press with the palm of the hand until half an inch thick and level the top with rolling pin. Butter a sheet of note paper and lay on a sheet tin. Decorate the edges with the fingers. Bake in a slow oven until firm and pale brown.

A Breakfast Pudding.

Boil three eggs hard, cut in slices and lay in a buttered baking dish. Make a custard with two whole eggs, one and a half cupfuls of milk, half a saltspoonful of salt, dash of pepper and a grating of nutmeg. Pour this custard over the slices of egg and strew the top thickly with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven until firm. Serve hot.

Anchovy Sauce.

Wash eight anchovies in cold water, split open and remove the bones. Wipe dry and pound to a pulp in a mortar. Add two egg yolks, then dilute slowly with two tablespoonfuls of olive oil and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar or lemon juice. Add white pepper, minced parsley and serve cold.

Hints For Hostess

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS for Those Planning Seasonable Entertainments

Open Air Card Parties.

Like Tennyson's little brook, "bridge apparently goes on forever." With these warm days morning parties are quite the thing, with a luncheon served at one, the party beginning at eleven, or the luncheon is served at one, the game following on the porch or lawn. For these outdoor affairs camp chairs are used, rugs are spread and iced drinks are served at intervals during the game.

It is a pretty fancy to use cards with outdoor scenes or "landscape" backs. I believe they are called, different styles at each table.

At one outdoor party the prizes were all rustic baskets filled with flowers and fruit; at another the hostess gave each guest a Japanese flower holder in metal, and the prizes were green pottery bowls; just the thing for the holders. It is now quite the thing to carry out one scheme in decoration, and prizes; a definite color scheme, or prizes and favors to correspond. At one party of four tables, the hostess gave each guest a dainty apron and the four prizes were elaborate hand-made aprons. Hanging baskets and wall receptacles add much to the beauty of the porch, when filled with seasonable flowers.

A Cup-and-Saucer Shower. Cup-and-saucer showers are not new, but this one was conducted in an unusual manner. It was given by a card club of which both the bride and bridegroom elect were members.

The saucers were passed to the men, the cups to the girls. When matched they were partners, the hostess placing them all on a tray, which was presented to the bride at the close of the game, as her prize.

Novel Bazaar Feature.

The ice cream cone is here to stay, the children love it and—on the quiet—so do the grownups. At an open air bazaar given for a "settlement" there were all sorts of attractions, but the North Pole grotto was by all odds the favorite. Built of white materials, covered with "sparkles," with "Teddy" bears of huge proportions, and ones of smaller size clambering up the sides, while on the very tip top a big white bear loomed by an obliging fur house, held the American flag. Inside, clad in snowy apron and cap, a man made the cones while an assistant filled them. A per cent. was paid the owner of the cone outfit and still a large sum was realized for charity.

Luncheon for Nurses.

This may not appeal to very many of our readers, but it certainly was an unusual affair. A daughter of a prominent family in her home town, tired of the pomps and vanities of this wicked world, determined to take a course in nursing. Much to the surprise of herself, friends and family, she continued to the end and graduated with honor. This surprise luncheon was arranged by an elder sister. The table was covered with blue chamber, exactly like the hospital uniform, the centerpiece and plate dollies were of white linen, each having a red cross embroidered in the corner, the opposite corner had the guest's monogram. The centerpiece was a tall glass used for measuring in the diet kitchen and

Frocks for

The dress at the left is a one-piece wash dress of blue zephyr. The skirt is encircled with three tucks to provide for the rapid growth of some of these little folks, and also for the shrinking of the material. The blouse is also tucked at the sides and forms a box plait in front. It is trimmed yoke fashion with swiss embroidery in which white satin ribbon is run. The full sleeves are finished with cuffs made like the yoke. The little girl in the middle is wearing a dress of blue linen made with laboratories and was filled with mar-

guerites. The candles were white, in glass holders, with red cross decorations on the shades. Tiny white mortars held olives and nuts, and water was poured from large medicine bottles. Wee boubons in shape of pellets, were in pill boxes labeled with directions for taking. These were very funny and the girls, all in uniforms, caps and aprons, entered heartily into the fun. On regular hospital report sheets each nurse found her name with laughable remarks as to her condition; a small skeleton (found) at the favor counter, stood on top, supposed to be the ghost of a "first case" come back to haunt its stern persecutor. A delicious menu was served with all the accessories that money, thought and love could produce. Needless to say, the memory of this happy day will while away many a trying hour in the days to come, when these splendid girls are on real duty with their "first" cases long in the past.

The Bride's Bouquet. At a recent wedding the bride carried a beautiful shower bouquet made in six sections. When she went upstairs to prepare for going away she stood on the landing, loosened the flowers, and threw them over the railing to her maid of honor and five maids. Three of the sections had the typical gifts often concealed in the wedding cake, viz.: a coin (in this instance a gold dollar), a charming little finger ring, and a golden thimble, prophesying to the winners respectively, wealth, marriage within the year, and single blessedness. The attendants were all debutantes, and this little episode created much merriment.

To Find Partners.

This pretty way to find partners was utilized by a young hostess who was clever with her brush. It was to be a floral card party, so she painted a flower on the cards for the ladies and wrote the name of that flower on a card, for the men. Partners were found by matching name and flower.

ESCANABA PEOPLE ATTEND FUNERAL AT MARINETTE

A number of Escanaba people including Mr. and Mrs. R. E. MacLean, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kates and others of Wells went to Marinette yesterday to attend the funeral of Col. I. Watson Stephenson, eldest son of U. S. Senator Isaac Stephenson, which was held at the family home on Riverside avenue at 2 o'clock. The services were conducted under the auspices of the Masonic lodge of Marinette, with the funeral oration being given by Rev. John Lloyd of the Marinette Methodist Episcopal church.

Of those who arrived in Marinette to attend the funeral the Marinette Eagle Star says:

Gov. Davidson is expected here this evening from Madison to attend the funeral of the late Col. I. Watson Stephenson, Wednesday afternoon, J. H. McLaughlin and son John McLaughlin of Middletown, O., father and brother of Mrs. I. Watson Stephenson arrived here this morning. Gen. Hodgins and daughter Marguerite returned home this morning from Camp Douglas. Grant Stephenson and Mrs. Stephenson are here from Escanaba and a large delegation of Escanaba people will arrive this evening. Mr. and Mrs. Luther Davies and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crawford of Oshkosh will arrive this evening. Fred Soperton of Ripon is also expected this evening and Mrs. T. G. Walsh of Milwaukee arrives this evening.

Milwaukee, July 20.—The sudden death of Col. I. Watson Stephenson at Marinette on Monday was a shock to his many friends in Milwaukee. "Col. Stephenson was a modest, unassuming man of retiring disposition," said J. H. Puellcher. "Those things which he did he did without display. He had the quiet manner of dealing with those in the employ of the Stephenson companies so characteristic of his father, like Senator Stephenson he had had the love and respect of those with whom he came in daily contact and who knew him well. He was his father's constant companion and many of his father's friends were also his friends. His death will be a severe blow to the Stephenson family and to the many who knew him.

"I am sorry to hear of Col. Stephenson's death," said J. K. Halsey. "He will be missed by many friends and to Senator Stephenson his loss will come as a great blow. Until his health broke down, Watson usually accompanied his father on all trips away from home and the companionship and devotion of father and son were more than usually deep and tender. While retiring in disposition, Col. Stephenson had sterling traits of character that endeared him greatly to those who knew him well."

"I have always considered him one of the brightest young men of the state," said former Gov. George W. Peck. "I have been with him on several fishing and hunting parties and have always found him to be a champion fisherman and a good hand with the gun. He was always a good all around sportsman, and when out in the woods with a party he was continually trying to do more than any one else for the pleasure and enjoyment of the members of the party."

"As a business man I have always understood that he was looked up to as the right hand man of his father."

AGED COUPLE ARE BOUND AND ROBBED

Lapeer, Mich., July 20.—Threatening to kill them if they raised an outcry, five well dressed Italians, believed to have come from Detroit, entered the farm house of Lemuel Kingsbury, an aged farmer, four miles south of Metamora near the Newark school house, at 7 o'clock Saturday night and, after securely tying Kingsbury and his wife, who are more than 60 years old, ransacked the house, secured silverware and other goods and left the premises.

The aged couple were found several hours later by Ira Vanderlip, a neighbor farmer. Mrs. Kingsbury is suffering from fright and is in a serious condition. After releasing the captives Mr. Vanderlip went to the village and notified Deputy Sheriff Henderson. The officer hurried to the farm and hastily obtaining a description went in the direction supposed to have been taken by the robbers. Three of them were rounded up, Henderson left them in charge of other farmers while he took up the chase for the others.

He trailed them to a swamp and succeeded in capturing them. The officer, in company with Turnkey Elliott, of the Lapeer jail, returned to where the three were left, only to find that they had escaped. Detroit and Port Huron officers were notified.

The Italians were first seen at the Kingsbury farm early Saturday evening, when they stopped and asked for a drink of water. Obtaining this they began dickering for the purchase of a chicken. Being told that there were no chickens for sale they purchased a number of eggs and a quantity of bread. They tendered a $10 bill in payment for a purchase of $1. Being told that there was not sufficient change in the house the Italians produced a $5 bill and were given $4 in return. They insisted on buying a chicken, claiming that they had a brother who was ill and needed chicken. They finally obtained a chicken and went away. About 30 minutes later they returned and asked for matches. As Mr. Kingsbury turned from the doorway to grant their request four of the visitors followed him into the house while the other stood guard outside.

"What do you want in here?" asked Kingsbury. "It's none of your business," was the reply. At that Kingsbury and his wife were seized. The belief that the robbers belong in Detroit is strengthened by the finding of street car tickets on the electric lines in that city on the two men held in the jail at Lapeer. A revolver and a large knife were found on them, also. The money, amounting to a large sum, was taken away by those who escaped. Thirty-five dollars which was sewed in Mrs. Kingsbury's skirts was missed by the robbers.

MAY HOLD BOATS TILL AUGUST FIRST

Cleveland, O., July 20.—Since the independent vessel owners entered into an agreement to withdraw 20 per cent of their capacity from the ore trade for 30 days 57 vessels have been laid up. The carrying capacity of the boats that were placed in ordinary is something more than 400,000 tons a trip. With that amount of tonnage seeking employment the market would be in bad shape.

More wild carriers will be sent to the dock and it will be some time next month before some of the owners will have withdrawn their full percentage of tonnage. The outlook in the lake trade is no better now than it was when the boat owners made the agreement and unless there is some improvement in the freight market by the end of the month the agreement will probably be continued through August.

Little change in the condition of the market is looked for this month and there will be plenty of tonnage to take care of the business with 20 per cent of the wild capacity laid up. A number of big freighters that are in the agreement were not sent to the dock. The boats have about all the contract coal they will be able to handle during the season. They will be kept off the market for ore for a number of trips and will come down light for coal.

Chartering in the ore trade is very tight and the contract vessels are taking the bulk of the business. There has been a little slowing up in shipments, but the movement for July will not show much of a loss compared with June. Ore carriers as a rule are getting good dispatch. There will be a good line up of tonnage at this end of the route early this week, but the boats will not spend much time in port.

The movement of coal is heavy and that trade is taking care of a large amount of tonnage. Boats are plentiful and the coal is being rushed up the lakes as fast as it comes forward. The grain markets are quiet and there is no inquiry for tonnage for late loading.

NEW "NO PASS" RULING ISSUED

Washington, D. C., July 20.—A set of "administration rulings" today was announced by the Interstate Commerce commission, supplementary to rulings made heretofore. All of the rules laid down are important to interstate carriers and some of them are of general public interest, as follows:

An interstate excursion for certain commercial clubs, the members of which are to be carried at the expense of the railway companies as their guests, cannot be cancelled.

Free transportation cannot be issued to employees of a bridge company which makes annual reports to the commission, but files no tariffs and collects no changes from shippers or carriers.

Free or reduced rates of transportation may not lawfully be accorded to traveling secretaries of a Young Woman's Christian association.

There is no warrant in law for acceding free transportation of the body of an ex-employee of the carrier, who resigned from the service some time prior to his death.

The commission holds that it has exclusive jurisdiction over claims for damages arising from the misrouting of freight.

HEART OF THE WORLD.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD.

A Strange Story, Taken From a Manuscript Discovered by an Old Mexican Indian to His Friend and Comrade, an Englishman Named Jones.

The hall had been made ready for our coming, for it was lighted with many silver lamps, and in one part of it rugs were laid, and on them stood tables and seats.

For awhile we stood staring at each other in silence. It was Zibbalay who broke it, and his voice rang strangely in the vaulted place.

"It is his hour now," he said, shaking his fists toward the stair by which Tikal had left us, "but let him pray that mine may never come and he suddenly turned, and, walking to a couch, flung himself upon it and buried his face in his hands.

Maya followed him, and, bending down, strove to comfort him, but he waved her away and she came back to us.

"This is a gloomy place," said the senior in a half whisper, for here one scarcely dares to speak loud because of the echoes that rise about the walls, "but dark though it is, it seems safer than the summit of the pyramid, where sword points are so many, and he pointed to a little cup on his throat.

"It is safe enough," Maya answered, with a bitter laugh, "and safely will it keep our bones till the world's end, for through those gates and the men that guard them there's no escape, and the death that threatens us in the sunshine shall overtake us in the shadow."

"What must be must be," answered the senior with a sigh, "but for my part I hope that the worst is past and that they will not kill us. It was your father's rashness brought these evils on us, and perhaps misfortune may teach him wisdom."

"Never," she answered, shaking her head, "for they are right. On this matter he is mad, as you, Ignatio, are mad also. Come, let us look at our prison, for I have never seen it till this hour."

"I do not know," she answered, "perhaps the sanctuary by a secret way. The pyramid is full of these chambers that in old days were used for many things, such as the storage of corn and weapons and the burying places of priests, thousands of whom are at rest within it. Now they are empty and deserted."

As we walked back again I stopped before a wooden door leading into one of the chambers of which I have spoken, that stood ajar.

"Let us go in," said Maya, pushing it open, and we entered to find ourselves in a small room lined with shelves packed, some of them with yellow and some with white bars of metal.

"Copper and lead," said the senior, glancing at them.

"Not so," answered Maya with a laugh, "but that which you white men covet, gold and silver. Look what is piled above the shelves, and she held up the lamp and read: 'Pure metal from somewhere mines, set apart for the service of the temples of the Heart, and of the temples of the east and west. Of gold—such a weight; of silver—such a weight.'

I stared and my eyes grew greedy, for here in this one room, neglected and forgotten, was enough wealth to carry out my purpose three times over, stored there by the forefathers of this strange race—cater race. Ah! if only I could see one of them, safe across the mountains, how great might be my future and that of the people which I lived to serve!

"Perhaps you will win it after all, Ignatio," said Maya, interpreting my thoughts, "but to be frank, I fear that you will gain nothing except a sepulchre in these gloomy vaults."

After this we visited several chambers that were empty, or filled only with the wreck of broken tables, tapestries and curious furniture, till at length we came to a room, or rather a large cupboard, piled from floor to ceiling with golden vessels of the most quaint and ancient workmanship, which had been discarded by the priests and cast aside as worthless; why, I do not know. In front of this gleaming pile stood a chest, unlocked, and the senior opened it. It was packed with priestly ornaments of gold set with great emeralds. Maya picked out a belt from the box and gave it to me, saying: "Take it, Ignatio, since you love such trinkets. It will set off that robe of yours."

"Have no fear, friend," said Maya, "they will not do murder so openly." By now Tikal stood before us bowing and Zibbalay, who as usual was seated brooding at the table, looked up and saw him. "What do you seek, traitor?" he asked, angrily, the blood flushing beneath his withered skin. "Would you kill us? If so, slay on, for thus shall I come the sooner to the bosom of that God whose vengeance I call down upon you."

"I am no murderer, Zibbalay," answered Tikal with dignity. "If you die it will be by the command of the law that you have broken and not by mine. I am here to speak with you, if you will come apart with me."

"Then speak on before these others or leave your words unsaid," he answered, "for not one step will I stir with you, who doubtless seek some opportunity to stab me in the back."

"Yet it is important that you should hear what I have to say, Zibbalay," said Tikal, then, traitor, or go."

Now Tikal thought for awhile, looking doubtfully at Maya, from whose fair face indeed he rarely took his eyes. "Is it your wish that I should withdraw?" she asked, shortly.

"It is not mine," said Zibbalay, "stay where you are, daughter."

"Listen, Zibbalay," said Tikal, "yesterday before the gathering on the pyramid I offered you marriage, the lady Maya, and spoke with her, telling her that now as always I loved her, although believing her to be dead, I had for reasons of the state taken another woman to be my wife. Then I made her this offer: that if she would consent to become my wife, I would put away Nahua, whom I had married. Moreover I added this, that I would give up my place as cacique to you."

Zibbalay, whose it is by right, to hold for so long as you should live, and would not oppose you or your policy in any matter. I told her, on the other hand, that if she refused to become my wife I would surrender nothing, but would put out my strength to crush away from her, and these strangers, your friends."

"She answered me with contempt, saying that I might do my worst, but she would have naught to say to me. What happened afterward you know, Zibbalay, and you know also the danger in which you stand to-day, now that power has left you and your very life trembles in the balance."

He paused, and Zibbalay, who had been listening to his words amazed, turned to Maya and said sternly: "Does this man lie, daughter?"

As she was about to answer, though what she meant to say I do not know, Tikal broke in: "This offer I made to her, and that it may be put beyond a doubt, now I make it to her and you again. If she will take me in marriage, for her sake I will put away Nahua. I will lay down my rule and set you in your place again, with liberty so long as you shall live to work such follies as the gods may suffer."

Zibbalay heard, and, rising, lifted his head to the vault above him and said: "I thank thee, O God, who, in answer to my prayers, has shown me a way of escape from the troubles that beset me. Tikal, it shall be as you wish, and we will swear our peace upon the altar of the Heart. Doubtless there will be trouble with Mattal and some of his following, but if we stand together they can be overcome."

"Your pardon, Zibbalay," I interrupted; "the Lady Maya has not spoken."

"What should she say?" he exclaimed. "Why, what should she say?"

"What I said to my Cousin Tikal yesterday," she answered, setting her lips and speaking very low; "that I will have nothing to do with him."

"Nothing to do with him, girl! Nothing to do with him! Why, he's your affianced; you do not understand."

"I understand well, father, but for naught that can be offered to me upon the earth will I give myself in marriage to a man who has treated you and me as my Cousin Tikal has done, a man who could not keep his oath to you or wait for me one single year."

"Cease to be foolish," said Zibbalay. "Tikal has erred, no doubt, but now he would make atonement for his error, and if I can forgive him so can you. Think no more of the girl's folly, Tikal, but send for ink and parchment and let us set down our contract."

"I have the paper here, lord," said Tikal, drawing a roll from his breast, "but, pardon me, does the Lady Maya consent?"

"Ay, ay, she consents."

"I do not consent, father, and if you drag me to the altar with yonder man I will cry out to the people to protect me, or, failing their aid, I will seek refuge in death by my own hand if need be."

"Yet it seems that you could command her to break her pledged troth for your sake, oh, most honorable white man," said Tikal with a bitter laugh.

"Hearken, friend Ignatio, for you at least are not in love, tell your brother there and this rebellious girl which way their duty lies."

"Zibbalay," I said, "I cannot plead your cause and mine, though not to do so be our destruction, seeing that I have sworn that come what may I will not stand between these two. To-day, for the second time in my life, my plans are brought to nothing by the passion of a woman. Well, so it is fated, and so let it be."

Zibbalay did not answer me, but, turning to the senior, said: "Will you still cling to your purpose, white man, and take advantage of my daughter's madness? If so, know that your triumph shall be short, for when, in some few hours, Tikal comes again, I will tell him all and give you over to his keeping to deal with as he wishes. Answer, then, and for the last time. Do you choose life or death?"

"I choose death," he answered, boldly, "if the price of life be the breaking of my troth and the surrender of my bride to another man. If Ignatio here cannot forget his oath, how much less can I forget mine which I have sworn with this lady? Therefore, till the Lady Maya renounces me, for good or evil, in death or in life, I will cleave to her."

"And in death or in life I will cleave to you, beloved," she said. "Take such vengeance as you wish upon my own father, yes, if you wish, give over this man to whom my heart drew me across the mountains and the desert, to die at the hands of Tikal, but know that he will hold me faster dead than he did while he was alive, for into the valley of death I shall follow him swiftly."

Now at last the rage of Zibbalay broke loose, and it was terrible. Rising from his seat he shook his clenched hands above his daughter's head and cursed her, till in her fear she shrank away from him to her lover's breast.

"As with my last breath," he cried, "I pray that the curse of your gods, of your country, of your ancestors, and of me, your father, may rest upon you and your children; may your desire turn to ashes in your mouth, and may death rob you of its fruit; may your heart break by inches for remorse and sorrow and your name become a hissing and a shame."

He paused, gasping for breath, and Maya fell at his knees sobbing: "Oh! father, unsay those words and spare me. Have you no pity for a woman's heart?"

"Ah!" he said, "so much pity as you have for my sorrows and gray hair. Why should I spare you, girl, who have not spared your father? My curse is spoken, and I will add this to it, that it shall break your heart at last, ay, and the heart of that man who has robbed me of your duty and your love."

Then he suddenly ceased speaking, his eyes grew empty, he stretched out his arms and fell heavily to the floor.

CHAPTER XVIII. THE FLOT.

Springing forward, but too late to save him, the senior and I lifted Zibbalay from the ground and laid him on a couch. Peeping over our shoulders, Maya caught sight of his ghastly face and the foam upon his lips.

"O, he is dead!" she moaned; "my father is dead, and he died cursing me."

"No," said the senior, "he is not dead, for his heart stirs. Bring water, Maya."

She obeyed, and for hard upon two hours we struggled to restore his sense, but in vain; he lingered, indeed, but we could not stir him from his stupor. At length, as we were resting, wearied with our fruitless labor, the gates opened and Tikal came again.

"What now?" he asked, seeing the form of Zibbalay stretched upon the couch. "Does the old man sleep?"

"Yes, he sleeps," answered the senior, "and I think that he will wake no more. The words he spoke to you to-day are coming true, and that which you took from him by force will soon be yours by right."

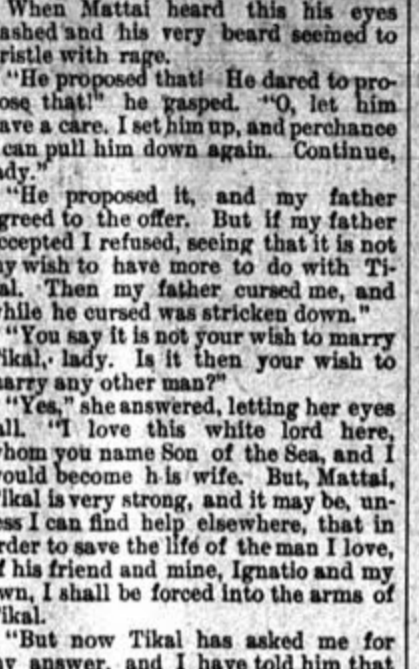

"No," answered Tikal, "by right, it will be the Lady Maya's yonder, though by force it may remain mine, unless, indeed, she gives it me of her own free will. But, say, how did this come about?"

"Now I broke in hastily, fearing lest the senior should say too much, and thus bring some swift and awful fate upon himself."

"He was worn out with the fatigue of our journey and the excitements of yesterday. After you had left he began to talk of your proposals, and suddenly was taken with this fit. These matters are not for me to speak of, who am but a prisoner in a strange land, still, lord, it will not look well if he who once was cacique of this city dies here unattended, for then people may say that you have murdered him. Have you no doctors who can be summoned to attend him, for without drugs, or even a bleeding knife, we have done all that we can do?"

"Murdered him! That they will say in any case. Yes, there are doctors here, and the best of them is Mattal, my father-in-law. I will send him. But, Maya, before I go, have you no word for me?"

TURKS WITNESS SPANISH SPORT

FIRST BULL-FIGHT IN CONSTANTINOPLE

The great sport of the Spanish people, bull fighting, was introduced to the Turks in Constantinople the other day, but the subjects of the sultan did not take kindly to it, as is proved by the emptiness of the grand stand, shown by the accompanying photograph. There were many protests against the granting of a concession for the holding of bull-fights in the Turkish metropolis, but all were vain.

LESSON IN FARMING

Thirty Tons of French Garden to Be Transported.

Plants Undisturbed While Earth Surrounding Them is Removed From Reading to Birmingham Farm Demonstration.

London.—Some thirty tons of French garden, heavy with plants as well as "golden soil," are being removed from Reading to Birmingham.

The garden, which stood in a corner of Messrs. Sutton's trial ground at Reading, is the best educational model yet seen. In its new site in Warley park, close to the bandstand, it will cover a strip 160 feet in length, and a good three days' work will be spent in setting it up, and, so to speak, naturalizing it. The garden will be opened by the lord mayor and lady mayoress of Birmingham, who were originally interested in the scheme by Mr. Chance—like his cousin, Sir Joseph Chance, one of Birmingham's notable benefactors.

The model is described as "educational," designed to "demonstrate the continental system of intensive cultivation," and as a demonstration it is not less charming than it is educational.

Everything is to be transferred just as it is, and not one plant of the many thousands will be disturbed. The frames and cloches and open patches of ground are to demonstrate the growth and progress of French gardening as well as the results; and for this reason all the spectators will follow one path in one direction, so that they may pass with the explanatory lecturer, as it were, from February to November.

First, they will see a bed in the making, one part pit, one part heaped manure, one part completed with soil and frame. Next comes a row of frames in which three crops are growing cheek by jowl—lettuces, carrots and radishes. This is succeeded by a row in which four crops are growing together, the fourth being cauliflower.

From the frames you pass to the cloches under which the seed is first sown, making a close green mat. Next are the cloches where these seedlings are pricked out at even distances, showing how the cloches feed the frames. At this stage the first part of the year is completed. The succeeding beds and frames illustrate how the soil is used yet again for the later part of the year.

This is perhaps the most novel and interesting part of the demonstration. The variety is most striking. One of the late beds is filled with cabbages, between which again is a double crop of radish and endive. These cabbages, cress, and other vegetables are to be transferred just as they are, and not one plant of the many thousands will be disturbed.

The frames you pass to the cloches under which the seed is first sown, making a close green mat. Next are the cloches where these seedlings are pricked out at even distances, showing how the cloches feed the frames. At this stage the first part of the year is completed. The succeeding beds and frames illustrate how the soil is used yet again for the later part of the year.

This is perhaps the most novel and interesting part of the demonstration. The variety is most striking. One of the late beds is filled with cabbages, between which again is a double crop of radish and endive. These cabbages, cress, and other vegetables are to be transferred just as they are, and not one plant of the many thousands will be disturbed.

Will Buy American Cattle

London.—To encourage the importation of American cattle into England, the city of London corporation has a big scheme on hand. It is proposed to construct a huge slaughter house and cold storage plant in connection with the Metropolitan meat market at Smithfield.

Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars will be spent on the scheme, and when they are completed the buildings will constitute one of the finest establishments of their kind in the world. They will be equipped with all the latest appliances and are expected to create a revolution in the importation of cattle into this country.

The scheme is viewed with consternation by the railroad companies here, who receive a large proportion of their income from the carriage of frozen meat from Liverpool and other ports to London. Under the new scheme cattle will be shipped direct to London.

This scheme will have a double advantage. The meat of foreign cattle killed in London will fetch as high a price in the market as if the cattle had been of English origin, while it will reduce enormously the necessity for consuming frozen meat.

Wet Weather Kills Horses. Pottsville, Pa.—Over a dozen horses died in Pottsville and vicinity the other day of a strange, new disease which is said to be caused by the wet weather, and different parts of the country report scores as having died from the same disease. It begins like the mange and soon affects the area.

LOVE MEASURED BY MACHINE

It Will Be Patented by Man Who Declares That It Records Psychological Attractiveness.

THE MACHINE IS TERMED A "PHYSTYMOGRAPH" BY TRUDOW.

San Francisco.—A mechanical arrangement which he terms a "love machine," and which he declares will measure the strength of human affections between lovers, friends or relatives—which will correctly tabulate the amount of resistant will power of any individual, and which will also tell to an infinitesimal fraction the amount of psychological attractiveness exerted over a person by another—has been invented by Charles Trudow, a mechanic, who lives on Jones avenue, Elmhurst. Trudow has applied for letters patent upon his contrivance and is seeking capital with which to start a "love machine" factory.

The machine is termed a "phystymograph" by Trudow. Its powers are such that the human emotion termed love is drawn into it when two persons grip a pair of handles, not unlike those of an ordinary electric battery. A dial which connects a contrivance of springs and wires registers the amount of affection the two persons who grip the handles have for each other. If there is no love between them the dial hand remains motionless. According to tests by Trudow its only fault is that it cannot tell the full amount of love between some extra affectionate couples. The machine will not measure the affections of two men—the dial hand remaining motionless, as is the case when there is no love between men and women.

GAS PIPE ITS OWN PLUMBER

When Fire Came From Leak a Lead Jacket Plugged the Hole—Explanation Is Simple.

Kansas City, Mo.—Chance sometimes works overtime to produce very insignificant results, and, as an example, here's the story of a fire in the joint basement below the Economy Furniture company, 813 Main street, and a pawnshop owned by G. A. Stevens at 813 1/2 Main street. A lead jacketed pipe runs through the floor of pawnshop to a steam radiator above. A space near the pipe was left when the plumbing was done. Directly below the hole is a gas pipe.

Now, at exactly two minutes of 11 o'clock in the morning, George A. Stevens, Jr., who clerks in the pawnshop, dropped a lighted cigarette through this hole; at the same second the gas discovered a small leak in the pipe and ventured out. The cigarette set fire to the gas and in a few moments a little blue flame was scorching the floor of the pawnshop. By the time several fire companies arrived the fire was extinguished and the gas pipe leaked no more.

Now, here's the explanation: The flame had melted the lead jacket which had dripped down on the gas pipe and the lead was plugged.

SNAKES CHANGE MAN'S VIEWS

Pennsylvania Farmer Puts His Hand into Nest of Copperheads and Stops His Grumbling.

York, Pa.—Farmer William Tracey changed his notions about the weather when he reached into a nest of six copperhead snakes in removing an old stone fence, in Dover township, and promptly resigned from the Knockers' club.

Before the adventure of his hand Farmer Tracey's remarks at the East-month village store were those of a weather pessimist. He opined that it was unseasonably cool and that crops would suffer if a hot wave did not soon come along.

However, if that particular hot wave for which Tracey hankered had been there when he put his hand into the copperheads' nest, it is probable they would have been active enough to have made Tracey the hero of a different sort of reception. As it was, the six snakes were too sluggish from the chill to move with their summer alacrity.

City Owns Pigs and Pianos

Inventory Being Prepared in Cleveland Lists Everything From Canary to Elephant.

Cleveland, O.—The task of preparing an inventory of every bit of property, movable and otherwise, owned by the city of Cleveland, is now drawing to a close. Twelve hundred typewritten pages in the office of Department Examiner Brown, at the city hall, show a complete list of everything that the city of Cleveland owns from office blotter to reservoirs, and from lead pencils to Minnie, the Brookside zoo elephant.

The work, so far as it has progressed, reveals the fact that Cleveland owns at least three pianos and two organs, six canary birds, 77 pigs, 239 chickens, 60 cows, several barber chairs and a number of razors, and only the general schedule for two departments out of a total of 200, has been completed. There are 139 rocking chairs at the City hospital and 118 at the infirmary.

HAWK SWOOPS DOWN ON HAT

Carries Off Chanticleer Headgear of Jersey Miss and Drops It into Passaic River.

Singac, N. J.—While on her way downtown Miss Margaret McPhall had an exciting experience with a huge chicken hawk, which made off with her chanticleer hat.

When near the schoolhouse on Pompton turnpike, she first noticed the hawk hovering over her, but high up in the air. The bird, after circling about and swinging nearer and nearer to her, suddenly swooped down on her head and seized the hat.

It fluttered and pulled at the headgear, while Miss McPhall screamed. Two girl friends ran to her assistance. Miss Minnie Hartdorf reached her first, and she tried to drive off the bird, but the hawk flapped his wings wildly several times, striking Miss Hartdorf in the face and blinding her for the time being.

Miss McPhall was so frightened that she sank to the ground. By that time the hatpins had worked loose and the hawk flew away with the headgear in its claws. When over the Passaic river the bird evidently discovered it had made a mistake and dropped the hat, which fell into the water.

At that moment Howard Jackson of Montclair, a member of the Sunnyside Canoe club, came around the bend of the river in his canoe. Some men called out to him to secure the hat, which he did and returned it to the owner.

CUBS BEAT OUT BROOKLYN BY NARROW MARGIN

Chicago Nationals Have Narrow Escape From Defeat.

Chicago, Ill., July 20.—One of the tightest games of the season played on the local grounds was that of today when the Cubs trimmed the Brooklyn 1 to 0. Today's game was a brilliant pitchers' battle with Pfeister performing for the Cubs and Bell for the visitors. Bell held the locals to six scattered hits and Pfeister allowed but seven. The score:

Chicago	1	6	2
Brooklyn	0	7	2

Batteries: Preister and Archer; Bell and Erwin. Umpires Johnstone and Easton.

PHILLIES TRIP UP THE CARDINALS

St. Louis, July 20.—The Cardinals were drubbed 11 to 2 by Philadelphia today when Harmon was landed on for 11 hits which with four errors by the locals were made to count for 11 runs. Foxen pitched great ball for the visitors keeping the seven hits taken off his delivery well scattered. The score:

Philadelphia	11	11	2
St. Louis	2	7	4

Batteries: Foxen and Doolin; Harmon and Bresnehan. Umpires O'Day and Brennan.

CINCY REDS WIN IN A SWATTEST

Cincinnati, July 20.—After a swatfest in which the honors were even the Reds defeated New York today 6 to 5. Ames worked for the Giants while Burns was on the slab for the locals. The score:

Cincinnati	6	13	2
New York	5	13	2

Batteries: Burns and McLean; Ames and Schiel. Umpires Rigler and Emslie.

PIRATES WERE BEATEN BY BOSTON YESTERDAY

Pittsburg, July 20.—The Pirates were taken into camp today by the cellar champs 3 to 2 after a brilliant fielding game and in which neither side was charged up with an error. The score:

Boston	3	8	0
Pittsburg	2	7	0

Batteries: Ferguson and Graham; Maddox and Gibson. Umpires Klem and Kane.

DO NOT FORGET SAM RAWFORD

Do not overlook Samuel Crawford in passing around the baseball box. Sam has been in baseball a long time, yet he still is one of the most feared batsmen in the league. Early this season Crawford hit in tough luck. He met the ball just as fairly as he ever did, but most of his drives went straight to some waiting outfielder. Crawford gave the outfielder about as much hard labor as any man in the league, but his efforts counted very little on paper.

In a game last week he was responsible for three of the Tigers' runs. His sacrifice fly in the seventh scored Davey Jones and his long drive in the ninth brought the two runs required for victory.

Crawford is no longer a young man from a baseball standpoint, but he certainly can smut the ball. He fields as steadily as a clock and has a lot of speed in spite of two bad ankles.

A lot of good ball players have come and gone during the time he has played.

The Continentals may go to Crystal Falls Sunday.

TIGES FINALLY WIN A GAME FROM RED SOX

Detroit Downs Boston By a Score of 3 to 2.

Boston, July 20.—After being trimmed in three straight games the Detroit Tigers turned on Boston today and with Willets in the box trimmed the locals 3 to 2. The Tigers today showed more of their old time batting form than in any previous game during the eastern invasion getting 14 hits off Collins. While the Tigers were slaughtering the local twirler, Willets was performing in grand style, keeping the hits off his delivery scattered. The score:

Detroit	3	14	1
Boston	2	9	3

Batteries: Willets and Stange; Collins and Carrigan. Umpires Connolly and Kerin.

YANKS TAKE ANOTHER FROM CELLAR CHAMPS

New York, July 20.—The Yanks continued their upward climb today when they trounced St. Louis 2 to 1 after a hard game. The visitors outbatted the locals, but Quinn tightened up with men on bases. The score:

New York	2	8	1
St. Louis	1	12	1

Batteries: Quinn and Mitchell; Pelty and Stephens. Umpires Dineen and Evans.

WHITE SOX ARE AGAIN WHITEWASHED

Philadelphia, July 20.—The Athletics whitewashed the Chicago White Sox again today, this time trimming them 2 to 0. Coombs who performed for the locals was invincible while Scott weakened once and the only two runs to mark the game. The score:

Philadelphia	2	7	0

Batteries: Coombs and Lapp; Scott and Sullivan. Umpires O'Loughlin and Egan.

SENATORS CLEAN UP ON THE NAPS EASILY

Washington, July 20.—The Senators made their hits off Mitchell count for runs today and trimmed the Naps 8 to 4. Groome was more effective than Mitchell with men on bases. The score:

Washington	8	9	1
Cleveland	8	9	2

Batteries: Groome and Beckendorf; Mitchell and Bemis. Umpire Perrine.

HERE'S A NEW ONE.

Anderson, centerfielder of the Deep Haven, Minn., team, promises to eclipse in historic fame Casey of Mudville. In a game with the Prince Realy team of Minneapolis on Excelsior diamond yesterday, Anderson caught the fly, swam to shore and after a long run Anderson fell into the lake, turned on his back and caught the cy, swam to shore and Deep Haven won. This was in the eighth with the score 9 to 4 in favor of Deep Haven. The umpire says he knew Anderson caught the ball because he lives in Deep Haven and knows the fielder cannot dive.

"Our match came off a few days later in the barber's hall over a saloon and Jeffries won his first bout in about two rounds. He knocked out his man, and it took us fully ten minutes to bring him to. That was Jeffries' first fight."

Jeffries used to be a banana peddler

Spokane, Wash., July 20.—Joe Webb, residing at the Empire hotel, claims the honor of putting James J. Jeffries in the ring for the first time. Speaking of the event, he says:

"I went to Los Angeles in 1887 and in the fall of that year four of us decided that we needed an athletic club. Forthwith, Montz, a barber; Woods, a saloon man; Ed Canall, L. B. Roge and myself organized the first athletic organization of Los Angeles. Finally Montz came to me one day and said we needed a little fighting.

"I told him that I knew a young lad driving a banana wagon that I could get for a bout. He said all right, so I went out to see my banana peddler.

"THE LEAGUES," By "Dope."

Ford pitched his third one-hit game of the season against St. Louis Tuesday.

The showing of the Western teams of the American Leagues on the present eastern trip is getting to be a joke. Tuesday they managed to get one game out of six played, but at that this is better than some days when there have been no victories for the west.

In a close game with Washington on Tuesday, Cy Young won his five-hundredth victory in major league ball.

Cobb has hit for 43 extra bases, and leads his league in that respect.

Lajole and Easterly are the only Naps that are hitting over .240.

Oldring's batting for this year has been a surprise to all the Athletic fans as up to this year he was considered a good .250 hitter and no better, but to date his three hundred clip which he started early in the season has been maintained.

Karger and Hall of Boston keep up their good pitching by downing Detroit in a double-header on Tuesday. These pitchers have always bothered the Detroit sluggers and Tuesday's games only proved again that some pitchers have teams which they delight in beating without much difficulty.

No player in the American League has yet more than three homers marked up to his credit.

Walker of Washington is considered one of the best fielding pitchers in the American league.

It can be truly stated that the American league race this year has been one of sports. New York, Detroit and the Athletic have had theirs while the Boston boys are enjoying a healthy one now.

The collapse of the Detroit pitching staff has hardly ever been equaled. The only evidence of real pitching for some time was Willet's shut-out victory over Washington.

FINED $8 FOR HITTING UMPIRE

Bloomington, Pa., July 20.—President McCollum of the Susquehanna league has fined Field Manager Foster of the Berwick-Susquehanna league team $8 and suspended him for three Susquehanna league games for his action in the Berwick-Nanticoke game at Nanticoke Friday, when he refused to abide by the decision of Umpire Lozette, when the latter removed him from the game, following a protest of the umpire's decision by Foster.

Outfielder Shea of the Sunbury team is fined $8 and suspended for two Susquehanna league games as a penalty for his striking Umpire Splain.

JEFFRIES USED TO BE A BANANA PEDDLER

Spokane, Wash., July 20.—Joe Webb, residing at the Empire hotel, claims the honor of putting James J. Jeffries in the ring for the first time. Speaking of the event, he says:

"I told him that I knew a young lad driving a banana wagon that I could get for a bout. He said all right, so I went out to see my banana peddler.

"That man was James J. Jeffries. When I went up to him, I offered him $5 to box, but he said, 'No, I could not disgrace my father for that.' All right, I said, I will give you $7.50, that will buy you a suit of clothes. All right," he said, "I know nothing of boxing," he complained. I told him to go and see a fellow named Gallagher, who would give him a few lessons. He went.

"Our match came off a few days later in the barber's hall over a saloon and Jeffries won his first bout in about two rounds. He knocked out his man, and it took us fully ten minutes to bring him to. That was Jeffries' first fight."

WILL SHOW GRIFFITH HOW TO RUN TEAM

The sporting editors of the Cleveland newspapers have taken up the deft of Manager Clarke Griffith to run his team as they think it ought to be run. The list of sporting writers includes William A. Phelen, Myron Townsend, "Jack" Rider and Frank D. Bostock.

Phelen has made all arrangements with Manager Griffith for the game and it will be widely advertised because of the fact the sporting men are to run the team and that the umpires, Griff and the manager of the opposition team are to write the accounts thereof for the Cincinnati papers.

BARNEY DREYFUS PAYS THE BONUS

That poor playing of the Pittsburg baseball team this year has been due to sulking on the part of players because of an alleged agreement on bonus last year not having been kept by Barney Dreyfuss, president of the club, is the allegation made in the Pittsburg Leader today—a newspaper owned by A. P. Moore, stockholder in the champions. The Leader goes on to state that the end came last Monday when the Pittsburg were beaten 18 to 0 by Philadelphia, that Dreyfuss then threw up his hands and distributed to alleged promise bonus, whereupon the champions buckled down to work and beat the New Yorks four games in a row.

CLARKE GRIFFITH ON ART OF BASE-RUNNING

"I think I am on the right road," said Clarke Griffith recently. "This base-running thing is bound to win, and I'm going to keep the boys at it while their legs are good. Get the other fellows throwing and you can do a lot of tricks with them. Of course there are times when discretion must be exercised. I don't recommend heading base thieving when Kling or Archer is up there behind the pan. They might get even Bescher too often to be enjoyable. But take the general run of catchers and it pays to keep 'em throwing.

"This is the present status of the attacking part of baseball; base running has been so subordinated of recent years that the infielders don't know how to deal with a lot of fast men plunging at them all the time. Fact. They don't know what to do when man after man, instead of waiting to be batted around comes charging down the line. Catchers throw uncertainly, infielders take the throws and grope around like catfish. You can steal all the time if you only have a little nerve.

"The spiking of infielders, I think, is largely the result of this uncertainty and clumsiness. In the old days, when men were stealing all the time, the basemen were as clever as cats, and real wonders, both at touching the runners and doging them. Nowadays the infielders don't know how to handle them. They go over the base in a clumsy fashion and got spiked by the sliding runners, instead of being to one side collecting the men as they arrive. Look at the scores and stories of the old game; you will see that more base runners used to get hurt than infielders. Seldom was a basemen spiked—if any one got damaged it was a reckless runner getting bumped.

"Since Bescher filled out and got big he looks more and more like Bill Lange each day. He has the same bulk the same general make-up, and he runs his bases wit the Lange methods and the Lange success. Bill was a wonderful man. He did tricks on the sacks such as few men since his time have dared to do and he could get by them time after time. One thing he did, and often, which I think Bescher can bring off with a very little coaching, was the delayed steal. Bill, once on a base, would wait till the catcher was just passing the ball back to the pitcher and would then skidoo for second. He figured that the pitcher, hurried and rattled, would make a wild grab at the ball, turn and chuck way wild to second, while the second bagger, equally rattled, would have to chase the ball, get to the base and fish for the runner. Bill always had it timed to a nicety, and could get by with it day after day. They didn't get in front of Bill, either, and they won't get in front of Bescher. It's one thing to block a man scaling about 150 and another to get before a man weighing 190 and coming with a long slide."

BELIEVE ME!

That every dollar for merchandise sent out of this town you will see never more. Why buy packers' sausages which are never less than ten days old by the time they reach your city, when you can have Gunter's sausage fresh made every day.

Gunter's sausages are made on honor and sold on merit—for the past twenty years are they known this county over for their sweetness, flavor and delicacy. Our methods, market and sausage rooms are wide open to everybody and we court the closest scrutiny. Why smell the overflowing coffers of the packers in buying their sausages when you can have Gunter's which in every way are as far ahead of packer goods, or any other, as day is of night. Demand Gunter's sausages from your dealer—insist on having them—they will but cost you the same money, and you will thus have the best and freshest possible the world over. Besides you will keep at home these very same pennies which will sooner or later compel attention for Delta county as a prominent iron ore producer of the lands.

Respectfully yours,
MIKE GUNTER.

NEW ROLLER TO BE PUT THROUGH ITS PAGES TODAY

A new ten ton steam road roller, which may be secured by the city in exchange for the big roller that it was found impossible to use here and by paying $1300 in addition, will be tried out today before members of the street committee by J. D. Earl, representing the Huber Manufacturing Co., makers of the machine. The roller is claimed to be one of the best made, having a number of advantages over similar rollers manufactured by other concerns and this morning the machine is to be given a complete tryout. Mr. Earl claims that he will take out the new roller and will pull the city's old roller through places which the old machine would be unable to pass with its own power. The new machine will be taken from the car in the Northwestern yards early this morning and the demonstration will begin shortly after 9:30 o'clock.

BURNING STAVES CAUSED EXCITEMENT LATE LAST NIGHT

A pile of staves that caught fire near the plant of the North Western Co. and Lumber Company, back of the plant of the Escanaba Manufacturing company, caused considerable excitement shortly after 12 o'clock last night. The violent blowing of the whistle at the plant aroused people in all parts of the city who hurried to the scene of the supposed fire only to find that the blaze had been extinguished by the watchmen even before the members of the local fire department had reached the scene.

CANNON WILL STAY IN THE SPEAKERSHIP RACE

Burlingame, Kas., July 20.—Joseph G. Cannon will not take himself out of the race for the speakership of the next house of representatives. This he made plain near the conclusion of his speech at Emporia, Kansas, this afternoon.

Speaker Cannon's remarks on the speakership, which were made just before he left the P.M. station at Emporia to catch a train for Burlingame, were in part as follows: "I am speaker and on March 4 next I will have been speaker for eight years, a longer continuous term than any other man ever served as speaker since the foundation of the government.

"Somebody has got to be the scapegoat, through magazines and letters. Candidates for congress are asked will you pledge yourself to vote for that old czar for speaker?"

"Oh, the scapegoat. This little 154 pounds of clay cannot bear many sins off into the wilderness. If my constituency is as kind to me as it has been for 36 years, I will go back if God spares my life and be in the next congress either in the majority or in the minority. They wanted to pledge that I would not be a candidate for the speaker if the Republicans have a majority of the next house.

THE BIJOU.

Today the Bijou offers "Convict No. 796," a dramatic uplift for good; a powerful sermon in actions, speaking louder and stronger than words.

Arrested, tried and convicted, the criminal is brought before the judge for sentence, which is given by his honor and is heartily denounced by the prisoner, who is seized by the officers and hurried to the penitentiary. The convict who is number 796, proves to be a fractious one, constantly in trouble with his fellows.

With the chain gang he becomes enraged at a fellow convict and falls him to the ground with a sledge-hammer. For this infraction of the rules he is placed in solitary confinement. Unnoticed he files his way to freedom, with the set purpose to avenge himself by killing the judge who sentenced him.

Securing a disguise he enters the judge's home, strikes him insensible, binds and gags him.

As the convict draws a knife from his belt and is about to kill the judge, he hears, floating in silvery notes and sweet, soft voice, the words and music of "Lead, Kindly Light, Amid the Encircling Gloom."

The hand of the convict is stayed and the knife drops as his ears catch the singing of the hymn by the judge's daughter in an upper room.

He bends forward and listens, "The night is dark and I am far from home, lead Thou me on." The words have realized home, and the conscience-stricken man picks up the knife, releases the judge and breaks down in tears of remorse and repentance. The administrator of justice reaches forth his hand in pity and mercy, telling him to brace up and be a man.

The officers, who have tracked the criminal arrive but the judge stays their advance to grant the felon's request to meet the sweet singer. He then quietly submits to arrest and is led away. Deeply affected the daughter makes weekly missions to the prison and finds an eager and sincere auditor in Convict No. 796.

Announcement has been received in Escanaba that Amos S. Musselman will visit Escanaba on Monday in the interest of his campaign for governor that he is waging throughout the state. In coming to Escanaba Mr. Musselman will invade one of the strongholds of Osbornism and while he will be accorded most courteous treatment and will be listened to with deference and respect he will be assured by the people in general that Chase S. Osborn of the Soo is Delta county's candidate and marked sentiment in other directions is lacking.
