

ESCAPE NARROW

FIVE LADS NARROWLY ESCAPED SERIOUS INJURY WHEN AUTO TURNED TURTLE.

Four Escanaba lads with Albert Thompson of Chicago, narrowly escaped serious injury early on Sunday morning when the auto in which they were driving plunged from the road into the ditch and turned turtle at Wells.

Those in the car were: Lawrence Pepin, Harold McNaughton, William Harvey and Robert Pryall, all of this city and Albert Thompson, of Chicago who arrived here on Saturday to play with the Escanaba league team.

Young Pepin received word late on Saturday night to take out a quantity of gasoline to his father who was stranded with a car near Groos.

Other members of the party were picked up when the car went up Ludington street. They delivered the oil to Mr. Pepin and were returning to the city at a fast clip. Coming down the hill north of Wells they were running at a fair rate of speed and just after crossing the street car track running to Gladstone they rounded a sharp turn to see a horse and buggy in the center of the road. The driver of the car had time only to turn to the side to escape a collision with the rig and as the car swung about one of the wheels struck a rut. The car was thrown aside into the ditch turning completely over.

Young Pepin was thrown from his seat into the bushes at the roadside while the remaining four were pinned under the car. The top aided in holding up the weight of the car or all would have been instantly crushed to death.

They were finally rescued from their perilous position and when help arrived the car was righted and brought back to the city.

Harvey sustained a bruise about the hip; Thompson suffered from a severely cut leg, while McNaughton escaped with bruises and scratches about the face. Pryall and Pepin escaped without a scratch.

DISMISSALS

WEDDING IS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore St. Peter of 1023 Escanaba avenue were most pleasantly surprised at their home Sunday night by a host of friends, the occasion being the tenth anniversary of their wedding life.

Although thoroughly surprised, Mr. and Mrs. St. Peter proved that they were admirable hosts. The evening was most enjoyably spent and a delightful luncheon served.

Along with their congratulations the friends presented, Mr. and Mrs. St. Peter with a large number of tinware articles.

PICNICKERS WERE CAUGHT IN RAIN AT MAYWOOD

A large and enthusiastic crowd of Escanaba and Gladstone people took in the picnic at Maywood Sunday given by the Gladstone lodge of Eagles. Up to until the rain started about four o'clock the crowd enjoyed themselves at different points about the popular little resort. During the day many enjoyed themselves at games and dancing in the pavilion. As soon as the sky darkened and showed signs of rain the crowds came from the many beauty spots around the resort and the pavilion was crowded to its capacity. The music for the dancing was furnished by the Escanaba city band. Many of the picnickers returned to their homes before the rain set in but the majority stayed until the last boat and although they were drenched when they reached home they expressed themselves as having had a most enjoyable day.

LIBERTY ON RUN FOR MAYWOOD

The steamer Liberty of Marinette took up the regular run of the steamer Maywood yesterday, leaving for Big Bay de Noc points at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. While not as large as the Maywood the vessel is well capable of caring for the trade of the route during the two months that the Maywood will be absent.

RESERVES TO SAIL ON SAT.

ESCANABA DIVISION MEMBERS WILL LEAVE FOR ANNUAL CRUISE THIS WEEK.

Members of the Escanaba division of the State Naval militia are eagerly awaiting the annual cruise with the Hancock division aboard the steamer Yantic, beginning Saturday. The entire membership of the division will take part in the cruise and all are looking forward to an enjoyable trip.

Of the cruise the Hancock correspondent for the Mining Journal says: Members of Hancock division, Michigan Naval reserves, are eagerly awaiting this year's annual cruise, which will be a trip to Chicago. The Hancock division will be accompanied by the Escanaba branch and the members of the Ashland (Wis.) division.

A Duluth paper prints the following concerning the cruise:

"With the bezers of the Minnesota state naval militia on board and all drilled up to the minute, that the best possible showing may be made at this annual maneuvers which will this year take place at Chicago, the good ship Gopher will sail Saturday, Aug. 5. Both the officers and the men are anxious for the date of the sailing. The long trip is the event of the year with the members of the naval militia and while there is a good deal of work connected with the trip, every one seems keen to be off. A larger number that were ever taken before will go on the trip this year.

All the boats will take an active part in the opening of the new naval school and an elaborate program has been arranged at Chicago.

DEAL IS COMPLETED

Through a deal that has been completed by Moses Gagner, who last week purchased the Lyric theater and O. M. Brown, owner of the Majestic theater, those amusement places are to be combined under one management at the old Lyric stand and which in the future will be known as the Majestic theater. The company will offer a complete change of bill each day with 3000 feet of film being offered for each performance.

CHARGED WITH "BOOTLEGGING"

Menominee, Mich., July 31.—To accentuate the fact that the laws of Michigan must be respected and obeyed in this county, Sheriff Joseph Kell yesterday arrested Walter Genoski of La Branche, charging him with selling liquor without a license. Genoski gave a bond of $200 and was released to await the action of the circuit court.

The officers learned several days ago that a "Blind Tiger" was being operated in the north end of the county and they immediately placed a man on the job with orders to collect evidence. Enough has been seen, declares Sheriff Kell, to cause the arrest of Genoski and the officer believes also that he can be convicted.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

BOARD OF EDUCATION OPENS BIDS FOR HEATING AND PLUMBING IN NEW BUILDING.

Contracts for installing heating, plumbing and vacuum cleaning plants in the new North Escanaba public school building were last night awarded by members of the board of education to Clement Pussant and S. C. Stille both of this city. The contract for the heating system was awarded to Mr. Pussant for $1795 while the contract for the plumbing and the vacuum cleaning system was awarded to Mr. Stille for $1255.

Several bids for the work were presented and those of the two local men were the lowest by a considerable amount and which bids were within the appropriation for that work previously made by the board.

Architect Derrick Hubert, of Menominee, who drew the plans and specifications for the building, was present at last night's meeting and conferred with the board members over the proposals before the contracts were awarded.

The board also last night voted to pay Mr. Hubert three per cent of the total of five per cent on the contract price of the building, that is to be paid him for his services.

MAPLE RIDGE COUPLE TAKE MARRIAGE VOWS

In the presence of a number of friends and relatives, Miss Pauline Ackley and Louis Sayen, both of Maple Ridge, will be married this morning at St. Joseph's church at Perkins. Rev. Father LaForest will conduct the service.

Following the ceremony members of the wedding party will return to Maple Ridge where an elaborate wedding breakfast will be served and this evening a supper and dance will be held at the ball when a host of the friends of the bride and groom will be present.

STORM WAS TERRIFIC

Escanaba and vicinity suffered one of the fiercest electrical storms Sunday night, that can be remembered by the "oldest resident." The storm started about 4 o'clock, but did not reach its height until about 9:30. The rain and thunder and lightning were terrific, one "flash of lightning following the other in such quick succession that the night was almost as light as day.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gunderson of Rapid River were the only victims of the storm that were reported. A house near their home was struck by lightning and Mr. and Mrs. Gunderson were rendered unconscious for a time.

The Michigan State Telephone company was as usual the hardest hit of any, having about 65 telephones put out of commission by the storm. Most of the phones were repaired yesterday and are now working in fine order. Luckily the long distance service of the company was not put out of running order.

GLADSTONE WINS BASEBALL GAME

The ball game which was played at Maywood Sunday afternoon during the Eagle's picnic resulted in a score of 10 to 1 in Gladstone's favor over Nahma. Owing to the roughness of the ground the players could not put up a good article of ball. During the game two spectators were hit by sassed fouts and badly bruised. The game of Sunday afternoon makes two that the Gladstone team has won from the Nahma bunch.

FRANK PAQUIN IS GIVEN $10 FINE

Frank Paquin, charged with assault and battery preferred by John Millette, had his trial yesterday in Justice Linden's court. He was found guilty and forced to pay a fine of $10.00 and costs, amounting to $39.71. He was given until noon today to pay the fine and costs or to file notice of appeal.

Paquin was represented by N. C. Spencer, Prosecuting Attorney T. E. Strom appearing for the people.

MARKSMEN TO SHOOT

ESCANABA WILL BE REPRESENTED AT MARQUETTE TOURNAMENT TODAY.

G. M. Mashek, E. C. Voght, C. W. Cates, J. E. Jackson and Grant Stephenson left this morning for Marquette where they will take in the shoot given by the Marquette Bun Club at the Presque Isle grounds. The shoot is open to all upper peninsula clubs and it is expected that the Soo, Manistique, Munising, Gwinn, Ishpeming and Channing will have teams there. The local cracks are making the trip to Marquette partly to interest the upper peninsula shooters in Annual shoot of the Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin club which is to be held in this city next year. The shoot at Marquette will attract several of the well known amateur shooters of the country and also some of the professionals.

WILL GET UMPIRES

A movement is to be launched at once among the managers of the different teams in the Marquette-Delta county league to engage professional umpires for all of the remaining games in the schedule. It is claimed by the members of the teams in the league that the umpiring system in this league this season has been far off color and the managers of at least three of the teams have become convinced of that fact. It is understood that the managements of the Marquette, Ishpeming and Escanaba teams are prepared to make the necessary outlay of money to secure professional umpires if Negaunee can be brought into line.

GET SEATS FOR BOXES

Chairman James Patton, of the grounds committee of the Escanaba baseball club, yesterday purchased 64 opera seats from the management of the Majestic theater to be installed in the boxes at the ball park. Since the burning of the grand stand at South Park no box seats have been provided but that deficiency is now to be filled and the seats purchased will be installed before the next league game is played here.

OLD PASSENGER CONDUCTOR IS ON THE FELCH RUN

John Crain, extra passenger conductor for the North Western road for several years, will this morning take the Felch branch train as a regular run. Mr. Crain has been running north and south of Escanaba on the main line for several years and now is to have a regular daily run.

DISMISSALS ARE ISSUED

DIRECTORS OF BALL CLUB HANDED OUT THREE BLUE ENVELOPES YESTERDAY.

Blue envelopes of dismissal were handed out to three members of the Escanaba baseball team by the board of directors after a special session yesterday afternoon. Because of the big squad on the payroll and the necessity now presented of being forced to cut down expenses the team was cut to the limit and in the future will carry but two pitchers.

The players released are: Pitcher McDonald, catcher A. Love and Thompson, one of the players brought to the city on Saturday from Chicago and who after appearing in the games against Ishpeming failed to show proper form.

Extraordinary expenses that the club has been forced to meet this season has made necessary a policy of extreme economy and it was for that reason that the directors decided yesterday to lump off three heads in a bunch and thus bring expenses down within reasonable bounds.

FORMER ESCANABA MAN PASSES AWAY AT CHICAGO HOME

Announcement was received in the city yesterday of the death in Chicago on Sunday of Robert Lyman, former cashier of the First National Bank of this city, and well known to a host of people in this city. Mr. Lyman was 70 years of age, had not enjoyed good health for some time and had recently returned from a trip to Europe. But a few days ago he suffered from a caruncle that formed between his shoulders. The affection at first did not appear to be serious, but on Saturday complications developed and his death followed on Sunday.

Mr. Lyman served as cashier of the First National Bank from 1890 to 1897 and during his residence here formed a number of close acquaintances and friends here. Upon leaving the city he entered the live stock commission business in which he was eminently successful up to the time of his death.

LOW FARE IN EFFECT

Formal advice was received at the Escanaba office of the North Western system yesterday that a two cent passenger rate, complying with the new Michigan law, will go into effect on all branches of the company in Michigan today.

In the past a fare of two and a half cents a mile has been charged by the company in Michigan and the change is made to comply with the law passed at the last session of the legislature, making two cents per mile the maximum fare for passengers in the upper peninsula as well as in the lower peninsula.

CENSUS PADDING IS CHARGED AT SUPERIOR

La Crosse, Wis., July 31.—A telephone message from Eau Claire, where the United States grand jury has been in session the past week, says that a high city official and a prominent lawyer of Superior have been indicted for alleged padding of the census returns of the city of Superior. Superior returned a population of 40,384 and, suspicion being directed to it, the matter has been under investigation.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 31.—A special dispatch from Madison, Wis., says C. O. Hoover of Superior has been arrested at Madison by a United States marshal in connection with the investigation of the Superior (Wis.) census.

HAY CAPSIZES ON THE STREET

Owing to the loosening of a retaining nut on wagon skean a load of hay owned by Mr. Baronosky of Hyde capsized yesterday afternoon about three o'clock on Jennie street between Ludington street and Wells avenue. Mr. Baronosky but luckily escaped injury.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED

GLADSTONE BOOSTERS PLAN BIG- GENT LABOR DAY CELEBRATION IN HISTORY OF CITY.

Boosters of Gladstone who are planning for the biggest Labor Day celebration ever arranged in the peninsula held a decidedly enthusiastic meeting at the Upper Bay city last night when a regular celebration organization was formed.

Mayor W. F. Hammel was chosen as chairman of the committee; O. L. Mertz, secretary; Henry Rosenblum, treasurer and W. H. Needham, P. W. Peterson and August Lilquist members of the committee who will have general charge of the most elaborate Labor Day celebration ever arranged north of the straits.

An invitation is to be issued by the committee today to all Escanaba unions and the people of Escanaba in general to join with the Gladstone people in making the celebration planned there an immense success. Donations were received by the Gladstone committee from several lodges and unions of the city, thus aiding the committee greatly in their finances.

The different minor committees are to be named by the central committee and all are to work together to make up the biggest day ever arranged in Gladstone. A sensational balloon act and the Norrie Band of Ironwood, together with the Ishpeming band have all been practically secured and other attractions that are certain to hold the people will be engaged before the end of the week.

HAIL IS REPORTED

Reports received yesterday from Marinette and Menominee were that immense damage was done in those cities and the surrounding country by a terrific hail storm that swept the territory on Sunday evening.

Growing field crops and fruits were completely demolished by the hail, in many places the loss mounting into thousands of dollars.

VETERAN AND HIS TAX

In the refusal of Hiram Wellman, a civil war veteran and a school trustee of Ford River township, to give up his office on demand of those who say he is not a taxpayer because his homestead is exempt lies an interesting legal point. The legislature in recognition of the services rendered by those who defended the Union has exempted the property of veterans, up to a certain limit, from taxation. It is necessary that a school trustee be a taxpayer. Is Wellman—or any other veteran whose property holdings do not exceed the total that is exempted—a taxpayer?

Certainly he is. He paid his taxes in advance during the four years from 1861 to 1865. The state has given him a receipt in full. The payment was made on southern battlefields, in miasmatic camps, on weary marches. This exemption is not charity. The legislature did not give it for nothing. There was value received. There was that "consideration" which the law says is necessary for a bargain. The veteran paid in blood and toll and hunger what we of today pay in money. Assuredly he is a taxpayer.

To come to this conclusion requires no straining of the law. A common sense interpretation, known in legal circles as "liberal construction," is sufficient. If the question arose between private parties it could be settled easily. For instance, if the owner of a farm preferred to take his rent in services or in potatoes the tenant would be held to have paid his rent quite as much as though he had given money. The man who fought to save the Union and was given a tax exemption for doing so put the state in his debt. The state through its legislature has recognized the obligation. Looked at either from the strictly legal or the sentimental standpoint, the answer to the question is the same: The veteran is a taxpayer and so is entitled to hold any office to which his fellow citizens choose to elect him.

MEETING IS DELIGHTFUL

STATE OFFICERS OF HIBERNIANS MET LAST NIGHT WITH LOCAL MEMBERS.

Members of the Escanaba division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians last night entertained the state officers of the order at a meeting held at St. Patrick's hall.

The visiting officials at the meeting were: M. F. Powers of Grand Rapids, state president; Dr. J. S. McLaughlin of Wyandotte, state medical examiner, and Engas McCauley of Hancock, state secretary.

The state officers of the Hibernians are now conducting a tour of the different lodges in Michigan to celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the organization of the order of Hibernians.

The state officers were greeted last night by a large and an enthusiastic audience at St. Patrick's hall. Rev. Father Barth delivered the opening address in which he welcomed the visitors to the city and spoke with feeling of the aims and object of the Hibernians; the achievements of the Irish race; the honor and integrity of the Hibernian and their love of country and earnest support at all times of the Catholic church.

President M. F. Powers responded, giving a history of the Irish people and the Hibernians in the United States. He also gave a brilliant description of the work that has been accomplished in Michigan.

John M. Hartnett was the next speaker of the evening and he addressed the audience with his usual vigor. He treated in part of the position taken by the Irishmen in founding and maintaining the republic of the United States and of the achievements won by the Hibernians in later years.

State Secretary McCauley spoke purely on the business of the state officers with the locals and told of their influence throughout the state.

Dr. McLaughlin gave a particularly eloquent address which was frequently applauded, and in which he recounted Ireland's history and the part played by Irishmen in establishing the Republic of the United States.

Other speakers of the evening were: J. J. Clarke, James S. Doherty and James Powers.

PLAN FOR A MISSION

Rev. Father Clement, a priest of the Dominican order was the guest of Rev. Father Barth of St. Patrick's church yesterday. Father Barth made arrangements with Father Clement for a mission to be conducted at St. Patrick's church by the Dominican order of priests in 1912, the exact dates in that year yet to be fixed.

PROGRAM PREPARED

Definite decision has been reached by the committee of three appointed to look into the matter of an upper peninsula excursion to Detroit, and according to plans now being unfolded, the steamer City of St. Ignace, of the D. & C. line, has been secured and it will leave St. Ignace at 11:30 a. m. on Tuesday, Sept. 5, arriving in Detroit at 9 o'clock the morning of the following day.

Governor Osborn has consented to go to St. Ignace to join the boosters from the upper peninsula. Other prominent men in state and national affairs have been invited and as soon as their acceptances are received their names will be announced. Arriving at Detroit, the members of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau of Michigan will march from the docks to the city hall, where they will be officially received by the mayor and the Board of Commerce.

The program of the two days' visit is already being prepared, among the features of which will be two baseball games in the American league. The first day Detroit and St. Louis will play and the second game will be between Detroit and Chicago. The latter game was an open date with both teams and in honor of the occasion of the upper peninsula boosters' visit the contest was arranged. Included in the program will be trips to the various automobile plants and other manufacturing establishments. Detroit's beautiful summer resort, Belle Isle, will be the scene of a joyous ride in automobiles.

The cost of this excursion is figured at $40 to the man, including railroad and other expenses from the point farthest from St. Ignace. This will include all expenses for meals berth transportation and entertainment. Arriving at Detroit the boat will lie at the dock and meals will be served at the regular hours as usual, and the members desiring to eat there may do so at no further cost.

The stateroom committee, made up, necessarily, of men in one city, composed of Morgan W. Jopling, A. E. Archambeau, F. S. Case, John D. Man-gum and A. T. Roberts of Marquette. The committee is now ready to receive applications for reservations. There is little choice in the selection of staterooms; there being but little difference in the size or location.

In order that no party or town will be favored, the applications received on or before Aug. 8 will be assigned by lot. After that date staterooms will be allotted in the order of the receipt of applications, and the "first come, first served" rule will be strictly adhered to.

With two men in a room, the big boat will easily accommodate 350 people. Members wishing to room together should pin their applications together and signify their wishes. Parties of from four to six desiring to congregate together can make the necessary arrangements, as there are many staterooms arranged in pairs, with doors connecting. All applications for reservations must be accompanied by a check for $30, the fare from St. Ignace to Detroit and return.

Meals on the boat must necessarily be served in sections. The breakfast hours are 6:00, 7:00 and 8:00 o'clock and dinner hours 5:30, 6:30 and 7:30 p. m. Members should signify their preference as to meal hours. They will be expected to take their places at the table on the hours originally chosen. Luncheon will be a buffet affair, served on the main deck, from 11:30 to 1:30 o'clock.

The support of this excursion has been unexpectedly large and it is anticipated that there will be no difficulty in filling the boat.

Continuous entertainment will be provided for on the boat. The Calumet & Hecla band has been engaged and they will also bring with them an orchestra of ten pieces. There will be a musical entertainment, including several well known soloists. Governor Osborn and other prominent men will make speeches.

STATE JOURNAL PASSES INTO R. L. JONES' HANDS

Madison, Wis., July 31.—The Wisconsin State Journal makes editorial announcement this afternoon of the passing of control of the paper with today's issue to Richard Lloyd Jones former associate editor of Collier's Weekly.

It is announced that Mr. Jones has bought the stock of Dr. Amos P. Wilder, American consul at Shanghai, and that the new editor and publisher is a progressive and that he will stand for the best in civic and national life.

The statement notes the reason for the sale in the fact that Mr. Jones proposed to start a new afternoon daily in Madison had he not been successful in securing control of the State Journal, and that in the interests of the public generally the maintenance of only one such paper was the part of wisdom.

Mr. Jones will begin his editorial duties next week.

WINS NOVEL SUIT AGAINST HUSBAND

St. Paul, July 31.—When Tennis S. Slingeland of Dodge City, Minn., was 64 years old he prevailed upon a girl of 23 years to marry him. He was worth $250,000, yet he persuaded her to sign an ante-nuptial agreement whereby she was to receive only $5,000 at his death. After she had borne six children she became convinced that she had made a mistake in signing the agreement and brought suit to have it set aside.

The state supreme court ruled in favor of the wife, and the four children still living eventually will share with her in the entire estate.

Justice Bunn, in handing down his decision, uses emphatic language. Discussing the agreement he says: "It is grossly disproportionate, unreasonable, and unfair as a possession for a wife likely to outlive him many years."

"A wealthy and successful man of mature years, a man of great influence and will power, induces a young girl to enter into certain relations with him. He takes her to the office of his personal counsel, a lawyer of the highest standing and of impressive appearance, who has prepared a contract for her to sign.

"She is informed of its import and knows she is giving up her right in her prospective husband's estate after his death. She has no lawyer or friend to advise her.

"He was making her his wife, the companion of his declining years, the mother of his children. When a case arises of the designing woman and the innocent man it would be time enough to apply the argument made by defendant."

HER ONLY WEAKNESS

By M. DIBBELL

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"What I particularly admire about Isabelle Ivan is her perfect poise," remarked Allen Linthrop to Bert Harland, his special crony. "In all the months of our acquaintance I have never seen any exhibition of nerves. And I have been with her when a mouse, a cow, a snake and a heavy thunderstorm appeared on the scene—not all at once, of course, but upon four separate occasions. She was not in the least ruffled by one of them, but retained her usual calm."

His friend was becoming accustomed to these eulogies of the young woman mentioned, and answered good-humoredly:

"In fact you begin to think that at last you have found the perfect woman, and I suppose the next step is to discover if she will not change her final initial from I to L."

"It would be the best step I ever took in my life if I could win her consent to that change," declared Allen with decision.

"But suppose you should discover that there really does exist something of which Miss Ivan is afraid—I mean something within the everyday list of happenings; wouldn't you have to form your opinion of her all over again?" asked Bert.

"I shall never have to alter my opinion for any such reason," Allen asserted in positive tones. "I have full faith in her freedom from all the usual feminine fears."

When duty forced Bert to leave him, Allen started out for the Ivan home, and lost all sense of time in pondering over the perfect of the fearless Isabelle. So deep was he in this pleasant musing that it only gradually dawned upon him the usual quiet at that hour had become a pande-mons? queried Allen later on, when leaving Isabelle. "There is a splendid showing of all sorts, I am told."

"Indeed I shall—I love roses." When his chum dropped in to see him that evening, Allen proceeded to give him an account of the dog fight, ending by saying triumphantly, "So you see, Bert, here is another bugaboo disposed of—nearly all women are afraid of bull dogs."

"It certainly looks as if Miss Ivan were the exception to the general rule of womankind," acknowledged Bert. "But how are you to play the role of protecting strength, if there is nothing from which to protect her?"

"I know she was glad of my help this afternoon," answered Allen. "But she did not have to go into hysterics to show it, and that is an unusual characteristic."

The following afternoon Allen stopped his handsome pair of bays at Isabelle's gate, and the couple were soon speeding on their way to the great Rose farm. The horses were fresh, and before the ten miles to their destination were covered Allep had another proof of his companion's fearlessness.

The railway cut through a deep gully at one point of their route, and as they neared the track a shrill "Toot! Toot!" sounded from an approaching train. The whistle startled the young horses, and together they bolted down the hill. Allen tried his best to check them, but failed; and they flew across the track at such close range that the engine almost grazed the rear wheels.

Gradually Allen regained control of his team, and at the first possible instant he turned to Isabelle. Her lips were firmly set, but she had not made a sound, nor was there any look of terror on her face. She met his gaze and smiled.

"You should be proud to own a pair of horses that can outrun a railroad train," she observed quietly.

Allen answered, "I am far prouder to be honored with the friendship of such a brave woman." He spoke so feelingly that Isabelle hastened to change the subject.

"Oh see! The roses are coming in sight on that next slope," she informed Allen with delight; and the mass of color was well worth their entire attention.

On reaching the farm the young people alighted and wandered through the beautiful place. Field after field, full of the most perfect roses, met their admiring eyes, and the assistant who went with them plucked for Isabelle a rose from each bush she thought particularly lovely, until his arms were filled.

As they turned back Isabelle said, "I should live to keep on gathering roses forever—this is my ideal of happiness."

Part of the roses were tucked under the seat of the light buggy, and the rest Isabelle insisted on carrying herself. "They are so beautiful I simply must look at them," she said as the obliging assistant handed her the bunch.

"They started homeward with every indication of harmony. The bays evidently felt that they were now on their good behavior, and went with a smooth, even pace.

They had just passed over the railroad track and were ascending the hill down which the team had bolted when a cry of terror broke from Isabelle, and the bunch of roses she had been holding so tenderly, were scattered broadcast on the roadside.

"What has happened?" asked Allen in real alarm; and utterly at a loss to account for the look of horror on Isabelle's pale face.

"A big black spider!" she exclaimed. "It was coming right at me over the roses!"

Allen proved himself a real man; for he did not laugh, but said soothingly:

"A spider would not hurt you, child, and he is surely gone now with the roses."

"Almost as swiftly as it had come, the fear vanished from Isabelle's eyes, and she smiled. "I have always been afraid of spiders, and now you will think I am a coward!" She buried her face in her hands.

The horses were walking slowly up the steep ascent, and Allen dropped the reins to take Isabelle's hands. Gently he drew them away, and disclosed a very woe-begone countenance.

"I am truly glad to find that you have one little weakness, dearest, for I have been fearing you would never listen to such an ordinary person as myself. But that spider has given me courage to tell you I love you with all my heart, Isabelle, and to beg you will give me the right to protect you from the one thing you do dread."

The look of love in his eyes won the victory, for Isabelle answered softly, "If you had laughed, Allen, it would have hurt me more than you can guess. But you were so good. I know you would make an ideal protector."

"A Comparison. "A horse is a man's truest friend," said the lover of animals.

"He's more like a relation than a friend," replied Farmer Corntossed. "He makes me think of my boy Josh; allus ready to eat, an' liable to kick if you put him to work."

ORDER OF THISTLE

Established by King James V. for Scottish Nobles.

Sixteen of Them, the British Sovereign and Princess of the Blood, Are Knights of the Order of St. Andrew.

"No one attacks me with impunity," (Nemo me impune lacessit) is the motto of Scotland, and likewise, the motto of the Order of the Thistle, a Scotch order, sometimes called the Order of Saint Andrew. The year 787 is given as the traditional date of its founding. This order was especially destined for the nobility of Scotland, although one riband is generally given to a prince of the blood royal.

The Order of the Thistle was permanently established in 1740 by King James V., who being honored with the Order of the Garter from his uncle, King Henry VIII, with the Golden Fleece from the Emperor, and the Order of St. Michael from France, resolved to be in royal mode, and so made this order for himself and 12 knights, in imitation of Christ and his 12 apostles. Then celebrating all the festivals of these orders, he set on their arms and badges over the gate of his palace of Linlithgow, joining St. Andrew's with them.

Some Scotch writers, ever fond of antiquity, not satisfied with the novelty of this institution, affect to call it most ancient as to its derivation. But for this they have no better warrant than the dream of King Hungus, the Pict, to whom St. Andrew, making a midnight visit, promised a sure victory over his foes, the Northumbrians, and the next day St. Andrew's cross appearing in the air, he made his words good, and the Northumbrians were defeated.

On this story, as they say, King Archibald, about the year 787, framed the Order of St. Andrew, 700 years before King James V. revived it. But after so many ages, it is remarkable that no foreign testimonies or authorities are procured, no contemporary vouchers to confirm, or even so much as mention it; so that this part, relating to its great antiquity, must be given up as a fable.

Immediately after King James V. had founded and established this order he died, in 1542, which put an end to the design for that time; for it being about the time of the reformation, when religious disputes ran to a great height, it was deemed impious to impersonate in an order of knighthood, Christ and his apostles; nor was this honorable order thought of till King James VII. of Scotland, and II. of England, renewed it, by making eight knights, on the 27th of May, 1687.

But the glorious revolution happened the following year and no more knights were added till December, 1706, when her majesty, Queen Anne, was most graciously pleased to fill up the vacant stalls, agreeably to the original statutes of the order, to which she added some new rules. In 1714, King George I. was pleased to confirm the statutes of Queen Anne, and several more, particularly that of making rays of glory to surround the figure of St. Andrew, which hangs at the collar; and as elections and installations were both wanting, his majesty ordered that chapters of election should thenceforth be held in the royal presence; and the great wardrobe to provide suitable mantles and other vestments for the knights and officers of the order.

The statute of 1827 limits the number of knights to 16 members of the Scottish nobility, in addition to the sovereign and princes of the blood. The star of the order is of silver with a round gold plaque bearing a thistle on a green field. The ribbon is green.

Lovely Schenbrunn. "Schonbrunn, the beautiful residence of the emperor of Austria, is all that the enthusiastic tourist agent described it," writes an American traveler, "and the park, the buildings and the works of art must be seen to be appreciated—as people always say who cannot describe things. We saw the place where the unfortunate king of Rome lived, where the more unfortunate Maximilian played as a boy, and nooks and corners with which many historical characters were associated. But I must confess, in shame, that the people of our party were more interested in the baby elephant which was born in the Schonbrunn zoo the day before our visit. The keeper told us that the baby could stand alone an hour after it was born, and that it was just as smart as its brother, born in the same place in 1906. They call the mother Frau Missi."

Cleared City Hall of Rats. For the first time in 50 years the city hall of New Rochelle, N. Y., is free of rats, and all the officials have rendered thanks to 11-year-old Harrison Lee, a mulatto boy. A few days ago he watched the city hall cat's ineffectual attempts to catch rats, and the lad got a bright idea. Rigging up a fishing tackle, baited with cheese, he poked it down the rat hole and for three days fished for rats. He caught 57 rodents of all sizes and ages until the other day one big fellow stole bait, hook, sinker, and line and all. Harrison placed a big piece of cheese near the rat hole and waited with a club. About one o'clock in the morning the rat appeared and Harrison finished him. Not a rat has been seen in the city hall since.

Pretty Sun Bonnets

THESE pictures of lovely bonnets show what happens to the sun-bonnet when the milliner makes it of her dainty and soft materials. Made of lace, chiffon, thin and lustrous silks and straws almost as pliable, with occasionally the sheerest batiste or Swiss embroidery, the sun-bonnet almost loses its identity. It becomes a wonderful example of millinery art and finds a welcome in hearts already warmly attached to its plain, work-a-day predecessor. These elaborate pieces of headgear are only intended for occasional wear and may therefore be as fragile as any dream. They are indeed among those millinery "dreams" which cost many substantial dollars, for much material and much work goes into their making.

The crowns are all big and soft, supported by light wire frames. The brims are all fluffy ruffles, varied, elaborated and abundant. Ribbons, soft and lustrous and gay, small, garden or field flowers make up their trimmings. Gauze ribbons are often used and are in keeping with the rest of the airy fabrics. Occasionally a bonnet is provided with ties but the elastic fastener is used in most cases and is comfortable and secure, that is, as secure as any method of fastening in use at present.

Nearly all these bonnets are made up in white, but the pale blues and pinks are not entirely neglected. It is said white ones can be tinted to pale shades, by processes known to the milliner.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

TUB FROCK.

This simple design is most attractive, developed in linen, gingham or any wash fabric.

Little Silk Boleros.

The dressmakers have experimented with boleros for two seasons and they seem to have landed them into fashion at last. They are worn in bright colors with white muslin gowns or old-fashioned frocks of floral or gaudy. They are finished around the edge with a plaited ruffling of ribbon or a ruffle of lace. The severe ones have only a thick cable cord covered with silk or satin.

Becoming Neckbands.

The mode of the low-necked dress and the collarless frock has called out the black velvet neckband once more. This band is about an inch in width. When last worn this was merely a band, fastening in back and front under a buckle or pretty pin. Now, however, it is fastened in the back in the manner of 30 or 40 years ago, with the long ends hanging down the back.

TAKING PLACE OF FEATHERS

Aligrettes of Wheat Just Now Are the "Real Thing" for a Variety of Reasons.

No one seems to be able to explain why fashion is leaving the enormous aligrettes of white and black, which have been with us so long, unless it is a laggard desire to be humanitarian. The restriction thrown around birds by the laws of the states, and the difficulty and cost of getting aligrettes, has given many milliners a good reason not to carry them in stock. The expense of buying one is the best reason for their unpopularity.

The milliners, liking the effects of the aligrette, have determined to use many other materials to take its place, therefore the new hats are trimmed with silken wheat in the form of an aligrette. Some of it is in the natural color and a great deal of it is dyed to match the hats or frocks.

One sees much blue and green and purple. The green is the most popular for summer use, as it is refreshingly cool.

TRIMMINGS THAT HAVE FAVOR

Laces of Every Kind and Description Are Among the First in Popular Esteem.

Among the favorite trimmings are laces of all kinds, among which are Venise, Italian, filet and Milan laces. Gold and silver laces are also used on some of the more elaborate gowns. Hand embroidery is much seen. A number of beaded trimmings are shown, and there seems to be a tendency to favor large beads somewhat on the order of Indian beads, which are noted on several of the Paquin models.

Braids of all kinds are used on tall or made suits and dresses, in various widths, in plain and fancy designs.

Fringe, tassels and braid ornaments are also among the trimmings and arouse much attention. Silk fagoting is used to a great extent on many of the best models. There is also quite a liberal use made of velvet ribbon, which was employed largely for sashes, in both black and colors.

Linen is Cooler.

Linen sheets, on account of the tendency to withstand wrinkling and rumpling for a longer time, are much cooler for use in the summertime than are those of muslin.

Of course, the fact that sheets should never be ironed is legion, but where one cannot afford linen sheets the muslin ones can be gone over with a clean, cold iron, as this will prove to reduce the rumpling that accompanied the desire for a cooler spot on the hot nights of the middle months of summer.

HIDING THEIR JEWELS

Few Women Make Use of Safety Deposit Vaults.

Trunks Carefully Roped, Mattresses and Hollow Foot Posts of Beds Chosen as Places of Concealment for Valuables.

"Not one-fifth the jewels owned by Chicago people are kept in safety deposit vaults, as might be expected," declared an officer of one of the best known Chicago safety deposit vaults. "In fact, even the persons who do rent boxes at the vaults seldom keep many of their valuable jewels there."

"I know one woman who keeps her husband's life insurance policy in the vault and pays an annual rental for the box, while she keeps jewels valued at thousands of dollars in her own home. It's a mystery to me why more persons are not robbed of their valuables."

"There is a woman of my acquaintance who keeps jewelry valued at close to $15,000 in an old trunk in her room. There is not even a lock on the trunk, for she was obliged to force this off one time when she had mislaid the key. It has not even the quality of escaping notice by its worn appearance or obviousness."

"Were it left alone it might possibly escape search by an enterprising burglar because of its prominence, but the woman has withdrawn even this hope by binding the thing up with straps and ropes tied in the most complicated knots. She does not stop to think that an enterprising second story man could cut through those ropes in half a minute if he had a sharp knife."

"Another woman conceals her jewel bag in the mattress of her bed. Old as this place is, the woman further invites robbery by neglecting to sew up the hole in the cover; or, if she does do so, merely bastes it up with thread that a burglar would notice twenty feet away. Another favorite place is in some 'secret drawer.'"

"Usually in bureaus or pieces of the sort there are a number of long drawers with a couple of smaller ones at the top. Between these two small drawers some enterprising furniture maker hit upon the plan of placing a concealed drawer. This was all right twenty years ago, but don't you suppose burglars keep track of these things?"

"A woman of my acquaintance has the foot post of her bed hollowed out and places her jewelry there. This is not so easy to find as it might seem, for the head of the post is solid and even if a burglar happened to think of removing that he finds nothing, for the woman has taken precautions to have a false top put on the post, and to get to the hollow part it is necessary to unscrew the part under the removable head."—Chicago Daily News.

Half Century in Prison.

After serving nearly half a century in prison, a Calabrian brigand chief, Antonio Gatto, was liberated a few days ago. He entered the "profession" when a boy of nineteen, because he had deserted from the army and wished to avoid arrest. Gatto subsequently headed a famous band of robbers who had their headquarters in the fastnesses of the Monte Gargano mountain, 3,460 feet in height, near Poggia. He and his men subsisted mainly by despoiling pilgrim wayfarers in that region. For years they held out against all armed expeditions sent to capture them, but finally surrendered to Major Bixio, who deceived them with false promises. Gatto was sentenced to hard labor for life. Now he is freed through the endeavors of an unknown nephew, after exactly 49 years' incarceration. His less fortunate fellow prisoners celebrated the event by presenting him with a fine blue serge suit, which they made at eight hours' notice.

Rats Gave Burglar Alarm.

Rats, not burglars, are believed to have sounded a burglar alarm in one of the largest jewelry stores in London, England, the other night. Shortly after ten o'clock, the bell began to ring furiously, and the electric lights inside and out were suddenly switched on. A crowd collected and watched with excitement a cordon of police drawn round the building. But to the amusement of all, however, the alarm proved false. Investigations showed that no one had forced an entry, and it is thought that rats, scampering across a doormat, over wires connected with the alarm, had set the bell ringing and the lights aglow.

Culmination of Romance.

As darkness settled over the Two Tree Hill, Los Angeles, Cal., a few nights ago, making the place more lonely than ever, a couple stood on the very pinnacle and were married. They were Miss Eva H. Hunter, a school teacher, and Baylies Walker, a business man. There were nearly 100 persons present. There was no light, save that cast by the moon just rising over the city below. It was the wish of the bride that the marriage take place on top of this hill, on the identical spot where they were betrothed two years ago to the hour.

Sounds Cool.

"Death is often referred to as the Grim Reaper." "A more popular name for summer use would be the Great Frost."

BETRAYS HERSELF BY PAINTING HOOF

MRS. BERRY'S RUSE TO ESCAPE OFFICERS BY DECORATING FOOT HASTENS ARREST.

WOMAN ADMITS TWO THEFTS

Makes Stolen Horse Resemble One Bought by Sleuth—Tells Sheriff She Needed Money to Pay Mortgage on Her Farm.

Columbus, O.—Her artistic effort to conceal the identity of a horse she had stolen in Dayton, caused the arrest of Mrs. Rosa Berry, alleged leader of a gang of horse thieves. She declares the allegation is nonsense for she stole the horse simply because she needed an animal on her farm and lacked the cash to purchase one. In her cell in the jail in Marion she declares she is willing to pay the penalty of her crime but feels had to think she ever stooped to so low a crime.

Mrs. Berry went to Marion and hired a $400 horse and buggy from Jim Squires. She drove that outfit to Muncie and to Richmond, where she sold it for $75. She took an interurban car to Dayton, and in that city hired another $300 horse and buggy. The horse she got at Dayton had one white foot and Mrs. Berry painted out the white foot and made the horse a dark bay. That bit of painting was her undoing, for when she changed the color of the Dayton horse she caused it to be an exact likeness of the Marion horse, which was advertised all over the country and for which the horse-thief detective associations were looking. She was arrested because she had a horse of the description of the horse stolen from Jim Squires, and then it was learned that the horse she had was stolen at Dayton.

"I know they have had a great deal to say about me," said Mrs. Berry, "but this is the first crime I ever committed. I have not been mixed up with any horse-stealing gang. I took the horse at Marion and sold it because I needed the money to pay debts, and I took the Dayton horse because I needed an animal to work on my farm and did not have the money to buy one. That is all there is to it. I never stole any horse anywhere else, and if I had not been so desperate for money I would not have stolen these."

Mrs. Berry says she is 48 years old. "My father and mother were artists," she says, "and lived in the town of West Decorah, Ia., where I was born. From there we moved to Waukegan, Mich. Later my parents went to Ohio and we lived in different parts of that state. I took naturally to painting and drawing, and before I was 18 years old I won a number of prizes at the Ohio state fair, held at Columbus. I was graduated with honors at the Delaware Female Academy of Painting and I made a good deal of money with my brush. I married William Berry, who was also an artist, and we lived together for a number of years and were happy."

"My brother got into trouble over some horses and cattle and was sent to the penitentiary, and was out on parole when Tony George arrested him for horse stealing. It took about all the money I had to try to save him, and with what I had left I bought a little farm near Vistula, not far from Goshen. I was in debt. I had a lot of paintings ready for the market, but I could not get any money. Even those who had ordered my work did not pay for it, and I simply got desperate."

Paid Up After 65 Years.

Long Beach, Cal.—Col. Jacob I. Hill did some surveying, 65 years ago in Randolph county, W. Va., and has just received a check for $125 in payment for his services. The work was done on the See estate and the heirs took the settlement of the estate into court, where it has been for many years.

CLOTH IN HIS LUNGS 30 YEARS CAUSED COUGH

Manitowis, Wis., July 31.—The recent death of Charles W. Butler, a Clark's Mills pioneer, which occurred at Frankfort, Mich., and news of which has just been received here, recalls the fact that for thirty years, following the civil war in which he served as a soldier in the Union army, Mr. Butler's life was threatened by a small piece of cloth from the shirt he wore at the battle of Perryville when he was injured, the piece of cloth having been carried into his lungs by the shot which wounded him and lodged there. Nearly thirty years after the close of the war and his discharge from service, Mr. Butler one day coughed up the piece of cloth.

Latest News in the World of Finance and Trade

BOSTON MARKETS

The only notable feature in the local market today was the great scarcity of offerings in the copper stocks. Lake which was freely sold the latter part of last week at 33 3-4 was not offered today under 35. Hancock which was offered at 27 with no bid, was withdrawn and odd lots sold at 23. Butte Coalition was also stronger at 18 1-2. Calumet and Hecla was 450 bid with sales at that price. There is nothing in sight for the market at present. All the speculative interests appear to be waiting for congress to adjourn.

NEW YORK MARKETS

Trading was extremely dull but the list had a firm undertone throughout the session. Reports from abroad were more satisfactory and London became a buyer instead of a seller. The initial steps in connection with dissolving Standard Oil as announced in a letter to stock holders contributed to the better feeling. Crop news was not much of a factor, but still advices from the agricultural sections received close attention. It is not unlikely that should Congress adjourn soon that efforts will be made to establish a substantially higher range of prices.

Where David Copperfield Was Written "Bleak House" at Broadstairs, England, which has failed to find a purchaser, is of interest to the Dickens lover because the greater part of "David Copperfield" was written there. But it is not the "Bleak House" of the novel, which is definitely located in Hertfordshire. The novelist and his family appear to have been somewhat tightly packed in their Broadstairs home. When Lord Carlisle contemplated paying a visit to "Our watering place" in 1851, Dickens wrote promising him the North Foreland Lighthouse for a night light in his bedroom, and he continues: "As we think of putting mignonette boxes outside the windows for the younger children to sleep in by and by, I am afraid we should give your servant the cramp if we hardly undertook to lodge him." During the last few years the house has been transformed out of all recognition.

Great Saving of Time. The manager of one of the electric light companies of the western part of the country has greatly facilitated the business of making the monthly readings of meters by having these instruments placed on the rear porches of houses instead of in the cellars. About half of the meters of this company are now located in some convenient and protected place in the rear of the house, where it is always accessible without regard to the presence or absence of the inmates of the house. The result is that the average time formerly consumed by the inspector has been cut about in half.

HIS ATTACK UNPOPULAR

Detroit, Mich., July 31.—Secretary of State Frederick C. Martindale outdid even his previous public statements in a show of animus toward Governor Osborn in his speech before the members of the North End Taft club at Taahmoo Park Thursday afternoon. Maybe it was the introductory remarks of Chairman David E. Heineman, who landed the governor as "Our temptuous and efficient executive," and compared him to the swift running falls in his own St. Mary's river at the Soo, concluding "and God help the man who gets in the way of either the falls or of Osborn."

Maybe it was the applause with which the chairman's remarks were greeted. For whatever reason Mr. Martindale's ire was up and he not only lambasted the governor, but he declared that there are no newspapers in which he, Martindale, could get a fair hearing before the people.

As a first appearance of the campaign before a considerable audience Mr. Martindale's effort could not be construed as a political scream. Twelve months from the commencement of the fireworks of a real campaign, the crowd wasn't in a humor to enthuse anyhow. Not any of the speakers could be said to have brought down the house, and the best Mr. Martindale could get for his most virulent sentences was a feeble hand clapping. Governor Osborn was unable to be present and sent his regrets from the Soo.

Very few of those who listened to Mr. Martindale took kindly to his efforts and he was generally criticized on the ground that he displayed very bad taste, and many went so far as to say that he would not have talked as he did had Gov. Osborn been present.

WHERE THE WALTZ IS BARRED.

Since 1859 waltzing is barred by court regulations in Germany. It all came about because the Crown Princess Frederick was tripped up by her partner, in a waltz and fell at the feet of her mother-in-law. The Empress Augusta then forbade the waltz at all balls in the imperial palace. So far the kaiser has resisted all pressure brought to bear, to reinstate tripping to the measures of "The beautiful blue Danube." It is a great loss, because the waltz to dancing is what golden grain belt beers are among brews. Try a case and decide.

FIRE RACES THROUGH FIELD

Oconto, Wis., July 31.—Many hundreds of tons of hay were burned near here yesterday when a fire, fed by a stiff breeze, swept several acres of farm land. The fire broke out about 11:30 o'clock and at first it was supposed to be of no importance but at three o'clock it had gradually spread until it covered a large area of land. At that time a heavy gale sprang up, carrying the flames ahead of it.

A score of farmers gathered in front of the swiftly moving mass of flames in an attempt to stay its progress by mowing the loose hay and plowing up the land beyond. They worked for five hours before the flames were extinguished, many times being forced to put out the fire on their clothing. The loss is estimated at $2,000. The Oconto Land company suffered the most damage. The Green Bay Matting company, last several hundred dollars also. There was no insurance.

LOCKING UP THE JURYMEN

Outrageous and Possibly Illegal Custom That Has Come Down From Old Times.

Some of the shabby brocade of court etiquette has been cleared out of our courts, such as gowns and wigs. Some that still hangs in faded shreds is dusty, but inoffensive. But some surviving practices are seriously objectionable.

For instance, the outrageous habit of locking jurymen up. Why? During the progress of a civil case which lasts three or four days jurymen can go home nights. But when the case is given to the jury, the jury must go into continuous session, under lock and key, until it reaches a verdict. There is no sufficient reason why we should not go home at the end of a day, and come back to our work next morning, just as we men do in any other business. The imprisonment of a jury tends to hasty decisions, to the forced verdicts of weary minds incapacitated for thinking. Much better to drop a difficult case, go home, sleep, come fresh to the jury room in the morning and resume deliberation. If jurymen are in danger of being tampered with after a case is given to them, then they are in equivalent danger of being tampered with during the progress of the case.

The incarceration of the jury is, I hold, against the rights and liberties of citizens. I am willing to give a portion of my time, without pay, to public business; but I resent the turning of the sheriff's key behind my back. I resent having to walk down to the street to supper (or breakfast!) in military or criminal column-by-two. The judge very often has to spend several days in deciding a question of law. Why not lock him up until his mind works to a conclusion?—Case and Comment.

MODERN WOMEN LACK GRACE

Famous Artist Says Fair Sex Never Before Walked or Carried Itself so Badly.

Marcus Stone, R. C., the famous artist, says: "I do not believe that women—or men either, for that matter—have ever walked or carried themselves as badly as they do now. The women with their elbows out, their shoulders up, their necks pushed forward, the men for the most part chestless creatures with sloping necks. Arms were not made to stick out on either side like jag handles."

"Of course, as an artist I am at war with fashion and its constant changes—which prevent woman evolving a dress which expresses her individuality—but especially with the fashion of wearing corsets, which, to my mind, destroy the outlines of the figure and cramp the freedom of woman's movements. Never before in my life has woman been so much imprisoned and leered up as she is today—that is to say, of course, all except the willow women, whose figures accord with present fashion. How can she move gracefully in a tube which pushes her shoulders up, shortens her neck, and sends her elbows out? The sloping attitude of neck adopted by men and women I attribute to the wearing, especially when young, of high stiff collars. The least pressure on the back of the neck sends the head forward, and thus a habit is formed."

That Should Please Him. "Suppose some one should give you a smack on the cheek?" "He would get some of my lip!"—Houston Post.

GATHERING STATISTICS

The Michigan Workmen's Compensation Commission, which was authorized by and act of the last Legislature and appointed by Governor Osborn, is now busily engaged in gathering statistics of accidents, not only in the industrial field, but in making a thorough study of farm accidents, the investigators are now at work through the State gathering valuable data as to the number of accidents on farms, their cost to the employee and to the farmer.

The problem presents a different phase in regard to the farms compared to the workshop, owing to the fact that the farmer himself is more often the man injured, whereas in the factory and in the mine the workmen alone are subject to accidents. However, this side of the question will be carefully studied by the Commission in its deliberations, and much good is sure to result to all workmen in Michigan in its findings, to be reported to the next session of the legislature. The commission is meeting with the hearty co-operation of all trades and industries in its search for information bearing on this important question.

Mr. E. N. Dodds, one of the investigators employed by the commission, is now working a canvass of Delta County, and getting statistics on both agricultural and industrial accidents. R. L. Drake, Secretary.

JOIN HANDS WITH THE EXPRESS COMPANIES

Chicago, July 31.—Leading railroads throughout the country are preparing to combat the widespread demand for a general slash in the express rates.

The position of the railroads, which heretofore has been a subject of speculation, was made clear today at the hearing of the express charges and the express companies' methods before the subcommittee of railroad Commissioners.

P. S. Eustia, passenger traffic manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, said that his company would resist all attempts to force a lower scale of prices on the express carriers. Representatives of other roads also said they would fight the attempt to cut the rates.

"This agitation about express rates is a serious matter," said Mr. Eustia. "It looks as if the express companies are trying to throw it all onto the railroads. Our company proposes to go into the express rate question on two grounds, one pertaining to the reasonableness of rates. If we can show that the express service is two and one-half times better than the freight service and that the express rates are only one and one-half times the freight rates, the commission will be compelled to consider the proposition from that viewpoint."

FILES BRACELET FROM GIRL'S ANKLE

Minneapolis, July 31.—Miss Hermione Van Slyke, devotee of fashion, from Denver, Col., summoned a jeweler here today to file a bracelet from her ankle.

Having read with interest the latest social hints from New York, Miss Van Slyke slipped the gold band from her wrist to a place just above her foot. There was trouble when she sought to put it back and the jeweler was called. The bracelet now reposes in its accustomed place.

Mr. Van Slyke and his daughter left tonight for New York.

Where Courting is Dangerous.

Four young men have been shot at Vax (Valais) by an irate father to whose daughter they had come to pay court, says the London Express. They were refused admission to the house, and when they tried to force their way in the father took down his gun and fired. Two of them were slightly wounded and the other two seriously. The father was arrested.

The encounter and its almost tragic ending were due to ancient custom which prevails in the villages of the canton of Valais and in the Alpine hamlets of the German cantons. After a girl has reached the age of eighteen her parents are not surprised to receive the visit of several young men after the day's work to ask to see their daughter and pass a pleasant evening in the family circle. The visit is looked on as a compliment, and as the young men bring with them wines and food they are generally welcomed by the parents. The custom, which is known as Vellies, results in introductions and often in marriages.

TIME TO GO

By LOUISE OLNEY

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

Mac was sarcastic. He found Norton separated from June Witterly, joined into his disreputable pipe, and sung full length on the grass behind the summer house after dinner. 'How did it happen, Norton? I've been trying to get a word with you for two weeks. It's time for you to go. How about our pact to keep single, for each to save the other if he saw him in danger of matrimony? You need rescuing.' Jerry sucked his black pipe and drew his dark-browed forehead into a scowl. 'Guess you're right, old man. Cut out the talk, I'll go. I can see my finish as plain as you. Probably she wouldn't have me, but in spite of you, or pact or promise, I'd ask her to marry me—if she was as poor as I. Decency won't let me even seem to want her confounded money! And we were right—we both need the next ten years to work up in the law unhampered by family care.' The young man spoke slowly, his big, powerful face thoughtful, his long length still on the soft grass. McPherson, canny Scot, rubbed his reddish hair and considered his friend lovingly. He thought what a fool he had been to let Jerry Norton accept Mrs. Grayson's house-party invitation. He should have foreseen what June Witterly would do to his heart. Mac had been brought up with June, and was immune to her fascinations. 'I haven't left a hole for you, Jerry. I just told Mrs. Grayson I'd brought you a letter from Carroll asking your immediate return to work on that Lawson case, and that you'd have to leave here on the eight-thirty train in the morning. I told her you were cut up about going. Now you've got to back me up in the lie, and pack your duds. Peters and the little car are to be ready for you at eight. I'm not going until tomorrow.' He glanced at Norton and hoped he was not acting when it was too late. He knew June Witterly very well. Jerry rose, knocked the ashes from his pipe, and turned houseward smoothing his black hair, his blue eyes savage. 'Well, your way is as good as another. I'll go. It's one way out of an impossible situation. I'll clear out. Now get away—I'll see Mrs. Grayson.' 'Yes! And you'll see Miss June Witterly! One evening of her in this rose-wreathed garden, and the moon that will be up early, and knowing you are going, and you will be lost! I will not let you out of my sight! She's as crazy as you—a word from you—' He stopped, cursing himself for a fool, for suddenly joy gleamed in Norton's face, a pitiful, doubting joy. 'Do you think she—' he began eagerly, then scowled again. 'She cares nothing for me,' he said stiffly. 'Mind your confounded business! Did you ever see such hair as she has! It's—' 'Pure molten gold, anything you say!' said Mac with an inward groan. Here was old Norton fairly drivelling! 'I always knew a head of hair would be your downfall! And, unluckily, I know it's all her own. She doesn't take it off nights.' He also knew the girl was genuine, heart and mind and soul, neither did Mac see how she could help loving Jerry Norton, but he strode by his side, vowing to clear him of this sentimental complication that would hinder his brilliant beginning in his profession. Joining the others on the great lawn at the edge of the tiny lake, with the big white moon just sailing up, the two young men sought their hostess. The dozen others young people on the lawn sat or strolled about. Jessie Sterling flirted languidly with young Sayles whom she would not have married for worlds; Middle Williams, her big eyes wistful and pathetic, would have thrown her grandfather's millions into the lake for a word of love from the young journalist. Two engaged couples were wondering how early they could decently get away from the rest—not that anyone minded their going. Most of them were politely regretful that Norton was obliged to leave. June alone seemed not to care. She sat with Tom Overholt, who was doing his brilliant Irish best to utterly charm her, a thing he had come here to attempt—his heart leaped at knowing Norton was off. Now he would have his chance! He helped Mac to keep her from a word with the departing one. The affianced ones faded away in the garden paths, young Sayles took Jessie Sterling for a canoe ride, and Middle Williams pleaded a headache and went in. The hostess was called by the cook. Mac, the watch-dog, stood beside his friend, and saw June Witterly, tall and slim, white-gowned in the white moonlight, her hair a fair glory about her small head, standing on the shore of the little lake, Overholt as near her as he dared get. Mac put his hand on Norton's arm and drew him into the house. He stayed with him until he was undressed, and went to his own room vowing to see him on his train in the morning. But he knew the mischief had been done, though he thought it reparable. Poor Mac's plans went awry. He over slept. Norton slept not at all. He was wondering that she had said no word of farewell. She might have

BEST PIANO PLAYER

Philadelphia Believes It Has Champion Long Distance Performer.

James Welsh, Who in His Spare Moments Is Engaged as Bartender, Thumps Instrument for 30 Hours and 45 Minutes.

Philadelphia.—Declaring they are willing to put the club itself in 'back' to prove the right of their fellow-member, James Welsh, to the title of long distance piano player of the world, members of the Rising Sun Social have issued a challenge to any piano player who considers himself in the Marathon class to meet their star in open contest. The Rising Sun will back their man in any amount from $500 to $5,000. At a recent exhibition meet Welsh proved his right to the confidence which has been placed in him. Sitting down to the piano at nine o'clock in the evening, his fingers pursued the ivories without pause until 3:45 o'clock in the morning of the second day thereafter, 30 hours and 45 minutes. When the applause had finished, William Wunder, manager and discoverer of the prodigy, announced that Welsh had beaten by 30 minutes the record established recently by Lewis Thorpe, of Bethlehem, whose time was 30 hours and 15 minutes. On behalf of the club, Wunder announced the society's willingness as a body to back Welsh to meet all comers for the long distance championship of the world. Wunder, when not engaged in work as an impresario, tends bar in a saloon near Eleventh street and Germantown avenue. He said that he is a firm believer in Oscar Hammerstein's latest maxim, that the success of a star depends 'half on talent and half on publicity.'

The secret of Welsh's success in long distance piano playing lies in what his manager terms 'song-history music.' According to the latter, a man who plays the same piece of music over and over every half hour, which he will naturally do, if his imagination is not jogged, tires himself by the repetition. To obviate this, Wunder has instructed his protege in a system in which 'song history' is the keynote and repetition a minor chord. Welsh takes his seat in front of the piano and casts his mind back to the days 'before the war.' Negro music floats into his mind, and for nearly an hour he plays plantation songs. When his manager believes that this is beginning to touch his nervous system, he nudges his elbow and whispers: 'The war.' Instantly from Welsh's fingers come the martial strains of 'Marching Through Georgia,' and others of the same type. In this way he plays his way through every decade with its different types of popular songs, from the days when 'Two Little Girls in Blue' vied for popularity with 'After the Ball,' right down to the up-to-the-minute 'Don't Wake Me, I'm Dreaming of You.' Several hours are taken up with this varied program, and when the time comes to repeat it the player's nerves are unaffected by constant repetition. Wunder says that by his method of patent Marathon piano playing his protege will be able to play without a break for 60 hours.

Wunder tells a story of how he discovered the latest acquisition to the ranks of musical prodigies. Entering a saloon in the neighborhood of Fifth and Somerset streets, one night, to inquire the time, he heard the strains of a piano being played in the back room. 'The flawless technique' at-

LITTLE BIRDS ATTACK SNAKE

Blackbirds, Orioles and Robins Join in Fight on Reptile—Was Coprophagous 4 1/2 Feet Long.

Detroit, Mich.—'I suppose people will call me a nature faker when I tell of an experience I had at my country house on Grosse Ile,' said Attorney James Swan. 'Early in the morning I heard a commotion among the trees on the north side of the house where the robins build, but I would have paid no attention to it had I not noticed some blackbirds and orioles. I looked up the tree and in a fork I saw a robin's nest and a big snake coiled just above it. The robins were dashing at the snake and worrying it, and the orioles and blackbirds were aiding them. I shot the snake, which was a copperhead 4 1/2 feet long. For hours after he was dead the birds kept flying at him and pecking him about the head. This is the first time I ever heard of a copperhead climbing up a tree to a height of 15 or 20 feet, and it is the first time I ever heard of blackbirds and orioles joining in a fight with robins against a common enemy.'

Treasures for Royal Library. London.—A number of important historical manuscripts, the property of the late Sir Thomas Phillips, have just been secured for the royal library at Windsor Castle, including a folio volume (1344-5) containing the account of all the aids levied for the ransom of King John of France, who was taken prisoner by the English at Peblham. From this money Windsor castle was rebuilt.

ELECTRICITY AT SMALL COST

Remarkable Discovery of Frenchman Expected to Make Revolution in Price—Its Advantages.

Paris.—A remarkable discovery, which is believed, will make a revolution in electric lighting, is announced by a young French scientist, M. Dussaud, and is making a great sensation among experts. By its means it is asserted that illumination can be produced at one-fifth part of the cost at present necessary. M. Dussaud's invention consists partly in the repeated interruption of a low voltage current for a fraction of a second each time. At each cut-off the lamp rests for an infinitesimal period, so short that the eye receives the impression of continuous light, but long enough to allow the filament to cool. Combined with this intermittent current small lamps about an inch in diameter are used, with a filament of tungsten, which offers very little resistance to the current, and yet gives a light thirteen and a half times greater than any of the lamps now on the market. The consequence of the alternate heating and cooling of the filament is that the lamp remains practically cold, the surface never rising above 60 degrees centigrade. It can therefore be placed as close as is desired to the condenser of an optical instrument, thus enormously increasing the light. With a low current a light of 16,000-candle power, it is said, can easily be obtained with suitable apparatus. Cinematograph films of the standard size can be made to throw a picture 16 feet square, while if the image is kept to its present dimensions it is so brilliant that it can be shown in broad daylight. The new light, it is claimed, will replace magnesium in flashlight photography, while in medicine it serves the purpose of the X-rays in some cases—the cold lamp enabling the hand, for instance, to be placed close against it, when it becomes perfectly transparent. A number of patents have been taken out, and the new apparatus will shortly be placed on the market at a low cost. M. Dussaud has already many ingenious inventions to his credit, including a sound magnifier for the deaf, an improved phonograph and a cinematograph for the blind. May Break Law for $50 Hat. Buffalo, N. Y.—The city court has decided that a man is justified in stretching the speed limit a little to reach shelter before an approaching shower spoils his wife's new $50 hat. This was the excuse given Judge Judge by Frank Hautens, a local grocer. The defendant was released on a suspended sentence. Original Star Spangled Banner. Baltimore.—The original star-banded banner that inspired Key to write the anthem, will be unfurled over the ramparts of Fort Mifflin on September 13, the anniversary of the battle of North Point.

Truth Lovers Highest Ideals of Honesty Received From Mother

By ISABELLE HATCH O'NEILL

I F 'women are poets who believe their own poetry'—and few will be inclined to quarrel with that definition—does it not follow that a woman, thoroughly convinced that what she is saying is the truth, even though man by his logic proves it to be false, cannot be called untruthful? A woman is guided to truth largely by her intuition; a man by his logic. To woman the modern world is a new, strange thing. She grasps neither the meaning nor the necessity of law, business, philosophy, politics, mathematics. To her logic is only a name—a man's way of looking at things. In her own mind woman envelops her acts in a bright and ideal atmosphere, and thus often sees a high motive in what a man would call dishonorable. It has often been asserted that on the witness stand a woman will more lightly commit perjury than a man. This, however, does not prove that she is dishonest. It only shows that a trained lawyer is more clever than she, and that by his art he forces her into false positions. The reason why women do not always tell the literal truth on the witness stand is because they neither fit into nor understand the conditions which surround them; they are out of their sphere; they lose the real meaning of the whole court proceedings. Is a woman's standard of honesty higher or lower than a man's? If it is a question of commercial integrity, of common business honesty, there can be but one answer. And that answer lies in the comparative number of men and women in jails for crimes against property. Women do not deliberately steal. They do not deliberately misrepresent goods. They are not embezzlers or defaulters. There could have been no necessity for a pure food law if women had sole charge of manufacturing foods. If women are not innate lovers of truth, why does religion appeal more forcibly to them than to men? Why do women outnumber the men in the churches? And to whom, from mother Eve to this day, has been entrusted the task of teaching the young? Is it possible that two-thirds of the human race, from the dawn of civilization, could have instilled into children the honor and truth which they themselves did not obey? No matter what may have been said or written about women not telling the truth, the fact still remains that it is at the mother's knee that children learn truth and receive their highest ideals of honesty and of life.

SUNDAY'S GAME WENT EIGHT INNINGS

Negaunee, Mich., July 31.—Yesterday's ball game, between Negaunee and Marquette nines, which was called at the end of the eighth inning on account of rain, with the score 4 and 4, was the most exciting exhibition seen at the Union park grounds this season.

Caeser, a young left hand twirler, who joined the Marquette team Saturday, was in the box, and at times he pitched sensational ball, while his batting was a strong feature.

Mahoney, in the box for Negaunee, was not as effective as in other games this season. The visitors scored safe hits off his delivery in every inning but the third and fourth. Caeser had one bad inning, the third, when Negaunee scored her four runs.

Marquette secured her last run in the eighth inning. Mack, the first man up, hit safely. Ripelle bunted to Mahoney, the latter throwing wild to second, forcing Mack to third. Day went out, Rains to Knutz, Caeser's single scoring Mack.

So spake Tom Jones, manager of the lightweight champion, on his arrival here from San Francisco yesterday. Jones was here two hours, leaving at noon to join Wolgast in Cadillac, Mich.

"People here in the middle west have no idea what a wonderful fighter Wolgast is. I don't believe there is anybody under 140 pounds who has a chance with him. McFarland certainly has not, because lacks the punch."

LARGE SUM FOR STRAWBERRIES

Menominee, Mich., July 31.—Robert Mulholland, a farmer living on the County road, stated this morning that he had cleared $350 on one-half an acre of strawberries. Mr. Mulholland makes this statement to let the people in general know what kind of crops can be raised on the soil in Menominee county.

"You can talk all you want to about Florida, Texas or other states in the south, but the soil right here in the upper peninsula suits me," said Mr. Mulholland. I think that a great many people in the upper peninsula or rather who were formerly here, would be a great deal better off if they had remained at home, instead of selling everything they had to go down south and lose it all."

The performance of Mr. Mulholland ably illustrates the immense amount of money that can be obtained from crops raised in the upper peninsula of Michigan. Strawberries are not the only crops from which money in huge quantities can be obtained. Cucumbers, sugar beets, beans, celery cantaloupes and many other fruits and vegetables will progress rapidly in this country.

Truck farming is something that everyone can do with a little culture. Aside from that, it is within the reach of all, for land can be obtained in the upper peninsula very cheap, far cheaper than in any other state, excepting northern Wisconsin. And the truck farmer is independent.

FARMER VICTIM OF BAD ACCIDENT

Algoma, July 31.—Joseph Vandengertaelen, a well-known farmer, of the town of Brussels, Door County had his left leg severed at the ankle while at work in a pea field on the farm he recently purchased from Louis Bassine of that town, on Wednesday and as a result of the accident will be crippled for life.

In company with a son he journeyed to the pea field early that morning, and had hardly begun work when the accident happened. It seems the boy was driving the team while Mr. Vandengertaelen was following in the rear of the mower keeping the gutters of the machine cleared. After about one turn around the field the machine became clogged, and Mr. Vandengertaelen went ahead to clear it.

Suddenly the horses began to kick at each other, and gave a sudden lunge forward, Mr. Vandengertaelen getting his left foot caught at the ankle between two of the guards, through which the blade works, and as the blade worked back and forth several times before the horses were stopped, it severed the limb just about the ankle with the exception of a couple of cords. The injured man was finally released from his perilous position, and the son immediately ran for aid.

REMARKABLE STORY OF A GIN RICKEY

New York, July 31.—"There were five or six of us, and we were awfully thirsty and wanted a gin rickey. We did not have anything to make it in, and so two of the men went into the laboratory and got the jar which contained Colonel Waring's ashes. He had died of yellow fever on his way up from Cuba. I threw the ashes out, made the rickey and we all had a drink."

Arthur Dennyse, who worked at Quarantine until three years ago, started Governor Dix's special commission which is investigating affairs at the New York quarantine station by relating this weird story on the stand today.

The records show that Colonel George E. Waring, Jr., widely known as a sanitary engineer, died of yellow fever on a steamer coming from Cuba on Oct. 29, 1898, but it was another Waring's ashes, if any, that Dennyse disturbed, according to other advices at quarantine.

Dr. A. H. Doty, health officer, scouted Dennyse's report and declared that so far as he knew Colonel Waring's family is now in possession of the ashes. Colonel Waring achieved the success which brought him his greatest public notice, perhaps, in organizing the street cleaning department of New York.

CASEY MARRIES

James Casey, right fielder of the Negaunee baseball team, surprised his teammates and other friends in the city Saturday, when he and Miss Elizabeth Abbott of Albion, Mich., were united in marriage at St. John's parsonage, Rev. R. T. T. Hicks, performing the ceremony.

Casey had told his friends here that he was a married man and that his wife would join him some day during the week. Earlier in the week he arranged for the ceremony with Rev. Hicks, but advised the pastor to keep the affair a secret, as he wished to surprise his friends in Negaunee. The only ones to whom he confided the secret were Captain Ed Steimle of the Negaunee team, Joe McCarthy, twirler of the Ishpeming nine, and Percy Riley, a member of the Marquette team. Messrs. Riley and McCarthy are from the lower peninsula and have known Mr. Casey for a number of years. The three baseball players were at the station with Mr. Casey to meet his bride-to-be at 7 o'clock and they went from there to the parsonage.

Following the marriage Mr. Casey introduced his bride to his friends in the city and many of them were at first inclined to disbelieve that the ceremony had been performed that morning, as they had all understood that he was a married man when he came to Negaunee. Mrs. Casey is one of Albion's best known and most popular young ladies, and her husband is also equally wellknown and popular there. They will remain here until the close of the baseball season, when they will return to Albion.

CARS COLLIDE ON INTERURBAN LINE

Detroit, Mich., July 31.—Fifty persons were hurt, some of them perhaps fatally, in a collision late today between two interurban electric cars on the Detroit United line at Dearborn, ten miles west of this city. The cars, both traveling at a high rate of speed met head-on at a switch. A number of the injured were brought to hospitals in Detroit, and these are expected to recover. One motorman—Louis Hamilton—was terribly crushed and died soon after being taken from the wreck of his car.

St. Paul, Minn., July 31.—In an auto mobile accident tonight, in which a car filled with thirty-six men and women returning from a gay picnic, plunged over a twenty-foot embankment, one man—William F. Block—was perhaps fatally injured and two others, one of them a girl, were severely hurt, and the rest of the party were more or less injured. Block is unconscious at a hospital. The driver died immediately after the accident.

Green Bay, Wis., July 31.—Money which has been due E. K. Ansoerge for forty-six years and which he had forgotten having been entitled to was paid to him by the war department last week. The amount was not large, being only $1.73, and Mr. Ansoerge was more than surprised to receive a check from the government. The money was to cover the value of a blanket and other articles which Mr. Ansoerge turned in to the war department at the close of the Civil war.

MAN FLOATS A WHOLE DAY

Indifferent Swimmer Keeps Afloat in Ocean by Pure Life-Saving Instinct.

A French fisherman, a most indifferent swimmer, was knocked overboard in a storm twenty miles from the French coast, going into the briny with all his clothing on, including oilskins and heavy rubber boots. Almost twenty-four hours afterward two men working a small boat along the French coast, picking up oel pots near the mouth of a creek, saw what appeared to be the nude body of a drowned man borne toward them by the incoming tide. They secured the body with a rope and towed it ashore. There, to their amazement, they detected signs of animation and, failing to work like the sensible men they were, soon restored the man to consciousness. It was the fisherman who had gone overboard in the storm.

The overboard fisherman, twenty miles from land, knew he could not swim far, but he also knew the human body is lighter than water, especially salt water, and will float indefinitely unless water is taken into the lungs and stomach. This fisherman managed to get off oilskins, rubber boots and at last every stitch of clothing. Thus freed, he floated and, the storm abating to a steady breeze shoreward, his slight swimming spurts were assisted in partly overcoming the ebb tide and he had the full benefit of two flood tides carrying him toward shore. The man said he must have lost consciousness several hours before being picked up, but kept afloat by pure life saving instinct.

SUBWAY SIR WALTER RALEIGH

Young Man Discovers Way to Conquer Raging Torrent in Station Entrance.

When the train pulled in the other night at One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street and Broadway, the passengers who alighted at the station thought for a moment they had been put off at Niagara instead, says the New York Times. The subway entrance there is at the foot of a goodly hill. The sewers couldn't carry off the thunderstorm fast enough, and down the grade the water of what seemed like 40 cloudbursts was pouring. Into the subway entrance it rippled and foamed and down the stairs in a beautiful series of cascades.

The residents of Washington Heights who were more anxious to get home than to gaze upon the damp loveliness of waterfalls began to think of ways and means of egress. Suddenly a man in brown silk socks and glossy tan shoes whisked off these articles of apparel, rolled up his trousers, stuffed his footgear in his pockets, seized the girl he was escorting, and made his way with her in his arms through the raging torrent and up the stairs to a waiting taxi. It happened in a minute, but soon various men on the platform were doing the same thing.

"Well," grunted the old, fat ticket chopper, "I've been at this same old stand ever since the station was opened, but this is the first time I've had a whole comic opera acted out with me in the best seat in the audience. The subway ain't such a dopy dump, after all."

Sleep and Happiness.

Dr. Henry Smith Williams, who wrote "The Science of Happiness," is an advocate of early rising. He made it almost a gospel in his book, and although he requires only about six hours' sleep himself he practices what he preaches and rises early. While writing "The Science of Happiness" he cut this period an hour or even two hours shorter for weeks at a stretch, not burning midnight oil, but retiring at a comparatively early hour and rising correspondingly early. As an example, Dr. Williams cites the elder Pliny. "It appears that in summer he always began his studies as soon as it was night; in winter generally at one in the morning, but never later than two and often at midnight. No man ever spent less time in bed; inasmuch that he would sometimes, without retiring from his books, take a short sleep and then pursue his studies."

Try the Eucalypti Pipe.

In South Africa, where many species of Australian eucalypti have been successfully naturalized, a curious use has been made of the cones of the red gum tree. These are of fair size and when the seeds have been shaken out resemble a cup in shape. It occurred to some ingenious person that the cones would make very good pipe bowls. A hole was bored in the base of the cone and a piece of slender bamboo selected. When the two portions were joined together a very serviceable and novel pipe was the result. An experienced smoker declares the eucalyptus pipe to be very agreeable in use, as the natural fragrance of the cone imparts a delicate fragrance to the flavor of the tobacco. —From the Scientific American.

GARRICK THEATER

The management of the Garrick theater has received word that the Emery Musical Comedy company, which recently gave three pleasing performances at the Peterson here and which is to open an engagement at the Garrick next week, has received several new people and is stronger than ever. The company undoubtedly will receive a royal welcome at the Garrick upon the opening of their engagement.

BIG CHIEF TO MENOMINEE FOR A FINAL TRYOUT

"Big Chief" Miller, the Indian twirler who was recently released by the management of the Ishpeming team, is to be given a tryout at Menominee. Miller spent several days in Escanaba after dropping out at Ishpeming and was taken on at Menominee for a tryout.

Of the signing up of the Big Chief the Herald Leader says: "Billy" Miller, who first tried out at Louisville at the beginning of the season, and who made good and was farmed out to the smaller teams, may pitch for Menominee to morrow against the Milwaukee Hartmans. If Miller don't go into the box Harry Gilbertson will leaving Sunday's contest open to Naeger the Illinois-Missouri leaguer who came here the first of the week.

Considerable change has been made in the lineup. Captain Ohlin is on the sick list and his place will be taken by Korbal. "Dutch" Hines will play second while either O'Connors or Demoraki will guard the initial sack. "Doc" Samon of Chicago, recommended by "Dutch" Hines as the best catcher out of the leagues will arrive tonight and he will go behind the plate Webb, Lehman and Meyers will make up the outfield. Adams will play at third as usual.
