OBSERVER V. J. JAKL ISSUES STATEMENT ON BULLETIN SENT OUT BY DEPARTMENT

Concerning a special bulletin that has been issued by the chief of the weather service, Observer V. J. Jakl has issued the following statement:

The chief of the Weather Bureau has issued a special bulletin bearing on the recent warm wave that overspread most of the country east of the Rocky Mountains from early in May to the first decade in July, and which, considering its duration and extent of territory affected, was perhaps without precedent in the annals of the weather bureau.

A brief summary of this bulletin is here given, to which is appended a comparative record of the temperature that prevails at this station during the same period of time; a comparison that should be of special interest locally, by showing the more reasonable conditions that were enjoyed in this vicinity in contrast with the unusually warm weather elsewhere.

The discussion shows that the unusually warm weather came in a series of hot waves, broken at intervals by short periods of more moderate weather over scattered districts; and a survey of the chart of maximum temperatures shows that the heated period culminated generally about the 24th and 26th of June, when temperatures of 100 degrees or higher occurred over all the country from the Rockies nearly to the Mississippi River, and converged roughly to a center of highest temperature over central and northeastern Kansas. Over the last named region, temperatures of 110 degrees or above, reaching in extreme cases, 116, were recorded. Over a great portion of the northeastern states, temperatures of 100 or over occurred in the early part of July.

It will be noted that the affected area included all the more populous portion of the country, thereby causing (Continued on Page Eight)

ADVERTISING WILL START

The advertising campaign for the Northern State Fair to be held in Escanaba on Sept. 27, 28 and 29 under the auspices of the Delta county Agricultural society, will be opened within a few days. Members of the advertising committee of the society met yesterday morning and took formal action to secure the first batch of advertising matter which is to be posted in all parts of the county and this portion of the peninsula.

It is probable that an advertising wagon or auto will be started out from Escanaba within the next week or ten days carrying advertising matter concerning the fair to be distributed in all of the towns, cities and cross roads of the surrounding territory.

MANY WHO FAILED AT JUNE EXAMS WILL TRY AGAIN

Because of the fact that but 11 out of 50 applicants for teachers' certificates passed the tests at the June examination, it is expected that a large number of teachers of the county will return today to take the regular August examinations which opens this morning at the court house. The June examination was considered to be one of the most difficult ever prepared by the state officials for the teachers of Michigan and many of those who failed on the last occasion will approach the ordeal of today and tomorrow with fear and trembling. As no October examination is to be conducted this year it will be necessary for all of the teachers who are to have schools in the county, who have not already secured their certificates, to pass satisfactory test at this time.

VANDEVILLISTS SUE FOR SALARY

Bernard and Roberts, whose act was cancelled Monday evening by Manager J. A. Frechette of the Bijou, have entered suit against the management for $37.50, action on contract, in Judge Linden's court.

It is claimed by the plaintiffs that, as their act was allowed to run for more than one show, their contract is good. They have engaged Attorney R. J. Rushton to represent them.

PRIME BALL IN PROSPECT

STRENGTHENED TEAM HAS HARD SERIES OF GAMES BOOKED FOR NEXT TWO WEEKS.

With officials of the Escanaba baseball club busily engaged in booking star players to bolster up weak spots in the local team and a series of strong games booked for the next two weeks, Escanaba fans are to be offered an exceptional baseball bill. It was announced yesterday that the directors of the club expect the arrival here Saturday of a crack pitcher and catcher and what other players have been secured is not yet divulged. Every weak spot on the team is to be strengthened and the fans furnished with the fastest article of baseball ever played in this district.

On Saturday and Sunday the Marquette league team, which is making a terrific fight for second place in the percentage column, will come here for two games.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the Port Washington team, with such stars in the lineup as Ernie Groth and Young Cy-Young in the lineup, will come here for two games.

On Aug. 29 and 30, the Union Giants of Chicago will come here for two games and on Labor Day the colored organization is to return for a double header to be played in the morning and afternoon of that day. The morning game is to be called at 10:30 o'clock while the afternoon game will be started at 2:30 o'clock.

CONVENTION HERE WAS ENJOYABLE FOR ALL VISITORS

Delegates who attended the annual convention of the Young People's Society of the Norwegian church here on Sunday and Monday, have left for their homes in different parts of the peninsula and Northern Wisconsin, enthusiastic over the successful meeting that was held here. The convention is conceded to have been one of the most successful held since the organization of the society.

From the time of the arrival of the visitors in the city, they were the guests of the members of the local society and everything possible was accomplished to make their stay enjoyable. All of the meetings that were held were marked by enjoyable programs and visitors through the convention here.

The different cities of the district were represented at the convention by the following number of delegates: Hancock 2, Calumet 2, Oconto 2, Peshigo 4, Marinette 2, Ironwood 2, and Gladstone 2.

WEEKLY TROLLEY EXCURSION TONIGHT TO GLADSTONE

Escanaba people will be given another delightful opportunity to visit Gladstone tonight when the regular weekly trolley excursion to the Upper Bay City will be conducted by members of the Escanaba City band. The excursions in the past have been well patronized and with fair weather conditions prevailing this evening it is expected that many will make the trip.

LOELL IS TO QUIT

LOCAL CATCHER GIVES NOTICE THAT HE WILL ABANDON THE GAME WHEN SUCCESSOR IS SIGNED.

Atty. John Loell, who has served on the receiving end of the battery for the Escanaba baseball team for the past few weeks, has given notice to the officials of the club that he will present his resignation at any time that a catcher is secured to take his place. Atty. Loell desires to devote all of his time to the practice of his profession and will retire permanently from the game. Because Loell found it necessary to give much of his time to his professional work, he has been unable to report for practice with the team regularly and his work in the box suffered accordingly.

It is understood that the club officials have lines on two catchers both of whom will be here for the games against Marquette on Saturday and Sunday.

STRIKE IS SERIOUS

Escanaba faces one of the most serious strikes in the history of the city. The very life of the municipality is threatened by the walkout and Street Commissioner Holmes, Mayor Lindsay and other high officials are sorely perplexed by the situation.

Because the new sweeping carts recently purchased by the city are considered to be too heavy, the street sweepers on Ludington street, have struck. That is all but one or two of the faithful have joined the walkout. On Tuesday but one sweeper was in operation on the entire street. Yesterday by pressing prisoners confined at the police station into the service Commissioner Holmes succeeded in getting three of the carts manned yesterday. Today the same situation will be faced.

Commissioner Holmes is firm in his stand that the new carts are not too heavy.

The white wings are equally as staunch in their contention that the carts are much too heavy.

Thus the matter stands. In the meantime Ludington street is going unswept and unkept.

WORKMAN OBJECTS TO HOME-MADE BIKE AS A JOKE

A respectable working man of the city who by his ingenuity has fashioned a home made bicycle for his use in going to and from his work, is much incensed over an item which recently appeared in a city publication in which his homemade steed, he asserts, was held up to ridicule. It is held by the ingenious workman that he is a poor laborer with a large family to support and could not afford to purchase a bicycle. From an old frame that was given him he fashioned a wheel that answers his purposes well and last night he wished the statement made that if the fine sensibilities of any of Escanaba's people are being jarred by the appearance of his "wheel" he will accept a regularly manufactured bicycle as a gift.

INFANT SON DIED TUESDAY EVENING

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Loper, 24 Electric avenue are mourning the loss of their infant son, Louis V., who died at the family home Tuesday evening.

The funeral will be held Friday morning from the house at 10 o'clock. Rev. Hognander officiating. Interment will take place at Lakeview cemetery.

WERE GUESTS AT A PRETTY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Terrio and their guest, Miss Stella McClanathan of Chicago, were the guests at a delightful party given Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Metcalf at their home, 215 South Elm street.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrio will leave today for Oshkosh where they are well known and where Mr. Terrio, who recently resigned the position of editor of the Daily Mirror, will engage in the photograph business.

HIGH WATER STOPS MILL

FOR FIRST TIME IN HISTORY FORD RIVER MILL CLOSED IN AUGUST BECAUSE OF HIGH WATER.

For the first time in the history of the Ford River mill and for the first time in the memory of the county's oldest resident it was necessary to close the Ford River Lumber Company's mill for three days in August because of high water. Because of the exceptionally high stage of the water in the river it was necessary to suspend operations for three days last week and the river only now is returning to its normal stage.

Following the heavy rain storms of a week ago the river rose rapidly and finally reached an unprecedented height for this season of the year and a stage never even approached during a spring freshet.

The high water made it dangerous to break a log jam that had formed above the bridge spanning the stream and as it was impossible to secure logs by other means, Supt. J. A. McGuire closed the plant until the water had subsided.

OSHKOSH MAN HAD SAD TIME ON CAMPING TRIP

Allen Kirkpatrick of Oshkosh, who is well known to a number of Escanaba people through his weekly visits to this city, was the victim of a disagreeable camping experience near Ishpeming this week according to the Ishpeming correspondent for the Mining Journal. The Journal says:

Charles Kirkpatrick of this city, and his uncle, Allen Kirkpatrick, and son Palmroy, of Oshkosh, Wis., have returned from a fishing trip at Green's creek, south of here. Last Tuesday night the water in the creek raised three feet from the time they went to bed until they got up, and in the morning they found their tent flooded and most of their supplies floating, the water destroying part of their eatables. There was no rain that night, but the water came down from some of the larger streams some miles west of where they were camping. Within two days the water had gone down to its normal level. The banks of either sides of the stream were flooded for some distance and several of the farms were covered with water.

REV. HOGNANDER WILL DELAY START FOR CONVENTION

Because of the death of Hugo Moline whose funeral is to be held on Friday Rev. C. A. Hognander, pastor of the Swedish Mission church, will be unable to leave for Iron Mountain this morning as planned to attend the annual convention of the Young People's Society of the Swedish Mission church, which opens there today.

Rev. Hognander will leave for Iron Mountain on Saturday morning and will take a prominent part in the Sunday program when his solo numbers will be among the features of the convention service.

LEO LOVE TO REMAIN

OFFICIALS OF BASEBALL CLUB WILL RETAIN PITCHER AS MEMBER OF THE TEAM.

Announcement was made by the management of the Escanaba Baseball Club last night that in view of the work of Leo Love in the game against the Elkhart Blues on Tuesday, he will be retained as a member of the local twirling staff. The reinstatement of the twirler by the club is under the condition that he gives to the team the best that is in him on each occasion when he is called upon to enter a game. The officials of the club are now convinced that he did not intentionally lag in the game against Negaunee last Saturday when the locals were hopelessly slaughtered and will give the Chicago twirler every opportunity to make good in his remaining games of the schedule.

HOODSON GETS AN UMPIRE

Dr. R. E. Hodson, manager of the Escanaba baseball team, yesterday wired for a professional umpire living at Bay City Mich., to report here at once that he may officiate in the games between Escanaba and Marquette on Saturday and Sunday. The umpire was recommended by Nelson, who officiated as arbitrator in the Delta county league last season and whose work was particularly satisfactory. It is expected that the new umpire will arrive here either tomorrow or on Saturday morning.

Frank J. Russell of Marquette, who was delegated by the league officials to secure a professional umpire from an outside city who would be acceptable to the Marquette county teams, notified Dr. Hodson yesterday that he had been unable to find a professional umpire in the Copper country. Mr. Russell left Marquette yesterday for a trip down the lakes and he instructed Dr. Hodson by wire yesterday to be on the lookout for another umpire as Negaunee and Ishpeming had consented to use Marquette's regular arbitrator for the games of Saturday and Sunday.

FORMER ESCANABA MAN NOW INSANE WILL COME HERE

Formal notice has been received by Sheriff T. J. Curran and Pros. Atty. T. E. Strom that Tony Marchiel a former resident of North Escanaba, who recently was committed to the Wisconsin state hospital for the insane at Winnebago from Goodman, Wis., will be brought here today to become a charge of this county. The insane man will be brought here by attendants from the Wisconsin institution and will be turned over to the local officers, probably to be committed to the asylum at Newberry.

Marchiel left North Escanaba less than a year ago to work at Goodman, Wis., and it was while employed there that he became insane. He was committed to an asylum and when officials investigated the case it was found that he had not yet gained a legal residence in Wisconsin and was a charge of Michigan.

PRETTY PARTY IS TO BE GIVEN

A party of young men of the city will entertain at a dancing party at the Elks Hall tonight. A limited number of invitations have been issued for the affair and a delightful evening is anticipated by a number of the prominent young society people of the city.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Labaie last night a daughter.

HANDSOME YACHT IS IN PORT HERE

Flying the flag of the Columbia Yacht Club, the "Wauheba," a magnificent gasoline cruiser owned by Dr. Gilmer of Chicago, arrived in Escanaba yesterday afternoon. The "Wauheba" is a trim little craft and attracted considerable attention at the dock yesterday. Dr. Gilmer was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Gilmer, who will return today to Chicago by rail.

BLUES TRIM ISHPEMING

HOOSIERS DOWNED THE LEAGUE SQUAD IN CLOSE GAME YESTERDAY

Special to the Morning Press. Ishpeming Mich., Aug. 9.—The Elkhart Blue Sox today defeated the Ishpeming team of the Marquette Delta county league, in a close game by a score of 6 to 5. The game was a saw-saw contest from the first to the last inning with the locals several times apparently having the victory clinched only to have the Hoosiers nose them out in the ninth. The score was tied up in the eighth inning and in Elkhart's half of the ninth Black lined out a two bagger and was scored on Voght's terrific three bagger over the right fielder's head.

Bernard, Senator Proctor's best twirler, who a year ago held the Detroit Tigers to six hits, was sent to the box today and he was clouted for 12 drives by the Ishpeming batters. Hiltonen pitched effective ball for the locals except in the second and ninth innings. In the second the Hoosiers bunched three hits with errors for a quartette of tallies and in the ninth the two long drives gave victory to the visitors.

The Score: R. H. E. Elkhart 6 8 3 Ishpeming 5 12 5 Batteries—Bernard and Searles. Hiltonen and Mooney.

FLAT ROCK IS TO HAVE LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

According to the Gladstone Delta's Flat Rock correspondent that community is to fall in line and arrange a Labor Day celebration.

Of the proposed celebration the Flat Rock Buzz Saw writes the Delta as follows:

The Business Men's Association of Flat Rock has decided to celebrate Labor Day. There will be a biplane flight from the Chipmunk Lumber Co. camp across the river into Canada. Oscar Johnson is busy these days taking the top off the steel bridge and cutting down the trees in the swamp so they will not interfere with the flight. Detective Brittlshanks has gone to make arrangements with the aviators, Lancour Bros. of Perkins. We expect to raise the money from the saloonkeepers. They will give $100 apiece and some thirty-cent so-called minister will have them arrested for selling beer. The steamers Rub-a-dub and Dollie Gray, owned by Pickard and Deiter, will ply up and down the Escanaba River to carry passengers.

TO PLAY BENEFIT GAME FOR AN INJURED PLAYER

Members of the different teams of the North Western city league will play a benefit game at South Park on Sunday Aug. 20. All of the proceeds derived from the game will form a fund to be presented to Theodore Dugener, a member of the Machinists team who suffered a fracture of the arm while playing in a game last Sunday morning. It is expected that a large number of enthusiastic fans will witness the contest when picked teams of the league will strive for a victory.

HUGHES IS A BOOSTER

800 LINE DISTRICT PASSENGER AGENT ARRANGES FOR DELTA COUNTY EXHIBIT IN ST. PAUL.

That W. D. Hughes, district passenger agent for the Soo Line with headquarters in Escanaba, is an enthusiastic booster for Delta county lands and products of this district is shown by his action in arranging for the display of exhibits from the Delta county fair at the Soo Line ticket office in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Mr. Hughes yesterday received a letter from W. R. Calloway, general passenger agent for the Soo Line, that the company would be pleased to arrange exhibits of the products of Delta county in the St. Paul and Minneapolis offices immediately after the close of the Northern State Fair here on Sept. 27, 28 and 29.

Arrangements for shipping the exhibits to Minneapolis are also in the letter from Mr. Calloway showing well the interest taken by the Soo Line officials in this district.

Following is the letter received yesterday by Mr. Hughes:

"Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 7, 1911. "Mr. W. D. Hughes, D. P. A., Soo Line, Escanaba, Mich.

Dear Sir—Referring to your of the 5th.

"We will be very glad, indeed, to place in ticket offices in St. Paul and Minneapolis exhibits from the Northern Michigan fair to be held at Escanaba, Sept. 27, 28 and 29.

"When these are ready ship by baggage car to L. P. Green, who will see that they are displayed in both St. Paul and Minneapolis.

"Yours truly, W. R. CALLOWAY, Genl. Pass. Agt.

OLMSTED WON GAME

Henry Olmsted, the Escanaba twirler, appearing with the Denver team of the Western league, signalized his return to form by trimming Pueblo 4 to 3 on Tuesday. The present is the second full game that the Escanaba lad has pitched since returning to Denver when the season was well advanced and in both cases he got away with a victory. Olmsted was supported by vigorous slugging in the eighth inning when the Denver batters got to the opposing pitcher for two runs and took the lead which they held to the end of the game.

PLEASURE SEEKERS WILL ATTEND THE GLADSTONE PROM

It is expected that many Escanaba pleasure seekers will go to Gladstone this evening to take part in the weekly prom arranged at the Gladstone opera house. All of the functions given there this season have been immense successes and enjoyable for all who attended. A bumper crowd is expected to be present tonight.

DR. BOYCE IS BACK FROM CHICAGO TRIP

Dr. W. B. Boyce returned to the city yesterday morning from Chicago, where he went to place his six year old daughter, Beatrice, in the Pasteur Institute for treatment. The child was bitten last week by a supposedly mad dog and was taken to Chicago at once by the father.

Dr. Boyce said yesterday that up to the time of his departure, nothing serious had developed, but that he thought best to have her in Chicago in charge of the institute for the remainder of the treatment.

SMITH NOT OPPOSED

Washington, Aug. 9.—Reps. Edward L. Hamilton of Niles, Henry McMorran of Port Huron and James C. McLaughlin of Muskegon have returned to Washington. The only members of the Michigan delegation now absent are Reps. Loud, Fordney and Young, the latter being in New York with the steel trust committee. Geo. A. Loud is busy re-establishing the burned towns of Oscoda and Au Sable.

The Wolverine representatives came back to vote on the cotton tariff. All the Michigan Republicans are against the measure. Rep. Wedemeyer hobbled over to the house this morning, aided by a small tree trunk for a cane and several sturdy fellow members as props.

Each incoming member gives the same account of things at home—a growing appreciation of President Taft, the belief that Gov. Osborn will be compelled to succeed himself and that Senator William Alden Smith will be unanimously renominated to succeed himself.

"There is nobody in Michigan who can oppose William Alden Smith," declares Rep. Sam W. Smith. "Senator Smith is as good as renominated already," is the way Rep. McLaughlin regards it. The latest arrivals say there is very little talk at home as to state political machinery for next year.

The possibility of Capt. Fred Alger of Detroit succeeding John Blodgett of Grand Rapids as Republican state chairman is one in which the congressmen say they have no hand. They prefer to leave such matters strictly to the state committeemen.

TAFT MAY COME IN SEPTEMBER

The most important trip that President Taft has planned since he has been in the white house in the view of Republican leaders, a trip during which he is expected to open the 1912 presidential campaign for his party, will begin September 16.

It will last at least four and may be decided to extend the outing six weeks so that the president will not get back to Beverly or Washington until November.

According to the plan so far drawn up at the white house, the president will visit most of the states in the middle west, north of and including Missouri, and will make incursions into practically all of the states which have progressive congressional delegations. It is believed he will include Houghton in his itinerary, as he promised when he could not attend the college of mines reunion that he would come later in the summer.

The president so far has given almost no consideration to speech-making on this trip, but it has long been the idea of Republican leaders that he would make as many political addresses as possible west of the Mississippi.

With three definite dates on the schedule the whole trip has been tentatively arranged. The first is at Knoxville, Tenn., where on the 18th the president is to open the Appalachian exposition.

Several southern states have asked the president to visit them in September and it is probable he will accept some of the invitations. From Rochester, the president will make a jump to Hutchinson, Kan., where he is to speak at the state fair, September 26. On the way he plans to stop at one or two cities in Michigan, at Chicago and probably will make a few rear platform, or even other sort of platform addresses in Iowa.

From Hutchinson the president expects to travel into Nebraska, South Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin, where he may see Pauline Wayne, the white house cow, which is to be an exhibit at the International Dairyman's exposition in Milwaukee. From this point the party may turn again into Kansas and Iowa.

If the trip is to end in four weeks Milwaukee probably will be the last stopping place. If it should be extended, the president will journey to Denver, Colorado Springs, Salt Lake and the coast, taking in California, Oregon and Washington and returning east over a northern route.

A well known Des Moines woman after suffering miserably for two days from bowel complaint, was cured by one dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by Groce Drug Store and Farrell and Lohmiller.

ROWETT QUITS THE MAT GAME

Jack Rowett, sheriff of Gogebic county, was in the city on official business and he also spent a few hours visiting with some of his friends, says the Ishpeming Iron Ore. Jack was elected sheriff on the Republican ticket last fall and he is making a good record in that office. Previous to the first of the year he was a deputy state game warden for a number of years and the law violations in his territory were reduced to a minimum, the illegal hunters knowing that if Jack got after them they would pay for their sport.

Mr. Rowett, who was one of the best Cornish wrestlers that ever put on a jacket, stated to a representative of Iron Ore that he was through with the game as his age is close to forty and he does not care to take a chance on getting a broken collar bone or leg. He looks to be in the pink of condition and we are certain he would give a good account of himself if he entered the ring on a moment's notice. In his prime he met all the best wrestlers at Cornish style and he was usually the victor as he is a powerful man and extremely fast. He holds the record for the longest match, having wrestled for eight hours and forty minutes with three men at Butte City. He stated that he was sorry to see the game dying out in the upper peninsula as a great deal of interest was taken in the sport in Gogebic, Houghton and Marquette counties. When asked about William Penberthy, of Ishpeming, Mr. Rowett was of the opinion that he was a fast man and would give any wrestler of his weight a hard fight.

One of the causes of the death of wrestling in the upper peninsula and in Duluth is attributed to the fake matches, which have been numerous in past years. People are not anxious to attend the matches for the reason that most of them are "fixed" and the spectators do not get much for their money. In the old days the best man won and there were no meetings before hand to determine who was to get the decision.

AVIATOR PROMISES TO STARTLE WORLD

Paris, Aug. 9.—Jules Vedrines, the aviator, promises to startle the world next Wednesday with an aeroplane feat, the nature of which he is keeping secret. He merely says it will be sensational and of an untried character.

Speaking today of the use of aeroplanes in war, Vedrines said a number of aeroplanes could paralyze in a few hours the world's greatest battle-ships. In case of a war between France and Germany, he added, French armies could destroy bridges, railroads and fortresses.

NOTICE OF ABANDONMENT OF ROAD.

Resolved: That the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Delta do hereby abandon all of those portions of the Nahma County Road described as follows:

Commencing at Station 200 plus 72.5 of the Nahma Road as adopted Dec. 15th, 1910, and running N. 86 degrees 19 minutes E. 188.5 feet to Sta. 202 plus 62; thence S. 26 degrees 45 minutes E. 159.8 feet to Sta. 204 plus 21.8; thence N. 9 degrees 33 minutes W. 122.9 feet to Sta. 205 plus 44.7; thence S. 50 degrees 44 minutes W. 309.6 feet to Sta. 208 plus 54.3 a total distance of 780.8 feet.

And be it further Resolved, That the County Clerk notify the Highway Commissioner of the Township of Nahma of the action of this board and that the County Clerk cause notice of this action to be published once each week for three successive weeks in the Escanaba Morning Press.

And Be It Further Resolved: That the Board of County Road Commissioners do hereby adopt as a portion of the Nahma County Road a strip or parcel of land four (4) rods in width the center line of which is described as follows:

Commencing at Station 200 plus 72.5 of the Nahma road as adopted Dec. 15th, 1910, and running south four hundred and seventy-two (472) feet to Station 208 plus 54.3 of said previously adopted road.

And be it further resolved that the County Clerk notify the Highway Commissioner of the Township of Nahma of the action of this board and that the County Clerk cause notice of this action to be published once each week for three successive weeks in the Escanaba Morning Press.

The KISSELKAR

"Every Inch a Car" --- unsurpassed for attractiveness---unequaled for operating economy---and low maintenance. 1912 models now at the salesrooms :: :: :: :: ::

THE MOST you can pay for any open body KisselKar fully equipped is $3,000. Yet, even if you have had in mind paying as much as five thousand dollars for your automobile, first see the KisselKar, ride in the KisselKar, inquire about the KisselKar. You will find that the KisselKar has all the attractiveness of design, all the comfort, silence and mechanical refinements, all the roominess and luxury of appointments and all the other desirable qualities possible to secure in a motor car. No matter how liberal you may feel about price-paying, you cannot get a car superior in any respect to the KisselKar.

See the KisselKar—ride in it—inquire about it—then you will gain a new standard by which to estimate the desirability and value of other cars. And, if your investigation is painstaking, you will come back to the KisselKar as the car of ultimate quality, regardless of price and, price considered, the conspicuous value in America.

The 60 H. P. "Six" (fully equipped) $3,000

- 4 Cyl., 30 H. P., $1,500
- 4 Cyl., 40 H. P., $1,850
- 4 Cyl., 50 H. P., $2,350

60 H. P. "Six" Touring

You may have had in mind paying as much as $5,000 or more for a four-cylinder car, but why a "four" when this superb, seven-passenger, high-powered KisselKar "Six" sells for approximately the same price as many of

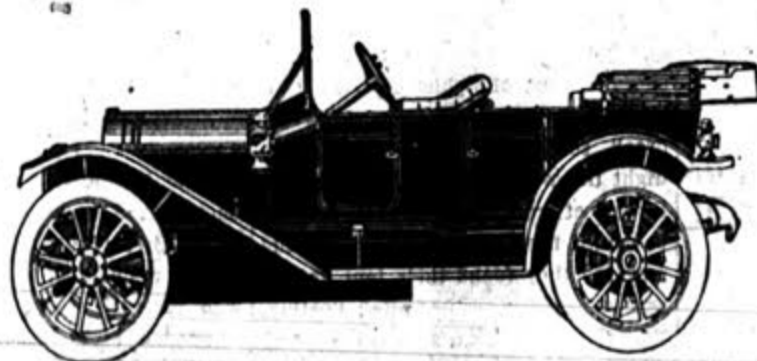

of the "fours" and the easy riding and general supremacy of the "Six" are undisputed. The KisselKar "Six" in Touring, Semi-touring, or Semiracer bodies—$3,000, completely equipped is the unique value in the whole history of the industry. It is built with the straight line, fore-door effect, has extremely liberal wheel-base, 37x5 inch tires, and is generally commodious in both front and rear compartments—in every specification and detail it is the highest type of automobile.

The Four-cylinder KisselKar models have the same roominess, attractiveness of design, and appointments as the "Six"—each model representing a maximum automobile value, each a superior car of its class.

PRICES INCLUDE FULL EQUIPMENT

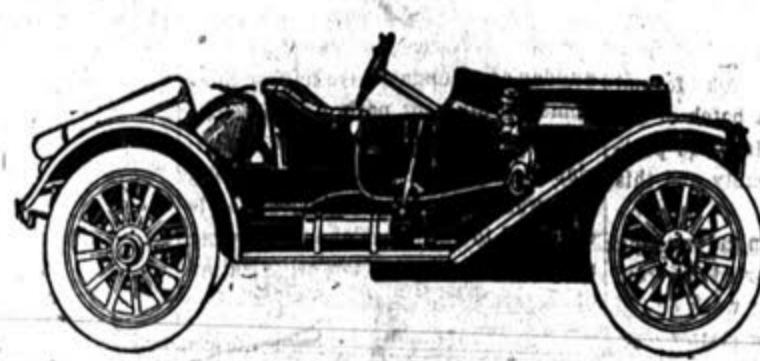

Except the "Thirty" which is equipped with Mohair or Pantanote top and cover, gas lamps, Prest-o-Lite tank, glass front, solar dash and tail lamp, horn, jack, pump, tool kit and tire repair outfit, the prices on all other KisselKar models include COMPLETE equipment, including speedometer, shock absorbers, demountable rims and every other accessory of a perfectly equipped car—nothing left to be purchased separately.

Thirty, Forty, Fifty, Sixty H. P. Touring, Semi-Touring, Coupe, Limousine Bodies

"Forty" Semi-Touring

The Semi-touring is a body unique with the KisselKar line. It is a modification of the Touring body and an elaboration of the Baby Tonneau type. While the standard Baby Tonneau bodies are "pinched for room" in the forward compartment, the Semi-touring is liberally roomy; at the same time it is a light body to effect the economy on tires and fuel, which was the object of the Baby Tonneau. Exceedingly roomy for four passengers, not overcrowded by five, it is the ideal body for combined business and touring use.

"Thirty" Semi-Racer

The KisselKar Semi-racer body is a two-passenger business runabout built on rakish semi-racer lines. In business service it is a type of body at once handy to control, and light to afford fuel and tire economy. Note the straight line effect, low bodies and big wheels characteristic of KisselKar models.

TRUCKS

The KisselKar line of trucks embrace models adapted for every delivery and hauling condition. 1-2 ton, 3 ton, 4 ton, 5 ton trucks, light and special delivery wagons, omnibuses, etc. models adaptable for every delivery. Mechanical features make KisselKar trucks lowest in maintenance, most economical of operation, most dependable.

The Vanishing of Stefan Dashkoff

Count Stefan Dashkoff was a young man, a member of a very old and wealthy Russian family who had in their day wielded great power, and before the abolition of serfdom took place, had held sway over more serfs than any other family in the empire. After a probationary course in the diplomatic service at home he was sent as an attaché to the Russian embassy in Paris. As might be supposed, he took kindly to Parisian life, being about eight-and-twenty, possessed of good looks, sound health, a cheerful disposition and plenty of money. His private residence in the Champs Elysees was conspicuous for the magnificence of its appointments, and was the rendezvous of the elite of the younger generation of Paris society. Two years had passed since the count had established himself in Paris, and then he suddenly and mysteriously disappeared, and all efforts of the police failed to discover a trace of him. The facts of the case were as follows:

In the course of the month of January Count Dashkoff gave a grand ball at his elegant hotel which was largely attended by the gilded youth of both sexes. About two in the morning the host drew an intimate friend of his—a Monsieur Eugene Peon—on one side and told him that he wanted to slip away for an hour, but did not wish it to be known that he had gone out. A few minutes later the concierge saw him leave the hall. He was attired in a costly fur coat, with a cap to match, and although the weather was bitterly cold and the ground covered with snow, he wore patent leather shoes. The concierge, who was much surprised at the fact of his master leaving the house in the midst of the revels, asked him if he wanted a carriage. The count abruptly answered in the negative and seemed annoyed at the question.

The night wore on and the guests finally departed, but the host had not returned. On the following afternoon Eugene Peon called at his friend's hotel and ascertaining that he was not at home, went down to the embassy to inquire for him there. He had not been seen by any of the officials, and when another whole day passed without the count making his appearance at home or at his usual haunts, it was decided that the police should be notified. But notwithstanding the publicity given to the matter and the efforts of the authorities another week passed and not a trace or sign of the missing man had been obtained.

Up to this point the count's relatives in Russia had not been communicated with, for there were hopes that the missing attaché would turn up all right; but the affair began to look serious and a message was sent asking if the count had returned home, and almost simultaneously with the despatch of the message a courier set out for Russia with the tidings and details. As, so far as was known, the missing man had not returned to Russia, great consternation was caused among his friends by the report that reached them. No time was lost in securing the services of Michael Danevitch, who was instructed to leave at once for Paris and institute independent inquiries.

On the detective's arrival in the French capital he found that by order of the Russian ambassador all the count's possessions had been sealed up and his house temporarily closed. Danevitch's preliminary investigations were directed to trying to discover if there were any grounds for believing that Dashkoff had committed suicide. He could find no grounds to support such a theory, however, and his next step was to seek an interview with Monsieur Eugene Peon. As the latter gentleman had been very intimate with the count he was able to speak with a good deal of authority regarding the attaché's mode of life. He admitted that the count was very fond of female society but, as far as he knew, had formed no serious attachment to any woman. Peon could suggest no reason why Dashkoff should have left his guests so abruptly, unless it was to keep an appointment. Danevitch then resolved to look up the count's former body servant, one Auguste Chauvy, who informed him that on the night of the ball he had obtained leave of absence after dressing his master. He returned, however, shortly after midnight, and just as he was about to enter the house a man approached him, thrust an envelope into his hand and said: "Give that at once to your master. It is a matter of life and death." The stranger hastened away without waiting a reply. From the glimpse Chauvy had of him he seemed to be well dressed, of medium height and wore a dark beard and mustache. It was some time before the valet could get to his master to deliver the message. When he did so the count glanced at the writing, frowned and thrust the letter unopened into his pocket. Later he went forth on the mysterious mission from which he failed to return.

As no trace of the note which summoned the host away from his guests was found in the house, it was evident that he had either taken it with him or destroyed it. Danevitch concluded from the valet's account of the disfavor with which the count received the communication that he knew the writer and was annoyed at being disturbed. Also, he did not go out willingly, consequently his errand was a disagreeable one, and could hardly have been to keep a love tryst. Whoever the writer of the letter was or she must have had some powerful hold on Dashkoff to induce him to leave the festival at his house and go out at two o'clock on a cold winter morning. It looked as though the count's disappearance was due to conduct which had brought him in contact with unscrupulous people into whose power he had fallen. It was clear that if he were still living he was forcibly detained and was in such a position that he could not communicate with his friends. Danevitch applied to the young man's relatives in Russia for permission to examine the private papers which had been left behind him. In response to his request Dashkoff's father came at once to Paris and he and the detective went through the papers together. The result of the examination was rather disappointing, until a small diary was found in which were some remarkable passages. It was not a record of doings and events from day to day, but seemed to be the outpourings of the writer's feelings and emotions, transcribed in a fitful and irregular manner. The following passage struck Danevitch as being significant, as it seemed to contradict Eugene Peon's assertion that the count was not involved in any serious love affair.

"I have been weak, but am growing strong again. Rosine must not be allowed to keep me bound down in the gutter. I was destined to walk on greater heights, and since it is impossible for me to raise her, she must be cut adrift. In a few weeks I shall send in my resignation and quit Paris forever. This I have determined to do, cost what it may. I have taken Eugene Peon into my confidence. He will help me and satisfy the curious when I am gone."

It was now clear to the detective that there was surely a woman in the case. Also, he reflected, Eugene Peon knew more of the count's affairs than he chose to reveal. Yet a second interview with the latter gentleman left Danevitch no wiser than before. Peon insisted that the count had not confided in him as the passage in the diary would seem to indicate, and he knew nothing of the woman mentioned. It seemed as if it was not the count's money that was responsible for his disappearance. He kept a large banking account in Paris, but this had not been drawn upon since the week before he went away. But at this stage a curious incident was brought to light which put a new complexion on the mystery.

Count Dashkoff also had kept a considerable account at the Moscow branch of the Bank of Russia. He owned a good deal of property in and about Moscow, and his affairs in that city were looked after by an agent who had been connected with the Dashkoff family for nearly half a century. It was his duty to pay all money he received into the bank without delay. Consequently there was always a large balance standing to the count's credit. One day a three-months' bill of exchange, purporting to be drawn on the count by Paul Pavlovitch & Co, fax merchants at Riga, for one hundred thousand francs, and accepted by the count and payable at the bank in Moscow, was duly presented by an individual who stated that he was a member of the firm. As all seemed right, the bill was paid and a receipt given in the name of Peter Pavlovitch, who presented himself as the son of Paul. A week later the cancelled bill passed into the hands of the count's agent, and he at once declared it to be a forgery. Pavlovitch & Co. were immediately communicated with and they denied all knowledge of the count, had never had any business transactions with him and knew nothing of the so-called Peter Pavlovitch. This was a revelation indeed. It appeared to Danevitch that the person who forged the bill knew a good deal about the count, and if that person could be laid hold of the plot might be unmasked. It was evident that the forger was acquainted with the count's affairs and also with Russia.

Danevitch at once returned to Moscow, deeming it probable that he might there pick up some thread which would lead him to a clue. The man calling himself Peter Pavlovitch, to whom the money was paid, was described as of medium height, of muscular build, dark complexioned, black hair and mustache, in age about thirty. The forged bill was presented for payment about 10:30 in the morning. That argued that the stranger who drew the money and gave the accept had slept in the city and probably lodged at some cafe or hotel. It struck Danevitch that if the unknown had come to Moscow for the sole purpose of drawing the money he would in all probability select a place near the railway station. After making several inquiries he found that a man answering the description of the suspect had stayed at a cafe called The Traveler's Joy, and taken his departure by train on the same day that the bill was presented. He had been a guest of the establishment for four days and when he left settled his account with a brand-new five hundred rouble note, receiving the change in small money. As the hotel-keeper was unable to change the note himself, he had it done at a money-changer's in the neighborhood. The money-changer made an entry of the number of the note and it was therefore easy to prove that it was one of those paid by the bank to "Peter Pavlovitch."

During the time that the pseudo Peter Pavlovitch was staying at The Traveler's Joy he was visited daily by a pretty young woman who, from her manner of dress and general appearance, was supposed to be connected with the theatrical profession. Fortunately a minute description of this woman was obtainable, and from this Danevitch identified her as a Fraulein Holstein, supposed to be an Austrian or German nationality. She was a music hall singer and had been filling an engagement in Moscow, but had then left and gone to a place of entertainment in St. Petersburg whither Danevitch followed her. He learned that when her engagement terminated in St. Petersburg, as it would in a few days, she was going to Vienna for a week, thence to Berlin for a fortnight and after that to Paris to perform in a drama at the Chateau. The detective was now certain that he was on the right trail. Therefore, when the Fraulein forsook the Russian capital he left by the same train. He followed her to Vienna, from Vienna to Berlin, from Berlin to Paris. When she reached the latter city she was met by a man whom Danevitch recognized from the person who had presented the forged bill for payment at the Moscow bank. The scent was now getting warm, but it would have been premature to take any steps calculated to frighten the suspects, and the detective had yet to prove that there was any connection between the disappearance of Dashkoff and the incident of the forged bill.

The man who had passed himself off as Peter Pavlovitch was known in Paris as Henri Charcot, and by calling her a theatrical and music-hall agent in a small way, Fraulein Holstein was, or represented herself to be, the wife of Charcot. Shadowing his quarry patiently, Danevitch discovered that a man who evidently occupied a much higher social position, he did not take him long to identify the Charcot's as a rather poor quarter of Paris, not far from the Gare de l'Est. In this region was a popular restaurant where they went frequently to dine or sup, sometimes in the company of their mysterious friend. One night the trio went to the restaurant for dinner and were shown into a private room, where a small stove dispensed a comforting warmth, and to protect the occupants from draught a heavy screen was drawn between the table and the window. After the meal was over the lady and her two companions conversed freely.

"Do you intend to remain in Paris?" asked the stranger.

"Yes," replied Charcot. "I don't see that there is much to fear."

"You feel sure that your visit to Russia in connection with the bill is not known?"

"Perfectly sure. My wife and I managed the affair too cleverly for suspicion to reach us."

"But there is always danger as long as he is alive," said the stranger, moodily.

"Then why should he live?" asked Madame Charcot coolly.

"I will have nothing to do with his death," returned the stranger, with a shudder.

"You are chicken-hearted," commented Charcot scornfully. "One word and an extra hundred francs to old Pierre and the danger would be removed."

"True," said the stranger, "but I would rather not speak the word. The affair has been bungled as it is. Instead of proving a source of wealth to us we have only made a miserable hundred thousand francs between us, and it's hopeless to expect that we can get more. Anyway, I think this place is no longer safe for me, and I shall go abroad."

"As you please," said Charcot.

lowed to occupy the ruin, subject to the payment of a nominal rent. He was a big, muscular old fellow of sinister and forbidding appearance. To this place Charcot was followed by three French police officers in company with Danevitch. While Charcot and old Pierre were conferring together, the Russian and his companions entered and placed the conspirators under arrest. In a dark filthy cellar they found Count Dashkoff lying on a heap of straw close to the wall, to which he was secured by a chain and staple. The once brilliant and handsome attaché was a deplorable sight, his eyes sunken, his face ghastly in its corpse-like appearance. He was wasted to a skeleton, and the vacant stare with which he greeted his rescuers told them only too plainly that the victim's mind had given way under the strain of his sufferings. As soon as possible the count was removed in an ambulance to a hospital. An hour later Eugene Peon and Madame Charcot were arrested, and upon being put through a severe examination confessed the part they had played in the conspiracy. The story that was wrung from the prisoners was as follows:

Years before the events already narrated, an Austrian named Schumacher took up his residence in Paris with his wife and two daughters, named respectively Rosine and Anna, and a son named Fritz. As the girls grew up they developed remarkable beauty, and entered theatrical life at an early age. In the course of time Anna married a music-hall agent named Charcot, and Rosine, who seems to have had numerous lovers, joined a theatrical company and traveled abroad. Returning to Paris she found better employment for her

made. The wife's rapacity for money, jewels, dress was insatiable, and her brother took good care to share her purse. For reasons of his own Dashkoff had insisted on their marriage being kept secret, and Rosine was installed in a residence in a little village some twenty miles from Paris. She had contracted heavy drinking habits, and in the course of time became a confirmed dipsomaniac; and one night, to the horror of the band of conspirators, threw herself into the Seine and was drowned.

Peon, Anna Charcot and her husband managed to keep the news of his wife's death from the count, and he was given to understand that she had taken herself off somewhere. A few months passed and the plotters felt the loss of their supplies severely. Then they resolved to abduct the count and keep him a prisoner until he secured his release by paying a large ransom. The night of the ball was chosen as a good opportunity to put the plan into execution. Anna wrote a letter closely imitating Rosine's style. It stated that she had been away from Paris, but had come back seriously ill, and was then unable to leave her bed. She begged him to go and see her immediately and promised that, if he would give her a sum of money down she would go away and he would never hear of her again. If not, she would proclaim the next morning to all Paris that she was his lawful wife and would also send an intimation to that effect to the embassy. The note wound up by stating that a carriage would be in waiting not far from his house to convey him to her lodgings, and that he could easily get back again in an hour and a half.

The plan worked to perfection. Dashkoff found the carriage at the spot indicated and was driven out past the barrier to Pierre's house. Two powerful ruffians, who were to be well paid for their part of the work, had ridden on the box beside the coachman, who was one of their own kind. When the destination was reached the count alighted, and becoming suspicious of his surroundings, was about to re-enter the carriage and order the driver to return to the city, when he was seized by the hired thugs and a desperate struggle took place. To end matters, one of his assailants struck him a terrific blow on the head with a club, knocking him unconscious. He was then carried into Pierre's den. For two days he remained insensible and when he recovered consciousness the conspirators found that he was no longer in his right mind. As he showed no signs of improvement and they were hard pressed for money, Eugene undertook to forge a bill, and Madame Charcot, who was then in Moscow, was instructed to find out something about the count's business transactions there. Charcot then went to Moscow and representing himself as Peter Pavlovitch, presented the forged bill at the bank and received the money for it which was, of course, shared by all concerned.

Had it not been for Danevitch's timely work in unraveling the plot it is certain that the unfortunate victim, who was becoming an expensive and dangerous burden to the conspirators, would have met his death at the hand of Pierre Mousson. As it was, the careers of the wretches were brought to a close and exemplary punishment was meted out to all of them. The extradition of both Charcot and his wife was demanded by the Russian government to answer for the affair of the forged bill. This demand was complied with only after the couple had served a heavy jail sentence under the French law. They were then handed over to the Russian authorities, by whom they were sent to Siberia. For many months Count Dashkoff lingered between life and death, but at last under careful treatment his health and mind were fully restored. Upon his recovery he returned to his native land, having resigned his post at the embassy in a city which held for him too many painful memories.

RIVALRY OF ROYAL BROTHERS

A Game of Cards Decided Which One Should Be Privileged to Win Peasant.

It is said that the two brothers, Prince Louis Lucien Bonaparte and Prince Pierre, in their early youth, when shooting mousfins in the mountains of Corsica, came across a beautiful peasant-girl with whom they both fell violently in love.

Who she was, and whether she favored both brothers, or neither, I cannot tell. Be that as it may, they quarreled. Les preux chevaliers of old would, no doubt, in similar occurrences have had recourse to lance and sword. The Corsican princes decided to play for their belle a game of cards. They went to the nearest inn and wrote and signed a paper agreeing that whichever won the game should marry the lady fair. Prince Lucien won, and, faithful to his word, a short time after married her.

She never left the island, as far as I know. Prince Lucien lived in England, securing to her a comfortable income, which she received till her death, a few years ago, somewhere about the spring of 1901.—From the Princess Murat's Memoirs.

The Spooners.

For the fourth time he had said "Good night," but still they lingered on the frosty doorstep.

"Ah, dearest," he whispered tenderly, gazing toward the starlit sky, "the night has a thousand eyes."

"Sh! You goose!" cautioned the pretty girl, as she noticed dark forms at the opposite window. "Not so loud! The night also has a thousand ears."

Why didn't Squiggins pay the clergyman who married him to Miss Peppery?
"He tried to, but the minister took one look at the bride and said he'd compromise if Squiggins would promise not to bring suit against him for damages in after life."

TWO VIEWS.

The Deacon—Parson, we've come to the conclusion that you're too liberal.
The Parson—Well, I've come to the conclusion that the congregation is too economical.

THE SIMILARITY

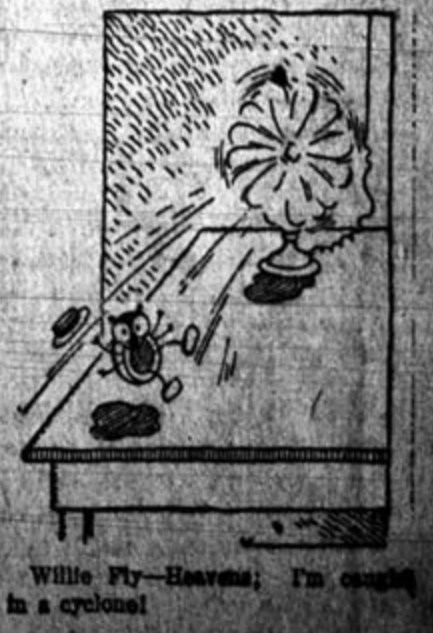

Ethel—Sister says you remind her of my doll.
Cholly—Why does she think so?
Ethel—Well, you know, dolly's head is filled with sawdust, too.

NOT WORTHLESS.

"I cannot marry you. I love another. Take back the presents you gave me."
"Very well; but what can I do with them?"
"Oh, perhaps my new beau will take them off your hands at a discount!"

IN BUGVILLE

Willie Fly-Buzzard, I'm caught in a cyclone!

THE ONCE BRILLIANT AND HANDSOME ATTACHE WAS A DEPLORABLE SIGHT.

But we've got interests here, and unless danger really menaces us we will remain."

In a little while the party broke up, the stranger taking his leave. Charcot and his wife lingered to drink a parting glass of absinthe.

"All the same, we are not as safe as if the count were dead," remarked the woman. "It doesn't pay to be sentimental in cases of this kind. If I were you I would give old Pierre a couple of hundred francs and let him finish the matter for good."

Her husband nodded. "I believe you are right," he said. "I will go and make arrangements with Pierre tomorrow morning."

The Charcot's now took their departure, blissfully unconscious of the fact that every word of the conversation which they and the stranger—who was none other than Eugene Peon—had uttered had been carefully taken down in shorthand. Behind the screen a young man had sat the whole evening with notebook and pencil. He was a trusted agent of Danevitch, who had made the necessary arrangements with the proprietor of the restaurant.

On the following day Charcot was shadowed closely, and followed to an old house situated in the western part of Paris, outside of the barrier. It was a tumble-down old building inhabited by a man named Pierre Mousson, who for many years had been silence in the fascinating of Count Dashkoff. The count was young and impetuous; the girl cunning and far-seeing. In her scheme to entrap Dashkoff she had the aid of her brother, although that gentleman was no longer known as Fritz. At quite an early age Fritz had attracted the attention of an old and austerely lady, who sent him to school, fostered in him expensive tastes and gave him to understand that he would be her heir. Lured on by his expectations, the young man adopted the name of his patroness and was henceforth known as Eugene Peon. Unfortunately for his dreams of future wealth his benefactress died suddenly without making a will and her entire fortune went to her nearest of kin.

To find himself penniless was a crushing blow to Eugene. He hated work and so set himself to live by his wits. He was a fascinating young fellow, with the power of attracting both men and women. When he made the acquaintance of Dashkoff the count took to him and Peon was far too clever to lose such a chance of benefiting himself. It was then that Rosine entered on the scene. Keeping their relationship a secret, brother and sister used every art that cunning could suggest to entrap the easy-going count. Her beauty proved too much for Dashkoff, who married her, soon, however, to discover what a terrible error he had made. The wife's rapacity for money, jewels, dress was insatiable, and her brother took good care to share her purse. For reasons of his own Dashkoff had insisted on their marriage being kept secret, and Rosine was installed in a residence in a little village some twenty miles from Paris. She had contracted heavy drinking habits, and in the course of time became a confirmed dipsomaniac; and one night, to the horror of the band of conspirators, threw herself into the Seine and was drowned.

BOSTON MARKETS

It should be fairly evident by this time that there is something vitally wrong with the New York market. The break for the past few days has been caused by a heavy liquidation of long stock and the bottom has not yet been reached. Short covering furnishes the only support and the stocks purchased are quickly put out again.

NEW YORK MARKETS

Now that it is known that the agricultural output aside from cotton will be somewhat below normal and as it is known that our large corporations, the railroads, are confronted with a situation not only with regard to the numerous adjustments of freight rates, but also with regard to the labor question, and as it is generally realized that agitation against corporations in all forms of organized wealth has by no means subsided, it is not at all improbable that security prices will be forced to a lower level which will be more in keeping with the existing state of affairs and at the same time appeal more strongly to the investing public, who of late have confined their attention to bonds and other forms of funded obligations.

WOMAN MAYOR WIRES GOVERNOR

Hunnswell, Kas., Aug. 9.—"Politics is not a woman's game." This is the decision of Mrs. Ella Wilson, mayor of this town, who since her inauguration has had a continuous fight with the male city council. The aldermen have not confirmed her appointees for city marshal or city clerk and she has not signed any of the ordinances they have passed.
Mrs. Wilson tonight, for the first time, admitted that she would quit if she could, saying that politics is not the place for a woman, but at the same time she turned on the members of the city council and forced the members to listen to her. She will not quit unless forced to do so, she says.

During the last week Mrs. Wilson has conferred with Governor Stubbs and he told her that if tonight's meeting of the city council was not satisfactory he would aid her in having the other hand, the element which is fighting Mrs. Wilson is talking of bringing proceedings to force her out of office.

"You fellows evidently are not here for business," Mrs. Wilson told the council men tonight, when the meeting opened. When one of the councilmen attempted to ridicule her she made him toed and sit down.
"I suppose that you represent the will of the people of this town," asked J. F. Richardson, when the mayor vetoed an ordinance.
"Sit down," ordered Mrs. Wilson, "I am mayor here."

GAME PIRATES SLAUGHTERING BIRDS

White Earth, Minn., Aug. 9.—Game pirates with dog and gun are reported to be carrying slaughter to young ducks and prairie chickens in this part of Minnesota. TAFT ANXIOUS FOR PEACE PACT WITH JAPANESE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—That President Taft's reference Saturday night to the desirability of a general arbitration treaty between America and Japan was not spontaneous but a carefully prepared declaration with a distinct purpose in view, was established today by an inquiry into the history of the arbitration negotiations during the past year.

Long before the treaties between Great Britain and France and America had approached their final form, the Japanese ambassador here inquired of Secretary Knox the purpose and scope of the new departure in international relations. He did not, however, take advantage of the offer of the secretary to be furnished with a copy of the American proposition in the broad terms embodied in the draft originally handed to the British and French governments.

So the information in the possession of the Japanese government has been meager and inadequate to a proper understanding of this important subject. Probably a realization of that fact by President Taft led him to deliver the invitation to Japan to join in the arbitration pact.

It is now reasonably certain that the Japanese government, for the first time made aware of the sentiment in America in favor of unlimited arbitration of international disputes, will be moved to make some response, especially if the United States Senate should act quickly and favorably upon the pending treaties.

Mrs. Ole Pearson of Ford River had the misfortune to cut herself across the back of her neck in a peculiar way. While carrying a double-bitted axe on her shoulder last Saturday, Mrs. Pearson stumbled and drew the axe with such force against her neck that a cut about two inches long was the result. Mrs. Pearson was immediately taken to Escanaba where a surgeon dressed the wound and pronounced her with a good chance for recovery.

LIFE IS ENDED IN AN ATTEMPT TO HIDE THEFT

New York, Aug. 9.—As a result of an alleged attempt last night to destroy the records of the Long Dock Mills & Elevator company in Jersey City for the purpose of concealing a shortage of $2,500 in the accounts of Samuel Brown, the cashier, Brown and Frederick J. Timmons, an expert accountant, are in jail there tonight under charges of arson, conspiracy and manslaughter.

The police hold a confession, bearing Brown's signature, telling of his plans for the crime and naming Timmons, his good friend, as an accomplice. Frank Walsh, a burglar who was hired to do the job, died today of burns received in trying to carry out the scheme.

The police did not tell Brown upon arresting him that Walsh had died in his attempt. Then finally one of them said: "Walsh died at 5 o'clock this morning."

Brown gripped his chair. His breath came hard and his eyes started. "My God," he gasped, "I can't have a man's death on my soul." Then he confessed.

Timmons was arrested near his home in Newark. Intermittently the detectives have been at him all afternoon and night, seeking to elicit a confession, but their efforts so far have been unsuccessful.

Walsh died in a hospital, his eyes having been blown out and his body charred from the effects of overloading the safe with nitro-glycerine. But to the end he was game and insisted that he had gone into the office to sleep and that a lighted cigarette had set fire to his clothes. He said he could not explain the explosion.

NEW COMET IS WITNESSED HERE

Astronomer John Novack of this city reports that he observed the new Comet B, 1911, early Saturday morning from his observatory. The comet has been seen for some time by the Lick observatory but owing to the cloudy weather of late, Mr. Novack could not find it until Saturday. Mr. Novack gives the following interesting data concerning the new arrival in the heavens:

"The new comet B, 1911, is a pretty object, showing quite bright in the large telescope. It has a short tail and can be seen with a small telescope. The comet is still in Scania, but will soon be in Taurus. If the comet travels in a straight line, its motion will carry it straight toward the Pleiades and will reach this point about the 15th of August."

"Two other comets are visible, but they are very faint for observing. Wolf's periodic comet was seen in June, but it is very faint just now. Brooks' comet can be seen with a medium sized telescope. This is also a periodic comet and is now in Pegasus."

HETTY GREEN'S SON LOOKING FOR WIFE

New York, Aug. 9.—Colonel Edward H. R. Green, president of the West-minster company, with assets of $125,000,000, owner of the Texas Midland railroad, and son of Mrs. Hetty Green, is going to marry within a year.

Who the bride-to-be is he doesn't know, but he said in all seriousness yesterday that his bachelorhood would end before he was a year older.

Here is the secret of why Colonel Green, who will be 43 years old Aug. 22, has so long lived the life of single blessedness. He promised his mother nineteen years ago, when she took him down to Texas to "break him in" as a railroad section hand, that he would remain a bachelor for twenty years. He has kept his word, but when the time limit expires next year he is going to take unto himself a wife.

Three hundred proposals of marriage have reached Colonel Green since he came to New York a year ago to take charge of his mother's interests. Scores of the aspiring maids enclosed photographs, and letters have been received from half of the states of the union, while some have come from Europe, Russia and even the Hawaiian Islands. He has answered none of the letters.

The future Mrs. Edward H. R. Green must be a woman who is willing to accept the Texas colonel for himself and not for the millions which he will inherit from his mother.

"I am within just one year of the age when a man should get married," Colonel Green said. "My time limit will expire within twelve months, and I'm going to make good."

Colonel Green has never taken any interest in society. He has found time for politics, automobiles, and aeroplanes, but, aside from these things, he has devoted himself almost entirely to business since he was graduated from Fordham college in 1888. Ten years ago his ambition was to become governor of Texas, but he has now retired permanently from the field of politics.

He believes the problem of marriage is far more serious for the wealthy man than for the poor man. Colonel Green objects to divorce, and when he ceases to be a bachelor he knows to have the satisfaction of knowing that he is the loved head of the household and not the treasury vault. Taking on the subject of matrimony Colonel Green said:

"The problem as a general thing, is no small one. There is not a wealthy man in America who has not had dozens of chances to marry members of families of birth and breeding, but he must seek the inner recess of the woman's soul and find if her affection rings true."

Colonel Green is proud of his mother. She is now in her seventy-sixth year. Colonel Green's father, who died in New York in 1892, lived to be nearly ninety years old. He says he does not expect to live that long.

"Father and Mother were brought up on wholesome and sensible food," he said. "They ate corned beef and cabbage. I eat lobster salad, planked steak, and other rich foods. I would like to eat corned beef and cabbage, but like other persons who live in New York hotels, I am always afraid somebody will see me."

DEATH'S HARVEST IS VERY LARGE

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 9.—Frank Baraga, aged 23, of Tamarack, missing for two weeks, was found in a swamp by a searching party, with three bullet wounds in his heart and a revolver by his side, indicating suicide.

Joseph Slinger, aged 22, of Lake Linden, waded into a hole in Torch Lake on Sunday, dropped from sight and drowned. His body was not recovered.

Albert, 11-year-old son of Andrew Blau of Laurium, fell from a horse on Sunday, dying of a fractured skull.

Charles Buecl, a miner, aged 40, married, was fatally injured by a fall of rock in the Quincy mine.

Seemed to Give Him a New Stomach

"I suffered intensely after eating and no medicine or treatment I tried seemed to do any good," writes H. M. Youngpeters, editor of The Sun, Lake View, Ohio. "The first few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gave me surprise and relief and the second bottle seemed to give me a new stomach and perfectly good health." For sale by Groos' Drug Store and Farrell & Lohmiller.

TELLING ON THEARLE

By FRANCIS TRUMBULL

"Feel kinda nervous?" questioned Joel Peters as a turn of the road brought the district school in sight.

"Not very," said Susie Conover, frankly, "though I confess that the thought of Tommy Belding rather alarms me. One boy like that in a school can upset the discipline of the entire body and I have heard nothing but Tommy Belding since I arrived."

"He's a limb o' Satan," agreed Peters, cheerfully. "I was going to have a man teacher this year, but you begged so hard for the place that—well, you can't say I didn't tell you before you took the job," he reminded as he cramped the wheels to let the girl climb out of the buggy. "You'll have to do the best you can and remember there's a state law against whipping in the schools."

The school committesman touched his horse with the whip and the speedy mare vanished in a cloud of dust, while Miss Conover went in with a show of sternness to ring the bell that should call the first session of the fall term.

Carberry school had gained an unenviable reputation among pedagogues. Following the exposure of a scandal in a large city school an alert legislator had passed a law against punishment of any sort in the public schools with the exceptions of the imposition of extra tasks and keeping unruly pupils in their seats after the regular dismissal time. It was argued that punishment would be administered at home when needed, but the lawgivers had argued without Mrs. Belding.

Let a widow with an only son, she had made an idol of the boy. She had declared that he should never be humiliated by being punished and contented herself with moral suasion—an exceedingly insufficient means of control when even scolding stopped at the first sign of tears—and Tommy would cry with a promptness and ability born of long practice.

"I could not bear to see tears in eyes so like his father's," explained the doting mother and, as Peters put it, "Tommy worked his eyes for all they were worth."

Extra lessons and staying in after school had no terrors for Tommy. He hasn't had to speak to the little dear once and it is almost the half term."

The other mothers nodded assentingly and wondered what spell Susie had thrown over the boy. That there was a change was not to be denied. The other pupils declared this to be a fact and, without Tommy to lead them astray, discipline was excellent.

It was not until the fall term was drawing to a close that the change came. Susie was delighted with her position. The mothers all liked her and even Mrs. Belding smiled approvingly when she flashed past in John Thearle's buggy after school hours instead of behind Joel Peters' mare.

Thearle was Mrs. Belding's brother and she mentally assured herself that anyone who could effect so great a change in Tommy's reputation was worthy even of her brother.

Then Tommy fell from grace. Some impleh freak threw the school into momentary disorder and a titter went about the room when Tommy was told that he must remain in after school hours. The last time Tommy had been kept in he had spilled the better part of a pint of ink over the teacher's dress. The immediate result had been that she had hurried home to get the ink stains out while they were fresh, and Tommy had gone home, too. Now he looked longingly at the dress and wondered whether he dared repeat the episode. But it was a very meek lad who remained in his seat when the others had fled out, and to her surprise Susie found that he was crying.

Gently she sought to reason with him, but he would not listen. He could only sit and gaze apprehensively at the door, and presently John Thearle entered to ascertain the cause of the teacher's lateness.

He perceived the situation at a glance and with never a word he laid Tommy over his knee and used a ruler until the boy promised to be good.

"I was tired of being known as the uncle of the worst boy in the school," he calmly explained to the astonished teacher. "Tommy takes advantage of the law in regard to punishment in the schools and the knowledge that his mother will not make good this fault. I told him this fall that the first time he was a bad boy he would get the spanking that's been coming to him ever since he was old enough to be spanked. I have kept my word, as I shall keep it again if it is necessary."

"That ain't all you said," wailed the offended Tommy. "I'm goin' to tell the rest. You said if I drove Miss Susie out of town before you had a chance to marry her you was goin' to tan the hide off me—that's what you said."

"Precisely," agreed Thearle. "I saw you at the station that first day," he explained, "and I loved you then. Susie. Do you think that there is a chance for me? that you could stand being the aunt of the worst boy in town?"

"I think," she said softly, "that I am willing to be the wife of the nicest man in town."

"Going to get married?" demanded Tommy, eagerly.

Thearle started. He had forgotten the boy's presence. "And if I am?" he asked.

"Geel!" murmured Tommy, "I'll get square on the next teacher."

Could Cry With Promptness and Ability.

Satly refused to learn his lessons and few teachers kept him in more than once.

As a result Tommy's influence was all for evil and the Carberry school had from three to five teachers a term. Joel Peters, who was chairman of the school committee, had grown weary of looking for new instructors and had started to town for the purpose of engaging some quick-tempered man as teacher who might forget state laws in his passion and spank first, thinking afterward. Susie Conover had pleaded so hard for a chance that he had abandoned his hope of revenge temporarily and had given her the position with the assurance that she could not last a term out.

It was a very tremulous teacher who stood on the platform watching the pupils file in, but she did not betray her nervousness to the class and to her surprise she soon had things in order. By four o'clock the school was organized for the term.

Peters was waiting to drive her home and he regarded her curiously as she came smiling down the path.

"Get through without being killed?" he demanded with a chuckle as he helped her into the buggy.

"I think that Tommy Belding has been sadly slandered," declared Susie with warmth. "He was the best boy of the entire school."

"You'd better knock wood," advised Peters, sagely. "Mebbe he was good today, but the devilment's there and it's naturally bound to come out."

The ominous warning dashed Susie's confidence, but she passed and Tommy continued to be a veritable model of a scholar.

Others at times were struck by Tommy's actuality on the side of right.

Baltimore Scientist and Wife Have Worked Wonders.

Discover Culture of Living Cells in Fluid of Known Chemical Composition—Regarded as Remarkable Accomplishment.

Baltimore, Md.—As a result of constant concentration and untiring efforts in the field of research Dr. Warren H. Lewis and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Reed Lewis, the former an associate professor of anatomy in Johns Hopkins medical school, have discovered the culture of living cells in a fluid of known chemical composition.

Dr. Lewis has been experimenting on the chick in the embryonic condition for some time. By experiment he has finally succeeded in proving that it is possible to cause the growth of cellular substance, of which all animals and plants are made up, in saline solutions without the aid of nourishment. The cells, it is believed, make use of food stored up within them.

This is considered a remarkable accomplishment for which scientific men have striven for years. It was not until about 1830 that the cell theory was discovered, and since that time there have been many new developments. The theory up to the time of Dr. Lewis' discovery was that animals and plants generate from pre-existing cells and do not rise spontaneously, and this theory has generally been accepted. The object Dr. Lewis had in mind was the more complete and detailed study of different kinds of cells. For this purpose he took part of the intestines, heart, liver, eye and brain, and inserted it in solutions of different salts of a known density.

He found that cells would grow in distilled water with eight-hundredths of one per cent. of salt. He also found that the development of the cells would be better if four-hun-

NEW CRUSADE AGAINST TOBACCO

REV. JENKIN LLOYD JONES of Chicago and Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the government bureau of chemistry, have united in a new crusade against tobacco smoking in public places, including even the streets.

The divine is one of the organizers of the Non-smokers of America and Dr. Wiley has become one of the most enthusiastic and outspoken members of that organization. Dr. Wiley believes the crusade is in line with the general advance in sanitary ideas and will work the same sort of good that the crusade against expectorating on sidewalks and in buildings and street cars did.

abrogation, or the spontaneous generation of life. The discovery just made comes closer to the goal sought than any previous one, and it is believed that before long the definite announcement will come as to the possibility or impossibility of the generation of life without parents.

Dr. Lewis is a comparatively young man, having held his degree of doctor of medicine for eleven years. He was graduated from the University of Michigan with the degree of bachelor of science in 1894, and received his doctor's degree from the Johns Hopkins university in 1900. He is at the present time associate professor of anatomy at the Johns Hopkins medical school.

HIGH CURRENT DISEASES

Many Wireless Operators Suffering With Toothach

Prediction is Made That System Will Cause Other Nervous Disorders Among Those Who Expose Themselves.

New York.—Wireless toothache, due to the high tension electrical currents produced in sending wireless messages, is the latest disease discovered by New York physicians, and it is said hundreds of wireless operators, professional and amateur, in this city and its neighborhood, are suffering from it. Prediction also is made that the heavy currents discharged by the wireless telegraph will produce other nervous diseases among those who expose themselves too much to such phenomena. There perhaps are thousands of amateur wireless operators in New York city. Investigation discloses that many of them have had toothache since they began their wireless studies and experiments. What other diseases of nervous sort have followed in the wake of the current only will be revealed by scientific investigation.

A prominent European physician discovered the wireless toothache, and the bad effect of the high tension currents on the nerves of his patients. He predicts there will be a general increase of nervous ailments, due to that cause. That physician says the nervous elements are affected so by the currents that a low grade neuritis is produced which progresses according to each patient's general physical condition, hygienic surroundings, occupation and habits. The European investigator points out that the electricity artificially permeates the surrounding atmosphere and that a person brought in contact with it day after day, must have a great constitution to withstand its effects. Weak persons even may suffer from aggravated forms of nervous disorder by the wireless process, he asserts.

When the European physician announced the discovery of wireless toothache he was scoffed at by other doctors, who had not studied the question as he had. The discovery, however, is being regarded seriously on both sides of the Atlantic, and skilled minds are seeking to discover what other ailments may be caused by such high tension currents being loose in the air.

It is recalled the X-ray affects the skin and tissues insidiously and often disastrously. Nor is it any secret that persons who are compelled to pass long periods in rooms where big dynamos are in operation frequently show neurotic tendencies. Physicians who use the ultra-violet, high tension and other forms of electricity in treatment often suffer neurotic affections. These things indicate, it is suggested, that disease producing qualities lurk in electricity of which little is known as yet. Third rails, live trolley wires, in telephone and telegraph wires and other agencies are discharging into the air constantly currents of electricity which pass through persons in the streets and elsewhere, and there are physicians who fear that as the use of electricity increases, wireless telegraphy and telephony get in full swing, wireless toothache will be

TELLS OF MAGELLAN'S TRIP

Story of Voyage Around World, Nearly 400 Years Ago, Has Just Been Published by a German.

The Hague.—Although nearly four hundred years have elapsed since Magellan sailed around the world, the true history of the voyage has been published for the first time. Until recently no published document relating to the expedition had ever been found, though it was known that an account had been written by the Portuguese, Fernando Oliveira, because a later writer of the same nationality quoted briefly from that work.

Recently the long lost document was discovered in the University of Leyden library by the German historian, Herr Vogel, who immediately published a German translation of it in the Marine Rundschau. Besides interesting particulars as to ship construction in those days, the document contains the whole story of the first voyage around the world by Magellan.

Certain indications make it probable that the actual writer of the account was a companion of the discoverer. As one of the oldest geographical papers extant it is considered to be of almost priceless value.

RATS EAT REVENUE STAMPS

Mystery That Puzzled United States Officials for Several Weeks at Ft. Wayne is Solved.

Fort Wayne, Ind.—The activity of a colony of rats explains the repeated disappearance of revenue stamps from barrels of beer shipped to Avilla, north of this city, and clears up a mystery which has given United States internal revenue officers in Fort Wayne much concern.

The first complaint, received several weeks ago, was that six barrels of beer in a railroad warehouse at Avilla, awaiting delivery to the consignee, had been stripped of revenue stamps. The government authorities and Deputy Collector L. S. Sharp conducted an examination. He was unable to solve the mystery and with much red tape the missing stamps were replaced.

The revenue office was notified of the second case the other day, but with it came the information that rats had been discovered at the work, and apparently had been attracted by the paste used on the stamps.

GREEK GIRLS ARE SHIELDED

Inside Facts on Criminal Cases That Never Reached Public—Heart Interest Stories Untold.

Chicago.—"If settlement workers and juvenile court attaches were called upon to testify or if what they learn indirectly of criminal cases were admissible as evidence, many persons who go free would be convicted and many others who are convicted would be shown clemency."

This is the statement of a worker in one of the best known, if not the most prominent, settlement houses in Chicago. It was brought forth by a recent criminal case in which a man who killed his former friend was freed.

"We get more 'heart interest' stories in a year than the newspapers could print in two years," the woman continued. "In a recent murder case the principals were Greeks. A young man who had come to America to make his way was killed by a husband whose wife accused the other man of attempting to persuade her to elope.

"The murder in itself was tragic enough, but what I learned of the murdered man's affairs was worse than tragic. He was engaged to a beautiful girl who resides in Athens, Greece, and soon he was to send for her to come here to be married to him and make her home in this country. In working on the case I learned that this girl will never know the fate of her sweetheart. It is a custom of the Greeks, when a man is killed in a affair of this kind, to shield the girl by whom he is engaged.

"According to Chicago Greeks with whom I talked, the fiancee of the man who was killed will be told that

PETROL MADE DRIVER DRUNK

Chauffeur, in Charge of Motor Car, Pleaded That Fumes and Not Whisky, Intoxicated Him.

London.—A chauffeur named Chas. Rice, who was accused of being intoxicated while in charge of a motor car, pleaded that petrol fumes and not whisky were responsible for his condition.

It was alleged that while he was driving along Herrow road at a speed of 23 miles an hour his motor car came into collision with a hansom. The cab driver was thrown from his seat, and turning a somersault, fell on his back, but Rice drove on for a third of a mile before he was stopped.

"I only had two glasses of whisky," said Rice, "and what the policemen thought were the effects of alcohol were due to the fumes from the petrol. Just before the accident I had blown some of the tubes, and I inhaled the fumes."

Mr. F. Lewin, managing director of Rawall's limited, a large taxicab concern, says Rice was a sober man, and corroborated his statement regarding the effects of the fumes.

"They make you dizzy," he declared, "and give you the appearance of being intoxicated. I have often suffered from them, and I have to sit down until the effects pass off. You can be overpowered by them."

KEEPING UP TO DATE

MOTHER OF BACHELOR MAID HAS COMMON SENSE.

Short Talk With Her College-Educated Girl Bears Fruit, and in Consequence She Still Remains Their Companion.

The bachelor maid's friend looked admiringly at the bachelor maid's mother, who, despite her silver hair, seemed to lack nothing of being as thoroughly up to date as her daughter. Later the friend spoke of it. The bachelor maid smiled.

"Mother owes that to herself," she said, "and her own good sense. Years ago, when we children were in college, mother said to us, 'Now, don't let me get old-fashioned. I don't wish to be put on a shelf. I wish to keep informed on important subjects and to speak and act correctly. Of course there is constant progress, and you children in school are learning many new things which I, in the home, cannot learn unless you help me. I am helping you to acquire this knowledge, and you must give it back to me. There are constant changes in the pronunciation of words, for instance, in social customs and in methods of doing things which only college young people learn. Don't let me fall behind. I am willing to be told. Don't let me grow rusty.' She was so sweet about it that of course it was possible to do what she asked without detracting in any way from what is due her as a mother. In fact, she also said, 'Don't get self-important over it. Don't think you know more than your mother does. You may, in some respects, but in others you will not, so there will always be an even balance. We can help one another if you children keep sensible about it.'

The result is, as you see, that mother is more like a sister to us than she is like an elderly person, who might become tiresome. Mother never is. I know young women whose mothers are their worst problem, because the mothers assume that they can never learn anything from their children—that it would impair their maternal dignity to have an improvement suggested to them. Those young women have not half so good real respect for their mothers as we have for ours, and it is impossible for them to enjoy and love their mothers as they should, because they are living in two different atmospheres. The mothers bore the young people, and the young people fret the mothers. Our mother keeps step right along with us, because she has been willing to learn in one of the ways which was open to her after some others were closed.

"If there is doubt about the pronunciation of a word, for instance, we take it to the dictionary in prayer, just as if mother was no older than the rest of us, and if any of us have been mispronouncing it we change our ways. We keep constantly educating one another, and no one of us has a chance to feel self-important. That has been mother's recipe. I think it is original and unique and you are a witness of its merits."

DIAGNOSIS, PLEASE NOTE.

"Not all the world is dishonest," said the man who had just given somebody an opportunity to be. "I have had several experiences which have revealed a remarkable sense of honesty, even here in New York, where many people seem to think it is unknown. A few days ago I lost a $2 bill in a small shop where I was buying some supplies, but there was no proof to that effect. In fact, I was not at all sure myself that I had not lost it before entering the shop. However, the dealer promised to keep watch for it and, to my amazement, he returned it to me when I was there yesterday. Evidently I had dragged it out of my pocket and it had slipped into a corner, where it had lain unnoticed until the janitor had found it when cleaning the premises. It would have been perfectly easy for either the janitor or the proprietor of the shop to have concealed the find, but evidently they hadn't thought of doing such a thing. The perfectly honest, simple and direct action was the only one pursued, and I feel proud to know such men."—New York Press.

MADE CRANKY BY RAIN.

Day after day the lover of animals had stopped to pet the baker's horse, which happened to be hitched at a certain corner at the hour when the animal lover passed and the horse apparently appreciated the attention. But one day his mood changed and he snapped viciously.

"Well, of all things," exclaimed the animal lover, "he never did that before."

"Probably because you never petted him before in rainy weather," said the man who knows a bit about horses.

"As you value your ten fingers and general safety of limb, don't get familiar with a horse when it is soaked with rain. No matter how peaceable his disposition, the rain makes him cranky and there is no telling how he will take unsolicited fondling."

DODGING THE PROFANITY.

"What are you laughing at, Babe?" "I've just got a letter from Cousin Fannie."

"I never suspected that your Cousin Fannie was much of a humorist. Where is she?"

"In Holland. She says she intends to send me picture postcards from Rotterdam and Amsterdam."

ONE PIECE KITCHEN APRON.

This is an apron which really protects the dress and no matter what the wearer is doing her dress will not suffer. The entire apron is cut in a single piece, but in order to fit a little to the figure a dart is run in under the arm at each side. The apron is cut out quite deep around the yoke line and the armholes is also large. The fastening is effected by a single button and buttonhole just at the line of the shoulders in the center back.

The pattern (4830) is cut in sizes 32, 36, 40 and 44 inches, bust measure. Medium size requires 3 yards of 36 inch material.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

THE EXCEPTION.

"There is one queer thing about bridegrooms which few have noticed," mused the observing friend, as the crowd left the church after the bridal pair.

"What is that?" a companion asked.

"As you value your ten fingers and general safety of limb, don't get familiar with a bride's standpoint. He is the best man in the world except at the wedding."

21 INNING GAME WAS PLAYED SUNDAY

Besemer, Mich., Aug. 9.—The longest game of baseball ever played on this range, and what is thought to be the longest game played in the country this year, took place at Ironwood Sunday between the Ironwood Tigers and the Carey Empire team of Hurley. These two teams battled for twenty-one innings, the Hurley team finally winning by a score of 4 to 3. Both teams used but one pitcher during the entire game. Johnson for Hurley struck out sixteen men and allowed nineteen hits, while Gustafsen for the losers struck out thirty men and allowed but ten hits.

HAGEL RELEASED BY ISHPERING BASE BALL TEAM

Short stop Hagel, of the Ishpeming baseball team, has been released of the management of that team according to a report from that city. Flynn is to be shifted from the field to short and another outfielder is to be signed up. Of the release of Hagel the Ishpeming correspondent for the Marquette Chronicle says: The management yesterday released Hagel. No reason for his release was made public. Acting manager Perreault this morning said that Flynn would be shifted to short and that either Mooney or Nichols would occupy the right garden in his stead until a new short fielder could be obtained.

WOOD IS SETTING THE AMERICAN LEAGUE AFIRE WITH HIS PITCHING

Joe Wood, the former Kansas City pitcher, now with Boston, who is the latest big league singer to have a no-hit, no-run game, seems to have it in for the Browns. His stellar performance of last Saturday was against that club, and a short time ago he fanned fifteen of Bobby Wallace's men and held them hitless for eight frames, but in the ninth was found for a bingle that spoiled his career. In that game, however, he came within one strike-out of equaling the American league fanning record. The record in a nine-inning game was made by Fred Glade, St. Louis, on July 1, 1904. It was equaled by Rube Waddell on July 28, 1908. This performance of Wood's aroused considerable curiosity as to what

NEGAUNEE GOES UP; ISHPERING ON A SLIDE

Negaunee, Mich., Aug. 9.—There has been a marked change in the batting averages of the members of the Negaunee league baseball team, as a result of the two games with Escanaba Saturday and Sunday, and all of the players, with the exception of Swick, increased their percentage. The Negaunee team secured twenty-nine hits in the two games, seventeen on Saturday and twelve on Sunday. Rains, who had been at the top of the batting list for some time prior to the games of a week ago Saturday and Sunday, when he dropped to third place, is again leading, with a percentage of .353. In the two games with Escanaba, Rains secured six hits out of ten times at bat. His last drive on Sunday was a three-bagger over the right fielder's head. Harley, who was second in the list last week, still retains that position, with a percentage of .347, compared with .329 a week ago. Harley's batting Saturday was a feature of the game, he having had a triple, double and single out of four times up, while on Sunday he had one hit, a double, out of four times up. Swick, who led the batting list last week, is now in third place, his percentage having dropped from .33 to .325. Swick had two hits Saturday and Sunday out of nine times at bat. Carey, who had been next to the bottom of the list, jumped from ninth to seventh place, he having had three hits out of eight times at bat in the two games. Knutz also fattened his average, he having secured three hits out of seven times up. Casey retained his hold on fourth place and increased his average from .282 to .292, he having secured three hits out of four times up Saturday, though he did not hit safely Sunday in five times up. The averages are now as follows:

Rains	.75	27	.353
Harley	.78	27	.347
Swick	.74	24	.325
Casey	.48	14	.292
Cullis	.78	20	.256
Rosevear	.36	222
Carey	.41	9	.219
Heldenson	.78	17	.218
Mahoney	.37	8	.215
Knutz	.72	13	.181

The batting averages of several members of the Ishpeming team slumped considerably in the games played Saturday and Sunday with Marquette. Clark is still at the top of the list, with a percentage of .333, but he lost nineteen points. McCarthy, who was in second place last week, dropped to eighth position, and Geelan went from third to second place, though his percentage lost ten points. Nicholls now holds third place, having advanced from fourth, and the other members of the team occupy the same relative positions that they did a week ago.

The individual averages are now as follows:

Clark	.78	26	.333
Geelan	.71	22	.310
Nicholls	.46	12	.261
Flynn	.77	19	.237
McCroary	.62	14	.226

ACTION OF THE LEAGUE OFFICIALS APPROVED OF

Of the action of the officials of the Marquette Delta county league in voting to engage professional umpires for the remainder of the schedule in the Marquette Delta county league the Mining Journal says:

There will be general approval of the action of the officials of the Marquette-Delta county league and the managers of the teams in moving for the introduction of the professional umpiring system, to replace the home umpiring that has been in vogue since the opening of the season. The plan of bringing in outside men to handle the games should work out much more satisfactory than having them umpired by men selected by each team, and it will be no more expensive. With outside men in these positions there will be little or no disposition to question their disinterestedness. The present system was a mistake from the beginning, and one that was certain to give indifferent results. It is to be regretted that a mistaken idea that it would save the league money, and might work out well enough, led to its introduction.

STATEMENT IS PREPARED

ing considerable suffering and loss of life in the congested quarters of the large cities.

The chart of temperature departures shows approximately that the warm wave was most persistent over a region radiating about 350 miles in all directions from extreme eastern Iowa. It was this persistency for so prolonged a period and over such a large area, that distinguished it from all previous warm waves of which there is any record, and which for a time threatened a serious curtailment of crop production over the great agricultural districts.

The southern tier of states seem to have been comparatively exempt from unusual heat, the temperature barely rising above 90 along the entire Gulf coast; and, except over lower New England, the temperatures did not as a rule exceed 95 on the Atlantic coast.

An examination of the records here shows that while the temperature at Escanaba during this time averaged four degrees above the normal, there were no prolonged warm spells, and there were in fact only six moderately warm days, with temperatures above 80. It is also a noteworthy fact that while temperatures of 100 degrees occurred as far north as St. Paul and nearly to Green Bay; over most of lower Michigan, and locally on the South Superior shore, the highest temperature recorded here was 90, on June 10th, and 22d.

The mid-summer warm wave of 1901, while of shorter duration and covering less territory than the recent one, was marked by a persistency of heat and drought over the great central valleys and large portions of the eastern part of the country, unequaled in the history of those regions, and its effect was the most disastrous to the corn crop ever known. In portions of the corn and wheat belt, daily maximum temperatures of 100 degrees or more were recorded almost continuously from about June 22d to the end of July. In Philadelphia, with daily maximum temperatures of 90 to 100 degrees on 12 successive days, statistics at the time showed more than 1000 heat prostrations, and nearly 200 deaths.

Comparing conditions locally again, it is found that while the 100 degree line of maximum temperatures included most of Wisconsin, and western and central upper Michigan (Houghton and Marquette having a maximum temperature of 103 and 108, respectively, in the middle of July) the highest temperature recorded at Escanaba during that year was only 88, on July 16th.

BRESNAHAN'S ANKLE IS IN BAD SHAPE

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 9.—An X-ray examination was made today of the right foot of Roger Bresnahan, manager of the St. Louis National league baseball team, to find out if a bone was broken. Bresnahan was hit by a foul ball in yesterday's game.

The foot swelled to double its usual size and Bresnahan was not able to walk from the clubhouse.

BUY GOODS ON ORDERS

It was decided at a meeting of the Escanaba Board of Education on Tuesday night, that hereafter, all employees will be allowed to make purchases only under a written order from the president or secretary of the board or the chairman of the purchasing committee.

The board wishes the merchants of the city to understand that no accounts will be honored unless accompanied by the properly signed order for goods.

It was also decided by the board to give the keys of all files into the hands of the secretary so that entrance to all records may be gained on short notice and at all times.

The board also decided to have all coal purchased for the city schools, weighed by one man, especially appointed and to have all janitors check up and sign vouchers for the amounts received.

SHED AND COACH BURNED YESTERDAY

Both fire departments were called out by early morning fires yesterday.

The first was at 214 South Mary street, at 3 a. m., where some rubbish in a shed had taken fire. It was put out with no damage.

The second was in the local C. & N. W. railroad yards about 6 a. m., where a fire, which is thought to have been caused by tramps, completely burned one coach and damaged another considerably. The coach which was burned was one of the first ever used on the peninsula division and had been used for the past few years as a caboose for switching trains on the ore docks.

MAY TAKE STEPS TO INSURE BOILERS

It is expected that the officials of the board of education will take steps in the near future to insure the 12 boilers in the local public schools. Representatives of the Hartford Boiler Insurance and Inspection company appeared before the board Tuesday night and urged that such action be taken.

They showed that should such insurance be taken out that the boilers would be inspected regularly and should any one be blown up indemnity would be provided.

The policy suggested was for $25,000 for three years with a premium of $250 for that time.

HOLE IS DUG UP AND CARTED AWAY

Los Angeles, Aug. 9.—The hole in the lawn at Gen. Otis' home will be an exhibit at the trial of the McNamaras for the Times dynamiting. Attorneys for the defense today dug up the hole and carted it to their office. This hole was made by the bomb exploded a few hours after the Times explosion. The hole is expected to prove the bomb could have done no damage. When the hole was dug up, enough dirt was taken with it to prevent the hole from falling apart.

STRAINED NERVE IN BRAIN CAUSES TRANCE

Birmingham, Ill., Aug. 9.—After several days of investigation, physicians now declare that the fourteen weeks' trance from which Miss Hazel Schmidt, daughter of John Schmidt of Vandalia, Ill., awakened Friday, was brought on by a strained nerve in the brain and the tension of the nerve tissue was caused by excitement or worry. The girl has apparently recovered from the somnia, but her health is temporarily impaired. Miss Schmidt is now known as "Fayette County's Miss Rip Van Winkle."

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moran of Powers visited with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rogers last night and returned to their home this morning.

FAREWELL PARTY WAS ARRANGED FOR YOUNG MAN

Thurman Thorsen, who is to leave in a few days for Chicago to remain permanently, was tendered a delightful farewell surprise at his home at 1019 Escanaba avenue last night by the young people of the Norwegian Lutheran church.

Mr. Thorsen has been one of the leaders in the affairs of the young people's society of the church and last night expressions were given by his associates in the esteem in which he is held. The party was a complete surprise on the young man when, after gathering at the home of B. Ronneberg, they marched on the Thorsen home and took the house by storm.

A program of musical numbers and games furnished the evening's entertainment.

At the close of the program, Rev. E. Berntsen, pastor of the church made a short address in which he voiced the sorrow of the young people at the determination of Mr. Thorsen to leave the city and joined with the young man's friends in the hope that he would ever be successful.

At the conclusion of the address, Rev. Berntsen presented the young man with a handsome ring as a memento of the occasion and as a token of the high esteem in which he is held by his many friends.

As the closing chapter of the party, ice cream and cake were served.

SORROWING FRIENDS ATTEND FUNERAL OF L. KOLBURGER

A large number of sorrowing friends and relatives attended the funeral of Leo Kolburger, of Watson, at the First M. E. church of this city at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A number of relatives and friends accompanied the body to the city from Watson and a great many Escanaba people, who had known Mr. Kolburger for years paid their last respects to his memory at the service yesterday. Members of the Escanaba Lodge Sons of Hermann attended the service in a body and accompanied the remains to their last resting place at Lake view cemetery.

MUSIC TEACHER WILL NOT RETURN

Miss Francis B. Ryan for the past two years, instructor in music in the public schools of the city, has been offered a salary for the coming year of $800, an increase of $50, but nevertheless has written the local school board for an increase of $100. The young lady has not as yet returned the contract sent here by the local authorities. She stated that she had been offered $950 to go to the lower peninsula, but that she would come here for $850. As this amount is above the schedule it can not be allowed.

TYPHOID FEVER CLAIMS VICTIM

Following an illness of typhoid fever, Hugo Molin, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Molin, 216 South Birch street, passed away at the family home yesterday morning about 4:30 o'clock.

The funeral will be held at two o'clock Friday afternoon from the house and at 2:30 from the Swedish Mission church. The Rev. Hognander will officiate at the services and interment will be at Lakeview cemetery.

Tortured for 15 Years

by a cure defying stomach trouble that baffled doctors, and resisted all remedies he tried, John W. Modders, of Moddersville, Mich., seemed doomed. He had to sell his farm and give up work. His neighbors said, "he can't live much longer." "Whatever I ate distressed me" he wrote. "I'll I tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for me that I can now eat things I could not take for years. Its surely a grand remedy for stomach trouble." Just as good for liver and kidneys. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c at all druggists.

MONTE WON HIS GAME

The friends of Monte Oimsted, the former Escanaba pitcher, who is now playing with Dayton, O., team will be pleased to hear that the south-paw twirler is making good in the Central league. He pitched his first game with the Dayton team yesterday against the Terre Haute club, which resulted in a victory for his team by a score of 10 to 3. Oimsted allowed eight hits during his contest, while his opponent, Conley was touched up for 14 hits. Monte passed four men and struck out six, while the opposing twirler passed three and fanned five.

THE GRAND.

What promises to be an exceptionally strong bill is that which will open an engagement for the last half of the present week and Sunday at the Grand Theater. The bill for the first part of the week was not fully up to the standard of house and Manager Malone, desiring to hold the confidence of the people, made no effort to misrepresent the facts. The bill that opens this afternoon, however, is strongly recommended by the booking agents and managers of houses where the acts have appeared.

Walter McCullough & Company, presenting "The Devil, Servant and the Man," hold the top line position with what is considered to be one of the best acts of its kind on the vaudeville stage.

Evelyn DesRoches, the original harem skirt girl, will appear in a specialty said to be both refined and neat while Rhena and Azora, comedy acrobats and contortionists complete the vaudeville program with an act that is out of the ordinary and certain to be pleasing.

STRIKE THREATENS WESTERN RAILROADS

Chicago, Aug. 8.—That the railroads of the West are threatened with a general strike was indicated here today by the statements of Julius Kruttschnitt, vice-president of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific roads. According to his statements, the unions have presented demands that would mean an additional burden of $50,000,000 a year to the Western roads.

cluding blacksmiths, car workers, iron moulders, machinists and pattern makers, are said to have presented demands calling for a strict enforcement of the eight-hour day, the employment of union foremen exclusively, various changes in the working conditions and more pay. It is said that thus far the roads have agreed in informing the men that their demands would not be granted.

An ordinary case of diarrhoea can, as a rule, be cured by a single dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This remedy has no superior for bowel complaints. For sale by Groos Drug Store and Farrell and Lohmiller.
