PYTHIAN WINS IN SUIT AGAINST SUPREME LODGE

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 24.—In a decision rendered in the United States court here today, Judge Ray holds that the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias has no right to increase the assessment of an insured member.

Arthur V. Smith refused to pay the increase asked in the assessment for insurance. He had a policy of date of October 26, 1869, for $3,000 and calling for a monthly assessment of $3. In 1902 he was directed to pay $4.50, and did so. Last January his assessment was raised to $14.70 and tender of the original amount was demanded.

McClellan took the matter into the supreme court and it was removed to him by the United States court, with the result that the lodge must accept the end of the sum.

"Of course Judge Ray has decided that I told the lodge must accept the end of the sum," McClellan told the jury. "I told the lodge must accept the end of the sum. I told the lodge must accept the end of the sum. I told the lodge must accept the end of the sum."

STATE TO INVESTIGATE

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 23.—An investigation has been started by State Land Commissioner Russell which is expected to result in the State of Michigan bringing a suit in United States Courts to enjoin any further operations in connection with the deepening of or enlarging the Chicago drainage canal.

The investigation is important from the point of view of local people as it is believed that the heavy flow of water through the drainage canal is affecting water levels to an extent that interferes seriously with navigation.

When Chicago petitioned Congress for a heavier flow, the cities all along the Great Lakes Menominee and Marquette included, protested against any addition to the flow.

FEELING FOR TAFT GROWS STRONGER

Detroit, Sept. 24.—Taft sentiment is growing stronger every day—the Roosevelt wave is receding.

That was the dominant note at the meeting this morning at the county chairman called here this morning by State Chairman Groesbeck. Sixty eight counties were represented at the meeting and all reported that the Republicans who were remaining in the party are ready for the fight of their lives.

National Chairman Hillis was present and addressed the meeting. He expressed every confidence that Taft will carry the country this fall. What the convention will do tomorrow is still a matter of doubt. Nothing will be known as to the strength of the various candidates until the delegates begin to arrive tonight.

LATEST NEWS IN THE WORLD OF FINANCE AND TRADE

BOSTON MARKETS

The New York absorbed quite a lot of realizing sales this a. m., without any material effect on prices in the late trading fairly boiled with steel, Amal, Utah, Union Pac. and Reading the leaving active features. As expected, Anaconda declared 75 cents dividend an increase of 25 cents over previous declaration placing stock on basis of 2 1/2 per cent. This foreshadows an increase in the Amal, Div. to 5 or 8 per cent in a few weeks hence. The strength in Utah was followed by the rumors that the labor strike was near a end. The local market was depressed by failure of S. R. Dow & Co. and the group of stocks controlled by this firm were weaker. Baring this incident the market acted well and would have sold considerable higher. We look for the rise to continue for some time yet and believe all coppers will seek a higher level.

NEW YORK MARKETS

While realizing sales were quite heavy the market digested same in good fashion and resumed the advance in the last hour under the leadership of coppers and steel. Many have been waiting for the reaction but seemingly the interest responsible for the current upturn are not disposed to permit recessions of consequence at present. We believe the general trend of the market is still upward.

SHIP HELD TWO DAYS FOR BRIDE'S TRUNK

San Francisco, Sept. 24.—Must a school teacher, young, attractive, a bride of only a few hours, be expected to go to Alaska while her trunk lies sidetracked and lost somewhere along a transcontinental railroad? Was the query propounded to Captain Chas. Wall, of the chartered government steamship Homer, and the skipper, himself starting out on a belated honeymoon, took two turns about the quarterdeck and answered it.

She shall not. In fact she did not. And the result was that Uncle Sam paid $250 a day for two days holding the steamer at her dock in San Francisco while Tracer John Grey, of the Southern Pacific, hunted the missing baggage. He found it and the government steamer sailed.

The romance and the catastrophe which involved a journey across the continent, a tying up of the United States steamship service and a hurrying of an army of railroad checkers and tracers began somewhere in the East when the Overland Limited whirling Charles Whitney westward stopped his post at Seal Island, Alaska topped to take on board another school teacher, but of the gentler sex, whose ultimate destination also was Seal Island. The two pedagogues met and became friendly on the overland journey. That friendship grew at the miles flew. Then came the climax.

"Let's get married," suggested Whitney as their train was whirling through Western Illinois.

Consequently Captain Wall found a "Mr. and Mrs. Whitney" on his passenger list when the Homer was due to sail. Such was the romance.

Now for the catastrophe. The Homer had been coaled and provisioned the furnaces were roaring and the vessel was cracking at her hawsers when a tearful, woebegone bride approached Captain Wall on the bridge of the quarterdeck and revealed her plight.

Her trunk with all her belongings which a woman about to leave the centers of commerce for the wilds of an untamed land would be likely to pack into it, had not arrived in San Francisco with the Overland. Moreover, there was no telling when it would arrive. And the ship was about to sail!

Captain Wall was himself in a sympathetic state. Although married for three years, he was about to take a honeymoon long deferred and his own "bride" was on the ship also. Surely the government owed him something for postponing that wedding trip three years. He determined to collect on the spot.

"The ship will wait," he ordered. Others of the crew quietly slipped down the gangplank and were swallowed up in the lights of San Francisco. But Captain Wall stood firm, albeit the government was paying out an extra $250 a day to hold the vessel.

But the bride got her trunk.

PANAMA CANAL WILL BE OPENED IN 18 MONTHS

The following is a brief advance of the chief points in a special report of Director General Barrett of the Pan American Union to be shortly published on the Panama Canal and Pan American trade. It is based, first, on a careful study, during his recent official visit to Europe, of what European governments and commercial interests are doing to get ready for the canal and to develop trade with South and Central America, and, secondly, on reliable reports he has received direct from Latin America and other countries. The Pan American Union, being an official international organization maintained by all the American republics for the development of commerce among them, keeps in closest touch with the situation not only in the North and South America, but in Europe and even Asia. The findings, therefore, of this report, have especial authority and significance.

Only about a year and a half remain before the Panama Canal will open to commercial traffic. Unless the manufacturing, exporting, importing and shipping interests of the United States exert themselves to the limit during the next eighteen months, they will find that they will be distanced from the start by foreign competitors in deriving practical advantages from the Canal and the rapidly developing field of Latin America.

From his own study on the ground of European conditions and from reliable official reports received from both South America and Asia, Director General Barrett makes the above statement at the beginning of his report and then gives the following facts:

1. Every important port of Great Britain, France, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Scandinavia, Spain Italy and Austria, is being improved to the highest degree of efficiency for overseas commerce.

2. Every European shipbuilding yard of recognized standing is busy to its capacity constructing ocean going merchant vessels. Old established steamship lines are adding up to date vessels to their fleets and new companies are being formed and ordering ships.

3. European governments are instructing their diplomatic and consular agents to study and report upon every phase of trade opportunity expected to result from the Canal. Their Chambers of Commerce and their Commercial organizations are cooperating along the same lines and the business schools are educating trained men for the field. Government officials and representative men in private life are showing particular hospitality and courtesies to the visiting representative men of Latin America and all the other countries whose trade they want. Their banking and investment houses are extending their foreign facilities. Their private business companies of already large established trade and their new companies are sending agents and scouts to Latin America and all parts of the world affected by the canal to investigate trade possibilities.

4. In Japan three steamship companies are building vessels for the Canal. Japanese banks are considering the opening of branches in Latin America. A score of Japanese manufacturing, exporting and importing houses have numerous agents in Central and South America. One Chinese owned steamship company is planning to operate a line from Shanghai and Hong Kong to Central and South America. Australia's commercial organizations are sending men to South America to develop trade, while Australia and New Zealand are planning to establish a canal steamship line of their own.

A new line of freight vessels is to run from Calcutta or Bombay to South America. Canada will run two new direct lines respectively from Vancouver and Montreal to the corresponding coasts of Latin America.

5. The West of Pacific Coast of South America, reaching 5,000 miles south from Panama, is showing great preliminary activity. Chile, Peru and Bolivia are spending 50 million dollars in opening up their interiors with railways. Chile is building, at Valparaiso, a new artificial harbor to cost 15 million dollars. Guayaquil, the principal port of Ecuador and one of the best harbors on the Pacific Ocean is to be made sanitary at a large expense. Callao, the chief port of Peru, is being improved. On the east coast the activity is even greater, for both Argentina and Uruguay will spend nearly 20 million dollars in port improvements at Buenos Aires and Montevideo respectively. Brazil is building in first class condition every port along her 2,000 miles of coast line from Rio Grande do Sul in the south to Para at the mouth of the Amazon. 100 million dollars are being expended in constructing new railways into the interior of Brazil, Venezuela and Colombia, Central America, Mexico, Cuba and the other West Indian countries are awakening also to the significance and possibilities of the canal and sending agents and appointing commissions to study the situation as it affects them.

The conclusion of Director General Barrett, after this review, is summed up in the statement that, while the United States Government and some of its commercial organizations and interests are doing much to get ready for the canal and to develop Pan American trade and deserve great credit for what they are doing, the most in view of these facts redoubled and extend their efforts. Otherwise they will fall the international race for the trade of the Panama Canal and Latin America. They must make their slogan form now on without any delay and let up: "Get ready for the Panama Canal and go after the Pan American commerce." If this report excites new interest and desire for further information, the Pan American Union at Washington, as an official organization maintained by the United States and other American governments, stands ready to supply full data regarding the commerce and progress of the twenty Latin American countries and the possibilities of the Panama Canal.

MESSANGER BOY BEARS TO MOTHER TELEGRAM TELLING OF DEATH OF OWN FATHER

Yonkers, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Ignorant of its purport, Thomas Hogan, a small messenger boy, bore home to his mother last night a message telling of the death of his own father. The telegram had been received in the regular course of business at the office and it happened to fall to young Hogan's lot to deliver it. Mrs. Hogan collapsed when she read that her husband had met death in a railroad wreck, but the boy, who had previously procured his mother's signature, stoically trudged back to his office with his receipt book.

Keep to the right and avoid danger.

GOODMAN IS IDEAL HOME

R. B. Goodman, of the Goodman Lumber Co., Goodman, Wis., registered at the new Hotel Sherman last Monday morning, accompanied by Grant T. Stephenson, general manager of the Maashek Chemical Co., of Wells, Mich., and chemical engineer for the Cliffs Chemical Co., which is constructing the new 50-cord chemical plant in connection with the Goodman mill. W. G. Mather, of Cleveland president of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., is also president of the Cliffs Chemical Co., and Mr. Goodman himself is secretary. The general manager is Austin Farrel, of Marquette, and Mr. Stephenson is its chemical expert. The plant will be constructed along the same general lines as the one at Wells, and will draw its raw material about equally from mill waste and woods waste. It is being built by the Worden-Allen Co., the chemical machinery supplied by the Struther-Wells Co.

The Goodman Lumber Co. is also making a 1,000-horsepower increase in its sawmill boiler plant, using Muskegon boilers and Ashley steel casings manufactured by the Tomahawk Steel & Iron Works, Tomahawk, Wis., which will also furnish the fuel-conveying systems, etc. R. E. Ashley, of that company, was also in town on Monday to meet Mr. Goodman, and stated that present prospects were good for this new enterprise, and that the lumber manufacturers of Wisconsin were expressing themselves favorably at having a new boiler plant located so conveniently to them.

Mr. Goodman expressed his belief that woods labor is going to be scarce this fall and winter, predicating this upon its demand for other purposes, and also upon the fact that the man who stays in the city gives too much attention to the question of wages paid and not enough to the other advantages offered. At Goodman, for instance, the sawmill employe can rent a very comfortable and warm cottage for $6.50 a month, and larger ones in proportion. His living expenses are lessened by his ability to raise chickens and garden stuff, keeping the two properly separated, of course and he has opportunities for purchasing cut-over land for farming purposes and cultivating it summers while paying his way by the winter's work with the sawmill company. An immigrant of the right sort coming to America and entering such employment will in ten years have a farm of his own, while if he went to the city he might earn larger daily wages and yet would absorb them all in the cost of living, and have nothing left to show for it. Mr. Goodman continued:

"In our town, and there are many other sawmill towns like it, we have a public school and also a high school a number of lodges and churches, a frequent dance, sometimes weekly, to which all the young folks go; and really there is more social life, and of higher character, than can be found in the larger cities. It is a healthier environment for growing children; and altogether, a family in such circumstances will be more comfortable and contented than at a factory center or mining village.

These are the things which should be taken into consideration, and not merely the question of wages."

TAFT WILL ROOT FOR BOSTON IN BIG SERIES.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 24.—During the coming world's series games in Boston one of the leading "rooters" for the Red Sox will be President Taft.

Day by day the president has watched the Red Sox keep up their stride toward the pennant, and announcement is made that the president will be "down among the fans" when the first game of the world's series is played in Boston.

RELIGIOUS GARB MAY BE WORN IN INDIAN SCHOOLS

Washington, Sept. 24.—Secretary Fisher's action last January in revoking the order of former Indian Commissioner Valentine, barring religious garb or insignia from governmental Indian schools, is upheld by President Taft, in an order made public today.

The decision of the president is that teachers now employed in Indian schools may continue to wear the garb of their religious orders; but the privilege is denied to any person hereafter entering the service. This ruling will enable the government to fulfill its obligations, the president says, to the teachers who were taken over bodily as government institutions.

The president's ruling is the final step in a controversy that has engaged the interior department with religious bodies more than a year.

The commissioner's ruling, to which objection was made, would have prohibited any teacher from wearing religious garb in the Indian schools after the end of the last school year.

The order of Mr. Valentine directed that teachers should not wear religious garb in the school rooms or when otherwise on duty. It was issued Jan. 27, 1912, to the superintendents in charge of Indian schools. This order directed that: "In government schools all insignia of any denomination must be removed from all public rooms, and members of any denomination wearing distinctive garb should leave such garb off while engaged at lay duties as government employe can not conscientiously do this, he will be given a reasonable time, not to extend, however, beyond the opening of the next school year after the date of this order, to make arrangements for employment elsewhere than in federal Indian schools."

Secretary Fisher holds there is no legal prohibition against the employment of government teachers who wear religious dress, and that opinion is endorsed by the president, although Mr. Taft is quoted as "fully believing in the principle of the separation of the church and state on which our government is based." It is pointed out that sectarian religious instruction is not given in any of the schools now under government control.

BAZAAR PROVED A BIG SUCCESS AT ISHPEMING

The management of the season's Ishpeiming base ball team closed a highly successful bazaar last week, whereby sufficient funds were raised not only to pay up the team's indebtedness of the past year, but to place a fair sized sum in the treasury for next year. Of the affair the Ishpeiming correspondent for the Mining Journal says:

The baseball bazaar, conducted the last four evenings of last week in Braastad's hall, was a big success, socially and financially. There was a bumper crowd in attendance Saturday evening, when nearly 800 paid admissions were taken at the door. The hall was uncomfortably crowded the greater part of the evening and there was good business at all of the booths with goods selling at auction bringing good prices.

The young women who are working for the diamond ring did a big stroke of business, and at the close it was reported that three of them were holding from 50,000 to 75,000 votes in reserve. Each contestant has a number of friends working and it is certain that the contest will have a lively finish next Thursday night, when the entertainment committee of the ball team will give a dance. The hour of the finish will probably be either nine or ten o'clock.

The receipts of the bazaar and ring contest will more than pay off the team's obligations. In fact, it is now thought that there will be enough over to give next year's team a proper start. The girls leading in the ring contest are: Miss Gyda Anderson, Miss Agnes Coughlin and Miss Essie Wilcox.

PATHFINDER CAR IS MAKING PROGRESS

Of the progress of the pathfinding car for the Chicago Motor Club's reliability run planned for next month, and which recently passed through Escanaba, a press dispatch from Newberry says:

The farthest north point on the route of the Chicago Motor club's reliability run of next month was reached today by the Velle pathfinding car that is laying out the trail for the contest. The distance from Chicago is 480 miles. From this point on the route runs in a southerly direction.

The pathfinders again took up the trail after having been delayed in Garden since Tuesday. The day's run was seventy-eight and one-half miles, which makes a total distance of 126 miles to be covered between Escanaba and this place by competitors in the tour. Newberry will be the night control on the third day of the big run. Under ordinary conditions the route covered today should average well, but the Velle pathfinder was forced to cover roads that had been soaked by heavy rains.

The run from Escanaba to Newberry is a fine one from a scenic standpoint, as the road runs almost entirely through a heavily wooded section. Tomorrow the pathfinders will go from here to St. Ignace, a distance of about sixty miles. The day's run will be a short one owing to the fact that a delay will be caused in crossing the Straits of Mackinac.
