

DEMOCRATS NAME TICKET

MEMBERS OF PARTY CONDUCT ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION WHEN STATE OFFICERS ARE NAMED.

(Special to the Morning Press)

Grand Rapids, Sept. 26.—Democrats of Michigan assembled in state convention here today, gave up a large part of their time to speech making, when Woodbridge N. Ferris, candidate for governor, Alfred Lucking, candidate for state senator, and U. S. Senator Gore delivered addresses at what proved to be the most enthusiastic convention held by the Democrats in this state for many years.

Following were the nominations in the main, made after spirited, but friendly contests:

J. B. Balch, Kalamazoo, secretary of state.

Peter Primeau, Marquette, auditor general.

John H. Robson, St. Johns, state treasurer.

Loula V. Howlett, Howell, attorney general.

Orlando S. Barnes, Roscommon, commissioner of the state land office.

Gorge L. Yapple, Mendon, justice of the supreme court, long term.

R. H. Pearson, Lansing, justice of supreme court, short term.

In resolution adopted by the convention the Democrats of Michigan declared for the initiative, referendum and the recall; a return of the true Australian ballot system; a curtailment of state expenditures and other general reforms that are now being advocated throughout the state.

All of the speakers at the convention of today enthusiastically predicted the success of the Democratic ticket at the polls this fall and a generally optimistic mood permeated the entire convention where it was generally realized that the split in the Republican ranks by the Bul Moosers and Stand Patters, gave the Democrats an advantage for sweeping the state never before presented.

GRAND RAPIDS MAN SAVES BOY'S LIFE

Potoskey, Mich., Sept. 26.—After working two hours on Donald Reed, given up by others as drowned, E. P. Platt of Grand Rapids, district plant chief of the Bell Telephone company, brought him to consciousness and received the blessing of the parents Mr. and Mrs. Will B. Reed.

Mr. Platt was full acquainted with the methods in use by life savers and to this knowledge and his untiring effort is given the credit for saving the life of the lad who is nine years old. Owing to a misunderstanding as to who should care for the lad, he had been left alone on the shore of the lake at Potoskey, a resort near here, where Mrs. Reed and family were spending a few days. Mrs. Reed found him in the lake completely covered with water, and though almost convinced he was dead, she seized him and carried him to shore and called for assistance.

Fish poles on the shore led her to believe her two sons, Milford and Robert, had been drowned, but they later appeared.

MAY REVIVE THE CLERKS UNION

A notice was received by all retail clerks of the city yesterday relative to a meeting which is to be held Friday evening at the Union hall. The purpose of this meeting is probably to reorganize the retail clerks' into a union.

CHURCH SUPPER WAS SUCCESS

The women of St. Paul's German Lutheran church last night held a successful supper at the basement of that church. An exceptionally fine menu was served at the supper and the success of the undertaking proved to be an immense success.

SURPRISE PARTY WAS DELIGHTFUL

Miss Edna Nelson, of 311 North Jennie street, was delightfully surprised last evening at a party arranged by her friend, Mrs. Laplant.

Miss Nelson had not anticipated the party in the least and when the young people walked in upon her, the surprise was complete.

Different games were played and a musical program was carried out, after which light refreshments were served. A delightful time was reported by all who attended.

PROTEST IS MADE

The following communication was received by the Press last night:

Trouble in Sight for Merchants.

There is a good deal of talk and no little dissatisfaction over the method adopted by some of our merchants in placing their accounts in the hands of an out-of-town man to go from house to house collecting. It would be a good deal better and more satisfactory to the people at large if this method was stopped. If it is not they will see a railroad men's store opening up and then they can figure on thousands of dollars' worth of business drift out of their hands. There are several railroad men of means willing to back such a store, and it will not be long before you will see one in Escanaba, if this is kept up.

MINES ARE HIT BY FAILURE OF DOW & COMPANY

Boston, Sept. 26.—The stock brokerage firm of Stephen R. Dow & Co., of this city, which made an assignment yesterday, owns four copper mining companies in Houghton county, Michigan, $298,000, according to statements mailed to stockholders today by directors of the Franklin, Indiana, North Lake and Algoma corporations.

The directors of the Franklin company have assessed the stockholders $2 a share, and the stockholders of the Indiana company have been called upon to pay $1 a share.

Stephen R. Dow was president of the four companies. David S. Dow, attorney for the companies, said that he could make no statement, except that they held $298,000 of Stephen R. Dow's unsecured notes.

GLADSTONE FIREMEN PURCHASE TEAM

Q. R. Hessel yesterday closed a deal for the sale of a heavy black team of horses to the Gladstone fire department. The team is perfectly matched and tipped the scales yesterday at 2800 pounds. The horses used by the Gladstone department up to this time have been in continuous service for nearly ten years and are taken over by Mr. Hessel in the trade for the new team.

STAHL IS FIRST GERMAN TO WIN THE PENNANT.

Jacob Garland Stahl will be the only manager of German extraction to lead a major league ball club to a pennant. He should receive the congratulations of the Kaiser and an invitation for a winter cruise through the southern seas on the imperial yacht. The Irish long have boasted of their supremacy as baseball leaders.

The test of the two races will come in the world's series, with Mugsy McGraw on the other end of the bat.

Stahl has also another claim to distinction. He is the only American league manager who ever won a pennant who was wholly a product of the American league. Stahl was never connected with any other league since he left college to enter professional ball.

Mrs. Annie Johnson of Gulliver, was in the city yesterday.

BACK FROM CONVENTION

C. W. MALLOCH AND OTHER DELEGATES TO REPUBLICAN CONVENTION, RETURN TO CITY YESTERDAY.

C. W. Malloch, who was one of the members of the Delta county delegation to the Republican State convention in Detroit this week, returned to the city yesterday morning, enthusiastic over the successful "get-together" movement that was launched by the Republicans of the state at the Detroit convention. The movement was a spontaneous one and Mr. Malloch asserts that while he has attended Republican state conventions in Michigan for a number of years, he has never witnessed a more enthusiastic gathering of the party. From every quarter of the state delegates flocked to the convention prepared to inaugurate there the movement that would allow Republicanism to present a solid front to the Bull Moosers and Democrats at the election of November. From every part of the state optimistic reports were received as to the Republican cause.

To Auditor General O. B. Fuller, the peninsula paid a handsome compliment the solid ballot of the district, with the exception of one vote from Chippewa county, was cast for the Delta county man. Naturally Mr. Fuller is greatly elated over the result of the convention, but his pleasure is no greater than that felt by the people of Delta county, who have followed with great interest his eminently successful administration of the auditor general's office winning recognition even in the lower peninsula as the best auditor general that Michigan has ever had.

The contests in the convention for the various nominations developed no close fights. The only opponent to F. C. Martindale put forward for renomination for secretary of state was Senator Vaughan, of St. Johns, but Martindale won by a large margin. He had the solid support of Wayne and

HEAVY FROST PREDICTED

A freezing temperature with a killing frost is promised for Escanaba this morning by Observer V. E. Jaki. Yesterday the mercury in the official thermometer at the weather station dropped to within two degrees of the freezing point and an even lower record is promised for this morning.

Of general weather conditions, Observer Jaki says:

A decided fall in temperature occurred throughout the Mississippi valley and lake region since yesterday morning, while a slightly moderating effect is noted over the western prairie states. Temperatures slightly above freezing and frosts occurred last night over a large area extending from the Rocky Mountains east to the Western Mississippi valley and northwestern lake region. A change to fair weather has taken over the west, but snow fell in Minnesota, and general rains over the lake region and Ohio valley, since yesterday morning. Fair weather is indicated for this vicinity tonight and Friday, with somewhat colder and frost and freezing temperature tonight. The winds will be moderate to brisk west.

WM. KUNZ IN TERRIFIC BATTLE

William Kunz, driver for the Bink Wholesale Liquor & Supply Company, is nursing three cut fingers as the result of an encounter with an intruder at his home on Wells avenue late on Wednesday night. Mr. Kunz heard the man in the kitchen of the house and upon going to investigate found a man in the room.

The intruder pulled a gun and Mr. Kunz grappled with him, jerking the gun from his hand. The would be burglar, finally pulled the revolver from Mr. Kunz's hand, severely cutting his fingers and then made his escape.

HIGH OFFICIAL WAS GREETED

M. W. Cadie, assistant grand chief engineer of the order of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, yesterday was the guest of the members of the order in this city. A special meeting was held at the Engineer's hall at 2 o'clock when many of the brotherhood members, not out on their regular runs, met to extend a greeting to the visiting official. Mr. Cadie left Escanaba last night for Aurora, Ill.

CONTRACTORS ON THE JOB

Actual construction work was begun yesterday on Escanaba's new five story modern hotel, that is to be erected at Ludington and Campbell streets. General Supt. Baker of the Guaranty Construction Company of Chicago, arrived in the city yesterday morning with his crew of foremen and yesterday afternoon a crew of excavators was at work together with a crew of carpenters building an office for the contractors over the Ludington street sidewalk. The entire building equipment of the company has been delivered here and Mr. Baker announced yesterday that he will use every man that he can secure to push the work forward to allow the completing of the big hotel building in record time.

SNOW AT ISHPERING

Escanaba people, who returned to the city last night after visits to Ishpeming, Negaunee, Marquette and points on the Menominee range, reported that a heavy snow storm swept those points yesterday. At Ishpeming last night there was considerable fall of snow remaining on the ground while at points on the Menominee range the same conditions were reported. No evidences of snow were found in Escanaba yesterday, although last night was frosty and it was evident at midnight that the official forecast for a freezing temperature this morning, would be verified.

BIG PROFIT IN STRAW BERRIES

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 26.—Nine hundred dollars an acre for straw berries. The figures truly appear incredible, but this is the rate received by Robert Mulholland for a crop produced by him last spring on his farm on the State Road in Menominee county. The figures have been announced by Mr. Mulholland having but recently completed the totaling of his expenditures and receipts.

But one-half an acre was devoted to the crop and $450 were cleared on this. The owner attends his crops in a manner original with himself. He plants slips in the early spring. When these have blossomed he turns a force of men into the patch to pick off the blossoms. In this way he prevents the appearance of berries the first year. The second year his crop is practically doubled. The plants are pulled after a single year's bearing.

Few berries are finer than those produced by Mr. Mulholland. To his "one crop" system he attributes his tremendous profits.

SEND OUT CHECKS FOR FAIR PREMIUMS

Secretary Strom is now busy making out the checks for the payment of the fair premiums. After this task is completed it will practically end the secretary's work for this year. When all the premiums are paid they will probably amount to over $500.

INTEREST IN TRIP

LOCAL BRIGADE MEMBERS LOOK FORWARD WITH ANTICIPATION TO COMING TRIP TO NEW YORK.

Considerable interest is being aroused among the members of the Escanaba division of the State Naval Militia in the coming trip of the division to New York, where they will go aboard one of the U. S. warships and serve as regular members of the navy for a week, during the annual naval review in the presence of President W. H. Taft. The officers and members of the local division, who will make the trip, will leave Escanaba on October 9 and proceed directly to New York. There they will submit to physical examinations and be received as regular members of the navy. At the end of a week's service they will be given honorable discharges from the service and return to their homes here.

The trip promises to be easily the most interesting and instructive ever planned for the local division and it is expected that a squad of at least 30 men will take part in the trip.

Orders have been received here directing that the U. S. S. Yantic leave by October 15 for Sturgeon Bay, Wis., where it will undergo repairs. Congress in a recent session appropriated $38,000 for improvements to the local ship and unless the repairs are made this fall the money will revert to a fund provided for other expenses.

When the ship returns to the copper country next spring it will present a much changed appearance. Among the changes planned is a new gun deck, a new system of wiring and ventilation, the air to be driven through perforated pipes, and a refrigerator plant. Included in the minor repairs will be a water heater in the engine room to heat the water before it enters the boilers, and a new flooring on the top deck. The present flooring was built on top of the old deck, and it is proposed to lay a new top deck entirely by tearing out the old deck.

FALL STYLES INTRODUCED

The annual millinery and suit opening, which was inaugurated at the Fair Savings Bank store on Wednesday, is attracting an immense amount of attention. The popular cry of the milliners to patrons this season is to "drop the hair", intending to convey the meaning that the popular hair dressing styles for the season includes the "doing" of the hair lower in this fall than formerly to conform with the millinery are smaller than usual requiring the lowering of the "do" of the hair by wearers. Drooping brims are tabooed in the fall styles, the brims of the hats are shorter and stiffer and there is a general tendency towards a tilt upward of the hats rather than following the former drooping effect. The plushes are immensely popular this season while the black and white combinations continue to be the rage. In the trimmings gold lace and gold ornaments are immensely popular for the fall season while large flowers, particularly roses, with furs, ostrich plumes and other of the more common millinery decorations are used in abundance.

WOODMEN PLAN SERIES OF MEETINGS

Members of the Escanaba lodge of Woodmen last night inaugurated the fall season for that organization by holding an enthusiastic meeting. A large number of the members were present at the session and all of the work of the evening was transacted in record time. It was decided last night to arrange for a social session to follow each meeting of the coming fall and winter seasons. For the next meeting a stag entertainment has been planned and for successive sessions attractive programs will be arranged.

PETERSON BACK FROM STEPHENSON

Arthur Peterson returned to the city last night after attending the Cloverland Fair at Stephenson. Mr. Peterson represented the firm of C. Peterson & Sons, florists, at the fair, conducting a guessing contest similar to that arranged by him at the Northern State Fair in this city. The contest was based on the number of carnation buds contained in a jar. The actual number was 1773 and Pros. Attorney Fred Haggerson, of Menominee won the prize, which was a handsome fern, by guessing 1755.

CLERK GOES TO COLLEGE

Clement Corcoran, for the past five years employed as a clerk in the Escanaba post office, yesterday resigned his position and tonight will leave for Milwaukee where he will enter Marquette University as a student in the Delta Department. Officially, Mr. Corcoran's resignation appears in the form of a three months' leave of absence, but he intends to pursue a regular three years' course at the Milwaukee university, finishing at the end of three years with a degree of D. D. S.

Gladwin Isaacson, appointed as a regular carrier out of the local post office, on July 15 of this year, after serving for some time as a sub-carrier, has been transferred to the office as a clerk and Joseph Compher, a sub-carrier, has been named as a regular carrier.

GIRL ADMITS SHE GAVE POISON TO AUNT AND UNCLE

Boston, Sept. 26.—Pretty 16 year old Gladys O. Newell, under arrest in Lowell for poisoning her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Jordan, has confessed to the Lowell police that she had put poison into their coffee last Thursday. About a year ago she put poison into their tea she said. She told the officers that her aunt had been too severe with her, and that a young man friend in New York had written her that if she put them out of the way there would be nothing to prevent her joining him and being happy. The police refuse to give his name.

Her relatives recovered from the effects of the poison.

BALL PLAYER MEETS DEATH

George Meyer, a baseball player known to a number of the members of the local team, and who served as a member of the Iron River team during the past season, was killed while stealing a ride on a logging train near Ashland, on Monday night. A press dispatch telling of the accident says:

George Meyer, who was a member of the Iron River baseball team, was killed on the South Shore road near Bibbou. He was sitting on the end of a freight car loaded with timber and when the train suddenly stopped the timber shifted up against the next car and Meyer was caught between, his neck being broken and his skull fractured.

POLICEMAN DETAILED TO STOP BETTING MAKES WAGER, WINNING $150.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 26.—Governor Goldsborough ordered fifty policemen from Baltimore to the Havre de Grace track on Tuesday to help Sheriff Clark in the arrest of bookmakers for violating the law in accepting bets, but the sheriff refused to take any action in the matter. One policeman, who became tired of standing around doing nothing, borrowed $10 and played it on Grosvenor in the first race at 15 to 1, winning $150 and was leaving for home shortly afterward. The meeting will probably be continued without further legal interruption.

PROGRESSIVES WILL MEET

IMPORTANT MEETING OF DELTA COUNTY BULL MOOSERS WILL BE HELD THIS EVENING

Followers of the National Progressive party in Escanaba and Delta county will gather at the city hall at 7:30 o'clock this evening to determine whether or not a county ticket shall be placed in the field and to elect delegates to attend the National Progressive State convention.

Delegates will attend the meeting of tonight from the wards in the cities of Escanaba and Gladstone and from several of the townships. At tonight's meeting the members of the committee, who have had the matter in charge, will report their recommendations as to whether or not a county ticket shall be placed in the field and that report will be awaited with considerable interest.

Tonight also the temporary organization of the party in this county will give way to a permanent organization, which with the naming of delegates to attend the state convention will make the session one of the most important political events of the campaign in this county.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Thomas Shanahan, district agent for the Wisconsin National Life Insurance Company, left last night for Oshkosh where he will attend a convention of the agents of that company. The convention will extend through three days and will be concluded with an elaborate banquet on Saturday evening. Mr. Shanahan only recently took over the local agency for the company but is succeeding in the building up of an eminently successful business.

HOTELS LET DOWN SMOKE BARS FOR SOCIETY WOMEN

New York, Sept. 26.—It's true that "where there is smoke there's fire." This time the smoke is not the Kipling cigar kind, but the lovely little violet mist that comes from the sunset end of a gold tipped cigarette—me lady's smoke!

Think of it! Our friends the bonifaces from the upper to the lower end of the fashionable part of Fifth avenue and vicinity have had to get under a cloud, so to speak. Just because the fashionable women on both sides the water who drop into these great hotels, either while their town houses are being opened or while—in the case of our fashionable visitors—waiting to send out their letters of introduction insist that a good cigarette's a smoke, and that they MUST have a little puff after tiffin or dinner as the case may be.

New York, with Father Knickerbocker acting as chairman of the years has put the ban on public smoking for women, but now the bars have been let down and women may smoke in public.

ERRORS WERE MADE IN SPORT LAWS

Through the action of the Morning Press in accepting without inspection a copy of the state game laws, as presented by an exchange, a number of errors were made. The open deer hunting season was given as Oct. 1, when in fact the open season does not begin until Oct. 15, while the fee for the resident license was announced as $1.00, while the regular fee for resident licenses is $1.50 as usual.

Mrs. Evelyn Anderson has returned from a visit in Chicago, Milwaukee, Oshkosh and Green Bay.

MILLIONAIRE WILL BECOME MISSIONARY.

Chicago, Sept. 26—William Borden, son of the late William Borden and Mrs. Mary Borden, whose share in his father's estate is said to be $5,000,000, is to become a foreign missionary and will begin his life work in Kansu, China, as soon as his preparatory studies are completed. Tonight he will be ordained a foreign missionary by the Inland Missionary Society at a local church.

POSTER BOOSTS FOR CLOVERLAND

Beautiful posters sent out by Col. C. W. Mott, manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau for advertising purposes have just been received here and are attracting much attention.

The poster is itself a work of art. It is a panned scene of an upper peninsula farm showing an immense field of clover the chief agricultural product of the district and a field of other grain. Separating the two is a typical lane in which sheep are seen grazing in large numbers. In the background are the houses, barns, horizon is marked by woodland. The whole is done in colors, not gaudy but realistic.

In the upper left hand corner is seen a map of the upper peninsula and bordering regions. The counties are designated by different colors. The larger cities and towns of the upper peninsula are dotted and named. The rail routes entering the peninsula are outlined, showing the exact positions of the markets, such as Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, etc. In other words, Cloverland is definitely located and no question is left in the mind of one who looks upon the display.

Below the pannel scene is found information paragraphs which describe what the peninsula offers the land and home seeker. It tells of the wealth of the land in timber and minerals and of its adaptability to agriculture, horticulture and stock raising. The unlimited encouragement of industrial investments. The climate, excellent roads, schools churches, etc., are mentioned.

On the whole a world of information is offered the person who becomes interested. The original of the lithograph was made by Chicago and Milwaukee artists. Col. Mott spent over a week in these cities, dictating to the artists exactly what was wanted. The result of his labors are unquestioned by one who has seen the poster.

The entire middle west is to be covered by these lithographs. Contracts have been made with several agencies controlling billboards in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio and other states for the displaying of the posters. Considerable trouble has been taken in securing stands which will be the most noticed by those who are most interested in farm lands. It is planned to make one campaign this fall and another in the early spring. The billboard advertising coupled with other campaigns of exploitation planned should give the name Cloverland a meaning and definite location in every section of the nearby states and should do much to bring about the realization of the purposes of the bureau.

EXPECT LARGE ENROLLMENT

Marquette, Mich., Sept. 26.—"Indications at present point toward a record breaking enrollment at the Northern State Normal on September 30, the date of the opening of the fall term of the institution," said Prof. J. H. Kaye, president of the institution this morning. "Three weeks ago the last room in the dormitory was engaged. I regard this as a sign that all previous enrollment records will be shattered as such a condition has never before existed. The correspondence with prospective students has been voluminous. This is another sign that the number of students in attendance will be large."

Some 300 students are expected to register this fall. If the expectation is realized the greatest enrollment in the history of the school will be recorded. Last fall the number in attendance was approximately 280. The enrollment at the school has increased year by year. This is another fact that argues for a large increase in attendance this year.

No great changes in the courses offered are contemplated and the curriculum will practically be the same as it was last year. The Normal will issue within a few days the book of announcements for the years 1912-1913. The book gives information concerning the school and the courses offered in detail in addition to full information concerning Marquette that is needed by prospective students.

The campus surrounding the school has been put in first class condition and the buildings have been refurnished throughout.

LATEST NEWS IN THE WORLD OF FINANCE AND TRADE

By Paine Webber & Company, Marquette, Michigan

BOSTON MARKETS

The stiffness in money rates had an adverse influence on the market today and considerable profit taking was in evidence. The Union Pacific and Soo statements were very good, but had only temporary effect on the prices of these stocks. Heavy sales of copper for export were again reported and it is said that fifty million pounds have been sold during the last few days. In the local market East Butte was again the active feature, selling at a new high level, 16%, at which price quite a little profit taking was met with. We look for an irregular market the next few days, pending the easing up of money rates but think the trend is unquestionably higher.

NEW YORK MARKETS

While prices changed on the whole were not material, still it was apparent that the disposition to secure at least part of profits on long stocks was rather more pronounced, general rise for the time being is not likely. There has been some rather influential accumulation of Mo. Pac. predicted and the road's improved physical and financial condition, and the same today was reflected by a sharp rise in the stocks. While bullish for a long pull, we incline towards the view expressed in recent advices that long lines should be reduced at the present time.

IRON TRADE REVIEW

Cleveland, O., Sept. 26—The Iron Trade Review says:

The pig iron market has developed still greater strength. Advancing quotations do not more than temporarily defer buying and further heavy tonnage have been placed on order books, especially in the Buffalo and Pittsburg markets. Inquiry for first quarter basic in the Pittsburg district amounts to fully 70,000 tons and about 40,000 tons of Bessemer for delivery the first quarter are involved

In pending business. A sale of 10,000 tons of prompt basic to a Youngstown consumer was made at $15.25, valley, which was an advance of 75 cents above the market of last week. A similar tonnage of Bessemer was sold at $16, valley, an advance of 50 cents above the highest quotation of the year.

Fabricating prices of structural material are now higher than for several years. Awards of the past week included 10,688 tons for various projects placed at Chicago and 5,000 tons for the new Arlington hotel, Washington, to be furnished by the American Bridge Co. It is now officially announced that the American Bridge Co. will fabricate 35,000 tons for the Equitable building in New York.

The coke market is very strong. The large eastern consumers have closed with Connellsville operators for first half requirements, aggregating 50,000 tons or more of furnace coke monthly, at $2.50, ovens.

Heavy inquiry for pig iron continues to come to southern makers, but no additional sales are reported. The Steel Corporation will furnish 3,000 tons of cotton ties for export to India on regular contract and about 2,000 tons of bridge work for shipment to Mexico.

The condition of the order books of rail makers are in striking contrast with that at this time last year when practically no tonnage for this year had been entered. The rail makers now have upon their books for next year's delivery about 300,000 tons. Railroads are showing their eagerness to cover early for their requirements and prepare for great activity expected next year.

A SIXTH SENSE FOR VESSELS

Hiram Maxim Has Plan to Prevent Collisions at Sea.—Takes Lesson from the Bat

IR HIRAM STEVENS MAXIM fared already as the inventor of the Maxim gun, cordite smokeless powder, devices for aeroplanes and other ingenious things, now comes forward with a new and startling original idea for preventing collisions at sea.

Briefly stated, he wishes to provide ships with a "sixth sense," represented by an apparatus that will send out vibrations and record minutely the "echoes" caused by them if they strike against any hard object near the ship—an iceberg, for example. Sir Hiram got his idea of this sixth sense from the bat, which, according to him and other scientists, possesses such a sense, and is able by means of it to find its way about in the dark with perfect ease.

The inventor explains his invention in a pamphlet just published by him in London. "The wreck of the Titanic was a severe and painful shock to us all," he writes. "I asked myself: 'Has science reached the end of its tether? Is there no possible means of averting such a deplorable loss of life and property?' At the end of four hours it occurred to me that ships could be provided with what might be appropriately called a sixth sense, that would detect large objects in their immediate vicinity without the aid of a searchlight."

Then Sir Hiram set to work to study the bat's peculiar possession in an endeavor to apply it to preventing marine collisions, and soon hit upon the idea which he now makes public. Before describing the new Maxim apparatus it is well to set down what he has to say about that which inspired it, the sixth sense of the bat.

"Every naturalist that has either experimented on bats or writes on the subject," he says, "seems to admit that the extraordinary appendages attached to the bat's face are organs of perception more or less allied to the sense of feeling, but not one of them, so far as I can learn, has ever suggested that these organs are for the purpose of receiving the echo from the vibrations of the wings. I think I was the first to discover this."

The inventor goes on to show that the wings of the bat are extremely sensitive and very well provided with nerves, which is also true of the various organs of the bat's face. These nerves, he maintains, are intimately connected with each other and with the brain. Thus a bat, flying about in total darkness, seers out, by means of its wings, a series of pulsations or wave-like sound waves, but too low to be considered a sound. These waves, striking against all surrounding objects, are reflected back to their source, just as sound and light are, and these reflections of the vibrations, being received by the sensitive organs on the face of the bat, enable it to judge the distance to any object by the lapse of time between the sending out and the receiving of the waves.

Coming, then, to his collision-preventer, Sir Hiram says: "Suppose now that we construct an apparatus that will produce atmospheric vibrations of about the same frequency as those produced by the bat, but instead of using the infinitesimal amount of energy employed by the bat, we use 200 or 300-horsepower—that is, we send out waves that have an amplitude and energy at least 300,000 times as great as those sent out by the bat. These vibrations, although of great energy, will not be audible to our ears, but they will shake up and agitate light objects for a considerable distance, and will travel at least 20 miles, so that they could be received and recorded by a suitable apparatus at that distance, and would be able to travel at least five miles and send back to the ship a reflected echo that would be strong enough to be detected."

Sir Hiram points out that in providing a ship with a "sixth sense," three distinct devices must be combined: one for producing and sending out the necessary sound waves, one for receiving the reflected waves and making them audible by ringing bells and another apparatus for recording the amplitude of the waves. Here is his description of the apparatus he has invented:

"For producing the vibrations of waves I prefer to use a modified form of siren, the disk being rotated at a suitable speed by a motor of some kind, preferably an electric motor. I great amplitude and power they are able to travel over great distances, and when they come in contact with a body the waves are reflected back to the ship in the same manner that sound would be reflected back, but this echo would not be audible to the human ear.

"I therefore provide an apparatus which might be considered as an artificial ear. It is provided with a large diaphragm tightly drawn over a drum-shaped cylinder, and so arranged that the atmospheric pressure is always the same on both sides, quite irrespective of any air blast. It is therefore always able to vibrate freely in response to the waves of the echo, and its vibrations are made to open and close certain electrical circuits which ring a series of bells of various sizes. If, for example, the object is very small or at a very great distance from the ship, a very small instead of ringing a bell it produces a diagram of the disturbances in the air—that is, when there is no noise except that due to the action of the ship or the sea waves, a wavy line is produced, but whenever the vibrations sent out by the vibrator strike an object and return, the wavy line on the paper becomes very much increased in amplitude, so as to be easily observed, and the distance that the object is from the ship can be measured by the length of the paper strip between the giving off of the vibrations and the receiving of the echo; therefore, the distance can be determined with a considerable degree of nicety, and the size of the object may be determined by the amplitude of the waves that return.

Except in foggy or stormy weather, the apparatus would be merely ornamental, of course, until it were used for communicating with other ships.

The inventor says that the apparatus for producing the atmospheric vibrations should be placed well forward on the main deck of the ship or in any position where it can be turned about from port to starboard. It should be secured to the deck very firmly, and connected, by means of a three-inch pipe, with a high-pressure boiler. A straightway valve should be placed in the pipe near the boiler, and some means should be found of preventing the accumulation of water in the pipe leading to the apparatus.

They returned to Barnesville at night.

September 11, 1862. General Lee's advance entered Hagerstown, Md., in the morning. The United States marshal and local officials fled on their approach, together with a number of citizens. The excitement and alarm caused by the Confederate invasion continued to rise in all the cities of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg and Philadelphia especially. The governor of the state of Pennsylvania issued a call for 50,000 men "for immediate service to repel the now imminent danger from invasion by the enemies of the country." The CIVIL WAR FIFTY YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

September 9, 1862.

The advance of General Lee's Confederate army continued to spread the most tremendous consternation through Pennsylvania and the loyal districts of Maryland. The city of Baltimore was distinctly alarmed for its own safety. At Wilkesbarre, Pa., a condition approaching panic obtained. Farmers sent their wives and children and their cattle out of the Cleveland valley in Pennsylvania. A small Confederate detachment entered Middletown, Md., and took possession, placing the town under martial law.

Colonel Burris, sent to chastise the Confederate partisan Quantrel for his attack on Olatho, Mo., came up with the irregulars, but they escaped him, leaving behind some of their equipment and a small amount of ammunition.

Major-General Barnes, in compliance with the order issued on the seventh of the month from the headquarters of General McClellan, assumed command of the defenses of Washington during the temporary absence from his post of McClellan.

Indiana and Illinois cavalry, proceeding toward Barnesville, Md., out of Poolesville, in an attempt to get in touch with the movements of General Lee's army of invasion, encountered two detachments of Confederate cavalry near Monocacy church.

General Bragg threatened Nashville, Tenn., with a large Confederate force. General Buell was on the march to the support of that point with a Union force. Other forces were hurrying to join him.

With Lee entering Maryland unopposed; with Smith knocking at the side door and Bragg pushing through eastern Tennessee, the cause of the Union looked desperate.

September 12, 1862.

Harper's Ferry was invested by a force detached from Gen. Jackson's Confederate army, marching down the Shenandoah to join Lee in the invasion of Maryland.

A Federal army commanded by Gen. Burnside was in pursuit of Lee's advancing column. The Federal advance and the Confederate rear guard came in contact at Frederick, Maryland, which place was entered by the Union force.

Hope broke for the first time in many days at the north on the report that Gen. E. Kirby Smith had withdrawn his Confederate army from the front of Cincinnati. It was said throughout the north that he was in full retreat, but the better informed understood now that his advance threatening Cincinnati had been merely a diversion to assist Lee in his invasion of Maryland.

There was a fight lasting all day between Confederates and National detachments at Charleston, Virginia. Both forces bivouacked on the field. The National guns set fire to and destroyed Charleston.

An important debate took place in the Confederate house of representatives in Richmond relative to the propriety of an invasion of the northern states. Lee's movement into Maryland was criticized by some as fool-hardy and dangerous.

John Ross, the Cherokee Indian, had an interview with President Lincoln regarding the rescue of his people from their Confederate alliance.

September 13, 1862.

The military excitement in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, continued. A large number of armed citizens left for Harrisburg to join the force accumulating there to repel the invasion of the Confederate army under Gen. Lee.

The mayor of Harrisburg issued a proclamation prohibiting the citizens to leave the town under penalty of arrest.

The Confederate chief Porter, with about five hundred partisans, made a descent on Palmyra, Missouri, and released forty Confederate prisoners. He held the town for a while, but withdrew when he heard an engine from Hannibal whistle. He did no damage to the town or the property of citizens.

A force of Confederates, under Gen. Loring, took possession of the Kanawha salt works, near Charleston, Virginia.

Maryland Heights, an outpost of defence south of Harper's Ferry, was abandoned by the Union forces at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, following a long resistance to the Confederates under Stonewall Jackson, who had invaded the position the day before. All the guns were spiked and the garrison fell back on Harper's Ferry.

Both north and south were in a state of intense expectancy, awaiting the crash which they knew would ensue when Lee's invading army met with the Federal army, moving against him. It was conceded to be the sharpest crisis in the war, up to that time.

September 14, 1862. The entire National army moved from Frederick, Maryland, taking the route toward Harper's Ferry. Ripley, Virginia, was occupied by the advance of Col. Lightburn's troops.

The stockade fort at Bacon Creek, Kentucky, was surrendered to the Confederate cavalry under Col. J. J. Morrison.

General Butler, commanding the Union army of occupation in New Orleans, issued an order directing that all foreign born living in the city must register, so that they might be distinguished from friend and foe.

Generals Hooker and Reno, with a Union force, collided with one of Lee's advancing columns at South Mountain, Maryland, and precipitated an engagement that lasted for a number of hours. The Confederates were not ready to hazard a pitched battle, Jackson not yet having taken Harper's Ferry and joined the main column. Gen. Reno was killed.

The attack upon Harper's Ferry was continued with vigor by the Confederates from surrounding heights, which had fallen into their hands. Gen. Miles, commanding the Union force, put up a stubborn defence.

An engagement was fought at Munfordsville, Kentucky, between the Union force defending the place and a body of Confederate infantry, resulting in a repulse of the Confederates, after a desperate struggle.

Two thousand Union cavalry succeeded in escaping from Harper's Ferry, beleaguered by the Confederates, cutting their way out along the Sharpsburg road.

September 15, 1862. The Confederates under E. Kirby Smith advanced again towards Cincinnati as far as Florence, and drove in the National pickets.

Colonel McNeill had a two-hour fight with Confederate partisans under Porter near Shelburne, Missouri, in which he drove them from the field and captured twenty wagons and a number of horses and guns.

Ponchatoula, Louisiana, was occupied by the National forces under Maj. George O. Strong of General Butler's staff.

Harper's Ferry, Maryland, surrendered to the Confederates under General Jackson after a gallant defense of three days. Jackson's soldiers, who were nearly destitute of clothing and shoes, supplied their needs from the National stores there, many of them appearing in complete Union uniforms.

BOOSTER TRIPS WORTH WHILE

If Actual Financial Benefit Cannot Be Shown, They Still Have a Distinct Value.

There is a difference of opinion among Burlington business men as to the value of so-called booster trips. Close figuring has convinced a number that these trips do not pay. That is, that there is not sufficient new business developed to make up for the time and money expended.

And perhaps that may be true. But there are always things which your mathematical man is apt to overlook. He is of the kind who counts the day wasted that is spent at the fishing club or on the golf grounds. The booster trip has a value, and a much greater one than is generally appreciated. It enables the members of the booster party to get acquainted with some of the actual or prospective customers. It may open the way for future business. But what is much more valuable and important, it makes the members of these parties better acquainted with each other. And, then, it is a day, or a week, ostensibly devoted to business, but partly devoted to pleasure. It is a change from the eternal routine, and few of your mathematical men realize how important, how necessary, an occasional change of this kind is, and how heavy is the cost that those are called upon to pay who never indulge themselves with such a change of program.

Even where there are no direct demonstrable benefits, the booster trip is of great value, of real benefit, to all who take part therein.—Burlington Hawkeye.

UPLIFT IN LOVE OF NATURE

Cultivation of Ornamental Trees and Plants Marks Always a People of Refinement.

It is an unquestioned fact, certified by all observant travelers of broad experience, that the cultivation of ornamental trees and plants has an uplifting and ennobling influence on all mankind. No matter in what quarter of the earth you are traveling, you will invariably meet with the best reception at that domicile where the greatest love of nature is manifest, through the cultivation or presence of plants and flowers.

Aside from the orchard sections, it is a rare occurrence, in any state, to note in rural districts a farmyard where any intelligent or orderly attempt has been made to beautify the grounds, and in small towns decorated, tidy premises are equally rare. Doorways in the outskirts of cities are often just as unkempt. In places of lawns, flowers, trees and shrubs we find broken-down wagons, farm implements and machinery about an unpainted house scarcely fit for a stable, and not infrequently stock runs loose about the house.

This disagreeable phase of life is pictured merely to ask if good, cheerful, intelligent citizens of high standard may be reared amid such surroundings. Can you expect culture and refinement in young men and women coming from such so-called homes? And the pathos of it all is that they are not to be held accountable for their uncouthness, for, given a fair chance, most of them would develop into men and women of many graces and accomplishments.—Exchange.

Street Paving.

Macadam roads, long the standard paving construction for highways, have had their day; the automobile has made it necessary to adapt pavements to a new traffic. Prof. Arthur H. Blanchard of Columbia notes in Engineering News that the yardage of new bituminous pavements, constructed by "penetration" methods, increased in eight states from 25,200 in 1908 to 8,680,900 in 1911, and of bituminous concrete pavements, from 4,400 yards in 1908 to 508,100 in 1911. Of the surfaces for macadam pavements already laid, Professor Blanchard says:

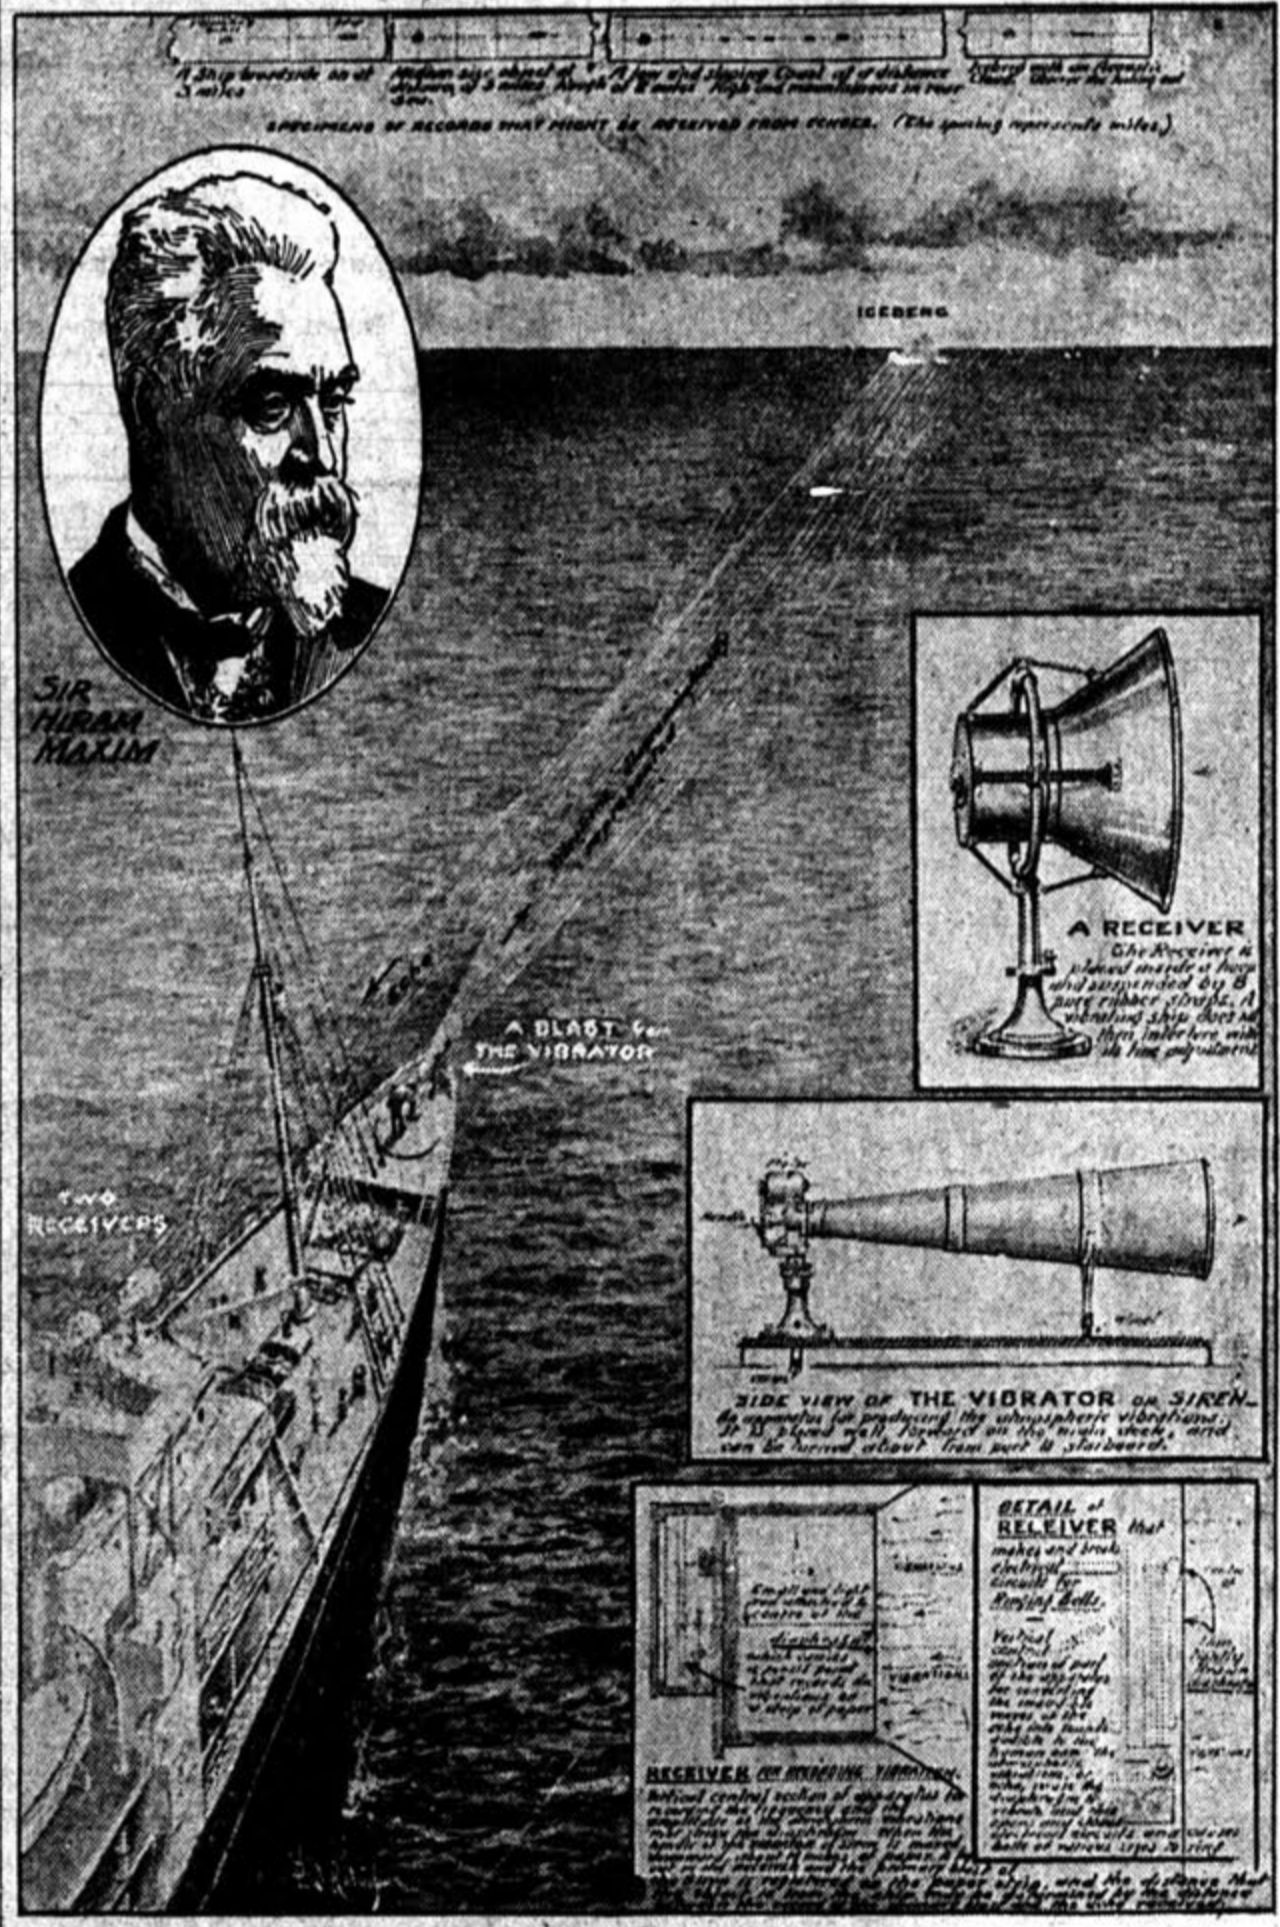

"That more permanent forms of construction are favored by our state commission is clearly shown by the marked decrease in use of light oils for surface treatment of roads, and the decided increase in the surface treatment of roads with heavy asphalt cements."

Moves for Civic Beauty is Old.

At Stockbridge, Mass., modern neighborhood improvements were begun through the efforts of Mrs. Mary G. Hopkins in 1853; she started the Laurel Hill Village Improvement association and rescued the neglected cemetery and church green from a condition reflecting on the refinement of the village which associates the names of Jonathan Edwards, Nathaniel Hawthorne, James Russell and others equally as distinguished.

Remarkable!

A local preacher who was addressing the public meeting of a Sunday school anniversary made an eloquent appeal to the risible faculties of his audience by declaring: "I'm glad to be here, because this meeting has to do with boys and girls. I do not forget I was a boy and girl myself once!"

prefer to use a very high pressure of steam, to have all the parts large and strong, and to produce about 14 or 15 vibrations per second. These will not come within the range of the human ear, consequently they cannot be considered as sound, and as they are of bell rings, while a large object at a distance of two miles would ring a larger bell, and a very large object a still larger bell. This apparatus gives an audible notice if anything is ahead of the ship.

But just as soon as darkness set in and the captain began to suspect that icebergs or other dangerous objects were close at hand, it would become useful. Of its operation under such circumstances Sir Hiram says: "It should be used constantly sending out the blasts in every direction. If the sea were perfectly clear, the blasts sent out would be recorded at the very instant of their production, but no echo would be returned other than that due to the waves of the sea, which would provide a zigzag line of small amplitude; but if there should happen to be an object of any considerable size at a distance no greater than two or three miles, the zigzag line on the paper would be changed, the amplitude of the waves would be greater and would be very noticeable.

WAR MEDALS NOT CLAIMED

Only Decoration That the British Soldiers Value Highly is the "Victoria Cross."

The fact that there are no fewer than 50,000 medals stored at Woolwich awaiting claimants causes one to wonder whether the soldier puts so high a value on medals as is usually supposed.

Nearly all of these medals are for the Boer war, and there is a special government department with a staff of clerks endeavoring to trace the owners. Besides these Boer war medals, there are 4,000 medals for the Boer war which have never been claimed, and even to this day belated claims are still put in for medals for the Crimea and Indian mutiny.

A short time ago, for example, a veteran named James Crystal applied for and received a medal for Afghanistan, after a lapse of thirty years.

Most of the Boer war medals at Woolwich belong to irregulars, who joined on the outbreak of the war, and, after it was over, scattered all over the world. But many regulars have not troubled to claim the medal, alleging that it is too cheap, and considering that 750,000 of the medals were struck, it is certainly never likely to become a rarity.

Before the days of Waterloo very few medals were issued. The first medal ever issued was that given to the Elizabethan seamen who defeated the Armada, and the earliest military decoration was a silver badge issued by Charles I in 1643 for presentation to soldiers who had distinguished themselves in forlorn hopes.

Waterloo was the first occasion when there was a general issue of medals, and since that time, instead of issuing too few medals, England has gone, perhaps to the other extreme. Soldiers point out that the same decoration is awarded to the man who has been fighting at the front and carrying his life in his hands for months, as to the man in a regiment which has never stirred from the base of operations or so much as seen the enemy.

Every effort is made by the authorities to see that medals reach their owners, and if the owner of a medal happens to be dead, the medal is forwarded to his next of kin. Yet there are still large numbers unclaimed, and according to the regulations now in force, at the end of ten years' time the medals will be broken up and the silver debited to the mint.

The Victoria Cross, of course, is a decoration of quite another character, and a soldier would as soon think of parting with his life as with his Victoria Cross.

But this is far from being the case with other medals, and Rudyard Kipling tells how he has seen soldiers wager their Indian general service medal on the toss for the price of a pot of beer.—Pearson's Weekly.

Parthenon in Danger of Collapse.

A shock will be given to lovers of antiquity by the suggestion made in the Revue des Beaux Arts that the Parthenon is in serious danger of collapse. Within the last twenty years the columns seem to have lost their rigidity, and unless the work of strengthening the foundations is taken in hand disaster may follow. The cause of the threatened collapse is the removal by archaeologists of sculptured ruins of an earlier temple on the Acropolis which served as foundations for the Parthenon, and which have been taken to various museums for display and preservation.

No effective precautions were taken to replace these relics by fresh masonry. Modern Greece has no money to spare for the necessary work of restoration, but it should not be difficult for those countries which have benefited from the spoliation of the treasures of Athens to raise funds to prevent the destruction of one of the wonders of the world.—Westminster Gazette.

Every effort is made by the authorities to see that medals reach their owners, and if the owner of a medal happens to be dead, the medal is forwarded to his next of kin. Yet there are still large numbers unclaimed, and according to the regulations now in force, at the end of ten years' time the medals will be broken up and the silver debited to the mint.

TAFT PROMISES TO CUT TARIFF IF RE-ELECTED

New York, Sept. 26.—In a campaign interview given out today, President Taft unequivocally promised a revision of the tariff downward, should he be re-elected and hinted at an extra session of congress to bring about that revision, should the Republicans control the next congress.

He declared that the third party trust plan, with an unscrupulous man as president, might lead to a dictatorship that not only revolution could remove.

He denied Gov. Wilson's tariff assertion that the protective tariff has put American industries in a straight jacket; declared that American workmen already are more prosperous than those in Europe and asserted that the Democratic wool and cotton bills would have driven American manufacturers to England and Germany.

"The Republican party's policy is not to shut out foreign manufacturers and to keep the American workmen employed. The tariff should be revised so far as may be necessary to keep prices from being exorbitant so that the manufacturer shall secure only enough protection to pay the scale of high wages which obtains and ought to obtain in this country and secure profit from the business.

"The American public may rest assured that should the Republican party be restored to power in all legislative branches, all the schedules in the present tariff of which complaint is made, will be subjected to investigation and report without delay by a competent and impartial tariff board and to the reduction or change which may be necessary to square the rates with the facts. So far as excessive prices may be due to illegal combinations, they can be dealt with under the anti-trust law.

"The proposal of the third term part to control the trusts through federal incorporation and regulation would create the most monstrous monopoly of power in the history of the world, a power as much greater, as much more autocratic than that of a Caesar or Napoleon, as the business interests of the twentieth century are greater, more dominant and far reaching than were those of 2,000 or 100 years ago.

"An unprincipled man with such power in his grasp could perpetuate his authority, perhaps under legitimate forms, and become a dictator until his hold could be shaken loose only by revolution.

Asked if he regarded as hopeless or useless any effort in the direction of world commerce, President Taft said: "The record of my administration does not indicate that I regard such efforts as either hopeless or useless. On the contrary, the advances in that direction have been greater than any previous period in our history, and signally stronger.

The president then cited figures of exports and manufacturers for last year and contrasted them with the figures for 1896, the last year under the Wilson tariff law, as administered by Democrats.

"These figures seem to be sufficient reply to Gov. Wilson's talk about the Payne tariff law being a straight jacket for American energy and industry," said Taft.

MRS. AMY WINSHIP TO ENTER UNIVERSITY

Madison, Wis., Sept. 26.—America's oldest "co-ed," Mrs. Amy D. Winship of Racine, again will enter the university this fall. She will be the oldest student at Wisconsin and will hold the record for age in all American institutions of learning. Mrs. Winship, aged 80, who is the mother of Prof. J. J. Davis of the university and Mrs. Parker Wooster of Racine, attends the university for pleasure and as a "pastime."

"I do this simply for the pleasure I get out of the study," she said. "I enjoy it. I want to keep young by keeping my mental faculties active. I am not going to get old. In studying I will not lose any of my mental faculties," she continued.

"My going to school was purely accidental," she said. "While I was visiting Ohio State university three years ago, the lecturer at one of the classes introduced me to a professor. I asked the professor what subject he taught, and he answered 'psychology.' I was greatly surprised because I did not know that the subject was taught in schools. I had studied it privately with a number of women in my home. I visited his class at 7:30 o'clock next morning, and before I left I had registered," she said.

"Are you a graduate of any school or college," was asked her.

"I am a graduate of the old Freeport, Ill., log schoolhouse of 1847," was her answer. A district school education was all that she had. She studied at Columbus, Ohio, for two years and then changed to the University of Wisconsin because she wanted to be nearer home. Prof. J. J. Davis, her son, has been engaged as curator of the new biological building, just completed.

Mrs. Winship specializes in social psychology, social and political ethics, sociology and philosophy. She is entered as an "adult special."

NO PROFITS IN THE MILL

A case which has an unusual interest for lumbermen throughout Wisconsin and Michigan is now being tried at Milwaukee, in which the heirs to the Wells estate are bringing a friendly suit against the trustees of the estate. Senator Isaac Stephenson of Marinette is one of the trustees of the estate while Daniel Norris a grandson and his mother a daughter of the late Daniel Wells are the heirs.

The Wells estate was placed in trust for a period of thirty-five years with the provision that only the actual profits of the moneys invested should be turned over to the heirs within that period.

The bulk of the estate is tied up in the N. Ludington Company of Marinette, the Ludington, Wells & Van Schalek Company, the I. Stephenson Company and other lumber companies operating in this district. The heirs claim that the money turned over as dividends by these Companies are profits and that it should be turned over to them.

The trustees claim that the money received from these dividends are not profits explaining their case as follows:

By actual figures taken from the mill companies it is shown that the mills are making no real profits, that is from the operation of the mills. The money returned as dividends is only the value of the timber held by the companies and was created by the increase in the values of stumpage over the time that the stumpage was purchased.

In other words the trustees claim that there is no money in lumbering at the present time where full present value must be paid for the stumpage and that the saw mills themselves make not one cent in converting the stumpage into lumber.

The case has been in the courts off and on for some time and while it is in every way a friendly suit brought more for the purpose of getting proper legal advice than anything else, it will never the less solve one of the big questions up before the lumber companies of this section at the present time.

Was the corporation tax on the profits of corporations becomes effective, the Government agents were amazed to find that the lumber companies were showing no profits in operating their plants although they were returning dividends. The investigation brought out the above circumstances and the Government promptly accepted the statement of the lumber companies acknowledging that the dividends returned was the accrued valuation of the stumpage rather than a profit.

The Wisconsin state income tax will bring this question up again this year and it is probable that it will be thrashed out to a considerable extent before it is finally settled by the income tax collectors.

In the meantime lumbermen everywhere are awaiting with interest the decision of Judge Ludwig of Milwaukee before whom the case above mentioned is being tried.

TAKES FORTUNE TELLER'S ADVICE; FINDS JEWELRY

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Seven thousand dollars' worth of diamond jewelry which was stolen from Mrs. Marie Marcell last Saturday, was returned to her by some person unknown. The jewels were found by Mrs. Marcell in the bath tub, but they were in a different bag than in which she kept them.

Mrs. Marcell gives credit to their restoration to a gypsy fortune teller, whom she consulted two days after the disappearance of the jewelry. "The fortune teller said I would get them back if I did as she told me. She said I must drink a glass of water standing on my left leg and holding the glass in my left hand. Then I was to make a wish, and whatever I wished I would receive."

BASE BALL HAS FEW IRON MEN

New York, Sept. 26.—That peculiar niche in baseball affairs which is filled by what are known as iron men is one that has had few occupants. The iron men of note, real iron men, have been few and far between.

The first pitcher to whom the term was applied was Joe McGinnity, and he came into it not so much because of the frequency with which he pitched as capacity for double headers. To this day he goes into the box often, and few pitchers have worn so well.

There are two others leading exponents of the iron man business. One is Ed. Walsh of the White Sox, the most noted of the three, and the other is Jack Coombs. Coombs isn't pitching as frequently as he did last year, but his capacity for work, coupled with his skill as a boxman, tided Connie Mack and the Athletics over many a game in which some other pitcher had wobbled.

An article that has real merit should in time become popular. That such is the case with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been attested by many dealers. Here is one of them. H. W. Hendrickson, Ohio Falls, Ind., writes: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best for coughs, colds and croup, and is my best seller."

BACK FROM CONVENTION.

most of the upper peninsula votes, and on the single ballot had 1,043 votes as against 422 for Vaughan. John W. Haraar also had an easy win for state treasurer. There were two other candidates, Senator Kingman, one of the "immortal thirteen" who defeated the immediate effect presidential primary bill in the special session of the legislature early in the year, and Representative Perry. The ballot stood: Haraar, 743; Kingman, 432 and Perry, 292.

The vote on auditor general was: Fuller, 1,066; Scidmore, 402. Mr. Fuller had the upper peninsula support solid. The Wayne delegation, split, half of it having been traded to Scidmore in return for the support of the Sixth district delegates for the reelection of State Chairman Groesbeck.

At the Twelfth district caucus, previous to the opening of the convention, an unusual honor was given to Atty. I. C. Jennings, of this city, when he was elected as district vice-president of the convention.

Of the Twelfth district caucus the Detroit News said:

"There wasn't anything but harmony at the Twelfth, the upper peninsula district, which was contrary to all predictions. The fact that Gov. Osborn was an upper peninsula delegate, and that some other upper peninsula delegates are hardly on speaking terms with him, created an impression that there would be fireworks. The governor attended the caucus and chatted with some of the delegates, but nothing more.

"Congressman Young presided. Ex-Tax Commissioner Shields, whom the governor removed from office a few months ago under charges, had the typewritten list of those agreed upon for district representatives in the convention organization. Gov. Osborn's name was not on the list.

"These were the names on the list, and, without a dissenting vote, they were formally chosen: District vice-president of the convention, Ira C. Jennings, Escanaba; assistant secretary, John M. Bush, Gogebic; member of resolutions committee, W. P. Belden, Ishpeming; member of permanent organization committee, Ex-Senator Charles Smith, Houghton; member of credentials committee, Wm. Leighton, of Alger.

"The two present members of the state committee, Robert H. Shields and Robert A. Douglas, were re-elected.

"The caucus did not indorse any candidate for any place on the ticket, that the district delegation would vote practically as a unit for the renomination of Auditor General Fuller, for the renomination of Supreme Court Justice Steere and for Grant Fellows for attorney general."

"SPINKBALLS" USED BY SYMPATHIZERS OF DULUTH CAR STRIKERS.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 26.—Willing to end the strike, the union carmen of Duluth today made known the terms upon which they will return to work. The propositions were refused by General Manager Warren, who said "there is nothing to arbitrate."

"Spinkballs" have been introduced as a new weapon by sympathizers. Car crews and passengers have been forced from cars by this method.
