THE MARKET BASKET. Interesting these have been written about the best way of combating the high cost of living, but the unopposed market basket, in the hands of a prudent buyer, has the virtue of showing results. Where producer and consumer meet for barter both win, for trade there flows along a natural course. Time was when the market basket was an article of general household necessity. It was a factor in domestic expense and help hold that item down. It was used on market day, used by the mistress of the house, who esteemed it worth while to be known as a good buyer at the market. There are evidences that women are again seeking to establish that reputation. At the markets one sees them in increasing numbers. Those who ride in costly cars do not hesitate to mingle with their less fortunate sisters. Each has the same pride in selecting what is best suited to the individual need and purse. In Cincinnati, marketing is a distinct trait of German thrift, and has been an established custom for generations. The habit has grown and buyers on the market come from the mansion as well as the crowded places. The prudent housekeeper in that city considers a market basket a household fixture. The same is true of Columbus. In the capital city one sees the learned members of the high court of the state doing their marketing, mingling with manufacturers, merchants, professional men and others. Distinguished attorneys lay aside Blackstone to pick up a market basket. The basket is coming back. It's in style.

Mrs. Caillaux Acquitted. There will probably be little surprise occasioned by the acquittal of Mme. Caillaux at Paris. That verdict had been foreseen and predicted. The bewildering array of facts, intrigues, hearsay and political oratory, that marked the trial, could only operate to bring the issue before the court. The wild woman of disorder in the court room, the display of public sentiment, the sway of prejudice, had their full part in bringing about the verdict. Other countries have little of criticism to offer at the outcome of the French trial. It has been many times demonstrated, in other lands, that a handsome and capricious woman need have little fear of the law when charged with any major crime. Mix human passion and domestic unhappiness with the flavor of the divorce court, and the woman in the case charged with murder will find juries to acquit in countries less emotional than France, where trials are more decorous and formal. According to the English suffragists no woman should pay her rent until she has been allowed to vote. At the same time, a lot of husbands whose wives pay the rent may object to this. You can't blame France for being sore at Austria-Hungary. Just as the Caillaux affair was bringing her into the limelight along comes this war stuff and hogs the front page. A stranger in Paris posed as an admirer of the Swiss navy. During the run of opera bouffe at the Justice Palais, m'sieur finds no time for credentials or references. It appears that Playwright Henri Bernstein called the husband of the accused French woman "Caillaux without any prefix." Shades of Alphonse and Gaston! Prohibition was beaten last week in Texas and the defeated candidate for governor was Thomas H. Ball. It must be that Ball's middle name was not HI, after all. Whatever else is said, it is clear that $50,000 libel suit would have been avoided had the Colonel regarded the advice of his physician to give his throat a rest. It is to be noticed that jokesmiths have written no jests for the funny papers about feminine marksmanship since the trial of Mme. Caillaux has been in progress. A St. Louis woman wants a divorce because her husband complained about her coffee. But let no one use the old "grounds for divorce" stuff again. China gets the blame for the latest imported dance. As the Chinese do not dance they must have handed it over with smiling willingness. The market demand for hogs has forced the price up to 9 cents per pound, but it has not decreased the number of the street car variety. Perhaps there is nothing ominous in this, but the French army has just changed its trousers—the fiery red giving way to a blue-gray. Huerta joins the exiles' quarters in their plaintive rendition of the Manna chant. This is the line-up: Diaz, Dastró, Zelaya, Huerta.

MEET ME AT CHAUTAUQUA

DAILY LETTER

There is just one thing to say about the situation. Conditions are critical, and this is no time to temporize or to pursue a vacillating policy. Under ordinary conditions it perhaps is always well to accept the council of one's hopes but during a crisis prompt and decisive action is in order and should be the watchword. Money conditions are becoming acute, and New York has been forced to permit itself to be the dumping ground for the world. In such times as these, intrinsic merit counts for little, for it is quite true that standard securities if judged by the usual standards are all attractive for investment purposes, but investment purposes means full cash payment, and the majority of conservative houses in the financial community are demanding that the cash accompany buying orders, which course we consider entirely in order.

IRON TRADE REVIEW

Cleveland, O., July 29.—The Iron Trade Review says: Although deeply interested in the European war news, the iron trade moves along calmly and does not share the excitement of the stock and grain markets. If the war is confined to Austria and Serbia, the effects upon iron markets are not likely to be important, but if other nations should be come involved, imports to this country would be checked and exports would expand. Some foreign products, including British sheets and tin plate, have already advanced somewhat. There is increased interest of consumers of ferro-manganese. If Russia should become involved and shipment of manganese ore from that country be interrupted, the prices of ferro-manganese would advance rapidly, as they did during the Russo-Japanese war, when the price was as high as $165 a ton, compared with the present price of $37 to $38.

BOSTON MARKETS

More critical, war news resulted in continued heavy selling in both markets today. Up to noon, the reaction was slow and orderly but during the last hour, the market became much demoralized and it was almost impossible to find bids for stocks. Some New York houses refused to accept buying orders except for cash and this prevented some speculative purchases which might have steadied the list. The situation is critical and strong support will have to be furnished the market tomorrow to prevent a much further break.

Social Happenings of the Day

Picnic at Fishery A delightful picnic was given at the Fishery on Wednesday by a party of twenty Escanabans. They left the city on a bus at 9 o'clock in the morning and returned home at 7 o'clock in the evening, after enjoying dinner and supper in the woods. Miss Molly Gaffney is visiting with friends and relatives at Iron River. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Klau of Menominee, who have been visiting in the copper country, arrived in the city last evening for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. O. B. Lambert. Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Sullivan of Salt Lake City arrived in the city last evening for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Pish. Miss Florence Gaffney has returned from a short visit at Green Bay. N. W. May left last evening for a business trip to Green Bay. Mr. and Mrs. L. Ross left last night for a visit with friends and relatives at Green Bay.

FRECKLE-FACE

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling. Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength from the Hill Drug Co. and a few applicants should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case. Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Comments of World-Famous Men on the Chautauqua Keep in Mind that Our City Is to Have a Great Five-Day Chautauqua Program This Season. Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, Ex-President of the United States, says: 'The chautauqua is the most distinctively American thing in this country.' Hon. William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State, says: 'The chautauqua affords one of the best opportunities now presented the public speaker for the discussion of questions of interest to the people. The audience is a select one and always composed of the thoughtful element of the community, and as they pay admission they stay to hear. I believe that a considerable part of the progress that is now being made along the line of moral and political reform is traceable to the influence of the chautauqua.' Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, the World's Greatest Preacher and President of Armour Institute of Technology, says: 'The chautauquas have become a great people's university. They are among the greatest feeders for our colleges and universities. He further states that ten per cent of the students in the institution of which he is president, Armour Institute, owe their presence to the chautauqua influence.' Hon. Champ Clark, Speaker of the National House of Representatives, says: 'A great many newspaper wits shoot their shafts at chautauqua lecturers and certain purse-proud editors undertake to make it a sin for a public man to lecture for pay. They think it the height of sarcasm to refer to a public man as a chautauquan. There is one great virtue in chautauqua money. It is clean money. You do not have to explain where you got it. If a man does not desire to go to hear a lecture, there is no law to compel him to do so. . . . The chautauqua has been a powerful force in directing the political thought of the country, which is largely sociological in these latter days. . . . I defend the chautauquas and the chautauqua lecturer, with whom I have been associated, because they constitute as fine a group of men and women as can be found among the splendid citizenship of America. I have a deep and abiding interest in them, and bid them a hearty godspeed in their work.'—From The Arena.

The Business Conditions of the Country

In the history of the country there has never been a time when general business conditions were more important to observe than at present.

Our aim is to be of "service" and with a view of providing the general public with a convenient means of constantly keeping in touch with prevailing business conditions, we publish for free distribution a monthly business letter.

The August issue is now ready and upon request we shall be pleased to place your name upon our monthly mailing list to receive this letter regularly.

SMALL AS WELL AS LARGE ACCOUNTS INVITED

BOAT OWNERS NOT SATISFIED

Local transportation officials in common with boat owners throughout the lakes feel that Congressman Alexander has not introduced a practical measure in congress in his proposal amendment of the rule governing navigation in fog. He is endeavoring to incorporate in the pilot rules the suggestion of Captain Commandant Berthoff, of the United States revenue cutter service, that moderate speed in fog shall be defined as that speed in which a vessel may stop herself within the range of visibility ahead of the ship. This is not regarded as a workable provision, as it would be impossible to determine the range of visibility without a fixed bearing ahead. Moreover the range of visibility would constantly change with the ship's progress through the water, and it is doubtful if any two members of the crew would agree as to what the distance actually was. Fog is very deceptive things, both as to sight and sound.

It would be more to the point, the owners contend, if the present rules respecting navigation in fog were strictly enforced. They represent the experience of generations of navigators and if strictly enforced will prevent collision in fog or, at any rate, reduce collision cases to a negligible quantity. Rather than enact new legislation it would be bet ter to impose a stiff penalty for the violation of the present rules and if signs are read aright this is what the steamboat inspectors propose to do in the future. The captain of a ship is a quasi-government officer and his employer has no power to tell him how he shall navigate his ship in thick weather. The law tells him how he shall do that and if he violates the law he is solely responsible. A stiff monetary fine would be the best lesson in caution that he could get. The present rule reads as follows:

"Every steam vessel shall, in thick weather, by reason of fog, mist, falling snow, heavy rain storms or other causes, go at moderate speed. A steam vessel bearing, apparently not more than four points from right ahead, the fog signal of another vessel shall at once reduce her speed to bare steerageway, and navigate with caution until the vessels shall have passed each other."

"The law expressly says that vessels must proceed at moderate speed during fog and that undoubtedly means to check," a lake captain asserts. "It cannot mean anything else. What constitutes moderate speed for one ship would be reckless speed for another—there are so many considerations entering into the subject, such as ease of maneuvering, quick control and power to stop. But all vessels regardless whether they are slow or fast, must proceed under check during fog. They are then prepared to meet any emergency that may arise. If there were added to this precaution a strict observance of that part of the rule which requires a vessel to get down to bare steerageway up

NATIONS AWAIT AUSTRIA'S DECLARATION OF WAR

Emperor William to St. Petersburg in a lost endeavor to arrange peace. Berlin, July 30.—The reserve officers of the German army corps, with headquarters in Berlin, have been ordered to mobilize.

London, July 30.—A bulletin received by the Servian legation east of Belgrade has been repulsed by the Servians and that a big artillery duel is in progress.

London, July 30.—The Servian legation received a message this morning that the Servians successfully resisted the Austrian advance at Loznitz.

Rome, July 30.—Official circles here appeared to be abandoned of all hope of the efficacy of mediation in the European conflict.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—The official agency here publishes a despatch from Tokio, quoting a newspaper there as expressing the view that in case of a general European war, the participation of Japan as ally of Great Britain is possible. This assertion is based upon the fact that it is believed that the Anglo-Japanese treaty contains a clause stipulating that each nation shall aid the other in case of a purely defensive war.

Should England be drawn into a general European war in self defense, Japan might be compelled to aid her. Berlin, July 30.—Major Von Falkenhayn, German minister of war and Count Von Moltke, chief of the German general staff, had long conference today with Von Bethmann Hollweg, imperial chancellor, Prince Henry, the Emperor's brother and several imperial ministers in the chancery palace. It was rumored afterward that the first German army corps headquarters in Koenigsberg had been mobilized and that a call was issued for a session of the federal council, composed of representatives of the states of Germany. It is known that no steps have been taken toward mobilization of the German navy. Some officers in close touch with the situation expressed the opinion that the next 24 hours will see a decision of the question peace or war. Despatches from the provinces show the greatest agitation of many places.

Socialists everywhere are holding mass meetings to protect against war but non-workingmen's organizations were organized with counter demonstrations and issued a manifesto declaring loyalty to the Emperor.

Representative officials of the foreign office declared the situation has grown worse today instead of better. They pointed out that mobilization of the Russian army could only be interpreted in one way and that was Russia was determined to support Servia.

It added that France is also known to be making secret military preparations and although Germany has not yet mobilized it was questionable if she could remain inactive much longer in face of the military preparations on her borders.

Paris, July 30.—France continues quietly to prepare for war. Troops of the active army are gradually concentrating near the frontier. The police are exercising a general surveillance over the Austrians and Germans in Paris, where many thousands of them reside. The government appealed to the press to keep calm. President Poincare received great ovation from the populace upon his return here today. Thousands of people marched behind his carriage from the station to the palace. The staff of wireless operators in the station at Eiffel tower has been ordered doubled. Officers remain on duty day and night. Long lines of depositors waited outside the Savings Bank today to withdraw money as the payment will be suspended in case of war.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—It is considered probable that if Russia goes to war, Emperor Nicholas will become generalissimo of the Russian forces.

London, Thursday, July 30.—A Vienna dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says:

"After a heavy bombardment by the Danube gunboats, Belgrade was occupied by the Austria troops Wednesday."

Shells Wreck Great Haven. Athens, July 30.—The Servian legation has received the following telegram from Nish, dated July 29: "During the night Belgrade was bombarded. Shells fell in various quarters of the town, causing great damage. Several fell on the Franco-Servian and the Andrejitch banks. M. Andrejitch, of the banking firm, was wounded. Both banks have lodged a protest at the German legation."

"An artillery combat is proceeding at Vichitza, about three and one-half miles down the river from Belgrade."

Servians Blow Up a Bridge. Vienna, July 29.—The Servians at 1.30 o'clock this morning blew up the bridge spanning the river Sava, between the Austrian town of Semlin and Belgrade. The Austrian infantry and artillery stationed at Semlin tried on the Servian positions beyond the bridge, in conjunction with monitors on the Danube. The Servians retreated, after a short engagement, with trifling losses.

Semlin, Austria, July 30.—A great fusillade across the Danube last night led the Servians to expect a serious attack by the Austrians, whereupon they blew up the bridge, destroying a third of it, this part being on their side of the river.

London, Thursday, July 30.—It is stated in connection with the blowing up of the railway bridge across the river Sava and Servians that the Austrians have another bridge in sections on their side of the river, which bridge they can put up in short order.

Vienna, July 30.—A dispatch to a Vienna newspaper says that three of the Danube monitors began shelling Belgrade early in the morning, after the bridge across the Sava had been destroyed by the Servians. The shell that wrought havoc in the exposed part of the city, damaging the king's palace, the fortification walls, the barracks and other buildings. This dispatch says that the Servians did not return the fire.

Emperor Francis Joseph will return to Vienna from Ishl tomorrow and may then go to Budapest, to be nearer the scene of action.

A small detachment of pioneers, in co-operation with the customs officers, captured two Servian steamers laden with ammunition and mines. The pioneers and revenue guards, after a sharp encounter, overcame the Servian crews and took possession of the vessels and their dangerous cargoes.

The Safety Habit

You know the Railroads are talking a good deal these days about the "Safety Habit." It is not a safety razor or a safety bicycle. It's safety for the lives entrusted to their care.

The same principle applies to the banking business. Our bank employed the Safety Habit at the outset—Safety to the depositors' money entrusted to our care. Every dollar left with us will be taken care of. Safety is our watch word. We would like to have your account on this basis.
