PARTRIDGE SEASON TO OPEN TODAY

Today marks the opening of the partridge season for duck and rabbit. The open duck season extends to Dec. 15, while the open season for rabbits continues to Mar. 1 of next year. Under the new federal migratory bird law no spring shooting for ducks was allowed last spring in Michigan and the present is the first open season for duck hunting since a year ago.

LAD FALLS AND BREAKS ARM WHILE AT PLAY

Charles Folio, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Folio, fell while at play yesterday and fractured the bones of his left arm, below the elbow. With his brother the lad was playing near the home when he slipped and fell to the sidewalk. As he fell, the left arm was doubled under the body and the bones snapped off. Both Mr. and Mrs. Folio had planned on leaving Escanaba for Ishpeming today as representatives of the local Pythian lodge and the local temple of Pythian Sisters and the accident has forced the parents of the lad to change their plans.

TWO MORE WEEKS TO PAY YOUR TAXES

Two more weeks yet remain in which the property owners of the city may pay their summer taxes without the added four per cent interest. To accommodate the great mass of working people of the city who are unable to call at the city treasurer's office during the day, City Treasurer Anderson will be at the office from 7:30 o'clock until 9 o'clock each evening for two weeks. All who have not yet paid are urged to do so within the next fortnight.

Mrs. H. Thompson, who has been visiting at the Soc. was in the city last night, enroute to her home in Chicago.

JOHN MURRAY IS TO MARRY

To completely surprise friends in Escanaba, John Murray, of this city, will tomorrow morning at Ishpeming be married to Miss Anna C. Ryan. Every plan for the wedding ceremony has been made with the deepest secrecy but yesterday details leaked out and the coming ceremony is no longer a secret. The bride is one of the popular young women of Ishpeming, while the groom is one of the favorite employees of the Northwestern road running out of this city. For years he has been considered as a confirmed bachelor by many of his friends and that he has completely plans for his matrimonial venture will come as a surprise to many of his scores of friends.

ELLIOTT FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON

Final preparations were made yesterday for the funeral over the body of James Elliott at the home this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. P. B. Ferris, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will officiate at the house and the local order of Knights of Pythias will officiate at the house and the local order of Knights of Pythias will have charge of the service at the cemetery where the impressive ritualistic service will be carried out, Chancellor Charles Folio, reading the service.

PERITONITIS TAKES A LOCAL MAN

After an illness extending over a year's time W. A. Socialr, aged 54, passed away at his residence at 450 South Elmwood street early Sunday morning, the immediate cause of the man's death being peritonitis. The body was removed to the Alto undertaking parlors, where it will rest until Wednesday when it will be shipped to Fife Lake, Mich., where interment will be made. The man is survived by his wife and daughter. The family has lived here but shortly over three months time.

GARDEN SECOND TEAM WINS TWO FROM THOMPSON

The members of the Garden second team on Sunday defeated the team from Thompson by scores of 14 to 4. This is the second game that the Thompsons have dropped to the Garden second, the first being by a score of 9 to 5.

INSTRUCTIONS ARE ISSUED

The following announcements were issued yesterday by Supt. F. E. King, of the Escanaba public schools, to students of the schools who will begin their year's work on Tuesday of next week:

- For the convenience of patrons and because the children who secure their books and supplies before the opening of school will avoid the rush and delay when all wait until the schools open, Mr. E. W. Dook, who has charge of the book sale for the Board of Education will be at the different buildings to sell books and supplies according to the following schedule:
Barr School—Thursday a. m., Sept. 3, 9:30 to 12:00.
Franklin school—Thursday, p. m., Sept. 3, 2:30 to 4:30.
Washington school—Friday a. m., Sept. 4, 9:30 to 12:00.
Jefferson school, Friday, p. m., Sept. 4, 2:30 to 4:30.
Webster school—Saturday a. m., Sept. 5, 9:30 to 12:00.
High school—Saturday, p. m., Sept. 5, 2:30 to 4:30.

Pupils are requested to buy their books at the building they expect to attend. High school books cannot be purchased at the grade schools. Eighth grade books are sold only at the Franklin, Webster and High school buildings. All grade pupils should bring their classification card given them at the close of school upon which are marked the books and supplies needed with the prices. Many of those marked pupils may now have and will continue to use. They need to buy only those marked which they do not now have. I respectfully urge parents to aid their children to get started right by securing needed books and supplies promptly.

Respectfully,
F. E. KING, Supt.
High School Pupils May Enroll This Week

Supt. King and Prin. Lint will meet classes of the Escanaba High school for consultation in regard to their programs and work for the coming school year, according to schedule below. A copy of the new program and announcements with course of study and latest rules as to college requirements will be given to each pupil who comes to the High school on the dates below. This extra time is given that there may be ample time for consultation and advice, which has proven very valuable heretofore in determining each pupil's course of study.

PETERSON RINK TO OPEN SOON

Richard Flath will formally open the Peterson roller rink on Labor Day. The rink has been recently renovated and decorated in preparation for the first night's skating. The rink will be open regularly after that date at the usual days and music will be furnished by a mechanical band.

KEPT MONEY IN HONEST MANNER

Arthur Thiede, brother of Milwaukee, boarded in a sock. Therefore he lost his sock containing his marriage license and personal papers was found by W. H. Plucker last night. Mr. Plucker is an honest man. Therefore the sock with contents was left at the office.

Mr. Thiede will secure his property by calling at the office in spite of the fact that he carried his valuables in a sock and lost the sock. Others who keep their valuables in a sock and lose the sock will not be so fortunate as Mr. Thiede and find the sock.

FAIR TO BE SUPERIOR

Two committee meetings were held at the office of T. E. Strom, president of the Delta County Agricultural Society, yesterday preparatory to the opening of the Northern Michigan State Fair here on September 15.

The Merchants and Manufacturers committee composed of Cheever Buckner, L. A. Erickson and T. E. Strom met yesterday morning and after consulting with a number of local merchants, started both preparations for the booths that are to be used at the Fair. It was announced last night that this year will see more booths occupied by owners and more elaborately decorated than ever before. From this time forth the sound of activities will be going on at the exhibition building.

President Strom yesterday closed the contract with the Escanaba Military Band to furnish the musical program at the four day fair. Manager Barnard promised President Strom yesterday that the musical program this fall will surpass any formerly given at a similar occurrence in this city.

The members of the livestock and poultry committee met yesterday and made arrangements for their department. It is to be especially impressed upon the small stock owners that they will not be compelled to compete against the big farming companies for the sweepstakes. All live stock exhibits of the county shipped to this city will be placed in the hands of competent men and all freight charges will be paid. The stalls have been remodeled this year so as to make them draught and wind proof.

wools, the Sunday, Aug. 31, walked to the top of the pole, climbing up the pole, tying one of his neck braces, almost to death. One foot and the other the ground.

D. A. O'Brien, city and the body of Escanaba last night. Coroner William county, the county side occurred, with a formal investigation. Newman was about and is survived by Newman, who is Crawford Lumber River. The son was in the city this morning to view of his father's body.

Newman had resided here for some time and for several months had been engaged in digging ditches by the highway commissioner of the township in which he resided. On Sunday he was at work and talked with the men there. He complained of being ill and asserted that he believed he was suffering from tuberculosis. Last week a force of men were engaged in clearing a plot of ground, but a short distance from his shack and late in the week he told one of the men that they should rush the work as a death was likely to occur in that locality at any time.

Last spring a son, who was working in Montana, was injured and an operation to amputate one of his limbs was found necessary. The young man did not recover from the effects of the anaesthetic and the death came as a severe blow to the father. He brought suit for damages and it is asserted that he continually talked of the death of his son and the suit that had been instituted by him. It is believed that constant brooding unbalanced his mind and allowed him to decide to take his own life.

That he carefully premeditated his end was shown at his shack. He had put the place in order and packed all his belongings in a battered suit case. On a piece of paper he wrote the name and address of his son, Leonard Newman, Cedar River, Mich., and with mutilated paper pasted to the end of the suit case. He took a lantern from the shack to light his way to the spot where he had decided to end his life and on the ground near his pole the lighted lantern was found yesterday morning.

WHIRLWIND BASEBALL TEAM DEFEATS THE SOUTHERNERS

In a game replete with sensational plays the Whirlwind baseball team yesterday afternoon defeated the Southerners at the Escanaba State Fair by a score of 9 to 3.

SERVING STRING BEANS.
STRING beans served with a butter and milk sauce are nice when they are young and succulent, but they become monotonous when sent to the table in this form too often. Owing to their nutritive qualities they make an excellent substitute for meat, especially in the summer, when too much of this is not wholesome.

Bolled butter beans, served with sliced tomatoes and savory balls, are excellent. The balls are made of breadcrumbs, minced parsley, pepper, salt and a grate of lemon. Bind with milk or egg.

Savory and Nourishing.
String Beans With Sauce.—Take one quart beans, string and cut small; lay in cold water and boil thirty-five or forty minutes, uncovered. Drain and add one cupful hot milk, one teaspoonful butter and one teaspoonful flour rubbed together, seasoning to taste; boil two minutes.

String Bean Salad.—Take small, tender beans of uniform size. String and wash in cold water; then cook in boiling salted water, uncovered and rapidly, for fifteen minutes. When tender turn out into a colander and rinse in cold water. Let dry and put into the ice chest until you are ready to make the salad. Marinate them with French dressing. Arrange a bed of crisp lettuce leaves in the salad bowl and place the beans in the center.

Flavored With Parsley.
String Beans In Parsley Sauce.—Take some beans, string them and place in boiling salted water. Boil for twenty minutes. If the beans are young and fresh they are served in the same manner as green peas, but should they have become a little old the skins should be removed after boiling and the beans placed in some nicely prepared parsley or plain white sauce.

An Odd Combination.
String Beans and Onions.—Take some beans, string them and boil whole in plenty of water, with salt to taste. When done, drain them dry. In the meantime cut one or more onions into thin slices lengthwise. Put them in a frying pan with a lump of butter and keep stirring till they are a golden color. Then add the French beans, with pepper and salt to taste, and toss the whole for ten minutes, adding the least drop of stock and a very little vinegar or lemon juice. Serve hot.

Social Happenings of the Day . . . .

Genesee-Vassaw Wedding at Stephenson
 A very pretty but quiet wedding was performed at the rectory of the Stephenson Catholic church at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon, when Miss Jewel Genesee, daughter of Alphonse Genesee of this city, became the bride of Leo Vassaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vassaw of Stephenson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Carl Leidgren.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Sadie Genesee, while Mr. Vassaw was attended by his brother, Charles Vassaw. The bride wore a stunning gown of white crepe de chine, trimmed with a drapery of shadow lace. A very modish Juliet cap adorned her stately head. She carried no flowers. Miss Genesee was arrayed in a beautiful dress of maise crepe de chine over silk of the same shade. The groom and best man wore black.

Following the ceremony the wedding party adjourned to the home of the groom's parents, where a reception and wedding dinner were held.

The color scheme carried out in the decorations were maise and white. The home was a bower of cut flowers.

Mr. Vassaw is employed as a fireman on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, and is very popular among the younger set. Miss Genesee has been employed as saleslady at the Edward Erickson company for several years and is of very sweet and lovable disposition, also claiming hosts of friends who wish her and her mate every happiness that married life entails.

The young couple left last evening for a week's wedding trip to Chicago and Detroit.

Among the guests from out of town were: Miss Anna Genesee, Mrs. T. R. Millington and Mrs. James Booth, sisters of the bride, and her brother, John Genesee, Mrs. Frank Blake, and Miss Lillian Vassaw, all of Escanaba.

state that there are but isolated cases of violation of the law in Kansas," says the Governor.

weeks ago, an enforcement officer was shot at Leavenworth when he entered a place where liquor was sold. A few days later a mass meeting was called for the closing of such places. The ministers of the town had meantime urged their congregations to attend the meeting, but the Kansas City Times, reported that 500 people attended. The Assistant Attorney-General of Kansas, in addressing the meeting, complained that he had asked nine prominent citizens of Leavenworth to preside at the meeting, before he could find one who would consent to do so!

"We have only 724 inmates in our penitentiary, and only 214 boys in our reformatory," Governor Hodges declares. As a matter of fact and official record, however, there are 1,598 inmates in the various penal institutions of Kansas, and 1,654 inmates on parole, a total of 2,653. The population of the State of Nebraska, a wet state in 1910, was 1,192,214 and that of the State of Kansas, 1,690,949.

According to the census figures Nebraska had in 1910, 66.1 prisoners per 100,000 population and Kansas had 117 per 100,000 population.

Kansas allows to each county, two dollars a week, for the care of each destitute insane charge, refused admission to one or another of the State hospitals, for want of room. The Legislature of 1911 provided $3,546.65 for this purpose; the Legislature of 1913 appropriated $5,489.73 for this purpose and the last Kansas Legislature provided for the maintenance of public hospitals by counties, and provided for a commissioner of the poor in counties having more than 45,000 inhabitants.

Gov. Hodges says twenty-nine counties that have no inmates in their poor farms. Twenty-nine counties in Kansas have practically no population. Where there is no population, there is no need of a poor farm.

Just think these facts over before you make prohibition possible in Delta county.

TOOK CARBOLIC AND FEELS PRETTY GOOD

"Never again. When I die it will not be as a suicide."
 This declaration was made Thursday morning in Fond du Lac by Earl Cunningham, aged 21, Watertown, who was arrested by the police Monday evening while he was preparing to swallow the contents of a small phial of carbolic acid.

Cunningham was greatly elated today over the fact that the lunacy commission, composed of local doctors, which examined him Wednesday afternoon declared him to be sane and apparently free from all mental disorder.

"I was not insane. I was merely despondent," said Cunningham. "I was ill, and completely discouraged. I had been unable to find work that I was capable of doing and the future looked black. At first I tried to fight off the mental depression. I failed. Then I started thinking of suicide. The idea didn't appeal to me particularly, but it seemed the one way out. I don't know whether I would have taken the acid if the police had not found me. Sometimes I think I would and again I feel that I could not have forced myself to place the phial to my lips and drink the fluid it contained.

"But I'm cured now. The mental depression is practically gone, and it feels pretty good to be living after all."

The officials at the jail removed Cunningham's chief cause of worry by securing him a position. His employer called at the jail for him on Thursday morning and he went to work in the afternoon.

QUICK TIME IS MADE IN MAKING OF PAPER

At a pulp and paper manufactory in a small town in Austria the question was asked: "In how short a time can you turn a tree into a newspaper?"

The answer was given by actual trial. A notary public and other witnesses were called and at exactly 7:35 o'clock in the morning operations were begun in a forest near the factory by felling three trees. These were stripped, cut into pieces and reduced to pulp by mechanical means. The pulp was thrown into a tub and mixed with the ingredients required to turn it into paper. The paste thus formed was passed through the rolling machine, and at 9:34 o'clock—only one hour and fifty-five minutes after the felling of the tree—the first sheet of paper issued from the machine.

The paper was hurried to a printing house more than two miles away, where the type had already been set, and at 10 o'clock, two hours and twenty-five minutes from the beginning of the experiment in the forest, a printed newspaper was turned out from the press. The owners of the factory claim that the can bet the time by twenty minutes.

FAKE MOURNERS PARADE STREETS

New York, Aug. 31.—Thousands of women recruited from all classes and representing many nations, all clad in sombre black or white with mourning bands around their arms, will march down Fifth avenue in what is said to be the first "peace parade," ever held in this country to voice a protest against war.

Just how many women will be in the "peace parade" not even the members of the Woman's Peace Parade committee would hazard a guess today, but from the responses that have poured into the committee it is certain that the parade will include in its ranks many thousands.

No Distinction.
 In the line will be women whose names stand high in the social registers, and women whose days are spent in bread winning.

In one section of the parade there will be groups of women of the Indian, Chinese, Danish, Armenian, Swedish, Norwegian, Hungarian, Austrian, Finnish, Italian, Dutch, Portuguese, French, English, Scottish and Polish races. And each of these groups of women will wear the national mourning costume.

BEACH SIGHTS OUTRIVAL EAST

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Some of the sights you can see on the Chicago bathing beaches almost any day can not be reproduced in the Chicago theaters on films, unless the proprietor wants to go to jail. The city board whose job is censoring moving pictures, gasped in horror, and turned thumbs down on a movie film taken at a North Shore beach where the truly elite are supposed to get their recreation.

"Naw, naw," cried the horrified censors, as they saw thrown on the censor's screen scores of pictures of shapely feminine bathers in suits that accentuated rather than hid the comeliness of the fair bathers. "Take them away. Those girls are not properly clad and many of the poses are too shocking for words."

And so the films were deported. But the film companies decided to take their chances with the censors of other cities. In the meantime no one has put a ban on the bathing girls whose scantily clad figures were filmed.

SEES WAR BLIGHT BELGIAN HAMLETS

Ghent, Aug. 31.—When darkness fell tonight I was at Londerseel, within a few miles of Malines, and there I wished to spend my last night in touring the fringe of battle.

The attack on Malines started on Monday when a small force of Germans tried to storm the town. They were repulsed then and again Tuesday, when they brought up reinforcements. They were kept at bay yesterday at Eppenheim on the road to Brussels. There was a fierce battle and for the third time Malines was stormed. Towards the end of the day the Belgians retired and though the fighting was going on again today all around, neither army at the time of writing has occupied the town.

Londerseel is eleven miles south of Antwerp and could be used to advantage by the Germans as a base for blockading the whole Belgian army.

Tonight I walked out with a Dutchman to the field at Impepe. Twice we were challenged by patrols. As at Haalen, the Germans held the little village when the battle began and the Belgians were hid in the woods.

For the most part it was an affair of artillery and Maxim guns. The houses in which the Germans lay were riddled with bullets or broken and burned out by shells.

The peasants were wandering about the ruins. One of these said a cottage which was completely burned out was his. During the battle he lay in the cellar.

"More than seventy Belgian peasants," he said, "were killed."

A burgo-master of Londerseel turned traitor and allowed the Germans to conceal themselves in the Garden of his chateau while telling the Belgians that there were no Germans near. This it is said accounted for the number of dead. The burgo-master is to be court-martialed at Antwerp. His German servant has been shot.

We saw the Belgian graves and my friend asked: "Where were the Germans buried?"

The man replied that they were carried off and cremated.

Miss Lillian Vassaw has returned to her home in the city after a short visit at Stephenson.

Miss Ethel Van Der Hiel of Marquette is visiting in the city and at Cedar River for several weeks.

COMPROMISE.

The passage of the relief bill by the House, lake ship owners, with a compromise materially improved from the Senate, or LaFollette bill. The bill now goes to conference and the intimation is given that the senate will withdraw the LaFollette bill and accept the house measure practically in its present form.

As promised some time ago, the house withdraws the rigorous provisions of the LaFollette bill relating to life boat equipment on the Great Lakes. The representations of the lake ship owners were so strong and the facts they adduced so clear that the committee having the bill in charge agreed that unnecessary loss would be entailed by many provisions of the LaFollette bill while in some instances the provisions of the bill were not enforceable at all, unless at the price of driving vessels out of the lake carrying business.

One of the most onerous provisions would have compelled vessels, with an excursion load of 5,000 persons, to carry life boat equipment to care for the whole number. Vessel owners declared that as many life boats as that could not be carried. There was not sufficient deck room. To have maintained a crew of seamen large enough to man so many life boats and possessed of the required talloman's skill would have made the business unprofitable, they said.

The bill as it stands provides these regulations for life saving on lake vessels: Ships which navigate waters deep enough to submerge all the decks of the vessels must carry life boats and life rafts of the pontoon type for the complete passenger and crew capacity—75 per cent. in boats and 25 per cent. in rafts, except between May 15 and Sept. 15, when there need be carried life saving capacity for only 50 per cent of the passenger board, two-fifths of this in life boats and three-fifths in life rafts.

TOOK CARBOLIC AND FEELS PRETTY GOOD

"Never again. When I die it will not be as a suicide."
 This declaration was made Thursday morning in Fond du Lac by Earl Cunningham, aged 21, Watertown, who was arrested by the police Monday evening while he was preparing to swallow the contents of a small phial of carbolic acid.

Cunningham was greatly elated today over the fact that the lunacy commission, composed of local doctors, which examined him Wednesday afternoon declared him to be sane and apparently free from all mental disorder.

"I was not insane. I was merely despondent," said Cunningham. "I was ill, and completely discouraged. I had been unable to find work that I was capable of doing and the future looked black. At first I tried to fight off the mental depression. I failed. Then I started thinking of suicide. The idea didn't appeal to me particularly, but it seemed the one way out. I don't know whether I would have taken the acid if the police had not found me. Sometimes I think I would and again I feel that I could not have forced myself to place the phial to my lips and drink the fluid it contained.

"But I'm cured now. The mental depression is practically gone, and it feels pretty good to be living after all."

The officials at the jail removed Cunningham's chief cause of worry by securing him a position. His employer called at the jail for him on Thursday morning and he went to work in the afternoon.

FAKE MOURNERS PARADE STREETS

New York, Aug. 31.—Thousands of women recruited from all classes and representing many nations, all clad in sombre black or white with mourning bands around their arms, will march down Fifth avenue in what is said to be the first "peace parade," ever held in this country to voice a protest against war.

Just how many women will be in the "peace parade" not even the members of the Woman's Peace Parade committee would hazard a guess today, but from the responses that have poured into the committee it is certain that the parade will include in its ranks many thousands.

No Distinction.
 In the line will be women whose names stand high in the social registers, and women whose days are spent in bread winning.

In one section of the parade there will be groups of women of the Indian, Chinese, Danish, Armenian, Swedish, Norwegian, Hungarian, Austrian, Finnish, Italian, Dutch, Portuguese, French, English, Scottish and Polish races. And each of these groups of women will wear the national mourning costume.

MAILERS BY THE GERMAN PRESS

London, Aug. 31.—Wild indignation is manifested in German newspapers reaching this city over the action taken by Japan in support of Great Britain. Editorially most of the newspapers refer to the Japanese as black mailers. The Germans, however, seem resigned to the loss of Kiaochow, comforting themselves with the reflection that its ultimate fate will be decided on the European battlefields. The newspapers remind their readers that Kiaochow has already cost Germany nearly $40,000,000, besides the immense sums spent on rail ways and mines.

Would Give Kaiser Money.

The viewpoint of France is that vast sums of money would be made available for the use of the Germans through the sale of ships which are now marooned in neutral ports. The French contend moreover that as the allies have swept German commerce off the sea, the American government would be giving resources for food supply to Germany which she otherwise would not get and which assistance the United States as a neutral is not obliged to render.

BECOMES SAD AS HE NEARS CORNISH

Bellevue Falls, Vt., Aug. 31.—President Wilson who passed through here on his way to his summer home at Cornish, N. H., will celebrate with practically his entire immediate family, the birthday of his daughters, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre. After his arrival at Cornish, this afternoon, there will be a family gathering.

WILL ASK CITY TO PROVIDE WORK

New York, Aug. 31.—Arrangements were completed today by the committee of delegates of labor unions, which on Tuesday appealed to Comptroller Prendergast to order the resumption of operations on unfinished city contracts to provide work for the unemployed, to go before the board of estimates Friday with a request that action be taken to relieve industrial conditions brought on by the European war.

NOTICE

Escanaba, Mich., Aug. 7, 1914. The National Progressive party of Delta county, Mich., will hold a county convention at the City Hall in Escanaba, Mich., on Tuesday at eight p. m. Sept. 8th, 1914 for the purpose of electing ten (10) delegates to the state convention of the National Progressive party to be held at Bay City, Mich., on Sept. 30th, 1914. Also to transact any business that may come before the convention.

THE LIQUOR LICENSE REVENUES WHICH GO TO THE SCHOOL FUNDS IN THE COUNTY, FOR THE FIRST SIX MONTHS OF THIS YEAR AMOUNTED TO $23,000.

County Auditor Patten yesterday signed warrants for the amounts the various townships will receive. The Indianapolis schools get $55,929.36, and the remainder of the sum is distributed among the out townships, all of which are "dry" territory.

The school funds derived from taxes levied by the state for that purpose in Marion County amount to $143,897.52 for the first six months of this year. Of that amount the Indianapolis schools will get $126,851.17.—Indianapolis Star.

GIANT PITCHER NATIVE RUSSIAN

New York, Aug. 31.—Among the seldom shown treasures of John McGraw is a young pitcher who in a few turns on the mound as a major leaguer has shown startling ability. He is A. J. Schauer, a right-hander, always called "Rube" by fellow players.

"The Rube" is six foot tall and weighs 183 pounds. He is the only native of Russia now enrolled in the big leagues. He was born in Odessa in 1892, and never saw a baseball game until he came to this country with his parents twelve years ago. The fact that Schauer never played baseball makes him one of the most interesting of the future greats in the Giants' reserve list.

BOOST IN PRICE NOT WARRANTED

Washington, Aug. 31.—The Department of Justice continues to receive communications from citizens of Michigan protesting against the unwarranted boost in the prices of food-stuffs. One correspondent made a special investigation of conditions in his county for the department. He found that the advance in the price of meats was due to scarcity, as shown by the fact that the packers have more trained and efficient traveling salesmen making frequent and persistent calls to secure orders for immediate and future shipments than for many months.

DIES RATHER THAN GIVE UP WARSHIP

London, Aug. 31.—The Evening News publishes a dispatch from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, giving an account of the sinking of the North German Lloyd transatlantic liner Kaiser Wilhelm her Drossel off the coast of Africa by the British cruiser High Flyer, which was reported on Thursday.

OLD GUARD WILL SUPPORT BEAKES

Washington, Aug. 31.—Congressman Samuel W. Beakes of the Second Michigan district, who was renominated for a second term, will have the support of the organization "Democrats of the state." It was hinted at one time that because Mr. Beakes had been so active in the factional fight between original Wilsonites and organization men that he would be opposed by the latter. It was even hinted that the organization was behind the fight which State Dairy and Food Commissioner James W. Helme made for the nomination in this district.

DEPENDENCY

Is often caused by indigestion and constipation and quickly disappears when Chamberlain's Tablets are taken. For sale by all druggists.

SHOTS FALL SHORT

She maneuvered to get broadside on and the ensuing cannonade lasted 40 minutes. All the shots from the Kaiser Wilhelm appeared to be falling short. From the collier it was seen that she had been hit three times, and on catching fire ceased replying to the shots from the British cruiser.

COALING AT SEA

When it was seen that the Kaiser Wilhelm was doomed, the German captain sent his sword, his dispatch box and a letter to his wife to his collier, his secretary being his messenger. Previous to doing this the captain of the liner had announced that he would himself blow up his command rather than surrender.

TOURISTS KICK AGAINST PRICES LEVIED BY DUTCH

London, Aug. 31.—A large number of Americans arrived in London on the night boat and train from Folkestone. Most of them are from Munich, Baden-Baden and Frankfurt via Dutch ports.

Most of the passengers complained of extortion in Holland, where they were compelled to pay $4 for sleeping for one night on a cement floor.

The Dutch landlords asked as much as $20 for a hotel room with running water, while the money changers charge outrageous prices for exchange or the cashing of money orders.

PRaises Bavarian Authorities

Mr. Hutchins was at Innsbruck, Austria, when the war was declared. He went immediately to Munich, where he remained three weeks. He said: "I wish to bear witness to the extreme kindness of the Bavarian authorities to Americans of whom at the time there was 20,000 in Munich. All but 600 of these Americans have now left Munich and these have to stay."

"Munich in war time is as quiet as Washington in peace. The American committee was organized at a night meeting on August 8 for relief and Red Cross work under Professor Harry A. Garfield. It is expected large numbers of wounded of all nations will arrive at Munich during the war. The subscriptions to the American committee at the first meeting reached $14,000 but only a few Americans at the time required monetary aid.

"The Bavarian government thanked the Americans for their Red Cross plans and declared that Americans were safe in Munich and would be protected throughout the war. It was also asserted that the city would share its last potato with American visitors, who cared to remain. Those who wished to leave would be provided with special trains and travel as comfortably as in the states.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The Department of Justice continues to receive communications from citizens of Michigan protesting against the unwarranted boost in the prices of food-stuffs. One correspondent made a special investigation of conditions in his county for the department. He found that the advance in the price of meats was due to scarcity, as shown by the fact that the packers have more trained and efficient traveling salesmen making frequent and persistent calls to secure orders for immediate and future shipments than for many months.

He declares that four has advanced $1 a barrel. The millers state they are forced to advance by those "higher up." As a future reason for his belief that the advance in prices is due to artificial causes he states that last week in Paris meats were selling at the lowest price in 20 years and vegetables were cheap and abundant that in Liverpool wheat closed at a small decline, while the same day it advanced four and one-half cents in Chicago notwithstanding the tremendous wheat crop. He charges that the advance in price of these commodities is largely due to manipulations of the Chicago board of trade and the Minneapolis chamber of commerce.

"Mr. Beakes has been renominated, and the people of this district have plainly shown that they approve of his record," in the statement of A. R. Canfield, secretary of the Democratic state central committee. "We expect to reelect both Congressman Doremus and Congressman Beakes. In addition, we expect to elect at least two more Democratic congressmen in the state. The Third and the Fourth districts ought to be in the Democratic column after the November election. The Third district was so close in 1912 that there was a contest, and Congressman Hamilton in the Fourth district was re-elected by only about 400 votes."

GIVE HISTORY OF GERMAN RUPTURE

London, Aug. 31.—The British foreign office issued a white book dealing with the rupture with Germany and containing the report of Sir William Goheen, the former British ambassador to Germany. Sir William says in the report that on Aug. 8 he went to see the German foreign minister, Gottlieb von Jagow in regard to Germany's threatened violation of the neutrality of Belgium. The foreign secretary says the report said that he regretted to announce that Belgium had already been invaded and its neutrality violated, and that it was too late to retreat; that it was a matter of life or death for Germany, for to have tried to invade France by the more southern route would have entailed great loss of time and that his loss of time would be gained by the Russians moving on Germany from the east. "I asked him whether there was not still time to draw back and avoid possible consequences which both he and I would deplore," says the report. "He replied that it was now impossible." Later says the British minister, he again went to the foreign office and served notice that he had been instructed to demand his passports; that England would take all steps necessary to uphold the neutrality of Belgium and the observance of the treaty, to which Germany was as much a party as England. The ambassador then went to see the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, and he found him very excited. "The chancellor," says the report, "began a harrangue which lasted about twenty minutes. He said the step taken by Great Britain was terrible to a degree. Just for a word—neutrality—a word which in war-time had so often been disregarded; just for a scrap of paper, Great Britain was going to make war on a kindred nation, who desired nothing better than to be friends with her. What we (Great Britain) had done was an unthinkable. It was like striking a man from behind while he was fighting for his life against two assailants. He held Great Britain responsible for all the terrible events that might happen. "I protested strongly against this statement, and said that in the same way as he and Herr von Jagow wished me to understand that for strategic reasons it was a matter of life or death for the honor of Great Britain that she should keep her solemn engagement to do her utmost to defend Belgium's neutrality, if attacked. A solemn compact simply had to be kept or what confidence could any one have in engagements given by Great Britain in the future. "The chancellor said: 'But at what price will that compact shall have been kept? Has the British government thought of that? I hinted to his excellency as plainly as I could that fear of the consequences could hardly be regarded as an excuse for breaking a solemn engagement. But his excellency was so excited, so evidently overcome by the news of our action, so little disposed to hear reason that I restrained from adding fuel to the flame by further argument."

WAR

London, Aug. 32.—An official statement issued tonight says that of the twelve hundred men composing the crews of the five German warships sunk off Helgoland Friday, only 230 were saved. Twenty-nine killed and thirty-eight wounded was the price paid by the British for the naval action against the Germans in the Helgoland fight. The admiralty today announced the casualties as follows: "The light cruiser Arethusa lost Lieutenant Eric Westmacott and nine men killed; Lieutenant Robinson and fifteen men were wounded. The torpedo boat destroyer Liberty lost Lieutenant Commander Bartelot and seven men killed, six men seriously wounded and five slightly wounded. The destroyer Laurel lost eleven men killed, nine men seriously wounded and two slightly wounded." The Liberty, one of the British destroyers, was hit by a shell which shattered her masts and tore away part of her bridge. The shell killed Lieutenant Commander Bartelot and William Butcher, a signalman. Accounts of the battle state that the British strategy was perfectly executed. Led at dawn by a small detachment, the destroyers crept within the German line between Helgoland and the German coast. They were sighted by a German aeroplane and the German destroyers then came out, followed by the German cruisers. The British light cruiser Arethusa opened the action. She hit a German cruiser, which burst into smoke and flame. Soon after a German shot entered the engine room of the Arethusa. At that moment the first battle cruisers appeared. The first shot from one of the British heavy cruisers sank a German cruiser, which had been battering a destroyer. The German fleet fled in the direction of Cuxhaven and was pursued by British destroyers, which did considerable execution with their four-inch guns. London, Aug. 30.—An official statement issued tonight in describing the action of British and German warships off Helgoland says: "Although only two of the enemy's destroyers were actually observed to sink, most of the other eighteen or twenty boats, rounded up and attacked, were well punished and saved themselves only by a scattered flight. "Intercepted German signals and other information from German sources confirms the report of Admiral Beatty as to the sinking of the third German cruiser, which now appears to have been the Aradins. "The British destroyers exposed themselves to considerable risk in endeavoring to save as many as possible of the German sailors. British officers youch for the statement that German officers were firing at their own men in the water with pistols and that several were shot before their eyes." London, Aug. 31.—The German trawler Gerda, of Hamburg, was blown up Saturday by striking a German mine off Langeland, a Danish island. The Gerda was acting as a guardship to warn neutral ships of the mines. London, Aug. 31.—An official statement issued in Paris and telegraphed to the Reuter Telegram company says: "After a short calm the battle has been resumed. A regiment of the enemy's infantry, essaying to cross the Meuse, was almost annihilated. London, Aug. 31.—A pessimistic view of the situation of the allies is taken by the Amiens correspondent of the Weekly Dispatch. Telegraphing under Sunday's date, he says: "This is a pitiful story which I have to write. The time for secrecy has passed. I write with the Germans advancing incessantly, while the French public believes that they are still held on the frontier. "The best hope of holding them lies in the hourly expected arrival of an army from Alsace under General Pau. So far the Germans have carried all before them, partly by sheer weight of numbers and partly by a deadly hail of bullets from their numberless machine guns. "The first inkling that I had that the Germans had penetrated so far into France was this morning when, on the road here from Dieppe, I met the French engineer column, which had been at (name of place deleted by censor). From some of the men I learned that orders had been received for the British base to be shifted with all possible speed to (deleted). The staff had left. The artillery had left. Everyone had gone except the army medical corps, and it was leaving. "The men greeted me with dreary smiles, because they saw I was English. 'Your artillery saved us,' they declared. 'The enemy came early Wednesday morning,' outnumbering us hugely: in the nick of time your artillery galloped into position and shelled the Germans away. But for this we would not be here. "What had happened to (deleted) they said they did not know, but it must have fallen, since the Germans are well this side of it. As I talked to the men I could hear the guns. Later I motored out on the road to (deleted). Here, as on the other road, refugees, on farm carts, riding bicycles and driving traps, were hurrying in flight. "How is it going? I inquired of a friendly sergeant. He shrugged his shoulders. That was all. An artillery duel was going on close by (deleted). At dusk, the French were falling back. "The headquarters staff has been moved hastily a long way back from (deleted) and cannot stay long where it is. Some army men have been hard put to it for food in the last few days. One British officer who was brought here had had no food for four days. "The retreat of the British aeroplanes made a wonderful sight. Between thirty and forty passed over (deleted) on Wednesday morning, flying very high and toward the south. "I have aimed at telling a plain tale of the misfortunes of the British troops. They were set an impossible task." Paris, Aug. 31.—The ministry of war announces that it has been decided to call out the class of 1914, which will give at least two hundred thousand additional troops. It has also been decided to call out the reserve reserves and the eldest classes of the territorial reserves. Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 31.—It is announced here that there have been received orders to maintain under arms all available troops from the Great Lakes to the Pacific ocean for immediate call for active service. The London war office, it was said, has notified that Dominion authorities that every available man will be needed. London, Aug. 31.—A Paris dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says: "A German aviator flew over Paris this afternoon and dropped five bombs, which fell in the most populous quarter of the city. In one case two women were wounded. One bomb fell in front of the shop of a baker and wine merchant in Rue Albouy; two in Tust de Valmy, one of which did not explode while the other struck the walls of the night refuge behind St. Martin's hospital, and the two others were dropped in the Rue des Recollets, but neither exploded. The aviator dropped machine guns, aimed Lieutenant von Heibsen, on which was written: 'The German army is at the gates of Paris. You can do nothing but surrender.'" Paris, Aug. 31.—A German aeroplane appeared over Paris this afternoon and dropped a bomb in the city. No damage was done and, though startled, Paris remained tranquil. The territory over which the German aeroplane flew, dropping bombs, was in the northwestern part of Paris and nearly a mile from the heart of the city. In this district are the big military hospitals, the Hospital St. Louis, St. Lazare prison for women, the north railroad station and the magnificent church of St. Vincent de Paul. Paris, Aug. 31.—Count von Schwerin, a nephew of the German emperor was among the prisoners sent toward the west from the zone of fighting. His hands and feet were chained, because he refused to give his word that he would not try to escape. He had with him a sword given to him by Emperor William. London, Aug. 31.—After four days of desperate fighting, the British army in France is rested, refitted and reinforced for the next great battle, according to announcement today by Lord Kitchener, secretary of state for war. In a statement based on reports from Sir John French, commander of the British expeditionary forces, the secretary says that the British, after struggling against tremendous odds, retired to a new line of defense, where they have not been molested since Thursday. Their casualties are between five and eight thousand. Since this fighting ceased, the French on the right and left have brought the German attack to a standstill, it is declared. "It is possible now to state what has been the British share of the recent operations. "There has been a four days' battle on the 23rd, 24th, 25th and 26th. During the whole of this period the British were occupied in resisting and checking the German advance and in withdrawing to new lines of defenses. "The battle began at Mons on Sunday. On Monday, the 24th, the Germans made vigorous efforts in superior numbers to force the withdrawal of the British army and to drive it into the fortress at Maubeuge. "As on the previous day, very heavy losses, far in excess of anything suffered by us, were inflicted on the enemy who, in dense formation and in enormous masses, marched forward again and again to storm the British lines. "The British retirement proceeded on the 25th with continuous fighting, though not on the scale of the previous two days, and by the night of the 25th the British army occupied the line of Cambrai, Landreles and LaCateau. "It had been intended to resume the retirement at daybreak on the 26th, but the German attack, in which no less than five army corps were engaged, was so close and fierce that it was not possible to carry out this intention until the afternoon. "Only Horseless Guns Lost. "The battle on this day, the 26th, was of a most desperate character. The British troops extricated themselves in good order, but with serious loss. No guns were taken by the enemy, except those, the horses of which had been killed. The losses suffered by the Germans in their attacks across the open, through their dense formation, are out of all proportion to those which we have suffered. "In Landreles alone on the 25th, as an instance, a German infantry brigade advanced in close order into a narrow street which they completely filled. Our machine guns were brought to bear, and the head of the column was swept away. A frightful panic ensued, and it is estimated that eight or nine hundred dead and wounded Germans were left in this

Washington, Aug. 31.—President Roosevelt is out with a letter of endorsement of the election of Congressman William J. MacDonald of Calumet, and urging his election to the Sixty-Fourth Congress. "Permit me personally to congratulate you," he says, upon your activity in the present Congress. I have more particularly in mind your efforts to bring before the bar of public opinion the magnificent issue of championship of the rights of labor." The former President says that Mr. MacDonald's whole course merits the support of good citizens, regardless of party. He enumerates that Mr. MacDonald has been opposed to the secret caucus, for open committee meetings and against gag rule; voted for a tariff commission; real currency legislation and a genuine solution of the trust problem. He commends Mr. MacDonald's big vision and courage. Roy Poul left yesterday for his home at West Bend, Ind., after visiting at the home of N. A. Bink. street alone. Another incident was the charge of the German cavalry division upon the British thrown back with great loss and in absolute disorder. The Germans have been made to pay the extreme price for every forward march they have made. "Since the 26th outside of some cavalry fighting, the British army has not been molested. Reinforcements amounting to double the losses sustained already have joined. The French army, acting vigorously on the right and left, has for the time being brought the German advance to a standstill. "The strategic position of ourselves and our allies is such that, whereas a decisive victory for our armies in France probably would be fatal to the enemy, a continuance of the fighting upon such a scale as to keep occupied the enemy's best troops, if prolonged, must come to one conclusion." London, Aug. 31. The announcement that the British losses total between five and eight thousand was something that the country was prepared to hear. According to all official reports, the Germans set upon the small British army with overwhelming forces. They rolled up their infantry in solid masses time after time, spending their men lavishly and bringing into action a great deal of artillery and machine guns mounted on armored cars. The Zeppelins employed carried quick-firers. The soldiers who have been brought to English hospitals from the front are pledged to do no talking about the war for two weeks, and only some personal experiences have been related. One soldier speaking of the recent fighting said: "If it is the British losses were heavy the German losses must be enormous. The German infantry advanced like a moving wall of men. Our fire simply slaughtered them. We did not care for their infantry, but their artillery was deadly in its precision. Nearly all our wounded were hurt by shells. Those struck by rifle shots were chiefly hit in the legs." According to another soldier, the Germans came up in thousands. "I remember looking up," he said, "and seeing line and lines of them coming. We swept away one line and there was another; we swept away that and a third was waiting. They came on over the bodies of their comrades as regular as a clock." Brade Stand Made at Tournai. London, Aug. 31. The Daily Mail's Boulogne correspondent writing of battle of Tournai, says: "The battle of Tournai should go down in British history beside Torkes Drift and Magerfontein as a revelation of the prowess of the British army. "At Tournai a German cavalry force of five thousand men overwhelmed a British force of seven hundred who hourly expected relief which never appeared. The Germans were victorious at a terrible price and only three hundred remained. They then retired calmly and coolly, carrying their wounded, and harassing their pursuers all the way. "The story of this last stand is somewhat belittled by the British charge that the Germans finally turned the tide of the battle by firing from machine guns mounted on Red Cross wagons."

WYOMING PRESS

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured. "I was taken with diarrhoea and Mr. Yorks, the merchant here persuaded me to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After taking one dose of it I was cured. It also cured others that I gave it to," writes M. E. Gephart, Oriole, Pa. That is not at all unusual. On ordinary attack of diarrhoea can almost invariably be cured by one or two doses of this remedy. For sale by all dealers. Cough a Bad Cold. "Last winter my son caught a very bad cold and the way he coughed was something dreadful," writes Mrs. Sarah E. Dugan, of Tipton, Iowa. "We thought sure he was going into consumption. We bought just one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that one bottle stopped his cough and cured his cold completely. For sale by all dealers."

PANAMA'S BIG GUN

Largest Piece of Ordnance in World Nearing Completion.

Has a Velocity of 2,250 Feet a Second, and is Discharged by 665 Pounds of Powder—Tremendous Instrument of Peace.

Washington.—When its breech locking device has been perfected at Watervliet arsenal, the great 16-inch gun, the biggest piece of ordnance in the world, which was recently shipped from the Sandy Hook proving grounds, will be virtually ready for service in the Panama canal fortifications.

The carriage of this great gun is under construction at the Watervliet (Mass.) arsenal. It probably will be taken back to Sandy Hook for tests after being mounted, and will not be shipped to Panama before next spring.

May Cost Husband Riches

London, England.—William Waldorf Astor, the expatriated American who is spending a childhood, is reported to be very angry with his witty American lawyer, formerly Nanny Langbein, for her peculiar remark in reference to the tightest strings of her father-in-law's money bag. And it has shades of gray-blue, which, it is asserted, will make the wearers invisible to the enemy at 500 yards, instead of, as at present, being plainly discernible at 1,500 yards. The change is expected to take seven years.

M. Messimy, the minister of war, in urging the necessity for the measure, was supported in his argument by citing the example of the British army, which adopted khaki in the Transvaal, and the experience of the war in the Balkans.

M. Lales, an ex-cavalry officer, aroused the patriotic fervor of the deputies by saying that the French soldiers, whether they dressed in blue, red or gray, would always fight well.

What's this place—a kid's toy bank? Wise up! Never keep pennies; they weigh too much."

THE MISSING WILL

By FRANK FILSON.

"Mary," said Tom Halloran, "Mr. Ames is going to foreclose the mortgage on that five acre field."

"Mary Halloran, comely in spite of her four and forty years, looked up from her darning. When three sturdy children are putting on weight and muscle every day of their lives, mother is apt to be fairly busy."

"It isn't that I care so much about the old field," said Tom. "We're doing well enough, and the fact is, that mortgage was a nuisance. Now without it we can have more money to put into the dairy. But it wasn't exactly neighborly of Mr. Ames, seeing how long he's known you."

The acquaintance dated back twenty-five years and more to the time when Mary Newell was the adopted daughter of old Simon Newell, John Ames' half-brother, but nearly forty years the senior. Simon Newell was the squire of the town, and it was understood that all his possessions were to go to Mary. He wanted to see her married to John Ames, who at the age of twenty, was already gifted with that shrewd, calculating nature mis-called hardheadedness in country places.

John's wooing had been conducted with consummate skill. Mary was completely deceived by his protestations, so much so that when John asked her to marry him she thought herself the happiest girl alive. One month before the date set for the wedding the old squire had a stroke.

He lay for a week unconscious, but before he died he opened his eyes and seemed to recognize those about him. He looked at Mary. He tried to speak, but could not. A moment later he closed his eyes and passed out of life.

When the will was sought it could not be found. Reluctantly, Mary's friends came to the conclusion that, like many men, Newell had postponed making his will until it was too late. And so the property passed by inheritance into the hands of John Ames.

Ames was very considerate. He gave Mary the old-fashioned furniture.

Stared at it in Terror.

He let her take her time about moving after breaking off the engagement. For that was what he did, within a month after Newell's death. Why should he marry a penniless girl when the rich Miss Sarah Smith looked with favor upon him, and would comfortably swell the Ames fortunes?

Five years later Mary married Tom Halloran, a man a little below her station in life. They were very happy. After some years the first of their three children was born.

Ames and Mary never spoke, except when it was unavoidable. Consciously that he had acted wretchedly, Ames schemed to drive Halloran out of the village. Honest Tom Halloran knew that he and Mary had been engaged, but not the cold-blooded way in which Ames had fitted the woman who was now his wife.

Mary had sent back the furniture, all except the old cabinet which Mr. Newell had had made for her. "Take care of that, my dear," he had said. "It's made of tropical wood, and some day it will be worth its weight in gold to you."

When Tom had gone into the kitchen to smoke his pipe Mary sat darning busily, and her thoughts wandered back over all those years that had passed. How happy she and Tom had been! And how thankful she was that she had discovered Ames' nature before she married him! She did not care about the field, but Ames' persecution of Tom had annoyed her fighting spirit. If she could repay Ames in kind!

Suddenly she perceived a tiny edge of white against the flat top of the cabinet. It looked like a paper paring. She rose to brush it aside, and to her amazement discovered that it was part of a sheet, apparently wedged into the wood in some strange fashion.

A woman's examination showed her that there was a secret drawer in the cabinet. And the paper—as she pulled it through the crevice in the wood she could see that there was writing on it. She fumbled about until she found the spring of the drawer. It was a small, round, white card.

It was the last will of Simon Newell. Mary Halloran stared at it in terror. This message from the dead—she did not want to read those letters that danced before her eyes. She was still standing with the will in her hand when Tom came in.

document—the last will of Simon Newell. Mary Halloran stared at it in terror. This message from the dead—she did not want to read those letters that danced before her eyes. She was still standing with the will in her hand when Tom came in.

"What is it, dear?" he asked, seeing her distress. Mary Halloran put the paper behind her.

"Tom," she said, "you know Mr. Newell meant to leave all his property to me, and now John Ames got it. The will was never found. But I have found it. It was in the secret drawer in that cabinet."

Tom stared at her, and slowly understanding came into his mind. "Then it's all over!" he exclaimed. "The five acre field and—all of it!"

"No, Tom!" said Mary. "Oh, my dear!" said Tom, slowly. "I don't want to claim it. I don't want Mr. Ames to know. Tom, he paid a price for the property, the price of honor and self-respect. Many a night he must have lain awake, meditating over his bargain. The property is the only recompense he had. And I want him to keep it, Tom."

"You don't want the property, Mary?"

"No, Tom. That is why I am going to throw the will into the fire unread."

"But, Mary! It's yours—ours. Think of the boys. We must be just to them. The squire had had it all these years. My dear, you must—"

"I won't, Tom, I won't," she cried. "You don't understand." She sang the paper into the open fire; it scorched against the coals and fluttered, unburned, beneath the grate. But Mary had run out of the room, her eyes blinded with tears of shame.

She was thinking that she had been more than recompensed in Tom. But for the will's loss she would never have known the treachery in John Ames' heart.

Tom Halloran stooped down and picked the will out of the grate and began to read. The verbiage was difficult, but there was one sentence that stood out unmistakably:

"To my half-brother, John Ames, all that I possess, both real and personal estate, in the conviction that he will make a good husband for my adopted daughter, Mary."

Slowly Tom watched the paper burn in the fire. And, though the full meaning of Mary's wish did not come home to him, something told him that he must never let her know Ames was still the rightful owner of the Newell estate.

SUNSHINE IN THE STOMACH

Happiness Lies in Eating Above Ground Products, It is Said by Those of a Certain School.

Some people say that to be happy one should eat only sun-kissed foods. By sun-kissed, they mean all fruits and vegetables that grow above ground. The more these things are dependent upon the rays of the sun for perfection the better effect they will have upon the individual who consumes them, the Detroit Free Press states.

Every man and woman in daily life is sure to need the brightness of the sun in the stomach as well as the heart and home, declare the advocates of the sun-kissed fare, and there is no better way of getting it than through nourishing food.

In the sun-kissed diet there is very little meat, though poultry is used frequently and eggs are favored—poultry because it is at its best when the fowls have been reared in the sunshine and open air. Beef and lamb are considered more or less depressing.

Potatoes are carefully shunned, despite their great food value. They are grown in the dark earth and never see the sun. They are apt to make one dull. Instead of potatoes, rice is used freely, boiled in croquettes or in puddings. Rice is full of nourishment—witness the Japanese nation. Its great merit is attributed to the fact that it grows in a sunny climate and depends entirely upon the kisses of the sun.

The farther from the ground a vegetable grows the greater the good obtained from eating it.

Fruits are used at all meals, as much as one can eat, particularly grapes, for all through they are of the brilliance of a holiday sun.

Any fruit that grows exclusively in a sunny climate is preferable to a northern grown fruit, as the South is closer to the sun, and the blossoms, then the fruit, are blessed with more strength and warmth by the sun.

NUBIAN IBEX HUNT

Animal Hard to Find in Crags That Form Home.

Taken Vast Amount of Effort to Move Them as They Rely for Safety More on Concealment Than Flight.

London.—All those who have four-eyes through the Red Sea can hardly have failed to notice the desolate red hills that seem to rise almost directly from the water close to the eastward of Suva, and will very likely have remarked on the presence of a long drink and a deck chair to a scramble on their sun-scoured slopes. These same hills run in an unbroken chain parallel to the coast, through Egypt and the Red Sea Provinces of the Sudan right down to Entebbe. The chief inhabitants of this desolate region are the wild native tribes and the Nubian ibex (Capra nubiana typical). It was to obtain specimens of the latter that I journeyed out to Fort Sudan in February, 1914, writes J. H. Miller. Four days northwards by camel brought us to a district known as Erba, where ibex were said to be very plentiful. The only method of hunting known to the shaggy-headed locals is driving, and it must be admitted that this unskillful form, so foreign to the heart of the true hunter, is in this case the most likely to lead to success. The reason of this is that, unlike the ibex of the Himalayas and Central Asia, which can be easily found at any hour of the day, the Nubian ibex, to escape the heat, lies up during the whole of the day among the crags and holes in the rock, and even when feeding, starting off in small parties, to take up their positions for drive. Having taken up a position that allowed of a clear field of fire over a hillside streaked with many goat tracks, I was at liberty to regain my breath and enjoy the sunrise. All round us was a medley of rugged red granite peaks divided by deep cut wadis. There is no running water in this region, but here and there in dark gorges, where the sun never reaches, are large pools which are replenished by the yearly rains. In these gullies and on the Time was when we two gaily danced And hardly noticed others there; Down in her face I often glanced With joy because it was so fair. The dulcet, least enchanting measure I listened to with boundless pleasure. How tenderly her hand was placed Upon my shoulder, and I recall How with my arm around her waist We danced to music from the hall; We hunted nooks that were secluded And frowned on others who intruded.

Her step is light, her waist is slim, Her eyes are laughing, her face is gay; I see her look with bliss on mine, For I am short of breath and stout; Let foolish ones go gaily fitting— I'd rather do my flirting sitting.

The Dear Old Flag. "You have been found guilty of offending the government out of $1,795,004 by smuggling goods into this country," said the judge, addressing the prominent importer. "Have you anything to say before sentence is pronounced in your case?" "Only this, your honor," replied the gentleman whose lawyer had unfortunately been unable to find a serviceable technicality: "I think I ought to be let off easy, because I have always had the deepest love for the dear old flag of our country. I never neglect to lift my hat when the flag goes by."

Friends. Let us now enjoy a little music. Sing the Cincinnati Squier: "I had a friend; I loved him too; I haven't seen 'My friend since then." Emboldened by this the Boston Transcript singer up: "I had one, too. I went his bait. I wish he knew 'Was back in jail." Whereupon the New York Tribune becomes reminiscent and adds: "A friend had one. 'But joined the army Against the troops 'Who's now his wife." Without wishing to complain we may say that:

We had a friend; He made a plan; We've been separated; For quite a while.

Indecent Proof. "How kin you prove that the world's round?" "Well for one thing, if you start out and keep goin' long enough you'll come back to the same place."

His Strong Points. "Is young Mr. Sainly having much success in the pulpit?" "Oh, dear, yes! The ladies fairly run over him."

Well, can he preach? "Well, not much; but he looks so spiritual! And he can wag his tongue in an average sermon."

Considering. After he had been in deep thought for several minutes Mr. Hamper said: "I have made up my mind."

NEW YORKER TELLS OF WAR PRIVATION

London, Aug. 31.—John Watson Cox and Mrs. Cox of New York have arrived here and are the guests of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the American secretary of state, and wife of Capt. Reginald Owen of the Royal Engineers. They came from Bayreuth.

Mrs. Cox said: "We were motoring in Prussia when war was declared and crossed immediately into Germany, where we were held up continually by the civil authorities. On Aug. 3, at Weissenstadt, the officials leveled their guns at our chauffeur, who stopped the car. My husband showed our American passports, but these were disregarded by the officials, who said that they might have been forged."

"They took my husband to the police station, where they kept him for more than two hours. They tried to get me to leave the automobile, but I refused as I was afraid my husband

WILL OPPOSE TAX ON TEA AND COFFEE

Washington, Aug. 31.—Sen. Joseph W. Fordney of Saginaw, was the first of the seven absentees in the Michigan delegation in the House to reach Washington after the passage of the resolution to dock representatives not present.

"With a wife and nine children, I cannot afford to lose $50 a day," said the laughing comment of Mr. Fordney on the situation. As a matter of fact, Mr. Fordney had planned to return to Washington immediately after the primaries, regardless of the passage of the resolution to deduct pay and arrest absent members.

Congressman Fordney, who as a member of the ways and means committee, will have a part in the framing of the bill for the raising of emergency revenue made necessary by the European war, has some very definite ideas on the subject.

"I believe that if we are forced to levy a war tax, as seems certain, it should be levied on luxuries," said Mr. Fordney. "I am opposed to taxing tea and coffee. All classes of citizens use these commodities, and if a tax is put upon them it will fall most heavily upon those least able to bear it. I believe we should increase the tax upon liquor, cigars and tobacco. All these, while already taxed, are luxuries. A tax on beer would not reduce the size of the schupper very much, and it would not be so bad if it did. I also favor a stamp tax upon theater tickets, deeds, mortgages and other business instruments."

Miss Anna Gensies will return from Stephenson today, where she attended the wedding of her sister, Miss Jewel Gensies.

LEADERS TIED UP BY THE PIRATES

Pittsburg Pa., Aug. 31.—The league leaders battled with the Pirates through eleven innings to a 1 to 1 tie today when the game was called by agreement. By a rally in the ninth, punching hits off Demaree, the Pirates tied up the count but neither team was able to score in the tenth and eleventh.

HAS STARTED TO BUILD UP FOOTBALL TEAM

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 31.—The warning call for the assembling of the Wolverine warriors has been sounded and the first Yostism for the season of 1914 has been uttered. "We'll meet 'em at the cross roads," declared Fielding H. Yost in speaking of the prospects for a Michigan victory over Harvard.

When the actual practice begins, about the middle of September, there will be twenty-four candidate competing. Eight veterans will be lost. The strength of Craig, Pontius and Altemendinger cannot be counted upon to win glory for Michigan this year. To offset the tassing of these, three new men are expected to win their spurs. They are Maubetsch, Neiman and Splaun. While there are fourteen new candidates, these three stand out prominently as coming stars.

Hard to Tackle.
 Maubetsch is touted as one of the fastest halfbacks who ever donned moleskins. He weighs 165 pounds, is built low, have a powerful pair of shoulders and his dashes are characterized by lightning speed. The chief asset which enables Maubetsch to play prominently as one of the main cogs in a football machine is the peculiar manner in which he runs. It is almost impossible to successfully tackle Maubetsch. He has a cork-screw style of dashing, and even when tackled squarely has such a sturdy pair of pegs that his assailant is usually carried back several yards.

While the loss of the eight veterans will be keenly felt, Yost has abundant material around with which to build a valuable machine. There are ten warriors left who have served under him.

"The Wolverines will not lack in coaches this year. Gernagy Schultz will again handle the line. Douglas will again manage the All-Fresh candidates, while Jimmy Craig of last year's team will assist Yost with the backfield. Craig will likely have command of the scrubs."

Has Even Break.
 Yost thinks he has an even break with the easterners if his men develop as he plans. Yost believes that with a good, solid wall in front he can win this game with a sensational runner in the backfield and a good forward pass and punt artist. He has these men in Maubetsch and Splaun. He is counting on winning the Harvard game if at all by sending Maubetsch through the line on split plays and end runs. If Michigan's famous scoring machine is not working, the day will likely go to the easterners, as the Wolverines cannot hope to compete in the kicking line with Harvard.

Standing Up and Sitting Up.
 Lady de Bath (Mrs. Langtry) once made the piquant remark that she was "a foe to dissipation or anything of that kind, and I would urge every girl to say 'No' to the dissipated man who would marry her. The man a girl is obliged to stand up for before marriage, she will have to sit up for afterwards."

Miss Alice Adolph is visiting with friends and relatives at Marinette for a week.

ISHPEMING SLAUGHTERED

Coming back to old time form on Sunday after being nosed out for the victory on Saturday, the Escanaba leaguers slaughtered Ishpeming 13 to 4. By winning Sunday the local leaguers gained another firm grasp on the Marquette Delta county league pennant that will take two straight beatings to loosen in the next weekend series.

"Red" Mahoney got his from the local sluggers on Sunday. The sorrel top lasted four and three eighths innings and in that short period was slammed for sufficient blows to pile up nine runs and put the game on ice. Of the seven hits off his delivery, one was a screeching homer by Boyle over the right field barricade and the other was a double by Bourke early in the fifth and which was followed soon afterwards by the yanking of the former Nemeas of the local batters. Adamson who succeeded Mahoney was slightly more effective but was unable to halt seriously the run getting bee.

In addition to playing sand lot baseball some of the members of the Ishpeming squad gave demonstrations of rowdiness during the game that should have met with summary punishment.

1914 GOOD YEAR FOR YOUNG STARS

The scouts are beginning to come in with their early fall purchases of ball players. Peculiarly enough they report the crop of young players better than it has been in years.

Usually at this time of the season, the reports of the scouts are pessimistic in the extreme. They usually declare there is not a ball player worth having. Just why I cannot figure out, but they are bringing in promising ones already and declare that the bushes are alive with talent.

Part of this may be due to the fact that the minor league owners are in bad financial shape, and anxious to market their good players early, and get enough cash to carry through the twilight of the season.

Only a few of the teams; those hopelessly out of it, are starting to try out men and the prospects look good. Cleveland seems to have raked in a couple of corners in Wambagans and Pesold. Wambagans looks good enough for a regular berth now, but Pesold appears to need bench experience in the big circuit. The Chicago White Sox, seeking hitters, have landed Happy Felch of Milwaukee, a corker and a comer who can wait. He hits right and meets them solidly. Four clubs were angling for this one and the Sox landed him, however.

Detroit has grabbed Benn Karr of Memphis, said to be one of the best pitchers the Southern has turned out in some time.

Detroit seems to have been the most active in all fields. They beat the others to "Pep" Young, the sensational second baseman of the Sacramento team and paid a big price for Fred McMullen who has been setting the bushes afire in the Northwest as third baseman for Tacoma.

GLADSTONE WON TWO

Negaunee, Mich., Aug. 3.—Negaunee took a firmer hold on the collar championship in the Marquette-Delta County league yesterday by dropping two games to Gladstone, the first 10 to 5 and the second 7 to 2.

The first game was 4 to 1 in Negaunee's favor up to the sixth inning, and as two seven-inning games were to be played it looked as though the locals might climb into third place. But a bunch of errors and six hits in the next two innings enabled Gladstone to put across nine runs.

In the second game the locals did not have a chance against Monte Olmsted, pitched both contests. He was going better at the end of the second game than at any time during the first. In the second encounter Wolfred hit a long fly over the score board for the first hit over Union Park fence since it was moved in several years ago.

Helonen's hitting and Frederickson and Sterling's base running were the features of the games.

TY COBB FIFTH IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Dick Hoblitzel, Boston leads American league batters with .350. Next are Jackson, Cleveland, .340; Collins, Philadelphia, .332; Mitchell, Washington, .347; Cobb, Detroit, .340; Cree, New York, .341; Spenger, Boston, .328; Baker, Philadelphia, .328; Crawford, Detroit, .320; McInnis, Philadelphia, .312. Philadelphia won 369 and Detroit with 348 lead team hitting. Malsel, New York, .48, is ahead in stolen bases.

The three leaders among the national league pitchers whose total wins and lost games number more than ten are James, Boston, 12 and 6; Dean, St. Louis, 17 and 5; Rudolph, Boston, 18 and 7.

THE GOOD JUDGE GETS A TIP FROM THE COUNTRY DOCTOR

MEN are learning the truth about chewing tobacco. "Right-Cut" is the Real Tobacco Chew. A clean, small chew satisfies you. Leaves a clean after-taste in the mouth—not the thick, foggy taste that the ordinary chews forces on a man. That's one of the reasons why men are eager to tell their friends about "Right-Cut." Made of rich, sappy tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary chewing tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and sweets. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

DISCUSSES CABLE WAR NEWS REPORT PRIMARY STATUTE IS AGAIN OBSCURE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, conferred with Secretary Bryan today on the censorship at German-owned wireless stations. Secretary Bryan said afterward that the question was still unsettled.

The ambassador, touching on the question of anti-German sentiment, said he felt the American people must realize that, although delayed and censored, messages from Berlin have brought the truth, and that many reports from London have been disproved. Fairness, the ambassador said he believed, would result in an unprejudiced view.

Fighting on the Russian outposts. The country is open and undefended, he explained, the towns reported captured by Russians are undefended and unimportant points. No Russian dispatches, the count declared had mentioned engagements, with more than one of the Prussian army corps.

In reply to the charges of the allies of violation of the rules of warfare by Germany, the ambassador said that a French aeroplane flew over neutral Belgium on the first day of the declaration of war and before German soldiers had crossed the border, bent on destruction.

The law provides for the filling of the vacancy, but there is some doubt as to its exact application. Inasmuch as there must be action, within five days State Chairman Shields has night sent word to the chairman of the two county committees to get busy at once.

The law says that where a vacancy occurs between the time of nomination and the time for printing ballot, the county committee in the district must meet and choose "one or more" electors who shall constitute a committee to fill the vacancy. A little further along it provides that when this has been done the election board, shall certify the name of the deceased at the primary.

In the Burke case he had no opposition and there was no "next highest" consequently Mr. Shields is guarding against any possible tie.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 31.—Another peculiar feature of the primary law as amended by the legislature of 1913 has bobbed up by reason of the death yesterday of Wallace D. Burke, the democrat candidate for the state senate in the combined Shiawassee and Ingham district.

ORANGE MARMALADES.
MARMALADES require great care while cooking. They burn very easily. If the marmalade is made from berries the fruit should be rubbed through a fine sieve to remove seeds. Measure fruit and sugar, allowing one pint of sugar to each quart of fruit pulp.

Rinse the preserving kettle so sides and bottom are moist. Add layer of fruit, then layer of sugar until not more than two layers of each are used. Layers should be not more than two inches deep. Heat slowly and stir constantly. If one has an iron stand used for holding a sadiron place it under the kettle to allow an air space between heat and kettle bottom. Let boil slowly two hours for not more than four quarts of fruit. Pack in small jars or glasses and cover with paraffin.

Breakfast Sweets.
Tomato-Orange Marmalade.—Yellow tomatoes are the prettiest, but the red ones taste just as well. Peel the tomatoes and squeeze out all of the seeds. Weigh and to each pound allow one orange (rind and pulp), half a lemon and one pound of white sugar. Boil till thick and put up in small glasses.

Orange Marmalade.—If you have a crate of oranges you can make this delicious sweet at a trifling expense. A dozen large oranges will make a fair quantity. Pare the rinds of one dozen oranges very thin, taking off with them the least possible quantity of white. Run the rinds through your meat chopper, cover with cold water and boil until tender. Drain thoroughly and add to them the shredded pulp of six oranges and one lemon freed from seed and white pith. Weigh the mixture and for every pound allow three-fourths the weight of sugar and boil, stirring often, until thick.

Combined With Oranges.
Blended Marmalade.—A recommended recipe for this delicacy is to allow the pulp of three lemons and seven sour oranges (seeded) to seven coarse-grated pineapples. To each pint of the mixture allow three-quarters of a pint of granulated sugar. Add a good pinch of salt and stir the whole in a preserving kettle over the fire until the sugar melts; then cook until the consistency of peach marmalade is reached. Remove from the fire and pour into preserve glasses. When cool cover with paraffin and put on the lids. Select a cool, dry place for the marmalade if one can be found.

DOG SUFFERS TO SAVE HIS LITTLE MASTER

Superior, Wis., Aug. 31.—A number of Hower avenue pedestrians were attracted to an interesting incident on the street this morning.—The act of a small boy binding up the wounded leg of a black shepherd dog. The boy's name is Felix Fisher. The dog's name is Rover. Here is the story:

Felix and Rover are constant playmates. Recently the two pals were racing through the alleys. Felix was wounding over some boxes. A dog usually doesn't care to climb timber piles, preferring to run around; but this time Rover stuck right with Felix. Felix stepped on a loose board, just enough to slightly lose his balance. He put out his foot, and was just on the point—that the word—of stepping on a large, ugly rusty nail, when Rover placed his paw in the way, and saved his master's foot.

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Moon of Appleton are in the city for a several weeks sojourn.

Mrs. Franz Blake has returned to her home in the city, having attended the wedding of Miss Jewel Gen

It. But Felix certainly apprehended what his dog had done.

"I betcha he dunnit on pu'pus," he told the young man who was getting the story from him, "You can't fool me. Dogs is smarter dan most fellers, even if dey can't skeap da' Ingilitch langvitch. I betchu he seed I was gonna hit dat nail, and he beat me to it on pu'pus. Dogone it, didn't you Rover?" he declared as he impulsively folded the shaggy head of his pal in his arms, and Dover didn't deny it.

Rover's foot is still very painful. He hmps along on three feet. But his wounded is dressed three times a day by his devoted lil' master. And Rover in his dumb gratitude shows his appreciation by licking his master's hands, now and then taking a thankful peck at his face. The two are more devoted to each other than ever, and Rover will soon be all right.

"Whadadyemean, he didn't do it on pu'pus? HE DID!"

YOUNG WOMAN ANSWERS CALL

A particularly sad death occurring in the city, is that of yesterday morning when Mrs. A. Boucher, but 20 years of age, passed away at her home at 1010 Escanaba avenue, leaving her husband, a four day old babe.

The body was last night shipped by Undertaker J. A. Allo of the young woman's home at Powers where the funeral will be held on Monday morning.

The death of the young woman has nearly prostrated the husband and other relatives with grief.

Coffee.

HOT blueberry sauce poured over hot baking powder biscuit or slices of cold bread and butter and put in hot oven for a few minutes till heated through and served with whipped cream makes a very delicious dessert and very easily prepared.

Berries and Cereals.
Rice Pudding With Blueberries.—Make the rice pudding in the usual way, omitting raisins and substituting blueberries.

Molded Blueberries.—To each quart of blueberries add a cupful of sugar and one of water. Stew until every berry is broken, then stir in half a box of gelatin which has been soaked in a little water and then melted over hot water. Pour into cups or a mold and serve with whipped cream.

Cake or Pudding.
Baked Blueberry Pudding.—Sift together two cupfuls of flour, half a cupful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt, two heaped teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Work into the mixture two tablespoonfuls of soft butter, then add a well beaten egg and a cupful of sweet milk. Beat together, then stir carefully three-fourths of a cupful of blueberries that have been floured so they won't fall to the bottom of the mixture. Bake about thirty minutes.

The above makes a very good pudding. Serve it hot with a hot sweet sauce, or hot blueberry sauce can be poured over it.

With Hot Sauce.
Steamed Blueberry Pudding.—Rub a tablespoonful of butter to a cream, work it into a cupful of sugar and, adding three beaten eggs, beat light. Sift two cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt; add the sugar and eggs, alternating with a cupful of milk until all has been used, then stir in lightly to prevent them breaking two cupfuls of poured blueberries. Turn the mixture into a mold and steam for one and a half hours, then place in the oven for a few minutes to dry off. Serve with hot sauce.
