AUSTRIANS LOSE TO RUSSIANS

In Spite of Desperate Effort of Germans to Her Aides Army Immense Losses are Recorded-- Their Defeat is Admitted.

BULLETIN
San Francisco, Sept. 16.—Dr. J. Ahrends, the German consular secretary at Shanghai who just arrived here declares that four days before the expiration of Japan's ultimatum to Germany the Congo, the largest dreadnaught of the Japanese fleet struck a mine at the entrance of Tsing Tau bay and was blown up. Ahrends says that the Japanese government is suppressing information on the subject.

BULLETIN
Bordeaux, Sept. 16.—The battle is still raging along the whole front from Noyon to Forges on the Meuse. At six o'clock this evening it was stated that the French had not yet yielded at any point.

BULLETIN
Petrograd, Sept. 16.—The Czar has conferred the Cross of the military order of St. George upon the King of the Belgians.

BULLETIN
London, Sept. 16.—The official press bureau announced tonight that they had learned from a Russian official source that the rout of the Austrian army in Galicia is complete. The Austrian losses since the taking of Lemberg are estimated at 250,000 killed and wounded, 100,000 prisoners, 500 guns, many colors and vast quantities of stores.

BULLETIN
Petrograd, Sept. 16.—Fighting in east Prussia at least for the moment, appears to have ceased. The Russians there have accomplished all that was vitally necessary to the success of the general strategy of the allies, by attracting a great German force to that territory which otherwise might have overwhelmed the allies in the west and resulted in the crushing defeat of France.

(Special to the Press.)
Paris, Sept. 16.—The rear guard engagement upon which the German retreating right wing entered Monday has developed into what promises to be decisive battle of the campaign in France. Fighting proceeded with renewed fury today all along the hundred and ten mile battle front in which nearly two and a half million men are now engaged.

The Germans are fighting strictly on the defensive. Though no definite results have come out of three days fighting the enemy is being forced back steadily before the allied pressure, but is fighting with dogged resistance every mile of the way. The advance of the allies is described by the war office as steady but not rapid.

General Joffre in supreme command of the allies and Crown Prince Frederick William on whose shoulders rests the success of the German retreat, have rushed reinforcements to the focal point where the battle is now raging.

The German line consisting originally of General von Kluck's army and part of that of General von Buelow has been reinforced by practically all of the army of the invasion remaining east of the forest of Argonne while those occupying positions between the Argonne and the Meuse are preparing a second line of defense upon which the western division of the great army may retire if the allied advance cannot be halted.

London, Sept. 16.—The second great battle in northern France since the southward sweep of the German invaders met a check is now apparently in progress to the northward of the river Aisne. The opposing lines are arrayed from the Argonne hills through Rethel to Chateau Porcien and near the practice camp of Sissonne, where the French summer maneuvers had been contemplated on a large scale for this year.

"This would indicate a battle front of 110 miles, with the extreme west at a point 55 miles northeast of Paris.

Whether the Germans purpose to fight to a finish at this position or plan merely to cover their retreat to the river Meuse is not yet clear but the German commanders are showing the same skill in retreat and keeping their forces intact as the allies showed a fortnight ago.

The German rush into France and back thus far has brought no decisive result and until a pitched battle can claim it secured more than an opening advantage in the war game.

The debate in the Austrian armies means that Germany will have more or less to rely mainly upon herself, hence there will probably be a greater interdependence of events in the eastern and western fields of operations.

The Servians claim to be bombarding the Hungarian town of Orsova. War indemnities demanded by the German troops in towns traversed in Belgium and France now total $140,000,000. Only a very small part has been paid.

London, Sept. 16.—The center of interest in the western theater of war shifted from the right wing of the German army under General von Kluck to the left wing, where the relief of Troyon by the French, regarded in London as leaving the army of the German crown prince in an apparently dangerous position.

The French have retaken Rheims but they have a greater moral that the strategic line to the northeast of this town provides a better defensive position for the Germans than it does for the front, marked by Rheims itself. According to Berlin advices, the impatience of the German people for news has been soothed to a certain extent by the reassuring statement that the German line is holding successfully against the allies.

This information agrees with news received at London in the past 24 hours, with the exception of that regarding the German left. This wing appears not only to have withdrawn from investment of Verdun but by permitting the relief of Troyon, 12 miles southeast of Verdun, to have left itself only one line of retreat.

This will be through the Stenay gap to reach Luxembourg or by way of Longwy to reach Thionville (Diedenhofen.) If the allies are able to prevent the crown prince from using Metz as a base of operations it is felt in London, that the German left wing will be in a serious situation, as was its right last week. Expert military observers of Petrograd declare the Russian investment of Koenigsberg, and General Rennkampff's entry into East Prussia was to compel Germany to detach some of her forces from France to the relief of the East Prussia frontier.

With this apparently accomplished, it is predicted in England that Russians investing Koenigsberg, together with Rennkampff's army may be withdrawn within the Russian border. If it is true that Germans in Galicia have kampff's army may be withdrawn dominated by Przencel the interdependence is that the Russian right is now free to advance from the southeast, and that aggressive movement from this quarter, may be looked for.

AUTO CENTER IN DELTA

BIG CROWDS ATTEND FAIR

THOUSANDS THROUGH BIG BUILDING ON SECOND DAY TO SEE AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITS

SERVICES ARE IMPRESSIVE

Impressive services yesterday morning marked the laying of the corner stone for the new St. Francis parochial school at Manistique.

That Delta county is a great auto owning center was proven at the Northern State Fair yesterday when at one time 162 cars were packed in the grounds in lines fixed by the officers. An even greater number of motorists will visit the Fair today. The Fair management asks that all motorists shall co-operate with the officers in parking their cars in lines away from the exposition building near which the crowds will be dense and where accidents are likely to occur.

At the High Mass service held at St. Francis church yesterday morning, in celebration of the function, the sermon was delivered by Rev. Father Barth, pastor of St. Patrick's church of this city. The Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Pennings of DePere assisted by Rev. Father Blin, of St. Anne's church of this city and Rev. Father LeGlovan of Garden.

A large number of visiting priests from the surrounding district of the peninsula were present at the ceremonies, among the number being Rev. Father Corcoran of Iron Mountain and Rev. Father Duford of Engadine.

Charles Johnson, a lineman for the Municipal Lighting Plant, was struck by an auto yesterday driven by the son of John Peterson, the shoe dealer.

The young man was turning around with his car when he suddenly crashed into Johnson who was riding a bicycle. The front wheels of the car passed over the man's body and the wheel was damaged. Although the injuries of Johnson were painful they were not serious.

Merle Safford of Green Bay has returned to his home, after a visit in the city and at Rapid River.

FIRE DRILL IMPRESSIVE

C. N. Dewey, deputy state fire marshal, yesterday inspected the public schools of the city. In the presence of the fire marshal the Barr school emptied the building in three quarters of a minute while the longest time taken to remove every pupil from a public school structure of the city was one minute and a quarter.

Mr. Dewey is on his annual inspection tour through the peninsula, paying particular attention to school buildings and theaters and will complete his work in a short time.

ONE BAD INNING PROVES UP ING OF ESCANABA LEAGUE IN BATTLE WITH THE TWINS

(Special to the Press.)
At Monroeville, Mich., Sept. 16.—Escanaba's leaguers went down to defeat by a count of 7 to 4 in the opening game of a three battle series with the Twin City squad of the Wisconsin league at the Menominee county fair this afternoon. A disastrous second inning, when the Twins bunched six hits spelled the downfall of Escanaba in today's game. The session Chaput tightened the reins and the locals were held for the remainder of the game. Foley, at second base, committed two expensive errors charged to him but he retrieved himself by running out a single and a double. A tremendous crowd witnessed today's game and with even better weather conditions another great game is expected for tomorrow's battle. Mahoney will work for Escanaba in the hill tomorrow and with a break of luck Escanaba hopes for a victory.

LADIES, HERE IS "YANKEE" STYLE

Chicago—The tailor-made gown "with the American style" was started on its career at the fashion review in the Florentine room at the Congress hotel yesterday. The National Ladies' Tailors and Dressmakers' association of America were sponsors.

Here Are New Features. New features, according to W. A. Mead, the secretary of the association are the "set-in" sleeve, the tunic skirt, the high military collar, and the heavy braiding. Other novel features are vests. Roman stripes for trimmings, and plaits and frills of fur. The loose basque the kimono sleeve, and the deep scallops about the tunics now popular are conspicuous by their absence.

Military Effects Prevail. "The coats are Cossack or Belgian or English, but always military and long. None of the coats are shorter than 32 inches, but are often 42 inches, and the coats carry all the styles. The skirt takes the back seat."

Here's a Belgian Effect. O. Zwierling brought down a military model from Ann Arbor in which he took great pride. This was a green costume with Roman striped velvet collar, vest and cuffs. The plaited skirt measured three yards around the bottom and was provided with a broad belt which looked like a girdle.

GERMAN AVIATORS HOLD MOB AT BAY

Berlin, Sept. 16.—Two interesting stories of the experiences of German aviators during operations in the enemy's country have been received here from the front.

Two officers who were forced to land near a Belgian village were attacked by the local residents, who armed themselves with shotguns. One of the German succeeded in seizing the village magistrate as a hostage, and while he kept his pistol at this official's head, his companion repaired the motor. Then they made the magistrate mount the aeroplane, which luckily was able to ascend with three passengers and sped away.

FROM NEWSBOY TO SENATE IS GRAVES' THEME

Washington, Sept. 16.—"From Newsboy to the Senate," is the subject of a feature article in the October number of the Cosmopolitan. It is hardly necessary to add that the subject is our own Senator William Alden Smith. What John Temple Graves says about the Michigan senator is wholly eulogistic. Indeed, it reads much like an oration, but Graves was a platform lecturer before becoming a writer for Hearst magazines and newspapers.

HONORS HAVE BEEN WON BY AVIATORS

London, Sept. 16.—The aviators of the British army who have been operating with the allies in France have earned a position as a military factor of the highest efficiency, according to a detailed statement concerning the battle of the Marne issued by the war bureau on Monday.

That aeroplanes were on trial as a factor in warfare is freely admitted, but the trial is over and the aviators are declared to have passed with an average close to 100 per cent, the judges being the British and French commanders. In fact, the statement indicates that the royal flying corps has attained a mastery of the air that resembles somewhat the control of the exercises at this time by the British navy.

Conquer Five Opponents. Prompt and accurate information has been furnished regarding the movement of the German troops and the positions of the various units of the allied army, stretched over a line of more than 100 miles. In five cases German pilots or observers have been shot while in the air and their machines brought to the ground. It is remarked that the German aviators are becoming less enterprising in their operations.

Bomb dropping has been a side issue with the British air men, but two cases of accurate attack by this method are recorded.

Text of the Statement. The official statement, which goes into greater detail than any issued in the past, says in regard to the aviators: "One of the features of the campaign on our side has been the success obtained by the royal flying corps. In regard to the collection of information it is impossible to award too much praise to our aviators for the way they have carried out their duties or to overestimate the value of the intelligence collected, more especially during the recent advance."

Praised by the French. "That the services of our flying corps, which has really been on trial are fully appreciated by our allies is shown by the following message from the commander in chief of the French armies received September 9, by Field Marshal Lord Kitchener: "Please express most particularly to Marshal French my thanks for the service rendered on every day by the English flying corps. The precision, exactitude and regularity of the news brought in by its members are evidence of their perfect organization and also of the perfect training of the pilots and the observers."

Daily Task Great. "To give a rough idea of the amount of work carried out it is sufficient to mention that during a period of twenty days up to September 10 a daily average of more than nine reconnaissance flights of over 100 miles each has been maintained.

"The constant object of our aviators has been to effect an accurate location of the enemy's forces, and, incidentally, since the operations cover so large an area, of our own units.

"Nevertheless, the tactics adopted for dealing with hostile air craft are to attack them instantly with one or more British machines. This has been so far successful that in five cases German pilots or observers have been shot while in the air, and their machines brought to the ground. As a consequence the British flying corps has succeeded in establishing an individual ascendancy which is as serviceable to us as it is damaging to the enemy."

WAR COST NOT LARGE SO EXPERT BELIEVES

Rome—While ex-Per. r. Lubatti proclaims that the present confiscation is the worst blow that could be struck to our civilization, that ultimately it will benefit only Americans and might invite Asiatic incursions in to Europe, Professor Maceo Pantaleoni, teacher of economics at the Rome university, takes exception to almost everyone of Professor Luzzatti's contentions, saying that after all the financial ruin of Europe is far from probable, and that the result will not be as catastrophic as predicted.

"Just now," Professor Pantaleoni said, "exaggerations are frequent. Some writers have gone as far as to predict the ruin of Europe for half a century. I don't believe that. First of all I must say that a careful study of the data regarding the finance and mobilization of the Russo-Japanese war, the Franco-Prussian war, and the recent Balkan conflagration, shows that there is a tremendous difference between the number of troops given in the papers and those engaged in actual warfare."

"Take for instance the war of 1870. Germany had then 630,000 men operating in France and 250,000 reserves. Military operations extended over an area of 200,000 square kilometers, lasting nine months and nine days; and yet Germany spent only $210,000,000.

"Nine-tenths of the cost of a modern war has already been made when war is declared. Actual expenses include the cost of mobilization of the army, its transportation to the war zone, and the cost of new weapons.

"The cost of mobilization is in direct ratio to the number of troops under the colors in time of peace. The smaller the standing army, the higher the cost of mobilization. The rest of the cost of war, comprising arms, ammunition, fortifications and victuals, are not to be considered as part of the finance of war, as it has already been charged to the military budget year by year.

To the cost of war, we must add the price paid for horses clothing and implements of all sorts, but only in the proportion that it exceeds what is required in time of peace. Naturally in the finance of a war, I do not include the loss caused to the national economy through the suspension of commerce and stagnation in the industrial production.

How It is Figured. "The minimum cost of war is figured at $140 a day per man, the highest at $240. The maximum cost of the Franco-Prussian war in 1870 was $160 a day per man. If the total cost is figured only for the 630,000 men representing the invading army the cost per man was $10.10 per day. The cost of $240 per day is the highest given by military experts. Of course, colonial wars are immensely more expensive.

Now, how much will the present war cost? First of all let us see how many men will there be engaged in it. Appropos of this the most fantastic figures have been circulated, but the facts will ultimately prove that Germany will not put on the field more than 1,500,000 men, Russia 1,700,000 Austria 1,000,000, France 1,000,000 and Italy 700,000.

"I firmly believe that altogether there will not be more than six millions of men all told, and the English reserve considered. These armies will require a daily expenditure of some sixty millions of francs, at the rate of $240 per day for each man. Nobody will say that this money is hard to obtain. Every year Europe invests in new commercial and industrial enterprises between 12 and 18 billions of francs and consequently the cost of the present war owing to the recuperating power of modern society, will be fully paid in ten years.

Before and After. "The great bulk of the expense of a war comes before the war, and after the war for the nation that loses France paid in 1870 five billions of francs to Germany and spent herself some nine billions. The rule is that the nation that loses pays everything, hers and her adversary's expenses of before and after the war. This is why economy in military preparation in time of peace is the worst policy.

"As to the loss of human life in a war like the present, Prof. Pantaleoni, maintains that the idea that war is today bloodier than in the past is absolutely unfounded.

THRIFT TEACHING IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The American Society for Thrift, organized in October, 1913, has for its purpose the promotion of thrift by inquiry, education and discussion. The advisory council is made up of some of the executives and many leading educators of the various states and one phase of the work is its introduction into public schools. The time is auspicious for such teaching.

State Superintendent Fred L. Keeler considers it most important and is urging that it be made general throughout the schools.

Individual thrift is the basis of good citizenship and community prosperity. This work co-ordinates with such problems as the high cost of living.

The training is not given by talks alone, but by interesting pupils in school savings accounts, and any local industry or interest of the home that may be used to advantage. Vocational training and domestic science are aids. The idea includes more than the earning of money—the saving of money, of material and of time.

Many Michigan high schools have already done much along the line of simplicity of school commencement.

The thrift movement is general and schools must fall in line in teaching the practice of thrift.

NO HURRY UP CASH SENT TO MICHIGAN

Washington, Sept. 16.—Michigan national banks have not called upon the Secretary of the Treasury for any emergency currency authorized under the provisions of the Aldrich-Vreeland act as amended by the federal reserve act of August 4, 1914. This indicates that business conditions in the state are not in the least unstable.

Senator Reed of Missouri, declared on the floor of the Senate that Michigan had had several millions of this money, but was contradicted by Senator William Alden Smith. Later Senator Reed introduced figures in evidence which showed that Senator Smith was correct in his denial. The amount of additional currency thus far issued to the middle western states is $34,445,000, including the city of Chicago. The maximum amount of additional currency still issuable in the discretion of the secretary by the national banks in these states is $301,491,000. Of this Michigan banks may issue a maximum of $19,223,000.

REGULAR ARMY THE NUCLEUS

"The regular army is thoroughly trained, and according to our present military policy, is designed as a nucleus of any larger force.

This country may be considered a trained body, but is not as ready for action as the smaller force of regulars.

"This gives us a nominal force of trained and partially trained men which must comprise less than one-third of an army of a million.

"I don't believe the military value of such an army would compare favorably with a similar army recruited in a country in which a reserve system has brought a majority of its male population under military training.

Doubts Its Efficiency.

"What if by any chance the United States had been brought into the present European conflict? What would an army of a million men, two-thirds untrained, have availed opposed to an equal body of trained men?

"I don't think we should become a military nation, nor do I feel that we are in any danger of war, but I am fully convinced of the need of a system of military training and a reserve organization which would not find us unprepared in an emergency."

CONSULAR COURTS BEING ABOLISHED

Washington, Sept. 16.—With the abrogation of the extra-territorial rights of Americans in Turkey, there remains only one big country in which the United States by reason of the diversity of laws, customs and habits, would insist upon exercising judicial function, namely, in China.

The spread throughout the world in recent years of Christian civilization has wiped from the list of countries in which the United States exercised such rights, Japan, Korea, Madagascar, the Samoan islands, and part of Persia. Besides China, the United States will continue to exercise territorial rights of the broadest kind in Siam, and limited rights in Morocco, Tunis, Algiers and in the sultanate of Oman in Persia.

Japan has granted extra-territorial rights to the United States by treaty exclusively and so abrogated the rights by another treaty, effective in 1899. In this respect, it is claimed on behalf of Turkey that abrogation of extra-territorial rights within its dominions may well differ from that pursued by Japan. Turkey claims that these rights within its borders were based largely upon ancient custom and hence abrogation might well be by an unilateral decision instead of by treaty.

Annexation of Madagascar by France worked an abrogation of extra-territorial rights there, and France is now suggesting its control in Morocco is sufficient to justify the United States in withdrawing extra-territorial rights from American consulates in that country. American extra-territorial rights ceased in the Samoan islands when the United States and Germany divided them between themselves. With the fall of extra-territorial rights in Turkey would go the same rights in Egypt.

MINORITY DEFENDS SHIP CAPITALISTS

Washington, Sept. 16.—Declaring that the establishment of government owned steamship lines is a direct attack upon the invested capital and would mean the ultimate destruction of steamship lines which a deserving of citizens have built up, seven members of the committee on the merchant marine introduced in the house a minority report on the merchant marine bill which was framed to meet conditions arising from the European war. The report is signed by five Republicans; Greene, Mass.; Hinds, Me.; Curry, Cal.; Edmonds, Pa.; Parker, N. Y.; and two Democrats; Saunders, Va., and Thatcher, Mass.

Possibly the most dangerous effect of the measure, the report declares would be the result its enactment might have on the position of neutrality on the part of the United States in the war.

The bill, continues the report, would, if it became law, stifle all commercial enterprise and turn over to the government itself the power to create a merchant marine, which power could be extended indefinitely.

U. S. CAN RAISE 1,000,000 MEN

Washington: "Could we quickly raise an army of 1,000,000 men and put them in the field fully equipped for action? Why, yes."

This was the comment of Chairman George C. Chamberlain of the senate committee on naval affairs in discussing Secretary's Bryan's statement that such a military accomplishment is not beyond the preparedness of the United States at this time.

"But the question of the military value of such an army is another thing," continued Senator Chamber-

PROTECT TREASURES OF ART WITH STEEL

Paris, Sept. 16.—Unique among the protective and defensive measures which Paris has adopted are those by which the city hopes to save of her most famous art treasures. The Louvre has been completely done over.

Great steel plates have been fixed about the ceilings and walls of a room which now shelters the famous Venus De Milo, the "Winged Mercury" and "La Gioconda."

Parisians fear only aeroplane bombs, so the main protection is on the roofs of those buildings which hold art objects. The famous Grecian room, containing priceless statues by Phidias, is filled with sacks of earth.

On the upper floors of the Louvre a Red Cross station has been established, granting the privilege of the Red Cross from attack.

Art treasures in other buildings and galleries have been buried in many parts of the city.

HE KNEW THE ANSWER.

His name was Tommy, and he came home from school looking so down in the mouth that mother asked him severely what was the matter? Out of his little trousers pocket he fished a note from the teacher, which said: "Tommy has been a very naughty boy. Please have a serious talk with him." "What did you do?" asked mother. "Nothing," sobbed Tommy. "She asked a question and I was the only one who could answer it." "Hm," murmured mother. "What was the question?" "Who put the dead mouse in her desk drawer?" answered Tommy.—Lippincott's Magazine.

GIRL IS KILLED BY AUTO DRIVER

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 16.—Driving a new Ford automobile from Manitowoc to Sheboygan, Charles W. Collier, manager of the Ford Garage of Green Bay, accidentally ran down Vanda Pleuss, a 7 year old Manitowoc girl. The girl died later from her injuries. An inquest will be held.

Collier was taken into custody but later released, as the evidence given to the district attorney of Manitowoc county showed that the affair was an accident, according to official information.

In attempting to avoid hitting the girl, Collier ran his car into a ditch skirting the roadside, and wrecked the machine. The automobile was taken to Manitowoc later in the evening, and the girl was immediately brought to the city after the accident.

According to information received here, Collier was driving about 20 miles an hour. When he was about two miles out of Manitowoc the accident occurred. It is said that the little girl tried to cross the road in front of the car. Seeing the child's position, Collier heroically tried to run his car out of her way. His efforts proved in vain, however, as the girl had stopped directly in front of the automobile.

She was knocked down, and the automobile ran into a ditch, almost completely wrecking it.

As soon as he was able to extricate himself from the wreckage, Collier rushed to the assistance of the girl. He carried her to the nearest house and notified the police. An ambulance was rushed to the scene of the accident, and the girl was brought to the local hospital.

VIOLATOR SET VICIOUS TRAP

Ishpeming, Sept. 16.—After five months' efforts Deputy Game Warden Rough Sunday evening finally arrested Hmar Rantanen for setting bear traps for deer on a salt lick, in violation of the game laws. As early as last May the deputy found signs that led him to believe that deer were being trapped about four miles north of the city, and he has been seeking ever since to apprehend the violator.

The warden spent Friday and Saturday in the Dead River district and was on his way home Sunday morning when he decided to visit the salt lick for about the hundredth time. He arrived at the place about noon and he found the trap set. He decided to stay in wait for the man who owned it.

About 5:30 in the afternoon Mr. Rough heard a slight noise behind him and on looking out from his hiding place he saw a man creeping cautiously towards the trap. When he was close by Mr. Rough stepped out and placed him under arrest.

The trap, which is one of the strongest and heaviest made, weighed nearly twenty-five pounds and the jaws could not be pried open by two men standing on the springs. It was buried a few inches under twigs and paper, with a small amount of dirt thrown on top of it. It was fastened to a nearby stump with a wire and the was also concealed. If the jaws ever closed on a man's leg he would have but small chance of getting out of it without the aid of several persons. The teeth were over an inch long and when closed there was only a three quarter of an inch space between the jaws.

Rantanen was brought to the city and was given a hearing yesterday morning by Justice of the Peace Irving H. Argall. He was found guilty and was taken to Marquette to serve sixty days in the county jail.

KITCHENER RECONCILES FRENCH AND JOFFRE.

London, Sept. 16.—Lord Kitchener has been at the front twice within the last fortnight.

His latest visit, during which he was away from the waroffice for two days and a half, was to confer with Field Marshal Sir John French, in command of the British expeditionary forces, and Gen Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French army.

For some time there has been considerable difference of opinion between the British and French leaders, arising out of the retreat of the allies after the battle of Charleroi. So acute did the feeling become between the two leaders that Lord Kitchener deemed it necessary to intervene personally, which he did successfully.
