Situation on Both Sides Show Slight Gain Over Germans But no Spectacular Battles Fought--Prepare For Big Seige

BULLETIN
London, Oct. 7, 8 p. m.—The News agency has a dispatch from Amsterdam saying that the Belgium government today removed the Belgium government from Antwerp to Ostend.

BULLETIN
Paris, Oct. 7, 11 p. m.—Tonight's official statement says:
"Except at the two wings where the German attacks have been repulsed, almost complete calm prevails along the front. On our left wing the German cavalry stationed to north of Lille was driven back. Between Chaumes and Roye the ground previously yielded has been retaken. On the center we have advanced at certain points. On right wing there is nothing to announce."

BULLETIN
London, Oct. 7.—The government secured another $75,000,000 war loan from the banks by issue of six months treasury bills, but the terms are for less gold than the last issue on Sept. 16.

BULLETIN
L. I., Oct. 7.—German newspapers speak of the possibility of a declaration of war from Portugal emphasizing her decision whether or not to declare war, depends upon the result of operations in Africa.

BULLETIN
Belgium, Oct. 7. (town deleted).—The siege of Antwerp is developing into a second battle of Aisne. It is raging from Termonde to Lierre along the banks of the Scheldt. The main attack is being made against Lierre. The Germans are repulsed where ever Belgians come in contact with them.

BULLETIN
London, Oct. 7.—An Ostend dispatch to the Exchange Telegram Company, says:
"Numerous skirmishes occurred today between the advanced posts and the Germans in the environs of Ynes. They later threw themselves on the forts and entrenchments. Ynes is twenty miles from Ostend."

BULLETIN
London, Oct. 7.—The official press bureau of the war office, announces:
"North of Oise and at Lens there is hard fighting. Elsewhere the slight advance or retreat varies throughout the line. The reports are generally satisfactory. The French are fighting with great dash and bravery. The Germans attacking Antwerp purpose to forward their position against considerable resistance by their garrison."

(Special to the Press.)
Paris, Oct. 7.—The German right wing cavalry succeeded in pushing its advance from Turcoing west to Armentieres. Here it is engaged with the cavalry of the allies, which is reported to be made up in large part of troopers from the British Indian regiments. That the German artillery and infantry are succeeding following the advance of the cavalry to Armentieres, is problematical for another screening body of cavalry north of Lille, is reported to be held in its original position by the allies. Tonight's official statement indicates that a German attempt to drive a wedge through Elbrow at the Junction of the north and south line from Noyon to Armentieres and the east and west line from Noyon across to allied center has failed again.

Manchester, Mass., Oct. 7.—The ambassador for Austro-Hungary gave out the official wireless reserved from Austria:
"Austro-Hungarian and German forces are successfully fighting shoulder to shoulder in Russian Poland. The sudden advance completely surprised the Russians who were repulsed across the Vistula in an attempt to cross. Our forces took the bridge held by the Russians near Sandomiers. The advance into Galicia is being carried on systematically."

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—A wireless in German code was picked up by an operator of the union Steamship Moana indicated that the German cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau had effected a juncture with Leipzig and Nurnberg off the coast of Lower California and now are preparing to give battle to the forces of the allies. According to advices from British Columbia, the British cruiser New Castle, the French cruiser Montcalm and the Japanese cruiser Idzuma are now steaming down from the north, together, ready to give battle to the Germans.

CUBS BEAT THE SOX

(Special to the Press.)
Chicago, Oct. 7.—Though the Cubs made three errors and nine hits, one less hit than the White Sox, they won 4 to 2. The Sox could not get started until the seventh inning when they got to Vaughn and made two runs, but the Cubs had already won and it was too late.

The Cubs defeated the White Sox 4 to 2, in the opening game of the Post season series, for the City Championship. Vaughn pitched an excellent game for the Cubs. He struck out seven and let nine Sox runners on the bags. The Cubs scored one run in the first inning on Good's double and Saler's single and two more in the fifth on three hits, including a double by Leach. Wolf-gang was derrieked and Faber went in for the Sox. In the eighth the Cubs filled the bases and Leach scored on a sacrifice fly. The Sox scored two runs in the seventh on three hits and a dumb play by Zimmerman, who held the ball long enough to let one run in.

ARMOR PLATE BIDS ARE NOW OPEN

(Special to the Press.)
Washington, Oct. 7.—Bids for the armor plate for the two dreadnoughts, recently authorized by congress, were opened by the secretary of navy today. The Bethlehem Steel Company bid slightly lower on all classes of steel than did the Carnegie or Midvale Steel Companies. It is probable that the contracts for the armor plate for both ships will be awarded to Bethlehem.

GLADSTONE MAN FACES CHARGES

August Johnson, a saloon keeper of Gladstone, has been arrested on three separate charges, preferred by a young man of Flat Rock who claimed that he gambled, lost his money and got drunk in the place. The saloon keeper will be given a hearing this morning.

CHARITY COMMITTEE POSPONES MEETING

The Charity Committee of the Escanaba Women's Club will postpone their meeting from Thursday afternoon to Friday afternoon as a business meeting of the Educational Committee which is to be held this afternoon, would conflict with the first named date.

MT. UNION DEFEATED

Ann Arbor, Oct. 7.—By superb forward passing and general good team work, the Mount Union team succeeded in scoring on the Wolverines today in a hotly contested game. The score was: Michigan 27, Mount Union 7. The Ohio team reached within the five yard line of the Michigan goal three times in the last quarter, but lost the ball in the first two attempts. A series of forward passes brought the ball to the Michigan one yard line and Mount Union scored on the next play just before the whistle blew. Mount Union could not withstand the onslaught of Michigan's backs.

BUILDING PROGRESSES

Excellent progress is being made at the new Delt theater under the course of construction by the Foster Construction Company of Milwaukee. A car load of windows and doors have arrived and are already being erected. The front doors for the building are of the french type and should add much to the attractiveness of the building.

CLEVER FORGER IS SENTENCED

Edward Graham, who passed several forged checks in this city and victimized businessmen at many points along the Great Lakes, has been sentenced to five years in the Minnesota state prison. Graham was arrested at Duluth on a charge of passing worthless checks and when arraigned in court pleaded guilty to the charge.

Traveling from port to port, Graham posed as a sailor, and all checks passed were on fictitious steamship companies. Most of the worthless pieces of paper were cashed in saloons, and the fact that they were without value was not discovered until some time later. Police officers of several cities and private detectives of the Pittsburg Steamship company had been on his trail for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Andrew and children will leave this morning for Canada, where they will reside for the winter.

CONVENTION OPENS TODAY

ROYAL NEIGHBORS OF THIS END OF PENINSULA GATHERS HERE FOR THIRD ANNUAL MEETING

Delegates from lodges of the Royal Neighbors of America from all points in this portion of the peninsula, will assemble in Escanaba today for the third annual district convention of that order. The opening session of the convention will be launched at the Odd Fellows hall at 9 o'clock this morning when the delegates with local members of the order and members of the order of Modern Woodmen and their wives, will gather to listen to an exceptionally interesting program, with Mayor O. P. Chatfield delivering the address of welcome.

Following the opening meeting of this forenoon, a luncheon will be served to the delegates at the dining room of the hall at noon. Early in the afternoon the visitors will be taken for an auto ride about the city to view the different points of interest.

In the afternoon a closed session will be conducted for members and delegates only. At 7 o'clock the delegates and members will enjoy a banquet at the Hotel Delta. Following a short evening session the day's program will be closed with a dancing party at Clark's hall and to which the Modern Woodmen and their wives are especially invited.

High state and district officials of the order will attend the convention of today. Delegates began to arrive in the city last night and indications are given that approximately 300 visitors will be in the city for the day from outside points.

GARDEN ORCHARDS HAVE APPLES

The fact that Monday, Columbus Day, is a legal holiday for some purposes, will not interfere with the opening of the annual meeting of the Delta county board of supervisors according to a ruling given by Atty. T. E. Strom.

According to the ruling of Atty. Strom the Columbus Day day affects directly the holding courts on that day and might possibly be construed, he asserts, as affecting the operation of saloons that day.

The holiday will not affect the operation of saloons on that day, according to the ruling of the prosecutor.

DELEGATION TO BE SMALL

ESCANABA SCHOOLS REPRESENTED AT CONVENTION OF EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION BY 7 TEACHERS

Escanaba's public schools will be represented at the nineteenth annual convention of the Upper Peninsula Educational Association, opening today at Houghton by but seven teachers. Some of the members of the Escanaba delegation left yesterday afternoon for the convention city while others will leave this morning. The great distance to Houghton is given as the principal reason for a large number of the local teachers not attending the convention of this year. Because of the small delegation leaving the schools, regular sessions will not be interfered with and complete school programs will be carried out in all departments both today and tomorrow.

Of the opening of today's convention a Copper Country correspondent says:
"The nineteenth annual convention of the Upper Peninsula Educational association, which also is a state institute, with attendance obligatory on the teachers of the upper peninsula, begins in Houghton tomorrow morning. The teachers from without the copper country are expected to arrive for the most part tonight.

The following instructions to teachers in the matter of registration are taken from the official program:
"Upon arrival at the station in Houghton, teachers will be met by committees of young men and directed to headquarters at the Douglass Houses for enrollment, assignment to rooms and other information. The former Gay & Sturges office in the Douglass House block will be convention headquarters.

Teachers are to register promptly on arrival, unless they already have paid their dues and received their badges. Membership dues are $1 for men and fifty cents for women. This amount is due from everyone that attends this meeting; county institute tickets will not be accepted in lieu of this fee. Only those wearing badges will be entitled to admission to the various meetings. For the evening lecture, Thursday evening at the Amphidrome, Houghton, an admission fee of fifty cents will be charged all persons not wearing badges.

President Doelle of the association recently announced an arrangement whereby the public may have the privileges of the convention. It is to accept memberships from persons not teachers, for the same fees as are charged teachers. This will give anyone the badge required for admission to the meetings. The badges may be procured from registration headquarters or from any superintendent of schools.

It has been found necessary to make some variations from the published program.

The lecture by Booker T. Washington, negro educator, will be given in the Amphidrome Thursday night, and not at the Keredge theater as announced in the program. This arrangement is made to accommodate the expected large crowd.

There will be no lecture Friday night, a concession to Governor Ferris, who on that night will conduct a political meeting at the Amphidrome. It is expected that tomorrow and Friday Houghton will entertain the largest gathering of teachers in the history of the upper peninsula. Aside from the natural interest in the convention, which always has been an inspiration to the teachers, there are three contributing causes for the large attendance—the presence of Governor Ferris, the presence of Booker T. Washington, the fact that the convention is being held in the copper country.

The third fact mentioned as an attraction is due to the romance that has been woven about the copper country in other parts of the peninsula. This romantic atmosphere goes far back into history and it has been intensified by the recent strike. Something of the glamor that has attached itself to Alaska, to the gold fields of California, has always been associated with the copper country and, as a usual thing, meetings in this region, for that reason, are attended better than similar meetings in other parts of the peninsula.

SUPERVISORS WILL MEET

INTEREST IN CENTERED IN FORMULATION OF TAX EQUALIZATION REPORT NEXT WEEK

Members of the Delta county board of supervisors will meet here on Monday for the annual October session of that body when a great volume of business of the county will be transacted.

Bills against the county, that are to be acted upon by the supervisors at their present session, must be filed at the office of County Clerk John J. Smer not later than today. Bills not filed when the office is closed this afternoon, cannot be acted upon by the supervisors until the January session.

Chief interest in the business of the session will be centered in the tax equalization report that is adopted.

At the June session of the supervisors a serious difference of opinion developed among the supervisors over the tax equalization report, with the result that two supervisors appealed to the state tax commission, asking for a reassessment by that body of all property in the county. The appeal made was proven inoperative as the assessment values fixed at the June meeting of the local board were used merely as furnishing information to the state board of equalization. At this session an opportunity will be given the supervisors to formulate a new equalization report and upon which the apportionment of taxes the county will be based. It is believed that an effort will be exerted at the session of next week to bring the opposing factions in the board together that an amicable settlement may be reached in a matter that is of vital importance to the county.

The fact that Monday, Columbus Day, is a legal holiday for some purposes, will not interfere with the opening of the annual meeting of the Delta county board of supervisors according to a ruling given by Atty. T. E. Strom.

PARTIAL HOLIDAY

According to the ruling of Atty. Strom the Columbus Day day affects directly the holding courts on that day and might possibly be construed, he asserts, as affecting the operation of saloons that day.

The holiday will not affect the operation of saloons on that day, according to the ruling of the prosecutor.

Bureau Deserves Support

Members of the Delta county board of supervisors at their annual session next week, will be asked to contribute to the support of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau. It is right that Delta county should contribute its share toward a movement that has already accomplished much for this district and, continued along the same broad lines, cannot but prove the most profitable investment ever made by the people of the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Through the bureau Cloverland has been shown to the outside world in its true light. Through the publicity of agricultural advantages offered in this district farmers from the older farming centers are coming here to invest their money and to become permanent residents. To the positive knowledge of the editor of the Press, through advertising matter sent out by the bureau, three lower peninsula farmers, have purchased farms in Delta county in the past three weeks, and information was received yesterday that two additional farmers from the same territory are to come here next week to purchase farms in this locality.

Were it not for the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, which represents the combined effort of an entire district, the upper peninsula of Michigan would today be exactly where it was ten years ago. Individual effort in a work of overcoming ancient prejudices and educating the people of an outside, critical world to accept a new viewpoint toward certain district, is fruitless because of its lack of force. Only by uniting a great body of people in a common purpose can the desired result be accomplished.

Ten years ago to interest a farmer of the lower peninsula or any agricultural state of the east or west, in farm lands of the upper peninsula would have been fruitless. Today farmers from the congested agricultural centers are flocking to this district daily and are marveling at what is being accomplished here. The credit for this result belongs wholly to the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau.

Every new citizen brought into a community is an asset to that community.

Every new citizen that comes to Delta county and investing his money in Delta county lands, becomes a producer, is a new aid to permanent progress.

The movement Cloverlandward has been started by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau.

For the good of Delta county and the whole district the work of that bureau must be continued.

The supervisors of Delta county, as representatives of the people of the county, cannot afford to hamper the work of this valuable organization by refusing to contribute Delta's just share toward the support of the bureau.

THE HANDS OF HIS FRIENDS.

Carranza's friends will not permit him to resign. This, at least, is the impression they wish to convey by their reports of the meeting at which Carranza's resignation was tendered.

The "first chief" probably knew the temper of his associates before he made his dramatic offer of abdication. He probably knew that by practically unanimous acclaim he would be called upon to retain the helm.

The men who went through the formality of endorsing Carranza are significantly described as "southern men." The constitutionalist movement which ended in the driving out of Huerta was originated and led by northern men.

There was little or no sympathy in the south till he became apparent that the Huerta reign was near its end. Then there were many of canny southern men who went over to Carranza and who had about his headquarters while he and his fellow northerners were making the final battles.

Mexican regeneration will not come from the men of the south. The men of the north, who have gained an inkling of the meaning of freedom, must have the conviction. Carranza, placing himself in the hands of his southern friends, does not add to the hopefulness of the outlook.

People who were worrying about the right name for the war and devote themselves to a new theory. "The battle of the Aisne" has already become a misnomer and a new designation is required for those who settle unessential questions from a very safe distance.

Roosevelt states it as his "definite judgment" that Louisiana will have electoral votes for the Bull Moose candidate at the next presidential election. If the colored is a good thing it is likely that Louisiana will attain an altogether unique distinction.

Pernambuco, Brazil, is letting out an awful roar because coal has gone up to $40 a ton at that point. If you lived as near the equator as Pernambuco, wouldn't the price of coal be the least of your troubles?

New York's accidental governor now seeks election to the office. He is entitled to whatever cheer is to be obtained by recalling what happened the last time such a situation developed in Ohio.

Congress may adjourn in time to permit its members to man the second line of defenses. The great majority were fortunate enough to capture the outer works at primary time.

It is said that Olympic games scheduled for Berlin in 1916 may take place in Antwerp. But there may be no Antwerp at that time. But here is Cleveland.

"Kaiser Wilhelm" contains 13 yesters. But so does "La Belle France" and "Merrie England." And then there's "Francis Joseph."

The line of battle in France is getting so badly bent that it begins to look like a map of the Wade Park street car line.

Probably those thoughtful military authorities at Vienna will fortify their town on the Italian side, too.

The colonel's speeches have often been long, but Ohio is the first state to find them dry.

Now let baseball and football have a share on the first page.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 7.—Canada will raise immediately and send to the front a second expeditionary force of twenty thousand men, with a first reinforcement of 10 per cent, making twenty-two thousand soldiers in all. This decision was reached at today's cabinet council. The second contingent will bring the total of Canada's force at the front up to fifty thousand men.

Sir Robert Borden, the Canadian premier, made public tonight the action taken by the council.

London, Oct. 7.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Antwerp gives the following communication issued at 10 o'clock last night (Tuesday):

"The military governor has informed the burgomaster that a bombardment of Antwerp is imminent and that the people who wish to see the town are requested to leave."

"The bombardment will have no effect on the town's resistance, which will be pushed to the extreme limit."

The Exchange Telegraph company adds that the foregoing message has been passed by the British censor for publication.

London, Oct. 7.—A dispatch to the Times from Ostend dated Monday says:

"A very important movement of German troops in southern Belgium was reported this afternoon. A column, twenty thousand strong, of horse and foot artillery, with a commissariat convoy and wireless apparatus, marched through Templeuve, five miles north of Tournai, in the direction of the French frontier to the west. All the troopers were young men."

London, Oct. 7.—The Daily Mail's correspondent in France gives a new version of the reason for the German retreat from Paris. He says that the moment General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, decided to arrest his retreat and meet the Germans on the Marne, the French General Foch, who was retiring east of Chalons, discovered by an aeroplane reconnaissance that two German armies had failed to make a junction and had left a considerable gap in the neighborhood of Vitry-le-Francois.

General Foch thrust a large wedge of men, supported by strong artillery, into this gap and had them well established before the Germans discovered their oversight, with the result that there was a German panic and a retreat in which the Germans suffered very heavily.

London, Oct. 7.—In a dispatch from Amsterdam, the correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company says that telegrams received there from Berlin indignantly reported destruction by German troops of the property of M. Poincare, president of France, at Ribecourt. They declare that this property was the center of a heavy battle near Verdun and that it was bombarded by French artillery. The charges of the Countess de Bayas that the German Crown Prince looted her chateau also are ridiculed. It is declared that the crown prince never was in this mansion.

The British press is still indulging in the pastime of guessing at the German emperor's whereabouts. The latest report is that he is at Cologne, under the protection of the powerful fortresses.

The report of President Poincare's visit to the front is confirmed by a telegram he sent to King George saying that he had visited Field Marshal French at the British headquarters.

London, Oct. 7.—The British press takes occasion to emphasize that while the battle of the Aisne holds first claim in the matter of sentimental interest, the gigantic operations of the Russian, German and Austrian armies in the east may first bring the solution of the war.

Petrograd official statements continue to repeat in a general way what has been accepted here for a fact for days—that the German army along the East Prussian frontier has been more or less routed and cut to pieces, but as this is only a small portion of the front it is exceedingly hard to get anything like a clear-cut perspective of the result.

What purports to be an official dispatch from Vienna insists in broad terms that the condition of the German and Austrian armies, both in Poland and in Galicia, is favorable and that in attempting to breast the Carpathians at Uzsook pass the Russians have been beaten.

"Breasting the Carpathians and pouring onto the plains of Hungary" by the Muscovites has been so often referred to that it is becoming trite, and the fact remains that, generally speaking, aside from the defeat of Rennenkampf's army in the early stages of the war in Poland, his revenge by a crushing return and a steady advance of the Russians through Galicia, there has been nothing from the east to send out in the nature of a clearly defined conflict like the battle of the Aisne.

Today's Petrograd official statement deals entirely with the German stand on the East Prussian frontier, making no mention of the situation either in Galicia or Hungary. The much-heralded battle of Cracow, which it seems all the correspondents anticipated, has yet to be recorded as a matter of history.

From Budapest—not often heard from as a source of war news—comes a dispatch saying that no battles in Hungary have yet been decided, the invaders being repulsed.

Whether it can be accepted as true, or not, a Bordeaux special dispatch reports a general shakeup in the German army command, following, but not necessarily the result of the reported removal of General von Hindenburg from East Prussia to assume command at Cracow. He is succeeded in the field where he scored so brilliantly over the Russians by General Curt von Morgen.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 7.—Dr. Konstantin Theodore Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States, said tonight he had received the following official message from Vienna:

"Our troops progress victoriously in all defenses in the Carpathians against the Russians, who are fleeing in disorder."

"Two Montenegrin brigades, which penetrated into eastern Bosnia, were crushed, after two days of sanguinary fighting, and are at present fleeing over the frontier in a panic. Several Austrians were found in a horribly mutilated state."

"A whole Serbian battalion was captured by us in northern Bosnia." Dr. Dumba said the message was signed by Count Borchold, secretary for foreign affairs.

As to the disposition of the forces already dispatched, the prime minister said:

"According to the report of the chief embarkation officer, the total force embarked at Quebec amounted to nearly thirty-three thousand men, besides seven thousand horses and a proper complement of guns and vehicles, with full equipment for men and horses. The transportation of this force required no less than thirty-one large steamships."

"It is probable that upon arrival in England as follows: Field troops, including a first reinforcement of 10 per cent, 26,400; line of communication troops, 2,100; total force at the front, 28,500."

"This will leave about 4,500 for training in Great Britain, who will constitute a regiment of nearly 20 per cent of the men at the front."

London, Oct. 7.—To the long series of national denials this war has brought is added a statement issued in behalf of the British government tonight denying the German contention that Great Britain had stored ammunition at Maubeuge prior to the outbreak of the war, thus indicating an intention to violate Belgium's neutrality.

London, Oct. 7.—Miss Marguerite Leman, daughter of General Leman, the defender of Liege, has, according to an Ostend dispatch, received word that her father, who is now at Magdeburg, has recovered from the wounds caused by shrapnel during the German bombardment.

London, Oct. 7.—The French government will return to Paris Wednesday or Thursday, according to the Paris correspondent of the Express, who makes this announcement, he says, on high authority. The visit of President Poincare to army headquarters is considered a good omen.

London, Oct. 7.—A report received here from Pekin says that the Japanese and British are continuing their vigorous attack on the German position at Kiaochau. The German troops it is said, have withdrawn on Tsingtau itself, the forts of which are kept busy day and night. It is added that the British and Japanese troops are preparing for a decisive advance.

Rome, via Paris, Oct. 7.—A dispatch received here from Munich says that Prince Francis, fourth son of the king of Bavaria, was wounded in the thigh during a battle. He was taken to a hospital, where the bullet was removed, but blood-poisoning set in. He is not thought to be in danger of his life.

Bordeaux, Oct. 7.—The ministry of the marine issued the following notice today:

"The Austrian navy having laid mines in the Adriatic, the French fleet has been obliged to do likewise, but in order to avoid damaging neutral shipping, as the Austrians have done, the French have laid their mines according to the rules of the Hague convention of 1907. The danger zone comprises all Austrian waters and channels between the islands and the coasts of Dalmatia."

London, Oct. 7.—The sixty-third day of the great European war saw a repetition of what the peoples of all the countries concerned have forced themselves to expect, perhaps for months to come—no decisive conflict on land or sea.

From Berlin to London, nothing in the way of German claims to progress or reverses came. From Petrograd comes what has flowed without interruption for weeks—consistent claims of progress for Russian arms. From Paris at the usual mid-afternoon hour was issued the usual official communication, so-called, interpreting the situation along the battle line of the western theater of the war in the light of those opposing the German invasion. There were in the closely-worded statement, cryptic to an extent as always, hints of a greater diversity of operations than it ordinarily contained.

Above all stood out the presence of what was described as large masses of German cavalry near Lille, hardly ten miles from the Belgian frontier as the crow flies, and behind them German forces moving on a line between Tourcoing and Armentieres, the latter point right on the Belgian border.

At the same time the official communication makes it plain that the allies have not been idle and have been extending their line on the left wing more and more widely. Blow for blow evidently is being dealt around Arras, the scene of sanguinary fighting recently. The same may be said of the region between the Somme and the Oise, for it is noticeable that the allies have claimed nothing there today except a see-saw advance and retirement. They do maintain that they have repulsed the enemy near Issigny, upon which the Germans made a violent attack.

At Soissons, where the allies recently cleared the German trenches, according to the announcement, they have pressed their advantage by making a slight advance. Noyon forms the elbow from which the allied lines sweep eastward. Some advance by the allies is also reported at Berry-au-Bac.

From Belgium comes nothing to indicate any change in the situation about Antwerp except a brief line tucked at the bottom of the Paris official statement asserting that the German attacks along the line of the river Ruyel and the river Nethe have failed.

From the Battle Front in Northern France, Oct. 7.—German cavalry made its reappearance on the scene of action in great force today, thus disproving the report that all of the emperor's mounted forces had been rendered useless owing to an epidemic of the glanders.

The allies' extended front has met with vigorous counter attacks on the part of the Germans, who seem to have weakened their positions on the center of the battle line in order to throw heavy masses of men against the right and left wings.

The allies, although forced back short distances at some points on their left, have been generally able to hold their own. The eastern wing also was the scene of severe combat today, but there the battle was between infantry and artillery and the allies were able to push forward.

In the center, where the infantry has been deeply entrenched since the commencement of the battle, the French and English commanders took the opportunity to relieve many regiments which had been on the advanced firing line. Two brigades of British troops, chiefly Highlanders, had not had relief for thirteen days. They had purposed so well that their casualties were unimportant, but the men were thoroughly exhausted from continued watchfulness and the incessant boom of the guns.

It is currently reported at the front that the Germans took two hundred civilians with them when they departed from Roye.

Paris, Oct. 7.—The French official announcement issued tonight says that a violent battle continues on the left wing north of the Oise.

London, Oct. 7.—A Reuter dispatch from Paris gives the French official communication issued last night at 11 o'clock as follows:

"The characteristics of the situation remain the same. On our left wing, to the north of the Oise, the action is more and more violent. In the center, comparative calm prevails. A little ground has been gained on the heights of the Meuse."

Cape Neckpiece and Bag Muff Must Be Carried by Those Who Would Be Up to Date.

If you are having your furs remodeled, have them made up in the latest fashion, even if extra points must be added. The smart neckpiece of the moment is the cape scarf, which is simply a yard long by 20-inch broad strip of fur fitted about the shoulders so that it will almost reach the belt line and quite cover the elbows at the back, but from the sides is drawn up to merely cover the chest.

Under the chin it is fastened with a single big button fitting a huge buttonhole slit embroidered in the felt. Another phase of the cape neckpiece is a two-yard long by half-yard wide scarf that goes straight over the shoulders and elbows and crosses in front at the waist line.

This also fastens with an ornamental button and an embroidered buttonhole. Bag muffs are of two shapes. The "balloon," which puffs widely at the bottom and tapers to a top only broad enough to protect the hands, and the "pumpkin" which is very full at the top, but narrows to fit smoothly under the root of the tassel which suggests its stem.

The very fashionable girl hides the fastening of her cape neckpiece under the biggest fabric flower that she can find. This may be a black velvet rose fringed with tiny rhinestones, a ragged chrysanthemum in purple-pink silk or a full blown geranium in vivid scarlet chiffon. A few girls like to have a second huge flower near the left center of the bag muff, but a pair of these exotics make a street costume a bit conspicuous.

USEFUL ON DESK OR TABLE. Roller Blotter Makes Most Acceptable Present When Appropriately Decorated.

A roller blotter, or rocker, as they are sometimes called, is a most useful article to have upon one's desk or writing table; it is always then to hand, and a letter or any writing is quickly blotted. The great advantage of this kind of blotter is that pieces of the blotting paper cannot be so easily torn off, as so often happens with the blotting pad; and as it cannot be used to write upon, as a blotter can, it is left alone on the desk, and so always at hand.

Roller blotters can be bought quite cheaply, made of white wood. They then require decorating. This is done in various ways. The use of the blotter will decide its style of decoration. For instance, if it is to be used in a dainty drawing room it might be covered with some pretty silk brocade, or with linen which has had a design embroidered on it. If, however, it has to stand hard wear and tear day after day, it is well to simply stain it any nice shade, or poker some suitable design on it. The handle will screw off, so that the flat piece of wood can be worked on the flat, without the roller part. It can from time to time be refilled with blotting paper by simply unscrewing the handle.

Trace on the wood some little simple design, outline it with the poker point, and poker in the background and the edges of the wood by means of little dots. Put them close together so that no white wood shows in between. The wood can then be brushed over with white hard spirit varnish; this gives the wood a beautiful polish, and makes it smooth to the touch.

Roller blotters prove most acceptable presents, especially for men. They are also splendid articles to decorate for bazaars, etc.

VOGUE OF THE BEADED SASH. Arranged as Fancy Dictates, Ornament is One of the Distinctive Parts of Costume.

Following out the Indian note that every now and then creeps into our symphony of fashion features comes the beaded sash. The beads used are usually of bright-colored wood, arranged in various and weird patterns. Sometimes the wooden beads are made to combine with silk thread and so form a fringe, while at other times they are fastened into a symmetrical design by a needle and silk thread. These sashes sell for rather high prices at the shops, but an examination of one or two of them will reveal to you the secret whereby you can procure the beads at the bead counter in the fancywork department and make your own beaded sash. The average beaded sash is not more than from three to five inches wide, but it is sufficiently long to wrap about your waist twice and fall in two hanging ends.

Tinted Powders. Those curiously tinted powders that come to us from Paris are now made in liquid forms. There is a brownish one for brunettes, a delicate pearl for blondes, a mauve that is supposed to look well under electric light, and a pale green for the green girls. They are in tall, oddly shaped bottles of frosted glass with decorative seals and ribbon bands.

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PUTTING UP STRAWBERRIES. WILD strawberries, when they can be obtained, make the best preserves. Various ways of putting up this delicious fruit are suggested here:

Strawberry Jam.—To each quart of berries take one cupful of sugar. Wash and hull the berries, add the sugar, cover and place in a warm oven thirty minutes or on the back of the range. Remove the cover and crush the strawberries and then boil or simmer slowly fifteen minutes. This makes a nice consistency. If you like it stiffer boil longer.

A Popular Preserve. Strawberry Preserves.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of sugar to each quart of berries. Wash and hull the berries, cover with the sugar and let them stand two hours. Put in preserving kettle and boil slowly thirty minutes. Skim frequently, being careful not to break the berries. Put into jars or tumblers.

Canned Strawberries.—First cap the strawberries, wash and put in a pan or bowl a layer of strawberries, or about two quarts of berries. Sprinkle a tea-cupful of sugar over and put layer of berries and sugar until all are used. Let the berries stand overnight and next morning juice will be on the berries. Add no water. Put on and cook as any fruit and you will have no trouble in keeping your strawberries.

Using the Juice. Strawberry Jelly.—Wash and hull the strawberries. Crush and put on top of double boiler. Boil slowly until soft. Rub through strainer, then strain through cheesecloth or jelly bag. To each cupful of juice add one cupful of granulated sugar, which has been heated in the oven, slowly stirring until the sugar is melted. Only let it come to the boiling point. Put into jelly glasses which have been dipped in boiling water. When cold cover with waxed paper and put on the tin cover.

Strawberry Fruit Sirup.—Cook the strawberries in a granite or porcelain lined kettle until the juice flows freely. Mash, strain the juice through cheesecloth or cotton batting; then measure. Allow a pound of sugar to each pint of juice, boil together five minutes, then bottle. When ready for use add a few spoonfuls to a glass of cold water or to more liberal quantity to the contents of the punch bowl.

Ghastly Custom. The medical profession has succeeded in doing away with a revolting custom that has prevailed in Constantinople for almost a century. In 1877 the authorities discovered that the Greeks were in the habit of smuggling in large quantities of arms and ammunition in closed coffins. They therefore ordered that thenceforward coffins containing the corpses of Greeks should be borne lidless through the streets and only sealed after entering the cemetery. Since that time the Greeks have attempted by painting the faces of the dead and resorting to other crude devices, to render the procedure less ghastly. They have also agitated, from time to time, for the abolition of the custom, but made no impression upon the Ottoman government until the local doctors came to their aid. The recent funeral of Constantine V, patriarch of the Greek church, furnished a test case. After an acrimonious debate, it was decided that the coffin should be closed and the custom abolished.

SAYS MUTTON IS BEST OF MEATS

Pound for pound, mutton has a larger amount of tissue forming value than lamb.
So far as nutritive value is concerned mutton is usually classed with beef.
The percentage of waste differs very slightly in the two, being on the average a little less than 20 per cent in each. In the edible portion the percentage of protein is practically the same; it averages about 18 per cent in beef and 16 per cent in mutton. It is only when the fat is considered that any difference is noted. This averages about 20 per cent of the edible portion in medium beef fat and a little over 30 per cent in the corresponding kind of mutton.
Mutton and lamb are commonly believed to digest readily and the results of scientific investigation seem to bear out this belief. To this may be ascribed the common use of mutton and lamb in invalid dietetics, as well as in the daily fare.
The term "mutton" is here used to apply to the flesh of a sheep one year or more old. Such meat differs in composition from the flesh of a lamb very much as meat of any other mature animal of the same kind, as beef differs from veal, for example, or fowl from chickens, i. e., it has, in general, a smaller percentage of water and larger percentages of fat, protein and extractives or flavoring substances.

SPENT 50 CENTS IN LAST 27 YEARS

Boston, Mass.—When John Gearon of Malden skidded to the altar twenty-seven years ago he wore a veteran dress suit, had a small set piece in his coat lapel, and did everything possible to make the incident appear like a wedding, but when he was arraigned in court here, charged with non-support, he declared that something went wrong with the arrangements and he was sentenced to life by a quiet appearing clergyman.
"I love my wife," said Mr. Gearon, "but O, you kid, judge, I've led a life."
"No, nonsense," said the judge sternly.
"Practically none," answered Mr. Gearon, ignoring the reprimand. "My only amusement has been solitary, and as I lost one card in 1895 and another, the acre of diamonds, in June, 1903, it's been very, very hard to make it come out properly. On my birthday, in 1910, I made arrangements to buy a pack of cards for a nickel, but my wife used the range fender with a large soup tureen, and it scored as a shot, and made me cross-eye for a week."
"I don't quite get you," said the court patiently. "Do you mean that you have had no money for twenty-seven years?"

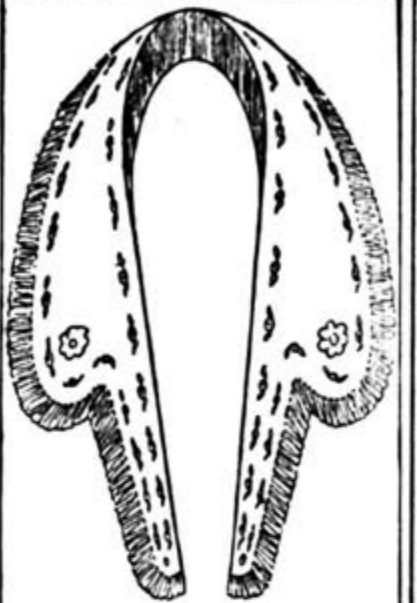

"Let him answer that," said Mrs. Gearon, sidestepping her little husband with an emphatic gesture, and causing him to bump his head against the bar of justice. "That's just why he is in this court. Last week he came home with his pay envelope ripped open and 50 cents gone from it. Ask him what he did with that. Let him tell you honor the silly story about having a tooth pulled. The wretch!"
Mr. Gearon moved aside as if fearing his wife would step on him.
"Judge," he said, "in twenty-seven years I have never opened my pay envelope until last Saturday. Along about 4 o'clock a nerve in my tooth exploded; my hair stood up like wire and my jaw swelled out so that I couldn't put my hat on. When I got paid at 6 o'clock I was so dizzy I ripped my envelope and had a dentist pull out a tooth."
"Toid!" said the court, apparently in a daze. "I will continue this case. For some reason, I don't seem to be able to quite get it. I will give my decision later."

Arthur Fish of Ford River was in the city Tuesday on business.

OLD IDEAS COME BACK

NECKWEAR POPULAR SEASONS AGO IS TO BE FASHION AGAIN.
Advance Fall Styles Indicate a Return to the Close-Fitting, Turnover Stock Collar Which Found Favor in the Past.

Good-bye to the rolling flare collar we have reveled in all the season. Good-bye to the wired Medici collar and its fascinating varieties.
Coming events have cast their shadows before in the shape of important models which are destined to rule the fall styles in neckwear.

All of these foretell with strong emphasis the return to the high-neck, close-fitting, turnover stock collar of two or three years ago. Severely plain, fancy frilled, sometimes open in the front, but never anything but high and snug-fitting in the back.
One model is a plain, uncompromising stock, carried out in soft handkerchief linen. It is three inches high in the neck, and buttons down the front with four tiny, round linen buttons.
A turnover of embroidered linen, fitting closely at the sides and forming long points in front and back, gives an air of distinction to this model, which is very suitable for wear with a tailored morning gown or waist.
A knotted tie of narrow black or colored ribbon can be worn with it, to harmonize with the dress or to form a smart note of contrast.
Another model, which is pictured, is also a high, tight-fitting stock, but the severity of its style is considerably tempered by the hemstitched frill which edges the deep turnover. This collar is made of fine, sheer lawn, and has a very soft and dainty effect.
Yet another model caters to the desire of many of us who have become so attached to the open neck, with little or no collar touching the skin, that we shall take only slowly to a completely high-necked style. This collar, too, is more suitable for an afternoon gown, and the particular model noted is of fine linen elaborately embroidered and edged with lace.
High and fitted snug to the neck as the back, this model turns over on the dress in front, leaving a V-shaped opening.
In all the stores the wide, flare collars are on sale at a discount, very much reduced, and only in the more exclusive houses is it yet possible to see a few forerunners of the coming changes. Hence it behooves those who are not in town every day, those visiting town from the West and all of us who have already begun to think about our fall outfit to look before we leap, or, at any rate, before we make any very important decisions.

PRAYS WAR MAY UNITE THE IRISH

London, Oct. 6.—John E. Redmond, Irish leader, in making recruiting speeches at Wexford, Sunday, eloquently appealed for a reconciliation of the home rule question. He said:

"I will meet Andrew Bonar Law, the opposition leader in parliament by gentleness and by reason. I pray with all my heart and soul that out of this war one blessed result may come from Ireland and that is: As Irishmen go on side by side, Catholics by Protestants, and north of Ireland Irishmen by south of Ireland Irish men, it may prove to be a sign of the future unity of our Irish nation.
"German domination would mean the loss of all the liberties we have won. I will put it quite plainly as Gen. Botha, the South African premier did in his speech. Are you for Britain and her colonies or are you on the side of Germany?
"Believe me, we cannot remain aloof. The war has come upon us and we must take our choice. The only choice of honor of safety and of statesmanship is to defend the empire's liberties against their declared enemy."

The number of recruits for the British army obtain in Ireland amounts to about 26,000.
The Belfast nationalists are said to have furnished 5,000 of the Belfast recruits.
Many southern recruits belong to football and athletic club classes.

TILLS LANDS NOW $50,000 AN ACRE

New York, Oct. 7.—Broadway has a real farm. It is near enough to the center of the city to make the five-acre parcel worth, according to the appraiser's assessment, $278,000, the most valuable piece of farm land in the world.
It is located on the very ground where Washington's army made its first stand against the British on Manhattan island, at the junction of Broadway and Nagel avenue at the upper end of the island. Broadway surface cars pass the door and the subway is easy to access.
Mr. Joseph Zerrenner, born in Brooklyn 69 years ago, mother of a family of 13 and widow of a Civil war veteran, runs this farm. Two grown sons and one grandson, typical farmer's boys, are on the job and it is doubtful if they ever ventured so far away from home as the car that passes their door could transport them.
There is no middleman in their business. They do not go to market. There is quite enough business for them in their immediate neighborhood. The neighboring grocers come to the farm to market every morning. They do not keep any books and can only guess at the relative profits on their crops. These are cultivated to the limit. There is something doing the whole year round.
The farmer's wife is of a family of tillers of the soil who have operated right in New York city for nearly a century. Mrs. Zerrenner remembers when she was a little girl her father, Nicholas Von Glahn, had a farm only 54 years ago, located in what is now the very heart of Manhattan.
Tenure is Uncertain.
It might be asked how Mrs. Zerrenner is able to maintain a farm on such valuable ground.
If the annual rental was fixed to cover the taxes it would be a fraction over $5,035 annually. And what farmer could afford such a rent bill?
Mrs. Zerrenner is able to maintain a farm on these gilt-edged city lots because she has only to pay in cash something like $135 a year, which is distributed among some of the various plot owners; to others she gets her rent for keeping the sidewalks free from ice and snow in the winter, clear of weeds and leaves in the summer. She has no regular lease, but lives from month to month with the understanding that the property is subject to being taken away from her for building purposes at any time.
"The boys and I will try it again this year, but who knows if that will be the last in this locality and we have been so happy here these many years," says Mrs. Zerrenner. "To think that this is the last of the many farms that were formerly located on Manhattan island."

PRAYER DAY IN THE U. S. IS PRAINED BY FRENCH NEWSPAPERS.

Paris, Oct. 7.—All newspapers print news dispatches announcing the prayers for peace, given in America on Sunday last. The Galous regrets the example was not followed by France, and declares President Wilson was not afraid to have the American public kneel before the most. The Libre Parole says Wilson's example could well be imitated by France.

Avoid Sedative Cough Medicines.

If you want to contribute directly to the occurrence of capillary bronchitis and pneumonia use cough medicines that contain codine, morphine, heroin and other sedatives when you have a cough or cold. An expectorate like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is what is needed. That cleans out the culture beds or breeding places for the germs of pneumonia and other germ diseases. That is why pneumonia never results from a cold when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It has a world wide reputation for its cures. It contains no morphine or other sedative. For sale by all dealers.

Attractive Street Gown.

Model of black satin covered with tulle and trimmed with fine lace ruffles. The full tunic is edged with satin.
Less Darning Needed.
To do away with some of the darning, rub the heels of new stockings with paraffin. Put the stocking over the darning egg and warm the paraffin enough to make it soft in the hand. Then rub well. It will be found that this protects the heel against rubbing and that it will not wear out.

COMPENSATION

If government should wipe out your investments or your means of gaining a livelihood, you should be recompensed, shouldn't you?
When Switzerland outlawed absinthe, manufacturers, dealers, employe and even farmers were indemnified for losses. Where "prohibition" outlaws the manufacture and sale of liquors, why shouldn't the manufacturers, dealers, employe and even growers (farmers) be compensated by our government?

MONTE CARLO IS A SAD OLD TOWN

Paris, Oct. 7.—Monte Carlo in war time. The playground of Europe and the world's gambling rendezvous is desolate. The one place where all ways was to be found will dissipation, and betting and gambling, today is under blight of the greatest war in history. The following story was sent to a local newspaper by a special representative who was assigned to picture the little principality in war time:
"I was astonished at the scene on the top of the hill. For sheer, forlorn desolation I have beheld nothing to compare with Monte Carlo in time of war. This buzzing hive, this center of wild dissipation, this hackneyed scene of melodrama had acquired all the silence and gloom of Pompeii."
"Outside the Casino I was informed by a placard on the closed shutters that owing to 'the events' the building would not be open till further notice; the reading room was transferred to the Cafe de Paris; deposits could be recovered at the bank in the Galeria Charles III.
Visitors Under Suspicion.
"There was lunch at a little coffee house in the Condamine by the harbor. Here I was seized at once by the nervous atmosphere of the principality. At the next table was a lady who spoke with what seemed a violent German accent. I watched her suspiciously, for at Nice German-baiting is the great sport of the hour.
"The soberest citizens rush suddenly amuck and collect crowds to chase and belabor a man who has the wrong hat or the wrong cut of beard. And at Nice we mistrust Monaco.
"We know that the prince has sent 2,000 pounds to the perfect of the Seine for the families of the French soldiers; we have read his highest stirring speech to a regiment at Beaulieu; we have seen the red proclamations on Monte Carlo walls ordering the enemy's subjects for reasons of public order. But we know he is a friend of the kaiser, a cousin of the chief of the German staff. We suspect him of tolerating spies. We murmur of annexation.
"So I watched my neighbor, and I saw she resented it. The proprietor addressed her sympathetically as Madame la Comtesse. But that did not soothe her.
"Between the courses she threw up her hands and screamed that such things were unheard of. 'What things?' I ventured to inquire.
"Why, this infamous atmosphere

THE WALTZ OF DESPAIR

By MORRIS W. GOWEN.
(Copyright.)
Toward the end of May, high up in an attic room of a tumble-down house in Paris, a young man stood at the open window. He held in his hands a violin and a bow.
The room was littered by what was left of the musician's worldly goods, very few, for that day a sale had taken place of his poor effects to satisfy the landlord's demands for rent.
All that was left was some few sheets of manuscript music, a bed, a chair, and some cooking utensils.
It was the end of hope, ambition, of all—complete failure having met the composer's efforts.
His left hand grasped the neck of the violin tightly, and his eyes wandered about the bare room.
Then, as the sky darkened, the first breath of summer crept in at the window. A warm south breeze, so soft as to be barely felt, but bringing with it the first tidings of brighter days to those who had felt the long winter's cold.
Unheeding the young man lifted the violin up to his chin, and his right hand crossed the bow over the strings. He hesitated a minute; then cast a look at the sky and with a bold sweep of the bow began to play.
It was a waltz, throbbing with passion, full and harmonious. The sad notes of the bass strings in a minor key followed each other to the time, crying sadly like a lament of a lost soul far away.
Ever changing in melody, the waltz carried in it the first four thrilling notes. They crossed, repeated, retreated, and returned.
The first breath of summer caught these notes, carried them out of the attic window over the smoky roofs of Paris, held them, played with them, sent them to the wondering ears of other poor people who lived in attics and in lodgings near by. Women stopped sewing. Children ceased playing. Men dropped their forks and leaving their evening meal, crept on tiptoe to the open windows and listened.
Suddenly the music grew louder, more intense, and the time quickened to madness. Then four long-drawn notes, the same as at the beginning, rang out and—there was silence.
As the last note was sounded the composer fell dead from the intense effort and the past months of starvation.
The little summer breeze carried with it his grand composition and his soul.
A man sat in an office before a richly carved desk.
He was a plain-looking business man, fat, in a white waistcoat. Before him on the desk lay much money.
His fat hands, sparkling with valuable rings, gathered up the crisp notes and slipped them into rubber bands, packing them into packets of ten thousands. He then got up and carried these packets to a large safe set into the wall of the office, placed them in drawers, and locked the safe, sighing when he had done, like a person does, having lifted a heavy weight.
He then switched on the light and threw open the big office window, looking out onto a busy square filled by hurrying people and vehicles.
He stood at the window some minutes. The summer breeze crept into the office, touching his cheek with its warm caress.
It held music in its impalpable vapor—that heartrending waltz with its deep chords and simple harmony.
The banker drew his handkerchief from his pocket and wiped his brow, his hand trembling as he did so. A chill passed over him.
He hastily closed the window and then sank into a chair. He felt unnerved and weak. His eyes wandered about the office in a troubled way.
The music had full possession of him. It held him in its cruelly irresistible power while, standing before the safe, he saw a poorly clad figure holding a violin to its chin, its pale face looking upward, its right arm swinging the bow.
The figure was no ghost in the banker's eyes. To him it lived.
He saw the aristocratic profile of the player, as clearly cut as a cameo. The neck and profile brought a vague, far-off memory to the banker.
He was young again. Very young, at his father's country-place. In his mind he saw the old trees, the lawns, and moonlight nights of June.
He saw Lucile, the farmer's daughter, as she crept in her pretty bare, white feet over the moonlit grass to meet him under the shadow of the oaks.
He remembered his father's anger, the hurried departure, the long sea voyage to foreign lands. The return, and the news of Lucile's trouble and death.
The waltz was drawing near the end.
As the last four notes filled the office with their magic harmony, the banker held his arms out toward the figure and cried, his voice full of longing: "Speak! Speak! My son!"
But it was too late.
As the last note left the ghostly vision the figure of the player vanished.

Easy to Escape Trouble.

"Some people make their own troubles, and I pointed out to her that she had only to enter a train and proceed to Italy. No one need worry about papers down here just now, least of all a worthy Dutchwoman who only desired to depart.
"All the same, Monaco is certainly suffering from a reaction against Germans. At first their expulsion was the nearest sham. Then the prince proposed to provide them with a special ship to take them away to Italy.
"Ah!" said Niece. "then you admit you have been sheltering them; and now you want to send them away in luxury, with all the fruits of this espionage."
One result is that high officials of the Casino are now in Nice prisons waiting to be tried as spies. An Italian paper said one of them had been shot, but this is contradicted.
FRENCH WRITER IS PEEVED; NOW ASKS TO BE A SOLDIER.
Paris, Oct. 7.—Anatole France, novelist and satirist, has written to the minister of war as follows:
"Many good people find my style at this time worth nothing. As they may be right I am stopping writing and so remain without employment. As I am no longer very young, but have excellent health, please make me a soldier."
The reference to people not liking his writing is probably his view of a letter which he wrote which was taken in some quarters to mean that he had certain sympathies with the German.
Positively Masters Croup
Foley's Honey and Tar Compound cuts the thick choking mucus, and clears away the phlegm. Opens up the air passages and stops the hoarse cough. The gasping, strangling fight for breath gives way to quiet breathing and peaceful sleep. Harold Berg, Mass., Mich., writes: "We give Foley's Honey and Tar to our children for croup and it always acts quickly."

- Child Acts Surgeon's Role.
Sarah Shaffer, thirteen years old, of Los Angeles, Cal., developed into little heroine when her five-year-old sister fell on the sidewalk while playing and shattered her elbow. Dr. Edward G. Wiley, chief police surgeon, explained patiently over the telephone how the splint should be put on, and Sarah made such a good job of it as to win the admiration of who saw the tiny patient when she arrived at the receiving hospital where her little amateur nurse. The children's father is at the county hospital and their mother went to visit by Maybelle fell and broke her arm. Sarah called up the receiving hospital but owing to the distance was advised to call one of the district doctors, could raise none, and again called receiving hospital. Doctor Wiley Sarah what to do to relieve the pain, while the ambulance raced to the Shaffer home, and Sarah obeyed instructions to the letter.
- Civilization.
It is the triumph of civilization, but at last communities have obtained such a mastery over natural laws, that they drive and control them. The winds, the water, electricity, all elements that in their wild form were dangerous, are now controlled by human will, and are made useful servants.—Henry Ward Beecher.

WARNS MEN NOT TO BE OVER-CONFIDENT

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 7.—The Athletics are ready for their battle with the Boston Braves for the baseball supremacy of the world. And the Mackmen realize that the coming series will be a great battle, although they appear to have confidence in their ability to win from the National league champions. Connie Mack, however, today warned his men not to regard the Braves as "easy meat."

Philadelphia is rapidly filling up with world series fans. Every train brings crowds into the city and there is every indication that the games Friday and Saturday will draw record-breaking gatherings. Far more interest is being displayed than last year, when the Giants were the opposition. At baseball headquarters last night it was announced that arrangements had been made to care for the greatest crowd in the history of baseball in Philadelphia.

A gigantic scheme of the scalpers to get possession of world series tickets was revealed last night. The speculators have employed boys and men, who have already taken up their places in the line to be served at the box office Wednesday. Today one citizen sold his place in the line for $15, and it is rumored that it was an agent of the speculator who bought the place. The local management, assisted by the police, will do everything possible to prevent the scalpers obtaining the tickets.

"A team that can bound to the front and win a pennant as the Braves have done must be a pretty good baseball club. We do not look upon any ball team of that caliber as 'easy meat.' From now on until the last ball is pitched in the American league season we will be prepared for the big games."

The foregoing was Connie Mack's statement yesterday when he was asked to forecast the possible outcomes of the world's series. Reminded that his statement really prophesied nothing, the rangy leader of the American league champions said:

"That is all I care to say about what is going to happen. All of my men are in the best of condition with the exception of Bush, and all that ails him is a sore finger, which is about well."

Mack called a conference of players in the clubhouse after yesterday's game with the Yankees and announced that a daily conference to discuss plays for the world's series will be held from now on.

A Philadelphia hotel man bet $1,000 against $800 today through Fred Schumm on the Athletics to win the world's series. A bet of 100 against 90 was made that the Athletics win the first game of the series. Boston supporters are generally holding out for odds of 10 to 8.

Chronic Dyspepsia.

The following unsolicited testimonial should certainly be sufficient to give hope and courage to persons afflicted with chronic dyspepsia: "I have been a chronic dyspeptic for years, and of all the medicine I have taken, Chamberlain's Tablets have done me more good than anything else," says W. G. Mattison, No. 7 Cherman St., Hornesville, N. Y. For sale by all dealers.

JACK JOHNSON NAMES HIS TERMS TO FIGHT

If this syndicate which is backing Jess Willard for a match with Jack Johnson will give the negro champion $30,000 regardless of the contest's result and guarantee him 50 percent of the moving picture privileges there can be a Johnson-Willard battle for the world's championship in the near future, perhaps as early as St. Patrick's day.

Word from Johnson naming these terms has been received in America from Europe, where Johnson is flitting about in a mad effort to dodge bullets meant for nobody in particular and everybody in general on the continent. Jack Curley, who at present is in New York pulling wires for the syndicate, received Johnson's terms by letter and forwarded it to Tom Jones.

Well, I Should Think Not.

"Turn it down," screamed Jones—he was ugly after a session in Toledo the night before, "well, I should think not. Only I can't see why we should grant Johnson's demand in regards to the pictures. If it comes to a showdown we'll give him 49 per cent, but that will be the extreme limit. The $30,000 asked is all right, in fact, those are our own terms, but we never will let control of the films get away from us."

Willard was extremely elated when he heard the good news.

"Johnson asks for a lot," Jess remarked, "but for my part he can have everything, just so long as I get the chance to fight him. I'll whip him sure, then my turn will come."

At the very best this picture matter is a trivial thing to argue about. In this era of the boxing game there isn't much, of any value, attached to the films. In fact, it would require a courageous man with plenty of time and money on his hands to tackle the venture.

Displaying of films involving static stars in battle has been prohibited by congress in this country, which leaves Europe alone for a field. And at this particular time entertainments of a different nature have clutched the continent, and exponents of anything but serious action are pressed sorely.

CLARK MAY QUIT PIRATES; OFFERS TO DROP BURDENS

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 7.—After having been the pilot for the Piratical tribe for the last fourteen years, during which he led his charges to three pennants and one world's championship, Fred Clarke wants to lay down his managerial burdens. He has offered to resign, and, according to his close friends, it would not be surprising if he does not return in the spring. Before leaving for Cincinnati Saturday night for the final games of the season Manager Clarke held a lengthy conference with Barney Dreyfuss, during which he offered to resign. Clarke said he has not made any arrangements for next year.

DENIES ORGANIZED BALL TO MAKE PEACE

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Organized baseball rose in its wrath last night to put the bee on all reports from Pittsburgh indicating that steps would be taken in the near future to establish peaceful relations with the Federals. Ban Johnson, boss of the American league and a member of the national commission, knocked the props out from under the yarn immediately upon his return from northern Michigan.

"There's not a word of truth in the story which originated in Pittsburgh to the effect that club owners of the American league have been negotiating with the Federals," said President Johnson. "The story that Messrs. Gaffney, Lannin, Somers and Baker were in conference with Gilmore in New York several days ago is tommyrot."

"I know, however, that President Weegman of the Chicago Federals while in the east asked to be introduced to President Lannin of the Boston Red Sox, who is proprietor of the Garden City hotel; and the pair met there, but only for a friendly chat."

"There can be no peaceful adjustment of this problem," continued the American league mogul. "When the American league invaded the game the club owners of our organization went in for a fight to the finish and never asked for a quarter. Organized ball was glad to welcome us. The mere suggestion of a compromise in this case never has been considered by our club owners."

"We have signed our players for the future; they are satisfied with their lots, and will be wearing American league uniforms next year. The same course has been pursued by the club owners of the National league."

"I don't know what the authors of these fake stories hope to gain by circulating such reports," concluded Johnson. "Whoever is sending out the dispatches is a prolific dreamer."

CONTRACTS FOR LARGEST U.S. WARSHIPS ARE LET

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7.—The Newport News (Va.) Shipbuilding company at $7,115,000 and the New York Shipbuilding company at $7,175,000 were the two lowest bidders today for the construction of the 32,000-ton battleships to be built for the navy this year. As each concern bid for one ship only, each will receive a contract.

The other bidders were: The Fore River Shipbuilding company of Quincy, Mass., at $7,440,000, and the Cramp Shipbuilding company of Philadelphia at $7,625,000.

The vessels, as well as the third of the group to be built in a government yard, will have these dimensions: Length over all, 624 feet; length between Perpendiculars, 600 feet; breadth, extreme, 97 feet 4 1-2 inches; draft, 30 feet; speed, 21 knots. The main batteries will consist of twelve 14-inch guns and four submerged torpedo tubes, while the torpedo defense battery will consist of twenty-two 5-inch rapid fire guns.

SUCCESSES ON SEA PLEASE THE GERMANS

Berlin, Oct. 7.—Press matter derived from official German sources says: "Surprise generally is expressed at the amazing activity of the German cruisers stationed abroad. Though it was generally expected that the vessels would fall easy victims to British warships within a fortnight after the declaration of war, Germans now are astonished to learn from reports in the British and French press of the damage they are doing to the merchant marine of the enemy."

"The Goeben, Breslau, Emden, Karlsruhe and the Leipzig are the names of the German vessels who success have caused the liveliest satisfaction in Germany."

"In addition, the cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, stationed in the Pacific, are reported to have been busy in the vicinity of Tahiti, Society Islands, where they succeeded in destroying the French gunboat Zelee."

"The attempts of the powers composing the triple entente to enforce the opening of the Dardanelles have failed. The Russian ambassador at Constantinople is described as being furious on account of the embargo placed on the exportation of Russian grain and on the importation of arms."

"The increased Turkish navy, it is expected, soon will be sailing in the Black sea. The Turkish press is publishing attacks on England because of the suppression of the khedival rights in Egypt."

10,000,000 French Fugitives.

"A neutral correspondent behind the French front in the department of the Marne estimates that the fugitive civilian population in northern France numbers 10,000,000, and that these persons are in great distress."

DYNAMITE AGAIN USED IN SUICIDE

Larocque, Mich.—That he committed suicide was the verdict rendered by the jury that held the inquest over the body of the unidentified man who was found 200 feet from the railroad tracks at Bunton, a flag stop north of here, early Monday morning.

The man was seen around a Larocque hotel Thursday and talked with some men concerning the latest war developments, but did not reveal his identity. Later he was seen walking north on the D. & M. tracks.

Body is Found.
 Early yesterday morning the body was found near a brush heap, about 200 feet from the tracks, his lower limbs badly mutilated. It was thought that he could not have been killed by a train, since the body was found so far from the tracks.

At the inquest it developed that he had committed suicide, a portion of a dynamite fuse being found in his pocket. It is believed that he ignited the fuse with the intention of blowing up his body, but only the lower portion was mangled.

Hand was Crippled.
 The man was about 65 years old and five feet eight inches tall. He was round shouldered. He had a full face and his hair was gray. The third and fourth fingers of his right hand were off at the second joint.

7 YEAR OLD BOY GETS HERO MEDAL

Monroe, Oct. 7.—Sunday morning at the Lutheran church the presentation of a hero medal to Ralph Grassie, a 7-year-old son of Lawrence G. Grassie, will be made. The medal is donated by the Ralston Purina hero commission in recognition of the child's bravery and presence of mind when he rescued little Margaret Greening from almost certain death some time ago.

The Greening girl grasped the broken end of a live electric lighting wire and was being electrocuted when Ralph Grassie, against the protestations of grown men and women, grabbed her by the dress and managed to drag her far enough so that the wire finally slipped out of her hand, but not until she had been burned so terribly that, according to reports of specialists, she will be crippled for life.

GERMANS STILL VICTORIOUS.

 South Sea possessions, and capital of Tahiti, is in ruins as a result of a three hour bombardment by the German cruisers, Gneisenau and Scharnhorst on Sept. 23. Two natives were killed, and two ships sunk. The property damage is estimated at two million dollars. Shells set fire to part of the town. This news was brought by passengers of the liner Moana, arriving here today. Moana called at Papeete two days after the bombardment and brought away a number of white residents.

London, Oct. 7.—With the exception of the allies' army, where there is a reason to believe that lively actions are being fought, the great battle front of the western arena of the war may today be described as a gigantic "sniping" engagement in which riflemen have been replaced by batteries of heavy artillery masked along the heights of the Alsne and Meuse. These desultory artillery duels seem to have succeeded the desperate infantry charges with which, during the earlier stages of the battle, both sides sought to clear out the extended lines of the entrenched hostile troops. One result of the present stage of operations which has been appreciable is the diminution in casualties.

Observers recently at the front declare the allies are well content to play this waiting game as they now outnumber the Germans and for this reason give their troops rest, while the invaders must keep men constantly in the trenches. The most important developments of the fighting in France is the reported movement of the German artillery, said to be 70,000 strong, southward through Belgium by way of Temple Neuve and Tournai in the direction of the French border.

Berlin military circles predicted recently that the allies will meet disaster if they strengthen their line on the left wing too far and it is believed here the Germans are now seeking to crush the enveloping movement which has been closing in on General Von Kluck's right for the past three weeks.

The latest official Paris communication ignores this movement. It declares the situation in this locality unchanged but admits fighting along the left wing, north of the Oise, is becoming more and more violent.

Following the lead of the Germans in the North sea, France has decided to lay mines in the Adriatic.

London, Oct. 7.—The conflict along the rivers of the northern France, now in its 26th day, shows fewer signs of an early end than it did two days ago.

General Von Kluck, having received heavy reinforcements, apparently is engaged in his turn, in attempting to outflank the allies' line.

This counter stroke is viewed here as the supreme feature of the western theater of war.

Berlin, Oct. 7 (via Wireless).—The German general staff in a report today, says the fighting on the German right wing in France has been successful.

It is reported in government quarters that two more Antwerp forts, Kessel Broochen and Fallon, have been captured, and that the capitulation of Antwerp is a matter of only a couple of days.

London, Oct. 7.—A Hague dispatch says newspapers reaching there indicate that Count Zeppelin is now at Wilhelmshaven, on the North Sea with his staff. Wilhelmshaven is the point from which the great air raid on the British Isles is expected to start. Zeppelin staffs are working day and night at Wilhelmshaven and another station is being established at Emden for other types of airships.

Tokio, Oct. 7.—The belief is expressed at the war office that the German cruiser Cormoran and two other German gunboats have been sunk in Kiao Chow bay. The Japanese army has occupied the Shantung railroad as far as Shantung.

London, Oct. 7.—A Rome dispatch says: "A message from Vienna announces a sudden outbreak of Asiatic cholera in a most violent form at Ternow, Galicia. Forty cases were reported Tuesday."

Tarnow has about 35,000 inhabitants and is on the line which the Russians and Austrians are taking on their way to Cracow.

Paris, Oct. 7.—A Petrograd dispatch says that Przemyel, the strong fortress 50 miles west of Lemberg, is being bombarded by Russian heavy artillery. The damage is considerable and houses are set afire by bursting shrapnel. All efforts of the Austrian field forces to assist the fort are unsuccessful and their troops have retreated to Viotslavsk.

London, Oct. 7.—It is officially announced from Huszt, Hungary, that the Austrians have been heavily engaged with the Russians since Monday, near Tescoe, says a Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent. The battle ended near Koerossalva, with a complete victory for the Austrians.

Petrograd, Oct. 7.—The Ruskyy Slovo correspondent, detailing briefly the battle on the Niemen river, says the Germans suffered enormous losses. Thousands of bodies of Germans lie on the left bank of the river.

London, Oct. 7.—An Amsterdam dispatch says that a German torpedo boat destroyer is reported sunk by a mine off an estuary of the River Ems, between Netherlands and East Friseland, in the North sea. A German for the vote of confidence so liberally bestowed with the hundreds of sales at the Central Cash Market this Saturday past. You had been offered beef roast at 14c and spring chickens at 18 cents per pound. Was this offer a mere bait, a ruse, or would some one take it in his head to have you believe that the Central Cash Market is over charging you. There never was nor never will be such a thing as over charging at the Central Cash Market. We use neither bait nor bargain for what so ever we sell you goes at but one rock bottom price and nothing is excepted. To come back to beef roast and spring chickens will say that steer beef rib roast in the critter cost 15 cents per pound and live spring chickens cost 18 cents per pound delivered here. To the 18 add 2 cents for shrinkage and dressing and two cents per pound for handling charges and you have spring chickens at 2 cents per pound over and above cost. And when you come to retail on a 2 cents per pound margin you have to go some to make both ends meet.

Kindly accept from someone who does business open and above board, whose only aim is to serve you well and give you your money's worth at all stages of the game. During the few months the Central Cash Market has been doing business we have saved you $2000 and over. This will buy clothes, fuel and help out in a good many ways. We are open for inspection and invite the verification of any statement we make you and again let us thank you for the confidence you have in the Central Cash Market and allow me to further state that this confidence of yours will never be violated. BRAVES' STOCK IS ON THE RISE

New York, Oct. 7.—Betting on the world's series has undergone a change. The Braves are held a shorter odds than a few days ago. Before the Braves clinched the pennant in the National league the fans figured that they were without a chance against the Mackmen, and the odds were fixed at 2 to 1. Some bets were made at 3 to 1. But the last few days has seen such an abundance of Boston money that those who like Philadelphia have cut the odds. Some money is being wagered at 5 to 4, while 3 to 2 are about the longest odds that can be obtained.

It's likely that these odds will prevail at the time of the first game, for it can scarcely be conceived that the Braves will become equal favorites with the strong Philadelphia slug-gers.

The Athletic bettors are especially eager to wager on the first game, and here the odds have lengthened. It is expected that Bender will twirl this first contest, and 2 to 1 is being wagered that it will be a Boston defeat.

Freak bets have been many. Several bets that the Boston twirlers will allow fewer earned runs than the Philadelphia pitchers have been made.

GIRLS PREFER WORK INSTEAD OF MARRYING

Chicago.—A few years ago when a girl left school she immediately began to hunt a husband. Getting married was her only outlook and the best chance she had of getting a home. It's different now. When a Chicago girl leaves school these days she immediately hunts a job. Then, when she has demonstrated her ability to support her self—and, contribute largely toward the upkeep of divers brother and sisters—she leisurely looks over the male of the species and selects one to suit her fancy.

All of this is indicated by the new school census, according to W. L. Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education. His figures show there are 759,778 males engaged in occupations in the city, compared 555,515 in 1909, while 236,811 females hold positions now against 149,867 in 1909. The men gained only 36 per cent, while the women gained 58 per cent.

"These statistics show the women of today are fast breaking away from economic dependence on men," said Bodine. "Girls are not now marrying just to get a home. Statistics show their marriages are not increasing with the same percentage of gains as the population."

Some of the occupations in which women and girls of Chicago are engaged, and the number employed, are as follows: Stenographers, 21,669; dressmakers, 15,999 domestics, 34,073; physicians, 529, janitresses, 725, bookkeepers 9,977, merchants, 3,375, telephone operators, 4,777, milliners, 5,461, teachers, 8,573.

PRAIRIE CHICKENS APPEARING HERE

Prairie chickens, which have been found in considerable numbers in Iron and Dickinson counties for the past few years, are now being reported from various parts of Delta county.

The birds are protected until 1917, and it is probable that their protection will be extended beyond that date. As a result, the partridge hunter faces a somewhat vexing problem. Many times the last few days the question has been asked, "What is the difference between a prairie chicken and a partridge?" Yesterday the problem was submitted to the State Game Warden Oates for solution.

"The prairie chicken is a somewhat heavier bird than the ruffed grouse, and resembles the sharp-tailed grouse in a general way," he said. "The bird is especially abundant in the southern part of the state, particularly in Livingston county. At mating time the bird's note is what might be described as booming, crowing and tooting. Its qualities being that of a ringing bell combined with the resonance of a drum. In this respect it differs from the partridge, which makes a drumming noise."
 "The prairie chicken is not driven out by civilization, but it has been found that its numbers increase with the cultivation of the county. It nests in prairie lands, and in large tracts of undrained land. Only within the last few years has it been reported in the upper peninsula, especially from Dickinson and Iron counties. The bird nests on the ground, and lays from ten to fifteen eggs, which range from pale green to olive buff in color."
 "The bird is not injurious to crops, but eats myriads of harmful insects and grasshoppers. It also feeds on grains and seeds, and sometimes on young buds and leaves."
 "It is not considered to be of as great value to the farmer as the insectivorous quail, but it is nearly so."

REMORSE HAS SEIZED CONFEDERATE SOLDIER

Monroe, Mich.—Hemorse has seized Miles A. Johnson of Melrose, New Mexico, and he wants to return a pocketbook he took away from a tired and half-starved Union soldier on the road over fifty years ago. It was during the campaign preceding the siege and fall of Vicksburg in 1863, and the armies of the north and south were in a death grapple, day after day, having but little time for rest and eating what they could find in the devastated country. It was after one of these daily battles that John A. Butler, a former resident of this city, weak and famished and half sick, became separated from his regiment and as he struggled along the dusty pike in an endeavor to regain the Union lines which had been temporarily repulsed a soldier clad in a ragged suit of Confederate gray suddenly stepped out from the roadside thicket and at the point of a bayonet captured Private Butler. The captor, who had not farred any too well himself, searched his prisoner before turning him over to the proper authorities. The search revealed some tobacco and a pocket book with a small amount of change in it, and the owner's name and address. The money and the tobacco were soon gone, but Miles Johnson has taken good care of the northern soldier's purse and in a letter to Postmaster Charles E. Kirby, he asks him to locate Mr. Butler, as he wants him to have what rightfully belongs to him. Mr. Butler moved away from here a short time ago and as yet has not been located.

AIRSHIP PATROL GUARDS CHANNEL

London, Oct. 7.—The following statement has been issued by the admiralty:
 "While an expeditionary force was being moved abroad, a strong patrol eastward of the Dover straits was undertaken by seaplanes and airships of the naval air service. The airships patrolled steadily between the French and English coast for 12 hours.

"On the end further east with the assistance of the Belgians, a temporary seaplane base was established at Ostend, and patrol of seaplanes was kept up between Ostend and the English coast.

"It was thus impossible for the enemy's ships to approach the straits without being seen for very many miles. At one time it was necessary to change a blade of the propeller of an airship. Two of the crew immediately volunteered to carry out the difficult task in the air. They climbed out and changed the blade at an altitude of 2,000 feet above the sea.

"Much good work is being carried out by the aeroplanes, supported by armed motor cars. Advanced bases have been established inland, and several skirmishes have taken place between armed motor cars and their support and bands of Uhlans. In all of these we have been successful.

"Naval armed cars and aeroplanes have assisted the French forces on several occasions. Good work has also been done in dropping bombs on positions of military importance and railway communication."
