THREE COWS ARE KILLED

Headlighters are at work in Bay-de-Noc township. Three cows belonging to "Denny" Peterson, a Stonington farmer, mistaken for deer, were shot by headlighters on Thursday night. The bodies of the cows were found yesterday morning by the owner. Mr. Peterson possessed but four cows and the loss of all but one from his herd has proven a heavy loss to him. The identity of the headlighters is believed to be known and arrests will probably follow in a few days. From the positions in which the bodies of the cows were found, it is believed that they were lying down and in the darkness the before-season hunters believed that they had come upon a flock of deer and shot three of the cows before the mistake was discovered.

DRIZZLING RAIN BOON TO SETTLERS

Last night's steady drizzle of rain has come as a boon to settlers of the district who have been waiting patiently for favorable weather to start brush fires in new clearings. The dry weather of the past two weeks forced a practically suspension of all burning operations and after the present storm that work can be continued without danger of fires spreading and assuming alarming proportions.

BIG MUSICAL COMEDY SCORES BIG HIT HERE

Bewitching and fascinating was every one of the three acts of "When Dreams Come True" at the Peterson opera house last night. Supported by one of the strongest companies ever to appear at the Peterson opera house, Frederick Santley, the youthful comedian, last night scored a big hit before the big audience.

creating a grave suspicion in the British mind.

(Special to the Press.) Paris, Oct. 23.—The official statement tonight says: "On our left, action continued with extreme violence especially around Arras, LaBasse, Armentieres. The allies lost ground at some points around LaBasse, and gained ground east of Armentieres. The situation is unchanged in a general way along this part of the front. North of the Aisne our artillery destroyed three German batteries."

(Special to the Press.) London, Oct. 23.—The German guns are stuck in the mud. Upon this situation the allies base their hope of a victory in the battle on the north Belgian coast. The battle has been raging a week and is still going on with no decisive result. The Germans supported by Howitzers are still on the offensive against the allies and Belgians. The battle has revolved itself into a duel of big guns. The allies have the advantage now, for the opening of the dykes prevent the Germans from advancing and cannot bring their guns within the same range as the allies. The German guns are now able to reach the Belgian and French trenches today and their fire resulted in heavy losses.

(Special to the Press.) Paris, Oct. 23.—French gunners today destroyed three German batteries in an artillery engagement of huge proportions north of the Aisne. The reduction of the German fortified position north of Aisne marks a new line of attack upon the invaders front. The object is to cut through the right center of the German line, with an ultimate object to drive a wedge behind Von Kluck's army enveloping him from south and turning his left flank, back upon rear of Von Kluck's main position.

The ferocity of the encounters around Arras, LaBasse, Armentieres unparalleled in history of army war. The carnage is frightful and the troops on both sides are on the verge of demoralization on account of physical exhaustion and rigors of the campaign in inclement weather.

TO MEET ISHPERING

This afternoon the members of the Escanaba high school football team will clash with the squad from the Ishpeming high school at the local football gridiron. The team that will meet the crusty little aggregation from the hemattite city is made up of the cream of the football talent of the local high school and no better chances were ever offered for a victory than today.

The Ishpeming high school this year, claims to possess a team of marked ability and one which far surpassed that of many years past. The Ishpeming team of former years has not been looked upon as serious contenders in the interscholastic race in the peninsula but this year they are looming in the limelight and will come to Escanaba with a string of victories in their favor.

The Ishpeming team, it is said, is of about the same weight as that of the locals and they are reported to be decidedly fast.

With the ability of Ishpeming to play hard football taken seriously, both teams should receive a good try-out at the local gridiron this afternoon.

The Escanaba team has not yet this season lost a game. A mass meeting was held at the high school last night to create enthusiasm. Supt. King, Coach Hutto, Captain Perrin and others delivered brief talks that should make for more confidence in the minds of the players as they enter the contest of this afternoon. Escanaba people should appreciate the fact that the local high school is again offering a winning football team, after several years of silence on the gridiron, and there is no better way of demonstrating such appreciation than attending the game today.

WILL SPEAK HERE TONIGHT

Emmett L. Beach, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, arrived in Escanaba yesterday and tonight will address an audience at the city hall in this city. Last night in spite of the inclement weather conditions that prevailed, he delivered an address before a large party of voters at Gladstone. Mr. Beach has been on a tour through the state for the past two weeks and has been enthusiastically greeted at every point. He is an attorney of high reputation and an orator of marked ability. It is expected that a record breaking crowd of voters will gather at the city hall this evening to hear the issues of the present campaign discussed from a Democratic standpoint.

MASS MEETING IS ARRANGED

Fraternal insurance society members and others interested in the defeat of the proposed fraternal insurance amendment to the state constitution, will turn out in force at the city hall on Monday evening when a big mass meeting is to be held at that place. Paul Tice, of Chicago, representing the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Fraternal Voters League of Michigan, has been secured to deliver the address of the evening. All of the railway organizations and many of the union members of the city are interested in the defeat of the measure in addition to the holders of fraternal society insurance.

The Mass meeting of Monday night, it is believed, will attract an audience that will tax the capacity of the auditorium at the city hall as hundreds of Escanaba people are interested in hearing a complete discussion of the important matter.

CARRANZA'S JOB GOES

(Special to the Press.) Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—Carranza's job, as President of Mexico is thought here in imminent danger. The state department had word today that the national convention of Mexico designated five portfolios to be filled for the initial government of the new republic. When the convention declared itself sovereign, it by imputation threw out Carranza. It is now undertaken to throw him out actually by the appointment of ex-cials whom he wanted to appoint.

GETS WORD OF HIS MOTHER'S ILLNESS

Isadore Cyr will leave this morning for his boyhood home at New Richmond, Quebec, called there by the serious illness of his mother. Mr. Cyr received a message announcing that the condition of his mother is very critical. Although 77 years of age, Mrs. Cyr had enjoyed excellent health until the past few weeks, her condition gradually growing more serious.

SHOW DIRECTOR HAS LEFT CITY

Mrs. Randolph Madden, Jr., who had charge of the Society Vaudeville, given here under the auspices of St. Stephen's church, left last night for her home in Chicago, where she will visit for several days before going to St. James, Minn., where she will stage a similar attraction.

When asked to make a statement in regard to the home talent production in Escanaba, Mrs. Madden said: "The talent here was far above the ordinary and I am highly pleased with the results attained. Each member of the cast entered into the spirit of the occasion whole hearted and freely gave of their time that went a long way toward the success of the show. I can say that I am indeed pleased with the attraction as presented."

DISTRICT GROWING

TERRITORY ABOUT BARK RIVER HAS WONDERFUL FUTURE. FAMILIES ARE BUSY

The farmers of Bark River and vicinity are busily engaged in harvesting sugar beets, the crop is very good this year, much better than the average. Joseph Frechette has an exhibition in his hotel, several large beets. One grown by Elmer Bruce weighs five pounds and two grown by Charles, weighs 5 1-4 and 5 1-2 respectively. This is considered remarkable weight for sugar beets. One of the most striking evidences of the immense strides in agricultural pursuits is the humble cow. The farmers have been forced to the conclusion that the greatest source of wealth can be attained only through the dairy, and the practical man has acted accordingly. It is not an uncommon thing to see from 10 to 20 cows, many of them registered, grazing peacefully on the succulent pastures. Also excellent barns to house them during the rigors of the winter. The silo is another sure sign of permanency in the dairy business. No less than 50 silos have been built during the past year, within a radius of 8 miles of Bark River. A representative of the Press took an extended trip over R. F. D. No. 2 recently. This route takes in Eustis, where land is being cleared and stumped, and as the soil is of exceptional fertility, farmers are becoming quite prosperous. The road from Eustis runs west and north through a very sparsely settled area. Here the land is equally good, but owing to the fact that until the past three years, roads were completely neglected. A new road was built by Menominee county from Indian town to Peroville, a distance of about five miles. This part of the Cloverland offers an exceptional fine opportunity to the farmer of limited means, as land is cheap and prices for cut over land average about $20.00 per acre. The village of Schaffer is located in the center of one of the most highly productive sections in Delta county. Some years ago a hardy thrifty vigorous and energetic class of men settled here and by their thrift, coupled with the great productivity of the soil, has enabled them to develop that favored locality far in advance of other sections of the county. The land being level and free from depressions makes it an ideal place for the enterprising progressive farmer. All things considered, this section of Cloverland, has all of the advantages of the ideal dairy country, and the settlers are fast taking advantage of the opportunities offered them, a wide expanse of well cultivated land meet the eye in every direction, the future prosperity of this section is assured.

George Ruther, burglary, not more than 15 years, not less than one year with a recommendation by the court of four years in the Northern State Prison at Marquette.

John Judaski, assault with a deadly weapon, not more than three years, not less than one year and a recommendation by the court of three years in the Northern State prison at Marquette.

Earl Evans, forgery, not more than 14 years, not less than one year with a recommendation by the court of three years at hard labor at the state reformatory at Ionia.

McKinley Smeers, burglary, not more than 15 years, not less than one year with a recommendation by the court of one year at the state reformatory at Ionia.

Raymond Carlson, burglary and Lawrence O'Donnell, burglary, paroled for three years with Sheriff T. J. Curran as parole officer.

As the hands of the clock in the court room pointed to the hour of two Sheriff T. J. Curran called the court room to its feet in calling the session to order. Just inside the railing or the prisoners box sat seven men with bowed heads. All were under 26 years of age with the exception of one, who was 45. One was a lad of 17. Judge Richard C. Flannigan mounted his bench and ordered the prisoners to stand in a row before him. Dishonor and shame was written in the face of each one, as he bowed his head before the judge to receive sentence.

John Judaski, self confessed assault or upon Waldo Roberts of the Chemical Plant last fall, was first to receive the sentence of the court. His talk to Judaski was brief before the sentence was passed sending him to prison at Marquette for at least three years. The prisoner again took his seat inside the railing.

George Ruther, convicted of the charge of robbing the Escanaba Liquor Company store was the next to come before the judge. He was asked if he wished to say anything before sentence was passed and he replied in the negative. Ruther was sent to the Marquette prison with a recommendation of four years.

Earl Evans, convicted of forgery, was sent to Ionia state reformatory with a recommendation of three years. Evans had nothing to say before sentence was passed.

McKinley Smeers, 17 years of age charged with robbery received a fatherly, but stern five minute talk from the judge. The court inquired into the past of the lad who denied practically everything which the judge knew to be true of his past. At this point Judge Flannigan turned to the court room and said: "You people may think it an easy thing to pass sentence upon a boy but I wish that some of you could try it once and see." The judge shamed the Smeers lad, that a lad of his appearance should be before him for sentence for such a loathsome crime. But bright eyed and unafraid the lad faced the judge and took his sentence of not more than 15 years and not less than one year.

One of the most touching scenes ever enacted in the local circuit court chamber was that of yesterday when Judge Flannigan called Raymond and Gehardt Carlson and Lawrence O'Donnell before him for sentence. The court room was in a death like silence. The lads were asked their ages. They were 22, 21 and 18 respectively. The court talked to the lads for fully 15 minutes and in paroling them said in part: "It is a terrible thing to know and see three bright and intelligent boys like you before me for sentence for the crime with which you are charged." When the court asked them for their reason for robbing the Cash Clothing Co. Store, the lads all replied that they were "intoxicated." "Intoxicated, were you," cried the court. "Do you call that an excuse?"

"Here you stand before me and tell me that you were intoxicated and that the robbery was not premeditated. The very idea is ridiculous. But I cannot believe that you boys are bad at heart. If there ever was a spark of man hood in you it surely will come to the surface today. I could send you to prison for a long term of years, but I am going to do what I believe is right with you, even though I may be criticised for doing so. All of you boys have told me that you have had mothers. I have found that they were good ones. Some time or other those mothers took you to church and the first stipulation of your parole is that you attend church every single Sunday, no matter what church, rich or lowly, but attend church every Sunday that your health permits. You are not to touch one single drop of intoxicating liquor; you are not to be seen in a pool room or saloon; you are not to leave the county without the consent of the parole officer; you

MEN ARE SENTENCED

OUT NEARLY TEN HOURS, TWELVE MEN AGREE AND AWARD JNO. COLBURN $3379

After being out since 3.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the jury in the case of John Colburn of Cornell against the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, returned last night at 10:20 o'clock with a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $3379. The question asked of the jury by the court was answered "No."

With the exception of an hour, taken by the court to pass sentence upon several prisoners, the Colburn case again equipped the attention of the court until the jurors were given their final instructions at 3.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Called for trial as one of the minor cases on the court calendar, the Colburn action developed into one of the longest of the present term of court. An exhaustive supply of witnesses were sworn by both the plaintiff and defense; locomotives were built and rebuilt; the wind was alleged to have blown in all directions on the night of the fire and in fact every known kind of evidence was introduced by both sides in the trial that lasted slightly over three days.

Yesterday morning both Atty. Ryall for the plaintiff and Atty. Watson and Spencer for the defense, made their final pleas to the jury. Yesterday afternoon the defense attorney asked for the reading of the testimony of Frank M. Huber, roundhouse foreman at Channing at the time of the fire. The reading occupied nearly an hour's time.

Following the final argument of the defense Judge Flannigan summed the entire case up in a concise and brief manner, urging the jurors to go to the jury room and vote according to the evidence that had been submitted in the case. He portrayed in a vivid manner the sum and total of evidence produced by both sides and then in his final charging gave the jury the following question to answer in the jury room: "Do you find that the spark arresting appliances in the head end of locomotive 7804, at the time that it passed the mill, claimed to have been in good order at the time of the fire, was in good order?" The question was answered "No."

For several hours the members of the panel were unable to reach any sort of a verdict but pressure brought to bear toward the latter part of the evening, finally succeeded in bringing about a satisfactory agreement. The plaintiff sued for slightly less than $12,000, but the jury evidently did not consider the machinery and the building as valuable as it was alleged to have been.

Burglars on Thursday night entered the hardware store of Carl Johnson, at 313 Ludington street and escaped with two revolvers, a quantity of cartridges and other goods taken from the stock. Entrance to the building was gained by the intruders by forcing a rear window at the building. They made their escape with their booty without being detected and without leaving any trail on which the officers may work in establishing their identity.

JURY REACHES A VERDICT

BATTLE NEAR COOKS MILLS

UNITED FORCE OF CITIZENS OF VILLAGE HOLD SCORE OF POLES AT BAY WITH RIFLES AND SHOT GUNS

A "near battle" was waged at Cooks Mills yesterday afternoon when 20 lumber jacks were held at bay by an armed posse of citizens until officers arrived from Manistique, after the woodsmen had quit work at Connor's and McCafferty Camp 47, where their wages had been cut.

Yesterday morning nineteen Poles landed in Cooks Mills from the camp and proceeded to drown their sorrows. After reaching a state of intoxication the foreigners purchased a lunch and went to the station to eat it. At the station they became engaged in an argument with an Austrian, perhaps over the war, and set about to dispense with presence on earth. The Austrian was badly battered and torn when the residents of Cooks took a hand in the fight. Arming themselves with shot guns and rifles, the citizens held the Poles, who were armed with clubs and knives, at bay until Sheriff Howard, Chief Stephenson and Deputy Sheriff Rediger of Manistique, arrived on the scene with other deputies to quell the riot.

The officers experienced some difficulty in placing the men under arrest but when finally successful, loaded them in the autos and returned them to Manistique and locked them up to await trial.

The entire village of Cooks was wrought up over the matter yesterday and practically every able bodied man in the town turned out with his gun to defend his interests in the village against the drunken Poles.

THE IMMUNE CAMPAIGNER.

An order for 6,000 packages of lockjaw anti toxin for French and English troops has been placed with a Philadelphia chemical manufacturing company by the British government. It is explained that this anti-toxin is especially for the use of soldiers that fight in trenches, that the tetanus germ is particularly prevalent in dirt, and that the soldiers are to be inoculated before they are allowed to enter the trenches.

Here are a great many ounces of prevention. Sickness kills more than bullets—at least in ordinary campaigns—and preventive medicine is a prime necessity in the modern army. Typhoid fever is a camp disease against which thousands of soldiers of all nations are annually immunized by the use of the proper serum. All army men must be vaccinated to prevent outbreaks of smallpox. If there were antitoxins against bubonic plague, Asiatic cholera, hook worm and tender feet, these, too would be included in the regular camp hospital supplies. No precautions are omitted to save the valuable lives of soldiers from the natural pathogenic organisms and for the more orthodox death by lead or steel.

Inoculation with these various antitoxins is not unattended by inconvenience. Vaccination makes the arm sore, and those who are immunized against typhoid fever are generally in a miserable state of health while the remedying is working. And so it is with most of the preventive injections. When the modern soldier is ready to go forth and face bullets with no distracting fear of bacilli he is a walking drug shop. The wonder is that he is able to crawl to the trenches at all, debilitated. However, he would doubtless submit to all this and more, gladly, if some serum could be discovered which would do away with the unpleasant effects of the dum dum bullet and the bursting shell.

Boston's culture isn't in such a deplorable condition. They can't have grand opera there, but it is remembered that one baseball matinee drew more people in the old town than would two solid weeks of opera.

Every now and then one reads something about a "decade" in the war news. And then one doesn't know whether to look it up in the dictionary or spring it on an unsuspecting friend.

"There are some things more disagreeable than raw garlic," says the Milwaukee Sentinel. For instance, garlic that has been eaten by the fellow who sits next you in the car.

The presses were delayed for some time yesterday, while the papers were getting ready to announce an attack on the town of Ostend on a fresh line of Schtschutschyn.

Dandelion roots, used as medicine have advanced 200 per cent on account of the war. Dandelions, one is to understand, do not grow in this country.

Remembering how peaceful Europe felt just before the war, we are not boasting much about this October weather.

We infer that from the London point of view every cloud bears a Zepelin shadow.

Turkey continues to sit cross-legged and enjoy the chibouk.

Why talk war tax? Look at the one Antwerp has.

Opportunity is knocking at the door with a mailed fist.

WAR

(Continued from page one) London, Oct. 23. The villages of Schooten, L-finzhe, Wilskerke and Slype, in northern Belgium, are all partly in ruins, according to the Daily Mail's Flanders correspondent. "The Germans," the correspondent adds, "are making trenches and bringing guns and machine guns to Zeebrugge, apparently in preparation for a retreat. Six thousand bottles of wine were demanded from Ostend yesterday."

London, Oct. 23. An Amsterdam dispatch to the Central News quotes a telegram from the burgomaster of Wenduine, Belgium, as follows: "Victory is with the allies. Seventy thousand men have been taken prisoners between Chalons and Longwy. Three guns and thirty one flags have been captured."

(Wenduine is a town of West Flanders on the Belgian coast. Chalons and Longwy are, respectively, in the French departments of Marne and Meurthe-et-Moselle, nearly two hundred miles southeast of the Belgian province from which the above dispatch emanates.)

Lord Crewe, secretary of state for India, officially disclosed in a speech delivered last Tuesday but made public only today, that the Indian troops in France have not yet taken part in any of the battles. The men and their horses, required considerable time to become acclimated, but the belief here is that they soon will be ready to take their places at the front.

As though the Belgians had not already suffered sufficiently from the war, the villages along the coast north of Ostend are suffering severely from shell fire. Lying as they do, between the German lines and the British warships off the beach, some of them are reported to have been wiped out and others badly damaged. It is believed, however, that virtually all the inhabitants of the villages fled when the Belgian army retired behind the Yser river.

From the Battle Front via Paris, Oct. 23. The obstinacy of both armies in the fighting apparently is growing daily. The battle in the north has become more violent than ever. The Germans were fiercer in today's attacks on the Belgians, whose extreme wing stretches from the coast along a front of more than twenty miles, on which they are fighting heroically for the restoration of the independence of their stricken country.

Farther on to LaBassee and Lille the combat today also was of a most vigorous character. London, Oct. 23. The British warships co-operating with the allied army along the Belgian coast have suffered practically no damage from the fire of the German heavy guns, because of the superiority of the British marine artillery, according to a statement issued tonight by the secretary of the admiralty. The statement also declares that the reports indicate that substantial losses have been inflicted on the German lines.

London, Oct. 23. In the eastern theater of war, in Poland at least, the preliminary battle has moved a little more swiftly than in the west. The Russians report that they have been able to drive back the first German offensive move against Warsaw, the Polish capital, an dthe fortress of Ivangorod. All the Russian accounts refer to this as a great victory. They declare that the Germans, besides losing many prisoners and guns, have left large quantities of ammunition and supplies in the trenches they had prepared for their defense. The German headquarters heretofore had made no reference to this struggle, but today it says that after several days of battle no fighting was reported yesterday.

Apparently there has been more fighting on the East Prussian frontier, where the situation has been quiet for some time, as the German report says "our troops are pursuing the retreating enemy in the direction of Osnowetz." Osnowetz is the fortress which was in range of the German guns several weeks ago when their advance on the Niemen failed.

The battle around Przemysl and south of that city is still going on, but farther south the Austrians claim they have cleared the Russians out of Hungary and are advancing toward Boukowitz, a crown land in eastern Galicia, with the same object in view.

Again today it was reported that Italy had landed marines at Avlona, Albania. Such a step, it is generally believed in London, would not be resented by any power at the present moment, when the situation in Albania is so serious because of the warring tribes and the strife between the contenders for the crown of the new nation, surrendered recently by Prince William of Wied, who ruled for a few months.

Berlin, via Amsterdam and London, Oct. 23.—The German war office says, "In the northeastern war theater, our troops are pursuing the retreating enemy in the direction of Osnowetz (Russian Poland.) Several hundred prisoners and machine guns were taken."

"Near Warsaw and elsewhere in Russian Poland, after several days of battle no fighting was reported yesterday. The situation is still in a state of evolution."

Washington, Oct. 23.—A cablegram from the French foreign office, made public tonight by the French embassy here, said:

"The Germans before Warsaw have abandoned their defensive positions, and are in retreat, pursued by the Russians, who have captured many prisoners and munitions. The Seventeenth and Twentieth German army corps have been decimated."

London, Oct. 23.—The Daily Telegraph's Boulogne correspondent, who left Lille Wednesday morning, says: "Lille is a mass of ruins and ashes. On Monday evening, numbers of Germans entered the town. The bombardment ceased, but distant firing still was heard south of the town until 1 o'clock in the morning."

"About midnight the news was given out that the white flag had been hoisted on the town hall, but at 2 o'clock the firing re-commenced and continued for more than three hours. Evidently the French were making a last attempt on the border town, unfortunately without success."

"Later military music was heard. The Germans entered the town to the tune of the life and drum. The troops were singing hymns. Most of them were very gay and smoked big black cigars as they marched along."

"Meanwhile aeroplanes flying the German flag flew ahead of the columns announcing to the city its occupation by the Germans. At daybreak the inhabitants began to leave, for the most part flying towards Roubaix. Those who traveled to Boulogne heard reports later that the Germans the next day commenced withdrawing from Lille."

"Whoever now holds Lille, it is a wrecked city. Flames have completed the work of bombardment."

Berlin, via Amsterdam and London, Oct. 22. The German war office makes public the following dispatch received from the general headquarters of the army dated this (Thursday) forenoon:

"The fighting on the Yser canal still continues. Eleven British war vessels assist the enemy's artillery. "In the engagement, a British torpedo boat was put out of action by our artillery."

"Fighting continues west of Lille and here, also, our troops have assumed the offensive and have repulsed the enemy at several points. The English have lost several machine guns."

"East of Dixmude, the enemy was repulsed. Our troops have advanced successfully in the direction of Ypres. "The battles to the northwest of Lille are very severe, but the enemy is slowly retreating along the whole line."

"Fierce attacks from the direction of Toulon heights, south of Thiaucourt, were repulsed with heavy losses to the French."

"The fact is the British admiral commanding the fleet off Ostend wanted to bombard the town, but finally was persuaded by the Belgian authorities to abstain."

Paris, Oct. 23.—The official communication issued by the French war office tonight says:

"The activity which the enemy displayed yesterday did not slacken today. Between the sea and LaBassee the battle has continued with just as great violence, without the Germans being able to force back the Belgian army or the French and British troops. "Similarly, between Arras and the Oise the enemy has made determined efforts which have at no point been crowned with success."

"In the Argonne region, we have made progress between St. Hubert and Le Four de Paris. "To the north of Verdun, we have gained ground at Haumont and Brabant on the Meuse. In the Woivre region, we have repulsed an attack on Champlon."

Mrs. Elmer Carlson of Bark River visited in the city yesterday.

FAVORS LEAVING THE CONSTITUTION ALONE

Washington, Oct. 22.—Reform in marriage and divorce laws through uniform state legislation was urged by former President Taft in a brief address before the commission on uniform state laws. The former President condemned the "looseness with which the marriage tie is looked upon in many states."

Mr. Taft placed himself on record as flatly opposed to "tinkering" with the federal constitution under present conditions. "I am not in favor of any amendment to the constitution," he said emphatically, "not because it does not need them for I believe that in the light of our acquaintance with the minor changes which would facilitate its operation. But I am not in favor of tinkering with it at a time when there are so many cranks and so many movements looking toward its total abolition."

ARMY OF GOATS IS INVESTING TOWN

Lowell, Oct. 23.—Because of an embargo on sending animals out of the state of Michigan on account of the hoof and mouth disease now raging among Michigan cattle, Lowell is invested with an army of goats, 754 in all.

The goats were consigned to Chicago, but were unloaded here when it was learned that the embargo was in effect. An attempt to keep them corralled failed and several of them broke away and roamed about the city. Pasture is being sought until a decision is received from state officials as to whether the goats may be shipped to Chicago or must be returned.

idealized French chef? The apron, pointed mustache and goatee. The fat and good-natured kind with a little bay window? My inn-keeper at this instant looked the model for this picture. He was smiling and rubbing with his hands his rotund tummy.

"On boze," I probed.

"Champagne," he grinned.

"The whole army drunk on champagne?"

"Most of it," he said. "And it cost the battle, the battle which lost 'em Paris."

"Champagne cost Germany Paris, eh?"

"Just that," the inn-keeper replied and for three minutes he was silent during which he served me with a "Friture de la Marne" with tartar sauce, which he had started himself before coming out of his kitchen to lay my table and talk to me. While I was eating the "friture" he went on, talking slowly, hesitatingly, as if enjoying his story as much as he fancied I would enjoy it.

"Champagne, monsieur," he smiled—his smile was constant, but now there was a trifle of irony in it—"it is not for the Boches. They drink beer. There is no poetry in beer—no romance. Ugh! It makes me—billious, tres malade. It is not so with champagne. In it there is everything that is tender and delicate and beautiful and rosy; it is the distillation of the combined noblest soil and sky of France! It is not for barbarians; it is for dreamers, for peoples with subtle brains to kindle; for artists, poets and gentle folk. For these it is a willing slave and it brings happiness.

Artist himself to his finger tips, the inn-keeper kissed his fingers to the clouds floating from the direction of the battlefields.

"So the Germans all drank champagne," I reminded, bringing my head back to earth.

"The Prussians, they do not know how to drink champagne," he continued, once he had struck ground. "And champagne hits back when the profane hit it. And it hits back hard. The Prussians, as they struck the champagne country, pillaged every cellar they came to—and you know for a time they were advancing very fast. They entered Rheims, Chalons, Epernay. Ay, all the great wine centers and everywhere they went they drank champagne like they drank beer at home. Millions of bottles they drank. Yet, not one in a thousand had ever tasted champagne before. Now they reveled in it, bathed in it, stayed in cellars and literally wallowed in it. And they all got drunk, oh, so drunk, so drunk that many of them were as dead for hours. And after they were drunk, they were sick, very, very sick. The battlefields showed it. The whole army was drunk and sick."

"So had as that?" I said to keep him wound up.

"I cannot tell you how bad it was. The Prussians' brain were deadened, their resistance broken, their powerful army wobbled on its legs. Champagne—lovely, tender, beautiful cham-

AUTOS MOST VALUABLE INVENTION IN WARFARE

Washington, Oct. 23.—If somebody asked you to name the most important new invention of the war what would you answer?

Zeppelins. Aeroplanes? Submarines? Such a guess is good, but not exactly right as honors, so far, go to the automobile. The familiar buzz carts, in both armies, have developed a score of uses to the more sensational invention's one.

As a destructive force the auto has done big work. It is used for scouting, for raids on towns and villages, for reconnaissances, for routing, mauling cavalry, for driving off hostile aircraft. The list of its works runs into the hundreds.

Constructively the machine has been put to still wider uses. Racing cars carry generals up and down the 200 mile battle fronts. They are thus able to give personal attention to every point on the line. Other machines are used as ambulances and reduce the death rate by whisking wounded to hospitals in record time. Still other machines carry food to men at the front while small cars are used by the hundreds to bring up ammunition to outposts who otherwise might have to retire.

Potential Value of Auto.

The potential value of the auto as a fighting auxiliary was recognized by generals year ago. As soon as they became practical they were incorporated among battle units and when the war broke out all the nations had vast "reserve" fleets to draw on in addition to hundreds of machines built exclusively for war purposes.

Germany, which has demonstrated its remarkable preparedness in other things military, is probably the most advanced in the use of the military automobile. For the past six years the government has been subsidizing trucks which met its specifications. By complying with army regulations, business houses received $1,000 toward the purchase of machines and in addition got $250 a year for upkeep for four years. As a result of this policy the government had a reserve fleet of over 1,000 powerful trucks when the war cloud broke.

Motorcycles Subsidized.

Even motorcycles are subsidized in Germany and their riders are guaranteed free hospital treatment and free repairs to their machines in case of accident. For these benefits the owners agree to go to the front as dispatch bearers and scouts.

France keeping pace with Germany, also subsidized automobiles, even including autobuses which tear up and down the Parisian boulevards in time of peace. When mobilization was ordered these machines turned into the arsenals at the end of their runs. There the seats were ripped out and the windows replaced with wire screen. In a short time the entire fleet was ready to take the field as transport wagons. The taxis, too, were ready at the word. The machines followed the soldiers into active service and practically every day some new use for them has been found.

England Uses Many Trucks.

England, although behind France and Germany in war preparations, secured hundreds of trucks needed to haul supplies while wealthy men in the island contributed their machines to the cause and sometimes enlisted as chauffeurs.

The convert-I auto, however, is second in importance to the wonderful machines built for military purposes. Germany, for instance, has hundreds of powerful tractors which are capable of carrying a load of six tons while hauling two trailers loaded to the same capacity ten miles an hour up a 14 per cent grade.

The French have developed the automobile hospital to a high degree of efficiency. The interior of the machine is fitted complete as an operating room while canvas carried on top can be made into tented wards for patients.

All Nations Have Armored Cars.

All of the nations have armored cars, although along the line little Belgium is said to lead. These are really gunboats on wheels. Many of them are big enough to hold ten men and machine guns and some of them mount high angle quick firers, which are of exceptional value in following and destroying air raiders.

Stige guns in both camps are hauled by a motor and all of the nations have automobile kitchens, repair shops, postoffices, aeroplane carriers, and office cars for commanding generals. Quick communication between widely separated headquarters is made possible by automobiles carrying telegraph, telephone or wireless apparatus.

He served the remainder of the lunch in silence, but when I was balancing my last piece of brie on a crust of bread, preparatory to sending it down to John what had gone down before, he added:

"Of course, my son told me we should have licked the boches as likely as not without the champagne. But each bottle, he said, was worth a gun."

When I left the inn I wondered just how much of the real there was in what my host had told me. Once for the want of nall a kingdom was lost, so we are told; it is just possible that champagne drunk coast Germany the great battle.

WATKINS TO HELP WIPE OUT DISEASE

Niles, Mich., Oct. 22. The task of appraising the cattle, hogs and other animals that are to be slaughtered here in the effort to stamp out the foot and mouth disease that has gained a strong foothold in this vicinity, will devolve upon L. Whitney Watkins, of Manchester, Progressive candidate for governor two years ago.

The State livestock and sanitary commission recommended Mr. Watkins and the officials of the United States bureau of animal industry, who are in charge of the campaign here to eradicate the disease, appointed him.

As soon as the animals are appraised a force of government men will kill them. Every animal on a farm where the infection has appeared will be slaughtered. Meantime the quarantine against the shipment of livestock out of Berrien and Cass counties will be rigidly enforced.

TWO SMALL BOYS SHOOT THEMSELVES

Freeland, Mich., Oct. 23.—Delbert Wedouff and Lloyd Pierce, aged ten and twelve years, respectively, are dead as the result of a double attempt at suicide by shooting last night, caused it is believed, by fear of punishment for having played "hokey" during the afternoon. Both lads lived several hours, but neither was conscious after the shooting.

The boys failed to appear at their homes for supper and, when inquiries revealed that they had been at school during the afternoon, searching parties were organized and for three hours men with lanterns patrolled the nearby woods and the river banks. In the meantime the boys had been seen hurrying back toward their homes and a bystander informed them of the commotion their disappearance had caused. Ten minutes later two shots were heard.

The youngsters were found lying side by side in front of the Pierce home. Each had a bullet wound in his forehead and a small revolver clutched in his hand. They were hurriedly taken to a hospital in Saginaw, but efforts to save their lives failed.

McGOORTY IS BACK FROM LONG TRIP

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Eddie McGorty, the Oshkosh, Wis., fighter, one of the claimants of the middle weight championship arrived in Chicago yesterday on the last lap of his return trip from Austria, where he engaged in eight fights. Unlike other fighters who have made the trip to the antipodes, Eddie has not taken on weight. The Wisconsin miller said he can make 158 pounds easily and is ready to meet any fighter in the country at this weight, Jimmy Clabby preferred.

"I am glad to be back in Chicago among my friends," Eddie said. "I was treated royally in Australia and my trip was a great financial success. I had eight battles and won seven of them. Clabby beat me on a foul in the sixth round, but I think it was a bad decision. Jimmy is a great fighter and I believe the middle weight championship belongs to him."

To Meet Winner of Bout.

"I am going to my home today for a week's visit and will be ready to meet any fighter in the world at my weight in a month's time. I want to meet Clabby again, and if he beats me my hat is off and I will relinquish all claim to the middle weight championship. Eastern promoters wanted me to meet Battling Levinsky in New York, but the time was too short for me to get in shape and I had to call it off."

McGoorty said he had promised to meet the winner of the Jimmy Clabby-George Chip match on November 9 at San Francisco. Eddie asserted he had had an understanding with Promoter Coffroth and has accepted them. McGorty will start light training at the Forbes gymnasium in two weeks to get in shape for pending battles.

Wins 7 Fights Out of 8.

Jim Mullen made the rounds with Eddie last night, and with James nodding his head in the affirmative, Eddie uttered the following remarks:

"I made eight fights while in Australia and lost but one of them. That was to Clabby on a foul in the eighth round. I was not losing that fight, as I hear the cables dispatches stated, but winning, when the referee called a halt. I admit that possibly the punch was a little low. But it did not hurt Clabby. Jim and Lichtenstein simply took advantage of an accidental low punch to get out of a tight spot. W. F. Corbett, Australia's leading critic, declared I would have won if the bout had not been stopped."

30,000 CANADIANS READY TO LEAVE

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—That Canada will have 30,000 men constantly in training during the war and see forces of 10,000 to England at regular intervals was the announcement made yesterday by Premier Borden, who said:

"From the present time until the end of the war, or so long as the war office shall deem it advisable, Canada will keep continuously in training and under arms 30,000 men. As soon as arms, guns and equipment can be provided for a force of 10,000 men that force will be dispatched to Great Britain, as the first installment of a second expeditionary force."

"Thereupon additional men will be enlisted so as to keep the number under training continuously at 30,000."

"It is anticipated that the first force of 10,000 men will be dispatched in December, and thereafter at regular intervals similar forces will be continuously sent forward."

"Including the forces on garrison and outpost duty we shall thus have under arms or in training about 40,000 men in Canada and, until the end of the war or until the war office advises that further expeditionary forces are needed a steady stream of reinforcements will go forward from our shores to the seat of war."

"The government is informed by its military advisers that it would be impossible to supply arms, guns and equipment on a larger scale than that laid down in these proposals."

"Pending advances from the war office as to the composition of the second contingent infantry to the number of 16,000 or 20,000 will be immediately enlisted and the organizing and training of infantry units will be proceeded with throughout the dominion from Halifax to Victoria."

"As soon as the expected instructions arrive arrangements will be made for enlisting such cavalry, artillery, engineers and administrative units as the war office may advise."

"The organization of these units will be under the direction of officers commanding divisions and military districts and will be carried out by them."

BASEBALL BOAT TO ROCK HARD

New York—All baseball fans, major, minor and outlaw, are hereby to sit tight and take firm hold on themselves. For this winter the old baseball boat is going to be rocked as it was never rocked before and any who haven't got a death grip will go overboard sure.

The magnates are not talking much—for once. That in itself is an ominous sign, for when a baseball magnate won't talk, one may well know that something is brewing and something of a mighty serious character at that. But confab after confab is being held behind closed doors and many mighty important missives are passing back and forth between the ruling powers in the baseball world.

To Deface Ball Map.

Just what is going to happen is hard to forecast. One thing is certain however, and that is that when the gong rings in the spring of 1915 for the getaway in the baseball world the field will have a vastly different appearance to the one it presented during the past season. The warring powers in Europe won't massage the face of that country any more than the kings of baseball will muss up the looks of organized baseball this winter.

The reason for this change is very plain—baseball clubs through the country lost more money during the past season than ever before in their history. And there are few who don't believe that the cause lies in the Federal league and they also think that if baseball is to continue as a profitable business that peace will have to be made with the Federals.

Minor Leagues Suffer.

It isn't that the Federal league made the two major league clubs lose so much money. They didn't do that. But the clubs they hurt and hurt badly, are the Class AA teams, making up the American Association, the International league and the Pacific Coast league. The Western and Southern leagues, Class A organization, were handed terrific wallops, too, in the shape of greatly reduced profits.

The great race in the National league enabled that venerable body to die through the season with a better profit on a whole than it has had in some time. Boston's great spurt from the bottom to the top of the ladder after July 1, lent an interest to that organization that resulted in packed parks and big gate receipts. The American league didn't fare so well as the Athletics early got away in the lead and stayed there. At that American league club didn't lose enough to scare them any.

Big Heads Get Busy.

But the heads of the American and National league realize that they have got to do something to appease the powers in the Class AA leagues. The International league is clearly on the rocks. The Federal walloped that organization unmercifully. And the International league is a great asset of the major leagues.

In fact the entire structure of baseball depends on the minor leagues. The major leagues have to have them to develop young players and to take care of the surplus talent. They could no more do without them than an aeroplane could fly without an engine. And the minors are demanding, and in no uncertain terms, that the major leagues make peace with the Federal. They don't care just how peace is brought about but peace they want and peace they say they must have.

Feds Break Even.

The Federal league hasn't made a mint of money. But late report indicate that enough of the clubs finished the season with the balance on the right side of the sheet to make it certain that they'll stick in the fight for sometime to come. Just how the Federal league is going to fare in this coming peace parley is hard to determine. If the club owners around the circuit put their fight entirely in the hands of "Jim" Gilmore, their scrapping president, it is certain that they will come off pretty well in the negotiations.

There is considerable talk, however, to the effect that some of the club owners are weakening, and that if word reaches them from organized baseball that they will be taken care of that they are liable to sell out. If a couple are or even one of the Federal league club owners make any negotiations of his own with the enemy, Gilmore won't be able to fight nearly as effectively and the chances of the Feds getting much out of the settlement will be very slim.

Gilmore stoutly asserts, however, that his club owners are all loyal to a man and that they'll see him through to a finish.

You see it first in The Press.

DEMANDS FORFEIT FOR WELSH BOUT

Chicago, Oct. 23.—There will be nothing doing between Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, and Charley White, the local battler, in Milwaukee on November 9, unless the titleholder posts a $1,000 forfeit with the matchmaker to show that he intends to go through with the contest and make the weight.

Nate Lewis, manager of White, went on the warpath last night when he had learned positively that Welsh is to meet Ad Wolgast in New York on November 2. White's manager asserted he had canceled $8,000 worth of work for his fighter since this match was closed, while Welsh has not lived up to the articles of agreement.

"Welsh owes it to the public in this vicinity who support the game to be on the battleground at least two weeks before the fight to train," Lewis said. "It is the Chicago public that pays the big money who will suffer. The fans in and around Chicago want to see Welsh train, but they will not have confidence in him if he treats the Milwaukee bout as a 'one night stand' affair."

"When we closed with Welsh I agreed to call off all matches after the Stanley Yookum bout and Manager Pollok agreed that Welsh would not fight before he met White. He has broken that agreement, and before White starts training Pollok must post $1,000 to make sure of going through with the fight. He might say that he burst his thumb in the bout with Wolgast and dodge the Milwaukee bout, and I don't want to give him that chance without it costing him some real coin."

"USE SHOT GUN," ORDERS VALIVA

Chicago.—"Use shotguns or anything you can lay your hands on to prevent vaccination," was the order issued by Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion City, to his people today.

This unusual command is the result of attempts by the state officials to compel the citizens of Zion City to be vaccinated and thus halt the spread of smallpox which has been sweeping over the city for several weeks.

The Zion City folk do not believe in vaccination and when a case for the disease broke out several weeks ago no attention, it is said, was paid to it than to any other illness. As a result there are ten cases in the city and all that the state officials have been able to accomplish thus far is the quarantine of those ill.

Followers of Voliva are preparing to resist the officers and say they will raise an army to prevent the desecration of their city by "foolish doctors," as they call them.

The matter has not come before the governor as yet, but if Zion City folk persist in resisting vaccination the state may take stern methods of enforcing the laws.

PROF. MUNSTERBERG FORCED TO RESIGN

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 23.—Prof. Hugo Munsterberg has withdrawn his resignation from the chair of psychology at Harvard university "at the request of the authorities," according to an announcement tonight.

The resignation was submitted recently after Prof. Munsterberg learned that the university had received a communication from Maj. Clarence Wiener of London, threatening to withhold a legacy of $10,000,000 to Harvard unless the professor was dismissed. His objection to the head of the university's psychological department was based on Prof. Munsterberg's pro-German utterances since the opening of the European war.

The announcement of the withdrawal of the resignation appeared in the columns of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin, a publication of which President Lowell's secretary is editor.

SAYS U.S. MUST LEND A HAND IF ALLIES ASK

Boston, Mass., Oct. 23.—The United States would have to give the French and English help against the Germans and Austrians if the Allies should find themselves exhausted in the present war, according to President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard, at the banquet of the Business Women's club. The speaker declared Germany guilty of breaking contract and other serious charges. He told his audience that after all neutrality in the hearts of United States citizens is impossible.

Mr. Eliot held his audience spell-bound with a vivid presentation of the conditions of the war between Germany and the Allies. He expressed himself frankly and openly upon the position that this country should hold now and eventually with regard to the warring nations.

The distinguished educator told his hearers that, as business women, they are in a favorable position to realize just what is meant and implied by the phrase "sanctity of contract."

He told them that upon this doctrine he based not only business, credits and the faith of man in man, but the whole American Constitution. This doctrine he pointed out is peculiarly an American doctrine, and any violation of it is a deep disappointment to Americans.

Americans Love Justice.

He remarked that Americans have been looking forward to greater growth of chivalry, of the Christian spirit of mercy, justice and good-will. This, he told the audience, is the basis of the efforts made at the great Hague conference. The attack of the stronger upon the weaker, he maintained, is thoroughly opposed to American thought. He continued:

"To the desperate disappointment of Americans, one of the most civilized nations in Europe declared by its acts that a treaty meant nothing to it. She regarded this sacred matter of contract as no more than a mere scrap of paper. She led her forces into Belgium and made it well nigh extinct."

"With Germany, 'might made right.' She made a violent attack on the weaker, because it was the shortest and easiest way. What a blow this was to our idea of mercy, to our conception of the progress of man from a barbarian to a civilized, fair, merciful being. We had hoped that the methods of war were capable of amelioration, but this has blown all those hopes to the winds."

Hopes Shattered by Germany.

"All our hopes were shattered by Germany's actions. All our American ideas of the right to life, liberty, property, happiness were nullified by this nation, which is led by a ruler who has an archaic idea of his powers and of his relation to the world. Germany has shown us that in the most advanced nation as far as science is concerned there is no place for mercy, no place for good will and that hatred takes the place of good motives. The present German philosophy stands on 'might makes right.'"

"There is without doubt a justifiable objection on the part of Americans against the philosophy of which Germany now makes use. Our ideas are irreconcilable to it. There is a gulf that cannot be lessened between American and German sentiment."

Approves Neutrality.

"But how are our duties as a nation in this crisis to be determined?" he asked. He then went on to give his approval of President Wilson's proclamation of neutrality. He pointed out that we ought to ship our goods, in all forms, to the warring nations as equally as conditions permit.

He urged that we restore our international commerce. In short, he urged that we make it our aim and practice to use all the nations at war equally well. He also urged optimism and perseverance here at home with regard to business.

"This much we can do. But neutrality of the heart is impossible. We cannot be neutral regarding our feelings, our hopes, our sympathies. We cannot be so, because Germany's cause is the cause of the stronger against the weaker, the cause against good will and good faith, the cause of imperialism and militarism. Our sentiment against such breaches cannot be rooted out."

France and England Free.

Mr. Eliot declared the Allies are composed of two of the freest nations in the world, allied with another military power. To France and England, he argued, we are greatly indebted. It was France, he said, to whom the whole world was indebted for what Carlisle called "the celestial, infernal phenomenon which blew all about the world."

It was this idea that emphasized that to the people being the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. When this country was in need, Dr. Eliot showed France was ever ready to help, and, above all, France is ever chivalrous, fair and merciful.

America, the speaker argued, is carried on according to English ideas. To England he attributed a great part of our freedom and prosperity. England he said is in the battle to fight against the oppression of the weaker by the stronger. "Both these countries are in the right," he said.

Russia Awakening.

"As for Russia," Mr. Elliott said, "she is now emerging from her long slumber. Although she is called by Germany a barbarous nation of recapt-

WILL INDORE WIDOW FOR P.M.

Houghton, Oct. 23.—To forestall the ambitions of any Houghton Democrats who may see in the vacant postmastership an opportunity to realize on their life-long services to the party, the leaders of that political organization in the village have let it become known that they will induct Mrs. E. J. Dube to succeed her late husband in the office.

It is known that Postmaster Dube, just before his death expressed the wish that his wife might be permitted to serve out his term, and the Democratic leaders look upon this wish as a natural one and the appointment as due Mrs. Dube. It is noticeable that no Democrat on Monday, the day of Mr. Dube's death, came out with an expression of a desire to fill the vacancy. This is an unusual condition. Patriots willing to jump into the service of their country usually are numerous the instant a vacancy occurs. It was not true in this case, and there is at least a tacit sentiment that Mrs. Dube is entitled to the office.

Americans are accused of being materialistic. We are told that we are after the dollars only. But let our ideals be attacked and we disregard all things that are material. We always stood by them. We always will. And if France or England attempt to test our faith and adherence to our ideals, I know that we shall stand by them as we should.

"For let us not dream of abandoning our faith that human relations should be, may, shall be, determined by consideration of justice, love mercy and good will."

SOLDIERS' DIET PRESCRIBED BY LAW

London, Oct. 23.—There is hardly a provincial city or town of any importance but which has several thousand soldiers billeted in its homes. The citizens however, appear glad to be of service to the government, and opinion generally is that the payment is made by the military authority is consistent with the service rendered. The meals supplied have to come up to government directions in the minimum though the householder can give as much more as she pleases. The following is the government scale: For lodging in the same house where meals are furnished, 1s. breakfast, six oz. of bread, one pint of tea with milk and sugar and four ounces of bacon; 1s. dinner, (hot), one pound of meat, previous to being dressed, eight ounces of bread, eight ounces of potatoes or other vegetables and one pint of beer, 3s. The soldier if he pleases can order mineral water instead of the beer, though beer must be furnished if asked for. Supper, which consists of six ounces of bread, one pint of tea with milk and sugar and two ounces of cheese, the sum of nine cents is paid. The order provides you must furnish Tommy with food, but you need not cook it for him. Needless to say the British women are only too pleased to give the soldiers the benefit of their culinary experience.

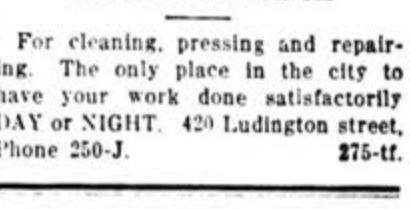

Old Peterson of Stonington spent Friday in the city on business. Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Ellingson returned yesterday from their wedding trip to Chicago and Milwaukee.

An Army needs a medical corps to care for the sick and wounded.

A builder needs an architect to properly plan a structure.

A man needs a physical expert to tell him, now and then, how to tune up his system to get his full efficiency.

A telephone subscriber needs a telephone expert to help him select the service best adapted to his needs and advise him how to increase his facilities as his business increases.

An extension or two; an additional trunk line; a Private Branch Exchange—the lack of any of these may impair the telephone efficiency of your business.
