Business is good and getting better.
While the radiator lease is busy down in the Wisconsin and Illinois towns that formerly held berths in the Wisconsin-Illinois league, local baseball boosters are making definite plans to pry one of those city's loose from a real, live franchise.

War correspondents report that after the close of the bloody struggle all of the European countries engaged, will buy largely in the United States.
Quite naturally. The old United States will be about the only country with anything left to sell.

WAR
London, Jan. 14.—Battles large and small, all having an important bearing on the war, are in progress at widely separated points in the war areas in Europe and Asia.

WAR

The Turks have occupied the Persian town of Tabriz, which is a Russian sphere of influence; are battling with the Russians in the Caucasus, and are reported to be making preparations for an invasion of Egypt.

the interests of all of the people, as has the governor himself.
Bicody, vicious war in England, France, Germany, Belgium, Russia, Austria, Serbia and a terrible earthquake in Italy. It is indeed fortunate that these United States lie outside both the war and quake zones.

The Escanaba city council has formally accepted the offer of the state game department of live deer to be placed in Ludington park. The council has previously cut the bonds of authority which in previous years allowed the park board to provide a municipal skating rink on the bay for the athletic inclined young and old and has made of the park board members mere figure heads.

President Wilson has repeatedly and most vigorously urged the people of the United States to assume a neutral attitude in relation to the European war. In a mixed population such as ours, in which citizens have brothers, sons and nephews on the great firing lines, neutrality is an almost impossible condition of mind to achieve.

IRON TRADE REVIEW
Cleveland, O., Jan. 13.—The Iron Trade Review tomorrow will say: The volume of business in finished materials is increasing and general conditions are improving, but the change is not decided and certainly is not as encouraging as were the developments of the first two weeks of last January.

Demand for pig iron continues very light throughout the country, but is somewhat better in the east and Chicago than in Pittsburgh and other points in the central west. Buyers are no longer able to give the excuse of inventory taking and it is expected that there will be more buying soon.

SPLENDID STRETCH OF RAILROAD TRACK
The photograph shows the Twentieth Century Limited on the first leg of its twenty-hour flight from New York to Chicago. The photo was made on the six-track section of the line near Riverdale on the Hudson division. It shows a type of what is claimed to be the perfect modern track construction, rock ballast, electric automatic signals, electric cables for the transmission of power and third rail for operation of trains.

Bad Cold Quickly Broken By.
Mrs. Martha Wilcox, Gowanda, N. Y., writes: "I first used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy about eight years ago. At that time I had a hard cold and coughed most of the time. It proved to be just what I needed. It broke up the cold in a few days, and the cough entirely disappeared. I have told many of my friends of the good I received through using this medicine, and all who have used it speak of it in the highest terms."

FRANCE, RUSSIA AND GREAT BRITAIN BUY MUCH IN AMERICA.
London, Jan. 14.—William I. Griffith, secretary to the lord high commissioner in London, says in a statement to the press regarding the British purchases of war equipment in Canada: "In the past few weeks, British orders placed in the Dominion have amounted to between $25,000,000 and $3,000,000. The French and Russians also have placed large orders in Canada."

FIVE PER CENT OF U.S. MEAT IS PURE
Washington, Jan. 14.—Only five per cent of the meat consumed in this country is derived from absolutely healthy animals, according to official information from the department of agriculture.
If all except this five per cent of the supply were condemned as unfit for human consumption, say the experts of the bureau of animal industry, fresh food would be as rare and as high priced as humming birds' tongues.

WAR ORDERS HAVE BUT LITTLE EFFECT

Extensive purchases of cavalry and artillery horses in the United States, by the European nations, engaged in war, has had little effect on the horse market in the United States, according to Max Kurz, of the firm of Kurz Brothers, who constantly is in close touch with the great horse dealing centers.

port News, Va., or Montreal Canada. It is estimated that the French have bought to date about 10,000 or 20,000 head. It will be recalled that press dispatches some weeks ago told of a ship taking fire under suspicious circumstances, just after leaving the United States, and some of its cargo of horses for the French government were burned to death.

"Since the Italian government recently appropriated $200,000,000 for emergency purposes, it has been buying horses in the Chicago market, probably having obtained one thousand to date.

"The Swiss are replenishing their supply of army horses in the United States this year. Usually they have bought them in Ireland, but of course, Ireland, having none to spare, they are forced to come to this country.

"The Swiss have a unique system in force. If a man is a poor townsman, he must do military service in the infantry, but if he is a well-to-do farmer he may do his military duty in the cavalry by paying one-half the price of the horse, using it for military purposes during the three months he is compelled to serve each year and keeping it at home and working it on the farm the other nine months. Then at the end of ten years, the horse belongs to the farmer-soldier. It is said there is a great deal of rivalry among the soldier-farmers as to whose horse shall be in the best condition at the conclusion of the term of military duty.

"The Russians place plenty of horses for their own use and, of course, the Austrians and Germans have no way to transport horses, so that none of these three nations is buying here.

"The effect of this foreign buying in the horse market of the United States is imperceptible, for horses are lower in price at this time than in a great many years, notwithstanding that this foreign business has created about the only horse market experienced anywhere during the fall and winter.

"It is estimated there are twenty-three millions horses in the United States and that foreign governments have bought only between forty and fifty thousand all told, so that the transactions to date have had little influence on the market."

REP. CRAMPTON IS SARCASTIC

Washington, Jan. 14.—Congressman Crampton of Michigan, in the debate on the suffrage amendment in the House of Representatives today, ridiculed the solicitude of the administration over the doctrine of states' rights. He said in part:

"It is the policy of this administration and of many members on this floor to parade their solicitude for state rights. They know a greater concern for debatable state rights than they do for acknowledged individual rights.

"The amendment under consideration does not propose to interfere in any way with any matters of purely local or state concern. It is the theory of our Government that those matters which involve alike the welfare of the whole country, shall be passed upon by the Federal Government, but local matters which may require different treatment in different sections of the country shall be governed locally. I do not believe that women in one section of this country are materially different from their sisters elsewhere. Their natural right to share in their government exists in one state as much as in another. It is simply proposed to guarantee to them everywhere the exercise of that natural right, leaving to the individual states the same control over the exercise of the right of franchise by women as they now have as to men.

"These gentlemen who are so exercised about state rights in connection with this proposition, should read again the first ten amendments of the Federal Constitution, covering the right to bear arms, to trial by jury, to due process of law. These all invade possible subjects of state legislation and of state concern, but they were placed in the Federal Constitution as amendments as a bulwark for the protection of individual right as against possible tyranny of state or nation. Not one of these amendments, which came into the Constitution by amendment, treats of any right of the individual more positive, fundamental or important than is treated by the amendment proposed today, that no individual shall be barred from voting by reason merely of sex.

"The Resolution before us is a simple guarantee of an inalienable individual right and should become a part of the supreme law of this land. There is an undeniable and widespread demand for the submission of this Resolution to the several States for ratification or rejection, and even if I did not myself personally approve of woman suffrage, I should not feel as a believer in popular government, that I had any right to vote to prevent a decision of this question by means of the referendum provided in the Constitution."

KING JURY DISAGREES

After battling over the evidence offered in the case of William King versus Dr. W. A. LeMire, since 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the jury in the case returned to the court room at 10:30 o'clock last night, declaring that they had been unable to reach a verdict and were released by Judge R. C. Flannigan.

The entire day was occupied yesterday in producing the evidence in the case. A total of eight witnesses were sworn during the day for both the plaintiff and the defendant.

The action grew out of injury, alleged to have been permanent to Mr. King, received on Nov. 21, 1913, when an auto driven by Dr. LeMire struck King, as he was alighting from a street car. After striking his victim Dr. LeMire picked him up and took him to the St. Francis hospital where he received medical attention for two weeks and in addition two months of medical care by Dr. W. A. LeMire, free of charge.

The attorney for King alleges that LeMire was not driving strictly in accord with traffic rules or with due precaution when King was struck and for that reason claimed damages for the loss of four months' work and for great pain and suffering underwent at that time.

Atty's. Ryall and Loell appeared for King while Atty. N. C. Spencer defended LeMire. As Atty. Loell was charging the jury he directed a furious personal attack upon Dr. LeMire, who was sitting just outside the jury box railing. Suddenly leaving his jurors Loell rushed to the railing and shaking his fist at LeMire said "And you Dr. LeMire, or any one else, can't accuse me of pestering King in an attempt to get him to start this suit. At this juncture Judge Flannigan interrupted and ordered Loell back to his duty, charging the jury. Loell alleged that evidence had been introduced by the LeMire attorney insinuating that he had induced King to start the suit.

The jury was charged by the court and sent to the jury room at 4:30 o'clock. After their return, last night, declaring a "disagreement" it was said that they had stood 10 for LeMire and 2 for King.

EARTHQUAKE DEATH TOLL

There arose, in the direction of the city, a great cloud of dust, which almost obscured it from view. It looked as if the earth had opened up, emitting great columns of white smoke.

"I soon saw struggling towards me, panic stricken survivors, many of them scantily clad and all more or less injured. Some were dragging themselves through the dust, and others were so weak they fell by the roadside.

"They reached the railway station, which was soon filled with half frantic men, women and children. Before they left, an organized relief corps provided the stricken sufferers and wounded, the injured being taken to temporary hospitals near the town."

A boy, one of the survivors, said: "Avezano is completely wiped out. I could hear the screams of women and girls. Hundreds of injured inhabitants of the towns were scattered along the roadside as I came away. I collapsed before I got to the railroad station, but was picked up, revived and put into a carriage with 50 others, all of whom were severely injured."

FERRIS ASKS M. N. G. BE PUT ON WAR BASIS

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 13.—Governor Ferris has joined with the state military board in the effort to bring the guard up to the strength required by the war department at the time of the coming inspection. The governor in an interview says:

"The Michigan National Guard has been tried and found efficient and loyal to duty. While I am not in favor of a large standing arm, I am enthusiastically in favor of increasing our National Guard to meet the federal demand. I hope the boards of commerce, representatives of business and our citizenship generally, will encourage the progress of this splendid organization."

The attention of commercial organizations is being called by letter to this matter, and it is hoped by the state military authorities that these organizations will take hold and aid, in their several communities, in the effort to recruit companies up to the standard for national defense. The matter has been taken up with the civic organizations in previous correspondence, and they are asked now to assist in bringing the campaign to a successful conclusion in each community. Their attention is being called to the statements made by President Wilson in his recent message to congress when he commended the citizen soldiers and urged the people to appreciate the value of the training.

LIVE GAME FOR HUNTERS' MEET

Lansing, Jan. 14.—Everything in the wild animal line to be found in Michigan including deer, will be among the live game exhibits at the Sportsmen's show to be held in connection with the annual meeting of the Michigan association and sportsmen's convention which will be held in Lansing Jan. 27 and 28. The sportsmen's show is an innovation in Michigan. Another change is to hold the convention for two days instead of one.

The sportsmen's show will be composed of live and mounted game animals and birds, the things that sportsman use in the woods, from a tent to a skinning knife and trophies. The fisherman will not be forgotten and rods, reels, lines, flies, baits and clothing for him will be shown.

One of the most interesting features will be an exhibit by the Michigan fish commission. At least 12 or more large glass tanks will be used to show game fishes in their natural element. Exhibits will also be made by the state game department and the M. A. C. The game department has 150 mounted specimens, including a fawn, a beaver, many game birds and water fowl.

Men known throughout the country as big game hunters and conservationists have been procured for speakers at the banquet and convention.
