Illinois has established a bureau to draft bills for its lawmakers. Peculiar, we always thought they had machines to do that.

A number of perfectly good newspapers were "stung" on that Mrs. O'Leary story, emanating from Masonville. Anyway Masonville got on the news map for a day.

Let's see! 'Twas less than a week ago that those lumbermen were worrying for fear there was not going to be sufficient snow to carry out regular work in the woods this winter.

Escanaba soundly trounced Munising's basketball team, but bigger game must be met and downed before Escanaba followers of the popular winter indoor sport, will be convinced that the local high school has a real team.

Those country boys and girls who this week enjoyed a two days vacation because of the county teachers institute here would probably vote unanimously to continue the institute sessions throughout the whole school year.

Ex-County Clerk John A. Semer has voiced a sentiment that will find favor with a large part of the people, in holding that the railroads should not be granted permission to increase passenger fares until they have made a showing on the earnings of all departments and have given proper credit for other resources that they possess.

Isn't it the truth that every city and every community has its individual who sneers up the plans for every public function through an over-zealous desire to play to the gallery? It is the same individual who is kept in place in every day affairs, but takes advantage of the presence of visitors to make it appear that he is a leader.

The annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, scheduled to be held at Houghton on Feb. 2, has been postponed that plans to make the gathering the biggest in the history of the bureau, may be carried out. Col. C. W. Mott and other officers of the bureau have been at work for several months in preparing for the annual meeting and it was finally found that speakers, wanted for the occasion, could not be secured on the date first set. In addition a number of the officers and members of the bureau are out of the district and will not return until spring. Further, February would not be a particularly propitious time to visit the Copper Country while May will provide far more favorable weather and will make possible the carrying it on in full plans first made for the big meeting.

A party of prominent representatives of railroad lines in the peninsula left Escanaba with an unsavory opinion of this city, all because one individual "balled up" carefully laid plans. How much better it would have been to follow out the course that had been arranged to respectfully hear the statements of the visitors; respectfully ask any questions that might be desired pertaining to the subject; appoint a committee to draft resolution to be considered later and then adjourn. Such a plan would have left a far better impression with the visitors than the deliberate effort that was staged to "railroad through" ill-considered resolutions which represented the sentiment of but one man and can in no way be considered an aid to the cause that was advocated.

BE FAIR TO ALL.

In spite of the jumble into which Escanaba's meeting with the representatives of the railroads of the peninsula, was thrown on Thursday a disposition was evidenced by those present to deal fairly with the railroads but at the same time protect the interests of the people. It is a generally recognized fact that on the prosperity of the railroads, depends in a large measure the prosperity and development of the nation. In spite of the fact that in recent years a spirit of suspicion has developed between the railroad corporations and the people, the people, it is believed, have reached a point where they can calmly view the case of the railroads and lay aside the prejudices of former years. But to secure consideration from the people the railroads must deal fairly with them. They must state their case fairly, without subterfuge and demonstrate a sincere desire to give the public all of the facts, from which a fair decision may be drawn.

The people of this district, particularly, will not take kindly to the present policy of the railroad lines to confine consideration wholly to their passenger business in determining whether the roads under present conditions, are receiving reasonable returns from the money they have actually invested. It may be true that the passenger business of the lines could be rightfully considered separately if they might be taken up subsequently with other departments of the railroads business. But in considering the passenger end of the railroads business, the representatives of the lines should give to the public actual figures on the cost of running and maintaining its passenger trains. In figures presented to the people of Escanaba on Wednesday, no effort was made to separate figures in wages paid to employes in the freight and passenger branches. Figures were presented showing the total amount paid to all employes, but if the freight business of the lines is not to be considered the expenses incurred in the freight department should neither be brought into consideration. The people of Escanaba, it is believed, are as fair minded as the residents of any other part of the territory or state. They desire to deal fairly with the railroads but they also desire that the railroads shall deal fairly with them.

ARE PROGRESSIVES READY.

Edward Dingley of Kalamazoo, owner and editor of "The Progressive Herald," state organ of the Bull Moose party, has let fall the first intimation that there is a possibility of a reconciliation of the progressives and republicans by the time the 1916 campaign rolls around.

Under the caption "What About 1916" Mr. Dingley goes so far as to suggest:

"Would it not be a good idea for the state republican committee and the state progressive committee to mutually agree to meet, review the situation rationally and calmly, and map out a plan of cooperation that would make effective a union of forces under a sanely progressive banner."

The chief point of interest in Mr. Dingley's editorial, is, of course, the intimation that the progressives are ready to go back to the republican party. No later than last November progressive speakers stood on the platform of their state convention in Bay City and declared, "We will never go back to the republican party. The republican party must come to us." And the lesser lights of the party went back home, repeating that declaration of steadfast loyalty to the principles of Theodore Roosevelt, victims of a state of intoxication superinduced by the heroic sound of their own voices.

But it has been truly said that "a foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds," and it is scarcely fair to twit the progressives because they have completely reversed themselves since the counting of the ballots last November.

It will be noted that the progressive editor asks merely for a "sanely progressive banner," which would seem to intimate that he neither expects nor desires the republicans to swallow the whole progressive platform.

Perhaps Mr. Dingley has merely voiced his own opinion and perhaps he has voiced the sentiment of the majority of the voters who still stand beneath the banner of the bull moose organization.

WAR

London, Jan. 22.—The battle for the trenches in Flanders and France continues almost without cessation from the sea to the Swiss border. In the mud of Flanders, the floods of the Aisne valley, and the snow of the Argonne and the Vosges, the soldiers of Germany and the allied nations keep up a continual fight to hold what they possess and take something from that held by the enemy.

According to a long official report of the fighting during the past two months, issued by the French war office today, this method of siege operations largely has favored the allies, who, while they have gained ground on almost every part of the front, have been forced to give way in only one region that Solsois.

The French are being put to a test, however, similar to that which obliged them to retire from the positions north of the Aisne, near Solsois. The Germans, realizing the danger to their communications with Metz as a result of the French advance near Pont-a-Mousson, have sent reinforcements there, and have begun a battle for the positions they lost during the past week. The Germans apparently have regained a portion of them, and fighting for the remainder is now in progress.

At other points, particularly near St. Mihiel and in Alsace, there have been infantry engagements, but on the whole the artillery continues to be the busiest arm.

The allies now have their eyes on the Rhine, and British troops may be sent to Belfort, in eastern France, to take part in any possible advance toward the river, says a Geneva report, which lacks verification. It is stated that the advanced French trenches are within sixteen miles of the Rhine.

London, Jan. 22.—The battle field of Solsois is still dotted with corpses by the hundred principally of French soldiers, who fell during their hasty retirement from the trenches. They had to cross open fields under artillery and infantry fire, and death overtook them as they ran. The positions of the bodies show that most of the French soldiers retired fighting, although some of them fell on their faces as they were stumbling toward the rear. Some lie sprawling on their backs, faces to the sun, occasionally with head pillowed on knapsacks, showing that death was not instantaneous, and that perhaps a last service had been rendered to them by their fellow comrades. Three or four had managed to draw from pockets packages of black French cigarettes for a final smoke before passing away. Most of the bodies lie with heads pointed toward the abandoned French trenches, rifles by their sides, or often still clenched in the stiffened hands.

There was little feeling of horror or revulsion at the sight of these hundreds of corpses. Their very number took away the impression of human slaughter. They seemed like figures in a huge panoramic painting of a battle.

The human note, however, often came out when one was told of the contents of the letters found in the knapsacks, or rasped in the hands of these dead French soldiers. It was the duty of the intelligence officer in the party with which the Associated Press correspondent traveled to glance at such letters for the sake of the military information that they might contain. But of this there was little. Far oftener he found letters from home with sentences about the health of the children and references to little presents and delicacies on the way to the soldier. Sometimes there was home gossip, and often expressions of anxiety for the safety of husband or father, and all wished the hope for the end of "this terrible war" and the safe return of the loved one.

Paris, Jan. 22.—An official statement was issued this afternoon as follows:

"Recent German communications regarding French losses in the last few weeks are entirely erroneous. Our losses are less by more than half those given by the German general staff. Moreover it has been found estimating by the dead left on the field that in all the actions in recent months the German losses have been greater than those of the French."

Paris, Jan. 22.—The remarkable wounds that are caused by ricocheting bullets and secondarily projectiles and are being discovered by surgeons in ever-increasing variety are commented on by Henri de Varigny, in "Le-Debat."

Not only are deformed bullets frequently found in wounds, but with them unusual substances of bits of bone from the bodies of other men, metal and medals and money, pieces of cloth and other articles.

The presence of the extant substances in wounds invariably means that they have been projected by ricocheting bullets. An officer recently was found to have been injured by part of the forearm of one of his men and one man was struck by a stone that had been projected by a bullet. In another case, a part of one man's jaw bone was picked out of another man's body wound; still another soldier lost the sight of his eye by being struck with a fellow-soldier's tooth.

From the various field hospital reports of finding in suppurated bullet wounds such unusual objects as buttons, nails, fragments of eyeglasses, pieces of teeth, slivers of wood and bone, eyelids, scraps of leather and coins.

In one case, a projectile struck a man's pocket and glanced off without even scratching the skin, the bullet hit another man, and in the wound were found bits of cloth from the first soldier's uniform, and twenty deformed pieces of gold from coins that were forced out of the pocket.

TWO MEN CHOSEN ON TRADE BOARD

Washington, Jan. 22.—The following appointments for the new trade commission are known to be settled: Joseph E. Davies, Wisconsin, chairman, and Edwin Hurley, Chicago, a member. Both are Democrats. The third Democrat will be George Peabody, if he will accept, which is hardly probable. If he declines, and he has the matter still under advisement, a southern Democrat will be appointed and it may be Thomas Fielders, Atlanta.

The Republican member of the commission will be Will P. Perry, a Progressive member will be either George Lutz or direct information. The Progressive member will be either George Ruble, New Hampshire, formerly of New York and Milwaukee, or George L. Record, one of the leading Progressives of New Jersey. President Wilson has decided to recognize the Progressive party organization with an appointment on the new trade commission.

Senator LaFollette strongly recommended to the president for membership on the new federal trade commission the name of Gilbert H. Roe, formerly his law partner, but now practicing in New York.

AMONG THE THEATRES

THE DELFT

"When Fate Leads Trum is the name of the big special featured picture at this house this afternoon and evening, in multiple reels.

The story is woven about the life of a young man whose mode of living is so wonderfully changed by the influence of a good woman with whom he has fallen in love. The couple are finally married after which he reveals his former life to his wife. They go to visit his father where the husband, with others is arrested but the wife escapes. She is rescued from a river by a lumberman and so great has been her mental strain that the events past in her life are a blank.

without recollection of her past, the girl marries the lumberman.

Several years later the first husband is released and returns to find his wife married. The first husband and wife recognize one another and the shock of the surprise restores her memory. The second husband appears on the scene at this time and in the scene that follows, asks the two to make an explanation "They are unable to do so and he gives them an hour in which to give him an answer " or fight." The result is that guns are brought into use and realizing that his wife has made a terrible mistake the second husband takes the cartridges from his gun and allows the second husband to shoot him. With his dying breath he points to his wife and says: "I married her years ago; she believed me dead."

THE ROYAL AND GRAND

"The Long Way" is the special feature in three parts in which Marjann Nesbitt stars, is offered at this house this afternoon and evening. In addition to Miss Nesbitt there will appear an all-star cast that should please the most fastidious audience. The picture is adapted from the novel by Mary Inlay Taylor.

On Sunday the Royal presents "Ambushed," with Francis X. Bushman and on Monday "The House of Bondage," the photo drama sensation, in six parts, with Lottie Pickford taking the leading role.

AT THE PETERSON.

Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which is the attraction at the Peterson on Sunday, Jan. 24 has proved to be one of the best liked and most liberally patronized attractions in the history of the American stage. At every performance audiences laugh themselves into aitches, applaud the quaint philosophy of the heroine of the Cabbage Patch, or silently expresses its appreciation of the pathetic touches. Mrs. Flexner's dramatization of Mrs. Rice's charming stories makes Mrs. Wiggs a human being even if people of Mrs. Wiggs' optimism are not plentiful. To her, life's trivialities are nothing, misfortune could always be worse. Her doctrine is that of cheerfulness; her philosophy is of the sort that all might do well to absorb. Altogether, the Mrs. Wiggs readers learned to love in the book is made a most lovable character on the stage. Throughout the play one sees a procession of the well authenticated characters of the books pass and repass and one hears the bright and optimistic utterances of Mrs. Wiggs, the plaintive pessimisms of

Mrs. Hazy, the rambling remarks of the liquor loving Mr. Stubbins and the pathos of Loversy Mary. You behold the Cabbage Patch true to its Louisville prototype and you leave the theatre feeling as though you had caught a true picture of life there. The vein of humor that runs through the play is as rich as a mine in fun and fun-making possibilities. There runs through it a tender thread of purity and wholesomeness and the very lines breathe the atmosphere of the country and the hillside. The record-breaking business played to in the past indicates an appreciation on the part of theatre-goers for a clean, wholesome inspiring play presented by a company who thoroughly understand true dramatic art, which is "to hold a mirror up to nature."

The play will be presented here under the management of the United Play Company.

The picture is one of real sprightliness and is described as being a classic of real merit. Manager Hines believes he has secured a truly wonderful picture in these four reels.

Fred Buram of Stonington was in the city yesterday on business.

STABS HIMSELF; NOT A "FAKER"

New Orleans, Jan. 22.—A test of fire applied to the feet of John H. Nutting, a New York architect, in the United States Court Friday, had a sequel in court today. Benjamin Kerman, attorney for the railway and light company, in front of the jury drove a knife blade three times into the back of his left hand, which he then held up for the jury to scan. He never winced.

"I want to show the jury that I or any other man, can stand pain," Kerman said.

The attorney aimed to prove that Nutting, in having fire applied to his leg, merely exhibited Spartan bravery to cover up evidence of pain he may have felt.

Nutting is suing for $105,000 damages, alleging his legs were paralyzed in an accident.

Washington, Jan. 22.—After an absence since December 16, Senator William Alden Smith, is back on the job in Washington. He wanted no action on this measure vitally affecting the interests of Michigan's lake transportation companies until he reached here. Now that he is back it is expected the bill will soon be disposed of one way or another.

Senator Smith has been visiting his aged mother at Santa Anna, Calif. He expressed pleasure at being here to take up his duties, but declared if he

SOCIALISTS START PEACE MOVEMENT

Copenhagen, Jan. 22.—Resolutions adopted here on Wednesday at the closing session of the conference of Socialists from the neutral nations of the world have been prepared for forwarding to the Socialist leaders in the warring countries as well as to the Socialist organizations of the neutral nations. In the discussion which followed the introduction of the resolutions, the majority of the speakers uttered words of optimism in regard to the possibility of the Socialist organizations of the world to exert an influence which will be a factor in bringing international peace nearer.

In the first resolution it is declared to be the duty of all Socialists to work for a speedy declaration of peace by the warring nations, the terms of which shall provide a basis for international disarmament; it also calls upon the International Socialist bureau at Berne to convoke a meeting of all Socialist parties at the beginning of peace negotiations, to take an advisory part therein.

The second resolution proposes that all Socialist parties of neutral countries urge their respective governments to consider the possibility of offering mediation to the belligerents with the view of lasting peace.

The third resolution protests against the arrest of five members of the Russian douma, who met to draft a report to the conference. Another resolution protesting against the German violation of Belgian "rights" was adopted.

What She Wanted
"I want to stop my baby's cough," said a young mother Tuesday, "but I won't give him any harmful drugs." She bought Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It loosens the cough quickly, stimulates the mucous membranes and helps throw off the choking secretion.

BELGIANS WOULD FINE THEIR WELL-TO-DO WHO WON'T RETURN HOME.

London, Jan. 21.—Brussels dispatches to Reuter's Telegram company by way of Amsterdam say some of the Belgian municipalities have proposed to impose a special tax on well-to-do Belgians who refuse to return to their country. The German authorities, thinking favorably of the idea, propose to make the tax effective for all of Belgium. A fugitive who fails to return to Belgium by March 1 will be obliged to pay a ten-fold personal tax. The revenues will be divided equally between the Germans and Belgians.

PLAYERS SLAVES, SAYS ATTORNEY

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Baseball, as exemplified by the major league, was stripped of its charm and illusionment in Federal Judge Kenesaw M. Landis' court yesterday by Attorney Keene H. Addington, counsel for the Federal league.

"Baseball stars are made by their masters, the league owners—not by their ability to play the national game," the attorney declared. "The minute a player enters organized baseball he is doomed forever to obey the will of his master. His only escape is to seek another means of livelihood."

After Big Game.

The Federal league, is seeking a temporary injunction in the United States district court restraining the national commission from carrying out its agreements with the major and minor league members of the organization. The "outlaw" league is attacking organized baseball as a trust operating in violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws.

If the temporary injunction is granted the Federals will immediately fight to make it a permanent injunction and will ask that the national commission be dissolved.

Attorney Addington started his opening address shortly after the case was called. He occupied the entire day and will resume his talk this morning. Several other Federal league attorneys are to follow him. It is not expected organized baseball will get an opportunity to present its side of the case before Saturday. When the defense is finished witnesses will be heard.

Had Cold Quickly Broken Up.

Mrs. Martha Wilcox, Gowanda, N. Y., writes: "I first used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy about eight years ago. At that time I had a hard cold and coughed most of the time. It proved to be just what I needed. It broke up the cold in a few days, and the cough entirely disappeared. I have told many of my friends of the good I received through using this medicine, and all who have used it speak of it in the highest terms." Obtainable everywhere.

STALLINGS AND YOST MUCH ALIKE

"Hurry" Yost, the Michigan coach, is the George Stallings of the gridiron—or George Stallings is the Yost of the diamond, just as you prefer.

There may be some difference in general temperament between the two men, but they are alike in their methods of handling men, and in their concentration on their respective games. Yost lives and breathes and eats and sleeps football. Stallings lives and breathes and eats and sleeps baseball. Winter or summer, football is Yost's favorite topic of conversation; and winter or summer, Stallings will talk baseball to the exclusion of all other subjects.

Yost Carries Notebook of Dope.

Yost carries a big fat notebook in his pocket, which he will produce on slight provocation and show you a lot of dots and dashes, like chicken tracks, scattered over the pages, every dot and every dash being as informative to Yost—as so many printed words. They are plays in dead and gone football games, or they are plans of plays which "Hurry-up" has figured out for some game of the future.

Stallings does not go quite that far, but his mind is a baseball guide on facts and figures and on ballplayers. He is not so prone to argument as Yost perhaps, but one had better be mighty sure of one's ground when he enters into an argument with the swarthy southerner.

Yost Likes to Argue.

There is no use trying to argue with Yost at all. He talks too fast, and knows too much of what he is talking about. In that respect he resembles McGraw more than Stallings. It is next to impossible to win an argument from either Yost or McGraw, because if they are not right they will not argue or listen, while Stallings will often hear propositions that he may know are wrong, without manifesting impatience.

Unlike Stallings, Yost is an alarmist. Stallings is always telling you that he knows he is going to win, and discoursing on his strength, whereas Yost is more apt to speak of his weaknesses, even when he may be confident, down in his heart, of the result.

BOXING BILL IS DUE FOR BUMP

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—Chances for the passage of this session of the legislature of a bill to legalize boxing and to create a boxing commission are not rosy, according to persons interested in obtaining the legislation.

The Chicago representation and members from some of the other cities favor a bill, but down state opposition, has developed and the indications are that proposed measures will be hotly contested in both houses.

Two bills are ready for presentation. Both provide for a commission of three members. One places the salary of commissioners at $2,500. The other would provide for salaries of $5,000.

WILSON VAULTS BAR AT 12 FEET

Ann Arbor, Mich.—"Bo" Wilson, the phenominal sophomore vaulter, has shattered the Waterman gym record by sliding over the bar at an even twelve feet; and Trainer "Steve" Parrell expects to have a dangerous inter-collegiate contender in this event by May.

The California youngster hasn't been working regularly of late, as he is devoting most of his time to scholastic work. In order that he may remove the barrier which prevented his competition last season.

Beats Barton.

He has repeatedly bettered Charlie Barton's record of eleven feet three, however, and on Saturday cleared an even dozen feet in height. The first two attempts at the distance, the bar was dislodged, but on his third leap the westerner made the grade with several inches to spare.

Parrell was greatly pleased at the performance of his protegee. It was the first time he had let the youngster extend himself, and the showing was entirely out of the ordinary, owing to the little work Wilson has been doing.

Takes Quail's Place.

If Wilson can do twelve feet indoors, with comparatively little work, the campus doers are confident that the Wolverine vaulter will be right up with the intercollegiate leaders by the last of May. Should Wilson be eligible next semester, his acquisition will more than offset the loss of Quail who will leave college.

BILLY SUNDAY TAKES SLAM AT FEDERALS

New York, Jan. 22.—The Federal league's suit against organized baseball has prompted the Rev. Billy Sunday to cut loose in this manner:

"Without organization and a reserve clause that will prevent players from jumping from one club to another, there isn't a chance for the game to go on and be kept clean. It is all right for the Federal league or any other league to come into the field, but it should develop players of its own and not try to disrupt an organization that has made baseball what it is today.

"The Feds are simply trying to tear down what others have built up. The high salaries which prevail today would never have been possible without organization. I blame the player of today for the condition of baseball. He should give his support to the men who have made the game prosperous and have put the players where they are."

ANTI-ALIEN LAND BILL PASSES IDAHO HOUSE

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 21.—An anti-alien land ownership bill was passed by the house of representatives of the Idaho legislature today. There were only two votes against the bill. The bill prevents the acquisition of land in the state by alien persons, except by the enforcement of liens or through inheritance. In such cases it is provided that the land so acquired must be disposed of within five years or be forfeited to the state. The bill makes no mention of race or nationality. It provides that land may be acquired by aliens after first citizenship papers have been taken out. The measure now goes to the senate.

MICHIGAN YOUTH HELD ON MANN ACT CHARGE

Green Bay, Jan. 22.—Orders to hold Clarence Londo, a Michigan youth, till papers can be served, charging him with a violation of the Mann act, were received late yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Henry Vanden Heuvel. Londo has been in jail here since his arrest on a statutory charge after Peter Claire of Rexton, Mich., traced him to this city and found his daughter, Ida, a girl of 15 years, with Londo.

Londo will be accused of transporting Ida Claire from Michigan to Wisconsin for immoral purposes. He and the girl are said to have left Rexton, their home, Jan. 9, and to have gone to Escanaba. A day later they came to Green Bay and engaged rooms at the Broadway hotel where they registered as brother and sister, using the name of "Benson." They took separate rooms but according to the hotel proprietor and Assistant District Attorney Fred D. Merrill they were found in the room assigned to the girl one evening and ejected from the hotel. The arrest of both was caused by the girl's father. The case against the girl was dropped upon request of Mr. Claire, but the case is pending against Londo in municipal court, and he was being held here to answer to the statutory charge when the order came to hold him till a federal marshal can arrest on a charge of violating the Mann act.

Were Married, Perhaps.

After the two had been here a few days they went to Menominee, Mich., and were married, the authorities say, but there is a question as to whether the marriage is valid. The father insists that the girl is only 15 years of age, and under the Michigan law a sworn statement as to the age of the parties must be made. It is said that Londo swore that his prospective bride was 18 years of age. If the father is correct in his version of the age question, the marriage is void. The girl has claimed to the authorities that she is 18 years of age. The father thought it best not to leave Ida here, at any rate, because he looks her back to Michigan.

Londo ex-Jail Bird.

That Londo served time in the Michigan penitentiary for a criminal assault on a girl, is the information received by the sheriff here. He is about 25 years of age.

Myron H. Walker, United States district attorney for the western district of Michigan, is the official who ordered the sheriff to hold Londo here. His headquarters are at Grand Rapids. It is thought that Londo will be taken to Detroit to be tried after an arraignment here before a United States court commissioner.

The Gist of It.

"Last December I had a very severe cold and was nearly down sick in bed. I bought two bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it was only a few days until I was completely restored to health," writes O. J. Metcalf, Weatherly, Mo. If you would know the value of this remedy, ask any one who has used it. Obtainable everywhere.

FERRIS SEES PARTY PLOT TO OUST WILSON

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 22.—That some Democrat of national reputation is undermining President Wilson and will be a candidate against him for the nomination, was the bald statement of Governor Ferris here before the Democratic state central committee.

Who the man is, the governor would not say, but he indicated that he expected absolute proof of a plot within a very short time. There is in existence in Michigan, he has been told, a letter which proves absolutely that a conspiracy is afoot. Until he sees that letter he will mention no names.

FERRIS FAVORS WILSON.

But the governor did exhort the members of the committee to go on record as favoring Wilson and predicted defeat for the Democrats in 1916 if they dropped Wilson.

The announcement of the governor fell like a bomb in the meeting of the committee and within an hour the capitol, particularly that end of it which can be called Democratic, was fairly buzzing.

The startling statement came from the governor after he had addressed the meeting for several minutes. He had been talking about organization and its absolute necessity in Michigan for Democratic success.

Wishes He Could Tell.

"And I want to say right here," the governor stated, "that I want all Democrats in Michigan to go on record as favoring the present national Democratic administration, headed by Woodrow Wilson. I think you all are for him and I am sure you all ought to be."

"In my humble opinion I cannot see any chance to win in 1916 without Woodrow Wilson, and I know in my own way that there may be an interruption of the plan to name him for the presidency then.

"I wish I were free to give to this body of men what I know, but I will give it to nobody yet. I know, however, that there is a movement on foot in Michigan and in other states to be little the president.

"I know all the Michigan Democrats are for Woodrow Wilson, but I want them to go on record."

This was all the governor had to say at that time, but he had his hearers fairly gasping. The statement he made acted as an electric shock which seemed to upset everybody and everything. When he closed, the news paper men were excluded from the room.

Later, at his office, Governor Ferris gave some few explanations of his statement, but refused absolutely to tell the name of the man who is endeavoring to kill Wilson in his own party.

Expects to Get Letter.

"Within the week," said the governor, "I was told by a Michigan man that a scheme such as has been outlined by me and possibly guess at by my hearers, was afoot. The proposition, coupled with the name of the man at the head of it, was so startling to me that I did not believe it.

"My informant, however, was determined to prove it to me. To that end, he stated that there was in Michigan now, a letter which would prove it conclusively and which was signed by the man, whom he told me was at the head of the movement.

"I have made attempts to get hold of this letter and expect to do so. When I see it I may tell who the leader of the plot is. For the president I will say nothing more. Since I heard of the matter, I have told a living soul until I made the statement before the committee this afternoon."

SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC WORST IN HISTORY

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 22.—Dr. E. T. Abrams, upper peninsula member of the state board of health, returned yesterday from Crystal Falls, where an outbreak of smallpox demanded his attention. Dr. Abrams describes the epidemic as the worst in the history of the upper peninsula, though the disease itself is still in a mild form. So far there have been no deaths from the malady and this may be ascribed to the readiness of school and health authorities in co-operating with the state board.

During the past week or ten days, eight cases of small pox were discovered in Crystal Falls, and since that time 500 children have been vaccinated. At Iron Mountain, where the malady made its first appearance in the iron country, 1,500 children were vaccinated in ten days, the physicians performing the operation in the school rooms. In every town that is affected, the seriousness of the situation apparently is realized and the orders of the health board are being carried out. The disease exists in many of the iron country towns and nearly every copper country town is affected. Crystal Falls, Iron Mountain, Iron River and other parts of the iron district have ordered general vaccination, and the manner in which the citizens are complying with the order is gratifying to the state board.

TO PERMIT LIGHT WINES AND BEER

Lansing, Jan. 22.—The liquor bill that divides the senate and the house membership, in all probability will be bridged with a "state wide temperance" bill to supplant the proposed radical "near state wide prohibition" legislation in the senate. The members of the house liquor committee, which is composed of four "wets" and four "drys" with Captain Charles Yuffs of Ludington the chairman, who is to act as mediator in all cases of disputes, have been approached by temperance advocates with a proposition for temperance rather than for prohibition.

The plan is to legislate all distilled liquors out of the state and permit only the sale of light wines and malts. Liquors carrying high percentage of alcohol, it is argued, are the ones the strict prohibitionist is after more than to stop the entire sale of the lighter wines and brewed goods.

Would Permit Saloons.

Saloons, under this plan, would be permitted, so long as they lived up to the strict letter of the law. In local option counties, it is shown the great difficulty in enforcing the prohibition law was that those who could get the stronger liquors carried them because they were less bulky.

The proposed house action is a direct counter to the radical senate bill which may be enlarged upon by Senator Straight to include all "institutions of higher learning" which under the supreme court decision in the case of the people versus Damo of Ann Arbor would mean high schools as well as colleges. Should the Straight bill be so amended and pass, Michigan would practically be dry 90 days after the adjournment of the legislature. There would be but few localities in where liquor could be sold in an form.

Supporters of temperance are looking to the house as the body to take the middle ground against the senate drastic measures.

GOV'T ENCYCLOPEDIA IS 50 YEARS OLD

Washington.—From President Wilson down to the humblest janitor the White House is preparing for the celebration of Colonel William H. Crook's fiftieth year of service at the executive mansion, February 5.

Colonel Crook's official title is "chief disbursing officer," but he is more widely known as the "White House encyclopedia."

From Lincoln to Wilson is a good long stretch of service, and fully half of the White House traditions of today are matters of Colonel Crook's experience. And whenever a matter relating to the dim and dusty archives of the White House comes up—Colonel Crook is called upon to throw light upon it.

Colonel Crook has said he believes had he been on duty the night Lincoln was shot the assassination would never have been accomplished. The colonel at the time was a member of President Lincoln's bodyguard, and he had been on duty for 24 hours continuously when Lincoln started for Ford's theater where he was shot.

The colonel says he begged the president to let him accompany him, but Lincoln, with his usual consideration for those around him, remembered that Crook had been on duty for a day and night, and insisted that another member of the bodyguard, as it appears, allowed himself to become more interested in the performance than in his duty and Booth was enabled to enter the president's box unobserved and fire the fatal shot.

There is one White House custom that started during the colonel's time which he cannot explain. Last Easter some discussion arose regarding the origin of the egg-rolling custom on the south lawn of the White House. Colonel Crook, was appealed to for information, but, much to his chagrin, he had none to offer.

When he was told a story of how the custom started through President Grant inviting the children of Washington to roll their Eastern eggs with his daughter, Nellie, on the White House lawn, the colonel merely shook his head.

PROHIBITION

The lawful liquor trade of the United States is opposed to state prohibition. It favors a licensed, regulated and controlled traffic, which will respect itself and be respected by the people whom it serves. It advocates temperance, and believes that individual training and self-control will do more to retain temperance among the American people than ill-considered laws under which the people rather tend to disregard traditional habits of self-restraint. It opposes national prohibition as absolutely contrary to our scheme of government.

CABIRIA FOR DELFT THEATRE

Manager Jacobs of the Delft theater has booked the celebrated "Cabiria" for his house on next Friday evening, being the first house outside of Chicago and New York to book this most sensational moving picture production of modern times.

"Cabiria" is presented in 12 reels, embodies a cast of 5000 people, 90 elephants and hundreds of other animals. The picture is produced at a cost of $250,000, was photographed in five different countries and three years time was taken to complete it.

It is without a doubt the most stupendous picture of the age and it is highly doubtful if at the present time whether another picture of the same magnitude will ever be produced. At the Knickerbocker theater in New York City and at the foremost theaters of Chicago, it was presented at prices ranging from 25 cents to $1.00, but will be shown at the Delft at the matinee program for 25 cents and at the evening program for two prices of 25 and 35 cents. But one show will be given at each opening of the theater as two hours and forty five minutes are consumed in showing the magnificent picture.

In its wonderful photography the picture far surpasses human imagination and in action is almost beyond belief.

212 GERMAN PAPER QUIT PUBLISHING

London, Jan. 22.—"Owing to decreased advertising revenue arising out of the war, 212 German newspapers are already said to have disappeared. At least half that number have probably died in Great Britain," says the Globe.

"These facts supply the strongest imaginable comment on the common fallacy that this war is profitable to the newspaper owner. As a matter of fact, the reverse is the case.

"A modern newspaper is an exceedingly complex organization and the purchaser obtains for a penny or half-penny a publication which costs more than that sum to produce. The explanation is to be found in the profits derived from advertising revenue, with the result when that decreases below certain point, a paper is run at a loss on production, which increases with the increase of circulation.

"So far from the British Press having found the war a gold mine, there is not one newspaper that has not felt the pinch somewhere, and many are making the greatest financial sacrifice in order to continue in their role of purveyors of news, and thus to perform a real public service.

"Few industries are more hard hit by a long war than the press."

STATEMENT IS A 'SILLY ROT'—DAVIS

New York, Jan. 21.—William C. Beer, an attorney for the Banco Nazionale of Santo Domingo, which has been accused of seeking to exploit public contracts in the Dominican republic, was quoted today at the inquiry into the fitness of James M. Sullivan, American minister to that republic, as having said he expected to share what profits he made in the alleged exploitation with Secretary of State Bryan, Martin H. Glynn, former governor of New York, and Congressman James A. Hamill, of New Jersey. M. E. Davis, of New York, a contractor for supplies, testified he had been so informed by Beer while the two were on their way to Santo Domingo, Davis, with the expectation of securing government contracts which he said Beer had represented to him were to be had.

Davis asserted he now believed the statement to be "silly rot." He declared Beer evidently was trying to make an impression, and "using all means in his power to get money."

Mr. Glynn in a statement, issued at Albany, said he never knew Beer or Davis and was in no way interested in Santo Domingo.
