FORMER SENATOR ADVISES A SQUARE DEAL FOR ROADS BUT WANTS FACTS

Otto Fowle, of Sault Ste. Marie, representative in this district in the state senate, when the two-cent passenger law for the peninsula was adopted four years ago, has taken a position opposing the movement launched by the railroads of this district to secure the re-establishment of a three-cent passenger schedule. Mr. Fowle believes that the railroads of this district are entitled to some relief but it is also his well founded opinion that no action should be taken by the legislature in fixing fares that may be charged that does not effect the entire state of Michigan alike.

In a letter to W. W. Walker of the South Shore road, and published in the Soo Evening News, Mr. Fowle goes deeply into the passenger rate matter, as presented to the state legislature when the present law was enacted.

Referring to figures presented to the legislature four years ago, Mr. Fowle says:

The railway commission report showed the following operating expenses per mile of road:

Upper Peninsula Roads
C. & N. W., $2,812.43; C. M. & St. P., $3,277.48; D. S. S. & A., $3,426.62; Soo Line, $3,396.04.

Lower Peninsula Roads
G. R. & I., $5,759.46; Pere Marquette, $4,265.30; Ann Arbor, $3,980.42; L. S. & M. C., $5,305.98.

Figures were also produced showing that the population of the upper peninsula was larger per square mile than that of Wisconsin through which your road ran where you are receiving 2 cents per mile. These figures were not controverted by senators handling your case on the floor of the senate.

I understand the figures presented by you to our business men and those now sent to me, show your earnings based on your passenger traffic alone. Would not a complete statement of your case require you to include your freight earnings as well? A merchant does not figure his profits from one line, but from his entire business.

As I understand, the law prior to the amendment in 1911 compelled roads earning $1,200 per mile to carry passengers at 2 cents per mile with the provision that all roads in the upper peninsula be permitted to charge 3 cents per mile. The bill before the legislature was to strike out the proviso and put all roads earning $1,200 per mile on a par. The figures showed that your road made net earnings of $1,480.58 per mile, more than certain lower peninsula roads that were compelled to carry at 2 cents.

In view of these figures I considered it my duty to oppose the 2 1/2-cent amendment and work to put the roads on a par. At the same time I stated on the floor of the senate that I thought two cents too low for any roads under present conditions. I am in favor of a full and fair presentation of the case before the legislature, which I believe will warrant a bill providing 2 1/2 cents per mile throughout the state. I am not in favor of the effort of the railroad officials to secure action and resolution by commercial bodies throughout the upper peninsula tending to tie the hands and limit the investigations of our representatives in the legislature. I am in favor of a determination of the case on its merits.

Respectfully yours,
OTTO FOWLE.

DR. WILEY IS A BREAD BOOSTER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert, today issued a warning to the public against the curtailment of bread eating should the price be advanced because of the rise in the cost of wheat. He said:

"There is a popular fallacy in favor of meat. Meat contains 50 percent water and costs 25 cents a pound. Bread is only 40 per cent water and costs 5 cents a pound. There's more energy in a pound of bread than in a pound of meat. Hard workers need bread more than meat. If the cost of flour makes bread rise, cut down on the meat. Bread is the cheapest food known."

The Dr. Wiley referred to was formally the U. S. Government food expert and still is consulted as supreme authority on food stuffs.

ATHLETIC CLUB TO BE FORMED

A party of prominent young business and professional men of the city have taken steps to organize an athletic club and will present a petition to the Escanaba board of education, asking for the use of the high school gymnasium on two evenings of each week. The members of the club have undertaken the movement that they may take regular athletic exercises and improve their physical condition. Steps will be taken at once to formally incorporate the club and make it a permanent organization of the city.

VOCATION CLUB IN MEETING

The members of the Boys Vocation Club of the high school met last evening at which time Dr. Harry W. Long, prominent local physician and surgeon, addressed the body of boys and in doing so declared that no greater good could be done humanity than through the medical profession.

Dr. Long last evening received the undivided attention of the boys in attendance at the third of the talks to be given the club by prominent professional men of the city.

In addition to the address of Dr. Long a talk on the European war was given and a Mark Twain poem recited.

The boys of the club are highly enthusiastic over the work and believe that they are deriving a great good from the talks given them.

CARD PARTY IS PLANNED

The women of St. Patrick's church yesterday completed plans for a card party to be given at St. Patrick's hall this evening. Many of the decorations arranged in the hall for the banquet of St. Patrick's Boys Brigade on Wednesday evening will be allowed to remain in position. Many who were unable to view the hall as prepared for the banquet will this evening be privileged to view the elaborate preparations that were made for the function. Although hurriedly arranged, every plan has been completed to make the party of this evening most pleasing in all of its features. The proceeds of the undertaking will be devoted to the use of the church.

GRAIN MIXING TO BE STOPPED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—Seventy-five carloads of oats intended for export have recently been seized by the Federal authorities because they were found to be adulterated within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act. The adulteration charged is the addition of feed barley or water or both. Under certain circumstances adulteration in these ways may be so profitable that it is believed to be at times a common practice among grain shippers. The Government, however, is determined that the practice shall cease at once, and field representatives of the Department of Agriculture have all been instructed to exercise the utmost vigilance in detecting future shipments adulterated in this way.

Low grade barley which is known to the trade as "feed barley" is sometimes mixed with oats when there is sufficient difference between the prices of the two grains to make this profitable. This "feed barley" is the product which remains after the best grade of the grain has been separated and removed for milling purposes. It contains material percentages of weed seeds, foreign grains and dust, and the addition to oats of such a product is held to be a violation of the Food and Drugs Act. The addition of water to oats arises from the fact that the grain is sold by weight. Investigations of the Department of Agriculture have revealed the fact that water is sometimes sadded in the amount of from 2 to 4 per cent.

In the opinion of the Government officials there is no reason why either of these practices should be tolerated. Grain shippers and dealers, therefore, are being warned that the prevalence of the custom in the past will not affect the local government.

MERCURY GOES TO 23 BELOW

LOWEST POINT SINCE 1899 IS REACHED AT LOCAL STATION AT 5 O'CLOCK YESTERDAY MORN

Escanaba and in fact the entire upper peninsula was yesterday gripped by the coldest weather since 1899, when the mercury at the weather bureau station fell to 23 degrees below the zero mark and did not rise above the three below zero point throughout the day.

Starting with 12 below at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening the mercury in the weather bureau thermometers steadily fell until at 5 o'clock yesterday morning when it registered 23 below. At 12 o'clock yesterday noon it registered 10 below at the weather station and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon reached its highest point when it read three below.

The final reading of Observer Spindler last evening at 8 o'clock showed five below zero with indications that it would go considerably lower before morning. At midnight a review of the street thermometers showed a variation of between 10 and 15 below the zero point.

Calumet and the Copper Country yesterday morning experienced its coldest weather in the history of the weather bureau station when the mercury fell to 32 degrees below zero. Registrations were also made of 33 below at Watersmeet; 32 at Powers, (unofficial) and 20 below at Green Bay. The two coldest points in the United States yesterday were Calumet and St. Paul 32 below and the warmest place was San Francisco, where it was 50 above the zero mark. At Jacksonville, Fla., it was 35 above zero.

A score or more people froze feet, hands, faces and ears yesterday in the intense still cold while it is reported that the poor people of the city, who generally suffer from the cold spells, passed the crisis with comparative warmth.

No deaths have been reported as a result of the intense cold.

FUNERAL IS HELD TODAY

Funeral services over the body of Cyril Grenier, a resident of Escanaba for but little less than a half a century, will be conducted at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Anne's church. Interment will be at St. Anne's cemetery. Mr. Grenier was widely known in this city and the surrounding district, where he had resided for so long and it is expected that the service of this morning will be largely attended.

Mr. Grenier came to Escanaba in 1871 and had continuously made this city his home since that time. He was employed as carpenter foreman by the NorthWestern road in the construction of the first ore dock erected at this port. He continued in the same position in the service of the company for a number of years. Later he served the city of Escanaba as street commissioner, acting in that capacity for seven years. He also was engaged in lumbering in the district near this city but was forced to retire from active business several years ago because of failing health.

In addition to the members of his immediate family he is survived by two sisters and one brother, all residents of this city and who are: Mrs. L. Boudreau, Mrs. S. Pichette and Louis Grenier. He was one of the charter members of U. P. Tent of the order of Modern Maccabees.

HELD FUNERAL HERE YESTERDAY

Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock over the body of Mrs. George Schaffer, at the home of Mrs. E. A. Valentue, at 208 South Charlotte street. Rev. W. J. Datson, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, officiated at the service. Interment was at Lakeview cemetery. Mrs. Schaffer was widely known in this city, where she resided for over a quarter of a century before going to Waynoka, Okla., to make her home and yesterday afternoon, in suite of the severe winter weather conditions, many paid their final respects to her memory. Mr. Schaffer and sons John and Clarence, who accompanied the

PIPE BURSTS AND STOCK IS DAMAGED

A bursting water pipe in the sprinkler system at Kratze Brothers Department store, yesterday damaged a considerable quantity of goods on the first floor and in the basement of the building. The bursting of the pipe came without warning and before the water could be shut off, goods in one of the display windows, in the men's furnishing department and in the front portion of the basement, had been thoroughly drenched.

H. M'FALL SUMMONED

Henry McFall, one of Escanaba's earliest settlers and for over 30 years a corner of Delta county, passed away at his home on Donnan avenue yesterday after a prolonged illness. Mr. McFall was 84 years of age and had resided in this city for over 50 years. In his official capacity as a coroner of the county through a long span of years, Mr. McFall formed a wide acquaintanceship and by all who knew him he was sincerely respected. For a number of years, before the construction of the NorthWestern road between Escanaba and Green Bay, Mr. McFall was engaged as a stage driver between this city and Marinette.

In the early years of his life he was known as one of the hardest men of this district. It was his boast that until a few years ago he never wore an overcoat or rubbers.

It was on the records preserved by Mr. McFall that some of the early records of the Escanaba weather station are founded.

From the time of the construction of the first ore dock at this port until his death, Mr. McFall kept a record of the opening and closing of navigation at this port and that portion of his record was incorporated as a part of the permanent records of the Escanaba weather station.

He had been in feeble health for the past year but his condition did not become serious until recently. He gradually lost strength and yesterday morning passed away. He is survived by one son and two daughters, who are: Harry McFall of North Dakota and Mrs. Nettie Moger and Mrs. Alfred Crebo, both of this city.

Definite funeral arrangements will be completed today, although it is probable that the service will be conducted on Saturday afternoon.

BASKETBALL HERE TONIGHT

One of the biggest and hardest fought basketball games to be played in this city this year will be that of this evening at the high school gymnasium when the local team clashes with the Marinette high school team.

It will be well remembered that the Marinette team gave the locals a severe drubbing last Friday night at Marinette, but since that time Coach Hutto has given his team workouts that they will long remember. Every spare minute of the coach's time has been given over to the basketball practice this week and it is believed that the Wisconsin city team will realize that a decidedly different team will be facing them tonight than last week.

The names of those who will appear in the lineup are practically the same as last week.

SEMESTER EXAMS STARTED MONDAY

The Semester examinations will open at the high school on Monday morning and will continue throughout next week. A large number of students of the high school have escaped the examinations of this semester through the excellent work that they have accomplished in time past. It is said that the scholarship is far superior at the present time among the students of the high school, than in former years.

FIGHT DESPERATELY TO GAIN VICTORY AND MAKE MEMORIAL THE KAISER'S BIRTHDAY

EXCHANGE IS QUIET

(Special to The Press.)
Mexico City, Jan. 28.—General Obregon, at the head of the Constitutional army re-entered Mexico City at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It was the most peaceful entry of a victorious army in the recent history of the many turn overs of affairs in Mexico. Gen. Obregon went immediately to the palace and in the name of Carranza, took possession.

A manifesto was issued giving a guarantee of the safety of lives and property. Martial law was also declared.

Mexico City, Jan. 28.—The convention Government has been entirely removed from Mexico City and General Obregon was expected to take possession late today. The Carranzistas are apparently in full control tonight. The ministers Rodrigo Gomez and Manuel Palafox left the city early today and joined the Provisional President Garza at Cuernavaca. It was the quietest governmental turn over of recent times.

WOMAN DIED HERE YESTERDAY MORNING

Mrs. Leah Whitford, 30 years a resident of Escanaba, passed away at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, after an illness extending a month's time.

Mrs. Whitford was born at Dover, New Jersey, 55 years ago and came to Escanaba about 35 years ago and has since made her home in this city becoming well known to hundreds of people here through constant association for a long term of years.

A month ago the woman became seriously ill and her three daughter hurried to her bedside, being here when the end came. The illness of the woman had become alarming during the past few days and her end was expected hourly.

The woman is survived by three daughters: Mrs. Claude Elliott, Iron Mountain, Mrs. Theodore Hartgrove and Mrs. etal Elisabeth ETOAIN of Gwin and Mrs. Jesse Brown, Sydney, British Columbia. In addition the woman is survived by three brothers and one sister.

The funeral over the body will be held on Saturday afternoon at the family home at 1900 Park avenue with Rev. W. J. Datson officiating. Interment will be made at Lakeview cemetery.

FORMER ESCANABAN MEETS WITH DEATH

Messages received in the city yesterday told of untimely death of Patrick Boyle son of Mrs. Margaret Boyle of North Fannie street of this city, at Peoria, Ill., yesterday morning.

Mr. Boyle was working on the new division of the Chicago & North western railway near Peoria and was killed in the discharge of his duties. The exact manner in which the man met his death has not been made known to the mother and sister, Miss Hannah Boyle of this city.

At Christmas time the man who is about 45 years of age visited at his home here after an absence of nearly a score of years.

FORMER ESCANABAN ABANDONS WIFE

According to the Mt. Clemens Record Edward LeClaire, formerly of this city, is being sought by the officers of that city on a charge of deserting his wife and five small children. It is alleged that LeClaire, who was employed as a conductor on a Detroit Interurban line, told his wife that he was going to Detroit to spend the day. Instead he crossed to Canada and from Toronto forwarded post cards to his wife and family saying that he would never return. LeClaire is well known in this city, having resided here until a few years ago. For a number of

It is a most commendable work that Rev. Father Barth has perfected among the young men and boys of St. Patrick's church in this city. Beginning three years ago Father Barth inaugurated a movement to interest the boys and young men of his congregation in a work for their own betterment. He offered no inducements of entertainment for their meetings but rather turned their thoughts toward a higher citizenship and a more perfect manhood.

From the outset he gripped the attention of the budding men and now after three years Father Barth's movement is no longer an experiment, but a permanent institution for good in this city. A movement that has for its object the inculcation of high ideals, profound respect for religion and a clearer conception of the attributes of high citizenship, deserves and must succeed. Father Barth is to be most warmly commended for the excellent work that he has accomplished and is accomplishing among the young men of this city.

LUMBERMEN LOOK FOR LOWER TAXES

Milwaukee, Jan. 28.—Confidence that the state administration would be able to aid them in reducing taxes was expressed in a discussion at the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers' association in convention at the Hotel Pfister. The discussion followed the reading of a paper on "The Assessment of Timber Lands in Wisconsin" by W. A. Holt of Oconto. A. J. Osborn of the Medford Lumber Company, Medford, was appointed chairman of a committee to call on the state tax commission, and if they cannot get satisfaction there to go to higher authority.

Development Retarded. "I give this instance in detail, not because it is the only one, but because it shows clearly the intention of the tax commission to do great injustice to the northern part of the state, to put a tax on lumbermen which will drive them out of business and retard for years the development of the country, for no one can long pay such taxes. "A homesteader, owning eighty acres, about twenty of which are cleared, told me he would have to work three months this winter in a lumber camp to earn enough to pay his taxes. "Taxes are necessary, and no class pays enormous taxes more patiently than lumbermen, but there is a limit beyond which it is impossible to go and survive, and it seems we have passed that limit. The conservationists says we should keep our timber for posterity and we are robbers if we do not. In 100 years it would have cost us so much that it could only be issued for currency in place of our present circulating medium. "Discuss Lumber Topic. "The 'taxeater' says the people demand that taxes be increased to provide more luxuries for them. Here we are between the devil and the deep sea, or, I am tempted to say, between two devils. "Other speakers at the afternoon session were Charles H. Crownhart of "Compensation Insurance and Its Cost Under the Wisconsin Law," "The National Lumber Manufacturers Interinsurance Exchange" and "Some Troubles in the Lumber Industry" by R. S. Kellogg.

President Brings Message. "It is a co-operative organization and its value to ourselves and the lumber industry is measured by the extent we co-operate in its work. This was the message brought to the convention by President R. B. Goodman of Goodman, Wis., at the opening of a two days' session, Tuesday morning at the Hotel Pfister. He commended the efforts of R. S. Kellogg, now of Chicago, former secretary of the association, who resigned a month ago to accept the secretaryship of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, for the manner in which he compiled data, he showed the weekly bulletin to be a very valuable asset because of the statistics of sale, cut and shipments.

In Good Condition. The report of O. A. King of Wausau, acting secretary showed the association to be in good condition financially. The membership of the association includes the most prominent lumbermen of northern Wisconsin and northern Michigan. It is attended by the most prominent lumbermen of the country as guests of the organization. The association is represented by members who manufacture 800,000,000 feet of lumber a year. They assemble for the discussion of lumber manufacturing, such as a uniform accounting of cost, problem of carrying timber and the high taxation. Tuesday night the delegates attended the performance at the Majestic theater.

FORTUNES OF FRITZ

"I'd like to give you that dog," proceeded the man in the doorway. "I'd like for you to have it. He's a nice pup and I'm grateful for what you—" "Oh, all right," said Bammett, absently, frowning at the paper before him. Already he had forgotten his charity client and was vaguely annoyed at his chatter. "I'll take him to your house," added the man. Then he vanished. That was why Bammett, when he opened his front door that night, had the surprise of seeing Fritz. It always was a surprise to see Fritz, because most of him was where one didn't expect it. Reliable persons assured Bammett later that Fritz was a dachshund of good breeding, but Bammett always shook his head. He said Fritz was nothing more or less than a ball of string unwound and stretched out and that, for his part, he should think Fritz would establish telegraph stations on his head and tail in order to keep track of himself during his tortuous progress.

The annoying part of it was that every foot of Fritz's length was brimming over with affection, and if there is anything more annoying than being compelled, in spite of yourself, to love something you have made up your mind to dislike it has yet to be discovered. With Fritz coiled up comfortably to his lap that evening Bammett had a sudden chill. He remembered that Mrs. Bammett disliked dogs vigorously. In fact, that was why they had never owned one heretofore. Bammett felt that he should have to pay dearly when his wife returned for the fit of abstraction that was responsible for his acquiring Fritz. And he was not disappointed.

"Where did that awful thing come from?" she demanded. "Henry Bammett, why on earth did you go and get a dog the minute my back was turned, when you know I hate the creatures? And he's so much dog!" she wailed, indignantly. "I couldn't help it," said Bammett, after the manner of men. "He was thrust upon me!" "There was plenty of time to run before all of him got there!" Mrs. Bammett insisted. "No human being could help seeing his approach hours before his total arrival! You've got to get rid of him!" "Who can I give him to?" asked Bammett. "Go away!" cried Mrs. Bammett to Fritz. Bammett, gazing at Fritz, brown, beaming and wagging, felt a new protecting affection stir within him. Sur-reptitiously he patted the sleek head. "I'll dispose of him, somehow," he promised.

"Aren't you going to do anything about this dreadful dog?" Mrs. Bammett asked a week later. "I thought you were beginning to like him," said Bammett. "You feed him!" "I can't let a living thing starve to death right before my eyes!" she asserted, frigidly. "If I suppose I would feed a convict, if he was helpless on my hands!" "You might find somebody who would take him," she insisted the next night. Fritz had come contentedly and laid down across her feet. She frowned as she looked at him. "You might push him away, you know," suggested her husband. "I wouldn't hurt a helpless creature so matter how I hated it!" Mrs. Bammett told him, viciously. Bammett came home early one night and found Fritz in Mrs. Bammett's lap. She had the grace to blush. "He just got up here," she explained rapidly. "I was putting him down when I stopped to notice how silky his hair is. If you cared anything for me you would have done something about him before this!" Bammett rose to the occasion. "Your troubles are over," he told her. "The janitor of our building has promised that he'll take Fritz as a favor though he doesn't care about dogs."

He passed Mrs. Bammett, her arm about Fritz, whose tongue was hanging out from his sudden choking surge into her embrace, was glaring at her husband. "Henry Bammett!" shrieked. "Give this poor, helpless puppy to a horrid old janitor who'll make him live in a coal cellar! Not if I know it! The idea! I don't believe you care anything about the dog at all. I shall keep Fritz myself if no body else on earth cares enough about him to—" "Fritz, old boy," interrupted Bammett, "you win!"

Napoleon Distanced. An army of 1,000,000 men employed on one battlefield, under one command, was unknown to strategists of even so comparatively late date as the seventies. No great acknowledged master of the art of war ever took into action a force of even half this strength. The army which Napoleon led into Russia, which has hitherto held a record only challenged in the course of the Russo-Japanese war, consisted, roughly speaking, of about 600,000 men. On no battlefield did Napoleon personally ever handle more than 100,000 men, touching his maximum at the Battle of Borodino.

Drunkennes in Dry Zone Crowds Docket. Owaso.—More than one-third of the criminal court business of the county comes from liquor, despite the fact that the county has been dry for nearly five years. The report of ex-Prosecuting Attorney J. H. Collins, of Owaso, for the six months ending Jan. 1, shows that he prosecuted 107 cases, and of these 39 were for drunkenness and nine for violation of the local option law. The cases of drunkenness were outside the city of Owaso, which handles its own drunk cases, so that the percentage may be higher. In local law cases, there were six convictions, two were discharged on examination and one case was nolle prossed. Fines amounting to $250 were collected.

Mother Jones Gives JOHN D. STRIKE FACTS New York, Jan. 28.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., invited Mother Jones, the aged strike leader in the Colorado coal fields, to visit him and place before him all information as to the strike situation there. The invitation was accepted. The invitation was extended by Mr. Rockefeller as he entered the room in the city hall, where the federal commission on industrial relations is conducting its inquiry into causes of industrial unrest. Rockefeller saw Mother Jones sitting among the spectators. He stepped to her side and shook hands. "I wish you would come to see me on the Colorado situation," he said. Mother Jones surprised. "That's very nice of you," she said. "I have always said that you could know but little of the condition of the workers in Colorado and that you should hear something else besides what these hirelings tell you." Discussing a clergyman at Sunset, Col., who had made some Socialistic remarks detrimental to the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., whose removal has been suggested, Mr. Rockefeller said he believed all clergymen should be free to say what they please. "Did you know that Jefferson Farr is a sheriff and that for fifteen years your company has used its influence to elect him?" asked Mr. Walsh. "Did you know that just before the strike he swore in 300 men as deputies and was told that the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. would furnish them with arms and pay them?" Rockefeller Pleads Ignorance. Mr. Rockefeller said he knew nothing about that. "As a citizen I saw that anything which interferes with the operation of a democratic form of government should not be tolerated," Mr. Rockefeller added. "If property and life were in danger in a remote part of the country, the witness said, protective measures, however deplorable, should be taken. "I do know," he testified, "that if my home and property were in danger I would take any measures within my power to protect them. Emergencies are likely to arise."

MOTHER JONES GIVES JOHN D. STRIKE FACTS

War has worked a railroad miracle, according to Herbert Corey, the well-known correspondent. Nine-tenths of the British railroads are and have been in the hands of the government and 1,000,000 men have been transported on time to a second. The public has not been seriously inconvenienced. The government is satisfied—and so are the railroads. Nothing like it ever happened before, writes Mr. Corey, and there are no standards of comparison. The government doesn't pay a penny—directly—for the movement of troops. Now and then it wishes to shoot the North Gooseshire Rifles from one end of England to another. It notifies the general managers' committee. It attends to the transportation, obeying the wishes of the government as to time and place as nearly as conditions permit. That particular transaction thereupon ends. No one has kept account of the number of men-miles used. At the end of the fiscal year the managers will present a bill, including the five-year average cost of upkeep and last year's net earnings. The government will pay it. The roads will not have lost any money through the war and the government will have been given a service that could not have been so excellent if bargained for on the piece plan. On every road the soldiers and their goods have right of way. Whenever possible existing trains are not disturbed. When those trains interfere with the troop movement they are canceled as ruthlessly as though they were motor buses. What this means in England can hardly be appreciated by those who live in America. Some of these trains have become institutions. Traditions have clustered about them, as though they were ruined abbeys. They almost have to be.

NEW SAFETY APPLIANCE This invention is embodied in mechanism applied to a car truck, whereby the air brakes are applied in case a car wheel leaves the rail or a brake beam drops, or axle bearings become displaced. The invention is embodied in a mechanism which operatively connects certain parts of the truck with the valve lever, so that the latter is raised and the valve opened when some of such parts become displaced.—Scientific American. Loud-Speaking Telephones. Several railroads in this country now use the telephone in dispatching trains, instead of the telegraph. Most of the operators wear a head telephone—an apparatus that holds the receiver constantly at the ear. The arrangement has one serious drawback: When there are thunderstorms in the vicinity, the operator hears all sorts of annoying sounds, and even runs some risk of being injured by a sudden shock. To avoid the difficulty, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad has installed loud-speaking telephones on the train-dispatching lines. The receiver of the loud-speaking instrument is more sensitive than that of the ordinary telephone, and it has a large horn, somewhat like a phonograph horn. The instrument stands on or near the desk of the dispatcher. The telephone transmitter also has a very large mouthpiece, into which the operator can speak when, some distance away. A message sent by telephone from a main office is repeated by all the loud-speaking telephone transmitters on the line, and can be heard distinctly by persons 15-feet from the instrument.—Youth's Companion.

Inspectors Use Magnifying Glasses. An American railroad has adopted the suggestion brought forward by one of its engineers, that engine inspectors be given magnifying glasses, in order that they may be more readily detect such damage as imperfections on axles and wheels as flaws and cracks. In this is seen the practical value of the safety-first campaign, in that the suggestion came from an employee, and it is to be noted that the company suitably rewarded him by presenting him with an "honor button," and granting him a month's leave of absence with pay.

Metal Railroad Ties. Metal ties were first used in Switzerland in 1881, since which time they have replaced to a large extent the wooden ties. About seventy per cent of the ties used by the Federal Swiss railroad system are of metal. These ties are 9 feet by 9 1/2 inches, weigh 160 pounds, and selling for $2.51 against $1.25 to $1.50 for oak ties. German iron foundries have formerly supplied the metal ties.

Comparison Not Flattering. Railroads in Great Britain kill in an accident for which the passenger is in no way responsible one passenger for every 72,000,000 carried, while those of the United States kill one for every 4,000,000 passengers carried.

STOCK YARDS MAY BE QUARANTINED

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The probability of another quarantine of the Union Stock Yards here was indicated today with the report that animals shipped east from a supposedly clean district in the yards had developed the foot and mouth disease. There have been frequent reports that quarantine has been established in sections of the yards, but the government inspection bureau has detained them. Conferences of officials of the state and federal live stock bureaus are being held and it is expected that before the close of the day a closing order will be issued preventing the shipment of live stock from the yards.

GUILBAULT IS FOUND HANGING BY THE NECK

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 28.—Nelson Guilbault, who is held at the county jail at Houghton, awaiting trial on the charge of murder in having brutally killed his aged uncle, Charles Guilbault, at Lake Linden Jan. 19, attempted to commit suicide at an early hour yesterday morning.

An early rising prisoner found Guilbault hanging by the neck in the corridor at 4:45 o'clock. The man at once sounded the alarm and Sheriff Cruse and Turnkey Hosking responded. Guilbault had hung himself from a rope made of strips torn from his blanket.

The sheriff and the turnkey at once cut the man down and began restorative measures. The face was already black, the tongue hanging from the mouth, the man to all appearances dead. But the officers had signs of returning consciousness to reward their efforts, even before County Physician LaBine responded to the call. The latter continued the restorative process and brought Guilbault around, only to see him go into a particularly distressing convulsion.

This paroxysm had such a bad effect on the would-be suicide that Dr. LaBine believed he was about to die and Rev. Father Schaul of St. Ignace church was called to administer to him. He recovered, however, and during the day was reported as resting reasonably well. Sheriff Cruse is not certain yet but the man's experience will result in death, as his bodily strength is at a low ebb and he is indifferent to his fate.

A public hearing on the question of Guilbault's sanity is to be held by Judge O'Brien in the circuit court next Monday, if the man survives yesterday's experience.

AMONG THE THEATRES

The Delft
Manager Jacobs of the Delft theater yesterday made the following announcement:
Announcement Extraordinary
Beginning Monday, Feb. 1, the Delft theater will show the Paramount Picture program and on every Monday and Thursday thereafter.

The entirely high class programs offered by this company causes us to make this public announcement with a feeling of great satisfaction.

The Paramount pictures constitute the productions of the Famous Players Film Company in association with Daniel Frohman, Charles Frohman and Henry W. Savage; The Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, associated with David Belasco and the Liallar Company; Bosworth Incorporated, affiliated with Oliver Morosco Photo Play Company.

These productions show the greatest aggregations of stars ever shown. The production shown on Monday evening will be "Paradise Lost."

A full orchestra will accompany the picture "Cabrira" at this house at both the afternoon and evening programs.

THE BIJOU
Manager Hines presents for public approval today "As Ye Sow," a five act drama that will be worth time and money to see. The picture is one that appeals to the stronger nature of man and woman and one that will bring a spirit of retrospection to those who see it.

A distinct lesson is carried with this feature picture of today.

THE ROYAL AND GRAND
The program for today includes "The Lure of the Windigo" a Selig two part drama; "The Lost Melody," an Edison drama featuring Edward Earle and the fable of "How Uncle Brewster Was too Shifty for the Tempter," an Essanay comedy.

The above program is highly recommended by Manager Sullivan and should receive the attention of a large number of local people today.

The Gist of It.
"Last December I had a very severe cold and was nearly down sick in bed. I bought two bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it was only a very few days until I was completely restored to health," writes O. J. Metcalf, Weatherly, Mo. If you would know the value of this remedy, ask any one who has used it. Obtainable everywhere.

Goat's Milk Best for Children.
In the Russian and German hospitals goat's milk is much used for children as being more nourishing than cow's milk and free from tuberculosis.

Home, Sweet Home.
Between thirty and forty thousand Sicilians emigrate from Palermo to the United States each year, and in the course of time almost all of them go back permanently or for a visit.

"CABIRIA" PLEASURES MARQUETTE PEOPLE

Of the feature film, Cabiria, to be presented at the Delft this afternoon and evening, the Mining Journal had the following after showing of the picture in that city on Wednesday:

The Marquette Opera House was sold out last night for "Cabrira," the great twelve-reel picture production based on d'Annunzio's work, and in addition a large matinee audience viewed the picture. It was by far the most ambitious picture play ever shown in Marquette, and in the finished nature of the acting and the wonderful manner in which its tremendous effects were achieved was a revelation even to the thirty-third degree picture fans.

"Cabrira" is a historical picture of the period of the great Rome and Carthaginian wars. It is more than a spectacle, for it tells a human interest story of great power, the story of "Cabrira," a little Roman girl who was driven from her home by the eruption of Aetna, to be captured by Phoenician pirates and carried into slavery at Carthage. Her adventures there and the heroic efforts to rescue her of the Roman, Fulvius, abetted by the heroic Nubian slave, who has a prominent part in the action, furnish a plot that compels keen attention.

The spectacular features of the great production are sufficient in number and impressiveness to furnish out a half dozen ordinary picture plays. Among them are the eruption of Aetna, the destruction of the city at its foot, the burning of the Roman fleet before Syracuse and the Roman attack on Carthage. They are magnificently conceived and are carried out with a success that has never before been attained in such an ambitious undertaking in motion picture production.

The audiences that viewed "Cabrira" yesterday were highly enthusiastic concerning it.

WOMEN EARN SLES THAN LIVING COST

Lansing, Jan. 28.—A majority of the women wage earners in Michigan receive salaries less than the actual cost of comfortable living according to the report of the commission appointed to inquire into conditions submitted to Governor Ferris today.

The wages of over 50,000 women were reported upon and nearly 26,000 women wage earners received under $8 per week. Many of the women who submitted testimony declared $10 necessary for comfortable living.

The report concluded that present conditions constitute a menace to society which the legislature can prevent. The committee recommended vocational training in the public schools and a minimum wage commission.

BERRIEN CULT IN PLEA AT CAPITAL

Washington, Jan. 28.—Trouble of the Israelite House of David of Benton Harbor, which have been aired considerably in Michigan, have reached Washington. According to information on file with Commissioner of Immigration Cammeltt, the claim is made that the society is being discriminated against in the administration of the immigration laws. It is said that a prospective member of the society was excluded from admission to this country by the immigration officials at Detroit.

Considerable correspondence on the subject of the admission of Robert Wright of Kingston, Ontario, has passed between Secretary Francis Thorpe of the House of David society and the officials here. It is said that Wright, who is sixty-three years of age, deeded over a chair factory which he owned to his sons, and converted all his other property into cash with the intention of joining the society at Benton Harbor and spending the remainder of his days there. These facts became known to immigration officials in Detroit about the time of the much discussed investigation of the affairs of the society. It is intimated in the correspondence of Mr. Thorpe that the unpleasant notoriety gained by the society at the time unduly influenced the officials.

FINDEISEN WINS SUIT AGAINST BIG CONCERN

Green Bay, Wis., Jan. 29.—A verdict in favor of Henry Findelsen of this city against Paine-Webber & Co., a big eastern brokerage house, was returned to circuit court in Marinette yesterday. The suit was a test case instituted to recover $375, which the plaintiff paid the defendant to invest, and which was lost through the failure of W. E. Fildes, who acted as agent for the brokerage concern, it is claimed.

Other cases pending against Paine-Webber & Co. involve several thousand dollars. The cases are brought by Green Bay and Marinette men. As a result of this verdict by the circuit court jurors, the brokerage concern has lost cases of this nature in the federal and circuit courts. Benjamin Brill was awarded $32,000 by a federal judge a short time ago in his action against Paine-Webber & Co.

The important question in the case is whether Fildes was an authorized agent for Paine-Webber & Co. The jurisdiction decided from the evidence that he was an agent. In all 14 questions were answered by the jury and all of them in favor of the plaintiff.

KELLY BRINGS ON THE TARIFF TIRADE

Washington, Jan. 28.—The single word "Why" uttered in a loud voice by Congressman Kelley precipitated a tirade by Congressman Howard of Georgia. Mr. Howard had just remarked that 2,500 men in the city of Atlanta were today walking the streets and looking for work. Mr. Kelley at once wanted to know why and Congressman Johnson of Washington asked whether the caucuses were psychological. There was applause and laughter on the republican side, and then Mr. Howard answered:

"I know that you are trying to lay it on the reduction of tariff, when you have a higher tariff now than you ever had in the history of the republican party, to-wit, no competition at all. You know it is attributable to the horrible European conditions. But you are demagoging and trying to lay it on the tariff and the democratic president. It is because everybody is scared to death. If the German or English had the same opportunities and were surrounded by the same environments as American manufacturers, they would have money in every pocket, and every industry would be working full time."

Great Things From Little.
Great things always come in shoals of countless little things, which look like insignificant atoms as we pass through them, and only seem a shoal when we have passed beyond them.—Mrs. Charles.

All Must Be Well Done.
Nothing is done well enough for the present which is not well enough for all time. The idea that imperfections are of no consequence now, and that the crooked lines can be straightened, and the rough corners smoothed off by and by has put many a worker in the failure class.

Promising Investment.
"The lasting, delightful perfume of the age. One who can prove that the perfume of Otto Mohr is not lasting for four days by putting five drops on the handkerchief will be rewarded $100 cash. Try only small tube and get the reward."—Advertisement in Hitavada.—Punch.

Remedy for Croup.
Beat the white of an egg to a stiff froth, then sweeten a little and add a little pulverized alum. Give a teaspoonful every ten or fifteen minutes until relief comes.

Murderous Plants.
There are plants whose roots, like tentacles, feel about until they touch some live prey, then send forth a stinging hair which shocks and paralyzes the victim, giving the claws a chance to close about him.

NEW MEMBERS IN MICH. DELEGATION

Washington, Jan. 28.—With the probability of an extra session being called soon after March 4, the four new members of the Michigan congressional delegation are expected soon to be sworn in and receive committee assignments. Two of the new members, W. Frank James of Hancock, and Charles Nichols of Detroit, have visited Washington since their election and had conferences with Minority Leader Mann.

Under the rules of the house, the ways and means committee selects all other committees, at least in theory. Their selections are always endorsed by the house. As Congressman Fordney's the ranging republican member of this committee, he will have considerable to say about committee assignments of new members. In actual practice, Minorit Leader Hann has the most influence. As a result of the retirement of Congressman MacDonald, Michigan might ask for a place on the important good roads committee. Congressman Lindquist was member of the minor committees on claims, patents and railways and canals. It is considered probable that Congressman-elect Loud will get his old place on the naval affairs committee. Congressman-elect Scott has not yet made an appearance in Washington.

THE BETA TAU SIGMA PARTY

The members of the Beta Tau Sigma society of the city will entertain informally at Clark's hall this evening at a dancing party that will prove thoroughly enjoyable to all guests in attendance.

A number of invitations have been extended for this affair and it is believed that the biggest proportion will respond.

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Carlson will serve as chaperones at the function of this evening.

H. R. B. Dance
A cordial invitation has been issued by the H. R. B. Club for an informal dancing party at Clark's hall on Monday evening. Olmsted's orchestra will furnish the musical program for the affair.

WOULD REPAY ROOSEVELT; RETURN PEACE PRIZE.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—Under the terms of a bill introduced by Senator Dodge, former President Roosevelt would have returned to him the $40,000 Noble peace prize awarded him in 1906 which he turned over to the government as a fund for the Foundation for Promotion of Industrial Peace.

The fund was tendered as a nucleus for the foundation, its income to aid in its maintenance under the guidance of a commission. Sufficient interest, it is understood, could not be aroused in outside sources to promote the work of the foundation.

This is given as the reason for Senator Lodge's bill, which would refund to the former President the principal of the fund.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE

WHEREAS, Thomas Rowan and Anna Rowan (his wife) of Escanaba, Michigan, made and executed a certain Mortgage bearing date the 10th day of March, A. D., 1914, at four o'clock in the afternoon, in Liber 10 of Mortgages, page 223, and

WHEREAS, the amount claimed to be due upon said Mortgage is the sum of Five Hundred Eighty-three and 94-100 ($583.94) dollars principal, and Seven and 29-100 ($7.29) Dollars interest, and no suit or proceedings has been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured thereby or any part thereof, and

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the moneys secured by said Mortgage, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative,

NOW, THEREFORE, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that by virtue of said power of sale and in pursuance thereof, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the Mortgaged premises, at public vendue to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House at Escanaba, in said County of Delta, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court within said County, on the seventh day of May, A. Social Happenings of the Day

The members of the Beta Tau Sigma society of the city will entertain informally at Clark's hall this evening at a dancing party that will prove thoroughly enjoyable to all guests in attendance.

A number of invitations have been extended for this affair and it is believed that the biggest proportion will respond.

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Carlson will serve as chaperones at the function of this evening.

H. R. B. Dance
A cordial invitation has been issued by the H. R. B. Club for an informal dancing party at Clark's hall on Monday evening. Olmsted's orchestra will furnish the musical program for the affair.

Bristol Mine Will Open With Full Force.
Crystal Falls, Jan. 28.—Officials of the Bristol Mining company at Crystal Falls today, ordered the resumption of work at the Bristol mine, which has been idle for several months. It is understood that a full force of men will be put back to work and that the mine will run full time.

STEEL PLANTS PUT ON 2,000 MORE MEN
Pittsburg, Jan. 28.—More than 2,000 steel workers returned to full time employment today when the mills of the Pittsburg Steel company at Charleroi and Monessen resumed at full blast after a lengthy period on depression.

Hadn't Looked for That.
"When we bought dear little Bobby the electric flashlight he had been begging for so long," says a mother, "we never anticipated that the first time we had company he would hold it up to the guest's ear and say: 'Oh, I just want to see if your ear is clean!'"

Simplified Music.
Berlioz used to tell a story about a young woman in a music store: "But mademoiselle," suggested the clerk "will not this piece in five sharps perhaps be rather difficult?" "Pooh!" she replied disdainfully. "That is all one to me. Whenever I find more than two sharps or flats I scratch them out with my penknife."

THE LETTER AND THE SPIRIT

If you would estimate the services of a bank, study the men behind it. There are some principles which banks must observe. But their application may be lifeless and perfunctory, or alive with the spirit of practical helpfulness. For this the men behind are responsible.

The directors of the State Savings Bank are live forces in the business activities of this city. They are practical men. And the policy they have laid down for this institution is equally practical.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION

Regular Deliveries Are Trouble Savers

The milkman leaves the milk every day. The newsboy leaves the paper every day. In summer the iceman leaves the ice on certain days.

Why not a "standing order" for the groceries, meats, such as sugar, eggs, coffee, tea, soap, Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes, Sausage, roasts and steaks—that you use and need at regular times?

It will be a convenience and an economy for you and for us. Ask us about it. Leave the "bother" to us.

WAR ARRANGEMENTS ADMITTED BY BRITISH

London, Jan. 28.—The official information bureau issued Tuesday a statement as follows: "The foreign office, replying officially to recent interviews with Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, German imperial chancellor, in which reference was made to the treaty guaranteeing Belgium's neutrality as a 'scrap of paper' admits the existence of the documents the Germans have said they found in Brussels, but insists these were purely informal in case the British needed to defend Belgian neutrality."

"The Belgian marginal note on the record explains that the entry of the English into Belgium would only take place after the violation of our Belgian neutrality."

"If the German chancellor wishes to know why there were conversations on military subjects between British and Belgian officers," said Sir Edward, "he may find one reason in a fact well known to him; namely, that Germany was establishing an elaborate network of strategic railway leading from the Rhine to the Belgian frontier through a barren, populated tract."

"The arguments by which Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg seeks to establish the two sides of this case are in flat contradiction to the plain facts."

"First, the German chancellor alleges that 'England in 1911 was determined to throw troops into Belgium without the assent of the Belgian government.'"

"This allegation is absolutely false. It is based on certain documents found in Brussels, which record conversations between British and Belgian officers in 1906 and again in 1911."

"The fact that there is no note of these conversations at the British war office or the foreign office shows that they were of a purely informal character, and that no military agreement of any sort was at either time made between the two governments."

"The fact that there is no note of these conversations at the British war office or the foreign office shows that they were of a purely informal character, and that no military agreement of any sort was at either time made between the two governments."

WAR

(Continued from page one.) London, Jan. 28.—Except in Alsace, where a stubborn battle has been in progress for several days, but which receives only the briefest mention in the official reports, the fighting has been comparatively light on the western front. In Alsace troops are engaged in hand-to-hand struggles. The Berlin war office asserts that the French were driven from the heights near Sennheim. Elsewhere there have been heavy gun bombardments and a fight for a trench here and there, but no battle, such as is considered of a proportion worthy of extended mention in this titanic war.

The siege continues and, according to the opinion of the military experts, it will go on until the ground hardens sufficiently to enable one of the commanders to move a large body of men with a speed that will permit him to surprise his opponents and enable him to find a weak spot in the line."

The Germans have halted the French advance designed to cut communications with the important fortress of Metz, in Lorraine, and isolate the German forces in the St. Mihiel region. The official statement from Berlin today says that the French lost heavily in an attack near Pont-a-Mousson, and were repulsed. The French statement acknowledges that the Germans have retaken part of their lost trenches.

Another British vessel has been torpedoed by a German submarine in the North sea. The steamer Durward, a small merchantman, was sent to the bottom, but her crew was saved. A dispatch from The Hague says the Durward had on board forty tons of provisions belonging to the American Relief commission.

London, Jan. 28.—The advance guard of the Turkish army which is undertaking an invasion of Egypt has reached the British outposts to the east of the Suez canal, where the first skirmish of the war in this region took place yesterday.

The fight according to the official reports, apparently was a small affair, only one British officer being wounded, but dispatches from Cairo say the invaders suffered severely from the machine guns of the British troops.

The dispatches do not disclose the size of the Turkish force, but say the engagement took place to the east of El Kantara, which is on the Suez canal and is the terminus of the caravan route from Rafat, the border station between Egypt and Syria. The distance from Rafat to El Kantara is 143 miles, and as the British have filled in all the wells along the caravan route, the invaders would have to carry their own water. Even El Kantara is supplied by a pipe line from a fresh water stream which runs under the Suez canal.

It is believed the fighting of the British forces was with the Arab or Kurdish horsemen employed by the Turks as scouts for the main army under Djemal Pasha, which consists of three army corps, and which is believed to have had hardly time to cross the desert. The British have a strong force with which to guard the canal.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Defeat of a Turkish force near Karna by the British army moving into Asiatic Turkey was announced today in a foreign affairs dispatch to the British embassy here. Previous reports from Constantinople said the British offensive at this point had been repulsed with heavy losses.

"DEVOTEDLY, BILL"

By IZOLA FORESTER.

"Where are the matches?" Nan stumbled over a tabor and emitted a startled exclamation. "Forevermore! Eleanor, where on earth are you?"

"Stand still until I can find where the switch is, goose." There came the click of a button and the long reception hall lay revealed in a flood of light.

It was after twelve, and they both needed rest more than anything after the trip down from the mountains. It was cheerier in the cozy bedroom suite upstairs. The rooms connected with each other, and Nan rambled about, her brown hair in two long braids and a kimono wrapped about her. Tucked into a corner was a photograph that seemed different from the rest. It was such a splendid, manly young face that smiled out at one from it. Nan turned it over and read on the back in a scrawling, boyish writing:

"Devotedly, Bill." Over at the little white dressing table Eleanor sat brushing her hair. Somehow no one would ever have connected her with college boys who signed themselves, "Devotedly, Bill."

"What are you chuckling over?" asked Eleanor. "Devotedly, Bill." Eleanor turned around, her fair hair falling loosely over her shoulders, her eyes filling with tears.

"Oh, Nell, I didn't mean to stir up anything—" "Oh, it's all right. You didn't strike any heavy minor chord." She looked down at the photograph tenderly. "He was just a boy I met up at Cornell last winter, the very first boy that ever dared to love me."

"Bless his old brave heart," interrupted Nan fervently, leaning forward, her chin on her hands. "Doesn't he ever write to you?" "We promised we wouldn't, not for a year. What's that?"

Both girls rose to their feet with startled eyes. "Somebody fell over the tabor in the hall," Nan whispered, her dark eyes wide with dread. "You turned off the lights."

Eleanor thought quickly. The house had been closed since June. A caretaker came every day to look after it, and at night the watchman was supposed to guard it. She crossed the room and locked both doors leading into the hall, then went to the windows.

BODIE RELEASED TO FRISCO CLUB

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Ping Bodie has been released.

The news was flashed Tuesday night by Secretary Grabner of the White Sox and, regardless of the fact that Ping never set any records in his four years as a major leaguer, nevertheless a lot of south side fans will mourn; for Ping was about as popular a fellow as ever performed for Owner Comiskey.

Ping has been sold outright to the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league, from which team he came to the White Sox in the spring of 1911 with a reputation as a "fence-buster." Secretary Grabner said Ping was satisfied to return to the club, because San Francisco is his home town, and the terms offered by the coast magnate were satisfactory.

MEXICANS BATTLE FOR PLACE FOR JOHNSON.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 28.—An army is fighting for Jack Johnson. A town is being besieged in order that the big black may enter Mexico unmolested for his fight with Jessa Willard at Jurez. It is stated that the only route through Mexico which Johnson can take without fear of being arrested by the troops of Gen. Carranza is by way of Tampico, the oil port. Gen. Villa's army is now besieging the port. Villa is to get a slice of the fight money and he is expected to make every effort to take Tampico.

The immigration officers in El Paso yesterday were notified to watch for Johnson as it is believed he may attempt to reach Jurez through the United States. Johnson is due to reach the Barbadoes, West Indies, on Friday.

RAIL WORKERS END THEIR CASE

Chicago—Confiscation of the homes and savings of Western railroad employees through arbitrary action of company officials who suddenly transfer a terminal from one point to another was illuminated during the past week in testimony offered by the engineers' and firemen's brotherhood in the railway wage arbitration proceedings.

In the words of Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers: "If an official by a stroke of the pen in the interests of the so-called economic operations, can destroy the homes and savings of the men, to say nothing of the hardships imposed by starting life over again under these conditions, then the business demanding these sacrifices should bear the cost, and not the employees."

While this disclosure came early in the week, it was regarded by many as among the most sensational that the inquiry has produced. Following this exhibit the brotherhoods closed their direct testimony after having been in the saddle twenty-eight and one-half days, having examined sixty-five witnesses and offered fifty-six exhibits.

Coyote With a Bell.

CASEY UP-TODATE.

(By Grantland Rice.)

The outlook wasn't brilliant for a speedy decree as the judge's golf engagement was a quarter after three; and so when Gilmore took his place, supplanting Garry left, a sickly silence fell upon the few fans that were left.

A few poor boobs got up to go in deep despair, the rest clung to that dope which springs eternal in the baseball breast; they thought if only Casey could hit get a chance to land—Well, they'd put up even money with Old Casey on the stand.

But Ban preceded Casey with R. Ward amid the frame—And one was quite a talker, and the other was the same; So upon the stricken gathering who laid a heavy hand. For there seemed but little chance of Casey's coming to the stand.

But Ban talked but an hour to the wonderment of all; And Colonel Ward spoke even less before he left the hall; Whereat the cheering echoes struck the court room with a jar. For Casey, mighty Casey, was advancing to the bar.

There was kale in Casey's pockets as he stepped into his place; There was contracts in his fingers—and a yawn on Casey's face; And when, responding to the oath, he raised the proper hand, Not a roofer in the place could doubt 'twas Casey on the stand.

The eyes of all were on him, as he sought his counsel's ear; The tongues of all applauded as he sent out for a beer; And when the prosecutor put a hand upon each hip, Defiance gleamed in Casey's eye—a sneer curled Casey's lip.

And now some pop-eyed lawyer started handing out hot air, And Casey started lamping him in puzzled grandeur there; Close by the sturdy batsman seven Latin Phrases said—"Pro bono," started Case, "I object," the lawyer said.

From the benches down below him there went up a muffled roar Like growling that once echoed when south an umpire's gore; "Kill him—kill that shyster!" shouted some one from the clan, And it's likely they'd have mobbed him not Casey winked at Ban.

With a smile of Blackstone wisdom mighty Casey's visage shone; He called the court to order and he bade the judge go on; He signalled to the lawyer who for several moments drudged—"I object," said Casey loudly—but the judge yelled, "Over-ruled."

"Fraud!" yelled the mad fanatics, and the echoes answered fraud; But one legal lock from Casey and the audience was awed; They saw his face grow stern and cold—they saw his jawbone strain, And they knew that Casey wouldn't boot that Latin phrase again.

SHE DARED THE SEA

By JACK NORMAN.

To Brittany, at the westernmost part of France, came in the tenth century many thousands of settlers who had just left that part of England now called Wales to avoid the rule of the Norman.

How strange and rude that Brittany! How rough and picturesque her people! "Arid as Brittany," says a proverb; "Stubborn as a Briton," retorts another. And there you have in a few words the most striking characteristics of both.

Fancy a succession of bleak plateaus spread over a hundred square miles of land, showing to the sun nothing but the bareness of their myriads of granite rocks, and the vegetation that can extract a living in the interstices, under the action of frequent sprinkles and vapor hats exhaled by the Gull stream, and blown over by the ocean breeze. This is the country!

Imagine an individual of mean size, but sturdy, muscular, vigorous, and seeming to have inside the skull more elements of will, of tenacity, of obstinacy than the rest of the world. That is the man!

The traveler in Brittany infallibly hears the story of Marie Legoff, and told by her countrymen, it is worth the trip, but we had better tell it and save time.

Marie Legoff, then fourteen years old, was the housekeeper of her father, a fisherman of Lannion, when the turbulent waves of the British channel crushed the old man and his boat on the reefs. The fisherman who found the wreckage on the sands went to Marie Legoff and told her about his discovery.

"Poor girl," he concluded, "what are you going to do now?" Then with Briton brusqueness, "You'd better go to an orphan asylum. Do you want me to do anything about it?"

The sight of Marie Legoff was a pitiful one at first, but her blood did not take long to reveal itself in pulses of undauntedness, and presently, restraining her tears, raising her bowed head, her eyes flashing a fierce determination, she said:

"Thank you just the same, John; but the sea took my living, and the sea shall give it back to me—or swallow me altogether."

And two days after she went out to sea with an uncle.

The short trips of her uncle's boat did not satisfy Marie Legoff, as she longed for a time when she could, on a bigger boat, fight and wrestle with that sea that had taken her father. That time had come with her marriage. Husband and wife having some money, put it together to buy a sloop of about fifty tons burden, and they went to sea, doing a coasting trade.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS

PACKY SEEKS A MICHIGAN MATCH

Grand Rapids.—A 10-round battle that will involve the welterweight championship of the world, with Grand Rapids as the scene, is not altogether an impossibility in the near future.

Mike Gibbons, who on the strength of his showing Thursday night in his scrap with Jimmy Clabby is entitled to be acclaimed welterweight champion, is the man who holds the key to the whole situation.

Packy is Man.
Packy McFarland, who has graduated from the lightweight brigade, is the man who would like to settle the discussion with his fists. Packy has been appearing at a local theatre for the past two days.

"This is just a start for me," said the stock yards boy. "I figure that my little bit here will put me on edge, so that when I get back to Chicago I will be ready to get down to real hard work. I do not anticipate that I will have much trouble getting a match with Gibbons. And if I do, take it from me I am going to beat him. I did it once, and as much as he has progressed since that time, I still think that I have a little something on him."

Out of Shape.
That McFarland is out of shape at the present was indicated after his workouts here. He was puffing as he explained how he proposed to go after Gibbons in an effort to set a match with him. "I am no longer a lightweight. I now weigh 155, and it would weaken me if I tried to reduce to even near 140. Freddie Welsh can have his crown. I couldn't any more hope to get down to weight for him than I could to whip Jack Johnson with the big black in his true form."

Nothing but a Match with Gibbons, however, continued Packy, "would tempt me to re-enter the ring. I have longed for a chance to get into a battle on which the championship of a division depended, but it has never come my way."

BODY OF AGED MAN IS FOUND IN STABLE

Saginaw.—The body of Joseph Glover, 71-years old, former resident of Saginaw, was found in the manger of a small stable, one of the three buildings of a lumber camp, near the Bliss coal mine, in Swan Creek township, yesterday by Ray Haney, son of the camp foreman.

The right side of his face was crushed in and his right leg was nearly severed at the knee.

As is Found.
An ax, similar to those used in a lumber camp, was found a few feet away, partly covered with hay. The blade was smeared with blood. The floor of the stable and the side walls were spattered with blood and on one wall was a large piece of flesh, probably knocked there by a blow from the ax.

No Money Found in Clothes.
Madrya Tyurchin, known in the camp as Andy George, was arrested by Sheriff Sutherland, pending an investigation. Glover is said to have had considerable money Sunday, but when his clothes were examined yesterday his pockets were empty.

Liver With Man.
Andy George, who lived with Glover in a shanty, said that Sunday the old man gave him money to go to the store, a mile away while Glover fed the horses. George said Glover never returned. Until the body was found George says he did not know where his companion was. Nowhere in the shanty could blood stains be found. George, the officers say, was preparing to go fishing when young Haney found the body.

NEW AUTO TAX BILL INTRODUCED
Lansing, Jan. 28.—Representative Newell Smith, of Gratiot, introduced into the house a repetition of the automobile registration and license bill which was passed in the 1913 session and declared invalid by the supreme court.

Before entering his bill, Mr. Smith consulted with the state highway department and the attorney general to make sure objectionable features found by the supreme court had been eliminated. Few changes from the original are found in the new bill.

Wherever in the former "horsepower tax" bill, the word "license" appeared the words "specific tax" has been substituted. In the old bill a tax of 50 cents for each horsepower was imposed; Mr. Smith's measure cuts this rate to 25 cents a horsepower. An additional assessment is made, however, to be determined by the weight of the car to be taxed. The Smith bill imposes a tax of 25 cents for each 100

SUES TO COLLECT PAY FOR FAVORS

Battle Creek, Jan. 28.—The oddest bill of particulars on record was presented here in connection with a suit started by Louis E. Fowler against Mr. and Mrs. Richard Denning, who formerly occupied part of his home. It calls for $3.80 for errands run by Fowler's son, several dollars for lard, soap and foodstuffs loaned his tenants, money for keeping an eye on Mrs. Denning when she was sick four days, and even 20 cents for Mrs. Fowler's trouble in showing Mrs. Denning how to hem a tablecloth.

It's serious suit, too, both sides having retained prominent attorneys. And, like many such suits, the parties concerned were the best of friends until they tried to live together in the same household.

STATE MAY PROBE PASSENGER GAINS

Lansing, Jan. 28.—Convinced that a general increase in rates of passenger fares on Michigan roads will not be allowed at this season of the legislature, Gov. Ferris is planning to ask the legislature for authority to appoint a commission to make an investigation of railroad passenger earnings, with a view to ascertain if this branch of the railroads is running at a loss. It is generally accepted here that the petitions of the Pere Marquette railroad to increase rates will be brought to bear on the legislature as an aid to the Ferris probe.

THAW'S NEMESIS IS OFF THE TRIAL

New York, Jan. 28.—Harry Thaw this morning pleaded not guilty to a charge of conspiracy. His trial was set for February 23. He will remain in the Tombs.

"It's a long lane that has no turning," said Thaw, when he learned that Deputy District Attorney Jerome was no longer connected with the case.

Jerome was relieved from duty as special attorney general by Attorney General Woodbury. It was announced that Jerome's retirement was due only to the fact that Woodbury is satisfied his regular staff can now handle the case.

New York Jan. 28.—They took Harry Thaw across the bridge of sighs this morning and arraigned him before Justice Davis in the criminal branch of the supreme court.

Thaw was quite serene. He talked to his lawyers, he smiled at the judge, and to William M. Penny, clerk of the court, he said, "Why, hello Bill, how are you?"

John B. Stanchfield, Thaw's chief counsel, demanded that a sanitary test be made before the trial for conspiracy. He based this demand on an act passed by the legislature in 1910, which says that any person accused of an offense calling for a punishment of imprisonment for a year, or a fine of sanity enter, the question of this sanity shall be determined before the trial.

Insists Thaw is Insane.
The court wanted to know how the present case fell under the application of this act and Mr. Stanchfield offered his explanation.

"Why your honor," said Mr. Jerome in replying to Mr. Stanchfield, "this man has been thrice adjudged insane. The section read by Mr. Stanchfield has nothing to do with the case. The only way the question of sanity can be brought up again is by habeas corpus proceedings. The view we take is that Thaw legally stands before this court an insane man. He should be sent to a proper place for insane persons and kept there, until brought in for court trial on this indictment."

"If he is then acquitted he should be sent to Mattewan, as his committal there still remains in force. If he is convicted, it is up to the court to suspend sentence and return him to the asylum from whence he fled."

"Trying to Railroad Thaw."
To this Mr. Stanchfield answered that Jerome was trying to railroad Thaw back to the horrors of an insane asylum. After the lawyers had discussed the matter for some ten minutes, Justice Davis remarked: "I shall not attempt to decide the question of hand, so I shall let counsel know within a few days."

KAISER PARDONS SOLDIERS ON ANNIVERSARY OF BIRTH
Berlin, Jan. 28.—Twenty birthday decrees of amnesty were issued by Emperor Williams, the fifty-sixth anniversary of his birth. The first releases the active military from the disciplinary punishment inflicted upon them by court-martial within a limit of six months' imprisonment; the second decrees annuls the prosecution of soldiers for offenses previous to the receipt of

THEIR WISE OLD UNCLE

By JENNIE KENNER.

When Appleby broke the news to his young wife that his Uncle Jack was coming to make them a visit she expressed pleasure at the prospect as cheerfully as she could, but she looked alarmed.

"He's a jolly old boy," said Appleby. "I know you'll like him, Arabella."

"But I'm afraid he won't like me, John."

"Nonsense, why not. I'd like to know? Of course he'll fall in love with you at the first glance just as I did."

"Platterer!" laughed Mrs. Appleby. "But seriously I know he'll be scandalized at the way we live."

"Why, my dear girl, what's the matter with the way we live? Haven't we a cozy little flat, and don't we get excellent meals in the very first apartment below?"

"Yes, but you know you have told me yourself that your Uncle Jack has very rigid, old-fashioned opinions on the duties of wives, and he'll think me lazy and incompetent because I don't cook our own meals myself. I just know he will."

"Yes, Arabella, but you're so quick and bright, you could learn to cook in no time. All you need is a little practice."

"But I don't want to practice on your uncle, Jack! That would be a fearfully dangerous experiment."

"Well, then, why not have our meals sent up?" Appleby asked.

"Yes, we could do it easily. Mrs. Briggs could send our meals up the back stairs, and I could put them on the table and we'd serve them just as if they had been cooked in our own little kitchen. I think it's a splendid plan."

Appleby seized upon the idea eagerly, for he realized that his uncle was not likely to look with favor upon their present mode of life. Inside of an hour they had persuaded Mrs.

"Don't Be Ashamed."

Briggs, at whose table they took their meals, to do her share.

When Uncle Jack arrived he showed every sign of being highly pleased with his nephew's wife and their home. He continually congratulated the young pair on their good sense in starting out so early to make a real home instead of this "infernal boarding house," as he called it, and at every meal nearly he praised Mrs. Appleby for her good housekeeping. Aunt things did run with astonishing smoothness.

"Now don't blush, little girl," he said when the young woman was one day quite overcome by his warm appreciation of the cooking. "John is a mighty lucky chap to have such a capable helpmeet as you."

Another time she was almost reduced to tears when, handing her a notebook, he asked her to jot down the rule for the delicious pudding they had had that night, so that he could have his housekeeper make it.

"Oh, Uncle Jack, I'll have to look it in the book and see," she said. "I'll copy it for you tomorrow."

"Very well, my dear. You see, I'm anxious to carry home some of your culinary secrets."

At this Appleby laughed so uproariously that his wife was obliged to retreat from the room in disorder and when John hastily joined her she exclaimed between laughter and tears: "I'm not going to carry on this deception any longer. I'm ashamed of myself."

"Don't be ashamed," said Uncle Jack. He had followed them unobserved to the kitchen. They turned and looked at him in consternation. He laughed at their confusion.

"You needn't be ashamed of the deception, for there wasn't any," he went on. "I came out here the very first day of my visit to black my shoes, and Mrs. Briggs' maid was just bringing up the soup for dinner and she told me all."

"And you've been having a bit of fun with us," young Appleby said grumpily.

"Well, I thought it was a good joke, and a clever one, too. Now, Arabella, I'll tell you what I wish to give you as a parting present, my dear—a course at the domestic science school."

"Oh, Uncle Jack," she laughed, "that makes us more than even, but I'll accept it gladly."—Chicago Daily News.

RESERVE BOARD MAKES REPORT

Washington, Jan. 28.—The first report of the federal reserve board covering the developments which preceded the opening of the twelve regional reserve banks last November and the two months in which they have been in actual operation, was sent to congress today. It announces that noteworthy results already have been accomplished and that the system now "cannot be regarded as experimental in the sense that there is any uncertainty as to the outcome." No legislation is asked for the board devoting its report chiefly to an outline of how the new system has strengthened the nation's financial situation.

"Less than five months have elapsed," says the report, "since the introduction into our financial system of the most far-reaching change that has been made in the field of the national banking act. Less than two months have gone by since the federal reserve banks by since the federal reserve banks actually opened for business. The system, however, is in operation and has already produced results of the most noteworthy character."

"There is much yet to be done, but the work cannot be regarded as experimental in the sense that there is any uncertainty as to the outcome. The only question is as to how rapidly it will be possible to develop the capabilities and resources of the federal reserve system. Its potentialities are vast and should contribute immeasurably in the future to the solidity, stability and flexibility of the American credit systems."

What Is Function of System.
The question, however, naturally suggests itself and must be frankly faced: What is the proper place and function of the federal reserve banks in our banking and credit system? On the other hand, it is represented that they are merely emergency banks to be resorted to for assistance only in time of abnormal stress; while on the other it is claimed that they are in essence simply additional banks which should compete with the member banks especially with those of the greatest power. The function of a reserve bank is not to be identified with either of these extremes, although occasions may arise when either of such courses may be imperative. Its duty plainly is not to await emergencies, but by anticipation to do what it can to prevent them.

"So also, if, at any time, commerce, industry or agriculture are in the opinion of the federal reserve board burdened unduly with excessive interest charges it will be the clear and imperative duty of the reserve board acting through the discount rate and open market powers to secure a wider diffusion of credit facilities at reasonable rates."

Resources Are Available.
The ready availability of its resources is of supreme importance in the conduct of a reserve bank. Only then will it constantly carry the promise of being able to protect business against the harmful stimulus and consequences of ill-advised expansions of credit on the one hand, or against the menace of unnatural restrictions and artificial stringencies. It should at all times be a steady influence, leading when and where leadership is requisite, but never allowing itself to become an instrument for the promotion of the selfish interests of any private or sectional group, be their aims and methods open or disguised."

The board refers briefly to the open market operations of the reserve banks and announces that regulations governing the purchase of acceptances will soon be made public. With the issue of these regulations, the report says, there will be ample employment for all funds of these banks, which experience demonstrates they may safely and properly invest at times when such funds are not absorbed in responding to the demands of commerce, industry and agriculture.

The board points out that another pressing problem, that of admission of state banks and trust companies to the system, is receiving consideration and "that at least a tentative solution of the problem at issue may be arrived at in the near future."

The report shows that 93 state banks and trust companies with an aggregate capital and surplus of $9,151,306 have been converted into national banks and entered the system since the passage of the act. Nine state banks and four trust companies with capital and surplus of $17,884,000 have been admitted under their own charters, with the understanding that they will accept regulations for the conduct of business made by the board. Applications from fifty-one other such institutions which prefer to wait for the issuance of regulations governing their admission are pending before the board.

GRAVE WATCHERS

TOLD TO DEPART

Battle Creek--Death apparently has not sealed the breach between Mayor John W. Bailey and the late Charles W. Post.

Today Mayor Bailey instructed Chief of Police W. H. Farrington to discontinue co-operating with the Postum Cereal company's private guards in safe-guarding the body of the late cereal manufacturer, at Oak Hill manseum. Since Mr. Post's death, watchmen have stayed at the manseum day and night, reporting to the police every half hour.

Twice when reports failed to come in, the police sent patrolmen to the cemetery in haste. This is what aroused Bailey.

In his letter the mayor says: "There are 10,000 better men and women buried in the sacred soil of the two cemeteries (Oak Hill and Mt. Olivet) and so far as I know no one has ever had the nerve to ask the taxpayers of Battle Creek to stand the expense of getting 30 minute reports from the graves."

Bailey orders an immediate discontinuance of police aid.

MUNISING GOES

FOR COMMISSION

Munising, Jan. 28.--Munising's municipal election yesterday, which brought out the unusually large vote of 670 resulted in the adoption of the new charter by 453 majority, and the election of Thomas G. Sullivan mayor, and R. R. Sherman, and Herman Johnson, commissioners, G. S. Mecker and G. A. Baldwin were elected justices of the peace and Joseph Clarmont and H. McCann, constables.

Messrs. Sullivan, Sherman and Johnson will constitute Munising's first set of officials under the newly adopted commission form of government. The new charter, which was approved by Governor Ferris last November, was prepared by a charter commission of Munising citizens under the legal advice of George P. Brown, city attorney of Marquette.

COLOR LINE IS NOT

ILLEGAL SAYS JUDGE

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 28.--Judge W. S. McClenahan in the district court handed down a decision in the case of Mary C. Marshall, 16-year-old negro, who brought suit against officers of a Sunday school at Aitkin, Minn., alleging that she had been discriminated against by them while attending religious services, in which the court declares that the plaintiff has no cause of action. The Marshall girl alleged that she was forced to sit apart from the white members.

Judge McClenahan declares that no legislative body ever has specifically included churches, religious societies or kindred institutions in the so-called civil rights acts.

"WETS" MAY JOIN

WITH THE "DRYS"

Concerning probable "wet" and "dry" legislation at the present session of the legislature, a Lansing dispatch says:

If Senator Straight introduces his bill for statewide prohibition he may receive some unexpected encouragement from the so-called "wet" leaders in the senate. If the Michigan Anti-Saloon league makes a protest against the submission of state-wide prohibition at the present time, there is one prominent member of the senate aligned with the "wet" faction, who will support Straight's proposed bill and it is believed that he will not stand alone.

Should the leaders of the Anti-Saloon league demonstrate that they are unwilling to make a fight for state-wide prohibition at the present time, the "wets" will attempt to force the issue, but if the officers of the league come out openly in support of the bill to be introduced by Senator Straight, it is quite likely that the senate "wets" will make a determined fight against the measure.

One of the right bowers of liquor interests stated that the "wets" were afraid that a state-wide prohibition measure might pass the senate with a referendum clause attached, but that the house is an unknown quantity. Thus far no one has had the temerity to predict that a statutory prohibition bill would pass the present legislature without a referendum clause being attached to the measure, and the liquor men who have expressed an opinion declare that state-wide prohibition would be badly beaten if put to a vote within the next year.

In all probability the liquor committee in the senate will report out the Odell resolution calling upon Governor Ferris to set forth his views on liquor legislation and it is believed that the governor will be asked to state whether he will sign the bill abolishing saloons from towns where state institutions of higher learning are located, providing it is passed by the legislature. Many of the senators take the stand that before proceeding further they should ascertain the governor's attitude towards these measures which give promise of being the principal topics of interest during the present assembly.

WILSON SENDS GREETING

TO KAISER WILHELM

Washington, Jan. 28.--President Wilson sent a message to Emperor William of Germany, congratulating him on his fifty-sixth birthday. His message was:

"In behalf of the government and people of the United States, I have the pleasure to extend to your majesty cordial felicitations on this anniversary of your birth as well as my own good wishes for your welfare."

On his own birthday anniversary, recently, President Wilson received and acknowledged greetings from Emperor William, King George, President Poincare and other rulers of Europe.

EUGENIC BILL

UP IN MICHIGAN

Lansing, Jan. 28.--Acting on the recommendation of the Michigan eugenics commission, which in its report issued Jan. 8 requested legislation prohibiting marriage of the physically and mentally unfit, Representative Marshall A. Oakley of Bay City will revive the so-called Glasner, "eugenic marriage bill" which was defeated by a narrow margin two years ago. Representative Oakley, himself an ardent believer in the efficacy of adapting proper breeding methods to the human as well as the animal is acting partly on his own initiative and partly at the double request of Representative Glasner and the Michigan Federation of Labor.

COMPENSATION LAW

TO BE AMENDED

Lansing, Jan. 28.--The state industrial accident board has recommended certain amendments to the present laws which are of unusual importance to employers and employees. These amendments will be presented to the legislature and are the first changes that have ever been asked in the compensation laws since this law became operative two years ago.

The proposed amendments will include the propositions of contractors and sub-contractors, occupational diseases, medical and hospital service, reasonable occupations, previous loss of a member, disfigurement and the defense of certain cases are taken to the Supreme court by employers or insurance companies. These amendments have become partially exigencies occurring in the many cases handled by the board within the last two years.

WOULD CHANGE

PRIMARY LAW

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 28.--Senator Louis L. Kelley of Farwell put in a bill Tuesday afternoon to repeal the present primary law and place upon the statute books a primary law similar to the one in use two years ago, and restoring the party enrollment and requiring voters to declare their political affiliation before participating in any primary election.

The 15 per cent clause which was a part of the former primary bill until declared unconstitutional by the supreme court is not made a part of Senator Kelley's new bill, but in other respects the new measure follows the lines of the old primary law.

Representative Marshall Oakley of Bay City introduced an alien land bill patterned after the California measure which prevents Japs and Chinese from owning land in Michigan.

TELLS OF PROGRAM

Of the observance of Michigan day at Marquette on Tuesday by the upper peninsula chapters of the D. A. R. and in which members of the order in this city participated, the Mining journal of yesterday said:

Members of upper peninsula chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution gathered in Marquette yesterday for the Michigan Day celebration anniversary of the state's birth. Delegates were in attendance from Menominee, Escanaba, Iron Mountain and Ishpeming.

The visitors were the guests of the Marquette Daughters. They left at 5:30 o'clock last evening for their homes. The majority of the delegates arrived in the city Monday evening. Daughters who intended to come, but who waited until yesterday morning were unable to make the trip, owing to a wreck on the St. Paul road at Scola. Thus the attendance from Iron Mountain was somewhat smaller than expected.

Address by President Kaye. The day's program opened at 9 o'clock at the Northern State Normal, where President James H. Kaye delivered an address on "Michigan's Progress." President Kaye told of the past resources of Michigan and detailed the material progress made since Michigan became a state in 1837. It was an excellent address and was heard with keen appreciation by the Daughters, as well as a large number of townspeople who filled the assembly hall. Prior to Mr. Kaye's address, Miss Dorris King, a member of the Normal faculty and of the Marquette chapter of the D. A. R., gave a short introductory talk, explaining Michigan Day and the purpose of the upper peninsula meeting of the daughters.

"Michigan, My Michigan" was sung by the assembly and the Normalites sang the 1914 class song, after which Cecil Stevenson led the students in a volume of cheering.

Mrs. William Cummings Story, president general of the D. A. R., sent the following greeting to the upper peninsula Daughters: "Cordial greetings to my Daughters of Marquette chapter on this important celebration of their state day. May each year bring added progress, prosperity and glory. A state's greatest asset is her people and I congratulate Michigan upon her Daughters of the American Revolution."

Mrs. C. T. Harvey, a non-resident member of Marquette chapter and a real daughter of the Revolution, also sent her greeting.

Recital at Roberts' Home. From the Normal school the delegates and Marquette chapter members went to the home of A. T. Roberts, where there were held a reception and a recital. Mrs. Roberts, soprano, and Mrs. Edith Beman, violinist, took part.

Entertained at Luncheon

Twenty delegates and forty members of Marquette chapter were seated at the luncheon served at the home of P. B. Spear at 1 o'clock. It was a delightful affair, and was followed by a program of brief remarks by the visitors and Marquette members, Mrs. W. S. Hill presiding as toastmistress. Those who spoke and their topics, all of which concerned the work carried on by the upper peninsula chapter, follow:

Address of Welcome--Mrs. Philip B. Spear, regent of Marquette chapter. Address--Mrs. Fabian Truedell, regent of Menominee chapter. Read by Mrs. Blanche, of Menominee. "The Flag" How the Chapter Has

O. Stafford. "The Boys' National Club Work"--Miss Brown. Address--Mrs. A. H. Rolph, regent of Lewis Cass chapter of Escanaba. "Our Insignia"--Miss Clark. "Our Tag Day for a Sane Fourth"--Mrs. Frank B. Spear, Jr. Address--Mrs. W. H. Selden, regent of Chippewa chapter, of Iron Mountain "The Boy Governor of Michigan"--Mrs. Wm. King.

Every part of the day's program was carried out successfully and with the greatest measure of enjoyment to the visitors.

Insisted on a Revision. "What do you think, Madge--shall I deliver my address on 'The Ideal Wife' just as I've written it?" "Certainly not. You must rewrite it. I can't see that it fits me at all."--Megendorfer Blatter.

Persist in Belief. Only believe in your idea, and it will carry you through every difficulty. If you live you will do great things; if you die, well, how can you die better? And your idea will not die.--Hubert Hervey.

Mind Always Above Fortune. The mind is above fortune; if it be evil, it makes everything else so too; but if it be right and sincere, it corrects what is wrong, and mollifies what is hard, with modesty and courage.--Seneca.

His Answer Was Correct. Papa (concealing something in his hand)--"Willie, can you tell me what it is with head on one side and tail on the other?" Willie (triumphantly)--"Oh, I know! It's a rooster on a fence"--Judge.

Square Deal Needed for Humorists. Let us be fair. If a man didn't hog all his change for his personal comforts, and went 50-50 with his wife, the joke about her frisking his pockets at night would soon die for want of nourishment.--Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Rothschilds. Of course any attempt by an outsider at estimating the wealth of the Rothschilds must be in the nature of a guess, but there are excellent reasons for concluding that the family is worth at least $1,400,000,000.

Woman's Little Instincts. These little instincts, such as when to run and when to stand and when to hide your eyes and when to look over your shoulder germinate in every woman with her first petticoat.--Woman's Home Companion.

Daily Thought. There are three relationships in human life--commercial, which depend on what you have; social, which depend on what you do; and real, which depend on what you are.
