WOODS CONDITIONS ARE NOW IDEAL

Cold weather and an abundance of snow have combined to make logging conditions ideal in all parts of the peninsula district.

The cuts of all kinds of timber and wood have been much smaller this year than in former years. Most of the operators have cut more pulp wood and ties than any other kind of timber.

Since the cutting season ended no more men have been taken on, but the present crews will be kept at work until the operations have not been handicapped for want of men this year and the companies that started their

M'DOWELL SPEAKS HERE

Miss Mary E. McDowell, head of the University of Chicago, settlement in the stock-yard district, will speak in the high-school auditorium, Wednesday evening, February 10th, on "Civil Standards and Human Welfare," with stereopticon views.

Miss McDowell is one of the most remarkable woman idealists in a city and a country where idealistic women are not far to seek. As everyone knows hers is the personality that has crystallized into the University of Chicago Settlement as it is known today. Her consuming interest is in the human species. Her work is for the babies, for the old, for the young, for the middle aged, for the whole gamut of man, with no questions asked as to race or creed. Her settlement work, literary work, and lecturing make a total of labor that can be sustained only by extraordinary resources of mind and body, aided by automobiles.

Miss McDowell has a broad personal knowledge of the needs of the laboring classes, and especially of the foreign laborers, acquired during her twenty years' connection with the Stockyard settlement. She has helped to settle strikes peaceably, and has organized Trade-Unions; she has worked for and secured more decent sanitary and housing conditions, better public works, such as public parks, public baths, and a fairer distribution of civic improvements.

Miss McDowell is an expert on garbage disposal; she is said to know more about this subject than any other person in the United States, having studied the methods used in European cities and applied them to Chicago. The Chicago plant was built according to her suggestions and is absolutely sanitary in every respect.

Miss McDowell is an ardent advocate of world peace, and together with Jaffe Addams, was consulted by President Wilson recently, the only women members of the National Peace Conference to be honored in this way.

Chicago people crowded the largest theaters, whenever there is an opportunity to hear Miss McDowell speak; men particularly appreciate her work and are interested in what she has to say. Escanaba people are very fortunate to be able to hear her, and every man and woman in the city should take advantage of this opportunity.

Miss McDowell comes to us through the efforts of the Woman's Club, and members of that club will be admitted free of charge; tickets for others will be 25 cents. Members of the Business Men's Association and all other men are especially urged to attend.

Camps, because of the slack lumber market. Most of the timber needed by the big operators was purchased from the smaller jobbers.

The lumbermen have not had the usual trouble obtaining cars this year. In past years work at the camps has been tied up for weeks at a time because of a shortage of cars.

Most of the pulp wood is being shipped to the Wisconsin Pulp Wood company at Appleton, Wis. A jobber yesterday said that sixty cars a day is the average number loaded with pulp wood at sidings between Negaunee and Escanaba.

Ed. Erickson will leave tonight for New-York City to make the annual purchase for that store. Enrout Mr. Erickson will visit his son Frederick Erickson.

BIG CUTTING OF MELON

FAIR RECIPIENT SUES FOR $50,000

New York, Jan. 30.--One thousand love letters said to have been written by Andrew A. Cunee, until recently a private banker, have an important part in two actions begun against him in Supreme Court yesterday by Miss Yvette de Von, at one time an artist's model. Miss de Von seeks a total of $53,000 of which $50,000 is for an alleged breach of promise to marry.

The remaining $3,000 is said to have once been paid to her by Mr. Cunee for the return of the 1,000 love letters which she had received from him. After he had obtained the letters and she the money they became reconciled for a short time, she asserts--long enough for him to induce her to leave "three hundred dollar bills" with him for safe keeping. Now she says she has neither letters nor money nor his once promised love.

Mr. Cunee is the husband of Mrs. Joan Newton Cunee, who had been known as a daring automobile driver. She had appeared at many races and once made a record of driving 72 miles an hour. They have a son, J. Newton Cunee. Recently Mr. Cunee, who lives at Scarsdale, N. Y., went through bankruptcy proceedings, but his creditors eventually received one hundred cents on the dollars. He is a manufacturer and exporter of macaroni, president of the Atlantic Macaroni Company and has other interests.

WEALTHY WOMAN DEAD; HUSBAND CAN'T EXPLAIN

Houston, Tex., Jan. 29.--Ward S. Snyder, son of a wealthy banker and oil man, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was not able at a hospital here tonight to make a statement of the circumstances surrounding the death of his wife in a room in a hospital today. Mrs. Snyder's body was found by a nurse who had admitted Snyder to the room a short time before, and had left them while she breakfasted. The woman had been killed with a large pocket knife, her throat cut and her arms slashed.

Snyder had taken poison and lapsed into unconsciousness. Physicians expect him to die.

Mrs. Snyder, it is said, formerly was the wife of a vocal teacher named Beresford, Chicago, and was divorced from him about three years ago. She had three children, a boy of about four years of age, in Houston, and two children in Pittsburgh.

MILWAUKEE MEN MAY COME HERE

The Merchants and Manufacturers Association of Milwaukee, is considering Cloverland in itinerary for the annual trade junket of that railroad in June.

Inquiries as to rates and schedules have been received by local railroads. The Milwaukee association will travel in a special train of eight cars this year, and this indicates that approximately 160 businessmen will make the trip. The peninsula, on just one occasion, has been the host to Milwaukee business men, and the success of that trip may be the reason for selecting this route a second time. The purpose is purely to cement the relationship between local business men and the Cream City merchants and manufacturers, and to do it a little missionary work along the line of securing peninsula business.

'TOM' RILEY TO MARRY

Atty. Thomas J. Riley, son of Mrs. Anna Riley of Hale street, of this city, will leave this morning with his destination Bangor, Maine, where he will be married on Feb. 11 to Miss Janet Chaplin of that city.

Enroute to Bangor, Atty. Riley will stop at Montreal and at Boston, at the latter visiting at Amhers college, where he coaches the football team each year.

WORKING FOR PENSION BILL

Mrs. L. I. Sigler, of Grand Rapids, president of the Michigan Federation of Teachers Clubs, is working strenuously to secure favorable action by the present legislature on the teacher's pension law that has been agitated for several years.

"There are more than 19,000 teachers in Michigan public schools, and every one of them has been especially prepared for a position," Mrs. Sigler says. "Under the pension plan, which is included in the bill that Senator Verdieer will present, the state will not pay the pensions. For the first five years of work each teacher will be required to pay one-half of 1 per cent of his or her salary; the next ten years each will pay one per cent, and for the last fifteen years 2 per cent. At the end of thirty years of service any teacher will be eligible to a pension amounting to one-half of the salary she received during the last five years of service. This pension will continue during life." "No teacher can receive a pension until her contributions to the pension fund equal the first year's annuity, and any teacher who retires from the service before her thirty years will be returned one-half of her contributions. Our figures show that the plan will be self-supporting, and as the pension plan will be included in all contracts if the law passes, every teacher must come under it."

That the state educational system will be directly improved by the passage of the law, is the assertion of Mrs. Sigler.

"With the present low salaries and without pensions, many teachers are forced to spend their leisure time helping with housework and dressmaking," she said. "If their future was provided for, these teachers could spend their time and money in study."

"More than twenty states have retirement fund laws. "In a previous bill country districts believed they were not getting a square deal. In that bill the minimum annuity to be paid a retired teacher was $240, but in our new plan the limit is raised to $300. This gives the teachers who prefer to work in the country, where salaries are smaller, the assurance that they will receive a decent annuity upon retirement."

"The law, if passed, will be a big thing for the school boards, in giving them an opportunity to retire teachers who outlive their usefulness. "In order that the bill will not conflict with the Detroit city teachers' pension plan, the Verdieer bill provides for the merging of the Detroit law with this."

NEWS IS CURTAILED

The explosion at the gas plant yesterday afternoon resulted in the shutting off of the gas throughout the city last night, and made useless the linotype at the Press office. It is for that reason that the curtailment of news occurs in this morning's issue.

Gas will not be turned on in any section of the city this morning until nearly 8 o'clock.

REXTON MAN IS BEFORE COURT

The preliminary hearing of Clarence Londo, who is charged with enticing 16 year old Ida Claire from her home at Rexton to Green Bay, has been started before a United States court commissioner at Green Bay. The Green Bay Gazette says:

The preliminary hearing of Clarence Londo, on the charge of violating the Mann act was begun in federal court today before U. S. Court Commissioner Strehlow. Two witnesses were examined before court adjourned at 12:30 o'clock. James McGinnis and the clerk at the Broadway hotel testified that Londo and Ida Claire came to the hotel and after engaging separate rooms were found in one of the rooms.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Paul Stover of Milwaukee is conducting the hearing for the federal authorities and Gerald Clifford is representing Londo.

Miss Ida Claire this afternoon testified and her testimony had a tendency to rather complicate matters. She said that she was willing, in fact had been willing to marry either Clarence Londo, or his brother Lewis, whom Clarence claims to be shielding to a certain extent in this affair. She also stated that she was afraid of her father who threatened to send her to reform school from their home in Rexton, Mich., and that Clarence Londo had then announced his willingness to marry her and that when she came to Green Bay she fully intended to be married here.

Action by the committee on the resolution may lead to a congressional investigation of the claims of American discovery of the north pole with a view to securing

FOUR WERE NEAR DEATH

EXTENSION AT MUNICIPAL GAS PLANT WRECKS PART OF WORKS AND ENDANGERS LIVES

One man narrowly escaped death from flying missiles and three had narrow escapes from death by asphyxiation when one of the large blower pipes at the municipal gas plant suddenly exploded yesterday afternoon.

Erick Palmer was standing within three feet of the heavy pipe when it burst and pieces of iron were hurled in every direction, but Mr. Palmer miraculously escaped without a scratch. Arthur Hutte, who was at work on the top of one of the gas machines when the explosion came, was lifted bodily into the air and then fell back to the cement floor, a distance of 15 feet. He was picked up in an unconscious condition from his injuries and asphyxiation. Supt. John Roemer of the municipal plant and John Stockemer, an employe, were overcome by the gas fumes. Stockemer was quickly revived, but it was necessary to work for some time over both Supt. Roemer and Hutte before they regained consciousness.

Dr. George Bartley was summoned immediately after the accident and Hutte was removed to his home while Supt. Roemer was taken to St. Francis hospital.

Last night it was announced that Mr. Roemer was very ill, but it was expected that he would recover from the effects of the gas poisoning within a few days.

At the home of Mr. Hutte, it was said, that he had sustained a number of serious bruises and in addition he was very ill from the effects of breathing a great quantity of gas and it would probably be several days before he will be able to return to his work.

The crew of the gas plant was engaged yesterday in making a batch of gas and trouble was experienced throughout the operation because of the low temperatures that have prevailed for several days. It was thought that a pip connection at some point in the plant was frozen and a search was being made for the blocking point while the effort was continued to force the gas through the machines. Suddenly without warning, a terrific back pressure shook the entire north portion of the plant and the large blower pipe, standing upright at the side of one of the machines, suddenly let go with an explosion that was heard for a considerable distance. In addition a large air main under the floor of the plant was cracked in several places. Temporary repairs were made as soon as possible after the accident in an effort to keep up a regular supply of gas for the city until permanent repair work can be carried out.

WAR

London, Jan. 30.—Interest is keen in the war situation in the Russian offensive in East Prussia, and the attempt of a strong Austro-German army to dislodge the troops of Emperor Nicholas from their positions in the Carpathians.

In East Prussia a Russian offensive has developed in the extreme north where the renewed fighting seems to confirm the belief that a definite effort to advance north of the Mazuria lakes district, where previously the Russians were defeated, has been decided upon by the Russian general staff.

More vital to both sides, however, is the campaign in the Carpathian where, southwest of Dukla pass, the Russians have delivered an energetic attack. According to their account of the combat they compelled the Austro-Germans to retreat, leaving behind ammunition and stores. This attack, according to military observers indicates an attempt by the Russian to turn the flank of the Teutonic allies. If it should prove successful, observers say, it would have serious consequences for the large Austro-German army in and about the Carpathian passes.

Russian military experts anticipate that the Austrians will deliver their main attack with their extreme right in western-Bukovina in the hope of achieving a signal victory and thus give Roumania cause to pause. The only thing holding Roumania in check at present, it is stated, is the uncertainty as to the action Bulgaria would be likely to take. Bulgaria, it is asserted, is still demanding that part of Macedonia now under Serbian rule as the price of her neutrality, and Serbia is reported unwilling to make this concession. Greece, it is asserted, also objects to Bulgaria extending her boundaries westward, taking the ground that this would place a wedge between her and her ally, Serbia. Thus, seemingly, the whole Balkan situation remains involved, and it is stated it is not likely to be cleared up until the demands of Bulgaria are satisfied.

Another skirmish with the Turkish advance guard not far from Suez is reported by the British forces in Egypt. It was not of a serious character. British marines are said to have landed at Alexandria, Asiatic Turkey, and to have cut the tele-

WOULD FLY; MAY NEVER WALK

Fate Surely Has Dealt Harshly With Inventor Who Had Planned Great Things.

After having worked in vain for 50 years on an invention which he hoped would solve the problem of aviation, Frederick Merrill Shaw, eighty-seven years old, of 237 North Grand avenue, slipped on a banana peel at First and Main streets yesterday morning and sustained injuries from which physicians at the Receiving hospital say he can never permanently recover.

"It's the irony of fate," the old man said. "I have devoted nearly all my life to my invention, which, when perfected, would in reality permit men to fly in the clouds with the safety of birds, and here I am on a hospital cot as the result of a simple accident on the ground."

Mr. Shaw is suffering from a fractured limb, his left leg having been broken near the hip. Owing to his advanced years it is not considered likely that he will ever be able to walk.

While discussing the accident and his life work Mr. Shaw, who is one of the city's well-known eccentric characters, took from his pocket a sheet of paper on which was drawn a diagram of the air machine he had labored on for so many years. He exhibited it with pride, declaring if he only had more time and a little money he could yet perfect it. His device is of the famous Darius Green type, providing huge wings to be operated by men birds. About twenty years ago he thought he had finished his invention, and in giving a public demonstration, fell from the roof of a two-story building and broke a number of bones.

Upon three different occasions he attempted to prove to the world that he had mastered the air problem, and each time fell to the ground, twice breaking the same limb that was fractured yesterday.—Los Angeles Times.

STEAMS TWICE THROUGH MINES

New York, Jan. 29.—Capt. E. T. Pinchin, who piloted the American steamer, El Monte through mine strewn waters safely into the harbor of Bremen New Year's day, brought his ship back to this port. Although Capt. Pinchin's feat was regarded with amazement at Bremen, he was arrested before his ship could discharge its cargo of 6,000 bales of cotton, questioned at length and finally taken before a German admiral, who cross-examined him and released him.

Because of the double distinction of guiding his ship through the mine fields and of bringing the American flag into Bremen harbor for the first time in forty-four years aboard a merchant vessel, Capt. Pinchin was royally entertained, he said, in Bremen.

Eluded German Battleships. Capt. Pinchin said that he steered his vessel through a prohibited channel into Bremen harbor during a fog. Because of the fog he eluded the cordon of German battleships and cruisers stationed at the entrance. The first German naval authorities knew of his intention was when the fog lifted and they saw El Monte lying at anchor.

El Monte sailed from New York Dec. 11, having stopped here on its way to Bremen from Galveston. It arrived at Dover, Eng., Christmas day, and had to wait till the next day, on account of the holiday, to obtain permission from the British admiralty to continue the trip to Bremen. Capt. Pinchin said that after he left Dover he was held up by patrol boats at Deal till a party of junior naval officers, who boarded, were satisfied as to the cargo and destination.

Crew Is Welcomed. After El Monte had discharged its cargo at Bremen the crew of American sailors were given shore leave. They were welcomed by citizens with a great demonstration, Capt. Pinchin said.

El Monte brought back a cargo of salt from Bremen.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 30.—Fifty volunteers from the Fiji islands, the latest colonial contribution to Great Britain's armed forces, have arrived in this city on their way to London. They have traveled 12,000 miles when they reach there, a greater distance than any other fighters of Britain's battles have ever journeyed to get to the front.

Capt. C. A. Swinbourne, who is in command of the detachment, explained that it was recruited from the 800 able-bodied white men of the islands, and said the inhabitants there thought their representation proportionately a good one.

With their broad-trimmed khaki hats, uniforms of a material much too light for this climate, and faces tanned by tropical sun, the men presented a picturesque appearance. Ten of them are over six feet in height.

Observation of Sun Spots. This method would enable amateurs to note the progress of the spots across the solar disk.

REALISM RULES IN NURSERY

Gone is the Day of Affected Styles That Prevailed in Olden Times.

Is the doll face done for? Not on ladies, of course—that were too much to hope—but at any rate no dolls. "God has given you one face," says Hamlet to the doll designers, "and you make yourselves another." The simpering, pudgy sweetness of fat cheeks and fat foreheads and teeth like a picket fence has been thrust upon children year after year as a model of feminine perfection, until one can hardly blame the way young ladies have taken to imitating it, between eighteen and twenty-two.

But that is over now. Realism has invaded the nursery. The toy shops are full of real baby dolls. They have a jolly sort of every-day kiddishness about them. Roly-poly and a bit gawky, they look very much like an infant at its most investigating age, and with a subtle insight into the wishy-washy frame of mind behind the baby-doll face, the makers call them "character" babies. Hooray for character!—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

He Must Have Cat Lives. William Carroll, a driver of 385 First avenue, was held in $2,500 bail in the Yorkville court on a charge of pushing Mortimer Thompson, a Jeweler of New Brunswick, N. J., off the Twenty-third street subway platform to the track on December 6. Two cars passed over Thompson, but only bruised him.

"I guess I'll die a natural death," Thompson said. "When I was a baby my nurse dropped me out of a window. When I was a boy I fell out of a fourth-story window and a clothes line broke my fall. Four years ago I was shot in the head when I happened accidentally upon some revolver play a month ago I escaped drowning when an automobile I was in over in New Jersey ran into the river."—New York Sun.

GAVE FRESH EGGS AS TIPS

But He Wouldn't Have His Nails Manicured When the Price Was Low.

A man who attracted attention by reason of the generous size of the check on his suit, and carrying a rosewood case, entered the barber shop of the Vanderbilt, and after selecting an operator, carefully deposited his box near a hat rack, says the New York Times. Having been released from the chair, he strolled about the room, putting on his collar and necktie the while, and finally said to Miss Mae Lewis, the head artist of the manure department, that he would like his nails treated.

"But," he said, "I must warn you that I do not give cash for tips; I give only eggs."

"Eggs!" gasped Miss Lewis. "Surely," repeated the visitor, "real, fresh, newly laid eggs. You do not know what a treasure such a thing is in New York. I always bring a case of them when I come in from the country. Look!"

He brought over the rosewood case and opened it. On top, sure enough, was a "layer of eggs."

"I never travel without them," went on the stranger. "This case I have had made especially for carrying them. Now, having seen how highly I value these eggs, would you consider an egg a substitute for a tip?"

"You don't have to tip," replied the manicurist, scornfully. "I'll be willing to fix your hands for the regular price."

"And what is that?" He was told.

"Fifty cents!" he echoed. "Why, I should never think of having my nails done where they charge less than a dollar. Good-day."

And he put on his coat and hat, grabbed up the case and walked out, leaving everybody wondering.

LEARN MIGRATION OF MOTHS

Department of Agriculture Systematic in Its War on the Pest of the Farmer.

Unusual methods are being followed by the department of agriculture in its attempt to control the spread of army-worm moths in the United States. The plan, which embraces a close study of the habits of the insect, is one which requires the assistance of every person in the eastern and central states. The entomologists are catching the moths, coloring one wing of each and then liberating them in order to determine in what direction they emigrate, and how quickly and how far they spread. Agents at Portsmouth, Va., are staining one wing of each specimen red; those at Charlottesville, Va., black or yellow, and those at Hagerstown, Md., violet. The moths are then allowed to follow their natural course, and the success of the experiment is left to the advice returned to the bureau of entomology by the people at large.—Popular Mechanics.

Differentiating Dirigibles. The London crowd which gapes cheerfully at the army airship maneuvering over the city always asks itself whether it is looking at a friendly vessel or a Zeppelin. It is apparently ignorant of the difference of design, and so free from "nerves" that the doubt does not disturb it. Probably if a Zeppelin really did come the average Londoner would crowd up for a good place to see the bomb dropping. The instinct for a front seat seems to be stronger than that of self-preservation. The Schutte-Lanz airship is not unlike an ordinary nonrigid airship in the shape of the balloon. It is not cylindrical, but whale shaped, like a submarine. But in construction it is like a Zeppelin, with a rigid aluminum framework. It is evidently considered a successful type, for Germany has been building as many of the Schutte-Lanz type as of the Zeppelin. The name is a compound of the names of designer and builder. The inventor was Schutte, and Lanz is the name of the firm that constructs them.

Working for Others. A former Philadelphia newspaper man, who has been working on the papers in New York of late, returned to the city a few days ago as the press agent of a big musical show. Accompanied by his wife he secured quarters at one of the most expensive hostleries of the city, and obligingly placed his initials upon the divers and sundry meal checks the waiters and bar boys proffered. Just as he received his bill for the first week an old acquaintance hailed him.

"Hello, Sheppard," he cried. "What are you doing back here?"

"Ten minutes ago I would have said I was working for Hammerstein," replied the press agent, "but now I see I am working for the 'hotter'."

Famous Jewel Long Forgotten. PUT IN RESOLUTION TO REAPPORTION

Lansing, Jan. 30.—Flying in the face of facts, in the shape of an almost solid opposition from every other portion of the lower peninsula, Wayne county has introduced its bill asking for a legislative reapportionment on a basis that will give itself two more members in the house.

Rep. Koehler introduced the first legislative reapportionment measure in spite of the fact that it is pretty well known that not only is the house antagonistic to a reapportionment, but the committee is stacked against anything giving Wayne any greater strength either legislatively or politically.

Basis on 28,102 Inhabitants.

The Koehler bill provides for reapportionment on the basis of one member of the house to every 28,102 inhabitants. All counties having a fraction more than a moiety of this figure are entitled to one representative.

On this basis, Wayne county gets sixteen instead of fourteen members and these, necessarily are at the expense of other districts. The bill leaves Kent county at its present representation, five Houghton county would be entitled to three; Saginaw three, and the counties of Bay, Berrien, Calhoun, Genesee, Marquette, Oakland, Ottawa, St. Clair and Washenaw would have two each.

Muskegon Keeps Same Status.

Presque Isle, Montmorency, Ascoda and Otsego are hooked together in this bill as a single district. Crawford, Kalamazoo, Missaukee and Roscommon would be joined in a district. Oceola and Lake would be a single district. Clare, Gladwin and Midland would be a single district; Benzie and Leelanau would be joined together. Alger, Luce, Mackinac and Schoolcraft would be a single district as would Baraga, Keewenaw and Ontonagon.

All counties not mentioned above would be entitled to a single representative.

TOO COLD AT ASHLAND FOR ICEMEN TO WORK.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 30.—The icemen are obliged to quit work this forenoon on account of the severe cold. The channel would freeze so fast the icemen could not be taken out. The weather is perfectly clear, the sun shining and there is no wind. This is the first time the cold has ever caused the icemen to quit work. The government thermometer registered 39 degree below zero.

AMONG THE THEATRES

THE ROYAL AND GRAND

When Jules Beaubien's father died the young man found himself heir to the stout old mansion at Montreal and a big fortune which the family had made in the number of the great Canadian forests. But on his death bed his father had made a confession, that twenty years ago he had met a squaw of the Ojibway tribe and that a girl was born. She was now up in the Nipissing country with a French Canadian family that had adopted her by arrangement with the father. Old Beaubien's last words to his son exacted a promise that the boy would find his half sister, educate and care for her and give her a liberal share of the estate. As soon as affairs could be settled up Jules started on his quest to find Annette. Arriving in the Nipissing country he found that the family has moved from the valley, but he was informed that a woodsman, Baptiste Le Grande, could tell him all about the girl, as he had been her sweetheart. He had loved the girl with all the strength of his rough manhood, but a city man had come along and betrayed her. Baptiste tried to tell the story but his wife would not permit him to be coherent and Father Paul continued. He told Jules that the seducer had abandoned the girl and gone back to America. Annette knowing she was disgraced ran away from her foster parents and wandered to the camps where the women of the trappers tried to care for her, she became delirious but she never mentioned the man's name. When her child was born she wandered out into a storm and with her babe in her arms laid down in the snow and died, and the wolves had eaten her and the child. The rage of Jules and Baptiste was terrible. They joined hands and swore to find this man and kill him. Baptiste took a crucifix from his bosom, both men kissed the symbol and for two years the quest of vengeance continued. In the Indian summer Jules and Baptiste put up at MacTavish's house. Two other men arrived, Mr. McDonald, a civil engineer and his assistant, Mr. Huntley, who were surveying for a Canadian railroad. McDonald was a splendid specimen of physical manhood about forty years of age and very entertaining. His ability at his profession has made him rich and with all he was a man of courage and likeable.

MacTavish's daughter, Hilda, a strong and beautiful girl of Swedish type, did the cooking and housekeeping and it was not surprising that McDonald and Jules soon noticed that each were contesting for the smiles of the Scotchman's daughter, and Hilda was not averse to the pleasures of the good looking boarders for her life was far from being a happy one, her mother not being able to stand the irascible MacTavish had run away when Hilda was a child and the father had vented his revenge and hatred upon the daughter. Soon the rivalry between Jules and McDonald became an open book. Jules loved Hilda while the other man was simply playing for a dishonorable advantage. One day the men admitted their rivalry face to face. Jules was willing to play the game fair, but demanded of McDonald if his intentions were honest. The group laughed in the other man's face, admitted that he had a wife in America, but boasted of his power over women. In his bravado he told of an affair some years ago with a little half-breed girl up in the Nipissing country. It was the story of Annette. Jules should have killed him on the spot, but one impulse prevented, he was a man of honor, he could not assassinate, he must fight this fiend, man to man, and it would be before the day had spent. Then he must also tell Baptiste who would also want to kill him, which he would if Jules fell in the fight. McDonald feeling that he was losing ground with Hilda, planned to work her ruin through her father. He told MacTavish that he had a good mother in America that would care for and educate Hilda, and that then he would marry her. The old Scotchman was only too willing to get rid of the girl and demanded of her that she would go with McDonald. Jules had told Hilda of the good love and the bad love and she had found that the engineer's love was a passion, and she had learned to love Jules. When MacTavish ordered her to with McDonald she resisted, the old man in his rage would have seized her by the throat and strangled her, but Jules bore him to the floor of the cabin, while Baptiste from outside the window covered McDonald with his Winchester. The fight was desperate and long, but Jules seized Hilda, and with Baptiste and Huntley who had discovered his master's villainy. The four hastened to the creek and in a canoe which had been furnished with supplies for the trip, made towards the Canadian railway for Montreal. McDonald followed and Jules left the party at a landing to meet him. A desperate duel was fought in which McDonald was killed and Jules and his party, after burying the body, hastened to his home and happiness.

THE DELFT

"The Lost Paradise"

H. B. Warner, the eminent dramatic favorite, make his first appearance before the motion picture public in "The Lost Paradise." This play is conceded the greatest drama of captivity and labor ever written, and was adapted from the German original by the late Henry C. DeMille, collaborator in the famous Belasco DeMille plays.

"The Lost Paradise" is a powerful pictorial argument in behalf of the oppressed laborers whose lives build the wealth of nations, whose tears are crystallized in the jewels of the rich. In the story, the superintendent of the Knowlton Iron Works is in love with his employer's daughter, who has been reared in luxury, an idyllic life of her father. To save this woman from the knowledge that her father is a thief, the loyal superintendent takes upon his own shoulders the guilt of her father's crime. After all the stress which the story develops, his sacrifice is learned and rewarded by the woman he loves, who decides to stand with him on the side of the oppressed workmen, to whose cause the superintendent has devoted his life's labor.

Mr. Warner portrays the role of the man who strives to reconcile the conflicting elements, and who is willing to sacrifice name and fame for the woman he loves.

THE PETERSON

Thrilling human, intensely dramatic and superbly acted, "Today," which comes to the Peterson shortly, fairly leapt into the affections of theatergoers and quickly established itself as the biggest dramatic success of the season of 1913-1914 in New York at the 48th street theater. The story—that of an extravagant and willful woman who goes astray through her inability to adapt herself to her husband's reduced circumstances and comes to a tragic end—is told so eloquently that the spectators are held spellbound in their seats. With the thrills there are plenty of laughs, the whole combining to make an entertainment that will live for years.

THE BIJOU

"His Uncle's Will" is the name of the two reel drama that will be shown at the Bijou today with Bob Leonard and Ella Hall starring.

The Sterling comedy is "Dot's Elopement" and there is another especially good picture in "Within the Gates of Paradise." The latter picture is pretty in every department and should draw attention of the masses.

KAISER GLAD HE LIVED TO SEE GERMANS UNITED

Berlin, Jan. 30.—The Lokal Anzeiger published some further accounts of the visit of Dr. Ludwig Ganghofer, the author, to Emperor William at the German field headquarters. It tells of a trip made by the emperor and Dr. Ganghofer to Donchery, in the region of the Cedar battlefield. Here the emperor, in speaking of the unity of the German people, is quoted as saying to Dr. Ganghofer:

"It is my greatest pleasure that I could live to see it."

The emperor pointed out to the author, where his father had stood at Sedan, where Napoleon and Bismarck had met and other historic spots.

The trip by automobile finally brought the party to the headquarters of Crown Prince Frederick William where, after luncheon had been eaten, the emperor turned smilingly to his son and said:

"One gets better things to eat by you than by me. I shall consider whether I shall not requisition your cook. The emperor here had an opportunity to see a thousand French prisoners march by. He was greatly pleased when some of them doffed their caps to him and he returned their salute. During this review he turned to a photographer, who was taking pictures and said:

"Photograph the prisoners and not always me."

The party later climbed a steep ascent to get a view of the surrounding region. When descending, Dr. Ganghofer slipped, but the emperor quickly grasped him by the arm and saved him from a fall, saying at the same time:

"Soldiers and citizens must help each other all they can."

GREYS REPLY SUBJECT TO MANY CRITICISMS

Berlin, via London, Jan. 30.—The newspapers generally, reproduce Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's "Scrap of Paper" interview received here by way of Rotterdam and the comments of the British foreign secretary, Sir Edward Grey on it. The Kreuz-Zeitung says:

"So, it was only because Germany would otherwise have broken the peace that England had to join the powers of the triple entente. Only a brain clouded with hatred against Germany can follow this logic. Sir Edward Grey brings forward the old excuses that the Anglo-Belgian agreements were only contingent, but in the face of overwhelming material which is gradually coming out from German side, this excuse can no longer hold good. Belgium has, in addition abandoned her neutrality by concluding such agreements with England and France."

500 CHILDREN GET U.S. GIFTS

Berlin, via London, Jan. 30.—Five hundred children of soldiers from Berlin who fell in the battle were made happy on Wednesday by the receipt of their share of the Christmas presents sent to Europe by children of America. This belated Christmas celebration was held in the arena of one of the great enclosed ice rinks of the German capital.

A pair of shoes, warm clothing and toys were given to each child in a pasteboard box.

Through the generosity of Jacques Mayer, an American resident of Berlin, each child received also four marks ($1) in cash.

Mrs. James W. Gerard, wife of the American ambassador, and Mrs. Mayer, presided over the distribution of gifts and were assisted by the Women's Patriotic association and the American women's relief committee. The exercises were attended by representatives of Empress Augusta Victoria and Crown Princess Cecilie, the members of the staffs of the American embassy and the American consulate and many prominent Germans.

Joseph C. Grew, secretary of the American embassy, speaking for Ambassador Gerard, conveyed the greetings of the American children to the German children. A reply was made by Herr Plasehke, privy counsellor, who closed his remarks by leading a cheer for the United States and the American children.

MRS. ROCKEFELLER CANNOT RECOVER

New York, Jan. 30.—In the castle at Pocantico, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, attended by kindred and physicians, is undergoing the slow, though painless decline that attends malignant anemia.

Invariably Fatal.

Mrs. Rockefeller was 75 years old last September. She has been falling health for several years. The fact of the announcement as well as the known subtlety of the disease, gave emphasis to rumors that Mrs. Rockefeller is seriously ill. Today the physicians hold out little or no hope for her recovery, although there is said to be no cause for immediate alarm.

Few wives of great men are so little known to the general public as is Mrs. Rockefeller. In all the thousand and one stories that have been written about the oil king, it is a significant fact that there have been no pictures of his wife. Several years ago, in deference to the wishes of some of the younger members of her family, Mrs. Rockefeller consented to have a photograph taken—the first in nearly 50 years.

Mrs. Rockefeller was Laura Celestia Spelman, daughter of a Cleveland merchant, H. B. Spelman, whose deeply religious habits have been perpetuated in the life of his daughter and her children.

Fifty years ago John D. Rockefeller before he had conceived the possibility of a Standard Oil company or dreamed of the immense riches that were to be his, and Miss Spelman were classmates and sweethearts. Their marriage was a romance, a love affair, and has remained the same ever since.

Mrs. Rockefeller's most marked trait has been her domesticity. Although she has been mistress of half a dozen residences, she has always counted Cleveland her home, and never been so happy as when there.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Rockefeller belonged to the Plymouth Congregational church, but in order to be of the same denomination as her husband she joined the Euclid Avenue Baptist church in Cleveland.

Mrs. Rockefeller has been known to have only one fad. She is very fond of driving. The automobile has never come within her list of pleasure vehicles. She loves the horse, and when ever her health has permitted she has taken long daily drives in the vicinity of her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller have had four children. One of these, the son, John D. Jr., is almost as well known as his father, and apparently inherits many of his characteristics. The other three are daughters. To the rearing of her children Mrs. Rockefeller devoted her life, and no appeal of society ever sufficed to win her away from them.

London, Jan. 30.—Mrs. Charlotte Despard, a sister of Field Marshal Sir John French, and a militant suffragette who was in several furious fights with the police in ante-bellum days, with the permission of the secretary of war, Lord Kitchener, introduced at the British war office a deputation of suffragettes who called to protest against the orders whereby "olders' wives, in receipt of separation allowances, are required to a certain standard of propriety and sobriety under penalty of the deprivation of their allowances.

Mr. Bertram Cubitt, the assistant secretary of the war office, received the deputation. Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, who was the principal speaker for the party, warmly protested against any official discrimination with respect to the standards of morality between men and women. The assistant secretary promised to report their views to the proper authority.

The deputation was peaceful and the women retired.

RACINE MAY JOIN BI-STATE LEAGUE

Green Bay, Jan. 30.—While the information comes from Rockford that the new Bi State league is all set and ready for business, there is a discordant note sounded from Racine. Racine, according to the Rockford dope, was not represented at last Tuesday's meeting when the league was formed, but sent word that she would go in.

It now develops that this is not so certain. President Oscar Christensen of the Racine club, was confined to his home with a sprained ankle and could not attend the meeting, but received a long distance telephone message asking him what Racine intended doing about entering the organization.

Although he favors the new league as against the league likely to be formed in the northern end of the territory, he is said to have given no definite assurance that Racine would hook up with the Rockford organization. Before he can take action in this regard it will be necessary to call a meeting of the directors of the Racine club.

There is little doubt that Rockford and Madison are now effectually out of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, and while there is strong probability that Racine may join the southern circuit, she has not yet cut the ties that bind her to the W.-I. It is intimated that Racine may be found in an entirely separate league from either the northern or southern circuits this year.

BODIE READY TO TALK TERMS WITH CHIFEDS.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Pingy Bodie wired Joe Tinker yesterday that he was ready to talk business with the Chicago Federal League club. Joe will get into communication with the "fence buster" this morning.

Tinker wired Bodie Wednesday to ascertain whether or not the outfielder was in a position to do business with the Feds. President Gilmore consented to Tinker's wiring Bodie, but made it plain to Tinker that Bodie would not be offered a contract if he was tied up with organized ball.

WOLGAST REPORTED IN TWO PLACES

Cadillac, Mich., Jan. 30.—How Ad Wolgast can be knocking out middle weights in Forbes' gymnasium in Chicago and at the same time be playing pool in Cadillac or milking cows on his farm near here is something the most susceptible Cadillac natives cannot understand.

Grand Rapids papers this week have printed a number of "dispatches" from Chicago telling of Ad's great work in the Forbes gymnasium. The limit was reached when a paper told of Ad scoring two knockdown Wednesday afternoon.

Ad departed last night for Chicago to begin training for his bouts with Cy Smith of Buffalo and Joe Mandot. This movement causes Cadillac's best pool players much pain, for Ad keeps them in spending money.

PAYROLLS OF MANY EMPLOYEES PRESENTED

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Copies of the actual payrolls showing just what were the earnings of engineers, firemen and hostlers on the ninety eight western railroads involved in the arbitration of wage demands of their enginemen, were introduced today.

Passenger engineers, said the synopses, earned an average of $184 in October, 1913; engineers in through or irregular freight service $170 and engineers in local or way freight service, $172. Passenger firemen earned an average of $115; in through or irregular freight service, $110 and in local or way freight service, $105.

APPLETON TO DROP OUT OF W.-I. LEAGUE

Appleton, Wis., Jan. 30.—There will be no baseball in Appleton the coming summer. The directors will endeavor to sell the team, either as a unit or to the players as individuals. That is the outcome of the mass meeting attended by fourteen last night. The park will be retained with a view of resuming the game here at some later time, but as long as the Federal League keeps up its tactics of last year in permitting players to jump to it, there will be no team here, as it prevents drafting, the one salvation of a team in a town the size of Appleton. Last year was the first time in six years Appleton has been in the league that there was no revenue from the draft.

At the present time the association is $5,981.06 in debt. The loss last year was about $3,200. Notwithstanding the fact that the team won more games than any in the league with the exception of Oshkosh from July 4 to the close of the season, it did not draw.

MILWAUKEEAN INVENTS BOAT LOWERING DEVICE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 30.—Safe launching of lifeboats and life rafts from lofty steamers and other craft in all sorts of weather is promised by the use of a lowering device patented by Capt. A. T. Nelson, 491 Milwaukee street. The invention is attracting much attention in all marine circles. The apparatus is described by the inventor as follows:

"The device consists of a transfer table and elevator combined. The table, which shuttles athwart ship, is fitted with grooved rails to correspond with a series of other rails to correspond with a series of other rails running the length of the boat deck; the boat saddles, instead of being fastened to the deck as at present, are mounted on small wheels traveling in the grooved rails which hold them securely.

"When a boat is wanted a latch is tripped, and the truck wheels thus unlocked allow the truck carrying the boat to be pushed on the table rails, which jock the wheels of the truck to the table automatically. The table then is driven to the ship's side by two worm gears powered by an electric motor, thus placing the slides to engage two grooved perpendicular rails which extend from the deck to water line.

"The table then slides down the ship's side until submerged, when the boat will float out of the saddle, safely and swiftly launched. An electric brake on the motor governs the speed of the elevator. The boat can be lowered no matter how far the steamer is listed either way. A storage battery on the boat deck insures power until the steamer is submerged. A lighting system that sheds light on the deck and follows the boat until launched is arranged.

Stay at Any Deck.

"The boats while being lowered can be stopped at any deck to take on passengers, thus avoiding the scramble to the hurricane deck, or the dangerous task of climbing down ladder to the launched boat, as is now the custom. Life rafts can be lowered in the same way, loaded before being lowered. At present life rafts are impractical. The raft in many cases is shoved from the deck of the ship and in its fall from this height is often damaged or destroyed. When the raft is launched by this method the passenger must climb down a ladder to the raft, or jump into the water and take a chance on swimming to it."

"The inventor is confident that with his device a boat or a raft can be launched in less than half a minute, and in a rough sea as well as in quiet weather.

"The difficulty that confronts marine men today is the lowering of boats or rafts with the many styles of davits now in use. All the lowering contrivances at present are nothing more than a form of davit operated by power driven drums says the inventor. "Long experience has proved that any form of davit is not a safe device especially for launching boats from lofty steamers or in a heavy sea."

"Boats lowered by davits have in hundreds of cases been dashed against the sides of the steamer, resulting in the loss of a great number of lives. Self-releasing hooks also have been shown to be useless in many instances by failing to release at the proper time, says the captain.

ALONG THE FIGHTING LINES

Gleams of Humor Enliven the Hours of Fierce and Necessarily Merciless Combat.

The commanding of miscellaneous motor vehicles for war service has led to occasional enlightenment of the strenuous life of soldiers in the field or on the march by unexpected meetings with "friends from 'ome." Loud and long were the cheers with which the British "Tommys," serving in France, greeted the first appearance of the familiar London Motor omnibuses, with the names of city streets and suburban destinations yet uncrased, busily chugging along the popular-bounded roads of a foreign land. Vans that bore the names of famous business firms evoked joyous greetings and a running fire of jokes.

Sometimes an acquaintance not general but particular is enthusiastically renewed. A cockney soldier, asked if he thought he could manage to drive a slightly damaged van that was found abandoned by the wayside after an action, cried, jubilantly:

"Drive her? Me? Drive me own bloomin' old girl? W'y, my firm was movers, and I only enlisted 'cause she was took away from me! I been fair 'omeless for her—and blest if she 'asn't crossed the briny deep, and 'unted me up among the Frenchies! Two faithful 'earts united, that's wot I calls it!"

Again, when a large car, battered, splattered, shot-dented and limping, heavily loaded with soldiers who seemed to cling upon it like a swarm of bees, crawled past a group of British officers, one of them interrupted the conference long enough to remark:

"There goes the car I gave my wife for a wedding present. Hardly fit for ladies now, I fancy—unless perhaps some 'Busy Bertha' takes a try at it."

"Busy Berthas" or "Beautiful Berthas" are army nicknames for the great Krupp guns, bestowed in honor of the placid faced young German matron, heiress of the great works at Essen, whose maiden name was Fraulein Bertha Krupp—Youth's Companion.

COMING DOWN TO LANGUAGE

Congressman Surely Named a Combination That It Would Be Hard to Beat.

At a dinner the other evening the talk topic turned to a bunch of things difficult to pronounce, whereas an appropriate anecdote was exploded by Congressman Edwin Y. Webb of North Carolina.

Down at the cigar store some time ago, the congressman said, the regulars were talking about the war and remarking how it gave one something worse than the faceshe to pronounce the Russian names. A man named Benners, who was sitting near, largely smiled.

"Those Russian names are nothing," he remarked. "You just ought to hear what I stack up against in my own home every day of my life."

"What's that?" demanded one of the regulars, with an amazed expression. "Do you mean to say that you have somebody in your family who can put a kink in the czar's syllabic twists?"

"Well, I should say that I have!" was the gruff rejoinder of Benners. "You just ought to hear the baby and the parrot when they get to talking together."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Japanese Courts.

"The defendant was testifying in his own behalf," writes Hon. George W. Wickersham, in describing in Case and Comment, the lawyers' magazine, a visit to a court in Japan. "He stood directly in front of the presiding judge not ten feet distant from him, and answered his questions in a clear voice, without any apparent hesitation. The judge seemed conversant with the case, for he put questions rapidly, giving a funny little grunt of acquiescence after every answer. Occasionally one of the associates wrote a suggestion and handed it to the president, and once or twice the defendant's counsel asked the court to put a certain inquiry. The whole proceeding—and the same may be said of those in several other courts I visited—was conducted in a quiet, colloquial way. In every instance I was impressed with the stimple businesslike atmosphere."

Where the Blame Belonged.

Many veterans can recall the powerful and persuasive eloquence of Colonel Morrow of Detroit when he was calling for patriots to enlist in the Civil war. Just after the battle of Fredericksburg a deserter was brought before him. Nothing so roused the colonel's indignation as a willful desertion or cowardice, and he turned on the weak-kneed soldier in a towering rage and said: "What do you mean by deserting your post in the hour of your country's peril? Have you no feeling of patriotism? Why did you ever enlist if you are such a coward?" "Well, colonel," said the soldier, "if you want to know I'll tell you why I enlisted. It was that—speech of yours at Livonia."

His Liberal System.

"Yes, I give my boy a regular sum for spending money. I find it's the best way."

"How much?"

"Fifty cents a week. It seems plenty, doesn't it? He's sixteen."

"Why, yes, I suppose it's plenty. You give it to him every Monday, do you?"

"No, I deposit it for him every Sat-

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS

THINK ELECTION FRAUD POSSIBLE

Lansing, Jan. 30.—The "common peepal" about whom election orators rant during campaigns, prepared the way to have one "slipped over them" when they voted favorably on the traveling men's and students' constitutional amendment. It was putting new legislation into force and nearly everybody wanted it.

Now, it is discovered in drafting the bill to comply with the constitutional amendment that the secrecy of the ballot, that inalienable right of American citizens, will be destroyed if the provisions of the constitutional amendments are carried out. It is figured that about 20 per cent of the population will come under the bill, which must be general to keep within constitutional limitations, and in no case could these ballots be secretly cast.

See Chance For Fraud.

State officials see so many chances for fraud in permitting voting by mail that they are discouraging representatives from passing the bill to make the amendment effective.

Representative Schmidt announced he would father the bill to give the amendment life. Others are now advising that the bill be not passed and that the people be given a chance to repeal the amendment at the next general election.

It will be necessary to revamp the entire election laws, according to officials, not a very easy task, and in permitting voting by mail the ballots will have to come before the county clerk and election commissioners of each county to be checked up. This will destroy the secrecy of the ballot, a direct counter to present constitutional provisions.

Representative Schmidt's bill provides that persons who expect to be absent at election shall secure a certificate from the precinct inspectors, showing he is eligible to vote. He then must secure a ballot from the secretary of state. This ballot is mailed to the county clerk and the vote recorded before the election commissioners.

Extra Cost Great.

Auditor General Fuller figures that the extra cost to comply with the amendment will be about $3,000 annually in printing and mailing ballots. He declares the chance for fraud is so great that he does not see how the amendment can be safely worked.

"There is so much trouble about voting in cities where colleges are now located that you will see the people in those localities did not support this constitutional amendment," said Representative Wolcott who thinks the amendment should be repealed in stead of being enacted into law.

He says that every county where a college is situated voted "no" on the amendment. He wants to preserve the secrecy of the Australian ballot and repeal the amendment.

TALK OF CARTON AS G.O.P. LEADER

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 30.—Though Gov. Woodbridge N. Ferris has only just begun his second term in office and though the 1915 spring conventions of the various parties are still to be held, the liveliest political topic here is involved in the question: Who is to be the next governor of Michigan?

The answer will not be had for more than a year and three-quarters. The nominees even will not be known for a year and seven months. But the topic is as live as on as though the matter was to be settled within a few months.

There are 124 Republicans among the 132 legislators in both houses here and every one of the 124 is absolutely certain that the next executive will be a Republican. So, with a Democratic incumbent in the principal office in the capitol, they are speculating even now on his Republican successor.

Five Are Mentioned.

Already are men being considered as partrically in the race and it is known that others are being groomed with the idea of being entered later if conditions are right! The five men now being discussed are:

Hon. Gov. Lauren D. Dickinson, of Charlotte.

August C. Carton of Ogemaw county, secretary of the public domain commission.

Alex J. Groesbeck of Detroit.

Frederick C. Martindale of Detroit.

Gerrit J. Dickema of Holland.

While conditions may change radically in the many months to intervene before the 1916 gubernatorial campaign, the talk today that center around these men usually winds up with the question: "I wonder if Carton will be the man on whom the Republicans will unite?"

Friends of Groesbeck assert that he would have been nominated in 1913 had the Republicans cut in the state known how long he was in Wayne county, and that they will do with him in 1916 how that they do know.

Friends of Martindale assert that

BACK STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION BILL

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 30.—For at least a month, and possibly longer, Senator Henry Straight of Coldwater, will not introduce a bill providing for state-wide prohibition. This was decided at a meeting last night between representatives of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league and the so called "dry" leaders of the legislature.

Superintendent Grand Hudson of the Anti-Saloon league, Major Arthur L. Loomis of Lonia, who was recently engaged to handle the campaign for local option in Genesee county, Jason E. Hammond and other well known "dry" advocates were present to discuss the situation with Senators Straight, Damon, Powell, Planck, Foster and several house members.

The members of the Anti-Saloon league will not oppose a bill for statutory prohibition if one is presented, but it is the opinion of the Anti-Saloon league leaders that a fight for state-wide prohibition should be made by initiating an amendment to the constitution.

For the purpose of sounding sentiment throughout the state it was decided that Senator Straight should withhold his proposed bill for a month, at which time another meeting will be called when it will be definitely determined whether the legislature should be asked to pass on the prohibition question.

Shortly before the opening of the legislative session superintendent Grand Hudson of the Anti-Saloon league said that the time is not ripe to stage a fight for state-wide prohibition in Michigan and he declared then that if such a bill was introduced it would not emanate from the league. He added, however, that the league would not attempt to prevent its passage.

BILL AIMED AT BONDING COMPANY INTRODUCED

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 30.—The long threatened blow at the monopoly of the Michigan Bonding company in the matter of saloon bond underwriting, fell Wednesday afternoon in the house when Rep. Elwin B. Pollett of Hale introduced an innocent looking bill that gave little hint on its face of its possibilities as an influence in the liquor question that is stirring all Michigan.

One might read the bill through and through without any enlightenment as to its purpose. Only comparison with the present law and a knowledge of how the Michigan Bonding company has maintained its monopoly on the surety bonds of liquor dealers would furnish the key. Three little stars indicating a phrase eliminated from the old law was left in the Pollett bill to show its purpose. These stars marked the striking out of the few words limiting the saloon bond business to Michigan corporations. The law provided that only Michigan companies with a capital of $500,000 would be acceptable on saloon bonds and since there was no Michigan company which could meet this requirement and capital to organize a competing company of sufficient financial backing to meet the demands of the law was not forthcoming, the Michi-

GIRL MARRIED; FATHER ANGRY

Flint, Jan. 30.—When William Daniels, a farmer from Rose township, Oakland county, found his 18-year-old daughter, Beulah, in Flint yesterday, she waived a marriage certificate in his face and asked him what he was going to do about it.

Beulah eloped Tuesday with Aaron Thomas, 53 years old, a farm hand employed by her father. They came to Flint by way of Fenton and stopped off in Mundy township, where they were married.

Father found the couple in a rooming house. Officers presented Daniels from attacking Thomas.

A multitude of little services, done willingly, promptly and with infallible precision--mere courtesies in their nature--have brought this bank to the very summit of public good will.

NON-MILITARY WAR PRISONERS EXCHANGED

Berne, Switzerland, Jan. 20.--According to data supplied by the International Red Cross Committee, which has charge of the Information Bureau for Interned Civil Persons about 2,900 French who had been interned in Germany have been repatriated through the services of the bureau. In these cases the Red Cross Committee supplied free transportation through Switzerland. In addition about 980 French citizens, who were able to pay their railroad fares were assisted by the committee in securing their release in Germany.

The bureau has been largely responsible for the reciprocal exchange of interned civil persons held in France, Germany and Austro-Hungary. In addition to repatriating French citizens, it has also assisted such Germans and Austro-Hungarians as have been released by the French government. By December 15 the number of Germans who had been aided by the bureau to reach their homes exceeded 6,000. Austro-Hungarians in whose behalf the bureau had been active numbered more than 1,600. These large numbers of refugees were handled by means of special trains. For 1,015 Germans and Austro-Hungarians the committee provided hospital accommodation, and for 238 Germans and 70 Austrians it secured permanent residence in Switzerland.
