KAISER SEES LEMBERG FALL

RUSSIANS SAID TO HAVE BEEN DEALT A STUNNING BLOW— CUT OFF FROM NORTH

(Special to The Press.) London, June 23.—Lemberg has been taken by the Austro-German allies. The Russian army in southeast Galicia has been cut off from the army of the north according to unofficial dispatches from Berlin and Vienna. The Teutonic press declares that the Slavs have been dealt a stunning blow from which they cannot recover. The Kaiser witnessed Lemberg's fall. The Russians rapidly retreating eastward.

(Special to The Press.) London, June 23.—As a result of terrific fighting of the last ten days a lull has set in, due to exhaustion on both sides in the western theater. Despite numerical superiority and the fact that the Galician campaign has drained the German lines, the allies are believed to be so fatigued that it would be unwise to drive on Lens and Lille until the men recuperate. The Germans claim the capture of an important hill in Vosges. The French admit that the Germans regained their lost second line of trenches on the Meuse heights but say that attacks on the first line were repulsed. Dunkirk was bombarded by German long range guns again.

(Special to The Press.) London, June 23.—The Press bureau announced the execution of a spy, Muller, today. He was shot in a tower of London this morning.

(Special to The Press.) London, June 23.—The Admiralty announced that the cruiser, Roxburgh, was struck by a torpedo last Sunday in the North Sea. The damage was slight with no casualties.

SENIORS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Members of the graduated Senior class of the high school yesterday proved themselves most entertaining hosts when they gave the annual picnic in honor of the Juniors and the members of the faculty at Hyde.

The members of the party went to Hyde aboard the morning passenger and spent the day in having a general picnic royal good time. Not a moment was lost by any member of the party from the time they arrived until they returned to their homes here.

Olmsted's orchestra furnished a delightful musical program during the latter part of the afternoon at the Dittrich pavilion and dancing proved intensely popular with those present.

The event of yesterday was the final gathering that would bring the faculty, Juniors and Seniors together and all made the most of it by enjoying themselves to the limit.

Miss Reba King, who has been attending the Chicago Art Institute for the past year, has arrived in the city to spend the summer with her parents, Supt. and Mrs. F. E. King, on Park avenue.

Hundreds of Escanaba people will today join with members of the Institut Jacques Cartier of this city in observing St. John The Baptist Day. Plans for the big celebration of today, to be carried out at South Park, have been underway for several weeks and only unfavorable weather conditions can prevent an unprecedented success being secured.

In addition to the formal program of the day, when the principal address will be delivered by Hon. Joseph F. Cuddy, a list of games and races and amusements of every kind will be carried out at the park throughout the afternoon.

Hyna's military band will also furnish an oven air concert during the day, giving a festive spirit to the entire occasion.

Members of the Institut Jacques Cartier of this city and the surrounding district will meet at St. Anne's hall at 7:30 o'clock this morning and will attend Solemn High Mass services in a body at St. Anne's church.

After he had forged the name of M. K. Bissell to a First National Bank check made out to D. A. Oliver, for the sum of $100, Charles Green, giving his address as Chicago, was arrested by Sheriff Iverson yesterday afternoon at a local department store.

The man evidently secured the check, made it out to D. A. Oliver, signed the name of M. K. Bissell and then forged the endorsement of Mr. Oliver on the back of the paper. He however, neglected to spell Mr. Bissell's name correctly and he was detected. After a bit of clever sleuthing by Sheriff Iverson, was arrested, after he had attempted to secure the cash for the paper at a local store.

After his capture Green confessed to the crime and will receive his hearing this morning.

Dr. Potter is a prominent physician and surgeon in Detroit. Following the wedding the couple will leave for San Francisco on their wedding tour.

YOUNG WOMAN CALLED HOME

After an illness of peritonitis but a few days while visiting at the home of friends in Chicago, Mrs. Tracy Todd daughter of Mrs. Anna Greene of this city, passed away on Tuesday evening.

Last evening the body, accompanied by the grief stricken mother and friends, arrived in the city and was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Frost on Ogden avenue.

Mrs. Todd has spent the past season in Columbus Ohio, and was enroute to her home here to spend the summer with her mother when she stopped in Chicago to visit with friends. While in Chicago she was suddenly seized with peritonitis and on Sunday her condition became so alarming that a message was sent to her mother in this city and she left that night for the bedside of her daughter.

In spite of continual medical attention the woman rapidly grew weaker and on Tuesday evening she passed away.

The announcement of the death of the young woman came as a distinct shock to local people yesterday morning. She was born in Escanaba 33 years ago and has spent practically her entire life in this city. By her kindly disposition and charming manner she had acquired friends here by the score, all of whom received the notice of her death with a feeling of deep sorrow. The death of the young woman has come as a terrible blow to her mother with whom she had been so companionable during her life.

Arriving here last night the body was taken directly to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Frost, on Ogden avenue and last night the exact date of the funeral was not definitely decided, though it is believed that it will be held on Friday.

Mrs. A. V. Longley of Chicago accompanied the mother to this city with the body while Mrs. J. C. Shields, of Hancock and Mrs. E. E. McIntosh of Marquette arrived here last night to attend the funeral.

A large number of friends of Miss Mae Nerbonne very pleasantly surprised her at the home of her parents on South Elm street on Tuesday evening. The party was arranged in the form of an ivory shower and Miss Nerbonne received a very beautiful collection. As the hostess had no intimation of the party the surprise was complete. The guests were enjoyably entertained throughout the evening. Miss Nerbonne is soon to become the bride of Eugene Connelly of Chicago.

GREAT NUMBER OF BOYS AND GIRLS RECEIVE CERTIFICATE OF PROMOTION AT H. S. LAST NIGHT

One hundred and fifty-four boys and girls last night received certificates of promotion from the eighth grade to the Freshman year of the high school at exercises that were carried out at the high school auditorium, before an audience almost as large as on high school commencement night.

The class promoted this year is considerably larger than those of former years and is different from others in that more boys were included in the number than girls. It is believed that nearly this entire number will attend high school next fall, increasing the attendance there materially.

The program given at the high school last night was of a high order. The songs were exceptionally well given and the recitations by members of the class bespoke much careful training.

The Maypole drill, conducted by Miss Marie Snyder, head of the local public schools Physical Culture Department, with eighth grade girls was the feature of the evening. Given on the spacious stage of the auditorium the drill was indeed beautiful and brought much applause from the monster audience.

In presenting the certificates of promotion Supt. F. E. King spoke appropriately and encouragingly to the students.

The program given follows: Morning Invitation.....Chorus A Hunting of the Deer—Edward Frost Piano Duet—Margaret Gallagher and Clementine O'Leary.

The American Flag—Hildur Dahlberg Original Composition.....Alfred Dahl Football Song.....Chorus Legend of Sleepy Hollow.....William Cotton

WET WEATHER IS DAMAGING

Continued wet and cold weather throughout the potato growing districts of the United States will cause, it is believed, a marked advance in the price of tubers that were carried over from last season. Unfavorable weather conditions have put back the new crop considerably and new potatoes will not be in the market until later than usual. Meanwhile heavy demands are being made on the old stock, and it is growing less. Any changes in prices will be toward higher levels.

The outlook for the crop in this vicinity varies according to the nature of the ground that has been planted. Farmers who till the lowlands do not expect to have any potatoes at all. Seed that was planted three weeks ago has not yet sent shoots above the ground. One farmer yesterday said that the seed he planted for early harvesting had only commenced to sprout, when by this time of the year the shoots should be eight or ten inches above the ground.

Experienced potato growers fear that if there is much more rain before the plants have sprouted all of the seed potatoes will rot before they have time to germinate. Some of the potatoes which were planted about six weeks ago on the high lands are just commencing to grow above the ground and it will be several weeks before they will be ready for digging.

The crop will also be late this year, as it is far behind the average year. Oats are only about two inches from the ground, whereas at this time of the year they should be nine and twelve inches high. The hay on the highlands is coming up in good style, but there will be a shortage, because of the loss of the large amount which is usually cut in the lowlands.

WAR

Paris, June 23.—The fighting of May 30 to June 19, resulting in the conquest by the French of the system of works and trenches which the soldiers call "the labyrinth," is described today in a dispatch from an official observer at the front. The labyrinth, lying between Neuville St. Vaast and Ecurie, formed a salient point of the German line and its position was a strong one.

"At the end of May the French decided to finish things and the order was given to take the labyrinth inch by inch," says the observer.

"Everywhere except on the right we captured the first line. Behind this were a great number of barricades. We took some of these while others stopped us. One hundred and fifty prisoners, surprised in their holes by the furious charge of the French infantry, fell into our hands.

"There were the trenches of van Kluck, of Eulenburg and of the Salle des Fetes, without counting innumerable other works, giving a feeling of unnumbered difficulties which our troops had to overcome.

"Without a stop from May 30 to June 7 they fought on this ground, full of big holes and filled with dead. The combat never ceased, either by day or night. The attacking elements, constantly renewed, crushed the Germans with hand grenades and demolished their earth barricades. There was not an hour of truce nor an instant of repose. The men were under a sun so hot in the trenches that they fought bareheaded and in their shirt sleeves. On each of these bloody days there were acts of incomparable heroism.

"We lost many men, but the morale of the others was unshaken. The men asked only one thing—to go forward and fight with grenades instead of enduring, gun in hand, the unceasing fall of shells.

"Ultimately the 'labyrinth' belonged to us. The Germans lost an entire regiment. We took a thousand prisoners. The rest were killed. A Bavarian regiment also was decimated. Our losses were two thousand men, among whom many were slightly wounded."

London, June 23.—What may prove the bloodiest battle of the war in the western theater is now on in France. In the Vosges the Germans have retired to the east bank of the Fecht, according to their own admission, but they assert that all French attacks have been repulsed.

The fighting around Arras continues to be desperate and sanguinary, the Germans counter-attacking to offset the recent French gains. A wireless dispatch from Berlin says:

"Neutral reports declare that the battle raging near Arras may decide the fate of northern France. The French are very strong, but the Germans are continuously receiving reinforcements. The losses on both sides are fearful."

One stretch of the field from Arras, eight miles toward the Belgian border, is said to be covered with dead. Dunkirk, on the French coast, was bombarded yesterday by a long range German gun, as was done several weeks ago. At that time the German was said to have been located by an aviator and silenced. In yesterday's attack several persons were killed.

The Hague, via London, June 23.—The Handelsblad, in its edition of today, asserts that Japan was prevented from sending three hundred thousand troops to Europe as the result of a dispatch from Washington that such an expedition would be undesirable.

The newspaper declares that a Japanese army of that strength was landed in Manchuria, where it was exercising preparatory to departure for the European battlefield, but that Great Britain, after receiving the intimation from the United States, informed Tokio that she was "sorry, but, under American pressure, must request that the Japanese government do nothing further concerning the dispatch of an expeditionary corps to Europe."

"After this," the Handelsblad continues, "the Japanese army disappeared from Manchuria, probably much to the relief of Great Britain, which has never desired Japanese participation in the fighting in Europe."

Washington, June 23.—Government officials tonight heard without comment of the article published in the Handelsblad. Neither confirmation nor denial of the story was to be had. It is known that there were exchanges between the American and British governments while the recent Japanese-Chinese negotiations were in progress, but their nature was kept secret.

The United States knew that Japan had at least one hundred thousand men in Manchuria when she was waiting for China's reply to her demands. It was generally understood here, however, that the army there for effect upon China.

All reports from Tokio have indicated that Japan has not been called upon for a European expedition and has not considered sending one.

FROM A FAR COUNTRY

By ALLAN INGLIS.

(Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman.)

The prison gates closed behind Larrimore. He was free. Nobody had come to meet him except the reporters, but that caused Larrimore no distress. Of course Laura would not have come to the prison gates. She had pride, and, though he had been unjustly condemned, Laura was not going to publish her shame before the eyes of the newspaper men.

Larrimore had done no wrong. True, he had begged a few score of women and trusting men who had put their all in his wild scheme, but then everybody did things like that every day in the course of business. The five years in the penitentiary that he had served had been a gross injustice. Larrimore felt no degradation. He meant to repeat his trick, but more craftily, in order to secure the funds to start things going again.

Still, he was thinking, as he sat in the train, a lot of things which distressed him; and yet he could not shake them out of his mind. He had gone to the metropolis twenty years before, a gawky farmer boy, to make his fortune. He had become wealthy in an incredibly short space of time, for Larrimore was quick to adapt himself to the dubious ways of finance. In ten years he was married and had a house on the avenue.

He had married the daughter of his employer. He had not loved Laura exactly, but she had thought he had. After his marriage he seldom went home. He made his old mother an adequate allowance, but he had not seen her for three years before he was sentenced. With his connections he could not afford to have it known that his mother was an illiterate old woman. Laura had never seen her; Larrimore had been ashamed to let her know.

Still there had been trying episodes, which, as a man of the world, he had found difficult to explain to his wife. For instance, old Mrs. Larrimore's letters. The old woman had been growing lonely. She wanted to come to town and live with her son. Of course that was impossible, and he had told his mother so frankly. But Laura had seen one of the ill-spelled letters, and Larrimore had been ashamed.

"You see, she never could learn to spell very well," he explained to his wife. "We are of good family, but mother was always the dunce at school."

The look in his wife's eyes when he apologized for his mother had vaguely annoyed Larrimore.

After his conviction Laura had come to see him regularly each three months. Three months before his sentence expired she had told him that she thought it would be no use their living together. The house had been sold, and she was living then in a boarding-house. Larrimore had not answered her, because he meant to go to her as soon as he came out of prison and explain that he would be a rich man again within a year, and that he could provide her with every luxury. That would alter his wife's decision, he knew.

Nevertheless, when he got out of the train he was dissatisfied with himself. Something of conscience had begun to prick the thick skin of the man. When he called at the boarding-house he discovered, to his dismay, that his wife had gone away. A letter was handed to him, and the door closed on him. Larrimore did not mind the closing of the door; he went into the park and read the letter.

"I am leaving you for ever, Henry," his wife had written, "because I cannot live with you again. For years I have borne your callousness, but my eyes have been opened. You are the most selfish, worthless man that ever lived. I am going to the last place on earth where you will think of looking for me."

The letter was signed simply "Laura."

None of us is so bad but sooner or later the day comes when we see ourselves in the mirror of our souls. Larrimore said afterward that it was the reading of this letter which shook down the palace of his colossal self-conceit. He sat for hours in the park, dazed with the hideous self-revelation.

And, like the prodigal in the parable, except that the more loving parent remained alive to him, Larrimore said:

"I will arise and go unto my mother."

The following morning he took the train out to the little village where his mother lived. And as he dismounted upon the platform a great terror came over him that his pilgrimage was vain, and his mother dead.

He hurried up the well-remembered street. He reached the little cottage. The place was occupied. He knocked. An old woman with white hair came to the door and peered at him with her dimming eyes. And Larrimore gasped out his repentance and fell upon the floor before her.

"Mother, I am going to take care of you," he said at length, rising. "We will live here together, and—"

The door opened softly, and Larrimore, looking up, saw Laura standing before him. One glance at him, one incredulous look, and the two children were kneeling in each other's arms at the white-haired woman's feet.

For sometimes in the game of life hearts are trumps after all.

HOPE WILSON HAS CHANGE OF MIND

Washington, June 23.—A statement issued by the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage indicates that the suffragists will continue their campaign to induce President Wilson to support the Federal amendment. It reads:

"The union has an ear to the ground for interesting developments with a view to seizing the proper opportunity for driving home their argument for a Federal amendment removing from the ballot the discrimination against women. The leaders of the organization are even hopeful that President Wilson will change his mind and advocate their proposition. They argue that Mr. Wilson has practically abandoned his policy of 'watchful waiting' in Mexico and told the Mexicans to get together or look out for intervention."

"We are watching with great interest the changing events in national politics," said Miss Elele Hill of the executive committee of the union. "President Wilson's change of policy in Mexico is most encouraging. He may yet see the light on the suffrage question and stand for a square deal for women."

"The action of Mr. Bryan too, in offering his resignation when he was unable to follow further the President, gives women a lesson in the way a politician acts on question he considers to be of first rate importance when he disagrees with the administration to which he belongs."

"Suffragists" said Miss Hill who is a daughter of Representative E. J. Hill of Connecticut "were continually told in the sixty-third congress, when the Democratic party went on record against woman suffrage, that individual Democrats, who believed in woman suffrage were entitled to their full support."

"If these Democrats had regarded woman suffrage as a matter of first importance they would not have remained in a party which had gone on record against it. If they did put their party before woman suffrage they had no claim to the support of suffragists."

"The efforts of suffragists from now on will be more and more directed to obtaining not a statement of favorable opinion from individual men in different parties, but the consent of the administration to take favorable action on the question of national woman suffrage."

"Some people say it is no use asking the Democratic party to assist woman suffrage nationality. Mr. Wilson, these people say, has said he is opposed to it, and it is unwise to question him further."

"But Mrs. Wilson has, I think shown very clearly that he is quite capable of changing his mind on questions of national political policy. He reversed himself very sharply, as we all know, on the question of Panama canal toll, and when he was reproached for it by members of his own party, said quite simply and indeed very reasonably, that he had studied the question further and had changed his mind."

JOLIET WARDEN WON'T RESIGN BUT REFUSES TO LIVE IN HIS SUITE

Joliet, Ill., June 23.—Edmund Allen, warden of the state penitentiary, whose wife was burned to death in her bed Sunday night, definitely set at rest rumors that he would resign immediately.

"I'm coming back and stick it out until things are cleared up," he told his deputy. "I won't live in the accused place, though, and I won't permit my children to live there."

Lieutenant James Larkin of the Chicago police, skilled in handling the Chicago negro lawbreakers, came to the penitentiary tonight and is making a last effort to exact a confession from Joe Campbell, negro house servant suspected of having killed Mrs. Allen Campbell so far as grinned at the efforts of the coroner's jury to entangle him in contradictions.

Bilious Attacks

When you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever. They only cost a quarter. Obtainable everywhere.

Sleeplessness

The best remedy for sleeplessness is a combination of honest work and clear conscience. If this fails, as occasionally it does, try an onion sandwich (if you sleep by yourself) followed by a glass of hot milk or water.

Attacked in Front and Rear

A youngster of our acquaintance who has a faculty for getting into scrapes recently expressed the wish that he was a postage stamp. When asked why, he answered: "Because a postage stamp can only be licked once." Whereupon we pointed out that the stamp received, besides the licking, a severe punch in the face.

THAW'S JURY IS CHOSEN

New York, June 23.—Harry K. Thaw will make his seventh attempt to gain his freedom since his arrest nine years ago this month for the murder of Stanford White. The trial was begun today with the selection of a jury to inquire as to his sanity. If the jurors decide in his favor and Justice Hendrick, presiding, who has the power to reverse their verdict accepts it, Thaw will obtain permanent release from the Matteawan insane asylum, where he was incarcerated after being acquitted of murder at his second trial, and from which he escaped in 1913.

Tomorrow John B. Stanchfield, Thaw's attorney, will outline his case and the taking of testimony will begin. Thaw has about fifty witnesses, including a number of alienists, to prove that he is sane and entitled to his freedom. The state also has a large number to testify against him. Among the latter probably will be William Travers Jerome, Thaw's prosecutor at the previous trials. Thaw said after the jury was completed that he was entirely satisfied with it.

"They are an intelligent body of men," he said, "and I will have little difficulty in convincing them that I am as sane as they are."

STEALS $2,000; TRIPLES IT; HOLDS DOWN JOB

New York—That adage about honesty being the best policy was knocked out on a cocked hat in the Morrisania Magistrate's court today when the case of young Albert Rees, aged 23, a clerk employed by Lanigan Bros., contractors, came before Judge Levy.

Young Rees, it seems, never had really shone around the Lanigan office especially until he had stolen $2,000 of the firm's money and had run it up to $6,000 by shrewd investments.

Not only was the complainant drawn against Rees but Lanigan Bros. announced that the firm intended to retain Rees in its employ. Rees there upon was released, got back his old job, and was $4,000 to the good, thanks to his efficiency.

WILSON LAD IS SENT TO ASYLUM

Isaac Beauchamp, who attempted to commit suicide by slashing himself with a razor at his home at Wilson on Saturday, has been committed to the Northern Hospital for the Insane at Newberry. Following the attempt to take his life Beauchamp was hurried to Menominee, where an investigation showed his mind to be unbalanced.

The Menominee Herald Leader said: With blood pouring from a gaping cut which he had inflicted on his throat with a razor, Isaac Beauchamp, 25 years old, a barber of Wilson, was found in a serious condition by his mother, who ran in upon hearing gasping sounds coming from her son's room.

Beauchamp has luckily missed the jugular vein in his suicide attempt, which was the sequel of an insanity attack, brought on by illness.

After being brought to Menominee late Saturday afternoon, the man was committed to Newberry asylum for the insane, following an examination before Probate Judge John Stiles. In the meantime doctors at St. Joseph's hospital had sewed up the wound in the man's throat and he was taken to Newberry Saturday night in the custody of a deputy sheriff and his brother.

The man had been taking treatments for some time for tuberculosis, it is said. Attacks of fever which he had from time to time unbalanced his mind, and it is thought that it was one of these attacks which brought on the insanity spell which resulted in the suicide attempt.

The attempt occurred at 4 o'clock in the morning. It was half an hour later that his mother heard sounds coming from his room and made the investigation which resulted in finding the man lying on the blood-stained bed.

The bleeding lasted about an hour. The wound was bandaged up and he was taken to Menominee.

KIPLING WARNS BRITAINS; PLIGHT IF NATION LOSES.

London, June 23.—Rudyard Kipling, in a speech at a recruiting meeting at Southampton, drew a vivid picture of England's fate should Germany prove victorious in the war, declaring that whatever had been meted out to the Belgians and Poles would be England's punishment.

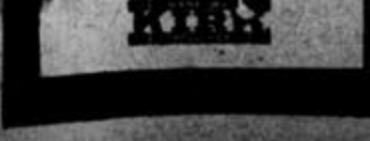

"If we fail to subdue the Germans," he said, "there are reasons in the German mind why we should be morally and mentally shamed beyond any other people."

LARGE NUMBER TO STEPHENSON

A large number of local people are planning upon going to Stephenson on June 30 when the new high school is to be dedicated at that place. The biggest attraction will be the appearance of Gov. Woodbridge N. Ferris, who will preside over the highly impressive ceremonies that will take place.

A number of local motorists are planning upon making the trip and with good weather prevailing many more will be induced to make the trip. A feeling of good fellowship has always existed between Escanaba and Stephenson and a movement will be under way within the next few days to secure at least half a hundred motor cars to make the trip.

CUT IRONCLAD CONTRACT WAGE

Cincinnati, O., June 23.—A new angle in the baseball war was brought to light when the Cincinnati club owing to hard times, prepared to start a fight on the so-called iron-clad contract which it was forced to give certain players to prevent their joining the Federal league. The Reds plan to release a man on the ground that he hasn't delivered the goods, and in case he goes to court to fight the proceedings.

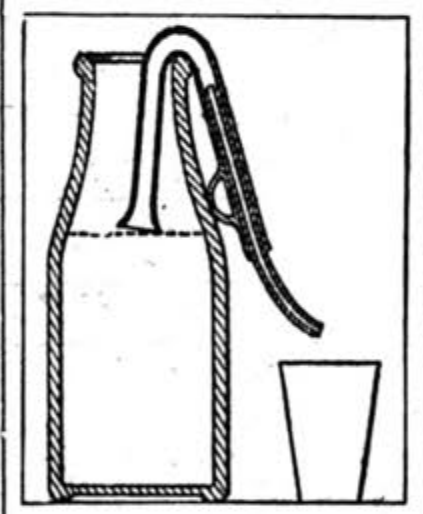

The entire league will aid in the fight, which it is thought will be a winning one, and then steps will be taken to scale down salaries throughout the circuit.

A significant feature of the scheme is that the National league officials will take no heed of the likelihood of the Reds grabbing any of the men even under the old-style contract. They figure the Reds are almost a dead issue.

ROBBING THE MILK BOTTLE

Siphon Invented for Removing Cream When Desired—Does Its Work Without Any Loss.

The sight of a quantity of rich cream on top of the milk bottle is a sight which few housewives can resist, and they are tempted to remove it and make use of it for one purpose or another. It is almost impossible to pour the cream off, and usually any effort made to insert a spoon or other implement of this character has the effect of stirring up the cream so that it is lost. The device shown herewith has been recently patented and will drain off all the cream of the bottle without any loss by agitation of the contents of the bottle during the operation, as with a spoon or pouring. The siphon is of glass principally, but the lower end is a tube of rubber with one end thrust up into the glass. The bell-shaped end of glass is lowered carefully into the cream, and when in place will about reach the lower part of the stratum of cream. The rubber tube is then closed by pinching and drawn slowly from the glass tube. This draws the cream up and starts the flow, which continues until all the cream has been drawn off.

Cheap Witticisms.

At his hearing before Justice Clark Monday morning, Siegel waived stay of execution of sentence and Sheriff George H. Root started by automobile with the prisoner for Rochester.

AMONG THE THEATRES

THE DELFT

One of the big scenes of the dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman," which Henry W. Savage will disclose at the Delft on July 3, represents the riotous reveling of a New York crowd on Broadway at midnight on New Year's Eve. This scene alone requires in supernumeraries and others employed over one hundred and fifty people. It is said to be a triumph for the stage director in the representation of fanfare, riot and carnival spirit which prevails at that period. In the English production of "Everywoman" at the Drury Lane Theater, London, Stephen Phillips, the eminent lyric and dramatic poet, was engaged to localize the fourth act, or Broadway scene, and it became Picaresque, showing the London Pavillion and the Criterion Restaurant, familiarly known as the "Cri." "Everywoman" proved the same huge success in England that it had been in America, and Mr. Savage's next move in its behalf will be a production in Berlin.

"Everywoman" is a combination of opera, musical comedy and drama with a vast display of costumes and scenery. It definitely solves the problem of providing amusement for all classes of people. It is whimsical in spirit and gay in atmosphere. Playgoers have found in it an ingenious and amusing novelty, inspiring nothing of the lugubrious spirit of the medieval drama from which Walter Browne, the author, derived it, but rich in delightful irony and humor.

The manuscript of "Everywoman" was in the hands of Mr. Savage for more than a year before its first production, and during that time the various departments of his producing establishment were busily engaged in constructing the scenic equipment and the vast paraphernalia required in the setting of the five acts. An entire symphony orchestra is carried by the organization which is one of the largest ever toured. The production as it stands represents an expenditure of over sixty thousand dollars. Mr. Savage considers "Everywoman" his greatest achievement as a producer.

THE DELFT

A photoplay very much out of the ordinary will be shown at the Delft Tuesday, June 29, afternoon and night. This is "Hypocrites," a drama written by Lois Weber (Mrs. Phillips Smalley), and produced under her sole direction. It is a highly dramatic story through which is woven a remarkable allegory, and one which has aroused a great deal of discussion. The theme is handled with the utmost delicacy and art, and is interpreted by a cast made up of well-known screen artists. Courtenay Foote does the finest work of his brilliant career as "Gabriel, the ascetic." He is supported by Herbert Standing, Myrtle Stedman, Adele Farrington, Dixie Carr and by Margaret Edwards in an exquisite impersonation of "the Spirit of Truth." The photography is remarkable and is a personal triumph for the two cameramen responsible for it.

THE DELFT

Manager Jacobs has called together his best ability in selecting pictures by choosing "Young Romance" for his Thursday feature. Friday "When It Strikes Home" is to be shown in five parts.

SMITH LOOKS GOOD TO YOST

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 23.—Does football spoil a track man? This is a question which Coach Yost, Trainer Farrell and other Michigan athletic mentors would give a good deal to know.

The immediate cause is one Harold Smith of Detroit, inter-collegiate champion in the dashes, and captain of the Michigan track team. Coach Yost saw "Smithy" win the two sprints from fast fields at Philadelphia two weeks ago and immediately conceived the idea of drafting the track star to the football team to fill the shoes of "Tommy" Hughtitt at quarterback.

Yost sized up Smith as a stocky youth and inquired as to his weight; seemingly satisfied at the answer, which was somewhere around 150 pounds, Maulbetsch, Craig, Hughtitt, Splawn, Galt and many other premier Michigan backfield heroes have been little fellows, Yost, always putting a premium on speed both mental and physical, as opposed to mere brawn and smashing ability.

WAR HOSPITAL TO BE CONDUCTED

New York, June 23.—The most comprehensive surgical and medical expedition ever sent from American shores embarks today for England, where they will inaugurate an extensive American relief hospital for wounded soldiers. Thirty-four surgeons and physicians and 75 nurses make up the party, which is to be relieved in the work periodically by other bands of American surgeons and nurses. The first party is made up of Harvard doctors, drawn principally from the Boston City Hospital and the Massachusetts general hospital. (Continued from page one.)

The American medical men will take no oath to King George, although they will work under the British government sanction and auspices. They are volunteers in the work of allaying human suffering and their enrollment for the work they declare is within the bounds of strict neutrality. In fact, they claim, they would have answered as quickly a call to a German hospital.

The expedition sailing today is under Dr. E. H. Nichols of Boston. There are senior surgeons of long experience in Boston hospital, junior surgeons and assistant surgeons. The 75 nurses are all graduates of American hospitals, and many of them are Canadian girls who are inspired by patriotic motives.

The British government is furnishing transportation to England and return for the party, and the doctors and nurses will receive regular army pay. All of the surgeons will receive commissions in the British army, with out taking the oath of allegiance.

The Harvard doctors will begin work immediately on their arrival with the nurses at the big British base hospital, which is said to be in England near the channel. They should arrive there by July 1. Their period of work covers three months, while the nurses of the Boston party will remain six months. Should any fall ill, they will be replaced.

The expedition is the result of conferences between Dr. Walton Martin of Columbia, Dr. Nichols of Harvard and Dr. J. M. T. Finney of Johns Hopkins. Sir William Osler, formerly of Johns Hopkins, now prominent in England, suggested the idea, which had the sanction of the British government.

BIG LOAN TO FRANCE VIRTUALLY ARRANGED, MORGAN CO. ANNOUNCES.

New York, June 23.—Confirmation of the much discussed French credit by American bankers was received today when J. P. Morgan & Co., announced the virtual completion of a one year loan to the Paris branch of the Rothschilds, the latter acting for the French government, the Bank of France and a syndicate of French bankers.

The amount of the loan and its interest yield are not yet to be determined, but it is intimated that the sum is not likely to exceed $50,000,000 at approximately 5 per cent. It will be secured by collateral in the form of high grade American railway bonds.

ANTI-AMERICAN PAPER CLOSED UP

Berlin, June 23.—The German authorities informed The Berlin Tageszeitung that it must suspend publication indefinitely on account of the recent article on German-American relations, by Count von Reventlow. The action is regarded as an indication that the government is weary of seeing its relations with America more strained by journalistic outbursts such as those of Count von Reventlow. This article said international law must be disregarded in submarine warfare. He declared these laws were made before submarines were invented.

The government's action in suspending The Tages Zeitung is one of many indications that responsible statesmen are desirous of a peaceful understanding with America.

HARRIE L. BLAND, organizer and bandmaster, whose Chautauqua successes have placed him at the very head of his profession, will appear with his band in the afternoon and his orchestra at night, fourth day of the Chautauqua. Mr. Bland has been an unmatched success wherever he has appeared during the last seven years with these organizations.

COBB CAN ACT BUT NOT 400 PAGE

Ty Cobb is not the "best ball player on earth." He forfeited that title to an unknown bush leaguer from Alabama. He knows it and the "unknown" knows it, but the story has never been told in print.

A few seasons ago Ty Cobb toured the south as one of the heroes in "The College Widow." He was billed to appear at the "leading theater in the Magic city of Alabama," that city being Birmingham.

Allen G. Johnson, sports editor and dramatic critic of the News, thought he would have Cobb act as sports editor during his stay in the city. He wrote to the "Widow's" press agent and the actor at once accepted the job. Cobb was rushed to the city room where his "editorship" consisted of the dictation of a "story" asserting that the Detroit Tigers would win the next season's American league pennant, and the approval of a black "streamer" across the sports pages announcing that Cobb was the News sports editor.

That day the newsboys could not stop looking at Cobb long enough to sell papers. In the town where a circus is an event Ty Cobb was an event extraordinary, and he knew it.

But the managing editor of the News was not a baseball fan. He believed that the public should not be asked to pay $2 to see an "actor" who was only a baseball player. He expressed his belief to the sports and dramatic editor, instructing him to review Cobb's histrionic performance, and to forget that this actor was a 400 hitter.

"Actor" Cobb batted his cues that night well enough to get a curtain call at the end of the second act. In his speech he admitted that he liked the shouting from the bleachers better than the applause of the galleries. The sports editor, then dramatic editor, endeavored to view the whole performance from the angle of the theatrical critic. His review was harsh but it did not enrage Ty as a matinee idol.

Cobb got as far as Detroit before the critic heard from him again at the News office. Then from the Tiger's lair came a scorching letter. Your criticism is beneath my notice," Cobb wrote. "but I just want you to see what a few real critics say about my work (clippings inside)."

"I am a better actor than you are, a better sports editor than you are, a better dramatic critic than you are. I make more money than you do, and I know I am a better ball player—so why should inferior critics sneer at me?"

The critic wrote back. "I admit that you are a better critic, actor, sports editor and money maker than I am, Mr. Cobb, but I refuse to admit that you are a better ball player. I have seen you play ball and know what you can do, but you have never seen me in action on a diamond. Therefore, I now challenge you to a game at Rickwood field, the Birmingham Southern league ball grounds, July 4, for the championship by forfeit."

Cobb never replied. Johnson, the critic and sports editor, claims the title "best ball player on earth" to this day.

HEIRESS MADE HIM A BURGLAR

Minneapolis, Minn., June 23.—The Grand Jury of Nassau county this afternoon heard the story of Donald Clapham, the wealthy Sea Cliff youth held with Mrs. Ruth Taylor Conlin, a pretty heiress, on a charge of burglary.

Clapham, who arrived in Minneapolis this morning before the grand jury went in session, was joined by his father, Alfred N. Clapham, a prominent real estate man of Sea Cliff. He is going to stand by his son.

John Conlin, husband of Clapham's partner in the cottage burglaries, expects to go before the grand jury as a witness against his wife, from whom he is estranged, and young Clapham. He said he had a lot to tell that would benefit the state. Clapham, in discussing the situation which has developed, said:

"Ruth did all the stealing. She took the lead always. I did not take a thing from these places we went to. I had the means for effecting entrances—the keys.

"We wanted to go to dances and theaters and devised the burglary scheme to get money. I realize I am as much responsible as she. I have no resentment against her for getting me into this scrape."

Clapham said he did not think the total value of the goods taken would exceed $400.

Mrs. Alice Watson, the actress, who suffered a loss of considerable property, was the first witness called before the grand jury. She said before entering the jury room that had she known the affair was to have brought so much publicity and so much worry she would have said nothing about her loss.

District Attorney Lewis J. Smith said that the evidence against young Clapham and Mrs. Conlin was all in and he looked for indictments.

One witness was Emil Witteroth, the piano manufacturer, who has a country place at Sea Cliff. He said that he was sorry for young Clapham, who had evidently been strongly influenced by his beautiful companion in crime.

Mrs. May Wood, manager of the fashionable summer hotel at Sea Cliff known as the Woodshed, appeared to tell of the thefts that had occurred in her hotel.

Ruth Taylor Conlin was reported ill at her home in Sea Cliff. This is believed to be due to the disclosure of the house thefts, her arrest and the possibility of indictment by the grand jury.

The grand jury reached the case in the afternoon, and after the boy had waived immunity and told his story, it was reported that indictments for grand larceny in the first degree had been handed down against both Clapham and Mrs. Conlin. District Attorney Smith would not commit himself regarding the indictments, but said that if they were found the young couple would be arraigned before County Judge Nieman and allowed to plead.

Mrs. Conlin's defiant air of the day before wifed under the notoriety that had come upon her Clapham's change of front was even more surprising. He spent a good part of last evening with Mrs. Conlin in her home, and when seen there displayed a spongy attitude that indicated a resolve to stand by his partner in misfortune and take

FAST TRAIN TAKES BURMAN TO COAST

Immediately after the 500-mile race Bob Burman and his Peugeot will start another fast ride, but not under the power of the French car. Burman will lead his rebuilt Peugeot, that finished sixth at Indianapolis, into an express car which will be attached to a fast train, next Saturday evening, and start for Tacoma, where the Inlay City driver is entered for the opening events of the new board speedway on July 4 and 5.

Burman like other star drivers now in the east, has obtained appearance money from the Tacoma Speedway management and must race there. When the Chicago event was set forward one week, the old Buick star was in a quandry as to what course to pursue. He did not want to miss the Windy City 500, as he stands fifth in the time trials, having averaged 101 miles an hour. To hold the Michigan pilot the Chicago Speedway management made arrangements for a special car, and this will put Burman in the Washington city in time to tune up for the race.

SOME ESCAPE BEING PLACED IN AN ASYLUM.

Joe Wood received yesterday, forwarded from his home in Twin Lakes, Pa., a letter that must have given many a weary moment to postal clerks. The address was all in pictures, like a book-lovers' contest problem.

It started with a figure "2," then a drawing of a smoking stove, "Joe," drawings of a pile of wood, a red sock, a water pitcher, two lakes, a pike, a squared marked "Co." a keystone and a rude map of a state. Translated, it read, "To Smoky Joe Wood, Red Sox pitcher, Twin Lakes, Pike county, Keystone State (Pennsylvania)."

We sometimes think that ball players are not all mentally that they should be, but what idea do you suppose the postal clerks who had to figure it all out, have of a baseball fan who would squander time planning and executing such a labor-making device as that?

TERRIFIC VOLCANIC ERUPTION IN OCEAN.

Tokio, June 22.—Reports of a terrifying volcanic eruption at sea, south of Japan, two days ago, has been brought into Yokohama by steamers. The disturbance is regarded as a direct cause of an earthquake shock in Central Japan Sunday, the strongest experienced in several years.

The marine eruption took place Saturday at 8:30 a. m. Its location is given as about seventy miles south of Fatsio or Hachijo island, which is 150 miles directly south of Yokohama. A pillar of fire and dense smoke obscured the sun. Huge rocks and quantities of lava rained down into the sea, and the water are described as becoming "red and boiling." Steamers were struck by tidal waves but escaped injury.

The earthquake in Japan Sunday damaged a number of houses in Tokio but there were no casualties.

NEED MORE TRESPASS LAWS

Number of Killed and Injured on Railroad Tracks of This Country is Enormous.

The American mania for walking on railroad tracks cost over 50,000 lives in ten years from 1900 to 1910; 33,000 killed or injured were under twenty-one years of age—enough, says the bulletin of the Railway Business association, "to make a mile post for every mile around the world."

Pointing to the fact that accidents of this sort for the same period in England amounted to only 11.5 per cent of the total in the United States, the Railway association seeks to lay the blame to the few and unenforced trespass laws in this country. Trespassers in England are fined $10 for each offense. Trespassing on railroads in France is punishable by fines up to $579 and by jail up to a month. In Germany the fine can be $25. Canada provides fines as high as $50 and imprisonment for two months.

The bulletin forgets to state that in most European countries railroad lines provide far better protection against trespassing than in the United States. In England tracks are strongly fenced for miles and where fences end stout hedges take their place. Trains enter European cities underground or on elevated structures or stop at terminals in the suburbs. Train yards are well-nigh impenetrable.

Nevertheless it is true that these countries make strict rules and regulations to keep the public from taking risks on railroad property, while here 35 states have no laws which specifically prohibit walking on railroad right of way. This nation's death toll for a decade is too huge not to provoke comparisons.

SIGNALS ARRANGED IN PAIRS

Improved Idea for Automatic Train Control Recently Placed on the Market.

Locomotive and Rail.

At the meeting of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers in Paris last July, Anatole Mallet, the inventor of the Mallet articulated locomotive, called attention to the great changes that, during the past eighty-five years, have taken place in the relative weight of the locomotives to the rail. Monsieur Mallet showed that in 1829 engines that weighed five tons ran on rails that weighed 34.3 pounds a yard; that is the engine was 327 times the weight of the rail a yard. In 1846 engines of 22 tons ran on rails of 70.52 pounds a yard; that is, the engine was 700 times the weight of the rail a yard. Finally, in the United States, a Mallet engine with ten coupled axles, having 245 tons' adhesive weight, has been put into service on 111-pound rails; that is, the engine is 4,950 times the weight of the rail a yard. Incidentally, this progressive increase in the relative weight of the locomotive to the rail shows how great has been the improvement in the quality of steel rails.—Youth's Companion.

Ravages of Rust.

One large railroad system suffers a loss of more than eighteen tons of metal daily, due solely to the effect of rust. Thus far, the only known preventive is to keep the metal surface always covered with a suitable paint. Some idea of the costliness of this remedy, however, may be gained from the fact that it requires about $5,000 annually to paint one large railway bridge alone. A typical case of this kind is the Forth bridge in Scotland, upon which a corps of painters are constantly employed, as the weather makes repainting of one end of this large structure necessary before the workers have reached the other. Although experiments have demonstrated that pure iron surrounded by oxygen does not rust, and that some acid, especially carbonic acid, is necessary for the production of rust, the secret of manufacturing rustless steel and iron remains to be discovered.

Shooting Life Lines.

A gun invented by a New Yorker for shooting life lines from ship to ship or ship to shore utilizes the power of what ordinarily would be the recoil to add to its effectiveness.

Promotes Vegetation.

The rapid growth of vegetation in polar regions, despite the brief summers, is attributed to the strength of the electric currents in the atmosphere.

DAILY LETTER

Copper shares were dull and uninteresting. Zinc stocks slightly firm with a firm demand for coal issues while smelting was the weak feature on account of the further decline in lead quotations. There appears to be substantial buying orders in copper shares under the market but the market continues spotty with a marked lack of leadership of the necessary aggressive kind. Copper metal reported dull at moment. Earnings however are piling up fast and fattening treasury balances. This will attract speculative attention in due time and stocks bought at current prices will pay hand some profit to the patient purchasers.

INDICT OVER 100, ELECTION FRAUD

Indianapolis, June 23.—An indictment charging election conspiracy has been returned against more than 100 persons, including several who are high persons, including several who are high in party councils, by the Marion county grand jury. The charges are based on the election November 3, 1914, the registration last November and the October primary, May 1914.

Among the more prominent men indicted are Thomas Targart, Democratic national committeeman; Mayor Bell, Chief of Police, Perrott, and City Attorney Barrett.

A total of 128 were indicted including Mayor Roberts, of Terre Haute, who was recently sentenced to six years for election funds. Targart gave bonds of $5,000.

FORD CARS GOING DOWN; HEAD OF PLANT STATES.

Detroit, June 23.—According to Henry Ford, the Ford motor car, which now sells for $440 net, will be slightly reduced next year. Asked regarding the $350 price. Mr. Ford said: "That could not be done at present, but every reduction brings motor cars to a level at which thousands more people can acquire them. We are near the end of the automobile year now and cannot reduce the price to $350, but are planning a slight reduction. The $350 price is too low at present, but some time we may reach it."

NO SECRET WAR NOTES; INFORMATION MADE PUBLIC.

Washington, D. C., June 23.—President Wilson announced today that all the offers of mediation in Europe which the United States has made public or semi-publicly have been disclosed and that at present no new efforts were being made. Foreign governments generally, he said, were aware of the desire of the United States to do anything possible to assist in bringing peace.

DE WET SENT TO CELL; GETS SIX YEAR.

Bloemfontein, Union of South Africa via London, June 23.—Sentence of six years imprisonment and a fine of £2,000 was imposed today on General Christian De Wet, one of the leaders of the South Africa rebellion against the British government, who was found guilty of treason on eight counts.

Gen. De Wet was commander-in-chief of the Free State forces during the Boer war.

In 1914 he headed a rebellion in the Orange Free state and western Transvaal against Great Britain. He was promptly captured, however, and the trial which resulted in the sentence of today was begun June 10.

JUNE WEATHER MAKING RECORD

Escanaba residents know that the weather for the month of June has been very backward, but they do not know how abnormal it has been.

If it keeps up as it has been going the month will take rank with most backward June recorded in the files of the Escanaba weather bureau. That June was the one in 1881, which had a mean temperature of 54 degrees and a minimum of 31. To date this month the mean temperature is practically identical with that of the month in '81, and a minimum of 39 degrees has been recorded. The temperature average have been three degrees below normal. So far this month, and not including the rains of yesterday, the precipitation has been 2.08 inches, which is an unusually heavy fall.

At that the month has turned up nothing to resemble June, 1873, when, according to the "oldest inhabitants," the harbor was blocked with ice about the middle of the month. A northwest wind that prevailed for several days held the ice securely in the harbor and prevented boats from getting in and out.

A person not familiar with the art of husbandry might hold the opinion that the weather the past several weeks has been "fine growing weather." But this is a superficial view, based solely on the recurrent rainfalls, which the practical gardener and farmer scoffs at.

"Rainfall is all very well," one of them said yesterday, "but it needs more than rainfall to make the crops grow. The thing that brings them out and that advances garden stuff is sunshine, coupled with a fair amount of rainfall. Too much rain and too little sun is about as bad a combination and as too little rain and too much sun. And we have been having far too much rain of late. The progress of the garden stuff has been very slow, indeed, and in many cases it has appeared that it has made no progress at all.

"This has been due, in part, to the fact that such bright days as we have had have been, as a rule, cool days, and the growing stuff has not responded to the sun's rays even when it has had them. It's been a topsy turvy spring for gardener and farmers. Our best growing weather occurred in April, when none of the garden stuff was in the ground. Vegetation rarely, if ever, has made slower progress in this region than it has through the past six weeks."

BIGAMIST DEFENDED BY GIRL WIFE

San Francisco, Cal.—Lured directly from her high school class-room to become the bride of a love pirate who, it is alleged already had two wives, and several children, and who in addition is now being sought by the police on a warrant charging forgery, is the trick which an unkind fate has played on pretty little Ida Hamilton, until a few months ago a student in the girls' high school in this city.

Miss Hamilton, who became Mrs. Samuel W. Tolar No. 3, at a marriage performed in Fresno, Cal., on Feb. 11, last, is now in San Francisco with her mother and sisters, Mrs. J. B. Phillips, at whose home the girl's young dream of love was rudely shattered by her husband's confession that he was a bigamist, and that the marriage which was solemnized in Fresno before a circle of the bride's relatives and friends had really been only a grim farce. The whereabouts of the husband, until recently a real estate dealer of Fresno, is a question the bride cannot answer, and one which the police would like to be able to solve.

For Tolar is accused of forgery in a warrant now in the hands of the Fresno authorities.

Although not defending Tolar on the accusation of bigamy, which she admits is true, the girl-wife defends her erring spouse against the forgery charge, which, she maintains, can not be made to hold.

If the forgery charge is not made to hold, it does not seem probable that Tolar will be brought back, for Miss Hamilton and her family have decided not to press a bigamy charge against him.

They will, however, immediately institute proceedings to annul the bigamous marriage.

"When he first learned the truth my mother was very angry and determined to charge him with bigamy, but I persuaded her it would be better not to do so," said Miss Hamilton. "It will do no one any good to send him to prison, and I feel that if I have our marriage annulled he may return to his wife and children in Oliver, Ga. It would be much better that way. There is no reason why all of us should suffer."

SUBMARINE ALLOWS SHIP TO GO AFTER DESTROYING CARGO.

Newcastle, Eng., June 23.—The Norwegian mail steamer Venus arrived here today minus the larger part of her cargo of foodstuffs, which was thrown overboard, the captain asserted, under a threat of a German submarine commander that otherwise the Venus would be sunk. This is the first time that a German submarine boat is reported to have permitted a vessel to escape under such terms.

COBB SHOCKED, BUT NOT SCARED

Philadelphia, June.—Tyrus Raymond Cobb spoke more as one surprised at the attitude of resident Ban Johnson than concerned over its possibilities, on the interview with the head of the American league, in which the latter again threatens to drive the Detroit star out of baseball.

"Mr. Johnson," said Cobb, when a clipping of the interview was shown him, "has talked of driving me out of baseball on numerous occasions. In my case, it will work no hardship. I have a contract that runs three more years after 1915, and if I am eliminated, it will give me that much time to try out the gun that Philadelphia fans gave me without losing and money."

"It seems to me, however, that it would be better taste for Mr. Johnson to write to me or to call on me, to inquire into the matter in dispute, before reading me out of the game. He occupies a judicial as well as an executive position, and it does not seem right that he should give his opinion, and render his decision, before trial. No judge of any court does that."

"All of this talk through the newspapers about baseball scandals," continued Cobb, "have evil effects. There is a lot of discussion as to the cause of the falling off in baseball interests and attendance. One of these things, in my opinion, is the public airings by those higher up in baseball of little disputes of the game."

"As far as the charges are concerned I only wish to state that I never publicly asserted, verbally or in print that the Chicago White Sox are illegal stealing signals. I have not evidence that they have done so. And I would make no such charge unless I could prove it."

"President Johnson is the head of the American league, of which I am a loyal member. I think he should do me the courtesy of preferring charges if he has any to make, before trying my case and sentencing me in an interview with newspaper reporters."

Cobb got in wrong with Johnson about three years ago when there arose the New York incident that resulted in the Philadelphia strike and the formation of the baseball players' fraternity. There was talk then that Cobb's life in the league might be short, and he did suffer a penalty for his action at New York. There has been no real breach since that time, however.

TWO OVERCOME LOSS $50,000

Oconto, Wis., June 23.—Two persons were overcome by smoke and property damaged to the extent of $50,000 by fire of unknown origin which swept through the downtown district here today destroying the Donnelly block. Fifteen business places were burned down as a result of the conflagration.

The injured are: Fire Chief Harrison—rendered unconscious and taken to the hospital. R. F. Naff—proprietor of a cigar store, taken to the hospital overcome by smoke.

The business places which suffered the greatest loss were: C. R. Keith—shoe store. Hattie McCallister—milliner. J. W. Runkle—jeweler. H. F. Smith—restaurant. John McCarthur—restaurant. Harry Smith—residence. Adrokas and Vangel—ice cream parlor. R. N. Naff—cigar store.

For some time, it was thought that the whole town would be swept away by the fire. The heroic efforts of the fire department and citizens finally succeeded in subduing the flames which at first seemed uncontrollable. The origin of the fire is unknown.

$20,000,000 DAMAGE IS DONE BY MOB

Petrograd, via London, June 23.—Moscow suffered damage to the amount of $20,000,000 during the recent anti-German demonstrations, in which nearly 500 stores and factories and more than 20 private lodgings were totally wrecked.

The infuriated mobs turned the city into wild disorder, according to eyewitnesses.

From music stores pianos and other musical instruments were hurled into the streets, until the piles of wreckage made progress through these thoroughfares impossible. The rioters, heated with liquor which they found in the wine stores, became reckless destroying by fire many stores and apartment, the owners of which were Russians. Of the buildings destroyed only 113 belong to Austro-German subjects.

PATENTS AND POLLY

By MOLLY M'MASTER.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) Crawford was fully discouraged. As he mounted the steps leading to his boarding house he realized that he had lost the small model of his patent.

However, since the thing was not worth financing and putting on the market, Crawford didn't care what happened to it. He had banked rather heavily on the outcome of his visit to the financier, but his dreams of sudden and vast wealth brought about by a startling demand for his patent egg boiler had vanished into the past, even as his model itself had lost itself in the subway.

And Polly Woodward, returning from a hard day in the office of her employer, picked up the small package that had been left in the seat into which her tired body sank.

She was far too weary to ponder on the exact nature of the thing she had found, but knew it to be something for kitchen use. It might be a baby feeder or even a grill of some kind. For the present she closed her eyes—they were strangely luminous—and robbed the gentleman opposite of the pleasure of watching them. He, also a tired totter of Wall street, had been resting his own eyes unobtrusively on the beauty of the weary little worker. John Galsworth was more than ever regretful that so many women were forced to enter the field of labor.

When Polly Woodward had finished her evening meal she sat down with the patent and studied it minutely.

"An egg boiler," she mused, "I wonder if it's any good or just like the thousands of other egg boilers." Curiosity got the better of her and she tripped lightly into her kitchen to experiment with Jim Crawford's patent and one of her 60-cents-a-dozen eggs.

Using great care so that no harm would come to the model, Polly put in her egg. The indicator on the egg boiler snapped and Polly removed the egg, only to find it half boiled. She sighed disappointingly. The patent had seemed so promising, yet it failed because of the indicator.

"Surely it could be quite easily adjusted," she pondered while she cleaned the model and dried it carefully. When a week had passed and no one had advertised for the model Polly became impatient. She had perfected the boiler until it worked like a charm, and it irritated her to realize that the inventor was so lacking in interest as to put forward no claim for his patent. It was Polly herself who finally advertised for the person who had left a small package on the subway containing an invention.

Crawford, from whom the shades of gloom were gradually lifting, happened to see the advertisement and went forthwith in search of his lost property.

"You can make stacks of money out of that," she told him when she had drawn him into the cozy sitting room. "It only required a simple bit of regulating. You won't mind my showing you, will you?"

Crawford listened attentively to her curiously intelligent explanation of his error.

"By Jove! My head is solid ivory—not to have seen that," he said with a splendid dash of color in his cheeks and sparkle to his eyes. "There is a Mr. John Galsworth in our office building," Polly began hesitatingly, "I feel sure he would be interested if—"

"You are taking far too much trouble," interrupted Crawford. "If you will agree to take half the profits I will be glad to get the thing off my mind. The thing was useless without your improvement."

When he was gone Polly skipped out to the telephone in the corner chemist and made an appointment with John Galsworth.

The big financier received her the following day in his luxurious office. His philanthropy was well known. Polly approached him with no fear and put her model before him.

Galsworth remembered having rested tired eyes on her beauty one evening in the subway. Her magnetism, together with the undoubted value of the egg boiler which she demonstrated to him, quite worked the charm.

When Polly returned to her office, after a most happy lunch hour spent with Crawford, she rejoiced for the second time that she had worn her new blouse. John Galsworth had telephoned her. He wanted her to have dinner with him if she was not tired of talking business. There was much to be discussed about the egg boiler.

And if at dinner there were red roses on the table for Polly, and roses in Polly's cheeks for Galsworth and only a short talk on the subject of egg boilers, no one minded overmuch. The evening passed with wonderful promise of happiness in its trail, for Polly and Galsworth had found one another.

Crawford went out that evening to the home of the sweetheart who had been waiting impatiently to hear the news of the egg boiler. But all Crawford did was to take her into his arms.

"Can you be ready for that trip in about four weeks?" he asked her.

DO NOT FAVOR MUM BASEBALL

The Yale Daily News has obtained a symposium of opinion of captains of various university teams as to talking of players when in the field. Leaders of Princeton, Brown, Cornell, Lafayette the Navy, Columbia, Syracuse and Dartmouth gave their opinions and all of them favor talking to some extent at least. So does everyone else. What is objected to is the unceasing chorus of meaningless slang which one hears on so many fields. Captain Green of Princeton considers a certain amount of talking essential. No talking and too much talking are both bad, he says, and would like to see a happy medium.

Captain Johnson of Brown thinks talking helps the pitcher, and hence should be encouraged. Talking, he believes, encourages the pitcher and enlivens the spectators. Captain Donovan of Cornell thinks talking enlivens the games, and adds to the excitement of a contest. Captain Wright of Lafayette is of the opinion that talking by the fielders put "fight and ginger" into a game. Captain O'Neale of Columbia says it would be unwise to prohibit talking of players in the field but would curb excessive and ungentlemanly remarks.

Swansey of Amherst believes that games are more interesting when talking is going on. Merrill of the Army asserts that talking serves to keep every man's mind on the game, and encourages that little attention to detail that is so essential to a good ball club. O'Neill of Syracuse would eliminate phrases that are a jumble of sentences that convey some meaning. The Dartmouth captain, Wananaker, approves of talking to a pitcher and things elimination of talking would make a game dead and uninteresting, which argues that he has little regard or respect for the game of baseball as a game.

There is no denying that the talking on the part of ball players is a part of the game. A man standing tense in infield or outfield talks as naturally as a dog barks. He simply cannot help it. But there is no hardship in asking him to say something; really constructive, worth while and helpful, or if not that at least original and intelligible. And restriction could be placed upon that cackling chorus which you hear when some teams are in the field, an outburst which plainly is not the result of natural emotion or of a desire to help the pitcher, but purely and simply an organized and highly successful attempt at muckerism.

POPE BLAMES THE BOTH SIDES

Paris, June 23.—Pope Benedict believes all belligerents have been guilty of so-called atrocities and is not inclined to place all the blame on the Austro-Germans, according to Louis Latapie, correspondent of the Paris newspaper LaLiberte, who says he had an interview with the pope.

"I have received from Austrian bishops the assurance that the Russian army also has taken hostages from among the Catholic priests, and that the Russians on one occasion pushed before them 1,500 Jews, so that they could advance behind this living barrier thus exposed to other bullets of the enemy," the pope said. "The bishop of Cremona has informed me that the Italians have already taken eighteen Austrian priests as hostage."

"There are so many excesses that I have issued an admonition in my encyclical, declaring: 'It is permitted to violate justice.'"

"What about the Lusitania?" asked Mr. Latapie.

"I know no more frightful crime," replied the pope, "what desolation to see our generation the prey to such horrors. But do you think the blockade of the empires, which condemns millions of human being to famine, is inspired by humane sentiments?"

OPPOSES PARDON, SAYING WOMAN WILL ONLY POSE FOR 'MOVIES' IF FREED.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 23.—The state board of pardons tonight announced that it had refused to recommend pardon for Mrs. Helen Boyle, the accomplice of James Boyle, her husband, in the kidnapping of "Billy" Whittla from his home at Sharon, Pa., in March, 1909. Application for pardon was presented to the board today and a protest was filed by J. Mead Linsinger, district attorney at the time of Mrs. Boyle's trial. The protest stated that Mr. Linsinger did not think a pardon should be granted and that he feared Mrs. Boyle might go into vaudeville or "pose for the movies." Counsel for the woman denied that she would do anything of the kind.

SAY FULLER WAS NEAR DYNAMITE

A Lansing press dispatch relates the following story concerning an alleged experience of Auditor General O. B. Fuller while recently in the Copper Country to attend the Knights Templar sonclave:

Auditor General O. B. Fuller has undergone some trying experiences during his career as a lumberman and as a Michigan politician, but he was given the worst scare of his life during the recent Knights Templar sonclave at Houghton and two well meaning members of Lansing Commandery who were responsible still shudder when they think what might have happened.

For a number of years Auditor General Fuller has suffered from an ailment to his legs and he is required to use a wheel chair. When he made the trip to Houghton, however, he left his chair in Lansing and as it was impossible to drive close to the dock at Houghton, his son Harold, and Harry McFadden, another member of the Lansing Commandery, devised a scheme to get the auditor general from the automobile to the boat.

They decided to use a hand truck and looked about for a box on which the auditor could sit in comfort while being moved from the machine to the boat.

McFadden located a box on the dock and with the assistance of Harold Fuller they picked it up and were about to place it on the truck when a dock walloper called out for them to "leave that box alone."

"Aw go on," replied McFadden, "we don't want to steal the box. We'll bring it back in a minute."

"Sult yourself about that. It's filled with dynamite," said the dock hand.

McFadden and Harold Fuller turned white, but they retained their presence of mind and instead of dropping the explosive carefully lowered it to the dock.

In large letters on one end of the box was the word "dynamite" and the address showed that it was consigned to the mines.

Auditor General Fuller is wondering whether he would have been able to announce his candidacy for a fifth term had he taken the ride on the box of dynamite over the rough planking of the dock.

PENNY STRAW VOTE FOR BOYS

Sheboygan, Wis., June 23.—To stimulate interest and raise funds for its Sans Fourth celebration, Sheboygan has hit upon the plan of holding a novel "special" election. Boys are nominated for city offices, as they are in the city government, from mayor down to alderman, and these are voted for at a penny a vote. Anybody may vote, and as many times as he chooses so long as he pays a penny for each vote he casts.

Ballots are placed in an envelope and the returns will be canvassed at a central place. On the day of the celebration the boy winning in the vote on mayor will ride in the parade in the automobile with the real mayor of the city, and those winning for aldermen and other officers will likewise ride in the cars with the regular city officials.

The election has awakened great activity among the boys and interest among the grown-ups, with the result that young and old will contribute to the Sans Fourth fund, and Sheboygan is looking forward to its most successful celebration of the great national holiday.

Not the least among the benefits to be derived from the innovation is the lesson in civics which it instills in the city's boy population.

TRUST a tobacco lover to tell his friends as soon as he has become acquainted with the Real Tobacco Chew. Not only real tobacco, but the best of real tobacco. A little chew lasts a long time—it's chuck full of the good tobacco taste. A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW COMING IN TWO SIZES. THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW COMING IN TWO SIZES. THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW COMING IN TWO SIZES.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

DETROIT AMERICANS DEFEAT THE NEW YORK NATIONALS.
Toledo, Ohio, June 23.—A ninth inning battling rally gave an exhibition game between the New York Nationals and the Detroit Americans to Detroit by a score of 4 to 3 Monday.
Thirteen thousand employees of a local company saw the game. Cobb proved the star, getting two hits in three times up and scoring the tying run, besides running wild on the bases. Cobb faced Mathewson for the first time in his life. He singled past second on the first ball pitched, then stole second standing up. The New York veteran only smiled.

YES, BUT WHAT MANAGER GOT THIS SUM?
Charles W. Mears, who formerly was a baseball writer, opines that the big league manager, who can win a pennant is worthy exactly $79,105 more to his club than a manager who finishes second.
Mears writes his opinion in Harper's Weekly. In addition, Mears says the pennant-winning manager is worth $61,151 to his players, making his total money value of $140,256 greater than the money value of any other manager.
Mears says his figures are based on computations of the average money divided by club owners in the last five world championship series.

TO SUIT THE FIGURE
LINES OF COSTUME MUST BE CAREFULLY FASHIONED.
Combinations and Blending of Colors and Materials Also Require the Most Careful Manipulation—Dainty Design Show.

It is one of the important features of the fashions that, with all the tendency to frills and furrows, there is usually a symmetrical arrangement of trimming. This prevents the general ensemble from assuming the mixed-up appearance that might result if this rule were not observed. There are, in the achievement of such "balance," innumerable subtle details that, though they tax the ingenuity of the designer, perhaps, to the uttermost, pass unnoticed or at least unappreciated by the casual observer.
Combinations and blending of colors and materials require careful manipulation if they are to be successful, and incidental trimming should be of such a nature as to preserve the intended character of the lines of a costume. Above all, the lines should be so constructed that they will conform in length and breadth to suit the figure they are to adorn.
The dainty design illustrated, for instance, would suit none other than a slender, rather tall young figure. It is essentially a youthful frock and designed for dancing and evening wear
